Grid Giants Sign 30-Year N.J. Lease

NEW YORK (AP) – New Jersey Gov. William T. Cahill went to New York yesterday and came home with a football team, the New York Giants, who signed a 30-year lease to play in a state-owned stadium to be built in New Jersey by 1975.

Giants' owner and president Wellington Mara signed the lease assuring that his team will move to the planned 75,000-seat stadium to be built in the Hackensack River Meadowlands. David A. "Sonny" Werblin, former New York Jets owner and now chairman of the New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority, signed for the state.

The lease gives the Giants an option to renew and calls on the team to pay an annual rent of 15 per cent of ticket sales revenues. The Giants and the state will share all revenues from stadium concessions.

There will be parking space for 25,000 cars and 400 buses and all parking revenues will go to the state authority.

Cahill said, "It's a truly great day for the State of New Jersey and as great a day for New York Giant fans and all the citizens of New York."

The governor said the new Giant Stadium would be "another bridge between New York and New Jersey."

The signing yesterday culminated six months of executive and legislative planning by the Cahill administration to bring New Jersey its first major league sports franchise.

Legislation creating the sports authority and authorizing the construction of a major sports complex on 750 acres of the meadowlands in East Rutherford was passed by the State Senate and Assembly and signed by Cahill last spring.

Ultimate plans for the complex include a race track, a baseball stadium, and an exposition and convention center. The project is expected to cost more than $100 million the money will be raised through revenue bonds.

State Track

The race track is to be operated by the state. Profits from it are expected to pay for the entire complex.

Cahill said Giant Stadium would cost between $30 and $40 million. He said it would be the first facility built at the complex.

Construction cannot begin until the money has been raised through bonds and the state must obtain a racing license before the bonds may be issued. Cahill said the state would apply immediately to the State Racing Commission for the license.

Several suits have been filed challenging the State Sports Authority. The Chief suit was filed by the state against the authority to test its constitutionality.

The case is before Superior Court Judge Morris Pashman of Bergen County and arguments will be heard Sept. 30.

McCrane's Day

Cahill said the guiding force in planning for the sports complex and convincing the Giants to move to New Jersey was State Treasurer Joseph McCrane, a former tackle at West Point.

McCrane was involved in the negotiations with the Giants. "It's Joe McCrane's day," Cahill said.

The governor said, "this day will really be a spark that will light up the meadowlands, 20,000 acres of what we

Rally Talks Urge Women 'Right On'

By SHERRY FIGDORE

HOLMDEL – A dozen speakers yesterday climaxed the 32-mile New Jersey Walk for Women by relating the feminist fight for equality to similar upward strivings by minority groups – blacks, the poor, homosexuals, the Third World peoples.

(Related Story, Page 3)

Mrs. Poppy Kennedy of Monmouth NOW (National Organization for Women), who organized yesterday's March from Maplewood to Holmdel County Park, said the women's rights movement would "help the development of personhood of both men and women."

Wilma Scott Heidi, a behavioral scientist and candidate for the national presidency of NOW, defined a feminist as "one who believes women are people, one who believes in the legal, social, economic and personal equality of the sexes in a two-sex world."

Turn Crowd On

But it remained for New York lawyer, lecturer and author Florynce Kennedy to really turn on the crowd of about 150 persons with her calls to rebel "against institutions that oppress us all" by using people power, vote power and dollar power.

The scene at the grassy commons in Holmdel Park had a definite festival air. Several longhairs were tossing a red Frisbee at the edge of the crowd. Toddlers were contentedly romping through the grass, munching cookies. One little blonde girl hugged her doll with small arms sporting armbands with the feminist symbol aglow in fluorescent pink ink.

And on one blanket, four women shared a vacuum bottle of hot tea, served in violet-decorated china cups and saucers.

Over it all, Miss Kennedy denounced the news media (the small newspapers she grouped as the "Weird Heralds" that ignored the women's rights' movement) and organized religion (the church has "all over the world softened up people for agression") and urged women to strike back where it hurts most – in the pocketbook.

Dollar Power

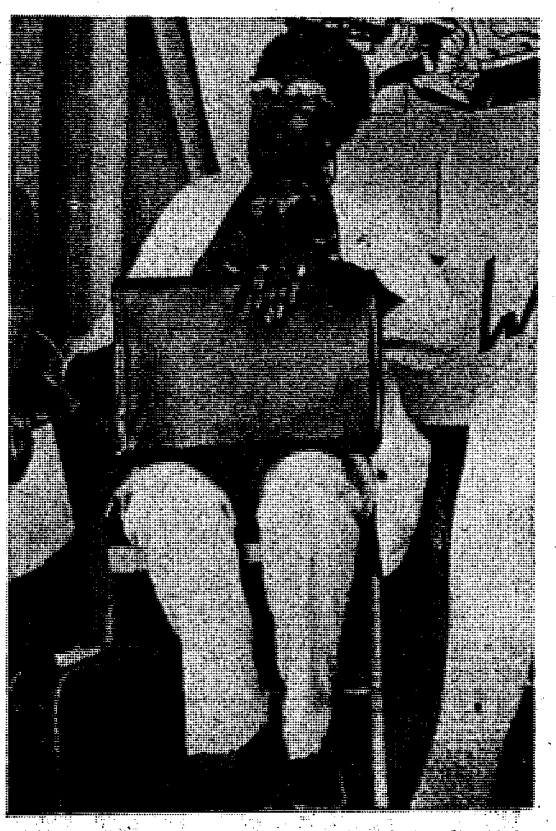

"Use your dollar power," she said. "We almost never think about that. Strike the banks. A bank is a major institution for determining what happens in our society."

"Boycott advertisers who don't support the women's rights movement," she urged.

Proctor and Gamble spent $24 million in 1965 she said to introduce its new Bold detergent "that's now polluting your streams. That's about $500,000 per state. Think what you could do with $500,000 for day care centers in New Jersey. Why shouldn't Proctor and Gamble fund day care centers?"

Miss Kennedy zeroed in for

OUTSPOKEN FEMINIST — Florynce Kennedy, New York lawyer and author of "Abortion Rap," was main speaker at yesterday's state celebration of women's rights day at the Holmdel County Park. Mrs. Kennedy, using the strongest of terms, urged the women in her audience to rise above male domination "through people, dollar and vote power."

COORDINATOR — Jackie Yuhasz of Matawan, coordinator of the Walk for Women and a member of the executive board of the Monmouth County Chapter of National Organization for Women, was moderator of women's liberation program yesterday at Holmdel County Park.

Bayshore Mayors Call on Nixon To Halt NYC's Sewage Dumping

HAZLET – The 10-member Bayshore Conference of Mayors will petition officials from President Nixon down in an attempt to halt continuing pollution of New Jersey waters by sewage flowing south from Lower Manhattan.

The petition approved last night at a dinner meeting in the Holiday Inn, declared the mayors "outraged by the pollution being created in the Hudson River, Raritan Bay and the Jersey Shore."

The conference threatened "further action" if a "positive response is not received in 60 days."

PA Singled Out

Part two of the petition specifically singles out the Port of New York Authority, demanding that the PA "cease discharge of polluted water from the World Trade Center immediately.

"Failure to do so," within the 60-day deadline set by the mayors, "will result in a legal action by this group to enjoin them from any further occupancy until the condition is corrected."

Speaking for the conference, Holmdel Mayor David Cohen said the group is sure of receiving volunteer legal services "if a court suit becomes necessary."

Added attorney and state Assemblyman John I. Dawes, who first proposed the conference action two months ago, "the firm is not my firm. The attorneys involved are not employed by any of the towns."

First Since 1932

Mr. Dawes said as far as he knows last night's action is the first concerted New Jersey complaint against neighboring New York since 1932 when the Supreme Court upheld an order that stopped dumping of New York garbage from barges immediately off the Jersey coast.

The initial petitions declare that "pollution of the Bay waters endanger the overall marine ecology," jeopardizes the success of President Nixon's Gateway Project, and adversely affects area recreational opportunities.

Petitions will be sent within the next few days to President Nixon, federal Commissioner William Ruckelshaus, Govs. William T. Cahill and Nelson Rockefeller, Senators Clifford P. Case and Harrison A. Williams; state Commissioner of Environmental Protection Richard J. Sullivan; state Commissioner of Health James R. Cowan; the New York State Board of Health; New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, and the state legislature.

State DEP Commissioner Sullivan will receive an extra set of petitions from the 10 communities involved in the conference demanding cessation of dredging off Highlands.

Highlands Mayor James T. White has submitted "convincing evidence" of destruction and permanent damage to the area from continued sand dredging.

Mayor Cohen said the group was "indignant and horrified" that the Lower Manhattan City Sanitary System and the World Trade Center now under construction discharge "400 to 500 million gallons of sewage into the Hudson every day."

"We don't expect correction action in 60 days," he said. "That's an engineering impossibility."

but each of the ten towns involved – Holmdel, Middletown, Keyport, Hazlet, Highlands, Atlantic Highlands, Matawan Borough and Township, Union Beach and Keansburg – will adopt identical resolutions demanding a positive response within the next 60 days.

Promise Labor Role on Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) – In a peace-making meeting with AFL-CIO President George Meany, the Nixon administration has guaranteed organized labor a role in determining what will follow the 90-day wage-price freeze.

"Mr. Meany's response was to give us a good hearing and showing great concern about many aspects of the problems the freeze was causing, and that he hoped he would recognize those problems," Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said after yesterday's session with Meany.

Assistant Labor Secretary W.J. Usery met briefly with federation secretary-treasurer Lane Kirkland, apparently laying the groundwork for the Hodgson-Meany talk.

What is to follow the freeze has become a dominant question for economic planners. And the Meany-Hodgson meeting was significant because of the labor chief's heavy criticism of President Nixon's new economic program.

Usery said nothing has been decided, but "I think it will fall somewhere between the extremes," which he described as doing nothing or imposing wage-price controls.

Herbert Stein, chief administration planner, virtually ruled out an extension of the freeze. He predicted mounting problems as it continues toward Nov. 12, saying people can be expected to stand pat only for a short time.

The problems faced by teachers, whose salary status has been cloudy since President Nixon announced the freeze Aug. 15, were dealt with again by the Cost of Living Council.

Marlboro Moth Battle Sparks Call for Audit

By JIM McCORMICK

MARLBORO – The often forgotten fact that a municipality's governing body can be indicted for a seemingly innocuous error in bill paying was brought home to the Township Council last night.

And as a result, the township's director of finance has called for an audit of all bills paid since January 1970. In addition, if any improprieties are found and result in taxpayer's lawsuits, the director wants the township to retain an attorney to represent his department.

The controversy began last night over what was assumed to be a relatively simple matter: Payment of $4,340 in bills for spraying to eliminate the Gypsy Moth.

One $1,400 spraying bill from the Bartlett Tree Experts, for work done on June 24, 25, 30, and July 1, did not incur opposition. However, two bills from the Ag Rotors Inc., for $1,750 and $1,190, were questioned by township attorney James R. Minogue.

The council a few months ago appropriated $5,000 in emergency funds to combat the Gypsy Moth. In line with this, Mayor Morton Salkind instructed township business administrator to engage a firm to undertake spraying of specific portions of the township.

The business administrator, Bernard Hartnett, explained the events surrounding the contracting of the Ag firm in a letter to the mayor dated Aug. 11.

'Panic' Reported

Mr. Hartnett said that early in June, "when the township was in a panic as a result of gypsy moth infestation," he consulted county and state officials on how to fight the menace.

The business administrator said that the Monmouth County Shade Tree Commission recommended Ag Rotors, Inc., to do the spraying. He said that the firm was spraying portions of Monmouth and Mercer Counties at that time, and that they submitted the lowest estimates for the project.

Mr. Hartnett wrote that the first Ag spraying took place

Gen. Patton's Secret — Three-Part Series

Author Robert S. Allen, whose "Inside Washington" column appears regularly on The Register's editorial page, is known as a hard-hitting Capitol Hill newsman with close contacts in the Administration and in the Democratic and Republican parties.

A much decorated World War II hero (in which he lost an arm), he was a friend of Gen. George S. Patton and his family.

His inside knowledge helped bring to print the generally unknown story of the bitterness and emotional strain which led Gen. Patton to a decision to cut all ties with the Army.

Entitled "Patton's Secret," Mr. Allen's three-part series begins in Monday's Daily Register, Northern Monmouth County's largest newspaper and Monmouth County's most interesting newspaper.

Legal Action Is Expected On City Elders' Housing

LONG BRANCH — Legal briefs will be filed by representatives of B'rith Sholom Foundation, Philadelphia, and opponents to the foundation's planned senior citizens' housing complex before the city Board of Adjustment meets again on the application Sept. 16.

A ruling at the fourth board session on the issue last night directed the applicant to file opinions on why the eight zoning deficiencies posed by the plan should be waived, whether B'rith Sholom is a philanthropic organization, which would be precluded from building the structure in a C-4 zone, and whether the board may revise the plan to become closer to the code's provisions.

The ruling also directs Joseph Meehan, local attorney to file memorandums on the same issues.

Mr. Meehan represents Mrs. Elliot Butler of Pavilion Ave., an objector to the planned complex.

Martin Barger of Red Bank, represents B'rith Sholom.

Testimony Heard

Last night's session included testimony from Edgar N. Dinkelspiel, president of the United Citizens and Taxpayers Organization, here, and Joseph Antonucci, the UCTO's zoning committee chairman.

Both men said that the eight deficiencies for which the applicant seeks variances are "serious" and repeated defects in the plan, such as too much land coverage, improper parking spaces, inadequate setbacks and use of an undersized lot, as well as the planned building's height being above the requirements of the code and the lack of proposed storage space.

Mr. Antonucci claimed that a 72-foot strip of land along Wilson Ave. has been proposed for the planned extension of Ocean Blvd. and will further slash the property size.

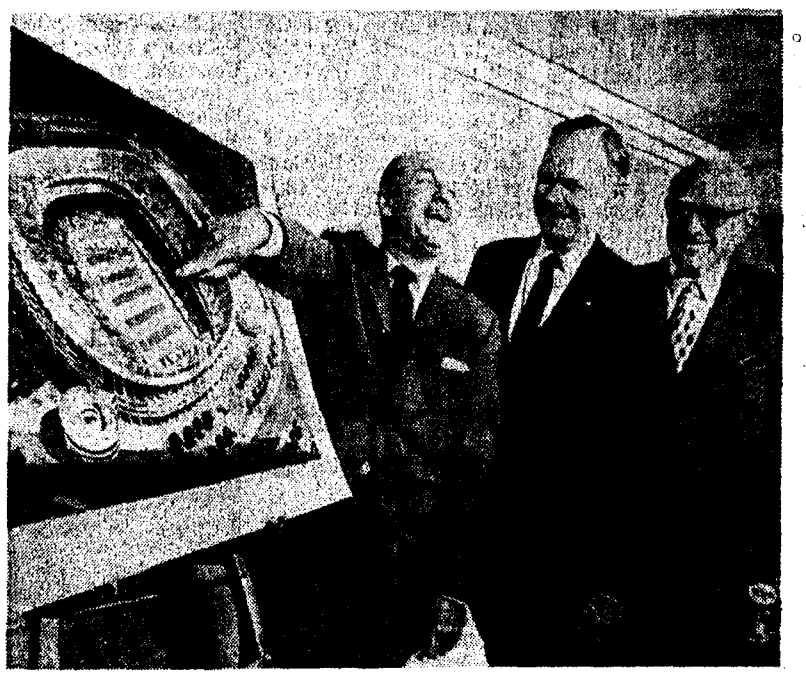

Fire Danger Cited

Mr. Dinkelspiel charged that the structure would be unsafe in the event of a fire. He said the resident elders would probably be unable to escape from the top floor of a 10-floor structure and that elevators are a hazard during a blaze.

The board also ruled last night that the attorneys must file their briefs before Sept. 8 so members may study them prior to the special Sept. 16 meeting.

Last night's session was expected to be the last meeting on the issue before the board ruling is made.

Board Attorney Irving Teicher, however, said last night he cannot be certain the board can make a final decision on the application at the next meeting.

JUST OVER THE RIVER — Gov. William T. Cahill points to a sketch of new stadium the New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority plans in East Rutherford for the New York Giants football team to use, possibly as early as 1973. Looking on are Wellington Mara, center, Giants owner, and David A. "Sonny" Werblin, head of the N.J. sports authority.

think is the most valuable real estate in the world."

Mara said he didn't regard his team's move to New Jersey as a desertion of New York City.

He noted the Mara family has owned and operated the Giants for 46 years, including 31 years during which the team played at the old Polo Grounds in Manhattan and for the last 15 years at Yankee Stadium.

'Each family dreams of the day it can get into its own house and get away from its in-laws."

Never Had 'Home'

The Giants have never had their own stadium, but have always been the tenants of other teams or organizations.

Mara said, "If you have a seat now in Yankee Stadium, you'll have a better seat in Giant Stadium and there will be 10 or 15 thousand more."

The team intends to play at Yankee Stadium through the end of its lease in 1975 and will retain the name the New York Football Giants, Mara said.

New York City recently approved a $24 million bond issue to restore Yankee Stadium, spurred by reports the Giants and possibly the New York Yankees baseball team were moving to New Jersey.

Cahill declined to speculate on whether the Yankees would leave New York.

According to the New Jersey Department of Transportation, the new stadium would be a maximum of 18 minutes from downtown Newark, 14 minutes from the Port Authority bus terminal in Manhattan; 18 minutes from the George Washington Bridge; 40 minutes from the Tappan Zee Bridge, and 13 minutes from the Holland Tunnel.

The sports authority has named the firm Ewing, Cole, Erdman and Eubank — Clauss & Nolan as coordinating architects. The firm designed facilities at Liberty Bell Park, the Atlantic City Racetrack and the Garden State Racetrack.

Of the 75,000 seats in the stadium, 50,000 will be located along the sidelines.

Probe Entry Of Residence

NEW SHREWSBURY — Police are continuing to investigate a breaking, entry and larceny at the home of Larry Scott, 57 Pear St.

Entry was reportedly gained by breaking a window. Patrolmen LaDean White and Thomas Burch are in charge of investigating the incident, which was reported at 12:20 a.m. Wednesday.

Marlboro Gets A New Judge

MARLBORO — Robert E. La Mura, an attorney and lifelong Morganville resident, has been named to succeed Earle J. Harrington as this township's municipal court judge.

Mayor Morton Salkind said last night that the appointment would become effective Oct. 1. Judge Harrington, who has held the post for over 18 years, is retiring in September.

Mr. La Mura is a 1949 graduate of Seton Hall Law School, and was admitted to the N.J. Bar the same year. In 1957, the attorney, who maintains offices in Matawan, was admitted to practice before the U.S. Supreme Court.

The new judge is the former Matawan Borough attorney and former municipal magistrate for Union Beach. He has served as acting magistrate for Keyport and Hazlet.

Mr. La Mura resides in Morganville with his wife, the former Elizabeth Devlin, and their six children. His term will run through Dec., 1974.

Storm Heads Up the Coast

Tropical storm Doria, packing winds of 60 miles per hour, churned toward the North Carolina coast today and residents of the Eastern Seaboard were warned to prepare for heavy rainfall and high tides.

The storm was expected to reach Wilmington, N.C., around noon today.

Weather

Rain heavy at times today, tonight and tomorrow. High today and tomorrow 70-75, low tonight 65-70. Sunday's outlook: Variable cloudiness with chance of showers.

In Long Branch, yesterday's high was 79 degrees and the low was 59. It was 72 at 6 p.m. The overnight low was 65 and the temperature at 7 this morning was 68. There was a .62-inch rainfall.

Showers and thunderstorms late yesterday soaked wide areas of the nation, including portions of the Atlantic Coast, the South, the Southwest, the Ohio Valley and the lower Great Lakes.

More than two inches of rain drenched Akron, Ohio, during the night, while nearly an inch wet Columbia, S. C.

Fair skies and mild temperatures dominated the upper Great Lakes and most of the West.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 41 at Duluth, Minn., to 90 at Phoenix, Ariz.

Bids on Outfall Rejected

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS — Bids on the first section of the ocean outfall line, which totalled 30 per cent more than the estimate, were rejected last night by the Monmouth County Bayshore Outfall Authority.

The authority instead authorized the readvertisement of the contract, with bids accepted at the Sept. 23 meeting.

The bids were received July 8, and included estimates from Slattery Associates, Inc. of Maspeth, N.Y., $5,980,000 and Spinello and Gates Construction Co. of Little Ferry, $6,447,000, on concrete pipe. Spinello & Gates also bid $3,480,000 for steel pipe.

The bids cover installation of 48-inch sewer pipe from Highlands, under the Shrewsbury River and Sandy Hook peninsula and 4,000 feet into the ocean.

Letters Gone Out

The authority is sending letters to the low bidders on the land section and for the pumping station and retention basin at Middletown announcing there intent to award contracts pending appoval of the bids by federal and state regulatory agencies.

