Amex Chief's 'Bullish' Style Matches Market's Trend

By BETTE SPERO

MIDDLETOWN — Talk about good portents. Richard M. Burdge couldn't have picked a better time to ascend to the presidency of the American Stock Exchange, if he had planned it himself.

Mr. Burdge's appointment as the new Amex president was announced four days before the stock market soared to a record high. His comment, made during a Daily Register interview the day after the market made history?

"I'm always very bullish," he remarked.

"Many men on the (Wall) Street feel it's a good signal," said Mr. Burdge in referring to the Dow-Jones industrial average which broke the 1,000 barrier before market closing Friday.

"Many people feel the market is acting very well," he noted. "It's a good, strong growing market."

Investors Active

"The investor is starting to increase his activity," he explained. "In the last five months, the public investor wasn't taking part, whether it be because of the summer doldrums, the (presidential) election, the Vietnam War, or the world monetary situation."

The Dow-Jones average of 30 industrials, Wall Street's bellwether of stock market behavior, is the market's most closely watched indicator. During intraday trading Friday, the Dow industrials, propelled upward by such blue chip stocks as motors, steels, oils and American Telephone, set a record of 1,001.43.

Gaining seven points, the Dow finished at a record closing of 995.26. The close, rather than the intraday figure, is considered the key to the indictor's performance. On the American Stock Exchange, the price change index held steady at 26.14.

Mr. Burdge's appointment as Amex president was announced last week by Paul Kolton, the Exchange's newly-elected chairman and chief executive officer.

"The Amex is fortunate to be able to reach within its organization for an executive of Dick Burdge's ability and imagination," said Mr. Kolton in announcing the appointment. "In confirming his selection as president, the Amex board of governors has recognized his substantial contributions as an administrator and innovator, as well as his special effectiveness in planning improved management and operational systems for the Exchange and the securities industry."

As president, Mr. Burdge will be chief operating officer, in charge of Amex's 11 divisions and 39 departments. He will specifically be responsible for all the trading activities. That includes the 1,200 to 1,300 securities listed on the Exchange and the 700 to 1,000 persons on the trading "floor" as members.

"I have to make sure all the trading and floor activities go right," Mr. Burdge remarked. "We're kind of a barometer of public opinion. It's all very volatile, but you get used to the uncertainties," added the quiet spoken executive during an early Saturday morning interview with The Register.

Talks With Thieu Held Constructive

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's special emissary to Saigon returns today amid widespread expectation that adviser Henry A. Kissinger will soon head for another peace negotiating session in Paris.

Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. was slated to report to Nixon following his homecoming after two days of talks with South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu and short stops in Cambodia and South Korea. The U.S. embassy described the talks with Thieu "cordial and constructive."

Nixon came back to Washington from Key Biscayne, Fla., last night for a few hours' stay before proceeding to his Camp David, Md., retreat.

Kissinger weekended in New York, seeing a Broadway play and a professional football game after which he mingled in the locker room with quarterback Joe Namath and others of the New York Jets.

Just when Kissinger will head for Paris to meet again with North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho remains a secret. Administration officials maintained their air of confidence, however, about moving toward final accord on ending the war.

Kissinger said Oct. 26 that remaining issues could be straightened out in one more negotiating session lasting three or four days. Since the administration officials have left open the possibility that Kissinger may need more than one more than one more parley with Tho.

Hanoi envoy Xuan Thuy anticipated a further Kissinger-Tho meeting in a Paris interview over the weekend, though he held to North Vietnam's position that the session should be devoted to procedures for signing the proposed nine-point pact — not to altering it.

Haig's Saigon visit was a further Nixon move to overcome Thieu's objections to the peace plan and line up a common position for the allies.

U.S. officials in Saigon indicated the talks narrowed U.S.-South Vietnamese differences, apparently clearing the way for resumption of the private negotiations in Paris.

Thieu has been calling for a pullout of North Vietnamese forces from South Vietnam, a condition not specified in the nine-point plan, and has fought any imposition of a coalition government on Saigon.

Haig, Kissinger's top aide, was reported to have carried a Nixon letter to Thieu and presumably received one from Thieu to Nixon.

Nab Quartet Following 3 Holdups

SHREWSBURY — A Shrewsbury police officer last night apprehended four suspects, two of them armed at a Rt. 35 diner after three successive holdups in Neptune, Bradley Beach and Red Bank.

Police reported that Patrolman James Longo of Shrewsbury held four men at gunpoint in the Shrewsbury Diner parking lot shortly after 10 p.m. Responding to his call for assistance were police from Red Bank, Eatontown, New Shrewsbury as well as Shrewsbury.

The cooperative police effort followed a series of descriptions of holdup suspects issued earlier through the Monmouth County police communications system.

Police in Red Bank, Bradley Beach, Neptune and Shrewsbury early today were reconstructing what appeared to have been a holdup and robbery spree that started in Neptune at 7:25 p.m. when a local gas station was the scene of a holdup. The suspects were being booked in all four municipalities.

Hijack Passengers Tell Bizarre Tale

MIAMI (AP) — Their 28-hour, 3,800-mile flight of terror ended, passengers aboard a hijacked jetliner have returned from Cuba with bizarre tales of three "deranged" sky pirates.

They also had words of praise for the Southern Airways crew which landed the crippled DC9 on a foam-covered Havana runway.

Another Southern DC9 returned the 27 passengers and four crewmen to Miami and finally to their original destinations yesterday after an attempt by FBI sharpshooters to halt the hijacking failed Saturday night and forced the emergency landing in Cuba.

All three hijackers were taken into custody by Cuban officials at Havana. Passengers said Cuban authorities also confiscated ransom money demanded and collected by the hijackers from Southern.

Expected to Die

"Everyone thought they would be dead in an hour," said passenger Gale Buchanan at a Miami hospital, recalling how FBI agents shot out four of the plane's tires as it prepared for takeoff after a refueling stop at Orlando, Fla.

Buchanan, 35, of Auburn, Ala., who suffered a sprained knee, was one of four persons injured during the hijacking. Copilot Billy Johnson, 37, mayor of College City, Ark., was shot in the shoulder by one of the hijackers.

Buchanan said the hijackers acted in a bizarre manner during the circuitous, three-nation flight. He said they alternately handed out fistfulls of ransom money, forced male passengers to remove their pants and shot the copilot after threatening to "put a bullet in your head."

The hijackers, reportedly armed with guns and grenades, had demanded a $10-million ransom for the plane and its passengers. An undisclosed amount of money was given to the sky pirates during a stop in Chattanooga, Tenn., Saturday. Southern refused to say how much money had been given to them.

There also were several other unanswered points:

— Were the hijackers screened for weapons when they boarded the Southern jet at Birmingham shortly before they commandeered the plane Friday night? Southern said metal detectors were being used, but they said they had been told not to reveal whether screening devices had been used on the hijackers. A Souther ticket agent told The Associated Press, however, that all passengers had been screened.

— Will Cuba return the ransom money and the hijackers to the United States?

Justice Proctor Denies Report He'll Resign

By JANE FODERARO

INTERLAKEN — Justice Haydn Proctor yesterday denied reports that he will resign from the N.J. Supreme Court because of ill health.

"Those reports are absolutely false," he said.

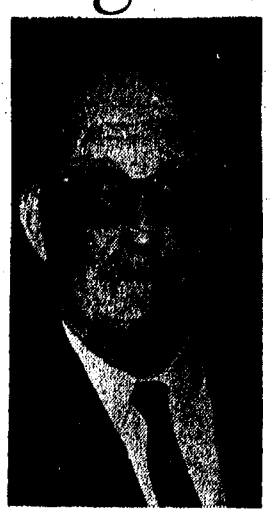

The justice, who was hospitalized recently to undergo tests, was reported to be planning retirement before the first of the year by the Newark Star Ledger.

The jurist said that, although he will re-enter the hospital for surgery, he has "no intention of retiring." The justice will undergo surgery for a blocked artery, checking into the hospital the day after Thanksgiving.

The 69-year-old justice noted that speculation is running high in state political circles because two vacancies now exist on the seven-member high court.

"I know there are about five candidates," he commented.

The vacancies were created in September with the retirement of Justices John J. Francis and Thomas Schettino and must be filled by Gov. William T. Cahill.

Justice Haydn Proctor

Justice Proctor, speaking from his home here, said he plans to retire from the bench on June 16, 1973, when he will mark his 70th birthday, the mandatory retirement age.

The justice returned home from his first hospital stay last Wednesday.

Amex President's Style Matches Market Trend

Mr. Burdge was attired in dress slacks, sports jacket, shirt and tie. He greeted the early morn entourage of reporter and subsequent photographer, whom he accommodated before leaving later that morning for a weekend business trip, with the same, even ease of temperament that he displayed when talking, very matter-of-factly, about the eccentric intricacies of high finance.

Discipline Needed

Meeting those financial uncertainties head-on is something to which Mr. Burdge has steeled himself, over the years, in a form of business-like mental discipline.

"It's certainly a leveling influence if you think you can predict everything," noted Mr. Burdge, in referring to the day-to-day, ups and downs of the market. "It becomes a mental discipline to keep calm."

Before being named president, Mr. Burdge served as the Exchange's executive vice president in charge of administration, finance and operations. He joined Amex in 1968 as a senior vice president in charge of the Market Operations and Data Systems divisions, with his responsibilities including Trading Floor operations and all computer programs.

The 45-year-old executive of the "Little Board" nixed any talk of an Amex merger with the New York Stock Exchange, dubbed the "Big Board" in finance circles.

"There has been a great movement in the industry for firms and regulatory bodies to join where they can, in order to cut expenses," Mr. Burdge said. "The two Exchanges met for two years to plan a merger of their operational facilities, activities that represent a good 40 per cent of the operating budget."

The result was the Securities Industry Automation Corporation (SIAC), jointly owned subsidiary of the Amex and NYSE, which began operating July 17. Under an agreement signed by the two exchanges, SIAC is responsible for developing and operating all electronic data processing, communications, clearing and other services.

"In effect we have merged — we call it consoldidated — certain services to form the SIAC," Mr. Burdge said. "But we have never talked to the N.Y. Stock Exchange about a real merger. The benefits of that remain to be seen."

For one thing, the exchanges have completely different markets. About 70 per sent of the NYSE's volume is in institutional, blue chip stocks. By contrast, the Amex is smaller and deals with growing untried companies, with the bulk of the more public market's support coming from the individual investor.

No Merger

"It's difficult for me to see a merger, from a market standpoint, we're two different places," Mr. Burdge said. "We'll always be known as the market that seasons a stock."

This is a record year for new listings on the Amex, with 190 newcomers so far, according to Mr. Burdge. Trading volume is also up about 6.5 per cent from last year for the end of the third financial quarter.

But the Amex Price-Earnings Index of 14.80 is down from last's quarter's close of 17.50, according to Amex's third quarter report. Net income, $404,000 for the first three quarters compared to $710,000 a year ago, is also down. Increased project development costs, principally for the AMCODE (Amex's Computerized Order Display and Execution System) automated market system, contributed to the loss.

Mr. Burdge was instrumental in developing AMCODE, described as a comprehensive electronic trading system. He has also pioneered the SECTOR (Securities Industry Telecommunications Organization.), a nationwide electronic communications network, and FACS (Feedback and Analysis of Control Statistics), and early-warning system that permits the Amex to monitor more closely the processing and operational capability of member firms.

Ohio Firms

Before joining Amex, Mr. Burdge served in executive capacities with several firms in Ohio, where he lived for about 12 years. Those firms included the Bowman Products Division of Associated Spring Corp.; Robert Heller Associates management consultants; the Nelpin Manufacturing Co., and the Jackson Mining Co.

He was always interested in marketing and selling, his enthusiasm stretching back to the days when he helped his late father run a fruit and vegetable market in Bay Head.

Mr. Burdge is a native of Point Pleasant, where his mother, Mrs. Vernon Burdge still lives. He graduated from Point Pleasant High School in 1944 and served in the North Atlantic with the U.S. Navy when he was 17.

He received a bachelor of science degree in economics from the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania and a master of business administration degree from Harvard University Business School. He is a member of the Harvard Club of New York.

Feels Fine

The new Amex president feels "very honored, very pleased, and very fine" at being the "Little Board's" new operations head. But he is not really surprised at the sweet pinnacle of success.

"I can't say all of us don't have our ambitions," he noted.

Mr. Burdge and his wife Gloria Jean have four children, Richard Jr., 17, a Middletown High School student; Peter, 14, a pupil at The Pingrey School, and Scott, 10, and Christopher, 8, both pupils at the Rumson Country Day School. The Burdges, formerly Rumson residents, live at 55 Hillandale Drive.

When first asked what he did when not working for the Exchange, Mr. Burdge quipped, "I'm seldom not working for the Exchange."

A member of the Sea Bright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club, Rumson, he said he enjoys tennis, sailing, and "working around the house" (a mammoth home set atop a wooded hill overlooking still-green, wooden fenced farmland).

In closing, Mr. Burdge amplified on his Bullish feelings — hardly restricted to one day's market performance. He thinks the best is yet to come.

"Most economists are predicting a very healthy year," he said. "The 1970's are supposed to outpace the so-called soaring '60's."

Following the county-wide report from Neptune police, Bradley Beach police reported that a Cumberland Farms store on Main St. had been hit at 8:42 p.m.

Police there gained a description of the fleeing suspects' car from neighboring residents and passed it on to other departments. The car was described as white, with a red stripe and a damaged headlight.

Then, at approximately 9:50 p.m., there was a third holdup at a Cumberland Farms store, Newman Springs Road, Red Bank, police reported.

Patrolman Longo arrested the suspects approximately 20 minutes later when they reportedly stopped for something to eat at the Shrewsbury diner.

In addition to a description of the car, personal descriptions of the individual suspects were released on the county police teletype. Two of them reportedly carried small caliber weapons.

Littoral Task Force Seminar on Sunday

WEST LONG BRANCH — Films of marine life — underwater and above — will highlight the first seminar of the Jersey Littoral Task Force at Monmouth College Sunday.

The four-hour program will begin with films of the artificial reef at Sea Girt and nearby wrecks, and the life that abounds there. Following will be a discussion of beach access — who owns the beaches and access to them.

A special one-hour panel will cover environmental legislation in New Jersey, through the eyes of a state legislator and a member of the state's Department of Environmental protection. They will cover the wetlands act, riparian law, and current legislation — coastal zone protection, flood plain zoning.

There will be an illustrated report on the society's New Jersey activites over the past year and a separate slide program describing the society's Bermuda diving station.

The seminar will be in Edison Hall 1 from 1 to 5 p.m. Tickets may be obtained by writing to the society, Sandy Hook, Highlands, N.J., or at the door.

This will be the first meeting sponsored by the Jersey Littoral Task Force, which is made up of Littoral society members in New Jersey.

Arts Center Has a Profit

TRENTON (AP) — The Garden State Arts Center's ledger is showing a profit for the first time in three years.

According to the center's year-end report, the profit totaled $37,544, compared to about $250,000 in losses during the two previous years.

The report said the major change that resulted in the profit was a renegotiated contract with Nederlander Associates of New York. Originally, the firm was employed as both booking agent and managerial consultant. However, under the new contract the New Jersey Highway Authority took over management at a saving of $170,038.

Say Pentagon Plans Military Base Closings

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the election over, the Pentagon is preparing a new round of base-closings and reductions that will eliminate thousands of civilian defense jobs.

The cutbacks probably will not be announced until after Congress returns in January, defense sources said.

The base cuts are being planned in response to President Nixon's orders to trim the rolls of civil service employes and Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird's promise to Congress to absorb $1.5 billion in budget cuts this fiscal year.

Just before the 1972 election year began, David Packard left office as deputy secretary of defense with a parting complaint that the Pentagon could save $1 billion a year by closing unneeded bases, were it not for political constraints.

The Army, Navy and Air Force long have wanted to shut down a number of bases they consider marginal. But, anticipating election year protests from congressmen and senators with large numbers of defense employes among their constituents, they waited.

Now the "political realities," as one Pentagon official termed them, are temporarily over though the list of bases most likely to be closed or cut back is being kept under wraps for the time being.

However, the Army is known to be planning a reorganization that, among other things, likely would merge the First Army headquarters at Ft. Meade, Md., and the Third Army headquarters in Atlanta, eliminating one of them. The Army also is expected to recommend retrenching helicopter training -and -maintenance bases now that American forces are virtually out of Vietnam.

Shipyards

Some sources indicate that possibly two naval shipyards, one on each coast, might be shut down. They were not named either.

Nixon gave a fresh indication of things to come last week when he said in a published interview that civilian defense employes "are getting in the way of each other over in the Pentagon and around the country" and that "they are going to have to take a thinning down."

At the same time, Nixon indicated that any cuts in the uniformed strength of the armed services would be slight.

There are reports that a 5 per cent slice in civilian employment may be applied throughout the government under Nixon's new policy, designed to reduce spending.

There now are fewer than 1.1 million civilian workers on the payroll of the Defense Department and its agencies.

Pilot Walks After Colts Neck Crash

COLTS NECK — A 25-year-old New Shrewsbury student pilot escaped serious injury Friday when his light plane crashed on a residential street during a take off from Colts Neck Airport here.

The pilot was identified as James Martin of 51 Neville St., New Shrewsbury, who was treated for a minor head injury at Freehold Area Hospital.

Paul Wille, airport manager, said that aeronautic inspectors who later came to the crash site attributed the accident to engine failure due to fuel contamination.

The plane landed almost directly in front of the home of William Drummond, 9 Brookview Drive, who has publicly criticized the airport as a safety hazard and a source of unnecessary noise in a residential area. Mr. Drummond was not available for comment yesterday.

Mr. Wille last night allowed as how he wished the plane had not landed where it did.

However, he said that Friday's accident was the first "off-airport" crash in more than a decade. He also said that, when he took over the airport in 1968, he discontinued commercial flights because "they would not be compatible with the community."

He feels that the airport's present use, principally for flight instruction in light, single-engine planes, should be acceptable.

Mr. Wille leases the unpaved airport from a holding company headed by Dr. Armand Hammer who formerly owned Shadow Isle farm here. The airstrip, built in the 1930's, is on the site of the former DeGarmo farm.

Mr. Wille said the plane that crashed on Friday, a Piper Colt, was relatively new and cost approximately $3,000. He said it was totally wrecked.

Neptune Man Is Held In Assault on Woman

NEW SHREWSBURY — A Neptune man faced a court hearing this morning on charges of impersonating a police officer and assaulting a 20-year-old New Shrewsbury woman with a deadly weapon.

Jessie B. Green of Division St., Neptune, charged early Saturday with possession of a deadly weapon, assault with a dangerous weapon and impersonating a law officer, was held in Monmouth County jail over the weekend in lieu of $20,000 bail pending today's hearing.

Police reported that the suspect is accused of stopping a 20-year-old local woman who was driving home from work on Hope Road at 1:30 a.m. He allegedly identified himself as a police officer but, when the woman asked for his identification, he was reported to have pulled out a pistol.

"This is my identification," he allegedly told her.

The woman, whose identity is being withheld by police, then sped away from her assailant and notified police when she reached home. A countywide police alarm was issued for the suspect.

The suspect was arrested two hours later, at 3:30 a.m. at the 7-11 Store, Monmouth Road, Ocean Township, by Patrolman Thomas Furlong.

