Delay Berlin Showdown

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Evidently Premier Khrushchev once again wants to postpone a serious crisis over Berlin, perhaps beyond the first of next year.

The Soviet press gives the strong impression that the Kremlin is not ready for a showdown and the risks it would involve.

There seems a distinct relationship between Western toughness and Soviet tractability. The firmer the West, the more cautious the Kremlin drive seems to be.

Pravda and other Soviet propaganda organs appear to strive desperately to dispel the idea that a major crisis over Berlin's future is coming in the immediate future. The Soviet press chides those who speak of a Berlin "crisis," calling such talk warmongering to heat up the international atmosphere.

SLOGANS MILDER

Another clue:

The annual list of slogans for the 45th anniversary of the Communist revolution, to be celebrated in November, is much softer in tone than the slogans issued last spring for May Day.

The slogan on Berlin, for example, reads this way:

"Peoples of all nations! Demand the conclusion of a German peace treaty and the transformation of West Berlin into a free demilitarized city." That's all.

May Day slogans demanded conclusion of such a treaty in the swiftest possible time and violently denounced alleged western plans to transform West Germany into a "hotbed of war."

The slogan concerning West Germany now reads:

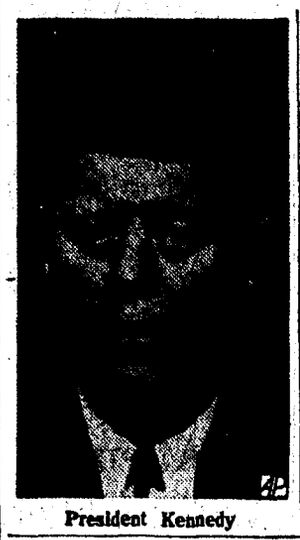

"Warm greetings to workers and all progressive forces of the Federal German Republic struggling against militarism and rebirth of fascism." That's much milder.

Another clue:

The puppet Communist regime of East Germany has just announced plans for its sixth party congress early in 1963 to draw up

Kennedy, Khrushchev Conference Is Forecast

President Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP—President Kennedy confers with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko today in a White House meeting that foreshadows a Kennedy conference with Premier Khrushchev on the Berlin crisis next month.

Khrushchev has, in effect, made known to Kennedy through Foy Kohler, the new U.S. ambassador to Moscow, that he is very interested in a face-to-face discussion of the Berlin dispute with the President.

Kennedy has already decided to see Khrushchev if, as expected here, the Soviet premier goes through with the decision to visit the United States to attend the U.N. General Assembly. Gromyko, who came here from New York Wednesday, is due at the White House in late afternoon. After seeing Kennedy, he is scheduled to spend the evening with Secretary of State Dean Rusk at a "working dinner" attended also by U.S. and Soviet policy advisers.

Moscow Conference

The White House session here follows by two days a Moscow conference between Khrushchev and Kohler. It was learned that Khrushchev indicated to the new American envoy that he considers more discussions on the Berlin situation to be desirable. He also clearly indicated that he considers a personal talk between himself and Kennedy to be advisable.

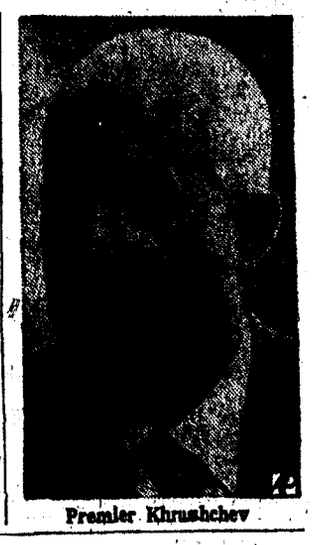

While Khrushchev underscored his long-standing demand for withdrawal of U.S., British and French troops from West Berlin, the atmosphere of his conversation with Kohler was reported to have been easy and relaxed and devoid of any sense of immediate crisis or imminent deadline. Kohler made a full report of the talk to Washington for the information of Kennedy, Rusk and their top advisers.

Remove Forces

Kennedy was expected to emphasize strongly in his meeting with Gromyko that Khrushchev's insistence on removal of Western forces from Berlin is totally unacceptable and that the Western powers are completely agreed on defending West Berlin and its military and civilian supply lines against any kind of Communist move against them.

Top U.S. officials actually see no prospect at the moment of reaching any kind of accord with

$310,000 Levitt 'Donation'

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP—Levitt and Sons, Inc., last night agreed to a work project "contribution" to the municipality estimated in the equivalent of about $310,000, in return for agreement in principle to construct another 650 houses here.

Present subdivision map approvals call for the construction of approximately 1,250 houses.

See Other Levitt Stories, Pages 3, 21

With the new agreements, the total will be increased to approximately 1,900 for a project valuation estimated at nearly $45 million, including shopping center, recreational facilities and utilities.

Levitt had agreed previously to donate work projects in the equivalent of $500 per house. The final agreement hammered out last night — after many bitter words and accusations — comes to slightly less than that, based on figures provided by Township Engineer Karl F. Heuser.

Street Paving

The work projects consist mainly of paving of township streets. Some school work is included.

Argument last night was over installation of 2,500 feet of sidewalk along the school side of Atlantic Ave., in front of the new regional high school.

Alexander Pollet, a Levitt vice president, said no promise was made to do this work.

The Planning Board said there was.

"The fact is you're trying to see how much you can squeeze out of Levitt," Mr. Pollet charged.

Walks Out

Mayor Norman E. Wood replied that he "deeply resented" the accusation, and as he spoke, Mr. Levitt walked out of the room.

He returned a few moments later and the mayor continued:

"You say this is a good for the township. I say it is a good deal for Levitt, and if this were not so, you wouldn't be here tonight."

Harold J. Dolan, Planning Board member and president of the Board of Education, who spearheaded the fight to get the school sidewalk, moved that because of the omission, the entire agreement be thrown out.

The motion died for lack of a second — but the board later took a stand that there would be no agreement without the project.

Changes Mind

At this point, Mr. Pollet, who earlier in the meeting said Levitt would "absolutely refuse" to add any item to the list, then reversed field and agreed to the sidewalk, in addition to the paving of a 1,000-foot portion of Matawan Ave.

Matawan Ave. was substituted for paving of Rose St., which Township Committeeman John Marz, Jr., recently had resurfaced without authorization by the governing body.

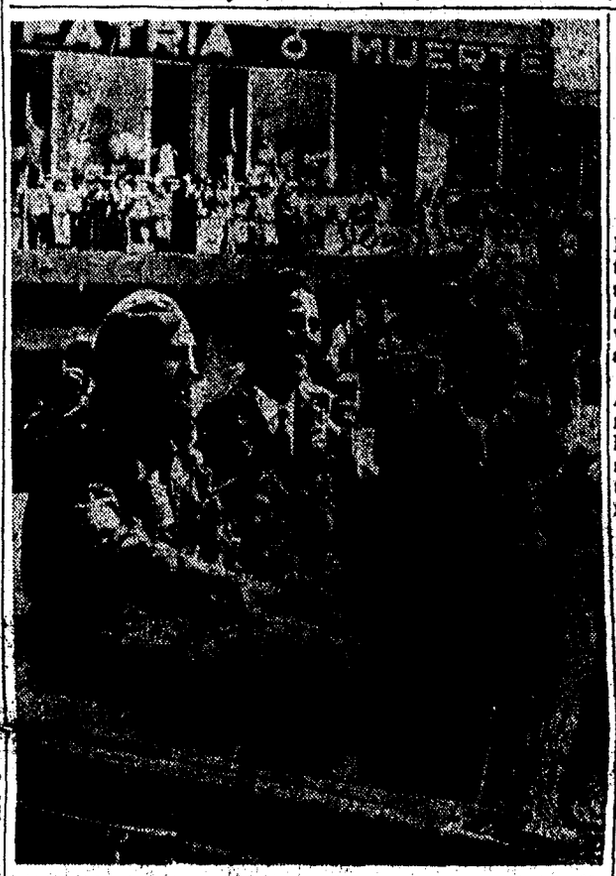

Originally, Rose St. had been on the Levitt work list.

Additional Items

Additional items on the list, as per the agreement made last night, are:

Paving and curbing of Lloyd Rd., Church St. from South Atlantic Ave. to Line Rd., and Prospect Ave. from Rt. 35 to Matawan Ave., all to 36-foot widths; paving of South Atlantic Ave.

County Imposes Condition To Sea Wall Repair Work

FREEHOLD — The county Board of Freeholders agreed yesterday to contribute $250,000 as a share in rebuilding the northern section of the North Beach seawall in Sea Bright, but imposed a significant condition:

That the state take over Ocean Ave., in Sea Bright and Monmouth Beach, as part of the state highway system; and that the state assume full maintenance of the Ocean Ave. seawall for the future.

Freeholders disclosed they had made the offer to the state Department of Conservation and Economic Development after learning Commissioner H. Mat Adams was applying to the federal government for grants under the Accelerated Public Works Program for coast protection at Sea Bright and Ocean City.

Under Mr. Adams' plans, the federal government would put up about $500,000, the state $250,000 and the county $250,000, to rebuild the wall between the Ship Ahoy Beach Club and Sandy Hook State Park.

Freeholder Director Joseph C. Irwin said the alternative is "patch work" on some sections of the "dilpaidataed" 17-year-old barrier at an estimated cost of $200,000 to be split half and half between the state and county.

County Road

The county is required to share in the costs because the wall protects Ocean Ave. which is now a county road.

Mr. Irwin said the county is willing to put up a larger amount at this time to undertake a more thorough job if, at the same time, it can get assurances that future responsibility for the road and wall will pass to the state.

"Since the state has a state park, for which this is a main access road," Mr. Irwin said, "we feel that the state should take over the road. It could then build whatever jetties were necessary as it saw fit to protect the wall and the road."

Mr. Irwin said the Sandy Hook State Park at the north end of Ocean Ave., is used by many more people than residents of the immediate Monmouth County area.

Since 1959, Mr. Irwin said, the county and state have spent about $400,000 in piecemeal repairs to the sea wall, on a 50-50 matching basis. "This can go on and on," he said, "but unless a major rebuilding job is done now it will be of little value."

Sea Bright's mayor Thomas Farrel welcomed reports of the new plans.

Sandlass Settlement Is Sought by State

SANDY HOOK — Attempts are being made for an out-of-court settlement on state acquisition of Sandlass Beach Club property at the entrance to Sandy Hook State Park, according to Deputy Attorney General Henry J. Sevrin.

However, Mrs. Mary Sandlass, mother of Henry J. Sandlass, owner of the property, said yesterday that "as of this time," no settlement has been reached.

Last week, Superior Court Judge J. Edward Knight appointed a three-man condemnation commission to conduct a hearing on acquisition of the eight-acre beach front property, which runs from the Highlands bridge to the south gate of the state park.

Report Due Nov. 9

Mr. Sevrin said the commission has been instructed to file a report on its findings in Superior Court by Nov. 9.

Appointed to the commission were J. Victor Carton and Thomas D. Nary, both Asbury Park attorneys, and Raymond G. Van Horn, Fair Haven realtor.

Negotiations for the land have been under way since April.

State officials have indicated that it will be used for access roads to the new state park. Proposed plans call channelizing Rt. 36 at the Sea Bright end of the Highlands bridge and the ultimate construction of an interchange-type of entrance to the park.

Separate Appraisals

In July, Mr. Sandlass refused to turn over the property to the state for the amount offered. The amount has not been disclosed. At that time, separate appraisals were made by representatives of Mr. Sandlass and the state.

There was a difference of opinion on the true value of the land.

Although state officials declined to disclose the amount of the difference, they did comment that it was "not substantial."

The state instituted legal action against Mr. Sandlass last month, stating that the property is needed for public use.

Mr. Dalzell was transferred from Radio Corp. of America plant there to RCA in Woodbridge where he will be tube division superintendent.

Keuper Will Study Charges by Bowen

FREEHOLD—Monmouth County Prosecutor Vincent P. Keuper conferred yesterday for two hours with Long Branch City Manager Richard J. Bowen and said afterwards he will study Mr. Bowen's charges that four city councilmen who last week tried to fire him, have been interfering with his administration.

The charges, including those that the councilmen tried to influence him in job appointments and promotions, and attempted to countermand one of his orders while he was out of town, were originally aired at a press conference last week.

"I am making no charges of criminal violations," Mr. Bowen said. "The prosecutor indicated an interest in the matter and I have supplied all of the information I have."

Full Investigation

Mr. Keuper said he will make a full investigation in determining what action, if any, is to be taken.

"Certain sections of the Faulkner Act, (under which the council-manager government in Long Branch functions) need clarification," Mr. Keuper said.

He said he had particular reference to the part which says a councilman convicted of interfering with administrative matters will forfeit his office.

The law says this will apply "when convicted by a court of competent jurisdiction."

Mr. Keuper said there are questions as to what constitutes such a court, and as to where a complaint for an alleged violation originates.

Four Councilmen

City Manager Bowen said there has been no instance, since enactment of the Faulkner Act in 1950, of a councilman being removed from office because of a violation.

The four councilmen named by Mr. Bowen are Deputy Mayor Samuel Marks, Vincent Ronca, Walton Fisher, and Carlton H. Van Brunt.

Mr. Van Brunt resigned Tuesday night, subject to acceptance by council, because of ill health.

Motorist Hurt

KEYPORT — James R. Mizell, 303 Stone Rd., Union Beach, was reported in good condition this morning in Riverview Hospital, with back injuries suffered yesterday morning in an auto accident at the foot of Second St.

Police said the driver of the other car, Roy S. Parker, 556 Clark Ave., Union Beach, claimed he blacked out just before the accident. He was issued a summons for careless driving.

Hold Action On Beach Plan Funds

FREEHOLD — A delay in adopting a $64,500 bond authorization to provide funds for beach erosion projects in five seashore municipalities was forced in the Monmouth County Board of Freeholders yesterday by the absence of two members because of illness.

Bond ordinances require an affirmative vote of four of the five freeholders. However, no action could be taken because both Freeholders Earl Woolley, who has been ill several months, and Walton Sherman, who has been ill intermittently, could not be present.

Other freeholders said Mr. Sherman is expected to be present Nov. 7 when the measure, supplying funds to assist in projects in Ocean Grove, Deal, Spring Lake, Avon, and Belmar, will be brought up for action.

A public hearing scheduled for yesterday was called but no one appeared to speak.

The freeholders approved a pending ordinance in Atlantic Highlands limiting parking on First Ave. in the vicinity of the post office. County approval for the local law, which will be taken up on final reading next Tuesday, was required because First Ave. is a county highway.

Pull Horses From Mire

NEW SHREWSBURY — Two horses were pulled from the mud here yesterday with the assistance of an automobile wrecker.

Police Chief James Herring said the horses, owned by Davey's Riding Academy, Atlantic Highlands, had become mired in a brook adjacent to the Monmouth Regional High School property.

They were discovered yesterday by a school maintenance man.

Dr. A. R. Gilman, Lincroft veterinarian, supervised the rescue operation. Chief Herring said the horses, which had been pastured on the property, seemed fit after their experience.

Plan Conferences On Police Report

MIDDLETOWN — Thomas S. Field, chairman of the police committee, said yesterday that a number of conferences will be called soon to start implementing the recommendations contained in the recently received police department survey.

The document was prepared by the field service division of the International Association of the Chiefs of Police.

Mr. Field indicated that he feels the recommendations made in the report were reasonable and that some of them are obviously needed.

He said conferences will be held by the Township Committee with representatives of the police organization that prepared the report and with police department personnel so that "prompt action can be taken."

Mr. Field said many of the recommendations had been put into effect before the report was received.

He cited the employment of four new men this summer for the department, and said the over-all recommendations on new men in the report "seemed reasonable."

He also cited the establishment of a traffic bureau, which also is suggested in the report.

Mr. Field said these actions came long before the Township Committee had received the report.

The committeeman noted that the survey was started in April and was not received until last week, even though it had been promised first by June, and then by September.

Mr. Field said the Township Committee recognized in December, 1961, that there was a need for an unbiased survey of the police department, and that the township contracted with the police chiefs' unit to get a "comprehensive report on all facets of the department."

New Plant To Be Built In Township

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP — A. Campo Construction Co., Rt. 35, Middletown, will build a $200,000 asphalt manufacturing plant here, it was announced last night by Jack Armitage, chairman of the Industrial Commission.

The structure will be located on an 8.5-acre tract, in an industrial zone, southeast of township hall near the Garden State Parkway.

Mr. Armitage reported that the plant will produce 1,000 tons of asphalt daily, and that about 1,000 trucks per day will cart the material.

He said the firm has agreed to pave and maintain the access road.

The sewer facility will consist of septic tanks.

The local Planning Board, Mr. Armitage said, will ask the county Planning Board to make a study of traffic problems which might be caused on Lower Main St., as a result of the plant location.

Rutter Suffers Heart Attack

MORRISTOWN (AP) — Col. Joseph D. Rutter, retired superintendent of State Police, was in "fairly good" condition today in Morristown Memorial hospital after suffering a mild heart attack Thursday in his home in Sparta.

Rutter had remained at home under the care of a physician until Saturday when he was admitted to the hospital. He had retired from the State Police force Sept. 30 and had been serving as president of Industrial Security Service Inc., a private detective agency, since last Monday.

Moreau Says Airport Plan a 'Shocker'

Mayor Joseph L. Moreau, Jr.

ATLANTIC TOWNSHIP — Mayor Joseph L. Moreau, Jr., said last night he was "shocked" to read about the projected buildup of Colts Neck Airport when "we officials have been told nothing about it."

He referred to a story in yesterday's Register outlining the program to improve the field and said he would invite Gordon "Duff" Donald, Jr., 40-A Eatoncrest Dr., Eatontown, president of Shore Air Services, "to discuss the matter with us at the next meeting of the Township Committee next Thursday."

"People have been calling me all afternoon and evening," the mayor said.

Mayor Moreau issued this statement:

"The airport, as it exists today, is a non-conforming use under our existing zoning ordinances. It cannot be expanded and there is nothing under our existing ordinances that would permit a motel, restaurant or swimming pool in the airport area.

"I sincerely hope that Mr. Donald will come before the proper authorities and present his proposal before he gets too deeply involved in the program. Until I read about it in Wednesday's Register, I had heard nothing about this proposal, and I am sure that none of the other members of the governing body or Planning Board had heard anything either.

"While I most sincerely welcome steps toward municipal progress, such steps must be taken in an orderly fashion and according to local regulations.

"I sincerely invite Mr. Donald to come before us so we can fully know what he has in mind before this whole community is thrown into a tizzy. Unless he does consult with the authorities, he might find himself in violation. I want to see that this program is steered into the proper channels."

Mr. Donald, his wife Joan, secretary, and a number of temporarily unidentified associates are renting the airport from Dr. Armand Hammer, former owner of the Shadow Isle Farms.

They have said they expect to see the early start of construction of new hangers and a fly-in, drive-in motel, restaurant, swimming pool and other facilities on the property which is off the Freehold Rd., west of Colts Neck Inn.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Atlantic Ocean waves roughened off the Carolinas today under gales flung ahead by hurricane Ella, moving north-northwest from the latitude of north Florida.

Ella, fifth tropical storm of the season, was headed approximately in the direction of the Carolina capes 330 miles to the north at 2 a.m. (EST) when the U.S. Weather Bureau assessed her peak winds at 90 miles an hour on the edge of a wide "eye" 100 miles in diameter.

Forecasters at Miami said the hurricane would spin north-northwest at 10 m.p.h. and possibly turn a little closer to true north by noon. Beyond that they could not say whether Ella would hold her course or veer off in the fickle manner of hurricanes.

Gales extended 350 miles northward from the storm center and 175 miles to the south.

Ships 90 miles off the Carolina coasts reported gales and seas to 11 feet last night. Ella's fringe winds tousled Daytona Beach, Fla., with 40-mile gusts as the hurricane churned along about 325 miles from the Florida east coast.

Ella's north-northwest course began Tuesday afternoon. Before that, the storm zigzagged between north and west as it gathered strength, in a gradual rise toward the hurricane status it reached yesterday.

Gales were predicted from Georgetown, S. C., northward today and all interests from Georgetown to the Carolina capes were urged to keep in touch with Weather Bureau warnings on Ella.

The storm's side winds made it prudent for small craft to stay in port from the Carolina capes south to Jacksonville, Fla. Small craft as far south as Palm Beach, Fla., were advised not to venture far from port because of rough seas.

Vessels in Ella's path were advised to use caution.

If Ella reaches the U.S. mainland, she will be the first tropical storm this year to do so. Predecessors broke up or turned seaward before hitting land.

Light rain fell in scattered sections of the nation during the night but clear weather prevailed in most areas. Temperatures generally were close to seasonal levels.

