School budget acceptable

Rahway's proposed school budget contains a tax increase of approximately $80 on the average home, but considering the effort that went into keeping the increase to that level and the potential effects that further cuts would have, the spending plan is solid.

Getting any tax increase past voters in today's economy is a difficult task, but the Board of Education and the school administration have proven their concern for taxpayers in finalizing this budget proposal. It contains a tax increase of 6.5 points, and while that is a considerable amount of money for the average citizen, there are several factors to consider.

First, the proposed increase is almost half of what was sent to the voters last year. Last year's 12-point increase was defeated by a two to one margin at the polls and was reduced by $500,000 by the City Council. That also means that this proposed increase is less than what the ouncil recommended after the voters spoke

Also, because the city's distribution of tax bills and the school budget periods do not coincide, and because of a loss in ratables, six tax points carried over from last year's budget. In order to reduce taxes at all, the board would have been forced to reduce $2 million from the budget. That would have hurt the level of instruction in the schools because there is no doubt that it would have resulted in a reduction of staff.

The staffing level of the schools has not been reduced at all, which is commendable. Readers must keep in mind that some areas, such as librarians, are currently understaffed. A reduction in force certainly would adversely affect the level of instruction.

Revenues from sources other than property taxes have declined during the past several years, which necessitates shifting more of the funding burden to local taxpayers. The school tax increase is not so much an increase in spending as it is a loss of outside revenue.

An outside consultant was hired by the board to review the budget and look for areas that could be reduced. The consultant made a list of 18 areas where he thought expenditures could be questioned. After those areas were explained by Business Administrator Anthony Rocco and Superintendent of Schools Anthony Cavanna, it became clear that what was budgeted in those areas was needed. It became clear then that Rocco and Cavanna knew what they were doing when they created this budget. The board made reductions where and when they could and have come up with a very lean budget.

Salaries and benefits have automatic increases built in by contract. To make a significant impact in cost reduction, school systems and teachers must accept lower con-. tractual increases in the future.

No tax increase can ever really be considered good, but the one proposed by the schools is something Rahway's taxpayers should be able to live with, and is necessary for the continued success of the school system and its students. A better school system makes for a better city. A further reduction in this budget likely will reverse some of the progress the schools have made.

We urge support for this budget not only from the voters, but also from board members and board candidates. For the budget to pass, they must promote it to the public as strongly as they promote themselves.

Bill — a model to emulate

To the Editor: i was in Colorado when Bill Weaver passed away and couldn't attend his memorial. Were I there, I would have wanted to tell everyone what a special guy Bill was.

Bill had an enthusiasm and energy level that was contagious. He was a perennial do-gooder whose reward was simply in the knowledge that it was "right" rather than any monetary gain or an inflated ego. He was a kind and gentle man who loved Rahway, who saw its potential rather than its decline, who spoke of what it could be rather than what it was, who loved the people in it, and that love transcended all boundaries of color and religion.

Bill was highly intelligent and what he had to say was very important. When his illness severely limited his vocal abilities, I would sit right beside him because of my hearing problem. The joke between us was that with his speech and my hearing how in the world are we going to get anything done. But produce he did until the very end. The betterment of Rahway was always on his

You couldn't tell how seriously ill he was by his attitude. He seemed as ebullient and joyful as ever. His sense of humor never left him. Perhaps the lesson that will always remain with us is that Bill taught us to live life as if you are going to live forever. Pursue your goals and help others with all the strength you can muster.

Concern for seniors appreciated To the Editor

As president of the Rahway Retired Men's Club, I would like to publicly thank Councilmen James Jones and Jeffrey Cohen for coming to the assistance of the senior citizens of Rahway during and following the March council These two gentlemen met with our representatives on their own time at the

Girl Scouts celebrate end of aluminum can roundup

The Clark-Winfield Girl Scout Association of the Washington Rock Girl Scout Council will celebrate the success of its 1994 Great Aluminum Can Roundup with an awards night on Friday beginning at 7 p.m. at Arthur L. Johnson High School in Clark. Girl Scouts will be honored for their hard work and achieventents during last year's roundup. One hundred twenty Girl Scouts from 30 troops participated in the 1994 roundup. Together they collected 11,695 pounds of aluminum cans. The cans collected were donated to the Clark Volunteer Fire Department, then brought to a local recycler. The proceeds, more than $5,000, were donated to the St. Barnabas Burn Foundation. Two Girl Scouts, Angela Paster of Troop 1314 and Erin Haber of Troop 1590, collected more than 500 pounds each to earn the Great Aluminum Car Roundup cap. In addition, 80 Girl Scouts carned the Great Aluminum Can Roundup 35 pound patch.

The public is invited to attend the awards night, which will include the awards presentations, fun and games, and refreshments.

Assemblyman Joseph Suliga, D-Union, charged the Whitman administration with "raiding" the Sanitary Landfill Contingency Fund of more than one-fourth of its budget as part of her deficit reduction plan. The Whitman administration's 1996 budget would call for a $10.4 million reduction in the fund, which is fised to help pay any contingency costs of closing the state's approximately 600 landfills, according to the assemblyman.

man, represents Elizabeth, Linden,

Rahway and Roselle. The charges stemmed from an episode during the cross examination of Shinn by the Assembly's Appropriations Committee, of which Suliga is a momber. During the questioning, Dream homes was being removed from the fund and being placed in the general fund. "In a time when our state has finally begun to get a handle on its environmental problems, the administration raids this account for over 25 percent of its value," said Suliga. "Without the proper funding level being maintained, many of the 600-plus landfills still open will have no emergency funding in place.