Pre-Truce Buildup Continues

SAIGON — The United States delivered 31 amphibious vehicles to South Vietnam today as part of its equipment buildup anticipating a cease-fire. Meanwhile, U.S. B52 bombers continued heavy raids across all four countries of Indochina in attempts to blunt the similar North Vietnamese buildup.

The 30-foot amphibious troop and cargo carriers arrived by ship from Okinawa. They were the same models as those used by the U.S. Marines when they operated in the northern provinces of South Vietnam in the late 1960s.

A team of at least 10 U.S. Marine engineers also arrived to train Vietnamese marines in operating and maintaining the vehicles, which can carry 34 troops or 18,000 pounds of cargo.

At the same time, U.S. military and chartered planes continued to land more war materiel at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Air Base. More than half a dozen transports arrived today.

In the U.S. air war, more than 100 B52s struck in North and South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos, dropping more than 3,000 tons of explosives on supply caches as part of a two-week air campaign.

Japanese Election Set

TOKYO — Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka dissolved the Diet today, clearing the way for a general election Dec. 10 that will be his first test with the voters since coming to power in July.

The election for 491 seats in the lower house of Parliament will be Japan's 33rd and its 12th since the end of World War II.

Tanaka expects to win big, largely on the strength of his foreign policy and particularly his trip to Peking and establishment of diplomatic relations with Communist China in September.

A dynamic man who rose from rags to riches, Tanaka, 54, has a large following. And his party, the Liberal-Democrats, has maintained a wide lead over their main adversaries, the Socialists, since it was formed in 1955.

May Oust Party Head

WASHINGTON — Five Democratic governors may hatch strategy for ousting party chairman Jean Westwood when they meet here today in the wake of President Nixon's landslide victory over George McGovern.

The governors have no formal power to take action against Mrs. Westwood, but a source involved in the anti-Westwood effort said yesterday they probably will begin pressuring her publicly to resign.

Many party officeholders, representatives of organized labor and others have said, mostly in private, that Mrs. Westwood is so closely associated with the badly-beaten McGovern and party reforms spearheaded by him that she would no longer be effective as head of the party apparatus.

Expected at today's meeting were Gov. Dale Bumpers of Arkansas, who called the meeting in his capacity as chairman of the Democratic Governors Caucus, and Govs. Wendell Anderson of Minnesota, Marvin Mandel of Maryland, Reubin O'D. Askew of Florida and Kenneth Curtis of Maine.

China to Blast Soviet

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — China prepared a blast against the Soviet Union in the U.N. General Assembly today, opposing a Soviet proposal for an assembly declaration renouncing the use of force and banning nuclear weapons.

Deputy Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua, chairman of the Chinese delegation, was one of a dozen speakers listed for the assembly debate on the Soviet proposal.

Peking's official People's Daily commented yesterday that, while the Soviets were proposing the prohibition of all kinds of weapons, they were building up their supply "for carrying out unbridled nuclear threat and nuclear blackmail against countries with little or no nuclear armament."

During the assembly's general debate on Oct. 3, Chiao described the Soviet resolution as "shabby stuff."

Senators' Defection Seen

RICHMOND, Va. — The Richmond Times-Dispatch says Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr. will turn Republican and Sen. James O. Eastland might join him in a move to the GOP.

Byrd is a Virginia independent; Eastland, a Mississippi Democrat.

In a story published today, the Times-Dispatch quoted a source close the White House as saying Byrd would make the switch prior to Jan. 3, when the Senate reconvenes.

It also quoted the source as saying Byrd and Eastland might entice Eastland's Mississippi Democratic colleague, Sen. John C. Stennis, into switching parties.

Byrd, in Boca Raton, Fla., attending a Southern Newspaper Publishers Association convention, was quoted by the Harrisonburg, Va., News-Record as saying early today: "Anonymous sources do not speak for me. When I have something to say, I make my own statements." Byrd is president and publisher of the News-Record.

Eastland and Stennis could not be reached for comment.

Claim Election Law Loophole

WASHINGTON — A Republican committee that channeled $100,000 into President Nixon's reelection campaign says it does not have to make known the sources of its funds despite a new federal law requiring disclosure of all over $100 contributors.

Auditors for the General Accounting Office say the position of the Executive Club of the Republican party of New Jersey, if upheld in the courts, could open major loophole in the elections law which took effect last April 7.

The club contends its money came from dues and that dues are not contributions. GAO auditors say there could be a proliferation of such clubs to evade the full disclosure provisions of the new law.

The auditors say they will press the club for disclosure, possibly launching a field audit in the next few weeks and then turning their findings over to the Justice Department if the club remains adamant.

Private Army Forming

BELFAST — Another private army is emerging in Northern Ireland, this time composed of former Roman Catholic servicemen who say they are banding together for protection from the Protestants.

The province remained relatively quiet last night, but police said a man was shot in the head and seriously wounded in the countryside outside Belfast.

The Catholic Ex-Servicemen's Association, which claims 20,000 members, announced yesterday it is forming active "defensive" units to patrol areas of Belfast. However, it claimed not to have any guns.

Detective Sgt. George W. Preston Jr. said last night he has signed armed robbery charges against Leonard Evans, 25, of Nutley and John Corrolla, 25, of North Arlington, and has posted a 24 hour guard at the hospital.

Sgt. Preston said the pair came to the home of Joseph Romeo, of 39 Bayview Ave., a coin dealer, produced weapons and attempted to flee with $549 in cash and a diamond ring.

Mr. Romeo, Sgt. Preston continued, was able to produce his own pistol and shoot both intruders before they could leave.

"He really had to be careful with his wife and three year-old daughter standing there," Sgt. Preston said. "But he was accurate and got both of them. He has a lot of guts to shoot with the family around and these guys with guns of their own."

He said the two men had been to the home earlier in the evening and Mr. Romeo had become suspicious of them.

Mr. Evans was shot once in the neck and Mr. Corrolla once in the right chest.

Newark Project Foes Continue Opposition

NEWARK (AP) — Assemblyman Anthony Imperiale, I-Essex, and nearly 1,000 other persons say they will continue their attempts to halt a low and middle income housing project in the North Ward by chaining themselves to its entry gate if necessary.

Construction at the project was halted for today by the City Council but it is expected to resume tomorrow. Imperiale said he and his followers would be at the construction site then.

A lawyer and former board of education member John Cervase said he would attempt to obtain a temporary restraining order in Superior Court to hold up construction.

The 16-story project, known as the Kawaida Towers, is being built in the predominantly Italian-American neighborhood, but work was interrupted Thursday and Friday when Imperiale led groups of pickets at the site to block the entry of workers.

Voted to Halt

The City Council voted on Friday to halt construction today, with the six white members voting for the stoppage and the three black members voting against it. The council voted the project a tax abatement last year under which the project would pay the city 15 per cent of rent receipts in lieu of taxes.

"I'm chaining myself to the gate Tuesday morning," Imperiale said yesterday.

The assemblyman also said he was opposed to modifying construction plans to build a smaller project or garden apartment complex at the site.

Mayor Kenneth A. Gibson and poet-playwright-activist Imamu Amiri Baraka have supported the project.

Gibson said yesterday on the WNBC-TV program "Newslight" that Imperiale took "very pure racist steps" in opposing the project.

He said that policemen would be on duty tomorrow morning at the construction site "if it is necessary."

The mayor said "the assumption by whites is that only blacks will live in this building," but that this was not true.

However, a majority of the 18 persons who spoke at the meeting denied that they were afraid that blacks would move in. They said they were opposed to any major construction that would strain the parking facilities and overcrowded schools.

Several speakers said any housing project would result in an increase in crime.

Anthony Giuliano, a councilman-at-large who lives in the North Ward, said "I'm taking a stand against Kawaida Towers as I would if it were being built in the South, East, Central or West Wards. We don't need anymore slums."

"This is not a racial issue," Giuliano said. "We've been born and raised in mixed neighborhoods. This is an issue of bringing in more slums and crime."

The councilman said the people living in the area of the project "never had the chance to express their views."

The project was announced publicly several months ago, but it wasn't until construction began recently that large groups of local residents began opposing it.

The meeting yesterday, at an Italian restaurant, was addressed by several councilmen, local leaders, former Police Director Dominick Spina, and several Puerto Rican residents who said they were also opposed to building the project.

Stephen Adubato, chairman of the North Ward Democratic Party, said the North Ward was the most stable in the city "with a good balance of all ethnic groups that make up America." He said the project was a "threat to the stabilized community."

North Ward Councilman Frank Megaro was interrupted by shouts and boos when he said he would not necessarily oppose construction of a garden-apartment housing complex.

He said moderate-sized buildings would be acceptable but this suggestion was met by shouts of "We don't want it".

"High rises do not breed crime and violence," he said. "The people breed crime and violence."

Megaro criticized Baraka, formerly known as LeRoi Jones, and said the black leader was a central issue in the matter.

"This is a racial issue and Mr. Baraka is the issue," he said. "Mr. Baraka is a racist. It is a racial issue because Mr. Baraka's presence insures it."

"Mr. Baraka is barking up the wrong ward," he said.

Spina, who was demoted from the post of police director after Gibson assumed office, said "Jones wants the city of Newark to be a Pan-African city which he will control lock, stock and barrel."

Plans New Drive to Force Highway Fund Dedication

ACAPULCO, Mex. (AP) — State Sen. Frank X. McDermott, R-Union, has announced a new drive to force the state to dedicate highway user taxes entirely to road construction and mass transportation.

McDermott, speaking yesterday at the final session of the midyear convention of the New Jersey State Bar Association here, said he would hold a public hearing to that effect in January.

Using highway taxes for road construction and mass transit would alleviate the necessity of seeking another bond issue, McDermott asserted. The state's proposed $650 million transportation bond issue was defeated at the polls last week. "I did not oppose the bond issue when it came for a vote in the Senate, and I supported it during the campaign, but the public voted it down," he noted.

"They don't want a bond issue and I would be opposed to any attempt by the governor to put it back on as a referendum."

McDermott is the co-sponsor of a resolution, tied up in the Senate Judiciary Committee since last April, to require that all gasoline taxes, trucking fees, registration and license fees be set aside for transportation improvement.

In an unrelated convention development the NJSBA's board of trustees reported yesterday that the concept of a family court for New Jersey may not get off the ground because of financial considerations.

"We have adopted two resolutions in the past favoring such a court," said State Bar President Martin L. Haines of Mount Holly. "But as I understand it, the feeling is it would be a cruel deception to erect the court and not staff it properly because of a lack of funds."

The family court envisioned by the association would handle problems involving juveniles, matrimonial matters and other domestic issues.

'We Sure Outvoted Them Bleeding Hearts, Didn't We, Boss?'

The Freehold Police Controversy

As the seat of our county government, the borough of Freehold is unique among Monmouth's municipalities. Its local government must, principally, be responsive to the needs of its residents. It also must be a decent host to the citizens visiting and working there for a variety of reasons, including jury duty, court appearances and the like.

The citizens of Freehold elect members of its governing body, the Mayor and Council, and the people serving on it are, naturally, answerable to borough residents. In a larger sense, however, what happens in Freehold can have an impact that extends far beyond the borough's borders.

That is one reason why the continuing bickering between Freehold's Mayor and Council and the Police Department is a cause of discomfort for all county citizens. The conflict does nothing to improve the law and order image one could hope for in the home of our halls of justice.

At a council meeting last week, Police Chief Henry Lefkowich proposed that a civilian police director be hired. His suggestion apparently was motivated by his desire to alleviate the discord between himself and the department on the one hand, and Councilman W.J. Gene Kelsey, police commissioner, and Mayor J. William Boyle on the other.

The chief's proposal is a bit mystifying. When a similar suggestion was made a year ago by Commissioner Kelsey, it was regarded by the chief and the policemen's Benevolent Association as political interference.

Commissioner Kelsey and Mayor Boyle want a director who would be Chief Lefkowich's superior officer. The chief's idea of a director apparently is a person who would permit him to continue running the department without interference from members of the governing body.

Councilman Roger Kane, assistant police commissioner, admits that distrust and animosity exist between the council and the police. This is the core of the ailment, one which will not be cured by a police director, whether that person be of the variety favored by the chief or by the governing body.

As is the case with our armed forces, police departments are subject to civilian control because citizens have the right to change that control through their votes. The arrangement is our guarantee that he will not live in either a military dictatorship or a police state.

The latest police-council turmoil in Freehold followed a directive from the mayor to the chief that only one policeman be assigned to a patrol car. The chief interpreted that to mean that "foot patrolmen" could not be transported to and from their posts by patrol cars.

It is regrettable that personality issues are threatening effective law enforcement in Freehold. As a professional, Chief Lefkowich should welcome directions from constituted authority. As representatives of the people, the mayor and councilmen should make certain the chief is able to discharge his oath of office.

To achieve those goals, the governing body would be wise in seeking advice from state or federal agencies.

Congress and the Olympics

If there is to be any meaningful resolution of the difficulties besetting the U.S. Olympic Committee, it appears that the push will have to come from Congress.

The embarrassing series of fiascoes which characterized American participation in this years Olympics at Munich — involving disqualifications of athletes, incompetent judging and questionable medical advice, just to mention a few items — was a highly visible indication that something is very wrong with the USOC operation.

Contention by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, in withdrawing from the USOC, that reorganization has been sorely needed for a long time is echoed by the NCAA's arch rival, the Amateur Athletic Union, also a USOC member.

Even prior to the NCAA withdrawal action, however, the Senate had approved the formation of a national commission to investigate the Olympic committee's operations.

Congressional responsibility in the matter is underscored by the fact that the USOC was chartered by Congress and funded with public money. Congress thus has the right, and the obligation now, to delve into the matter and resolve it.

The NCAA and the AAU, of course, have been at each other's throats for many years over the question of sanctioning athletic competition. Without getting bogged down in the specifics of their dispute, which have become obscured by layers of arguments, it seems quite possible that this divisive factor may well be contributing to the mess in which the USOC finds itself.

The really unfortunate aspect of the situation, though, is that athletes themselves become the victims of both the ineptness of the Olympic administration and the bickering between the AAU and the NCAA.

A good airing through impartial investigation by the proposed commission may have a salutary effect on the latter problem.

The major thrust of the commission's action, if the United States is to field a representative group of athletes in the 1976 Olympics at Montreal and administer the operation efficiently, must be aimed at restructuring the U.S. Olympic Committee itself.

An Earlier Vietnam Mess

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON SCENE

House investigators have found that "lack of centralized planning" created a "severe mess" in military communications during the early years of the Vietnam War.

The military services "could not even talk to each other because their equipment (was) not interoperable," the investigators reported.

Their report, stamped "Secret — No Foreign Dissemination," has been submitted to the House Appropriations Committee. They quoted the late Louis DeRosa, then Pentagon telecommunications chief, as testifying on April 6, 1971:

"We had a severe mess on our hands, and it was urgent that we remedy this as soon as possible. We were forced to make huge expenditures using commercial equipment and trying to adapt it to military requirements in the Vietnamese situation. We were not prepared for this type of joint operation. . ."

Various Pentagon officials explained it differently to the investigators, but it all came down to the fact that the military services didn't have communications equipment that was compatible.

"It was suggested by the . . military services," wrote the House investigators, "that the 'severe mess' to which DeRosa alluded was the situation occasioned by the sudden and drastic buildup of our forces in 1965, and the lack of sufficient tactical communications equipment to meet the requirement.

"The introduction of sufficient communications equipment lagged 12 to 18 months behind the arrival of the troops and this fact dictated the utilization of a motley collection of systems comprised of old and new equipments, some of which were incompatible and could not interoperate because they were not designed as joint equipment."

Another high official suggested to the investigators that the "severe mess" in Vietnam was "not traceable to technical interoperability failures but to insufficient quantities of circuits." Other military communications experts simply "disclaimed knowledge of problems in Vietnam."

The lack of coordination between the services, furthermore, continues to this day. After examining "the successes attained since 1968," the investigators found "a paucity of achievements."

Defies Nixon

The Administration's top and toughest black man is standing up to President Nixon over a campaign speech that played into the hands of racially discriminating companies and unions.

In a Labor Day message, President Nixon told the white-run construction industry and others who have balked at hiring blacks just what they wanted to hear.

The quota hiring, which favors black employment, is a "dangerous detour away from the traditional measure of a person on the basis of ability," Nixon informed the delighted industries. He called quotas "as artifical and unfair a yardstick as has ever been used to deny opportunity to anyone."

At the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, Chairman William H. Brown III, a 1968 appointee of President Johnson, was dismayed over Nixon's appeal to the hardhat and hardheart vote.

ANDERSON

Brown, backed by the courts, has pushed for minority hiring under systems similar to the "Philadelphia Plan" when he has discovered racial discrimination.

Ringing Memo

For more than a month, Brown bit his tongue. Then, on Oct. 27, he vented his feelings in a ringing private memo to his staff.

"Recent newspaper accounts regarding statements by President Nixon on the issue of affirmative actions and quotas have led some commission employes to question whether there has been or will be any change in the commission's policy of requiring certain types of remedies for discrimination in employment," he wrote.

"The purpose of this memorandum is to assure you that, regardless of what interpretations may have been placed on these news reports, there has been and there will be no change in the policies of this commission concerning appropriate remedies for the elimination of discrimination in employment . . ."

"When discrimination is found to exist, it is the law itself which demands no less than full and appropriate relief . . . Remedies for discrimination may appear to some to be awkward, inconvenient, even burdensome perhaps. But if such is necessary to eliminate discrimination, Title VII demands no less."

Brown's term on the commission expires next year. But Nixon could have removed him at any time as chairman. To Nixon's credit, he kept Brown in the job even though the commission has struck at such GOP sacred cows as American Telephone and Telegraph. However, as with all other presidential appointees, Nixon asked for Brown's stand-by resignation as chairman the day after the election.

Manners Maketh Man—Maybe

By JIM BISHOP

THE REPORTER

Our manners reflect the current culture. We have drifted from an era of entertaining conversation and a table full of cold cuts to booze and television. Sometimes, when the stranger enters, the residents hold their fingers to their lips and smile.

If they are not mesmerized by the tube, they beam and say, "Hi!" and "Wotullya havta drink?" To converse requires a small amount of thinking, and this is a revolting prospect to one and all. The most important pre-social event is when the ladies phone each other frantically with the question: "You dressing long or short or slacks?"

Women sit up straight. Men slouch on the backs of their necks with their bellies protruding. Women chatter in unison, so that the talkers listen to three others. Men speak of sports and the irritating aspects of the business world.

Well, at one time it was worse. "The Old Farmer's Almanac" tells the story of that martinet of manners, Thomas E. Hill, who was the arbiter of social propriety in the 1880s. Mr. Hill handed down rules as though they were papal bulls:

Complete Bath

Bathing: Upon arising, take a complete bath. A simple washing out of the eyes is not sufficient. The complete bathing of the body once each day is of the utmost importance. Not more than a quart of water is necessary, preferably rainwater.

Hair: The head should be washed occasionally with soap and water. When the hair is inclined to be harsh and dry, a moderate application of bear's grease or other dressing should be used.

Skin: Beware of exterior applications of cosmetics. Instead, once every two or three months take a teaspoonful of powdered charcoal mixed with sweetened water or milk. This will prove efficacious in making the complexion clear and transparent.

Kissing: Upon the meeting of intimate friends, among ladies at a private house, the kiss as a mode of salutation is not yet common; but this is a custom which ought to be abolished for physiological and other reasons.