Early morning readings ranged from 79 in Corpus Christi, Tex., to 30 in Laramie, Wyo. Some other temperatures and conditions: New York 52, clear; Chicago 55, partly cloudy; Boston 51, clear; Washington 55, clear; Atlanta 61, clear; Miami 71, clear; Louisville 46, clear; Detroit 49, partly cloudy; St. Louis 54, cloudy; Minneapolis 50, clear; Kansas City 57, cloudy; Denver 39, clear; Dallas 66, clear; Phoenix 67, clear; Seattle 44, fog; San Francisco 59, clear; Los Angeles 62, partly cloudy; Anchorage 38, cloudy, and Honolulu 75, partly cloudy.

Castro, Ben Bella: U.S. Base Must Go

HAVANA (AP) — Announcing "essential identity of viewpoints" in world affairs, Premier Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria and Prime Minister Fidel Castro agreed Wednesday night that the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo must go.

A joint communique emphasized, however, that the big naval installation in eastern Cuba will be "claimed in its opportunity through international law"—not by force.

Despite the specific mention of Guantanamo, the communique was free of the usual Cuban diatribes against "Yankee imperialism" with which Castro greeted Ben Bella on his arrival Tuesday.

The communique was issued at the end of a 28-hour visit by the premier of the new North African nation, who came here direct from a White House lawn reception and talks with President Kennedy.

The communique said Castro and Ben Bella "considered the unpostponable necessity of evacuating (foreign) troops and dismantling foreign military bases in other countries, including Guantanamo naval base."

This also was a reference to French military forces and bases still in Algeria.

The communique said the two leaders, talking in "a completely fraternal atmosphere," also agreed that the only way to maintain peace was through application of the "peaceful coexistence principle."

Ben Bella and Castro discussed the strengthening of ties between their two nations and decided to establish diplomatic relations at the embassy level. Castro also accepted an invitation to visit Algeria, but no date was announced.

Amplifying his previously voiced support for Castro's revolution, Ben Bella said he "fully appreciated the great efforts made and optimum fruits harvested in the construction of a socialist society" in Cuba. He has announced he plans an Arab socialist state in Algeria.

Ben Bella flew to New York en route home wearing Castro's olive-green beret, a last-minute gift of the Cuban prime minister.

Ben Bella is expected to remain in New York until Friday, when he leaves for home by way of Paris.

Bogus $20 Bills Being Circulated

RED BANK — A number of bogus $20 bills are known to be circulating in this area.

Joseph Fetner, cashier of the Monmouth County National Bank, said the bank yesterday received some of the counterfeit bills.

Alfred C. Gopel, cashier of the First Merchants National Bank, said his bank had come into possession of phony bills. He said the bills were considered a "good likeness" which only the more experienced teller would recognize as being false.

The U.S. Secret Service is investigating.

No Attempt To Fix Ticket, Keuper Says

FREEHOLD — A charge by four Long Branch city councilmen last week that the city manager had attempted last summer to "fix" a local traffic ticket apparently has no merit, Monmouth County Prosecutor Vincent P. Keuper said yesterday.

Mr. Keuper made the statement after conferring with the manager, Richard J. Bowen.

The council members charged, in support of their unsuccessful effort to fire Mr. Bowen, that he tried to void a ticket issued to a city lifeguard. Mr. Bowen later said all he had done was inquire in police headquarters about the ticket and advise the life guard to appear in court.

"On a basis of information I have," Mr. Keuper said, "I am satisfied there was no attempt to fix a ticket."

The lifeguard was charged with operating a car in the wrong direction on a posted oneway street. Mr. Bowen discovered there was no ordinance affecting the regulation and so advised the guard. The latter, however, pleaded guilty in court and received a suspended sentence.

New Beach Protection Plan Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., asked army engineers today to recommend construction of permanent beach protection works along New Jersey's Atlantic Coastline under the new accelerated public works program.

In a letter to Lt. Gen. W. K. Wilson, Jr., chief of Army Engineers, Case noted Congress three years ago authorized a $29-million Atlantic Beach Protection Program for New Jersey, but few projects have been started because the state and localities cannot raise their share of the money.

If the projects recommended by the engineers had been built, Case said, the devastating effects of last March's storm along the New Jersey coast "would have been greatly minimized."

The accelerated public works program is for use in areas of substantial unemployment. Case said the coastline from Sandy Hook to Cape May canal fills this requirement.

Under the program, the engineers and other federal agencies and departments would recommend projects to be built to the area redevelopment administration. ARA would in turn select the projects and provide money for their construction.

Congress appropriated $400 million for the program during the year which ends next June 30.

Sell House, Keep Apartments To Relieve Dollar Squeeze

Q) "We are an elderly couple of 75 with an income of $300 a month but no savings. We own two houses. One, a single house, is free and clear. The other, an apartment building, is valued at $35,000 and has an $8,000 mortgage. After paying amortization on the latter, we don't have much left. In our place, would you sell one of these houses?" A. D.

SPEAR

A) If I reach your age, I hope I will be able to write as good a letter as yours and have my wife with me, as you have.

In your place, I would sell the single house, pay off my mortgage and put the balance in a savings account which you most certainly should have. If your apartment house is well located, it will not only provide a home for you and a moderate income, but also it will increase in value over the years ahead. And I hope these will be many and pleasant for you.

Q) "Please tell me about California Electric Power and Pillsbury. I have 100 shares of each." C. E.

A) It is a pleasure to tell you about two stocks that I like very much. If these are your only holdings, you're fortunate in your good judgment.

California Electric Power operates in an area that is growing rapidly in population and industry. Its territory includes southeastern California and southwestern Nevada. Earnings growth has been held back by increased fixed charges for expansion, but dividends have been raised moderately in each year since 1955. The stock yields a well-protected 4 per cent.

Pillsbury is, of course, a household word. It's a flour miller but gets the bulk of its profits from prepared flour mixes. Because of varying wheat costs, earnings in recent years have been steady but have shown little growth. If the latter is your major goal, I would switch to Corn Products or General Foods, where the yield is lower but the growth is stronger.

Trading Up, But Prices Hit Decline

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market had a fairly sharp decline yesterday as trading picked up enough to make it the biggest day in nearly three weeks.

Recent trading, however, has been so sluggish that the total of 3.24 million shares was still well below the daily trading average of 3.7 million for the first nine months of 1962.

The Dow Jones industrial average closed with a loss of 1.67 at 587.63.

Of 1,274 issues traded, 767 declined and 244 advanced. There were 80 new lows for the year and three new highs.

Eleven of the 15 most active stocks declined, three advanced, and Texas Instruments was unchanged.

For the second straight day, Tennessee Gas Transmission, which cut its dividend Monday, was the most active stock. It dropped ⅛ at 16¼ on 69,800 shares. Second was Korvette, off 1¾ at 26¾ on 68,400 shares. Third was Polaroid, off ⅝ on 59,100 shares.

Next came U.S. Steel, off ½ at 39½, and Chrysler, off ⅛ at 58⅛.

Boy, 2, Drowns Feeding Ducks

METEDECONK (AP)—David Allen Lee, 2, drowned yesterday in a lagoon while feeding ducks.

David and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lee, were visiting Mrs. Lee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ehn of 621 Carroll Fox Rd., while Lee awaited an Army transfer, police said.

The child's body was found in two feet of water by Ehn and Lee. They said he had been feeding bread to ducks on the beach of the lagoon that is part of Beaver Dam Creek.

Conference

the Soviets on West Berlin's future, but they are strongly in favor of continued exploratory discussions aimed at some understanding which would reduce the tensions.

West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder reflected this view when he left the White House Wednesday after a 90-minute meeting with the President. He declined to predict the results of a Kennedy-Khrushchev conference but said: "Talks on such problems are better than fight."

New Challenge

Schroeder wound up his Washington discussions on Allied strategy for meeting any new Berlin challenge by the Soviets with a statement that the President and he "find ourselves in agreement on the assessment of the Berlin situation and on the method to be applied to meet the situation."

Schroeder is returning to Bonn today to report to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and to begin preparations for Adenauer's trip here to discuss Berlin issues personally with Kennedy on Nov. 7, the day after U.S. congressional elections.

Bias Charged At McGuire Base

MCGUIRE AIR FORCE BASE (AP) — An official of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has described this base as "a despicable haven for racially bigoted officers and enlisted men."

In Philadelphia yesterday, Philip Savage, tristate area secretary of the NAACP, said he so described the base in a telegram to Air Force Secretary Eugene Zuckert.

Savage threatened that the NAACP would picket the base today.

The telegram itself read, "until the situation is remedied or unless the NAACP is given firm assurances by you that corrective action has been initiated, and the responsible parties disciplined, the NAACP intends to continue its protests, even by picketing the base itself."

The spokesman for McGuire would only say last night. "The commander, McGuire Air Force Base, has never been queried or contacted by the NAACP on this subject."

Savage told Zuckert that certain officers and enlisted men "openly sympathize with the Ku Klux Klan, crudely scrawled on the base's fixtures the letters KKK, and circulate the Klan's literature on the base."

FIRE IN TV SET

RUMSON—A television set in the home of L. E. Bellezza, 5 Buena Vista Ave., was damaged by fire last night. Patrolman Walter Pomphrey put out the blaze with a hand extinguisher. Rumson and Oceanic companies were called out.

Housing Problem Studied

TRENTON (AP) — Balanced housing patterns and equal employment opportunities for minority groups are pictured as keys to solving civil rights problems in New Jersey.

The New Jersey Advisory Committee of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission is studying the problems and will make recommendations to the commission, possibly before the first of next year.

The committee concluded hearings into civil rights problems Wednesday.

"The problem now is to assimilate all the testimony and narrow it down to one or two subjects," said J. Stanley Husid, chairman of the committee. "On the basis of preliminary conclusions, it appears that one of the major areas of study will be employment opportunities for minority groups. Housing is a related problem. You have to make an adequate salary to live in a decent house," he said.

Husid said that on the basis of testimony in Newark, Camden and Trenton, it appears that balanced housing patterns and equal employment opportunities would help solve problems in other areas.

Witnesses testifying before the committee Wednesday tended to the same conclusions.

"We're wasting our time trying to solve school problems without first solving housing problems," Trenton Mayor Arthur J. Holland said.

New Jersey law forbids segregation in public schools but neighborhood housing patterns have tended to create racial imbalance in the schools.

Other witnesses testified that housing problems are related to economic problems.

May Get Federal Aid

TRENTON — Fitkin and Point Pleasant Hospitals are two institutions for which the state yesterday asked federal assistance in improvement projects.

A state official said here yesterday the projects have passed the drawing board stage, and are ready to go, if approved.

The state is seeking a share of $900 million the federal government has put up to assist with public works programs in the nation.

H. Mat Adams, the conservation commissioner, said the state is eligible for up to $40 million of some $400 million dollars that Congress has approved. Allocations, he said, will be on a "first-come, first served" basis.

Jug Milk Dealers Get Court Setback

TRENTON (AP)—A group of jug milk dealers plan to carry their fight for lower retail milk prices back to the state Office of Milk Industry.

The State Supreme Court, in a 7-0 decision Wednesday, rejected a motion by the milk dealers that would have ended minimum retail milk price controls in New Jersey.

The court gave no reason for its rejection of the motion, however it said the jug dealers had the right to renew their motion in a petition before the OMI.

Peter H. Sandfort, president of Garden State Farms Inc., of Midland Park, expressed satisfaction with the court's endorsement of his right to petition the OMI. Garden State and Lampert Dairy Farms of Linden brought the suit to the high court.

Garden State is preparing a petition "so as to protect all New Jersey consumers and our own position," he said, adding "the OMI will have no alternatives but to vacate the orders governing retail price fixing of milk."

The jug milk dealers contend that the OMI minimum of $1.02 for gallon bottles of milk is too high and drives customers away. They argue that they can sell milk at 87 cents a gallon and still make a profit.

The jug milk dealers have been involved in a two-year court fight against an OMI order that would peg the retail price of milk to the farm price, which fluctuates monthly under a federal marketing order.

Ferry Service Ceremony Held

CAPE MAY (AP) — Supporters of a ferry service between here and Lewes, Del., have dramatized the proposition at a "hands across the bay" ceremony.

About 6,000 persons gathered here yesterday and heard Gov. Elbert Carvel of Delaware say that such a service could be profitable from the start.

Both Carvel and N. J. State Senate Majority Leader Charles W. Sandman, Jr., R-Cape May, said top priority should be given the project. But both said they also supported two proposed bridge crossings of the Delaware River.

Conspicuously absent was N. J. Gov. Richard J. Hughes. He refused to attend because he said his presence might indicate he definitely favored the ferry crossing over the proposed bridge projects.

Pope Pleased With Council

By GERALD MILLER

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council went into its second week today. The record so far was one of satisfaction, struggle and a note of sorrow.

The satisfaction came from Pope John XXIII. The 80-year-old pontiff, who has made the world-wide meeting the keystone of his reign, told a general audience yesterday he was pleased with the way it was going.

The struggle is among the 2,700 council fathers—cardinals, archbishops, bishops and patriarchs—assembled here from all over the world.

It is an undercurrent contest for ascendancy at this greatest religious gathering in modern times. On one side are leaders of the cautious traditionalist view who want to preserve the status quo. On the other are "progressives" who favor many changes in the nature of the church.

The note of sorrow came when Bishop Joseph B. Burke, 76, bishop of Buffalo, N. Y. died of a heart attack Tuesday.

Here is what happened during the first week.

Thursday, Oct. 11—Pope John inaugurated the council in a ceremony of splendor and prayer in St. Peter's Basilica. Outside 150,000 spectators massed for the spectacle.

Friday—In the first papal audience ever held in the Sistine Chapel, Pope John told foreign envoys the world must have peace or perish. Standing before Michelangelo's fresco "The Last Judgment," he warned the world's leaders that they must make peace or face an awful reckoning before God.

Two observers from the Russian Orthodox Church arrived, marking that church's first official dealings with Roman Catholicism in nine centuries;

Saturday: The pope received journalists and met with representatives of other churches. He told the newsmen the church has nothing to hide. He promised the churchmen to do his utmost for christian unity.

The first general working session of the council was held and lasted less than an hour. The Vatican had presented lists of nominees for the council's 10 working commissions. Leaders of the progressive movement asked for a delay to consider other candidates. It was the first major sign of the struggle for ascendancy.

Sunday: Prelates met throughout Rome privately to line up support for commission candidates.

Monday: The president of the World Methodist Council, Bishop Fred Pierce Corson of Philadelphia, Pa., met with the pope for 50 minutes and reported the pontiff was deeply committed to advancing Christian unity.

Augustin Cardinal Bea, head of the Vatican's secretariat for Christian unity, told a group of non-Catholic churchmen that bonds among all Christians were stronger than differences.

Tuesday: The council held its second working session, and each prelate submitted his ballot of 16 names for each of the 10 commissions. Electronic computers began processing the ballots, with the results expected Saturday. A second ballot may be necessary, depending on whether the Pope rules a majority or just a plurality is necessary for election.

Bishop Burke died of a heart attack at a Rome hospital.

Wednesday: Pope John told a general audience, "We are on our way."

"Don't be concerned that things are going slowly," the pope said.

"He who moves slowly proceeds safely and goes far."

Berlin Showdown Delayed

new proposals concerning the German question. That hardly indicates that East German boss Walter Ulbricht expects decisive action before that time.

REASONS CITED

Why the Kremlin has shifted to a softer tone is not so easy to pin down. The reasons can be manifold. Khrushchev may be worried about internal economic and political problems. He may be worried that the U. S. S. R., now involved by way of Cuba in the Western Hemisphere, may be juggling too many dangerous things at the same time and overextending itself.

There are signs, too, of worry about the continuing bitter quarrel inside the Communist world, more pronounced than ever since Soviet President Brezhnev paid a visit to President Tito, leader of Yugoslavia's maverick Communists.

An extraordinarily violent attack on that visit has been launched by the press of the isolated midget of communism, Albania. It accuses Khrushchev of selling world communism down the river for the sake of tranquility at home, and thus of being a flagrant revisionist. It bemoans his failure to take opportunities for grabbing real estate for communism at a time when conditions are ripe for "socialist revolutions and national liberation movements."

REMIND KHRUSHCHEV

The Albanians angrily remind Khrushchev: "One day he declares the question of Germany must be settled without delay, fixing a time limit. Then he declares without blushing that the question of time limits has no importance."

There is an obvious parallel between what little Albania says and what big Red China constantly hints:

That Khrushchev is bad for communism. The Albanians, like the Red Chinese, want to keep things moving.

But Khrushchev has his own set of pressures at home from a population growing more demanding all the time. Some time ago he said he would do nothing to push the West out of Berlin until after the U. S. elections. But he did not say how long after the elections. He left himself a way out.

New Jersey News Briefs

TRENTON — Assemblyman Joseph Minotty, R-Gloucester, said yesterday he will introduce legislation permitting municipalities to waive personal property tax assessments on inventories. Minotty said the proposed legislation would exempt merchandise held for sale, stock in trade, and farm livestock and crops. "There has been considerable opposition to the tax by businessmen and farmers in many municipalities. It is considered by them an unfair levy on stock necessary for the profitable conduct of their business," Minotty said. "To continue the assessment on every chicken, pig, cow, horse, all livestock and crops of farmers will have a disastrous effect on the future of agriculture in our state," he added.

NEWARK — Sulfuric Acid fumes burned nine Newark firemen yesterday after an explosion rocked the Troy Chemical Co. at 338 Wilson Ave. The explosion tore a huge hole in the roof of the paint company, following which the acid fumes seeped over the blast area. The injured firemen, including Deputy Chief John Dolak and Capt. John Kozar, were treated for burns in St. James Hospital.

ELIZABETH — The New Jersey Turnpike Authority may have trouble painting white road lines for awhile. Someone entered its maintence yard on Schiller St., during the night and punctured 17 drums containing 935 gallons of paint. The yard was turned into one big blob of white paint as the stuff "flowed freely on the asphalt pavement," according to police.

CHURCH CENTENNIAL — St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Keyport, last night marked its centennial with a dinner in the church hall. Here, Rev. Henry C. Council-Manager Plan Discussed at Meeting

WALL TOWNSHIP — Pros and cons of non-partisan local government with a municipal manager got an airing before the Monmouth Municipal Association last night at Beau Rivage.

State Sen. William E. Ozzard, (R-Somerset) who is attorney for Franklin Township where "Plan D", similar to the current council-manager rule in Long Branch, is in force, was the speaker.

Sen. Ozzard said the experience in Franklin, a place with 20,000 people, has been most satisfactory. He said taxes have been held stable, services have been improved, and the public reaction has been good.

He gave full credit to the municipal manager, William Sommer, who, the senator noted sadly, has recently quit to become manager in Belleville at a $5,000 a year increase in salary. Belleville, the senator said afterwards, is in the midst of a political upheaval and the manager has many problems.

On the favorable side of non-partisan manager government, under the so-called Faulkner Act, Mr. Ozzard said, are the opportunities for full participation by all citizens, referendum for choice of government, and professional administration.

In contrast, he said, there is a "gray area" between responsibilities of council and the manager. Also, he added, the absence of tenure for the manager, even after a long period of service, is objectionable.

The senator said he thought the law would be strengthened if there was a closer definition of powers between council and manager and some security given to a proven-manager.

Though several Monmouth municipalities are now contemplating adoption of Faulkner Act government forms, there were few questions directed from the floor.

The city of Long Branch, was represented by City Manager Richard J. Bowen and City Clerk Sanita Camassa, Though neither had questions, Mr. Bowen conferred with Senator Ozzard afterwards at length on details of the Faulkner Act operations.

Boy's Body Is Found

POINT PLEASANT (AP) —The body of 5-year-old Paul Daniel Hinerman, who was reported missing last Friday, has been found floating in the Manasquan River.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Shirley Hinerman, had last seen him playing in the yard of their home at 1020 Burnt Tavern Rd. Some 300 searchers sought the boy over the weekend.

Authorities found his body yesterday. They attributed death to drowning.

A bloodhound led searchers two blocks from the boy's home to a fence along the inland waterway canal which connects the river with Barnegat Bay.

Police said a 4-year-old playmate told of seeing Danny climb the fence and fall into the canal. The boy at first said nothing because his parents had forbid him to play near the canal.

He later told his mother who did not believe his story, police said. But the mother reported the story to police after she learned of the search.

Moving Day for First of 1,900 Families

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP — This township expects its population to jump by some 8,000 persons during the coming 12 months.

The first seven moved in yesterday.

They are Mr. and Mrs. Hugh P. Dalzell and their five children — new residents of Strathmore-at-Matawan, better known as the Levitt project.

Their address, 462 Lloyd Rd., is one of 1,900 which will mark the $45 million development when it is completed.

The project will more than double the municipality's present population of 7,459.

In addition to the homes the new suburb will have its own shopping center, school, churches and recreational areas.

Owner-residents will receive membership priority in the community's Bath and Tennis Club which will have a swimming pool, separate kiddie pool, and six all-weather tennis courts.

