An Exclusive Interview

FBI's Hoover Has No Plans to Retire

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP) — J. Edgar Hoover has survived more than 40 turbulent years as director of the FBI under seven presidents. Now he merely chuckles at those who talk of his early retirement.

Hoover, who is 69 years old, said in an interview: "I feel fine. I'm in better physical condition than I have been in years. And I intend to remain active because I just don't like the rocking-chair life. If I retired, I wouldn't enjoy life very much."

Hoover gives every appearance of a man who is enjoying life hugely, even when it becomes a bit hectic as it has been in recent days. He is 33 pounds lighter than he was six years ago. He appears to have lost little if any of his old restless energy. And he places no cutoff date on his future.

Part of his exuberance, no doubt, comes from the fact that President Johnson waived last May the requirement that he retire at 70, which he reaches in January.

"So you might say I'm hooked — and I'm happy about it even though staying on the job will cost me money," Hoover said. "If I retired, I could, under the new law, draw a tax-free pension of $30,000 a year. But by staying on the job I must pay a substantial part of it in income taxes."

Hoover said he had observed that men who remain physically and mentally busy are less subject to heart attacks and other ailments than those who retire, slow their working pace, and grow fat from leisure.

He mentioned Bernard Baruch, Winston Churchill and the late Herbert Hoover as examples of men who continued active, useful lives long after they had passed 70.

"If I quit," he said, "I think I would have trouble. After three or four days of vacation I get so itchy for activity that I call the office and ask them to send me some work."

Into Background

The FBI chief at first was more interested in talking of his health than such matters as his tiff with the Rev. Martin Luther King, the civil rights leader, and his annoyance with the Warren Commission's report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. He shoved them into the background.

"A few years ago," Hoover recalled, "I spent the Christmas holidays in Miami with friends. We ate at all the best restau-

Pope Breaks Bread With 30 Orphans

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Pope Paul VI visited a wretched slum area of Bombay today, comforting the destitute and the ill and wiping tears from his eyes as he talked with orphan boys of various faiths.

Thousands jammed the squalid streets, straining for a glimpse of the Roman Catholic pontiff. Rioting threatened as police fought to maintain a path for the papal entourage, but frantic loudspeaker appeals calmed the crowd moments before the Pope arrived.

The Pope opened his third day in India by celebrating an outdoor Mass in a Catholic school stadium. He then walked to a nearby orphanage for breakfast and from there drove miles through the teeming streets for one appointment after another.

"Many of us have no fathers," 13-year-old Tony Mascerenas said as he welcomed the Pope to the orphanage. "Many of us have no mothers. Some, like me, have no one in this world."

Wipes Tears

The Pope wiped his eyes as the boy continued:

"You have left important people and grand places to see us in our poor house . . . We cannot give you anything because we have nothing. But we ask God to reward your holiness."

The Pope joined 30 of the home's 216 boys for breakfast, praying with them and drinking coffee and orange juice. The boys had milk tinged with coffee, jam sandwiches and oranges.

The Pope announced a gift of $10,000 to the orphanage. And to each of the boys he personally distributed rosaries and commemorative medals.

The boys were scrubbed and their hair was slicked down. Floors were swept spotless and green rugs hid the kitchen yard where ducks and chickens wandered.

But broken windowpanes and shutters had not been repaired because of the expense.

As he left the room, some boys were trying on their rosaries,

Striking Nescafe Workers Agree To Check Offer

FREEHOLD — A total of 185 Nescafe plant workers who struck the Nestle Co. factory here Tuesday agreed yesterday to take another look at a company offer for a new contract.

Jack Pierce, state mediation board representative obtained the commitment during a conference at the plant on Jerseyville Ave. between management and spokesmen for Local 68 of the AFL-CIO Operating Engineers union.

Harold Colvin, industrial relations negotiator for Nestle and John Boyle, secretary of the union local, said employees will meet today or tomorrow to review the company's plan and decide whether to accept it or to continue the strike.

Both sides had agreed before the conference that the issue was not so much how much additional money the company would pay but its distribution between salary and fringe benefits.

Mr. Colvin said the company believes the employees did not fully understand the company proposition and asked for reconsideration.

If an agreement is reached, he said, the plant could be reopened for production Monday, Dec. 14.

Plans announced even before the strike was voted and picket line formed provided for a layoff all next week for inventory adjustments. The company said its stocks were back-

Says We Need 'Squares'

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, says the nation should restore the "square" to a rank of honor.

"There has been too much glorification of the angle players, the corner cutters, the sharp shooters and the goof offs," she said in a speech yesterday to 1,200 leaders of Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization.

"A 'square' wouldn't stand idly by while a woman was stabbed or stripped naked and attacked," the gray-haired senator said. She deplored what she described as a national pattern of refusing to get involved.

"Many years ago," she said, "the word 'square' was one of the most honored and respected words in our vocabulary. A 'square' deal was an honest deal. A 'square' meal a good and full meal.

"It was the 'square' shooter rather than the 'sharp' shooter who was admired. When you were financially 'square' you had paid all your debts.

He Is the fellow who never learned to get away with it—the one who volunteers when he doesn't have to—who tries too do better than others—who has to be reminded to go home because he's so lost in his work —whose heart beats faster and who gets choked up when the band plays 'The Star Spangled Banner' and the flag unfurls."

Even the word "character," said Sen. Smith, "has been prostituted."

In the past, she said, "a man of character was a person universally acclaimed and respected for integrity, honor, responsibility and determination . . ."

Now, she asserted, "when someone is referred to as being a 'character' he is considered a 'square,' an eccentric, an 'odd ball' —as being abnormal.

"One of America's greatest needs today is for more people who are square and who have character and who are willing to be their brother's keeper."

Monmouth's Trade School Expansion Is Being Pushed

FREEHOLD—Rapid expansion of Monmouth county's budding vocational school construction program was indicated yesterday.

The county Vocational Board of Education, which already has a building under way at Long Branch, moved to speed previously-approved work at Middletown Township and authorized projects at Wall and Raritan Townships.

In all about $1.6 million is involved in construction money and $500,000 in equipment.

All four schools, providing upwards of 25 shops and a capacity for at least 500 students, would be in use by September, 1967, Donald P. Hoagland, vocational director, forecast.

Plans In Motion

Mr. Hoagland said the plans put into motion conform with the six-year capital construction budget recently set up by the county Board of Freeholders.

Both the Long Branch building, which will have seven shops and an all-purpose room, and the one at Middletown Township have been authorized by the freeholders. The former will be ready next September.

Voters at Middletown Township will be asked to approve the township proposition at a special referendum Dec. 16.

Earl B. Garrison, county superintendent of schools, said the issue for voters will be whether to agree to turn over to the county a two acre parcel adjacent to the high school as the construction site.

Mr. Garrison said that neither he nor officials in the state department of education at Trenton saw the necessity for the vote to make the building project legal. Nothing prevents it, either, he indicated.

Should township voters decide against the land transfer, Mr. Hoagland said, the county could consider reassigning its construction money.

Under its decentralized vocational plan, the county erects buildings on land supplied by local school districts. Sites must be immediately adjacent to existing high schools.

The intent is that all county money will be used for vocational facilities, students spending a half-day in the technical program and a half-day in general academic work already provided by the district.

The county board sees the plan as avoiding duplication of facilities, reducing travel problems, and removing what board president Marvin A. Clark has called a "stigma" which he says usually attaches to youngsters pulled out of local school programs and assigned to central vocational schools.

Courses to be offered at Middletown would be electronics, drafting, beauty culture, electri-

New Shrewsbury Is Fighting State's Hope Rd. Dead-End Plan

NEW SHREWSBURY—Current plans for the Rt. 18 freeway will dead end Hope Rd. south of the Garden State Parkway spur, it was revealed at last night's Borough Council meeting.

Council has already drawn up a letter of protest to State Highway Commissioner Dwight R. G. Palmer, which reads, in part, as follows:

"As plans for Rt. 18 were being developed, borough officials have been outspoken in their insistence that none of the roads in New Shrewsbury be dead-ended in the course of construction.

"At. . .public hearings they were gratified to find that the arguments advanced had apparently been accepted. . .

Plans Amended

"Recently, however, and only by chance, they were informed that since the last public hearing the plans had been amended and now Hope Rd. was to be dead-ended south of the (Garden State) Parkway spur. This information comes as a real shock to those who recognize what effect such a change will make."

The letter goes on to point out that dead-ending Hope Rd. will leave the "elongated borough" with only one through road along its length — Wayside Rd.

The letter continues:

"The effect of blocking Hope Rd. must be considered as it relates to inconvenience and cost to the public for travel and school bus routing, to safety factors of police, fire, and first aid protection, and to the detrimental effect on industrial growth in the area. . .

Want Assurance

"We look forward to your prompt assurance that Hope Rd. will remain open. . ."

Copies of the letter will go to Gov. Richard J. Hughes; Sen. Richard R. Stout; Assemblymen Alfred N. Beadleston, Irving E. Keith and Patrick J. McGann; County Planning Board Chairman Charles M. Pike; Mayor Herbert E. Werner, Borough Council, and Planning Board of Eatontown; and the local Planning Board.

Borough Administrator Jerome S. Reed read a copy of a letter sent to Mr. Palmer by Assemblyman McGann strongly protesting the change in plan.

Another letter opposing the move was received from the Civic League of New Shrewsbury.

Two Other Possibilities

GOP Still Has Eyes On Case as Candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three New Jersey members of Congress — Reps. Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen and William T. Cahill and especially Sen. Clifford P. Case—are reported under pressure from within the party to enter the race for the Republican gubernatorial nomination next year.

New Jersey Republicans are seeking a top vote getter to head next year's ticket since recent State Supreme Court reapportionment decision would force all legislators to run for office next year.

Case won re-election by a record margin in 1960 while Frelinghuysen and Cahill were returned to office by heavy majorities in the face of a landslide vote for President Johnson.

Vote Getting

One Republican source said Case could obtain the nomination easily if he wanted it. "He's the proven Republican vote getter in New Jersey," the source added.

But Case has shown no indication that he wants the nomination. In fact he has definitely directed his vision from that goal.

He has repeatedly said he prefers to continue his duties in Washington where he has experience and seniority in committee assignments. But one aide said the senator is under pressure within the party to consider entering the gubernatorial race despite this.

Case has already said he would like to help the party select a top candidate for next year's gubernatorial race, one of only two to be staged in the nation during 1965. Virginia also elects a governor next year.

Screening Committee

County chairmen in New Jersey are scheduled to meet next Wednesday and can be expected to discuss the gubernatorial race and the possibility of naming a screening committee to settle on a candidate.

A similar GOP screening committee selected Bernard M. Shanley as the party's choice for the senatorial nomination last year despite Case's opposition.

Cahill was not available for comment in Washington Thursday and Frelinghuysen is traveling in Europe with a House Foreign Affairs Committee delegation.

Two Letters

Frelinghuysen has shied away from any mention of the governorship in the past but one source said "people of considerable weight in the party are urging him to run."

He has received at least two letters signed by top party leaders urging him to consider entering the race.

One source who declined to be quoted by name said Frelinghuysen, although he has shown no interest in the nomination, feels a responsibility to the party and might reconsider his position if there was widespread support within the party.

Subdivision Applications To Be Held at Marlboro

MARLBORO — The Planning Board last night put off until January all major subdivision applications.

U. S. Homes and Developments Corp. of Lakewood continued to be the prime topic of the meeting.

Approval of 52 lots in Marlboro West was deferred until the next board meeting Jan. 7. The Municipal Utility Authority will meet tonight to discuss approval of the proposed water facilities for the development.

The U.S. Homes counsel, Steward M. Hutt, Perth Amboy, said there is nothing in the subdivision ordinance relating to the Municipal Utility Authority. He said that the applicant is willing to put in individual wells, and noted that U.S. Homes has $1½ million invested in the development and cannot afford to delay any longer.

Although the builders prefer a central water system, they contemplate beginning with individual case driven wells and will later switch to the central system.

Planning Board Chairman Edward W. Legier said there were variations in the final map as compared to the preliminary map.

Mr. Hutt asked that all objections and shortcomings of the final map be submitted to the developers before the next board meeting. The problem was handed over to the board's subdivision committee for approval, pending the decision of the utility authority.

Two lots of .69 acres were classified as a major sub-division by the board. U.S. Homes plans a gasoline service station for the area on the east side of Rt. 9, several hundred feet north of Union Hill Rd.

Members said the subdivision would adversely affect development of the remaining property, and would be detrimental to future subdivisions.

Property on this map belongs in part to Forman Naylor. It is a narrow piece of land between the proposed subdivision of parcel two and the existing section that has caused the subdivision to be classified as major.

Board Attorney Irwin J. Silverlight, of Sachar, Sachar & Bernstein, Plainfield, termed it premature to refer to the Naylor tract as part of the U.S. Homes land, because the proposed sale of the property is not yet closed.

Application for 49 lots in section six of Marlboro West remained under study. It is joined by sections three, four and five — all to be deferred until the January meeting.

Property belonging to Bruno Lucarelli at Lloyd and Nolan Rds. in Morganville was referred to the subdivision committee. The deed to this 22.2 acre tract has not yet been received.

The board approved Michael Munyak's two-lot minor subdivision of business property on Rt. 9.

Property belonging to Nelson and Ann Emmons on Ryan and Silvers Rds. was designated as minor. Acceptance of the subdivision was deferred pending receipt by the board of the deed for a right-of-way for the land. Planning Board Engineer Leon S. Avakian, Asbury Park, suggested that all buildings be shown on the plan when submitted to the board.

Realignment of property on Rt. 79 belonging to Henry Ayers and Helen A. Karnaker was accepted and approved as a minor subdivision.

Crucial Day in Baker Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators investigating an alleged political payoff shift sights today to question a witness Republicans once wanted to ask about the role a German beauty played in the Bobby Baker case.

Paul Aguirre, who has business interests in Puerto Rico, was scheduled among the opening witnesses on what could be the windup day of this round of the Senate Rules Committee investigation.

In a minority report filed after the committee's first hearings into the outside business activities of Baker, former secretary to Senate Democrats, the Republican members said: "The minority unsuccessfully fought to have Mr. Paul Aguirre called as a witness.

"Aguirre could have been asked what part Ellen Rometsch, or other like individuals, had in the promotion of Baker's financial interests or dealings with government officials, government contracts, and others.

"He could have been asked what interests Baker had, or sought to acquire for himself or others, in housing, gambling concessions, and other enterprises in the Caribbean area."

Mrs. Rometsch is the former wife of a soldier once attached to the West German Embassy here. She was a hostess in a luncheon club in which Baker was interested. She has returned to Europe.

Seven other witnesses were

Asking Contractor to Post Bond for Sewer Program

FREEHOLD — A major problem in the Cliffwood-Cliffwood Beach sewer line project has been ironed out in the office of Freeholder Charles I. Smith.

Matawan Township Municipal Utility Authority (MTMUA) officers met Wednesday with the freeholder and representatives of the construction company of J. C. Pardun, North Brunswick.

Problems developed because Cliffwood Ave. and Amboy Rd., which are county roads, must be torn up to lay sewer lines as part of the $1,009,000 project.

$2 Per Foot

Mr. Smith said the builders would have to post a cash bond with the county to gain permission to do the work. While a total figure has not been arrived upon, the amount will equal $2 per foot of pipe to be installed.

There are 5,400 feet of mains to be put in on Cliffwood Ave. and 1,400 feet on Amboy Rd. In addition to this footage the length of laterals to be installed still is to be computed.

The main and lateral lines project was begun in August and expected to be completed by Jan. 1. Because the county roads are heavily traveled, the arteries cannot be dug up until spring, when work can be done quickly, with a minimum inconvenience to drivers.

June 1 Target

Henry E. Traphagen, executive director of MTMUA said the project should be completed by June 1.

Presently, he said, the work is about 75 per cent completed. Mr. Traphagen said the Cliffwood Ave. and Amboy Rd. portions represent about eight per cent of the entire project.

He expects the remaining portion to be completed by the end of the year, and said that most of the work still to be done involves closing up the roads that had to be dug up.

Next month, the director, who also is mayor of the township, said he expects to be able to award one or more contracts on construction of Cliffwood-Cliffwood Beach sewage treatment facilities.

$750,000 Plant

This project will include a plant, four pumping stations and electrical work. Originally estimated to cost about $600,000, the amount was raised to $750,000 when a larger plant was decided upon.

Earlier plans called for t capacity of 600,000 gallons per day. Final plans will permit the plant to handle 750,000 gallons per day.

Site of the treatment plant is meadowland off Greenwood Ave., Cliffwood. A grant of $203,160 was obtained from the federal government on the project, $28,840 less than the amount sought by the township.

Bids Due Dec. 23

Bids on the project will be received Dec. 23. It orginally was felt they would have to be submitted to the federal Department of Stream Pollution Control for review.

Mr. Traphagen says he believes this will not be necessary. If he is correct MTMUA officers should be able to decide on the successful bidder or bidders within one week. They expect to award contracts immediately upon making a decision.

The sewer system will cover Cliffwood and Cliffwood Beach. Planning for it includes provisions for future expansion of it if required, up to a million gallons per day.

Mr. Traphagen said that figure should take care of all future growth, including apartment construction.

He expects the plant and all facilities of the system to be in operation by the end of summer, 1965.

National, World News in Brief

BERKELEY, Calif.—President Clark Kerr of the University of California, says the student free speech movement's chaotic sit-in demonstration on campus yesterday amounted to "anarchy by a willful minority of radical students."

An army of police dragged rag-limp students out of the littered corridors of the administration building on the Berkeley campus, and hauled them to jails in buses. They arrested 801 persons.

The rebels seized Sproul Hall Wednesday night and refused to vacate despite a plea to disperse peacefully by Campus Chancellor Edward Strong.

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Republican governors split wide open today over a proposal by their chairman, Gov. Robert Smylie of Idaho, that they demand the ouster of GOP National Chairman Dean Burch.

But the state executives were nearly unanimous in agreement that something drastic has to be done to lift their party out of the abyss of the defeat it suffered Nov. 3.

Smylie, who said he would accept the national chairmanship if the party wanted him, declared in a speech prepared for the opening session of an extraordinary conference that the governors ought to have the stamina to recommend that the national committee "consider making appropriate changes in its leadership."

Defends Decision

NEW YORK — Secretary Robert S. McNamara, defending his decision to close the Brooklyn Navy Yard, says he doesn't think anybody "would want the Defense Department to operate as a WPA."

He says layoffs among the 9,600 civilian employees of the yard will begin soon "because of an insufficient volume of work."

McNamara made the statement at a news conference yesterday following a two-hour meeting with several top New York officials. He rejected appeals by the officials that he reverse the closing order or delay the closing.

Tammany Leader

NEW YORK — J. Raymond Jones, a Negro and a native of the Virgin Islands, now stands atop Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic Party organization.

It was a long journey for Jones, the first Negro to head the 175-year-old organization, from the time he landed in New York's Harlem in 1917 after two years of work aboard a Danish freighter.

cal trades, capentry, and auto mechanics.

The program at Wall Township, where a building also would be ready in the fall of 1966, would include printing, auto mechanics, auto body repair, beatuy culture, and carpentry. The program for Raritan Township, expected to start in 1967, hasn't yet been decided.

The county board noted that firm offers to make building sites available are also on file from Keansburg, which expects to have a high school in 1968, Neptune, and Asbury Park. Discussions also are being held with Freehold Regional High School and Monmouth Regional (at New Shrewsbury).

The county board designated the firm of Fessler, Boyken, and Moss, New Bruswick, to be architect for the Middletown building.

Case

The same source said Frelinghuysen would never enter the picture to battle such Republicans as former State Sen. Walter Jones of Bergen County, State Sen. Nelson Stamler of Union County or State Sen. Wayne Dumont of Warren County for the nomination.

