Planners to Get Zone Change

Councilman John Warren, Jr.

RED BANK—Guarding against possible legal attack, Borough Council last night withdrew and subsequently resubmitted a proposed zoning ordinance amendment providing for extension of the garden apartment area of Spring St.

Approval of the amendment by the Planning Board had been challenged by residents of the area on grounds that a conflict of interest existed because S.M. Hoffman, building inspector and a member of the Planning Board, had voted on the proposal.

Councilman John Warren, Jr., in moving the withdrawal, made it clear that council concurs that there is no "belief, thought, inference or fact" that Mr. Hoffman is in any way guilty of a misdeed. The action was being taken, he said, in case of any legal construction as to whether he could have acted in conflict.

Adjourned Meeting

Mr. Warren made his motion at an adjourned session of a May 28 hearing of the matter. Council President Dr. Lawrence R. Burdge presided.

Dr. Burdge also presided over a portion of last night's scheduled meeting in which the amendment was reintroduced with specific instructions to the Planning Board that Mr. Hoffman be directed to have no part in discussion or voting on the matter.

Mayor Peter W. Falvo, who owns 3½ acres on Spring St. which would be affected by the rezoning, and who has indicated an intention to sell it for garden apartment purposes, took no part in the proceedings. The area is now zoned for residential use.

Income Tax Rates May Be Cut: Dillon

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon says the Kennedy administration will propose a top-to-bottom reduction in income tax rates for enactment by Congress next year.

He told the New York Financial Writers Association at a dinner last night that the proposal will be part of "a fundamental restructuring of our income tax system, designed to promote the maximum long-term economic growth."

The cuts would be coupled with revenue-raising proposals to offset the resulting loss of government revenue "in whole or in part," Dillon said.

But he said no decision has been made on how far to go in offsetting the lower tax rates by broadening the base of the tax structure and closing loopholes.

Forceful Declaration

Dillon's statement was viewed as the most forceful declaration to date of the administration's tax plans for next year.

The tax plans of which he spoke would be part of the income tax reform bill the administration long has planned to hand Congress before it adjourns this year, with an eye towards legislative action early next year.

Dillon said he welcomes growing talk of a tax cut but not as "a hasty, ill-considered reaction to the gyrations of the stock market." He said the talk "portends a sympathetic reception" for the forth-coming administration proposals.

He spoke of the dramatic price drop of May 28 as one in which "all vestiges of reason were temporarily pushed aside, and panic took control of the great New York Stock Exchange."

Dillon said he sees no economic factors underlying the market's performance. Rather, he said, the slump reflects a realization that inflation has been brought under control.

During 1961, he said, investors and speculators pushed stock prices to inflated levels in the belief that inflation was just around the corner.

He added that the fact that this belief has been pretty well dispelled "is the basic reason behind the decline in stock prices over the past few months."

Dillon said the economy has picked up steam and is moving ahead rapidly after a mid-winter pause. In a question-and-answer period after his speech he said there is no reason to feel the present recovery won't carry through despite the recent stock market weakness.

Jet Crash Probe Continues

Tried to Halt Takeoff

PARIS, (AP) — Evidence mounted today that the pilot of the chartered jetliner that crashed with the loss of 130 lives made a desperate attempt to halt his takeoff.

The four-engine, Air France Boeing 707 jet rose only a few feet before plunging to earth, smashing through a fence and exploding into flames at Orly Airport Sunday. All 121 American passengers, including many prominent Atlanta cultural leaders, eight crewmen and Air France's Atlanta agent were killed.

The investigation of the crash may not be completed for six months. But there were a number of indications that Capt. Roland Hoche, one of Air France's most experienced pilots, was aware of impending disaster and frantically tried to halt the huge craft.

Saw Smoke

Pierre Loiseau, a radio operator at the Orly control tower, said he saw smoke coming from the big jet's wheels, indicating that the pilot slammed on the brakes as the plane approached its normal takeoff point. Loiseau said the plane swayed from side to side as though the pilot was maneuvering in an effort to cut speed.

Skid marks on the runway indicated the pilot had his brakes on for about 500 yards.

Investigators reportedly found the plane's throttle levers in the reverse position, another indication that the pilot tried vainly to halt the jet.

Francoise Authie, 23, one of the stewardesses who were the only survivors, said she felt the engines slow as the plane rolled down the runway.

"When the engines slowed down I knew we would not take off," she said. "I did not imagine for a moment that we were in danger. Then it happened—like that—suddenly."

She said there were several severe jolts as the plane came apart with a loud crashing noise.

The plane's electronic flight recorder, which may hold the secret of what went wrong reportedly was found in the wreckage.

A U. S. Federal Aviation Agency spokesman in Washington said that "based on preliminary reports, no technical reasons are apparent at this time as to why the Air France aircraft crashed."

Atlanta Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. reported meanwhile that it may be some time before identification of the 105 Atlantans killed in the crash is completed and arrangements are made to send the bodies home.

The plane had been chartered by the Atlanta Art Association for a European tour that was drawing to a close when tragedy struck. Mayor Allen flew here yesterday to assist in the identification and spent much of the day in the five morgues where the victims' bodies lay.

Won't Have to File Income Tax Forms

TRENTON (AP) — New Jerseyans who work in New York will not have to file commuter income tax forms to Trenton, according to terms of a bill approved by the New Jersey Legislature.

The Senate passed the measure by a 16-0 vote yesterday and sent it to Gov. Richard J. Hughes. Hughes proposed the bill and is certain to sign it.

The bill affects 180,000 New Jerseyans and is expected to save the state an estimated $100,000 in printing, mailing and processing costs.

New Jerseyans who work in New York will still have to file New York state income tax returns to Albany. But only New Yorkers working in New Jersey will have to file commuter tax returns in New Jersey.

New Jersey imposed the commuter tax last year to cover all New Yorkers and New Jerseyans who gain income in the other state.

As of June 1 only 35,000 of the 65,000 New Yorkers subject to the tax had filed returns to Trenton. The returns were due here May 1.

State tax officials have prepared warnings reminding New Yorkers that unless they voluntarily submit commuter tax returns they will be subject to interest and penalty charges. The reminders were printed this week and are expected to be mailed out within the next two weeks.

New York is expected to take in about $30 million in income taxes from New Jerseyans this year and New Jersey between $6 and $8 million from New Yorkers under the commuter tax.

The bill exempting New Jerseyans from filing forms to Trenton was sponsored by Assemblymen Elmer M. Matthews, D-Essex, William V. Musto, D-Hudson, and Carmine F. Savino, Jr., R-Bergen.

Five-Man Committee

Airport Study Group Named

FREEHOLD—A five-man Advisory Committee on Airports to the county Board of Freeholders came into being yesterday.

The freeholders held a special meeting to adopt a resolution creating the committee, setting up its authority, and naming its personnel.

The members are:

William B. Harding of Holmdel, a broker and an authority on national aviation safety standards.

Mayor Sanford C. Flint of Interlaken, a businessman, president of the Monmouth Cold Storage Co., and Monmouth Production Co., Neptune.

Harold A. Fink of Neptune, manager of the Freehold plant of the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co.

George J. De Garmo of Red Bank, head of a pre-cast concrete company, a former Navy flyer, and designer of the Colts Neck Airport which he formerly owned.

William C. Johnson, Middletown Township assessor and president of the Keansburg-Middletown National Bank.

Executive Secretary

Charles M. Pike, executive director of the Monmouth County Planning Board, will be executive secretary of the airport committee.

Mr. Pike said no date has yet been set for a committee organization meeting but that one will be scheduled soon.

Freeholder Director Joseph C. Irwin, who said two weeks ago a committee was being formed to aid the freeholders decide whether the county should go into the business of operating an airport, declared the committee will have broad powers to conduct a complete study.

The freeholders have been concerned about airport development since disclosure that the principal tenant of the Monmouth County Airport, Rt. 34, Wall Township, which is privately owned, may relocate its station.

The tenant is the air wing of the Fort Monmouth Army Signal Corps. Though the airport owner, Edward I. Brown, Jr., has indicated no concern about possible loss of the Army, the freeholders fear elimination of the air wing from Monmouth might lead to elimination of the airport.

$37,000 Cost

The Army has been dissatisfied with maintenance of the airfield and hangar accommodations. It pays Mr. Brown $37,000 a year for its occupancy of a part of the 1,000 acre setup but its current agreement expires in July, 1963.

Seen as Major Election Issue

Medicare Plan Approved

TRENTON (AP) — The New Jersey Senate has gone home to await the November election returns. Before it recessed yesterday, it did its best to make old age medical care a major election issue.

The Senate passed a bill putting New Jersey under the Kerr-Mills plan for providing medical care to the needy aged. The measure incorporated a Republican amendment putting the brunt of the cost of the county-administered program on the state. The Republicans rejected a cost-sharing formula proposed by Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes.

Then the Senate adjourned until Nov. 19. On Nov. 6, the voters in Union County will decide whether the Senate remains Republican or goes Democratic for the first time in 48 years. It has been split 10-10 since the death of Sen. Robert C. Crane, R-Union, earlier this year.

Fruitful Session

Senate Majority Leader Charles W. Sandman, Jr., R-Cape May, said the Senate held a fruitful session this year which he believed contrasted well with the record of the Assembly, which is controlled by the Democrats.

He said the medical care bill was a prime example of Republican accomplishment. He blamed Hughes for months of delay in passing the bill and said it would not have been passed yesterday if it were up to Hughes.

Assemblyman Nelson F. Stamler, R-Union, the Republican candidate in the Union County special senate election, immediately followed up the Senate's action yesterday with a telegram calling on Assembly Democratic leaders to call the lower house into session to pass the medical care bill.

The Assembly recessed until Nov. 19 after its final meeting two week ago.

Hughes, apprised of Stamler's action, said, "So what?" He said the medical care bill is not due to take effect until next Jan. 1 and the Assembly has plenty of time to act Nov. 19.

The special one-county Senate election will coincide with the congressional elections, where another medical care bill is rated a top issue. It is the King-Anderson bill, which would provide medical care under the social security system. The King-Anderson bill is favored by President Kennedy and Hughes, and opposed by most Republicans.

Enacted in 1960

The Kerr-Mills plan was an Eisenhower-backed measure enacted in 1960 as a counter to the then Sen. Kennedy's plan.

It provides medical care to the needy aged who apply to county

Eatontown School Plan Is Presented

EATONTOWN — Samuel Garofalo, Board of Education president, last night presented plans for a new school to an invited group which he said, included "men who have been most active for and against building the school."

This was a preview of the public hearing Friday night at the Margaret L. Vetter school which will precede the June 12 building proposal referendum. It was also a preview of the explanatory brochure which will be mailed to voters tomorrow.

Mr. Garofalo said he hoped the group he addressed last night will help by explaining the building plans for the new school to their fellow citizens.

10 Present

Of the 14 men invited, the 10 present were: J. Edson Allen, former president of the Board of Education; Myron Kozicky, Merrill Beam, Victor Peters, Col. Howard E. Porter, Joseph Walko, Seymour Koteen, Warren Sandbach, Michael Mekenian, and John Lucyk.

He presented architect's plans for a structure whose 15 regular classrooms and one art classroom are centered about a library. An all-purpose room forms one wing. The outstanding architectural feature is a second wing composed of three hexagonal rooms joined together in honeycomb fashion. These are the two kindergartens and a classroom for educable children.

This plan is a revision of an earlier building proposal which has been thrice defeated as a whole or in part by voters.

Mr. Garofalo stressed that the new proposal will cost taxpayers $376,000 less than the first plan.

Cost of Proposal

"We still feel the school that was first presented to voters would have been a fine one," he said, "but the citizens decided the

Ruling Issued On Blood Transfusions

TRENTON (AP) — The New Jersey Supreme Court ruled yesterday the state can order a blood transfusion to save the life of a child despite the objections of the child's parents on religious grounds.

In a precedent-setting 7-0 decision, the court ruled it is not a violation of religious freedom for a court to take custody of a child when his parents refuse to allow a transfusion.

The ruling was handed down in a case involving the 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Perricone of Elizabeth. The Perricones are members of the Jehovah's Witnesses sect.

Their boy, John was born with a heart defect and was a "blue baby." He was taken to Pollak Hospital in Jersey City on March 1, 1961.

Doctors testified the boy needed blood transfusions but the Perricones refused to authorize them. Hospital authorities went to court and got an order from Judge Morris Barison, allowing the transfusions. The boy died despite the transfusions.

Found Guilty

The Jehovah's Witnesses believe a blood transfusion is a violation of the biblical injunction against eating blood.

The Perricones were found guilty of neglect. They argued this was improper and that state law protects them from criminal prosecution when they are pursuing their religious beliefs.

They also challenged the lower court action on the ground transfusions are not universally recognized as beneficial or safe.

The Supreme Court decision is the first by an Appellate Court in New Jersey deciding the issue of blood transfusions for children of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Justice C. Thomas Schettino said in the Supreme Court's unanimous opinion that "where the interests of society as a whole necessitate a certain course of action, they have been held paramount to certain personal freedoms."

He cited a U. S. Supreme Court decision that stated:

"Parents may be free to become martyrs themselves. But it does not follow they are free, in identical circumstances, to make martyrs of their children."

Schettino said that even though the Perricone child died the case was not moot.

Honorary Degree Goes to Bob Hope

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bob Hope, in cap and gown and smiling as slyly as a gate-crasher, swished grandly into Georgetown University's commencement exercises and remarked:

"I feel as out of place as President Kennedy at a meeting of the American Medical Association."

Thus, on the tree-shaded greensward of Georgetown, Rapid Robert Hope—whose education was "straight from high school to dancing school and vaudeville"—became an honorary doctor of humane letters.

It was one of the most rollicking graduation ceremonies in memory.

As the principal speaker, Rev. Gustave Weigel, S. J., said "A commencement is hardly a hushed gathering around a dying friend."

Latin Citation

Hope proved it.

When he received the Latin citation of his degree, he quipped:

"I can't wait until I get home and have my son read it to me." Hope said of the Catholic University, "My getting a degree from Georgetown is the end, but then you do specialize in miracles, don't you?"

Bob Hope

He called out to his son, Anthony who was among the 1,066 receiving degrees.

"Slump down, you make me feel like Alan Ladd."

As he posed for photographs in his gown, the comedian cracked, "This'll be a shock to some educators in Cleveland." That's where he went to school.

Driveway Work Set At Eatontown School

EATONTOWN — The board of Education last night accepted the low bid of William H. Conover and Son, Middletown, of $2,817.80 for blacktopping the driveway and playground at Margaret L. Vetter School, and the playground at Steelman School.

Since the bids came in below the amount in the budget the board decided to triple the blacktopped play area at Steelman School at an additional cost of $1,638 above the bid.

Other Bids

Other bidders on this contract were Shore Paving Co., Shrewsbury, with a price of $3,321, and Angelo's Asphalt Paving, Red Bank, $3,400.

Bids were also awarded for ice cream, bread, and janitor's supplies.

The board appointed two sixth grade teachers, Miss Bonnie Gillespie and Miss Veronica Moczydlowski, and an art teacher, Miss Lucille Juliano, each at an annual salary of $4,600.

The salary of Arthur Sass was increased from $7,600 to $8,000 in accordance with the salary guide because he has completed 39 semester hours beyond his Master's Degree at Rutgers.

Accept Resignation

The resignation of Mrs. Berta McCullum was accepted with regret.

Mrs. Dorothy Adams was granted a year's maternity leave from her teaching post.

The board heard and will consider a request by Myron H. Turner, Vetter School principal that a second class for trainable retarded pupils be started, since the present class has been at maximum number for the entire year.

Medicare

welfare boards. It would give New Jersey $4.5 million a year in federal aid. The chief bone of contention between Hughes and the Republican senators is how the counties and state are to split the remaining cost.

The Assembly has passed a bill providing a 55-45 split in cost, with the state paying the bigger share. The Senate balked at this cost, so Hughes last week offered a 60-40 split. This he said would leave the state paying $1.8 million and the 21 counties only $102,000 combined.

But the Republicans passed a bill sponsored by Sandman providing a 75-25 split. Hughes said this would cost the state $3 million and cut $1 million from the counties' present costs for old age assistance.

Cites Surplus

Sandman said the counties just could not afford to add anything more to their taxes. He said the state could pay for the program out of an $8 million surplus built up through taxes designed to provide aid to shore areas damaged by a coastal storm in March.

Senate Minority Leader Joseph W. Cowgill, D-Camden, complained that his county was getting a poor bargain. He said the storm bills saddled Camden with an unwanted extension of horse racing, under the guise of aiding shore counties, and now the surplus was being diverted. On top of that, he said, the Kerr-Mills cost formula leaves Camden paying a much larger amount for the medical care program than other counties. But he said the 75-25 split would be less costly to Camden than other proposed formulas.

Sen. Thomas F. Connery, D-Gloucester, said the Kerr-Mills measure is only a stopgap. He said it covers relatively few people.

In spite of the Democratic complaints, the bill was passed 18-0. Cowgill joined in as a co-sponsor just before passage.

Sandman laid heavy stress on the bill as an election issue.