Receiving a letter is Verona Contracting Corp., Verona, chosen general contractor for the land section between Highlands and the Middletown treatment plant, $2,390,294, low bid of 16 received on the project.

Contractors for the pumping station and retention basin at the Middletown treatment plant will be: Vernon Fabricating Co., Inc., Robinsville, structural steel and ornamental iron work, $51,768; Keane Construction Co., Inc., Paramus, general construction, $1,480,000; Harrison Associates, Inc., Union Ave., Hazlet, plumbing, $19,226; Sarbo, Inc., Rt. 35, Middletown, heating and ventilating $47,170 and Little Silver Electric, Inc., Birch Ave., Little Silver, electrical, $65,900.

Cost Jump Eyed

With the bidding, the authority discovered the project may cost $7.5 million instead of the originally estimated $6 million.

Chairman Peter F. Beil said the authority decided on the rejection at a special meeting Aug. 13.

"We felt they were far in excess of what we had anticipated and the engineer advised us we may get more competition and better prices by rebidding," Mr. Beil explained.

The project is already seven months behind schedule, but Mr. Beil said the land portion and the pumping station can get underway as soon as approvals of the bids come from the state Department of Environmental Protection and the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

He added that the construction of the first section was shorter than the other two, which have had contracts let.

Accord Is Signed

The first section will be facilitated by an easement granted by the Army Corps of Engineers for 50 years. The authority last night signed the agreement, which provides for the line to be placed under the Sandy Hook Peninsula.

In response to its letter to Governor William T. Cahill about the pollution entering Raritan Bay from New York Harbor, the authority received a communication from the state Department of Environmental Protection.

In the letter, Charles M. Pike, water resources director, said the matter of raw sewage reaching our shores was of "deep concern" to the governor, who has spoken with the New York City officials.

Mr. Pike told the authority that the city is building a pumping station to carry raw sewage from the World Trade Center to a new Brooklyn treatment plant which should end the problem.

He indicated that no legal action would be taken because the city is in the process of correcting the situation.

Allen House Stationery Sale Starts

SHREWSBURY — Volunteer members of the Shrewsbury Association for the Restoration of the Allen House (SARAH) will begin a neighborhood sale of note paper this weekend to help raise funds for the restoration project.

Theodore J. Miller, chairman of SARAH's commemorative committee, said the note paper, which bears a drawing of the Allen House done by Mrs. Robert Stewart of Sycamore Ave., will be sold this weekend and next on a neighborhood basis by SARAH volunteers, many of them teen-agers interested in the restoration work.

SARAH was founded several months ago to help raise funds for the restoration of the Allen House, a 300-year-old home at Broad St. and Sycamore Ave. Its immediate goal is to raise, through local contributions, $5,000 to match the gift of an anonymous donor. The drive so far has received more than $3,000.

Mr. Miller said the note paper packages, containing 10 sheets of paper and envelopes, will be sold for $1.

Top of the News

SAIGON — A watchdog committee of legislators today cited a number of incidents of election rigging by President Nguyen Van Thieu's regime.

Sen. Vu Van Mau, chairman of the election anti-fraud commission made up of 22 senators and deputies, cited the following examples of rigging and irregularities in connection with the lower house election Sunday and the voting Oct.3 for the presidency:

—The Thieu ticket tried to monopolize or hoard the endorsements needed by other candidates to qualify for the ballot. Thieu was required to get only 40 signatures from national assemblymen or 100 from provincial and city councillors, but he wound up with endorsements from 87 deputies, 15 senators and 452 councilmen.

"It is as dishonest," Mau said, "as a merchant hoarding consumer goods."

—The Supreme Court could not explain its reasoning last week in invalidating some endorsements on Thieu's ticket and validating them on Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky's ticket when it had refused to do so only a few days before. Mau said the court "could not hide the fact" that Ky was reinstated because Gen. Duong Van Minh had quit the race, leaving Thieu unopposed.

—A major in the 5th Infantry Division "advised" his men to vote for Nguyen Ba Luong, the present speaker of the lower house. Following complaints by the committee, an army spokesman said he would "slap the face" of anyone who tried to advise him how to vote.

Brig. Gen. Hoan Van Lac, commander of the Quang Trung Training Center, also told his men the army had no right to tell them how to vote.

Electric Cars Bid Is $26 Million

TRENTON — The New Jersey Department of Transportation announced yesterday that it has received a low bid of more than $26 million from General Electric Co. of New York City on a contract to provide 70 high-speed electrified commuter railroad cars for the Penn Central Railroad.

The low bid was for $26,535,610. General Electric outbid three other firms.

All bids will be reviewed before the contract is awarded, state officials said.

The transportation department said the bids were received under a joint effort with the Southeastern Pennsylvania Transportation Authority to obtain lower bids by both agencies.

Red Military Surprises Feared

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon research chief says a Soviet push in military technology could bring "very serious military surprises" in two to three years — and superiority over U.S. technology by the end of the decade.

Dr. John S. Foster Jr., director of defense research, told congressmen June 1 that U.S. intelligence analysis of the Soviets' budget indicates they are now spending $3 billion more than the United States on military research.

This would be about 40 per cent above the Pentagon's $7.8 billion research and development request for this year.

He said U.S. experts don't know what the Soviets are developing but listed "some indications" which were censored out of his closed-door testimony released today by the House defense appropriations subcommittee.

"This extra effort on their part will lead almost certainly to some very serious military surprises if this analysis is correct," Foster testified.

Soledad Murder Trial Slated

SAN FRANCISCO — After a violent, blood-spattered court hearing, a Sept. 20 trial date has been set for two surviving Soledad Brothers accused of murdering a prison guard more than a year and a half ago.

The club and fist swinging melee erupted yesterday after Doris Maxwell, mother of defendant John Clutchette, shouted a vulgarity at the judge in a pretrial hearing and he ordered her ejected.

Two black men jumped up and struggled with police officers and several black women spectators pushed toward Mrs. Maxwell. All were separated from the judge and defendants by a bulletproof glass partition erected in anticipation of possible trouble.

Laundry Detergent Kills Girl

HARTFORD, Conn. — A 15-month-old girl has died from swallowing a handful of a non-phosphate laundry detergent, the director of the Poison Information Center here said Thursday.

Arthur F. Blank said that in 14 years with the poison center he could not recall another infant death from ingestion of any laundry detergent. He said federal authorities were contacted promptly about the fatality.

The child, who lived in Putnam, Conn., died Aug. 15. Blank declined to give her name or the name of the detergent involved, referring those inquiries to the physician who attended the girl, Dr. Harvey Grinsell Jr. of Putnam.

Dr. Grinsell could not immediately be reached.

Object in Fish Net Big Mortar Shell

LEONARDO — Ordnance men at the Naval Ammunition Depot, Earle, have identified an object netted in the ocean last weekend by fishermen as a shell for what was probably the largest conventional gun every developed — a 914 millimeter mortar.

Ordnance literature indicates the weapon was developed by the U.S. Army during World War II to smash fortifications such as the Von Hindenburg Line, Martin Monahan, public information officer at Earle, explained. By the time it was ready for use, however, the fortifications had been penetrated and it was no longer needed, he related.

The shell, just over three feet in bore and about 3½ feet long, originally weighed 3,650 pounds. The shell found last weekend and brought here was without a fuse and its weight was estimated at 3,000 pounds.

The heavily rusted shell was pulled aboard a fishing boat — the 92-foot trawler Zerda, out of Gloucester, Mass. — Sunday about 33 miles southeast of Manasquan. It was placed in an isolation area here until it was identified and dismantled.

Mr. Monahan said the shell, lacking a fuse, was relatively harmless. It was cut apart by ordnance men here and the powder removed.

The Army scrapped the weapon in 1954 and dumped the useless shells. One of the mortars — which the Army had nicknamed "Little David" — is preserved in the ordnance museum at Aberdeen, Md., Mr. Monahan said.

Lib Views Differ Without Clashing

By NANCY KUBINSKI

HOLMDEL — Barbara Distasio, 30, of Long Branch, owner of the popular coffeehouse, The Inkwell, calls herself a radical feminist who believes passivity is not the way to achieve equal rights for women.

Kay Skoog, 25, a medical technician from Long Branch claims the way to win women's liberation is to know oneself through consciousness raising.

And Marcia Mandel, encyclopedia saleswoman from Wanamassa, says women "need organization to keep their heads together."

The different views weren't clashing yesterday, as the three young women became a team of marchers on one of the last laps in the 32-mile "Walk for Women" from Maplewood to the Holmdel County Park for the women's liberation program.

Intense

Where last year's march by 20 members of the Monmouth County National Organization for Women (NOW), in the first show of women's power, was a carnival-type atmosphere with jibes by passersby, yesterday's program was intense and concerned, with devoted followers, among the 150-plus member audience on the grassy slope of the park.

Mrs. Poppy Kennedy of Middletown, founder two years ago of the NOW chapter, organized both the 1970 Red Bank march and yesterday's "Walk for Women."

Patricia Hinfey, president of the county NOW group, said there was little trouble along the march, which started in Maplewood Tuesday morning.

"Oh, there were catcalls and such, mostly from kids, but in Matawan, when 15 of us marched down Main St., the mayor (Victor Armellino) came out of Foodtown," she related.

"I reminded him to include us in his upcoming campaign platform and he said 'Put it in a letter'."

But she added, "The mayor agreed women should be equally represented in government."

Notes Changes

Mrs. Kennedy, pausing a moment from her coordination duties, looked back at the past year and noted some changes in the celebrations of women's rights.

"Last year the observance was more significant to me personally," she recalled, "but the walk today is great because it means so much to so many—all were determined and the walk gave meaning to the entire movement."

Steep Hills

Rising to the occasion were marchers faced with several steep hills along the walk route. Along one such stretch on Van Brackle Road, Mrs. Distasio, explained her goals for liberation.

"We need more radicalism to keep going, to create more interest," she claimed. "I'd rather be militant than wait for legislation. We should go through the county screaming exploitation," she cried.

And together was the program, at which speakers argued for legislation to curb evils heaped on oppressed women and acts of militancy.

One small group of three took megaphones to Bell Laboratories, nearby, to spread the word. Calling secretaries and technicians from the airy lobby of the building here, the trio was escorted gently but firmly outside by guards.

Back at the park, the program was informal, intent, informative. Whatever the mood the message was clear—"Men are the enemy. Politics is the remedy."

Fair Haven Schools Sewer Link Pact Let

FAIR HAVEN — The Board of Education says both of its schools will be hooked into the Northeast Monmouth County Regional Sewerage System by the time school opens.

The board, after considerable debate concerning costs, has awarded a contract to the A.V.P. Contracting Co., Breton Woods, Ocean County, to connect both the Knollwood and the Willow Street Schools into the system.

The firm submitted a bid of $10,660, the lowest of three received, to do the work. This also includes construction of a drainage system to eliminate a flooding condition at the Knollwood School.

The bids had been received last month, but were held because they exceeded estimated costs.

Higher Cost

Board engineer Thomas P. Santry of Rumson, said the reason that the bid exceeded the normal running foot cost charged for private homes is that the contractor would have to install one manhole, 16 "cleanouts," and would be required to repave certain areas.

The cost of the sewer hookup for the school is roughly $9 a foot as compared with an average homeowner cost of $4 per running foot. Installation of the drain will cost $1,240.

In other business, the board accepted the annual audit from Seaman, Seaman & Osliso, board auditors, and reappointed the firm to make next year's audit. There were no recommendations contained in this year's audit.

The board gave approval for the continuation of the Title I program designed to aid disadvantaged children in reading.

It hired Mrs. Marilyn Grammar of New Shrewsbury, and Mrs. Catherine Forbes of Red Bank, as instructors at up to $7 an hour depending upon the state's wage determination rate.

The following were hired as substitute teachers for the coming year:

Mrs. Vivian Brooks, Mrs. Rosemary Edelen, and Mrs. Lynne McHeffey, all of Red Bank; Mrs. Joan Fair, Mrs. Patricia Lynn, Mrs. Marilyn Millar, and Mrs. Marguerite Stender, all of Little Silver.

Also, Mrs. Anna Johnson of New Shrewsbury, Mrs. Eleanor Messina of Atlantic Highlands, Mrs. Arlene Siderman of West Long Branch, Mrs. Mary Smith of Eatontown, and Mrs. Linda Skehan, Avon.

And Mrs. Carolyn Feist, Mrs. Harriet Gabel, Mrs. Joan Hamilton, Mrs. Judy Hull, Mrs. Joan King, Mrs. Helga Lob, Mrs. Elizabeth Memmott, Mrs. Janet Puhlfuerst, Mrs. Patricia Campbell, Mrs. Suzanne Pryor, Mrs. Andrea Manley, and Mrs. Patricia Schultz, all of Fair Haven.

Lunch Aides

Hired as lunch hour aides were Mrs. Fredericka Anderson of Fair Haven, and Mrs. Frances Consovoy of Little Silver. Hired as a special class aide was Mrs. Marilyn Maloney of Fair Haven.

Schools open here Sept. 8 with registration of new students being held the week of Aug. 30.

Japan To Let Yen Float

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese government will let the yen float on the foreign exchange market beginning tomorrow, the Foreign Ministry announced today.

The government's action, after two weeks of trying to hold the yen to a parity of 360 to the dollar, was a major victory for President Nixon's program to put the U.S. trade balance back into the black.

The yen, which was considerably undervalued, was the chief target of Nixon's announcement Aug. 15 suspending the gold standard and putting a 10 per cent surcharge on imports into the United States.

Women's Lib Rally Talks Urge Action

another direct attack on church officials' anti-abortion stand, denouncing them as "friends of the fetus."

Not Around

"They aren't much on women. And they aren't around when the child is born and needs day care. By that time they're in love with another fetus."

By the time she was winding up her talk, a cold rain was falling a small group of young male hecklers had moved on, and the crowd remaining was huddling down into ponchos, blankets and mackinaws.

Mrs. Heidi called for help in raising the $100,000 needed to support a women's rights legislative lobby in Washington.

Susan Tolchin, co-author of "To the Victor," a stuty in political patronage, urged women to seek out the more powerful patronage jobs, not the honorary ones usually afforded them.

If women had more political power, she said, "perhaps governmental priorities would be shifted" to schools or other more publicly oriented purposes.

Faye Yaeger, coordinator of the New Jersey State Political Caucus, said that "women have been systematically excluded from political power.

"And like any other minority group, they're slowly and painfully learning a political fact of life—letter writing and complaining aren't enough."

Mrs. Heidi, however, urged more writing to bring about legal changes to ensure women's rights.

"Right on," a cry that rang out frequently through the session, could well equal "write on," she said.

Marlboro Moth Battle Sparks Call for Audit

June 11th, and cost $1,750. He said that when his office received complaints from residents in areas which were not sprayed, the firm was contracted again to spray on July 2, at a cost of $1,190.

Contract Issue

Last night, Mr. Minogue viewed all the work done by the Ag firm as being part of one contract costing a total of $4,340. He said that if the bill is paid, the township might be violating a state statute governing the bidding for contracts.

The attorney said that according to state law, any contract with a township for an amount in excess of $2,500 can be awarded only after it is put up for bids. Mr. Minogue maintained that if all the work done by the Ag firm falls under one contract exceeding $2,500, and since no bidding took place for the spraying, the council would be indicted for a misdemeanor if the bill is paid.

Withholding Asked

Mr. Minogue, therefore, requested that the bill not be paid last night. He suggested that the bill be investigated, and that sworn statements be obtained from the mayor, business administrator, and Martin Rotheim, township director of finance.

"The question council should ask is why was one firm not engaged to do all the spraying," Mr. Minogue said, indicating that in such case, the contract would have been let out for bids.

This turn of events upset Mayor Morton Salkind. He questioned why the matter was not brought up at the council caucus last week.

The mayor said that he would not object if a council member objected to payment of the bill "because he would be a resident."

"And, you could vote him out of office if you were unhappy with the decision," the mayor pointed out.

"However, Mr. Minogue is not a resident, and you can't vote him out," Mayor Salkind said.

The mayor then maintained that the two sprayings undertaken by the Ag firm were done under two separate contracts. Council President John J. McLaughlin, the mayor's political foe, said that he also believed that the sprayings were done under two different contracts.

However, the council president said that "the legal officer of the township has made a legal ruling, and if we do not follow it, we may not be protected legally."

Mr. Minogue also pointed out that the state statute in question refers to all contracts over $2,500 spanning a one year period. This point brought Councilman Lawrence S. Grossman to his feet.

The councilman said that in that case, all legal advertising given to newspapers should be examined. He said that the advertising given to one newspaper serving the township amounts to over $2,500 a year.

Mr. Grossman extended the question further when he pointed out that many firms present several bills over a year's period which total more than $2,500. He suggested that perhaps all of those bills should be reviewed.

The councilman said further that the whole question centers around one thing: The intent of the business administrator.

Mr. Grossman said that the spraying bill from the Ag firm could be considered a violation of state statute only if Mr. Hartnett deliberately split the bills for the two sprayings, for the express purpose of evading the state statute.

At this point, Mayor Salkind stated that the $2,500 ceiling did not apply to the case in point since the sprayings were undertaken under emergency conditions.

However, just after the mayor's statement, Mr. Rotheim handed him a handwritten note which read:

"Because of the serious question concerning the bidding practices of the township since Jan. 1, 1970 to date, I request a review be made of financial matters over this period and that legal counsel be appointed to represent my department in case of any taxpayer suits."

"Until this can be done, I am stating that we cannot pay any new bills. I, therefore, withdraw my approvals on all vouchers" listed for payment last night.

Councilman John Williams then moved that payment of all but three bills be deferred.

Protests Stall Rumson Parks Code

RUMSON – Council continued the hearing on the controversial parks ordinance to Sept. 9 last night to consider residents' objections.

The ordinance limits the use of borough parks to borough residents who must purchase a badge for $1 and prohibits picnicking, loud noise and garbage in the parks.

It also regulates what clothing may be worn by tennis players at the borough courts and prohibits docking boats at the borough dock.

Rumson attorney Brian Boyle, speaking as a resident, opposed the ordinance. Many of his comments brought nods and smiles from the audience.

He argued that noise is part of many recreational activities usually found in parks and becomes a "by-product of a park."

He also said the ordinance, which bans offensive and unnecessary noise, "much too vague."

Mr. Boyle cited a U.S. Supreme Court decision rendered earlier this year that made the point: Conduct that annoys some people, doesn't necessarily annoy others.

"Men of common intelligence must guess at the meaning" of offensive and unnecessary noise, the attorney stated.

Mr. Boyle charged the regulation requiring "proper attire" on the tennis courts, as well as the noise provisions, are "sufficiently vague to let the police decide" what is offensive or proper.

He said the ordinance could be interpreted as allowing only players attired in white shorts and white shirts on the tennis courts.

Curb Is Hit

If the ordinance is strictly enforced and only residents are allowed to use the parks, it is unfair, Mr. Boyle said.

But if it was written "to keep certain elements out of the parks . . . with selective enforcement, the ordinance goes against the basic principals of this country," Mr. Boyle declared.

The attorney said he had been told the borough didn't plan to enforce the ordinance to the letter and fine or jail friends and relatives of residents for using the parks without a Rumson badge in which case the ordinance "hands all discretion to the police department."

Another resident of the borough made the point that limiting use of the parks to residents may have an effect on athletic programs at Rumson-Fair Haven Regional High School.

He reminded the council that students from both communities attend the high school and school sports programs, tennis in particular, may suffer if Fair Haven students can't play on Rumson courts.

Concept Questioned

Mr. Boyle further questioned the concept of requiring certain information for the badge and $1 charge.

He said because the ordinance only states a resident must give "information as required" to the borough to receive a parks badge, it provides a carte blanche for borough officials who want to know a resident's religion or occupation which the borough "has no right or need to know."

The charge for the badge, Mr. Boyle said, is a means of raising municipal revenue and therefore, illegal.

Mr. Boyle attacked the ban on picnicking by asking, "What's the prupose of a park?" and said the provision "seems to make a park almost useless."

Council granted a use variance to Rumson Country Day School which plans to add a $500,000 wing to its facility, Bellevue Ave.

The addition, a two story structure to the east of the current building, will house lower grades freeing space in the main building for the upper grades.

To Reopen Nursery Sept. 13

LONG BRANCH – The Shore Area YMCA Nursery School at the Long Branch facility, 404 Broadway, is preparing to open on Monday, Sept. 13, for the third year.

The nursery school, State approved and certified, is under the direction of Mrs. Frances Zavin, here., Children ages 3, 4 and 5 are eligible to enrol. Last year was a most successful one and a maximum enrolment is anticipated this season.

Mrs. Zavin and her staff have developed a program to help the child of nursery school age form important basic attitudes toward himself, the children and adults around him as well as the world in which he lives. The school also helps the child in what is usually his first group experience away from the shelter of his home and family.