His office said Frelinghuysen would probably conduct a news conference upon his return to Washington to discuss his European trip and would answer any questions on the governorship at that time.

Meanwhile, Rep. Florence P. Dwyer, R-N.J., has made it clear she is not interested in the nomination.

Case was asked at a recent news conference if he thought Mrs. Dwyer's victory in last month's election placed her in the gubernatorial picture. He sidestepped the question by calling Mrs. Dwyer " a great girl."

He said later she had shown no interest in the nomination. She had been mentioned prominently last year as a possible senatorial candidate.

rants — a lot of rich food — and when I got back to the office I was much too heavy.

"Then I got an invitation to a formal dinner at the White House. When I got out my dress suit, I could hardly squeeze into it. In fact, I was afraid during the evening that I'd pop something loose. That is when I decided that I — and all my special agents — were going to take off weight. A survey had showed that almost 1 agent in 10 was too fat.

With Affection

"I took off 10 pounds in a short time merely by leaving off the bread, butter, potatoes and chocolate cream pie. Now I'm down 33 pounds to about 170. And we have only five overweight agents in the entire bureau."

Hoover, who has served as director of the FBI since 1924, speaks with affection of the late President Kennedy and his father, former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy.

"I have known Joe Kennedy for many years," he said, "and I knew the boys as they grew up. My relations with John were very cordial. Soon after his election, and before his inauguration in January 1961, he called me and asked me to stay on as director of the FBI. He also called Allen Dulles and asked him to remain as head of CIA. I told him I would be happy to stay."

Recently Newsweek magazine said President Johnson had decided to find a new FBI boss. It described the President as a "disenchanted fan" of Hoover's. The White House denied the report.

Avoids Disputes

As to his differences with Dr. King (whom he recently called "a notorious liar"), the FBI chief added: "I don't enjoy a controversy, and I don't go looking for one. I have tried for years to avoid public disputes. But I cannot let attacks on the FBI go unchallenged when they are not justified. If I didn't speak out in defense of my agents, I would have no morale left in this organization."

About two weeks ago Hoover leveled some harsh words at his critics during a news conference attended by women reporters. Some thought the words popped out on the spur of the moment, but such wasn't the case.

For several months Hoover had been smarting under reports of criticisms from civil rights leaders, which he felt added up to:

Deriding the efforts of the FBI to bring to justice the men guilty of slaying civil rights workers and bombing Negro homes and churches in the South; advising Negroes not to take their problems to the FBI; saying most FBI agents were Southerners who were not sympathetic to the Negroes' cause; blaming the FBI when the Department of Justice decided not to prosecute certain complaints; and criticizing the FBI's co-operation with "segregationist" police officers in law enforcement.

Public Trust

In his talk with the newswomen, Hoover replied to the criticism.

"The time had come to be blunt," he said in the latest interview. "Public trust in the FBI is an important part of law enforcement and national security. If that trust is chipped away, our defense against crime, espionage and subversion is weakened."

Then he added: "They seem to forget that we have been in the fight to preserve civil rights for the past 40 years. We were fighting against injustices before many of our present critics were born."

In his interview the director said that pressures have increased to turn the FBI into a national police force; people who should know better are suggesting that more and more of the responsibilities of law enforcement should be transferred from local police to the FBI.

"It has been intimated that in protecting the life of the President of the United States," he said, "that federal officers should take into custody everyone who might conceivably be a threat to the President's life when he visits a city.

"This would mean picking up every Communist, kook and beatnik in a city and holding them without charge. If federal officers did this, there would be a tremendous uproar over the violation of these people's civil rights — and rightly so."

Total Security

Hoover still thinks the Warren Commission was unjustified in chiding the FBI for not having passed the name of Lee Harvey Oswald along to the Secret Service as a potential killer. It was Oswald whom the commission held solely responsible for the assassination of President Kennedy. Hoover contends there was nothing in the record to suggest that Oswald was dangerous.

"Total security for the President of the United States is ridiculous," Hoover said. "When he is gregarious and loves to move around, you can't box him in. You can advise him to take certain precautions — but that doesn't mean he will take them."

Hoover said there is pressure from civil rights leaders for the FBI to give personal protection to civil rights workers and those demonstrating for civil rights causes. The proponents argue that local police cannot be trusted to view the Negro cause with sympathy.

scheduled today, including Milton L. Hauft, who once made out income tax returns for Baker and Don B. Reynolds.

Reynolds has testified he was the "bag man" for Baker and Philadelphia contractor Matthew H. McCloskey in a deal to siphon $25,000 into the 1960 Democratic campaign fund from the McCloskey firm's contract to build the District of Columbia stadium.

McCloskey, former ambassador to Ireland and Democratic fund raiser, testified he knew nothing about such a deal.

Testimony Thursday was interrupted by a shouting match between Lennox P. McLendon, special committee counsel, and Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del. Williams triggered this round of the Baker investigation by charging last September in a Senate speech there had been a political payoff.

After Thursday's flareup, Williams stalked out of the hearings and said he wouldn't be back.

Advising Republicans

The Delaware senator is not a member of the committee, but has been advising Republican members in the often politically tinged and frequently stormy hearings.

It was clear to him, Williams said, "my own assistance is no longer wanted" in the probe. He termed it regrettable his "veracity and integrity" had been challenged in the clash with McLendon.

The tiff started when Williams said he had told McLendon about additional government contracts the McCloskey company handled, but claimed McLendon said he was not interested in them unless it involved Baker and other figures in the current probe.

McLendon said Williams had not talked to him about this, and accused Williams of making statements."

Williams later charged "I have had my integrity challenged twice. I overlooked it the first time. I always give a man the second opportunity. But no man gets the third opportunity to call me a liar." He added: "My veracity and integrity were challenged by this committee."

Baker was called before the committee on Wednesday but refused to answer any questions about his role in the alleged payoff.

Auditor OK's Bid Taking Trade Board

FREEHOLD — County Auditor Armour S. Hulsart recommended to the county Vocational Board of Education yesterday that it take bids for major supply orders. And the board replied that it is doing just that.

Mr. Hulsart made his recommendation on a basis of an audit for the annual period ending last July 31. At that time Donald P. Hoagland, vocational director, was employed and he advised the board yesterday that since July all purchases involving more than $1,000, where law requires bids to be taken, have been made on bids.

In other business, the county board approved transfer of Miss Carolee Camp from the clerical staff of the county superintendent Hoagland, effective Jan. 4, at a salary of $2,100 for the six remaining months of the school year.

EAI Reduces Work Force

WEST LONG BRANCH—Richard Donovan, director of industrial relations at Electronic Associates, Inc., here, this morning confirmed that the firm had laid off some employees this week.

Mr. Donovan said the layoff on Wednesday involved less than 100 of the firm's more than 2,100 employees.

He said the majority of those affected were women working in the manufacturing facet of EAI's operations.

EAI has secured other jobs in Monmouth County industries for the majority of the discharged employees, Mr. Donovan told The Register.

"There didn't seem to be any scarcity of available jobs here," he said.

All those laid off have received severance and vacation pay, Mr. Donovan said.

He attributed the employee cutback to the introduction of two new computers in what he said was a "model change-over."

"As soon as the change-over is complete we hope to be able to rehire all those laid off this week, and to hire additional persons besides," Mr. Donovan declared.

He pointed out that EAI will end the year with record sales and shipments and said forecasts are it will break that record next year.

Major Surgery Seen On Reserve Forces

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time in two years, defense officials appear to be preparing for major surgery on military reserve forces.

Just what form that surgery will take is not yet clear. Studies have been under way in both the Air Force and the Army.

The service recommendations are awaited by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who will make the final decisions.

Indications point to possible heavy losses for the Army and Air Force Reserve, perhaps virtual elimination of the Reserve and its merger with the National Guard.

The aim of any new streamlining would be elimination of wasteful and cumbersome duplication and strengthening of the readiness of reserve forces which cost about $2 billion a year to support.

Pentagon planners find it hard to understand why the Army and Air Force should maintain dual organizations — the Reserve and the National Guard — serving essentially the same purpose.

Little fault is found with the Marine Reserve whose 45,000 men would form a fourth marine division and supporting air wing.

Officials claim it would be ready to go overseas in 30 days from call-up.

The Naval Reserve also escapes serious criticism, although officials feel it should be held to 126,000 sea-trained men rather than a larger force including thousands of men who do not train regularly.

It is in the nearly 400,000-man Army Guard and 300,000-man Army Reserve — as well as the 61,000-man Air Force Reserve— that defense officials profess to find flab.

The 75,000-man Air Guard stands in pretty high esteem with these officials.

McNamara's emphasis, so far as the Guard and Reserve are concerned, is on swift readiness for use in cold war or limited war situations.

He became disenchanted with them because of the slowness with which Army Guard units, reinforced by Reservists, rounded into shape during the 1961-1962 Berlin crisis. Two Guard divisions needed five months to get ready after entering federal service.

McNamara's disenchantment did not apply to the Air Guard which sent 11 squadrons to Europe a month after they were mustered into federal service.

The defense secretary's dissatisfaction with the performance of Army Guard-Reserve ground forces in the Berlin crisis led directly to his late 1962 order eliminating four under-strength National Guard and four Reserve divisions plus 731 surplus and obsolete smaller units.

In that same reorganization — which was fought bitterly but unsuccessfully by the Guard and state governors — six Guard divisions and many hundreds of lesser guard and Reserve outfits were designated high priority units.

Their assignment:

To be ready inside of eight weeks to back up the regular Army in a crisis.

To this end, they were built up in manpower and modern guns and equipment. The same treatment was accorded two other guard divisions given the special missions of reinforcing the canal zone and Alaska where necessary.

'Cat' Janiec Fails in Bid For Freedom

FREEHOLD — Lawrence A. Janiec made a game try but got nowhere yesterday in a bid for freedom from State Prison where he is serving a life term as an habitual criminal.

County Judge Edward J. Ascher refused the plea of court-appointed lawyer Benjamin Edelstein to release the oft-convicted "cat burglar" and jailbreaker of the 1940s while one of his convictions is under appeal.

Former County Judge John C. Giordano sentenced Janiec, one time Deal restaurant worker, to a life term Oct. 11, 1951, on a basis of four prior convictions in Monmouth and other counties for high misdemeanors.

Case Discounted

On the strength of a 1962 Supreme Court ruling that convictions could not be sustained if defendants hadn't had the benefit of legal counsel, Janiec succeeded in September in striking out a 1933 robbery conviction in Bergen County.

Armed with that decision, Janiec won the services of Mr. Edelstein and appealed to have his life term set aside on grounds that a necessary ingredient — four prior convictions — was now missing.

Judge Ascher readily agreed that Janiec is right — if the recent Bergen County decision holds up. He said he believes that the Supreme Court will certify it soon for review and that he would not release Janiec in the meantime.

"I don't think I should add to the confusion which already exists," he said.

Even this decision is subject to appeal, and Mr. Edelstein said he will decide over the weekend whether to press one.

Assistant Prosecutor John W. Applegate represented the state. County Prosecutor Vincent P. Keuper, who directed his office to oppose Janiec's request, had been a court-assigned lawyer for the "cat" in the 1951 proceedings.

Judge Ascher said that he was surprised that Bergen County Judge Benjamin P. Galenti, in his ruling of Sept. 21, had not ordered a new trial for Janiec on his 1933 case instead of summarily setting the conviction aside.

Mr. Edelstein called continuation of Janiec in custody as an injustice and unlawful.

Eligibility Cited

He produced a letter from the State Prison stating that if the habitual offender sentence is set aside Janiec would have been eligible for parole as of last Nov. 5. At that point he would have served 19½ years of sentences totaling 27½ to 31 years for Monmouth County offenses.

Aside from the time consideration, Mr. Edelstein said the only thing hanging over Janiec is a $3,000 fine former Judge J. Edward Knight had imposed on Dec. 3, 1952, together with a 12- to 15-year jail term for burglary.

While Janiec would be eligible for release on parole, his freedom would be subject to a decision by the state parole board.

Over the years prison sources have indicated that Janiec was a co-operative prisoner who has devoted his spare time to a score of appeals on various technical grounds and to helping untold other convicts with similar legal papers.

He is perhaps the most famous jailhouse lawyer in state history, the depth and wisdom of his legal arguments and the detail of his preparation having won favorable comment from the courts from time to time.

Church Forms Credit Union, Aids Parishoners

ELIZABETH (AP) — Parishioners of St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church were falling deep into debt while borrowing from loan sharks and loan companies that charge high interest.

Now they can borrow from the church. It has formed a credit union for them.

Chartered by the federal government, the co-operative will make loans to needy church members of one or more years standing in the parish.

"I saw how credit unions operated among workers in South America," said the Rev. A. Joseph Louis, who thought of the idea after becoming pastor of St. Anthony's over a year ago. "It gave them a feeling of self-reliance and taught them how to be thrifty. It can work here too." Father Louis spent four years as director of Catholic relief services in four South American countries.

He said many church members in the heavily industrial parish have complained of being hit by loan sharks and companies that operate within the law but have hard-to-meet interest requirements.

He said he helped one parishioner raise money to pay off a debt. But the lenders were "very reluctant to accept the money," Father Louis said. "They wanted to keep him on their string."

Some parishioners have been forced into debt because of recent labor strikes. Many of the 1,000 workers who struck the Humble Oil Co.'s Bayway refinery in nearby Linden live in the parish.

The credit union's interest rates for borrowers has not been set, Father Lewis said, but contributors will receive interest at least equivalent to the rates of local savings banks. There will also be a dividend from any profits realized at the year's end, the priest said.

Father Louis became the first depositor with a token investment of $5.25 after the credit union selected its board of directors. Wednesday night.

Mayor Likes Tone of Alarm System in New Shrewsbury

NEW SHREWSBURY — "It's a piercing tone; it'll really wake 'em up," Mayor John E. Lemon, Jr. explained at last night's Borough Council meeting.

He was describing the Plectron emergency alarm system which will be installed in the borough to alert members of the fire companies and first aid squad.

The device, which consists of a radio transmitter at the borough switchboard and receivers in the homes of fire and first aid men, emits a loud, penetrating tone when an emergency activates it.

The dispatcher can also talk directly to the fire and first aid men, steering them to the emergency scene straight from their homes.

Letters from Neptune City, Neptune Fire District, and Red Bank, where similar systems are already in operation, recommend the equipment highly.

Will Cost $5,000

After public hearing, council adopted unanimously an ordinance appropriating $5,000 from the capital improvements fund to purchase the system.

It was resolved to advertise for bids on installation of the equipment. Proposals are returnable Dec. 29.

Council also resolved unanimously to issue no liquor, junk, or mining licenses to applicants whose personal property taxes for the previous year remain unpaid.

An offer from Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. McCarthy to donate a 15-foot Douglas fir as a permanent Christmas tree for Triangle Park at Sycamore and Tinton Aves. was accepted.

Mr. McCarthy, who lives on Greengrove Rd., is a member of the Planning Board and the Board of Health; his wife works in the office of Borough Administrator Jerome S. Reed.

Tree Decorator

The Tinton Falls Fire Company has vounteered to decorate the tree each Christmas.

Borough boat owners will receive a visit from Tax Assessor Adm. Andrew G. Shepard before Jan. 1. The new tax law, the admiral explained, moves the deadline for personal property assessments back to that date from Oct. 1.

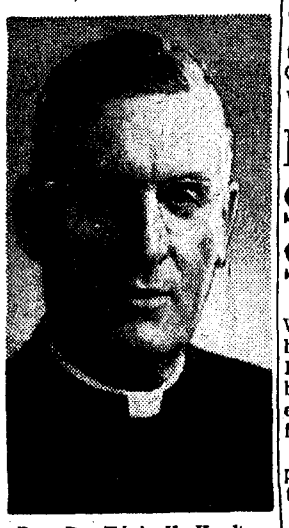

He'll be around, he warned, to assess boats stored for the winter in people's yards.

The organization meeting for the 1965 Borough Council was set for Jan. 1 at noon in Borough Hall.

Last night's meeting was adjourned until Tuesday, Dec. 29, also in Borough Hall.

Newly Enlarged Church To Be Dedicated Sunday

RED BANK — Rev. Dr. Edwin H. Knudten, Trenton, president of the Lutheran Synod of New Jersey, will be the speaker when Holy Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, River Rd., dedicates its newly enlarged church building Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Rev. Dr. Edwin H. Knudten

Memorial gifts also will be dedicated during the service.

After the service, a buffet supper will be served in Fellowship Hall by the Lutheran Churchwomen.

The $80,000 building and renovation work was begun last April. It increases the seating capacity of the church from 110 to 225 persons, and provides the congregation with an enlarged Fellowship Hall, four new Sunday school departments, a new kitchen, sacristy, church office and pastor's study.

Rev. Harold Hornberger, pastor, reports that more than $40,000 has been received to meet the cost of the work. The balance has been covered by pledges from members and friends of the church, the pastor said.

John Barker, Langhorne, Pa., formerly of Middletown, and T. Benton Sevlson, Little Silver, are co-chairmen of the building committee. Committee members include: Adolph Gioggia, Mrs. Douglas Shedd and Wilbur Lynch, all of Middletown; Eugene Siegel and John Adams, both of River Plaza, and Donald Runge, Little Silver.

Craig Haaren, Rumson, was the architect, and Everett Thorne Construction Co., Middletown, were contractors, for the work.

Facts Still Studied In Spy Case

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — John W. Butenko remained behind bars Thursday, while Igor A. Ivanov was free on ball. But both men stand convicted of espionage conspiracy, and their fates remained in doubt.

They could receive the death penalty of stiff prison sentences.

The punishment is up to U. S. Dist. Court Judge Anthony T. Augelli. He presided at the eight-week trial which ended Wednesday night. It began Oct. 9 and was one of the longest ever held in a federal court in New Jersey.

The judge has not set a date for sentencing.

Attorneys for both defendants indicated there would be appeals.

The trial ended Wednesday night as the jury returned a verdict of guilty on all counts against Butenko, 39, an electronics engineer from Orange, and Ivanov, 34, a Soviet citizen.

Both Butenko and Ivanov were convicted on charges of conspiring to transmit U. S. defense secrets to the Soviet Union. The secrets related to an Air Force communications system developed by Butenko's employer, the International Electric Corp. of Paramus, a subsidiary of International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

Both defendants were found guilty also of conspiring to violate the law requiring an agent of a foreign country to register with the State Department.

The third count was only against Butenko. He was found guilty of acting as an agent of the Soviet Union without registering.

Pope

others were examining the medals and a few continued eating.

"Goodbye, goodbye," the Pope said, "bless you, bless you."

At St. Xavier School Stadium, where he celebrated the outdoor Mass, tickets were given 16,000 people and police said at least 4,000 more pushed their way in.

Wearing a crimson cape over his white cassock, Pope Paul appeared tired when he arrived but during the ceremony he seemed to gain energy and spoke with vigor about his journey to India.

"We do not feel ourself a stranger among you," he said. "The Pope is at home wherever the church is at home. The church everywhere is closely united to the people in all their efforts for the betterment of the nation."

After Mass, Pope Paul visited St. Paul's Church nearby. About 200 ill persons sat patiently inside under rotating ceiling fans, waiting for his blessing.

The Pope went to the altar, prayed briefly with the sick and spoke a few words of comfort. He then blessed a new wing of a neighboring technical school named "the Pope Paul VI wing."

The midmorning temperature was in the 80s as Pope Paul left the school and motored through bumpy slum streets to Don Bosco, a Catholic boys high school.

Jam Streets

At the school a crowd of at least 100,000 jammed the streets for two blocks, perching in trees and on balconies and lining the rooftops.

Shortly before the pontiff arrived, the surging throng burst out of control and engulfed a narrow path police were trying to keep for the papal car.

Police in steel helmets brandished lead-weighted bamboo clubs and shoved the crowd back.

