Rebel Leader Flown to Ky Parley

SAIGON (AP) — The leader of rebellious Vietnamese Army forces in Hue, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, was flown under a U.S. guarantee of safety today to a secret meeting with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

Ky flew from Saigon to meet his bitter rival as U.S. planes evacuated 45 Americans and other foreign civilians from Hue and the Buddhist stronghold's pro-government mayor moved out of the city with 1,000 loyal troops to a fortified headquarters five miles southeast of Hue.

Ky and Thi, whom the premier had fired as commander of the army's 1st Corps on March 10, met at the U. S. 1st Marine Division's headquarters at Chu Lai, about 85 miles south of Hue.

Ky's dismissal of Thi, who controlled South Viet Nam's five northern provinces, precipitated the country's present political crisis. Politically-minded Buddhist leaders seized on the unrest the ouster generated in the north and converted it into a movement demanding the military government's replacement by a civilian regime.

U. S. officials had tried before without success to get Ky and Thi together in hopes some agreement could be reached which might lead to an easing of the political crisis.

A U. S. plane brought Thi from Hue to Chu Lai to meet Ky, then flew him back to Hue after the meeting.

There was no immediate indication of what transpired between the two generals.

"All we know was that it was a very solid session," an authoritative source said. "They met for some time."

No Americans were present at the meeting although it was held at the Marine headquarters. There were reports that other members of Ky's ruling junta were present.

The evacuation of Americans from Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon, followed the burning of the U. S. Information Service Library there yesterday by a mob of Buddhist youths. A U. S. spokesman in Saigon said the American consul in Hue, Thomas Corcoran, apparently had requested the evacuation, because there was insufficient protection for American personnel and facilities.

A VERY SPECIAL AIRPLANE — Fuselage of Aeronca 65-TL, painted in military olive drab with U. S. Air Force insignia on side, awaits truck shipment from Colts Neck Airport to the Kennedy compound in Hyannisport, Mass. Airplane will be assembled today on Kennedy lawn for late President's son, John-John.

To Be Sent From Colts Neck

Wings for John-John

By BOB BRAMLEY

COLTS NECK — An airplane for John-John — this was the reason for frantic, top secret activity this week in the shops of Shore Air Services, Inc., Colts Neck Airport.

Kurt Wagner, rated aircraft mechanic and shop superintendent, and his crew spent the week repairing, painting and polishing a 26-year-old monoplane purchased at Asbury Park Airport from its two previous owners. Now resplendent in Air Force olive drab and sporting the Air Force star on wings and fuselage, the little Aeronca 65-TL will be trucked today to Hyannisport, Mass., by Mr. Wagner and Robert Bowers, his assistant.

Non-flyable, but with workable controls except for the engine, the little ship will be the plaything of John-John, the late President Kennedy's son, on the lawn of the Kennedy compound.

"I just hope I can get it there in one piece," Mr. Wagner said last night as he supervised loading.

Shore Air Services got the subcontract to supply the aircraft circuitously, Gordon D. Donald, Shore Air president, said. Page Airways of Monroe County Airport, Rochester, N.Y., was first approached by the Kennedy family, he explained. Page in turn asked Don Metsger of Atlantic Highlands, head of Bayshore Airmotive, Inc., a specialist in rebuilding old airplanes, to find a suitable aircraft. Mr. Metsger subcontracted the work to Shore Air.

The Aeronca, an ex-military light observation plane, is of the type used by artillery spotters in World War II.

Businessmen, Officials Form Group

Press for Widening of Rt. 35

OCEAN TOWNSHIP—A group of Rt. 35 businessmen yesterday agreed to join the county First Aid Association in spearheading a drive to prompt the immediate widening of Rt. 35 by the state Highway Department.

The 17 businessmen and concerned officials from Neptune and Eatontown named Elmer Noll, chairman of the Monmouth County Safety Council, to head the new group.

"We need a crusade, not a campaign," Mr. Noll said at the luncheon meeting in the Admiral's table. The group will work to widen the highway — a chronic thorn in the township's side — from three to four lanes.

At a recent meeting with county officials in Trenton, Russell Mullen, acting highway commissioner, promised to alleviate traffic problems along the three-mile strip from the Eatontown to the Asbury Ave. traffic circles known as the "death trap."

'Long Way Off'

Mr. Noll said he learned from state officials, however, that there would be no action taken to widen the highway until the Rt. 35 Freeway is completed and "that's a long way off." The construction of the freeway, he noted, will not allevlate traffic problems on Rt. 35. The road still will be used as the townships' main street and access to shopping centers and Fort Monmouth.

He said the Highway Department will spend $152 million this year, and one-tenth of one per cent ($1.5 million) is allocated for the county.

"We are the forgotten people here in Monmouth County. We are getting nothing but a lot of lip service," he said.

The group, organized by Duncan Thecker, president of Duncan Thecker Associates, also agreed that it must enlist support of a great number of people and petitions must be circulated; efforts of the first aid squads, officials of the township and neighboring towns, and clubs and organizations must be co-ordinated, and the businesmen along the state highway must provide financial backing for the drive.

To Assist Noll

Joseph Bennett, Neptune Township clerk; George Scheuler, Ocean Township commercial developer, and Charles McKenzie, manager of the Monmouth Shopping Center, Eatontown, were named municipal representatives to assist Mr. Noll.

Ellis Vieser, chairman of the Middletown Township Safety Committee, advised the group that pressure from a large number of people must be exerted on state highway officials and legislative representatives to obtain a greater share of the department's allocations.

He added that in the past three years there have been 735 accidents along the controversial

Brown Plans Battle to Keep County From Getting Airport

FREEHOLD — Monmouth Airport owner Edward I. Brown dug in yesterday for a hard fight as the Monmouth County Board of Freeholders moved ahead with plans to buy and operate the Wall Township field.

Mr. Brown called the proposed purchase, which the freeholders say will be forced by condemnation, if necessary, "an involuntary land grab against a taxpayer and businessman who is content to keep his business within the scope of private enterprise."

Freeholder Director Joseph C. Irwin said after a conference of the board that the four Republicans stand firm in their determination to proceed on schedule. Democratic Freeholder Eugene J. Bedell remains opposed.

This means the freeholders will adopt a resolution June 7 to acquire the field and authorizing application to the federal government, under the Economic Development Act, for 50-50 matching funds.

Mr. Irwin said the application is being prepared and will be filed before the June 15 deadline. He said it has been concluded that if the request is filed on time it will be favorably considered.

Talked to Howard

"We have talked to Congressman (James J.) Howard and to Charlie (County Planning Director Charles M.) Pike, and we are following the correct procedure. We will be filed on time and as long as the application is given a number before the 15th, we will be considered. I am confident we will get the money."

Only vague estimates of between $1 to $2 million have been made for acquisition of the 700-plus acre property.

Mr. Brown hit at the lack of accurate or current figures in his statement, making no mention, however, of the studies the freeholder director said are being made.

The airport owner, a World War II flyer who has developed and operated the Rt. 34 facility since 1944, challenged the freeholders to find any public airport in New Jersey operating in the black.

He taunted them to assure that they will permit competition of sales agencies and plane services on the field and questioned what rental it may expect if it attempts to lure the Fort Monmouth aviation section back to the airfield from Lakehurst Naval Air Station.

He said:

"I want it clearly understood that I do not want to sell and I think the county's attempt to force the issue may be illegal.

'We Are Content'

"We have built this airport, we own this airport . . . We are content . . . No power grab, no matter what the motivation, is going to be successful without a hard fight by us to keep what is ours.

"We believe that in the long run the taxpayers will benefit by keeping the airport in private hands . . . that private enterprise is the American way and worth fighting for and that is just what we intend to do."

Mr. Brown said that an engineering survey by Parsons and Armstrong Associates in 1963 estimated the cost of required improvements at $4.5 million. This, he said, would have required Army rental of $309,000 a year compared to a maximum of $36,000 paid 1952 through 1963.

He said that, even though the speedy freeholder move appears aimed at beating a deadline to apply for federal aid, he doubts that U.S. funds would be allocated to a "land grab."

If the freeholders are looking

Personnel Shortage Seen Holding Up College Study

TRENTON — Dr. Guy V. Ferrell, director of the two-year college division of the state Department of Education, said yesterday a shortage of personnel is holding up progress on the Monmouth County College Study.

A report by the state Board of Education which will result from the survey probably won't be made until October, he said.

The board was requested March 15 by the county Board of Freeholders to make the study as a basis for authorizing the freeholders to appoint a County College Board of Trustees.

Dr. Ferrell said the study is confined by law to determining need and the county's financial ability.

Basis of the freeholders' application was a favorable report by a County Study Committee of which Earl B. Garrison, county superintendent of schools, was chairman.

The committee concluded that a county college was needed and it recommended that a County College Board of Trustees be appointed and that it contract with Monmouth College for liberal arts students.

The county study unit also proposed an independent vocational arts college at the county Vocational High School Technical Institute in Middletown Township.

Dr. Ferrell said the state study proceeds on a theory that a county college program would be operated to meet all needs from a common campus. The study will reach a conclusion on whether the county can afford such a setup.

"The kind of program that a County College Board of Trustees decides to undertake, however, is not limited by any previous study," he said.

"As in any college program, the board would seek approval of the state Department of Education for whatever plans it subsequently would propose.

"The state would then consider it from all aspects, since the state is a full partner in the county college program. If it was satisfied that the state investment and the best interests of the students and the county were best served, the program would be approved."

Under legislation just enacted, the state will contribute 50 percent of county college tuition, or $600 per pupil which ever is lower, to support county colleges. Four, in Ocean, Middlesex, Atlantic and Cumberland, will be in operation in September.

Dr. Ferrell said that the Monmouth County committee study was weak in the area of documenting student need and that the state study will be more detailed in that regard.

To date, Dr. Ferrell said, the state has not disapproved establishing a county college in any county where the board of freeholders has requested approval.

In Union County, he said, the freeholders have not yet acted on a report from the state which authorized appointment of a Board of Trustees. That was about six months ago. Dr. Ferrell said he believes that ultimately a board will be named.

The Union County Study Committee, like the one in Monmouth, recommended a tie-in arrangement with the private Union County Junior College.

The state's report was based on an all-inclusive, one-campus operation and pointed out the probable costs from that standpoint. An operation on that basis is not binding however, Dr. Ferrell stressed. If the county decides to proceed on an alternative basis it may do so, he added.

Dr. Ferrell said statements in The Register Wednesday, attributed to Edward F. Holms, curriculum co-ordinator in his office, were in error.

The comments implied that the link between Monmouth County and Monmouth College, proposed by the Monmouth Study Committee, is a "big question" facing the state at this time.

"That has no part in this study," Dr. Ferrell said.

Safety Experts Are Criticized

TRENTON AP — Traffic safety experts may be deluding themselves in thinking stiffer laws are the best preventive against highway accidents, says the president-elect of the New Jersey Bar Association.

John J. Gibbons, the bar executive, told the Governor's Traffic Safety conference Thursday that research into the cause of accidents has been inadequate and contradictory.

Emotional factors, such as risk taking, may be just as much a cause of highway mishaps as alcohol, Gibbons said.

He pointedly questioned whether high school driver education programs weren't indirectly encouraging traffic accidents among teen-agers.

An avowed supporter of raising the minimum driving age in the state from 17 to 21, Gibbons contended that driver education programs might simply be arousing youngsters' interest in owning cars. Preoccupied with cars, many youngsters ignore their studies and wind up in trouble in school, at home and with the law, he said.

A rejoinder to Gibbons' remarks came from Dr. William H. Warner, state director of secondary education, who scrapped his prepared text to say:

"We see driver education as the answer to unsafe teen-age driving. We have a real responsibility in the schools to transform the anti-social attitudes of some youths into constructive attitudes."

He said driving courses should be made more available to students who, he said, were caught in the "college squeeze." Warner said only about 45 per cent of eligible public school students and 20 per cent of eligible parochial school students are taking driver education.

Two teen-agers also attacked Gibbons' talk. One of them, Thomas Bennet of South Plainfield, said:

"The driver education course

Holiday Season to Start

Will Honor War Dead

Traditional services memorializing the nation's war dead are scheduled Monday morning in many Monmouth County municipalities. There will be parades in at least 10 places.

Colts Neck Branch, Fleet Reserve Association, will join personnel of the Naval Ammunition Depot at Earle aboard a ship leaving Pier 1, Rt. 36, Leonardo, at 9:30 a.m. to throw wreaths on the waters of Sandy Hook Bay.

A Mass will be offered by priests of St. James Catholic Church, Red Bank, at Mt. Olivet Cemetery, Middletown Township, at 9:30 a.m.

Memorial Day, as it is best known today, is a state holiday in most states of the country. Public offices, banks, schools and most business places will be closed.

Opens Season

For shore resorts, the long weekend starting tonight through Monday might will open the door to the summer season. Boardwalks will have games and rides ready, hoping only against the hardest foe of all, rain.

Weather predictions for the long pull are mostly fair.

Known initially as Decoration Day, May 30 was first observed in many states in the 1860s as an occasion for decorating graves of soldiers killed in the Civil War, in both national and private cemeteries.

On May 5, 1868, Gen. John A. Logan, then commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, issued an order that May 30 be reserved for Grand Army services decorating graves. He chose the anniversary day of discharge of the last Union soldier volunteer.

The flag is to be displayed at half staff until noon, then it should be raised to full height.

Brig. Gen. William B. Latta, commanding officer at Fort Monmouth, will be guest speaker at services in Little Silver.

Milton Waldor, national commander of the Jewish War Veterans, will be the speaker at Freehold.

Parades will be held at Ocean Township, Atlantic Highlands, Freehold, Keansburg, Colts Neck, Howell Township, Matawan Borough, Matawan Township, Raritan Township and Union Beach.

Details of services and parade arrangements, listed by municipality, follow:

RED BANK

There will be two ceremonies. At 10 a.m. the Kiwanis Club will hold a service at Veterans Park, formerly Triangle Park at West Front St. and Riverside Ave., where it and the Jaycees placed a monument and flagpole last year. This year the club will donate a new flag and the Daughters of the American Revolution will contribute a state flag. A Marine color guard will participate.

MCAP Head Asks Protest Over Funds

ASBURY PARK — Joseph E. Taylor, executive director of Monmouth Community Action Program, Inc. (MCAP) yesterday called for public protest against the stalemate in the supply of federal funds for county anti-poverty projects.

Mr. Taylor called a news conference late yesterday afternoon to voice his agency's concern about "the lack of concrete information on the status of our programs and when they will be funded."

As reported in yesterday's Register, MCAP is chafing under federal inaction in approving nine anti-poverty projects, some submitted to the Office of Economic Opportunity a year ago. The county agency has applied for $1,089,923 in federal funds for the programs.

Mr. Taylor said he is seeking a meeting with Jack Howard, national director of the Neighborhood Youth Corps, to discuss an unofficial report that the county's NYC program is slated to be cut next year from 160 to 80 enrollees.

The MCAP director met today wth Rep. James J. Howard, D-3d Dist., N.J., and has requested a meeting with Sargent Shriver, OEO director, to discuss the funding stalemate.

Fears Certification Delay

Budget Slashed by Madison Board

MADISON TOWNSHIP — Fearful that a ruling on its twice-defeated budget might be delayed indefinitely, the Board of Education last night adopted a revised budget, slashing $336,900.

The move leaves the spending schedule $126,100 higher than Township Council is willing to certify.

The state commissioner of education is to make a ruling in the dispute but he is awaiting the outcome of a state Supreme Court ruling on a similar situation in the case of the East Brunswick Board of Education budget.

Cuts announced last night include $113,000 previously decided by the board and the utilization of $150,000 in surplus funds.

Student transportation will be affected most by the latest reduction.

Cancel New Buses

Of $84,900 deleted from capital outlay, $66,000 was earmarked for the purchase of new buses. Added to current expenses to compensate for this is a $98,000 allocation for contracted bus services. The board pointed out, however, that $50,000 of the latter figure is to cover a deficit in the current budget.

Cut from current expenses was $88,000 that will mean cancellation of several bus routes, including those along hazardous roadways.

This move brought negative votes from members Richard Pine and William Kerr.

Lindley R. Higgins, member and acting secretary, pointed out that under Title 18, the board is not responsible for getting children to their classrooms.

Board President William S. Rice declared:

"I refuse to pick up Township Council's responsibility when it was that body which slashed this budget."

The president also let it be known he is opposed to using increased state aid resulting from the sales tax to cover funds cut from the spending schedule. He asserted these funds are intended to improve the quality of education. He referred to the one-third of the district's allocations not earmarked for a tax reduction.

Teachers Unaffected By School Budget Cut

MADISON TOWNSHIP —The twice-defeated and sharply cut original school budget may have created bitter feelings between the Board of Education and Township Council but board-teacher relations are improving by leaps and bounds.

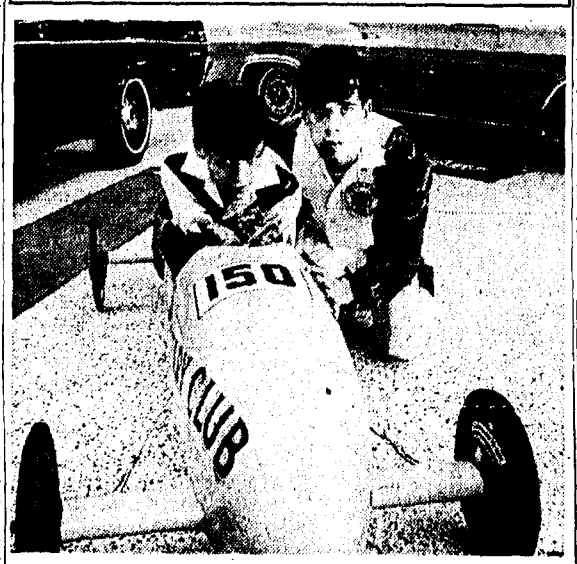

The board surged ahead last night with its policy of awarding faculty members all funds and benefits earned.