Bowing: A gentleman should not bow from a window to a lady in the street, though he may bow slightly from the street upon being recognized by a lady in a window. Such recognition should, however, be generally avoided, as gossip is likely to attach undue importance to it when seen by others.

Ill Breeding

Dignity: To greet someone by saying "Hello, old fellow" or "Hello, Bob" indicates ill breeding. If you are approached in this vulgar manner, it is better to give a civil reply and address the person respectfully, in which case he is likely to be ashamed of his own conduct.

Small Talk: No topic of absorbing interest may be admitted to polite conversation. It might lead to discussion.

BISHOP

Conduct to Avoid at the Ball: No gentleman should enter the ladies dressing room at a ball.

Card Playing: If possible, do not violate the rules of the game and do not cheat. Should you observe anyone cheating, quietly and very politely, call it to his attention, and be careful that you do not get excited. People who experience ill-feeling at the game should avoid playing.

Marriage: Anyone with bright red hair and a florid complexion should marry someone with jet black hair. The very corpulent should marry the thin and spare, and the bony, wiry, cold-blooded should marry the round featured, warm-hearted emotional type.

Train Travel: People with weak eyes should avoid reading on trains. Those with weak lungs should avoid talking.

Hotels: A lady should avoid loitering alone in hotel halls or standing alone at hotel windows.

Street Etiquette: When crossing the pavement, a lady should raise her dress with the right hand, a little above the ankle. To raise the dress with both hands is vulgar and can only be excused when the mud is very deep.

Husbands: Always leave home with a tender goodbye and loving words. They may be the last.

No wonder those old tintypes of my grandparents appear to be grim and angry. Will someone please bring the scotch, a little ice, and find out what time Doc Welby goes on? . . .

The Next Four Years

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

CONSERVATIVE VIEW

In the wake of Tuesday's election, questions press for answers: In what direction will Richard Nixon move? And what will become of major parties?

It has been said of Nixon that he has conservative instincts — and this is true. But it is equally true that he seldom acts on them. He is a solid conservative when it comes to making nominations to the U.S. Supreme Court. He has taken a conservative position against the busing of school children to achieve racial balance. His efforts to keep a reasonable lid on federal spending also manifest a conservative mind at work.

Yet in most other areas, the Nixon record is mixed. His program of welfare reform differs only in degree, not in kind, from the guaranteed income plan proposed by liberal groups. His dismal record of deficit spending provides no reflection of conservative thought. On economic policies generally, the President has professed himself a Keynesian. It is hard to say what he meant by that remark, for the late Lord Keynes is often misunderstood, but the President plainly is not aligned with Adam Smith.

Which of the two faces will we see in the four more years? My own guess is that Nixon will prove to be slightly more conservative in his second term than he was in his first. From a wholly personal standpoint, he is now free to follow his instincts. He has made his last campaign. The necessity for compromise weighs heavily upon a man who hopes to remain in public office. With Tuesday's astonishing victory, Nixon has cast off that weight. For the first time in his long career as congressman, senator, vice president and president, he is now his own man. It must be a grand and glorious feeling.

But there is another reason for speculating that Nixon will shift his compass to a more conservative course. He is not only head of the government; he is also head of his party. He has a great opportunity to translate his personal mandate into a party mandate. He can make of that landslide a firm foundation.

To be sure, it will be said that he had this opportinity — and muffed it — in the fall campaign. Goodness knows he was strongly urged to stump the country for such candidates-in-trouble as Smith of Maine, Boggs of Delaware and Miller of Iowa. If he had gone into the field, and risked a few points of his personal triumph, it might have made a difference.

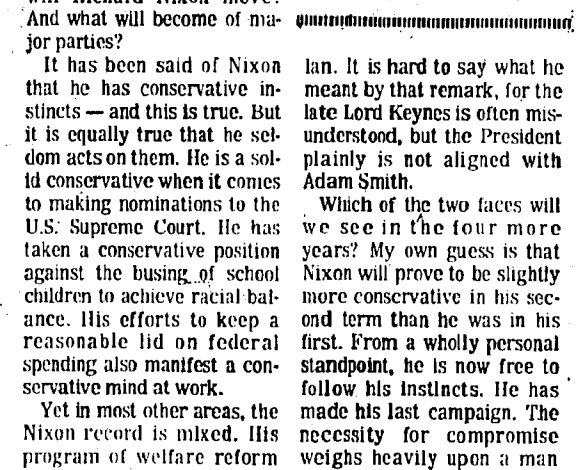

Maybe so, but I doubt it. The rub-off effect is vastly overestimated. When it comes to particular races, pitting this individual against that individual, presidential endorsement fails at least as often as it works. Franklin Delano Roosevelt learned this lession to his sorrow. Harry Truman got his come-uppance when he tangled with Harry Byrd. George Wallace failed to impress the voters of South Carolina by endorsing Democrat Nick Zeigler against Republican Strom Thurmond. Nobody loves a carpet-bagger.

KILPATRICK

With the election over and done with, however, it becomes possible for Nixon to build on party principles as opposed to particular personalities. If the two-party system is to mean much of anything hereafter, it is essential that he bend to the task. Democrats, of course, have the same obligation. Whatever may be said of Tuesday's outcome, this much is plain: The party system, as a system, is a shambles.

It will be a few weeks before political analysts can take an accurate reading on the ticket-splitting that appeared on Tuesday. It was massive. The straight-ticket voter, motivated by blind party loyalty, has gone the way of the whooping crane. The species is almost extinct. The independent voter, unimpressed by party labels, is the new political king.

In theory, this is fine. Ideally, we ought to vote for merit only. In practice, the process can result only in the destruction of parties, as parties — and our governments, at both the state and national levels, are geared to the machinery of party organization. Nixon won on Tuesday, but his party lost; and McGovern lost, but his party won. On Capitol Hill, incongruity will reign once more. It is a nice, disorderly prospect, but in its own dear muddle-headed fashion, this democratic Republic will survive.

ANOTHER PLACE FOR SOME REVENUE SHARING!

Today in History

By the Associated Press

Today is the 318th day of 1972. There are 48 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1941, the British aircraft carrier Ark Royal was torpedoed and sunk in the Mediterranean. Only 18 of the crew survived.

On this date:

In 1794, President George Washington sent an army into Pennsylvania to suppress the so-called "Whiskey Rebellion." Frontiersmen had put up armed resistance to federal taxation on liquor they distilled.

In 1849, California adopted a state constitution.

In 1918, the Republic of Austria was proclaimed.

In 1927, the Holland Tunnel was opened under the Hudson River, linking New York and New Jersey.

In 1942, the naval battle of Guadalcanal began in the Pacific war and turned into a defeat for Japan.

In 1946, the Supreme Court ruled that racial segregation on public buses was unconstitutional.

Ten years ago: West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer arrived in Washington for conferences with President John Kennedy and other U.S. officials.

Five years ago: Three U.S. Army sergeants, released by the Communists in Vietnam, returned to the United States.

One year ago: the 90-day freeze on prices and wages came to an end and Phase 2 of the Nixon economic program began.

Today's birthdays: Actress Jean Seberg is 34. Actor Alexander Scourby is 59.

Thought for today: One can always be kind to people about whom one cares nothing.—Oscar Wilde.

American Indians' Plight Deserves More Attention

Red Bank, N.J. 07701

To the Editor:

I have been concerned for some time at the lack of responsible reporting or editorial comment on the problems of the American Indians. The facts about injustices inflicted on the first Americans are only now being made public. Unfortunately the New Jersey press is not one of those bringing these facts to the public.

Since the beginning of our country we have pushed the Indian off his land and ruined his hunting grounds. The Indian lived in harmony with nature. He believed that there was enough land for all men. He was called savage and uncivilized. If by savage we mean that he tried to protect himself and his family from injustice, then he was savage. If by uncivilized we mean that he had a sophisticated religious and ethical system, moving music, beautiful arts and crafts; and fine poetry, then he was uncivilized.

Does the press think that there is no interest in the problems of the American Indians? If so, it has not noted the popularity of books dealing with American Indians: "Bury My Heart at Wounded Knee" by Dee Brown is now in it's 13th printing, "Custer Died for Your Sins" by Vine Deloria Jr. is now in its eighth printing, "The Vanishing Race" by Joseph K. Dixon was written in 1913. It has just been reissued. The book publishers are aware of the increased interest in Indian problems. Why is the press so apathetic? Two school children and I collected 200 signatures, on a petition supporting the American Indians now occupying the Bureau of Indian Affairs in less than two hours. Yet it was not until the Indian protest reached its fifth day that The Register ran a news item on it.

I hope to see both articles and comment on Indian problems in the future.

Sincerely,
Elin Henely

To the Editor:

Herbert Stern is the man for governor of New Jersey in 1973. He will clean out both the Republican and Democratic nests of entrenchment of money and control. Who knows, he might even tackle our judiciary whose judges have become nothing more than arbiters, making decisions by telephone based on gossip.

The judiciary, national and state, is a reflection of the politicians who appointed them. Sen. Case's greatest contribution has been his support of Stern as U.S. Attorney.

He will wipe up crime, shoot down school property taxes, clean up corporations, rebuild city and country. In doing so, he will lick poverty.

I'm for Stern for governor of New Jersey. Will you join me? Let's start now. Let's flood one million signatures on a petition for him as governor.

Middletown Police

162 Allen Place
Belford, N.J.

To the Editor:

I am a welfare worker employed by the Monmouth County Welfare Board. Each day we deal with hundreds of people with their own individual problems, but uniformly in fashion. Our agency, as any federal, state or municipally controlled organization, is obliged to serve the public and each government employe is supposed to act by laws, not whimsical impulses.

I'm sure every resident of Middletown Township is thankful to have a fine group of policemen to protect their homes and loved ones.

But my question is: Who protects us against these supposed officers of the law?

There is no doubt that these men have power. With radar equipment, buses, reserve cars and tanks at their disposal, no Middletown resident can question their strength.

How is it, though, in actual traffic cases involving alcohol, that one of Middletown's finest can charge one driver with "driving while under impairment" (license suspended for six months) and charge another with simple "careless driving" simply because the first was under 25 and driving a Triumph while the latter was 60 years old and driving a Rambler?

We're all rather tired of hearing about "longhairs" being persecuted by the establishment. Perhaps, though, it's far more serious than we imagine; giving a man so much power as we label him a law enforcement officer to serve all of us justly.

Maybe now that the war in Vietnam is drawing to a close, we can once again concentrate on domesitc affairs. Hopefully Middletown will take a good long look at its priorities and redesignate the priority duty of its policemen — from operators of round the clock radar traps, back to keepers of the peace.

No, I have never received a traffic ticket and hold no "grudges."

Very truly yours,
Linda Kaye

7Q Fragments

(The Daily Register has received a copy of the following letter for publication:

Box 341
Long Valley, N.J. 07853

Mr. Lester Kinsolving
The Daily Register
105 Chestnut Road
Red Bank, New Jersey

Dear Sir:

A fellow worker has shown me your article, "History's Greatest Perversion of Justice?" from Inside Religion, The Daily Register dated Friday, September 8, 1972. He knows of my interest in Bible study. I have been particularly intrigued by the findings of Father O'Callaghan with respect to the 7Q fragments. Therefore, the following comments on your article are offered. You may find the attached reprint from "Eternity" June, 1972, germane to the subject.

Paragraph 1 — "Strengthened . . ." There is no event or connected series of events in ancient history so well attested as those of the N.T.

Paragraph 2 — "admitted speculations . . ." Hypotheses based upon scholarly studies of artifacts.

"discoveries"

(1) "dated nearly 1000 years . . ." Prior to the discovery of the Dead Sea Scrolls, the oldest manuscript fragments of O.T. writings were from the 9th Century AD.

The importance of Father O'Callaghan's work lies not in establishing the historicity of Jesus, which is not in question, but rather in returning to a more conservative dating and authorship of the Gospel.

(2) "dubious reactions . . ." These reputable scholars are from the Higher Criticism School of Biblical Literary Studies, much of whose results will be seriously questioned should Father O'Callaghan's work find acceptance. Their dates for N.T. gospels fall in the range of 2nd to 3rd Century AD.

"(It could . . .)" This parenthesis is most unscholarly. The 17 letters occurring in the particular two dimensional grid in which found constitute a better than average sized fragment and one which in all probability is uniquely identifiable. Statistical analysis of this fragment gives the result that the likelihood of a recurrence of this configuration of Greek letters in the contemporary literature is an infinitesimal probability. In N.T. literature, the probability would be reduced.

Paragraph 3 — "archeological baubles . . ." Not to mention the learned journals, I have not encountered even in the popular press such an injudicious term applied to the Dead Sea Scrolls or any other manuscripts of verifiable antiquity.

Paragraph 5 — "20 years of research . . ." It is perfectly reasonable for nonbelievers to subject Biblical literature to scholarly research utilizing the tools and methodology of literary criticism. However, to one who acknowledges the Bible's internal claim to inspiration and inerrancy Biblical interpretation cannot be based upon external criteria. Rather, the Bible is used to interpret the Bible. To do otherwise leads inevitably to such prominent errors as, for example, the documentary theory of the Pentateuch, a clear contradiction of both O.T. and N.T. revelation.

Paragraph 7 — "power to execute . . ." John 11:47-53 The Council is identically the Sanhedrin, which plotted and directed the execution. From an objective view of contemporaneous history, control of the population was at least difficult, judging by such indicators as the size of the Roman garrisons in Palestine, particularly Jerusalem.

The Sanhedrin had much to lose and virtually blackmailed the civic authorities into the execution, ostensibly for civil crimes by the prisoner. The fact that the trial was held at night on the Sabbath and a high holy day rather more than just suggests an unsavory operation.

The blame is squarely on the Sanhedrin, not the Jewish people or the Roman authorities, although the latter were directly involved by participation in an altogether illegal trial and conviction as well as execution.

Justice Cohn's book, on the basis of the article, is more than faulty and not to be characterized as a valuable study. It is not in any case to be compared in importance with papyri of Judeo-Christian origin which can be dated no later than 100 AD.

Respectfully yours,
Tillman Gressitt

Helpful Youth

Linden, N.J.

To the Editor:

I would appreciate your publishing a special thank you to Bob Dingee and Greg Ashburn, both of Middletown, who stopped and changed a flat tire for me on the parkway Saturday. Not only did they take the time to help, but refused payment and then even instructed me to the nearest service station, should I encounter further difficulty.

In a time when there is so much disinterest in lending a helping hand, it's nice to know that at least these two young people do care. Again, thank you.

To the Editor:

The St. James C.Y.O. of Red Bank has diligently and constantly been working on the "Wilkes-Barre Project." We have journeyed to Wilkes-Barre and helped to clear away debris and any other tasks that need to be accomplished.

Now we are concerned with the approaching Christmas season. Our organization wants to provide these stricken flood victims with a traditional and bright holiday. We are in the process of collecting any type of trading stamps to send to Wilkes-Barre for these people to help to insure them a bright and happy season.

Any help of this kind would gratefully be appreciated! Please send any contributions to the St. James C.Y.O. in care of St. James Parish by Nov. 30. Thank you!

To the Editor:

The officers and executive committee of the Alcoholism Council, as well as the writer, deeply appreciate the very fine layout you gave to our press release covering the program at Ft. Monmouth . . . It is by support of the media such as this that enables us to persuade both the community and its elected representatives that alcoholism is the major community drug addiction problem.

As you fully realize, I am sure, it currently is not being handled as such but by a continuing process of education, in which I include the use of the press, we will realize our goals of adequate community programs.

Again many thanks. Kind personal regards.

Mayflower Day

18 Hubbard Park

To the Editor:

Tuesday, Nov. 21, will mark the 352nd anniversary of the signing of the Mayflower Compact and, by proclamation of Gov. William Cahill, the date is to be observed throughout the state of New Jersey as "Mayflower Compact Day."

Annual proclamations of this observance serve to enhance public appreciation of the significance of the Compact, the first instrument of self-government in the New World. This is particularly true with students of American history, to whom The Society of Mayflower Descendants in the State of New Jersey distributes many thousands of Compact reproductions every year.

Crowded into the tiny cabin of the Mayflower after a long and tempestuous voyage, and impatient to commence a new life ashore, the male Pilgrims signed the historic document in which they compacted to be governed by principles, self-applied, instead of by a ruler.

In 1802, John Quincy Adams signalized the Mayflower Compact as "the first example in modern times of a system of government instituted by voluntary agreement, by men of equal rights, and about to establish their community in a new country."

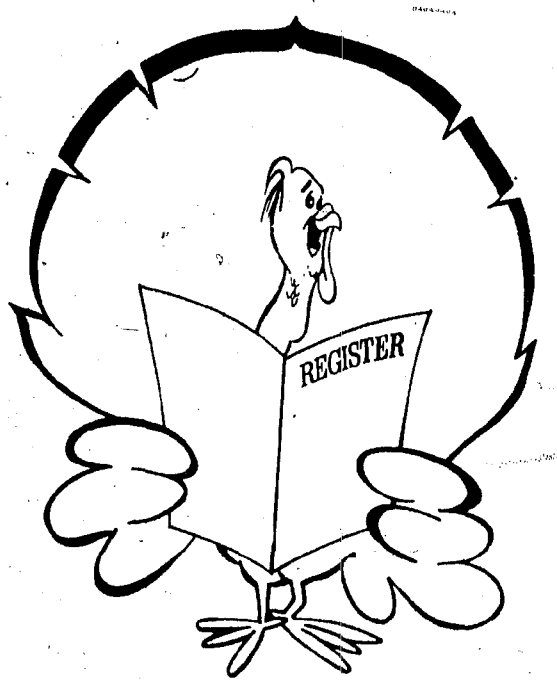

In very truth, it foreshadowed such mighty concepts as "all men are created equal" and "government by the consent of the governed" and was the cornerstone of our republic.

Volunteers Are Giving Rail Station Coat of Many Colors in Wilmington

REVITALIZED STATION — Wilmington, Del., residents see a more pleasant sight now when they drive by the old Penn Central station (top). A volunteer effort that isn't costing the city a cent is putting new life into the station. Bright, bold colors have replaced transportation green. Below, volunteers help paint the station.

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — With a splash of yellow, a swipe of orange and a bold blue stroke, the Wilmington train station is becoming a revitalized personality of the 1970s without costing the city a cent.

Relying on volunteer efforts, contributions from city residents and a $10,000 grant from the Delaware Arts Council, this northern Delaware city on the Amtrak line between New York and Washington is making its best effort at urban renewal with what it has.

"We're doing this on a nickel and dime basis," said Mayor Harry G. Haskell Jr., who decided a fresh look at the turn-of-the-century maroon brick building was long overdue. "While this is merely a facade and not a panacea for urban ills, it's a step toward making the city a fun place again."

The project, whose creator calls it a new image in urban housing, was not No. 1 priority for the city of 79,000, so Haskell did not take the standard routes of asking the city's larger firms to underwrite the cost or of allocating city funds.

"Wilmington has more pressing urban needs requiring city money," explained Haskell. "But you can't discount the psychological effect this has on Wilmingtonians and passengers who ride through our city."

Three months after Haskell, Penn Central officials and the arts council announced the project, some $14,000 in contributions had been collected along with a verbal pledge of $30,000 from Amtrak, the National Railroad Passenger Corp.

However, the city so far has spent less than $10,000 of the money, preferring to operate on a "pay as you go" basis.

The Du Pont Co., headquartered in Wilmington, donated about $10,000 in durable paint, Haskell said, and three area contractors are working "at cost" to paint the more difficult or dangerous areas, such as ceilings.