People near the front lost their balance. As they fell, crying out in fear and pain, people behind them also toppled. Hundreds of screaming persons were on the ground in an instant.

The crowd yelled insults and obscenities at the police.

But the loudspeaker appeal calmed them as the Pope arrived in a government sedan instead of the white convertible brought from the Vatican for his use. The hardtop sedan apparently was a security measure to protect him from the pressing throngs.

A deafening roar went up as Pope Paul emerged and raised his arms in blessing. Inside the Don Bosco Church, he spoke again:

"As the Holy Father, I love every human being, every adopted son of God, but above all I love youth. You are the hope of the future . . ."

Three Drivers Are Ticketed

SHREWSBURY — Summonses were issued to three drivers in three separate accidents here yesterday and early this morning. There were no injuries reported.

The first accident occurred at 9:17 a.m. yesterday when a car driven by Anthony Mandico, 120 Charles St., Hopelawn, traveling south on Broad St., skidded into the rear of a car driven by Bruce N. Gillaspey, Rt. 35, Neptune, who was driving north.

Mandico was charged by Patrolman Robert Hoffman with careless driving. A hearing is scheduled for Dec. 14.

Tessie Struyf, Oaklyn Rd., Freehold, was charged by Patrolman Hoffman with failing to observe a traffic signal after her car was in collision with an auto driven by Robert C. Pleasant, Brookside Ter., Hazlet, at the Broad St. jug handle. A hearing is set for Dec. 28.

At 2:40 this morning a car driven by Henry Hardy, 64 Sunset Ave., Red Bank, traveling west on the jughandle at Broad St. and Shrewsbury Ave., jumped the curb and knocked down a traffic directional sign.

Hardy was charged by Patrolman John Valentine with careless driving. A hearing will be held Dec. 14.

Professional Offices Planned in Township

MIDDLETOWN—Groundbreaking ceremonies will be held Monday for a three-story professional office building on Rt. 36 adjacent to the Clearwater Swimming Pool.

The $200,000 structure will be built by James R. Snyder, Atlantic Highlands, and Kingdon R. Westerlind, Long Branch.

Mr. Synder said the 15,000 square-foot structure will contain space for 10 offices.

He said 85 per cent of the office space has been filled.

The building is expected to be completed about April 1.

Firms that have leased space in the building are Alkon Industries, Inc., Long Branch; King Construction Co., Long Branch; Guiney Real Estate Agency, Highlands; Hickey and Witte, New Brunswick architects (designers of the building); Kelly and Morris, consulting engineers, Jersey City; Louis Weinstein, New York accountant; Dr. Thomas J. Cangialosi, Highlands, dentist; and McGowan and McLean, mechanical contractors.

Mr. Weinstein is the accountant for the New York Jets, a professional football team and the Monmouth Park, Garden State and Atlantic City race tracks.

The building will be constructed of masonry, structural steel and glass.

A main feature will be a large pool in front of the structure.

Mr. Snyder and Mr. Westerlind are also principals in the firm constructing the Atlantic Highlands Nursing Home, across the highway from the new professional building.

Work on the nursing home will start in March or April, Mr. Snyder said.

Police Probe Rollo's Entry In Keyport

KEYPORT — Police are investigating a breaking and entry yesterday at Rollo's Post House, Rt. 35 at the Six Corners.

According to Detective Frank Criscillo, entry was made through a rear door by pushing out a wooden panel.

The premises were ransacked, Detective Criscillo reported, but as far as can be determined only a few cartons of cigarettes are missing.

Robert Barr, manager, discovered the burglary at 8:15 a.m. yesterday and called the police. Patrolman Robert Dillon made the initial investigation.

First Aid for Dog Given by Capt. Wilson

SHREWSBURY TOWNSHIP — Things never get too dull for this municipality's one-man police department.

Yesterday was a fair example. At 5:30 p.m., Police Capt. Dayton Wilson was called to the home of Mrs. Anthony DeStrafano of 142 Belshaw Ave. She said her white female terrier was choking to death.

Capt. Wilson rubbed the dog's throat in a downward motion, and whatever it was that had clogged there passed into the dog's stomach.

2 Summoned After Accident

HOWELL TOWNSHIP — Summonses were issued two drivers after a three-car accident on Rt. 9 Wednesday afternoon.

State Police at the barracks here said a car driven by Peter Lysandrou, 22 Rustic Dr., Lakewood, was stopped in traffic when it was hit in the rear by a car driven by John Blank, Greystone Park. The third car, driven by Anton H. Schwab, Spray Ave., Beachwood, rammed into the rear of the Blank auto, state police said.

Trooper Ralph Niles charged Mr. Blank and Mr. Schwab with careless driving.

Offer

ing up from production in excess of demand here and at other plants.

Mayor Frank E. Gibson who had been reported yesterday as willing to take part in mediation efforts withdrew yesterday before the conference.

He said the company had invited him to attend a luncheon at which the issues would be discussed. But when he suggested that union representatives also be present, he said, the company declined and he therefore decided not to participate.

The company has announced an offer for a three-year contract providing 35 cents an hour cost increase covering annual pay increases of 3.5 per cent a year plus additional hikes in special classifications; pension plan improvements; a $10 a week increase in sick and disability benefits; severance pay, and a total of 12 annual paid holidays.

The employees contend that the total amount is not in dispute but that the company's planned allocation to hospitalization coverage is inadequate. The company plan, according to Mr. Boyle, is standard for all geographic areas and does not take into account higher hospitalization rates in this area, thus providing less security here.

Successful Investing

Roger E. Spear

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "I am wondering what your opinion is of tax-exempt bond funds. My husband is well over the $10,000 bracket, and we would like to reduce our income taxes on earnings and stock holdings."

R. R.

A) All of the tax-exempt bond funds seem perfectly sound, although some have a tendency to buy rather heavily into special revenue bonds, which pay higher yields. Then, there is, of course, the question of sales fees to be reckoned with.

I believe that many people, such as yourselves, will do about as well buying tax-exempts directly, since diversification in this strong field is not so important as elsewhere.

In your particular case. I'm going to suggest the purchase of State of California 3½'s due 11-1-92 to yield 3.40 per cent. These bonds are rated AA, and default of any sort appears inconceivable to me. Your taxable equivalent return would be relatively high.

Q) "I'd like a little help in the proper investing of a $6,000 legacy received at age 60, 5 years before retirement on pension. I would like to put equal dollar amounts in certain of the stocks I have listed. I am interested solely in growth. We have adequate cash reserves."

E. B.

A) Please allow me to congratulate you on receiving a good legacy. The list which you submitted is too long to reproduce here, so I will simply mention my preferences.

Of the soap and cosmetic stocks you list, my choice would be Bristol-Myers—also in pharmaceuticals — which has compiled a strong and consistent record of growth.

In your food group, I would select Consolidated Foods, an excellent vehicle for capital enhancement. Pennsylvania Power & Light has moved ahead steadily and I commend it to you.

Sears, Roebuck —which recently proposed a stock split and increased its dividends—is the only other issue you list which I can recommend strongly.

To make up the balance, I suggest Texaco and Procter & Gamble.

5th Constitutional Convention Looms

By JOHN KOLESAR

TRENTON (AP)—It appears New Jersey is headed for the fifth constitutional convention in its history.

Under the State Supreme Court's Nov. 25 decision ordering reapportionment of the state legislature, some action must be taken on setting up a constitutional convention by April 1, 1965, or the present legislature will apparently lose its chance to do anything about a permanent new apportionment system.

The court decision actually contained orders for two reapportionments: (1) A system to be used next November to elect an interim legislature; (2) a permanent system to be used to elect a successor to the interim legislature no later than November 1967. Both apportionments must be on a population basis.

The court said the present legislature could enact a law creating the interim apportionment. It said the present legislature could set up a constitutional convention to draw up a permanent plan, implying that the legislature itself could not take a direct hand in devising the plan.

Alternative

The court left open the question of whether the properly apportioned interim legislature could use some device other than the constitutional convention.

But for the current legislature, the court has left this apparent choice on permanent apportionment; start the convention process by April 1, or step aside.

Gov. Richard J. Hughes has suggested a 1966 convention, to keep it out of gubernatorial and legislative campaign politics of 1965. And former Sen. Walter H. Jones, who was the Assembly's attorney in the apportionment case, also endorsed the constitutional convention idea.

If the court's instructions are followed, it will make the fifth different technique used to start a constitutional convention in New Jersey.

First in 1776

The first, in 1776, started with a revolution. The second, in 1844, started with a bill rammed through the legislature by the Democratic caucus. The third, in 1944, was set up when the people approved a referendum making the legislature itself a constitutional convention. And the fourth, in 1947, was set up by referendum creating a convention with specific instructions not to touch apportionment.

Actually, New Jersey had two constitutions before it ever became a state. Back in the days when East and West Jersey were separate, West Jersey had a charter of fundamental laws which was supposedly written by William Penn. It was a fairly liberal document with a bill of rights. Any legislator who attempted to get a law passed which violated the charter's provisions was subject to prosecution as a traitor.

1702 Action

The second important constitution was decreed in 1702 by a colonial governor's commission. Not surprisingly, it gave the governor most of the power.

In June 1776, the Provincial Congress, met in one of the two state capitals, Burlington, (the other was Perth Amboy) and drew up a combined declaration of independence and state constitution. The constitution was written and adopted in eight days, with ratification coming July 2, 1776.

The congress broke up in a hurry, possibly because the British fleet had been sighted off Sandy Hook. Though the 1776 constitution was never submitted to the people of the new state, they accepted it.

The constitution provided for an upper house called a council, with one member from each of the 13 counties. The Assembly was apportioned largely according to population. This is basically the same apportionment which has just been ruled in violation of the 14th amendment to the U.S. Constitution, adopted in 1868.

Oversights

There were a couple of important oversights in the 1776 constitution: there was no bill of rights and no provision for amendment.

The 1844 convention was set up by a law. The councilman from Cape May, the smallest county then as now, opposed the apportionment of the convention, which consisted of 58 members chosen on the same population basis as was used in the assembly. He said the big counties would use their majority power in the upper house.

But he was wrong. The six-week 1844 convention beat down efforts to apportion both houses of the legislature according to population. The people approved the constitution 20,276 to 3,526.

A century later, the old constitution had become an antique but burdensome curiosity.

Pressure for change mounted. But small county legislators again feared the voting power of their constituents would be cut if a convention were held.

Rejected

First they tried the idea of acting as a convention themselves. The voters approved the principle in a referendum in 1943 but rejected the constitution which the legislators drew up in 1944.

Then the legislature hit on the idea of a referendum in which the people authorized a convention which was specifically barred from changing the old apportionment system. That measure was passed.

Along with the referendum, the people elected the convention delegates. Originally, former Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll suggested 60 delegates apportioned along the lines of the assembly. But small-county legislators objected and managed to win 21 added delegates—one for each senator.

At a special election in June, the delegates were chosen. In 13 of 21 counties, Republicans and Democrats got together and ran bipartisan slates. The result was that 54 Republicans, 23 Democrats and 4 independents were elected delegates. Twenty-five were past or present legislators.

Three Months

The convention ran for three months at the Rutgers University gymnasium in New Brunswick, with nine committees doing most of the drafting with the aid of research teams, public hearings etc. No major group opposed the constitution and it was approved at a referendum in November 1947 by a vote of 653,096 to 184,632.

If a new convention is to be held, it would probably be limited to apportionment — the only thing which the 1947 convention could not touch.

The court decision says, "the present legislature can start the (convention) process, provided the delegates are required to be elected on a basis that is beyond dispute."

"We take it, for example, that in the light of our traditions, no one would seriously question elections from the counties, provided the representative ratio is the population of the country with the smallest population," the court said.

That would mean a convention of about 120 delegates, with the smallest county, Cape May, having one delegate and Essex, the largest, having 19.

Road Deaths Up in State

ATLANTIC CITY (AP)—Traffic fatalities in New Jersey appear headed to top the 1,000 mark this year—the first time the toll has mounted that high since 1937, a state official said Wednesday.

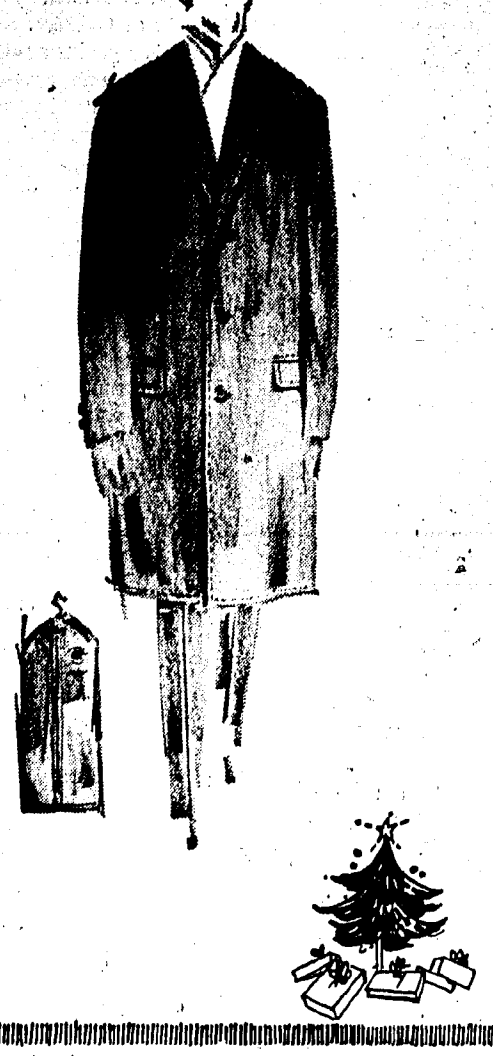

William M. Saley, assistant director of the New Jersey Division of Motor Vehicles, said highway fatilities dropped from 1,278 in 1937 to 865 in 1938, the first year that automobiles were inspected in the state. He said fatalities have remained below 1,000 each year since.

Saley, speaking at the 45th annual convention of the New Jersey Lawn, Industrial and Farm Equipment Dealers Association, said this year, with most of December and the heavy holiday traffic still remaining, the death toll in the state stands at 939.

The Decision in Keyport

After six years of saying "no," the Union Beach Board of Education has finally said "yes" to a 10-year sending contract with Keyport, making the Union Beach-Keyport high school sending-receiving arrangement official and binding.

If the referendum (Dec. 10) to expand Keyport High School goes down again (it was defeated in September by four votes) and Keyport as a result loses Union Beach students, the high school could wither away for lack of large enough enrollment to provide an effective curriculum, or may be eventually abandoned in favor of the proposal by Holmdel for construction of a Holmdel high school which would include Keyport students.

The Union Beach decision to sign a 10-year pact, under the provision that it will not be put into force unless the Keyport High School referendum is approved, is clearly a matter of Union Beach self interest.

There has been some dissension about the contract in Union Beach, but it is clear from statements made by some school board members that one or two of the "no" votes which were cast may have been tied into political rather than educational considerations.

The majority school board faction, however, is to be commended for rising above politics and placing the welfare of borough students first.

Without Keyport, the outlook for Union Beach high school children is bleak indeed. This has been conceded by the Union Beach board president and the school administrator.

It is not a very well kept secret that another Keyport alternative (if the referendum is again defeated) is the possibility of discontinuing Keyport High School as a regular four-year facility and establishing in its place a seventh through 12th grade school.

This would mean: 1— that Keyport would have to get rid of Union Beach students, 2— that the high school part of the junior-senior program would be diluted, and 3— that the Holmdel-Keyport concept would be dropped.

Such a solution would keep Keyport's high school grades in Keyport, but there is a question as to whether it would be sanctioned by the state Department of Education, on these grounds: it is not the ideal answer for Keyport, it is a very unpalatable "answer" for Union Beach, and from the standpoint of effective education the solution would be second best to the concept of a Holmdel-Keyport high school.

True, Holmdel would immediately benefit from a Holmdel-Keyport facility, but Union Beach would be likely to suffer and the Keyport-Union Beach sending-receiving relationship is already established.

Union Beach has now done its share—all it can do—by agreeing to a 10-year contract. The preferable expedient is approval of the Keyport High School expansion proposal, and that vital decision is in the hands of Keyport voters.

Your Money's Worth:

Just How Much Debt is Too Much Debt?

By SYLVIA PORTER

Personal bankruptcies are up 80 per cent just since 1960, foreclosures on homes and cars also have risen, our installment debts alone have touched an all-time high $57 billion and there is a mounting crescendo of warnings from responsible financiers about the serious deterioration of the "quality of credit" extended by banks.

PORTER

How much debt is too much debt for you? Who's in trouble today? What are the danger signals and for whom? Which potential borrowers are bad risks for lenders and what types of loans are bad loans for borrowers?

The shocking answer to all these questions is, "We don't know."

The experts have some informed guesses, there are all sorts of statistical averages on family debts vs. assets, we have rules-of thumb worked out decades ago. But we have no precise, thoroughly up-to-date, reliable yardsticks to measure how much debt is too much in this era and what is a bad risk for lender or borrower.

In the words of a credit expert at the Federal Reserve Board in Washington, "People were saying not long ago that the 'magic' ratio of installment debt we can afford to carry in relation to our disposable personal income was 13 per cent a month. Yet, that ratio now stands at 14 per cent. What is the ceiling? Are we over it? Nobody knows."

In the words of a Commerce Department authority, "We do not have a usable 'balance sheet' of assets and debts by income group. Nobody knows how much debt is too much for whom, where the danger point comes and why."

Now, though, for the first time, the Federal Reserve is getting set to launch a full-scale survey of bank loans and borrowers under a "Credit Quality Project" in an effort to provide answers to these crucially important debt questions.

In everyday language, what the Federal Reserve is attempting is a detailed anatomy of the American borrower and a complete autopsy of loans that go bad.

The Federal will go far beyond an examination of a borrower's age, sex, job status and income and into a probe of the borrower's job stability and community life, the income of other members of his family, the size and number of all his debts and assets.

As of now, the Federal's project is still in a "test" phase, involves only 1,200 new and old loans of only 20 big commercial banks. But next year the Central Bank hopes to expand the number of participating banks to 600 and the total of loans under scrutiny to 36,000. Also when this study is completed, the Reserve Board well may dig into the more complicated maze of finance company loans and the whole range of lenders and credit salesmen.

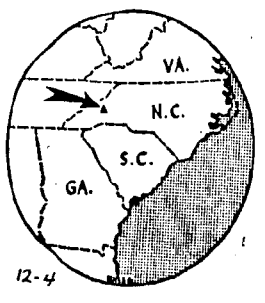

The Federal Reserve is legitimately concerned about the quality of credit being extended by banks and its emphasis is on lending. But, of course, the results of the investigation will be of deep personal interest to us, the borrowers.

In today's prosperity, the total of installment debt and the repayment ratio appear more than tolerable. But a tidal wave of teenagers is sweeping over the U.S. economy. As these teenagers reach the marrying and big borrowing years, the need for brass-tack guides to guard them against financial disaster will become imperative. These findings could provide many of these guides.

It well may be that the old rules-of-thumb for safe borrowing and lending are obsolete. It well may be that worries about how much debt is too much are unwarranted.

But the central fact is that we do not know and just our ignorance gives thoughtful observers a queasy feeling. The quicker we are given warning or reassurance, the better for all of us.

KNOW YOUR GOVERNMENT

Prepared by N. J. Taxpayers Association, 143 E. State St., Trenton 8, N. J.

Studies of the desirability of modernizing their municipal government structures have been launched by the citizens of five New Jersey municipalities.

In balloting at the November election, voters authorized the studies under provisions of New Jersey's Optional Municipal Charter Law of 1950 and elected commissions of local citizens to examine the local government machinery. The charter study commissions will report their recommendations for change in form, if any, within nine months. Such proposed changes must then be submitted to local referenda.