Approved were salaries for all administrators and, while exact figures on increases were not available, board president William S. Rice said they were substantial.

Part of the hike, however, is the result of 11-month contracts this years instead of 10-month

City Council Urged To Spare Fire House

LONG BRANCH — The Independent Engine and Truck Co. last night asked City Council to spare the Independent Fire House from the wrecker's ball until the new fire house is built, but the building still faces imminent doom.

Mayor Vincent J. Mazza, backed by most of the council, said in response to a letter from the fire company that the request could not be granted. The fire unit, in its letter, said it wanted to preserve the cohesiveness of the company and by being temporarily split up, that cohesiveness was jeopardized.

Acting City Manager Frank Quirk said the building could not lbe demolished until gasoline tanks inside were emptied. He told the council Fire Chief Walter D. Richter was working on the problem and would have the aged structure demolition-ready shortly.

Tentative arrangements call for a new Independent house to be built on an unspecified plot of land on the north side of Union Ave. However, these plans, approved by the Planning Board, may be subject to change when the new government assumes office July 1 and appoints a new Planning Board.

The Independent house, at Third and Belmont Aves., has been condemned since 1962.

The Thomas G. Russomano Co., Brighton Ave., was awarded a contract to repair a masonry culvert pipe by-pass on Hollywood Ave. on a low bid of $2,-487.90.

The Long Branch Oceanfront Association paid $750 to lease 19,000 square feet of land at Laird St. and Ocean Ave. from today until Sept. 6. The area is to be used for parking.

Mrs. Lasch Is Found Not Guilty

RED BANK — Mrs. Judith Lasch, 50 Tindall Rd., Middletown, was cleared last night of a contempt charge stemming from a $1 overtime parking ticket she received Nov. 1, 1965.

She previously fought and won dismissal of the parking violation, since she owned the car but was not the driver. But for failure to respond to the summons, a warrant was issued for her arrest and Middletown police picked her up.

Magistrate Francis X. Kennelly last night, after the final hearing of the seven-month affair, found Mrs. Lasch not guilty of contempt.

Fines imposed by Magistrate Kennelly included:

Robert D. Stringer, 1326 Washington Ave., Neptune, $15 for obstructing traffic and $15 for contempt; Anthony Cuozzo of Belleville, $15 for obstructing traffic; Barbara Fisher of Middletown Rd., Middletown, $15 for passing a red light; Linnea Ross of 22 Oakes Rd., Little Silver, $15 for passing a stop sign; and Wesley C. Forehand of Springdale Ave., New Shrewsbury, $25 for hitting a parked car.

AWARD NIGHT — William Lindermuth of the Chevrolet Motor Division of General Motors, Englewood zone, presents plaques to members of the service department of Circle Chevrolet, Red Bank. They completed all requirements and received a "Chevrolet Certified Technicians Award." Accepting plaque is Brud Jarius, Keansburg and others in front row, holding theirs, are Danny Hunt, New Shrewsbury; Phil Mascola, Little Silver, and Nick Trocchia, New Shrewsbury, service manager. In the back row are William Monza, Tinton Falls; T. C. DeFelice, president of Circle Chevrolet; Al Colson, Middletown; Jerry Soles, New Shrewsbury, and Ray Sickles, Atlantic Highlands.

Bradshaw Named Principal Of School in Bridgewater

BRIDGEWATER — The Board of Education here has hired Dr. Thomas J. Bradshaw, Jr., of 1126 Interlaken Ave., Wanamassa, as principal of the Bridgewater-Raritan High School-West at an annual salary of $14,500.

Dr. Bradshaw has been the principal of the Monmouth Regional High School for four years and, on May 10, was granted an additional pay increase, to $12,-500, by its school board.

At Monday's meeting, the board was told by Harmon V. Wade, superintendent of the Bridgewater school system that Dr. Bradshaw is going to that district "highly recommended" by New York University, from which he holds master of arts and doctor of education degrees.

Originally, the board in this Somerset County municipality said, Dr. Bradshaw had applied for a position as assistant superintendent. He was selected from some 15 candidates for the principalship after the other post was filled through the appointment of Dr. Jack V. Irion, who has been the principal.

Thomas J. Bradshaw

Dr. Bradshaw, a Navy veteran, was chairman of the social studies department at Monmouth Regional for a year. He had been a teacher and assistant to the principal of a Jersey City high school from 1955 to 1961.

Viet Nam

The spokesman said half a dozen "essential" Americans remained in Hue.

Two U. S. planes flew the evacuees to Saigon. They included American Aid personnel, construction employees, Catholic relief workers, teachers, and some Filipinos, Canadians, Nationalist Chinese and West Germans.

On his arrival in Da Nang in a U.S. Air Force jet, Ky denounced the burning of the U.S. library in Hue as the work of "minority fanatics" and pledged to protect Vietnamese and Americans in the Buddhist bastion 40 miles northwest of Da Nang.

VIET TROOPS SENT

Ky did not say what he would do. But yesterday, after a mob of youths burned out the U.S.I.S. building, he sent 500 troops into Hue to protect American installations, including a Voice of America station that beams broadcasts to North Viet Nam.

The soldiers as yet did not seem ready for any open clashes with the Buddhists. They were part of the 1st Division, whose loyalty to the government remains in doubt.

Asked if he would go onto Hue, where a state of open revolt against his government has existed for weeks, Ky declared:

"Hue is part of South Viet Nam. It is my duty to go to see people and help them."

Assistant Superintendent Patrick A. Torre will draw $17,440. High school principal Albert B. Jacobs draws $16,350. Vice principals Walter Colman and Peter M. Delaney are listed at $12-120 and $9,180, respectively.

Burlew and Russell Van Sickle, $13,-130 each; Andrew Korshalla, $12-220; Theodore Marcinkoski, $11-960; Mrs. Dorothy Engebretson, $10,790; Harry Romeo, $10,680; Mrs. Nancy Manning, $10,320, and Richard Clement, $9,960.

The administrators, for the upcoming year only have the option of accepting either a 10 or 11-month contract. Those choosing the shorter term will draw 10 per cent less than the listed salary.

The board authorized extra compensation to a number of faculty members for additional duties.

The board also authorized a $259 expenditure for high school sophomore Miss Susan MarcAurele and a teacher chaperon to travel to New Orleans, La., so the girl may participate in a national public speaking contest. She is the winner of the state championship as the representative of the local Future Business Leaders of America Club.

Named to $5,300 teaching contracts for the coming year were recent graduates Miss Mary Bechtel, Trenton, and Charles Hershkowitz, Newark.

Tabled were resolutions to name department heads at $500 extra compensation, appointment of Joseph Germain as director of athletics with $850 additional compensation and the awarding of $400 extra compensation to speech therapist Alice Spadaro.

Late Ad Error Starts Code Machinery Anew

COLTS NECK — A one-day error in publication of a controversial new zoning ordinance adopted by the Township Committee May 12 means that the measure must be readvertised and adopted again.

The Township Committee disclosed the miscue last night and started again the procedure for bringing the measure, which upgrades building lots from one to two acres, on for a public hearing and final action.

The ordinance was adopted on first reading and is being advertised in today's Register. It will have a hearing at Township Community Center Thurday, June 9, at 8 p.m.

Township Attorney D. Joseph De Vito said that zoning ordinances are required by law to be advertised 10 days in advance of a public hearing, whereas seven days is sufficient for other ordinances.

Ad Cost $224.48

The original measure, which is now void, was submitted for advertising May 3, nine days before the scheduled hearing. The advertising cost was $224.48.

The Township Committee introduced two other ordinances on first reading and set them for hearings on June 9.

One authorizes an $11,000 emergency appropriation to cover a basic $10,600 contract for a township-wide revaluation of real estate. The Monmouth Tax Board estimated earlier this year that local assessments, which should be at 100 per cent of true value, are at 65 per cent.

The committee plans to contract with Associated Real Estate Appraisers, Inc., headed by William Wiseman, Rt. 35, Ocean Township, for the revaluation. In addition a charge will be made for each additional parcel of real estate added to the tax list while the study is in progress.

The other ordinance revises the local fire department law in four respects:

The deputy chief and the retiring chief are added as members of the Executive Fire Council each year.

Elections of departmental chief may not be held in the fire house of the company of a candidate for fire chief.

Authorized membership in the fire police is increased from two to as many as may be held necessary by the Executive Fire Council.

Parking restrictions are increased from 200 to 300 feet within fire house driveways.

Colts Neck Requesting New Signs

COLTS NECK — Drawbacks to progress were pointed up by the Township Committee last night in a petition authorized to be sent to the Bell Telephone Company.

More than two years ago, the committee said, the utility put overhead lines along Rt. 537 underground. But, in so doing, it failed to replace about four of a dozen "No Parking" traffic control signs on the south side of the county highway between Rt. 34 and the Post Office.

Comitteeman Joseph Moreau said the township is required to have signs posted every 200 feet and that without them its parking control ordinance is ineffective. The committee asked the utility to find new signs for those that are missing.

Bus Strikes LB Woman

LONG BRANCH — A 70-year-old woman escaped with minor injuries yesterday morning when she was struck by a bus while crossing Broadway.

Mrs. Theresa Calabrese of 193 Garfield Ave. was treated at Monmouth Medical Center for cuts of the arms and legs after a Coast Cities Coaches bus driven by Charles J. Hornbostel, 29, of 42 Meadow Ave., Monmouth Beach, hit her at the Liberty St. intersection.

The bus, police said, was turning right into Broadway from Liberty St.

Mrs. Calabrese was taken to the hospital by the Long Branch First Aid Squad. No summons was issued by Patrolman William Manning, who investigated.

Jones to Get School Post

RUMSON — At its meeting next Wednesday, the Board of Education will appoint David C. Jones, 98 Bingham Ave., to fill the post of board secretary and administrative assistant to the superintendent. A vacancy has existed since the departure of George C. Conley last fall.

Mr. Conley now is secretary to the Holmdel school board.

Mr. Jones for the past two years has served as an account executive with Textile Banking Co., New York City. During his 16 years with the firm, he served also as credit analyst, credit man and trainee. Previously he was with Chubb and Son, New York. He served overseas with the American Field Service for three years.

A graduate of Princeton University and Berkshire School, Sheffield, Mass., Mr. Jones holds an bachelor degree in history and has taken courses at New York Institute of Credit.

8 Taken To Hospital

RED BANK — Eight persons were carried to Riverview Hospital in two ambulances and a rescue truck after two cars slammed together at William and McLaren St. yesterday.

The entire fire department also responded at 7:16 p.m. when a bystander, seeing clouds of dust around the two cars and thinking it was smoke, sounded an alarm from the fire box at the intersection.

At Riverview, two of the victims were admitted, five were treated for injuries, and a baby was examined.

Patrolman Richard Bennett said the collision involved cars driven by Darnell Perry, 20, of 258 Mechanic St., traveling east on McLaren St., and Eileen Clossey, 21, of 10 Third St., Rumson, traveling south on William St. There are no stop signs at the crossroad.

The officer said the Perry car left 19 feet of skid marks before it hit the Clossey car, driving it into a tree. The vehicles came to a stop side by side headed into an embankment at 74 McLaren St.

Darnell Perry was treated for knee and arm injuries, Dwight Perry Green, 13, of 87 William St., New Shrewsbury, received four stitches in his left knee, and Deldra Lane, 23 months, of 258 Mechanic St., here, was examined.

Two persons from the other car are in fair condition at Riverview, the driver with multiple cuts and a fractured jaw, and Winifred Thayer, 52, of 10 Third St., Rumson, with a broken nose, a compound fracture of the leg and a possible skull fracture.

According to police, Miss Cain's vehicle was in collision with one operated by John P. Tomaini, 63 Pavilion Ave., Long Branch. No summonses were issued pending further investigation.

Successful Investing

By Roger E. Spear

Q) "My wife and I are both 67-years-old and make our living from apartment houses we have owned for years. I have paid up insurance and $1,000 E bond. Also, 100 shares of General Aniline & Film on which I have a loss. We have $15,000 in savings and would like to invest some of this cash. What do you suggest?" H. K.

A) I commend you on your strong financial position. General Aniline & Film is selling around its 1965-66 low in spite of good earnings gains in recent years. I would hold this stock.

I suggest that you leave $5,000 in savings as a contingency reserve and invest $10,000 in blue chip stocks of proven growth, which have been hammered down during the May decline. I advise purchase of equal dollar amounts of FMC Corp.; Minnesota Mining & Mfg; and Litton Industries. I make these recommendations on the assumption that you prefer potential long-term capital enhancement to current income.

Q) "I am 70-years-old and have a good list of growth stocks. My interest and dividends are fairly high and I receive a pension which is subject to tax. I am not rich but would like a tax-exempt investment. Do you approve?" B. B.

A) You seem to be in a solid financial position and I commend you. I believe that with a sound backlog of growth stocks and at least a relatively high income bracket, you might do well to hold a few tax-exempt bonds.

There is an entirely erroneous assumption that such investments are only for the rich. This is not so. They are bought heavily by institutions and by investors of moderate means who want very high security as well as freedom from Federal income tax.

I suggest Chicago, Ill., Public Housing Authority 3⅜s of 1991, yielding 3.50 per cent to maturity. These bonds are issued under contract with the Federal Public Housing Administration and are rated AAA.

Teachers whose contracts were renewed are Mrs. Hannah Stout at a salary of $6,850; Mrs. Ruth Newman, $6,700; Mrs. Sandra Maltzman, $5,700; Mrs. Eleanor VanNote, $8,000; Mrs. Grace Bennett, $7,200; Mrs. Alice Lenthe, $7,700; Mrs. Evelyn Yarish, $7,250; Donald Welcome, $3,870; and Principal Daniel Stevens, $9,600.

Mrs. Robert West, 4 Monmouth Pl., reported to the board that the vacant lot across the street from the grammar school "is still a hazard to children." She said, "There are large rats in the lot and also a great deal of sharp debris."

Although the board had previously asked the borough to stop dumping on the tract, board members said that the town had recently started dumping there again. Russell G. Spriggs, president, said that the board would contact the borough and, if necessary, take even stronger action.

'American Showcase' Visit Slated June 15-19

EATONTOWN—American Showcase, the famed traveling exhibition that depicts the progress of American industry, will be on display to the public June 15 to 19 at Monmouth Shopping Center.

The exhibition, sponsored nationally by American Heritage Magazine with the co-operation of 23 leading industrial organizations, travels in three specially designed trailers. Among the rare items on display are original silver made by Paul Revere, china used in the White House, cosmetic jars predating the birth of Christ, and one of the first television sets sold in America.

The exhibit here will be free to the public from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. daily, with the exception of June 19 when the hours will be noon to 8 p.m.

Continue Drive In Manalapan

MANALAPAN — The Manalapan beautification committee announced that a clean up drive will continue until the end of the month.

Free permits for the dumping area at Burks Rd., West Freehold Township, will be issued by the township. Dump operation hours are from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily except Sundays and holidays.

Suspended Cop Faces A Hearing

MIDDLETOWN — A disciplinary hearing on charges against Patrolman William J. Higgins will be held Thursday, June 16, at 7:30 p.m.

Patrolman Higgins, who the Township Committee claimed it could not find to serve with notice of the hearing, was found yesterday morning in his home by Patrolman Howard Collins.

Patrolman Collins served the notice of the hearing.

It will be the second. Last week, the committee was to have heard the case, but a legal technicality forced it to dismiss the charges.

Under state statute, at least 15 days must elapse between date of service and date of hearing. Patrolman Higgins was served the last time on May 11 and the hearing set for May 17.

The committee has allowed for 21 days this time.

The patrolman, who has been on suspension since May 11, is charged with 20 separate alleged offenses.

Seven are repeated under six major categories. These are: Neglect of duty, violation of official regulations amounting to insubordination or breach of discipline, conduct unbecoming an officer, offensive conduct and language toward the public, negligence in the care of public property resulting in damage to the same, and failure to care for personal health properly.

Among the alleged offenses is one that charges the patrolman with attempting to substitute accident report for the original which covers an accident in which the patrolman was involved. He also is charged with allegedly forging the signature of a fellow patrolman on the bogus report.

"This is a disgrace in this day and age," he said.

Capt. Howard Hunderfund, representing the township police department, said Chief Harry Harvey "has used all the ammunition we have and we're batting nothing. It's a four cylinder road with eight cylinder cars."

Brown

forward to attracting a particular new industry as a tenant on the field, Mr. Brown said, "I cannot believe that a private landlord would not be as acceptable as a political appointee acting as an administrator for a county landlord."

The owner says he sells airplanes and so do three of his tenants, and that he gives flying lessons as does the Gibson Air Academy. He adds:

"What would the county do? . . . Would it be a political decision as to what competition there should be? . . . Would the public be served if any of the services provided by the county were monopolized by one high bidding operator who would then recoup the cost of his rent or percentage from the public?"

Mr. Brown has already met with members of the freeholder board and with the Wall Township Committee to press his arguments.

Mr. Irwin said a joint session of the freeholders, Township Committee and Mr. Brown will be held in Freehold next Thursday night.

Rumson Okays Supplies Pacts

RUMSON — Contracts to supply road oil, stone and gasoline were awarded by Borough Council last night.

C. H. Sutphen of Freehold, will supply 24,811 gallons of road oil for $3,448.73.

Edward E. Bennett of Belford, will furnish 745 tons of road stone for $3,069.40.

Shore Gas and Oil, Inc., Oakhurst, will supply 20,000 gallons of regular gasoline for 13.35 cents per gallon and 10,000 gallons of high test fuel at 16.6 cents, not including taxes.