The project is named and patterned after the several Strathmore communities built by Levitt and Sons before World War II on Long Island's North Shore — Strathmore-at-Manhasset, Strathmore-at-Great Neck, Strathmore-in-Westchester, Strathmore Village and the Strathmore-Vanderbilt Country Club.

Strathmore-at-Matawan has been two years in the making. It began with the purchase of land in early 1961. Then came the preliminary work: surveying, mapping, soil testing, determination of water levels, rough grading. Pipe-laying operations for the utility systems preceded the first house construction which began last fall.

Strathmore-at-Matawan homes come in five styles. They range in price from $16,990 to $25,990.

Houses will be occupied at the rate of 30 to 40 per week.

Charter Night For Cub Pack

EATONTOWN — A charter night was featured at the first meeting of the year of Cub Pack 83, held recently in the Methodist Church.

Elmer Cook, representing Monmouth Council of Boy Scouts, presented the charter ribbon, which was tacked to the pack flag.

Mrs. Frances Bruce received a three-year service pin, and Mrs. Toni Meyer, a two-year pin. New cubs, Daniel Ayers and Kurt Peters, were welcomed. Gary Vital received a silver arrow on his wolf badge.

William Vital, cubmaster, introduced Mrs. Joseph Walko as the new "mother" of Den 7. He announced pack plans to attend the Princeton-Colgate football game Saturday and the Princeton-Brown game Nov. 3. Mr. Vital announced his retirement, effective in November. Harry Gillette and William Wood will replace him as leader.

Opening and closing ceremonies were conducted by Bruce Purdie, Billy Vital, Billy Cook and Steven Buckley. The next committee meeting will be held Tuesday and the next pack meeting Oct. 26.

BOYLE

POOR MAN'S PHILOSOPHER

Most Puzzling Woman of All

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—All women are puzzling, but some women are more puzzling than others.

These are called wives.

A man generally feels he knows a girl until he marries her. It is then she begins to grow mysterious, confusing and unpredictable.

Just what is this elusive quality about wives that sometimes enchants, sometimes annoys, and always befuddles their husbands?

To be specific, I asked 32 husbands to give a one-sentence reply to this question: "What is the thing you find hardest to understand about your wife?"

Well, the husbands had been in bondage from periods varying from four months to 39 years, and their answers showed a wide, wide range.

The four-month husband expressed surprise that his bride expects him to agree with her views on everything from the outcome of movies to the personalities of people and the expenses of furnishing an apartment.

Club Dues

Chastened by experience, the 39-year veteran in marital harness wondered only, "Why won't my wife pay my club dues like other wives do?"

Gallantry is by no means dead in husbands. Seven, married from 1½ years to 37, voiced profound gratitude. They were humbly surprised that their wives had married them in the first place and, in the second place, had remained married to them after finding out their faults.

Said the 37-year husband: "I still can't understand why she tries to break her neck trying to please me—so help me!"

23-year husband: "What I don't understand is how my wife has managed to stay so dumb. She still thinks everything in life is cute."

11-year husband: "Why will she believe something I've been telling her for years only when she hears it from someone else?"

Has Said All

21-year husband: "Why does she still talk so much? What is there left for her to say?"

25-year husband: "Why is she so completely sure that she is always completely right?"

35-year husband: "Why is it she never admits she made a mistake?"

14-year husband, "What I don't understand about her is why she don't understand me. I've been around long enough."

One husband had an odd complaint: "Why does she trust me so much when I tell her I'm going to spend a night out with the boys? We've only been married 28 years."

Now you know what it is that husbands find hardest to understand about wives. It all boils down to one thing: Most wives act like women—only more so!

Nike Sage Brush Gets Top Award

HIGHLANDS — The Nike Sage Brush, a joint publication of the 52d Artillery Brigade (Air Defense) and the 646th Radar Squadron has won the Army Air Defense Command's troop information journalistic award for the third consecutive time since the newspaper's inception.

Lt. Gen. William W. Dick, Jr., the commanding general of the Army Air Defense Command, has named the Nike Sage Brush as the outstanding newspaper in the letterpress category in the entire command for the first six months of this calendar year.

The 52d Artillery Brigade, which is responsible for the air defense of the New York, New Jersey and Philadelphia areas, has received the award four times, the first during the time that the brigade was responsible for the publication of the Fort Wadsworth, Staten Island, newspaper, The Harbor Watch.

In citing the Nike Sage Brush, Gen. Dick said, "Its all-around qualities, particularly its thorough support of troop information objectives, make it a publication of outstanding merit. Exceptional competence is displayed in the writing, editing and makeup of the paper. Several of its regular features are superior in quality and readability."

All letterpress newspapers published by units of the Army Air Defense Command, which covers the entire United States and Thule, Greenland, were reviewed at the Army Air Defense Command headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo., to determine the winner.

Celli Lists Pledges As Candidate

LONG BRANCH — Michael G. Celli, a city postal clerk and "The Workingman's Candidate" for City Council, said today the key plank of his platform is an effort for "a lower tax rate."

He made these specific pledges in a campaign statement:

No unnecessary increases in the tax rate; no elaborate or false promises; no heavy spending; better budget for Long Branch public health nurses; full exemption to veterans and senior citizens that was taken away from them; return Long Branch as America's first seashore resort, and "let every voter be heard."

Mr. Celli said he is acquainted with most residents of Long Branch, realizes that the burden of the city is being carried by workingmen and women, and promises to work for "dollar for dollar value" in use of tax monies.

He was critical that a large number of registered voters do not go to the polls for elections and urged a reversal of the trend.

Matter of Responsibility

The four-man Matawan Township contingent of the Regional School Board is still deadlocked in the matter of filling a vacancy on the board which resulted from a resignation in July.

The board make-up is five township members and four from Matawan Borough. The vacancy is a township post.

The reason for the vacancy is that the former board member missed a number of meetings and the board in effect forced him to resign so the post could be filled with a "working member." This is as it should be.

But for nearly three months, because of animosities among township members, the contingent has been unable to make a selection.

There can't be a ninth board member who is "working" if there is no ninth board member.

This is bad enough.

But there is an even stranger aspect to the matter.

The four borough board members have decided, in caucus, that they will keep "hands off" the issue—and let the township contingent make the choice.

This is wrong. Both contingents were elected by the people—and have a duty to the entire school district—not just to one of the municipalities involved.

Two persons, both highly qualified, have been proposed for the post.

If all eight members of the board vote on the matter it is likely the post will be filled immediately.

Otherwise, the vacancy is likely to exist until the election next February. The township factions have admitted this.

Those who plot the destruction of others often fall themselves. — Phaedrus.

The equal right of all men to the use of land is as clear as their equal right to breathe the air—it is a right proclaimed by the fact of their existence. For we cannot suppose that some men have a right to be in this world, and others no right. — Henry George, Progress and Poverty.

Capehart Re-Election Seen Probable in Indiana

By ROBERT ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy's caustic pummeling of Sen. Homer Capehart is drawing angry retorts from him and chortles of glee from Democrats, but is having little perceptible impact on the sizzling campaign.

All indications are that Capehart will win decisively.

The veteran Republican senator is 65, bulgingly overweight, ultra-conservative and is running for a fourth term. On the other hand, his Democratic opponent, Birch Evan Bayh Jr., is 34, slim, handsome, a distinguished war veteran, with eight years' experience in the state legislature, including speaker of the Assembly.

But despite the President's fervent boost for Bayh, Capehart has a decided edge and all signs point to his winning handily Nov. 6.

Two factors are largely at the bottom of this:

First — working unity among the Republicans. Capehart is not exactly a beloved leader to some of them, but as a whole the GOP are not openly brawling as they did in recent elections. In 1958-60 that cost them heavily a senatorship in 1958, and the governship by a narrow margin in 1960, although Nixon swept the state 1,175,120 to 952,358.

Second — no discernible Democrat trend, as was definitely apparent in 1958 when Evansville's Mayor Vance Hartke easily captured a Senate seat. Indiana is normally Republican, and unless they get to fighting among themselves or there is a pronounced Democratic tide, the GOP wins.

That's what's in the cards this year.

Real Comer

Curiously, both parties are zealously endeavoring to use the Cuban issue to their advantage.

Capehart is bellicosely demanding an invasion or blockade. He started out clamoring for the former, to resounding cheers on all sides. But lately he has switched to thundering for a blockade.

Bayh is noisily hanging the "war" label on his older rival; sardonically telling audiences, "Vote for Capehart and get a free ride to Cuba."

This is an exceptional situation for Indiana, long noted for its isolationism and the Republicans' charge that Democrats are the "war party." But while there is much talk about Cuba, it's questionable how much effect it will actually have on the election.

For Bayh, this campaign is far from the last. He may be licked, but not permanently. He is a definite comer in politics.

He is clearly proving that in this contest. Bayh is a tireless campaigner working enthusiastically at it from early morning until late at night every day of the week. He has traveled more than 100,000 miles by auto, train and plane; made uncounted numbers of speeches; and still exuberantly says, "I'd rather shake hands than eat. I love politics."

Another Bayh asset is his attractive and highly capable wife Marvella. She has genuine political savvy, is a good speaker, and as enthusiastic and tireless as her husband. Some veteran politicos rate her Bayh's "secret weapon."

Whatever else this campaign does, it's making the Bayhs well-known in every corner of Indiana, and that could pay off big some other time. There is always another election.

Benson Time-Bomb

Former Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson is bringing out into the open what has long been suspected among politicos — no love is lost between him and former Vice President Nixon.

This interesting disclosure is a major feature of a book being published by Benson titled "Cross Fire: The Eight Years With Eisenhower."

Release date for these revealing memoirs is Nov 2—four days before the election. Originally the publication date was to be Nov. 16. There has been no explanation for the change.

Benson raps other Republicans in addition to Nixon. But a large section at the end of the book is devoted to a detailed account of Benson's troubled relations with Nixon. The one-time controversial agriculture secretary lauds Nixon as able and emphatically states he preferred him to the "immature and inexperienced senator from Massachusetts running on the strongly socialistic platform of the Democratic party."

But Benson makes it clear he did not favor Nixon's nomination, and considered his presidential campaign inept and bungling.

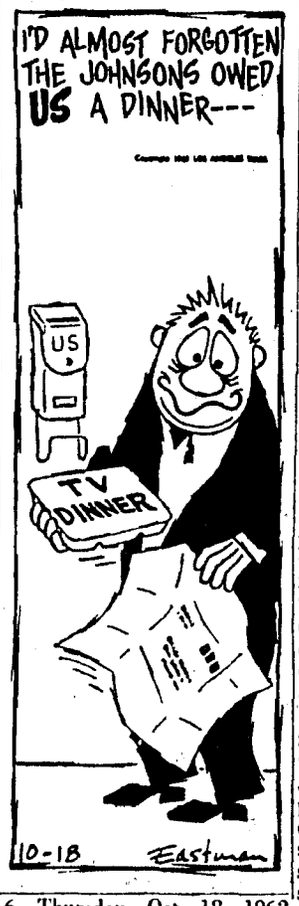

Surprisingly, Benson indicates Gov. Rockefeller was his presidential choice. Also that they conferred repeatedly, and were in agreement on Nixon's electioneering and other shortcomings.

As might be expected, Benson attributes Nixon's failure to support his hotly controversial farm ideas as a major cause of his defeat.

"Nixon blundered in failing to tear into the Kennedy farm program with both fists," writes Benson. "It was, by all odds, the weakest link in Kennedy's armor and the senator from Massachusetts soon learned that fact. He became mighty uncomfortable with the bill of goods his own advisers had sold him. All through October he wanted nothing less than to talk farm policy."

There is no mention in Benson's book of the fact that Nixon carried all the farm states, with the exception of Illinois, and all of the West with the exception of Nevada and New Mexico.

KNOW YOUR GOVERNMENT

Prepared by N. J. Taxpayers Association, 143 E. State St., Trenton 8, N. J.

More than 4,000 employees have been added to the federal government civilian payrolls in New Jersey in the past two fiscal years.

Federal government employment in this state on June 30, last, totaled 56,785 as compared with 52,670 in 1960.

Among the major federal government divisions, the Post Office showed the greatest jump in employment during the two-year period with a total of 18,453 employees in June, 1962, an increase of 1,661. The Department of Defense, largest of the governmental employers, had 27,014 employees in New Jersey last June, an increase of 619 in the two-year period. Veterans Administration employment rose by 83 to 3,873 last June. An additional 1,752 new employees were distributed among other federal agencies which collectively had 7,445 employees in New Jersey last June.

In citing the United States Civil Service Commission employment figures for New Jersey, the New Jersey taxpayers Association pointed out that the federal government employment total for the state is almost double the 29,342 sate employees on the New Jersey state government payroll as of June 30, 1962.

Your Money's Worth:

A Showcase for U.S. Goods

By SYLVIA PORTER

The United States next month will take a significant new step to boost future sales of made-in-U.S. products within the Common Market by tens of millions of dollars a year.

On Nov. 13, the government will open its first permanent trade center—a permanent show-case—for American-manufactured products in Frankfurt, Germany. Until Dec. 7 more than 30 U.S. manufacturers of electrical appliances will display products ranging from electric knife sharpeners to food freezers in a newly constructed 10,000-square foot hall in the heart of Frankfurt's downtown business district.

PORTER

The government is starting an advertising-publicity drive right now to pull in buyers from all over the Common Market to the center. Salesmen and representatives of the U.S. firms will be constantly on hand to explain the virtues of the wares, take orders for immediate delivery. A key purpose of the exhibition will be to obtain for the U.S. companies overseas distributors for their goods. Another prime purpose will be to help smaller U.S. businessmen get into the Common Market. Side by side with such giant exhibitors as Westinghouse and Carrier will be such lesser knowns as Hupp Corp. of Cleveland, Swing-A-Way Manufacturing of St. Louis (makers of a can opener for the home).

As Secretary of Commerce Hodges remarked in announcing the November opening of the miniature merchandise mart today, "This is an outstanding example of government-business co-operation" to expand U.S. exports and a "marketing advance of major importance."

The Frankfurt showcase will be the third we've set up in this era of acute awareness of the need to expand our overseas sales of goods so we can create more U.S. jobs and paychecks as well as bring our international accounts into balance. (All of the products to be shown must be entirely made-in-U.S.; companies with plants within the Common Market cannot exhibit goods made at those plants at the center.)

The first trade center we established was in London in June 1961, to tap the United Kingdom market. The product promotions at London resulted in additional sales in the first year alone of over $3 million. One U.S. company in a housewares display made a sale of $300,000, another made a sale of $250,000. "Most important," said a Commerce Dept. official in an interview, "has been the extent to which hundreds of American manufacturers have located overseas agents to continue pushing the U.S.-made products abroad."

The second was established in Bangkok, Thailand, this past April to tap the Southeast Asia market. The third is this Common Market center and the fourth will follow in 1963 in Tokyo.

Why the decision to start out with electrical appliances? Because a survey made for the government emphasized that the Common Market can absorb millions of dollars more of these products. For instance, there are only 23 radios for every 100 Europeans in the Common Market against 95 for every 100 of us. There are only six refrigerators for every 100 Common Market residents against 28 for every 100 here.

"The Common Market center should easily create more than the $3 million of extra sales the London center developed in the first year," said the Commerce Department official. After the appliance display will come an exhibit of made-in-U.S. auto equipment in January, then an exhibit of made-in-U.S. toys and games in February. So it will go.

Even though we're already selling $4.5 billion a year of goods in the Common Market—more than twice our imports from this area—there are immense opportunities for expansion. Particularly open are such fields as dental and medical equipment, auto maintenance equipment, camping goods, toys and games, do-it-yourself items. Of West Germany's $11 billion of purchases from other countries last year, the U.S. share was only 14 per cent. "We should be able to raise this to 20 per cent in the first year," the official estimates.

Other countries are far ahead of us on this. Just in New York City 20 nations maintain permanent product displays. But we're finally moving aggressively to expand our export trade, and with the trade act now law we'll be bargaining down tariff walls soon too.

This is one clear way to make U.S. jobs, paychecks, profits. And among the biggest gainers may be our smaller businessmen who, without the U.S. Government's assistance, wouldn't get in on this at all.

WILLIAM S. WHITE

WASHINGTON — The chickens have come home to roost. They are roosting all over that good degree of bi-partisan national unity on foreign affairs which had been the one true distinction of the Kennedy Administration and which had helped protect this country in a world of danger.

What has befallen is the inevitable consequence of an unnecessarily partisan-minded Congressional campaign from the White House over comparatively two-bit stakes.

Angered at criticism by President Kennedy of his own foreign policy record, former President Eisenhower has now replied in kind. So the long armistice maintained between them on perils beyond the water's edge is now broken.

However they had disagreed on domestic matters, they thus far had been together in common consent that this country simply could not afford harsh partisan divisions on affairs like Berlin and Cuba. They are together no longer — and the whole world knows it.

Gen Eisenhower, indeed, had been a tower of strength to President Kennedy in all those foreign problems which beset all Americans — Democrats and Republicans. But on Monday in Boston, for the first time in this campaign, he attacked the Kennedy Administration not only for its domestic policies, but for its conduct of foreign affairs as well. He did so, he frankly said, because a short time before, in his home state of Pennsylvania, President Kennedy had thrown barbs at his own previous conduct of those affairs.

This columnist has been one of those long alarmed that a mere campaign to decide who should go to Congress was taking on the tone of an all-out contest between two men not now running for any office, President Kennedy and Gen. Eisenhower. Five days before the Eisenhower speech in Boston, after recalling that on the mortal foreign issues the President and former President had fully co-operated, this correspondent had predicted:

"The kind of campaigning in which they are now engaged could tear apart this reluctant but incomparably important Kennedy-Eisenhower comradeship on this vital security concept."

If the comradeship has not now been torn apart, it is, to say the least, in extreme danger. And for what has this extreme danger been risked? For a bare hope by President Kennedy that he might, just might, bring to Congress a few more Democrats who would favor those domestic welfare programs that were denied by the old Congress.

Put aside the fact that this old Congress was already heavily Democratic — though it is true it did not give him every single welfare plan he wanted. Put aside that it memorably supported him, with Republican participation, in the things that were really important, the issues of national survival. Grant, for argument's sake, that "medical care for the aged" and "urban renewal" and all that are desirable.

But how do these things compare with Berlin, with Cuba? What kind of a sense of national priorities is involved here? Are Medicare and slum clearance more important than keeping this nation together for what may be the gravest national perils of our lifetime.

It is very late now. But elementary national interest demands that President Kennedy seek reconciliation, on the one vital point of national security, with former President Eisenhower.

The rupture simply must now be allowed to endure. For when all this charging about in Congressional campaign is long over, President Kennedy must make fateful foreign policy decisions in the loneliness of the White House. The howling partisans who have cried him on to excessive partisanship for such as Medicare will not help him—or the country—much then. He must have high Republican help. And circumstances make Dwight Eisenhower the only Republican who could really give him help here.

Rule No Slate Listing on Ballot

TRENTON (AP) — Candidates for a charter study commission must be listed separately on the ballot, rather than bracketed in one slate, the state's second highest court ruled Tuesday.

The Appellate Division of Superior Court ordered that nine candidates for Maplewood's Charter Study Commission election Nov. 6 be given separate ballot positions.

Johnny Dios, one of nine candidates filing for the five charter study commission posts, had challenged the placing of five other candidates in one bracketed group. He won in Superior Court and again in the Appellate Court.

Judge Mark A. Sullivan Jr. said the Faulkner Act providing for changes in municipal charters requires that candidates for charter study commissions be listed "without any designation or slogan."

These Days:

Morals Versus Hooliganism

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Judaic-Christian doctrine of sin is the foundation of our Western European system of morality. We sin not only against the offended person but against God. In the secular society in which we find ourselves at this moment, there are no sins. Even the younger clergy eschew the word, sin. They deal with a social conscience, with crimes against society, with the crimes of society against the individual. In the current Marxist system, there are no sins, but there are crimes against the state which may be little more than a difference of opinion—given the grandiloquent term of deviation.

SOKOLSKY

To restore a system of morality, which may turn out to be the most serious task of the Ecumenical Council, it may be necessary to redefine the word, sin. For in the Judaic-Christian tradition, that is, in the Old Testament and the New Testament, in the Prophets and the Apostles, in the writings of the Patristic Philosophers and in such Jewish thinkers as Philo and Maimonides, there is no consideration for what the modern sociologist calls society. There is only thought for the individual who on the Day of Redemption must stand for judgment as to his own conduct. His alone and no one else's. His—as one single individual, one soul pleading for mercy.

This concept of sin produced the morality of the Western world—the resistance, the rejection of evil in thought and deed. We are now told that the Twentieth Century is different from all other centuries; that what has been sin since the day symbolically that Lot's wife was turned into a pillar of salt, is no longer sin; that abnormalities and abominations and disorders of thought and conduct are social disturbances. We have lost sight of individual and personal responsibility.