The municipalities are Moorestown (Burlington County), Gloucester (Camden County) and Jackson (Ocean County), all currently operating under the township committee form of government; Avon (Monmouth County) which has commission government, and Keansburg (Monmouth County) which operates under the 1923 council-manager form of government.

In other voting at the November election, citizens of Matawan (Monmouth County) elected to change their government from township committee to one of the council-manager forms, provided

These Days:

Conservatives Have the Talent

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Henry Hazlitt, who has been writing important books, articles, columns and pamphlets in behalf of the conservative—or traditionally liberal—cause for more years than you can shake a stick at, was honored the other night in New York on the occasion of his seventieth birthday. There were more than a hundred and fifty people present, which in itself was not remarkable (in 70 years you can collect a lot of friends and outlive a lot of enemies). But what was truly remarkable about the gathering was the sheer talent it represented.

CHAMBERLAIN

Henry Hazlitt was obviously gratified, but he was also perplexed. Looking out at the packed dinner assembly of brains and talent, he scratched his head. What he couldn't explain to himself or to the guests was why the "other side," meaning the cohorts of modern collectivist liberalism, went on winning.

It is, when you come to think of it, a strange paradox. At the head table with Mr. Hazlitt were some of the most knowledgeable and far-sighted thinkers among us. There was Ludwig von Mises, dean of the Austrian school of neo-liberal economics. Forty years ago, in a classic book on socialism, Professor von Mises predicted that Communist systems would founder on the problem of trying to maintain markets without a competitive price system. Today all the countries of eastern Europe, to say nothing of Russia itself, are struggling to set up some make-shift incentive systems that will get around von Mises' barbed objections to socialist economics. Yet Professor von Mises, who is obviously a great prophet, is an "outsider" in the West, which should revere him.

Another man at the head table, Dr. Karl Brandt, probably knows more about the problems of world agriculture than any other man now alive. But does Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman make any use of him? Not so you'd notice it.

Dr. Milton Friedman, the laughing economist from the University of Chicago, sat close to Henry Hazlitt. Dr. Friedman is a genius at elaborating positive alternatives to bad government welfare programs. It was rumored at one time that he was deep in the counsels of Senator Barry Goldwater. But a comparison of Friedman's books and Goldwater's speeches offers ample proof that Goldwater made very little use of the Friedman intelligence.

Looking around the room, Henry Hazlitt spied a veteran anti-Communist journalist and author, Eugene Lyons. "Stand up, Gene," he said, "here you've been fighting communism for longer than I have." Ruefully, Henry Hazlitt went on to remark that when Gene began fighting, communism had only one country. Now it has more than you can count on two hands, although most of them would like to wriggle free if they could. Max Eastman, another ancient battler for anti-Communist causes, was called upon by Henry Hazlitt to stand witness to conservative wisdom—and conservative ineffectiveness. He complied good-naturedly.

Henry Hazlitt has just written a remarkable book, "The Foundations of Morality," published by Van Nostrand of Princeton. It ought to be a big seller, but since the reviewing world is infested with the fashionable enemies of the Hazlitt view of things it probably won't get the notice it deserves. Another man at the Hazlitt birthday party, John Davenport, has recently done an incisive book called "The U.S. Economy," published by Henry Regnery of Chicago. He, too, is struggling to get past what might be called the Paper Curtain.

Talent, talent to burn, came out to honor Henry Hazlitt. But the talent still has to struggle to command white space. In speaking of one of Henry Hazlitt's most effective books, "Economics in One Lesson," Milton Friedman said, "It actually contains three lessons. One is, 'Always look a gift horse in the mouth.' Two is,

Inside Washington

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Dr. Martin Luther King, militant civil rights leader, may be asked to make a government-sponsored tour of war-and turmoil-racked Africa.

Allen

State Department policy makers are deliberating "inviting" the controversial head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference to undertake such a "mission" following his acceptance of the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize in Oslo next week.

Assistant Secretary G. Mennen Williams, in charge of African Affairs, long a strong supporter of King, is credited as vigorously advocating this proposal.

Scott

Other officials are described as considerably less enthusiastic. They are stressing various contradictions they contend would inevitably arise from an officially-sponsored African tour by King and certain assistants he doubtless would insist on accompanying him.

Latest contradiction being cited by these skeptics is King's telegram to President Johnson, in effect demanding the immediate halting of U.S. support of heavily embattled Congo Premier Moise Tshombe. King sent this forceful message after the President authorized the use of U.S. planes to drop Belgian paratroopers on Stanleyville to rescue hundreds of white hostages in rebel hands.

King's widely publicized discordant preachment — coming in the midst of violent tirades against U.S. policy by Moscow and Peking—created a very sour reaction at the White House.

It was authoritatively made known that extensive aid will continue to be given Tshombe.

SIGNIFICANT GHOST-WRITER — Friends of King are saying he was importantly assisted in writing the address he will deliver at the Nobel Prize ceremony by Bayard Rustin, chief director of the spectacular 1963 civil rights march on Washington. They have long worked closely together.

It is also being intimated Rustin may accompany King to Oslo, and to Africa if that tour materializes.

Rustin, one-time organizer for the Young Communist League, served 28 months in federal prison for draft evasion in World War II. He also was convicted on a morals charge.

Last month this column disclosed that Rustin, who refers to himself as a "lonely genius," is endeavoring to organize a large-scale civil rights demonstration in Washington when the new Congress convenes on Jan. 4. He is talking of massing 25,000 demonstrators on Capitol Hill to "voice public disapproval of the seating of legislators from Mississippi, Alabama and other Southern states where Negroes are denied their voting rights."

According to Inside word, other massive demonstrations would be staged in a number of large cities, among them New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Boston, Atlanta, St. Louis and Los Angeles.

JIM BISHOP: Reporter

Laughter is Healthy

Laughter is so simple that it is almost beyond analysis. Basically, it is a cruel reaction to the ludicrous. Almost always, we are superior to that which causes us to laugh. Four generations of Americans have laughed at Charlie Chaplin because he was a little tramp with big shoes and a cane, one who, with the best of intentions, always did the wrong thing and barely escaped with his life.

BISHOP

Darwin said that laughter is a deep inspiration followed by a short, interrupted spasmodic contraction of the diaphragm and chest. Herbert Spencer referred to laughter as a spilling over of mental excitement. Sir J. Arthur Thompson feels that primitive laughter is caused by a momentary loss of control over voice, muscles and breathing, as in tickling.

Lord Byron wrote: "And if I laugh at any mortal thing/ It is that I may not weep/" and Thompson supports this by pointing out that, if laughter is loss of control, then continued loss of control can induce hysterical laughter, pain in the stomach and, eventually, tears.

In itself, laughter is not an emotion, but rather, a symptom of one. Controlled laughter is a form of politeness, and is referred to as a chuckle. In this case, we try to laugh to please someone else. I have known two persons—Captain Alexander L. Porter of Fort Pierce, Fla., and Mrs. Emil Herman of Hasbrouck Heights, N. J.—who had infectious laughter.

Porter was at a theater one time and a pianist in white tie and tails sat to play an etude. Somewhere after the eighth bar, he hit a flat note. In trying to correct it, he hit another. Then another. Porter started to laugh. In a short time, the entire audience was turning to look at him. His sobbing laughter went so far out of control that he slid down between two rows of seats. By this time, some Japanese were onstage with Indian clubs. They heard him, in irritation, and one of them dropped a club.

An usher had to help the captain out of the theater. Mrs. Herman can listen to her husband explain some bonehead play he has made, and her silvery laugh rocks windows for a city block. Her mouth flies open, her hand holds her chest, her head goes back, and she rocks. In her case, I have seen grim people break into laughter outside the Herman house, without even understanding what was funny.

The value of laughter, therapeutically, is beyond price. My mother used to come home after an evening out with my father and sigh. "I had a good laugh tonight," she would say. "I sure needed it." People who are emotionally ill show an early disposition to give up two extremes: laughter and tears. Both are important releases for a healthy mind.

The basic cruelty of laughter is best displayed by children. They laugh at what they feel is funny, and this includes adults who fall, "funny faces," ridiculous apparel, someone tripping over a rug, falling-down pants, anything ludicrous repeated three times, movies which involve the dunce character (Jerry Lewis, the Three Stooges, Laurel and Hardy) who moves from a small mistake to a bigger one.

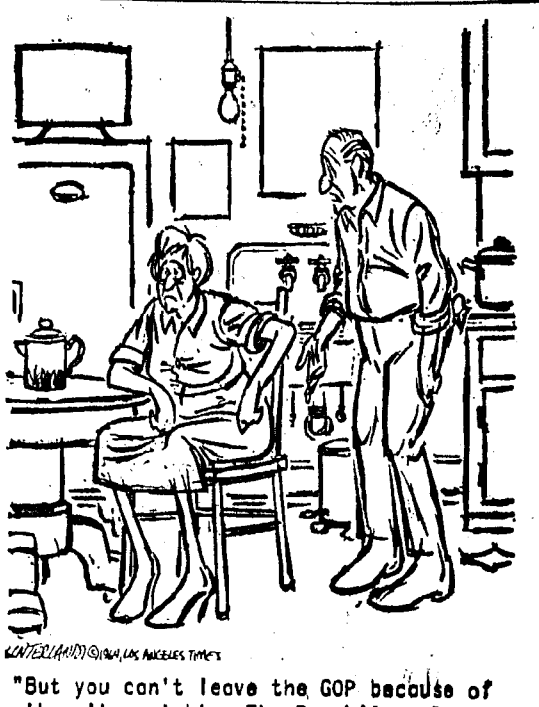

Laughter also figures in romance. I was fishing off the Bahamas once when a native mate told me that he was going out prowling that night for "women." I asked his method. He was baiting a fish on a hook and he said: "First you do something nice for the lady, then you try to make her laugh. If she laugh, that is a very good sign."

Laughter isn't quite universal. When someone sits on a hat, everyone present laughs except the owner of the chapeau. Usually, he says: "I don't see anything funny." Some comedians regard laughter as the result of the credibly unexpected, that is, something unanticipated but believable.

The acidulous scorn of W. C. Fields in scheming and plotting against others made him automatically funny. Today, when Peter Sellers acts with elegant savoir faire and, in slamming a safe door closed, forgets to remove the other hand, we laugh. Bob Hope's left-handed leer reduces millions of people to hysterics when he accompanies it with his extravagant observations on august personages. When he makes fun of them, he speaks for us.

Sir Arthur points out a good example of extreme laughter. A ship was wrecked near Dieppe and, after much travail, the passengers were fished from the sea. Many were weeping on shore, when a customs officer, probably through force of habit, asked them if they had "anything to declare." The entire group laughed until some of them fell down.

Some scientists say that laughter is just a grown-up smile. I don't believe it. Infants laugh. Lean over a crib slowly, and pull back slowly, so that your face comes into view and disappears in slow motion. After a few times, the infant—unless fearful—will break into a smile, then a giggle, then a gummy laugh.

To the contrary, it is difficult to make elderly people laugh. They smile wanly at the things which would at one time convulse them. If laughter is lack of control, then old people have learned to overcome it.

A pity . . .

'One man's meat is not necessarily another man's poison.' And three is, 'The part of the iceberg that the captain saw didn't sink the Titanic.'"

Since Henry Hazlitt's business is to call attention to unseen effects, he has had 70 hard years. But there wasn't a person at the Hazlitt dinner who believes those years have been futile. "When every man in this room has 10 disciples," said someone, "then we'll really have a political party. And we'll win."

Canada Avoids Tag Of 'U. S. Satellite'

By MAX HARRELSON

OTTAWA (AP) — Canadians are determined not to let their country become a U.S. satellite — or even to have the appearance of being one.

They have demonstrated their political independence by trading with Cuba and Red China, and they are moving toward the eventual recognition of the Peking government.

But they are tied closely to the United States both through the North American defense system and through the North Atlantic Treaty Organiation. Since last year, they have had American-owned nuclear warheads at two Canadian missile bases.

For this reason, they are extremely sensitive to U.S. foreign policy decisions.

On economic matters, Canadian nationalists find it much more difficult to assert their independence. The two countries do more business with each other than with anybody else.

About 60 per cent of all Canadian exports go to the United States, and about two-thirds of all Canadian imports are from the United States.

One of the common complaints of Canadians is that Americans own so much of their country that Canada is no longer master of its own house.

There have been efforts by both main political parties to discourage foreign investments, but the pressure of provincial governments and of business was so great that the proposed measures were dropped.

At present, U.S. investments are increasing.

Nonresidents — mostly Americans — control 70 per cent of the investments in Canadian petroleum and natural gas, 59 per cent in mining and smelting and 60 per cent in manufacturing. This means that major decisions often are made by people who live outside Canada. It also means that huge sums of money flow abroad in interest and dividends.

Foreign control of Canadian economy worries Canadians and hurts their pride.

They are afraid, for example, that in the event of a business slump, U.S. owners might close their Canadian subsidiaries and cause large-scale unemployment, while keeping their U.S. plants in operation. They also resent the application of U.S. laws, such as those restricting exports to Cuba and Red China, to Canadian subsidiaries.

Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp has said Canada is not worried that the United S ates wi-l be lect to take our legitimate interests into account."

To tell the folks you're thinking about them—telephone.

GOP GOVERNORS CONFERENCE — Two members of the Democratic cabinet read that comprehensive Rockefeller-Lodge-supported plan for wrestling control of the Republican party from Goldwater forces before it was circulated among the GOP governors meeting in Denver.

Secretaries Rusk and MacNamara, among other high administration officials, were shown this elaborate blueprint several weeks ago.

Rusk and McNamara were registered Republicans at the time of their appointment by the late President Kennedy. Why they and other Johnson officials were given copies of this militant GOP opus is not definitely known.

As disclosed by this column, the plan drafted by close lieutenants of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and former Ambassador Lodge, calls for setting up of a "shadow" organization that would be "separate but parallel" to the regular Republican national structure.

An executive committee empowered to formulate policies and issue-directives would head the proposed outfit. The national headquarters would be in Washington, with an initial budget of $800,000 to $1,000,000, and regional offices would be established in Boston, New York, Chicago, Denver, San Francisco and Atlanta.

A monthly publication, to be known as "Project '68," also is specified.

The plan also calls for setting up of a Division of Political Organization as part of the national headquarters. On that, the treaties says:

"The field of communications may be one outstanding area in which responsible Republicans have a distinct advantage in their party struggle. In most areas of the county, the working press and publishers are far more sympathetic to the creative Republican viewpoint than to its minority counterpart. But it is an advantage only if it is cultivated and nourished.

"To take full advantage of this, local and national staff elements of the Division must create a close working relationship with members of the press to promote the public image of the organization and its officials and candidates."

Principal authors of this elaborate backstage plan are David Goldberg, 34, national field director of the pre-convention "Draft Lodge" campaign; and Douglas Bailey, 31, in charge of foreign policy research for Gov. Rockefeller in his presidential drive.

Their study was unveiled and discussed at a private Boston meeting three weeks before the Nov. 3 election.

MORE TRIAL BALLONS — Lastest name to pop up in the steady stream of possibilities for attorney general is Deputy Defense Secretary Cyrus Vance. A one-time New York lawyer, Vance is highly regarded by the President, under whom he served as legal assistant when Johnson headed the Senate Space Subcommittee . . . Leonard Marks, director of Comsat (communications satellite) Corp., and long close to President Johnson, has been named White House liaison with the various inaugural committees. Marks was personally appointed to this job by the President. Also on the latter's insistence, the traditional inaugural parade is being sharply curtailed, with each state limited to one band, one float and one car for the governor and his party.

Two Midwesterners are being trotted out as possible compromises in the event of a deadlock between Senators Mike Monroney, Mont., Russell Long, La., and John Pastore, R.I., in their sizzling scramble for Democratic Whip to replace Vice President-elect Hubert Humphrey. The potential compromises are Senators Vance Hartke, Ind., and Philip Hart, Mich. Hartke partisans are stressing his close ties with the President, who was largely responsible for the Indianan being made chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee in 1961 . . . Administration insiders are saying Oakland's Mayor John Houlihan has a good chance of filling the Republican vacancy on the Civil Aeronautics Board.

KNOW YOUR GOVERNMENT

Prepared by N. J. Taxpayers Association, 143 E. State St., Trenton 8, N. J.

under the optional charter act. South Brunswick (Middlesex County) voted to stay with its township committee government while Montclair (Essex County) officials have petitioned the State Legislature for a special charter to modify its commission form of government. The Montclair charter is subject to voter approval after legisiative enactment.

The change in government of Matawan will take place in January, 1966. At the present time 36 municipalities containing 30 per cent of the state's population have adopted governmental structures made available by the 14-year-old Optional Municipal Charter Law. Prior to the new authorizations, 54 charter studies had been conducted locally, according to a 96-page handbook recently issued by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association and the National Municipal League. This explores history and experience under New Jersey's pioneering experiment in providing ways in which citizens can modernize their municipal government's operation.

How to Keep Wife At Home

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Men who blush to a deep magenta at the very thought of selecting lounge-wear for their wives, are nevertheless bravely performing this pre-Christmas task.

But don't pin any heroes' medals on them yet. They're not as martyred as all that.

Take the case history of Mr. Smart. Naturally, he dropped a few hints broad enough to give his wife the picture of a mortified male fingering filmy lingerie, uneasily and with a certain amount of prejudice describing the size he needed.

Naturally Mrs. Smart's reaction was to be touched to the quick, indeed moved to spend more from the grocery money for his gift than she had previously intended.

The truth of the matter was that he had gotten good advice from his clever secretary. She suggested he buy his wife velvet at-home costume and eventually the secretary sacrificed a lunch hour to make his selection for him. That was too bad because he would have enjoyed the display of luxurious hostess pajamas, lounge robes, and at-home robe in jewel-rich hues. And he would not have been the least embarrased mulling over these not-really-boudoir clothes. On the other hand, this was good because the secretary also had a chance to shop for herself.

One reason this secretary was so wise is that she heard the boss arguing with his wife constantly over the phone about going out so much in the evenings. Anyway, the task always fell to this secretary to fetch black coffee, aspirins, catch his mistakes and generally nurse him through a bad morning after a long night on the town. She knew that if he was really going to succeed in business, the boss would have to try to change his social pattern.

With stay-at-home clothes beautiful enough to make the Boss' wife feel queenly, she might be content to rule her own roost was the secretary's theory.

Of course, the Boss wasn't hard to convince, Having read a little about history, he was aware that velvet has always been the one opulent fabric that royalty taxed the poor for, and poor had revolutions for, and soldiers of fortune looted for. It would most certainly satisfy any modern woman's hunger for status.

Furthermore, velvet is more practical than it looks. Today's variety has been treated to resist the stains that peril any busy, serving hostess. Think of the dry cleaning bills the man of the house saves. Most men have already thought of the money they will save simply by keeping their wives behind the threshhold in their stay-at-home clothes.

It beats that old system of keeping them barefoot and pregnant.

A Wonderful Fudge for Gift-Giving

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

A WONDERFUL fudge is misspelled eight different ways: According to Webster, the word is panocha. According to cooks, it's panoche, panochi, penucha, penuche, penuchi, pinocha, pinoche or pinochi. Actually the term panocha means a Mexican raw sugar or a sweetmeat.

If you like the beguiling flavor of brown sugar, this candy is for you. Originally the fudge was made with brown sugar, butter and cream, but nowadays we are inclined to add a little corn syrup to help achieve satin-smooth texture.

This is a great candy to have in the house or to give as a gift — at holiday time or to a youngster away at school. For gift-giving, you might like to turn the fudge into one large or several small aluminum foil pans so you can offer it intact. The receivers will be happy to do their own slicing.

Panocha is often made without nuts, but we like to include them to offset the sweet flavor.