During each session the child is offered the opportunity to explore the world around him by many experiences in the classroom, by visiting parks, the Post Office, the fire and police departments and other important and educational activities.

Other activities related to creative crafts, rhythm instruments, science projects, elementary games, dance and gym are all incorporated to help develop coordination and confidence in the child.

Cut School Budget OK'd in Keansburg

KEANSBURG – In a compromise measure, the Board of Education last night agreed to accept Borough Council's $20,000 cut in the 1971-72 school budget.

Council originally cut $39,500 from the $973,195 current expense budget, but Peter L. Graham, board secretary, last night revealed that the two bodies met in closed session last Monday night and agreed on the compromise amount.

"I feel that this cut is arbitrary, but certain teachers have resigned and others have been hired at a lower rate, and I believe we can handle it.

"And if President Nixon's wage freeze goes into effect, we would like the taxpayers to benefit by it," the board secretary said.

As to the building of 15 to 20 modular type classrooms, Thomas E. Kinlin, board president, announced the board has narrowed its choice to two companies.

There is $415,000 in building aid allocated by the state Department of Education and a firm will have to be chosen by Sept. 3 at a special meeting, so that it can go to referendum Oct. 12.

"We have the money and we want to use it wisely," he stated.

In response to a question from the public, Mr. Kinlin revealed that furniture for the classrooms is included in the amount.

'Let's Ask Him—It's Better Than Getting Lost!'

Middletown's Big Decision

Middletown has postponed introduction of an ordinance to create a zone for industrial parks to permit time for a marketability study of industrial areas in the township.

The Township Committee's action followed a recommendation of the Industrial Development Task Force, members of which coupled their request with a statement: "In fairness to all concerned, we would like to obtain a land usage study from a professional group who specialize in this work."

As has been mentioned before in these columns, the Task Force members have been eminently fair in presenting their findings and inviting questions from Middletown residents. Even though the public hearings they scheduled were designed to be enlightening and to keep controversy at a minimum, just the opposite resulted.

The 30-day wait, under the circumstances that prevail in Middletown, undoubtedly is a wise move. It will give residents another opportunity to place the issue in proper perspective, and one more assurance that the contemplated change in zoning is in the best interest of all township residents.

In praising the work of the Task Force members, Mayor Harold H. Foulks said he intends to see to it that the creation of an industrial park doesn't become a political football. We hope he succeeds because there have been too many indications that the kicking around of the Task Force members has been politically motivated.

The search for ratables which will relieve homeowners of increasingly severe property taxes is important to Middletown's future. The attempt to gather still more information about industrial parks is another admirable example of how the Task Force has been trying to assist the township's governing body and their neighbors in reaching a vital decision.

Chile's Allende in Trouble

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

INSIDE WASHINGTON

The Communist-Socialist regime of Chile's president Salvador Allende is increasingly running into stormy and potentially fateful waters.

The doesn't mean the end of this ultra-leftist government is in the immediate offing. There are no signs of that – as yet. But there are a number of striking indications that Allende and his extremist cohorts are encountering mounting strains and stresses that could lead to an overturn – in one way or another.

Profoundly significant in this portentous situation are three background factors:

–Chilean military leaders quietly but emphatically intervening in matters they deem of crucial moment to the security and independence of the country.

–The growing political vigor and resistance of non-leftist elements.

–Steadily worsening economic conditions and spreading inflation due to high labor absenteeism, seriously declining productivity, excessive wage and other demands, coupled with widespread mismanagement, waste and other gross failings that commonly characterize Communist rule – graphically demonstrated in Cuba, where a decade of Marxist mismanagement has brought that island to universal rationing and virtual economic ruin. It is kept going largely because of $1.5 million a day aid from Russia.

Only time will tell how Allende and his Communist-Socialist henchmen cope with these intensifying dilemmas and grave hazards.

He is obviously uneasily well aware of them. He couldn't help being. They are daily making themselves forcefully and ominously evident. But Allende still has to manifest that he has the ability and fortitude to effectively deal with them.

So far, the only thing he has done to curb labor and other extremists is to give vent to mildly reproving lectures – and to confer lengthily with radical union chiefs and other leftists. At a recent meeting, he talked with heads of the political parties comprising the Popular Unity coalition, one of his principal supporters, on growing labor and production difficulties in the large copper mines.

ALLEN

The Allende regime is in the process of nationalizing these huge properties – in which U.S. concerns have big interests.

Chilean labor leaders have long clamored and agitated for nationalization of the copper mines. Ironically, now that this aim is about to be achieved, production is drastically falling due to widespread absenteeism, as high as 40 per cent in El Teniente and Chuquicamata, largest of the mines, unauthorized strikes, and costly damages to expensive machinery and equipment – as a result of either deliberate sabotage, inexperience or incompetence, or all three.

New Fight for Single Taxpayers

By SYLVIA PORTER

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

About 30 million taxpayers in the U.S. are single – the never-been-married, the widowed, the divorced. Increasingly angry about federal tax laws that force single persons to pay higher rates than married persons earning the same incomes, leaders of this group have formed a new organization to lobby to end discrimination against the unmarried. This nonpartisan, nonprofit organization is called CO$T (for Committee of Single Taxpayers), is based in Washington, D.C., and has as co-chairmen of its advisory board two former senators of widely differing political viewpoints: Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota and George Murphy of California.

Here is how McCarthy and Murphy explain the problems of single taxpayers and what CO$T intends to do about them.

20 Per Cent More

Q. How much more does a single taxpayer have to pay than a married person with the same income? A. The penalty can be as high as 20 per cent. For instance, using the standard deduction, a married couple earning $10,000 in 1971 will pay $270 less than a single individual. At $20,000 the difference is $850. At $36,000, the difference is $1,950 in taxes.

Q. What reform legislation is pending now? A. There are identical bills in both the House and Senate. The Senate bill, introduced by Sen. Ribicoff of Connecticut and the House bill, introduced by Rep. Koch of New York, would treat single persons on the same basis as married couples for tax purposes. There are 133 co-sponsors of the House bill and hearings are slated before the House Ways and Means Committee this fall.

Q. How do you rank the Tax Reform Act of 1969 on this question? A. It didn't go far enough. It reduced the difference in tax rates between single and married persons: the differential used to be as high as 42 per cent. The reforms acknowledged that the old rates were confiscatory but they did not really tackle the essential unfairness of a system of separate tax rates.

Q. Where is the major inequity in today's system? A. It is in the area of income-splitting – which has been part of our tax laws since 1948 and which got into our laws by accident – as a result of court rulings that dealt with taxing the earnings of families in community property states. To achieve some kind of uniformity, Congress wrote into law that all married couples filing joint returns could enjoy the benefits of income-splitting. This solved a problem for married couples, but it didn't touch the tax burden carried by single citizens. While it is often argued that income-splitting helps married couples finance the costs of bringing up children, the truth is the law gives a couple this benefit whether or not they have children. A widower or divorcee with children to care for has no such tax benefit, even though his or her responsibilities may be equal to that of a married couple with children.

Crime and Punishment

By JIM BISHOP

THE REPORTER

It is a masterpiece of irony to say that the criminal never had a worse enemy than Carl Loeb Jr., and the prisoner never had a better friend. Mr. Loeb is bald and sixtyish, hard of mind and soft of speech, one of the best known metallurgists in the country. Most of his time is spent studying the metal in jail bars.

For years, he has devoted his energy to telling America that its system of crime and punishment is inexcusable and expensive. As president of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, Carl Loeb reached conclusions in 1960 which bar associations are approaching now.

Stated simply, the National Council believes that criminals who injure others, or represent a threat to society, should be placed behind bars for "indeterminate sentences," which means anything from one day to life. They should not be released until competent authorities determine that they are no longer a menace to others.

On the other hand, the jails are choked with prisoners whose "crimes" do not menace others, but who cost the taxpayers billions of dollars a year. These are vagrants, prostitutes, drunks, gamblers and homosexuals. A group of penologists learned that, in Washington, D.C., six drunks had been arrested 1,409 times and, collectively, served 125 years in prison at a cost of $600,000.

The drunk who drives is another dangerous animal. The vagrant is usually a harmless bum who will not work. Prostitution existed in biblical times and will not be eradicated. Roman gamblers rolled dice for the clothes of Jesus, and gambling will always be with us. Pious puritanical America is ready to acknowledge that there are such people as consenting homosexuals, and when they are sent to prison, they spread their inverted philosophy of love.

Loeb feels that the "victimless" criminal should not be arrested. With him, as co-chairmen of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, which has headquarters in Paramus, N. J., are men of substance: Tom Clark, retired Supreme Court justice; William Scranton, former governor of Pennsylvania; James Roche, chairman of General Motors; Roy Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP, and George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO.

All are agreed that it is pointless to arrest the narcotics addict – and the word narcotics here means heroin – because cure is improbable. On the other hand, they believe that the narcotics pusher should get a life sentence. The addict, instead of going to court, should be sent to a clinic.

Recently, when Mayor John Lindsay proposed to add 5,000 men to a 28,000-man police force, Loeb stated: "You are putting more police on the street to arrest more people who will be held in jails which are already 50 per cent overcrowded, where they will wait up to a year to get a trial in a glutted court."

Organized crime lifts $20 billion from American wallets every year. Loeb, who is not a gambler, favors state and federal lotteries and legalized gambling to siphon the $20 billion a year into Ft. Knox. Another irony: his group is opposed to wiretapping, except in matters relating to organized crime. "It's the only way you can catch them," he says.

The school truant, the attempted suicide, euthanasia, pornography, abortions and liquor law violations may win headlines for the police chief and the sheriff, but they impose additional burdens on law-abiding citizens and transmute neophyte jailbirds into hardened criminals. In any year, 1,500,000 persons are arrested for intoxication – 25 per cent of all arrests. Runaways accounted for 159,000 arrests, calculated to give a forlorn child a headstart in crime.

In all, 51 per cent of arrests everywhere are for offenses which neither hurt nor menace society. If these were removed from the criminal code, the taxpayer would save an additional $2 billion per year. Recently, when New York added a wing to Riker's Island jail, the cost came to $40,000 per cell.

Was Carl Loeb Jr., the great penologist, ever arrested? Yes, in 1935. He was driving from Michigan to New York and a Jersey City cop stopped him. The officer studied the license. "Got anything in the car?" "Nothing," said Mr. Loeb happily, "except my hunting rifle." He was in headquarters a half hour before his father phoned. "Let him go," he counselled, "but keep the rifle." They kept it. Now look what they started . .

BISHOP

Welcome, Alexander's

The announcement this week that the New York based Alexander's department store will replace the Montgomery Ward store in Monmouth Shopping Center, Eatontown, is significant.

Expected to be open by this time next year, the store's acquisition is part of a $20 million expansion program that is being directed by Alexander's president, Milton E. Mermelstein of Ocean Township, an attorney who is described as part of a "new breed of retailers" whose formula is accepted by the public at a time when long established New York stores have been forced to close.

Mr. Mermelstein said his firm decided on the Eatontown move because a market research indicated that the rapidly growing Monmouth area fits its pattern of expansion and because it showed that county residents will be "receptive to Alexander's merchandising philosophy of offering the customer low prices and fashion leaders."

Started in the Bronx 42 years ago, Alexander's growth has been much the same as Monmouth County's population expansion. Now operating nine stores in the metropolitan area, the firm's acceptance by the public has encouraged it to spread out to New Jersey. Also in the negotiation stage is its acquisition of a seven-store chain in Florida.

Mr. Mermelstein recently said that Monmouth would be a logical place for his department store to locate. It speaks well for the county's business health and it's pleasing that our retail community is gaining such an asset. We welcome Alexander's and we're proud its management thinks so highly of this area.

The Fair in Fair Haven

A parade will start at 5 p.m. tomorrow in Fair Haven and shortly thereafter, one of the county's truly traditional summer events will get under way. We refer, of course, to the Fair Haven Firemen's Fair.

Except for a period in and after World War II, the fair has been staged annually since 1921, and it has grown so much in popularity that it now is regarded as the second largest in the state. The 31,000 people who visited it last year give an idea of how attractive it is.

Except for Sunday, it will be in full swing each night through a week from tomorrow. It represents a great deal of planning and preparation by members of the volunteer department and its loyal auxiliary, but the labor seems to be compensated by the fact that the members look forward to it and enjoy it immensely.

The teens and the very young will be there for the music, rides, games, refreshments and fun, but also in the crowd will be many who attended the first fair and have come back each year to renew acquaintances with Fair Haven residents and others from throughout the county.

It all adds up to a full week of pleasure for all members of the family. We heartily recommend it to newcomers to the area. It isn't just fair, it's wonderful.

Fort Isn't Guilty of Pollution

FROM OUR READERS

20 Irving Place
Eatontown, N. J.

To the Editor:

For the past few years and more recently, editorials and newspaper articles have urged Ft. Monmouth to become a customer of the Northeast Monmouth County Regional Sewage Treatment Facility. Early articles have called the Ft. Monmouth plant outdated and antiquated and have insinuated it produced a poor quality effluent. More recent articles describe the sighting of floating debris, a preponderance of mosquitoes and flies, and odor at the outfall; and this is presented as further proof of its inefficiency.

The Ft. Monmouth Plant uses the activated sludge process. It is a tried and true method for secondary treatment of sewage. This type of plant is still being built, and, in fact, the Northeast Monmouth County Regional Sewage Authority's treatment plant is a modification of the activated sludge process.

Ft. Monmouth uses digesters to treat raw sludge. The sludge is digested until it is rendered nonputrescible and inoffensive, air-dried on sand beds, removed, and used for fertilizer by the Grounds Section.

The Northeast Monmouth County Regional Sewage Authority will dispose of their approximately 135 thousand gallons a day or 49 million gallons per year raw sludge by thickening, accumulating and chlorinating. They will thicken to raise the solid content and remove water; accumulate until the sludge barge returns for another load; and chlorinate to control odor and prevent septic action during the holding period.

Once on the barge this thickened mass will be towed to sea and dumped into the Atlantic Ocean to further decompose.

Reports of analysis by the State Department of Environmental Protection, and the Federal Water Pollution Control Authority have shown Ft. Monmouth's complete sewage treatment process to be 95 per cent of the less than 0.1 per cent sewage which is organic and inorganic solids. The remaining 99.9 per cent is water.

There is no floating debris in our effluent. If there were, our removal would not be 95 per cent efficient.

There is no preponderance of flies and mosquitoes at the outfall. The Ft. Monmouth etomologists fog and spray weekly the entire federal property especially the entire length of Parker's Creek, as well as the Sewage Treatment Plant area. Mosquito traps are strategically placed and maintained daily by the military personnel of the Preventive Medicine Section at Patterson Army Hospital. Mosquitoes are typed, counted and analyzed.

There is no foul odor at the outfall. The only faintly detectable odor at the outfall is that of chlorine in the chlorinated effluent.

No proof was ever submitted to prove that Ft. Monmouth has ever polluted the river. It is now extensively cited without ever having a chance to correct purported deficiencies. In all fairness, at least a year's testing will be required to determine any influence of Ft. Monmouth's effluent on Parker's Creek. Since most deficiencies mentioned seem false, little credibility can be assigned to the entire report.

It seems that pressure has been brought to bear on the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection by outside parties making it less than an impartial fact-finding body.

Ft. Monmouth should at least be extended the courtesy of having a disinterested engineering organization either confirm or contradict the findings of the State Department of Environmental Protection and then determine, if so required, the best and most economical method to dispose of the effluent without discharging it into Parker's Creek.

The commanding general has already stated that this will be done. The results of this investigation should be known before the Army is forced to spend $1.5 million of the hard-pressed taxpayers dollars unnecessarily.

Sincerely, Ormond R. Hyers

Clerics Will Be Re-Thinking Euthanasia Issue

RELIGION TODAY

By LESTER KINSOLVING

"If there is no reasonable expectation of my recovery from physical or mental disability, I -------- request that I be allowed to die and not be kept alive by artificial means or heroic measures."

This sample directive, addressed: "To My Family, My Physician, My Clergyman and My Lawyer," is a form suggested to the Euthanasia Society Educational Fund at 250 W. 57th St. in New York City.

And while the word euthanasia (mercy killing) is still anathema to most civil and ecclesiastical legislatures, a growing segment of the populace appears to be in agreement with the rest of this proposed directive:

"Death is as much a reality as birth, growth, maturity and old age – it is the one certainty. I do not fear death as much as I fear the indignity of deterioration, dependence and hopeless pain. I ask that drugs be mercifully administered to me for terminal suffering even if they hasten the moment of death.

"This request is made while I am in good health and spirits. Although this document is not legally binding, you who care for me will, I hope, feel morally bound to follow its mandates. I recognize that it places a heavy burden of responsibility upon you, and it is with the intention of sharing that responsibility and of mitigating any feelings of guilt that this statement is made."

A widespread adoption of this carefully worded statement might well cause more than one clergy leader or legislator to re-think the present status quo – where a suffering animal is without hesitation given the same merciful release which human beings are denied.

Some clergy cite the commandment "Thou shalt do no murder" in opposing euthanasia. But euthanasia (from the Greek, meaning "good death") is not killing with malice, but with mercy aforethought. Moreover, it is not a choice between life and death – but rather between two forms of death: one that is swift and merciful, the other which is long and agonizing, with progressive and often horrible deterioration.

More than one clergyman, including Henry P. Van Dusen and Henry Sloan Coffin, has challenged the idea that God's will cannot operate through the hypodermic of a merciful physician – but must wait upon the hideous proclivities of a creeping carcinoma.

And even so conservative a Pontiff as Pope Pius XII held it morally permissible, if life is ebbing hopelessly, "to permit the patient, already virtually dead, to pass on in peace."

The Bible finds no more condemnation in the suicides of Saul and Samson (under extreme circumstances) than does history condemn such suicides as Hannibal, Cleopatra, Seneca and Aristotle, all of whom were faced with torture.

Admittedly, if voluntary euthanasia were ever enacted into law, there might be abuses. But the rarity of such abuses in a carefully designed and supervised law would hardly approximate the hideous and agonizing abuse which a legalistic society has inflicted upon so many of the slowly dying.

A case in point was Jonathan Swift. This priest-journalist's tragic death is vividly recounted by one biographer:

"It took him eight years to die, while his brain rotted . . . knives had to be kept entirely out of his reach . . . for the last three years he sat and drooled. When the end came, his fits of convulsions lasted 36 hours."

Five years before the end, Swift wrote in utter pathos to his niece: "I am so stupid and confounded that I cannot express the mortification I am under, both of body and soul!" But in those days (as today) his Church's litany pleaded:

" . . . And from sudden death, Good Lord, deliver us."

FUN AHEAD — Members of committee planning family picnic, sponsored by the Monmouth County Federation, Holy Name Societies, discuss details of event, scheduled for Sept. 12 from noon to 6:30 p.m. in Holmdel Park. They are, from left, Andrew E. Ruscil, chairman; Frank A. Puglia, federation president; John F. Cordes, games chairman; Bernard V. Ricciardi, secretary of federation, and Richard E. Merlino, vice president.

Plan Holy Name Picnic

HOLMDEL – The Monmouth County Federation, Holy Name Societies, is sponsoring a family picnic at Holmdel Park on Sunday, Sept. 12, from noon to 6:30 p.m.

All members of the society are invited, together with their wives, children and special guests.

Andrew E. Ruscil is chairman. For further information, he may be reached any Wednesday or Friday evening at Ruscil's Furniture and Art Gallery, 25-27 E. Front St., Red Bank.

Families planning to attend are asked to bring their own food. Soda, beer and watermelon will be served free.

There is no admission charge and Area C of the park has been reserved. Parking is free.

Contests for children and adults will begin at 2 p.m. Prizes will be awarded to the children.

Westside Salute Due at Carlton

RED BANK – A "Salute to the Westside" will be presented live on the stage of the Carlton Theater, Monmouth St., Sunday at 8 p.m.

Given in conjunction with the showing at 6 and 9 p.m. of the all-black film, "Shaft," the panel discussion by leaders of the borough's black community will highlight the philosophies and ideologies being used to help solve on-going social and physical disabilities.

Conceived by Jack M. Rein, manager of the Carlton and president of the Red Bank Jaycees, the informative session and its subsequent question and answer period is aimed at an audience of 1,000 to 1,500.

Mr. Rein estimates that many will come to view the highly-acclaimed movie about an intelligent black detective, played by Richard Roundtree, with music by Isaac Hayes.

And to these teen-agers, adults and senior citizens, Mr. Rein and Clarence Brown, superintendent of the Red Bank MCAP area, hope to bring messages of peace and work.

They've invited 10 leaders of the borough's black community to speak on the particular contributions of the agencies they represent, all with the aim of informing the public, dramatically and realistically, of the care being devoted daily to the welfare of the so-called "Westside.

"The creativity of the blacks is amply illustrated in the film," Mr. Rein says. "We want to highlight the efforts right here, in Red Bank, to make living tolerable and fair."

