GRADUATES
Last evening over one hundred boys and girls of this city finished the first stage of their educational careers and were graduated from the Rahway High School. To many this will be the conclusion of their formal training, and they will enter directly into the whirl of the business world. To others, school life will mean little, but if they have learned to think clearly and to express their thoughts intelligently, they have gained much from their eight years of scholastic work. They must now adjust themselves to new conditions and, if they would be successful, must work with undiminished zeal and without interruption.

We congratulate those who intend to continue their studies in the high school. Every boy or girl who can possibly enter the secondary school should do so. Education is a big factor in the attainment of success, and the person who enters the field poorly equipped in the essentials of knowledge is laboring under a severe handicap. While a college education is desirable, it is not essential, and the boy or girl who concludes his school life with a high school course has a big advantage over the one who has only enjoyed the benefits of an elementary education. To the graduates of the public schools we would say this: continue your studies if you can possibly do so; it will pay well in the end.

To-night a score or more young men and ladies will graduate from the high school. Many will enter the collegiate field, and to these we extend our congratulations. Others, however, will take their places in the business world; they too must adjust themselves to new conditions and depend upon their own resources if they would attain success. Perhaps the graduates know more now than they will ever know; they are endowed with confidence, and feel themselves equal to any occasion. Perhaps, as they go out into the world, they will find that there are other people who might possibly know as much as they, and the longer they are out of school the stronger this realization will become. But now they are secure in the supreme confidence of their youth, and unless this attitude develops into egotism, it will do them good and help them to enter the hard knocks which are bound to come. To the students who intend to enter business we would say this: work hard for the success of the firm you represent, give the best that you have to your business, and stick to the job.

A number of the graduates will enter college or normal school. They will find that a freshman in college is not the same as a senior in high school, and they must learn to accept their new position with the best of grace. It is hoped that the majority of prospective college students have learned how to study and have realized the advantage of applications to work. What you may about the social side of college life, the man who studies in the home who gets the most out of his course. And the student is the one who is given the first chance when a good position is open. So, we would urge those who intend to enter college to apply themselves to their studies, and to work, not for marks, but for knowledge. Knowledge is what counts after graduation.

RAHWAY LOSES
At the conclusion of a lively hearing Tuesday afternoon, at Trenton, the State Water Supply Commission granted the application of the Rahway Water and Sewerage Company to secure a fresh water supply from the south branch of the Rahway River. The application was drawn subject to the usual restrictions and limitations imposed by the commission under State law. Walton B. Selover, attorney for the Board of Water Commissioners, opposed the granting of the license. It was shown during the hearing by the engineering records that Rahway had sufficient water supply from the present sources to last for fifty years to come. This is an important piece of information, but fifty years is a short time when the life of a city is considered, and we all hope and trust that Rahway is going to increase in size more during the next half century than it has in the past one hundred years. In spite of the ruling of the Commission, we feel that Rahway may need the water from the South branch of the river.

WATCH OUT
With the coming of the warm weather, a number of young men and ladies will start the practice of going to Seaview to swim. The Staten Island Sound gives an opportunity for salt water bathing which is not found in this city, and many Rahway people are to be found at Seaview when the weather is good. The water at this point is deep, however, and we would issue a word of warning to those who are inclined to be indifferent to the dangers of deep water bathing. Fortunately, no resident of this city has been drowned at Seaview for a number of years, but it behooves all bathers to exercise care, lest this record be broken.

A GOOD MOVE
The common council did a good thing when it placed tin receptacles on the corners of the principal streets for the reception of loose papers, clean tin cans, etc.—it places Rahway on a par with other progressive cities in the State and gives a good impression to visitors. Too often the appearance of a city is spoiled because papers are scattered about, and people easily get a bad impression because of the carelessness. It is hoped that the citizens will utilize the new cans and do all in their power to keep the city clean. It seems something to have Rahway gain a name for cleanliness.

The sudden discovery of unsuspected flaws has invalidated titles to real estate and caused great inconvenience, much anxiety and often severe financial loss to property owners. CLOSING DAYS AT ST. MARY'S Commencement Exercises Began Last Night With an Interesting Program of Songs, Etc.