Before the project, the 70-year-old building owned by the Penn Central was falling into Victorian decay and, despite the influx of new Metroliner, passenger morale at the station "had almost hit ground," according to one station worker.

Dirt had taken control of the edifice, windows stood opaque with grime, passengers could almost smell the heaviness of age. Furthermore, the station, which remains open all night, had become a haven for derelicts seeking a comfortable place to sleep.

Now, with the help of weekend artists such as Rep. Pierre S. du Pont IV, R-Del., blue trains with a storybook look greet travelers as they push through the freshly painted entrance doors.

The station interior, once mired in transportation green and adorned with dusty plastic geraniums, now features an electric blue staircase with bright yellow arrows charging up to the Metroliner platform, now a brilliant yellow, green and orange.

Wilmingtonians driving by the station now see an exterior alive with a monumental swirl of reds, tans and oranges.

"The color is dazzling, astounding," said station master Leonard Flait. "I'm going cross-eyed looking at it."

"Using bright colors costs the same as white or dull shades," explained Haskell. "We want to bring love, color and pride back to our urban areas."

The design of the revitalization was created by Environmental Systems International Inc., a Los Angeles planning firm, based on the ideas of Donald Munz, a Pasadena, Calif., Community College professor.

A spokesman for the firm said he hopes the station will be a prelude to a breakthrough in low-income urban housing and there are signs he may get his wish.

Some rowhouses in Wilmington have been repainted recently with bold blues and bright oranges.

Ernestine Taylor Responds To The Election

Ernestine Taylor, Independent Candidate for the Red Bank Borough Council, wants to thank all the ministers, churches, organizations and individuals who supported her in the General Election.

I look upon the election in the respect that hundreds of votes were lost as a result of the political unsophistication as to the knowledge of 'vote splitting'. However, my success on Tuesday, has fulfilled a "political voice" in an independent movement designed to accomplish much more in the coming elections.

The "Taylor for Red Bank Council' will have a post-election free party for all those in Red Bank and surrounding areas who voted or otherwise supported me in the election, Saturday, November 18th at the Bates Lodge, Shrewsbury Avenue, Red Bank, from 8 to 12 P.M. There will be music, refreshments and entertainment.

Writer Works Five Years On Brooklyn Bridge Story

NEW YORK (AP) — For most people, the Brooklyn Bridge is what hayseeds buy and daredevils jump off.

But for writer David McCullough the great span hurdling New York City's East River has "a curious magnetism — people have gone to it on their honeymoon, have carried newborn babies across it, and have scattered the ashes of their dead over its sides."

McCullough, whose recently published, 638-page "The Great Bridge" tells the story of the building of the bridge, first felt its magnetism when he and his wife moved into an apartment in Brooklyn Heights some years ago.

"We used to go out on it on Sundays and walk," he recalls with a smile. "It was a marvelous place to get out of the city while still being in the city. It's the only bridge with a promenade above the traffic. Its builder intended it that way. It was designed for people to enjoy."

McCullough, a former magazine writer and editor and the author of "The Johnstown Flood," says it was while he was enjoying the bridge that "I realized here is this very famous bridge — but how did it get here, why was it built, how long did it take to build? And, most of all, who were the people that built it? My book, you see, is really a story of people and not just a bridge."

McCullough began work on his bridge book some five years ago — working as a magazine editor by day and on the book at night and on weekends.

"I did that for about two years," he says, "and then I realized that I'd chosen a subject that was so big and the material for it was so far ranging and plentiful that the only way I could do the job properly was to concentrate all my efforts on it. So I quit my job — which isn't easy when you have five kids ranging from 16 down to 3 — and a lot of people thought I was mad. But I believed this was an important story, and I had a compulsion to do it."

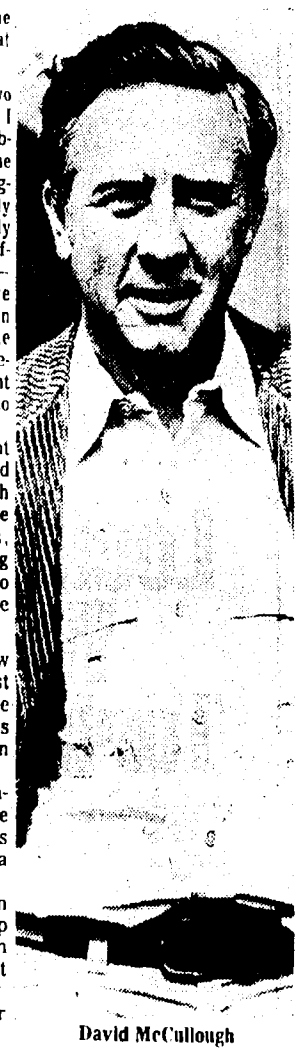

Researching the book meant digging through a lot of old newspapers as well as through a vast amount of material in the libraries of two colleges, McCullough says, "but having such abundant raw material to work with gave me the chance to bring my characters alive."

McCullough, 39, who now lives with his family in West Tisbury, Mass., says the five years he spent on the book was about evenly divided between research and writing.

"On a book like this you gather much more than you use," he says with a laugh. "As long as this book is, it could have been a great deal longer.

"I worked very, very hard on this book. At one point, I tore up 50,000 words and threw them away because they weren't right and started over again.

"I'm the toughest boss I ever worked for."

Both Parties Start California Governorship Scramble

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Now that the 1972 election is over, with a million vote personal triumph for President Nixon in his home state, the 1974 campaign has begun for the only office Nixon ever sought and lost.

The prize that eluded Nixon, in a bitter defeat that nearly ended his political career 10 years ago: the governorship of California.

Today the scramble is on in both parties to succeed Republican Ronald Reagan whose self-imposed two-term limit ends in 1974.

There are five likely Democratic contenders and four Republicans for their party nominations in the June 1974 primary. For a weary electorate, that presages a 19-month-long campaign.

The Republicans have been working under a "gentleman's agreement" that they would not actively campaign or raise money for 1974 races during 1972, for fear it would disrupt party unity and jeopardize Nixon's re-election chances in California.

The moratorium, imposed a year ago by then-Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell at a GOP meeting in Los Angeles, ended the moment Nixon's landslide victory was assured.

It was in 1962 that California voters rebuffed Nixon, as incumbent Democrat Edmund G. Brown crushed the former vice president by more than 200,000 votes.

Embittered Nixon

An angry, embittered Nixon told newsmen: "You won't have Nixon to kick around any more." He than moved to New York and temporary political seclusion, to return to California seven years later as chief executive of the nation and establish a Western White House at San Clemente.

The man now considered the likely front-runner for the 1974 Democratic nomination is Brown's son, 34-year-old Edmund Jr., serving his second year as California secretary of state.

Brown has the advantage of his name identification in Los Angeles and has gained a reputation as an energetic official in a normally quiet, record-keeping office. Brown got attention by forcing "special interests" to disclose secret campaign contributions to state initiative campaigns.

And a possible GOP candidate is Nixon's closest personal friend, Robert H. Finch, 47, who resigned as California lieutenant governor to join the Nixon Cabinet in 1969.

Finch to Decide

Now, Finch says, he's returning to California and will decide by June whether to run for governor or the U.S. Senate seat of Democrat Alan Cranston which also comes up in 1974.

For the first time this week, Finch, former Health, Education and Welfare secretary, said he is more inclined to run for governor. Finch now is a White House special assistant.

Another likely Democratic contender is San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto, 57, who now feels personally vindicated of 1969 Look Magazine allegations that he was linked to the Mafia. Although both his libel suits against the now-defunct magazine ended with juries unable to decide what, if any, damages he should receive, they agreed he was defamed.

Here are other candidates or likely contenders:

REPUBLICANS

— Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, 48, former Southern California congressman picked by Reagan for the state's No. 2 spot when Finch resigned to follow Nixon to Washington. Reinecke said Tuesday he's definitely running.

— Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger, 54 former Los Angeles County district attorney. He led the successful Tuesday ballot fight to restore the death penalty in California.

— State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, 43, considered a moderate like Finch. The former state legislator from the Los Angeles area operates from a relatively obscure state office, but is good-looking and an articulate speaker.

DEMOCRATS

— Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, 36, of Van Nuys, has a strong power base in the lower House leadership post enhanced by a gain of eight seats in Tuesday's election. A political ally of state party chairman Charles T. Manatt and, through Mannatt, of Sen. John V. Tunney.

— State Sen. George Moscone, 42, of San Francisco, handsome, articulate Democratic floor leader in the senate, has been traveling and speaking extensively for the past year to broaden his exposure in vote-rich Southern California.

— Congressman Jerome Waldie, 47, of Antioch, who helped lead the assault by young House members on the congressional seniority system. He has been campaigning for nearly a year as a declared candidate.

South Vietnam Overhauling Tax System

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's tax structure is in the throes of a major overhaul, with government officials hoping new reforms will raise more revenue, curb corruption — and make the country less dependent on foreign aid.

President Nguyen Van Thieu already has signed one new tax law. Finance Minister HaXuan Trung expects six other measures to be signed before Thieu's six-month emergency powers are scheduled to run out at the year-end.

"I think this will be a change of the greatest magnitude you will ever see in any country of the world as far as fiscal affairs are concerned," said Nguyen Trong Hien, assistant to the finance minister.

"They've taken the right track," said a U.S. official. "It's a good program and they're good people. I guess the first thing you have to appreciate is the mess the tax system is in — it's antiquated."

One big question mark is what will happen to the proposed tax reforms in the event of a cease-fire.

"I'm not going to say it won't have any effect," Hien said, "We are going under the assumption that whatever happens, we have to collect taxes and carry out other programs toward economic development regardless of whether peace comes tomorrow or five years from now."

American sources were less optimistic.

"It could be tough," said one official.

Payoffs for Collectors

Payment of taxes has been haphazard in South Vietnam — many collectors take payoffs.

"The tax administration up to two or three years ago was seriously understaffed and quite ridden with corruption," one source said. "The result was a very low level of collections. In this country collections average 5 per cent of gross national product, which is quite low for a developing country. It should be about 15 per cent."

Trung, a 30-year-old U.S. educated economist, said collection procedures have been tightened and more collectors hired, and added: "Hopefully, there will be less opportunity for corruption." Officials said the country's tax take was up 45 per cent during the first nine months of 1972 compared to last year, despite a business recession for six of those months. They called this evidence of improved administration.

But continuation of this anticorruption campaign may be contingent, in part, on continuation of a system of bonus payments for tax collectors. Under this system, which is part of the proposed 1973 budget, tax collectors receive a percentage of the collections.

Before Dec. 31 Thieu is to sign laws providing changes in the business license tax and excise taxes, and to approve a new value-added tax.

Thieu's emergency powers permit him to bypass the National Assembly.

Last month, Thieu submitted an unprecedented $1 billion budget for 1973, with 18½ per cent for defense. The budget anticipates a 15 per cent increase in American aid, from $299 million to $350 million.

Sees Revenue Boost

Trung predicted that domestic tax revenue would increase nearly 50 per cent in 1973, meaning a boost from $142 million to $211 million.

Even that would only amount to about 20 per cent of expenditures, and U.S. officials said they seriously doubt the tax intake will be that high.

Trung said the new value-added tax will bring in an estimated $92 million.

One American source said Europe took about two years to develop a value-added tax "and Vietnam is not at all ready for it. Right now, they don't even have the computers to handle all the checking the tax requires."

Income tax reform would provide a progressive income tax similar to that of United States. Under the present law, Hien said, income tax rates were set in 1953 "and on a marginal yearly income of $2,000, the tax rate was 72 per cent — the highest in the world."

The result, he added has been widespread tax fraud and tax evasion.

The new law would put incomes about $40,000 on a 70 per cent tax rate. Families with $2,000 would be taxed at 30 per cent. Figures available show a yearly 1968 per capita income of $160.

Lenient enforcement measures against tax dodgers would be replaced with severe criminal penalties, including up to five years in prison. The new law also provides for heavy fines and the closing of shops or businesses.

College, Army Slate Science Symposium

WEST LONG BRANCH — Monmouth College and the Army Electronics Command, Ft. Monmouth, are joining to sponsor the 11th annual Junior Science Symposium March 9 and 10.

The March 9 session of the two-day program will be held at the Army Electronics Command, and the March 10 session will be held at the college.

I.A. Balton, chief of Technical Plans and Operations Office, Institute for Exploratory Research at the Electronics Command, is chairman of the executive committee for the symposium. "The objectives of the program," he said, "are to encourage and inspire good science students to continue their studies in the sciences, and to obtain a cross section of science research being conducted by students at various high schools."

A highlight of the program will be the presentation of scientific papers prepared by students after conducting original research on a topic.

A panel of judges, experts in a variety of scientific fields, will choose the papers to be presented.

Dale H. Shick, assistant professor in the college's physics department, is serving as head of the selection panel.

The symposium will also feature lectures by prominent scientists and tours of the laboratories at the college.

STILL FIRST UP THE LADDER — Danny King, 90, was honored on his birthday by the Elmwood Place volunteer fire department, near Cincinnati. King is still active in the department and is frequently first to report when the alarm sounds. He retired from Proctor and Gamble plant in 1947 and gave up his odd job — digging ditches for the village — eight years ago.

Police Cooperate In Drug Arrests

HIGHTSTOWN — The State Police, working in conjunction with six Monmouth County police departments, have charged three adults and two juveniles with assorted drugs violations.

Arrests came as a result of an undercover investigation by the state police's central region narcotics bureau. The investigation was centered in Monmouth, with the cooperation of the Belmar, Deal, Ocean Township, Red Bank, Keansburg, and Middletown police departments.

Those arrested include Andrew Iorfida, 25, of 31 Brown Place, Red Bank; Anthony Alfano, 30, of 7 Carolina Ave., Ft. Monmouth, and James J. Novembre, 28, of 171 Seeley Ave., Keansburg.

Bail was set at $10,000 for Novembre and $2,500 each for Iorfida and Alfano. The trio was arraigned Friday. Sgt. Charles Croce, chief of the Central Narcotics Bureau, said the charges against the three men would be presented to the Monmouth County Grand Jury.

Novembre is charged with possession and distribution of metha Amphetamines; possession and sale of Seconal and sale of a revolver.

Alfano is charged with possession and distribution of heroin.

Iorfida is charged with possession and distribution of amphetamines, commonly known as "speed," and metha amphetamines.

Also arrested were two 16-year-old youths, one from Wanamassa and one from Deal. They have been released in their parents' custody pending hearings on charges of possessing and distributing marijuana.

Sgt. Croce said the arrests Thursday were the result of a continuing investigation into the alleged drugs traffic in Monmouth County.

Pediatrician Indicted In Medicaid Fraud

FREEHOLD — Superior Court Judge Patrick J. McGann Jr. has set bail at $15,000 for a Long Branch pediatrician who is charged with 46 counts of alleged medicaid fraud.

Dr. Armand S. Mazie of Liberty St. pleaded innocent to the charges Friday, a day after a County grand jury returned the indictment.

The doctor is charged with submitting medicaid claims for 362 patient visits which allegedly never took place.

The indictment charges 23 counts of obtaining money under false pretenses and 23 counts of submitting false claims to the New Jersey Health Services program (medicaid).

The state Attorney General's office, Trenton, which announced the indictment, declined to disclose the amount of money involved in the alleged fraud.

Evan W. Jahos, director of the state Division of Criminal Justice, said the doctor had his patients sign extra medicaid claim forms and would later submit them with false dates and services to collect added medicaid payments.

Sewer Unit Ordered To Install New Line

FREEHOLD — The Long Branch Sewerage Authority is under court order to come up with a "realistic" time schedule for installing a new sewer line which serves Monmouth Medical Center.

Superior Court Judge M. Raymond McGowan said the court would retain jurisdiction of a complaint brought by the hospital against the authority until the matter was resolved.

The hospital brought court action against the authority to compel it to make immediate repairs to the Pavilion Avenue sewer line to prevent sewer back-up into the hospital. The hospital also wants the authority to pay all expenses for the work.

During a court hearing Friday, Laurence C. Stamelman of Long Branch, representing the authority, said the authority passed a resolution last month to install a new line.

The attorney said he wrote to Robert West of Middletown, who represents the hospital, informing him of the planned work but did not receive a reply. "We were surprised when the suit was filed," he added.

Mr. West said the hospital was not informed about the new sewer line until after it filed suit.

Mr. Stamelman said the authority was aware of the back-up problem and decided to proceed with the improvement plan and that it and the hospital could later work out which should pay for it. The authority believes the hospital should pay for the new line.

Mr. Stamelman said the hospital, like any property owner who makes improvements, should bear the cost. He added that the cost was estimated to be between $30,000 and $35,000 and that the authority feels that it would be inequitable to assume the cost and pass it along to other users of the system.

Judge McGowan suggested that once a time schedule is planned the attorneys should confer with him to work out the problem.

COLLEGE BOOK FAIR — Students, faculty and staff thronged Thursday's opening of the Monmouth College Library Association Book Fair at Woodrow Wilson Hall on campus. Assisting early bird student shoppers, Laura Bochenski of Joppa, Md., left, and Michelle Parsells of Loch Arbor, right, was Mrs. Margaret Bruns of West Allenhurst, an association member. The sale, an annual benefit for the college's Murry and Leonie Guggenheim Memorial Library, was open only to members of the Monmouth 'family' the first day. The public was admitted Friday and today.

Pediatricians Support Marburger

LONG BRANCH — New Jersey's pediatricians have gone on record supporting the reappointment of state Commissioner of Education Carl L. Marburger.

In a statement, the state chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics said: "In our efforts to improve the resources available to children for development of positive health, the N.J. Chapter has always found Dr. Marburger to be genuinely concerned and knowledgeable in developing programs that are in the best interest of the children."

The pediatricians' group said it wants "all parents (to) realize that their pediatricians have gone on record in supporting" the Marburger reappointment.

Among those signing the statement are Dr. Anthony P. DeSpirito, Neptune, and Dr. William C. Ellis, Long Branch, vice-president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the N.J. Academy of Pediatrics. Dr. Marburger, whose five-year term expired in June, has been renominated by Gov. William T. Cahill. The nomination is blocked in the state Senate Judiciary Committee. State Sen. Richard R. Stout, West Allenhurst, a member of that committee, is on record as saying he hasn't decided if he supports the Marburger reappointment and hasn't decided if he will vote to get the nomination out of committee and onto the Senate floor.

The Marburger reappointment is being opposed vigorously by the N.J. Education Association, which is angered by his introduction of a statewide testing program to determine student achievement and by his recent decisions which, the NJEA contends, support local boards of education in teacher-board disputes.

Israeli Water Experts Are Studying a New Desalination Process

TEL AV IV (AP) — Israeli scientists are studying a new process to take the salt out of sea water. Authorities say it could help all water-short countries by cutting costs.

A million-gallon-a-day plant at the Red Sea port of Eilat is designed to produce fresh water 10 to 15 per cent cheaper than the most modern units in the West, and almost 40 per cent cheaper than older units.

If the test plant is successful says Shaul Arlosoroff, Israel's deputy water commissioner, Israel hopes to build a plant with American aid in 1975 to produce 12 million gallons a day to irrigate farmland. Plans in the following decade are for a unit to pump 100 million gallons a day.

Most big conversion units are U.S. type "flash evaporation plants," Arlosoroff says. The Israeli method developed over three years and proved in small production, is called a "multistage horizontal distillation process."