"The Democrats have tried to pull heartstrings on the old age medical care issue from the President on down," he told a news conference.

But if Hughes and the Assembly Democrats do not call a prompt session to pass the Republican bill, Sandman said, it will show they do not really care for the elderly.

He said the Assembly has a lot of other bills to pass, including several sponsored by himself.

"They've got plenty of work to do," Sandman said. "They haven't shown any reason why they (the Democrats) should have the 11th vote."

Tax

"The market has its effects," he said. "Certain people won't buy automobiles because of last week's weaknesses, but mass purchasing power is what counts and there is no indication that that was disturbed."

Dillon stressed administration efforts to improve business profits through proposals to grant a tax credit on new investments in more modern equipment. He said it plans to announce, within the next month, liberalized depreciation allowances.

He said the uncertain fate of the investment credit bill now before the Senate "is beyond question exerting a negative influence on business spending—just at the time when an increase in plant and equipment expenditures is badly needed to keep our economy moving."

Too many businessmen are preoccupied with a belief that the Kennedy administration is anti-business, Dillon said.

He added that it was difficult to comprehend how an administration which hopes soon to achieve "enormous and important" tax reforms to help the business community can be thought of as anti-business.

School

community could not afford that one."

"We have kept faith with the people," he said. "We have reduced the size of the site (at Wyckoff Rd. and Broad St.) by more than four acres, and its cost by $29,000. We have eliminated a gymnasium, an industrial arts room, a home economics room, and a music classroom. We have cut the number of regular classrooms from 22 to 18."

The total cost of the proposed school will be $797,000, for site, construction, furnishings and equipment, he said. Of this, Eatontown taxpayers, if they pass the referendum, will pay $497,000, and a federal grant will pay $300,000.

The borough auditor has estimated that the new building would cost each taxpayer 10 cents for each hundred dollars of assessed value of his property, Mr. Garofalo explained.

The rise in operating expense for the new school will be small, he said, because teachers, principal, and custodians needed for the new facility are already employed in borough schools, either in the temporary classrooms at Fort Monmouth or in double session classes.

Construction Details

Certain construction details remain to be decided when bids come in, the board president stated.

These include a choice between electric or hot water heat, and selection of exterior and interior finishes.

A question by Mr. Koteen on sidewalks for children walking to school from Allen homes and other sections elicited the statement from Mr. Kozicky that maybe the Kozicky family will let you have the use of some land for walkways for the children."

Board member James K. Van Dover said he believes a new law may permit sidewalks to be built from tax money in certain special cases, and that this matter should be taken up with the Borough Council.

Future Building Plans

Mr. Allen commented that present plans call for four classes on double session even after the new school is built.

"That means," he said, "that as soon as you dedicate this school, the board will have to start working on plans for another one."

Dr. William Ramsay, the superintendent of schools, explained that the proposed new school is expected to meet the need of children in the specific portion of the borough for the next ten years.

"It seems best to plan for future building of small schools in other areas of town as growth occurs there," he stated.

Mr. Allen suggested that a portion of borough-owned land in the Wall St. section of the borough be reserved now for future use when a school is needed there.

In closing the discussion session, Mr. Garofalo said:

"The people I asked to come here tonight include men who have shown interest in school problems, and those who have had the most to say, pro and con, on building plans submitted by the board. I hope they are all with us, now."

He urged all citizens to come to Friday's public hearing, and to vote in the June 12 referendum.

'Goofball Bill' Is Advanced

TRENTON (AP) — The so-called "goofball bill" which brings pep pills, barbiturates and synthetic drugs under the state's narcotics laws was passed by the Senate yesterday, 18-0.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Donal C. Fox, D-Essex, and three others, goes to the Assembly.

Under the bill anyone in possession of a prescription legend drug other than a narcotic will be subject to a disorderly person charge unless the drug was obtained from a licensed doctor, dentist, or veterinarian.

The Senate also approved and sent to the Assembly a resolution sponsored by Sen. William E. Ozzard, R-Somerset, reconstituting the bipartisan state commission on emergency civil government.

Stryker Takes Oath as Chief

FREEHOLD — John R. Stryker was sworn in as chief of the Fire Department at a Borough Council ceremony last night.

Chief Stryker was elected to the two-year post at the annual meeting of the department May 2. The chief, a member of Richardson Engine Company No. 2, succeeds Walter Foster.

Also sworn in were Chester Yetman of Monmouth Hose Company as first assistant chief and John G. Paton, Jr., of Good Will Hook and Ladder Company as second assistant chief.

In his annual report to Borough Council, retiring Chief Foster recommended the replacement of the 35-year-old ladder truck with an aerial or snorkel-type fire truck.

The chief also requested that outdoor trash burning be prohibited.

New Parking Lot Measure Is Introduced

RED BANK — An ordinance providing for a 34-space parking lot behind stores on the north side of Monmouth St. was introduced at last night's borough council meeting.

The project will cost $7,000, budgeted this year for that purpose. According to Councilman Thomas F. Oakley, the borough holds 30-year leases on the property at $1 per year. The cost of improvement will be met by revenues from meters to be installed there, he added.

The area extends roughly from behind Anthony's Cleaners at 29 Monmouth St., west to Gold St.

Final reading and public hearing on the measure are slated for June 18.

Cancel Meeting

MIDDLETOWN — Lack of a quorum cancelled last night's regular Planning Board meeting. The board will meet instead next Monday at 8 p.m. in Township Hall.

The agenda was to have included public hearings on Newman Springs Manor in Lincroft and continuation of a hearing on Gillridge in Middletown. Both will take place at next week's meeting.

Council Sets Hearing On Tax Protests

FREEHOLD — A public hearing will be held next Monday at 8 p.m. here to answer resident's questions concerning the new tax bills.

The public hearing was authorized by Borough Council at last night's meeting. The hearing will be held in the council chambers.

Councilman Joseph R. Collins, chairman of the finance committee, explained that one-third of the tax bills are out "and already we have received numerous complaints.

The councilman said some residents have complained of increases of from $100 to $500.

"We will have a representative of the Municipal Revaluation Co., North Jersey, the tax assessor, auditor, as well as members of council at this hearing," Mr. Collins said.

"We hope to explain any questions on the tax matters by giving all residents an opportunity to speak at this meeting," he said.

Freehold, like all other county communities, has undergone a complete revaluation program and is assessing at 100 per cent of true value commencing this year.

Hearings On Apartments Are Ended

LONG BRANCH — The city Board of Adjustment wound up nearly six months of hearings last night on the request for a zoning variance to permit construction of a high-rise apartment building on the former Hollywood Hotel site on Cedar Ave.

Board chairman George W. Baxter said a decision probably will be reached June 13.

Parkchester, Inc., the applicant, has estimated its investment will be $1,500,000. It has said it has a choice of building apartments, if a variance is granted, or 60 houses, if a variance is refused.

A score of nearby residents have protested the applications, contending the project would deteriorate neighborhood property values. In the beginning, hearings were held weekly but, as they became more time-consuming, were stretched out to semi-monthly and monthly sessions. Twelve have been conducted.

Marine Park Boat, Fishing Areas Set

RED BANK — An ordinance which will reserve certain areas of Marine Park for dockage, and others exclusively for fishing was introduced by Borough Council last night.

The ordinance prohibits water craft from docking at the Marine Park bulkhead from its west end for a length of 270 feet. This area will be reserved for fishing.

Fishing and docking will be prohibited for 150 feet west from Irwin's Yacht Works.

The designations are being made to obviate the annoyance of bait, hooks and other fishing equipment to observers, and to prevent fishing lines from being cut by boats, according to Councilman Dr. Lawrence R. Burdge who added the waterfront would be more enjoyable for all.

Degree

There was a serious side to the ceremony. The president of Georgetown, Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., said the degree was awarded "for your salutary gift of laughter to an often-troubled world." The citation also called attention to his many trips overseas to entertain servicemen.

"The most profitable kind of education is that which makes a man happy in the knowledge that he is of some use to others," Hope told the graduates.

Comeback Days

". . . give a little bit of of yourself and it will come back in carloads. This is one of those comeback days for me."

In the machine-gun patter of his television shows, Hope gave a quick rundown on the economic situation:

"The price of steel was so low I hear President Kennedy is even buying some. And AT&T—I put a dime in a telephone this morning and a voice said 'God bless you.'"

As all commencement speakers Hope had a few words of advice for the graduates who are leaving the ivy-covered walls and heading out on their own.

Said Hope:

"My advice to young people going into the world: Don't go."

Successful Investing

Batting .600 on Stocks vs. Funds

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q — "I should like to get out of some stocks. I'm not in need of funds, but I bought in the first place to get some practical experience rather than depend on a mutual fund to do my thinking for me. I own Champlin Oil, Columbia Gas, Transitron, Helmerich & Payne, and Union Electric. What should I sell?"

SPEAR

A.L.

A—It is pleasant to encounter someone like yourself who really values independence. On the whole you've done very well.

The only questionable stocks you own are Transitron and Helmerich. The former has been hard hit by competition and price-cutting, and I think recovery will be slow. I would sell this stock. Your Helmerich is a small oil and gas producer which has been diversifying into other lines. At current levels I would hold the shares.

Champlin Oil has acted relatively well. You undoubtedly have a profit here, which I would accept to offset my loss in Transitron. Otherwise, I would sit tight with the balance of your stocks, which are good defensive holdings.

Q — "We are a young couple with no responsibilities and $4,000 in a savings bank to be used as a down payment on a home. Should we take some of this money out and invest it in stocks? Do you have any suggestions as to an investment to reap us a nice profit in a short time?"

J.C.

A — You seem like an extremely nice couple. My sincere advice to you is to leave your money in the bank.

To invest in stocks with a time limit is always a risky procedure. You are just starting out, so I would like to offer you a serious bit of advice, if I may.

No one—including myself—can pick stocks that are certain to reap a nice profit in a short time. Shun like the dickens anyone who ever offers to do that for you. Money in stocks is made by careful selection and growth over a period of time—and it is not as easy as it sometimes seems.

Blue Monday Again For 'Blue Chips'

NEW YORK (AP) — It was another Blue Monday for the stock market yesterday — about half as blue as it was a week ago.

But it was enough to send quoted values skidding an estimated $9 billion, based on the decline in the Associated Press average.

International Business Machines dropped 25 points, Litton Industries 13⅛, Polaroid 10¼, Xerox 7¾, Texas Instruments 9½.

A wide range of blue chips dropped 1 to 4 points or more.

The Dow Jones Industrial average sank 17.37 to 59.68.

Of 1,355 issues traded, 105 advanced and 1,110 declined. New highs for the year totaled six and new lows 48.

Volume was 5.38 million shares compared with 5.76 million Friday.

The ticker tape ran late on four separate occasions but was no more than 3 minutes late in the morning and four minutes at the close.

All 15 of the most active stocks declined.

American Telephone once more headed the list of volume leaders, falling 4⅞ to 106⅞ on 119,900 shares. Second was Standard Oil (New Jersey), off 1⅜ at 49¾ on 79,300 shares. Third was Brunswick, off 2½ at 25¾ on 68,200 shares.

1st Summer School Set In Matawan

MATAWAN — John V. Caracciolo, principal of the high school, yesterday announced that the following courses will be offered during summer school:

English I, II, III and IV, United States history I and II, general science, biology, general math, algebra I, plane geometry and remedial reading.

Eligible students may select one or two subjects to make up a failure or improve a low passing grade.

Summer school will run from June 25 through Aug. 3.

Students may register in the high School guidance office June 18-22 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuition fees must be paid at the time of registration.

The program this summer will be the school's first. It was approved by unanimous vote of the Board of Education last month.

Garden Debris Collections Set

LITTLE SILVER — Councilman Charles T. Bruno last night announced a new trash collection policy which will be instituted here to serve home owners who do weekend yard and garden work.

Henceforth, borough trucks will circulate Mondays to pick up branches and debris that cannot be placed in containers. Grass cuttings and raked leaves are to be collected by the contractor as usual and should be put in containers.

Councilman Bruno said that if the borough does not receive cooperation with the new program, he will ask council for an ordinance outlawing the leaving of lawn and garden clippings in in gutters. The practice is clogging borough storm drains, he said.

Earns Degree

Carl W. Despreaux

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — Carl Despreaux, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Despreaux, Sr., 55 Apple Orchard Dr., New Shrewsbury, received his BA degree at commencement exercises Sunday at Gettysburg College.

He is a member of Kappa Delta Rho fraternity, and a graduate of Rumson-Fair Haven High School, class of 1958.

He has accepted a position with the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, D. C.

Lavoie Sets Courses For Employees

MORGANVILLE — In late September, Lavoie Laboratories will begin a two-year out-of-hours school for the instruction and training of its employees. Mathematics, electronics and the basic operational theory of the Company's various products will be the subject matter.

The company will offer a refresher course this summer from June 4 through Sept. 14 in mathematics, primarily algebra, for the benefit of those enrolled in the fall school who desire to attend.

Kenneth Hanselman, Roselle Park, a member of the Lavoie engineering staff, will instruct the refresher course in mathematics. Mr. Hanselman is a graduate of Syracuse University and the Newark College of Engineering. In addition to over 10 years of experience as an electrical engineer, he has instructed at the Utica, N. Y. College of Syracuse University, Newark College of Engineering, and the United Radio and Television Institute of Newark.

More than 50 applications already have been received for the summer refresher course, the firm reported. A detailed program for the school will be made available in the next few weeks.

Atco Firm Spreads To Electronics

KEYPORT — Atco Ceramics Corp., long established manufacturer here, is planning to enter the space and elctronics field with the acquisition of a leading components manufacturer in Philadelphia.

The tile company's new owners have been working toward diversification since taking over the company last October. Eugene Sailnger, Atco's chief executive officer, says that the directors of the electronics firm have approved immediate acquisition by Atco. The financial details have not been released.

Production and selling will remain at the Philadelphia location, but additional engineering and administration will be furnished from Keyport.

Two Dairy Farmers Get State Awards

NEW BRUNSWICK—Two New Jersey dairy farmers, Henry Zdancewic of Freehold and Jesse Birch of Gardiner, received engraved silver platters last night from the New Jersey Milk Industry Association for three consecutive years of balancing their milk production in keeping with their handlers' needs.

Zdancewic, shipping milk to Forsgate Farms in Jamesburg, and Birch, producing milk for Terwilleger and Wakefield of Ridgefield, were the only two milk producers in the state recognized for the task of leveling milk productions in keeping with the needs of consumers for three years.

School's Calendar Is Adopted

EATONTOWN — A school calendar which provides 185 days of instruction for the children next year and 190 days of work for teachers was adopted last night by the Board of Education.

An innovation was the elimination of two days of school closing for parent-teacher conferences. These will be held after school during October and March, Dr. William Ramsay, the superintendent of schools, said.

All scheduled holidays except the spring recess will be at the same time as those scheduled for Monmouth Regional High School.

In Eatontown schools, the spring holiday will be April 5-15, including the week before Easter and Easter Monday.

This was done, Dr. Ramsay said, because two important Jewish holidays come in that week.

"Since we have a number of teachers of the Jewish faith, it is difficult on days such as these to obtain sufficient substitute coverage.

The calendar calls for schools to open Sept. 6 and close June 20.

"As a proponent of the 12-month school, I feel that present day school calendars, with their summer recess of two months, are unjustified from an instructional point of view," Dr. Ramsay commented. "For most children, two months away from instruction is too long."

"If the same group of children were to occupy a school plant for 12 months, their period of instruction could be equalized and the total number of days of instruction increased," he continued.

"Because the year 'round school, however, necessitates higher teacher salaries and air-conditioning, it is still a thing of the future for most school districts. Public resistance to these added expenses will be a significant obstacle," he said.

Burkhardt's Sons Enter Peace Corps

TRENTON (AP) — The twin sons of New Jersey's secretary of state will prepare for two years of teaching with the Peace Corps.

Robert and Ross Burkhardt, 21, applied for the corps together and were notified in April that they had been accepted. They will graduate from college later this month.

Their father, Robert J. Burkhardt, said yesterday, "I'm proud that they've decided to make their contribution."

Robert, a Princeton University English major, will begin training June 16 for work as an English teacher and swimming coach at a village in Iran.

Ross, a geography major at Dartmouth College, begins his training June 11. He will become a physical education instructor at Bourguiba youth village in Tunisia.

Heads Allergy Society

Dr. Francis A. Pflum

LONG BRANCH — Dr. Francis A. Pflum, associate attending physician on the staff of Monmouth Medical Center and director of the hospital's allergy clinic, was elected president of the New Jersey Allergy Society at its annual meeting in Atlantic City.

Dr. Pflum, who resides in Spring Lake and practices in Asbury Park, has previously served as treasurer and vice president of the society as well as chairman of the allergy section of the New Jersey Medical Society.

CHICKEN HOUSE BURNS

HOWELL TOWNSHIP — A double-decker chicken house, being readied for a new flock on the Albert Fine farm, Richards Rd., was destroyed by fire at 3 a.m. today. There were no chickens in it.

The cause of the fire was not determined. Firemen from Farmingdale, Adelphia, and Freewood Acres extinguished the blaze after a two-hour fight.