Mr. Brown adds: "Leadership will be shown by our panelists, all distinguished members of the community. The needed ingredients for cures to help heal many wounds will be exposed."

Invited to appear on stage, and make expositions of their organizations' endeavors, are: Mr. Brown as moderator; Thomas Carter, Red Bank Community Center; Capt. Robert Scott, police department; Hosie Scott, YMCA; Mrs. Lillian Reevey, Red Bank Concerned Citizens; Randolph Phillips, MCAP; Stafford Thompson, NAACP; Howard "Sonny" Thornton, Project Harmony; Mrs. Mary Wilson, public welfare; Charles Clark, Monmouth County Welfare Board; Mrs. Carol Forehand, welfare rights organization; Mrs. Elvira Stevens, Mothers' Club, and Mrs. Margaret Mann, Board of Education.

Special guests will include Mayor Daniel J. O'Hern, Jack T. Phinney, executive vice president of the Red Bank Area Chamber of Commerce, and the ministers who serve the Westside.

An added attraction will be Miss Beverly Ross, newly-crowned Miss Westside.

PLANNING THE PROGRAM — Jack Rein, manager of Red Bank's Carlton Theatre, left, discusses with Police Capt. Robert Scott and Clarence Brown of the Monmouth Community Action Program, plans for Sunday night's presentation of "Salute to the Westside" in the theater. The program will combine the showing of the all-black film "Shaft" with an on-stage discussion by leaders of the community's black community on current problems and their solution. A large audience is expected.

SOME HIGH SPOTS

BUENA VISTA, Colo. (AP) — Nestled in a valley close to where the Continental Divide reaches its highest point in North America, this town took its name from Spanish explorers who called it "Beautiful View" when they traversed the area seeking passes through the Rockies.

Within a few miles there are 16 peaks topping 14,000 feet, several of them dominating the town as they rise on its outskirts a mile and a quarter above the valley floor.

2 at Fort Receive High Civilian Honor

FT. MONMOUTH – Two ranking officials of the Army Signal School, Joseph Frank and Melvin F. Werksman, joined the small group of its staff and faculty who have been decorated with the Meritorious Civilian Service Medal.

Brig. Gen. Richard C. Horne, 3rd, commandant, made the presentation of the award – the second highest for civilian employes in the federal government – at separate ceremonies at the school headquarters.

Dr. Frank, since 1952 the director of the Instructional Methods Division – widely known as the "Charm School" – received the award for his "immediate contributions" throughout his civil service career to the "educational development of the Signal School staff and faculty."

The citation for the decoration states that Dr. Frank's instructional training methods have been recognized as outstanding "throughout all service schools," and the techniques developed by him are "utilized by other federal and state agencies."

Dr. Frank, who holds the master's degree and doctorate from Teacher's College, Columbia University, New York, served in the Mediterranean theater during World War II and holds the rank of major in the Reserves. He joined the Signal School faculty as a civilian in 1948, later becoming chief of what has developed into the Signal School's Instructional Methods Division.

The author of numerous articles on educational techniques, Dr. Frank appears frequently on lecture platforms and also is a member of the Monmouth College faculty, department of teacher education.

He holds membership in many societies and professional associations, including Phi Delta Kappa and American Association of University Professors. He is vice president for education of the Armed Forces Communications Electronics Association and a director of the Association of the United States Army.

Mr. Werksman, who has been Signal School comptroller since 1950, received the high award based on his achievements as financial manager of the Signal School.

The citation for the medal emphasizes the many significant "innovations in the comptroller field" made during Mr. Werksman's tenure. It is noted that he has utilized "his astute financial ability" in solving the "many problems generated by increased mission" of the Signal School and its declining budgets in recent times.

He started his civil service career in 1946 with the Veterans Administration and joined the school staff in 1948. During World War II, he served with the 38th Infantry Division and, later, with the Signal Corps School and the Signal Engineering Laboratories at Ft. Monmouth. He was recalled to active duty during the Korean War and holds the rank of lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Army Reserve.

Mr. Werksman received his undergraduate degree in 1948 from American University, Washington. He also has attended Columbus School of Law, Washington, and Monmouth College, and has been graduated from various military and industrial management courses.

He is a past president of the Ft. Monmouth Chapter, Armed Forces Communications Electronics Association, and is on its executive committee. He is a member of the American Management Association, the Armed Forces Management Association, the Federal Government Accountants Association, and the Association of the United States Army.

Mr. Werksman and his wife, Natalie, reside in West Long Branch with their children, Paul, 19, and Lisa, 13. Dr. and Mrs. Frank also are West Long Branch residents.

4 out of 5 standout lawns are fed in the Fall!

Three independent surveys were conducted this past Spring among lawnowners. Results showed that 4 out of 5 standout lawns were fertilized in the Fall.

TURF BUILDER is the fertilizer we highly recommend for Fall fertilizing. It releases its nutrients only as fast as the grass can use them. So there's no spindly surge growth to cause extra mowing. Instead, TURF BUILDER produces a thicker, greener, sturdier lawn—this Fall and next Spring too.

Riverview Wing to Get First Patients Monday

RED BANK – During the first week of October 1970 – less than a year ago – bulldozers dug into the parking area near the emergency entrance to make way for Riverview Hospital's new Kridel Wing.

Monday, the first patients will be cared for in its new emergency treatment center which is about 80 per cent complete. On the floor above, offices will soon be occupied by nursing administration and in-service education, the personnel department, and the pathology department.

After a year of upheaval, particularly in the emergency treatment area, it is heartening to the staff to see this new addition to Riverview beginning to function.

11 Rooms

The new emergency area has 11 treatment and examining rooms for cardiac patients, those with fractures and the multitude of patients needing prompt attention for injuries and sudden serious illness of various kinds. This new enlarged facility makes it possible to care for as many as 14 patients at one time. There is a fully equipped nurses' station, doctor's room so that a physician can be in attendance 24 hours a day right in the unit, a first aid room in addition to a comfortable waiting room for those who frequently come with the patients. The entire wing is air-conditioned.

The need for these new enlarged facilities was emphasized by the president of Riverview Hospital's board of governors, Frank F. Blaisdell, during the campaign for funds which the community so enthusiastically supported.

"In 1963, just seven years ago, 30,500 patients were treated in our emergency rooms. Last year, 1970, nearly 40,000 were cared for," Mr. Blaisdell said. "In addition to the population growth in the area Riverview serves, the new methods and techniques of medical care call for increasing use of these facilities," he added.

The hospital's administrator, John K. Pawlowski, commended the effort of the emergency room staff during the past year while the building was going on. "At times walls were being demolished right next to where they were trying to work," he said, "and yet no one ever complained. We all appreciate what they put up with."

There are some innovations on the floor above which includes the addition of a 140-seat lecture hall – something the hospital has needed for a long time.

The addition will be called the Kridel Wing because of substantial gifts from the Bertha and Florence Kridel Foundation and in memory of the family who have been generous donors to Riverview through the years. The emergency treatment center will be dedicated to the memory of John H. Daniels Jr., a former administrator, and the auditorium will be dedicated to Harry H. Neuberger, former senior vice president of the board of governors.

Club's Owners Seek Residency OK

HOLMDEL – The Zoning Board of Adjustment will decide next month whether use of the tennis professional's living quarters at the Holmdel Tennis Club may be expanded to house the club's two owners.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Nicholas Palma of Belleville, owners of the Holmdel Road tennis facility, applied for a variance to allow them to live on the club premises, 3½ acres in an OL-1 zone.

The Palmas pleaded a case of "extreme hardship" now existing because Mr. Palma must commute 85 miles each day between Holmdel and Belleville, leaving Mrs. Palma, who has a heart condition, alone. Their son, Thomas, is the club pro and already lives at the club in an addition constructed earlier this year. The senior Palmas want to share his quarters.

Mr. Palma claimed that "to maintain service (at the club) it is very essential for us to maintain residence on the property at all times."

The club, an existing use since 1930, was purchased by the Palmas in summer of 1969. Earlier this year, the zoners disallowed several improvements to the club made without benefit of the required variance. Two new tennis courts, installed in the front of the building instead of the rear as indicated on the original application, were allowed to remain.

The board told Mr. Palma it would review all the previous applications involving the tennis club since he had purchased it and might make an on-site inspection.

"You've already made two on-site inspections," countered Mr. Palma. "Right now you people are more familiar with the property than I am. What good will another one do?"

"We don't want to make any snap judgments," said board chairman Edward Smith.

After more than 1½ hours of testimony and consideration of photographs, surveys, and renderings, the board held a decision on an application to construct a stable in Country Woods until it could make an on-site inspection.

John C. Chappell, owner of the property at 2 Galloping Hill Circle, requested permission to construct a 22 by 36-foot stable 11 feet from the rear property line and 74 to 61 feet from Galloping Hill Road to preserve existing large trees. Required setbacks are 25 feet and 75 feet, respectively.

The board approved a variance application from Raymond M. and Frances Fay Spitzer to install a swimming pool at 17 Deerfield Road with only 15-foot setbacks.

Reconstruction of an existing Esso service station at Rt. 35 and Laurel Ave. was approved by the board. An application for a variance and special use permit for replacement of an existing Sunoco station at Rt. 35 and Laurel Ave. with a new Colonial style station was continued until the board's September meeting.

Stein Favors $1 Million Bond Issue

FREEHOLD TOWNSHIP – Martin E. Stein, Democratic candidate for Township Committee, has addressed himself to the road improvement aspect of a million dollar bond proposal.

Two weeks ago, the Township Committee invited public discussion before a bond issue ordinance is drawn on a plan to buy property at a cost of $100,000 on which to build a municipal garage for $400,000. The other $500,000 would finance the road repair program.

Citing his past criticism of expenditures of "thousands of dollars for pothole filling," Mr. Stein said:

"I certainly am not in favor of wasting taxpayers' money and this is in fact not a waste of money. While the $500,000 issue will cost us approximately $40,000 per year, our need for constant road repairs will diminish. Why, in fact, do we need these extensive repairs? The reasons are many and complex, but in fact revolve around one key point – we are using many of our roads for volumes and types of traffic for which they were not designed."

As examples, he mentioned Schank and Willowbrook Roads, both originally built as secondary country roads, that, with the growth of the township, have developed into through streets between large residential and commercial and industrial sections.

Matawan Schools List Class Hours

MATAWAN – Schools in the Matawan Regional system will open Wednesday, Sept. 8, with teachers slated for a preschool workshop Sept. 7.

Surveys show that

4 out of 5 standout lawns are fed in the Fall!

THREE independent surveys taken last spring revealed that 4 out of 5 standout lawns were fed the previous Fall. The findings were not surprising, since Fall is the very best time of year to improve a lawn. It's the one time when Nature puts all the odds in your favor—temperature, moisture and the tendency of grass to send out new side shoots and roots in Fall.

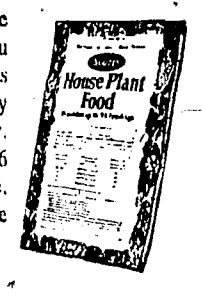

The best thing you can do to take advantage of this unique time of year is to fertilize with Scotts TURF BUILDER. Because of its patented Trionized bonding Turf Builder doesn't cause the spindly surge growth that means extra mowing. Instead, it releases its nutrients as the grass needs them, which greatly stimulates fall development of new roots and side shoots.

The results are most rewarding. Your lawn grows thicker, greener and sturdier. It retains its deep green color longer in the Fall — and greens up earlier next spring too. Turf Builder is available in three convenient sizes:
5,000 sq ft bag (20 lbs) 5.45;
10,000 sq ft bag (40 lbs) 9.95;
15,000 sq ft bag (60 lbs) 13.95.

Study Says Towns Must Provide Recreation Plans

FREEHOLD — Local governments must continue to provide for community recreation needs of their municipalities and should not expect regional systems to provide for them.

This was brought out in a Regional Recreation Complex study prepared by the county Park System and incorporated in the 96-page Open Space Plan for 1970 through 1985 which was released yesterday.

Local governments cannot expect regional systems to dilute their fiscal maintenance and supervisory resources, said the study, adding "such dilution can lead to a nearly unmanageable complex of small areas totally unresponsive to citizen requirements."

The study said that only a broad tax base could support the regional complexes it proposes.

Recreation Need

There is an apparent need for added recreation opportunities in the county, said the study, and it suggests that a series of regional recreation complexes might be constructed on a priority schedule in the county.

The study defined a regional complex as one that should provide the broadest possible recreation opportunities for all people.

It also should be easily accessible to the people and should be designed to provide an aura of freedom of activity.

"The recreation complex should not only provide facilities for the more traditional athletic activities — basketball, softball, baseball, handball, tennis and swimming — but also should provide facilities for more intensive activities such as theater, art, ceramics, photography, carpentry, mechanics, reading, music, shuffleboard, playing cards, and tabletop games, croquet, badminton, model construction, slot car racing, flying model airplanes, nature recreation, volleyball and limited facilities for concerts and dances."

Transport Centers

Another feature of the centers would be as transportation terminals to other parklands in the county.

"The regional recreation center also should provide opportunities for groups to informally 'get together' for conversation or nonstructural activities according to the desires and needs of the visitors."

The design of the regional centers should be a direct reflection of the activities that may go on there, it said. "Each complex may be highly flexible so that the physical plant would be subject to change just as human nature is constantly in a state of flux.

"The outdoor and indoor facilities should blend and complement one another so that some traditional activities such as reading or table games could easily take place in an outdoor environment.

Design Needs

"The design should lend a feeling of freedom, dignity and pride of ownership, at the same time it should not in any way institutionalize or create conditions where a visitor would tend to feel insignificant and overlooked as a person."

It added that landscaping may be done so as to invite visitors to take advantage of green grass and shady spots for conversation, daydreaming or meditation.

The interior design of the building complex would allow for changes in use patterns by providing highly mobile furnishings and movable partitions, it said.

Listed as alternatives were:

School Use

1. Use of school and school sites.

"It is apparent that schools already provide many of the physical requirements for recreation complexes," it said. "However certain problems must be solved before such school use would be a reality." Cited are:

— Local boards of education may not view the use of their physical plants by other agencies with any favor.

— Administrative difficulties concerning supplies, maintenance and scheduling.

— Duplicate use of shops and vocational facilities may create strong conflict between professional recreation personnel and professional educators.

— The design is institutional in nature and so may create more harm than good.

— The 11 or 12-month school year could very well be a reality in the near future.

— Use of existing park lands.

Open Space

"This alternative may reduce the initial costs of the regional complex but does infringe upon the open space character and existing use patterns of established park lands."

"With open space in such critical need, it seems illogical to utilize existing open space for high density use when such use may more properly be located closer to population centers where open space is nearly non-existent."

2. Use of lands owned by municipal governments.

"This option also appears attractive and may be entirely feasible where local government will cooperate with county government. Again, initial costs are reduced, however the resulting complex may lose its regional integrity under these conditions."

3. Simple centers and transportation networks.

The difficulty apparent with this option is the poor administrative control and the total dependence of the system upon the public transport.

4. Upgrading of existing local programs.

"Local government should provide for recreation needs within the abilities of its tax base." However, there are greater needs than local government appears ready to satisfy; it said.

5. Contractual agreements for services and facilities between local and county government.

Such a system provides a clear base so that duplication of services may be avoided but, said the study, this may not work because of negotiation breakdown.

TO KEEP THE OPEN SPACE OPEN — The county's Open Space Plan for 1970-1985, prepared by the county Planning Board and Parks System, seeks to be sure that the county will have sufficient open space for outdoor recreation. The plan proposes five new county parks among other items.

Family Day Set Sunday

Boise Outlook Clouded

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q — What do you think are the recovery possibilities for Boise Cascade which we purchased at 69½? — V.M.

A — With the influx of savings deposits apparently tapering off, the housing industry may be in line for leaner times if mortgage money again becomes tight. After recording a 55 per cent drop in profits last year, shares were further undermined by sluggish operating results for the first half of this year. Sales for the period were off 27 per cent, while income before charge-offs was down 83 per cent. A $44 million extraordinary charge pushed operations for the six months into the red and a deficit of $1.28 a share was reported. The write-down included company's investment in Burnett-Boise and reduction in value of certain real estate assets.

Contributing to the poor results were losses in the company's engineering and construction division and reduced activities in paper, packaging and recreational divisions. A note of guarded optimism was sounded by management, which foresees no further write-offs and expects a stronger earnings performance over the balance of the year. Sell on any upturn.

Q — My 83-year-old mother is in need of income. She has shares of a good quality growth fund but because it is in a dividend reinvestment plan she receives no cash from it. My contention is that a growth fund is not suitable in her circumstances. Do you agree? — A.H.

A — Yes. Dividend reinvestment plans are designed for individuals seeking to compound the long-term growth potential of their investments. It is apparent that this type of plan is inappropriate for an 83-year-old in need of current income since the benefits to be derived are 5 to 10 years into the future. Even if your mother were to retain her mutual fund shares and accept all distributions in cash, the return last year would have been under 4 per cent. In comparison, high grade utility bonds currently yield 8 per cent and utility stocks 6 per cent to 7 per cent. Your mother should revise her investment thinking.

Schools Set Registration

UNION BEACH — Borough public schools are conducting registration for kindergarten pupils and new students weekdays from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. through Tuesday, Sept. 7.

Parents of kindergarten youngsters must present a child's birth certificate and proof of immunization against smallpox, diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus, polio and measles (if the child has not had "old fashioned" measles).

New students transferring into the district must have a copy of last year's report card and all available health records.

Parents are urged to register children by the Sept. 7 deadline, as the next registration won't be until Monday, Sept. 13.

Steinbach Names Personnel Director

ASBURY PARK — Tom Sheeran has been appointed corporate personnel director of the Steinbach stores by Mr. Michael A. Slovak, president.

Mr. Sheeran was formerly with Korvettes, where he was regional personnel director responsible for the administration of the personnel and labor programs for the 12 stores in metropolitan New York and suburbs. He handled the staffing organization and all personnel functions at the opening of six of the chain's stores and also wrote the firm's store-opening manual and co-authored its handbook on company policy and procedures. Mr. Sheeran assisted in developing and conducting Korvette's first executive training program.

In addition, Mr. Sheeran was evening instructor of supervision and human relations at Kingsboro (N.Y.) Community College.

He is a graduate of St. John's University, Jamaica, N.Y., and took advanced graduate courses in personnel administration at City College of New York. Mr. Sheeran is a member of the American Management Association, the Personnel Administrators Association and the National American Society for Training and Development.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheeran and their son, Sean, reside in Spring Lake Heights.

300 at Democratic Women's Picnic

MIDDLETOWN — Some 300 persons turned out for a "Gay Nineties" picnic sponsored by the Middletown Democratic Women's Club at Bodman Park.

On hand for politicking were Wilford Wisner and William Schell, candidates for Township Committee, and Edward P. Carey Jr., Assembly candidate.

Entertainment was provided by The New Day rock group and the Amazing Randi, who performed feats of magic for the youngsters.

You can beef-up a skimpy lawn by "seeding-in"

Best way to add new life to a thin lawn is to plant grass seed right into the existing turf. And Fall is the ideal time to do it.

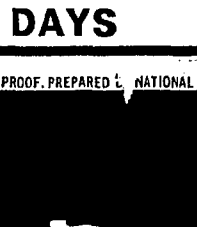

Scotts FAMILY Brand lawn seed is America's longtime favorite. Why? Because it is a versatile blend that does well in sun or moderate shade. And it's priced right too. So if your lawn needs "beefing-up," get a box of Scotts FAMILY seed this week end.

Board President To Comment on Charges

HAZLET — Board of Education President John T. Yannuzzi tonight will answer accusations leveled Tuesday by Mayor Joseph A. Morales that the board was ill-advised to charge the Township Committee with "being arbitrary and capricious" in cutting the school budget $400,000.

The board has asked the state Commissioner of Education, Dr. Carl L. Marburger, to rule on the accusation, which the board claims stems from the committee's decision to cut the budget defeated last February.

The board contends only two committeemen were present at joint hearings on the defeated $6.8 million shcool budget, and the full committee did not have adequate information on which to judge and cut the money measure.

Mayor Morales explained this week that should the commissioner rule on the arbitrary and capricious charge, the cuts in the budget would be fully restored without a hearing.

"If the full cut is restored, taxpayers would face an automatic 54-cent increase in taxes for schools next year, before any new budget was even considered," the mayor explained.

Taking other items into consideration the mayor foresaw a $5.58 tax rate per $100 of assessed valuation next year. The present rate is $4.73.

Mr. Morales gave a series of statistics from the past two years to support his contention that the increase in students did not justify the extreme increases in budget.

"There has been a total increase of 26 students in the past two years . . . with an increase of 45 teachers during the same period . . . and a total buget increase of $2,252,000," the mayor stated.

The amount of the budget to be raised by taxes has gone from $2,905,000 in 1969-70 to $4,415,000 this school year — an increase of 76 per cent, he added.