It uses a new design of compressor, with aluminum instead of copper in the heat mechanism. No other details are being released. American government scientists who examined the process are pledged to secrecy.

The cost of desalting water varies in different countries, depending on local conditions, the cost of construction, fuel and other factors.

Desalting in Israel costs $1.50 for 1,000 gallons in big, fairly modern plants, said Arlosoroff. More up-to date units could do it for $1 and the new process might bring the price down to 85 cents, he believes.

"We have reached the limit of utilizing our water supplies by conventional methods . . . by 1985 we will be in a crucial situation," Arlosoroff said. "We don't see any way but desalination to solve it."

Drinking water is not the problem. The shortage — already being felt — is in agriculture.

Only a quarter of this country's five million acres are arable. All agriculture depends on irrigation. Sprinklers are so common in the countryside that Israelis call them "Jewish rain." Ordinary rain falls only between October and March.

Mekoroth, the company that produces 70 per cent of Israel's water, is automating distribution. Computers are to run pumps, wells and reservoirs. The government hopes to save at least 15 per cent of the water used for farming.

Arlosoroff says Israel's 90 per cent use of feasible water resources is a world record." But we have reached the limit of conventional methods and we are working on nonconventional techniques." The water expert is a son of the one of the founders of Israel, Dr. Chaim Arlosoroff.

Nonconventional methods include the artifical recharging of underground reservoirs, use of flood water, and cloud seeding — special stoves and two aircraft impregnate clouds with silver iodide throughout the rainy season. Israel has negotiated with the World Bank for $30 million worth of help in an $83 million project to process sewage water for agriculture and industry.

Conversion of sea water became Israel's target in the 1960s when the Lyndon B. Johnson administration proposed a joint $200-million project for a nuclear desalination plant here. Later studies indicated it would cost far more than expected "so the project went to sleep . . . since 1965 we have not received a dime from the United States for water development." The idea of using nuclear power has been abandoned as too costly.

President Nixon's administration passed Section 219 of the Foreign Assistance Act through Congress for a joint $40-million desalination plant in Israel. Israel hopes to use this financing for a nonnuclear plant in 1975.

Are You the Boy You Once Were?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — You may not be ready to be put in a museum yet, but you're sure not getting any younger if —

You'd rather stay up late reading the fine print in your life insurance policy than go to a night club.

You know what it was like to make whoopee in a rumble seat.

Your grandson wants to know if you ever shook hands with Abraham Lincoln.

It has been five years since you went up steps of any kind two at a time.

Rather than run to catch a bus you'd just as soon stand and wait for the next one.

A polite teen-ager — yes, there are still some around — now and then gets up to offer you a seat in the subway.

The doctor and you know each other so well that each of you calls the other by a nickname.

Somewhere around the house you have some old clippings from the Literary Digest and Collier's magazine.

You can remember when the Woolworth Tower was the world's tallest skyscraper.

You have bought a family cemetery plot — just in case.

The list of things you shouldn't eat is longer than the list of foods you can still enjoy.

You have had and lost more than six dogs or cats.

You've pretty well worn out your second reclining chair.

The reason you don't go into the stock market is because you still remember how hard times were after the 1929 crash.

You think cars were better when they had running boards on them.

Once you were a straight down-the-line Democrat, but now you like to brag that you "vote for the man, not the ticket."

You've brushed out more hair than you have left.

People have started asking about your health and saying that you sure are looking well lately.

You are usually among the first three people in the office who come down with the flu every year.

You give up drinking Martinis at least once every month and swear off smoking at least three times every year.

Now and then you like to sit silently holding your wife's hand, but you don't know why.

If she throws away or gives away any of your old sweaters, trousers or shoes, you sulk about it for days.

If you are a member of a country club, you oppose attempts by younger members to modernize it, because you want to keep the old place as it is.

When you bend down to pick something off the floor, it seems like a long way back up.

You carry an umbrella to work these days even if the sky is only partly cloudy.

No matter what happens, it reminds you of something like it that happened some time ago.

Yes, sir, old-timer, if these things are true of you — well, you're no longer the boy you once were.

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again . . . Anacin.

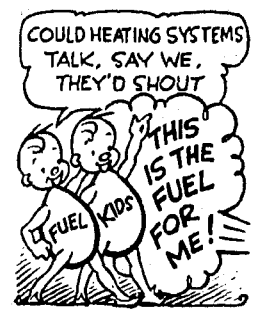

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin®.

Sunday's Election One of Brandt's Toughest Fights

BONN, Germany (AP) — Willy Brandt won the Nobel Peace Prize a year ago for turning West Germany away from the cold war. Now 40 million German voters must decide whether to award him the supreme political prize at home — reelection as their chancellor.

In next Sunday's election Brandt faces one of the toughest fights of a life that has taken him through humble origins, Nazi perseuction, wartime exile, cold war pressure, and two election failures.

After finally winning election in 1969 as the first postwar Socialist chancellor, he moved to ease tension with his — Ostoplitik — Eastern policy — but suffered domestic setbacks including a losing battle with inflation.

Whether the Germans discard him or keep him in power, Brandt will go down in history as a unique figure.

He is a complex man in a country still struggling to find its place in the world.

He is a pacifist and European internationalist in a nation still distrusted by foreigners despite the moderate policies of its two main parties. He is an internationally praised peacemaker in a country still remembered by many as guilty twice in this century of plunging the world into war.

Years of Trial

He is a politican tempered into toughness by years of trial. Yet he could weep when he became chancellor, and he knelt at the Warsaw ghetto memorial in an emotional tribute to Nazi Germany's victims.

A tall man who holds his head back and chin up in an almost theatrically statesmanlike pose, Brandt speaks slowly and methodically. His voice is full of gravel. At 58 his hair is gray and his face is lined, but he can look boyish at times and sets an energetic campaign pace.

The influences that produced him began in the foggy northern port of Luebeck.

Brandt does not hide the fact that his birth was illegitimate and he never met his father. His mother was a shop clerk in a working-class family. His grandfather was a militant Socialist activist.

Under his original name, Herbert Frahm, he led a young Socialist political group in Luebeck during the years after World War I — years of disastrous German inflation, unemployment and governmental instability that helped Adolf Hitler rise to power.

The Nazis had beaten up Socialist in the streets even before Hitler took over control in 1933, and 20-year-old Frahm had good reason to fear imprisonment or worse.

Changed His Name

He changed his name to Willy Brandt and fled to Norway.

While working as a journalist, Brandt joined the international anti-Nazi underground of fellow German emigres. Once he undertook a secret mission to Hitler's Berlin, risking capture to contact anti-Nazis.

He covered the Spanish civil war for leftist newspapers and wrote essays looking ahead to a Europe of peace and reconciliation.

When Hitler's Wehrmacht seized Norway in 1940 Brandt posed as a Norwegian soldier and was briefly held as a prisoner of war. Upon release he fled to neutral Sweden.

During his Norwegian exile he had married a Norwegian girl, Carlotta. She and their daughter Ninja joined him in Stockholm. During the war they were divorced, and in 1948 in Berlin he married his current wife, Rut, also Norwegian. That year he also reentered German politics.

During almost 10 cold war years as West Berlin mayor, the ruggedly handsome Social Democrat gave voice to the defiant but troubled mood of his city, cut in two in 1961 by a Communist wall of slabs and barbed wire.

As foreign minister in a West German grand coalition government in 1966-69, Brandt restored Bonn's diplomatic ties with Yugoslavia and opened up relations with Romania.

Victory in 1969

Before the 1969 election he failed twice to win election as chancellor but each time his Social Democrats increased their vote share. Social Democrats finally won control of parliament in 1969 by joining Free Democrats in a coalition.

In 1970 he signed nonaggression treaties with Moscow and Warsaw. He made the first trip of a Bonn chancellor to Communist East Germany. This month the two Germanys initialed a treaty normalizing their relations and offering hope of closer ties.

Along the way, Brandt's efforts helped create the atmosphere for a four-power agreement defusing Berlin as a flashpoint of cold war tension and easing access to the Communist-encircled city.

The price was ratification of the Moscow and Warsaw treaties, and the battle over this strained his shaky coalition. A few lawmakers who had supported Brandt broke ranks and joined the opposition.

The treaties won ratification last spring after the opposition decided to abstain. In the aftermath Brandt discovered he had lost his parliamentary majority on other issues. He had to call a new election.

Marlboro Performance Bond Requirements Ruled Illegal

FREEHOLD — Superior Court Judge Andrew A. Salvest has set aside two portions of Marlboro's land subdivision ordinance involving guarantees by developers, but has ruled that the township does have the right to require developers to post performance and maintenance bonds.

The judge settled some of the issues in a complicated financial squabble between the township and Matawan Real Estate Development Corp., a subsidiary of Levitt and Sons Inc., and said he would make further rulings on Friday if the matter isn't settled by then.

The dispute centers around four unfinished roads in the Monmouth Heights at Marlboro development, where Levitt built some 526 homes on land subdivided by Matawan R. E. D.

Judge Salvest reserved decision on whether to allow Marlboro to add Levitt as a defendant.

Judge Salvest struck down an ordinance provision requiring developers to post maintenance bonds of 25 per cent of the estimated cost of improvements over a three-year period.

He noted that since Marlboro adopted its subdivision code, a state law has been enacted allowing municipalities to require maintenance bonds of only 15 per cent over a two-year period.

The judge also overturned a provision requiring developers to post performance bonds of five per cent of the cost of improvements estimated by the township engineer.

He held that "this left the developer at the mercy of the engineer" and, if the engineer favored the developer, "could subject the taxpayer to assuming the burden of the developer."

The judge said the township should adopt guidelines or standards so that it would have "a scheme of fees in which the engineer would play no part."

Still to be decided is whether or how much the subdivider should pay for completion of the streets.

James R. Minogue of Middletown, former township attorney, argued for Marlboro that the subdivider did not follow through on the approved plans for the subdivision because it left four dead-end streets. He said the subdivider should be made to pay for their completion.

Through its attorney, Henry J. Saling of Eatontown, Matawan R. E. D. contended Friday it was impossible to complete the streets because the lands on which they were to be built had been condemned by the state for construction of Rt. 18.

"The issue," Mr. Saling said, "is whether or not a town can demand certain improvements within a subdivision as approved when subsequently the State of New Jersey has condemned some of the land."

He said there was "no way" Matawan R. E. D. or two previous owners could have carried out the performance guarantees.

"We do not own the land and we have no way to get it," he said.

But Mr. Minogue said the township is negotiating with the state to buy back the property in question, since the state had bought more land than it actually needed.

Judge Salvest ruled that "if the state made it impossible" to carry out the provisions of the subdivision approval, the developer is "not held to it." As an interim measure, he reduced the required performance bonds from $1,900,000 to $300,000.

The state reportedly paid $150,000 for the land to a previous owner, Merritt Building Corp., which subsequently sold the property to Matawan R. E. D.

The four streets in question are in the Village Homes and Brook Estates sections of the development. In accordance with the development plans, Marlboro wants to put a cul-de-sac at the end of Farrell Lane, link two separated sections of Dickson Road and connect Marblewood Road to Collingwood Road.

Ex-Welfare Aide Indicted

FREEHOLD — A former Monmouth County Welfare aide was indicted by a Monmouth County grand jury on two counts of obtaining money under false pretenses — from the state unemployment benefits program and the Monmouth County Welfare Department.

Hattie Brown of 290 Long Branch Ave., Long Branch, is charged with obtaining $1,369 under false pretenses between March 15, 1971, and Jan. 4 in unemployment benefits from the state Department of Labor and Industry, Division of Employment Security.

The indictment alleges that she failed to report to the state agency that she was employed by the county welfare board.

The second count charges her with obtaining $769.57 in welfare aid under false pretenses between March 1, and Oct. 31, 1971, by allegedly failing to disclose to the county welfare department that she was receiving unemployment insurance benefits.

The indictment alleges she collected the welfare aid for herself and her children.

The indictment was handed up to Superior Court Judge Francis X. Crahay, assignment judge.

The charge had been presented to the county grand jury by the state Attorney General's office.

Man Is Jailed For Robbery

FREEHOLD — A Red Bank man, convicted of armed robbery of an employe of a Shrewsbury service station, was sentenced to 10 to 15 years in state prison by County Court Judge Louis R. Aikins.

John G. Tillman was convicted by a jury Oct. 24 of robbing Raymond Weir of Shrewsbury Mobil, Shrewsbury Ave. and Newman Springs Road, Shrewsbury, of $152.70 July 22 while armed with a firearm.

State Consumer Unit Thwarts Con Game

NEWARK — If you're planning on running a con game, don't go into business across the street from the state Division of Consumer Affairs.

That's the message self-styled prophetess Madame Grant of Atlanta, Ga., should have seen in her crystal ball before setting up operations recently here and sending a mail solicitation to lure people into her good luck dispensary at $18.75 a visit.

According to Charles J. Irwin, director of the state Division of Consumer Affairs, the incident involving Madame Grant is just one of the many kinds of fraudulent activities that state residents should be on guard against.

The incident involving Madame Grant, which was announced today by Mr. Irwin, resulted in her arrest and subsequent court conviction on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses and was the result of an investigation conducted by investigators from the division late last month.

A consumer who had obtained one of Madame Grant's mailings forwarded the letter to the division. Madame Grant's advance advertising of her good luck game stated she would set up headquarters Oct. 20-21 at the Gateway Downtowner Motor Inn, which is across the street from division offices.

Billing herself as "your great woman of God from the lowlands of Georgia," Madame Grant advertised that for $18.75 she would give all those looking for good luck and fast money the "straight thing."

According to Mr. Irwin, "the straight thing" was two slips of paper with numbers which, with good luck and God's blessing, would be the winning lottery number — and not the State lottery, either.

Among the visitors to Madame Grant's suite that day were two division undercover agents, accompanied by two detectives from the Newark Fraud Squad who waited in the lobby. After paying their $18.75 and getting their "straight thing," the agents signaled the Newark detectives who placed Madame Grant under arrest.

The detectives, Joseph Clark and Frederick De Vesa, confiscated $119.75 from Madame Grant's room, and placed her under arrest for obtaining money under false pretenses. She was released the following Sunday in $250 bail and pleaded guilty in Newark Municipal Court Oct. 24, where she was fined $85 and released.

Newark police said they could find no indications that Madame Grant, who gave her name and address as Frances Louise Grant, 1909 King George Lane, Atlanta, Ga., had any previous record of convictions.

The 51-year-old good luck dispenser, if convicted a second time in New Jersey, would face stiffer penalties because of her fraud conviction now on record, police said.

Director Irwin, in relating the Madame Grant incident, urged all residents to be on guard against this type of con game, particularly central city residents who are frequently the target for this kind of operation.

Mr. Irwin urged anyone receiving communications of the kind mailed by Madame Grant to forward them to the Division of Consumer Affairs for investigation.

"This kind of swindle goes on because people let it," he said. "With the cooperation of the public, people like Madame Grant can be put out of business fast if citizens will cooperate with the proper authorities."

The state Division of Consumer Affairs is located at 1100 Raymond Blvd.

Holmdel Board Sues To Thwart Variance

FREEHOLD — The Holmdel Board of Education is seeking a Superior Court order setting aside a variance granted for construction of a one-family home on an undersized lot next to its Administration Office on Hillcrest Road.

The school board has filed suit against the Holmdel Zoning Board of Adjustment, Building Inspector Walter A. Smale and Walter C. Garner, the contract purchaser of the property.

Demanding that the variance be declared void and the building inspector enjoined from issuing a building permit, the school board alleges that the zoning board's approval of the variance Sept. 27 was arbitrary and not supported by the evidence before the board.

Mr. Garner wants to build a home on 17,250 square feet of property, less than the required one acre (43,560 feet) and with a front setback of 25 feet in one corner, where 50 feet is required.

The school board says its property immediately abuts and surrounds the property in question.

The school board, which appeared at zoning board meetings July 26 and Aug. 23 to object to the granting of the variance, states that its property surrounds the property in question.

William L. Russell Jr. of Red Bank represents the board.

State Trails Conference Set

TRENTON — Gather a group of hikers, bicyclists, equestrians, snowmobile operators and skiers in one big room and guess what the topic would be? Trails, naturally.

There is going to be such a meeting. It will be the New Jersey Conference on Trails March 3 in the State Museum Auditorium.

Joseph J. Truncer, director of the division of Parks and Forestry, Department of Environmental Protection, said the conference will explore the interest of groups in having more and better trails in New Jersey.

Comments and suggestions should be sent to Trail Committee, Bureau of Parks, P.O. Box 1420, Trenton, N.J. 08625.

Own 8 cars at the same time.

Anyone who's ever seen the interior of the Mercedes-Benz 280SE and the trunk space of the Lincoln Continental Mark IV finds it hard to look at another car.

The Rolls-Royce Silver Shadow has incredible headroom and legroom.

You can't do better than the steering system of the Ferrari 512 racing car, the front suspension of the Aston Martin and the ignition system of a Porsche 911.

Just ask the owner of a Cadillac Eldorado what he thinks of front-wheel drive.

And service-wise, the Volkswagen is in a class by itself.

Why are we boasting about these other great cars?

Because the Audi has the aforementioned features of all of them.

And if one outstanding feature is enough to sell you on a car, we figured 8 would be irresistible.

'Buy Wisely' Quiz

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

By SYLVIA PORTER

Christmas is still a full six weeks away but the pressures on us to buy are already close to irresistible. In our desk at home, for instance, the biggest drawer is stuffed with catalogues, each loaded with alluring gifts and some priced attractively too. Every bill (as well as non-bill) we now get from department and other stores in which we have charge accounts is also packed with reminders of more tempting things to buy.

Thanksgiving is still to come, but on every side the streets and stores in city and suburbs are dazzling with lights which beckon us to spend.

The biggest spending season of the year is on.

And an all-time peak spending season it will be, as you might expect in an economy that is still in the comparatively young stages of a strong, solid advance. For both big-ticket and small-ticket items across the board of goods and services, buying records will tumble in the weeks ahead.

Good Time?

Q. Is this a good time for you to buy? A. Yes, if you must have the items or want them for gifts. Although prices are at their seasonal highs, they'll be higher in 1973. And you can't postpone an essential purchase or give a Christmas gift after the holidays.

Q. Aren't November and December ever good times to buy things that aren't priced at their peaks? A. Yes. For some items, these are the weeks of traditional sales and you actually can save substantially by buying now.

November is a good month to buy bicycles, blankets, used cars, women's coats, housecoats, piece goods, quilts, ranges, seat covers for cars, men's shoes, women's shoes, water heaters.

December is a good month to buy blankets, used cars, children's clothing, women's and children's coats, children's hats, men's and boys' suits, quilts, men's and women's shoes.

Bargain Guides

Do not downgrade the importance of the above buying calendar to your pocketbook if you need or want these items. Bargain guides such as this are available for every month of the year, and these guides alone can put you well on the way to beating any foreseeable future price spiral. Simply by the strategy of timing your major buying to the months of traditional sales, you can more than offset any apparent annual rise in living costs.

Q. What about waiting for the post-Christmas sales? A. Of course, on may purchases which you can easily postpone and which are not on special sale now, you will save money if you wait for the post-holiday clearances. That's no more than obvious good sense.

Q. What if you're in doubt? A. Then give yourself this quiz, prepared by the Council for Family Financial Education, and find out whether you should or should not buy.