SUN DIALS

NEW YORK (AP) — The reason a gentleman's vest has two small "watch pockets" is that watches were originally so inaccurate that you had to carry a miniature sun dial also, according to researchers at Bulova Watch Company.

Today's wrist timepieces are more accurate than a sun dial.

Township officials have attempted to get the road widened for some 15 years. The center lane is the main problem, since it is used for passing by cars traveling in both directions and for cars making left turns.

Councilman Edward Clark of Eatontown said, "the Highway Department is interested in the flow of traffic, not safety." The Eatontown circle was opened up by a through lane to alleviate congestion, he said, adding that the concrete barrier south of the circle was "built on the graves of people who crashed after missing the turn for the circle."

Sees Detriment

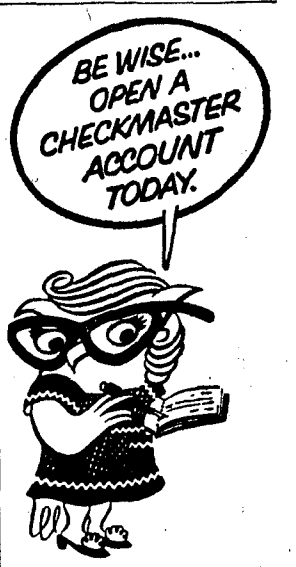

"The emphasis must change," said Mr. Clark. He noted that if the Highway Department does examine the safety aspect it would deny left turns by constructing barriers, which would have a detrimental economic effect on the businessmen.

"I have seen our local merchants suffer because there are no left turns — primarily because they interfere with the flow of traffic," said the councilman.

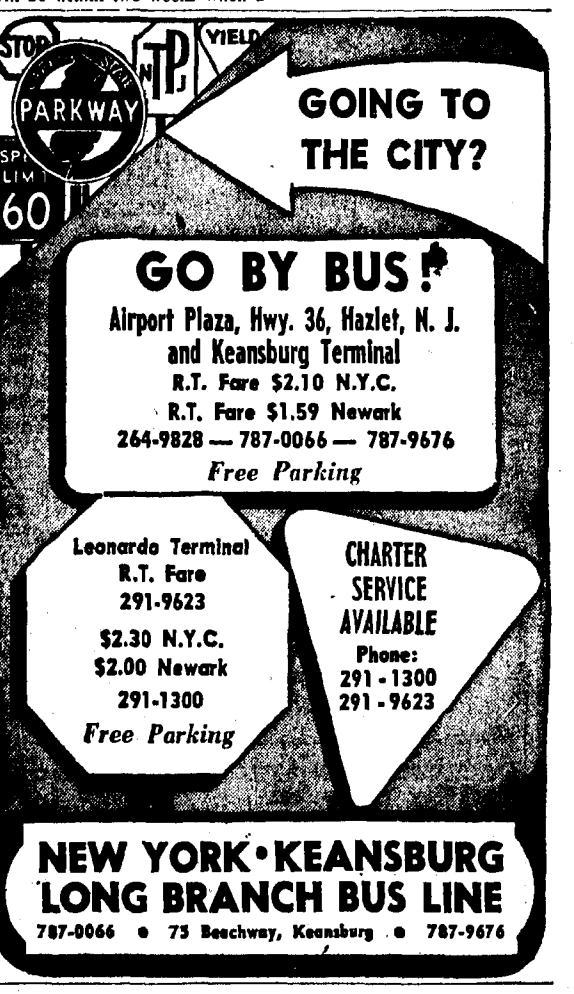

Mr. Thecker said the businessmen are aware of this but the first problem is to get the road widened. He said all Rt. 35 businessmen will be asked to support the program.

When asked what prompted him to form the group, Mr. Thecker replied that he's conscious of the hazards on the highway daily because "I have to make a left turn into my place and I always feel like a sitting duck."

Mr. Noll said the next meeting will be within two weeks when a date can be set with Richard McEveilly, president of the county first aid squads and a member of the Wanamassa squad. Mr. McKenzie offered the group the use of the shopping center's civic auditorium.

In cases where there is serious question whether a noise will be a nuisance outside the zone district boundaries, or outside the property lot lines containing it, and if the noise is incapable of being measured with an impact noise analyzer, then the noise producing activity shall not be permitted. If the noise source is already in existence, the noise shall be controlled to eliminate the nuisance.

ARTICLE VI, Section 10 — CLUSTER ZONING REGULATIONS.

The purpose of this section is to provide a method of development of residential land which will preserve desirable open spaces and conservation areas by permitting the reduction of lot sizes and certain other regulations hereinafter stated, without increasing the number of lots in the total area to be subdivided.

Provisions under this subsection may be allowed at the discretion of the Planning Board in accordance with the standards and criteria hereinafter stated:

(a) The minimum size of a tract or parcel of land proposed for development under the Cluster Development provisions of this ordinance shall be ten (10) acres.

(b) The maximum number of residential building lots for each cluster development shall be computed on the basis of 0.45 lots per gross acre. If this calculation results in a remaining fraction of a lot, the fraction shall be rounded to the nearest whole number. Land area equal to a minimum of 40% of the gross area of the proposed development shall not be included in lots but shall be dedicated to the Township of Colts Neck for conservation and open space purposes. Land utilized for street right-of-ways may be included as part of the above 40%.

(d) The minimum lot requirements for a cluster development shall be:

(1) Lot size	35,000 sq. ft.
(2) Street frontage	200 feet*
(3) Lot width	200 feet
(4) Front yard	75 feet
(5) Side yard	40 feet
(6) Rear yard	50 feet

(7) All other provisions of lots in the A Zone shall apply here also.

*Under the conditions stated in Article IV, Section 3, a minimum frontage of 150 feet may be allowed on land fronting on outside curves or cuts-de-sacs.

(e) The lands dedicated for open space and conservation use to the Township shall meet the following requirements:

(1) The minimum size of each parcel so dedicated shall be 4.0 acres.

(2) Every parcel of land so dedicated on a subdivision plat of a cluster development shall be conveyed to the Township by deed at the time final approval is granted by the Township to the final Subdivision Plat. Said deeds shall contain restrictions stating that the use of such lands shall be restricted to conservation and open space purposes.

(3) The land so dedicated shall be contiguous to a minimum of 25% of the lots in the subdivision proposed for the cluster development.

(4) The lands so dedicated shall include wherever feasible, natural features such as streams, brooks, wooded areas, steep slopes and other natural features of scenic and conservation value. The developer may be required to plant trees or make other similar landscaping improvements in order to qualify open land for acceptance by the Township.

(5) The lands so dedicated shall be subject to approval by the Township Planning Board. The Board in their review and evaluation of the suitability of such land shall be guided by the Master Plan of the Township of Colts Neck, by the ability to assemble and link such lands from adjoining areas to form continuous bands of open space and by the accessibility and potential utility of such lands.

(6) The proposed roads within the cluster development shall not interconnect with existing or proposed roads to form continuous or through roads.

(7) The proposed roads within the cluster development shall be designed to discourage any high speed or through traffic, shall have the exclusive function of providing access to properties abutting the road, and shall follow the contours of the land to the greatest extent possible.

(f) All other provisions of this ordinance which are applicable to lands in the A Zone and which have not been specifically modified in this section, shall also apply to lands developed under this section.

(g) All of the provisions of the Subdivision Ordinance of the Township of Colts Neck shall apply to any development proposed under the Cluster Development Provisions of the Zoning Ordinance.

ARTICLE VII, Section 3 — UNDERSIZED LOTS OF RECORD

UNDERSIZED LOTS OF RECORD. Any parcel of land which does not meet the minimum lot size requirements prescribed for a lot in the zone in which such lot is located, and which parcel was under one ownership at the date of the adoption of this ordinance, may be used as a lot for any purpose permitted in the zone, provided that the width of each side yard must equal or exceed 20% of the width of the lot, and in no case shall any building or part thereof be within 15 feet of said property line, and provided further that all other regulations prescribed for the zone by this ordinance are complied with. Lots which are not of the required minimum size may be used for any purpose permitted in the zone in which they are located if such lots were included in a subdivision plat which was either duly approved under the Municipal Planning Act of 1953 prior to the effective date of this ordinance and/or which subdivision was granted tentative approval under said Act prior to the effective date of this ordinance and granted final approval after the effective date of this ordinance out within three (3) years from the date of such tentative approval, and provided further that the final subdivision plan in either instance shall have been duly recorded in the office of the County Clerk within the time required by law.

SECTION SEVENTEEN — If any section, paragraph, subsection, clause or provision of this Ordinance shall be adjudged invalid, such adjudication shall apply only to the section, paragraph, subsection, clause or provision so adjudicated and the remainder of this Ordinance shall be deemed valid and in full force and effect.

SECTION EIGHTEEN — All ordinances or parts thereof in conflict or inconsistent with this ordinance are hereby repealed.

REACHING A DECISION — Deal artist Ruth Caruso, left, and Lakewood artist Molly Rubenstein, decide that the "Self-Portrait" framed with yardsticks, by Freehold photographer Bernard Hollander, is tops in oil painting in the amateur category at the two-day Outdoor Art Show of the Freehold Art Society staged on the lawn of the Hall of Records, Main St. The show closes tonight at 8 p.m. Awards will be presented at 7 p.m.

Freehold Outdoor Art Show Proves Attraction

FREEHOLD — Dark clouds and heavy mist yesterday morning deterred some artists from entering their paintings at the annual outdoor show of the Freehold Art Society.

However, "positive thinking" by the committee as far as the weather was concerned kept them from canceling it. "I think they thought I couldn't go through this again next week," commented the chairman of the show, Millicent Freyre.

Sunny skies and good weather from early afternoon on, brought hundreds to view the 200 works staged on the lawn of the Hall of Records, Main St.

Silver bowls will be presented tonight at 7 o'clock, including one from the sponsors of the event, the Central Jersey Bank and Trust Co., Freehold, by Frank G. Warner, vice president.

Freehold artist Wini Smart (Mrs. J. Mike Diehl), 85 South St., president of the society, will pick up two bowls. She won first prize for a watercolor collage "Return to Nature" in the professional watercolor category. She also won a second place award in the professional oil category for "Where Swallows Fly."

Best in show award went to Marjorie Leeds, Matawan, for "Prove It Generation," an oil.

First prize for amateur watercolor went to Gerri Lynn Shapiro, Englishtown, for a woodcut "Girl Flower.' Runner-up was Lillian Gibson, Freehold, for "Sea Sponge." Third place went to Edwina Brown, Colts Neck, for "Sepia Mist," and honorable mentions went to Cecelia Fallender, Neptune, for "Spring Planting," and Margaret Yates, Freehold, for "Lion."

Alfred Sauer, Farmingdale, who is employed at Camp Evans, won first place in sculpture for "Maternity", an abstract figure cast in bronze. The sculpture awards again will remain with only ribbon prizes and distinction, since the competition has been limited by a few entries.

However, the staging committee of the society is considering, with the increase from other years in sculpture entries, that the awarding of prizes other than ribbons will be considered in the next annual event.

First prize for professional oil went to Robert Gillespie, Freehold, for "Flowers." Millicent Freyre placed third in this category with "Roof Tops." She also won a second place award for a woodcut "Do This In Remembrance" entered in the professional watercolor category.

Bruce Fallender, Neptune, received third prize for professional watercolor for "Vintage 300", a collage.

Top prize for oil in the amateur category went to Bernard Hollander, Elberon Park, for "Self-Portrait." Mr. Hollander is a professional photographer, owner of Bernard Studio, 37 West Main St., Freehold.

Elfride Hirsch, Englishtown, placed second in the amateur category with "Summertime." Third place went to Robert Santana, Freehold, for "Crowd." Honorable mentions went to Jene Sapiro, Englishtown, for "Essence of Kathy"; Janet Schippert, Spring Lake, for "Horse Race" and Helen Amm, Freehold, for "Country Supper."

Judges for all the categories were Ruth Caruso, 404 Crosby Ave., Deal, and Molly Rubenstein, 646 Axis Rd., Lakewood, both professional artists. The show will close tonight at 8 p.m.

Court Upholds Freehold Twp.

TRENTON (AP) — The Appellate Division of Superior Court ruled yesterday that Freehold Township Committee was justified in refusing to permit John Palermo to build a colonial-type gasoline service station at the site of his present facility.

Palermo, 71, operates a two-pump station on the southerly side of Monmouth County Rt. 73.

The Township Committee refused to permit him a variance for a new station on grounds that it was contrary to the residential zoning ordinance.

It said the present two-pump station which he had been operating since 1935 was legitimate but that a full fledged station would be a nonconforming exception to the residential tone of the area.

Constitutional Convention

Partisan Haggle Prevails

NEW BRUNSWICK (AP) — New Jersey's constitutional convention was still locked in partisan haggling today after a lengthy session failed to provide even a tentative compromise on a plan for re-apportioning the legislature.

A key convention committee voted on a rash of proposals Thursday but none of the plans.

Sen. William E. Ozzard, Somerset County Republican, accused Democrats of refusing to meet the GOP halfway.

He said the deadlock provided "one of the dark days on the banks of the Raritan." The convention is meeting on the Rutgers University campus near the Raritan River.

The crucial vote was on a proposal to establish a two-house legislature, one chamber with single-member districts and the other with multi-member districts in which representatives would be elected by county-wide, at-large voting.

With one exception, Republican members of the convention's apportionment committee supported the plan. But Democrats unanimously opposed it.

Ozzard said the proposal failed to win majority support because Democratic leaders had persuaded some independent-minded delegates to switch their votes. A handful of Democrats supported the plan at last week's meeting.

"The net has tightened, the orders have come down," Ozzard said. Republicans demonstrated that they were willing to accept a compromise, he declared, but Democrats "ran out" on a plan which could have formed the basis for bipartisan agreement.

"You can go home and tell your local newspaper whatever you want to," Ozzard said. "But you have flopped. You have flopped miserably."

The convention, like the reapportionment committee, is evenly divided between Democrats and Republicans. Had a majority of the committee voted for a compromise proposal, it still would have no binding effect on the full convention. But it would have suggested that the conclave was on the road to agreement. As it is, the convention has less than three weeks remaining to come up with a reapportionment plan in keeping with balanced voting guidelines — the one man, one vote principle — laid down by the U.S. Supreme Court in historic rulings two years ago.

The convention is under court order to provide a plan by June 15. If Republicans and Democrats remain steadfast, the courts might step in and reapportion the legislature.

The crucial issue dividing Republicans and Democrats is over the size of future legislative districts.

Republicans want small, single-member districts in which the vote in suburban areas — traditionally Republican — would have greater weight.

Democrats are in favor of districts in which all candidates would run county-wide. This idea is geared to maximize the influence of normally Democratic voting strength in big cities.

After deadlocking on bicameral proposals, the apportionment committee turned to a one-house plan which was proposed by seven Democratic delegates.

Majority support for the compromise unicameral plan was undercut when Sen. Frank S. Farley, Atlantic County Republican, pulled out of the coalition after initially voting for the proposal.

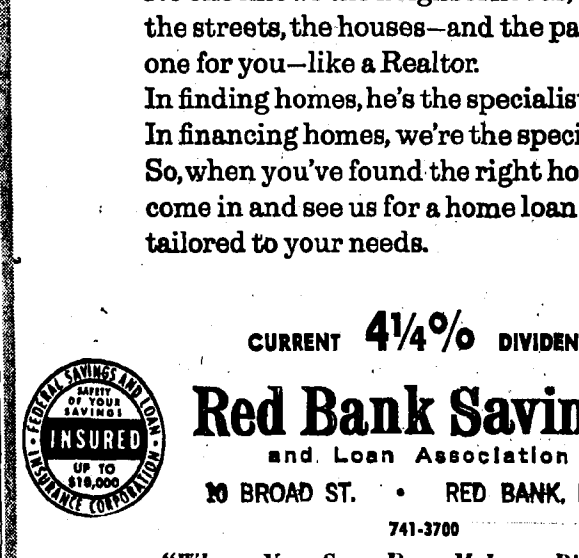

The plan called for one house in which about one third of the representatives would be elected at large and the remainder from single-member districts.

Two of the Democratic sponsors of the plan voted for it, the rest either opposed it or abstained from voting.

Bridge Advice

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

One of my bridge friends bids like a bold, swashbuckling pirate and plays the cards like a rabbit. He is always surprised when this combination turns him into a dish of hasenpfeffer.

My friend ruffed the first diamond and drew two rounds of trumps. "Safety first," he burbled, not knowing that he had already thrown his grand slam away.

South cashed the top hearts, ruffed a heart, ruffed a club in dummy, and discarded on the last good heart. This left South with two losing clubs in his hand and only one trump in the dummy.

Declarer had played the first tricks quickly, but he made up for this by staring at the dummy for several minutes at this stage. The opponents were patient and they eventually got a trick, defeating the grand slam.

South can make the hand if he does his thinking early rather than late. He needs only normal breaks in hearts and trumps.

Declarer should ruff the first diamond with a high trump, lead a heart to dummy to ruff a second diamond with a high trump and should lead another heart to dummy to ruff a third diamond with a high trump. Next, South leads the seven of spades to dummy's eight and ruffs a fourth diamond.

Declarer ruffs a club in dummy, ruffs a low heart with his last trump, ruffs another club in dummy and draws the last trump with the king of spades. Only at the eleventh trick is it correct to draw the last trump!

Dummy takes the last two tricks with the ace of hearts and the last heart, which is good by this time.

If south had looked ahead he would have seen that his idea of a safe line of play made the grand slam depend on getting a 3-3 break in hearts. The correct play works also when the hearts break 4-2.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: Spades—K 8 6 2. Hearts—A K Q 5 3. Diamonds—9 6 5 3. Clubs—None. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two hearts. The hand is too good and too unusual for an immediate jump to three spades. Show the hearts and jump to four spades at your next turn. If partner gets the slam bee in his bonnet and can show a diamond control, you will be happy to co-operate with him.