"We have asked the school board to reconsider the appeal because they don't really expect it all back," Mr. Morales said. "If the commissioner rules on the arbitrary and capricious charge, it will mean no hearing on the cut, and it will be restored entirely," he added.

The mayor said the committee has not yet been told whether a decision has been reached.

Mr. Yannuzzi said he will comment at tonight's school board meeting.

Eatontown GOP Picnic Sunday

EATONTOWN — The Republican Club of Eatontown will hold its annual picnic at the Ira Wolcott Playground on Sunday, rain or shine.

Each year approximately 400 to 500 people attend. A number of state and county dignitaries are expected to attend, and Eatontown officials will be present.

The event starts at 1 p.m. and promises "all you can eat."

Schedule For Keyport Schools Set

KEYPORT — School superintendent Douglas W. Fredericks has announced this schedule for the Sept. 8 opening of schools.

Students in grades two through four will report to the Central School cafetorium for class assignments while students in grades five through eight are to report to the gymnasium.

Preprimary and first grade students are to report directly to their classroom—a roster will be posted on each classroom door.

Five-year-olds who have not registered for the school year may do so Sept. 7 and Sept. 8 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. in the Central School nurse's office.

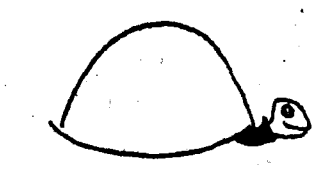

Parents are requested to furnish birth certificates, proof of vaccination, and polio immunization and guardianship forms where applicable.

Keyport High School schedule: all ninth grade students are to report to the cafetorium at 12:30 p.m. Sept. 7.

All high school students are to report at 8 a.m. Sept. 8.

Ninth grade students will report to their previously assigned homerooms while students in grades 10 through 12 are to report to homerooms indicated on posted notices throughout the school.

Parents desiring additional information may call the superintendent's office.

Form Hovnanian Division in Texas

ENGLISHTOWN — Hovnanian Enterprises, here, which has grown to one of the largest privately-owned home builders in the country since it was established 12 years ago, has announced plans to expand its operations into Texas.

According to Kevork Hovnanian, his firm will open an office in Houston, and after an intensive study of the housing market, they will be building a variety of single-and multi-family homes in the southeast Texas area. Harold F. Shroyer of Houston has been named manager of the Hovnanian Enterprises new Texas division, which marks Hovnanian's second expansion outside of New Jersey, where the firm has built thousands of homes since 1959. The company's first out-of-state project is the 800-unit Covered Bridge Country Estate Condominium at Lake Worth in Palm Beach County, Fla.

Kevork Hovnanian, president, said the firm has been studying the housing market, population growths and trends on a country-wide basis, and chose the Texas market for their second out-of-Jersey expansion because of its strategic location in the country's fast-growing southwest. Plans for the Texas operation are not yet complete. The details of the new division's operation will be determined under Mr. Shroyer's direction. The company is planning to build both attached and detached single-family housing for both the general and retirement markets in southeast Texas.

Mr. Shroyer brings to the Hovnanian organization 29 years of industrial management, engineering, sales and construction experience gained with companies in the East, Midwest and Canada. Most recently, he was director of U.S. operations for Foam Form Canada Ltd. His duties included being general manager of customer relations, manufacturing, engineering research and development, as well as control of product development and plant installation.

Kevork Hovnanian's residential communities in New Jersey include Yorktowne Manors, single-family homes off Rt. 9 in Marlboro and Manalapan; Kingsley Square townhouses in Freehold; Chapel Hill Acres and Kings Valley at Middletown, and numerous other developments in Monmouth and Ocean Counties. He is readying the company's two new retirement communities in New Jersey, including Shadow Lake Village in Middletown, a community of condominium residences with social and recreational facilities.

NEW LAWN GRASS SPROUTS INTO DENSE LAWN!

S-321/MERION

(PERENNIAL RYEGRASS) (KENTUCKY BLUEGRASS)

Grows in 7 Days!

Now there is a true turf-type perennial rye grass strain which blends beautifully with Merion Kentucky bluegrass. The S-321/Merion lawn seed mixture combines the best characteristics of both these popular grasses. Germination comes quickly in 7-10 days. It grows rapidly and fills in fast, maintaining a high degree of tillering (i.e., makes basal vegetative growth so a better turf results). Undoubtedly, the least affected by autumn and winter turn, S-321/Merion remains green well into the winter period.

This premium lawn seed mixture produces an attractive and permanent lawn of bright medium-dark color. Its popularity is growing and is currently in wide use in the suburban New York/New Jersey area, where it has demonstrated drought resistance and disease resistance. In addition, S-321/Merion crowds out weeds, takes traffic, and contains no annual rye grass. A special mixture is also available for shady areas.

S-321/Merion is a product of Garfield Williamson, Inc. of Jersey City, N. J., the makers of "Wonderlawn" Lawn Seed mixtures. Get the best for less; 2,250 sq. ft. lawn coverage, only Success guaranteed.

Helen Dunn: New Horizon for Handicapped

By MARIE CIERI

NEPTUNE CITY – Miss Helen Dunn says she really doesn't want to leave the United States, but feels "... if you are in a wheel chair you are, in many instances, a second class citizen" here.

Miss Dunn has been confined to a wheelchair since Dec. 1, 1960, when she retired as a clerk at Ft. Monmouth. She has had muscular dystrophy, a crippling disease, since grammar school.

Recently discovering that her heart is being affected by the disease, which wastes away the muscles of the body, Miss Dunn said she now requires full-time assistance, and "I cannot afford to live in the U.S. on my pensions."

Her sister, Ethel Stonebraker, with whom she had been living here, "is not well and unable to take of me full-time," according to Miss Dunn. Mrs. Stonebraker also has been attending to their mother similarly afflicted with the disease.

Answer For Many

So on Sept. 8, Miss Dunn plans to fly to Guadalajara, Jalisco, Mexico, to take up permanent residence at Hacienda Las Fuentes which she believes "is the answer for many."

Introduced to "Patino's Paradise," (the hacienda's nickname) by former Ocean Township resident William Brand, who moved to Guadalajara four years ago and died there in February, Miss Dunn visited the establishment for seven months and reported back: "For between $175 and $200 a month, one confined to a wheelchair can live a life of dignity in a beautiful and completely accessible surrounding – indoors and outdoors."

A Founder of WADS

Miss Dunn, co-founder of the Without-A-Doubt Society for the handicapped and of the Monmouth County Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association, commented that it can mean "financial ruin" if you are not covered by health and insurance plans in the United States if you happen to become disabled. "And thousands of young and middle-aged adults are trapped – ineligible for coverage," she added.

Disability Benefits

"I am appreciative of the system's Social Security and Civil Service, that provided me the financial benefits for my existence when I retired in 1960 because of disability," she stated.

"However, when physical impairment progresses to the point where one requires full-time aide service and surroundings that are not 'hostile' to a wheelchair, but are, indeed, accessible to it – what then?" she puzzled.

In experiencing the hacienda's comparative luxuries, including round-the-clock aide service, three "delicious" meals a day, and freedom of movement, Miss Dunn concluded, "The stresses of life are removed in a relaxed atmosphere. Your soul belongs to you. If there is any discrimination, you are not aware of it."

Of the seven residences in the area serving between 250 and 300 disabled in the winter and 100 in the summer, Miss Dunn has visited four of them, and evaluates Patino's as the finest and also charges the least rent.

Accommodations for Disabled

Seven motel-type units situated around the courtyard of Patino's accommodate 24 disabled, and eight more are now under construction. Some of them have two bedrooms, an aide's room, and a bathroom designed with the handicapped in mind.

Miss Dunn recounted that the climate, a ramped swimming pool equipped with a winch, the library, cultural events in the town, accessibility to such things as a beauty parlor two blocks away, "... but most of all conversation with congenial friends and a refreshing drink," influenced her decision to move.

While at the hacienda, Miss Dunn attended the weddings of two Americans to Mexican nurses. "Such marriages are not uncommon in Guadalajara. The disabled may find there what may be denied here," she stated.

She further ventured that "Some of the Mexican women adore the men in wheelchairs for the respect and financial security they receive from them."

Most of the Americans and Canadians visit Patino's just for the winter months. Six are permanent residents.

Comparable Medical Care

Miss Dunn feels that she will receive medical care in Mexico comparable to that here. There are two doctors witnin a block of the hacienda and the Mexican-American Hospital is six miles away.

The handicapped leader related, "I am frequently asked by the disabled, 'What's going to happen to me when I can no longer stay at home? Where will I go?"

Miss Dunn believes that "Patino's Paradise" is the answer for her and for many other disabled looking for the security and comfort of a place suited to their handicap. She suggests that anyone interested may write to Paul H. Patino, coowner, at Hacienda Las Fuentes, Calle San Antonio 67, Guadalajara 5, Jalisco, Mexico.

Needleworks Honorary Committee Is Named

RUMSON – State Sen. Alfred N. Beadleston and Mrs. Beadleston, of Rumson, have accepted the honorary chairmanship of the "Needleworks" exhibition, a benefit for the Public Health Nursing Association of Rumson, Sea Bright and Fair Haven. The announcement was made by Mrs. Julian Hemphill, general chairman of "Needleworks."

Also lending their support as honorary committee members are Mayor and Mrs. John O. Teeter of Rumson, Mayor Cecile F. Norton and Robert Norton of Sea Bright, Mayor and Mrs. Robert A. Matthews of Fair Haven, and Dr. and Mrs. Mason W. Gross of Rumson. Dr. Gross is the former president of Rutgers University.

The Needleworks exhibition will be held at Hominy Hill Golf Club, Colts Neck, Thursday, Oct. 7, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Friday, Oct. 8, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The public is invited to attend for a small admission fee.

Exhibitors are urged to submit entry forms now to Mrs. John Lenhart, 814 River Road, Fair Haven. Men, women and children may participate in the competition and special show.

Proceeds from the Needleworks project will help meet budgetary expenses in this period of rising expenses, according to Mrs. Norman Ramsey, president of the Public Health Nursing Association, which raises all of its own funds. The agency was founded in 1915 and serves the boroughs of Rumson, Sea Bright and Fair Haven. Its registered nurses provide home health care to persons of all incomes, and Well Child Conferences, dental screening and a school health program are sponsored by the Public Health Nursing Association.

According to the historical records of the agency, it has played a vital role in the health needs of the three municipalities it serves. Stated in 1916, "the need for a dental clinic was evident, 90% of the Rumson school children alone showing defective teeth." The history continues, "Transportation for the nurse was solved when Mrs. Achelis offered her Ford runabout with self-starter."

In 1926, the record states "The original certificate of incorporation was signed July 15 with five trustees: Mrs. Raymond Hoagland, Mrs. Robert McCarter, Mrs. Blaine Ewing, Hardin Crawford and Bertram Borden." And, in 1927, "Through the courtesy of Mayor Barbour the Public Health Nursing Association acquired its present office in the Boro Hall, Rumson."

After the advent of Medicare, a contract was signed in 1968 with MCOSS Family Health and Nursing Service, Red Bank, to purchase "complete nursing services from the agency, so that we could continue to give skilled nursing care under federal and state regulations," the record of progress shows.

Auxilians Change Meeting Place

RED BANK – The Fair Haven Auxiliary to Riverview Hospital is meeting in a new place this fall. The first meeting of the fall and winter season Monday, Sept. 13, will be a luncheon meeting to be held at the First Presbyterian Church, Harding Road. Lunch will be served in the parlor at 1 p.m. Each member is asked to bring a covered dish and guests will be welcome.

For another change of pace, the auxiliary's barn sale will be held Saturday, Sept. 18, between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. The place is Sickles' Greenhouse on Rumson Road in Little Silver. Bargains will include various items for the home.

Nasser Infant Is Baptized

EATONTOWN – Frank Joseph Nasser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nasser of Mattoon, Ill., was baptized here in St. Dorothea's Catholic Church. The infant's aunt and uncle, Miss Patricia Jo Zaorski and Stanley M. Zaorski, are the godparents. A reception was held at the home of the grandparents, Sgt. (Ret.) and Mrs. Stanley J. Zaorski, 34 Campbell Drive. Mrs. Nasser, the former Joyce Ann Zaorski, was vacationing here with her husband and two other children.

COUNTRY FLEA MARKET

MADISON TOWNSHIP – Deadline for reservations for exhibitors in the Madison Township Historical Society's Country Flea Market is Sept. 1. Mrs. John Low, Box 149E, Matawan, and Mrs. Edward Kaminski, 911 Turnpike Road, are in charge of reservations. The flea market is set for Sept. 18, rain date Sept. 25, on the grounds of Cedar Ridge High School, Rt. 516. It will be open to the public 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Brandywine Tour Is Set

RED BANK – A bus trip to the new Brandywine River Museum is being sponsored by the Monmouth Museum, 21 White St. The new Brandywine Musuem, which preserves the American school of painting that began in the Brandywine Valley (such as N. C. Wyeth, Howard Pyle, and others) incorporates the old Hoffman's Mill built in 1864. On the Brandywine River amidst spruce trees and natural vegetation this mill has been converted into a uniquely successful museum incorporating a variety of warm, rustic, local materials.

The museum which is located in Chadds Ford, Pa., utilizes pressurized air to control temperature and humidity and protect the paintings. The museum features massive cedar doors, hand-hewn beams, cobblestone pavings, spacious courtyard and beautiful galleries on four levels.

The tour will originate from the Monmouth Museum Gallery, White St., Sept. 21 at 8:30 a.m. The bus will arrive in Chadds Ford at approximately 11 o'clock, in time for a tour of the museum and a talk by its curator, Richard Layton. Price for the tour is $10 per person, which includes the bus trip both ways and admission to the museum. The group will have lunch at Chadds Ford Inn, at its own expense, and return to the Monmouth Museum between 4 and 5 p.m.

All reservations on first paid, first served basis.

For more information call the Monmouth Museum Gallery, here.

Ecology Art Show Slated

SHREWSBURY – The Guild of Creative Art, 620 Broad St., has announced an invitation to all artists to participate in its Art Festival for Better Ecology slated for Oct. 3 through Oct. 30.

Suggesting subjects from the broad theme, interpretations should include a concern with the balance of nature, the availability of life-sustaining elements, the quality of those elements and the need to maintain living space with fewer health hazards, and stress the art of "preserving and giving" rather than "destroying and taking."

Work submitted for this exhibit must bear upon the ecological problems that face the community, the state, and the world. It should be a strong statement, in the artist's medium, regarding the conservation of natural resources and the preservation of the environment. It may be a work in any style (including traditional and abstract) that communicates a strong message on the subject. It might also be a collage or construction made of items normally discarded unattractively.

Paintings must be suitably framed and wired for hanging.

No wet paintings accepted. Prints, watercolors, and drawings must be framed under glass. Works should not be more than 40 inches in width or height (including frame). Sculpture is not to exceed 40 inches in height and must be free standing. At least one entry per artist will be included in the exhibition, possibly two, as space permits. The hanging committee reserves the right to exclude any work not relevant to the ecology theme.

Works are to be received at the Guild of Creative Art, here, Thursday, Sept. 30, between 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. or Friday, Oct. 1 between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. A reception will be held on the opening date, Oct. 3 from 4 to 6 p.m.

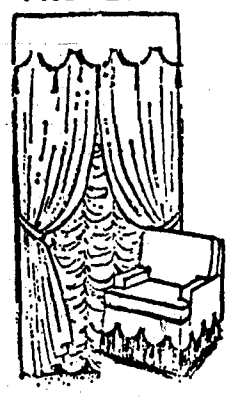

All works, if hung or displayed must remain at the guild during the entire exhibit. The closing date is Nov. 4. Fees and additional information are obtainable from the gallery.

Where There's a Will . . There's a Way

By MARYBETH ALLEN

NEPTUNE – Pain was just a part of the problem.

When Mrs. Robert McKnight was suddenly stricken and taken by ambulance to Jersey Shore Medical Center, she also was plagued by worries about how her two-month-old son, whom she had been nursing, would be fed.

Through her own efforts and those of a hospital nurse, who had breastfed her own children, an arrangement was worked out which is said to have scored a hospital "first."

Mrs. McKnight contacted Mrs. Robert Baker, here, who is leader of the local La Leche League for nursing mothers. Through Mrs. Baker, arrangements were made to have Mrs. Richard Edwards of Glendola care for little Robbie.

Night Feeding

"He went to her home for 24 hours a day and was just like her own son," Mrs. McKnight comments. There was, however, one exception – each evening Mr. McKnight took the baby to the hospital, where his wife nursed him in the nurses' lounge.

The McKnights reside at 1403 7th Ave. Mr. McKnight is employed in the circulation department of The Daily Register.

Mrs. Baker speaks of a need for hospitals to show patients more consideration. She believes not enough attention is paid to treating the family as a unit – and there should be more focus on family-centered maternity care.

Neither Mrs. McKnight's doctor nor her pediatrician, Mrs. Baker said objected to her nursing the baby while she was hospitalized for a kidney stone ailment. However, it was reportedly through the efforts of the baby's mother and a nurse that breastfeeding was permitted at the hospital.

Made Comfortable

The nurse, Mrs. Baker says, wanted to make Mrs. McKnight as comfortable as possible and there was no electric breast pump to relieve the pressure.

Mrs. Edwards was chosen to care for Robbie, Mrs. Baker said because she was nursing her five month-old and had nursed her two year-old. Before Robbie was taken to her, she drank extra fluids.

Mrs. McKnight notes that she had joined La Leche League because she had nursed her daughter, Kerry, 2½, who was cared for, by her paternal grandmother while her mother recently was hospitalized.

The league meets the third Tuesday of each month at the homes of members. Further information is available through Mrs. Baker, 6 Dartmouth Drive, Neptune.

Mrs. McKnight, recalling the help given to her by league members, commented, "I knew they did things like this – but I never dreamed I would be in a situation where I would have to have it done for me."

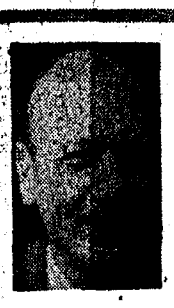

Cooperation given by the hospital is cited by Mrs. Baker, who suggests that there are women who should undergo surgery . . . but have hesitated because of worry about how the children they are nursing would be fed.

A HOSPITAL FIRST — Mrs. Robert McKnight, who holds her two-month-old son, Robbie, in the foregound, is reportedly the first mother allowed to nurse her child while she was a patient at Jersey Shore Medical Center, Neptune. Through arrangements made by La Leche League, the baby was also nursed by Mrs. Richard Edwards, who holds her own son, Michael, 5½ months, in the background.

Problems Face Family

Family Counselor

By DR. JAMES M. LONG

For the young adult, a time when adult life starts is not set chronologically. In our society, we establish rules, laws and procedures which tend to postpone the young person's entrance into the adult world. Although the young adult has biologically matured, we establish expectations for the type of behavior which will be acceptable. We ask that the young person postpone the types of gratification that are reserved for marriage. Further, we expect that the individual has established himself in a job or has completed his education. What all of this means is that in the Western world we expect a lot from our younger generation. For some, in addition to the normal stresses of young adulthood, are the problems that derive from unresolved difficulties of earlier developmental years.

Baffling Problems

It is no wonder that many families today are confronted with some baffling and new problems. It is not infrequent to hear of a young person using drugs or participating in forms of the "new morality."

Many of these new problems and behavior by the young generation attack a family's basic system of values.

The new problems have exerted a great deal of pressure and stress on many of the relationships within the family. With natural hesitancy, by the time parents seek some type of outside intervention into a family problem involving a son or daughter's behavior, harm may have been done to other family members. Prior to outside assistance, the problem has to become one of personal frustration. The parents find that they cannot reach their son or daughter. They cannot comprehend their thinking. Unfortunately under such stress, each spouse accuses the other of his failure as a parent. Such expressions of anger are not reserved for the spouses only but may boil over into conflicts with other members of the family. Other children may be faced with unreasonable restriction and demands due to the displacement of the parent's anger and frustrations.

Need for Help

The hardest decision for parents is the recognition that outside intervention is necessary. The request for help involves an admission of parental failure and accompanying guilt. Yet, such action may be a true expression of one's love for an errant son or daughter. Such acceptance of responsibility should not be new to many parents. In earlier years, the same parents would not have hesitated to relieve their child of a box of matches. Such expedient action was taken in recognition of the possible destructiveness the child could cause, both for himself and others. So, it should follow that sometimes one's son or daughter may be older, and their object of destruction may be more sophisticated, but the results can be just as deadly.

To relinquish parental responsibility can have other ramifications. For the younger children in the family who are aware of the deviant behavior of an older brother or sister, there is the problem of family learning. Each member of the family learns, from personal observations, the family's beliefs and value system. They learn what type of behavior will be acceptable.