MORE EXERCISES TONIGHT

The first night's entertainment, the annual closing exercises of St. Mary's Parochial school, was held at the Parish Hall on Central avenue last night. A different enter- tainment

The hall was comfortably filled and deservedly so, as the entire program from the opening instrumental number to the closing overture entitled Noble Spy," was an excellent one and showed the results of much hard work by the Sisters of St. Dominic, the instructors of the children.

The salutatory was delivered by James McCue. Mr. McCue in a eloquent way, welcomed the guests and told of the instruction, both spiritual and temporal, the school children received during the year.

feature of the program. The role of Nathan Hale was well acted by John Mainzer. Mr. Mainzer also showed to advantage in the part of the schoolmaster, when he was disgraced.

original Hafe, "My only regret is that I have only one life to lay down for my country" with much fervor. The part of General George Washington was ably taken by Alfred Dunn. James McCue filled the part of Captain William Ham-Hull, close friend of Nathan Hale, to perfection. Other important parts were well carried by Russell, Dan, Peter McCue, James Keeshan, David McCarthy, William Finnerty, and Luckhurst, Martin Collins, John Quinn, George Sullivan, Leo Dunn, Frank Quinn and James Sullivan. The stage settings in all of the five scenes were excellent.

The prettiest dance of the evening was the "Allegory" by the junior girls. The rhythm all through the dance was perfect and received many favorable comments from the audience. The Allegory Dance will be peated tonight. The action, song, the little tots of the Kindergarten, another pretty dance which made hit with the audience.

The feature dance of the boys the sailors' hornpipe. This was one of the best exhibitions of the famous Jolly Tar dance seen in the city in a long time. The dance was in two parts; the first part being taken by a group of small boys who danced

Hornpipe creditably, and then from a crescent, in which Leo Dunne, William Pollard, George Sullivan and Frank Quinn gave an excellent exhibition of the "pipe" showing the lous employments of the tar, "hitching his britches" to hold on the decks. The dance elicited applause from the audience. The military drill by the "Eagle Veterans" in small boats executed. After going through various maneuvers, the boys gave exhibit of fancy fencing which was well received. The work of the small choir, the "Coming Thru The Ages," was surprising. The rhythm and in this number was very good. million song. Marching band led by the minibus, was well received. instrumental numbers. rhythm.

CLOSING EVENTS

One of the most enjoyable. The return memento, a plant of never-die, was given by Miss Marie.

The Class Song composed by Miss Edwinna Pomeroy, was one of exceptional merit and was given with a swing and dash which was well received. The program was concluded with the rendition of an epilogue by Blanchard Derrard.

Class-Rep. Marie-Bernardine Ader, Leo Robert Brown, Marjorie Catherine Cooney, Mary Josephine Donohue, Abraham Duncan, James Blanchard Derrard, Abraham Dorak, Boris Grigolache, Ella Georgia Hollingsberg, Sadie Elma Hirt, Nathaniel Jacobowitz, Werra Eudora Kaufmann, Mamie Klein, Vivian Madelon, Russell David Manlio, Sidie Bernadette McCoy, Mary Elizabeth Mathis, Beatrice Morris Miller, Zelma Cecil Miller, Thomas Edgar Mills, Helen Carlie Orlik, Edwinna Pomeroy, Alice Margaret Sullivan, Catherine Arnold Ward, Albert Frederick Weber, Eva Marie Wyckoff, Ada Boyd Woodruff.

The "Promotion-Exercises" of the eighth grade, Grammar schools, were held last evening in the Emping Theatre, and as usual attracted an audience, that was only limited by the capacity of the theatre. The decorations were simple but effective, and with the hundred and more of bright young people arrayed in their graduating garments, (those of the girls made up themselves), the scene, when the talk across the stage infused an inspiring note. The singing, recitations and exercises throughout, were most comprehensive and well suited for the participants, most merited applause. Dr. W. T. Stuchess gave a fine address and Mr. Frank M. Sullivan also made an effective talk in presenting the "Stillman Prize" of a ten dollar gold piece to the scholar, having the highest average, which was Miss Emma Wilson. And, the "Stillman" prize was carried out, also the list of grade class.