(1) Do you really need this item? (Yes) (No)

(2) Is this price reasonable? (Yes) (No)

(3) Is this the best time to buy the item? (Yes) (No)

(4) If this is a bargain, is it a current model? (Yes) (No)

(5) If "on sale," is the price a true sale price? (Yes) (No)

(6) Are you sure no other item can be substituted? (Yes) (No)

(7) Are you sure there are no major disadvantages? (Yes) (No)

(8) Although excessive in price, will it satisfy an inner need? (Yes) (No)

(9) Have you checked and reseearched the item? (Yes) (No)

(10) Do you know the retailer's reputation? (Yes) (No)

(11) Does this retailer offer any special services with the item? (Yes) (No)

Score your answers as follows:

If you have 9-11 yeses, buy the product.

If you have 6-8 yeses, think again.

If you have below six yeses, forget it.

And save this quiz for use over and over again. Over the years, it will help keep you from many costly buying errors

Dillingham Turnaround

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

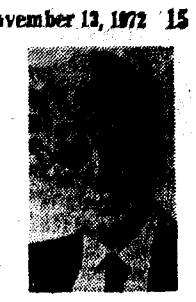

Q — Do you advise selling Dillingham (NYSE) at a loss or holding for a combeback? — O.K.

A — Economic recovery in Hawaii has picked up steam in recent months. The after effects of the West Coast dock strike, which were still visible in the opening months of this year, have now disappeared. Tourism set a record in August despite a sharp drop in the military rest and recuperation program. Highway construction appropriations for the current fiscal year are up 120 per cent over fiscal 1971. This latter should be beneficial for Dillingham, a major contractor on the islands.

In the first nine months of 1972, Dilligham's operating revenues edged ahead 2 per cent. Earnings of 35 cents a share were reported, up from a 2 cent a share deficit recorded in the like 1971 period when cost overruns penalized results. Contracts from the state for a $10 million cultural center and a $22 million stadium should contribute to further earnings gains in 1973. Revamped management, emphasis on consolidation and internal growth and the expanding economies of the Pacific Basin countries are also favorable factors. Shares have above-average recovery potential and are a definite hold.

Q — I am one of two people controlling a portfolio which includes 300 shares of Kennecott Copper (NYSE). Safety and income are the objectives. Divestiture of Peabody Coal, the loss on Chilean property and weak copper prices seem to justify sale Your advice would be appreciated. — A.M.

A — Kennecott's struggle within Chile for compensation on the expropriated property has now been abandoned. A $26.2 million write-down was taken in the third quarter as a result. The legal battles continue, however, in the courts of France and Sweden where Kennecott has claimed rights to shipments of copper. For the first nine months earnings were off 53 per cent year-to-year. No significant firming in copper prices is looked for since supplies continue to exceed demand by a good margin. The many uncertainties surrounding this company will undoubtedly continue to exert pressure on shares. Sell.

THE P.O.W./M.I.A. BRACELET

Over 1,700 Americans are either Prisoners Of War or Missing in Action in Southeast Asia. Aside from the inhumane treatment witnessed by those few who have returned, the most tragic aspect is that most of the families of these men do not know if their sons, husbands, or fathers are alive or dead. Hanoi won't tell them.

This bracelet honors the man whose name is inscribed and includes the date he was lost. It should be worn with the vow that it will not be removed until the day the Red Cross is allowed into Hanoi and can assure his family of his status and that he received the humane treatment due all men.

Illegal Hashish Exports From Afghanistan Up Sharply

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — Illegal exports of hashish from Afghanistan have doubled since last year and up to two tons, worth millions of dollars, are flowing to street markets abroad every month, Western narcotics agents report.

Hashish is hidden in air freight shipments and secreted in vehicles driven through Afghanistan by employes of narcotics rings operating in the United States, Canada and Europe.

The agents said the smuggling system had reached the point where it could easily be converted to smuggling hard drugs.

Dr. M. Ayubi, president of Afghan customs, said he did not believe as much hashish was being smuggled out of the country as Westerners estimated. But he said Afghanistan was not able to install an effective control system because it lacks funds for its enforcement unit.

The U.S. Embassy reported an investigation in California showed that the Brotherhood of Eternal Love, an organization associated with the fugitive Dr. Timothy Leary, bought most of its hashish in Afghanistan.

As a result a warrant has been issued in California for the arrest of an Afghan hotel and garage keeper, Hiyatullah Tokhi. An embassy official said the warrant could not be served here because there is no extradition agreement with the United States.

The embassy holds a fugitive warrant from the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs for Jallaluddin Rehmati, an Afghan who owns a number of Kabul curio shops. Officials said he had been identified along with other Afghans as the source of supply of a 322-pound shipment of hashish seized in Philadelphia in July.

Ayubi said the case was under investigation by the Ministry of Justice. Western agents complain that prominent illegal dealers have connections inside the government which saves them from harsh punishment or prosecution.

Investigators said more and more prominent Afghans were involved in the drug trade. During a recent legislative debate, a senator here disclosed that a cabinet minister's nephew was arrested on a narcotics charge when he visited the United States.

While hashish remains the major smuggled item, an Afghan official said the system "was very big and very professional. We are interested in the trade, in the shipping methods so that they are not eventually used for morphine or for opium."

Hashish is formed from resin scraped from the cannabis sativa plant, which grows wild throughout this region. According to medical opinion, it is five to eight times stronger than marijuana, which comes from the chopped leaves and stem of the cannabis plant.

Drivers Get Warning On Icy Bridges

FREEHOLD — Freeholder Albert E. Allen, director of bridges, has issued his annual warning to winter motorist.

Mr. Allen and Thomas Carrie, county bridge superintendent are reminding drivers that extra care is necessary on bridge surfaces, which freeze more quickly than road surfaces.

Bridge surfaces are exposed to the weather from above and below, Mr. Allen said, which makes them more susceptible to freezing temperatures. Roadways freeze more slowly due to the warmth of the ground below.

Special care should be used in crossing bridges with steel grid decking Mr. Allen explained that although the decking may allow snow and ice to fall through into the water, the grill itself may remain slippery and could cause skidding.

Monmouth County has 364 bridges, 390 pipe installations and 149 culverts. All of the five drawbridges and several of the other spans have grid decks.

To Honor Haney At Dinner-Dance

MILLBURN — A dinner-dance in honor of stock brokerage executive George J. Haney, formerly of Red Bank, will be held at 6:30 p.m. today at the Chanticler here.

Mr. Haney, associate manager of Halle & Stieglitz, Inc., Newark, will be given the national Jewish Hospital's 1972 honor award at the dinner in recognition of his service to the hospital and to civic and philanthropic work in New Jersey. The dinner will benefit the nonsectarian programs of National Jewish Hospital and Research Center for respiratory diseases at Denver.

4 Killed on Rt. 70

MARLTON — Four persons were killed early yesterday and three others injured when a car plowed into a crowd standing at the scene of an auto accident on Rt. 70.

Police identified the dead as Charles Northam, 28, June Seward, 25, Esther Seward, 29, and Grace Mason, 27. All were Lakewood residents.

A police spokesman said the car that hit them was driven by Jacob Pichtelberger, 48, of Marlton, who was hospitalized at the Burlington County Memorial Hospital in Mount Holly.

The spokesman said the accident occurred when Weldon Barnard, also of Lakewood, stopped his car to lend assistance to John S. Sees, 25, of Moorestown, whose car slammed into a pole on the highway. The dead were passengers in Barnard's car who got out while he drove to a service station to report the accident.

One of those injured, Janet Jackson, was also Barnard's passenger. The others were Ronald Circelli, 23, and his wife, Margaret, 22, of Marlton. They also stopped their car on the highway to assist Sees.

Fire Closes Newark Airport

NEWARK — A refueling truck owned by United Airlines broke out in flames in a stand-by parking lot yesterday, closing Newark Airport for almost an hour. No injuries were reported.

The fire was quickly brought under control by the combined efforts of the city and airport fire departments.

According to a Port Authority police spokesman, the truck was waiting "unattended" in a parking lot reserved for trucks that are "standing by to refuel departing planes."

The spokesman said "this is really nothing unusual, these trucks frequently malfunction."

He said there was no suspicion of sabotage, but the fire was "still under investigation" by police.

The airport was closed to air traffic from 5:17 p.m. to 6:02 p.m.

Scout Exec in Tussle

WEEHAWKEN — The second highest officer in the national Boy Scout organization is free today on $10,000 bail after being charged with assault with intent to kill following an altercation last evening inside the Lincoln Tunnel.

According to Port Authority police, George C. Freeman, 63, of Alexandria, Va. became embroiled in an argument with an off-duty New York City patrolman, John Reig, after the cars driven by the two men collided on the New Jersey approach to the tunnel.

Freeman drove off into the tunnel after the collision, but was overtaken by Reig, who ran after him, police said. Traffic was so heavy that Reig was able to catch up to Freeman's car on foot, the authorities noted.

After overtaking Freeman, Reig climbed onto the hood of Freeman's car and fired one shot through the windshield, striking Freeman on the wrist, police said. Freeman was treated for the gunshot wound at North Hudson Hospital and released.

After the shooting, the two men were separted by Port Authority police. Freeman was charged with assault with intent to kill because he allegedly tried to run down Reig, who in turn was charged by Freeman with assault, police said.

Freeman is assistant chief scout executive and works as a liaison between the scouts and the federal government.

3 Hunters Shot

TRENTON — At least three hunters were shot and wounded by other hunters during the opening weekend of New Jersey's small game hunting season, officials reported.

Gary DiLeo, 17, and Theodore Struca, 23, both of Linden, were shot Saturday by an unknown hunter in a wooded area near Princeton. They were treated for pellet wounds at Princeton Medical Center and released.

Gearhart Vienna, 40, of Morristown was treated for gunshot wounds of the legs at the same hospital Saturday after he was allegedly shot by his hunting partner, Thomas Highsmith of Edison. The incident occurred in Hopewell Township, police said.

Health Parley Opens

ATLANTIC CITY — A four-day conference that seeks to establish the nation's future health goals opens at Convention Hall here today.

Some 10,000 health professionals and consumers are expected to attend the nearly 200 scientific sessions organized by the American Public Health Association.

The association's 19 sections will explore subjects dealing with sickle cell disease, abortion and sterilization, and a national health policy for the environment, among others.

Conclusions and recommendations of President Nixon's Committee on Health Education and the association's task force report on the operations of the Delta Community Hospital in Mound Bayou, Miss., where the quality of medical care was unquestioned, will also be presented.

'Prophetess' Arrested

NEWARK — It has often been said that the best place to commit an illegal act is across the street from a police station. Not so with the State Division of Consumer Affairs.

A self-styled prophetess, Madame Grant of Atlanta, Ga., set up operations in Newark at the Gateway Downtowner Motor Inn, which is across the street from the Division of Consumer Affairs. She sent mail solicitations advertising that for an $18.75 fee, good luck and fast money would be delivered.

Among her visitors were two agents from the consumer division, accompanied by two detectives from the Newark Fraud Squad who waited in the lobby. The agents paid the fee, and received their key to "good luck" — numbers to play in the numbers lottery. Madame Grant was then placed under arrest by the detectives.

"This kind of swindle goes on because people let it," said Consumer Affairs director Charles J. Irwin. He urged anyone receiving communications like that mailed by Madame Grant to forward them to the Division of Consumer Affairs for investigation.

Hiker, Dog Reunited

LEDGEWOOD — A San Diego, Calif., butcher and the dog accompanying him on a cross-country walk have been reunited after a 16-hour enforced separation.

Larry Shelton, 60, discovered late Saturday night that the shopping cart containing his travel gear and faithful mascot had been stolen.

"They can have my boots," Shelton said after hearing of the theft, "but give me back my dog."

Shelton's wish was answered yesterday afternoon when the young German shepherd was returned by an unidentified man who claimed to have heard the story on the radio. The dog was returned to the tavern here Shelton is staying.

The butcher, who left San Diego June 2 to "see my country," found the abandoned dog outside Kansas City, Mo. He fed it and soon discovered he had a traveling companion.

YMCA Gym-Jams Popular With Tots in The Bayshore

MATAWAN — A traditional role of the YMCA has been the provision of athletic facilities and instruction for grade school and high school students and for young adults.

The Arrowhead-Bayshore Branch of the Community YMCA has recently taken off in a new direction.

Starting early this Fall, the local branch initiated a program called Gym-Jams in the Bayshore Area.

Gym-Jams is designed for pre-school boys and girls. The program is presently housed at the Broad Street Firehouse, here, and the North Centerville Firehouse, Hazlet.

Two mornings each week approximately 30 three and four year olds arrive at each of the locations for a half-day of arts and crafts, gymnastics, music and stories. The program emphasizes group sharing and living and specializes in movement education and the development of perceptive skills.

The program is directed by Mrs. Gail McDonald of Middletown. Dana Endresen and Ingrid Lucas of Matawan, Maureen Rebele of East Brunswick, and Lynda Bodtmann of Middletown, all certified teachers, provide leadership and instruction.

According to Mrs. McDonald, the program was begun on an experimental basis this Fall with only one session held at each location.

However, the program proved popular and plans are now underway for two sessions at each of the present locations and one session at an additional location in Keyport starting in January.

The concept of bringing the YMCA out into the local community is not new. "Since there is no permanent YMCA facility in the Bayshore Area, we have employed our traditional outreach concept to get the Gym-Jams program started in the Bayshore Area," said Mrs. McDonald.

Miles Overholt, program director of the Y's Bayshore Branch, indicated that he was extremely pleased at the response of parents to the Gym-Jams program. "The number of participants and the favorable comments that we have heard from both children and parents have greatly exceeded our expectations."

John Sheehan, Hazlet, whose daughter, Kate, is a participant in the Hazlet program said that the YMCA has succeeded admirably in putting together both a unique and useful program.

"Gym-Jams isn't really a nursery school where children are expected to prepare themselves for kindergarten, but is rather an opportunity for the child to prepare himself for life in developing his ability to get along with others," said Mr. Sheehan. "My daughter hates to leave when the day is through."

In conjunction with the Gym-Jams program, a slightly different program is also being offered at both locations. It is called Kindergym and is for five and six year olds who are in kindergarten.

Kindergym is aimed, almost exclusively, at supplementing the kindergarten experience with an emphasis on movement education and gymnastics.

Kindergym participants learn tumbling, jumping and balance beam exercises. "It is an excellent program for the child who has more energy then he can expend in the classroom," said Mrs. McDonald, who also directs Kindergym.

"We feel that with Gym-Jams and Kindergym we have been successful in providing a low cost program to a reasonably large number of people in the Bayshore Area," said Bill Van Lenten, branch executive of the Arrowhead-Bayshore YMCA. "With the planned expansion of the programs we hope that even more Bayshore residents can become involved." Information on the sessions that will begin in January can be obtained by calling the YMCA.

HELPING HAND — Physical Education teacher, Mrs. Maureen Rebele, East Brunswick, provides a reassuring hand to Marion Galvin, 3, Hazlet, as she takes her first uncertain steps on a scaled down balance beam. Mrs. Rebele, Gym-Jams movement education instructor, uses child sized gymnastics equipment to teach pre-schoolers the basic elements of gymnastics.

New College Course Covers Energy Woes

WEST LONG BRANCH — The energy crisis is brought into sharp focus at Monmouth College in a new textbook and course believed to be the first of its kind on the subject in the country.

Two Monmouth professors — one a chemist, the other a physicist — are team-teaching the elective course described as an interdisciplinary approach to physical science.

Central theme of both the book, entitled "Energy: Resource — Slave — Pollutant," and the course, is the generation of energy.

Dr. Robert O. Smith, physicist, and Dr. Robert S. Rouse, chemist, first began work on the project, which is primarily geared for students who are not majoring in science, almost three years ago.

Both believe the study of "this technology and some of the fundamental chemistry and physics involved, provides an integrated and rational overview of real physical science in a real technological world."

Central to any educational endeavor, Dr. Smith explained, "are both communication and concern.

"Concern about communication between faculty and students," he continued, "and more specifically between science faculty and students not majoring in science, necessitates establishing a common ground and probable interest area in which the two can work together."

The concept of the course began to take shape following a series of meetings in 1969 and continued through 1971 as the two professors developed a syllabus for the class.

Working from their own research notes, and without the benefit of any formal textbook, the professors first began teaching the course in September 1971, on an experimental basis.

Students enrolled in the course, noted Dr. Rouse, were enthusiastic and readily offered their comments and suggestions as the pilot project began to blossom.

Both professors spent the past summer writing, rewriting, and editing the initial draft of the textbook for use by students this fall.

That a chemist and a physicist are combining on such a project, which delves into the problems — including pollution — connected with generation of electrical power, is unique, Dr. Smith observed.

Most recent books and articles on the subject of water and air pollution and other environmental problems have been researched and written by biologists. However, many of the problems are physical and chemical in nature and, therefore, are the concern of physicists and chemists.

"We believe that there are areas of chemistry and physics which are pertinent to many of our technologies and which are particularly pertinent to significant problems facing the citizenry of our scientific-technological society," Dr. Smith observed. "The issues surrounding society's use of electrical power will influence our life-style today and tomorrow."

The professors included "resource, slave and pollutant," in their textbook title, since they feel the subject of energy must be studied from all three viewpoints.

"The sources of electrical energy are discussed with respect to the present and future problems of resources, pollutants and population," Dr. Rouse noted.

"Pollution results," Dr. Smith said, "from our technological society, being a very inefficient one operating with an average overall efficiency of about 51 per cent.

"However," he continued, "with the mass movement toward 'convenient,' clean electrical power — 'Reddy Kilowatt' — this average efficiency must decrease.

"The reason," the professor observed, "is that electrical power plants are themselves only an average of about 33 per cent efficient, which means that 67 per cent of the energy consumed is being immediately wasted or discarded into lakes and rivers and streams."

JOINT PROJECT — Kim Wright, left, and Kate Sheehan, both of Hazlet, share supplies while putting finishing touches on their arts and crafts project of the day — a construction paper clock. Both are four year-old participants in the YMCA's Bayshore Area Gym-Jams program.

TEXTBOOK AUTHORS — Dr. Robert O. Smith, associate professor of physics, left, and Dr. Robert S. Rouse, chemistry department chairman, review the initial draft of textbook, entitled "Energy: Resource—Slave—Pollutant," they have written for a new course at Monmouth College, West Long Branch.

Two Bell Scientists Getting Patent Awards

JAMESBURG — The two inventors of a new telephone traffic system whose projected equipment value will soon approach $1 billion, have been chosen to receive the Outstanding Patent Award of the New Jersey Council for Research and Development Thursday at the Forsgate Country Club.

The two inventors are Richard J. Jaeger, Jr. of Colts Neck, N.J. and Amos E. Joel Jr. of South Orange. Jaeger is head of the TPS (Traffic Service Position System) Planning and Operational Programming Department, and Joel is a Switching Consultant, both at Bell Laboratories in Holmdel.

Accepting the company award for Bell Labs will be W. H.C. Higgins, vice president of Switching Systems.

The R&D Council, which comprises leading research labs, universitites, colleges, and related organizations, made its selection on the basis of the invention's "socio-economic value, commercial impact, and contribution to the advancement of communications," according to Dr. Irvin Krause, chairman of the Patent Award Committee.

Dr. Edward J. Gornowski, vice president of Esso Research and Engineering Company, will speak on "The Energy Outlook" following the patent award presentation.

The patented invention is known as TSPS, Traffic Service Position System. It was first installed in Morristown in 1969.