"This raid, which has become the coincd term for this administration's operations, reduces the Sanitary Landfill contingency fund to $29 million. This equates to less than $55,000 per landfill for any contingency costs associated with closure, including lawsuits or emergencies," Suliga added. "I don't think you have to look very far to see that $55,000 to cover any type of emergency or lawsuit is far from sufficient," he added.

While there will not be any immediate impact felt by the taxpayers, Suliga said, this could lead to serious problems down the road. "One incident of exposure could cost millions; not thousands, millions if something were to scop into Arthur Kill ... It comes down to the difference between Here, Whitman is employing good politics, but it is not in the best intrests of the people. By the time we need are many ways to prepare for an election. We listen to sources prior to the official filing deadline to make ourselves aware of who may or may not be running. We compile the final list --- including addresses and telephone numbers for easy access to the candidates. We deter mine where the candidates will be on election night for the victor photo and quotes, and we keep lis tening to the sources throughout the campaign to learn some more insight into the candidates and why they are running.

Elections --- be it municipal o board of education - are a hectic time of the year in the newspape ndustry, and we do a great deal of preparation from the moment nominating petitions are filed to the pub lishing of election results. But no matter how much planning we d we never can be fully prepared for the onslaught of criticism that com s our way from our readers, offiials and candidates themselve because they feel we are in somebody or other's pockets. I'm in the middle of one of these

board of education elections in olle Park. Word-has-gotten be me from various factions in th orough that I've been "sleeping" with at least three of the 10 candiates this year. If I've "slept" with ill the people I've been accused o "sleeping" with throughout th years, I would be a poster child fo sexually transmitted diseases. The most interesting thing about that scenario is that I'm accused I me candidate of "slooping" with a ponent, but the opponent is als accusing me of "sleeping" with th candidate who thinks I'm sleeping with the opponent. Sound confus ing? I'm going to have a helluva time at the card store next Valer tine's Day.

Then there are the letters to the editor. I'm supposed to be holding back letters supporting one particu lar candidate because the accusations are negative, and since I'm "supporting" that candidate, I don't want the negativity to be published. I'll agree that this year's board ace in Roselle Park is heated, and some of the accusations have gotten me down. After all, I'm human and I take everything people say to heart. I find myself rereading back issues to see if I had erred some where to cast a certain impression and by to analyze what I could have done differently, if anything, as the editor of the newspaper. Then, I recall the accusation from both sides of the fence, and I have to realize that in emotiona elections, everyone is fair game and under scrutiny — the newspap and the editor themselves. So it was with a great deal of pleasure that opened a piece of mail on Monday from Assemblywoman Maureer Ogden which read, in part, "Need less to say, I appreciate the support that I received from Worrall Newspapers over the years. You can be proud of the fact that election coverage in your newspapers has been accurate and fair to all andidates." Thanks, Mrs. Ogden. Thanks, Ted.

As most people know, first dat can be somewhat awkward. So when Michelle asked me th weekend to tell her all about myself, I just whipped out a copy of ast week's Union Post and said "Read all about me." The funny thing is, I knew or Monday what would be appearing in T.S. Kohran's column when the Post hit the stands Thursday ecause one of his confidante leaked the information. The other funny thing Kobran's column read almost ver batim to a letter to the editor to ou Union Leader signed by another Be careful whom you talk to

Ted. You say I don't know anything about politics in Union Town ship. After receiving the informa tion about your column before i went to press, I'd say it's you who's a little unaware of Union politics

Big flush of hydrants to begin Elizabethtown Water Company

COUNTY NEWS

began annual fire hydrant flushing on Sunday to prepare its system for the summer months.

Hydrant flushing is the process of forcing water through mains to dislodge small particles of rust and sediment. Such sediment does not affect water purity, but it can cause water to become discolored when the peak demands of the summer cause water to travel at an increased velocity through the mains. Hydrant flushing is a necessary part of Elizabethtown's ongoing process of testing and maintaining hydrants and is performed in the spring when demand for water is low. As always, Elizabethtown follows water conservation practices and the amount of water used during the process is kept to a minimum. Customers may experience discolored water for short periods of time while flushing is being done in their neighborhoods. The water still will be safe to drink and any discoloration will disappear rapidly. However, it is best to wait until the water is clear (Continued from Page B1) cratic Borough of Roselle." Stunning Show Truck A forecast of what could lie ahead was revealed in concept vehicle form at the 1994 Chicago Auto Show last February. The emerald green showstopper blends smooth and aerodynamic upper body with rugged lower extremities. The powertrain consists of a 200-horsepower, 4.3-liter V-6 with automatic transmission and Oldsmobile's SmartTrak system, with full-time all-wheel drive and anti-lock brakes. Slightly larger exterior dimensions are aimed at delivering roomicr and more comfortable interior accomodations. Chrome-plated BBS 17-inch wheels fitted with Michelin low-profile radial tires add sparkle and purpose to the package. Upper-Crust Utility

The Bravada is a genuine dual-personality conveyance, with the comfort and convenience of a luxury sedan married to the tough sure-footedness of a utility truck. A 200-horsepower engine, an electronically controlled fourspeed automatic transmission, full-time all-wheel drive and ABS are all standard equipment.