What Must Be Done

These are among the more serious problems that the Second Vatican Council must deal with and it will take much longer than a demonstrative day to analyze precisely at what point, the human race took a wrong turn and what must be done to right the world.

To ignore these problems is to accept defeat, for the secular forces are marching forward destroying centuries, fifty centuries or even more, of man's struggle from the lust of Cain to the gentleness of Tolstoy, to mention a modern. We need to find new paths to old truths. For truth is eternal and more is to be found in Micah or in the Beatitudes than in the repetitious platitudes of the sociologists and psychiatrists who dare not face the brutally chilling fact of individual responsibility.

Hooliganism is the Soviet equivalent for nuisance, evil, bad manners, misconduct. Opposition to hooliganism is a morality, too. But it is a response to collectivism. The individual is not as guilty of sin as he is of annoying the state, as though the state were a virtue instead of a mechanism.

The Essential Error

Herein perhaps lies the essential error of the Twentieth Century: the assumption that the state is more than it is; that the state is an institution to be adored, despite the obvious historic fact that it is man-made and man-broken; that those who manipulate the state are, of themselves, superior men, although we all saw and knew them as they climbed to power with man-made tools and tricks and stratagems. In the quarrel between Karl Marx and Bakunin, Marx prevailed as Lenin prevailed over those who loved freedom and thus, in this century, in many parts of the world, government has taken on altogether a new personality. Instead of being a mechanism, a technique, it has become a master to be obeyed to the death, right or wrong.

God, we have heretofore believed, is a mystical power, beyond our knowledge and comprehension, which makes for righteousness. God therefore prescribed the Moral Law which teaches Man to restrain his nature, primitively, out of fear, in the higher orders of Man, out of love. Man's strength lies in his virtue, not in his physical power and it is this virtue that has built civilization in its diverse forms.

Wherever civilization appears, the family becomes an institution which is beautiful when man is virtuous and becomes ugly and confused when man degenerates. Thus, barbarism reappears. This is the cycle of virtue.

As the Second Vatican Council develops these problems will move wise men to important statements of truth.

HELPFUL NURSE — Elizabeth Ashley (right), guest starring in the title role, assists a team of surgeons in "The Barbara Bowers Story" on "The Nurses" Thursday, Oct. 18 (9:00-10:00 p.m., EDT) on the CBS Television Network. Miss Ashley plays a student nurse who discovers that her romantic notions of the nursing profession are in sharp contrast with the hard work that it calls for.

Hollywood

Hayley's Philosophy

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) Hayley Mills had her first date at the age of 3½. Laurence Olivier took her to a movie studio.

Hayley's dating slacked off after that. But now she is 16 and like all 16-year-old girls, she has more than a passing interest in boys.

"But I'm not utterly desperate about dates," she says. "I don't mind if I'm boy-less on a Friday night. I'm perfectly happy to go out with my parents. They're fun, too."

In that regard she may differ from other girls of 16, who as a class are inclined to consider their parents square. True, Hayley has unusual parents, British film star John Mills and his authoress wife, Mary Hayley Bell They have done a good job of keeping their daughter fresh and unspoiled despite her international fame.

Hayley's achievement is remarkable. She is unmistakably English, yet she has been adopted by American teen-agers as their favorite young actress. The Disney films "Pollyanna" and especially "Parent Trap" established her in the top rank.

She is now finishing up "Summer Magic," a modernized "Mother Carey's Chickens."

She paused on a work day to talk about dating, as practiced in England and America.

"It's a bit more casual here," she remarked. "In England we don't have the facilities you have here—the beach, drive-in restaurants and so forth. A date generally means going to the theater and then reurning to someone's house for a group party. Dating is done more in groups over there; It's not so much of a pairing off.

"Everything is much more casual here. I like it, although sometimes I think the dress can be a bit too casual. I see girls out in public with curlers in their hair, and I think that looks dreadful."

TV Key Mailbag

By STEVEN H. SCHEUER

Question — I am having a disagreement with my "know-it-all" brother about who played the first young boy on the "Lassie" TV series. I say it was Roddy McDowell and my brother says it was somebody named Timmy. Please settle this family dispute. D. R., Jackson, Miss.

Answer: Roddy McDowell may appear younger than he is but not that young. Roddy was the youngster in the movie "Lassie Come Home" which was released in 1942. The first TV master was played by Tommy Rettig.

Question — Has Betsy Palmer of "I've Got A Secret," made any movies in the past 10 years? I am a regular movie-goer but I don't remember ever having seen her in films, yet she's referred to as a movie star. Mrs. V.M.T., Moscow, Tenn

Answer — Two of Miss Palmer's more recent films can now be seen on TV. They are "The Last Angry Man" with Paul Muni and David Wayne and "Queen Bee" with Joan Crawford and Barry Sullivan. Both films were made in the past 10 years.

Question — I thought I would miss Kathy Nolan on "The Real McCoys" but I still find the show one of the funniest series on TV, even without her. I've read conflciting reports on why she left the show. Could you print the real reason? Mrs. G. B., Evansville, Ind.

Answer — It had something to do with contractual difficulties. Miss Nolan made a great many demands, some of which the producers refused to grant. So the writers made Luke a widower.

Question — I recently saw an old movie called "Illegal" on TV which starred Edward G. Robinson and I spotted Jayne Mansfield in a small role. I didn't realize she dated back that far. F. S., Albany, N. Y.

Answer: You're obviously confused as to the age of the film "Illegal." It was released in 1955. That's only seven years ago.

Question — Who played the two daughters in "Father Was A Fullback" which starred Fred MacMurray and Maureen O'Hara? Also, what happened to these two actresses? C. W., Toledo, Ohio.

Answer — Betty Lynn played the oldest girl and Natalie Wood was the baby of the family. Miss Lynn is an occasional regular on the "Andy Griffith Show" and Miss Wood, as you probably know, is one of Hollywood's biggest stars.

Pay TV Test

Will It Pay Off?

By DANIEL F. CUFF

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — "I think it's wonderful," says Mrs. Robert L. Devaux, wife of a fireman in East Hartford. "We see good movies, and it's a lot cheaper and easier than going out."

"The programming is very disgusting," comments Luis Walker of Farmirgton, an investment firm manager. "A lot of my friends are disappointed. Why don't they get foreign films instead of those mediocre movies?"

They and some 1,000 other residents of the Hartford area are paying to participate in a television experiment. RKO General, Inc., and the Zenith Radio Corp. are spending $10 million to see whether pay television will pay off.

Opposition

The three-year test began June 29 under heavy shelling from its opponents, theater owners and commercial broadcasters.

Last week the U.S. Supreme Court rejected without comment an appeal by theater owners who sought to end the Hartford experiment.

The Federal Communications Commission had authoried the Hartford test, reasoning that the public should decide what use it wants made of the airways.

With a legal green light, the experiment now faces the harshest of critics, the paying public.

RKO General is using its Hartford affiliate, an ultra high frequency station on Channel 18, to conduct the test. There are about 30 hours of pay television weekly.

The viewers so far have been fed a heavy diet of movies, interspersed with some exclusive showings.

The movies are called "subsequent first run" films. In other words, they have played at large downtown theaters perhaps two weeks before Channel 18 gets them.

The exclusives included the Patterson-Liston heavyweight championship fight broadcast live, the Kingston Trio taped live at a summer theater, a foreign-made film of Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream," done with puppets, and the debut of a film of the Bolshoi Ballet.

How do the viewers like the fare?

G. Harry Davis of Avon, a corporation executive: "I like it but I'm disappointed in the programming. They've got to have better programming if they want more customers. I'd like to see Broadway shows, top-grade movies."

No Commercials

Frank B. Demurat of Newington, a barber: "I watch it quite a bit. They've had some good movies, and the great thing is that there are no commercials."

The number of subscribers to pay television has grown from 200 to 1,000 in the first three months. The station has said it would like from 4,000 to 5,000 by the end of the year.

Prices range from 25 cents for a children's educational film to $3.50 in the case of the short-lived heavyweight championship fight. Movies cost about $1. There is a $10 installation fee.

At the end of the three-year Hartford test, RKO and Zenith will have to decide whether it will be profitable to bring pay television to a larger audience, or to write it off as unworkable.

Commutes by Jet For TV, Night Clubs

By HARVEY PACK

Everybody knows that Johnny Carson replaced Jack Paar but who replaced Johnny Carson?

Johnny had been making with the quips for several years, five afternoons a week, on ABC's most successful daytime show "Who Do You Trust." When NBC extended Johnny the mantle of nighttime immortality, ABC found itself in the position of trying to find another man who could handle the emcee chores on "Who Do You Trust" and hold the ratings together.

With a big push from Carson himself they found their man doing a 90 minute one man show nightly in a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., night club. His name is Woody Woodbury and, as fans of his highly successful comedy albums know, his philosophy for the troubles facing us in our daily lives is simply "Booze is the only answer."

Woodbury's comedy albums, and there are five of them, were all recorded during club performances and there is hardly a gag repeated. Much of the material is rather ancient but the delivery is so smooth and ingratiating that if you listen to them wih a bottle in one hand you come away weak from laughter and convinced that the guy is a—hic—riot. Woody is an absolute dictionary of drunk jokes and risque stories which hardly qualifies him as a daytime TV personality catering to the tastes of our old Aunt Sarah.

Keeping It Clean

"We keep it clean . . . and if we miss occasionally it's on tape so we can always edit it," explained Mr. Woodbury over breakfast. "I spent most of last night sitting around with Johnny and discussing how we're both making out in our new jobs. Johnny always had a bit of censor problems when he did "Who Do You Trust' so it's fun talking to him about what's going on. We had a lady on the other day . . . a wonderful sport . . who was so buxom that we couldn't use a floor mike and had to switch to the overhead boom All you got to do with a contestnat like that is look at her funny and it's censorable. I inadvertently let loose a gag that I myself considered in bad taste and was I happy that we were able to cut it."

Talking to people is a big part of Woody's night club act so "Who Do You Trust" comes natural to him. "When I work my night club we turn on all the lights so I can see the people and gab with them. Of course I have a big advantage on the show because I'm told in advance some of the points of interest to hit with the folks. In the club I never know who I'm picking on."

Woody is as much a landmark in Fort Lauderdale as the college kids who traditionally flock there for vacations. Although born in St. Paul, Minn., he became part of the Florida scene during World War II when, as a marine pilot, he was stationed in Daytona, Fla.

"Seven of us Marines and 15,000 WACS held Florida safe during the war," he said. "A night club owner heard me singing at a service party and asked me to stay on as an entertainer. I've been knocking around the state ever since except for one brief interruption." The "interruption" was the Korean War where Woody flew 106 combat missions.

Although he's no longer on active air duty his current schedule calls for plenty of flying time. Woody tapes five editions of "Who Do You Trust" on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday then grabs a limousine at the studio door, goes to the airport and hops a jet to Florida where he still holds sway in his Fort Lauderdale night club on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. He owns the club and the SRO sign every night results in more revenue for the Woodbury family than the network TV program.

"This TV business is still a bit confusing," explained the comedian. "I can't figure out how to please everybody. I got a letter from a lady telling me to stop repeating everything the contestants say because it's driving her nuts. In the same mail is a letter from a man thanking me for repeating everything because he never understands them the first time. I guess after a few months I'll figure out which way to move.

The first Woody Woodbury ratings on the show indicate that he has been able to hold the Carson audience and even add a few from his own following. Between the days he's performing in Florida and working TV in New York he has agreed to star in a movie for Frank Sinatra's film company. He also manages to find time to be with his wife and two kids in their Florida home. It adds up to a 20 day week but ex-Marine pilot Woody Woodbury is obviously jet propelled and . . . he must have the right idea—"Booze is the only answer."

Educational Comparisons Are Made

EATONTOWN — "Comparing the Educational Systems of Great Britain, West Germany and the United States" was the topic of a panel discussion at a meeting of the Memorial School Parent-Teacher Association Monday night.

Hanno Leisinger of West Germany, an exchange teacher at Wall Township High School was guest speaker. Frank Kulak of Memorial School, who taught in England under the exchange program, completed the panel. Dr. William W. Ramsay, superintendent of schools, introduced the speakers and acted as moderator.

Samuel Luce, president, opened the meeting. Mrs. Samuel Alexander announced that the membership totals 144. Mrs. Stega's fifth grade won the attendance award.

After a question and answer discussion, refreshments were served. Mothers of Miss Veronica Moczydlowski's fifth grade class period, which followed the panel provided cupcakes and several members of the eighth grade home economics class helped serve.

The next meeting of the PTA will be held Nov. 15, jointly with the Steelman Home and School Club and the Vetter Parent-Teacher Association. The program will be about the Children's Psychiatric Center in Eatontown, presented by the Steelman Home and School Club. The Vetter PTA will be host for the evening.

SANE Unit Sets Open Meeting

SHREWSBURY — On United Nations Day, next Wednesday at 8 p.m., at the Quaker Meeting House, Rt. 35 and Sycamore Ave., the first opening public meeting of the Monmouth County Committee of the New Jersey Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy (SANE) is to be held.

This local county committee, headed by Allen Strasburger of Red Bank, is one of 17 throughout the state affiliated with National SANE.

Dr. David Frost, formerly assistant professor of biological sciences at Rutgers University, and chairman of New Jersey SANE, is to speak on "Nuclear Testing and Fallout." He received his doctorate at New York University in embryology and genetics and is one of the out-standing authorities in the field.

Dr. Robert Cory, program associate with special responsibility in the disarmament field, at the Quaker Program at the United Nations, is to speak on disarmament and the cold war. He received his doctorate at Harvard and until recently was teaching international relations at Denison University. He has done extensive work with the American Friends Service Committee in the area of work camps, refugee resettlement projects and international student seminars.

After the talks a color film will be shown, "Where Will You Hide?"

SANE stands for three main projects:

1. Permanent cessation of nuclear weapon tests, including a moratorium until a treaty is signed; international agreement to end all forms of nuclear weapons tests and adequate inspections to prevent treaty violations; ratification of treaty by U. S. Senate and inclusion of all nations.

2. Comprehensive and controlled disarmament phased in stages of arms control which are fair to each nation and inspected to deter violations. This includes all nations and all types of weapons down to small arms; disengagement of armed forces in tension areas through inspected and phased withdrawals; prevention of sharing of nuclear weapons with additional nations pending disarmament agreements; and planning for orderly transition to a peacetime economy.

3. Strengthened United Nations through a permanent peace force to discourage aggression and a stronger World Court to arbitrate conflicts and encourage justice. The substantial savings from disarmament should be used in massive United Nations development programs, the group feels.

Toy Set Starts Career

At 17, Youngest Magician Around

By Lee Sager

NAVESINK — Sometimes childhood dreams come true—although when applied to the art of magic, it won't happen once in a million.

At the age of 6, Arnold L. Pedersen received a magic set as a birthday gift.

Today, 11 years and hundreds of tricks later, "The Amazing Arni" holds claim to the title of the youngest registered ghost show performer in the country.

He made his debut a week after receiving the toy set when a neighbor asked him to put on a magic show at a birthday party.

With the 50 cents he earned for that first "performance," Arni ordered a larger magic kit. By the age of 7, he had performed 50 times.

Turning Point

The turning point in Arni's career came about four years ago while he was watching Calanag perform on an Ed Sullivan show.

"Calanag is the only living illusionist who still does the Hindu rope trick and it was then that I realized I might be capable of becoming an illusionist," he says.

There are many types of performers in the field of magic. They might be categorized (according to Arni) as the true magician, the illusionist, the mentalist, ghost show performer and ventriloquist.

HORRORS! — The Amazing Arni, known better to his schoolmates at Henry Hudson Regional High School as Arnold Pedersen, will unveil his "House of Horrors" at two local shows Oct. 27. Part of the act, shown here in rehearsal, includes "reviving" a fictional monster, who breaks his chains and walks into audience. Real name of the "monster (one of Mr. Pedersen's regular assistants) is kept secret to aid the illusion. Arni, 17, is youngest registered ghost performer in country.

To illustrate a difference, Arnold describes a magician as one who will show a cloth, and then, with a whisk of his hand to remove it, make a rabbit appear.

An illusionist, on the other hand, will show a cloth and upon its removal, a beautiful girl will appear.

Takes Nerve

"It takes nerve to be an illusionist," Arni notes, "because the effects appear to be so unbelievable."

An example is the "Asrah" trick:

A girl is hypnotized and placed on a low table. Her body is covered with a cloth. As the illusionist gestures with his hands, the girl under the "spell" will appear to float in midair above the table. The table is then wheeled off the stage, leaving only the enshrouded figure of the girl and the illusionist.

The figure floats over him and out as far as the footlights on the stage. Again, with a whisk of his hand, the illusionist catches the corner of the cloth which falls limp and the girl has vanished.

"I consider this act one of my most challenging, because the entire effect is dependent upon skill as a performer," the 17-year-old said.

Studied in New York

A native of Highlands, Arnold is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Pedersen, Rt. 36. A student at Henry Hudson Regional High School, he has studied at the Louis Tannen Post Graudate School of Magic in New York City.

When not in school or on stage, one of Arnold's favorite hobbies is in his workshop where he spends many an inventive hour designing and building illusions for his act.

"My collection of effects is worth several thousand dollars," he noted. Not only have I saved quite a sum of money by this do-it-yourself technique, but I feel I can improve on the effects by constructing them myself. There is also the added enjoyment of creating."

Arni has performed for numerous Parent-Teacher Association fund-raising events, and at conventions and banquets throughout Monmouth County, and in Pennsylvania and New York.

He is registered with Nelson Enterprises, Columbus, Ohio, largest producers of ghost shows in the world. The agency produced the Great London Ghost Show which has toured this country and throughout Europe.

The young Mr. Pedersen performs his version of his show with a team of 14 to 18 persons. In his next two shows, scheduled for the Carlton Theater, Red Bank, and the Baronet Theater, Long Branch, both Oct. 27 matinees, he will have six supporting players appearing with him on stage, while 12 will be unseen.

To buoy up the illusions, names of the assistants are not made known.

Cold, Damp Hands

A combination of the power of suggestion, plus true contact, Arni claims, will result in 99 per cent of his audience "experiencing such sensations as a damp spirit kiss, a serpent slipping slowly about one's neck, or a pair of cold damp hands holding the viewer down in his seat."

He will also demonstrate another of his many talents by changing into a Mr. Hyde, on stage, in full view of his audience. The show features most of the famous villains best liked, in a fearful sort of way.

"I challenge the viewers to sit through the show," Arni said. "I feel all people have an ego that must be fed and my show gives them the opportunity to demonstrate their bravado to others as well as to themselves."

At present, a rather select fraternity of some 300 persons in this country make their living exclusively through the art of magic.

Arni plans to make it 301.

EXCITING! GO '63 CHEVY II

Nova 4-Door Station Wagon

SPUNKY NEW WAGONS THAT LEAD LONGER, HAPPIER LIVES

What a new kick you'll get out of going places in this one! And what a solvent feeling you'll get as the savings on upkeep mount! There's a full line of models to pick from, including three wagons. Sure, we've kept Chevy II's basic simplicity. Kept its liveliness and roominess and easy loading ways. Kept its crisp looks, too (with a bit of freshening here and there). The changes we've made weren't for change's sake, you see—but for yours. Just for a sample: the brakes are self-adjusting. The new Delcotron generator gives you more electrical reserve power and helps your battery reach a vigorous old age. The Body by Fisher beauty lasts longer, too; air pushes rain and wash water down through the rocker panels (where most rust begins!) in a clever new flush-and-dry system. The ride is smoother and quieter because of a large number of small improvements we've made. And things are a lot plushier inside. Now you've read this far, haven't you? Isn't that pretty good evidence that Chevy II is made for you? The clincher will come when you take the wheel at your Chevrolet dealer's. Drop in sometime soon and see if we haven't called the shot.

Nigerian Student To Tour Local Political Scene

MIDDLETOWN — Monmouth County politics will get an international inspection tomorrow at the hands of a university student from Nigeria, who will accompany Victor Gerdes, Democratic candidate for freeholder, on his rounds.

The student, Ezuma Chukwumeziri, is in this country on a student visa for the purpose of completing his education in banking and finance in New York University, where Dr. Gerdes is a professor.

Mr. Chukwumeziri plans to make his career in politics on his return to Nigeria after securing his degree, and has expressed interest in seeing "everything there is to see about how American politics is conducted on the local level—from shaking hands with voters in supermarkets to attending mass meetings and debating the crucial issues of high policy."

Dr. Gerdes, who has already covered the county in his campaign and has spoken personally to at least 25,000 voters, is expected to keep Mr. Chukwumeziri busy during his visit.

Sees Early Start On Barracks

ATLANTIC TOWNSHIP —Mayor Joseph L. Moreau, Jr., said last night that he expects work to start on the new state police barracks in the Core Site area "within the next several days."

"The state police are anxious to get into the building and we hope they will be able to move in within five months—perhaps late this winter," he said.

The police are to be transferred from their barracks at Shrewsbury into the new building when it is completed.