Operations too delicate for human hands to perform are carried out by servomechanisms — machines that supervise the work of other machines. When a biologist wants to extract the nucleus from a mircroscopic living cell with a tiny hollow needle, a servo can pick up photoelectrically the magnified image of the tiny nucleus. Electronic signals unerringly guide the minute suction tube to its proper position to finish the job.

The Register's Opinion

The Subject of Retaliation

It is reported that the United States, consulting with its allies in advance of next month's meeting of NATO ministers, favors moving both the political and the military headquarters of the North Atlantic Alliance from Paris to Brussels. Britain has also indicated that it would welcome the political headquarters in London.

There is no alternative to the transfer of central NATO military direction from Paris in view of French President de Gaulle's notice to the allies that his country wants out of an integrated military structure and wants NATO facilities removed from France. There is a choice about moving the political headquarters of the alliance, to which France still adheres as separate from its integrated military organization.

The United States and other NATO allies, objecting to the separation as invalid, may feel that it would undermine the show of united strength they wish to give in opposition to the De Gaulle military position if the political center of the alliance were left in Paris. On an emotional plane —and Washington reacts heatedly to the French leader's determination to follow his own course — there is a strong element of retaliation against France involved.

The question seems to boil down to this: Since France has taken itself out of a military relationship within the alliance which it finds objectionable, and which other allies consider essential, is France now to be isolated? Or are the remaining French ties to the alliance to be maintained and nurtured?

The readjustments which the NATO crisis requires are difficult enough as it is without actions that go beyond what the situation may actually require. Interallied relationships have long been due for an overhaul. Why rush unnecessarily to further attenuate the French alliance connection when President de Gaulle himself has carefully avoided making the last French word good-bye?

Memorial Day Message

Monday is Memorial Day—a day set aside to honor the Americans who fought to preserve our liberty and independence and who lost their lives in that effort.

Most municipalities and military installations in the area will mark the special day with parades and solemn ceremonies. And it is in keeping with the occasion that all of us take the time on Memorial Day to think of those who made the great sacrifice to preserve our freedom.

With a war going on in Viet Nam, Memorial Day this year takes on even greater importance. For, once again, Americans have been called to duty to protect the independence of an oppressed nation. And, as we honor the dead of other wars, we must not forget those who are giving their lives in a new cause of freedom.

To many Americans, Memorial Day represents nothing more than a day off from work. To others, it means the unofficial start of the summer season. We hope that these people will take time out to reflect on the real meaning of the day.

Let us all rededicate ourselves to insuring that those freedoms so dearly won will not be lost — but will be enjoyed by Americans always. Memorial Day is a time to do this.

An Expanding YMCA

Evan W. Jahos of Fair Haven has taken over the leadership of the Red Bank Community Young Men's Christian Association at perhaps the most important time in the history of the organization.

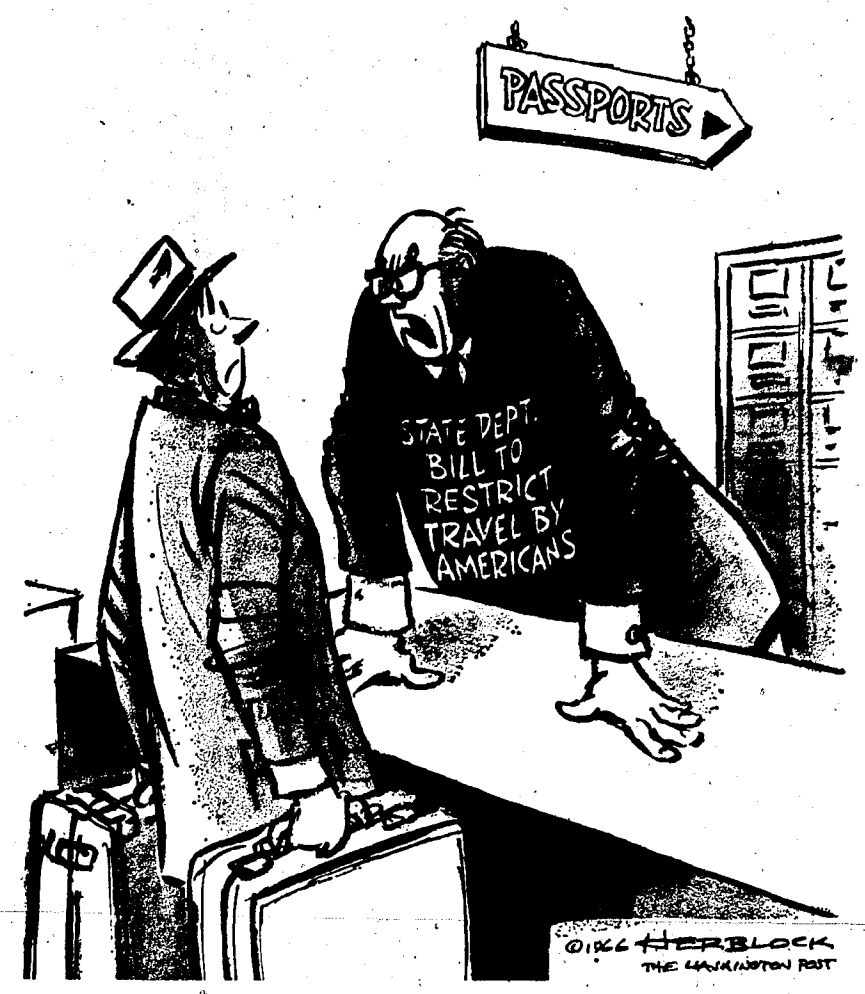

Plans are under way to construct a new YMCA building on Maple Ave. in Red Bank and Mr. Jahos, as president, will be directly responsible for many of the fund-raising efforts to finance the capital program.

The Red Bank YMCA has served the area well for more than 90 years. And it is a tribute to the organization that it is recognizing its responsibilities by expanding to meet the needs of a growing area. It is significant that these long-range plans not only involve Red Bank and surrounding municipalities — but its facility at Camp Arrowhead in Marlboro and a proposal to serve the Middletown-Bayshore area with a branch YMCA.

The Community YMCA has been fortunate over the years that so many of our citizens have rallied behind it in time of need. And this is a small way of repaying this organization for the good it brings to the area.

Now the YMCA is seeking new public support—and we hope it will be forthcoming.

How to Buy a Used Car

These are the months when used car buying roars to a seasonal peak, and to indicate how loud this roar can be, we spent $20 billion to buy an estimated 22,000,000 used cars in 1965 alone.

PORTER

A prolonged era of enormous turnover in used cars is a certainty, if for no other reason than the entrance of the post-World War II babies into the 18-19 year age range and thus into the used car market the nation over. Continually adding momentum, too, is our migration to the suburbs: commuting often necessitates a second car which well may be a used car.

If you are among the millions now in the market for a used car, here are 10 key rules to guide you:

(1) Find a used car dealer who is fair and reliable. Advises the National Automobile Dealers Association: "Choose a dealer the way you choose your doctor, lawyer, dentist or other source of professional service."

(2) Beware of such come-ons in used car advertising as "name your own deal," "lowest prices in town," "wholesale prices." These obviously phony techniques are condemned by the NADA.

* * *

(3) DECIDE IN ADVANCE what kind of car you want and how much you can afford to pay. If you buy a used car "as is" (without repairs or reconditioning by the dealer) you'll probably have to make an extra investment in repairs yourself. While the price you pay for a used car depends on current market conditions, the age and condition of the car and the amount of time and money spent to recondition it should be considered.

(4) Ask the dealer to show you the NADA's "Official Used Car Guide" published monthly for each region in the U.S. (You probably can also find a copy of this guide at the loan department of your local bank.) It lists current wholesale and retail values of virtually all models, makes and years of U.S. and foreign cars. Prices vary according to the car's condition which may range from "extra clean" to "rough."

(5) Test drive any used car you are considering. If you are not competent to detect mechanical problems yourself, have your mechanic do the driving.

(6) Ask an outside mechanic to inspect any car you might buy, even if the car looks shiny and sound. The cost could run between $5 to $15, but could save you costly repairs later.

* * *

(7) TRY TO FIND out what the car was used for previously. A reputable dealer will be willing to tell you, for example, if the car was used previously as a rental car, a commercial vehicle, etc., or by the proverbial "little old lady."

(8) Request a warranty stating specifically what reconditioning has been performed on the car, exactly what repairs the dealer will and will not pay for, the term of the warranty, whether the car is guaranteed to pass state inspection. Make sure all the dealer's promises are in writing.

(9) If the dealer promises to make repairs be sure he finishes the work before you buy the car.

(10) If you are buying a used car on time, shop for credit at local lending institutions to find the best deal for you. Before signing any sales contract, understand exactly what the total interest and other charges will be—not just the amount of the monthly installment.

The Endless Search

Dr. Ben Duggar was forced to retire. He was 71, and the University of Wisconsin told him that he was through as professor of botany. The old gaffer didn't like it, but the law said he had to quit. Some of his former students, working at Lederle Laboratories at Pearl River, N.Y., proposed him for a job.

BISHOP

Dr. Duggar took it. He enjoyed bowling, golf and was known as a real Comanche on the dance floor. He also liked his work. Penicillin had been discovered, but was known as a "narrow spectrum" antibiotic; in sum, its use was limited to a few diseases. Streptomycin had also been discovered and, like penicillin, its magic had come from the excretions of the micro-organisms found in soil samples.

So Duggar drew up a team of scientists and began work on more soil samples. The molds looked like discs of lucite, with intricate color designs growing on the surface. He was looking for a "broad spectrum" antibiotic, and time was ticking out for him as well as for many sick people.

He reached so many dead ends that the project seemed to be hopeless. Then, overnight, it happened. He isolated a golden mold which would fight 50 different diseases. He called it aureomycin and, while scientific applause was still ringing in his ears, he reminded his assistants that this was only the first of the tetra cycline discoveries.

There were more, Duggar said. He proved he was right because, from aureomycin came achromycin, the most widely prescribed antibiotic in the world. He died at the age of 84, but Duggar's real career began at 71.

* * *

TO NAME A FEW of the illnesses which achromycin can control, one must list streptococcus, pneumonia, staphylococcus, urinary infections, syphilis, gonorrhea and typhus. Duggar was an inspiration to his "kids." Others, before and after him, came up with the use of folic acid in pernicious anemia, the discovery of sulfadiazine; the use of steroids in the treatment of cripplers such as rheumatoid arthritis; and oral polio vaccine called orimune; myambutol, a new specific for tuberculosis which is not yet on the market.

Myambutol, which was a detergent-solvent, was discovered nine years ago. Like all other noted discoveries, it had to be tried first on laboratory animals, then synthesized, then refined or purified, then tested and retested on animals, then approved for the control test on humans in the last stages of tuberculosis, then tested again, and then readied to market.

Lederle, like other big research drug houses, has some good leads on cancer. So far there are no cures, but then cancer is really about 300 separate diseases with but one thing in common: an unknown force produces cells which are warped instead of being cubic. The bent ones produce more and more.

The Pearl River researchers found methotrevate, which is of limited use in certain types of cancer. It's a start. The researchers at Lederle are not discouraged, even though only one out of each 10,000 tests turns out to be worth a second glance. Around the corner is a dramatic cancer "lead," and the 800 technicians in the cubical laboratories are turning these corners every day, each one feeling that the next one will be the right turn.

* * *

TO UNDERSTAND medical research, it is necessary to comprehend that three factors are involved: host, bug, drug. Man is the host to the bug, the drug kills the bug and permits man to live. There is a six-way interaction involved, because each of the three affects the other two.

The drugs themselves fall into three broad categories: antibacterial, anti-viral and anti-fungi. The first destroys germs; the seconds attacks virus too small to be seen, the third destroys plant structures called fungus. Practically all of the work done in drug company laboratories falls into these groupings.

Lederle alone has spent $10,000,000 on cancer research without coming up with an all-embarcing answer. The tests are so exacting that, when Lederle installed a microscopic weighing machine, it found that the building trembled a little, so shafts were sunk into granite below. Now the machine can weigh something two-one millionths of an ounce.

Television signals interfered with the electrical recording of nerve responses in neurotic monkeys, so copper sheathing had to be placed around a room before anyone could find out what frightened them, and, more important, why. And, even more important, how to make them well.

Most of the magic pills look alike. I wonder how they know what they're supposed to do when they are dropped down the hatch . . .

Robert S. Allen, Paul Scott: Inside Washington

Urges Example on Foreign Trips

WASHINGTON—President Johnson is being sharply told that curbing government spending, like charity, should begin at home.

Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, long-time militant economy advocate, bluntly challenged the sincerity of a presidential directive that government officials forgo "some previously planned travel . . . in view of the high cost of the conflict in Viet Nam."

ALLEN

As evidence, Gross caustically noted that the order, stentoriously announced by the White House last week, had not kept administration leaders from traveling abroad, nor the President's own daughter from arranging an extensive European tour.

"For some time," said Gross, "the newspapers have been carrying reports that Lynda Bird Johnson will vacation abroad this summer. According to these accounts, she is so eager to rush off that she won't wait for her graduation exercises and her diploma will be mailed to her."

SCOTT

IN DIRECT contrast, Gross charged, there are numerous indications the administration is preparing to urge Americans not to make foreign trips.

"In deep trouble because of another threatened huge deficit in the balance of payments," the outspoken legislator said, "President Johnson and Commerce Secretary Connor apparently are laying the groundwork for a campaign to pressure Americans from traveling abroad, and thus plug one of the holes in the outflow of dollars to other countries.

* * *

"THIS HAS BEEN an interesting exercise in futility in the past because members of Johnson's official family have been among the worst offenders in traveling abroad. Several months ago, Defense Secretary McNamara went on a vacation-skiing trip to Switzerland. Treasury Secretary Fowler and Gardner Ackley, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, are going to a bankers' conference in Madrid.

"And the President's brother-in-law, Anthony Taylor, and his wife toured the Middle East at government expense—reputedly as some kind of consultant.

"With a squeeze play about to be used on the average American who wants to go abroad, it will be interesting to note whether officials of the Johnson administration and the President's family continue to spend American dollars abroad, and whether there will be more repetitions of the President's hocus-pocus of don't do as we do, but do as we say."

Rep. Gross has received hundreds of letters, postal cards and telegrams lauding his recent denunciation of "Great Society highjinks" and "exhibitionist dancing" at the Smithsonian Institution and the White House until 3 o'clock in the morning by the "mink coat set."

"My 19-year-old son, a volunteer Marine, is in Viet Nam," wrote a Pennsylvanian. "When I read about that shameful spectacle, it made by heart ache."

FOREIGN AID BOONDOGGLES — The Agency for International Development (foreign aid administration) is spending many thousands of dollars for so-called consultants —on projects that have all the earmarks of being boondoggles.

This is clearly indicated in a list obtained from AID by Representative H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, which is considering President Johnson's $3.38 billion foreign aid bill. AID produced the revealing information at the insistent demand of Gross, a militant economy advocate.

John Chamberlain: These Days

Palatable Reapportionment

Senator Ev Dirksen considers that he was double-crossed on his proposed constitutional amendment to reverse the Supreme Court decision requiring the states to elect both houses of their legislatures on a "one-man, one-vote" basis. Some of the last-minute pressure that deprived him recently of an expected seven-vote margin of victory in the Senate was undoubtedly exerted in deference to the left-wing Americans for Democratic Action. The ADA has all along assailed what it describes as the "rotten borough" implications of permitting small towns and agricultural regions to be "over-represented" in some state legislatures.

CHAMBERLAIN

It is of no little interest, then, that a confirmed supporter of ADA, Alfred M. Bingham of Connecticut, has chosen to differ with his brother liberals on the "one-man, one-vote" reapportionment of state legislatures that is now going on all over the country. Mr. Bingham is one of the many sons of the late Senator Hiram Bingham and a brother of Representative Jonathan Bingham of New York. In the Nineteen Thirties he edited Common Sense, a liberal magazine that was only slightly less influential in New Deal circles than The New Republic. After a post-World War II stint in occupied Germany he turned his back on the big city to practice law in Norwich, in eastern Connecticut, and he was elected to his state Senate for a term. Though still a good card-carrying liberal, he now emerges as a champion of the right of the small towns to unit representation in at least one house of a state legislature. Thus at least one ADA-er touches hands with Ev Dirksen.

* * *

TO MR. BINGHAM, local unit representation has both its good and bad features. Mr. Bingham admits that it was a little strange that, before the Supreme Court spoke, a small Connecticut town of 400 could have the same representation in the lower legislative chamber as a big city of 160,000. But he observes that, even with pronounced malapportionment, to coin a word, Connecticut had a less corrupt state government than neighboring Massachusetts, which has had "one-man, one-vote" representation for years. In Mr. Bingham's opinion "one-man, one-vote" can become rather meaningless when a corrupt urban machine imposes its will on "faceless numbers" in a metropolitan wilderness.

Mr. Bingham, out of his own state legislative experience, argues that the vitality of American democracy springs from responsible local self-government. The French theorist de Toqueville, he says, learned this in pre-industrial New England, where the town meeting insured participative democracy. The habit of democracy is best learned in small groups. As groups increase in size, says Mr. Bingham, only the federal principle —representation of the smaller unit in the larger—can assure democratic participation all the way to the top.

* * *

TO ANSWER the Supreme Court's claim that "unit representation" is an invasion of the individual's right to equal influence in a governing body, Mr. Bingham proposes to combine the old system of geographical representation with a system of "weighted voting." Under a Bingham type compromise every town would still send its representative to the lower house in a state legislature. But the small town representative's vote would count for proportionally less than the vote of a big city representative. "Fractional representation" would reconcile our old pluralistic federalism with the principle of "equal protection of the law."