Behavior Unacceptable

Under the guise of a "new morality," young unmarried couples live as man and wife. To parents this can be a very devastating and heart-breaking experience. In most instances, they are helpless to persuade their child to terminate the illicit arrangement. Yet, they must let it be known they do not approve of the relationship. They must jointly inform the errant young adult that his behavior is unacceptable and further they could not accept his "friend" into the household. It is quite possible that the daughter or son cannot understand their parents' reaction. However, the responsibility of parenthood entails a great deal more than a son or daughter's approval. It means earned respect and consideration for all family members.

Panhellenic Awards

FAIR HAVEN – Mrs. Robert W. Licky was hostess at her home here to the annual information Coke Party given by Monmouth County Panhellenic for June high school graduates who will be attending colleges with national sororities.

Highlight of the evening was the presentation of Panhellenic's annual scholarship to Miss Pamela Lynn Richards, Manasquan Park, a graduate of Wall Township High School and prospective Pennsylvania State University student. Miss Richards won out in competition among 60 applicants representing all the high schools in Monmouth County. An outstanding member of her class, she was the recipient of the Varsity Scholar Athletic Award and the Elks Citizenship Award. She was girls State delegate and president of the National Honor Society for two years. She also was on the New Jersey State Teen Advisory Board and the Monmouth County Juvenile Council.

Runnerup Cited

Runnerup was Miss Sharon Elizabeth Litchfield, West Long Branch, who graduated from Shore Regional High School. Miss Litchfield, who will attend Bucknell University in the fall, received a commemorative charm from Panhellenic. She was salutatorian of her senior class, was in the National Honor Society, received the National Educational Development Test Award, and also the Craftsmanship Award in home economics. Captain of the flag twirling squad, Miss Litchfield also was active in various phases of the student government.

Panhellenic scholarship chairman was Mrs. Bennie Heinze, Freehold, an Alpha Chi Omega alumna from Oklahoma State University.

A panel of five collegiates and one alumna presented an idea of college and sorority life today. Panelists included Miss Barbara Briggs, Long Branch, a Kappa Kappa Gamma member at the University of Maryland; Miss Mary Cook, Fair Haven, a member of Alpha Delta Pi at Mount Union College; Miss Jane Heinze, Freehold, an Alpha Phi member at Bucknell University; Miss Joan Myers, Middletown, a Gamma Phi Beta member at Bradley University; Miss Libby Scheffer, Fair Haven, a Kappa Delta member at Ohio University; and Mrs. David Fream, Middletown, a Kappa Kappa Gamma alumna member from Syracuse University and vice president of Monmouth County Panhellenic.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I don't know who wrote this but it makes a lot of sense these days when more and more men are retiring – and getting on their wives' nerves. My copy says, "Sent In By Ruth Strait, Modesto, Calif." I hope you think it's worth printing. – Another Californian

Dearly Beloved: I'm coming home to live with you 24 hours a day. Something I've been looking forward to for 40 years. I didn't marry you so I could work. I worked so I could marry you – and I figure we've spent at least 100,000 hours apart because of my job. I hope to make amends in the years left to us.

I'm sorry I'm not the same handsome fellow in the wedding picture, with black, wavy hair and a waistline a belt could go around – and legs that could still chase you around the dining room table. But I do have a deeper appreciation for you and a better understanding of what marriage means. I owe you a great deal. You stood by me during some rough times. You never worried me with other men (not too much, that is) and you never spent more than I made. You put up with my peculiarities and you were nice to my nutty relatives.

I don't have many requests, but I do have a few. I was a fairly important man down at the office. Please don't make me a flunky at home. I don't mind doing some of the chores but don't ask me to do woman's work. And when your lady friends drift in and out of the house, don't ask me to play host. They come to see you, not me. And now that the kids are gone and we have two vacant bedrooms, will you please let me have one? Not to sleep in. I still want my place next to you in the old four-poster, but I'd like a room where I can throw my junk around, or take a nap, or just accumulate things. Give me these few privileges, dear, and a little time to adjust, and I'll be the finest fellow you ever retired with.

Devotedly, Your Loving Husband

Dear Husband: You sound like a pussycat. I hope your wife is smart enough to smile and say – "Yes, dear . . ."

FAIR HAVEN FIREMEN'S FAIR

BIGGER AND BETTER THAN EVER . . .

The Fair Haven Firemen's Fair has grown each year to an annual attendance in excess of 31,000 people—the second largest in the state with rides, games, food and fun for all.

The original fire house was located at what is now 120 Fair Haven Road, presently an office building called the Mayer Building. In those days the fire company supplied its own equipment, but not horses.

The Firemen's Fair originated in 1921 and was held in the vacant lot where the Borough Hall is now located. A big attraction in those days was a dance floor constructed by the company. Admission charge was 10 cents. Due to the blackout during World War II, the fair was discontinued. It was resumed in 1960 at its present location on River Road, Fair Haven.

Brazilian Student Fondly Revisits Rumson

Register Staff Photo

CEMENTING RELATIONSHIP — Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Edelmann of 54 E. River Road, Rumson, admire eight-month-old Guilherme Sa Carvalho, as baby's parents, Elisabeth and Flavio of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, complete family portrait. Nine years ago, Flavio spent year with Edelmanns as an American Field Service student and he's returned to scene of happy memories for vacation.

By FLORENCE BRUDER

RUMSON – The bright green lawns sloping down to the Navesink River may have reminded Flavio and Elisabeth Sa Carvalho of their home in Rio de Janeiro . . . at any rate, they sat back on the screened porch of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Edelmann, 54 E. River Road, and exhibited the same charm and relaxation they attributed to Brazilians in general.

Flavio first came to the Edelmanns as an American Field Service student in 1962-63, attending Rumson-Fair Haven Regional High School – and this time he was back for 10 days (his sixth trip here since) with his young wife and appealing; eight-month old son.

Seeks Old Friends

"I'm looking for old friends and classmates," he smiled. "Perhaps they'll look me up when they read this article."

He was the second AFS student at the school and said there have been 10 to 12 since.

As a matter of fact, the AFS has played a vital role in the lives of Elisabeth and Flavio.

Elisabeth, who's 23, was an AFS student in 1965-66 in Arlington Heights, Ill., near Chicago.

She and Flavio met at an AFS convention in Brazil and the Edelmann's picture of their wedding attests to a beautiful ceremony.

"We've been married two years and three months," Flavio explained.

"But he's changed in looks," Elisabeth and Mrs. Edelmann chimed in. They point out that the beard and long hair are new since the halcyon days in Rumson, since the solemn wedding in Brazil.

Urge Fulfilled

"True," Flavio said. "I spent four months studying in England last year and was able to indulge my secret urge for hair . . . there were so many hippies there, I didn't look in the least strange while it was growing."

"He's still a darling," Mrs. Edelmann stated. "The 'foliage' hasn't diminished his personality."

Elisabeth (who's never been to Rumson before and said she's "thrilled to meet Flavio's American family at last–he talks about them all the time"), Flavio and Mrs. Edelmann have one important thing in common: all are educators.

Mrs. Edelmann's a teacher in the Knollwood School, Fair Haven; Elisabeth's a teacher, still studying one course a quarter between baby-tending duties, and Flavio's taking a graduate course at Florida State University, Tallahassee, for a year, prior to becoming an Organization of American States consultant to all member countries in both North and South America.

Travel Career Eyed

"My field is actually educational television," Flavio said. "I expect to be traveling the rest of my life. The end of 1973, we're organizing 16 group missions to different countries in South America, and I've a feeling I'll go to Argentina."

As for his wife, she taught in a State High School and a Methodist School in Brazil, and her ambition? "To be a lawyer," came the quick reply. "It's a long-range plan, of course."

"I'm against it," Flavio interrupted good-naturedly. "She talks enough already."

Baby Is Alert

And as for the dominant little figure on the pleasant porch–eight-month-old Guilherme – he whirled around the immaculate play-pen trying to reach the Edelmann's terrier outside.

"His name means William in Portuguese," his father said.

"And be sure to add that he's learning English," his mother said proudly.

The baby was proficient in waving good-bye, stood up strongly, watched everything with huge dark eyes and was a master of the smile.

"I didn't see him 'til he was a month old," Flavio recalled. "I was away when he was born."

But he plans to stay close to his family while here. "We'll go to the beach and enjoy our visit."

Flavio went on: "As a matter of fact, this was a perfect match-up between my American family and me. I had a marvelous year here and missed it terribly."

'Fit Right In'

"He fit right in with us," Mrs. Edelmann agreed. "We made no mistake."

"And," Flavio added, "the AFS is a fine program, opening up worlds of understanding between people of all ages and persuasions. It disseminates the customs and cultures of various countries to those lucky enough to work under its auspices and, conversely, brings so-called foreign personalities into daily contact with the home environment."

"I'm at ease here," Elisabeth summed up, "not only because I feel close to Rumson due to Flavio's happy experiences, but also, I think, because of my own AFS time in the States . . . a marvelous period and one which has turned the course of my life."

The young couple spoke excellent English and exhibited great good humor.

They were at home, yet not indolent, and showed tenderness toward their adopted American family, their infant offspring and each other.

Flavio plans on visiting his alma mater on Ridge Road and recounted a trip, while he was a student there, to Holy Cross Grammar School: "A fourth grade boy, with enormous eyeglasses, asked me if the United States would cut off economic aid to Brazil should the Communists flourish there. I was speechless . . . you'd expect such a question from an adult, but from an 11-year-old!"

The young family is in the United States for a year and find it unique. But in Brazil, they said, "the people have a different state of mind."

They unquestionably are doing their share to bring that state of mind to the shores of America.

Hike Welfare For Disabled

NEW SHREWSBURY – Beginning Wednesday, the aged, blind and disabled who live alone and receive public assistance will have their maximum grant upped to $162 a month.

The maximum, which includes all income, had been cut to $142 a month under the new flat grant system put into effect July 1.

County welfare directors were advised officially of the increased grant yesterday through a letter dated Aug. 25 and signed by state Welfare Director Irving J. Engelman.

The letter says the extra money should be gotten to welfare recipients "as early in September as possible."

Welfare checks are prepared for delivery on Sept. 1.

The extra money had been recommended to Gov. William T. Cahill several weeks ago by his welfare advisory council.

The $162 is 50 per cent of the grant for a family of four. That's the ratio recommended by federal welfare and social security officials.

The reduction of the grant to the aged, blind and disabled had brought severest criticism of the Cahill administration's welfare cutback.

The increase will add $4.7 million to the state's yearly welfare costs, according to the council.

The new flat grant system was designed to save $15 million a year in welfare expenditures.

The council said it was recommending the increase because of disproportionate number of the aged, blind and disabled in one-person households were being hurt by the cutback.

Now 70 per cent of welfare recipients in that category will receive the same amount of money, or more, than they did before the cutback, according to the council.

Public Ownership Seen Airport Answer

By BEN VAN VLIET

RED BANK – The acting director of the state Division of Aeronautics said yesterday that public ownership would be the best – and possibly the only – way of saving Red Bank Airport.

The acting director, Stephen J. Link, a senior engineer with the state Department of Transportation, told a Rotary Club luncheon that federal funds are now available for local airport acquisition and construction of up to 50 per cent.

He admitted, however, that there are no state funds now available for such purposes.

Mr. Link was one of seven persons invited to participate in an airport workshop sponsored by the Red Bank Rotary Club at the Molly Pitcher.

Former Owner

The workshop was called by former Red Bank Airport owner Walter R. Laudenslager to explore ways of keeping the 50-year-old facility available as an airport.

The field was closed two months ago by its owner, Reading Aviation Inc., Reading, Pa., because it was losing money.

Mr. Link said that airports, not only in Monmouth County, but throughout the state are in danger of closing because of increasing taxes.

He said Colts Neck Airport will be closed within 18 months because it has been sold and will be developed.

He said he also thinks that Monmouth County Airport in Wall Township is in danger of closing because of the tax burden.

28 in Danger

He said there are 28 airports in the state which are facing extinction and that the state is very concerned about the decline in small airport operations.

The problem, he said, is that taxation places the future of any airport at the mercy of local municipal officials who find it tempting to get rid of an airport whenever some developer comes along with a tempting tax ratable.

The suggestion that the Red Bank Airport be purchased with public funds first came up a month ago when Transportation Commissioner John C. Kohl came to the airport to discuss the situation at the request of Assemblyman Joseph Azzolina, R-Monmouth.

County Project

The suggestion was made that the county buy the $500,000 airport and then apply for state and federal reimbursement.

This suggestion was met with complete and instantaneous rejection by Joseph C. Irwin, director of the Board of Freeholders.

Mr. Irwin said the county had many other pressing matters to attend to rather than pour money into a small airport.

Mr. Irwin, a panelist yesterday, restated his position and told the airport supporters that it was basically a question of dollars and cents and that they should be realistic about the situation.

"Sure," he said, "the commissioner of transportation is in favor of public ownership of the airport, but the fact is, the state doesn't have a nickel in its pocket for this, so they say to the county 'you buy it, and maybe in 1973 we'll give you something.' "

The airport, Mr. Irwin said, is too confined, too small and can't be expanded. As far as getting county money for the Red Bank airport "we (the county) say no."

Mr. Irwin said the initial cost to the county would be at least $500,000 and would then require at least $1 million to make necessary improvements.

Mr. Irwin's reference to state aid in 1973 is based upon a proposed state bond issue to raise funds for airport acquisition and development.

This bond issue will appear on the ballot next year as part of an overall transportation bond issue, and if approved would make money available for airport development in 1973.

No Money

Mr. Link said after the meeting that Mr. Irwin was right in that the state doesn't have a nickel to spend on airports now.

However, he said, once the bond issue is approved, money will be available for airport development, and likely will be directed toward implementation of the state's airport development master plan, which was completed last year.

Under the plan, the state envisions Red Bank Airport as one of many small airports capable of providing commuter service with Short Takeoff and Landing aircraft (STOL) capable of easily operating from a 2,700-foot runway, as exists at Red Bank.

Much of yesterday's discussion centered on the controversial safety question.

Shrewsbury Mayor Robert Lawrence 3rd said he considers the airport unsafe.

10-month Study

He said he based this on a 10-month study made by a joint Shrewsbury New Shrewsbury Airport Safety Committee which reported that there had been 23 accidents, including 17 fatalities connected with the airport during the past six years.

"I don't think," he said, "that it is unreasonable to state that it was an unsafe airport."

This was disputed by Mr. Link, who said the Red Bank facility was "one of the safest airports in the state for its class.

"I have reviewed the records for the past 10 years," he said, "and there is not one single accident which was caused by the airport or its facilities. Nearly all of the accidents were attributable to pilot error."

Daniel W. Dorn, owner of Dorn's Photo Shop, Red Bank, said accidents happen in all forms of transportation and there's no more reason to close an airport because of an accident than suggesting that Broad St. be closed because there was an accident.

Walter R. Laudenslager, former airport owner, and moderator at yesterday's workshop, said the airport itself is safe.

Noting that most of the accidents happened during a period of high intensity use, Mr. Laudenslager said the accidents are caused by "the management which pushes the pilot and pilot deficiencies. I'm sure there was room for improvement in the management of the airport."

The most serious accident at the airport was several years ago when a plane carrying nine persons crashed shortly after takeoff, killing all on board.

Mr. Laudenslager said the blame for that accident lies solely with FAA regulations which specified an unsafe procedure for emergency single engined operation of a twin-engined aircraft.

Also taking part in the workshop were Dale Schick, New Shrewsbury councilman; Mr. Azzolina; and Red Bank Councilman Theodore J. Labrecque.

Hail Delay of Code On Industrial Park

MIDDLETOWN – The Economic Development Commission (EDC) and the Industrial Development Task Force said today the Township Committee "performed a significant public service Tuesday night in delaying introduction of the industrial park ordinance for 30 days."

Paul P. Bova, EDC chairman, and B. G. Tipton, chairman of the Task Force, noted that the postponement of the measure came at their request.

Mr. Bova and Mr. Tipton pointed out that they asked for the delay so that "a marketability study could be made on industrial areas throughout the township."

They added that "the preliminary part of this report will deal with land usage of industrial parks and will be available in 30 days."

They said funds to pay for the study are available from the U.S. Department of Commerce and that application for the money is being made.

"We believe the 50 per cent lot coverage recommended by the Planning Board and the 30 per cent park coverage recommended by the Task Force are compatible and are adequate for industrial parks," said Mr. Tipton and Mr. Bova.

"In fairness to all concerned, we would like to obtain a land usage study from a professional group which specializes in this work."

The Task Force, appointed by the Township Committee as an arm of the EDC, has recommended rezoning of the Beekman and Gulick farms in the Red Hill section, which total 235 acres, for light industry, office buildings and research facilities.

A zoning ordinance amendment to carry out the Task Force recommendation had been prepared by the Planning Board and was to have been introduced Tuesday night by the Township Committee until the EDC-Task Force request that the introduction be delayed.

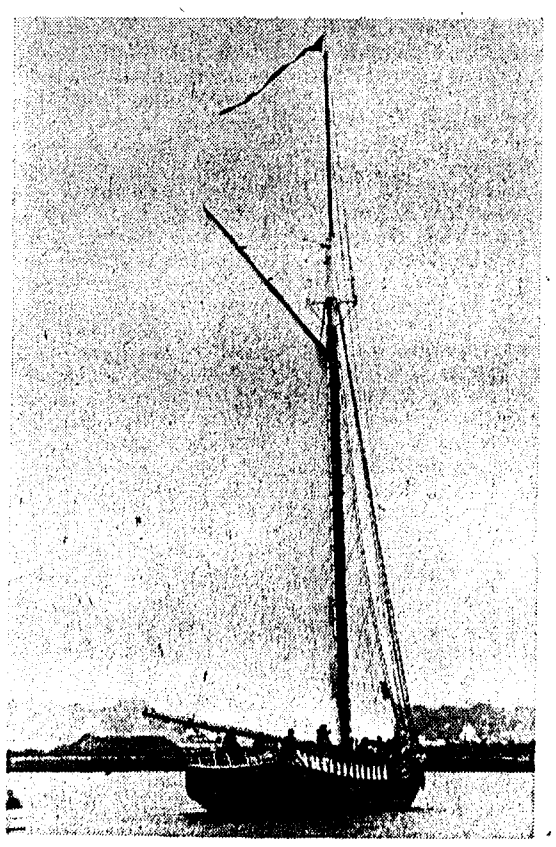

2 Men Sought In Store Holdup

ASBURY PARK – Police are continuing their search for two men who held up the Rite-Aid drug store, 640 Cookman Ave., and escaped with $221.

One of the suspects reportedly threatened the cashier, Anna Messinger of Oceanport, with a small revolver which fit in the palm of his hand. The incident was reported at 8:46 Wednesday.

One of the suspects is described as Negro, 6 feet tall, having an Afro haircut, and wearing dark trousers and a dark blue zipper jacket. The other is described as Negro, 4 feet 10, having a goatee, and wearing yellow shirt and trousers.

They reportedly fled west on Cookman Ave.

CLEARWATER — Folk singer Pete Seeger and his Hudson River sloop "Clearwater" will dock tomorrow afternoon at the Admiral Benbow Inn, Jackson St., Highlands, to begin a stay until Thursday, Sept. 2. Mr. Seeger will present a musical program tomorrow afternoon and evening and another Sunday. The public is invited to board the sloop during her stay. The 'Clearwater' visit is sponsored by the Shrewsbury River Sloop Restoration Inc. in the name of preservation of area ecology.

U.S. Office Building Pushed

NEW SHREWSBURY – If all goes according to schedule ground will be broken within a couple of weeks for the $25 million government office building in Wayside.

Mayor Robert Henck said last night that no date has been set for the formal groundbreaking, but "I know they plan to start as soon as the building permit is issued."

And if there are no hitches in gaining the necessary zoning approvals, the builders, the Dworman Co., New York, will be able to get a permit within a week.

Action Set Tonight

Borough Council is scheduled to meet tonight in Monmouth Regional High School to adopt a major zoning ordinance which will allow construction of the proposed six-story building.

And on Monday night, the Planning Board has scheduled a meeting to grant site plan approval. Once these are accomplished, the company can proceed with construction.

The only major problem still lurking in the background is a possible challenge to the award of the building to Dworman by the General Services Administration.

There have been reports that the only other bidder for the project – Tinton Realty – may challenge the GSA's award.

Tinton Realty had proposed a building on a site in Eatontown at a cost close to that submitted by the Dworman Co.

A spokesman for Tinton Realty said no decision would be announced until sometime next week.

However, Eatontown Mayor Herbert E. Werner said last night he expects the contract award will be contested by Tinton.

"I can't tell you anything more than that at the moment," Mayor Werner said.

Mayor Henck said he hasn't heard a thing about a challenge to the Dworman contract.

Little Opposition

On the local level, the mayor said he hasn't received any substantial opposition to the planned project.

"I got objections from a couple of people," he said, "who said they were concerned about traffic and construction of a large building in the borough.

"I suppose there will be concerns expressed about the traffic, especially from people living nearby," he said.