PANOCHA

3 cups firmly packed light brown sugar.
¾ cup milk
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon light or dark corn syrup.
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts or pecans

In a saucepan stir together the brown sugar, milk, butter, corn syrup and salt. Cook and stir constantly over medium heat until mixture boils. Continue cooking, stirring occasionally, until temperature reaches 238 degrees on a candy thermometer or until about ½ teaspoon of the mixture dropped into about ¼ cup very cold water forms a soft ball that flattens on removal from water. Remove from heat; cook to lukewarm (110) degrees. Add vanilla. Beat until mixture holds its shape when dropped from a spoon and loses its gloss — this takes considerable beating. Quickly stir in nuts. Pour at once into a buttered square cake pan (8 by 8 by 2 inches). Cool, cut into 1-inch squares and remove with a small spatula, or turn out candy from pan and cut into squares. Makes 64 squares.

'The Sorcerer'

Middletown Chorus to Offer Operetta

MIDDLETOWN — The Middletown Community Chorus will present Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Sorcerer." Two performances will be given today and tomorrow in Fairview School, Cooper Rd., Curtain times are 8:30 p.m.

Musical director is Marvin Fichter of Lincroft and stage director is Rev. Donald G.A. MacLeod of Middletown. Pianist is Marjorie Meyer, also of Middletown.

The cast of principals includes three married couples: Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Fredericks of Phalanx; Mr. and Mrs. George W. Smith, Jr., Middletown, and Mr. and Mrs. William Reynolds, East Keansburg.

Other soloists are Mark Bentley, Rumson; David Thompson, New Shrewsbury, and Mrs. Joan Parent, Middletown.

"THE SORCERER," played by George W. Smith, Jr., Middletown, in rehearsal for the Middletown Community Chorus presentation, with Mrs. Bruce Fredericks of Phalanx as Aline Sangazure. Two performances are slated for Friday and Saturday in the Fairview School, Cooper Rd., Middletown. Curtain time is 8:30 p. m.

The plot of the seldom performed work of Gilbert and Sullivan, deals with the signing of a marriage contract between Sir Marmaduke Pointdextre's son Alexis, to Aline Sangazure. To implement his theory that men and women should marry without consideration of social status or rank, Alexis engages a firm of family sorcers. They serve a love potion which puts the guests to sleep. When they awaken they fall in love with the first person they see.

The utter confusion at the unsuitability of the mates chosen sets the pattern for the play which in true G&S fashion ends happily.

CHRIS MADE HISTORY

NEW YORK (AP) — Chris Cannizzaro can always say he got the first hit off the first Japanese pitcher in the major leagues.

When the Giants came in for their last trip, Chris, the Mets catcher, drove a fast ball to left center in Masionori Murakami's one-inning relief effort for the San Francisco Giants.

Chris called Masinori "sneaky fast." The 20-year-old hurler struck out two of the four batters he faced.

Decorative Bromelaid
By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Tropical plants generally aren't looked upon as versatile but the decorative Bromelaid is a very adaptable house plant.

The Bromelaids are a large family, with a color range from brilliant pink and vivid tangerine to soft blue and ivory white and in showy combinations as well.

This pineapple-family plant is growing in popularity, especially where the decorator strives for simplicity. Where color accent is desired, it is available through a well-chosen group with a long-blooming period.

The Bromelaid flowers once a year but the bloom lasts from two to seven months, depending on the species. The flower rises from the center of the whorls. The Vriesia carinata often is called painted feather because it resembles one: the Billbergia leptopoda is called Permanent Wave, because the leaves curl under the end.

The leaves are evergreen and so diverse as to color and pattern as to offer a top surface of green and a undercoating of maroon. Others turn red when they are ready to bloom, and there are patterns of cross bands, marbling and blotchings.

Horticulturists at Cypress Gardens in Florida say the Bromelaid, which grow under diverse conditions. In the wilderness, make good house plants because they are able to adopt to fluctuating temperatures and humidity of the modern home.

They will grow with no great difficulty in many mediums, such as river gravel, perlite, course granite grit, tree fern fiber, peat, leafmold or mixtures of these.

The pot should be large enough to hold the plant upright.

In the photo above, a Neoregelia carolinae tricolor is growing in a natural driftwood container. It is attractive in a hanging basket also.

The plant feeds through the leaves and does not require much water applied to the roots. The upright, overlapping leaves from a cup which is a natural container for water for a plant that thrives in humid conditions.

When the plant is grown indoors, insufficient sunlight and lack of air circulation will cause the water in the leaf cup to become stagnant and it is advisable to empty this water, wash the cup and refill periodically.

On the House

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

From various sources come these bits of information of interest to the home owner:

Your local lumber dealer sells a lot of lumber, but that's not all he sells . . . In fact, that's only about one-third of what he sells . . . A survey conducted by the National Lumber and Building Material Dealers Association brought out that sales of non-lumber products represent about 63 per cent of total business . . . Masonry supplies, paint, glass, wallpaper, insulation, tools, metal roofing and siding, nonwood floor coverings, and asphalt and asbestos products are among the items accounting for the large percentage of non-lumber sales.

If you build a closet in your home, or put a new door on an old one, be sure you use hardware that will enable the door to be opened from the inside. This is especially important if there are children in the home—and most persons know this—but some forget that visiting children also can get locked in. Another safety measure: see that there is at least half-an-inch between the bottom of the door and the floor so that air can enter the closet should a child be trapped inside when no adult is around.

A leak through a ceiling from an upstairs bathroom occurs far less frequently from a damaged pipe than it does from water seeping down from behind a bathtub, shower or baseboard. (You can get Andy Lang's detailed booklet, "Make Simple Plumbing Repairs," by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 954, Jamaica, N.Y., 11431.)

Color consultants say that consumer color preferences follow cycles that run from 10 to 25 years. Example: blue was a very popular color in the home from 1939 to the early '50s, was almost completely dormant for several years, picked up a little in the late '50s and now has again returned to prominence.

When you buy a new appliance cord for a toaster or an iron, the prongs of the appliance itself should be sanded to insure good contact with a new plug.

The ends of a chair rung can not be reglued properly into the leg holes until the old glue has been scraped off. Once the new glue has been applied and the rung set into place, it can be dried by using a rope tourniquet. Tie rope loosely around the two affected legs (using rubber or cardboard cushions to avoid marring the wood), place a stick between the two pieces of rope and twist until the rope is tight. The stick will stay in place by resting it against the rung.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

QUESTION: The problem I have concerns my bathroom tile. The tile itself is in very good condition and is very secure, therefore I do not want to replace it. The trouble is the lines between the tile, which are becoming brown in color and, in some places, coming out. What can I do to correct this condition?

ANSWER: You did not specify whether you mean floor or wall tile, nor what kind of tile. On the assumption that you are talking about ceramic floor tile, which sometimes develops the condition you mention after many years, try this: using a pointed instrument, such as an awl, remove any loose mortar in the tile joints, then sweep the floor and wash it. After it is dry, make a mixture of one part of waterproof portland cement and one part of fine sand, or buy a ready-mixed grout that requires only the addition of water. In either case, use a minimum amount of water, just enough to make the mix workable.

Spread the mixture on the floor, using a squeegee to work it throughly into the joints. Quickly remove all excess mortar before it begins to set, using a piece of burlap first and then a damp cloth. Keep rubbing until this excess has disappeared, then polish with a dry cloth. Your big problem is to keep anyone from walking on the tile for two or three days, which means you'll have to do the job in sections.

During the drying period, keep the repaired area covered with a damp cloth, which should be sprinkled several times a day. Remove the cloth and go on to the next section. If the members of your family are careful, you probably can do half the floor each time.

(You can get Andy Lang's detailed booklet, "Here's The Answer," with replies to 35 pertinent home repair questions, by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 954, Jamaica, N.Y., 11431. Also available, at the same price, is "Wood Finishing in the Home." Be sure to specify which booklet you want.)

2 Area Rabbis Among 300 In Protest March

NEW YORK CITY — Two clergymen from the Red Bank, N.J. area participated here Monday in a solemn parade of protest against the Soviet Union's repression of the religious and cultural life of its Jews.

Among the 300 rabbis who marched silently along the mile-long mid-Manhattan route were Rabbi Jack M. Rosoff, spiritual leader of Congregation Bnai Israel, Rumson, and Rabbi Richard F. Steinbrink, spiritual leader of Monmouth Reform Temple, Shrewsbury.

Both are members of the New York Board of Rabbis, which encompasses all Conservative, Orthodox and Reform rabbis in the metropolitan New York area. Rabbi Rosoff has served on the New York Committee for Soviet Jewry since its inception last June.

The procession ended with a rally at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace Building, near the United Nations headquarters. Rally speakers included New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Sen.-elect Robert F. Kennedy, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz and Stanley H. Lowell, chairman of the New York City Commission on Human Rights, who represented Mayor Robert Wagner.

30 Residents in Area Team To Aid Spread of Good Will

MIDDLETOWN — Some 30 residents of the Greater Red Bank Area last night signed up as ambassadors of International good will.

Meeting in the Middletown High School auditorium, they formed a local chapter of People-to-People Inc., a grass roots organization which seeks to develop international friendship, understanding and mutual respect through personal contacts between ordinary citizens of the United States and its world neighbors.

Mrs. Earl Main, 106 South Lake Dr., River Plaza, sponsor of last night's meeting and local field representative for People-to-People, will serve as president.

Mrs. Main, who is recovering from an appendectomy, was unable to attend the meeting.

Named temporary officers were Frank Strickland, 11 South Lake Dr., River Plaza, treasurer; and Mrs. George Supplee, 91 Church St., Little Silver, secretary.

Expect Early Charter

Reached by telephone last night, Mrs. Main said the local chapter will be officially chartered sometime next month.

"We're all set to go," she declared.

The purpose of the program is to promote an exchange of ideas and not to provide material aid, it was emphasized by John Lindeman, eastern United States representative of the organization's international headquarters in Kansas City, Mo.

"We do not believe America has a corner on all the brains and morality in the world," Mr. Lindeman told the approximately 40 persons present.

"We believe," he added, "that all we have we owe to people of all races and nationalities and to all the cultures which have preceded us. We believe we have as much to learn as to teach, and as much to gain as to give."

"You can give someone the shirt off your back, but, unless you also give him your respect, you don't make a friend — you lose one," he said.

Mr. Lindeman warned that opportunities for friction increase as modern means of travel bring peoples from all nations into more personal contact with one another.

Asks Understanding

"We must bend every effort to make sure that the increasing contact between peoples results in greater understanding," he declared.

Mr. Lindeman described the People-to-People program as a "unique concept that fits the uniqueness of this particular time in history."

In previous eras, people whose survival was threatened escaped across national borders or natural barriers, as immigrants to this country did, he said.

"But today there is no place to which we can escape from the threat to our survival," he said. "We must learn to live together or we will surely die together."

The non-profit, non-political organization of private citizens was started by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1956. The newly-formed local chapter will participate in any of its five programs, which include:

The Community Chapter Program, which organizes adult activities — such as group tours, hosting of foreign visitors, affiliations with so-called sister towns abroad, and cultural exchanges.

The University Program, which fosters student exchange programs.

The School and Classroom Program, which sets up affiliations between American classrooms in grade and high schools, arranging for exchange of letters, tape recordings and other projects.

The Travel Program, which sponsors low-cost group travel abroad, co-ordinating with chapters overseas to arrange visits.

The Letter Exchange Program, which brings together adult correspondents in the United States with persons of similar interests abroad.

Early Tour Seen

Mr. Lindeman predicted that the local chapter will be sponsoring a trip abroad "within two years."

Testimony to the effectiveness of personal contact with overseas visitors was given last night by several local residents who had participated in earlier programs.

They included Miss Jane Wildanger, 242 Nutswamp Rd. and Karl Meyer, 12 Butler La., both this place, and Mrs. Luella Bradshaw, 11 Wallace St., Red Bank.

All had helped host the 16 Austrian families who visited here last summer under People-to-People sponsorship. Miss Wildanger, a Monmouth College senior, previously was hostess to an English girl also visiting here under the organization's auspices.

Mr. Meyer said the experience had awakened the interest of his two children in foreign countries.

Mrs. Bradshaw summed up the value of the hosting program.

"The classroom is a good place to learn," she said. "But the kitchen is even better."

The local organization is the 66th People-to-People community chapter in the nation and the third in New Jersey, Mr. Lindeman said, adding that there now are chapters in Trenton and Fanwood and a fourth is about to be organized in East Orange.

Senate Hires Two Lawyers To Argue Weighted Vote Case

TRENTON (AP) — The New Jersey Senate's statewide talent search for lawyers to represent it in a legislative apportionment suit has ended with the upper house hiring two of its own employes.

Senate President Charles W. Sandman Jr., R-Cape May, announced Thursday that William Lanning and H. Arthur Smith Jr. would argue the merit of the senate's weighted voting system before the State Supreme Court Dec. 14.

Lanning is chief counsel and Smith is co-counsel for the legislature's Law Revision and Legislative Services Commission.

The court had scheduled argument on weighted voting for Dec. 1 but the senate could not find a lawyer to represent it before the court and asked for a postponement to Dec. 14.

Former State Sen. Wesley L. Lance had quit as senate counsel, and former State Sen. Walter H. Jones turned down the job Monday.

Lance quit because he believed weighted voting is unconstitutional. Jones rejected the case because the assembly did not adopt weighted voting. Jones, who is the author of the weighted voting plan, maintains both houses had to adopt the system for it to be valid.

Under weighted voting a senator's vote corresponds to the population he represents. The senator from populous Essex County has 19 times the voting power of Cape May County's senator.

Three Held On Mugging Charge

RED BANK — The three men charged with a mugging on Willow St. near West Bergen Pl. Nov. 21 yesterday waived preliminary hearings before Magistrate William I. Klatsky and were held for grand jury action.

Willie James Yarbrough, 21, 51 Leonard St., was charged with forcibly taking approximately $12 from Joseph Sweat, 68 Tindall Rd., Middletown.

Gary Malcolm Jones, 21, 61 Springdale Ave., New Shrewsbury, and Elton Reginald Morris, 22, 24 Central Ave., here, were charged with aiding and abetting the robbery. Jones was additionally charged with the assault and battery of Mr. Sweat.

The three were arrested two days after the alleged incident by Detective Capt. Irving L. Krakowitch and Detective Sgt. Robert D. Scott, and bail was set at $3,500 on each charge.

Magistrate Klatsky yesterday reduced the bail to $1,000 on each charge. Two of the defendants posted bail, but Morris was returned to the county jail because he is on probation.

Church Welcomes 12 to Membership

FAIR HAVEN — Welcomed into membership in Christ Church Methodist, last Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. John Brower, 101 Church St.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry May, 290 Fair Haven Rd., and Mrs. William Schuette, William Schuette, Jr., and Miss Margaret Schuette, 226 Buena Vista Ave., all of Fair Haven; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, 15 Wardell Ave., Rumson and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Durning and Ronald Durning, Clay Ct. Locust.

Fair Haven Zoners Act On Variances

FAIR HAVEN — The Zoning Board of Adjustment, at a regular meeting last night, granted two variances, denied one and reaffirmed a fourth.

Jan Estates, developer of properties formerly held by the estate of Ronald Allen, was permitted construction of a story-and-a-half dwelling on Buttonwood La. adjacent to McCarter Pond. Represented by William L. Russell, Jr. of Red Bank, the builder sought a lot depth variance.

He lacked 718 square feet. The Board ruled that denial would constitute a hardship. The building lot was approved by the Planning Board in 1952, prior to zoning code changes that made it non-conforming.

A. G. Nugent, Inc., represented by Cleve A. Stone, 83 Prospect Ave., Red Bank, was granted sideline and minimum lot width variances permitting construction of an addition at 120 Ridge Rd. A condition requires the proposed garage be in line with houses to the north.

Tony Hunting, 882 River Rd., was denied a variance that would have permitted subdivision of his lot.

William Spreen, owner of the Willowbrook Inn, 740 River Rd., was assured that a 1962 variance permitting construction of a vestibule is still in effect. It will open onto the municipal parking lot.

Mr. Spreen was represented by John Flood of Fair Haven Rd.

Open Store Wednesday At Strathmore

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP — The first store — an Acme food market — in Strathmore shopping center will open Wednesday.

The store, largest in the center, will occupy about 19,000 square feet.

Planned for opening later this month are a beauty salon, gift shop, pharmacy, cleaners and shoe store.

When completed, the center will have about 25 stores and parking area for about 1,000 cars.

EVENING SERVICES

HAZLET — During Advent, services will be held Sundays at 7:30 p.m. at St. John's Methodist Church, here, in addition to the regular 9 and 11 a.m. services.

This Sunday there will be a Candlelight Communion service. On Dec. 13 the church school will present a program. On Dec. 20, a Christmas cantata, "Bethlehem," will be presented.

Urges More U. S. Contact With Latins

MIDDLETOWN — When it comes to people-to-people contact with Americans, Russians say "da" ("yes") but Latin Americans say "manana" ("tomorrow").

So John Lindeman, eastern United States representative for People-to-People Inc., Kansas City, Mo. said last night at the organizational meeting of the local chapter in Middletown High School.

"The Iron Curtain countries are very responsive to the program," Mr. Lindeman said.

He said the program is functioning not only within the Soviet Union but also in Yugoslavia, Poland and Hungary.

Need for Dollars

"We need the program there — and they need tourist dollars," Mr. Lindeman pointed out.

But the response from South American nations, Mr. Lindeman said "is not what it might be."

"We have trouble there," he added.

Mr. Lindemann said South Americans are reluctant to become associated with people here because their fellow countrymen will then accuse them of being "tools of the imperialists" or of having been brainwashed.

He said the People-to-People program encouraged attempts to establish personal contact with citizens of South American countries "because although you don't get the thrill of exchanging visits or of receiving pictures and letters, your efforts do serve to improve the image of the United States there."

In 1963 Baylor's Lawrence Elkins caught a touchdown pass in four straight games.

WET ROAD MISHAP — There were no serious injuries when this car skidded into an empty school bus at Maple Ave. and Broad St., Red Bank, at 8:58 a.m. yesterday. The driver of the car, Pauline L. Havens, 19, of Shrewsbury Ave., New Shrewsbury, was taken to Riverview Hospital by the first aid squad, but was released after treatment for shock and a bump on the head. The bus was driven by James P. Siano, Rt. 35, Middletown.

Murphy Rd. Sewage Setup Is New Shrewsbury Problem

NEW SHREWSBURY—Charles H. Wilson's sewage disposal farm on Murphy Rd. still bothers area residents — and it's beginning to offend transients as well, Borough Council learned last night.

Paul Thead of Murphy Rd. termed the disposal area, used by Mr. Wilson to dump the contents of his septic tank cleaning trucks, "a plain, aggravated nuisance and a hazard to health."

He complained that area petitioners, who had scheduled meetings with the Board of Health to discuss the problem, had received no satisfaction from that body.

Several planned meetings with the health board, he said, have been canceled by the body without notice to the petitioners.

As a result of recent encephalitis cases in New Jersey, Mr. Thead continued, the State Department of Health has directed that mosquito breeding places shall be eliminated.

"I find an open sewage disposal ground inconsistent with the state directive," Mr. Thead declared. "It's a prime environment for breeding mosquitoes."

Flies and possible pollution of the ground water — the area is served by private wells — were also cited as health hazards resulting from Mr. Wilson's operation.

Leon J. Williams of Squankum Rd., who also lives near the disposal area told council that the tract was originally purchased as agriculture land. Use of it as a dumping ground for human excrement is illegal under borough ordinance and state laws as well, he declared.

"I do think the condition which is prevalent is not only obnoxious, but discriminating to the people of the area," Mr. Williams concluded.

Mayor John E. Lemon, Jr. promised that council would take the matter up at its next study meeting.

Council Drops Complaint On Jockey Club

OCEANPORT — The complaint leveled against the Monmouth Park Jockey Club by John de Groot recently was aired at the Borough Council session last night and was disclaimed.