Ed Doucette, Long Branch, holds the general contract on the $63,521 project to build the new barracks.

Mayor Moreau said Bernard Kellenyi, Red Bank architect, is working on plans for the Atlantic Township municipal building which will be another main feature of the Core Site plan.

"We hope to put out invitations for bids next month and to receive an acceptable bid in December so that work there may be started," he said.

Plans to put up a post office on the property "have been set aside temporarily," he said.

Core Site is a 31-acre section of municipally-owned land on Cedar Dr., near Hyers Mill Rd., about three-quarters of a mile from the present township hall on Freehold Rd. near Rt. 34.

Highlighting the service are processions throughout the synagogue in which all the children participate. Flags and refreshments will be distributed to the children.

Simchas Torah services will begin at 8:30 a.m. Sunday and Hakofas will highlight that service as well.

Following the Saturday night Hakofas service, there will be an Israel song and dance program for members of the congregation's chapter of the National Conference of Synagogue Youth. A kiddush will follow the Sunday morning service.

Enoch L. Nappen, also of Monmouth College's social science department, will be in charge of the discussion at Friday's 11 a.m and 1 p.m. programs.

Bhek Pati Sinha, professor at Drew University, will speak on "Peace Making Efforts of the UN" Friday evening.

Mrs. Lloyd Peskoe, New Shrewsbury, is in charge of a Children's Art Festival, to be held in connection with the UN event. Several schools will display art work by pupils on international themes.

It's Time For Sales Of Firewood

FREEHOLD — It's time for those planning to sell fireplace wood this fall to get it on display, according to Austin N. Lentz, Rutgers extension specialist in forestry.

Each year more homeowners are building and using fireplaces for pleasure. Wood is often hard to find. According to Lentz, this is not because wood is scarce, but because it is not made available where people can buy it.

Roadside markets, garden supply stores, supermarkets and even gas stations would often deal in firewood if they could locate a reliable source of seasoned wood, he says.

Cull trees from the farm woodlot are excellent for firewood. Mr. Lentz advises. Woodlot owners benefit two ways by cutting the trees, first by getting rid of the cull tress at a profit, and second by generally improving the woodland for the growing of sawtimber and piling.

"Marketing Fireplace Wood from the Farm Forest," Leaflet 162, can be obtained from the Monmouth County Extension Service, 20 Court St. This leaflet has suggestions for cutting and marketing fuel wood.

Appeals Heard

FREEHOLD — The Monmouth County Board of Taxation heard appeals from property owners in Freehold recently in the Hall of Records here.

Decision was reserved on the following appeals:

Sol Lopatin, 33-35 West Main St., building, $31,700 to $10,000.

Stability Savings and Loan Association, 5 South St., building, $25,500 to $14,000, and personal, $3,000 to $500.

Active Coat Co., 62 Bowne Ave., land, $5,000 to $2,500, building, $41,500 to $15,000, and personal, $15,000 to $1,000.

Governors Talk Turkey

TRENTON (AP) — The governor of New Jersey is talking some tall turkey with the governor of Colorado. Each boasts some pretty big birds.

Gov. Richard J. Hughes wrote yesterday to Colorado Gov. Steve McNichols that after weighing the matter carefully, New Jersey will be represented at the National Turkey Federation's "Heaviest Turkey" contest in Denver next January.

The big problem now, said Hughes, is how to conduct the weigh-in.

"There is, for example, a Tom Turkey named 'Jersey Jumbo,' reported to weight 93 pounds—standing on one foot," Hughes said. "Then we have 'Two-Ton-Tiny Tom.' "

McNichols, in extending the invitation, said Colorado has a turkey not to be taken lightly.

"He has been training since early turkeyhood, with Rocky Mountain grit part of his scientifically balanced ration," McNichols crowed.

New Jersey News Briefs

By The Associated Press

Voters in two New Jersey communities have approved school construction bond issues while three other school districts rejected bond proposals. Following are the results in elections: Wayne—a $3,376,000 bond issue that would have financed a new high school and the purchase of sites for a junior high school and an elementary school was defeated. The vote against the proposed high school was 2,903 to 2,194. The site acquisition issue lost 2,579 to 2,389. Palisades Park—a vote of 2,394 to 1,073 defeated a $2.8 million bond issue for a new high school and renovation of other schools. Hopatcong—voters approved, by a 585-218 tally, a $987,000 bond issue for a new elementary school. Three previous proposals for the school, all exceeding $1 million, were defeated. Caldwell — Improvement projects at the Wilson and Roosevelt schools costing $750,000 were approved by voters in the joint Caldwell-West Caldwell school district by 11 votes—841 to 830. Both schools are in West Caldwell. Berkeley Heights—a proposed $1,350,000 addition to the Columbia school was rejected by a vote of 1,076 to 593.

ELIZABETH — Firemen won a race against time yesterday when they stopped a raging fire 15 feet away from a million-gallon gasoline tank on this city's waterfront. The blaze began at 11:40 a.m. when a spark from a welder's torch fell on the gasoline-soaked ground at the Crown Central Petroleum Co., 150 S. Front St. When firemen arrived a wall of flame had formed 100 feet long and 50 feet high. The tank of highly flammable fuel is located in a complex of gas and oil storage tanks and docked oil tankers. Firemen had the blaze under control in 10 minutes. Little property damage was reported.

TRENTON — Attorney Gen. Arthur J. Sills says law enforcement officers won an important victory when a Superior Court jury in Burlington County ruled a farmer had no cause for action against a game warden who arrested him. Sills announced the verdict yesterday in the case of Raymond Cotton, a Tabernacle farmer, who filed suit against Warden Hershel Beebe. Cotton charged Beebe caused injuries to his back in taking a rifle from him in November, 1959. Cotton said he was on his own farm and had the rifle with him to shoot a fox that was after his chickens. Beebe testified he was trying to prevent deer poaching.

NEWARK—Hyman Lustig, 56, owner of a delicatessen at 210 Waverly Ave., was shot in the forehead as two gunmen attempted to hold up his store last night. Lustig was taken to Martland Medical Center, where his condition was reported as poor. Police were unable to determine if the stickup men took any money. The victim's wife, Beatrice, was in a back room in the store when the shooting occurred, police said.

NEWARK—The rent for almost all families living in city housing will go up by about eight per cent, the Newark Housing Authority announced yesterday. The new rates will apply to all but families of two. Apartments that now rent for $80 a month will rise to $87, the Authority said. The increase becomes effective next April for current tenants. New tenants will pay the higher rate as soon as they move in. Louis Danzig, chairman of the Authority, said the increases were made necessary by a 12 per cent rise in operating costs.

NEW YORK — A Chilean stowaway has been granted his wish to visit the grave of a dead brother in Linden, N. J. The stowaway is Roberto Lores-Barrera, a baker, married and the father of a six-year-old child. Federal Judge David N. Edelstein accepted a humanitarian plea yesterday and signed an order permitting two U.S. marshals to escort Lores-Barrera to his brother's grave at Rosehill Cemetery, Linden, within the next two days. Lores-Barrera stole aboard the Grace liner Santa Cecilia in Valparaiso Harbor on Sept. 1. The vessel reached here Sept. 17. The next day crew members discovered Lores-Barrera, weak and undernourished. They turned him over to the FBI. Penniless and friendless, he told his story to a legal aid society attorney, Bernard Moldow. Moldow checked and found it true, except that Lores-Barrera mistakenly thought his brother was buried in the Bronx.

TOWNSHIP BUYS LEVITT SEWER PLANT — The Levitt sewer facility, which will service some 1,900 houses in Matawan Township, has been purchased by the township Sewer Authority on an installment-plan, delayed payment basis, for $1,250,000. Bonds, which will be retired with sewer service charge funds, will be issued next year. Plant, completed except for finishing touches, is shown here. Its operation has been approved by state Department of Health. On nine-acre tract near Lloyd Rd., it has 700,000-gallon capacity.

Levitt Sewer Fee Is Set at $72 Per Year

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP — It's not much, but Levitt (Strathmore-at-Matawan) residents will save money on sewer charges as a result of the local Sewer Authority's decision to purchase the Levitt sewer plant.

The authority yesterday set a rate of $72 per year ($6 a month) as the fee — the same charge being paid by River Gardens residents.

If Levitt had retained ownership of the utility, the charge would have been $75, Township Committeeman Sigmund V. Kowalski reported.

"The $72 charge will give us a uniform rate throughout the township," Mr. Kowalski, a member of the authority, noted.

Plant Operators

It was also reported that the authority is taking applications for the positions of operator and assistant operator of the plant.

Both posts require a state license.

So far, the authority has interviewed three applicants.

Mr. Kowalski said no decision has been made to date on whether the two posts will be placed under Civil Service. He said it is not mandatory.

At present, a Levitt operator is handing the plant, on a temporary basis.

The authority has signed an agreement with Levitt to purchase the plant and sewer mains for $1,250,000, which is $486,000 less than its cost of $1,736,000, according to Harry J. Geist, authority chairman.

No Tax Hike

Mr. Geist said bonds will be issued to pay the Levitt firm, the purchase will not affect taxes on an installment basis, and that of the sewer rates because present sewer service charges will be adequate to retire the bonds.

The bonds will not be issued until next year.

The plant, located on a nine-acre tract off Lloyd., to the rear of the new high school, has a capacity of approximately 700,000 gallons per day.

There will be an estimated 1,900 houses in the Strathmore development on completion. About 570 houses are scheduled for occupancy by Feb. 1.

Moving In

Homeowners started moving into the development yesterday.

The authority started negotiations with Levitt months ago—its first attempt to get the builder to donate the sewer plant on grounds that Levitt would recover the cost by including it in the price of its houses.

This bid was rejected by Levitt. Then the authority dickered for a plant lease arrangement.

Mr. Kowalski said yesterday it was finally decided a purchase agreement would be made "because with leasing we would spend money and have nothing to show for it, and in addition, Levitt would keep control to some degree."

Centralization

In making the decision, the authority followed the advice of its engineer, Charles J. Kupper, New Market, who has been urging "centralization' of township sewer facilities, all under control of the authority.

Mr. Kupper has taken the stand that it would be bad business and lead to an inefficient over-all operation for the town to have individual package sewer plants in various sections.

Still No Decision On Shop-Rite Plan

SHREWSBURY — The long-mulled question of a Shop-Rite supermarket for the Ray H. Stillman property on Broad St. next to Shrewsbury Shops was discussed during most of last night's Planning Board meeting.

No observable progress toward a decision on the matter was made.

Planning Board chairman Philip Meyer read a long report by the Board of Health on the packaged sewerage plant proposed.

Col. H. A. Martin, engineer in charge of the projected sewerage plant, pointed out that the material in the report had been superseded by later Board of Health studies, and that in these the board had changed its opinion on "most of the points raised."

Acceptance Prerequisites

Mr. Meyer read a list of prerequisites for acceptance of the sewer plant plans by the board, and Col. Martin commented on each one that it had been met or would be met when it was possible to do so.

After Mr. Meyer mentioned the board was expecting attorney Robert Carton of Asbury Park to appear on behalf of Shop-Rite's application, Abraham J. Zager, attorney and Independent candidate for a seat on the Shrewsbury Borough Council, who was in the audience, telephoned Mr. Carton. He reported that Mr. Carton had nothing further to bring before the planning body.

Mr. Zager said that Mr. Carton told him he understood the board's landscaping consultant Stanley McIntosh, would meet with a representative of the state Highway Department to make plans for planting at the site which would not interfere with proper ingress and egress from the market, and that he would then present these recommendations.

Mr. Meyer said that, on the contrary, the board had expected Mr. Carton to arrange such a meeting, and to report on it last night.

There matters stood when the meeting was adjourned.

The supermarket proposal has been discussed before this board since early this year.

Child's Leg Broken In Auto Mishap

MIDDLETOWN — A three-year old child, struck by an auto at 5:20 p.m. yesterday, was in fairly good condition this morning in Riverview Hospital. The accident occurred on Crestview Dr.,

Police listed the victim as Karen Buthmann, 410 Springfield Ave., Newark. She and her parents were visiting Mrs. Eleanor Lepkocki, 72 Crestview Dr.

The driver of the car, Mrs. Clare M. Tuchol, 35, of 35 Fairview Dr., told police the child ran into the street from in front of a parked car, and that she was unable to stop in time.

The child suffered a possible head concussion, broken left leg and scalp cuts.

Police issued a careless driving summons to Mrs. Tuchol, returnable Nov. 8 in Municipal Court.

Estimate Drainage Project at $160,000

KEANSBURG — One of the biggest problems facing the borough is drainage, and it will $160,000 to rectify the situation, probably cost at least.

This is the estimate that has been presented by Jerome Greenberg, borough engineer.

Mayor Louis T. Collichio has placed the drainage project on top of the priority list for next year.

The program provides for construction of several new drains, extensions to several main drains and increasing the size of several other main drains.

Also planned is the piping of all ditches in the borough and installation of numerous catch basins.

The borough has been divided into five drainage areas, and the plan calls for drain water to flow from each area into the main storm lines traversing the community.

The main drain lines are the Murray La., Raritan Ave., Bayview Ave., Twilight Ave., Beacon Light, Atlantic Ave., Church St. and Wood Ave lines.

The size of the lines vary from 12 inches to 42 inches.

Plans call for increasing the size of the Bayview, Raritan, Beacon Light and Atlantic drains to a minimum of 18 inches.

The St. Peters Pl.-Seeley Ave. drain and the Church St. and Charles St. drains would be extended.

New drains would be built on Lawrence and Roland Aves.

There are four open ditches to be piped which officials say are several miles long combined.

The borough hopes to receive some county aid on the project because much of the surface water in some areas of the borough comes from state and county roads.

Mr. Greenberg has estimated that better than 90 per cent of the drainage problem emanates from outside the borough.

To Prepare 1963 Welfare Unit Budget

FREEHOLD — The Monmouth County Welfare Board started preparations yesterday to draft its 1963 budget requirements.

The board named a budget and personnel committee consisting of Freeholders Joseph C. Irwin and Charles I. Smith, Ernest S. Lass, and Pierre Van Mater.

The board's spending schedule must be submitted to the state Department of Institutions and Agencies and to the county Board of Freeholders for approval.

A major factor in the budget is salaries for employees. The board instituted a merit raise system last year and the budget committee is charged with reviewing staff recommendations in considering raises for next year.

The board announced three personnel changes. Mrs. Ann Bryerton, of Eatontown, a case worker, and Miss Mary Pingitore, of Lincroft, a clerk typist, have resigned. Miss Barbara McKenzie, of Sea Girt, a clerk typist, has been appointed temporarily pending a civil service examination.

Miss Rhoda Southall, acting welfare director, announced 10 new admissions to the John L. Montgomery Medical Home, bringing the house to its capacity of 139 occupied beds.

Suit Settled For $15,000

FREEHOLD — Superior Court Judge J. Edward Knight yesterday approved a settlement totaling $155,000 for injuries suffered in an automobile accident in Middletown Oct. 30, 1960.

Dale Grimme, 371 Nutswamp Rd. River Plaza, was awarded $12,500. His father, Howard Grimme, was awarded $2,500.

The boy was a passenger in a car driven by Charles D. Cole, Jr., 96 Shrewsbury Ave., Red Bank. The car Cole was driving left the road and struck a pole on Brown Dock Rd.

The Grimme youth suffered multiple injuries.

At the settlement conference, Grimme family was represented by John Weber, Red Bank. Mr. Cole was represented by Edwin J. Fox, Asbury Park.

Three Contracts Are Awarded

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agency for International Development said Wednesday three contracts have been awarded to Perth Amboy, N.J., area firms for shipment of supplies of three countries—Yugoslavia, India and Pakistan.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., was advised of a $125,000 contract to the General Cable Corp., Perth Amboy, for cable to Yugoslavia; a $59,263 contract to the Synoro Machine Co., Perth Amboy, for industrial machinery for India and a $16,680 contract to the Hateo Chemical Division, Fords, N.J., for chemicals to Pakistan.

Parkway Outlines $35 Million Projects

WOODBRIDGE — Chairman Katharine Elkus White of the New Jersey Highway Authority announced today that work is under way on three projects included in a three-year, $35 million Garden State Parkway improvement program.

The projects are concentrated in a 50-mile area between Bergen and Monmouth Counties serving the greater volume of traffic on the 173-mile parkway.

Interchange 114 at Red Hill Rd., Middletown and Holmdel, has been under construction since August, and is scheduled for completion by Christmas.

The authority is about to seek bids on construction of the new Bergen County interchange which is being built in co-ordination with the state Highway Department timetable for building a Bergen-Passaic expressway from the George Washington Bridge to Rt. 20 in Paterson. The facility, Interchange 159, is expected to open before the end of next year.

Engineers are to work on detailed plans for a third new interchange to be built at East Orange. It will connect with the proposed east-west freeway in Essex County.

The Essex interchange will be part of an over-all undertaking to convert the toll-free Essex section of the parkway into a toll section under authorization from the state legislature last year.

In addition, work has progressed on construction of a southbound entrance ramp from Laurence Harbor Rd. adjoining Cheesequake State Park in Middlesex County. Presently, access in that area is possible only from the state park. The ramp is to be ready next month.

Widening of parkway roadways between Clifton and the projected interchange in Bergen County is in the first of three stages.

The first stage, between Interchanges 154 and 156, is to be complete next June. The other two stages will be completed later in the year, and will extend the parkway's three-lane roadway four miles northward.

In connection with the widening and expressway interchange project, the Bergen Toll Plaza will be expanded from eight to 12 lanes. That plan will be carried out next year.

All the planned improvements, to be financed by the authority's recent $40 million bond issue, are to be completed by 1965.

FBI Arrests Pair For Ammo Theft

EARLE — Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation have arrested two men in connection with the disappearance of small arms ammunition from the Naval Ammunition Depot here.

The two are Victor Amato, 42, of 84 Lincoln Ct., Keansburg, and Richard F. Barnum, 32, a chief petty officer in the Navy and a resident of the base here.

Ralph W. Bachman, the FBI's special agent in charge of the Newark office, said Chief Barnum has been charged with the theft, and Amato with receiving the ammunition between July, 1961, and last January. The value was placed in excess of $100.

Mr. Bachman said the FBI recovered 370 rounds of 30-caliber bullets in its investigation.

Both of the accused men were arraigned before U.S. Commissioner David Goldstein at Asbury Park yesterday. Amato was released in $3,000 bail, and Barnum in $1,000 bail. The offense is punishable by 10 years imprisonment or $10,000 fine, or both.

Barnum, married, has been a Navy man 15 years. Amato, married and the father of three children, is employed at Red Bank as an exterminator.

Mrs. Paul S. Fabry, Clerk —Adv.

APPRAISERS GATHER — Here are leaders who attended last night's meeting of the Central Jersey Chapter, Society of Residential Appraisers, in the Old Union House, Red Bank. Left to right are Kenneth L. Walker, Jr., Shrewsbury; Nicholas Friday, New Brunswick, vice president of New Jersey Chapter I, American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers, who was the speaker, and F. LeRoy Garrabrant, Jr., Neptune City.

A former Cliffwood resident, Thomas Sutton, 31, of Beach Blvd., has been appointed a probationary patrolman for a six months period.

He was formerly employed by New York-Keansburg-Long Branch Bus Lines, Inc., for four years. Married, he has five children.

A DAY'S WORK IS PLANNED by volunteer workers at campaign headquarters of the Children's Psychiatric Center, Inc., of Monmouth County, Eatontown, now in the midst of its $371,000 county-wide drive. The women, left to right, are Mrs. Dorman McFadden, Jr., Oceanport; Mrs. Arthur Adamson, Rumson; Mrs. Eric Rippel, Fair Haven, and Mrs. David Lee, Little Silver.

$371,000 Fund Drive Started

EATONTOWN — Hundreds of volunteer workers, spurred by desire to assist the Children's Psychiatric Center, Inc., of Monmouth County, will be engaged night after night throughout the next three months, assisting the clinic's $371,000 countywide fund-raising drive.

Organized into a tightly knit organization, spearheaded by Marcus Daly of Lincroft, the volunteers merge upon friends, neighbors and residents of their community, making their plea for public support and contributions for the center.

The center, a non-profit, outpatient clinic that received more than 900 referrals since its inception less than two years ago, has been overwhelmed with applications. With surveys indicating that close to 15,000 of the county's children under 18 years can be assisted by psychiatric assistance sometime during childhood, the demand placed upon the center for services is great.

The annual income required to maintain the center and to provide the community staff of psychiatrists, psychologists and psychiatric social workers must be derived through public support and contributions. Volunteer workers play a vital role in this effort.

The volunteer fund-raisers' average day is a busy one, with more activity packed into their average 12 to 14 hour daily schedule, than an electoral campaigner. Their work has all the excitement and fervour of a political campaigner, but their objective is money, not the placement of a public figure in office.