TSPS is like a quarterback directing the handling of customer-dialed telephone calls. The system automates many of the former functions of a telephone operator in local assistance calls, coin toll calls, and special toll calls, such as person-to-person and collect calls.

The key feature for the customer is to dial the prefix "0" first and then the number.

While TSPS is connecting the call, it records the caller's number and number being called, computes the charges, finds an operator, and gives her the information. All of these functions were formerly performed by the operator.

Just before the connection is made an operator comes on to take care of such personal services as recording the credit card number, making person-to-person connections, and collecting the proper charges.

By 1980, it is expected that TSPS will handle five billion calls a year. Without TSPS, it is estimated that more than 46,000 manual cord-type switchboard and operator positions would be needed in addition to 115,000 more telephone operators.

The impact of TSPS is such that New Jersey Bell is committed to replacing, ultimately, all of its cord switchboards with TSPS.

In addition to speeding up service, TSPS also improves the working conditions of the operators.

Mr. Jaeger is head of the TSPS Planning and Operational Programming Department at Bell Telephone Laboratories, Holmdel.

A Life of Limitations Is a Sensitive Business

Editor's Note: The story of Constance Griesmer, who has been blind since birth, strongly carries the conviction that obstacles in life can be overcome, despite handicaps. The Daily Register shares this insight into the blind world of Constance, who received her first job experience here at one of the busy desks of Contemporary Life.

(First in a Series)

By MARYBETH ALLEN

COLTS NECK — The real frustrations started with a coloring book.

Kindergarteners were clenching crayons and trying to guide them within the lines. Meanwhile, Constance Griesmer sat there and scribbled away as if the lines didn't exist. And it took awhile for the other youngsters to realize that for her, they didn't.

At the age of five, blindness was already a familiar part of Connie's world. The realization had come gradually and she can't recall whether it was the result of her own experiences, the words of her parents, or a combination of both.

Now, as a 21-year-old senior at Middlebury (Vt.) College, she notes: "Telling a blind child of his limitation is a sensitive business, because he has trouble at first in understanding the difference. I can remember asking my mother, when I was three or four, if my little brother also was blind. Whatever 'blind' meant, I wanted a companion!"

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Griesmer Sr., who reside on Rt. 34 with their two other children, Samuel Griesmer Jr., 18, who is a chemistry major at the University of Vermont School of Technology, and Susan Valian Griesmer, 14, a freshman at Marlboro Township High School.

Premature Birth

Her form of blindness, which is known as retrolental fibroplasia, is attributed to the excessive oxygen she was given when placed in an incubator after her premature birth.

The pressure created by the leaders of oxygen ruptured the blood vessels in the retinas of Connie's eyes. At that time, Mrs. Griesmer notes, doctors were mystified about the occurrence of this form of blindness among babies born at hospitals which were well-equipped and staffed. Ironically, the condition never manifested itself among infants born prematurely under more primitive conditions.

Mrs. Griesmer notes that it was 1½ years after Constance's birth that the blindness was directly linked to the excessive use of oxygen. Now, the quantity given to babies is strictly regulated.

"My Dad was the first parent to notice anything wrong," Connie notes. "One day as I was being fed at the hospital and both were watching the process through a window, he said he had a hunch that I had lost my sight. Mother would not accept this until months later, when a doctor's examination proved him correct."

"I have never grown bitter to the point of despair," Connie notes, "because I have always been treated as a normal child for whom special considerations sometimes have to be made. I do not look upon my blindness as the act of cruel fate or chance.

Quotes From the Bible

"A chapter in the Bible's Book of John tells the story of a blind man who is healed by Christ. The details are forcefully given, including a question asked by the disciples: "Who sinned, this man or his parents, that he was born blind?" Christ's answer was that rebellion against God was not the cause — though everyone rebels — but that God's glory might be shown through him.

"I believe that God will somehow use my limitations for His praise, in a way I don't yet understand. The blind need not live with hopelessness."

Inability to imitate others, she notes, may have prevented her from learning to walk before the age of 1½. "When I began to talk," she adds, "it was not long before I was speaking in sentences — and my tongue has been going ever since!"

Her first memories are of the family's former home on Alexander Drive, River Plaza. "At first," she says, "Mother accompanied me on my first jaunts into the outside world; but soon I was walking around the neighborhood alone, visiting and exploring.

"I was exposed to varieties of situations, including plane trips, and was given every conceivable plaything. One of my early favorites was a large wheelbarrow. It amused my father to see me pushing it, because my head was hardly higher than the handles.

"Sometimes the fact that my parents insisted upon normal movement proved risky and caused accidents. But they felt that, within realistic boundaries, I should have the freedom others enjoyed."

First Nursery School

For two years, beginning when she was two, Connie was enrolled at the Mountain Hill Nursery School, Middletown. "I wasn't treated differently from the other children," she comments. "In fact, I can remember having to forfeit a recess period because I hadn't tied my shoelaces."

She entered kindergarten here and notes that "Compared with nursery school, it was frightfully boring for a while. I began to experience my first real frustrations. To make things smoother, the New Jersey State Commission for the Blind and Visually Impaired sent toys — but they hardly helped. As time wore on, my frustration began to cause trouble. One day, for no apparent reason, I threw into the air a box containing a Commission puzzle of several hundred pieces. They were never all found.

Boredom Sets In

"If I had had sight, I would certainly have learned to read before entering kindergarten. My inability to do so was the main obstacle. I did anything to take away the boredom, because I knew full well the importance of having sight.

"One day, the climax came. Our classroom had a washroom which locked from the inside. I turned the faucet on to its maximum and moved to the opposite side of the room, knowing what I was doing but not caring. The water spilled over the sink and onto the floor. The teacher pounded on the door and demanded that I let her in. When I did, she commanded that I clean up the mess. Instead, I told her that if she was going to make my life so boring, she could do the cleaning. She cleaned."

Teachers had been asked to give Connie the usual crayons, pencils, and supplies. This was so she would not have a feeling of being deprived of the objects, which might do her more harm than the realization that she could not use them in the same way as the other youngsters. This policy also proved to be a learning experience. She became aware of the concept of "lines" when others told her that she wasn't coloring within them.

During recess, she climbed on the jungle gym and played jumprope along with the rest. But as youngsters grow older, group activities tend to diminish. "I somehow found myself on the edge of things," she comments.

"Especially during the sixth through the eighth grade, the outcasts tended to hang around me, seemingly attracted because the others did not always invite them to play games either. I walked around with them and listened to their problems.

"I am sure I allowed this to go on to an extend. If my temperament had been more aggressive, I might have protested and joined more activities.

Books Bring Excitement

"In general, I was not openly pitied by the students. They helped me willingly, whenever I asked, but not over much. During all this time, I was keeping up well academically. In fact, as elementary school drew to a close, I began withdrawing into books because, mentally at least, I could enjoy an exciting inner life.

"This manifested itself in countless stories, which I wrote secretly in Braille. My own frustrations — as well as many joys and deep inner searchings — were reflected in these fantasies.

"The Christian influence was strong in them. My parents had given me a Bible when I was seven or eight and by adolescence, Christ began to become the personal reality by which I measured the implications of my place in the world."

TOMORROW: Teen-age years of blindness. Is isolation due to personality or lack of vision?

Collectors Seek Toys of the Past

Playthings of the past, such as dolls, have become much sought by collectors.

John Noble, author of the book, "A Treasury of Beautiful Dolls," is no exception. His lifelong interest in playthings began when he was a child, and in 1960 he came to America from London to become curator of the toy collection of the Museum of the City of New York.

Noble's beautifully illustrated book takes one from the wooden dolls of 1745 to the French, American and English dolls of the early 1900s. There are many color plates and illustrations, and it is the author's intention to show "as a microcosm, they reflect the vagaries of taste down through the years."

The wooden babies often made by itinerant journeymen are particularly interesting. And Noble's illustrations prove that dolls are probably the best cared for of all toys. One beautifully gowned wooden doll brought from England in 1745 is in impeccable condition, and has never been cleaned or restored.

The book's illustrations — 46 color and 150 black and white — continue on to wax dolls, papier mache, rag, porcelain dolls. There are Oriental, German and French bisques. There is a whole collection of German clown dolls, some rubber-headed dolls, and some character dolls. There are two handsomely dressed black dolls, and as Noble points out, the conventional heads were modified with the characteristic facial structure of the Negro races.

IT'S GOING AROUND AGAIN THIS YEAR

If you ask a friend at this time of year what it was that had kept him home sick he is very likely to give you that stock answer—"Oh, it's just something thats been going around!" Just what that something is nobody seems to be exactly sure of except that it's probably a virus or a bug.

In all probability, it will be "going around" again this winter and many of us will be the recipients of its uncomfortable symptoms. So remember, the best advice is rest, liquids and aspirin to start and then call your doctor if you cannot shake it quickly.

Back Into Mainstream

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing for the benefit of "Insomnia In Idaho," the woman whose husband is having an affair with his secretary. When she said, "I thought I'd be the last wife in the world to have such a problem," I heard myself talking. She's where I was four years ago. Here's what I did about it — and it saved my sanity. Maybe it will save hers.

Sit down with a piece of paper and a pencil. Make four headings at the top of the page. Label the first column "Personal Strengths." In it list all the things you have going for you: Education, Looks, Money, Skills, Connections, etc. Head the next column, "This Helped Me Before." List all the things that helped lift your spirits when you were troubled: Music, Sewing, Volunteer Work, Church, Painting, Physical Exercise, Change of Scenery. Head the third column "People I Can Count On." List your most reliable friends, a favorite relative, a neighbor, a doctor, a clergyman. Label the fourth column "New Opportunities." List the ways you can get back into the mainstream. Pretend you are a widow. (Emotionally you really are.) Is it a new job you need? A new city? Volunteer work? Back to school?

My salvation was going back to the University. I always wanted to get my degree. I not only achieved my goal but I found new values. Now I go looking for the person who is sitting alone. I sit down and start talking — or listening. The world is filled with troubled people who need friendship. I learned this when I was in need of help.

The best part of my story is that I kept my husband. Suddenly he was no longer the center of my existence. He began to respect me when I stopped begging for his love, checking on his whereabouts and making him feel like a heel. Today he sees me as a new person. And I guess I am. Just sign me — Reborn In New York.

Dear New York: Bravo! You went to work and did something about yourself instead of demanding changes in others. So few people think of this approach because it's the most difficult one. My heartiest congratulations!

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl aged 17, and I've been going with a guy 20 for over a year-and-a-half. Jimmie and I have decided I should go on the pill. We feel it is the best way to prevent unwanted pregnancy.

I want to tell my mother about our decision but to be honest with you, I don't know how to broach the subject. Mom and I get along O.K. but we have never talked about anything intimate. Also, I'm afraid she might get angry and order me to quit seeing Jimmie immediately, which, of course, I would refuse to do.

Please, Ann, help me find the words. Even though Mom and I are not very close I don't want to deceive her. — Muddled Mouth.

Dear M.M.: My advice is to see a doctor and learn if you should be on the pill. Maybe you ought to be using another type of contraceptive.

Your question as to whether or not to inform your mother is interesting. Why would you want to? Your decision has been made. What do you hope to accomplish? Would the statement be a Declaration of Independence? Or do you just want to shake her up? Think about it a while. Perhaps when you come up with the answers to these questions you'll decide to keep quiet. I hope so.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement, Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage — What To Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Community Improvement Planning Workshop Set

NORTH BRUNSWICK — Although no two New Jersey communities have identical problems or priorities, methods of coordinating community improvement through volunteer efforts are applicable everywhere. Based on this premise, a community improvement planning workshop is being scheduled by the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs. Representatives of more than 450 women's clubs and Junior women's clubs throughout the state have been invited to participate in the workshop Wednesday, here in the Greenbriar.

Mrs. Alexander R. Girardi of Somerville, community improvement program chairman for the federation, announced that the workshop will be a training session which will focus on the processes to be used in seeking solutions to community problems. This meeting would be the first step in a statewide program designed to initiate volunteer efforts by the clubwomen in cooperation with other community groups, public officials and private citizens.

The Community Improvement Program is co-sponsored nationally by the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the 10 million-member organization, and the Sears Roebuck Company. Mrs. Donald T. Bixby of Lawrenceville, president of the New Jersey State Federation, reported that more than 15,000 individual clubs competed in the national contest during the previous two-year period.

New Jersey clubs entered projects dealing with the establishment of parks, clean-up campaigns, recycling depots, childrens' shelters, drug rehabilitation and prevention programs, environmental coalitions, municipal surveys, historical societies and day care centers. The Junior Woman's League of Mount Holly, winner of the $10,000 national award, was responsible for the establishment of a community center now used by 2500 people monthly.

After the luncheon Federation members will view the New Jersey premiere of a film entitled "CIP — The Continuing Challenge." The film, produced especially for the CIP program.

The girls are being housed at Jamesburg Training School until their facilities at Allaire are rebuilt due to a fire they suffered during the summer. The girls also are in immediate need of winter coats. Mrs. Leon Stab, youth chairman, is in charge of the project for the club.

Your Horoscope, Birthday

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 13 — Born today, you are a somewhat impractical person who is more inclined to act according to the dictates of emotion than of reason. One who needs extremely close relationships with other people — and many of them — you cannot abide being left to your own devices for long periods. You need to know that others are near, that though they may not themselves be dependent upon you, they in no way resent or discourage your dependence upon them. Secure in your knowledge of being loved, you can accomplish almost anything.

A nervous temperament may prove an annoyance during times when calm would seem the best atmosphere to cultivate, but you can overcome that temperament in time if you will remember to think twice before you decide on any issue — and a third time before you act upon that decision. Such thoughtfulness may result in what appears to others to be fickleness, but so long as it prevents you from making preventable errors, it matters little what others think.

Inclined to take chances in matters of financial importance — not because it is your nature to gamble but because you generally are not as well-versed in the ins and outs of the financial game as you might be — you would be wise to consult expert opinion before putting hard-earned cash on the line. Otherwise, the time may come when genuine want is not unknown to you.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your guide.

Tuesday, November 14

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — The impression you make on a stranger may make or break the new phase of the present project. Keep your adverse views to yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — Improved personal relationships with those who live neither near enough nor far enough away to simplify the matter of visits grant you some ease.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — Study all sides of the question carefully and you may discover that those you thought wrong really are smarter than is evident.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — Add to the goodwill you now enjoy from others by doing your share to clean up a mess made by another's refusal to cooperate.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21) — Take care that you don't give others the impression that you're feeling sorry for yourself. These are days to demonstrate complete independence.

ARIES (March 22-April 20) — Know what you want — and, perhaps more important today, what you don't want — and you won't let yourself be conned into activities you'll regret.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) — A social function at evening makes it necessary for you to change some of your afternoon plans. Don't try to "even the score."

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — Your loyalty in a pinch gains you the kind of credit you need in the eyes of another. Close friends may prove a disappointment in afternoon.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — Go along with whatever good ideas a co-worker may have — but refuse to be talked into something you feel instinctively would turn out badly.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — An interesting personality may bring you more joy today than any number of material advantages. Keep an open mind during afternoon.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — Keep clear of financial matters which you might find embarrassing to discuss with a friend. The wise Virgo avoids all emotionalism today.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Get to work on something constructive and the time which you are dreading will pass quickly. Children lend a special air to afternoon hours.

Sheinwold's Bridge Advice

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

There's no absolute virtue in being thorough in everything you do. In fact, it pays to leave some jobs half-done. For example, when you're drawing the enemy's trumps, it may be very tidy to draw all of them, but it may be far more profitable to stop while there is still one trump out. Today's hand proves the point.

West opened the queen of spades, and declarer won at once with dummy's ace. He next drew just two rounds of trumps, with the ace and king.

This left one trump out, as South well knew, but he wisely abandoned trumps. He switched to clubs, leading out the three top cards in that suit.

This seemed dangerous, but it was actually South's safest line of play. If the player with the last trump could ruff a high club, it would mean that the clubs were not going to break 3-3. In that case, South could avoid the ruff by drawing all of the trumps, but then he would have a losing club in his hand and would surely lose a club and three diamonds.

May Divide Evenly

If the clubs were 3-3, nobody would ruff a high club. The contract would then be unbeatable no matter how South played it.

If the clubs were 4-2 or worse, South could make the contract provided that the opponent with long clubs also had the last trump. This possibility was the extra chance.

As it happened, West had to follow to all of the clubs. East showed out on the third club, but had no trumps. South could then lead his last club and ruff in dummy. This assured the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1-NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S-Q J 10 H-9 7 6 D-K J 2 C-J 9 8 4. What do you say?

Answer: Bid 2-NT. Since you have 8 points, you know that the combined count is 24 to 26 points. Partner will decline your invitation with a bare 16 points, but will accept with 17 or 18 and should have a reasonable play for game.

GIANT JUGGLER — New York Giants tight end Bob Tucker has the ball slide off his fingertips as he tries for a catch at the three-yard line during yesterday's game in Washington. Defending is Redskin Brig Owens (23).

Skins Refute Garrett Guarantee-butBarely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jim Garrett of Monmouth Beach, N. J. is a poor prophet, but just barely.

Garrett, a New York Giants assistant coach "guaranteed" his team would not allow Larry Brown to rush for 100 yards in yesterday's National Football League game with the Washington Redskins. Two weeks ago, Brown, the league's top runner, gained 191 yards on the ground aginst the Giants.

Brown finally cracked the 100-yard mark with just 1:03 remaining in yesterday's game as his five-yard spurt into the end zone broke a tie and gave the Redskins a 20-13 lead. The run also gave Brown 101 yards rushing for the day.

Moments later, the Redskins had the ball again on an interception. Brown's plunge into the line gave him 102 yards total. On the next play, he went four more yards and added his second TD of the day.

The former Kansas State blocking back upped his season's rushing total to 995 yards, but somebody on the Redskins' bench apparently was a little off on his arithmetic.

"Somebody said that Larry needed only one yard to go over 1,000 yards for the season," said Washington Head Coach George Allen in explaining why Brown carried twice straight for the final score.

"My only thought was to give Larry an opportunity to crack the mark," Allen said.

Giants 'Bug' Him

Brown said the Giants were talking during the game, saying he wasn't going to reach the 100-yard rushing mark for the sixth time this season.

"I didn't let that bother me," he said. "I don't pay attention to them when they're talking like that."

The uphill victory raised Washington's record to 8-1 as the Skins retained their National Conference Eastern Division lead of the Dallas Cowboys. The Giants are now 5-4.

New York opened the scoring when Ron Johnson blasted over from the one to cap a 52-yard drive.

Washington matched the six-pointer when quarterback Billy Kilmer connected with tight end Jerry Smith on a 18-yard pass play. But Curt Knight's point after attempt was blocked and the Giants led 7-6 at intermission.

On the second-half kickoff, New York's Rocky Thomson handed off to Eldridge Small on a reverse, and the rookie defensive back streaked down the left side 77 yards to the Washington 13.

Johnson pounded to a first down at the three with three straight carries. But two more rushes moved the ball no closer than the two, a pass failed and the Giants had to settle for a 12-yard Pete Gogolak field goal.

Again Washington came back, marching 78 yards in 15 plays with Charley Harraway knifing into the end-zone from the one.

Knight's kick gave Washington a 13-10 advantage.

Gogolak's 23-yard field goal with 3:51 left in the game knotted the score before Kilmer and Brown slammed into high gear.