When small towns lose representation as units in state legislatures, the power inevitably passes to the big cities and the suburbs. But the big city is seldom a good nursery of democratic feeling. Urban populations are rootless and often jobless; they depend more and more on Washington money. The suburbs, on the other hand, are better able to take care of themselves. The new alignments being forced by the Supreme Court will actually favor the suburbs, where the wealth is piling up. So "one-man, one-vote" will not save the city, which might actually do better if it could make deals with equally poor country representatives in an oldfashioned "unit" legislature.

Arthritis Forum Praised

2 Carty Ave.
Fort Monmouth, N. J.

To the Editor:

Our sincere thanks to the Daily Register and the New Jersey Chapter of the "Arthritis Foundation" for presenting the public forum on "Arthritis Today."

We have an eight-year-old child that has been recently hospitalized for six weeks with rheumatoid arthritis. Listening to all the doctors gave us more hope and much encouragement for the future. Their advance and suggestions will be of great help in the days ahead. They also confirmed the same things our doctors have told us.

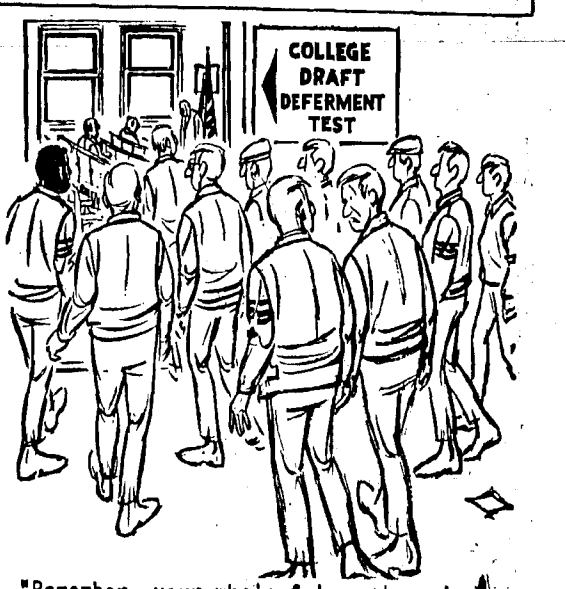

We appreciated the talk by Mr. Walsh about "quackery." Who knows what we may have fallen for when and if our son has another severe attack.

The Daily Register did a great public service to all the people who are interested in arthritis.

Many thanks.

Yours, truly,
Mrs. William Brennan

Charge Man Threatened A Baker

KEANSBURG — A Middletown man was charged early yesterday as a disorderly person for allegedly threatening a co-owner of Dixie Lee Bakery, Main St.

Police Chief Robert J. Kronenberger said that the baker, Joseph Slovenz, 13 Millbrook Dr., Middletown, was threatened in the bakery parking lot at 12:33 a.m.

Mr. Slovenz charged that Joseph F. Santora, 27, of Portland Rd., Middletown, pointed a high-powered rifle at him during a dispute.

When the alleged assailant left, Mr. Slovenz signed a complaint and the suspect was arrested at his home at 2:04 a.m. by Sgt. William Kryscnski, Special Officer Wilbur Pester and Middletown Patrolman John Mulvey.

Mr. Santora was released in his own recognizance for a Municipal Court hearing Monday, June 6.

COSENTINO GRADUATES

GROTON, Conn. — Fireman Engineman William L. Cosentino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis M. Cosentino of nine West St., Monmouth Beach, N.J. has graduated from the Engineman School at the Coast Guard Training Center in Groton, Conn.

Candidate Hits Council For Building Neglect

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS — Coert Engelsman, Independent council candidate, yesterday charged past and present administrations with neglect of the former gas company building on First Ave.

In a statement, Mr. Engelsman said that after inspecting the building with Frank Vanore, borough administrator, he feels "as a candidate it is my duty and in the best interests of the Atlantic Highlands taxpayer to publicly direct the following charges to previous and present councils of our borough."

"I charge present and past administrations with dereliction of duty, wherein they have, and still are, allowing municipal property to deteriorate due to improper maintenance and care . . .

Cite 'Massive Damage'

"The roof is leaking heavily, causing massive damage to the floor and plaster. Window glass in the structure is broken and has not been replaced, allowing the elements to take their effects on the interior of the building."

Mr. Engelsman went on to say that "vandals have been allowed to make numerous entries through frail plywood set up over broken doors and windows. It looks as though the past and present administrations have been, and still are, attempting to create enough blight to qualify for an urban renewal grant for the borough . . .

"It is my opinion that it is possible to renovate this building so that it may be utilized for borough offices downstairs and a public library upstairs for at least 15 years. This use would allow the necessary time for our borough to pay off expenditures recently incurred by council and also offer borough officials a curtailment of certain expenses while they try to solve our most urgent sewer plant problem."

FAILED TO SIGNAL

MIDDLETOWN — Mrs. Jean M. Dougherty, 47, of 286 Park Ave., Belford, received a summons for failure to signal a turn after an accident here at Park and Greene Aves. Sunday.

The Register reported on Tuesday that Mrs. Dougherty was ticketed for making an improper turn.

William J. Krackonberger, 18, of Keasby, was ticketed for careless driving after the accident.

Patrolman Robert J. McNair investigated.

Ask Keuper To Dismiss Death Case

FAIR HAVEN — A recommendation for dismissal will be make by Magistrate John V. Crowell in favor of James J. Peluso, 20, of Third St., Rumson, charged with causing death by auto. He was arraigned in municipal court yesterdsay.

Magistrate Crowell reserved decision pending consultation with County Prosecutor Vincent P. Keuper. Mr. Peluso was the driver of a pickup truck that struck and fatally injured Miss Mary Mahon, 80, of 427 River Rd., on May 8.

Patrolman Raymond McCue testified that the accident occurred in the evening, during a thunderstorm. The woman was wearing dark clothing, he said. Mr. Peluso was represented by William Himmelman, Red Bank.

Fines of $20 and $25 were imposed on Lawrence M. McFeely, 524 Branch Ave., Little Silver, and Craig R. Harvey, 124 Fair Haven Rd., respectively, on charges of careless driving.

Bonnie Parker, 37 Jackson St., paid $30 on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

Mrs. Robert Lehman, 66 Lewis La., paid $6 on a second count of allowing her dog to run at large.

Mrs. Mary E. Burwell, 18 Norwood Ave., Rumson, was fined $8 for improper parking.

Board Awards Painting Pact

LITTLE SILVER — At a special meeting last night, the Board of Education awarded a $2,185 contract for interior painting to Pickwick, Inc., Marlboro. Only other bidder was Paul Sommers and Son, Oceanport, at $2,600.

Board member Robert Lehman voted negatively. He said an alternate in the bid, for the painting of two extra classrooms and the library at a cost of $705, was unneccesary.

School Survey Taking Longer

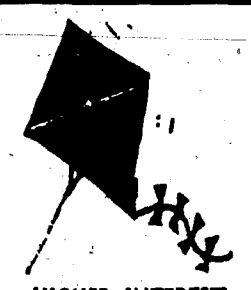

LITTLE SILVER — The elementary school building survey to be made by Dr. W. Donald Walling of Rutgers University will be finished Sept. 15 instead of Aug. 15 as originally proposed.

The Board of Education has received unsigned contracts with the new dates. Dr. Walling told the board the extension will allow him to use September enrollment figures and extend the forecast period for an additional year.

The board is expected to ratify the contract at its next regular meeting.

This is the sign of flameless electric cooking: the Reddy Kilowatt symbol. The owner of a restaurant or diner displaying it has invested in electric cooking because he feels it's the best way to prepare food. We, along with all the housewives who wouldn't part with their electric ranges, agree with him.

Rapid Growth Seen For Youth Groups

The youth organizations of the churches of Monmouth County are growing as rapidly as the churches themselves, and in addition to offering recreational facilities to the young people of the area—are accomplishing a good deal.

In the First Baptist Church, Red Bank, the Youth Fellowship is completing an active year. The activities have been for service and growth as well as fun.

The major project for the year has been to raise money to construct a dormitory at the Baptist High School in Vanga, Congo. This has been done through paper drives, a Christmas play, and donations from the young people themselves.

Last year the organization sponsored a 12-year-old boy, sending him to school in Hong Kong.

Eighteen health, sewing and school kits were prepared for missionaries in Viet Nam by the group. Christmas caroling, singing in the two church choirs, and even cleaning the church kitchen have been recent activities.

On the recreational side, picnics, swim parties, banquets, hayrides and athletic events have been on the agenda of this busy group.

The BYF holds its meetings Sunday nights, and topics have included juvenile delinquency, communism versus Christianity, and school morality. This summer for the first time their program will continue with several activities planned for each week.

At the Episcopal Church of the Holy Communion in Fair Haven, the Junior Altar Guild, under the direction of Miss Claudia Spray, is responsible for setting up the church school altar every Sunday, arranging the flowers, and polishing the silver and brass ware, as well as the acolyte silver crosses.

The Episcopal Young Churchmen, the high school youth group, meets Sunday evenings, and has studied and discussed comparative religions, having as guests clergy from other churches to lecture and lead discussions about their own denominations.

In line with this, the group has visited during the year Trinity Episcopal Cathedral in Trenton, St. John the Divine in New York City, and attended college workshops on the Rutgers campus in New Brunswick.

The Junior High Westminster Fellowship of the Rumson Presbyterian Church has been involved in two major projects this year. The first one involved the collection of toys which were repaired and painted and then donated to local representatives of the MCOSS for distribution to needy children in Fair Haven, Rumson and Sea Bright. A large quantity of dolls, mechanical toys, books and other play things were collected.

The second project in which they are involved is the preparation of scenes illustrating the activities of the disciples in the days immediately following Easter up to the day of Pentecost. Each scene will be accompanied by a narration which will be presented to the lower grades of the church school.

Recreational activities have included parties, bowling and movies. At their regular meetings, the fellowship has held discussions on many church related topics.

The Catholic Youth Organization at St. Joseph's Church in Keyport maintains an active educational and recreational program with the assistance of the adult social director, Mrs. Mary D'Alola.

Two years ago, a weekly teenage record hop was instituted which today attracts youngsters within a 50-mile radius. In addition, an annual teen band contest is held.

To answer the spiritual and moral needs of youngsters, the CYO conducts a religion education program every Wednesday night. There are more than 800 students enrolled in the program, which features guest speakers discussing problems confronting today's youth. Attendance is required in order to maintain CYO membership and youngsters who attend a total of 120 hours receive a diploma of achievement.

Parties, tips, hayrides and athletic events are also on the group's agenda. Two special events being planned this summer include a luau and July 4 celebration with the CYO presenting its own fireworks display.

Two youth groups at Congregation Bnai Sholom, Long Branch, were organized this year. The United Synagogue Youth is comprised of high school youngsters while the Pre-USY group is open to youth between the ages of 11 and 13.

According to youth chairman, Mrs. Dorothy Sachs, the USY meets for study sessions each Sunday with Rabbi Albert L. Raab. In addition, the group has held discussion groups and enjoyed group folk dancing and singing programs. Representatives from the local group also attended the national USY parley in Washington.

A program under discussion now would enable blind children to "hear" Sunday comics through tape recordings made by the USY.

The Pre-USY group has participated in meetings in area synagogues and held a cookie sale to benefit the new synagoguge building fund. The group has also conducted several Friday night services in the synagogue.

YOUR GARDEN THIS WEEK

By Garden Reporter
College of Agriculture
Rutgers—The State University, New Brunswick

So you're thinking of adding a black walnut tree to your landscape plan?

Shade for a summer's day, a sturdy limb to support the kids' swing, cookies and candies crammed with black walnut meats, and all that.

But don't be surprised if your tree turns out to be a bad neighbor. Evil lurks in its roots.

Farmers have known for years that they can't grow tomatoes, peppers, potatoes and eggplants near a black walnut tree.

Nurserymen and many surprised home owners have discovered that the plants known as ericads — members of the ericaceous family — wilt and die if they are near a black walnut.

These are the azaleas, rhododendrons, laurels, andaomedrs and blueberries.

Dr. Spencer H. Davis, Jr., extension plant disease specialist at Rutgers, explains that the roots of a walnut tree put out a chemical called "juglons."

Even after a black walnut tree is cut down, the chemical can remain in the soil several years.

So here's another agonizing choice. Enjoy the benefits of a black walnut tree and forego some other garden pleasures? Or choose a more neighborly tree?

MC Students Out, MP 'Students' In

LONG BRANCH — This is graduation week at Monmouth Executive House, the 64-unit apartment on Ocean Blvd. that serves as a dormitory for Monmouth College students.

As the students move out, a new type of student from another Monmouth will be moving in.

These are the students of the form of race horses at Monmouth Race Track, which opens its season next Friday. Monmouth Executive House caters to jockeys, trainers and employees of the race track and to the followers of racing when the students are not there in the summer.

Special rates and special services are available to the race track followers, who, in the opinion of Philip Comora, manager of Executive House, represent a special breed. "These people travel all over the country as the racing moves from track to track," Comora said, "and they need more services than our college students or our other summer guests. They like to travel light, of course, and for that reason, we make all bed linens, blankets and pillows as well as dishes and silverware available to the race track followers."

There is also daily maid service, a luxury many college students longs for but cannot get. Weekly maid service is available to the college students and also to the regular summer visitors, who start moving in the last week in June.

Monmouth Executive House is being operated this season for the first time by Eastern States Small Business Investment Corporation of Hackensack. The apartment was built with equity financing supplied by Eastern States and the company took over when the builder could not devote enough time to the project.

Ring, Score Your Apple Tree Trunk

FREEHOLD — Young apple trees often fail to develop blossoms when they are growing vigorously. An apple tree that is three or four years old and growing fast, at about three feet a year, will produce very few, if any, blossoms.

The best way to encourage blossoming is to reduce the amount of growth, suggests Ernest G. Christ, extension fruit specialist at the Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science. You can do this by withholding fertilizer. However, this may take more than a year to show its effect.

You can get a quick response by cutting through the bark on the trunk of the tree in a spiral manner. Another method is to make two circular cuts about two inches apart.

Do not remove any of the bark. Just cut through the bark to the wood.

This "scoring" should be done about two weeks after full bloom, County Agent Marvin A. Clark advises.

Just observe other trees in the area to see when they are in full bloom.

Usually apple trees bloom here in early to middle May.

The scoring done this year will encourage blossoms for next year. It will have no effect this year, of course.

This procedure results in the accumulation of manufactured foods in the top of the tree and this results in fruit bud formation.

It retards the trans-location of these foods to the roots.

This same procedure works also on dogwood and wisteria. It is effective only on plants that are growing vigorously and not producing flowers.

SPRUCING UP — Long Branch Postmaster Rocco N. Bonforte and Mrs. Edward M. Pearsall, president of the Garden Club of Long Branch, admire the newly-planted shrubs on post office lawn. The landscaping for the national outdoor beautification program was completed Sunday.

Enter Post Office In Beauty Contest

LONG BRANCH — The Long Branch post office is entering a beauty contest. The 50-year old building has been landscaped and will wear freshly-painted trimmings in honor of the postmaster general's national outdoor beautification project.

Lady Bird Johnson, whose natural beauty program prompted this, will award citations of merit to the winning postmasters.

Postmaster Rocco N. Bonforte enlisted the aid of Mrs. Edward M. Pearsall, president of the Garden Club of Long Branch, to landscape the front lawn with evergreens and azaleas.

"She has the green thumb," the postmaster said of Mrs. Pearsall while they were inspecting the results. Mrs. Pearsall, who started the project in April planted the last evergreens Sunday.

Mr. Bonforte said that bids have been awarded for the installation of new glass aluminum doors for the front and side entrances plus the painting of all the trim on the concrete building.

"The work should have been finished by now, but the weather held us up," he said. The project is financed by funds under the President's outdoor beauty program, he added.

You Can Control Rhododendron Leaf Diseases

FREEHOLD — Rhododendrons are among the most prized plants for the home grounds. Unfortunately they suffer from many diseases and problems.

To help gardeners overcome some of the problems, Dr. Spencer H. Davis, Jr., specialist in plant pathology at Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science, suggests taking a close look at the rhododendron leaves to get an idea of what may be wrong and what can be done.

Brown tips, brittle and dead edges of rhododendron leaves indicate summer or winter scorching, he says. Sometimes there may be two long, narrow, brown areas on either side of a green mid-rib with the edges and leaf tip still green.

Such scorching occurred when leaves were rolled up tight in cold weather. No spraying with fungicides will cure this condition.

Gray or brown spots or blotches on leaves indicate that the plant is infested with fungi or molds.

You can control this condition by spraying three times. Apply the first spray just as the leaves start to grow. Repeat twice at about 10-day intervals.

Use one of the ferbam materials at the rate of two tablespoons to a gallon of water, adding just enough spreader-sticker, or detergent to make the liquid slightly sudsy.

Cover the underside of leaves and not the upper surface only.

For more information ask your county extension service, 20 Court St., for a free Rutgers bulletin called "Diseases and Insect Pests of Rhododendron and Azaleas."

Timbuktu, the fabled Sahara city more jealously guarded against Europeans, still sharpens its daggers for infidels, but only to sell as souvenirs. The most romantic town in the African republic of Mali, Timbuktu has dwindled into a minor trading center, but spruced-up hotel facilities refresh visitors delighting in its mud houses, minarets and camel caravans.

OLD TENNENT CHURCH

The Congregation of Old Tennent Church was organized about 1692, mostly by Scottish people.

The first building was probably of logs and stood in the Old Scots burying ground about five miles north of the present church. The second building was erected in 1751 and remains about the same as when it was built except for the addition of the vestibule and the organ. The pulpit is believed to be the oldest Presbyterian pulpit in America. The Rev. William Tennent's tombstone on the wall beside the pulpit states that he was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Freehold, which was for many years the Corporate name of this church. Rev. Mr. Tennent is buried under the middle aisle in front of the door that leads into the square.