GRADUATE TOMORROW

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Alan J. Cornblatt of Deal and Steven S. Crowell of Rumson will receive degrees from the University of Maryland during commencement ceremonies tomorrow. Mr. Cornblatt is a candidate for a doctor of laws degree. Mr. Crowell will receive a bachelor of science degree in military studies.

Algerian Truce Seen at an End

ALGIERS (AP) — The European secret army signaled the end of its five-day truce in strife-torn Algeria today with threats of a new terrorist rampage.

In a broadcast, secret army leaders announced they were sending their killer commandos back into action in Algiers. The capital had been almost free of terrorism since the truce began last Thursday.

In what appeared to be a last-ditch bid to win concessions from the Moslem nationalists, the broadcast said the secret army will still press for contact with Algeria's future rulers in hope of getting what it wants in the way of special treatment for Algeria's European minority after the territory becomes independent.

The broadcast said first contacts with the nationalists had been "satisfactory" but agreement had not been reached because of "maneuvers" of the French authorities.

Dinkelspiel Organizing GOP Club

LONG BRANCH — Councilman Edgar N. Dinkelspiel announced today he is organizing a new city Republican club. It will be known as the Long Branch Republican Club. He said he is acting in response to requests from "many of my friends."

"In view of the formidable Democratic landslide last November," Mr. Dinkelspiel said, "it is of increasing importance to swell the GOP ranks with new memberships, first voters, and to bring back old members who have fallen by the wayside for one reason or another. The new club will hold an equal position for both men and women."

Mr. Dinkelspiel sought election as mayor at organization meetings on a basis that there were Republican majorities on both governing bodies and that he was an active Republican. However, the commissioners chose Paul Kiernan, Democrat, as mayor, and the Council, Thomas L. McClintock, Republican.

Mr. Dinkelspiel is president of the 444 Republican Club of Long Branch.

Last winter the councilman actively sought endorsement from the Monmouth County GOP Steering Committee for a Republican nomination as freeholder or sheriff, but received no support. At one point Mr. Dinkelspiel announced he was considering heading an opposition ticket to the steering committee slate in the primary, but took no action to follow through.

14 Motorists Are 'Grounded'

TRENTON — Fourteen Monmouth County motorists have lost their driving privileges following the suspension of their driver's licenses by the Division of Motor Vehicles under the provisions of the state's 60-70 excessive speed program.

Ned J. Parsekian, director of the division, announced today that the licenses of the following had been suspended for 30 days:

Francis W. Smith, 46, of 104 Chaphagan Dr., Neptune; David L. Sussman 30, of 10 Princeton Ave., also of Neptune; Olaf Guzmann, 52, of 10 Royal Pl., Elberon; Douglas J. Kenner, 20, of 157 Ridge Ave., Belford; Thomas S. Long, Battery D., Fourth Missile Bttn., Hazlet; Amerigo A. Cavallo, 47, of 119 Cherry Tree La., Middletown; Salvatore Crimi, 23, of R. D. 3, Smithburg Rd., Freehold; Gary V. Taylor, 17 of Locust Ave., Highlands.

Also Carol A. Sentner, 25, of 3 Coach Dr., Hazlet; Michael J. Tortoriello, 43, of 904 Raymere Ave., Interlaken; Michael Mulligan, 18, of 72 Appleton Ave., Leonardo, and Willie A. Dixon, 25, of 16 Maple Pl., Keyport.

Charles Walsifer, 35, of 8 Pineknot Ave., Hazlet, lost his license for three months. Roger A. Datz, 19, of Conmack La., Englishtown, received a 60-day suspension.

N.Y. Minister Is Banished From 'Call'

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Presbytery yesterday formally banished the Rev. Dr. Stuart Hamilton Merriam from his "call" to the Broadway Presbyterian Church. At the same time, it set up a nine-man special judicial commission to rule finally on the minister's status.

The special commission will try Dr. Merriam on charges concerning his conduct as a minister. It could absolve him, thereby upsetting the Presbytery's action, or it could find him guilty and impose one of several penalties.

Dr. Merriam, who had predicted "fireworks" at the meeting, expressed shock at the Presbytery's action in banishing him from his "call."

State Aid Applications Deadline Extended

TRENTON (AP)—A bill giving storm-damaged shore municipalities until Oct. 1 to file applications for state aid in repair work was approved by the state Senate yesterday, 18-0.

The present filing deadline is June 15.

The bill, sponsored by Assemblymen Elmer M. Matthews, D-Essex, and Carmine F. Savino Jr., R-Bergen, goes to Gov. Richard J. Hughes.

Little Silver Drain Work Contract Let

LITTLE SILVER — Borough Attorney James Minogue was directed by Borough Council last night to draw up a contract accepting the $1,344 bid of Thomas Farrell, Shrewsbury, for drainage facilities on Markham Pl.

The borough plans to lay 280 feet of pipe on Lovett Ave. and Markham Pl. to relieve a water accumulation created when residents pump water from their cellars into the street.

Councilman Robert Frederickson opposed the move, saying that corrective measures are the responsibility of the property owners. Similar situations exist in eight or ten areas in the borough, Mr. Frederickson said, and it would be poor policy to establish a precedent.

Mr. Minouge replied that it would be difficult to fix the responsibility and assess costs to individuals.

It was decided to draw up specifications and a contract, particulary in light of the fact that a dangerous icy condition is caused by the flooding problem near the Markham Place School during the winter.

Airport

The county Planning Board, in a report directed by Mr. Pike, recently warned the freeholders that the Monmouth field is the only one in the county large enough, and geographically suited, for development to meet future county needs.

A national study ordered by the Federal Aviation Administration last year urged that the Monmouth field be improved with longer paved runways, taxi areas, lighting, and better buildings.

Though Mr. Irwin said the freeholders have been concerned for some time about the airport situation, the advisory committee wasn't finally filled up until yesterday.

Mr. Fink was asked to become a member just a few hours before the freeholders meeting convened. He said later he was happy to serve and that he had no fixed ideas on the question of county airport operation. His own firm, he said, occasionally has used the Monmouth field to bring in executives for business meetings but not regularly.

An Open Mind

Mr. De Garmo, who has been identified with flying and county air facilities for many years, said he will approach the committee's problem with an open mind. He said he had no convictions at this time as to what course of action is best for the county to follow.

The other three members could not be reached for comment.

Neither Mr. Johnson nor Mr. Flint have had professional airport experience, but Mr. Harding's brokerage firm, Smith, Barney & Co., New York, specializes in aviation planning.

Mr. Harding headed up a committee named by then President Dwight Eisenhower in 1960, which filed a national report with the federal government on airport safety conditions.

Here are additional highlights of biographies of the committee members as furnished by the freeholders:

Mr. Harding: a resident of Holmdel 32 years; in World War II he served with now New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller in a study of cultural and commercial relations and later served in the Army, with rank of lieutenant colonel, as a specialist on South America and with rank of colonel, as a specialist in air transportation; he won the Legion of Merit for accomplishments in disposition of aviation surplus.

Mr. Harding was active in the original planning of Red Bank Airport. For a period after World War II he was associated with Eastern Air Lines in its planning program.

Mayor Flint: president of the fourth region of the Navy League, recipient from former Navy Secretary John B. Connally of the Navy's Meritorious Public Service Citation; vice president and finance chairman of the Monmouth Council of Boy Scouts; a director of the Shore Area YMCA, Shore United Fund, and the Methodist Home for the Aged at Ocean Grove.

Mr. Fink: A native of Maplewood; served as production foreman of the Irvington Varnish and Insulator Co., and in other top management capacities, until that firm was acquired by 3-M in 1944 and he was named division production manager. As plant manager in Freehold, he also retains control for production of installations in Newark and Miami, Fla.

Mr. De Garmo: president of De Garmo Engineering Co., Wall Township; former president of the Monmouth County Engineers Club of Professional Engineers; as a Navy flyer, he also served as a squadron commander in World War II with rank of captain; as a frequent pilot of planes in the Shore area he has made aerial surveys of the entire coastal section.

Mr. Johnson: a former member of the Middletown Township Committee, a member of the township planning board, vice president of the Keansburg Savings and Loan Association, and treasurer of the Keansburg unit of the American Red Cross.

How to Turn Your Child Into a Crook

CHESTERFIELD, England (AP) — The archdeacon of Chesterfield today gave his Church of England parishioners a handy guide on "how to turn your child into a crook."

Drawing a bead on indulgent parents, the Venerable Talbot Dilworth-Harrison listed these 12 12 "rules" in his parish magazine:

1. Begin from infancy to give the child everything he wants. In this way he will grow up to believe that the world owes him a living.

2. When he picks up bad words, laugh at him. It will encourage him to pick up "cuter phrases" that will blow the top of your head off later.

3. Never give him any spiritual training. Wait until he is 21, and then let him decide for himself.

4. Avoid the use of the word wrong. It may develop a guilt complex. This will condition him to believe later when he is arrested for stealing a car that society is against him and he is being persecuted.

5. Pick up everything he leaves lying around—books, shoes and clothes. Do everything for him so he will be experienced in throwing the responsibility on to others.

6. Let him read any printed matter he can get his hands on. Be careful the silverware and drinking glasses are sterilized but let his mind feed on garbage.

7. Quarrel frequently in the presence of the children. Then they won't be too shocked when the home is broken up.

8. Give the child all the spending money he wants. Never let him earn his own. Why should he have things as tough as you had them?

9. Satisfy his every craving for food, drink and comfort. See that every desire is gratified. Denial may lead to harmful frustration.

10. Take his part against the neighbors, teachers and policemen. They are all prejudiced against your child.

11. When he gets into real trouble, apologize for yourself by saying, "I never could do anything with him."

12. Prepare for a life of grief —"you will have it."

Mrs. White Okayed For New Term

TRENTON — Finally yielding one of the political plums of the 1961 gubernatorial election it had sought determinedly, the Republican Party yesterday went along with confirmation of Mrs. Katharine Elkus White of Red Bank, a Democrat, to a new term on the New Jersey Highway Authority. Mrs. White is chairman of the Authority.

The vice chairman of the state Democratic Committee and former Red Bank mayor has been holding over on the Authority, which directs operations of the Garden State Parkway, since last June.

Republicans made no secret last summer when Gov. Robert B. Meyner nominated Mrs. White for reappointment that they would await outcome of the fall election, hoping a Republican triumph would produce GOP appointive power. It was one of several Meyner appointments held on the political shelf.

But when Gov. Richard J. Hughes submitted Mrs. White's name early this year, the Republicans again delayed without explanation.

Though her authority job is unsalaried, it carries high political prestige because of the job and contract-letting powers given the three-member board. The authority is bi-partisan. Mrs. White's status, therefore, was pivotal as to party domination.

A decision on the appointment came as the state Senate, now composed of 10 Republicans and 10 Democrats and requiring bipartisan co-operation for any action approved 68 of Gov. Hughes' appointments.

Leo Weinstein, Democrat, a holdover on the Monmouth County Tax Board, was among those approved.

Dr. Harold A. Murray of Sea Girt, was approved as a member of the new State Youth Commission. The Senate took no action of appointment of Parke W. W. Masters of Summit, to be the commission's $13,000 a year director. Mr. Masters was a Harvard classmate of President Kennedy and last year headed the New Jersey Citizens for Hughes.

Among Ocean County appointments, the Senate okayed Robert F. Novins of Beechwood, Democrat, to be Ocean County judge; J. Irving Grant, Republican, and George C. Johnson, of Lakewood, Democrat, for new terms on the Ocean County Tax Board, and Mrs. Georgian Kolber of Lakewood, Democrat, to fill a vacancy on the Tax Board.

Arnold Cramer of New Gretna and Harold E. Bickings of Brigeton were approved for reappointment to the Shell Fisheries Council.

Former U.S. Attorney Chester Weidenburner of Linden, Republican, was approved as a Union County judge. The Senate turned down appointment of Richard F. Green of Elizabeth, Democrat, and Cuddie E. Davidson, Jr., of Westfield, Republican, to be Union County District Court Judges.

Senate Republican Leader Charles W. Sandman, of Cape May County said the two were shelved because Union County Republican chairman Charles P. Bailey had advised Republican senators there is not enough courtroom space in the courthouse.

The confirmations also cleared up two long standing political hassles, as Gov. Hughes and the Republican senators compromised on the makeup of the Atlantic City Expressway Authority, which will build a toll road from Gloucester City to Atlantic City, and of the Delaware River Port Authority.

A Mercer County Democratic argument was not resolved. Gov. Hughes sent in the name of Stanley E. Rutkowski for reappointment as county prosecutor, but Democratic Senator Sido Ridolfi did not move for confirmation.

Middletown Cop Quits Department

MIDDLETOWN — Patrolman George Brown has tendered his resignation from the police department.

Police Chief Earl N. Hoyer said Patrolman Brown cited "a better paying job" as his reason for leaving the force. The chief said the Township Committee has not yet accepted the resignation.

Patrolman Brown has been a member of the force since May 15, 1957.

Zoning

ment had been scheduled for last night after a two-hour hearing May 21 and legal argument May 28. Albert T. Berich of the Red Bank law firm of Wise, Wise and Wichmann, represented a group of residents who opposed the measure. Builders of the proposed apartments were represented by Chester Apy, also of Red Bank.

Cites Statute

Mr. Berich had cited a state law which says that no member of a planning board may act on any matter in which he has a direct or indirect personal or financial interest. Mr. Apy contended no conflict existed because Mr. Hoffman is employed by the borough and not by the mayor, whose property is affected.

The amendment would affect an area on the east side of Spring St. at the boundary of Little Silver. Now classified "A" and "B" residential, it would become a "D" zone, permitting construction of garden apartments.

Ruling

He said it was conceded the Perricones were acting sincerely according to their religious beliefs. And he said the appointment of a special guardian by the state did not reflect on their general standing and conduct as parents.

"But," he wrote, "It does not follow that because such persons are immune from criminal prosecutions, the state is helpless in protecting children."

He said state neglect laws are designed primarily for the welfare of children.

Concededly, medicine and surgery are not yet exact sciences and the result of any given operation or treatment cannot be foretold with complete accuracy," Schettino added. "However, courts can be guided only by the prevailing medical opinion."

But he said the Perricones presented no medical testimony that a transfusion would be ineffective or dangerous for their son, while there was much testimony that a transfusion would give the boy a better chance to life.

Today's Business Mirror:

The Russians' Cost of Living

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev borrows from capitalism's classic definition of inflation to explain to the Russian people what's happening to their cost of eating:

DAWSON

Too many rubles chasing too few pounds of butter and meat.

This is what happened to the cost of living in the United States in the first postwar years: Too many dollars chasing too few goods.

Today the inflation problems of the United States and the Soviet Union aren't comparable. Here there are plenty of goods despite the much greater rise in wages and other income here than there. Any inflationary threat here lies in cost-push on prices and the Treasury deficit's influence on the money supply and credit.

Khrushchev explained that he had raised wages and pensions so much that the Russian people have too many rubles to buy the available butter and meat. So he is hiking prices to discourage buying and to give farmers more incentive to produce.

Doesn't Produce Well

Western economists doubt if this is the explanation. They think the real problem is that communized agriculture doesn't produce well, in contrast to the American system which produces surpluses.

Westerners also think that the Soviet premier has withheld funds needed to spur Russian agricultural production because he was putting the lion's share of available rubles into armaments and the space race.

But Khrushchev's excuse for hiking the price of butter to around $2 a pound is but another instance of communism's having to fall back on capitalism—both for explanations and practices—when communism just doesn't work.

The status of inflation in today's American economy is a bit on the confused side, too.

Cost of Living Index

Each time the cost of living index rises we are assured that there hasn't been any pronounced gain in two or three years—it costs more to live, but not much more.

One popular explanation for last week's stock market break also is that inflation is no longer a way of life in the United States—meaning, stock prices, like other prices, can't go on rising for ever.

But along with this explanation comes a great deal of talk about the need to halt the continuing wage-price spiral that caused so much trouble in the past, lest inflation get a new lease on life. And the chances of halting it aren't any too certain yet.

Trial Balloons

Also there are trial balloons out of Washington about countering such unpleasant things as stock market breaks and hesitancy of business executives to spend for more plants and equipment by hiking the Treasury deficit. This could be done either by cutting taxes or increasing government spending, or both. The aim: To speed up the economic growth rate to find more jobs for a larger labor force, to increase consumer spending, and thus industrial production and profits.

In the past such government pump priming and deficit spending often has led to inflation.

So inflation may or may not be as dead an issue as many of those holding a wake for it insist.

Rule Suspicious Cop Can Peek

TRENTON (AP) — Police suspecting a crime is being comitted may peer through a crack in the door of an apartment without violating anyone's constitutional rights, the state Supreme Court ruled yesterday.

In a unanimous decision by Chief Justice Joseph Weintraub, the court upheld the conviction of James S. Smith, of 93 Prince St., Newark, on charges of possessing narcotics.

Newark detectives testified that acting on a tip, they went to the Prince St. apartment and peered through a door. They saw Smith and another man about to give himself an injection of heroin.