Mr. de Groot of 430 Branchport Ave., charged that six new stables being erected by the club on a tract to the west of the railroad tracks are in violation of the June 4 variance granted for the project.

He said if council does not stop the project, he will initiate legal action against the borough and the club.

Donald Vaughn of Turf Dr., speaking for Mr. de Groot, told the council last night that a building is being erected within 100 feet of the easterly boundary of the racetrack property.

He said that a structure is about 60 feet from the boundary at one point and about 82 feet from the border at another.

'Out to The Letter'

Borough attorney Charles W. Jones said that the structures are to be 150 feet from the property of any person who objected to the proposal. He said that the construction is being carried out "to the letter of variance stipulations."

Richard Schulz, borough engineer, added that his interpretation of the resolution allowing the construction follows Mr. Jones'.

Mayor Edward C. Wilson, Sr. said that no action will be taken to halt the work.

Thomas Doremus, Red Bank attorney representing the racing club, told the council that a section of fence was installed five feet west of the easterly boundary of club property to avoid destroying a stand of trees which form a natural buffer zone.

He said that a planned emergency gate in another section of fence may have to be relocated as its location on the plot plan is the site of utility meters. He asked for council sanction of the proposed changes.

He added that an old tree should be removed near the track's boundary also. He said the club would undertake the job at no expense to the borough.

Mayor Wilson said the council will consider approving the requested changes and that the club should seek approval of the Shade Tree Committee to remove the tree.

Resort School Board Giving Up Playground

MONMOUTH BEACH — The Board of Education last night initiated action designed to turn over to the borough the Griffin St. playground.

It was said that, if the Borough Commission appoints a recreation commission, that body could better administer the land and develop it into a general borough recreation facility.

The borough originally deeded the tract to the board for use as a school playground.

The board directed its attorney to begin necessary legal work to complete the plan.

Pay Hikes Push Resort Budget Up

MONMOUTH BEACH — The Board of Education last night introduced its 1965-66 school budget, which is up $34,266 over the current figure.

The budget, which totals, $157,127, will be aired in Borough Hall at a public session Jan. 15.

W. Winfield West, board secretary, said the major increase is reflected in the principal's and teachers' salaries. The items represent an $18,700 increase.

Other increases are teaching supplies, up $1,200; library and visual aid supplies, an increase of $1,980; rents for outside classrooms, up $2,750, and tuition, up $1,750.

The amount to be raised by local taxes will be $131,634 as compared to $89,586 derived from taxes for the current budget. The increase was attributed to the lack of surplus funds to apply to the budget.

Current expenses total $137,935; capital outlay calls for $5,000 and debt service, which is not controlled by the board, amounts to $14,192.

Organ Recital

RUMSON — Peter C. Jensen, organist and choirmaster at St. Paul's Church, Paterson, will play a recital on the new Aeolian-Skinner organ at St. George's-by-the-River Episcopal Church, here, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The recital will be the third in a series being presented at the Rumson church.

Revoked List Driver Fined $200 on Charge

FREEHOLD — Magistrate Alexander Levchuk found Elka Macuk, Rt. 33, guilty of driving while on the revoked list. The mandatory minimum amount for the offense, $200, was charged, plus $5 court costs.

Donald A. Dean, 26 Phyllis Rd., was fined $30 for leaving the scene of an accident; Douglas Richardson, Woodsville Rd., Englishtown, $15, careless driving, and Norma H. Ramey, 11 Clinton St., $15, careless driving.

Set Christmas Musical Vespers

OAKHURST — A Christmas Musical Vespers will be presented by four choirs at the First Methodist Church, here, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Participating will be the church's cherub, chancel, caroler and senior choirs. Directing the program will be Miss Evelyn Allen, Miss Doris De Camp, Mrs. Jack Dessalet, Jr. and E. Cline Van Brunt.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service will serve a Christmas tea after the Vespers. Hostesses will include members of the Ethel, Mary-Martha, Wesley and Ruth Circles of the WSCS.

Faces Charge After Accident

WEST LONG BRANCH — Clarence Henderson, 70, of 71 Grant Ct., Long Branch, was charged with drunken driving after a two-car collision on Monmouth Rd. at 8:10 p.m. Wednesday.

He was released in $250 bail for a hearing here Dec. 16.

Police said the Henderson car, traveling south on Monmouth Rd., crossed into the northbound lane and collided with an auto driven by Thomas M. Kutyla, 23, of 15 Poplar St., Keansburg.

Henderson was taken to Monmouth Medical Center, Long Branch, by the borough First Aid Squad where he was treated for minor injuries. He was returned to headquarters where he was examined by Dr. Caesar Bonpua, this place, and pronounced unfit to drive.

Patrolman Herbert Van Note was the investigating officer.

First Merchants to Pay Christmas Bonus

ASBURY PARK—John G. Hewitt, president, First Merchants National Bank, announced today that the directors had approved a Christmas gift for the staff of the bank. Staff members with service of four years or more will receive four weeks' salary; those with three years of service will receive three weeks' salary; two years of service, two weeks' salary; one year, one week's salary. Token amounts were approved for those who have been with the bank less than one year. Officers of the bank do not participate in the Christmas gift.

Mr. Hewitt said the board, in granting the Christmas gift, wanted to recognize in a tangible way the efforts of the bank's staff that had made First Merchants continued progress during the year possible.

Carol Sing

LITTLE SILVER — A community carol sing will be held in the sanctuary of Embury Methodist Church, Church St., Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Bridge Column

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

When we leave the bridge table the scales fall from our eyes and we see all things as they really are. At the table, however, you see the dummy in relation to your own hand and to what you would enjoy. Your eyesight is distorted by what you have and what you wish.

When this hand was played some years ago, the late Pierre Albarran displayed his ability to look at a hand through the eyes of his opponents. But first he had to remove the rose-colored glasses that an aggressive bridge player normally wears.

An optimistic declarer would ruff the heart lead and try to draw trumps with the ace and king. He would have to give up a trump trick to the queen, and East would signal by discarding the queen of diamonds. West would lead a diamond, and East would take his tricks to defeat the contract.

Albarran did not expect Trumps to break when the opponents had bid for eleven tricks with only 20 points in high cards between then Albarran ruffed the opening heart lead and blandly returned the ten of spades.

Conquers Fear

West was afraid to play the queen for fear that his partner had the singleton ace of trumps, but he finally conquered his fear and took his trump trick. But what next? East had been given no chance to signal.

West could defeat the contract by leading a diamond if East had the ace and queen. But a club lead would do the job if East had just the ace of clubs. West thought it was reasonable to hope for the minimum, so he shifted to a club. Clearly, he didn't see the dummy as it actually was; he saw it in the light of his own cards and what he wanted to happen.

This was just what Albarran had expected. The great French expert won the club return, drew trumps and ran his clubs to discard all of dummy's diamonds. It was then easy to ruff a diamond in dummy to assure his contract.

Rt. 35 Crash Injures Two

MIDDLETOWN — Two persons were injured Wednesday in a three-car crash on Rt. 35 near the Sears, Roebuck and Co. store.

Mrs. Lillian Jacobsen, 40, of 5 Amherst La., Hazlet, and her son, Howard, 10, were treated at Riverview Hospital, Red Bank, for cuts and bruises and released.

According to police, Mrs. Jacobsen's car was stopped in the northbound lane of the highway preparing to make a left turn into the Sears parking lot when it was struck in the rear by another car.

Police said driver of the other car was Carmen J. Falco, 41, of Wood Ave., Keansburg.

According to police, the impact of the crash forced the Jacobsen car into the southbound lane of the highway into the path of an auto operated by Edward W. Scudder, Jr., Navesink River Rd., this place.

Police said neither Mr. Falco nor Mr. Scudder was injured.

Patrolman Harry Sage issued Mr. Falco a summons for careless driving.

Moriarty's Money

NEW YORK (AP) — Joseph (Newsboy) Moriarty, a New Jersey gambler, was cited Wednesday as a man without underworld connection, who was snowed under by the money he accumulated.

New York Detective Sgt. Ralph Salerno described to the State Commission of Investigation how underworld gambling money is used to finance multi-million dollar loan shark operations. Another witness at a committee hearing had defined this was "turning black money into white."

Salerno mentioned Moriarty, and said he had no way to move his gambling proceeds in the underworld, and as a result had to accumulate them.

In 1962, police found a $2.4 million cash hoard in a Jersey City garage and said Moriarty had hidden it there.

Inlet Plan Is Welcome News — But the Digging Is Distant

By NELSON BENEDICT

SANDY HOOK — Overshadowing all other developments along the waterfront in recent days was the more than welcome news that some time there will be an inlet dug through the Sandy Hook peninsula in the vicinity of Spermaceti Cove.

The gestation period which preceded a favorable report from the Army Engineers was a lengthy one. Now, if Congress comes up with the money, the inlet will become a reality.

Some large money figures have been mentioned about construction and upkeep costs of the inlet.

Although an $8 million price tag has been attached to the project, reliable sources of information suggest that the ultimate cost for construction probably will creep past the $10 million mark.

Seasoned Bayshore fishermen and officials have expressed doubt whether the inlet will be open to navigation in a matter of a couple of years.

The fiscal climate now prevailing in Washington reeks of economy. Every department in the federal government is being asked by President Johnson's administration to pare its budget to the very bone for fiscal 1965-66.

Approval by the Army Engineers is not sufficient in itself to guarantee reasonably rapid constructon of the inlet. One well informed Washington source told The Register other public works projects including various flood relief programs would probably enjoy a higher priority when Congress starts to examine money problems that would include Sandy Hook Inlet.

There appears to be no negative thinking about this. Sooner or later, the inlet will become a reality. In this particular instance, however, a newsman was asked to remember that "later" could be a period of time as distant as 10 years before marine traffic starts to operate through that 15-foot channel.

Largely overlooked in the controversial ado over the engineers' report was the fact that a Sandy Hook inlet in being would work vast and far-reaching changes upon the economy of the entire Bayshore area as well as communities adjacent to the Shrewsbury and the Navesink Rivers.

Seasoned Monmouth County observers began to project an immediate growth in marina construction, especially in Highlands.

Within 48 hours, small groups of party and charter boat captains as well as individual skippers from ports south of here, quietly but nontheless thoroughly, have been investigating the waterfront situation insofar as dockage facilities are concerned.

These visitors found that virtually every available inch of river-front property has been spoken for. Moreover, waterfront land values appeared to increase immediately after the Engineers had their say.

This value, say Bayshore experts should grow considerably more — even before the first cubic foot of sand is moved.

The nearness to many of the best fishing grounds on the entire coast is key to this situation.

In point, the average 10-knot boat will cut off an hour of running time on voyages to Shrewsbury Rocks, the Mud Hole, Farms, 17 Fathoms, Cholera Bank, etc. once the inlet is completed.

Just imagine—it would take but 15 minutes from inlet jetties to reach the Shrewsbury Rocks.

Private boat owners figure to benefit enormously, too. Avoiding the long run around the Hook would result in a savings of upwards of 20 gallons of gasoline per trip for the skipper of, say, a 25-foot sport fishing vessel. Wharfage would be at a premium long before the drag lines and dredges put in their appearance.

Where there is a demand, it has been said, supply will follow inevitably. This, say the observers, raises this point: Will the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development do more than merely "explore" possiblities of the need for a state-owned and state-operated marina at Sandy Hook Park?

Owners of existing facilities for boatmen, recreational and otherwise, vehemently have expressed opposition to another state marina similar to the installation at Leonardo.

Trenton, they say, may very well take the position that the needs of boatmen must be accommodated—regardless who does the job. Conversely, marina operators almost to a man, have been decrying the concept of the state getting into competition with private enterprise.

6 Area Road Projects On New State Program

TRENTON — Six Monmouth County road projects, all but one financed 50/50 by state and federal governments, were announced by Gov. Richard J. Hughes as part of a $143.7 million road construction program, second largest in the history of the state.

About $14.7 million has been allocated for county projects, which include:

— Rt. 35 freeway, allotted $5-million. The 2.5-mile first section of a 4-lane limited-access road from Eatontown to Point Pleasant will be built in the Wall Township - Neptune area.

— Rt. 35 improvements, allotted $5 million. Improvements of the 9.8-mile stretch between Red Bank and Keyport will include four 11-foot traffic lanes separated by a concrete barrier. Left-turn jughandles will be installed at intersections.

— Rt. 33 dualization, allotted $3,210,000. Four 12-foot lanes will be constructed for a distance of 13.5 miles between Freehold and Hightstown, separated by a 37-foot island. Allowance will be made for future expansion to six lanes. Jughandles will be built at intersections.

— Rt. 35 intersection at Broadway and Maple Pl., Keyport, allotted $680,000. A contract has already been awarded for construction of a bridge over Rt. 35 to relieve traffic congestion at the six-cornered intersection.

— Rt. 18 freeway, allotted $500,000. The funds will be used to purchase rights of way between U. S. Rt. 9 and state Rt. 34, where a major portion of the Rt. 18 alignment passes through unoccupied land. Early purchase will prevent development of this land, which would cause higher prices. The land will be used for the planned connection between Rts. 18 and 35 near Eatontown.

— Cliffwood Ave. improvements, Matawan Township, allotted $300,000. An overloaded, five-cornered intersection will be widened to relieve congestion. Traffic lights, revised channelization, and jughandles will be added.

The Cliffwood Ave. project is the only one that will be financed 100 per cent by state funds.

Projects on large interstate routes, for which the federal government puts up 90 per cent of the funds, account for $89 million of the $143.7 million state-wide total. Fifty-fifty projects account for most of the rest, the state contributing a total of $6.6 million.

The state's most expensive road program was last year's, when $205 million was allocated largely to get interstate road construction moving.

State Highway Commissioner Dwight R. G. Palmer said the $143.7 million program takes advantage of all federal highway aid funds apportioned to the state to date, including the 1965-66 allotment, which was released by the federal government last August but will not be available in cash until July 1.

Mr. Palmer advised Gov. Hughes it will be very difficult to schedule the new program desirably without substantial additions to the Highway Department staff to handle right of way acquisitions, design problems, and field supervision.

A number of projects included in the new program already are under way, The Highway Department, however, waited until now to release the entire list because of bookkeeping involved in apportioning federal funds.

C of C Plans For Progress To Be Told

FREEHOLD — Robert L. Schultz, executive director, Greater Freehold Area Chamber of Commerce, will address the Junior Woman's Club on South St., Monday at 8 p.m.

Mr. Schultz will outline the general aims of the Chamber:

—Solve problems of obsolescense.

—Central business district modernization.

—Industrial expansion.

—Provision of central community facilities.

—Modernization of local government.

—Creation of comprehensive community plans.

The Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a seven-week course starting in January to train business and civic leaders to solve community problems. The aim of the course is to create a program of work for community development.

Examples of the problems to be solved are a need for water and sewerage to attract industry to the area, application for proposed urban renewal, and recreation facilities for young people and senior citizens.

PTA Asks Improvements In School at Strathmore

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP — If "alterations and additions (to Strathmore Elementary School) are not complied with, the educational standard will decrease as the demands upon the school increase."

Thus concludes resolution of a special committee of the Strathmore Parent-Teacher Organization presented to the Regional Board of Education at an executive meeting here, Monday night.

Mrs. Bobbe Weiser, a spokesman for the organization, said that, while the educational system is constantly being improved, facilities are not keeping pace.

Improvements Asked

The resolution calls for the following improvements:

1. Converting the clinic and two classrooms into a vice principal's office, guidance room, speech room, remedial reading room, library and clinic.

2. Conversion of present library, teachers' room and storage space into one large storage room.

3. Conversion of existing classroom into a faculty room.

4. Construction of four new classrooms on the easterly and westerly extremities of the present existing building to compensate for the loss of four classrooms.

5. Extension of the present entry corridor No. two located in the easterly wing of the building to an eight-foot corridor projected to the southerly wall of the wing.

6. Construction of a building addition to house a gymnasium, which can be divided into two separate units, music room and storage, boys' and girls' rooms, office, storage, and boiler room.

7. Conversion of multi-purpose rom for cafeteria.

Looks Elsewhere

The committee, after studying state basic minimum requirements for a school of the Strathmore type and having consulted with the school principal, studied conditions in other schools in the regional system.

They concluded the suggested improvements "are necessary, in order to properly meet existing educational demands presently existing in the Strathmore Elementary School."

Commenting on conditions at the Strathmore school, Mrs. Weiser said:

"The remedial reading teacher is working in a closet, and shares the space with the musical instruments director.

"The music teacher rolls the piano from one room to another because there is no music room.

"The assistant principal shares the clerk's office."

Mrs. Welser concluded with the statement that sixth graders, who should be attending the school, go to Matawan Grammar School.

The regional board is holding budget conferences this month and expects to have the final budget prepared by Jan. 6.

Monmouth Conservatory to Start New Venture in Music Education

FAIR HAVEN — A new venture in music education will make its debut here in January.

The Monmouth Conservatory of Music, a non-profit organization dedicated to the cultural and artistic aspirations of the community, will open under the direction of Felix Molzer who has been teaching voice, piano and organ here since 1957.

A five-man board of trustees has appointed a faculty of seven to provide a variety of courses in history, theory and vocal and instrumental instruction.

One of its Kind

The conservatory, which will be the only one of its kind in the county, will offer a curriculum planned for all ages.

Classes will be taught in homogeneous groupings according to aptitude, age and degree of accomplishment.

Mr. Molzer has used the grouping technique developed by Robert Pace as a framework for his instruction for several years.

He found, he said, that it provides additional stimulation and comprehension and helps to sustain enthusiasm, especially in younger students.

Trustees of the conservatory are Thomas D. Smith of Rumson, president, Director of Research at Dupont Laboratories, Parlin; James H. Craig, Jr., Fair Haven, vice president, who is president of his own export-import business in New York; Charles Anderson, Fair Haven, secretary, who is employed at Ft. Monmouth and is president of the Board of Trustees of Christ Church, Methodist, here, where the classes will be held; William E. Beaty, Rumson, treasurer, a Red Bank attorney and William H. Borden, Rumson, who is chairman of the board of Manhattan School of Music.

On the Staff

The faculty thus far announced includes Mrs. Lorraine Goldschmidt who will teach Orientation to Music, a course for youngsters in which body and speech rhythms will be translated into rhythmic-melodic patterns. Through singing and playing of simple instruments, she will provide exploration and experimentation.

Mrs. Goldschmidt has studied with the Trapp Family. She teaches the recorder and is an accomplished singer and pianist.

Mrs. Virginia Hornberger, director of music at Lutheran Church, Red Bank, is a graduate of Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y. She will teach piano, encompassing theory, transposing, sight-reading, improvising and composition in all styles.

William Shoppell, director of instrumental music in the Neptune Elementary Schools, director of the Monmouth Civic Chorus and a bass soloist, will teach voice and flute at the conservatory.

Fred Link, a teacher in Long Branch High School and Red Bank School of Music, performs locally with his wife as a percussion and string base combo. He will teach percussion.

Kenneth Walters, who will teach clarinet, is director of instrumental music at Rumson-Fair Haven Regional High School.

Molzer is director of music at the Methodist Church and spends his summers teaching at the Vienna State Music Academy in a program sponsored by the Institute for European Studies. He will conduct classes in Ear Training and Sight Singing, Theory and Harmony and Contemporary Music, all designed for adults.

All faculty members will continue to provide private instruction.

The conservatory hopes to expand its curriculum, offer scholarships to talented youth and initiate funding programs that will provide additional instruments and equipment and a building of its own. It will be housed in the educational building of Christ Church, Methodist, temporarily.

Fleckner Says He'll Retire In' Oceanport

OCEANPORT — Borough Clerk William P. Fleckner last night announced he will retire from his post Dec. 31.

Mr. Fleckner, in a letter to Borough Council, said with the growing borough and an ever increasing work load and public demand for more service, he cannot devote the time the post requires.

Mayor Edward C. Wilson and council members lauded the clerk for the 32 years service he has devoted to the community.