The mayor said he doesn't expect much opposition to the project considering that the building will be the borough's largest tax ratable and may reduce the local tax rate by $1 for each $100 of assessed valuation.

One of the big problems still to be solved is the traffic situation.

The building will be located at the intersection of Tinton Ave., and Wayside Road, on part of the Mangan Nursery.

Road Work Eyed

Both roads are county roads and both are narrow and two-laned.

"I've spoken informally with the Board of Freeholders," Mayor Henck said, "and we will be making an appointment to discuss the problem in the next week or so."

The freeholders already have indicated that some major road improvements will have to be done in the area, but so far no plans have been advanced.

The building will be "X-shaped" and will contain six floors, the top five of which will be leased for 20 years with a 20-year renewal option to the government. The bottom floor will be leased for retail stores.

The building will house offices now located in 102 wooden barracks on Ft. Monmouth.

The zoning amendment would rezone not only all of the government building site, but other properties running along the west side of Tinton Ave. from Wayside Rd. to the Tinton Falls School.

It also would rezone the elliptical-shaped tract between the Garden State Parkway and Ft. Monmouth, now the site of the Borough Hall; a large portion of the Laurino Farm and the western half of the Red Bank Airport, as well as the south side of Apple St. from the SeaJay Corp. to Hance Ave., and a tract at the southern end of the borough between the Jumping Brook, the parkway, and Asbury Ave.

All these properties, now a mixture of commercial and residential zones, would be listed in an "office research" zone, a new category.

Surprise! Bosox Finally Shut Out Royals

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

After 12 straight defeats and the possibility of an embarrassing season sweep by the Kansas City Royals, the Boston Red Sox were on the verge of becoming the Red Faces.

The complexion suddenly changed, though.

Boston averted a series shutout with a 7-0 triumph over Kansas City last night, whipping the Royals for the first time in a year. The Red Sox lost the last game of 1970 and the first 11 this year.

Odds Catch Up

"The odds just caught up with them, the law of averages," said Boston Red Sox Manager Eddie Kasko.

The odds may have something to do about it, but the Red Sox also had something else going for them – Ray Culp. He pitched a six-hitter.

"They had just beaten up on us," said the burly righthander. "They've got a good, young club. It took one of my better nights to get them out."

All the action last night was in the American League as the Cleveland Indians trimmed the Milwaukee Brewers 10-6, the Baltimore Orioles beat the Chicago White Sox 8-7 in a rain-shortened, eight-inning game and Washington drubbed California 8-3.

Before running into Culp, the Royals were close to doing something that only one team in the history of baseball has done – sweep a season series. The Baltimore Orioles shut out the Royals last year and, in fact, had won 23 straight over two seasons before Kansas City won a game this season.

The Red Sox made certain there wouldn't be another sweep this year as they scored four runs in the fifth off Ken Wright, including Reggie Smith's three-run homer.

Homer About Due

"My home run was about due," said Smith, "I don't recall ever coming here without hitting one."

Ed Farmer pitched strong relief as Cleveland rallied from a 4-0 deficit with four runs in the fourth and five in the seventh to beat Milwaukee.

Paul Balir delivered a tie-breaking single in the Baltimore eighth before rain washed out a two-run rally by Chicago in the ninth.

Larry Bittner touched off a five-run splurge with a tie-breaking single in the ninth inning, carrying Washington over California.

Mays Turns 'Em On Here

By JONNI FALK

NAVESINK – Willie Mays still turns them on wherever he goes. Yesterday, he charmed them at Navesink Country Club in an unannounced visit which quickly emptied the swimming pool, tennis courts and various lounges.

As always, Willie came to play – golf, that is. The one-time Say Hey Kid had a day off between visits to New York and Philadelphia, and he was more than willing to forget the worries of San Francisco's bid for the National League crown and his own chase of the magic number – Babe Ruth's 714 homers.

Baker Throws Gold Party

Willie and teammate Hal Lanier were here to take part in a golf party thrown by Rumson's Evan H. Baker, president of Adirondack Bats.

Nobody has done more to popularize Adirondack's "Big Stick" than Willie. Adirondack has been around for 25 years, and Willie has been using its bats for 20. He is the number one goodwill ambassador for Adirondack, which has home offices on Shrewsbury Ave., New Shrewsbury.

Baker's golf outing included members of the Adirondack staff and friends, but Willie was the center of attraction. Dressed flamboyantly in orange, he couldn't help but be.

Despite the fact that he has only golfed twice since February, Willie claimed, "I'll get my 80." He was the first to the tee and took advantage of that to whack two practice balls before teeing off for real.

The Giants just finished taking two of three from the Mets, and Willie was three for six before taking the collar in four trips in Wednesday's finale.

"Man, they forget about the first two games," Willie complained. "I fan three times, and I get headlines."

"It takes a heckuva ballplayer to get ink like that," Frank Torre, former major leaguer who is director of professional sales for Adirondack, reminded him.

Still trim and fit at 40, Mays seems to be proudest of his base-stealing achievements. "Tell the kids you have to have a knowledge of what's going on if you want to steal bases," he said. "You have to know the pitcher, the catcher and the situation. And you have to take care of your legs," he added.

Willie stole his 17th base in 19 attempts Monday night.

In a serious vein, Mays doesn't think that Jerry Koosman of the Mets, who fanned him three times Wednesday, is the pitcher he was before he hurt his arm.

"Heck, Koosman didn't throw hard. We knew all his pitches – what he was going to throw. We just didn't hit him yesterday."

Lanier echoed Willie although he did not play. The blond infielder is a story in himself.

In 1962, while playing minor league ball, he found out for the first time that he is an epileptic. Since that time, he has been helping others overcome fear of the affliction.

"Take care of yourselves," he advises those with any type of handicap. "Be sure to take your medication properly. In everyway possible, act normal," he adds.

Lanier was sidelined by an attack last year, but he says he doesn't let it bother him. "It has never handicapped me. Most important, it's nothing to be ashamed of so don't try to hide."

Not too many of the youngsters who flocked to see Mays yesterday recognized Lanier and even fewer would know that his father, Max, was a great lefthander with the Cardinals of the 1940's.

"I'm proud of my father," Hal notes. "It was to my advantage to have a famous father. I've always been around baseball and had the best teacher possible."

By this time, Willie was driving down the first fairway in a cart. The youngsters were chortling over the autographed pictures and souvenir Adirondack bats that Baker had provided.

Tonight Willie will be turning them on at Veterans Stadium in Philadelphia. The man who was just this week named the top performer in baseball of the past 25 years by Sport Magazine just keeps rolling along. As long as there are things like golf carts, he'll continue to take care of those legs. Who knows how much longer he'll play?

But yesterday at Navesink Country Club, he left everybody just a bit more cheerful for his having been there.

Had it been night, he would have turned it into day.

CHANCE OF A LIFETIME — Frank Torre, one-time professional baseball player and member of the 1957 World Champion Milwaukee Braves, takes time out from his golf game at the Navesink Country Club yesterday to chat with Mark McIlwain, left, 13, of Rumson, and Dave Baker, 13, son of Evan Baker of Rumson. Torre is the director of professional sales with Adirondack Bat Company. His brother, Joe, is the National League batting leader for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Palmer Survives Play Again. Decides 'It's a Good Tourney'

AP Wirephoto

BLASTS TO VICTORY — Veteran golfer Gardner Dickinson follows through on a sand shot at the ninth hole during yesterday's second round in the U.S. Professional Match Play Golf Championship. Dickinson won his match with Larry Hinson on the first hole of a sudden death playoff.

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) – Arnold Palmer's made up his mind:

"I've come to the conclusion that it's a good tournament," he said after scoring a 68-71 victory over Mike Hill and leading the advance into today's third round of the $200,000 United States Professional Match Play Golf Championship.

"It's going to take time to develop, of course. Any tournament does.

"But it's interesting. I think the spectators like it. Almost anything can happen out there.

"An illustration of what could happen, almost did happen today."

He was referring to the eagle-birdie finish by Hill that turned what appeared to be a routine Palmer victory into a minor drama.

Hill, 32-yyear-old younger brother of Dave Hill, was five strokes down with two holes to play in the head-to-head competition in which scoring is based on total strokes over 18 holes.

He holed out a 120-yard wedge shot for an eagle two on the 17th and made up two strokes. And he put his second shot on the front of the green on the 484-yard, par-five finishing hole while Palmer was short in two.

"Now he's in position to make another eagle and I could have three-putted or something and we're looking at a playoff," Palmer said.

Hill left his eagle putt short, however, while Palmer pitcher to 15 feet and made the putt for a birdie of his own to settle all doubts.

It was Palmer's fourth birdie of the day–he didn't have a bogey–was his second consecutive four-under-par effort and stamped him as a prime threat for the $35,000 first prize in this five-day tournament with a unique format.

Palmer had withheld comment on the format after winning his first round event, but gave it a strong endorsement after his second-round triumph.

"It's different. It offers some variety. I think that's good," he said. "Look, we play 50 or 60 stroke tournaments a year. Now we've got something different in the team championship. And we've got something different here. That's good."

Tries For 5th Title

Palmer, gunning for a fifth title this season, will play Dave Eichelberger in today's third round, Eichelberger, 28-year-old winner of the Milwaukee Open earlier this season, eliminated Lionel Hebert 72-76.

Oddly enough, almost one third of the surviving field–five out of sixteen–is 41 years old or older.

In addition to Palmer, they are Julius Boros, the 51-year-old National Seniors champion; Gene Littler; 41; Art Wall, 47; and Gardner Dickinson, 43.

Boros eliminated Terry Dill 73-76, Wall turned back rookie Hubert Green 71-73, while Littler and Dickinson won in sudden-death playoffs, each with a birdie on the first extra hole. Littler and Dave Hill tied 71-71 and Dickinson and Hinson tied 73-73.

Carty's Eye Cut in Fight

ATLANTA (AP) – Atlanta Braves outfielder Rico Carty, who led the National League in hitting last season, said yesterday his right eye probably has been damaged permanently as a result of an altercation involving three Atlanta policemen.

The policemen have been suspended without pay and Police Chief Herbert Jenkins commmented, "this case involved the worst case of misconduct by a police officer I've ever seen."

Henkins said the matter would be taken to a Fulton County grand jury for investigation, and that the suspended policemen also would be brought before the Aldermanic Police Committee.

Mayor Sam Massell called it "apparently an incident of blatant brutality."

Dismay Rings On Giants' Shift

NEW YORK (AP) – For the New York Football Giants and New York City, the divorce won't be amicable.

Mayor John V. Lindsay led a chorus of dismay yesterday after the Giants announced they would move to a sports complex to be built in the Hackensack meadowlands of New Jersey.

Describing the move as "selfish, callous and ungrateful," Lindsay said he would pursue a three-pronged strategy.

The mayor directed the city corporation counsel's office to explore the possibility of legal action to strip "New York" from the team's name when it moves across the Hudson River.

Parley Planned

He said he would meet with National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle next week to ask for another pro football franchise to replace the Giants, who are supposed to make the move in 1975.

Lindsay also said he was asking Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-Brooklyn, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, to investigate.

"This action by the Giants relates directly to Representative Celler's concern when he fought against congressional action exempting pro football from federal antitrust laws," Lindsay said.

The mayor declared that the city would move ahead with plans to buy and renovate Yankee Stadium despite the Giants' desertion of the stadium.

Mike Burke, president of the New York Yankees, said he was sorry to see his football tenants leave and that the baseball team "shall now have to take a new and realistic reading of our options."

Some Dubious

Although Burke has not tied a Yankee decision to remain in the Bronx to the Giants' remaining, some politicians have been dubious about purchasing the stadium without a football team.

Bronx Borough President Robert Abrams, who called the Giants' decision a blow to the economic viability of the neighborhood around Yankee Stadium, suggest that the football team be ousted from the field before its lease expires in 1974.

TV to Carve 'Big Stick'

NEW SHREWSBURY – If you've never seen how a baseball bat is made, the pregame show of the National Broadcasting Company's Game of the Week will give you an opportunity this Saturday.

Rumson's Evan Baker, president of Adirondack Industries, and NBC's Tony Kubek will guide viewers through the entire process, from the felling of the Northern White Ash trees which grow near the Dolgeville, N.Y., factory of Adirondack until the final product, the "big stick," is finished.

The entire process converts a 21-pound "split" into a bat of about 34 ounces.

Baker and Kubek will be assisted by members of the Adirondack staff, including Frank Torre, brother of Joe Torre, Cardinal third baseman who is leading the National League in hitting, and a former major leaguer himself.

Adirondack, a division of A-T-O Inc., has offices on Shrewsbury Avenue, New Shrewsbury.

Last season the New York Knicks won 32 of their 41 regular season home games in Madison Square Garden.

Shoreliners Regain Form

BRIDGETON — The Jersey Shoreliners kept their championship hopes alive in the Bridgeton Invitational Baseball Tournaments here last night by defeating the host club, the Bridgeton Shilohs, 7-2, behind the seven-hit pitching of right-handed Steve Bauer.

The victory enables the Shoreliners to meet the winner, of the Trenton Pavers-Camden All Stars game which was played last night.

Bauer worked the distance and struck out seven Shilohs, while walking four. He gave up two runs in the eighth inning on two singles and a walk.

Dennis Walling led the Shoreliners at the plate with three runs batted in.

The Shoreliners scored in the third inning when Kevin Bova slammed a solo home run.

The winners added another tally in the fifth frame. Guy Bounocore walked, moved to third on Bova's single and scored on a Joe Discavage ground out.

Three more runs crossed the plate in the sixth for the Shoreliners. Three consecutive singles by Mel Lowe, Pete Lardieri and Dennis Walling, a walk to Rich Rubenstein and another single by Bill Eckert accounted for the runs.

Charles Coursey was the losing pitcher for the Shilohs. He worked four innings and gave up the first two runs.

Steve Reagan came on in the fifth stanza and allowed the last five runs.

Bill Collins, who won the first game for the Shoreliners against Lancaster, Pa., will go again tonight.

The Shoreliners lost to the Washington, D.C., Black Sox Tuesday night in the double-elimination tournament.

Schwab Garners Crown

FLORHAM PARK — Pat Schwab of the Playboy Club increased his lead in the 36-hole final yesterday for a successful defense of his New Jersey Professional Golfers Association Championship.

Schwab, who led by five strokes at the start of the day's play at Braidburn Country Club, fired a 75 in the morning and a 73 in the afternoon, good for an eight stroke victory over Mike Burke of Deal and Bob Benning of Plainfield, who finished in a tie for second.

Schwab carded 68 and 71 the first two days of the three-day 44th annual competition, bringing his total to 287. Burke and Benning finished with 295's.

The winner and two runners up qualified for the Pro Am tourney in South Carolina in Nov. All three golfers will make the trip expense free.

Hall, Atwood Drop Events But Move into AAU Finals

HOUSTON (AP) — World record holder Gary Hall and AAU champion Susie Atwood were beaten in their heats yesterday but advanced to the finals anyway in the National AAU swimming championships.

Mark Spitz, who set a world record 55.01 seconds in Wednesday's 100-meter butterfly prelims, was again on form in leading qualifiers into the men's 200-meter freestyle finals with a 1:58.865 time. Spitz shares the world record of 1:54.3 with Don Schollander.

Hall, who owns the world 400-meter individual medley record of 4:31.0, was edged in his heat yesterday morning by Rock Collella of the Cascade Swim Club, Seattle, Wash. Colella was first at 4:37.57 and Hall was just behind at 4:37.71.

Miss Atwood finished third in her heat of the women's 400 meter individual medley with a clocking of 5:13.03. She made it to the finals along with top qualifier Jenny Bartz of Santa Clara, Calif., Swim Club, 5:10.71, and Cindy Plaisted, of Phillips 66, 5:11.93. Miss Atwood's AAU record is 5:07.3.

Debbie Meyer, the world record holder in the women's 200-meter freestyle, failed to make the finals. Her time of 2:11.029 was only good enough for the first alternate position.

Linda Johnson of the Lakewood, Calif., Aquatic Club led qualifiers in the event with 2:08.873. Miss Meyer's world record is 2:06.7.

Ann Simmons, the defending champion in the women's 200-meter freestyle, was the eighth qualifier in her event with a 2:10.330 time. Linda Johnson of Lakewood was the top qualifier at 2:08.873.

Blues Abound In County Sea

If you're not catching bluefish, and that's what you're after — then you're just not living right. There's no excuse for you if you come home after a long day at the bulkhead, in a boat or at the surf without a catch.

The "Miss Highlands" goes out nightly and usually doesn't arrive back until between the hours of 2:30 to 5 a.m. A couple of nights back, the boat pulled into port at about midnight with a huge load of blues.

Surf, Field And Stream

Apparently, the fishing was so good that the fishermen were tired of pulling the hungry fish out of the water, and they wanted to go home to bed.

William Conklin of Fort Monmouth reported to Captain Charlie's Bait and Tackle Shop in Port Monmouth with 17 blues he caught in less than an hour trolling. Conklin used a Hellcat plug.

Trollers are reporting good bluefishing from the bay to Rockaway.

Fluke on Yo-Yo

Fluke are playing the yo-yo game again. They're up and down. This week they're down, but last week was fairly profitable, so don't give up yet.

Fishermen are scoring well on kingfish in the Shrewsbury River. William Maltaise, Matawan, caught a two-pounder on a sandworm.

Kingfish are also hitting at the bulkheads in Highlands.

Striped bass had a pretty good week too. George Chandler of Fair Haven hooked five bass up to 21 pounds in a boat while fishing mate Bob Hensler, Rumson, hauled in a 24-pounder.

Jerry Sabanaskas of Leonardo hit a 22-pounder in a boat and Jim Cesero, Middletown, used a rigged eel to catch a 27-pound bass.

Just one more jibe at you fellows fishing for blues who aren't catching anything — Ed Adams, Little Silver, nabbed five off the surf. They weighed up to 4½ pounds.

Snapper fishing and crabbing are still tops. The snappers are good size and giving youngsters a good time along the docks. Spearing is the best bait.

As promised, the crabs have grown larger with that last shed. You can't help but score anywhere in the county.

Weakfishing has leveled off a bit. Fishermen going after weaks in the bay using sandworms have been getting snapper instead.

Late-Signing Pros Can't Break Freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — Professional athletes who had not signed a contract before Aug. 15 can't negotiate a pact that will give them a higher salary during President Nixon's 90-day freeze on wages and prices, the Cost of Living Council ruled yesterday.

The ruling, coming in the seventh list of questions and answers issued by the council, brought almost an immediate reply from owners and players associations that further information will be sought to give a better interpretation.

The National Football League Players Association, for instance, said it will make a statement today after discussing the council ruling with several people.

The NFLPA had asked that its members be exempt from the freeze, announced Aug. 15, because the average career of a professional football player is 4.6 years.

"One-third of the players will never have an opportunity to make up the loss suffered by the freeze because of injuries, cuts and retirements," said Ed Garvey, NFLPA executive director, when he made the request to the Cost of Living Council.

It was understood that about 100 pro football players — seven per cent of the NFL — have not signed their contracts for 1971.

Another who wants further information on the council ruling is Al Stevens, a spokesman for the Phoenix Suns of the National Basketball Association.

Stevens says the Suns understand things would revert to the 1970-71 contract terms.

He said most of the Suns' players have signed multiyear contracts although he added that one player still is unsigned.

Joe Axelson, general manager of the Cincinnati Royals, expected the ruling and said he had received guidelines yesterday from the NBA.

Orr's Contract Highest in NHL

BOSTON (AP) — Bobby Orr, the National Hockey League's premier defenseman, has signed a five-year contract with the Boston Bruins, the NHL team announced yesterday.

Financal terms of the contract were not announced, but it was speculated that the pact was for $1 million, which would make Orr the highest paid player in NHL history.

Alan Eagleson, Orr's financial advisor who also is executive director of the NHL's Players Association, said the contract was "the highest in the history of hockey and probably one of the highest in the history of sports."

Orr, 23, the NHL's Most Valuable Player the last two seasons, said he was "very, very happy" with the contract.

"I've spend five years in Boston that have been five of the greatest years of my life," the soft-spoken Orr said. I hope to stay here at least another five years. I'm very happy.

"We've always speculated that Bobby would be a millionaire by the time he was 30," Eagleson said. "I think he will be one before then."

Weston Adams Jr., Bruins president, said the contract was completed and executed last February, after more than a year of negotiations. He said no announcement of the agreement was made at the time because of several minor points that had not been resolved.

Eagles' Claws Set for Giants

PRINCETON — The New York Giants, who lost the bragging championship of New York City to the Jets last week, meet the Philadelphia Eagles at Palmer Stadium here today.

The winless Giants, who yesterday announced their intentions of moving to the Hackensack Meadowlands, hope to find their home state enough to their liking to score their first win in four outings this year.

10th Meeting

The game will mark the 10th renewal of the annual New Jersey Jaycees Classic.