Smith was tried and convicted. He appealed after the U. S. Supreme Court held in another case that state courts could not permit evidence that was seized illegally.

Weintraub held that Smith's arrest was not made in an illegal search even though the police had no warrant.

"Peering through a window or a crack in a door or a keyhole is not, in the abstract, genteel behavior, but the Fourth Amendment (to the U. S. Constitution) does not protect against all conduct unworthy of a good neighbor," Weintraub said.

"Even surveillance of a house to see who enters and leaves is something less than good manners would permit," he added. "But it is the duty of a policeman to investigate, and we cannot say that in striking a balance between the rights of the individual and the needs of law enforcement, the Fourth Amendment itself draws the blinds the occupant could have drawn but did not."

Weintraub also ruled the drugs were not seized unreasonably. If a warrant had been obtained, he said, "the articles likely would have literally gone down the drain."

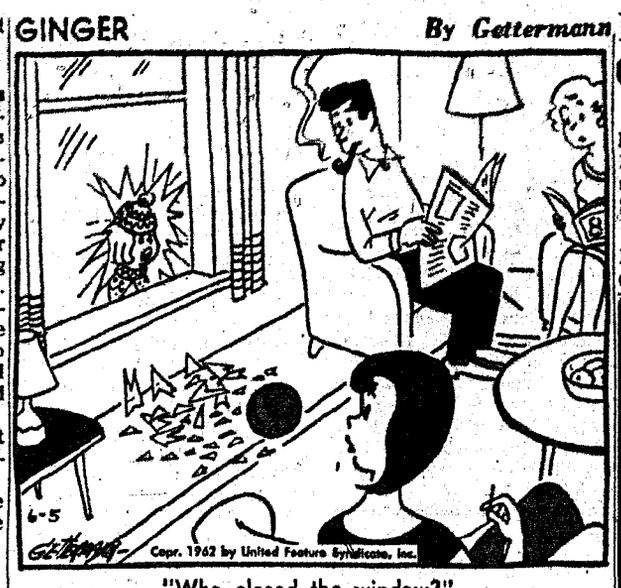

PET RACCOON BITES BOY

SHREWSBURY — Robert LoPresti, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. LoPresti, 32 White Rd., underwent emergency treatment at Riverview Hospital Sunday after being bitten by his pet raccoon.

The raccoon was being returned to its cage when it snapped at the boy. Robert had four stitches taken in his hand.

Define Areas of Business, Government, Blough Urges

ATLANTIC CITY (AP) —Roger Blough, chairman of U.S. Steel Corp., suggested yesterday that the areas in which government and business operate be defined.

The head of the nation's largest steel company asked that lines be drawn "to determine where the twain shall meet in mutual well-being, so that each may discharge its responsibility without encroaching."

He indicated business was confused about "how broadly and to what degree government itself will grow in areas where private businesses could do the job."

Blough's comments were contained in an address at the opening meeting of the 30th annual Edison Electric Institute convention. The institute represents investor-owned electric utilities.

He posed his ideas as general questions, directed to nobody specifically. His tone was conciliatory.

Referring to "that tempest of last April" when U.S. Steel led an industry price increase, later rescinded under administration pressure, Blough urged the rebuilding of a firmer foundation of understanding between business and government.

"Business cannot afford to think of those in government as Machiavellian overlords whose prime purpose in life is to push business around" he said.

"On the other hand," he added, "it will do no good for anyone to think in terms of business as a pawn to be shunted hither and yon at executive or legislative whim."

Without mentioning causes, Blough commented that the recent stock market price decline represented a drop in investor and management confidence.

A survey, he said, showed 84 per cent of business executives questioned the opinion that exerting strong pressures on price decisions in major industries is not a legitimate use of administration power.

Hughes Signs Slumlord Bill

TRENTON (AP) — A bill empowering municipalities to correct unsafe or unhealthy conditions to slum buildings was signed yesterday by Gov. Richard J. Hughes.

The measure, known as the "Slumlord Bill," requires the owners and resident agents of buildings occupied by two or more families to register with the municipality.

The bill, sponsored by Hudson County Democratic Assemblyman William V. Musto and Frederick H. Hauser, allows the municipalities to correct unsafe or unhealthy conditions in these buildings if the landlord does not.

The municipality can spend funds to correct these conditions, take a lien on the property, and assign a supervisor for the work to be done. It can also obtain a court-appointed receiver to collect rent or income from the property to repay the municipality and to pay any fines levied against the landlord.

Natural Areas ChairmanNamed

TRENTON (AP) — Dr. Murray F. Buell, professor of botany at Rutgers University, has been named chairman of the newly formed Natural Areas Council.

The council, appointed by Gov. Richard J. Hughes, is an advisory group concerned with the acquisition, maintenance, and use of state-owned land.

H. Mat Adams, state conservation commissioner, has asked the group to make suggestions for both the Green Acres park acquisition program and for long range plans for use of state lands.

James E. MacDonald, a veteran of 34 years with the Conservation Department, has been named by Adams to serve as chief of the newly formed Natural Areas section of the department.

MacDonald was formerly supervisor of Island Beach State Park and the Wharton Tract.

Merry Ruler's spring victory in the Toboggan marked the 4-year-old gelding's first stakes triumph since last August when he won the Ventnor Handicap at Atlantic City.

Poor Man's Philosopher:

A Nice, Easy Weekend

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — There has been a lot of loose talk lately about high jinks in the suburbs.

From some of the more imaginative paperback novels, one might gain the impression that out there where the crabgrass grows greener the little white ranch houses are all neurotic love nests inhabited by wife swapping immoralists.

BOYLE

Well, somewhere in this broad land of plenty there may be suburbs like that. All we can say is that we haven't seen them.

We have just returned from a weekend in the suburbs and are filled with an admiration akin to awe for the people who dwell in them and commute daily to jobs in the city.

They are hardy folks indeed, and we doubt if Daniel Boone, Kit Carson or any other earlier pioneer frontiersman could keep up their pace.

Test of Strength, Stamina

Life is tough enough in the suburbs in the winter, but a weekend in the summer there really separates the men from the boys. It is more than a test of character. It is a test of physical strength and stamina that makes the Army's basic training course seem like a kindergarten exercise.

"Why don't you come out and spend a nice quiet restful weekend in the suburbs with us?" said our host. "A little play will do you good!"

Quiet? Restful? Play? Looking back now, those seem like hollow words.

To begin with, a congress of birds held a nonmusical caucus out side our window starting at about 4 a.m. At 5 o'clock our genial host began pounding on our door with a golf club, and saying if we didn't hurry we'd be late.

Feathered Congress Performs

From then on the day was one mad race. From the golf course, we whirled to a big family picnic, where the grownups took the teenagers at baseball. Have you played baseball lately against a set of muscular teenagers? If you haven't, don't.

Two charley horses and three burned hot dogs later, we humbly asked our host as the golden sun sank in the West, "Now can we go home, please?"

"Home?" he said. "Are you kidding? We'll have to hurry or we'll be late to the party at Bill's. He's having a backyard barbecue."

Well, it turned out that Bill lived 30 miles away — just a shop, skip and a jump in the suburbs.

Five gin rickeys, two burnt-leather-tasting steaks and 36 mosquito bites later, we finally wheeled back home. It was 2:30 a.m.

Promptly at 4 a.m. the feathered congress outside our window was back in choir. Promptly at 5 o'clock our genial host was beating on the door, this time with a tennis racquet.

Splendor of the Sinking Sun

"Hurry up," he said "or all the courts will be taken."

After tennis, we changed into church-going clothes then raced back to change into sailing attire.

"Be sure and bring along some swim trunks," advised our host. "We can dive off the boat."

As the sun sank in the golden West after a long hot day, it was more than matched in splendor by our red and blistered hoses. Then came another backyard barbecue — more burned steaks, more gin rickeys, 53 more mosquito bites. As our host dropped us off at the railroad station at midnight, he asked, "Can I get you anything?"

"Maybe a bottle of liniment?" we suggested.

During the long ride home to the city we fell to brooding over what would happen if a foreign army ever invaded America. We reached the conclusion our best bet would be to lure it into attacking the suburbs on Friday night.

Any army that spent a typical quiet, restful weekend in any U. S. suburb would be glad to surrender by Monday morning — and go back where it came from.

Raritan's Sidewalk Problem

We like the suggestion of a resident in Raritan Township that the governing body adopt a "get tough" policy with home owners who have hedges and fences on the township's sidewalk right-of-way, where there are no sidewalks.

In most cases, the home owner owns up to within 10 feet of the curbline—but the 10 feet, or whatever the easement is — belongs to the township in the sense that it is a right-of-way for sidewalks, utility lines and the like.

The home owner has no right to plant hedges, trees, shrubs, or erect fences on this easement — and on this point the Township Committee should let its power be felt.

There are many such obstructions on hazardous roads, which force school children to walk in the roadway. A child was maimed recently on one of these streets.

If the township does not presently have adequate ordinances to control this situation, new ordinances should be adopted immediately.

Where there are no sidewalks, at least a clear easement will provide children with a footpath and keep them out of the streets.

In those cases where the township does not have adequate easements because of lack of foresight in past years, the problem is more difficult.

Easements must be obtained through donation, purchase, or as a last resort court litigation.

As for the construction of sidewalks on hazardous roads leading to schools, the governing body must decide whether it is to be done through general taxation or assessment of the individual property owners involved.

There is something to say on both sides of this argument. General taxation means that persons who have already paid for their sidewalks will pay again. Individual assessment means that a person living near a school must bear the entire cost, whether he wants or can afford a sidewalk, or not.

Mayor Philip J. Blanda, Jr., on Jan. 1, assigned Committeeman Robert E. Lennon the task of studying the entire problem.

Some progress has been made—including a recently-completed survey of Beers St.—but there is a need for more concrete action, as was pointed out during the last Board of Education meeting.

School will soon be out for the summer. But it opens again in September.

Your Money's Worth:

Why a Tax Cut Is Being Pushed

By SYLVIA PORTER

Why is a major tax cut for corporations and for individuals, amounting to as much as $9 billion, suddenly getting such strong support even among traditionally conservative sources in the face of the fact that business is still in a good upturn, our federal budget already is sure to be billions in the red next year and there's a constant danger that foreign creditors of the U. S. might be frightened by our government's "fiscal irresponsibility" into staging a devastating run on the U. S. dollar?

PORTER

Many thoughtful observers of the U. S. must be asking this fundamental question today as they see the trial balloons testing your reaction to a tax reduction in 1963 being sent up by policymakers ranging from President Kennedy himself to governors of the Federal Reserve System. There are answers and they demand simple explanation.

A first answer is that, while business is good, it's not good enough to absorb our unemployed and take up industry's excess capacity, and the fear is spreading that the stock market's crash could so undermine business and consumer spending plans that the 1692 upturn might even be aborted.

Greater Worry

A second answer is that worry that 1962's sluggish expansion could turn into recession in 1963 is overcoming worry about budget deficits, and the belief is that our foreign creditors will understand big budget deficits here if our aims are carefully explained to them. Our top officials are now giving the explanations, getting assurances that confidence in the U. S. dollar's stability is being maintained.

A third answer — and here is the heart of this column—is that none of the other remedies being suggested to spur our economic growth and cut unemployment has either the validity or the power at this time to achieve our goals. Let's name names and be specific.

(1) The 35-hour workweek which George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, is now pushing to spread work among more jobseekers could not only be no solution to our unemployment problem now but actually could also do great harm to our country. The workweek has been growing shorter over the decades and history emphasizes that the gradual trend toward a shorter week will continue. But Meany is proposing that a worker on a 40-hour week abruptly be placed on a 35-hour week at the same pay — equivalent to a pay hike of almost 15 per cent! This sort of cost increase many corporations couldn't stand. They'd either have to raise prices which would make us less competitive at home and abroad and which might lead to more unemployment or they'd be put in an even tougher profit squeeze. This is no remedy, definitely not.

(2) Higher prices across-the-board, which the steel industry unsuccessfully attempted to swell profit margins and thereby get the money to finance modernization programs, isn't an acceptable remedy now either. We can't afford general price increases at a time when we're being challenged in all markets by the modern factories of our foreign competitors. Our determination today should be to restrain price and wage increases while Europe goes through her own price-wage spiral and then we'll all be off into a prosperous era of trade competition.

A Proven Failure

(3) Nor is a vastly expanded program of public works to make jobs a satisfactory remedy at this stage. Our federal budget is swelling every month as it is. Once started, these spending programs tend to become frozen into our budget. We've tried this remedy; we know its drawbacks.

(4) Nor can we count on an aggressive program of easy, cheap credit to spur the economy. Credit is plentiful and borrowing is fairly cheap now. Federal Reserve officials themselves significantly admit that monetary policy (easy credit) can't do more than it is now doing to stimulate business, and fiscal policy (taxes) must take over.

(5) So that leads to the one economic weapon which we havn't used in years and which is acknowledged as the most powerful spur to business and anti-recession weapon there is—tax cuts.

Important multi-billion dollar tax relief is on the way right now for businessmen who invest in plants and equipment.

Coming up next will be tax cuts for all businessmen, for all individuals. A bill is being drafted within the Treasury now for submission by Kennedy to Congress this summer. Tax reduction well may provide the breakthrough to faster growth which our country so badly needs.

CARMICHAEL

BEAUTY AND THE BLIMP

Summer is a revealing season, and what overcoats charitably conceal bathing suits starkly disclose. Therefore now is the time to consider what contribution, if any, you will make to the beauty of the world when you emerge from your chrysalis of clothes.

It is true, medical authorities insist that obesity is a medical and not a cosmetic problem, but many—if not most—people will sacrifice for good looks and flattering glances as they never would for a clean bill of health.

So if you want to be your pulchritudinous best, the object of admiring instead of amusedly disparaging glances, don't open your mouth so freely to food. No one ever got fat on what he (or she) did not eat. Be sure to give yourself a balanced diet—it's foolish and dangerous not to—but eat only as much as you need to be your healthy and handsomest self. Remember, there can be too much of a good thing, even if that good thing is you.

These Days:

The Welfare State

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Eight times, the presidential elections involved proposals which could be interpreted as involving what has come to be known as "welfare." Each time, the vote showed that the electorate favored "welfare" legislation: four times for Roosevelt, once for Truman, twice for Eisenhower and once for Kennedy.

SOKOLSKY

As a citizen of a representative republic, I must accept the results of an election as binding upon all persons. It is unfortunate that so many, without too much thought, are beginning to reject the consequences of an election as the same persons reject the authority of the Supreme Court.

In a representative republic, the citizen is bound by the decision of the electorate. In other words, the reason that democracies have only succeeded in villages is that standing around the forum and shouting, Aye and Nay, does not work. In a representative republic, the majority choose the personnel who are to govern, in our country, for a stated period.

If we assume that the welfare state is altogether a result of the 1929 depression, we are wrong. As far back as the administration of Woodrow Wilson, welfare legislation was being passed. During World War I, the Hoover Food Administration was a welfare operation of the greatest magnitude. It is true that Franklin D. Roosevelt gave welfare a strong impetus. Mrs. Roosevelt was particularly interested in welfare legislation and she was a very powerful influence in those days.

The modern characteristics of a welfare state developed during the Roosevelt administration and continued through the Truman and Eisenhower administrations unabated. This was the condition of our country when President Kennedy took over.

In 1932, those who opposed the welfare state and recognized its potentialities spoke out. They were generally rejected. Instead, Roosevelt's popularity was so great that he was able to violate a long standing American tradition and was elected for a third and a fourth time.

What was the secret of Roosevelt's popularity? That is quite clear. He supported the concept of the welfare state. He instituted various measures which make the federal government responsible for details of the lives of individuals. This became a pattern. It was socialistic more after the ideas of Ferdinand Lassalle than after the ideas of Karl Marx. It was socialistic in the sense that whereas in the past this was a nation in which the individual stood alone in his rights, the New Deal regarded society as more important than the individual. This view was upheld by Congress and the Supreme Court.

Now we are in the middle of 1962 and there have been three decades of development of the welfare state. Those of us who have consistently rejected this concept must note that we had the opportunity during eight years of the Eisenhower administration to cancel out objectionable features, to say nothing of the entire pattern. But the fact is that the Eisenhower administration in not an iota lessened the force of the welfare state.

Even though we were over-producing during the Eisenhower administration, nothing was done to cut down subsidies for agriculture or to lessen various types of aid even where it was obviously unnecessary as the Estes investigation is disclosing.

The purpose of calling attention to the Eisenhower administration is only to establish the fact that support of the welfare state, with all its faults, has been continuous. It is continuous because there is no effective opposition to it. For instance, many who oppose price supports for farmers, favor pensions and hospitalization for veterans. Many who object to the very word, welfare, accept aid for rural housing. Most are willing to take their share but are antagonistic to others getting anything while the getting is good.

Therefore in 1962, the minority who oppose the concept of the welfare state find that more and more elements enter into the picture, as, for instance, the educators of this country are requiring more federal aid in various forms. The Medicare program for protective hospitalization will, if it passes, inevitably be followed by a measure favoring payments to physicians and surgeons.