The old Communion table stands in the long aisle. The table is older than the present building. In early times the slaves sat in the gallery on the right side as you enter. Here are also some cannon balls, relics of the Battle of Monmouth.

The Church is not a museum but has always been used and maintained by an active congregation. The present membership is 360 with a Sunday School of 150. Services are held every Sunday at eleven o'clock and visitors are welcome.

A $5.00 fee will be charged for a guided tour; however, the church may be viewed at any time through the front door. The entrance is restricted by a meshed gate.

For guided tours, contact Mrs. Andrew Van Siclen, Main St., Tennent, N. J. Telephone 446-6717.

SKEWERED AND BROILED with green pepper, onion and bacon, chicken livers are a tasty addition to an outdoor meal.

Gilding the Lily

Chicken Livers, Patio-Style

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

WHO'S READY to start rehearsing for outdoor cookery? One of the best ways to begin is to try some recipes for skewered foods in the broiler of your indoor range. After that, mark those recipes you particularly admire with a big star and use them later when you cook on the patio grill.

Here's a good recipe to start you off. It calls for popular and widely available chicken livers, broiled shish-kebab style. The halved chicken livers are alternated on big skewers with green pepper, onion and bacon — and just to gild the lily, there's a basting sauce concocted of lemon, butter and tarragon.

What to serve with these livers? Pilaff, made from cracked wheat or rice, is an excellent accompaniment. And so are a tossed green salad and a loaf of crusty garlic bread. When red-ripe tomatoes are abundant, you might like to serve these, too, to eat out of hand or sliced and marinated in an olive-oil and wine-vinegar dressing.

One direction in this recipe we'd like to emphasize. Don't jam the squares of bacon too close to the next ingredients on the skewers or the bacon won't crisp.

The onion, used according to the directions given here, will be crisp. If you like your onions softer — and some people do — parboil them before quartering and using.

PATIO-STYLE
CHICKEN LIVERS

1 pound chicken livers
4 small green peppers
8 white onions
8 slices bacon
4 fourteen-inch skewers
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup butter
1 teaspoon leaf tarragon
Salt
Freshly ground pepper

Rinse and thoroughly dry the chicken livers on paper toweling. Cut the livers in half, removing center membrane.

Cut green peppers in half; remove stem end and seeds; cut each half in four quarters.

Remove ends from onions and peel. Cut into lengthwise quarters.

Cut each bacon slice into fourths making "squares."

On each skewer, thread the food — close together but without jamming — in this order: Onion quarter, bacon square, liver half, green pepper square. Repeat, using the remaining ingredients in the same order.

Heat together the lemon juice, butter and tarragon.

Place skewers on broiler rack 3 to 6 inches from the heat in a gas broiler, 8 to 9 inches from the heat in an electric broiler. Broil 7 to 10 minutes on each side, basting with lemon-butter mixture. To serve, sprinkle with salt and freshly ground pepper; spoon over remaining lemon-butter mixture. Makes 4 servings.

Note: The broiling direction is a general one — adjust it to suit your own range and tastes. We like to broil these skewered chicken livers close to high heat just long enough to have them cooked through and the vegetables both slightly softened and definitely charred.

Hard-Working Wives Earn 'PTH' Degrees

NEWARK — Five Monmouth County women will be among 124 wives of students at Newark College of Engineering to be honored at a "ladies day" program Sunday afternoon.

Highlight of the 16th annual event is the awarding of honorary "Ph.T" degrees to the ladies as a reward for their work in "putting hubby through" the college.

Each of the wives will receive a bouquet of flowers and a parchment diploma acknowledging her contribution as a textbook widow.

Among those to be cited are Mrs. Addie Loew of 3 Chestnut Dr., Matawan; Mrs. Eileen A. Cameron of 26 Daniel Dr. and Mrs. Arlene Feller of 70 Hialeah Ave., both of Middletown; Mrs. Penelope G. Husson of Riverside Ave., Red Bank, and Mrs. Joan M. Thorpe of 104 Washington St., Rumson.

Highland Park Ousts Bulldogs

Highland Park and pitcher Rich Nicholas outsted Rumson-Fair Haven Regional from the NJSIAA state baseball tournament for the second straight year yesterday, registering a narrow 2-1 win at Peddie School's diamond.

In the only other action, Mater Dei rallied to down Henry Hudson, 4-3.

Three games weren't played. Middletown Township's game at Long Branch will be played either tomorrow or next Tuesday, Freehold Regional's home game against Brick Township in a NJSIAA Central Jersey Group 3 tussle is slated for next Wednesday and CBA's game at St. Rose was canceled.

Highland Park scored twice in the bottom half of the sixth inning to overcome a 1-0 Rumson-FH lead and gain the NJSIAA Central Jersey Group 2 sectional game against Shore Regional, which advanced to the final by downing Southern Regional of Manahawkin, 11-5. Only four teams were entered in the division. Highland Park also ousted Rumson-FH last year with Nicholas on the mound, posting a 4-1 win.

A throwing error by Ashley Bell, Rumson-FH pitcher, who allowed only four hits, helped Highland Park to its two sixth-inning runs. Tom Fertig opened the inning with a single and Nate Stephenson then put down a sacrifice bunt. Bell went to second on the play and Fertig was safe on a wide throw. A passed ball then allowed Fertig to come all the way around to score and Stephenson raced to third. Jim Caiantoni then drove him home with the winner with his second straight single.

Rumson-FH's single run in the fifth came when Tim Ryan was safe on an error, went to second on Jeff Miller's single and scored on a wild pitch. There were no outs at the time. Nicholas got out of the inning by throwing out Miller at the plate on Al Brighton's slow grounder to the mound and striking out Bob Friscia and Doug Hamill.

Mater Dei, which scored once in the first, tallied three times in the fifth to edge Henry Hudson, scorer of one in the first and a pair in the second frame. Freshman Bill Collins, who relieved Joe Gentile and went the final 5 2-3 innings on the mound to post the victory, opened the Seraphs' big fifth, reaching first on an error. Mike Russo's single and a fielder's choice on George Warrack's grounder then loaded the bases before Joe Discavage's single drove home two runs, Warrack ending up on third on the play. Bob Philpott's sacrifice fly to center followed and brought home Warrack with the winning run.

Henry Hudson scored in the first on Curt Anspach's single that drove home Bob Maiers, who who also had singled and moved around on an infield out. Mater Dei tied it up in the bottom half of the frame on a walk to Jim Harkins after three bases on balls loaded the sacks.

Henry Hudson took a 2-1 lead in the second when Rick Mahler singled, Jim Bailey reached base on an error and Larry Murray walked to load the bases. A fielder's choice scored the first run before Gil Ventimiglia's sacrifice fly brought in the second.

Gabriel Signs With AFL?

OAKLAND, Calif (AP) — The Oakland Raiders of the American Football League said last night they had signed Roman Gabriel, a quarterback for the Los Angeles Rams of the rival National Football League, to a 1967 contract.

The announcement further escalated the war between the two leagues, coming just days after reports that AFL teams were trying to raid NFL clubs in retaliation for the signing of Pete Gogolak by the NFL's New York Giants.

General manager Scotty Stirling of the Raiders said Gabriel signed a three-year contract with an additional one-year option Monday in Oakland, agreeing to play for the AFL team starting in 1967. Other terms were not announced.

If the Raiders get Gabriel, he will be the first NFL star to be lured away by the younger league in the current battle.

The Raiders' announcement followed by hours the Rams' announcement that Gabriel had signed with them for 1966.

Hull Named MVP

MONTREAL — Bobby Hull, Chicago's Golden Jet who smashed Rocket Richard's one-season goal scoring record, was named winner yesterday of the Hart Memorial Trophy as the National Hockey League's Most Valuable Player for the second straight year.

Hull collected 145 points in the voting by hockey writers, and broadcasters in the league's six cities. Jean Beliveau of the Montreal Canadians was second with 59 points, followed by Gordie Howe, Detroit's veteran right winger, with 24 points.

Hull, who scored 54 goals and a record-breaking 97 points last season, is the first player to win two straight Hart trophies since Howe did it in 1956-57 and 1957-58.

Pott Leads on 64

OKLAHOMA CITY — Johnny Pott, a tour veteran from Gulf Hills, Miss., seared the Quail Creek golf and country club course with a record-tying eight-under-par 64 for a four-stroke lead yesterday in the $57,000 Oklahoma City Open Golf Tournament.

In second place with 68s were amateur Craig Metz, Bruce Devlin and Tom Weiskopf.

Carding 69 were Tony Lema; Texas Open winner Harold Henning; Johnny Allen and Lou Graham.

CBA Trackmen Whip Seraphs for 6th, 81-45

LINCROFT — Unbeaten Christian Brothers Academy won all but three events in polishing off Mater Dei, 81-45, for its sixth victory in track and field yesterday.

Canfield cleared an excellent 12 feet, 6 inches to win the pole vault, edging Steve Dudick of Mater Dei and CBA's Gene Field, who both cleared 12 feet. Dudick took second on fewer misses.

Mann-Schaeffer Duel Continues

OLD BRIDGE — Johnny Mann, Ronkonkoma, N.Y., midget car campaigner, will be afforded a third "chance" of the season tonight to upset the hottest driver in the Eastern states midget car ranks when defending ARDC driving champion, Dutch Schaeffer of Floral Park, N.Y., and Mann renew their macadam rivalry in the 8:15 p.m. motor action at Old Bridge Speedway.

For two consecutive races at the Madison Township half-mile raceway, Mann has chased the winning "Dutchman" across the finish line in the 25-lap feature events. To date, Schaeffer has copped four main events at various sites.

Neptune Golfers Titlists

Neptune wrapped up the Shore Conference Golf League championship yesterday, edging Middletown Township, 3-2, for its 10th league win in as many outings.

Coach Walt Mischler's Fliers, 17-2 over-all, won the match on total strokes by a seven-shot margin, 157-164. Number one and three players Russ Walling and Dick Davis picked up individual points for the champs with 38s.

No. 2 man Paul Wagner, who led all players with a 37, tallied one Middletown point and fourth man Steve Parsell won the other with a 42.

Middletown also met Central Regional and posted a 3-1 record to a 10-1 league record. Neptune still has to meet Lakewood, but even if the Fliers lost and finished with the same record at Middletown, they'd win the title for winning the match against Middletown.

In yesterday's other action, Christian Brothers Academy whipped Shore Regional, 8-0, and Long Branch downed Rumson-Fair Haven, 3-1.

Nine-Tilt Opening Slate For Jersey Shore League

RED BANK — Seven teams, including defending champion Red Bank Tire and a newcomer, Red Bank's Reds, open the 1966 Jersey Baseball League season with a nine-game schedule over the long weekend.

Games are slated for Saturday at 5 p.m., Sunday doubleheaders at 1 p.m. and Friday nights under the lights at Fort Monmouth at 8 o'clock. Manasquan and Red Bank Tire open the night season at Fort Monmouth next Friday.

Games listed tomorrow include Middletown A.C. at Belmar, Holy Family (Union Beach) at Manasquan A.C. and Howell Youth Organization at Red Bank Reds.

Sunday, Middletown hosts the Red Bank Reds, Howell plays at Union Beach and Red Bank Tire is the home team against Belmar. Memorial Day contests include Middletown at Union Beach, Red Bank Tire at Manasquan and Belmar at Red Bank Reds.

Although two players, veteran shortstop George Gill and utility infielder John Gruca, have hung up their spikes and Rider College star Dave McKelvey may be lost in the major league draft, perennial champion Red Bank Tire again expects to field a strong contender under manager George Spillane, who guided the team to the league title for the past five seasons.

Lou DeGeorge, former Providence College captain, at second base, and heavy hitting first baseman John Bland are Red Bank's only returning infielders with the retirement of Gill and Gruca, but Spillane has another heavy hitter, Greg Hansen, Wagner College's Larry Miraldi and Rumson-Fair Haven Regional High ace Fred Sanborn to fill the infield gaps.

Terry Crowley, Long Island University star, and Al Fantuzzi, who put in six seasons in the Los Angeles Dodgers' minor league organization, will add punch to the outfield corps along with two veterans, Ed Henderson, former Monmouth College star, and Ed Flynn, ex-Matawan Regional High slugger.

Catching is a strong point with veterans Bruce Phillips and Howie Ruppert sharing the duties.

Last year's outstanding pitching staff of Don Rooney, Ron Truex, Ralph Mango and Steve Cutillo, current Neptune High star, returns intact and will be boosted by the addition of Joe Elliott and Mike Miner, former Lakewood High School southpaw.

Alaska, largest state in the United States, has the smallest capital. Population of Juneau is 7,200.

Tourney Tilts Slated Monday

WEST LONG BRANCH—The first round of the third annual Monmouth College Invitational High School Baseball Tournament will be completed Monday with a doubleheader on the sponsoring school's diamond.

In the first game, starting at 11 a.m., sixth-seeded Rumson-Fair Haven Regional (10-4-1) meets third-seeded Southern Freehold Regional (13-3). In the second game, scheduled to start at 2 p.m., defending champion Shore Regional (17-3), which is second-seeded this year, will face fifth-seeded Freehold Regional (11-3).

Temperature rather than light influences many physiological processes in plants. For instance, corn will grow at night if the weather is warm enough to enlarge and elongate cells.

Giants Win in 14th; Indians Lead by 4½

Associated Press

Unbeaten Juan Marichal of San Francisco pitched a 14-inning shutout for his ninth victory, headlining yesterday's major league baseball program.

Marichal yielded only six hits and reduced his earned run average to 0.59 as the Giants beat Philadelphia 1-0 on a pinch-hit sacrifice fly by Bob Barton.

The Giant victory and Houston's 3-2 loss to Pittsburgh increased San Francisco's National League lead to 3½ games.

St. Louis rallied for three runs in the ninth and edged the Chicago Cubs, 3-2.

Indians Climb

Cleveland boosted its American League lead to 4½ games by defeating Detroit 8-4. Boston whipped Minnesota 7-2 and Baltimore trounced the Chicago White Sox 7-1 in other AL games.

Manny Mota's home run in the third and Pete Mikkelsen's tight relief pitching carried the Pirates to victory over the Astros. Mikkelsen saved the triumph for starting pitcher Steve Blass.

Tim McCarver's bases-loaded single climaxed the Cards' last-ditch rally. Dick Ellsworth had held the Cards to six hits and had a 2-0 lead provided by Byron Browne's two-run homer in the fifth. Bob Gibson was the winning pitcher.

5-Run Rally

The Indians broke a 3-3 tie with a five-run rally in the ninth, highlighted by Chuck Hinton's two-run single. Jim Northrup slammed a two-run homer for the Tigers.

Rico Petrocelli homered and Earl Wilson pitched his fifth victory for Boston. Wilson allowed only one runner to reach third until the ninth, when Jimmie Hall homered for the Twins.

Expect 275,000 at '500'

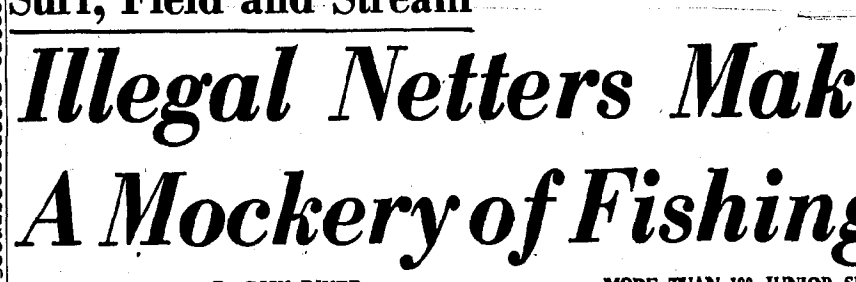

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — The Indianapolis Motor Speedway said yesterday it expects more than 275,000 at Monday's running of the Memorial Day classic.

That's as close as it has ever come to disclosing the attendance at the 500-mile race except to the Internal Revenue Service.

The speedway also forecast a possible record total of television viewers and radio listeners for a sports event. Not even the IRS will have an accurate count on that.

An oddity of the television coverage is that the race will be seen on home sets in Communist Yugoslavia, West Germany, Italy, Spain and France but only on closed circuit shows in the United States and Canada.

Some North Africans are so used to drinking brackish water that they take salt with them on their travels to mix with coffee.

Illegal Netters Making A Mockery of Fishing Laws

By DICK RIKER

THE PORGY PIRATES ARE AT IT AGAIN and rowboaters working Sandy Hook Bay for those three pound porgies were threatened by the outlaws in the Horseshoe Cove area on Sunday. Complaints poured in Sunday evening and again on Monday. Rowboat fishermen were told by the fish-pirates to leave the area or be sunk. The hook and line anglers were having considerable success and the netters wanted to make a set around the school. Needless to say, the rowboaters left but not before seeing the netters take three loads of porgies. It is a sad state of affairs when a few brazen illegal netters can successfully make the State Department of Conservation appear ridiculous. Tough law enforcement, not lip service, is the only answer. Constant patrols, around the clock and seven days a week, are an absolute necessity. If three, four or even half a dozen patrol boats are necessary to do the job, get them! A handful of willful men are making a mockery of our fisheries laws and it won't take long for many of the less brazen to follow suit all along our entire coastline.

WILLIAM DRASTAL, FAIR HAVEN ANGLER, boated a 47½ pound striped bass last Sunday to get the trolling season off to a fast start. Mr. and Mrs. Drastal and son, Matthew, were fishing tube lures from Capt. Otto Reut's "First Timer" off Sandy Hook. The Drastals landed three other bass on the same charter. Other sport-trollers brought in plenty of stripers on Sunday and Monday with bluefish and mackerel responding as well. June is customarily the start of the season on the "Rip", but the schools of bass moving up the beach Sunday triggered the start of a new season. From the wash to two miles off-shore, the area between Highlands Bridge and Long Branch was loaded with baitfish. Rainfish were being pursued by herring and mackerel. Tiny blackfish and baby blowfish were being chased by stripers. Fluke worked into the wash but not in large numbers and nobody was drifting for them. It was a fine week to be afloat and out fishing.