Today's game will push contributions to charitable organizations over the $1.5 million mark as another capacity crowd of 45,000 watches.

Normally the Giants would go into the game as favorites, but the Eagles are 2-1 in preseason play this year while the Giants have been contributing more to the hospitals then to the scoreboards.

Ron Johnson, who underwent an operation this week, will be at the game, but as a spectator only. Rocky Thompson, number one draft choice, will get some action in his place as a running back as his experiment at wide receiver seems to be over. Although Joe Morrison caught three passes as a wide receiver in the debacle against the Jets, he may also fill in for Johnson today.

Problems in Philly

The Eagles also have their problems. Pete Liske, who was running number one at quarterback, strained a knee in last week's loss to Houston and will watch the oft-injured Rick Arrington start. Liske has one bad knee; Arrington has two, but that is where his resemblance to Joe Namath stops.

Ace receiver Harold Jackson has a bruised shoulder and will give way to 6-7 rookie Harold Carmichael.

The Eagles have been getting good work from veteran Ronnie Bull and rookie Jim Bailey, and the Gians will have to stop the Birds' rushing game to win.

New York won last year, 27-7, but the Eagles hold a 5-4 edge in the series.

Game time for the Classic is 2 p.m.

Cowboy Blitz Nets The Lone Star Title

HOUSTON (AP) — With Lynn Dickey, the brilliant rookie from Kansas State, as the victim, the Dallas Cowboys used the safety blitz last night to break up a rough and tough exhibition game and reclaim the "Texas Championship" with a 28-20 victory over the Houston Oilers.

With 3:42 remaining in the final period and the Cowboys clinging to a 14-13 lead, the Dallas blitz enabled Cornell Green to intercept a Dickey pass and clinch the victory with a 40-yard touchdown return.

Just 70 seconds later, after covering a kickoff fumble, the Cowboys put the game out of reach as Dan Reeves, on a field goal fake, passed eight yards to D. D. Lewis for the fourth touchdown.

The Cowboys are undefeated in four exhibition games.

Dickey, making his first start as a pro quarterback completed 14 of 31 passes for, 295-yards and two touchdowns but blamed himself for the interception that broke up the close game at the Astrodome.

Blames Himself

"It was my own fault that I didn't read the blitz," Dickey said. "They found out and kept coming with it.

Ed Hughes, the new Oiler coach said, "Lynn Dickey showed me a lot of cool."

Hughes stuck to Dickey all the way, leaving veteran CharleyJohnson and Rookie Dan Pastorini on the sideline.

Coach Tom Landry was not too happy even though the Cowboys recaptured the Texas Governor's Cup, the Oilers had claimed a year ago with a 37-21 upset.

"Our overall play was spotty and not too good," Landry said. "We were just not alert."

The defeat dropped Houston to 2-3 in exhibition play.

Los Angeles announced that veteran linebacker-defensive end Tony Guillory had been waived out of the league and signed to play for Montreal of the Canadian League.

Graebner Cuts Way to Semi

SOUTH ORGANE (AP) — Second-seeded Clark Graebner of New York City entered the semi-finals of the $25,000 Eastern Lawn Tennis Championships yesterday by defeating Patrick Proisy of France, 7-5, 2-6, 7-5.

Graebner, though not as overpowering as in his previous matches, managed to break Proisy's service in the eleventh game of the first set for the winning margin.

He himself was brought to deuce in the twelfth game but won when Proisy's forehand return went long on a service ace.

Graebner will now face Onny Parun of New Zealand in the semi-finals Saturday.

Parun, who knocked out seventh-seeded Panco Gonzales earlier in the tournament, qualified for the semi-finals by beating Jon Connors of Santa Monica, Calif., 6-3, 7-6.

The other semi-final berths will be filled by winners of matches between top-seeded Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., and Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn.; and Alex Olmedo of Encino, Calif., and Pierre Barthes of France. Those matches will be played today.

In the second set of his match, Graebner had his service broken three times. The first came in the fourth game of the set and was the first service break he lost in his last nine matches.

In the final set Graebner was down in games 4-5 before reeling off the next three for his win.

In women's play, Chris Evert, a 16-year-old wonder from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., hung on to defeat Betty Stove, the Netherlands' top woman player, 6-7,6-4,7-5, and enter the quarter finals.

Miss Evert, seeded fourth, admitted to playing defense for most of the match but said it was because of her lack of familiarity with grass courts.

Also qualifying for quarter finals was top-seeded Virginia Wade of Great Britain who made short work of Gail Hansen of Palo Alto, Calif., 6-4, 6-2.

Having taken the first set, Miss Wade kept the pressure on by blasting several forehands and overhands to break Miss Hansen in the third and fifth games of the second set.

Name Glading Head Of Bar's Tax Section

TRENTON — William J. Glading, Red Bank, has been selected chairman of the Taxation Section of the New Jersey State Bar Association, it was announced by the association president, Joseph T. Grause, also of Red Bank.

"The Taxation Section has been active in pursuit of tax equity for all citizens of New Jersey," Mr. Grause said. "The section took the lead in opposition to New Jersey Assembly Bill 2291, which would heighten difficulty of appealing tax assessments.

"The section's position, endorsed by the association, is that tax appeal is a matter of right and ought to be as easy as possible for anyone.

"Mr. Glading has already served as an officer of the section. I am sure he will maintain the pace."

Mr. Glading has listed three priority topics for the section in the coming year: Improvement of the Inheritance Tax System; improvements in real property tax, assessment, and appeals procedure; and estate planning techniques, estate tax, gift tax, and income tax implications.

A graduate of St. John's University College and Law School, Mr. Glading is currently active in a number of professional organizations, including the Monmouth County, American, and Federal Bar Associations.

He was formerly a member of the Board of Education of Shrewsbury, and was a municipal judge there.

Your Horoscope, Birthday

FRIDAY, AUGUST 27 — Born today, you are one of those persons who is genuinely fond of people in general. The fact of their humanity makes your fellow men your brothers in heart and mind, if not in actuality, and for this reason you would be hard put to name an enemy were you asked to do so. Unselfish to the core of your being, you are concerned with the welfare of the many as opposed to that of the few. On the other hand, you will work hard and long to help the plight of those few.

Unafraid of work, you pay little heed to whether a project is complicated or simple when making up your mind to take it on or not. It is your nature to lead others — so much so that you seldom have to put up a fight in order to get possession of the reins. Followers flock to you to help you put into practice plans and theories; they seem to know that with you at the helm, a project can hardly fail.

Spiritual by nature, you must allow your faith full sway if you are to be content. You possess an enormous well of intuitive knowledge and often do your reasoning on the basis of such knowledge rather than on a base of logic. You are, however, wisest when you combine logic with instinct;

Saturday, August 28

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — Friends at a distance from home may call on you for support. Do what you can to give them what they're after.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — There's no point attempting to bluff your way out of present difficulties. Take the bull by the horn and face the issue head on.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Throughout the day you should have no difficulty getting along with family or friends. Take care that darkness does not bring argument.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — Personal matters — particularly as they have to do with relationships to loved ones — should be your first consideration.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — It's very possible that you may have a more difficult time putting a change of mind into effect than you thought. Stick to it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — Take care that another doesn't mislead you into the kind of Saturday activity that calls for Sunday regrets.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21) — You can weather whatever uncertainties the day brings — if you are careful to set your mood and mind accordingly.

ARIES (March 22-April 20) — If you are fully prepared as to what you will do and say when a stranger comes to call, you should be able to meet with success.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) — The wise Taurus will refuse to subject his friends to more changes of mind. Keep to your schedule and, thus, to your friends.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — A trying day — but one that can be saved by the harmonious settlement between friends and business associates.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — Take care that familiarity doesn't breed carelessness. You will gain no more than your ability and care dictate.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — It is confidence more than anything else that enables you to move through a trying day without loss or personal frustration.

Sheinwold's Bridge Advice

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

If I had any sense I'd hide today's hand instead of printing it. For years I have been advising declarers to play for whatever distribution is necessary for the contract to be made; and all this time I have paid no attention to crafty defenders. It's like saying the early bird gets the worm without paying attention to the poor early worm.

When today's hand was played last month in the national Life Master Pair Championship, West opened the five of hearts. Mike Lawrence, member of the Dallas Aces, played the nine of hearts from the East hand to force out the queen.

South considered his prospects without great enthusiasm. He was surely going to lose a heart and two diamonds. The contract therefore depended on losing no trump trick.

Since the best chance was a doubleton king of spades in the West hand, South led a low trump and tried a finesse with dummy's jack. Lawrence casually played the eight of spades instead of winning the trick.

Moment of Hope

South had a moment of hope. Since the finesse had worked, West surely had the king of spades. But since East had dropped the eight of trumps, West probably had the five. The hand could still be made if East had started with just 10-8 of trumps.

South therefore returned to his hand with a club and led the queen of spades, hoping to pick up the ten and the king on the same trick. West showed out, and South realized he was now sure to lose two trump tricks instead of only one.

In rubber bridge it would be no great triumph to score 200 points rather than just 100, but in a tournament this was worth a top score. It's worth noting that when Lawrence made his crafty play he didn't know his partner had the ace of diamonds. If South had the ace of diamonds, East would need two trump tricks to have any chance to defeat the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold: S-K 10 8 5 H-K J 9 6 3 D-K J 5 C-6. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. The hand is not quite worth a bid in first or second position. Most experts would bid one heart in third position if the first two players passed.

NFFE Asks Congress To Bar Wage Freeze

WASHINGTON – The National Federation of Federal Employes is calling upon Congress to overrule President Nixon's decision to postpone a government workers' pay increase at least six months beyond this coming Jan. 1.

It also is urging the Congress to give "searching scrutiny" to the administration's plans to cut the federal workforce by 5 per cent.

"We strongly urge that the Congress as a policy reassert and restore its own initiative and authority" in the setting of federal pay, the NFFE president, Dr. Nathan I. Wolkomir, declared.

Dr. Wolkomir said the presidential action "on already lagging federal pay" confirms fears the union voiced when the present federal payroll was enacted. At that time, the NFFE expressed "gravest misgivings" about the relinquishment by the Congress to the executive of the initiative and major responsibility in setting federal pay," he asserted.

He said that, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, most federal pay isn't comparable to that paid for similar jobs in the private sector. Postponement of the anticipated wage hike will widen the gap, he said.

The NFFE head declared that the administration's new economic policy "by curious coincidence was announced after inflationary agreements were all wrapped up and signed" in several basic industries.

Dr. Wolkomir warned that a cutback in federal employment "will have an adverse effect upon the quality of public service." He cited specifically Veterans Administration hospitals, and questioned if it is "truly in the public interest" to leave jobs for physicians and nurses unfilled there.

He said the announced plan to reduce the federal workforce through attrition – by not filling jobs when employes leave them – "on balance has been a bad program wherever it is put into effect."

The NFFE, the largest independent federal employes union, has a unit at Ft. Monmouth.

Studies Classical Guitar To Bring Joy to Others

By BOB BRAMLEY

FAIR HAVEN – "In today's world there are so many things that get people down that they need artists to bring them up again."

The young man struck a few random chords from the nylon-strung classic guitar on his knee.

"I know it can be a rough life as an artist, but I think it's worth it to make people happy," added Francis G. Perry, younger son of Frank J. Perry of 326 Hance Road, proprietor of Perry's store on River Road.

The warm wandering counterpoint of a Bach Invention uncoiled restlessly from the belly of the guitar as Francis' fingers flew over the strings. He laid down his instrument and started to talk.

Went to Italy

Well launched on the road to a concert career, the young guitarist spent six weeks this summer with 120 of his classmates from the North Carolina School of the Arts performing in Italy. Renowned Mexican guitar virtuoso Jesus Silva, Francis' teacher at the school, was tour director.

The students, who included orchestra members, guitarists, vocalists and dancers, spent four weeks in Siena and two in Spoleto and Rome entertaining the Italian public.

Francis' interest in the guitar started when he was seven. Urged on by his mother, he took lessons with Vito Marascio of Red Bank, barber and guitarist. He continued the lessons until he graduated from Rumson-Fair Haven Regional High School in 1969.

Music Minor

Because he considered music and the guitar "always a strong avocation," Francis entered Strathmore, a liberal arts college, majoring in English and minoring in music.

"But I found I wasn't strongly interested in any major," the young man explained.

His strong interest in the guitar grew stronger, however, as he continued lessons with a teacher in Philadelphia, not far from Strathmore. Finally in February, he took a leave of absence from Strathmore and was accepted on the basis of his talent by the Carolina school, located in Winston-Salem.

"That worked out really well. I went there mostly for my teacher," Francis explained.

His teacher was, of course, Jesus Silva, a protege of the leading guitar virtuoso of the world, Segovia. And with Silva, Francis and his guitar found a home. He will return in September to begin two or three more years of study which should qualify him for a career as a concert guitarist.

"As a teacher, Silva is very inspiring; he spurs me on," Francis said with a hint of embarrassment at the depth of feeling that showed in his eyes.

The only other member of the Perry family – a brother is a dentist; a sister educates the handicapped – with musical talent is Mrs. Perry, Francis explained.

Played Piano

"Mother used to play the piano years ago. And she recognized the talent in me and pushed me along. She has a great appreciation of good music. But Dad can't even whistle a tune," he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry stood beaming fondly as they watched their son pack his three guitars away – the nylon-strung classical, the steel-strung acoustic and the electric rock, which he uses only "when they call me" anymore.

Presently Francis shook hands, kissed his mother and departed. He was off to Albany, N.Y., to see a friend – an oboist.

Lee Hendry

LITTLE SILVER – How does a local actress get a job in the commercial theater? Determination helps. Lee Hendry spent long, weary months in New York, carrying her resume from one producer to another, reading at auditions, calling back, or hearing "don't call us, we'll call you."

But lots of little theater experience, capped by some good recent work with Monmouth County groups, finally paid off. She is currently doing "Plaza Suite" at the Village Dinner Theatre in Raleigh, N.C. Of her performances in all three of Neil Simon's playets, Bill Morrison of the Raleigh News and Observer said, ". . . she is a little scared, bitterly hopeful and touching in the first play." His comment on the middle stanza included, "She eases beautifully into an intoxicated state and is uproarious . . ." And, "she deftly spins another comedy dance" was his verdict on the last act.

Lee Hendry was seen in a comedy role in the Monmouth Players' "See How They Run" last spring. Earlier she had played the lead in "Little Murders" for the Seaview Players, and also was seen locally in "Dear Friends."

She began her acting career doing one-woman shows in Buffalo. This led to all sorts of roles with upstate theater groups. But soon after the Hendreys moved to Little Silver, Lee's husband died and she went to work to raise three children. Most recently the attractive brunette was personnel manager for Air Cruisers Inc., Wall Township. When that job ended last spring, she decided the time had come to return to show business.

Although camping is usually done in the hinterlands, many non-campers often fail to see the variety of events and experiences which devotees of that recreational activity are prone to take part in.

Camping is not just living in the woods for a week or two with little to do. Agreed, it is a prime means of getting away from the day-to-day drudgery of the job, shopping, ringing telephones and traffic snarls, but life afield is a never-ending change of interests, sounds and sights.

If you are a photographer, fisherman or hunter, for instance, your treks away from the campsite reveal new vistas of each step, new turns in the stream and different species of birds and wildlife chattering, scolding and fleeing your presence.

Many outdoor-types, however, are campers first and fun-seekers second. They set up camp, explore new areas and then, often at the insistance of family members, look about for extra activities. This often adds zest to the vacation trip afield and provides new experiences to be savored while reminiscing during the off season and while planning the next venture to outdoor living.

Some of the extra benefits of camping are planned and some appear spontaneously, as an afterthought or by sheer chance.

A planned extra-camping activity was recently carried out by Mr. and Mrs. Louis G. Ferraro of Shrewsbury. The couple packed up their family and camping gear and went to Chincoteague and Assateague Islands, Va., to watch the annual wild pony roundup. This event, which draws hundreds of onlookers, is a once-a-year happening.

Another family which found extra activities in Virginia was that of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Thornson of Colts Neck. They went to an out-of-the-way camping area, which was still only a half-hour's drive from the nation's capitol. The fun of camping life was spiced with Washington sightseeing tours.

This writer has camped in recent years in Myles Standish State Forest, near Plymouth, Mass. The advantages of being near the historic setttlement are obvious.

The fun and games added to these camping ventures, however, are more than unusual. We team up against "campers" at the Massachusetts State Prison Farm in the forest each year for softball bouts. The "State Nine" team invariably trounces the visitors but we realize they have more "time" to practice than we have.

CAMPING

Another area boasting a wealth of activities for campers, hikers, hunters and fishermen is Potter County, Pa. The county is 85 per cent wooded and includes the huge Susquehannock trail system, an 85-mile jaunt for backpackers who can take in all of the trail in a week or portions of it over a weekend. There is no charge to hikers who do not camp in one place more than one night.

The area also includes the famed Coundersport Ice Mine, a half-million acres of timberland, a myriad of camping and recreational facilities and the title, "God's Country."

Potter county's northern border is New York state's southern boundary. A postcard to Potter County Recreation, Inc., Coudersport, will bring information for campers, hikers and other outdoorsmen, as well as for less rugged and conventional sightseers.

Seasoned campers learn about and travel to new and interesting sites each year. Neophytes often worry about "where to go and how to get there."

Coming Up: Journeys of 'Crazy George'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — George Schlatter, who revolutionized television variety shows four years ago with his "Laugh-In," hopes to start another trend with his latest concept, "Wacky World."

Schlatter, a roaring, bearded giant affectionately called "Crazy George" by his "Laugh-In" associates, believes that the viewing public is now ready to savor comedy on a worldwide basis. His pilot program, filmed over Europe, South America and the United States during a five-month period, will be broadcast as an NBC special Monday, Sept. 13.

Humor Rooted Out

"People are accustomed to watching news bouncing in from all over," Schlatter said. "From London, Paris, Moscow. But so far humor has remained locked in studios in New York and Hollywood."

Television Comment

NBC's "Laugh-In" will go into its fifth season next month — "they said we couldn't keep it up for six months," Schlatter said with satisfaction.

The producer thinks the uninhibited series came at precisely the right time in television history.

"It moved into a vacuum," he said. "Variety had not changed in 15 years. The audience was bored with seeing the same people, the same scenes and the same twinkle lights night after night.

"So we turned to brevity. We condensed the comedy. After all, everybody with access to a television set had seen so much entertainment it was no longer necessary to set the audience up so they could understand the jokes."

Tempo Speeds Up

The result, as any mildly discerning viewer knows, is that the whole tempo of television humor has speeded up. Variety shows generally abandoned long, wandering sketches for quick skits leading directly to punch lines or the black outs.

In television as in the rest of business, nothing succeeds like success, so the industry will be watching George's new baby, "Wacky World," carefully.

Schlatter believes that the disappearance of many TV variety shows this season is the result of suicide.

WHAT THE CRITICS SAY:
...give all take all erotic encounters... basically nude dramatics... a sense of style and a thoroughly professional job.
—VARIETY

...surpasses I AM CURIOUS and WITHOUT A STITCH with scenes that practically burn a hole in the screen... a sex film of the strongest kind... magnificent staging and beautiful photography.
— BACKSTAGE

...a bold and interesting film... high powered lesbian drama... certainly the best film yet in the last moving new vogue of Scandinavian-American co-productions... smacks of Bergman in intensity ...a film that goes all the way.

Actress Pounded Pavements To Get Part

"It was pretty discouraging," she says. "Broadway is so different today. The emphasis is almost entirely on youth. But once in a while a play like 'Plaza Suite' comes along."

The leads in Simon's work are forty to fiftyish, Lee notes, and there aren't as many actors in those brackets as you'd think. Or if there are, most don't choose to go on the road playing dinner theaters. The dinner theater has largely replaced the old stock companies, and the schedules, while not nearly as tough as "stock" where you had to learn a new part every week, are rigorous enough. Eight performances a week is the usual pattern.

Lee's group, sponsored by H&H Productions, expects to complete four weeks in Raleigh and then go to Memphis or Tulsa.

What will Lee Hendry do when the "Suite" tour ends? "Take my resume, photos and notices and go right back to pounding the pavements. I've broken the ice now."

A WORRIED FIDDLER

LONDON (AP) — Tutte Lemkow, starring as the fiddler in the current production of a film version of "Fiddler on the Roof," has a fear that does not really fit the job: he hates heights.

The dancer-actor-musician admitted he "shakes with fear" during the rooftop sequences. He said: "I think the fiddler would too. Part of his meaning is to signify survival, a difficult against-the-odds survival, and he would have some fear.

Who is Harry Kellerman
"ONE OF THE BEST TIMES I'VE HAD AT THE MOVIES THIS YEAR!"
— Gene Shalit, Look Magazine

Poor Georgie.
One day Georgie Soloway jumped off a penthouse, fell in love in an empty theater, raced down a ski slope, circled Manhattan in his private jet, and tried to find some creep who put him down to every girl he liked.