WILLIAM S. WHITE

WASHINGTON—The long-common assumption here that Britain's entry into the low-tariff European Common Market was practically foreordained was always dangerously premature.

Now it looks not only that the British are a long way off in time from going in but actually may not be able to go in at all without intolerable cost to their ancient ties with British Commonwealth nations like Australia and Canada.

There have been great and avoidable political miscalculations on both sides of the ocean. Six months ago the British tended—when in this country at least—to suggest that the real question was not whether Britain could make a reasonable deal with the European Common Market countries, headed by France and West German.

The real question, they intimated, was whether the American Congress would ever approve the broad tariff-cutting authority required if the United States itself is to be able to bargain usefully with the Common Market.

The history of this tariff bill in the House Ways and Means Committee shows how very wrong was this idea. The committee's chairman, Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, has done just about what those who knew him always thought he would. He has brought the bill forward, with a quiet mixture of power and persuasion, to the point where there is not much reason to fear that the House will reject any of its principal features. The British want the United States to have that legislation; and the United States wants Britain in the Common Market.

Wrong Sources

British estimates of the alleged unreadiness of Congress to act were wrong because Britons asked the wrong people. Rep. Mills is outwardly, but only outwardly, a "country boy." The British got their information mostly from young city slickers who made the fairly common mistake of Ivy League State Department types of supposing they knew more about Mills' committee than Mills did.

On the American side, the error was in assuming that because British entry into the Common Market was sensible economically, it was also inevitable. This notion underestimated the latent opposition in England within the ruling Conservative party, not to mention the Labor party. And it missed the apparently implacable resolve of Charles de Gaulle of France not to let Britain into the Common Market on terms preserving British self-respect and Britain's old position as the politically dominant power in Europe.

The misunderstanding was not helped by British official visitors here. Instead of dealing candidly and in time with the realities of British politics at home, they often left the impression here that Conservative opposition was largely confined to a handful of "ultra-conservative" Colonel Blimps grumbling in London's clubs.

Harder Dealing

So the position now is that British negotiations with the Common Market—and notably with France, which clearly expects to be head boss of it all—are in no way promising. Still, the United States continues badly to need British membership. We ourselves must and will deal with the Common Market, but our dealings will be much harder if Britain is out rather than in.

Moreover, a Britain excluded would mean not only a Britain facing the possibility of economic catastrophe. It would also bring an insupportable irony. The nation that caused the war, Germany, and the nation that performed so poorly in fighting it, France, would soon become both the economic and political masters of more than half of the free world.

JIM BISHOP: Reporter

Greatness in the Clergy

The faces of clergymen reflect unction. They show a superficial sweetness, even in moments of pain. Probing the depths of their hearts is more difficult than exploring a mine with a penny candle. In my time, I have met many of many faiths. Some were great. Some were small. Almost all of them were impatient in the face of the weakness of men. Some were impatient with themselves. None were impatient with God.

BISHOP

Greatness in the clergy is difficult to define. Once I met a Baptist minister in Texas—the name escapes me—who gave himself away until he was poverty-stricken. He could not bear to see hunger in "the least of these." Pastor Niemoller of Berlin, the man who defied Adolf Hitler, had greatness, but I do not know the substance of greatness.

Have you ever seen the baby candor in the eyes of the late Rabbi Stephen Wise Schweitzer? Pius XII? How about the militancy in the eyes of Bishop Pike of the Episcopal Church? Recently, I met a Hindu holy man with orange stripes on his forehead. He had a loin cloth and a stick. All he did was beg with one hand and give to the poor with the other. His old legs were as thin and gnarled as his cane.

The thing which led to these thoughts is a new book by Robert I. Gannon, S.J. It is entitled "The Cardinal Spellman Story" and it deserves broad circulation because it traces, with accuracy and bluntness, the career of a brilliant churchman. Francis Spellman is one of the most respected churchmen in the world, an American patriot of herculean size, a crusading battler, a writer who props himself in bed before sheets of paper and a pen, and a man of extraordinary mercy.

These things I know. Some things are not in the book. For example, when William Chenery of Collier's Magazine insisted on paying $50,000 for the serial rights to the first Spellman book, "Action This Day," it was the Cardinal who refused the money and, when Collier's remained adamant, Spellman ordered the money sent to the unwanted babies at the New York Foundling Hospital. How do I know? I was an editor at Collier's. I saw the check.

How about the time he was at a consecration in Natchez? Someone pointed out a young woman and two children in the crowd and said that she had just received word that her husband had been killed in the war. Who saw Cardinal Spellman slip a personal check into the lady's hand and say: "For the college education of your son—his son."?

There is a sense of humor, too. Once, he was watching a ball game from a box seat when he was hit by a foul tip. Roy Campanella, the Dodger catcher, walked over and apologized. "It's all right," said the Archbishop, "the ball hit me on the part I use the most—my knee."

Or, when he was in Ireland on a diplomatic mission for President Roosevelt and the reporters tried to pry some secret truths from him. All he said was: "At home I have a stuffed fish over a mantle. Underneath is a legend. It says: 'If I hadn't opened my mouth I wouldn't be here.'"

There are as many images of Spellman as you might see standing in the center of a hall of mirrors. He administers his archdiocese as though his soul depended on it—as indeed it does. Physically, the cardinal is a small, fast-moving man who knows, at all times, what he proposes to do and how he is going to do it. He listens to his subordinate bishops, but the final decision is always his.

As I said before, it isn't easy to look into a clergyman's heart. Father Gannon has managed to do it. One of the great anecdotes is the story of the lost bishop. His name was Bonaventure F. Broderick, and Cardinal Spellman found him running a gasoline station near Millbrook, New York. Because of a mistake in orders, Bishop Broderick had been lost to the Catholic Church for 35 years.

Cardinal Spellman was under no obligation to find him or reclaim him. Still, he drove to the filling station, located the old man, re-established him in the church, sent him to a hospital to regain his health, and brought him to St. Patrick's Cathedral, where Bishop Bonaventure lived out the remaining few years.

The old man died and his body reposed in state as his young friend the cardinal sang the pontifical mass over his remains. When the old man's will was read, it stated that his precious possessions — the pectoral cross, the chains, the episcopal rings and crozier, had been left to the cardinal.

It is, as I say, a fine book. Out of all the characters in it, I feel that the great Christian is the cardinal's mother, who wrote to him: "Be a good priest. All else is vanity." . . .

Report Parade Well Received

MATAWAN — The Memorial Day parade and services here drew crowds which exceeded expectations, the Borough Parade Committee has reported.

Main St. along the entire parade route, from Freneau to Memorial Park at the lower intersection of Broad St., was lined with spectators, and a record crowd attended the services at the park monument, the committee noted.

Among features of the parade were Miss Matawan (Miss Jo-Ann Meier) and her court, merchants' floats, a firing squad from Fort Dix and marching unit from Fort Monmouth, antique cars, and marching units representing all municipal and patriotic organizations.

At the park monument a plaque honoring all veterans was unveiled by A. Adam Banke, Gold Star Father, and Mrs. Bertha Story Schanck, Gold Star Mother. The plaque was dedicated by Councilman John J. Walsh. Music was provided by the De Vitte Military Academy and Matawan High School bands.

Miss Meier's crown was custom-made and donated by Oliver's Jewelry Shop of Little St.

Security Shake-up Slated

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The super-secret National Security Agency is headed for another shake-up.

Its boss, Vice Admiral Laurance Frost, is being shifted to a new job.

Frost has headed the highly secret Intelligence agency since 1960 when it was convulsed by the defection of two cryptographers to Russia. During Frost's tenure, he has ousted more than 30 "security risks," and sweepingly reorganized NSA procedures and functioning.

Insiders attribute Frost's impending "reassignment" to alleged complaints that he is staffing the agency with too many military Intelligence officers.

Assistant Defense Secretary John Rubel, Frost's immediate superior, is credited with holding this view. Rubel is said to feel that more civilians, particularly from academic circles, should be employed by NSA.

A 60-year old Arkansan, Frost is a graduate of the Naval Academy, and in World War II was decorated several times for conspicuous courage in combat. He commanded warships in battle in both the Pacific and Atlantic. In 1956, he was appointed assistant chief of naval operations for Intelligence, and is rated as one of the ablest Intelligence officers in the U. S. military.

Defense Secretary McNamara is being urged by General Curtis LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, to pick Frost's successor from that service.

Says Economy Is Basically Sound

NEW YORK (AP) — The president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce says the stock market may move ahead "with some hesitancy" because of over-inflated prices of many stocks.

H. Ladd Plumley added, however, that the economy is basically sound and he does not fear a crash similar to that of 1929.

Speaking Sunday on a transcribed radio broadcast, Plumley attributed the recent stock market retreat to such "unsettling" influences as less than expected earnings of American business and President Kennedy's action in the steel price situation.

Adam and Eve

Grass Widow

DEAR ADAM AND EVE:

Some women lose their husbands to other women, even after 15 years of marriage, but our marriage was and still is one of those storybook love affairs. I love my husband and I know he loves me. But I am losing him—to his business. At present his "second family"—his work—is by far the most important thing in his life. His working hours run right into the late evening hours. I've told him the "extras" he wants to give us by working so hard are not worth losing him, but he won't listen. What can we do?

Lonesome Family.

Dear Lonesome Family:

His work must certainly be fascinating. Tell him you don't want to trade his companionship for a mess of money.

Adam.

If he won't slow down, get your family physician after him. If he still won't come home nights, better start working down there with him.

Eve.

DEAR ADAM AND EVE:

My sister (10 years old) and I (I'm 11) don't get along. She tells Mom I pick on her. She says I should be watching my younger sister instead of her (there's another younger one.) I do sometimes push her around and she gets mad and Mother usually sides with her. I am more intelligent than her and much neater, but when I try to help her she starts to bawl and says I'm just trying to make her look dumb. Well, maybe I am, but, Adam and Eve, I really love her and want her and my parents to know it. Please help me—and my sister.

Older Sister.

Dear Older Sister:

Stop worrying about it. Nearly all sisters have little tiffs. Try treating her as an equal, despite the big age difference, and you'll be surprised how well you'll get along.

Adam and Eve.

DEAR ADAM AND EVE:

I read your column every day and think for the most part you give very sound advice, which is certainly what people need. However, I cannot agree with the counsel Adam gave Unhappy Bride, who said she was 19 years old, wanted to go out often and also wanted to take hairdressing courses.

Adam suggested she stay home and start thinking of a family, which is probably just what her jealous husband will thing of next! That girl is lonesome at home, depressed, immature. Nothing would be worse for her than a small, crying baby to depress her more.

Too many couples nowadays marry too young, have a child the first year, then are ready to separate in another year or so when the going gets rough. I am a firm believer in early marriages, but if a couple is immature, they ought to wait to see if the marriage is going to last. In the long run it is the child—the innocent victim of circumstances—who suffers the most from such immature marriages.

Experienced.

DEAR EVE:

What can I do about a man who keeps following me home every evening after work? He's young and attractive, and can't seem to get up enough nerve to say hello. I'd like awfully much to get acquainted.

Office Girl.

Dear Office Girl:

That's a switch. We were going to suggest that you call the police, on reading your opening sentence, but now we think maybe he needs protection.

Adam and Eve.

Send your personal questions and problems to Adam or Eve Lowell or both, as you prefer. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a stamped, addressed envelope. Mail to ADAM & EVE, in care of this newspaper.

CAN'T TELL THE BUTTONS

KETTERING, Ohio (AP)—The trouble with the push-button age is that someone invariably pushes the wrong button.

A group of foreign visitors were observing operations of a local supermarket when a light went out inside a walk-in cooler. A button found by one of the visitors didn't turn on the lights, but it did sound an alarm at police headquarters.

Within minutes, five cruisers were at the scene.

Allen-Scott Report

Shot-in-the-Arm Tax Cut Due

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — There will definitely be a cut in personal and corporation taxes this year.

President Kennedy and his top fiscal and economic advisers have positively decided on that — notwithstanding some vague public disclaimers to the contrary. These are solely to keep the opposition from grabbing the initiative.

Scott

Only two questions remain to be agreed on: The nature and extent of this "shot-in-the-arm" tax reduction; and the timing of its announcement.

Most likely date is by the middle of July.

Also, the President will probably make this announcement himself in a radio-TV broadcast to the nation.

He has discussed that with Democratic congressional leaders, who strongly approved it. The President told them he contemplated presenting a comprehensive analysis of the country's basic economy and its prospects.

Allen

Determination of the amount of the tax slash and its timing rests largely on a study being completed for the President by his Council of Economic Advisers.

Month-old Study

This was launched a month before the jarring stock market crash. Even then the President and his inner advisers were uneasy over the economic trend. While immediate conditions appeared promising, the long-range outlook was uncertain at best and decidedly black at worst.

Some of the President's experts argued that the underlying economy was "sluggish" and "stagnant," and that unless it was "jolted out of its rut" there would be another serious business slump in 1963.

The possible far-reaching political effect of such a business upset on the 1964 election was not lost on the President.

It was not necessary to point out to him that it takes upwards of a year for a massive recovery program to become effective. This keen realization was what prompted him to ask Congress for a multi-billion dollar public works plan, and to put his Council of Economic Advisers to work on a penetrating survey of the national economy for possible other stimulative measures—such as individual and corporation tax cuts.

WHAT IT WILL BE—Plan currently most favored by the President's counselors is a "shot-in-the-arm" tax reduction for this year, as follows:

Individual income — 25 per cent cut across the board; that is, on all rates from top to bottom.

Surtax — 91 per cent maximum slashed to 65 per cent, and all others in similar proportion.

Corporations — Present (temporary) 52 per cent pared to 45 per cent.

Significantly, three of the most influential members of the President's inner group favor this "package" — Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges, Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg, and Walter Heller, head of the Council of Economic Advisers.

Treasury Secretary C. Dillon approves the plan in general, but wants certain other taxes tightened up to offset the lost revenue.

$5 Billion

The "shot-in-the-dark" plan would, it is estimated, put at least $5 billion in the pockets of taxpayers and corporations.

Indicative of the backstage views on this crucial question is an unpublicized speech Heller made on the West Coast in which he, in effect, advocated a tax cut this year. The White House economist made no bones he thought this was highly desirable.

The President is also under strong pressure from important quarters to slash taxes.

AFL-CIO president George Meany vigorously urged that in a private meeting with the president. The labor chief stated bluntly that "economic conditions are unhealthy," and warned that unless immediate and forceful steps are taken "you will have another bust on your hands that could have catastrophic consequences both at home and abroad."

Magistrate Is Suspended In Ticket Fix Case

TRENTON (AP) — Former Monroe Township Magistrate Alfred F. Orsini, implicated in a ticket-fixing investigation ordered by the state Supreme Court, yesterday was ordered suspended from the practice of law for six months.

Orsini was charged with fixing traffic tickets while he was magistrate of the Monroe Township Municipal Court. The high court said he admitted his guilt and the only question was the amount of discipline to be imposed on the former magistrate.

At the same time, the court dismissed contempt of court charges against Township Mayor Edward Szcaepanik and Deputy Middlesex County Court Clerk George Danton, the tax collector of Monroe Township.

Orsini, Szcaepanik and Danton all had been implicated in the investigation. Szcaepanik and Danton were charged with contempt of court for advising Orsini to remain silent and not to tell the truth to investigators of the ticket-fixing charges.

The Supreme Court said Orsini's wrongs warrant discipline much in excess of a six-month suspension. But it said it was led to impose the lighter penalty by a number of considerations.

The high court said Orsini was poorly equipped for judicial office and selected wholly upon political considerations. It added that he had resigned from office and assisted the investigation.

"Economically, he was largely dependent upon the political largesse of the local appointing authority and easily became the pawn of others, who, regretfully, we note, escaped too lightly," the court said.

On the contempt charges the court said that although neither Szcaepanik nor Danton urged Orsini in so many words to be silent, "nonetheless their conduct was calculated to induce him to withhold what he knew."

Their explanation that their actions were solely to console the former magistrate "cannot be believed," the court said. But the court in a 5-2 decision added "the troublesome question is whether the misconduct is punishable in these proceedings."

The court ruled that the contempt charges had to be dismissed because no formal order for investigation of the ticket fixing charges had been entered until after the attempt to silence Orsini had occurred.

PINNED — The badge of Civil Defense director is pinned on Lt. Col Charles Kroposky (USA-Ret.), right, by Councilman Robert Frederickson as Mayor Charles W. Stephens, center, waits to offer his congratulations. Col. Kroposky succeeds Jay Berger who has moved from the borough after holding the post 11 years. He moved here after his Army retirement in 1960 and has been serving the Civil Defense organization a year as patrolman, engineer, and more recently associate director.

New Jersey News Briefs

By The Associated Press

NEWARK — A strike by 1,600 carpenters in Essex County yesterday delayed or halted more than $75 million worth of building construction. The Essex County District Council of Carpenters struck over a wage dispute amounting to 30 cents an hour. The Essex Building Contractors Association has offered a 50-cent raise over the next two years. The union is demanding 80 cents. The carpenters now receive $4.98 an hour. John J. Walsack, secretary of the Essex County District Council of Carpenters, said the union wants the 80 cents broken down as follows: 25 cents as of June 1, when the old contract expired; an additional 15 cents on Sept. 1, 25 cents next June 1 and 15 cents on Sept. 1, 1963. Several contractors said, however, the carpenters also want a vacation fund, the money for which would come out of any wage increase they get. Paul J. Brienza, managing director of the Building Contractors Association of New Jersey called the carpenters' demand "avaricious and not in the spirit of true American economic patriotism."