Mr. Fleckner, a former councilman, has been borough clerk 28 years.

In other business, Council also received the resignation of Benjamin H. Stanton, chairman of the Planning Board. Mr. Stanton said he is moving to Atlantic Highlands.

The resignation was accepted "with regret."

Ready Atlantic Highlands Plan

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS — If all goes well, this municipality's master plan will be unveiled to the public in its entirety the early part of next year.

Mayor Russell W. Morgan said last night that preliminary work on the study has been completed by Brown and Anthony City Planners, New York, the borough's master plan consultants.

The finished product must now be forwarded to the state Department of Conservation and Economic Development for review and possible revisions or recommendations.

Only after that department's okay has been given to the proposed guide can it be introduced to the public, the mayor said.

According to Adam Krivatsky, planning consultant, it will be at least six weeks before the conservation department resubmits the master plan to the Planning Board.

Public Hearings

On final completion and approval, a series of public hearings will be held on every aspect of the proposed plan, Robert M. Earle of the Planning Board said.

In conjunction with the master plan, the consultants and borough officials are working on an initial urban renewal survey and planning application to be submitted to the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency (FHHFA) in Philadelphia. The preliminary survey must be approved by that agency before funds are granted for an Urban Renewal study, the mayor said.

The borough, in July, applied to the FHHFA for a $127,327 urban renewal grant. If approved, the government would pay 75 per cent of the total cost, with the town paying the remainder.

Planning Survey

A "workable program for community improvement" will accompany the preliminary planning survey application, the mayor reported. The program defines what steps the borough will take to eliminate blighted areas and details present and proposed ordinances and how they are or will be enforced.

Proposed for urban renewal is an area between West and First Sts. — which would be extended— and from Valley Dr. to the bayfront.

The Planning Board failed to meet last night for lack of a quorum. Mayor Morgan indicated there would be no special meeting this month because of the holidays.

At the next regular meeting, Jan. 7, the board will reorganize.

The mayor said there should be some word by then from the state on the master plan study.

PROFESSIONAL BUILDING — Now under construction at River Rd. and First St., Rumson, is the Rumson Professional Building. The structure, which is expected to be completed by March 1, is being erected by Vincent J. Russo, Builder, Inc., Rumson. The $150,000 building will house Mr. Russo's Glazebrook Real Estate Agency, offices of Rumson Shore Estates, which he developed, and offices of the Anchorage Pool and Surf Club, Sea Bright, of which he is an owner. Ten additional offices will be available to professional people. The Williamsburg colonial design was planned to conform to the borough's historic atmosphere.

Governor, Group Ready For 8-Day Europe Trip

TRENTON (AP) — Gov. and Mrs. Richard J. Hughes leave tonight on an eight-day trip to Europe and Germany.

Hughes said the purpose of the trip is to discuss industrial opportunities in New Jersey with business and governmental leaders of the two European countries.

Accompanying the governor and his wife on the trip, will be Paul L. Troast, chairman of the board of the New Jersey Manufacturers Association; Adrian M. Foley Jr., attorney for the New Jersey Organization for a Better State, and John J. Gibbons of Newark, attorney for several European firms.

A spokesman for the governor said no state funds will be used to pay for the trip. Everyone is paying his own way, according to the spokesman.

The group leaves Kennedy International Airport in New York at 8 p.m. aboard a Scandanavian Airline plane.

They will stop first in Copenhagen for conferences Saturday and Sunday with governmental officials and business leaders in Denmark.

Hughes said U.S. Ambassador to Denmark Mrs. Katharine E. White of Red Bank has arranged a dinner for Sunday at which discussions will be held on business opportunities in New Jersey.

In Germany

The Hughes party will spend Monday through Thursday in Germany.

On Monday they will meet officials of Henkel Co. in Dusseldorf. A Henkel subsidiary, Standard Chemical Products Inc., is located in Hoboken.

The group will meet on Tuesday in Frankfurt with officials of the DeGussa Co., a chemical manufacturer. On Wednesday they will confer with Volkswagen Werke A. G. Officials in Wolfsburg. Volkswagen of America, Inc., a subsidiary, is located in Englewood Cliffs.

On Thursday the governor's party will meet West Berlin city officials. No plans were announced for Friday. The group will return on Saturday.

Women Give GOP $400

RED BANK — The Republican organization here made an early start toward a successful campaign in 1965 when a buffet supper, given under the auspices of the Republican Women of Red Bank, was held at the Woman's Club on Broad St.

The chairman of the affair was Mrs. Hart Webber of 140 Maple Ave.

At a meeting following the supper, Mrs. Leona Hammond, president of the organization, presented a check for $400 to Edward W. Wise, Jr., chairman of the Red Bank County Executive Committee, as a contribution toward next year's campaign. The money was realized as the result of a dinner-dance given by the Red Bank Republican Women.

Director Joseph C. Irwin, of the Board of Freeholders, was the main speaker.

Woman Is Critical

MIDDLETOWN — One person is in critical condition in Riverview Hospital, Red Bank, and two others in good condition, after a two-car accident on Rt. 35 near Cherry Tree Farm Rd., last night.

Mrs. Helen Kreidler, 55 Drexel La., Matawan, is reported to be in critical condition with multiple face cuts and a chest injury.

Her husband, Joseph Kreidler, is in good condition with a cut chin, chest injury and a knee injury.

Also in good condition is Joseph DeLuca, 19, of 139 Seth Boyten Ter., Newark, with a hip injury.

Police said the DeLuca car, traveling south on the highway, made a left turn into the Adler Shopping Center in front of a car operated by Mr. Kreidler. The Kreidler car was going north, police said.

The Raritan Township and Fairview First Aid Squads took the injured to the hospital.

De Luca was issued a careless driving summons.

To Halt Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Small Business Administration has halted loans for a few days to allow time to determine the best method of conserving its meager funds.

The SBA had about $29 million available for loans on Nov. 30, a spokesman said today. The agency usually disburses $40 million to $50 million a month in disaster and business loans.

Top Weekend TV Programs

Today's top television shows as previewed and selected by TV Key's staff of experts who attend rehearsals, watch screenings, and analyze scripts in New York and Hollywood.

A few hour-long plays of interest include a funny one on the Bob Hope Theatre, and two well played entries on 12 O'Clock High and The Reporter. Jack Paar's show has its moments; The Addams Family, Gomer Pyle and Valentine's Day are amusing; and The Entertainers will please fans of variety hours. Also, there's an orchestral concert on Channel 13 at 7:30 p.m.

7:30-8:30 (13) — Festival of the Arts. The Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra with guest conductor Karlheinz Stockhausen on the podium, is heard performing Mr. Stockhausen's "Momente" in rehearsal and at its premiere performance in the U. S.

8:30-9:30 (2) — The Entertainers. If you're a Vivian Vance fan, she's up there signing a torch song medley and acting in a skit called "The Good Neighbor," of course. Other variety show spots include Bob Newhart's school-for-bus-drivers routine; John Davidson's "Who Can I Turn to" and "Hey Good Lookin';" Art Buckwald and Newhart talking about "the new Vice President;" and Chad and Jeremy's songs.

8:30-9:30 (4) — Bob Hope Theatre. "Mr. Biddle's Crime Wave." Very funny show. The whole thing is so silly it's hard to believe it doesn't fall flat on its contrived face, but it's played with real enthusaism and contains enough cute lines and situations to be a winner. Roddy McDowall is a riot as a dedicated scientist trying to impress his fiancee's father, a police chief in a small town. Pop is Lloyd Nolan and their scenes together are slapstick but very amusing. (Color).

8:30-9 (7) — The Addams Family. "Morticia the Matchmaker." Fast paced bit of nonsense. Morticia gets on her matrimony kick again and the object of her matchmaking is plain cousin Melancholia. More visual gimmicks than laugh lines tonight.

9-9:30 (7) — Valentine's Day. "Cherry Blossoms in New York." A breezy episode about a Geisha girl who's a big hit at the book editor's dinner party. The lady does so well, greedy butler Rocky plans to open a Geisha school. The dialogue holds up and the show moves quickly.

9:30-10 (2) — Gomer Pyle. Good comedy show. Instead of talking, Gomer moves into action for a change as the troops engage in maneuvers. Naturally, Gomer goofs things up considerably losing his way, falling into an enemy trap, and causing laughter.

9:30-10:30 (7) — 12 O'clock High. "Here's to Courageous Cowards." A sound drama about a one-time conscientious objector (Brandon de Wilde) who tries to prove his beliefs weren't based on cowardice, and his clash with a major who's on the brink of a nervous breakdown. Director Don Medford gets fine performances from his cast including the regulars.

10-11 (2) — The Reporter. "A Time to Be Silent." A beautiful performance by Claude Rains as a retired statesman-politican of impeccable character, illuminates the hour and brightens Don Mankiewicz's improbable but knowledgeable script about a primary battle between entrenched and reform Democrats. Though the series format gets in the way of credibility, there are some excellent scenes involving party activity and motives, very well played by Sidney Blackmer, Eddie Albert, and Mildred Dunnock.

10-11 (4) — Jack Paar Show. Highlights include a familiar but still great Mike Nichols and Elaine May sketch about the frustrations of making a phone call in a telephone booth, and English comedian Dickie Henderson's skillful pratfalls and humor. Also, Liberace plays the piano and Zsa Zsa Gabor chitchats. (Color).

10:30-11 (5) — Decision: The Conflicts of Harry S. Truman. "Man on the Spot." Former President Truman attempts a thumbnail history of legislation involving subversives from the days of the witch-hunts in 17th century Salem, to his veto of the McCarran Bill which became law in 1950 when his veto was overridden. Although he has much too much to cover in one short half hour, there's a flavor and concern about his recollections that makes for provocative listening.

11:30-1 (4) — Tonight. Johnny Carson's guests include Pierre Salinger, Tony Martin, Jerry Van Dyke, actress Stephanie Powers, and the dancing Appletons. (Color).

11:30-1 (7) — Les Crane Show. A feature of the evening is a discussion on the FBI and Civil Rights by attorney William Kuntsler, of the American Civil Liberties Union; and Robert Morris, former counsel to the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.

SATURDAY

Variety Saturday night as the top shows include Jackie Gleason's comedy hour; a funny half-hour from Kentucky Jones; a good entry from Mr. Broadway; an excellent film, "Bad Day at Black Rock" on the Sat. Night Movie; and music and laughs on Hollywood Palace. New York Illustrated offers an interesting glimpse of Olympic champion Ginny Duenkel and her triumphant welcome home. Sports fans have various programs throughout the day. Late hour movie fans have Princess Grace in "Green Fire."

2-4:45 (2)—Pro Football. Green Bay Packers vs. Chicago Bears, from Chicago's Wrigley Field.

2:45-5:30 (4)—College Football. The Bulldogs of Mississippi State vs. the Rebels of Ole Miss, from Hemingway Stadium. (color).

4:30-5 (5)—Horse Race. The Stuyvesant Handicap, $25,000 added, for three year-olds and up, from Aqueduct.

5-6:30 (7)—Wide World of Sports. In addition to highlights of the National Surfing Championships from Huntington Beach, Calif., and shots of the world championship figure-eight stock car demolition race from Islip, N. Y., the feature of the show is the presentation of the Heisman Award Trophy to the nation's outstanding college football player — Notre Dame's John Huarte, this year.

6-6:30 (4)—New York Illustrated. A real life saga of an Olympic champion — 17-year-old Ginny Duenkel of West Orange, N. J. who won the 400-meter free style swimming championship—and her festive welcome home.

7:30-8:30 (2)—Jackie Gleason. With Jayne Mansfield and Sheree North along as his special guests, Jackie's format changes a bit to accommodate their talents. For example, Jayne is featured as a celebrity in a takeoff on quiz shows, and Sheree plays a wife making up an endless if familiar Christmas gift list. Of course, there's Jackie's monologue, the June Taylor dancers, plus Frank Fontaine as himself.

8:30-9 (4) — Kentucky Jones. Funny outing. Seldom's (Harry Morgan) ex-wife comes to visit and you wonder why he left her for a while. However, she's closely followed by her hungry family of acrobats who threaten to eat Kentucky out of his ranch. Ike, as usual, saves the day with a wild scheme.

9-10 (2)—Mr. Broadway. "Bad Little Rich Girl." Good show even though the characters are stereotypes. Mike is trying to keep a charity camp going but the heiress-daughter of its founder pulls the checkbook. While doing his best to change her mind, Mike becomes involved in her shallow life. Diana van der Vlis actually makes the girl interesting, and the play sustains itself in spite of a padded final act.

9-11 (4)—Saturday Night at the Movies. "Bad Day at Black Rock." (1954). An excellent cast headed by Spencer Tracy, Robert Ryan, Anne Francis and Lee Marvin enhances this powerful story about a well guarded town secret and the stranger who uncovers it. Director John Sturges pulls all the stops in building the suspense and there's "edge of the sofa" excitement by the time the climax arrives. (color).

9-11 (11)—Ice Hockey. The New York Rangers vs. the Boston Bruins, from Boston Garden.

9:30-10:30 (7)—Hollywood Palace. Pretty big names all through tonight. Host Phil Harris sings "It Ain't Necessarily So" among others; Ginger Rogers dances to "These Foolish Things" in an elaborate production number; Bill Dana goes right to work after his series cancellation with a Jose Jiminez monologue and a question-and-answer period; The Step Brothers are back with their sons for more dancing; the McGuire Sisters and Gary Crosby vocalize, and those talented Mongrel dogs return. Budget must be growing.

11:15-1:10 (4)—Movie. "Green Fire." (1954). Grace Kelly and Stewart Granger star in this colorful adventure drama about love and emerald mining in South America. Princess Grace and Granger have some torrid love scenes in this one. (color).

Jersey Bank Buys Bonds Of Oceanport

OCEANPORT — Borough Council last night accepted the offer of Central Jersey Bank and Trust Company of Freehold to purchase the borough's $235,125 bond issue at 3.4 per cent interest.

The transaction provides funds for the new borough hall being constructed at Monmouth Blvd. and Myrtle Ave.

In other borough business, council sold boroughowned property to the following:

Samuel and Irving Teicher, here, as Nareco, Inc., who purchased eight lots on Serand Ave. for $4,700; Robert C. Frampton, who purchased three lots adjacent to his home at 100 Leonard Ave. for $1,500; Louis Dellera, 142 Sampson Pl., Long Branch, four Shrewsbury Ave. lots for $2,000, and Frank Vantura of Fanwood, one lot on Monmouth Blvd. for $500.

"ASTRO-GUIDE" By Ceean

For Sunday, December 6

Present—For You and Yours . . . Think of the future while influences governing long-range security are dominant. Develop ideas and figure how to safeguard your assets. Although advice may be freely offered, be a little wary about the source, as someone could deliberately try to mislead you for selfish reasons. Spend evening with family.

Past . . . An Arab legend says that monks in Abyssinia noticed that their flocks of sheep were friskier than usual after nibbling the leaves and fruit of an unfamiliar shrub. The monks tried the fruit and found that they, too, were exhilarated — coffee was thus discovered!

Future . . . U.S. astronauts for the Gemini and Apollo flights will not need space suits, so will have more freedom of movement, comfort, and much less weight than the present garb. They will, however, wear several layers of clothing.

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19)
You are your scintillating best and people will marvel at your wit.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)
Don't feel sorry for yourself. It's only a waste of precious time.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)
Traveling with hope is vastly better than traveling with disillusionment.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)
Step up your pace. You can't get to Easy Street via a freeway.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)
Although the call of duty is loud early in the day, there's time for fun later.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)
The first thing on the agenda should be what you neglected to do yesterday.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)
It's just as easy to look at the positive side, and you'll be happier, too.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)
Strength of character consists of two things. They are self-restraint and will power.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)
Be outgoing. If you build a fence around yourself, people may give you the gate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Security interests—in family matters (love or money!) have the right of way.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
Be wary about making a move. You can make it later if you feel the urge.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)
Take a long lunch hour and you'll return to the job with renewed energy.

NAVESINK COUNTRY CLUB MAKING RAPID PROGRESS—Yesterday Pro Harold A. Cahoon, Jr., hosted the Jersey Shore Pro-Am, winter division, and it was quite remarkable the way visiting pros and amateurs were gawking with amazement at progress in building projects that now stand out as clear as the Highlands Air Force base.

Harold A. Cahoon, Jr.

James O'Gibney, superintendent of grounds looking around as proud as a peacock said, "After last year's washout which delayed the official opening, if someone told me we would be having a pro-am tournament this quick, I would have thought something was the matter with them."

Cahoon's pro shop is on the ground floor of the recently opened new two-story addition housing locker rooms, pro shop and other facilities, including a large recreation room for teenagers and for private party use.

It certainly seemed to be a far cry from the beginning days when we first visited the club and pro Cahoon was operating from a hall of the former Riker mansion. If ever a pro was cramped in a small space, it was Cahoon. Equipment of all sorts was on tables and standing in corners.

Today, Cahoon probably has the most spacious of pro shops in Monmouth County and a few more counties.

Visiting pros were touring the area yesterday and were amazed at the space. In fact, one pro remarked, "This is really some pro shop. And I'll bet it would take well over $10,000 to keep this area stocked."

Another said, "Did you get a good look at that locker room. This is really some place." And they all were right. Navesink Country Club's progress in a short span of time has advanced as fast as the jet age. The locker room mentioned by the pros is also to be used for a recreation room for the youth of the club and other large functions. That should give an idea of the size. In fact, pro shop space is under the locker room and almost uses the same space in footage with the exception of a nook here and there for usual purposes of a pro's golf shop area.

The size of the new locker room wing is 70 feet by 135 feet with steel framework, block walls, brick and stucco veneer and is a two-story affair with a flat roof. It is well heated and will be air-conditioned, come hot weather. One of the features will be hot water in winter and chilled water in summer for showers via zoned air handling units.

The first floor of this new building includes a 70-by-15 foot Cahoon golf shop. Also in the area is a bag storage area. Another feature is a 100 by 25 foot teenage recreation room.

There also is 2,000 square feet of special rooms which also can be used for swimming and other sports as well as dressing rooms with showers for members and guests.

Also included is a snack bar equipped with complete facilities. Still on the first floor, you will find a towel room and a main hallway which leads into the clubhouse from the new parking lot.

On the second floor there are all sorts of facilities but most most of these are for social functions, with the exception of the locker room. This one is on the same modern scale as Rumson Country Club. The men's locker room is 70 x 40 feet with some 2,800 square feet involved. It is of the open span type and has panel type lockers around the perimeter. There are some 125 lockers, 15 by 24 inches, with integral bench and shoe locker in front. However, we didn't have our composing room tape measure with us, but those lockers certainly appeared deeper than two feet. They certainly looked full-size to us. We opened an empty job. A huge fireplace with a grill is on one and a hardwood floor there for quick conversion into a ballroom. There were table and chairs in the room, but honestly, they appeared to be lost in the huge room.

The ladies were not left out in the building plans. Their locker room is some 1,000 square feet, and it received the same fine treatment given to the male golfers. They have the usual facilities. Also on this floor are an office, check room and the main hall leading into the clubhouse proper.

O'Gibney's course is looking better each day. Jim is well pleased with it, and like most "supers" he said, "We sure could have used rain during that dry spell." He might be like most "supers" when it comes to grounds, but he isn't when it comes to golf. Being a playing superintendent, and a real good one, according to a Navesink source, Jim knows the course from tee to tee and green to green. It'll take a mighty sharp member of the grounds committee to pull the wool over his eyes. The 18-hole course is 6,700 yards and was designed by Stephen Krisoff, architect for Charles K. Martin, Inc.

Other facilities include tennis, squash, paddle and shuffleboard courts, horseshoe pits and two swimming pools. Major sport activity coming up will be on the huge ice rink that is full hockey size.