Alexander H.V. Halsey, divisional chairman of the center's drive in Middletown, is typical of volunteer workers. Arising at the break of dawn to commute from his home in Locust, to New York where he is assistant treasurer of the Morgan Guaranty Trust Company, his day is busily spent in banking.

Relaxing briefly on his way home, dinner is a whirlwind affair, with little time to say "Hello" to his three children, David, Ann and Cynthia. Mrs. Halsey plays her role well, having everything he requires on hand to speed him on his way.

His first stop may be a rapid-fire meeting with his team captains, 75 of whom are engaged in the over-all drive. Or, he may be seeing one of the more than 4,000 prospects to be solicited during the campaign.

Mr. Halsey's efforts as an area chairman do not overshadow his fellow workers, who devote equal energy to the drive. They are the campaign's hard-core in 15 campaign regions throughout the county. Rrepresenting all walks of life, they have been well schooled in the task of convincing a potential prospect that his hard-earned money will be used for a worthy cause.

Their preliminary education in fund-raising is mainfained at a high level in which all the tools required for successful orientation are employed in their training. A documentary movie evolving around the center and its treatment of emotionally disturbed children is used as background material. The film was produced by Mrs. Robert Elsner, Red Bank.

Volunteer fund-raisers receive additional classroom instruction from Mrs. Ellen Gilbertson, Rumson. A tape session in which the roles of volunteer worker and prospect are acted out also is used as an example of a typical live interview.

Many of the volunteers will work at the center's campaign headquarters at 65 Broad St., plotting and charting the campaign's course, handling clerical details, answering telephones and a myriad of details involved in the drive.

New Commander For 52d Brigade

HIGHLANDS — Col. Kenneth M. Lemley, returning from the hot spot of the Asian subcontinent, Laos, has been assigned as the deputy defense commander of the New York Air Defense Sector of the 52d Artillery Brigade (Air Defense), headquartered here.

Col. Kenneth M. Lemley

The 52d Brigade is commanded by Brig. Gen. Seth L. Weld, Jr. The New York Air Defense Sector is responsible for the air defense of the New York City and New Jersey metropolitan areas.

Col. Lemley is a 1940 graduate of the United States Military Academy, where he received his commission as a second lieutenant in the Field Artillery. After his graduation from West Point, he attended the basic course at the Field Artillery School, Fort Sill, Okla., following which he was assigned to the 18th Field Artillery Regiment, also at Fort Sill.

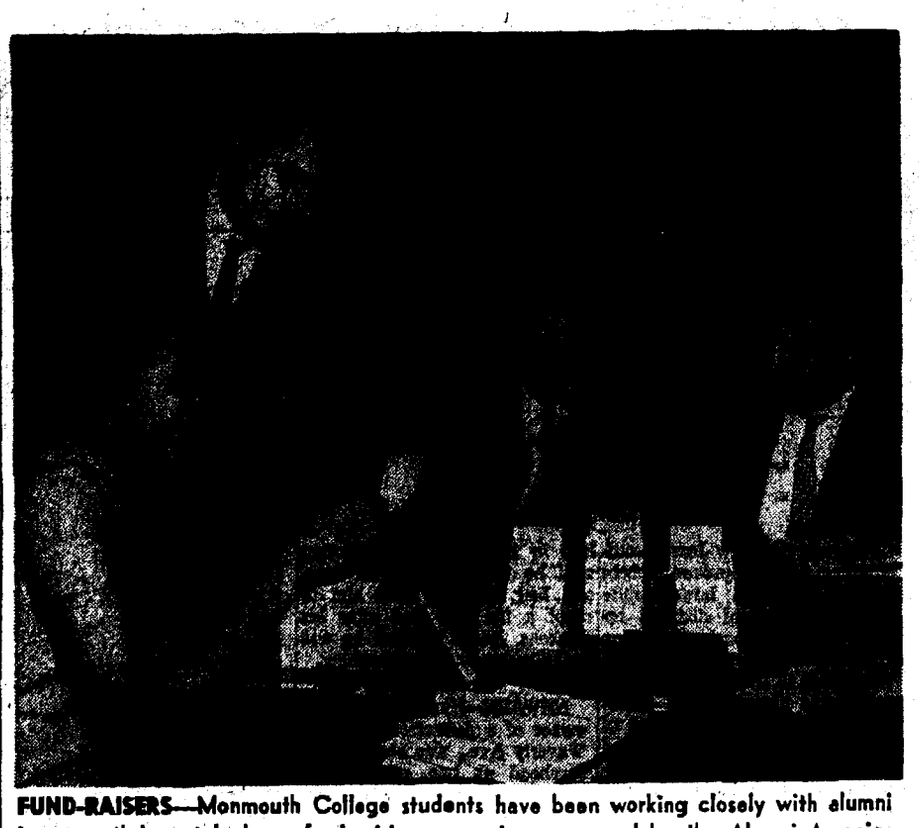

In 1943, his regiment was redesignated the 18th Field Artillery Battalion and transferred to Camp Gordon, Ga., with Col. Lemley also making the move. In the early part of 1944, the battalion pulled up its roots once again, this time the move was to Europe. In Europe, Col. Lemley participated in Normandy, Northern France, Rhineland, Ardennes and Central Germany campaigns as battalion operations and training officer, and later as the battalion executive officer.

After World War II, the colonel attended the Russian Institute, Columbia University, from 1946 to 1948, receiving a master of arts degree in Economics in 1948. Subsequently, he served two years in Germany and Eastern Europe, turning to Washington in 1950 to serve two years in the office of the chief of staff, Intelligence, Department of the Army.

In 1952-1953, Col. Lemley attended the Artillery Advanced Course at Fort Sill and Fort Bliss, from which he was assigned as commandant of the Department of the Army Russian Area Specialist Training Detachment in Germany for one year. From there, the colonel went on to become the commanding officer of the 14th Field Artillery Battalion, and later the adjutant general of the 2d Armored Division, both in Germany.

Col. Lemley attended the Army War College at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., from 1956 to 1957, returning to an intelligence assignment in Washington upon his graduation. He served in Washington until the spring of 1961.

The colonel's last assignment was as chief of operations and training of the U.S. Military Advisory Assistance Group in Laos, from which post he has come to the 52d Artillery Brigade.

FUND-RAISERS—Monmouth College students have been working closely with alumni in a month-long telephone fund-raising campaign sponsored by the Alumni Association. The money will be applied toward new dormitories now under way. Left to right are Hazel Bagwell of Asbury Park, Jim Rizzolo of Newark, Ed Miller of Bayonne —all students—and Walt Stephen of Belmar, Class of '58.

Summons Aid

DAMASCUS, Syria — Beset by a new challenge from President Nasser in revolt-torn Yemen, King Saud of Saudi Arabia summoned his brother, Prince Faisal, from New York today to form a new government and bolster his regime.

Nasser's United Arab Republic has increased the violence of its propaganda attacks on Saud since the desert king threw his support behind the Yemen monarchy toppled in an army revolt Sept. 26.

County Men Get Patents

McKEESPORT, Pa. — The Fact Bureau, a reporting service, tells of two Monmouth County, N.J., investors who have assisted American industry in work on new devices.

Percy E. Brooks, 56 Iler Dr., Middletown, has come up with a new welding fixture that has been accepted by the Western Electric Co., Inc., for the welding of rectangular metal frames used in the manufacture of certain types of telephone equipment.

Raimond Pals, Lawrence Ave., Howell Township, is the co-recipient of a patent on what is called a "process for the production of tripolyphosphate."

In his welding process, Mr. Brooks set up a holder which receives side and end members of the frame to be welded and holds them in proper position while they are being welded. This is done, the inventor claims, without disturbing vital parts of the frame, such as electrodes, and while a working operator remains seated.

The FMC Corp. will utilize the patent process which was co-developed by Mr. Pals. Sodium tripolyphosphate is an ingredient used in the manufacture of a dry granular detergent used in household laundry and dishwashing.

There has been trouble in the mixing process. The inventors have found that by using a small amount of water, so-called "detergent slurry" may be eliminated without damage to the finished product.

McGalliard Gives Talk On Taxes

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS — Local taxes were the major topics of discussion at a recent meeting of the Republican Club.

It was pointed out that the tax picture here presented the greatest single problem facing residents of the community.

Jack R. McGalliard, Republican council candidate, stated that a recent study has disclosed that the present Republican Administration is operating under the smallest municipal budget for a number of years.

Citing an example, Mr. McGalliard claimed that during the Democrat-controlled administration, Borough Council adopted ordinances authorizing municipal indebtedness in excess of $500,000.

"Of that total, over $240,000 was authorized late in 1961, just prior to their leaving office," he noted.

"All of the Democrat indebtedness was inherited by the present Republican administration," he declared.

Mr. McGalliard also said that the governing body has no control over any portions of the borough budget other than areas designated for municipal operations.

"Even though a council may be in disagreement with local school budgets, it is powerless to do anything about them," the council hopeful noted.

"I was pleased to learn that the Atlantic Highlands Board of Education, along with Mayor and Council, has kept its 1962 budget at a figure that did not increase taxes. Unfortunately, the new Henry Hudson Regional High School and the increase in county taxes have contributed to the higher tax rate which faces us today", he stated.

Mr. McGalliard pointed out that during the past year, more than $600,000 in new ratables were added to the tax rolls which, he noted, will provide some tax relief.

He concluded by pledging to give support to the efforts of other Republican officials to improve the local tax picture.

To Study Bridge Railing Height

FREEHOLD — Bridge railings on Garden State Parkway overpasses on Sycamore Ave. and Tinton Ave., New Shrewsbury, may not be dangerously low after all.

The county Board of Freeholders, which had been asked two weeks ago by the New Shrewsbury Borough Council to do something about the height of railings to safeguard children crossing the overpasses en route to and from school, made the disclosure yesterday.

Direcotr Joseph C. Irwin said an investigation indicates fences on the bridge approaches may be too low and that these will be corrected if additional studies indicate a necessity.

After receipt of the New Shrewsbury complaint, the freeholders announced to newspapers that the New Jersey Highway Authority, which operates the parkway and built the overpasses, would be asked to check the bridge railings.

County Engineer H. Leroy Martin was unsuccessful the same day in reaching the authority's executive secretary, D. Louis Tonti, by phone but wrote a letter to him the following day.

Yesterday the freeholders read a reply from Mr. Tonti, promising cooperation in a study of the railings but also taking the freeholders to task because the county's letter was not received until after the matter had been well publicized in newspapers.

Mr. Tonti noted, in his letter, the exact time, 9:44 a.m. on Oct. 8, that the county's letter was received.

The freeholders took no notice of Mr. Tonti's obvious pique, except that Director Irwin said it was "interesting" that the time was so precise.

Kennedy Gets a Lively Connecticut Reception

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has an open date on his campaign schedule today, and after Wednesday's lively reception in Connecticut he's probably glad to have this day of comparative rest.

For Kennedy drew one highly enthusiastic audience — and got one loudly booing reception—during his 60-mile drive through an area that contains a lot of industry and a lot of Democrats.

Kennedy hits the campaign trail again Friday on a three-day trip that takes him all the way to Seattle in his effort to get a Democratic Congress elected Nov. 6. If he runs into similar crowds, it should be an entertaining weekend.

The big crowd Wednesday was at Waterbury, a town that loves, and is loved by, Kennedy. It was so carried away with the President's visit — a police officer thought 45,000 were there—that it threatened to get out of hand. Police scurried over to calm down one segment, seemingly composed mainly of squealing young ladies.

The critical crowd was at New Haven, home of Yale University. Nobody knows for sure who gave the President the raspberry or held up disparaging signs.

But it's the custom on such occasions in New Haven to give all the credit, or blame, to Yale students.

Kennedy didn't seem to be too rattled by the booing or by the signs which carried such sentiments as:

"Will we get to the moon before the Negro gets to vote?"

"Castro loves Democrats."

"Less profile more courage."

Kennedy, a Harvard man, was given an honorary degree by Yale in June, and the President referred to this as he began his talk.

"I have come to this center of learning," Kennedy said, "to come back to my college—Yale—and I have enjoyed that warm reception I have gotten from my fellow Elis as I drove into this city.

"But they will learn, as this country has learned, that the Democratic party is best for them as it is for the country."

Unlike in Waterbury, where the police rushed over to protect Kennedy from his friends, everything went smoothly in New Haven.

Yale men may boo, but they boo like gentlemen.

All during his campaign Wednesday, as he rode in an open car from Bridgeport to Waterbury to New Haven, Kennedy followed what has now become a familiar pattern. He plugged hard for Democratic House candidates, for Abraham Ribicoff, his former welfare secretary who wants to be a senator, and for John N. Dempsey, who wants to stay on as governor.

This was Kennedy's first chance to reply to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's criticism of Monday night that this administration has what he called "a dreary foreign policy."

But Kennedy ignored the criticism.

He neither mentioned his Republican predecessor nor defended his own foreign policy, in spite of signs needling him about Cuba.

Many Bargains on Tap

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Housewives will find such a variety of bargains at supermarkets this weekend that shopping will be a more confusing challenge than usual.

A wide range of beef and veal cuts are offered. There are many bargains in pork, both fresh and processed. Lamb legs, shoulders and chops are featured regionally.

Poultry persists as a main course item that's very attractive to the budge-wise shopper.

On top of all these, it's cheese festival month and many stores are pushing this good source of protein, with domestic cheddar varieties leading the way.

Among beef attractions, steaks, round roasts and pot roasts are most widely featured.

Among pork features, roasts, cutlets and spareribs are the leading fresh attractions. Other specials regionally include hams, bacon and sausages.

Turkeys still lead the poultry parade. But chicken fryers are also budget stars.

Among fruits, apples are the chief attractions as the national apple week promotion gives them prominence. Cranberries are coming in strong, as are tokay grapes, end-of-season strawberries, pears and avocados.

Vegetable features include squash, cabbage, onions, eggplant, pole beans and radishes. Late crop cucumbers, lettuce, tomatoes, cauliflower, potatoes, sweet potatoes and spinach are other vegetable attractions.

Competition In Transportation

by SAM DAWSON

Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—The competitive fight between the various forms of for-hire transportation—rails, trucks, planes, barges, pipelines—waxes steadily. But just as heated at times is the battle over the inroads into the field by private carriage.

The growth of private hauling of goods and supplies over the nation's highways may have added to traffic jams to your annoyance. It also has raised the tempers of the regulated carriers.

Who is getting hurt and how much? And why do some business firms turn to their own trucks while others stick to for-hire transportation?

A research team of the Transportation Center at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., fed into a computer the replies of 1,100 manufacturers to their queries on the subject. The answers may shed some light on a controversy noted for generating heat.

Rates of Growth

The unregulated motor carriers have grown faster since the war than the regulated carriers as a whole. But the team says that, in terms of tonnage, the common motor carriers have grown about as fast as have corporations' own fleets of trucks, even though trucking firms think otherwise.

And the replies indicate the real battle has been between these two, the for-hire and the do-it-yourself motor haulers. Firms using their own trucks tend to concentrate on short-haul movements of freight, and thus compete less than some may think with the rails, which get their big volume on the longer than 200-mile freight movement.

But the volume of private carriage is growing. The survey shows one-third of the firms replying increased their use of private carriage in proportion to their total tonnage in recent years, while 23 per cent did not, and the remainder kept about the same proportion.

Private Carriage

Altogether about 32 per cent of motor freight tonnages moved by private carriage in 1961, according to the replies. The private fleets were mostly modest—59 per cent of the firms used four or fewer vehicles.

The biggest use of private fleets was in the food industries. Such usage was reported by less than a third of those in the instrument, electrical machinery, leather, textile and apparel industries.

Firms using their own trucks to haul their supplies gave three situations in which they find this most profitable: 1. When prices charged by suppliers are greater than private costs of production; 2. When the firm wants a certain quality of goods or service not offered by suppliers; and 3. When the firm desires managerial control over the supply of some productive input.

The Transportation Center plans a private conference the end of this month to discuss the findings and the problems.

Say U.S. Hampers Castro's Cuban Foes

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—Elements in the Cuban militia and what is left of the old revolutionary 26th of July Movement are ready to take to the hills and fight Fidel Castro's Communist regime, Cuban exile sources here declare.

But these sources add that the internal resistance, which they call the only hope for Cuba's liberation from communism, is being hampered by U.S. actions.

Fidel Castro, who recently made a hush-hush tour of Cuba's interior, is reported in dread of his own former comrades-in-arms in the old 26th of July army.

Mass meetings of "defense committees" are being held all over Cuba. The committees are part of a Communist-style, block-by-block spy system.

Regime Worried

Cuba's economic troubles under communism have tended also to arouse disaffection even in the militia. This has so worried the regime, according to available information, that militia members get little ammunition, and their arms and bullets are taken from them at the end of each tour of duty.

One exile leader, Manolo Ray, urges that the United States make it as clear as possible to people inside Cuba that the fight is only against communism and that the United States is on the side of any underground resistance that fights the Red regime.

Ray, who claims reliable contacts with the elements of resistance inside Cuba, fought for Castro in the revolution, which overthrew the Fulgencio Batista dictatorship and became Castro's first public works minister. He fled when the regime veered sharply to communism.

Strategy Goofs

The ex-minister says he believes strategic blunders in the United States have hampered internal Cuban resistance.

One such blunder, he asserts, has been creation of the impression that the United States supports any and all Cuban exiles.

Hatred of the old Batista regime persists in Cuba, despite present woes.

He says he feels that 26th of July army men who might take off for the hills hesitate for fear that former Batista people might be among those who would move in from the United States and take over after the fall of the Castro regime. They fear, he says, they would lose their own heads in that event.

Ray says he is sure that if resources were made available to the internal resistance—men are still fighting in the Escambray hills—it could be funneled to anti-Castro forces and would pose a serious threat to the regime.

No Segregation Reported in Schools

TRENTON (AP) — —An education department fact finding team reports that it found no signs of segregation in the Orange school system.

The committee, assigned by Education Commissioner Frederick M. Raubinger to help him decide an appeal by Negro parents charging racial imbalance in Orange schools, filed a 64 page report Tuesday with the Orange school board.

The committee found that Oakwood School in Orange is 99.7 per cent Negro but added there are no all-white schools in Orange.

Although the committee suggested five possible methods of cutting the concentration of Negroes at Oakwood School, it cautioned that all of the alternatives had educational disadvantages. It made no recommendations.

Urge Ban on Glue Sales

WEST LONG BRANCH — A resolution urging the state legislature to take action to control the sale of model airplane glue to children was unanimously passed yesterday at the fall meeting of the Monmouth County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations.

The council's resolution also urged the state Department of Education and County Superintendent of Schools Earl B. Garrison to launch a broad program of education relating to the practice of glue sniffing.

The council's action followed by two weeks the death of a 13-year-old East Keansburg boy who police said died following a session of glue sniffing with another youngster.

Stressing the need of leadership in the educational field, Mr. Garrison told council members to ask their communities "to select Board of Education members who understand what the children need in education."

A panel discussion on vocational education, held during the council's afternoon session, was moderated by Theodore Nitka, director of the Monmouth County Vocational School. Panelists were Miss Mary Fanning, practical nursing director; Mrs. Margie Kelemen, practical nursing student; Frank Signorelli, electronics student and senior at Long Branch High School, and William Mazza, a graduate of the technical drafting course given at Long Branch High School and an employee of Bendix Corp., Eatontown.

The council met here in all-day session in the Frank Antonides School. Luncheon was served to the group at the West Long Branch Community Cent . by the women of the Old First Methodist Church.

E. David Dupre, principal of the Frank Antonides School, spoke briefly on the need for special services to county youngsters who give evidence of social or emotional maladjustments. He said the county superintendents office began organizing last year the resources of its staff to provide psychological services, using the "team" approach.

Monmouth Names

Question No. 69—Walling:

I am attempting to prepare a little article on the experience of two Monmouth pioneers to Texas in 1851. They were George W. and John E. Walling, the sons of Richard Carman Walling and Debrough (Burrows) Walling. I need something of their Monmouth County background and boyhood on the farm near Leonardville. I am the grandson of the above George W. and in the process of preparing a genealogy of the Texas descendants of the Monmouth County Wallings.

G.L.W., Austin, Texas.

Question No. 70—Lloyd—Longstreet:

I am descended from John Lloyd and his wife, Ann Longstreet Lloyd, of Upper Freehold Township, Monmouth County, N.J., through their daughter Helena who married Caleb Ridgeway of the Little Egg Harbor Ridgways.

John Lloyd was born in Wales. He was married three times. His first wife was Rebecca Ball, cousin of Mary Ball, the mother of Gen. George Washington. His second wife, was Ann Longstreet, who died Sept. 2, 1791; and his third wife, Elizabeth Brown, daughter of John Brown and Alice Coward. John Lloyd, Esq., died Feb. 4, 1817 and named in his will Helena Ridgway among his children.