PHILLIPSBURG — A 17-year old boy was killed last night when he was struck by a railroad train near the Greensbridge trestle in this Warren County community. Police said Dave Dalrymple of 573 Congress St., was hit by a Jersey Central Railroad passenger train that was westbound to Allentown, Pa., from Jersey City. The fireman, Warren Bartholomew of Bethlehem, Pa., told police the youth was one of three boys who ran across the tracks in front of the train.

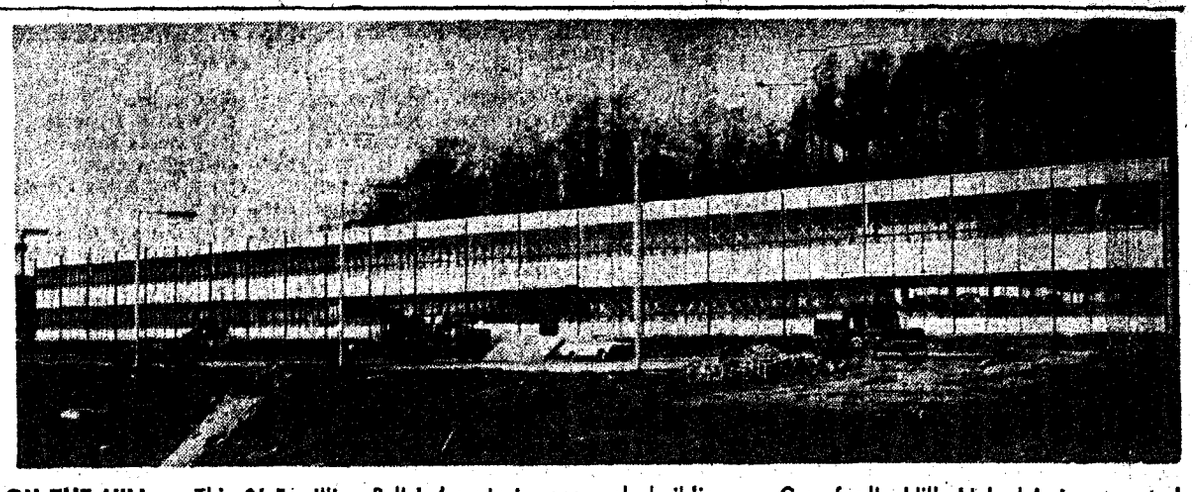

ATLANTIC CITY — Atlantic City Policeman Ronald W. Smith, 24, died yesterday of injuries suffered in a head-on auto crash which killed another man. His car collided with one driven by Frank C. Knapton, 25, Pomona, in Absecon.

TRENTON — Four Jersey City police officers who challenged the state Civil Service Commission after failing promotion examinations have lost out in the state Supreme Court. Capt. Thomas E. Kelly, Capt. Francis Moran, Lt. William B. Reilly and Lt. Henry E. Grossman charged the commission was wrong in setting a 60 per cent passing grade on the written examination, but a 70 per cent grade on the oral exam. All got grades of below 70 on the oral test. They claimed that if 60 per cent was used for the written exam, it should have been used for the oral. Justice Nathan L. Jacobs said in the court's 7-0 decision that the Civil Service Department uses a flexible passing grade system. He said the 60 per cent standard was adopted when results of the written test showed 70 was too high, apparently because the test was too difficult. But he said no such situation was present in the oral exam. He also said there was no evidence of abuse in the oral test.

TRENTON—William M. O'Brien, 31, was sentenced to six months in prison yesterday on charges of embezzling some $9,000 from First Trenton National Bank. O'Brien, formerly of Yardville, was charged with three counts of embezzlement. Sentence was imposed by U.S. District Judge Arthur S. Lane.

TRENTON — The state Medical Board would be able to withhold or suspend the license of a physician found guilty of gross malpractice under a bill approved by the state Senate yesterday, 18-0. The bill, sponsored by Assemblyman Francis J. Werner, D-Camden, and three others, resulted from the public outcry over the case of Dr. Albert L. Weiner, an osteopathic physician found guilty of manslaughter in the death of 12 patients. Senate Majority Leader Charles W. Sandman, Jr., R-Cape May, said that under present law the state medical board must wait for a court conviction before suspending a license for gross malpractice, enabling the physician to continue in practice. The bill goes to Gov. Richard J. Hughes.

TRENTON — Alfonso Ashley, a Somerville letter carrier, was given a suspended jail sentence yesterday and fined $1,000 in Federal District Court on charges of stealing money from the mails. Ashley was arrested Easter by federal postal inspectors who had the Somerville Post Office under surveillance following reports of losses of contributions through the mails. He allegedly took the letters addressed to the Somerset Hospital in Somerville. The hospital estimated its losses of contribution books through the mails at more than $1,000.

ON THE HILL — This $1.5 million Bell Laboratories research building on Crawford's Hill, Holmdel, is expected to be ready for occupancy by the middle of next month. Approximately 125 scientists and technicians will be employed at the building doing research which requires an area free from electromagnetic disturbance. The building replaces the old barracks type structure in front of the main research building on Crawford's Corner Rd.

Crawford's Hill Lab To Open

HOLMDEL — Bell Telephone Laboratories' $1.5 million research building being erected on Crawford's Hill is nearing completion.

The two-story, masonry and steel building is expected to be placed in operation by the middle of next month.

NEAR RESEARCH CENTER

The new building is about a mile from the firm's $20 million research center which opened earlier this year.

Bell officials said approximately 125 scientists and technicians will be working at the new building.

Work at the hill building will involve research in electronics and radio, antennas, guided wave stems and optical maser. The nature of this work requires an area free from electromagnetic disturbance.

TO LANDSCAPE AREA

This type of work is now being done in a barracks type building in front of the main research building on Crawford's Corner Rd.

When the Crawford's Hill building is completed, the barracks will be replaced by landscaping to dress up the modern research center.

Key Questions for Nixon

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Richard Nixon's embattled return to the political arena topped an extra-long ballot in California's primary election today.

Two key questions awaited an answer in the former vice president's quest for the GOP nomination for governor against hard-charging conservative candidate who calls his followers "the new breed of California Republicans."

1. Could the party's 1960 presidential candidate overcome the vigorous challenge by a political upstart, assemblyman Joseph C. Shell, and if so, by what margin?

Solidify Ranks

2. Could the winner solidify the ranks of the GOP — outnumbered 4 to 3 by Democrats in registration — for the November effort to oust Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown? Brown had no serious opposition in his own party primary.

Shell forces broadcast high confidence in his chances to emerge as a giant killer, but hedged to the point of citing signs of a big undecided vote — enough to tip the election either way.

Between 60 to 70 per cent of the 7 million voters were expected to check into 31,212 precincts during balloting. Warm, sunny weather was in prospect.

County clerks looked for a slow count. The reason:

A record number of candidates and issues. There were 1,400 state and local office-seekers in Los Angeles County alone. Six initiative measures, including $970 million in bond issues, also appeared on the ballot, and only San Francisco uses voting machines.

Nominations at Stake

(It took nine days to confirm, from the absentee ballot, that Nixon carried California over President Kennedy in 1960 by 35,000.)

Party nominations at stake included six state offices, U.S. Senator, 38 congressmen — a gain of eight; and 100 of the 120 state legislators. A majority of incumbents are Democrats.

Shell, a former college football captain who waded in against Nixon's support by most Republican state leaders, drew the lines sharply in his final pre-election statement.

He called his candidacy a challenge to "the old die-hard party machine" and spoke out against "the kingmakers and the metooers." Conservative thinking, he said, "has made great strides" in a state which spawned such Governors as Earl Warren and middle-of-the-road Republican Goodwin J. Knight.

Shell said the question wasn't whether he would win but by how much.

Nixon, who pointed his campaign toward November, maintained his silence on the 43-year-old Los Angeles assemblyman. He broke with Shell in denouncing the John Birch Society but he has tried to minimize intra-party bickering in hope of presenting a united Republican front against Brown in the fall.

Eulogy for Boy

Instructor Tells of Little Mario

EATONTOWN — A teacher's report, heard by the Board of Education last night, contained a requiem for a little boy.

Mrs. Joan N. Cone, home instructor to an ill child, Mario Venutolo, wrote:

"This is my final report on Mario Venutolo. He died at Monmouth Medical Center May 12, at the age of 12, of a chronic kidney disease.

"Mario was a wonderful little boy. Although he was thousands of miles from his parents and home land and most of the time didn't feel well, still he never complained.

"During nine months of tutoring Mario accomplished more than a year's work. He completed home work every day until a few weeks before his death. Mario was an excellent student with a good mind and a desire to learn. He could speak fluently French, Italian and English.

"I feel that the Board of Education of Eatontown did a great service in providing for Mario this opportunity for an education. I believe that by having his school work, Mario never realized that the end was so near, nor did he ever lose hope for the future. It was an honor to have known and tutored Mario Venutolo."

The superintendent of schools, Dr. William W. Ramsey, said that Mario, because of his disease, could not tolerate the climate of his native West Indies, and therefore lived with a legal guardian in Eatontown.

Process Marina Application

LITTLE SILVER — Henry S. Inselberg, a principal of Little Silver Marina, Inc., said yesterday he has received word that his application for riparian rights at the foot of Riverview Ave. is being processed.

More than six months has elapsed since the application was filed with the state Bureau of Navigation, which has advised no other applications were filed, he said. That indicates, Mr. Inselberg feels, that the borough, which also had taken steps to acquire the rights, acted too late.

Mr. Inselberg's firm, which plans to build a marina with docking facilities for 150 boats on Parker's Creek, made its application to buy the rights Oct. 27 of last year. The borough then had six months to file a privileged application and took the necessary steps to do so.

Fund Set Up

In March an ordinance was adoped by Borough Council providing funds for acquisition of the rights. The move, according to Mayor Charles W. Stephens, was to "protect the public interest."

After last night's meeting of Borough Council, Borough Attorney James Minogue told Mr. Inselberg that the Bureau of Navigation could, but was not obligated to, grant the riparian rights to Little Silver Marina, Inc.

Mr. Inselberg said he thought the borough's application was two days late and Mayor Stephens said he thought it crossed in the mail with the latest communication from the state agency.

Apparently neither faction intends to abandon its plans.

The proposed marina would front Parker's Creek, a tributary of the Shrewsbury River, on both sides of Riverview Ave. The land, which belongs to Winfield S. and Alva D. Wainwright, lies in commercial and residential zones.

Mr. and Mrs. Wainright will retain the property with a five-year conditional deed, Mr. Inselberg said.

The firm proposes to build a 3,000-square-foot service building, a parking and boat storage areas. Mariners would have ready access to the ocean from the site after the completion of the new Gooseneck Bridge which will have a high tide clearance of 25 feet.

It up to the Bureau of Navigation now, Mr. Inselberg said last night, to grant the riparian rights to one party or the other.

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON — Red Bank Detective Sgt. George H. Clayton, Jr., will graduate tomorrow from the FBI National Academy where he has been studying police administration and special techniques. Sgt. Clayton's father, Police Chief George H. Clayton, is a graduate of the academy. Sgt. Clayton is shown in practice at the FBI firearms range, Quantico, Va.

Raritan Civic Unit Set to Reorganize

RARITAN TOWNSHIP — The township Civic Council — which has been an "off again-on again" group since its formation last year — is getting up a full head of steam as an active organization, Herman L. Thwaites, Jr., secretary and a founder of the unit, told The Register yesterday.

The council, organized last November, brought together all civic associations in the township into a federation "to provide unification on issues and problems common to the member groups and to promote projects for community betterment."

Ten Joined

At that time, there were 11 active civic associations. Ten of them joined the council.

The council made one or two attempts at taking a stand on major issues, but has had trouble with attendance and its system of selecting officers.

Since November, two civic groups have become inactive, Mr. Thwaites reported.

He listed these civic associations as present members of the council: Hidden Hills East, Raritan Hills, West Keansburg Property Owners, Chestnut Hills, Coral-Raritan, Raritan Village and Hidden Hills West.

He said the Upper Raritan and Raritan Ridge associations are not members.

Last week, the council took a stand of sorts on one of the current issues, the sidewalk problem.

Seek Action

In a letter to the Township Committee, the council asked that action be taken to get sidewalks installed on hazardous streets leading to schools, but it took no stand on method of payment — general taxation versus individual assessment.

Mr. Thwaites said the group will reorganize at the next meeting, June 21 at 8 p.m. in Plaza Lanes, and that it is likely a decision will be made then to elect permanent officers.

Up to now, officers have been named on a rotating basis, serving one month at a time.

Mr. Thwaites said this system has caused "lack of responsibility."

Garbage Contract Canceled

FREEHOLD — Borough Council last night revoked the garbage contract of Anthony Oteri, Cream Ridge, and awarded a new contract to a former holder.

Henry, Helen, and Walenty Grabowski, Englishtown, were awarded the contract to March 1, 1963, at an annual rate of $15,970.

Council's action terminated Mr. Oteri's contract effective June 1. The contract began March 2, at an annual rate of $13,000.

Cite Complaints

Councilman Thomas M. Crowley, who moved the resolution, said council's action was necessary because of the hundreds of complaints by residents of failure to remove garbage.

Council has tried to straighten the situation out with Mr. Oteri, but there have been no improvements, Mr. Crowley said.

The Grabowskis, prior to March of this year, have held the garbage contract for many years. This year their bid was second lowest to Mr. Oteri's.

To Sell Scooter

Council authorized the sale of a three-year-old motor scooter which had been used by the police department.

Police Commissioner Joseph R. Collins said the vehicle had originally been purchased with the idea of assisting patrolmen in checking parking violations.

"This use has not worked out satisfactorily so the borough feels it best to place it for sale for $125," Mr. Collins said.

Fire Truck Bids Studied

LITTLE SILVER — Members of the fire department met recently to accept bids on a new pumper truck from American LaFrance and Mack Truck companies.

Councilman Robert Frederickson told Borough Council last night that the purchase will take at least five months after the selection of a supplier and will be included in next year's budget.

TEACHERS HONORED — Three teachers representing 125 years of teaching service were honored recently by the Middletown Education Association. The trio will retire from the Middletown school system at the end of the academic year. They are, left to right, Mrs. Alma Miller of the Leonardo School; W. Hugh Ryder, elementary supervisor, and Miss Addie Scisco, high school physical education instructor. Harold Copeland, Board of Education president presented the teachers with citations for their service.

Recreation Unit Gets Spending Authority

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP — The Township Committee last night gave the Board of Recreation Commissioners power to manage its own financial affairs.

Previously, that portion of the township budget set aside for recreation activities was controlled by the committee. Each time the board wished to spend money, it submitted a voucher to the governing body for approval.

Bank Account

Under the new setup, the budgeted recreation funds will be controlled completely by the board with power to spend as it sees fit. The move will require a separate bank account for the board and a separate audit.

The recommendation was made to the committee by Committeeman Henry E. Traphagen. The board has had to delay purchasing needed equipment because of required channeling of vouchers through the governing body.

The recreation body also was granted a license to use free portions of the five-acre water plant property in Cliffwood Heights. The committee reserved the right to revoke the license if the land is needed for municipal purposes at some future date.

12 Houses

Beefed up by a list value of $500,000 for the water treatment plant in the 1,280-home Levitt & Sons development, the building inspector's report for May listed construction having a total value of $734,295.

Another major portion of the total was a value of $144,000 listed for 12 houses started at Storyland Estates.

The committee will take initial steps in the planned road repair program when it meets with the township engineer Friday night on drainage projects required for the program.

Mayor Norman E. Wood last night appointed William F. Davis to fill an unexpired term on the Zoning Board of Adjustment. The term runs out the end of 1963.

The salary ordinance for municipal employees was adopted without comment from the audience during the public hearing. The measure provides for only a few minor increases over present salaries.

Air Force Unit Selects Officers

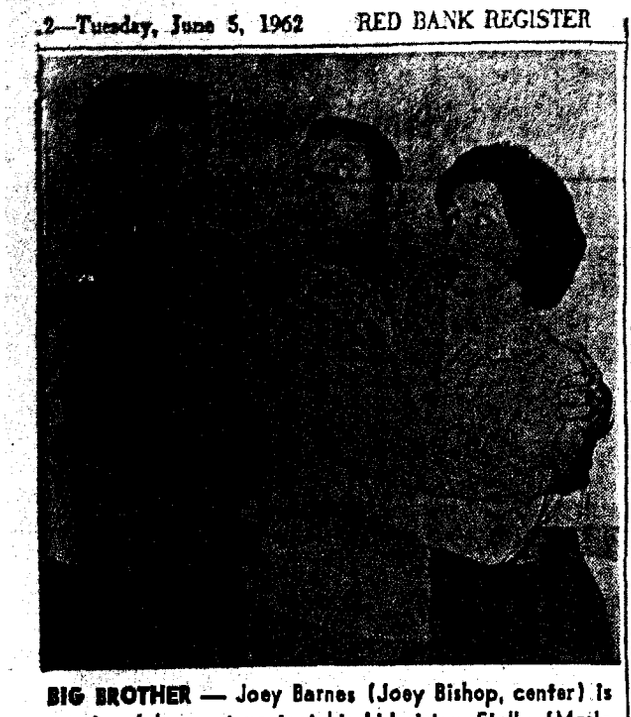

WASHINGTON (AP) — John B. Montgomery, president of Daystrom, Inc., Murray Hill, N. J., has been nominated for president of the Air Force Association.