Miss Tosmah, who made it five straight stakes at Aqueduct when she won the Beldame, was bred in Florida by Eugene Mori. He sold her to Authony Imbesi for $100,000.

A knee injury suffered by Don Meredith, their No. 1 quarterback, has muddled the Dallas Cowboys' offensive plans this fall.

Carter Must Be Beardless

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission ruled yesterday that Rubin 'Hurricane' Carter must shave off his beard prior to his Dec. 14 middleweight title fight against Joey Giardello.

Giardello, 34, makes the first defense of his title against Carter, 27, the No. 3 challenger, in the scheduled 15 round fight at Convention Hall here.

If closed circuit television is arranged, lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz may meet Dick DeVola in a 10-round non-title fight, thus making up a double-header. Final agreement on the closed circuit deal has not been reached.

The commission, after a heated discussion over the beard with Arnold Giovanetta, advisor to Giardello, and Pat Amato, manager of Carter, said:

'Our conclusion is that the beard worn by Carter must be moved prior to the fight.'

Frank B. Wildman, chairman of the three man commission, said the ruling was based on the state boxing code which says nothing can be worn on the face that cuts.

Giardello contends that Carter's beard, a goatee type that comes to a point, cuts in the clinches.

After the battle of the beard, the commission announced that the mandatory eight count would be in effect, and that three knockdowns of either fighter in a round would end the fight in a technical knockout.

Honorable Mention For J. V. McCarthy

DURHAM, N.C. — J. V. McCarthy of Rumson, N.J., continues to draw praise after an outstanding football career at Duke University.

McCarthy, a guard, was named to the honorable mention list in the Associated Press' annual All-American selections announced today.

The former Rumson-Fair Haven Regional standout, who'll play in the annual North-South Shrine Bowl game at Miami's Orange Bowl on Christmas Day, last week was named to a second team berth on the Atlantic Coast Conference all-league teams.

Grid Giants Ink Two Speedsters

NEW YORK (AP) — A pair of speedy halfbacks who starred for minor colleges signed with the New York Giants of the National Football League yesterday. Both have run the 100-yard dash in 9.9 seconds.

Ben Crenshaw of Jackson, Miss., State, the Giants' 10th draft choice, is a 6-3 defensive star. He was not drafted by an American League team.

Smith Reed of Alcorn A&M described by Scout Emlen Tunnell as the best running back in the United States today, was the team's 19th pick. He was the No. 6 choice of the Kansas City Chiefs in the AFL.

Webster to Retire At Season's End

NEW BRUNSWICK — New York Football Giants and the National Football League will be missing popular and rugged Alex Webster comes the 1965 season.

Webster, who has been in pro football 12 years, said he was through this year here last night when speaking before the New Jersey Football Officials Association, Trenton District, at its annual banquet held in Greenbrier restaurant here.

The statement came when Webster told of his persistent back trouble and the reoccurance of disc trouble that developed in the past couple of games. Webster said he would like to get into officiating next year, and right here in New Jersey.

Webster's old injury which kicked up enough to get him talking in retirement tones, is one that has been bothering the rugged fullback for sometime and it has kept him out of the New York lineup on several occasions.

Webster, one of the guest speakers at the officials' dinner, answered numerous questions fired to the head table and was high on the New York Giants' for the years to come.

"Injuries hurt us this year, Twenty-two Giants missed games this year and seven were operated on," stated Alex.

"And along with that we gave away about five games on fumbles," declared Webster.

He named several Giants who are going to be top notch pros including young quarterback Wood.

When asked about Y. A. Tittle, Webster stated, "Y. A. is not through. Don't forget he missed several games because of injury and this had to bother his timing. Next year when he gets his timing back, he'll be just as good as any quarterback in the NFL. In the next couple of years, the Giants will be back," stated Webster.

Rev. Wade Stewart, Stelton Baptist Church, also was a guest speaker at the affair.

James J. Egidio, Atlantic Highlands, is a vice chairman of the association.

Coaches, athletic directors, school officials and football officials of the district attended the annual banquet.

Palmer Shoots 66, But U.S. Is Tied for 1st

KAANAPALI, Maui, Hawaii (AP) — America's Arnold Palmer fired a six-under-par 66 with one of his blazing finishes for the individual lead but he and partner Jack Nicklaus had to settle for a team tie with South Africa yesterday in the opening round of the International Canada Cup Golf Tournament.

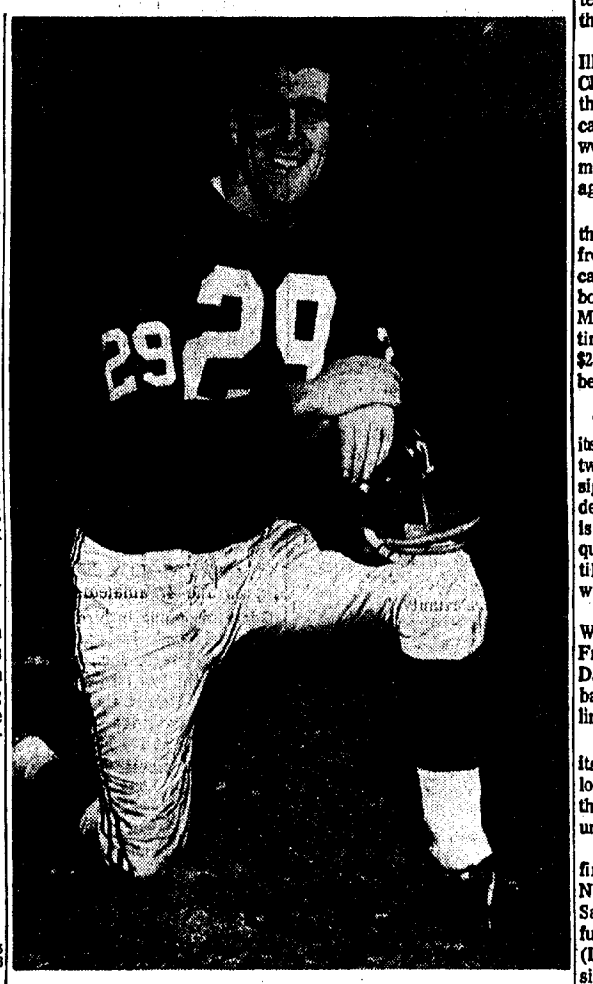

Palmer nailed an eagle on the 543-yard 15th hole and chipped in from 80 feet on the 16th to climax his spectacular round over the palm-studed Kaanapali course but Nicklaus, saying he was "tired and loggy," took a disappointing 72.

This gave the United States a score of 138.

Nearly two hours later South Africa's Gary Player, who has been resting for three months in Johannesburg, and his strapping partner, Denis Hutchinson, came in with matching three-under-par 69s to equal it.

UCLA Meets Illinois Five

UCLA opens defense of its national collegiate basketball championship at Illinois tonight in a game that headlines the national program.

The contest is expected to provide an answer to just how good the Bruins are without All-America Walt Hazzard who led them through an unbeaten 30-game season a year ago.

Although Harry Combes, Illinois coach, says "we're going to be a good team" Johnny Wooden, UCLA mentor, feels he has the material for another national champion. The Bruins are led by veterans Gail Goodrich and Keith Erickson and Fred Goss, a junior, who didn't play last season. They're favored to make it 31 straight despite opening on the road.

Georgia's 64-61 upset of North Carolina highlighted the comparatively slim national program Thursday on the third night of the new season.

Jimmy Pitts, with 20 points, including three free throws that put the Bulldogs ahead for good at 42-40, helped offset Bill Cunningham's stellar performance for the Tar Hells.

Vanderbilt, ranked No. 6 in The Associated Press preseason poll and favored to win the Southeastern Conference, opened with an easy 78-49 triumph over Rice. The Commodores were the only team in the preseason Top Ten to see action. They showed good balance with five men in double figures led by Roger Schurig with 14.

Butkus, Morton Ink NFL Pacts

Associated Press

Dick Butkus and Craig Morton, two of the top prizes of the 1964 college football crop, were signed by National Football League teams yesterday as the battle of the check books continued.

Butkus, the 6-foot-3, 245-pound Illinois linebacker, went to the Chicago Bears after a battle with the New York Jets of the American Football League. No terms were announced but it is estimated Butkus got a $200,000 package deal.

Morton, acclaimed by many as the perfect pro type quarterback from the University of California, cast his lot with the Dallas Cowboys. Oakland, which drafted Morton in the AFL, denied some time ago it had offered him a $200,000 package but Dallas was believed to have gone that high.

NFL Lost Only Two

The NFL has signed seven of its 114 first-round choices and lost two to the AFL. Of the five unsigned, one is a future, Donny Anderson of Texas Tech and another is Toe Namath, the Alabama quarterback, who can not sign until after the Orange Bowl game with Texas.

The others are fullback Ken Willard of North Carolina, San Francisco, end Jack Snow of Notre Dame, Minnesota and defensive back George Donnelly of Illinois, San Francisco.

The AFL has signed four of its eight first-round draftees and lost three to the NFL, Namath is the only first round AFL pick still unsigned.

Of five players drafted in the first round by both leagues, the NFL has signed halfback Gale Sayers of Kansas (Chicago) and fullback Tom Nowatzke of Illinois (Detroit), and the AFL has signed flanker Larry Elkins of Baylor (Houston) and guard Steve DeLong of Tennessee (San Diego). Namath was drafted in the first round by both the Jets and the St. Louis Cardinals.

Guard Popular Butkus

The Butkus signing ceremony in Chicago was harrassed by scores of young self-acclaimed Butkus fans. It took a special guard to keep the fans from crashing the hotel suits where Owner-Coach George Halas was announcing the signings.

Butkus was the second of three first round picks to be signed by the Bears. Sayers was the first. DeLong was lost to San Diego for a reported $75,000.

Denver originally drafted Butkus in the AFL but traded the rights to the Jets. Butkus' attorney, Arthur Morse of Chicago, said the Jets' offer was in excess of what the Bears offered but Butkus said he would rather play with the Bears "If the Bears made an offer close to the others."

With Don Meredith, the Dallas quarterback injured and probably facing an operation in the off season, the Cowboys apparently shot the works to sign Morton. Dallas also has the rights to Jerry Rhome, the Tulsa flash who was drafted as a future last year. The Jets have the AFL rights to Rhome.

In other signings yesterday the New York Giants came up with Ben Crenshaw, a back from Jackson State, picked in the tenth round; and Smith Reed, a halfback from Alcorn A&M, selected in the 19th round.

Pittsburgh signed Jim Butler, a halfback from Edward Waters College, Jacksonville, Fla.

River St. Downs Bradley, 42-32

RED BANK — Spurting to a 10-point lead on four consecutive baskets near the end of the game, the seventh grade basketball team of River Street School defeated Bradley School of Asbury Park, 42-32, Wednesday at the River Street gymnasium.

In the first quarter, River Street surged to a 19-8 lead with some good outside shooting and ball handling. However, in the second stanza, Bradley School bounced back to close the gap to a five-point deficit, 26-21. In the second half, the seesaw game continued with both teams showing accurate shooting.

Outstanding players for the winners were Harry Evans, who was the game's high individual scorer with 20 points, and Alexis Johnson and Ricky Blasi with nine and eight points, respectively.

Bradley's impressive fast break was led by its high scorer, Walter Czerwinski, with 18 points, and Ricky Bianco, with eight.

This marked the first meeting between the schools. They will meet again Jan. 11 when Bradley will be the host team.

Huarte, Butkus on AP All-America

NEW YORK (AP) — Heisman Trophy winner John Huarte, a future minister, a part-time policeman, an aeronautical engineer and repeater Dick Butkus are on the 1964 Associated Press All-America football team.

Responding to the general trend back to platoons under liberal substitution, the 22-man team of offensive and defensive units is the first of its kind since 1952.

While the squad chosen from the recommendations of eight regional boards gives the true picture of the collegiate scene, it includes 12 players picked in the first three rounds of the pro drafts and two futures.

Quarterback Huarte brought cohesion and startling form reversal at Notre Dame with such skill he was named player of the year by the Downtown Athletic Club. In the offensive backfield his mates are Michigan's Bob Timberlake, Donny Anderson of Texas Tech and Gal Sayers of Kansas.

Minister After Pro

Timberlake plans to enter the Presbyterian ministry after a fling at pro ball.

Fred Biletnikoff of Florida State and Lawrence Elkins of Baylor, who caught 57 and 50 passes, respectively, for a combined 1,838 yards, are the ends in a close decision over Notre Dame's Jack Snow and Karl Noonan of Iowa.

Larry Kramer of Nebraska, who held a summer vacation job as a Lincoln policeman and night club bouncer, is at tackle with Georgia's Jim Wilson. Both were future pro picks a year ago. Tom Nobis of Texas, as fine a blocker as he is a linebacker, shares guard honors with Bill Fisk of Southern California while Pat Killorin of Syracuse is the center.

Auburn's Tucker Frederickson, first man grabbed in the National League draft, heads a defensive secondary which also includes iron man Clarence Williams of Washington State, premed student Arnold Chonko who made seven vital pass interceptions at Ohio State and Cosmo Iacavazzi of unbeaten, untied Princeton.

Aeronautical Engineer

Cosmo is the aeronautical engineer who some day plans to head his own business in that field.

Coupled with Butkus at linebacker are Tennessee's Steve DeLong and Pat Caveness of Arkansas — all three of whom barely shaded the second team trio of Pitt's Marty Schottenheimer, Penn State's Glen Ressler and Carl McAdams of Oklahoma.

Ends Allen Brown of Mississippi and Harold Wells of Purdue plus tackles Dan Kearley of Alabama's national champions and John Van Sicklen of Iowa State round out the defense.

Injuries prevented '63 All-American backs Roger Staubach of Navy and Jimmy Sidle of Auburn from having a chance to repeat.

Terps to Defend Swimming Title

NEW BRUNSWICK — The University of Maryland will be in the defending champion's role tomorrow when the seventh annual Eastern Collegiate Swimming Association relay championships are held in the Rutgers University pool.

A field of 13 teams will be competing in an expanded program, which starts with diving trials at 10 a.m. The swimming heats are scheduled for 2 p.m. and the finals for all events at 8 o'clock.

Eleven events are to be contested, including an innovation, the James H. Reilly Memorial 500-yard freestyle. The race is named in memory of the late Rutgers swimming coach and founder of the ECSA, the nation's oldest swim conference, 43 years ago.

Competition in the Reilly event will be limited to Association members, City College of New York, Manhattan, New York University, Rutgers, Lafayette, Kings Point and Fordham.

Huarte Up in the Air On Choice of Pro 11

NEW YORK (AP) — John Huarte, the Notre Dame quarterback who won the Heisman Trophy, said yesterday he will play pro football but has an open mind between the New York Jets and the Philadelphia Eagles.

Huarte was in town, accompanied by his mother and father from Anaheim, Calif., to accept the Heisman Award at the Downtown Athletic Club.

The 21-year-old senior said he had talked to Weeb Ewbank, coach of the Jets, and Joe Juharich, once his college coach who now coaches the Eagles, in phone conversations. He expects to have several more meetings before me makes up his mind.

"Money is not the only important factor," said the soft-spoken Californian. "The opportunity to play is another big point. Eventually I expect to go to graduate school in business."

Because Huarte played only a few minutes as a sophomore, under Kuharich, there had been talk he might try to ask consideration for another year's eligibility at Notre Dame. He decided not to ask.

"I want to graduate with my class in June," he explained.

Huarte said he did not feel that he was leaning toward the Eagles because Kuharich had recruited him in high school and coached him at Notre Dame.

"I know Joe and I think he is an outstanding coach," said Huarte. "I am most thankful to him for bringing me to Notre Dame. But I have an open mind. I stand right in the middle. I want to see where there is the greatest opportunity."

Huarte listed Pittsburgh, Southern California and Purdue as the three best teams he faced all year. "I can't take one," he said. "Probably I'd be inclined to say Southern California because they were the last we played. But you really can't take one."

NEW JERSEY BELL

To tell when the movie begins telephone.

Newark is Site of First Pro Title Tilt in 20 Years

NEWARK (AP) — New Jersey's largest city will be the scene of a championship professional football game for the first time in 20 years tomorrow when the Newark Bears defend their Atlantic Coast Football League title against the Boston Sweepers.

The Bears will be seeking their third straight championship while Boston made a rags-to-riches ascent that saw it climb from last year's 2-9-1 cellar record to this season's 11-3 Northern championship.

The playoff, which starts at 1:30 p.m. (EST), matches two coaches who were former pro stars in different leagues. Newark's Steve Van Buren was one of the all-time great runners with the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League while Boston's Butch Songin made his mark as a passing ace in the American and Canadian Leagues.

The teams did not meet during the regular season, but Songin is confident his Sweepers have what it takes to dethrone the Bears.

"We will prove that we're a better team than Newark by beating them in their own back yard," Songin said.

Van Buren did not make any predictions and said only that "any team that can beat Jersey City must be a great team." The Sweepers won a 24-14 decision from Jersey City in the final regular season contest.

Comparing the teams, Newark has the individual stars. Kicker Bill Shockley (43 conversions, 15 field goals) and halfback Mike Hagler (11 touchdowns) were among the league's top 11 scorers. Boston had no one in the top 14.

Hagler finished third in rushing with 756 yards in 149 carries, a 5.1 average. Boston placed no one in the top 14. End Reggie Lee caught 41 passes, ninth best in the league, including nine touchdowns. Boston had no one in the top 14.

In passing, Newark has a 1-2 punch in Julian Malinski and Bill Baker. Malinski completed 118 of 252 for 1,515 yards and 16 touchdowns and Baker added 42 of 100 for 756 yards and eight tallies. Boston's Don Allard hit on 98 of 239 for 1,397 yards and 15 touchdowns. However, Songin hinted he may insert himself at quarterback and shift Allard to halfback.

Cager Dies

MORRIS, Minn (AP) — A former star high school athlete collapsed and died of an apparent heart attack late Wednesday during practice with the freshman basketball squad at Morris branch of the University of Minnesota.

He was David A. Lindberg, 18, who was taking a physical education course and had planned to make coaching a career.

During practice, Lindberg complained of chest pains and difficulty in breathing. He was taken to a Morris clinic where he collapsed. Despite first aid efforts, Lindberg died 45 minutes later at the Sgevens County Hospital.

An autopsy was ordered to determine the exact cause of death. Lindberg had played several games with the freshman team, previously without any complaint of distress.

Gaeta's 72 Tops Field

MIDDLETOWN — Vito "Red" Gaeta, Bamm Hollow Country Club pro, fired an even par 72 to win individual pro honors in the weekly Jersey Shore PGA Winter Golf League tournament held yesterday at the Navesink Country Club.

The tournament, held for the first time at the new Navesink club, drew its largest field ever, 21 pros and 47 amateurs.

Gaeta, dropping in birdie putts on the first, fifth and sixth holes, went out in a one-under-par 35 and came in with a 37 for his par matching 72 that gave him a three-stroke edge over Dan Golding of Asbury Park and Dick Dacey of Hendricks Field. Gaeta's lone birdie on the back nine came on the last hole.

Gaeta took a double bogey on the 392-yard third hole and bogeys on the 11th and 13th. He dropped in a 15-footer for his birdie on the sixth and sank an eight-footer on the 18th.

Host club pro Harold Cahoon shot a 38-41—79.

Don Housen of Lakewood topped the large field of amateurs with a 76. Hal Edlind of Navesink and Bob Riddle of Manasquan each carded 80s to tie for the runner-up spot among the non-pro shooters. Edlind's eight handicap gave him the low amateur net of the afternoon, 72.

The hole-in-one contest was won by Vic Gerard of Asbury Park whose tee shot was seven feet from the pin on the 180-yard eighth hole. Bob DeStefano, Gardiner's Bay, had the longest drive on the seventh hole, 280 yards.

Next week's tournament will be held at the Asbury Park Country Club.