John Lloyd was a Revolutionary War soldier (I believe in Capt. Waddell's company), 1st. Regiment, Monmouth County. I need to know for the DAR. 1. Who was Ann Longstreet, and was her father in the Revolution too? 2. When was Helena born and where? 3. When were John Lloyd and Ann married, and where? 4. Is there proof that Helena Longstreet Lloyd and Caleb Ridgway were married Nov. 11, 1802 in Philadelphia?

This John Lloyd and Ann Longstreet Lloyd were the grandparents of John Lloyd Stephens, the traveler and writer. Caleb and Helena came to Illinois and she is buried in Fairfield, Ill.

E.M., Fairfield, Ill.

Question No. 68 — Johnson — Leonard:

We have heard that Robert Johnson, father of Mrs. William A. Sweeney, was related to John (1), Robert (2), Henry (3); from the census of 1850 it seems probable that Thomas Johnson, the grandfather of Mrs. Sweeney, married Delia Ann Johnson the sister of Henry (3). According to my records this Delia died in 1891, aged 78 years; of cholera morbus.

According to the 1850 census, the family of Thomas Johnson included Thomas himself, then 39 years; his wife Delia, aged 37 years; Charles, 19, Adeline, 16, and Joseph, 14. This was apparently the one referred to by Thomas Henry Leonard in "From Indian Trail to Electric Rail," page 92, as the great detective who captured the murderer of Annie, wife of Charles T. Leonard.

Can you please tell me about Joseph Johnson, the detective?

The rest of the above family was Robert, 11; Henry, 9; Maria, 6; Mary E., 3, and Thomas, Henry (3), Robert (2) and John (1) had daughters, Anna E., Mary, Frances E., and Josephine, one married Andrew Bowne, another married E. Cooper Swan, and a third, Thomas Johnson.

Can you tell me who married whom, and who this Thomas Johnson was?

I think that the Thomas Johnson of the 1850 census was the son of Joseph and Mary; that Joseph was the son buried at Chapel Hill, who died 1834, aged 76 years, and that Mary was the one buried at Chapel Hill who died in 1860, aged 96 years, and that she was the "old Mrs. Johnson whose funeral Judge George H. Sickles attended May 5, 1860." according to his diary.

Can you tell me the parents of this Joseph Johnson or his wife Mary? Can you tell me if they really were the parents of Thomas?

The daughters of the Thomas of the 1850 census married Edward Layton, Phelan, Edward H. Frost and Cogin.

Can anyone tell me who married whom, and anything about their husbands, particularly the Christian names of Phelan and Cogin?

W.A.W.

DEAR ADAM AND EVE:

I am 20 years old, have a child and have been married four years. I have a wonderful husband and he's a good father, but I'm falling out of love with him. I want to love him for my child's sake. I know she needs her own father. But I have gotten to the point where he doesn't interest me, and another married man does. I think I'm falling in love with this married man, and I don't want to. I don't want to get a divorce, but what am I to do? My husband won't go with me to talk to a doctor or a preacher. He only laughs at me. Please help me and tell me what I should do.

Worried Wife

Dear Worried Wife: You aren't as helpless as you seem to think. You can (1) see a doctor or minister or marriage counselor alone at first if he won't go with you (2) stop seeing the married man (3) wake up to your responsibilities as a wife and mother.

Adam

Don't let yourself be the pawn in that married man's game. The only way you can move in that kind of chess is backward.

Eve

DEAR ADAM AND EVE:

I have been married nearly 22 years. My wife and I have two grown children. In all our married life we never had any trouble, but last summer my wife went to another city to help care for our married daughter during her childbirth. While there she met a man in the service. I went after my wife on my vacation and we had a very nice trip back home, but she only stayed home three days.

She slipped off while I was at work and went back up there to him and I found later he paid for her trip back. What I want to know is what makes a woman, after 22 years of seemingly happy marriage, do a thing like this?

Left Out

Dear Left-Out: It could be many things. Sometimes chemical and glandular changes affect middle-aged people. Or your wife could have been less happy and content than you think, in recent years. She seems to have been ready for an outside "adventure," which often means things have gotten pretty dull around the house.

Adam

You need not sit at home and brood. Go to her, and with the help of your married daughter, persuade her to talk things over with a domestic relations counselor. And while you're at it. YOU, have a good long talk with the counselor too. You may have as much to learn as your wife — or more!

DEAR ADAM AND EVE:

You printed a letter from Worried Teenager, who said the boys and girls her age believe in doing things that married couples do, and that she didn't go along with this idea. I hold high respect for this girl. I would like to advise her and others to hold fast to their high ideals. In my high school days, I learned that as boys get older they respect a girl more for her ideals. As boys get more mature they look for different traits in a girl. I even went with some of the more adventurous boys, and they treated me very courteously. After I finished college, I married one of them!

Happy Grad

Sermon in Abstract

By ELEANOR MARKO

He is a gentle man. His humor is of the Will Rogers American variety. He looks like a minister — and he is. Bespectacled, tall and slim, soft-spoken and unassuming, he invites conversation.

This physiognomy changes when he picks up his artists brush and goes to work on a canvas. The viewer's initial shock at his painting is to be remembered for it is a calculated esthetic response. This is abstract expressionism.

Herbert Macdonald of Glen Ridge in one hour Tuesday demonstrated his approach to abstract expressionism to more than 125 women from throughout the state attending Federation Art Day in Montclair Art Museum.

Though abstract expressionism is no longer considered avant-garde, for the layman it is a continued source of wonderment mixed with confusion, and sometimes, rejection.

"I'm not here to add heat to the debate . . . but to lend light," he said. "Anyone in contact with truth is avant-garde," he added.

The gentleness left Herbert Macdonald momentarily as he applied — almost savagely — great slashes of Indian yellow, cobalt violet and cobalt blue on a 40x60-inch canvas. It was driven as if by an interior force to visually express his philosophy of life, freedom, tolerance and understanding of that which God has created. This he feels must be done abstractly.

"Sometimes it is necessary not to paint it (a subject) as it actually looks . . . I've never been to heaven, though I expect to, nor to hell . . But I have two paintings 'War in Heaven' and 'War in Hell.'" They give dimension to his meaning.

"Painting involves the artist's whole personality, his emotions, his thoughts, strength and his unconscious . . . to me, it is the Spirit of God."

"My aim is to break down the separation in art and religion."

These statements by the artist illuminate not only the deepness of the meaning of art in his life but his faith and dedication to that meaning.

The two types of painting Mr. Macdonald does at present are derived from nature and the Bible. A pattern in a broken sidewalk, a microscopic view of one of nature's elements, or as shown here, a forest pool, can bring forth an urge to express his response in a concept that flattens the image and spurns any mirror to reality.

"Forest Pool," a 40 by 50-inch oil on canvas by Macdonald is in the collection of Montclair Art Museum as a gift of an anonymous donor through the American Federation of Arts in 1961.

No black and white reproduction can do it justice since the essence of any abstract expressionism painting is in the rendering of the color. Long after the first look, the memory of diversities of form and color widen the imagination. As has once been stated by an authority on the subject, "The action of judging the results of an act in the painting is an ethical process that, for its standards, has the intensity of the visual experience. The standard will always be flexible, as the experience is always new."

"Abstract expressionism has opened up a new dimension in painting for me," commented the artist who has studied representational painting for years.

Mr. Macdonald recently has been appointed artist-in-residence at Bloomfield College and has a new class in abstract painting at the Montclair Museum Art School.

One of his massive works was exhibited in the spring festival of arts show at Monmouth College, West Long Branch. It is included in his one-man show currently at Highgate Gallery, 50th and Third Ave., New York City. Last month he won the Kresge-Newark purchase prize at the 20th annual exhibition of the New Jersey Water Color Society.

For those who "can't understand this kind of painting," Mr. Macdonald contributed a valuable clue in suggesting that they not look for a distance of ten miles in an inch of paint when a landscape is suggested. But rather, that they look closely for an inch of landscape as the entire painting.

Though the influences that cause him to paint the way he does, he feels are too many to number, the artist's work does show the influences of the innovators of this style, de Kooning, Rothko, Pollock, Gorky, Gottlieb, Hofmann and others, who emerged as the most dynamic painters of the postwar period.

"Forest Pool" by Herbert Macdonald

As he expressed his religious feeling for "unanswered prayers of the afflicted in this world," Macdonald recorded his thoughts excitedly with pulsating strokes of red paint swept up suddenly to the full height of the canvas and it seemed to drain him emotionally and physically. His very action carried the dramatic message of abstract expressionism which he had come to do.

The one-hour demonstration suggested an analogy of building a house. The first day, only the hole is dug. His initial work in the demonstration represents the "hole in the ground," he said. Whether he uses it for the foundation of another of his sermons on life on canvas is left to be seen.

Mrs. George G. Peck, state art chairman for the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, was in charge of arrangements for the program, with the co-operation of Mrs. Kathryn E. Gamble, director of the museum.

FIFTH ANNUAL COMMUNITY ART SHOW of the Middletown Township Recreation Commission will be held Nov. 9, 10 and 11 at a new location. It will be staged in the Thompson School on the Lincroft-Middletown Rd. in the Oak Hill section of Middletown.

Artistic director for the second consecutive year will be Maureen Neary Deakin, a Middletown Township art teacher.

Additional areas of competition have been added for this year's show in both the professional and amateur classes. Separate prizes will be awarded for abstracts. They will not be in competition with realism works.

The show also will include competition in photography for professionals and amateurs.

The commission will provide silver bowls and trays for the first three places in each of the six classes of competition. The commission emphasizes that all work must be "original — no copies may be exhibited."

Applications are being mailed to all last year's entrants. Others may secure the forms from the Recreation Office at Bodman Park. Last minute entries will be received at Thompson School, Friday, Nov. 9 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The staging of the show in Thompson instead of in the high school, offers facilities of a large all-purpose room and broad corridors for exhibiting.

DEADLINE FOR ENTRIES in the Sixth Annual Winter Art Show open to all artists in the state is Oct. 26 at noon. Staged by the art advancement committee of the Monmouth Arts Foundation in its gallery at 147 Broad St., Red Bank, (second floor of Ballantine's), the show will open Nov. 2 at 8 p.m. with a reception and presentation of $350 in prizes for oils, watercolors and sculpture.

Registrations for the juried show are acceptable at the gallery Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m.; Thursday, Oct. 25, from 1 to 5 p.m. and Oct. 26 from 10 a.m. to noon.

Rejects are to be picked up the Tuesday and Wednesday before the opening of the show.

Serving on the jury of selection and awards are Valdi S. Maris, New Brunswick, artist and art critic; Harold H. Alexander, fine arts department, Monmouth College, West Long Branch, and Burton Wasserman, professor of art, Glassboro College.

By BILL ROBINSON

A new season of sorts is upon us, the season of checking up on new models of boats and motors. These are usually introduced in the fall of the year. Advance showings and prototypes come out now, are shown to dealers and the rest of the trade, and then gradually become familiar to the public through appearances in showrooms and boat shows between now and next spring.

It is always a good time for checking trends and developments, and for figuring out where the industry is heading. First indications of this can always be seen at the annual boat show for the trade in Chicago late in September. Reports from this year's show reveal that there is more optimism in the industry than a year ago, when things were pretty shaky, and that the quality of the exhibits is the highest ever.

MORE ATTENTION to use of a boat for several different functions is a noticeable feature of 1963 models now being introduced.

There is no longer rampant optimism of boom proportions, such as ran through the industry about four or five years ago. Too many fingers have been burned in the past couple of years of readjustment to allow any such attitude now, but there is a quiet confidence that things are on a fairly solid basis.

As for the actual models of boats and motors, this is not a year of startling innovations or radical developments. It is one of consolidation and refinement, especially in the outboard motor field, where there are no big changes in any of the major manufacturers' lines.

The 100 h.p. motor is still top size in this field, but the trend is really away from big motors, where the in-board-outboard type of installation has made great gains. The major emphasis in outboards now is on reliability and top performance in the small and middle horsepower ranges. Interior refinements and minor alterations in styling are the only changes that have been made, plus the introduction of a few new horsepower sizes by one or two manufacturers.

Boat manufacturers are also emphasizing performance and quality, rather than radical styling or gimmicks. The 1963 crop of outboard and inboard runabouts and cabin cruisers is marked by a practical, sensible approach to performance, comfort and function.

No longer is a boat just another version of a hot rod car — something merely to ride around in at a fast speed. This limited pleasure has worn thin with those who have entered boating seriously as a major form of family recreation. Aside from the lack of variety, it is expensive, and there is now a demand for a versatile boat that can perform various functions.

Speed is more often related to water skiing now, and such features as good stowage space for picnicks or camping trips, roominess and stability for skin-diving operations, and sea worthiness for fishing in exposed waters are all required by the knowledgeable owner. Most of the 1963 models are designed with this in mind, and many of them in the 18-24 foot size are now intended for in-board-outboard installation.

In cabin cruisers, there is greater-than-ever utilization of space for cabin comfort and stowage, and 35 and 40-footers now have accomodations that would only have been found on 70-footers a few years ago.

Sailing continues to be the fastest growing field in percentage of increase, as more and more "second-boat" buyers decide to try its different kinds of challenge and rewards.

Boating tip of the week: Check with your local adult education program, Coast Guard Auxiliary, or Power Squadron, for courses in piloting, seamanship, small boat handling and sailboat operations.

Braves Name Bragan Manager

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Brash Bobby Bragan, whose fiery temperament led to dismissal from managerial jobs with Pittsburgh and Cleveland within a year, signed yesterday to manage the Milwaukee Braves in 1963.

Bragan, who will be 45 Oct. 30, accepted a year contract to become the fourth Milwaukee field boss since the club's last serious pennant contender when it lost in a playoff with Los Angeles in 1959. Terms of the agreement were not disclosed.

"I really am excited over this opportunity," Bragan told a news conference with unbridled enthusiasm. "This is the happiest I've been since I was made a second lieutenant in the Army."

John McHale, the Braves' president and general manager, said there had been many outstanding candidates for the Milwaukee job, but "it was our thinking that the best possible man was Bobby Bragan."

50 RECORDS BROKEN

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —Fifty records were broken and nine tied in the 1962 World Series between the New York Yankees and the San Francisco Giants.

Of the records broken, 25 were indivdual marks and 25 were team records. The tied marks included six individual records and three club records.

Yogi Berra and Whitey Ford of the Yanks, both veterans of Series play, figured in 19 of the records. Berra extended 10 of his own marks and broke one record. Ford extended seven records and tied another.

WINS GOLF TOURNAMENT — Art Sabatino, left, 30 Harvard Rd., Fair Haven, receives trophy after winning the Elizabeth Lodge of Elks golf tournament held Sunday at Lakewood Country Club with an 86 card. Falcon Harriers Win 6th Straight

MADISON TOWNSHIP — Taking 13 of the first 15 places, Monmouth Regional's cross country team blanked Madison Township, 15-50, here yesterday.

The highly-touted Falcons from New Shrewsbury placed runners in the first through ninth positions and in the 11th through 14th spots.

It was the sixth straight victory for coach Bill Hillman's team. Five wins came in dual meets while the sixth win was in a triangular meet.

Senior Skip Harnett led the Monmouth Regional brigade across the finish line. Ace Ron Driggers, a junior who had won three times and placed second in the other two meets, was second yesterday. Harnett's time for the rugged 2½-mile course was 14:45 while Driggers' clocking was five seconds slower.

Monmouth Regional's next meet will be Tuesday when the Falcons travel to Long Branch for a triangular meet with Keyport and the Branchers.

CLINIC SPEAKER — Tom Phipps, left, former Red Bank High School football coach and a member of the New Jersey State Football Officials' Association, was guest speaker at the Red Bank Catholic High School Boosters' second football clinic held Friday at the school gymnasium. Phipps spoke on the issue of penalties. Paul Schissler, right, is treasurer of the booster group. His sons, Eddie and Paul, are gridders at Red Bank Catholic.

Casey Boosters Holding Football Clinic Sessions

RED BANK — The Red Bank Catholic High School Boosters Association held its second football clinic meeting of the season in the school gymnasium here last Friday.

Approximately 30 adults, plus students, turned out to hear guest speaker Tom Phipps, former Red Bank High football coach and a member of the New Jersey State Football Officials' Association, who spoke on penalties and the signals used by officials to designate the offenses.

The theme of the third football clinic will be defensive formations and purposes. The clinic will be held in approximately two weeks.

The initial meet of the group was held at the home of William Kane, Middletown. Kane is vice president of the boosters. He spoke on fundamentals of football.

The clinic's purpose is to afford people greater enjoyment by a fuller and more precise knowledge of the game of football.

Terry Is Winner Of Corvette Car

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —Ralph Terry, winner of two World Series games for the New York Yankees including the heart-stopping seventh game tuesday, has won the Corvette automobile from Sport Magazine as the outstanding player of the Series.

The 26-year-old right-hander was selected as the player "who, through his overall play in the World Series, did the most for his team."

Yankee pitcher Whitey Ford was the winner in 1961.

Terry lost the second game of the Series to the San Francisco Giants, 2-0, won the fifth, 5-3, and the seventh, 1-0.

The car will be presented at a luncheon tomorrow in New York.

Dodgers Place Four Players On Major League All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers dominate the 1962 Associated Press major league All-Star Team with four players named to the 10-man squad announced yesterday.

The Dodgers' quartet selected in the annual poll of members of the Baseball Writers Association include shortstop Maury Wills, outfielder Tommy Davis, left-handed pitcher Sandy Koufax and right-handed pitcher Don Drysdale.

The San Francisco Giants, who defeated the Dodgers in a playoff to win the National League pennant, placed two players on the team. The Giants chosen were first baseman Orlando Cepeda and outfielder Willie Mays.

The remainder of the squad consists of second baseman Bobby Richardson of the world champion New York Yankees, third baseman Brooks Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles, outfielder Frank Robinson of the Cincinnati Reds and catcher Earl Battey of the Minnesota Twins.

Frank Robinson is the only repeater from last season's team. Richardson, Wills and Mays moved up from the second team of a year ago.

The most one-sided race was that of shortstop as Wills accumulated one more vote than he had stolen bases. Wills collected 105 of the 108 votes cast. He had 104 steals. Jose Pagan of the Giants was a distant second in the ballating witht two votes.

The closest competition was for the left-handed pitcher, with Koufax prevailing over Whitey Ford of Yankees, 50-30. In the balloting for catcher Battey polled 43 votes as compared to 22 for Del Crandall of the Milwaukee Braves.

Drysdale was the second best vote getter with 88, followed by Richardson with 84, Frank Robinson 83 and Mays 80. Then came Davis with 67, Brooks Robinson and Koufax 50, Cepeda 49 and Battey 43.

The rest of the second team, in addition to Pagan, Crandall and Ford: First base—Bill White, Cardinals (21 votes); second base—Bill Mazeroski, Pirates (15), third base—Rich Rollins, Twins (19); Outfield—Mickey Mantle, Yankees (47), Hank Aaron, Braves (15) and Al Kaline, Tigers (9), and right-handed pitcher—Purkey, Reds (9).

Davis and Frank Robinson finished one-two in the National League batting race with .346 and .342, respectively. Davis also led the league in RBI with 153 and Mays was tops in homers with 49.

Drysdale, a 25-game winner, struck out the most batters in the majors, 232. Koufax, sidelined part of the season with a finger injury, posted the lowest ERA in the National League, 2.54.

N. Y. Yacht Club Rejects '63 Cup Bid from British

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yacht Club, holders of the famed America's Cup, rejected a challenge yesterday from Lord Mountbatten of the Royal Thames Yacht Club to compete for the historic old cup in September of next year.

H. Irving Pratt, commodore of the New York club, said he cabled the rejection to Lord Mountbatten shortly after receiving the challenge. He rejected for 1963, but left the door open for future competition.

He refused to say why the bid was refused, but it is known that the United States yachtmen, who spent much this year repulsing the Australian challenger Gretel in a September series off Newport, R. I., wanted to wait until 1964 at least before taking on another rival.

"We simply haven't got the men who can get the job done and who can afford to spend at least six months a year in racing," one club member, who asked not to be identified, said.

The United States has held the Cup for 111 years. For many years it was contested for by such as Sir Thomas Lipton and T. O. M. Sopwith in huge J-Class yachts, but in 1937 the conditions were changed to permit the use of 12-meter boats.

During the recent races off Newport, during which the Weatherly beat the Gretel in four out of five races, there were reports that the British intended to challenge.

The British are building two 12-meter boats. One was designed by David Boyd and is being built by Anthony Boyden at Holy Loch, near the U. S. Polaris missle base in Scotland. Boyd also designed the other yacht which is being built in the south of England.

Britain was represented by Sceptre in the 1958 challenge which Columbia won in four straight races.

Lord Mountbatten's challenge may have been a tactical move for the future. During the Newport races several Italian yacht clubs showed interest in a challenge sometime in the future and the Australians reportedly are eager for another try. Getting in the first challenge may give the Royal Thames club premier consideration when the New York club is ready to accept.