Montgomery, a major general in the Air Force Reserve, heads a slate of officers selected at an AFA board meeting at Colorado Springs, Colo., last week, for election at the organiztaion's annual convention at Las Vegas, Nev., Sept. 18-23. The selections were announced yesterday by the association's headquarters here.

Former South Dakota Governor Joe Foss of Sioux Falls, now AFA president, was nominated for chairman of the board.

RESCUED FROM BURNING CAR — Mrs. Lawrence Fiore, 62, of Marshall, Mo., is pulled away from burning wreckage of car in which she was riding seconds after it was struck from behind and burst into flames at Alma, Kan. Theodore Bolsor, 54, left, of Marshall, Mo., and an unidentified motorist pulled her and her husband from back seat of the flaming car after a three-car collision. She and her husband, riding in the back seat, suffered back injuries but were not seriously injured. (AP Wirephoto)

BIG BROTHER — Joey Barnes (Joey Bishop, center) is convinced he must protect his kid sister, Stella (Marlo Thomas) from the attentions of her ballet instructor, Sascha Kerensky (Leonid Kinskey) in "A Letter from Stella," a repeat episode of NBC-TV's "Joey Bishop Show" Wednesday, June 6.

TV Key Mailbag

By STEVEN H. SCHEUER

Question — I am a soap opera fan and I try not to miss a single episode. My family thinks I overdo it but I enjoy the shows. What I would like to know is when are the poor characters in "The Edge of Night" going to get a break? There is nothing but trouble in their lives.-Mrs. W. F., Albany, N. Y.

Answer — Isn't that the way it's supposed to be on "soap operas?" One writer who toiled on the "soaps" stated that the three major ingredients used in concocting the daily dramas were strife, strife and more strife.

Question — In a recent poll taken by our school paper, "My Three Sons" was chosen as the teen-agers' favorite family show. Could you tell us about the three boys who play the Douglas boys?-M. R., Manhattan, Kans.

Answer — Tim Considine, who plays the oldest son, Mike, is 21 years old and has been in show business for 10 of those years. He first acted opposite Red Skelton in the movie "The Clown." Many other movie roles followed with his latest being "Sunrise at Campobello." His TV career began under the Walt Disney Production banner during which time he was a member of the "Mickey Mouse Club." Don Grady, who is Robbie on the TV series, is 18 years old. Like his TV-brother Tim, Don is also a graduate of the "Mickey Mouse Club." His parents were once in show business and his mother is now a talent agent in Hollywood. In addition to acting, Don is quite a musician. He plays the clarinet, drums, piano, ukulele, bass and accordion. Chip, the youngest of the "Douglas" lads, is 11-year-old Stanley Livingston (and that's his real name). He has been in the show business spotlight since he was two, working in movies and TV.

Question — Did Dorothy Provine, of last season's "Roaring 20's," leave show business to marry a millionaire? My sister seems to think she did.-L. D., Lancaster, Pa.

Answer — Dorothy's "Roaring" series was dropped because it ran its course with the fans. She is still under contract to Warner Bros., and is currently up for a new series about a Hollywood stunt woman. Meanwhile, she is making a movie called "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World." Dorothy is not a millionaire's wife. . . .she's not even married.

Signals are meant to help the defenders, but they have a nasty way of backfiring. Declarer is allowed to spot the signal and make what he can of it.

South would go down at four hearts if he just minded his own business. There are several losing ways to play the hand, all plausible.

For example, South can try to ruff a spade with dummy's nine of hearts, relying on West to have the jack of hearts. In this case West is unreliable; East will over-ruff with the jack.

Another method is to ruff the third round of spades with the ace of trumps and then lead out the king and queen of hearts in the hope of dropping the jack. If it fails to drop, South may try the club finesse. This is a rather pretty idea, but it gives the opponents five rather pretty tricks.

Busybody

South makes his contract by being a busybody. East plays the ten of spades at the first trick, obviously signaling shortness.

South should win with the ace and return a spade. West wins, and East completes a high-low by dropping the four of spades.

What does East mean by this signal? Would a sensible defender beg for a third round of spades if he couldn't over-ruff the dummy?

If East hopes to over-ruff the dummy on a third round of spades, he must have the jack of hearts. Armed with this information, South ruffs the third spade in dummy with the ace of hearts and then returns the nine of hearts with the ten of hearts from his own hand.

The finesse works, and South draws the rest of the trumps with the king and queen.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold: Spades—6 3, Hearts A 9, Diamonds—J 7 4 3, Clubs—A Q 8 5 2. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. This borderline hand may be opened if the long suits are majors, but there is little advantage in straining to open when your length is in the minor suits.

Brando Hurt

Brando went to a private physician for treatment of the injury. He told George Englund, director-producer of "The Ugly American," that the gash was painful but apparently not too serious.

Engineers to Elect

EATONTOWN — New officers of the Monmouth Society of Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors, Inc., will be elected at a dinner meeting tomorrow at the Old Orchard Country Club here.

Nominated are Lawrence Adams, for president; David Berdan, first vice president; Leon Avaklan, second vice president; Charles Siddis, secretary; Harry Christie, Jr., treasurer; Ted Frank, trustee; Thomas Birdsall, alternate trustee, and Harrison Martin and Howard Birdsall, directors.

... By George!

(Send your problems to George for immediate solution through Sideways Thinking.)

Dear George:

My wife read an article on keeping husbands happy and it suggested that the wife meet the husband at the door with slippers and a pipe.

I don't mind her wearing slippers but, frankly, I can't stand the pipe she smokes. How can we keep these articles from giving our wives such crazy advice?

Smokey

Dear Smokey:

Send your problems to George—we only give serious advice here.

Dear George:

Before we were married my husband said he would go through fire for me. Now, he won't even empty the garbage. What can I do?

Disillusioned

Dear Disillusioned:

Many a man who would go through fire for his wife doesn't necessarily make a good garbage carrier-out, if only because it's too dull and lacks a sense of adventure.

Of course, I guess you could set the garbage sack on fire and then call him.

"ASTRO-GUIDE" By Ceean

For Wednesday, June 6

Present—For You and Yours... You should be riding the crest of the wave again today. Push financial interests to the full! Check correspondence carefully to be sure hasty words cannot be misinterpreted. Social aspects are excellent for the evening. Take romance with a grain of salt for the time being.

Past... The raisin is one of the world's oldest-known fruits. Four thousand years ago, the Persians and Egyptians cultivated raisin-making grapes. The Israelites paid taxes in raisins to King David.

Future... Air-conditioned suits have already been tested in certain types of work where temperatures are high. Domestic use may some day make it possible for the housewife to slip into something really comfortable when working around the house.

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19) Be discriminating in choice of associates, especially if money is at stake.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't force issues, but don't be a doormat. There's a middle road.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Some pitfalls lurk in unwise investments, buying on installment plan, etc.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) An unexpected opportunity regarding property may come along very shortly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Circulate socially. Seek new contacts; look up old friends. Have fun!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Routine may seem dull, but it's the best procedure for this adverse day.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A domestic crisis may come to a head, so be prepared to state your views.

Announcer Clem McCarthy Dead at 79

NEW YORK (AP) — R-R-R-acing Fans!

Clem McCarthy, whose gravel voice and rolling R's were the background music of sport's golden age, died yesterday, in the Dresden Nursing Home, at 79.

The famed radio announcer had lived the last several years as a semi-invalid, after an automobile accident on Kentucky Derby day in 1957. Death was attributed to Parkinson's disease, which had reduced his strong voice to a whisper.

McCarthy, who had no close relatives, died broke, his considerable earnings dissipated and his hospital bills paid by the Clem McCarthy fund, established by friends.

Son of an Irish horse dealer and horse auctioneer, he broadcast every Kentucky Derby from 1928 to 1951, and many of the great prize fights of the 1930's. His was the voice at ringside, at the hate-drenched second Joe Louis- Max Schmeling fight, that intoned: "Schmeling is down, Schmeling is down."

He made an American generation horse race-conscious. He talked on the air to the horses and the jockeys at the post.

"Easy there, Nellie," "watch him, George Wolfe, watch him"), and he talked to them all the way around.

McCarthy did it all alone. He had no spotters, no "color men" no broadcasting "team."

At the famous match race between Seabiscuit and War Admiral in 1938 he couldn't even make it through the crowd to the broadcasting booth and called the race standing on a rail near the winner's circle. It was one of his classic performances.

Some of his calls will be long-remembered. In the 1937 Santa Anita Handicap his staccato voice declared: "R-R-R-Osemont is coming like the wind."

And in the stretch of his last Derby, in 1951: "Put a ring around Count Fleet, they'll never catch him today."

He could dramatize a fight like no one else, and actually made the Joe Louis-Tommy Farr heavyweight title fight so exciting that many spectators said they wished they had stayed home to listen to McCarthy.

He called one wrong — the 1947 Preakness, when he named Jet Pilot the winner instead of Faultless. Their silks were similar.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he rasped on the air, "I have made a horrible mistake. Babe Ruth struck out. Today I did the same. I am in distinguished company."

McCarthy was born near Rochester, N.Y., and traveled widely with his father in his early youth. Then he became a horse auctioneer and form-chart reporter.

Like so many of the men he talked about on the radio, Babe Ruth, Jack Dempsey, John McGraw, he lived high. He was a close friend of the greats of the Golden Era of sports, before the great depression and afterward.

McCarthy married an actress, Vina Smith, who died in 1950 after a long illness. They had no children.

HANDING THE JOB OVER — Harold H. Schank, second from right, president of the Shore Conference and athletic director of Freehold Regional High School, wishes new prexy Leonard H. Cooke well for the 1962-63 school year. Mr. Cooke is athletic director of Wall Township High School. Looking on are Arnold T. Truex, left, new secretary, and athletic director of Middletown Township High School, and Harold Handchem, vice president, of Brick Township High School. Mr. Cooke took over last night at the Shore Conference annual dinner-meeting at Old Orchard Country Club.

Len Cooke Heads Shore Conference

EATONTOWN — Leonard H. Cooke, athletic director of Wall Township High School, last night was elected president of the Shore Conference at the annual dinner-meeting and golf outing at Old Orchard Country Club.

Other officers named were Harold Handchem, Brick Township athletic director, vice president; Arnold T. Truex, Middletown Township, secretary, and Howard B. Peterson, Neptune High School, secretary.

Retiring president Harold H. Schank, Freehold Regional High athletic director, mentioned problems encountered by Shore Conference officials and said there would be more next season the way the circuit is growing. Mr. Schank said the growth would cause different schedules for next year. He also thanked his officers and committees who worked many hours ironing out problems during the 1961-62 school year.

Numerous guests were present at the largest dinner ever held by the conference. Included were county superintendents from Monmouth and Ocean Counties, school superintendents and principals of most member schools.

Prior to the dinner administrators, coaches and guests participated in a golf tournament with Robert Smith, a member of the Long Branch coaching staff, winning the Sherwood Memorial Trophy as over-all champion. Jack Toy, Middletown Township, was among the long list of winners with his 79 card.

Baseball trophies also were presented with Roland "Red" Pierson of Long Branch getting a fresh trophy. Only a few hours before his Long Branch nine defeated Asbury Park, 6-5, to win the Shore Conference A championship. George Deitz, Matawan coach, was presented the Conference Trophy for the B division championship.

In order to take the crown Long Branch had to break open a three-way tie with Asbury Park and Red Bank. In the drawing, Long Branch received a bye. Asbury Park eliminated Red Bank last week, and then the Green Wave wrapped it up yesterday.

Dr. Wylie G. Pate, former superintendent of Middletown Township and one of the originators of the Shore Conference, gave a brief talk. Dr. Pate said he remembered back to 1938 when just about six teams made up the conference. Now it has grown into a big league with around 20 teams, stated Dr. Pate.

Milton "Red" Nichols, a former Shore Conference president and athletic director at Rumson High School in the 1940s, also was introduced. Mr. Nichols also was a famed all around official before retiring a few years ago.

Keyport Cage Team to Play On Raritan Floor

RARITAN TOWNSHIP — Keyport High School will play eight basketball games next season in Raritan's new high school gym.

The Board of Education Friday granted use of its gym facilities to Keyport for its home games and at the same time requested use of the Keyport High School athletic field for four games of Raritan football.

Raritan's athletic field will not be ready for its proposed athletic program.

Keyport's gym has been termed inadequate by other Shore Conference schools, with several having refused to play on the court at all.

The board also approved the high school athletic schedule which includes varsity football, basketball and baseball; and freshman football and basketball.

The schedule as approved by the board calls for six football games at present; Sept 29, Monmouth Regional; Oct. 6, Southern Regional; Oct. 20, Central Regional; Nov. 3, Shore Regional; Nov. 10, Keyport, and Nov. 17, Madison Township.

SLAMMIN' SAMMY SNEAD, center, joins the group which organized the Thunderbird Classic Exhibition Match at Jumping Brook Country Club, Neptune. The Home for Chronic Sick, Long Branch, received the gross proceeds from the charity match. Others, left to right, are Joseph Mirne, chairman of the board at the home; Gene Kroll, who represented the Monmouth County Ford dealers; Benjamin Berkowitz, president of the board of directors at the home; and Craig Wood, former golfing great and Ford dealer. Snead teamed with Johnny Alberti, Jumping Brook pro, in best-ball match for two-up win, firing a 34-34—68, four under par. Bob Jacobson, two-time N. J. amateur titlist, shot 75. His partner, Lou Barbaro, Hollywood Golf Club pro, posted 69.

Four Skippers Capture Races In River Rats' Spring Series

FAIR HAVEN — Four skippers share honors in the fifth week of sailing in the River Rats spring sailing series on the Navesink River Sunday afternoon.

The River Rats will conclude their six-week spring series with a final set of races for Indian Scouts and Blue Jays next Sunday afternoon.

Class winners last Sunday were Bob Howat and Jack Jamison in Indian Scouts and the perennial leaders Nina Vuyosevich and Quentin Fraizer in Blue Jays.

Howat and his crew, wife Ginny, scored their first victory of the Indian Scout series. Dirk Isbrandtsen, with his mother crewing, placed second. Jackie Jose, with her regular crew Sue Scheffer, was third.

Jamison took the second Indian Scout race. His wife Marion served as crew. Miss Jose was a close runner-up, with Brinkerhoff, third, Howat, fourth and Dirk Isbrandtsen, fifth.

Blue Jays

Miss Vuyosevich, with her regular crew Johnny Post, scored in the first Blue Jay class race. Frazier was second, followed by Bud Russell and son Chad, Fip Chinnock, Henry Thomas, Jim Millhiser and Walter Isbrandtsen. Miss Ellen Davidson crewed for Frazier.

Frazier took the second Blue Jay race with the Chinnock boys, Fip and Pete, runner-up. Miss Vuyosevich was third, followed by Russell, Thomas, Millhiser and Walter Isbrandtsen.

The Goodwin family, Dave and Mary Lou, handled the committee boat for both races.

Mariners Sweep

Three Mariner Girl Scouts swept all the honors in the May 27 racing. Nina Vuyosevich won both Blue Jay races, assisted by her regular crew Johnny Post. Both are seniors at Rumson-Fair Haven Regional High School.

In the Indian Scout class, Jackie Jose took both races, assisted by her regular crew Sue Scheffer. Donna Duckworth, and her father Bob Howat, were runner-up in the first race, with Al Davidson and daughter, Ellen, third.

Power and Sail

By BILL ROBINSON

In the past few days we have finished putting Mar Claro, our 24-foot auxiliary sloop, in commission for her fifth season. Fitting-out time is always a period of reappraisal of what gear and equipment has worked well and what changes have had to be made. Now that she has four years of hard use behind her, a picture emerges of how various items have held up.

First of all, and this should be of particular interest, is her construction. She is an Amphibi-Ette Class sloop built in Maine, and we ordered her the year before the great swing to fiber glass started in this size boat, both sail and power. There were plenty of fiber glass runabouts and day sailers available in the fall of 1957, but there were not too many cruising auxiliaries or cabin cruisers of that material.

WITH LAUNCHING time at hand for the fifth season for columnist Bill Robinson's 24-foot sloop, valuable experience has been gained in how her construction methods and equipment have stood the test of time. Trailer permits home storage of boat, where work can be done conveniently and inexpensively.