THE MOSQUITO FLEET WAS HAVING THEIR SPRING PICNIC and while Ward Coles, Edgar West and Bill Schoepflin were fixing up a tremendous clam-bake and hamburger cook-out, the rest of the club members and their guests fished the Shrewsbury. I was fortunate to be a guest at the affair and aside from the excellent meal and the very knowledgeable fishing conversation, I was lucky enough to fish for a couple of hours with Dave Morris of Monmouth Beach. Dave is a great bass angler. He studies the fish and knows the waters of the rivers as few do. We fished the flats of the river hard, we tried a great variety of lures and mixed up our retrieves trying to find the stripers. We were not successful that afternoon nor were any of the other anglers at the affair. What did result from that afternoon with Dave was affirmation of an old fishing adage. Ten percent of the fishermen catch 90 per cent of the fish. I am sure that this is true and it is not luck alone that determines who catches fish and who does not. Bass fishing is hard work! The repeatedly successful striper man works hard at this sport. He thinks hard! He is constantly trying different techniques, territories and lures. He watches the tide, wind direction and force, changes in the beach or off-shore bars. He is observant! Above all, he fishes constantly! He spends as much time fishing as is possible, regardless of commitments to any other interests including, on occasion, his family. He keeps in almost constant touch with his tackle shops, fishing partners, other striper buffs, and any other person that might provide some new information about the fishing. Successful striper fishing is a way of life, not a hobby. It requires stamina, concentraton, considerable hard work, plenty of free time, and only a small portion of good luck. The striper addict, and I call him that in all sincerity, is a highly organized, dedicated fishing machine with a brain. Willie Frezza, one of the best striper fishermen I know, says that a little kowledge about bass plus a lot of hard work and a lot of hours spent fishing will produce bass. He proves his statement with his catches. It was a pleasure to spend the afternoon with such a group of bass anglers.

MORE THAN 100 JUNIOR SPORTSMEN AND WOMEN decorated the edge of Takanassee Lake Saturday morning for the second Junior Trout Fishing Contest of the year. The Long Branch Sportsmens Club sponsored a second contest this year following a most successful contest on opening day. Five year old Jackie Mazzocia of Long Branch, won top honors when he landed a 14 oz. rainbow. Jim Degnan, Sea Bright, placed second with a rainbow trout only one quarter of an inch smaller than the top fish of the day. Larry Pruss, Long Branch, was third with an 11¼ incher. Other trophy winners included: Randy Harris, Mike Ceppaluni, Steven Acerra, Debbie Maresca, Lana Schecter and Charles Condone, all of Long Branch; Jim Wilkins and Jay Wolfson of Elberon; Barbara Jones of Oakhurst and Tom Giglio of West Long Branch. Youngest fisherman to win a trophy was two and one half year old Pat Maresca of Long Branch.

STRIPER FISHING FOR THE CARTOPPER exploded into action Sunday evening as both the bay and ocean waters swarmed with stripers. Edgar West of Long Branch, and Jack Summers, Rumson, tallied identical 15½ pound stripers in Sandy Hook Bay. Paul Siciliano, Butch Toth and Willie Frezza connected off shore with Paul's 11½ pounder as tops. Monday saw the action even hotter as schools of bass exploded across the surface. Fish ran from seven to 22 pounds and those fortunate enough to find fish swirling connected. Anthony Graziano, Jr., Long Branch, boated five fish. Dave Morris, Monmouth Beach, scored with five with the largest weighing 22 pounds. Swede Henderson, Bart D'Averso and Wayne Rich, all of Long Branch, boated fish up to 17 pounds. Howard Marsh, Joe Raimondi and John Schultz and Bucky West, Monmouth Beach anglers, all had two or more bass with Bucky's 18½ pound striper as tops. Wednesday saw Bob Hensler of Rumson register a 12 pounder while Larry Dillone and Dave Morris scored again. Blues and mackerel were mixed with the bass along the beach. Best producing lures were Hellcats, Rebels and Doodle-Bugs. Drifting worms took fish in the bay and rivers.

* * *

HERE'S WHERE THE ACTION IS

PARTYBOATERS will score heavily on whiting and ling at Ambrose, Scotland and the Farms. A few boats will search for mackerel and blues. Macks are on the move and may pull out eastward as the blues come in.

SURFCASTERS will have to bear with blowfish if using bait during the day. Sandworms and rigged eels paying off at night. Pluggers will take fish at dawn and dusk along the beach from the Hook to Monmouth Beach.

SMALLBOATERS will connect in river, bay and ocean. River and bay men will use floated worms and small plugs. Larger Rebels and Hellcats will take fish in the ocean.

TROLLERS will blitz bass while dragging tube lures and large minnow type plugs between the "Golf Ball" and Sea Bright.

TROUT ANGERS have a last chance in stocked waters as the Manasquan River received its last recharge on Monday.

On-the-Job Training Set At 2 Plants

TRENTON — Two federally-financed on-the-job training opportunities for unemployed residents of the Monmouth County area were announced today by Edward J. Hall, director of the State Division of Employment Security.

Electronic Associates, Inc., West Long Branch, will accept 60 persons for training as electronic assemblers, with steady employment available to those completing the four-week course.

The program will begin Monday, June 6. It will include one week of classroom instruction and three weeks of learning on the production line. Instructors will be provided for each group of 10 trainees.

Starting wages will be $1.45 an hour for a 40-hour week. This will be increased to $1.60 after three months. Skilled workers can earn up to $2.78 an hour.

The federal appropriation for instruction expenses, Hall said, totals $3,958.80.

The other on-the-job training opportunity is with the Van Winkle Marine Co., 115 Rt. 35, Eatontown. The firm will hire two men for training as apprentice motor boat mechanics.

The course will take 26 weeks and the men will be paid $1.50 an hour for the 40-hour week. Upon completion of their training, they can earn up to $3 an hour.

The federal appropriation for instruction costs is $1,303, and the trainees can go to work as soon as they are available.

Information about both training programs can be obtained at the Red Bank or Asbury Park offices of the State Employment Service.

PORTABLE CLASSROOMS

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP—Mrs. Howard Falick, president of the Strathmore Elementary School Parent-Teacher Organization, recently announced that she has sent letters to Earl B. Garrison, county school superintendent, and Dr. Frederick Raubinger, state commissioner of education, regarding the Regional Board of Education's decision not to purchase portable classrooms.

"This letter reflects the concern of the people in this school district. We need advice as to how this problem can be solved so that our children will benefit the most," Mrs. Falick commented.

Sees Monmouth's Savings Through Medicare Brief

By ELINOR MULTER

FREEHOLD — Medicare may result in an immediate though short-lived savings for Monmouth County by reducing the cost of providing medical services for welfare clients aged over 65, the county Welfare Board has been informed.

Mrs. Sybil Lefferts of Greenleigh Associates, New York, estimated a possible $180,000 savings a year by eliminating health insurance. Under a state-wide plan, the board now purchases Blue Cross hospital insurance for clients requiring hospitalization.

However, Mrs. Lefferts warned that in the long run, the cost of services may go up as Medicare prompts an increased demand for medical services after patients exhaust their benefits for a particular year.

Under the Medicare program, all costs are not fully covered. Patients are responsible for a fixed percentage of the cost or for an initial payment, for various services.

Mrs. Lefferts recommended that the board consider purchasing health insurance to "fill in the gaps in Medicare" at a total cost of approximately $65,000.

Whether or not they elect to obtain this insurance Mrs. Lefferts stressed the importance of keeping precise records in order to determine whether such insurance can pay for itself in savings.

The Greenleigh firm was employed by the board to determine the impact and implications of Medicare which becomes effective July 1. Mrs. Lefferts will submit a final written report in about six weeks.

A major section of the survey provides an inventory of medical care resources; It shows these significant questions:

1. Will there be a sufficient number of beds in approved post-hospital facilities to accomodate county patients?

Medicare provides benefits for patients who leave the hospital and go into an "extended care facility" for further treatment. Such a facility will provide care somewhat less intensive than the hospital. Benefits will go only to patients in approved facilities and it is not clear how many nursing homes will make the necessary changes to gain approval. The homes are waiting to learn what amount the federal government will pay for this care.

"It is in the county's interest to have as many qualified beds as possible" said Robert C. Wells, director of welfare. Clients aged over 65 who receive care in an approved facility will be eligible for federal benefits, thus reducing the burden of their medical expenses on the county.

The county's John L. Montgomery Medical Home is expected to qualify as an extended care facility, Mr. Wells indicated. Hospitals may construct facilities, Mrs. Lefferts said.

2. Will all of the county be covered by home nursing services which can qualify for payment under the act?

Medicare will pay for health services at home provided by a qualified nursing agency. However, Mrs. Lefferts said that few of the county's public health nursing services would qualify at this time. The most common deficiency is in supervisory personnel, she explained.

"The one-nurse agency will not be eligible for payment. Some of the agencies may arrange to qualify by purchasing supervisory services from an approved agency," she said. The agencies are working together on the problem now, she informed the board.

"The legislation may push some of the agencies into a merger," suggested Freeholder Marcus Daly, welfare board member.

In addition to the basic hospitalization benefits which all persons aged over 65 now will receive "as a matter of right," Mrs. Lefferts noted that physicians' and other services can be covered under a voluntary plan costing $3 per month.

Mr. Wells reported that 99 per cent of county welfare clients aged over 65 have signed up under the voluntary plan. This will mean that physicians rendering services to these patients will be paid, at least in part, by the federal government rather than by the county.

In addition to these questions of facilities and services, Mr. Wells told the board that the legislation presents several administrative problems which can be resolved only through state action.

Reserve Decision On Apartments

OCEAN TOWNSHIP — The township Zoning Board of Adjustment last night reserved decision on a $4.5 million garden apartment complex as well as two other variance requests after a four-hour session last night. Decisions will be announced at the next meeting Thursday, June 9.

The Raleigh Corp., represented by Sidney Hertz of Allenhurst, is requesting a variance for an undersized setback on some buildings in the complex resulting from a road installed at the request of the Planning Board. The existing setback from the road is 15 feet compared to the 70-foot requirement.

The firm plans to build 376 units on a 35.5-acre West Park Ave. tract. Jack Weser, the board is chairman, asked Anthony Romeo, the firm's engineer, if the two-story colonial buildings could be redesigned to give them more individuality than the Middlebrook at Monmouth apartments.

Mr. Romeo replied that, for the most part, the buildings would not run in one direction because wings have been designed creating grass courtyards.

The complex also is designed to have a swiming pool, wading pool, tennis courts, and picnic areas. Meyer Golde of Hillside, the co-owner, said the firm's other apartment complexes include the Stoney Hill Gardens in Eatontown and Ocean Gardens in Bradley Beach.

Francis A. Margalotti, a Newark attorney representing an adjacent property owner, objected to the granting of the variance claiming there is no hardship caused by the land itself, as required in the ordinance. Mr. Hertz said the Planning Board created the hardship.

Mr. Weser said the board members wanted to inspect the site before reaching a decision.

The second variance request was made by the Chevron Oil Co., represented by A. B. Albarelli of Asbury Park, to extend a non-conforming use. The firm would like to renovate the existing service station at 207 Monmouth Rd., add a third bay, and erect a non-conforming sign.

Concerning the third reserved decision, Robert Godard of Lincroft had asked for a special use permit to operate a body shop in a commercial zone on West Park Ave. Robert S. Barrabee, an adjacent property owner, objected, claiming it would be "another depreciation of a very fine street."

Unger Is Named In Colts Neck

COLTS NECK — The first superintendent in the history of the local school system will be Roy J. Unger, Rumson, who will leave his current position as principal of the West End School in Long Branch to assume his duties here July 1.

The Board of Education approved a two-year contract for Mr. Unger with an annual salary of $15,000 during a meeting Tuesday night.

Dr. Unger has been a principal in the Long Branch school for the past seven years. Prior to that he was an art teacher in Long Branch and before that he taught art at Neptune Township High School.

Mr. Unger will receive his doctorate from Rutgers University June 1.

Columbia University awarded him a master's in 1954 and he received a bachelor of science degree from Newark State College in 1951.

Board president Lee Tuomenoksa said, "The board is very pleased to be able to hire Dr. Unger, after completing a very thorough search."

One of Mr. Unger's first duties will be to help the board select a principal.

Dr. Unger will replace the administrative principal, Mrs. Zelda Hamilton, who has resigned. The system has two schools and the board has budgeted for two principals in addition to the superintendent.

Other decisions facing Mr. Unger will revolve around further construction.

An addition to the Cedar Drive School is getting under way and board members are considering construction of a third school.

The site for the next school and the type of school to be built are questions on which the board is anxious to have advice of its new superintendent, Mr. Tuomenoksa said.

Opposition Climbing Over Proposed New School Site

RUMSON — The Board of Education is considering a 17-acre tract at the southeast corner of River Rd. and Bellevue Ave. for a new middle grades school.

The site is opposed by a group of residents that gathered 150 members in the last 10 days and promises to appear in force at a specially scheduled board meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Forrestdale School.

William Q. Meeker, board president, told The Register last night that the site, owned by Miss Georgianna Moore of New York City, would be the board's first choice if it proves to be practically attainable. Efforts to reach Miss Moore to discuss acquisition have been unsuccessful. Preliminary inquiries have been made through her attorney, he said.

Mr. Meeker emphasized that the board has not yet taken formal action on a Building Committee recommendation that a middle grades school be built on a location apart from Forrestdale School. The committee has concluded the present elementary schools site will not adequately house the ultimate school population of the borough.

"We are trying to plan, not for five years, as in the past, but a little more ahead," Mr. Meeker said. "We're at a point where we're getting close to the end of land."

Mr. Meeker said that the board's preliminary site study consisted of making a list of all tracts of 15 or more acres in the borough. It investigated seven possibilities and concluded that only the Moore tract and Lovett Nurseries land on Ridge Rd. appear to meet specifications.

Although no formal action has been taken, no final choice made, the Moore tract is favored by the board, Mr. Meeker said. Further investigation, he said, may prove it to be less satisfactory than it seems now.

Mrs. John F. Klem said the interested group will appear at Wednesday's meeting to ask the board if it has considered the possible safety and traffic hazards at the Moore location, and to suggest that the project can be accomplished at a different site that would be less burdensome to taxpayers.

The Moore tract, she said, has three blind hills in its neighborhood. It is prime residential property, expensive land, she added.

"We are not going to have a brawl," Mrs. Klem said. "We are interested in making our views known at this early stage before a final decision is made."

Mrs. Klem said the group is loosely organized, but has appointed a seven-man committee to pursue its investigation of the site's strengths and defects. The committee is: William Borden, Harold Margolies, David Buckley, Mrs. Alan Avchen, Mrs. Edwin Lichtig, Mrs. F. W. Finkenstaedt and Mrs. Klem.

Mr. Meeker said that at Wednesday's meeting, the board will take formal action on the Building Committee's recommendation that a middle grades school be built. It will also name Bernard Kellenyi, Red Bank architect, to design the new structure. Mr. Kellenyi is responsible for the achitecture at recently completed Deane-Porter School.

Mr. Meeker pointed out that whatever construction plan is formulated will be put to a public vote when funds for it are requested by referendum.

Authority Names Roper To Telegraph Hill Post

WOODBRIDGE — Red Bank architect and engineer James F. Roper yesterday was appointed the N.J. Highway Authority's liaison man at Telegraph Hill, Holmdel.

The authority, operator of the Garden State Parkway, this month started construction of the $3 million Garden State Arts Center at Holmdel.

Mr. Roper, who probably will name his own clerk of the works at the site, will represent the authority in dealings with the contractors and architect, Edward Durell Stone.

The authority will pay him $25 per hour for his own time, and on a cost-plus basis for his employees. The cost estimate for one year is $30,000.

The authority also approved an agreement with Bell Telephone Laboratories, Holmdel. The Labs will erect a small, temporary building on the parkway right of way near Cliffwood Ave., Matawan Township, to conduct microwave studies.

The project, expected to take three years, will investigate the effects of weather on a microwave system which will be in a direct line to the Holmdel laboratory.

The authority commissioners accepted an offer of 150,000 yards of top soil at $1.80 per yard delivered along the parkway in the Monmouth County area. The seller is the Parrish Contracting Co., Neptune, which, the authority said, will get the soil from development sites in Colts Neck and Freehold.

Because of an order by the Board of Health, a contract was awarded to the Pollution Control Co., Hazlet, for the installation of automatic chorination equipment at sewer plants in the Parkway's Atlantic City, Seaville and Forked River service areas for $31,746.

Final payment of $11,311 was authorized for the Coast Construction Co., Sea Bright, for alterations and additions at Monmouth, Atlantic City and Seaville service areas.

What the Shootin's About

Drama Unfolds, Nab Skunk

RARITAN TOWNSHIP—Shades of Wyatt Earp.

It had all the earmarks of an episode that could have taken place years ago in Saddle Sore, Wyoming.

Citizens seeking succor . . . a cornered culprit . . . a rifle-totin' warden . . . three shots shattering the morning air . . . the warden riding off, leaving the cornered culprit dead, in a cylindrical-shaped coffin.

But nobody cheered.

Least of all Township Committeeman Stephen J. Filardi, vice president of the Board of Health.

This plot for a B-type movie was unveiled at last night's health board meeting by Mr. Filardi, who was wearing Madison Avenue type gear, not the conventional 10-gallon hat, chaps and spurs of the Western story-teller.

SKUNK TROUBLES

It seems residents in the vicinity of Cove Road School have been complaining for three days about a skunk (the four-legged variety) running loose.

Several calls for help, according to Mr. Filardi, went out to Michael Seaman, Freehold, who is the dog warden for this township as well as other municipalities.