Advised that the New York Yacht Club had turned down the 1963 challenge, Boyden, a member of the Royal Thames' sailing committee, said, "I am surprised. The committee had examined the rules and, as I understand it, the position was that the Americans do not have the right to turn down a challenge.

"Under the deed of gift relating to the Cup, they have to accept a challenge, or else give up the Cup to the challenge club.

"I should think there is bound to be some negotiation between the two clubs about the position. Perhaps the Americans have some grounds for postponing a challenge which we don't know about.

"But if we can't challenge them for 1963 then we shall have to sail against them in 1964."

Pratt was not immediately available for comment on the British viewpoint of the rules.

Griffith Wins 'Crown' Bout

VIENNA (AP) — World welterweight champion Emile Griffith of New York outpointed Teddy Wright of Detroit last night in a 15-round bout billed for the world junior middleweight title.

The organizers would up the only ones recognizing the fight as for a title. The European Boxing Union refused recognition on Tuesday and the World Boxing Association (formerly the U.S. NBA) said it would recognize instead a bout between Denny Moyer and Joey Giambra scheduled in Portland, Ore., Saturday.

In a supporting exhibition eight-rounder, former world middleweight and welterweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson knocked out Spanish middleweight Diego Infantes at 1 minute, 15 seconds of the second round.

The 42-year-old Robinson dropped the Spaniard with two left hooks to the head, followed by a sharp left to the body.

Dark Plans No Great Changes In Giant Team

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Manager Alvin Dark says he isn't planing any big changes in his National League champion San Francisco Giants.

"We're a young club except for Billy Pierce (35) and Jack Sanford (33) and they have some good seasons left," he said after the Giants lost to the New York Yankees, 1-0, in the final World Series game Tuesday.

"Willie Mays is only 31 and Jim Davenport hasn't hit 30 yet. The rest have their best years ahead of them.

"If a ball club is good enough to win the pennant, I don't see any need for any major changes."

Like any club, however, the Giants will be on the lookout for additional pitching and there could be trades in that direction.

Dark planned to spend several weeks resting and playing golf after his club's gruelling 172-game slate.

Dark refuses to second guess himself but he did say, "I have no regrets about the way we played it. You figure out your moves in advance and make them according to the men you've got. Then you forget them.

"But I thought to the last that, some way, we'd win it."

The Giants came as close as possible without wining. In the ninth with two out, Willie Mays doubled down the right field line. The still-heavy turf held up the ball, Roger Maris fielded it cleanly and base-runner Matty Alou was held at third.

Willie McCovey ended the game with a screaming liner directly at second baseman Bobby Richardson.

"We'd bounced back so much this season that I just kept feeling we would win it in the ninth, as we have so often in the past," Dark mused. "But baseball, as they say, is a game of inches."

Baseball Wigs Busy Yesterday

Associated Press

This happened Wednesday in major league baseball:

1. Walter Alston rehired for a ninth year as manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers at a reported $42,000 salary. Alston said he wanted Leo Durocher back as one of his coaches.

2. Bobby Bragan named manager of the Milwaukee Braves, succeeding Birdie Tebbets who moved to Cleveland 10 days ago. Bragan will keep Whit Wyat and Jo-Jo White as coaches.

3. Red Schoendienst dropped as player by St. Louis Cardinals and named full-time coach.

4. Four members of the Los Angeles Dodgers named to Associated Press' All-Star team for 1962.

5. Hank Aguirre of Detroit and Sandy Koufax of Los Angeles Dodgers, both southpaws, win earned run championships of their respective leagues.

6. Chicago Cubs trade outfielder George Altman, pitcher Don Cardwell and catcher Moe Thacker to St. Louis for pitchers Larry Jackson and Lindy McDaniel and catcher Jimmie Schaffer.

7. Los Angeles Angels buy pitcher Mel Nelson from Atlanta of International League.

8. Boston Red Sox sell reserve first baseman Don Gile to Seattle of Pacific Coast League.

Ice Palace To Feature Hockey Games

ASBURY PARK — Initiating a new policy, the famed Casino Ice Palace will feature topflight ice hockey as well as public skating sessions, Robert B. Meickle, newly appointed general manager said last week.

Meickle's appointment was announced by James P. Smith, president of Arena Attractions, operators of the Boardwalk ice rink, only one of its kind, which is built out over the ocean.

Mr. Meickle was formerly with Eastern Hockey League teams in Washington, and has coached and managed leading amateur squads.

In addition to the popular public skating sessions, a junior-senior program will be initiated, and a team is being readied for hockey competitions in the New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Connecticut areas.

Exhibition games to be presented include St. Nick's Hockey Club of New York versus The Potomac Hockey Club of Washington, D. C.. Saturday, Nov. 17. The Baltimore Clippers and Potomac Hockey Club and their Pee Wee counterparts will round out a double-header attraction. Game time is 5 p.m.

Top amateur teams in the New Jersey, New York, and Eastern Pennsylvania territories are invited to contact Mr. Meickle at the Casino Ice Palace for appearances.

Rutgers Leads Opponents In Statistics

NEW BRUNSWICK — Thanks to a 407-yard, 26-first down effort in last Saturday's 27-15 win over Colgate, Rutgers football team has overtaken its rivals in most statistical categories.

The crisp display of ball control against the Red Raiders gave the Scarlet two more first downs in the game than it had in the two previous games against Princeton and Connecticut. Rutgers now has 50 to 44 for its opponents and has gained 835 yards to 761 for its foes.

Individually, a hot battle is in the making among quarterback Bob Yaksick of Clairton, Pa., fullback Drew Carollo of Monessen, Pa., and halfback Bill Thompson of this city for rushing honors.

Carollo, by virtue of his 96-yard total against Colgate, took a slim lead in rushing with 135 yards in 31 carries. Yaksick has 127 yards and Thompson 125.

Yaksick, however, has an overwhelming lead in total offense. Via running and passing, he has 391 yards in 78 plays. He also leads in scoring with 18 points.

Bill Craft, Riverside end, still leads in pass receiving with nine catches for 177 yards. Paul Strelick, Charleroi, Pa., end, is next with three catches for 20 yards and one touchdown. He is second in scoring with 12 points.

Dodgers Re-hire Alston; Pilot Wants Durocher Kept as Coach

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers re-hired manager Walter Alston yesterday. And Alston, refusing to believe reports that he had been sabotaged by Leon Durocher, said he'd like to retain the colorful and controversial Dodger coach.

Alston, dean of National League managers, will be returning for his 10th season as the Dodger field leader.

Some suspected, after the Dodgers blew the pennant in the final week of the season, that the 50-year-old manager might be washed up. But, partly because general manager Buzzie Bavasi, Alston's contract renewal was anticipated by most of the reporters who turned up for yesterday's new conference at Dodger Stadium.

Alston, speaking by telephone from his home in Darrtown, Ohio, said: "I'm going to enjoy my vacation a lot more now."

Durocher wasn't present and reporters couldn't reach him to find out if he wants to come back as a coach.

Following club tradition, the Dodgers are giving Alston a year contract. Alston was believed to be making about $42,000 under his old contract and the consensus is his salary won't change much, if at all.

Durocher Controversy

The latest Durocher controversy was brought on by published reports that Leo had second-guessed Alston after the playoffs and had hinted he could have won the pennant if he'd been manager. Durocher denied saying this, but Bavasi said he'd have to prove he didn't, and even suggested there wasn't room on the club for both Alston and Durocher.

Alston, asked yesterday whether Durocher would be back, said: "As far as I know, yes, I'm satisfied with the way Leo worked. No one has convinced me he said those things about me. If I had anything to do with it, he'd be back."

Bavasi said Alston can choose his coaches, but they'll discuss the matter further before any final decision is made.

"Let's face it," Bavasi said. "We're not going to stop Leo from talking. Nobody's going to do that. Nobody's been able to do it for 50 years. We wouldn't want to do it. It wouldn't be the same Leo.

"If Alston can live with Leo, that's fine with me."

Bavasi told a newman earlier this week that he'd be willing to bet 100-to-1 Alston would offer to retain Durocher no matter what Leo might have said.

"What you've got to understand," Bavasi said, "is that Alston isn't like the rest of us."

Alston is known to have had only one direct conflict with Durocher. That happened this year, when Leo suggested in the dugout at St. Louis that a player who had just committed a blunder should have been fined. Alston turned on Durocher and told him to mind his own business, reminding him Alston was the manager.

Alston became Dodger manager in 1954, four years before the club moved from Brooklyn to Los Angeles.

Two Championships

In nine seasons under Alston, the Dodgers finished first three times, second three times, third once, fourth once and seventh once. Alston was manager the only two years the Dodgers ever won the world championship — in 1955 in Brooklyn and in 1959 at Los Angeles.

He escaped much of the blame for the club's collapse this year. It was attributed more to a hitting slump in the final weeks of the season and to the loss of Sandy Koufax.

Koufax, probably the best pitcher on the Dodger staff the first half of the season, was disabled in July by a circulatory disorder in the forefinger of his pitching hand. He made a few brief appearances late in the season but was ineffective.

• Dodger president Walter F. O'Malley didn't attend yesterdays conference, but said later:

"I don't know what all the fuss is about. Five minutes after we lost the playoffs, I phoned Alston and told him to relax, not to worry."

Doug Jones In Garden Bout

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Foster, undefeated in 12 professional bouts and former Air Force and Pan American Games champion, will meet Doug Jones of New York Saturday night in a 10-round heavyweight bout at Madison Square Garden.

Matchmaker Teddy Brenner substituted Foster, a 23-year-old, 6-foot-4 boxer from Washington, D.C., for Zora Folley, world's third-ranked heavyweight, against Jones. Folley was forced to withdraw due to a virus attack.

Bridge Column

According to one of my friends, the way to stay healthy is to stand on your head. He plays bridge that way too.

West opened the five of hearts, and he won in his hand with the nine. Even from his peculiar position he saw that he needed dummy's diamonds to make the contract.

Now, a normal human being would lead a low diamond from the South hand and try a finesse with dummy's queen. And this would land him squarely in the minus column.

Back would come a heart to dummy's ace, and South would have no diamonds, no game and no rubber.

Yoga Play

What has this to do with Yoga? Don't forget my friend was standing on his head. He found a different way to play the diamonds: he led a low diamond from dummy.

Poor East had K-x of diamonds and stepped up with the king for fear of losing it. He'd have to be a genius to do anything else. (There are a dozen players in the country who would play a low diamond quickly and casually from the East hand, and there are a few hundred more who say they'd make this play.)

After East had played the king of diamonds South had no further problems.

What if East had held three diamonds instead of only two? Then South would have to lose two diamond tricks no matter how he played the suit.

What if West had the king of diamonds? South would take the normal diamond finesse later, and would lose nothing by his initial topsy-turvy play.

In short, my friends play was perfectly correct.

Maybe it's a good way to write about bridge too-

Pilgrim Youth Fellowship Has Its Installation

HAZLET — A candlelight ceremony to install new officers of Pilgram Youth Fellowship of Faith Reformed Church was held Sunday at the church.

Teri Evans is president; George Richard, Jr., vice president; Sharon Bryan, secretary, and Cynthia Bryan, treasurer.

Mrs. George Weber conducted the ceremony.

The Pilgrim Youth Fellowship members meet Sunday from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Those eligible for membership are sixth, seventh and eighth graders.

Miss Evans named JoAnn Van Roten as devotional chairman, and Robert Erbig, 3d, as chairman of refreshments.

The group will hold a Halloween party Oct. 28 at the church at 6:30 p.m., and trips to historical points of interest are scheduled.

Members also are making items for the annual church fair scheduled for Friday, Nov. 30, and Saturday, Dec. 1. They will present a table of their workmanship.

The advisers for the year are Mrs. George Marshall, Mrs. Weber and Mrs. George Richards.

Auxiliary Meets

HAZLET — Ladies' Auxillary of the fire company met Monday night in the fire house with 14 members present.

The president, Mrs. John Truex, conducted the meeting. Reports were given by Mrs. Eugene Testino, Mrs. John Limbach

Following the business session, Mrs. Edward Schumacker of Monmouth Beach gave a candle-making demonstration.

Hostesses were Mrs. Henry McGuire and Mrs. Edward H. Barton. Hostesses for the next meeting, Nov. 12, will be Mrs. Aldon Sproul and Mrs. William P. Titus.

3 Slated To Attend Convention

ATLANTIC CITY — Three Monmouth County superintendents of schools will attend the 17th annual convention of the New Jersey School Superintendents Assocation from Tuesday to next Thursday.

M. Gregg Hibbs, superintendent of Red Bank Schools, and Granville V. Magee, Wall Township superintendent, will be workshop consultants at the three-day conference.

Frank Weinheimer, Monmouth Regional High School superintendent, New Shrewsbury, will discuss in-service education and supervision assisted by faculty members, H. Donn McCafferty, social studies chairman; Mrs. Edna Pratt, mathematics department chairman, and Mrs. Theodosia Theus, librarian.

OFFICIALS AT MEETING

OCEANPORT — Mayor Edward C. Wilson, Sr. accompanied by Councilmen Sommers, Felix Foggia, George Barrett and Edward Urion, attended a meeting last week in the War Memorial Building, Trenton, to acquire information on the accelerated public works program.

Community Appeal Set In Borough

MONMOUTH BEACH — Monmouth Beach will launch its fifth annual Community Appeal next Tuesday.

Mayor Sidney B. Johnson and Edward H. Thayer, co-chairmen, announced that the borough fire siren will sound at 7 o'clock that evening as a signal for residents to turn on their porch lights to welcome volunteer collectors.

Under the Community Appeal system, a contributor may specify the amount he chooses to give to each agency, covering all or just a few, as he desires. The pledge payment system also will be used again this year.

There are 12 participating agencies: Boy Scouts, Catholic Welfare Bureau, Family Children's Society, Girl Scouts, Mental Health, Monmouth Beach Library Association, Muscular Dystrophy, New Jersey Association of Retarded Children, Red Cross, United Cerebral Palsy, USO and YM-CA.

The team captains are Walter F. Burns, Kristian Nilson and Harold W. Peterson. Other members of the Appeal Committee are: Mrs. Edwin L. Brower, Mrs. Walter F. Burns, George J. Chertoff, Raymond Dougherty, Mrs. William J. Heath, Robert W. Kleinberg and Mrs. Harry J. Tober.

New Twist: He Offers U. S. Stamps

SHREWSBURY — William D. Layton, proprietor of Layton's Cities Service Station on Broad St. near Newman Springs Rd., has added a new twist to the stamp saving craze.

He offers his customers U.S. savings stamps.

Mr. Layton opened his present business in July after having operated another filling station nearby for six years. Upon opening he discovered that a variety of trading stamps were being offered by gas stations in the vicinity and that there wasn't a stamp of any color or description available for his patrons.

Savings stamps were Mr. Layton's solution to the problem. He said he believes the arrangement to be unique in the East.

Mr. Layton buys the stamps, himself and gives his customers a 10-cent stamp with each $3 worth of gas, accessories or service purchased. A completed album is worth $18.70 and may be redeemed for a savings bond with a maturity value of $25.

POST TO PUTERMAN

LONG BRANCH — Joseph Puterman, 32 Chelsea Ave., had been elected secretary of the United Cerebral Palsy Asoociations of New Jersey.

"ASTRO-GUIDE" By Ceean

For Friday, October 19

Present—For You and Yours... Check a tendency to complain, especially about matters you can't control. Don't sit back and envy the aggressiveness of someone else; try some yourself. Don't let disparaging remarks of others impede your progress. Be an independent thinker and doer and you'll get results eventually.

Past... From 1911 to 1917, annual automobile production jumped from 100,000 to 1,745,000 and—no matter how loud old Nellie whinnied—the horseless carriage was here to stay. Back in those days, dad may have driven to work in a Hudson, Oakland, Locomobile, Winton or Saxon.

Future... Let's look at a prediction made by Napoleon in 1815. He predicted that "In 150 years, America will stand alone on a pile of gold, without friends, in a warring world." If he was correct, the U.S. has three years more to make the pile.

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19) Hard-won gains mature now. Start a savings plan for future security.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You can learn a lot today by listening with an open mind and closed mouth.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) An unexpected lucky break may come your way. Be thankful for it and say so.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21) Don't do anything just for a thrill that you may regret ever after.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Now you can get a clearer picture of what is developing. The outlook is fine.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) This is an excellent time to achieve major aims. Creative ability is strong.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Sidetrack bickering. Avoid controversial subjects at the breakfast table.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Vibrations suggest that personal relationships may be disturbed temporarily.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) All relationships are harmoniously aspected, especially between employer and employee.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If your plans need revision, make the necessary changes without fear.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can overcome a minor obstacle if you are not touchy and self-conscious.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Someone in financial distress may call for help, but don't strain your budget.

...By George!

(Big problem sale! Furnish your own answers! Our warehouse overstocked! Write to George, c/o this newspaper.)

Dear George:

My only problem is that all my woman friends are envious of me. I have the best husband in the world. He gives me anything I want and does everything for me. But all the women wish their husbands were like he is, and they think I have some sort of secret weapon of persuasion—and want to know the secret.

All I do is give him everything he wants and do everything for him that I can . . . that is my only secret but they won't believe it. How can I stop my friends from being so envious?

Reba K. H.

Dear Reba K.H.:

What are you trying to do? Run us advice columnists out of business? What did we ever do to you? At least you could set aside alternate Wednesdays for nagging or fussing—we have to live too, you know. (???)

Seriously, relax and enjoy the envy. If you think wives are envious of you, you should think of the husbands who—upon reading this—are envious of your man.

Dear George:

Everytime we go out my boy friend keeps holding one of those little translstor radios up to his ear.

Bee

Dear Bee:

Well, this seems fairly normal and I don't quite understand your problem—if he starts holding radios up to his nose, write again.

Fluoridation Question

Issue on Ballot Again in Freehold, 2 Other Towns

By JOHN KOLESAR

TRENTON (AP)—Fluoridation, which has a pitiful batting average in New Jersey elections, comes up for licks again in three New Jersey communities Nov. 6.

Referendums will be held in Freehold Borough, Levittown and Lower Penns Neck to see if fluoride should be added to the local water systems.

Since 1954, there have been 16 referendums on fluoridation. The proposal lost in all but four of those elections. Even the Republican party hasn't done that bad, and it makes no promise to cut dental cavities.

The State Health Department is solidly in favor of adding fluoride to water and it has shown signs of frustration at the repeated defeats. In recent months, Dr. Roscoe P. Kandle, state health commissioner, has issued a couple of broadsides in favor of fluoridation.

Low Content

Kandle bemoans the fact that only 7.4 per cent of the people in New Jersey served by central water systems get the required amount of fluoride in their water. Forty-five other states top that figure.

While doctors and dentists are all for fluoridation, the political right wing fights it tooth and nail. The John Birch Society is against it. In New Jersey, the Christian Educational Association, Union, sells a 10-cent pamphlet entitled "Fluoridation Unmasked." It also sells a $4 phonograph record entitled "The Case Against Fluoridation." Its catalog also includes such works as "Kosher Food Blackmail of Christian American Housewives."

Only in Levittown has any real opposition to fluoridation arisen so far in this year's referendums. The opposition is generally based on grounds that adding something to water is a violation of freedom. There are also charges that fluoride is a poison that can cause illness.

One Effect

The health department retorts that tests show fluoride in proper amounts has only one effect—reduction of dental cavities by two-thirds in children who drink the water from birth. Kandle says fluoride has been tested and proved to be safe, economical and practical. Its legality has been upheld time and time again.

The health department says one part of fluoride should be added to each million parts of water. That is enough to cut cavities without having any other effect. While the opponents object to anybody adding anything to their water, the health department points out that a lot of things are added to water, including chlorine.

Right now, 34 municipalities add fluoride to water in New Jersey. Most of them are in Monmouth and Ocean Counties, where a joint agreement resulted in one water system (Monmouth Consolidated) adopting fluoride for all its municipalities.

Sixteen other municipalities get the proper amount of fluoride in their water naturally.

North Jersey

None of the big northern Jersey water system use any fluoride. They are interlocked and it would take a mass agreement by all the municipalities simultaneously to allow fluoridation there.

While fluoridation is normally submitted to a referendum, the step is not necessary legally. It can be done by ordinance, and occasionally a city administration works up its nerve and acts on its own. For instance, Atlantic City's administration adopted fluoridation in 1956, after a referendum lost in 1954.

In the past eight years, the only municipalities to vote for fluoridation were Cinnaminson, Palmyra, Egg Habor City and Highland Park. Cinnaminson and Palmyra were vetoed when the co-partner in their water system, Riverton, turned it down.

Freehold also turned down fluoridation in 1956, so its referendum next month will be a second try. So far, the opposition does not appear as strong as the first time.

Other defeats for fluoridation have occurred in Madison, Trenton, Collingswood, Margate, Mount Holly, Maple Shade, Keansburg, New Providence and Ventnor.