Her construction combines some unusual features, and they form a good comparison for the wood versus fiber glass controversy that has been so much in boat buyers' minds for the past few years. In typical Maine fashion, her underbody is glued-strip construction. This consists of inch-square wood strips that are through-fastened and glued. The result is a seamless hull that does not need calking and does not leak if properly built. Mar Claro has not leaked a drop through the hull since the day she was launched.

Glued-strip gives the watertight features of lap-streak or plywood construction, with the added advantage of allowing a more complex hull form. The only work required on the bottom in the time we have had her has been anti-fouling painting, which is exactly the same as a fiber glass boat would require.

The topsides, to save weight, material and labor costs where complex shape is not a requirement, are of a sheet plywood called Harborite. This is covered with a special cellulose coating that has has prevented it from checking or scuffing, and it has held up extremely well. The work of painting has been no more than that required to keep fiber glass topsides free of stains and scuffs.

It does not have the impact resistance, but the only time it has been damaged, when someone ran into her while she was untended on a mooring, I made the repairs myself very easily with epoxy putty and the work cannot be seen now. None of this is an argument against fiber glass but merely a comparison of how some types of wood construction work out.

Her two big maintenance problems are varnished brightwork and the convertible canvas hood over the main cabin. No one has to have brightwork, so this is a personal choice, and there's no way to ease the work no matter what the boat's construction. Canvas does not hold up for long, and we have ordered a new synthetic hood for this season made of vinyl laminations over nylon. It is supposedly resistant to things like mildew and rot that weaken canvas, and it should be easier to keep clean.

The aluminum spars have been a joy both in performance and maintenance, which has been zero. Washing and cleaning once a year has been all they've needed. Time saved over varnished spars has been fantastic.

The sails have taped luffs instead of rope luffs, and these have worked well, giving no trouble and the sails set well. Of Dacron, they show no signs of deterioration except some seam stitches that have been replaced. Laminated linen blocks and lightweight stainless steel rigging have all held up without failure and are still going strong. Last year we tried epoxy paint in the cockpit, and it seems to be holding up very well. Going into a new season no repainting is necessary. Mineral-dyed bunk covers of duck have held up much better than the original vat-dyed ones, which fell apart quickly.

As we keep using her, she continues to be a valuable lab on boating equipment, and it is interesting to keep track of it.

Alley Winners Receive Awards At Banquet

KEANSBURG—The first place trophy of the Monmouth County Catholic Bowling League was received last week by St. Joseph's, Keyport, at the 12th annual banquet held in Buck Smith's Restaurant, East Keansburg.

Individual trophies were also received by each member of St. Agnes 1, Atlantic Highlands, placing second; St. Mary's 1, New Monmouth, placing third, and Holy Family 1, Union Beach, placing fourth.

Jack Ward of St. Mary's 2 team was high with an average of 180. Arthur Carney, St. James 2, Red Bank, was the winner of the three game high award with a set of 676.

A trophy for a high individual game of 277 was won by Joseph McCoy, Holy Family 1 team.

The affair was attended by members and their wives.

SandyKoufax Defeats Phils

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —Swift Sandy Koufax pulled the Los Angeles Dodgers out of a two-game losing streak with a 6-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies last night.

The fire-balling lefthander, who struck out 13 batters, had a one-hit shutout going until the ninth inning when John Callison singled, Roy Sievers walked and Jacke Davis clouted a pinch-hit home run with two out.

Koufax, was the whole show. After Tony Taylor opened with a single and was thrown out trying to steal for the first time this season, the fire-balling lefthander retired 17 batters in succession before he doled out the first of his two walks — to Taylor in the seventh.

Koufax, who is striking out hitters at the fastest clip in the history of the majors, raised his seasonal count to 122 — high for both the American and National league. In addition, over his career he has accumulated 1,084 strike outs.

He fanned all the Phillies at least once with the exception of Callison and of course, Davis. It was the first round-tripper for the rookie outfielder in the National League.

Los Angeles scored one in the first on singles by Maury Wills, Willie Davis and Tommy Davis. The latter two beat out bunts.

They added one in the six on a walk to Junior Gilliam, a sacrifice by Willie Davis and a single by Ron Fairly.

The final Dodger run came in the seventh on a single, Koufax's sacrifice and an error.

Wave Knocks Off Asbury, 6-5, For A Division Championship

WEST LONG BRANCH —Long Branch High School, a darkhorse in the Shore Conference A Division baseball race this season, won the loop championship with a 6-5 win over Asbury Park on Monmouth College's diamond here yesterday.

Long Branch, Asbury Park and Red Bank tied for the "A" title with 6-4 records during the regular season, forcing a playoff. Asbury Park elminated Red Bank in the elimination game Friday on this same field to gain the title game after Long Branch drew a bye.

It was the third time this season that Long Branch defeated Asbury Park.

Long Branch scored the winning run in the top of the seventh inning after Asbury Park tied it up at 5-5 in the bottom of the sixth with a two-run outburst. Al Ferrugiaro provided the Branchers with the winning single. His safety drove home Bob Volp, who had opened up the frame with an infield single and advanced to second on a sacrifice by Garry Eppstein.

Long Branch jumped out to a quick lead in the top of the first with two runs, but Asbury Park hitters banged out three safeties, including a double by George Plasteras, to score three runs and take the lead in the bottom half of the frame.

Bob Silberstein put Long Branch back in command when he slugged a two-run home run in the second inning. The blast traveled over the left fielder's head.

Len Labriola and Jim Van Brunt pitched for the winners, Labriola going the first 5⅔ innings. Van Brunt picked up the win, his first this season against a pair of setbacks.

Mike O'Neill started on the mound for the Blue Bishops and tossed until the sixth when Mike Abarbarel took over the mound chores. Abarbarel took the loss.

Long Branch had a 8-5 edge in hits.

Fall in 2-Hitter In Raritan Loop

RARITAN TOWNSHIP — Gill Fall pitched two-hit ball to lead Harmony Park to a 5-3 victory over Lynn Manor in Raritan softball action last week. Harmony Park broke loose in the fourth inning to score all five runs.

In other action, Hidden Hills East downed Split Rock 8-2 behind winning pitcher Ed Coffey's four-hit performance. Coffey struck out five while walking two.

Raritan Ridge won a 5-4 decision over Woodland Park after scoring the winning tally on a sharp single by winning pitcher Ken Clark. Four of Raritan Ridge's five runs were unearned.

Norgate Manor downed Raritan Hills, 6-3, behind the hot bats of Red String and pitcher Bill Kansky. Kansky added two of the Norgate tallies on home runs, while String doubled and hit two singles in three times at the plate.

Norgate Manor and Raritan Ridge are tied for first place in the loop with three wins each.

Easterner Has New Profile

NEWPORT, R.I., (AP) — The America's Cup defense hopeful Easterner returned to the water last night with a new profile.

She went down the ways smoothly at the Newport ship yard on the evening tide after radical changes.

These included an alteration in her keel, and a shifting of the mast step 18 inches aft. This will mean a slightly smaller mainsail, but a correspondingly larger fore-triangle.

Her naturally finished mahogany topsides gleamed in fresh varnish like a new piano.

The shipyard said her mast will be stepped by the end of the week and her old wire standing rigging replaced with streamlined stainless steel rod.

Easterner was unsuccessful in a bid for the defense nomination in the 1958 races. She will face three rivals in this year's trials.

Bob Perri Captures Two Jersey Speed Skiff Races

LEWES, Del. — Bob Perri, driver of Danny Ardolino's Jersey Speed Skiff, Jo-Carol-Too, carted off three trophies during the first annual inboard hydroplane regatta here last weekend. Perri, opening the 1962 skiff campaign in impressive fashion, won two JSS races and gained a third place in a special race for all classes.

The event here was the first of a long list of 1962 East Coast powerboat regattas. The inboard drivers next go to Harrisburg, Pa., Saturday, and Havre de Grace, Md., Sunday.

Perri, Ardolino's son-in-law, whipped a small JSS field in Saturday's racing. Runner-up was national skiff champion Joe Julian, Atlantic Highlands, in his new craft, St. Pat. Dave Tilton, Long Branch, was third in Alter Ego.

The Oceanport driver picked up a second win for Ardolino by winning Sunday's race. Gerry Primavera, West Long Branch, placed second in Tera IV, with Tilton third and Peter Pauels, Rumson, fourth, in Slo-Poke. Julian did not run Sunday due to motor trouble.

The West Long Branch owner added a third prize when Perri drove Jo-Carol to third position in the special race. More powerful E and F Service runabouts took the first two places in this event.

The Jersey Speed Skiffs expect a lively campaign with at least seven boats in action at each regatta. The popular local boats will also run in the National Sweepstakes at Red Bank July 7-8 and at the Atlantic Highlands regatta, Aug. 26.

Hance Wins NSS Opener

FAIR HAVEN — Borden "Brub" Hance swept to an easy victory in the opening race of the Navesink Sailing Society's summer Wood-Pussy championship series on the Navesink River Saturday afternoon.

Excellent sailing weather prevailed for the opener of a 12-race summer series.

Don Colyer, winner of last year's series, placed second, with Bill Hills, third. Don MacLean was fourth.

Byron Seider came in fifth. Chris Colyer and Bob Herr did not finish. The event was held over a triangular course.

The second race of the Wood-Pussy series will be sailed here next Saturday afternoon.

LONDON (AP) —Twenty-seven horses remained in tomorrow's Epsom Derby Classic after the three-day forfeit stage yesterday.

Four horses taken out of the field were the French colt Propriano, Principal, Tropical Sky and By Jupiter.

Final runners will be announced today.

At yesterday's bookmakers call-over the favorite, Hethersett, eased half a point to 6-1.

City Plans 'Major' Parade for Fourth

LONG BRANCH — The city will have a "major" Fourth of July parade this year.

Mayor Thomas L. McClintock, who made the announcement in a statement released at City Hall, said he is serving as temporary chairman for purposes of organization. He said Ralph Damiano, local funeral director and veterans leader, will be grand marshal.

City manager Richard J. Bowen told reporters he understands the parade will be sponsored by City Council as a municipal function. It has not yet been discussed at a City Council meeting but, Mr. Bowen said, he believes most members of council have agreed to the plan. Mr. McClintock was unavailable for comment.

Mr. Damiano said the idea grew out of a conversation among the mayor and others following the city's brief Memorial Day observance which consisted of placing floral tributes at the Veterans Monument at City Hall and casting a wreath on the sea from the fishing pier.

Mr. Bowen said that except for the physical labor of preparing for the parade reviewing stand and other details no substantial costs will be involved.

The mayor's statement said all former mayors now living will be invited to serve as honorary officers of the arrangements committee. He said Marshall Woolley, who had his 75th birthday Saturday, has been asked to be honorary chairman.

A spokesman for Mr. Woolley, who lives at 229 Bath Ave. and headed the city government in World War I, said ill health may prevent him from participating. Mr. Woolley has indicated he will take part if possible.

Asked to serve as honorary vice chairmen, in the order of most recent occupancy of the mayor's chair, are Paul Kiernan, Daniel J. Maher, Dr. Alexander Vineburg, Alton V. Evans and Dorman McFaddin.

Mayor McClintock's statement said he hopes the parade will be the first of an annual event.

"The purposes of this parade," his statement said, "are first to give proper recognition to the patriotic significance of our greatest national holiday; and, secondly, to get our summer resort season off to a rousing start.

"We are aspiring to make this the first of an annual series of Fourth of July parades that will be bigger and better each year."

Mr. Damiano said that military marching units and bands from several installations will take part. These include, he said, Fort Monmouth, Fort Hancock, Earle Naval Ammunition Depot, Lakehurst Naval Air Station, the 50th Armored Division, New Jersey National Guard, and the Coast Guard.

A meeting of the general committee will be held tomorrow at 8 p.m. at City Hall to advance plans, Mr. Damiano announced.

COUNCIL OF CHURCHES ELECTS — Rev. James L. Church Drive Nets $29,000

MIDDLETOWN — The Reformed Church, Kings Hwy., has announced that gifts and pledges totaling $29,000 have been received as a result of its recent fund raising drive for the construction of a new education building.

Cost of construction has been estimated at $45,000.

Pledges were presented to James Stout, finance chairman, by Elder Frederick Stutzbach, building committee chairman, at a dedication service conducted recently by Rev. Harry A. Olsen.

The church is waiting for a decision from the Zoning Board of Adjustment on its application to build the 100x50-foot education building on a tract less than five acres.

The zoning code requires that church buildings be erected on land of at least five acres.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS—The Recreation Commission will provide free pier fishing this summer for local youngsters, 7 and over, it was announced today.

The fishing program, which will be conducted on pier 1 at the municipal yacht harbor, will be on Wednesdays and Fridays from June 25 to Aug. 3.

It will be part of the local summer playground program.

The summer playground will be conducted from June 25 to Aug. 3, on weekdays, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., at Firemen's Memorial Field, West Highland Ave. A program of games, arts, and crafts will be offered.

The playground staff, in cooperation with the American Red Cross, will sponsor two weeks of learn-to-swim instruction at Kepwell Park, Wayside, Tuesdays to Fridays, July 10 to July 20.

Bus Transport

The bus will leave the playground at 8:20 a.m. and return about 11:45 a.m. The cost of the program will be 55 cents per day. Of this cost, 15 cents covers admission to the park and 40 cents, transportation.

The commission will sponsor three trips this summer if there is enough response.

July 16 has been set as a tentative date for a trip to the Bronx Zoo for children and their parents. Cost of the trip has been estimated at $1.25, providing 50 people indicate an interest.

A probable date for a trip to Freedomland is Aug. 13. The cost, $4.75, includes bus fare and tickets to all rides and attractions. Some 50 parents or children are needed for the outing.

An adult field trip to the Philadelphia area or the New York area will be scheduled if enough interest is shown.

Set Tours

In the Philadelphia area, the commission would set up a tour of the Franklin Institute, Valley Forge, or Independence Hall. In New York tours would include the United Nations, museums, or art galleries.

As in other years, the commission will sponsor a girl's softball league and a boys' baseball league.

Girls 6 through 12 will be permitted to participate in the girls' softball program. A minor league will be open to boys 8 through 12 who do not play little league ball.

State Shriners Meet Saturday

Thedore E. Nestler

TRENTON — Shriners from throughout the state will gather here Saturday for the June ceremonial of Crescent Temple to be held in the Trenton Mosque.

A "hot sands" ceremonial will be the occasion for reception of new members into the New Jersey unit of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

Participating will be Past Potentate Ernest R. Zerr of Sea Girt who will preside at the evening session when the Shrine Club leaders will be presented.

They include C. Randolph Heuser of Matawan, president of the Central Jersey Shrine Club; Charles F. Rell of Little Silver, commodore of the Crescent Temple Yacht Club, and Theodore E. Nestler of Eatontown, past president of the 32d and Templars Club.

Lifeguard Tests Will Start Today

LONG BRANCH — Young men seeking lifeguard jobs on city beaches this summer will get trials and tests and will begin a strict training program this week. The five beaches to be operated by the city will open for business June 15.

Certificates of having passed Red Cross lifesaving tests, and of current good health, are required. Swim tests will get under way today and continue through the week with the best performers to get the 18 to 20 jobs available.

Meanwhile, Mr. Bowen said, beach department crews are struggling to get the storm damaged coast in shape for the summer trade.

"We will stress two points in reaching out for bathing business," he said. "Our beaches are clean and they are safe. That's our selling ticket.

"We want bathers from everywhere, but we think there is more than enough potential within 20 miles driving distance to the Long Branch ocean front to make a profitable business.

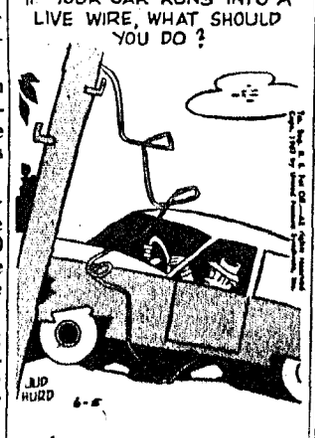

"Parking facilities are being improved and we will have comfort stations at at least two or three, possibly at all, beaches."

The time schedule on comfort stations is uncertain, he said. The construction for all five beaches was authorized by City Council May 22 but required approval of the State Division of Local Government hasn't yet been received.

Explorer Ship 6 Wins Top Honor; Member Cited

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS — Sea Explorer Ship 6 was awarded the two highest honors in Monmouth Squadron at the annual bridge of honor held recently at the Naval Ammunition Depot, Earle.

The Sea Explorer Ship, sponsored by the local Yacht Club, was named squadron flagship, which ranks it as the top rated unit among the 10 ships in Monmouth County. The award was based on the quality of the group's leadership, the excellence of its records and meeting place, the training given to the Explorers and the type of service they render to their community and the sponsoring organization.

In addition to the award of squadron flagship, the unit was honored by the award of outstanding Sea Explorer to Edward Ludwig, 48 Hosford Ave., Leonardo, a member of the ship and a student at Middletown Township High School. The award was based on explorer Ludwig's activities in his church, his excellent leadership among his fellow explorers and the extent of his school and community activities.

Skipper Hofman and the Sea Explorers were highly commended by squadron officials for their dual accomplishment.