When Mr. Seaman arrived around 8 a.m. Wednesday, the story continued, the skunk was trapped in a garbage can, on which somebody had slammed a lid.

The warden promptly emptied three rifle shots into the can (and the skunk) and rode off, leaving his victim.

Mr. Filardi said the first official reaction was to summon a police car to remove the can and skunk. But this idea was abandoned, since the solving of one problem would present another—fumigation.

Then a road department crew was summoned and the problem was rectified.

The scenario did not reveal if the skunk was carted off to the Boot Hill for such varmints.

Neither did it disclose the identity of the unsung hero who slammed the garbage lid on the skunk.

But Mr. Filardi was plainly irked by the situation, as was Mayor Marvin Olinsky, president of the health board. "I think we need a new dog warden," said the mayor.

The warden, according to the mayor, is paid $125 a month to service the township, plus fees from residents whose running-loose dogs are picked up.

In other matters handled by the board at the short-lived meeting, it was announced that 1,179 dog licenses were issued for this year and rabies shots have been administered to 403.

Stay Within the Budget, Marlboro Planners Told

MARLBORO — The township attorney told the Planning Board last night that if it exceeded its budget it would be liable to both civil and criminal penalties.

The attorney, Milton Kosene, in his letter told the planners that council will not reconsider its move to have the township engineer serve both agencies and for township attorney to represent both in suits where both are co-defendants.

"What it really boils down to is that you have understood council's actions and intentions right from the beginning—but you did not like them," Mr. Kosene told the planners who had again asked council to clarify the measure and asked if council would allocate funds to meet the board's engineering and legal costs.

When the planners received council's first resolution, it sent a resolution of its own asking for clarification. Council responded and again the planners asked for reconsideration.

At Own Risk

"You may do as you wish," Mr. Kosene continued, "but I must point out to you that if you exceed your budget or make any commitments which will exceed the budget you do so at your individual and collective risk."

Gerald Bauman, Planning Board vice chairman, earlier said that the board would exceed its reduced budget of $7,000.

"I am hereby directing the Planning Board as an agency of the township not to exceed your budget for any reason whatsoever.

"If the board exceeds its budget or makes agreements which will exceed the budget, not only are such agreements void but the individual members of the board would thereby subject themselves to both civil and criminal penalties."

Councilman Joseph Brodniak, of the Citizens Committee council minority, emphasized that this was not the will of council but the will and opinion of the coalition majority council.

He charged that by having the same attorney represent both agencies in suits as "conflict of interest," and asked if this move was to put the Planning Board out of business.

Mr. Bauman told newsmen later that this move was "putting the economic squeeze on the board by council appointing its technical help which state planning laws clearly spell out as the right of the board."

He added that, in his opinion, the money must go against the Planning Board budget regardless who does the work.

Councilman Charles McCue maintained that if the engineer last year served both agencies, the township engineer this year could do the same.

Council set June 14 as the date for an appeal by U. S. Homes for two applications for houses which the Planning Board had recommended be denied. The applications are for 86 lots, part of the developer's large housing development project along Rt. 9.

A $9,600 contract was awarded to Manzo Contracting Co., Inc., Matawan, for asphalt and road materials.

CRINE IN HOSPITAL

COLTS NECK — Tax Assesor Joseph Crine is a medical patient at Fitkin Hospital, Neptune. Mayor Alfred E. Ruppel said last night, he probably will be there about two weeks.

Community Mental Health Centers in County Urged

RUMSON — Monmouth County last night was urged to establish community mental health centers to provide treatment and rehabilitation services close to home for the mentally ill.

State mental institutions, "those massive human warehouses'" are anachronistic and archaic, Mike Gorman, executive director of the National Committee Against Mental Illness, told the approximately 120 persons attending the annual dinner of the county Mental Health Association in the River House Inn, here.

"It is insane to send people to a state mental hospital," Mr. Gorman said, "because then the longest road they have to travel is the road back."

The mentally ill, like the physically ill, should be treated within the community, he said.

'Keep Them Here'

"You care for them, you keep them here," he declared.

A community mental health center is not a building, Mr. Gorman emphasized, but a correlation of services which need not be housed under one roof.

Under the Community Mental Health Centers Act, the federal government will pay approximately one-third the cost of staffing the centers, Mr. Gorman said later. Initiating action must come from the state, "but the county can prod state authorities into action," he said.

2,000 Expected

He said the federal government hopes to have 2,000 centers established within the next 10 years.

Mr. Gorman listed as services the centers would provide: inpatient beds and out-patient services in general hospitals (Monmouth Medical Center, Long Branch, is providing both services now); emergency psychiatric service (". . just a matter of feeding one doctor caffeine and keeping him awake all night."); daytime treatment for patients able to return to their families in the evening, and nighttime treatment for patients able to work during the day but requiring some hospital care.

Mr. Gorman said he is particularly indignant when he sees children in state hospital wards.

"Every school system should have a decent phychiatric center, every mental health center should have a 15-bed children's section," he declared.

According to the best estimates, there are four million emotionally disturbed children in the nation, Mr. Gorman said. He said 10 per cent of the 600,000 four-and-five-year-olds enrolled in Head Start projects last summer were "so emotionally crippled they couldn't participate in a simple basic pre-school program.

"As a father and as a citizen, that figure worries me deeply," he declared.

Mrs. Benjamin Ashin, Little Silver, president of the county association presided. She presented gifts to Robert Kastor, West Long Branch, and Edwin Gage, Deal, retiring members of the association's executive board.

The Big Push for Grades

Does Learning Slide As Pressure Rises?

By BOB BRAMLEY

RUMSON — Too much emphasis on getting good grades at all costs, resulting in unhealthy learning habits.

Too much emphasis on the "bright" student in all phases of the school program.

Too little career information and vocational guidance.

Too much emphasis on "name" and prestige colleges.

Too little direction on how to study.

These are some of the criticisms leveled at their alma mater by members of Rumson-Fair Haven Regional High School classes of 1960 through 1964 who answered questionaires sent them by Aubrey C. Dell'Omo, guidance counselor.

A 25-page report on a follow-up study of these graduating classes was presented to the Regional Board of Education by Mr. Dell'Omo last night. The report is based on students' answers to these questions, among others:

How could the high school have given you better training for advanced schooling, college, or your job?

Which high school subjects have been of most value after graduation?

What advice would you like to have been given when you you were in high school?

Representative answers were quoted in the report. Many of them, from students who went on to college, reveal graduates felt themselves ill-prepared in such college-required activities as research reading, efficient study methods and writing of the longer papers called for at college level.

Another frequently expressed complaint is that the pressure for high grades in order to gain admission to choice colleges precluded acquisition of a love of learning for its own sake.

"I wish I had been told to learn all I could in every field, in any way, from anyone," one former student wrote, "The pressure to beat out one's fellows in every test, election, and year's activities produces excellent results on paper — but the attitudes cultivated are unhealthy. I would have been better prepared had I been encouraged to love to learn instead of being terrorized into it."

Mr. Dell'Omo remarked to the board that many of the students' comments and criticisms may not now be justified since the school has not stood still in the two years since the class of 1964 graduated.

"Many changes have taken place in the last two years," he reported. "The school has by no means assumed a 'status quo' position. Instead, through excellent leadership . . . a continual improvement in the educational program . . . has been in progress.

"There are areas that certainly need strengthening and there is always room for improvement," the guidance director continued. As long as the school continues to move forward with new ideas and undertakings . . . our communities can be justly proud of their secondary education program."

Detective Addresses Matawan Students

By SANDEE CARMAN

MATAWAN — Sgt. John McGuinty, detective of the Matawan Township Police Department, reported in at Matawan Regional High School at 10:35 a.m. and hurried to room W103.

Sgt. McGuinty gave a talk which was a part of a special project of Carl Youngman's U.S. History II classes. Mr. Youngman's classes are doing detailed reports on crime and Mr. McGuinty spoke on "Crime Prevention and Law Enforcement in Matawan Township."

Patrick McGoldrick

Sgt. McGuinty said that the "vast" area covered by Matawan Township and the recent influx of new residents have called for the enlargement of the police force.

The detective also cited a murder case that occurred in the township about two years ago. He told of all the procedures that led to the solving of the crime, the investigation, the use of the crime lab, the autopsy, and the coroner's report. He brought with him police photos of the murder scene and murder weapon. Sgt. McGuinty followed the crime down to the trial and sentence.

He also said that, in his opinion, juvenile delinquency is not as wide-spread as some people think. He said that a "few punks create a bad image for all teenagers."

Sgt. McGuinty was invited to speak to the class by Richard Bunger, a member of the class committee on law enforcement. Other committees in the classroom are: general crime; juvenile delinquency, drug addiction, penal systems, capital punishment, and crime in the U. S. compared with crime elsewhere in the world.

SCIENTIFIC TREK—Trio of freshmen at Christian Brothers Academy, Lincroft, show a homemade film on erosion in Monmouth County to science teacher Brother Edward. CBA Freshmen Find Novel Way To Earn Top Grade in Science

LINCROFT — Three freshmen students from Christian Brothers Academy, recently put their heads together to produce a unique treat for their science classmates and at the same time earn A plus from their teachers for their efforts.

The boys, John McDonough and Michael Duffy, both of Interlaken, and Kevin Harper, of Allenhurst, requested of and were granted permission by Brother Edward, their earth science teacher, to make a sound motion picture dealing with a current class topic, erosion. Pooling available resources — an 8 millimeter camera, a tape recorder, rowboat, outboard motor, two "chauffeurs," one aunt and one mother, they set forth on a venture which extended from Wanamassa to Highlands. After plodding through Long Branch Beach, climbing barrier walls and jetties at Sea Bright, motorboating on the rim of Sandy Hook Bay, watching for exposed ground profiles where roads had revealed earth structure, and hiking along streams outside Asbury Park, the three producer-director-actors came up with a sequence entitled "Erosion, Its Cause and Cure."

The boys later taped appropriate scientific commentary for the filmed scenes and Kevin synchronized the sound with the cards were made to introduce the whole spectacular which even has its own guitar overture. Brother Edward and the boys' classmates admitted it was a first rate science picture.

Although the reel and its accompanying narration are strictly scientific in scope, Brother Edward noted the boys had added a little touch of Alfred Hitchcock to the picture (Hitchcock always making a fleeting appearance in his films) by finding their way into a few frames of the movie striking some rather sophisticated commodore-like poses as they cruised the bay.

Leadership Seminar Open To Shore Area Students

LONG BRANCH — "Training Tomorrow's Leaders" will be the theme of the third annual "Advanced Leadership Seminar" to be conducted by the Long Branch Summer High School.

Among the topics to be considered in the seminar are "Student Council Philosophy," "Parliamentary Procedures," "Organizational Techniques," "Leadership Responsibilities," "Group Dynamics," "Committee Participation and Reporting," "Discussion Techniques," "Self Understanding and Understanding of Others," and "On Becoming Great."

Thomas P. Maggio, social studies instructor and recent faculty adviser to the Student Council at Long Branch High School, will co-ordinate the program which will be conducted Tuesday and Thursday evenings from June 28 through Aug. 4.

Guest speakers will be scheduled and many materials and procedural forms will be available to the seminar students to aid them in their future leadership roles. These materials, as well as bibliographies and other sources of information, will be included in a workbook to provide a permanent record of the total seminar experience.

The Students Speak Up

By DON LORDI

The Register will pay $2 to any reader between the ages of 14 and 21 who submits a question chosen by the editors for use in this column. Send questions to "The Students Speak Up," Young Adults Section, The Daily Register, 40 Broad St., Red Bank.

PLACE: Long Branch High School.

QUESTION: How do you think your life will change after you graduate next month? (Asked of seniors about to graduate.)

LINDA COLAGUORI, 250 Hamilton Ave., Long Branch, age 17.

My responsibilities will become greater at college because for the first time in my life I will be totally on my own. I will also have all new friends and will be living in a new and different place.

STEVE GARTEN, 366 Lowden Garden, Long Branch, age 17.

The step from high school to college will be a big change. The ability to allot specific time for work and pleasure without someone pushing you will be a big challenge.

JOE GALLO, 211 Oakwood Ave., Long Branch, age 17.

I feel my responsibilities will double for I will be attending military school in the fall and I owe it to myself and my family to succeed. I realize getting a good education is essential and getting this education is my responsibility.

BRUCE WOOLLEY, 10 Morrell St., Long Branch, age 18.

The added responsibilities of college and adult life will probably enhance my understanding of the world around me. My general attitude toward society will be greatly affected in that it will bring on a more serious outlook towards life.

SHARON JOHNSON, 302 Joline Ave., Long Branch, age 18.

After graduation there will be a great emptiness in my life. College will partially fill this gap, but I will never forget the happiness my high school years have brought.

SALLY HAVRANCK, 915 Norwood Ave., Elberon, age 18.

With graduation our lives at home will end, and for those of us who are going to college, a new life of work, fun and much more responsibility will begin.

Music at Matawan Grows With Meseroll

By SCOTT BROWN

MATAWAN — Robert A. Meseroll, music department chairman at Matawan Regional High School, has combined both hard work and keen interest into the development of, as Mr. Meseroll puts it, "one of the best bands in Monmouth County."

Five years ago, when Mr. Meseroll came to Matawan, only eight students were registered in the music program. Only eight instruments were school-owned and nearly half of the music sheets needed were missing. Sixty-eight students were participating in the chorus. All this was handled on double session.

Five years later, Matawan has seen a dance band, voice class, advanced chorus, ensemble band and a marching band of 94 students take form. The band has played at the Miss America Pageant twice, performed many concerts both at Matawan and out of town and sponsored Sy Zenter and his jazz band at Matawan. Count Basie's appearance Wednesday was also sponsored by the band.

Individual achievement music is another point Mr. Meseroll is proud of. In the past five years, 14 band members have won Lincoln Center Awards, 25 have made all shore band and this year six students made all state intermediate band.

Mr. Meseroll studied music at Oberlin Conservatory of Music on a four-year musical scholarship program. While at Oberlin, Mr. Meseroll conducted the 350 member Oberlin Musical University Voice Choir. Since then, Mr. Meseroll has studied at Rutgers University and at Trenton State College, achieving a masters degree in education in music.

Before coming to Matawan, Mr. Meseroll taught four years in the South Plainfield school system.

A favorite hobby of Mr. Meseroll's is sports car racing, and like any other sports car fan, Mr. Meseroll will visit his "Mecca," Monte Carlo, next year to participate in a race. He is also a member of the board of governors of the Toe and Heel Sports Car Club.

Another favorite hobby of his is collecting antiques. Mr. Meseroll has an 1845 rocking chair, handcrafted, and an 1860 chime clock, which is handcrafted in solid walnut. When he's not redoing furniture or racing cars, Mr. Meseroll relaxes on the local gun range.

A Complex Process

Growth of Personality

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Butler, a clinical psychologist and Fair Haven resident, in addition to his weekly discussion of subjects of interest to teenagers and parents, will answer questions in this column addressed to him in care of The Daily Register, 40 Broad St., Red Bank. Names will be withheld on request.

By EDWARD S. BUTLER, Ph.D

The development of personality, we have come to appreciate, is multi-faceted and extremely complex. The sum of these many factors, such as heredity, family, the school, peer groups, social class, and the general culture, are what we refer to as personality.

A further complication is the dynamic or constantly changing character of personality. A person's beliefs, attitudes, and behavior change as he learns, grows and matures. Certain basic personality traits may remain more or less constant throughout life but many others change as an individual copes with the various demands and challenges of childhood, adolescence, adulthood, middle age, and old age.

The tasks of childhood include learning to control one's bowels and temper as well as adjust to parental demands and expectations. One must also learn a language and get along with peers. School, with its demands for the fine visual-motor coordination involved in reading, seems to be a very difficult task for many children. Finally, the child must develop satisfactory emotional relationships, especially with parents, that will lead to a good self-concept.

Problems of Adolescene

Adolescence demands the continuation of satisfactory adaptation of the previously mentioned tasks. In addition the adolescent must deal with problems of physical growth, preparation for a vocation, the increased importance of the peer group, and the emergence of sexual urges. Finally, he typically challenges his parents' ideology and begins developing a philosophy of life. In short, he learns to be more independent and must prepare himself for eventual separation from his parents and to live on his own.

Adulthood implies that a reasonably workable philosophy of life has been evolved that permits one to: achieve vocational success, attain a satisfactory marriage, and assume parental and civic responsibilities. It further implies that one is not so much dependent upon and taking from parents and society but is able to be concerned about and give to others, especially children.

At middle age individuals must adapt to lessened physical and sexual powers and, often, declining health. This is usually the age of the greatest assumption of vocational and civic responsibility. Furthermore, at this age parents, especially mothers, must accept separation from their children and must turn to other meaningful avocations. On the bright side, many of the burning issues of earlier life such as marriage and career have died down providing one has worked them out.

Diminished Power

Old age, of course, often means continued decline of physical abilities and health. One must cope with the illnesses and deaths of friends and relatives, as well as anticipating one's own death. It also often means diminished power and influence in the course of family, vocational, and civic events. It can, of course, be a reasonably happy time if one has properly prepared for it financially, psychologically, and socially.

All of these stages are interrelated in that successes and failures at each stage help or hinder one's adaptation at the next stage. For example: a child who has not learned to control his impulses may have great difficulty when, later, sexual urges come into play, or an adolescent who has not learned to be independent may have considerable difficulty separating from his parents and establishing his own family. An adult who has not worked out his marriage and vocational problems may fear middle age.

All of these stages bring their own joys and their own miseries.

To think of all children as innocent; or of all adolescents as happy; or of all elderly people as living "golden" lives, is ridiculous. To fully understand and be helpful to people at any stage of life one must know their special problems. To help younger people one must know the purposes and goals of each stage of life so as to help them make adequate preparations for the coming years.