GET OFF MY BACK — Washington Redskins running back Larry Brown sheds tacklers as he picks up 20 yards yesterday against the Giants. Giant defenders Pete Athas (rear) and Carl Lockhart finally brought their man down.

Simpson's Fumble Sets Tone for Jets' Runaway

NEW YORK (AP) — "On the first play of the game," said Buffalo's O.J. Simpson, "my fumble set the tone." It gave the New York Jets the ball and a quick 7-0 lead.

"And a series of things happened to us in the second quarter and, after that, it was 'three plays and sit down.' "

What happened in the second quarter was that the Jets, taking advantage of a rash of mistakes by the Bills, picked up a pair of touchdowns by Emerson Boozer to roll to a 24-3 halftime lead.

The second half was just for the record and when it was over the Jets had a 41-3 National Football League victory that kept alive their hopes for the American Conference "wild card" playoff berth. New York is 6-3.

"We're still sitting in a good position," said quarterback Joe Namath. "We've got to play our tails off and hope nobody else does as well as we do."

Buffalo's Dennis Shaw, meanwhile, had to run for his life most of the day and had no time to set up the Bills' passing attack.

"We don't have an offensive line," Coach Lou Saban said. "I can't tell how good Dennis is until he operates with a decent one."

And Shaw added: "We had a pretty good running game but things are going very bad now. All this losing is getting to my mind." The Bills are 2-7.

Buffalo fumbles, penalties and errant passes gave New York more power than the Jets' own offense did. Simpson's fumble on the Bills' very first play set the stage for John Riggins' one-yard touchdown run.

Buffalo got three points back on John Leypoldt's field goal, then the roof collapsed for the Bills in the second quarter.

Farasopoulos Returns

A 34-yard punt return by Chris Farasopoulos to the Buffalo 24 set up Boozer's one-man touchdown drive. He carried five times for 16 yards, including a one-yard scoring plunge.

Moments later, Spike Jones' 10-yard punt gave the Jets the ball back on Buffalo's 16. And soon after, Joe Namath lofted a four-yard touchdown pass to a wide-open Boozer.

One play later, Farasopoulos intercepted a Dennis Shaw pass, setting up Bobby Howfield's 26-yard field goal.

The Jets' next touchdown came in the opening minutes of the second half. Roy Kirksey recovered Howfield's onside kick off the chest of the Bills' Jan White, Namath hit Don Maynard for 18 yards, then found Richard Caster in a crowd of Buffalo defenders for a 26-yard scoring pass.

Howfield kicked a 25-yard field goal in the final quarter, then Steve Tannen's interception set up reserve quarterback Bob Davis' nine-yard touchdown strike to Jerome Barkum.

Kissinger Thrilled

Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger was "just another thrilled football fan" as he mingled with the New York Jets after the game.

"That Joe Namath is a nice fellow," said Kissinger, who was the guest of Jets' Phil Iselin, an old friend. "They were all so friendly after having been so tough on the field minutes earlier."

He posed for photographs with Namath, linebacker Larry Grantham and Jets' Coach Weeb Ewbank.

Rookie Vickers' 'Hat Trick' Keeps Ranger Streak Intact

By The Associated Press

Rookie Steve Vickers scored three goals last night, pacing the New York Rangers to a 5-1 National Hockey League victory over the Los Angeles Kings.

The triumph extended New York's home ice unbeaten streak to nine games.

Other NHL results last night went this way:

Dennis Hull scored his 10th and 11th goals of the season to pace the Chicago Black Hawks to a 5-1 victory over the Detroit Red Wings.

The Montreal Canadiens, backed by Ken Dryden's goaltending, built a 4-1 lead and held on for a 5-3 victory over the Boston Bruins.

The Philadelphia Flyers, with Bobby Clarke scoring two goals and adding two assists, blasted the California Seals 8-3, to take over first place in the Western Division.

Keith McCreary ignited a three-goal second period Atlanta explosion, leading the Flames to a 3-1 win over the Vancouver Canucks.

And Steve Atkinson's third period goal gave the Buffalo Sabres a 1-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Penguins.

Ted Irvine, filling in on the Rangers' top line for injured Vic Hadfield, opened the scoring with the game less than one minute old. He steered passes from Brad Park and Jean Ratelle past goalie Gary Edwards at 0:52 of the first period.

Ranger goalie Ed Giacomin made that 1-0 lead stand up with a series of spectacular saves in the second period before Vickers scored his first of the night at 15:22.

Vickers made it 3-0 at eight minutes into the third period, converting a perfect pass from center Walt Tkazcuk.

After Mike Corrigan connected for the Kings early in the third period, Gene Carr countered for the Rangers, then Vickers completed his hat trick with his seventh goal of the season with just 24 seconds left to play.

Chicago goalie Gary Smith lost his bid for a shutout over Detroit in the opening minute of the final period when Alex Delvecchio scored a power play goal with Chicago's John Marks in the penalty box.

Stan Mikita opened the Hawk attack at 2:04 of the first period by converting on a pass from behind the net by Chico Maki. At 9:07, Lou Angotti scored what proved to be the winning goal while the Black Hawks were shorthanded.

Patriots Feel Brunt Of Dolphins' Quest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Undefeated Miami massacred the New England Patriots in pro football's answer to the Little Big Horn while Green Bay and Oakland popped ahead yesterday in National Football League division races.

Bidding to become the first unbeaten-all-the-way team since the 1942 Chicago Bears, the Dolphins took a 52-0 laugher, making it easy for Coach Don Shula to win his 100th game in 10 seasons.

Green Bay broke a National Conference Central Division tie with Detroit by whipping Chicago 23-17 while the Lions were edged 16-14 by the surging Minnesota Vikings.

Raiders In Lead

Oakland recaptured the American Conference West lead by downing Cincinnati 20-14 while Kansas City was losing to the rampaging Pittsburgh Steelers 16-7.

The Chiefs trail Oakland by a half game.

Tom Dempsey, Philadelphia's club-footed placekicker, was the entire Eagle offense with six field goals in an 18-17 victory over the Houston Oilers.

The Dallas Cowboys stayed close to Washington by belting St. Louis 33-24.

Pittsburgh, which was deadlocked for No. 1 in the AFC Central just two weeks ago, stacked up a two-game bulge by beating the Chiefs while Cincinnati was bowing to Oakland.

The NFC West, with another of the hot NFL chase, got tighter when Los Angeles was upset by Denver 16-10. Atlanta ripped New Orleans 36-20 to pull within a half game and San Francisco got within one game by outlasting Baltimore 24-21.

Coming up tonight in the ABC-TV offering is the Chargers against the Cleveland Browns at San Diego at 9 p.m., EST.

Minnesota was capturing its third straight to put the NFL Central into the expected scramble. The Packers have a one-game lead on both the Vikings and Detroit.

Miami Rolls

The Dolphins' game was, for all intents and purposes, over by the end of the first quarter, after Mercury Morris had scored two of his three touchdowns. Martin Briscoe also scored twice, on passes of 16 yards from Earl Morrall and 51 yards from reserve quarterback Jim Del Gaizo, who later fired a 39-yard touchdown pass to Jim Mandich. Larry Csonka's three-yard burst accounted for Miami's other touchdown. The Dolphins, meanwhile, limited the Patriots to 92 yards rushing and 77 passing.

A pair of first-quarter touchdowns — John Brockington's 12-yard run and Scott Hunter's one-yard sneak set up by Ike Thomas' 89-yard kickoff return — started the Packers on the way past the Bears. Chester Marcol added three field goals for Green Bay.

Fred Cox' fourth-quarter field goals from 18 and 24 yards out gave the Vikings the lead and they held it for the victory as Minnesota defenders stormed in on the final play of the game to block Errol Mann's 32-yard attempt for the Lions.

Charlie Smith, enjoying the best day of his five-year career, ran for 146 yards and a touchdown to lead the Raiders past Cincinnati.

Baker Captures Texas Thriller

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Buddy Baker won the race and Richard Petty captured an unprecedented fourth stock car driving title in a thrilling showdown 500-mile race yesterday at Texas World Speedway.

Baker, a 6-foot-4 giant from Charlotte, N.C., shoved the nose of his Dodge in front of old pro A.J. Foyt at the finish line to win his fifth major race of an in-and-out career. Petty trailed the two front runners across by about four car lengths.

Bobby Allison, the leading money winner from Hueytown, Ala., the only driver with a chance of denying Petty the season's championships, encountered handling problems with his Chevrolet early in the race but managed to finish fourth, two miles back.

For Baker, whose only other victory this season was the World 600 at Charlotte, it was salve for old wounds. He was heading for almost certain victory in the first race at Texas World in 1969 when he ran into the rear of another car on the front straight.

THE LONE RANGER — Who is that masked man? It's New York Ranger Goalie Ed Giacomin (1) blocking a shot by Los Angeles Vic Venasky (10) last night at Madison Square Garden. Ranger Brad Park (2) is at Venasky's left. The Rangers won, 5-1, extending their unbeaten streak to nine.

China Garners WCG Tourney

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Hsieh Min-nan won the individual title and led the Republic of China to the team championship yesterday in the World Cup Golf Tournament, while the defending champion United States team finished in a disappointing tie for fourth place, seven strokes back.

Hsieh, despite soaring to a final round 78, took the individual crown with a 54-hole total of 217 and combined with countryman Lu Liang Huan for a 438 total, two strokes ahead of runner-up Japan.

South Africa was third at 444, one shot in front of the United States and Australia.

Jim Jamieson of Moline, Ill., carded a final round 76, five over par, on the wind-whipped Royal Melbourne course while his teammate, Tom Weiskopf of Columbus, Ohio, had a 77. Jamieson finished with a 222 total and a seventh-place tie. Weiskopf had a final 223 total.

Takaaki Kono of Japan was second at 219 after a closing 76. Tienie Britz of South Africa finished third at 220.

Among the more renowned international golfers, Bruce Crampton of Australia shot a closing 78 for 221, Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina had a 79 for 223, Gary Player of South Africa took a 76 for 224, and Tony Jacklin of England fired a 72 for 226.

Weiskopf called the tourney "a good experience," but added, "all I want to do now is get home.

"I thought we still had a chance until the 17th. Then I crashed with a double bogey seven and it was all over so far as we were concerned."

"We could hardly stand out there against the wind," said Jamieson. "It was impossible to score well."

The Chinese clinched the victory at the 575-yard 17th hole with a pair of birdies. First, "Mr. Lu" rolled in a 35-footer, then Hsieh sank a 10-footer.

Red Raider 'Handful' Holds Down Fort

By RICHARD NICOLETTI

KEYPORT — They talk about the Alamo and how a handful of Texans, up against overwhelming odds, held the fort until the bitter end. When the smoke and gunfire had cleared, that handful of men strolled into the ranks of the immortal.

On Saturday, General George Conti Jr. tooks his handful of Keyport Red Raiders and hurled them in the direction of the title-minded Blue Devils of Shore Regional.

Scene Returns

And once again, the scene returned to the Alamo, but this time the overwhelmed . . .overpowered.

Keyport won, 6-0, on the sheer guts of 21 men that's all Conti had. The game was played in a deluge.

The victory disallowed Shore's taking sole possession of the Shore Conference "D" Division title Championship. Point Pleasant Boro, 7-0, victim of the Devils, backed into its share of the title.

The Blue Devils were looking for a fifth shutout to match the four they had notched in their last four games.

They did find the shutout, but it came in a different color — red and while.

Shore's defeat at the hands of Keyport does not mean that it has been overrated this season. The Blue Devils are as solid a club as there is around. It is just that Keyport had been underrated.

Conti's handful, led by sophomore quarterback Joe Smith, engineered the game's only score early in the second period. Smith tossed a seven-yard pass in the end zone to sophomore end Gil Burlew. The rest was defense — and both teams excelled in that department.

"I'm always worried about injuries," stated a jubilant Conti. "I just can't afford to lose anybody."

Quarterback Lost

Conti did lose his number one quarterback (Hal Ackerman) in the first game of the season, but he came back with Smith, a boy with absolutely no previous experience.

"I think we jammed them up pretty well," Conti noted.

"We threw a defense at them that they had not seen this year."

Conti's Raiders went at Shore with only two defensive halfbacks.

"We had respect for their excellent ends (Jim Delehanty and Tony Mauro), but we knew they wouldn't pass unless they had to," stated Conti.

Shore did have to pass. Quarterback Bob Woolley, who replaced Andre Spedaliere late in the game, hurled a 20-yarder to Mauro putting the Devils on the Keyport 17-yard line midway the fourth quarter.

Three more plays netted nine yards to the Raider eight, but a wall of defense halted Frank Sickler on fourth and one to end the threat.

Lead Defensive

Charlie Carter and Harold Bell, Keyport's pair of two-way backs, played a large part in Shore's inability to score. Bell recovered two fumbles — one with 40 seconds left in the game, and Carter was all over the place for the full 48 minutes of play.

Senior tackle Bob Burlew, brother of Gil, and junior guard Jim Speck made some key tackles which helped keep the Blue Devils from building large scoring threats.

Shore's final major threat came with two minutes left in the game after Keyport was lodged deep in its own territory.

The Raider punt sailed to Keyport's 27 where Shore's Woolley opened his final thrust.

Woolley banged out a 14-yard gain around end on the first play, but the Raiders tightened on the next two and a 15-yard holding penalty tossed Shore back to its own 19.

Threat Dies

The threat disintergrated when two Woolley passes missed their marks.

Statistically, the game was even. Shore had one more first down (11), had a 12-yard passing edge (56) but fell short on the ground by three (Keyport had 118).

The game meant more than gainin a title all alone for Shore. The Blue Devils were orking on their best season yet (8-1), but can only finish at 7-2 now.

Keyport has hopes of completing its season at 6-2 when it meets hapless Holmdel on Thanksgiving Day.

The upset marked the second major reversal in the rain this season. Ocean Township was knocked offf by lackluster Central Regional three weeks ago on a muddy field.

The Spartans haven't won since.

Monmouth Fulfills Goal Of Coach's Prophecy

By CHUCK TRIBLEHORN
Register Sports Editor

NEW SHREWSBURY — Even before the football took its first funny bounce of the season, an optimistic Monmouth Regional coach Joe Provenzano believed his Golden Falcons would be able to play ball with anybody in the Shore Conference "B" Division this year.

Eight games later, including Saturday's 22-20 rain-dampened thriller over Ocean Township, Monmouth has proved it not only can play ball with anybody, but that it can beat just about anybody. The Falcons' only loss has come to "B" champion Manasquan, the undefeated number one team in Monmouth County.

That's a negative statistic, but Saturday's success was loaded with positives:

1. The conquest of Ocean was the first ever in the series between the schools.

2. Monmouth's 7-1 record is the best in the school's football history.

3. The victory nailed down second place in the "B" Division.

Ocean's Nightmare

For Ocean, the setback was just another in a series of developments which have turned what appeared to be a banner season into a nightmare. The Spartans breezed through their first five games without a defeat or giving up a point.

Coach Jack Tighe's club now has a three-game losing streak. Heading into its non-conference Thanksgiving Day finale against Middletown Township.

"Our defense came up with the big play," said a hoarse Provenzano after Saturday's game. "It was one of the best football games I've seen and felt our kids played well and were ready for them."

The biggest of the big plays came late in the first half with the score tied at 14 as the result of some heetic football during the early going.

Safety Decisive

A Monmouth drive had been halted by a fumble recovery by Ocean's Larry Williamson at the Spartan 21. Two plays and as many five-yard penalties later, Golden Falcon linebacker Butch Brown broke through to block a Dave Taylor punt which flew out of the end zone for an automative safety and a lead Monmouth never relinquished.

The Falcons then took the free kick and gained possession at their own 48 as time ticked away. Quarterback Jack Napier quickly connected with passes of 20 and 12 yards to ends Gene Ruffin and Ken Eddlemann, respectively, and on the final play of the half hurled a 20-yard touchdown aerial to halfback Greg deRouen, who made a leaping grab to take the ball away from an Ocean defender.

Norman was stopped on his two-point conversion try, but Monmouth went into the locker room with a 22-14 advantage and, as it turned out, all the points it needed.

Those three passes were the only completions in eight attempts for Napier. Monmouth stayed on the ground most of the way and netted 204 yards rushing, principally on a 122-yard (22 carries) performance by senior co-captain Carl Norman, back in action after missing almost two games with a knee injury.

On the other hand, Ocean held to a net 25 ground yards — all in the first half — by the determined Falcon defense, directed Taylor to take to the air. The senior quarterback threw 26 times and hit on 10 for 199 yards. However, he was intercepted three times and thrown for losses attempting to pass four times for 30 yards.

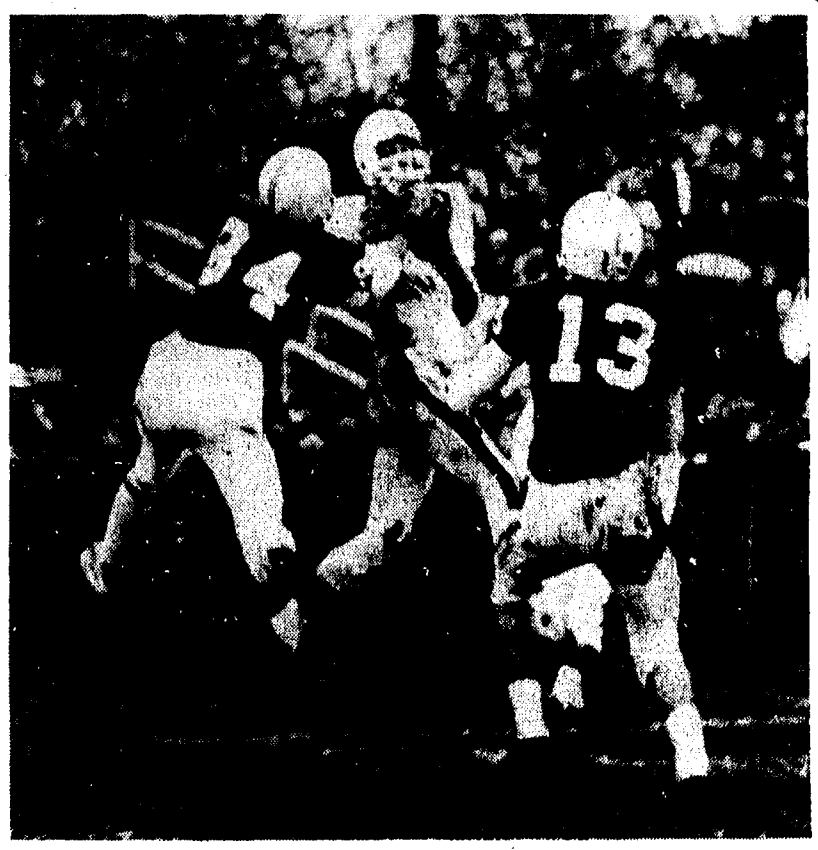

"With all of their injuries, we felt they were going to have to throw the ball against us," said Provenzano. "We tried to prepare for it and told them to watch out of the bomb."

The bomb came early — and the Monmouth defense watched. On the first play from scrimmage Taylor uncorked to end Jim Falco who caught the ball on the run at the 20 and raced untouched down the left sideline for a touchdown to complete a 63-yard play.

A Taylor-to-end Dennis Vincent conversion pass made it 8-0, but Monmouth came back to tie the game later in the period on an 11-play, 73-yard march capped by a one-yard plunge by Norman, who carried six times for 36 yards along the way Norman also bolted for the tying points.

On its next series, Ocean roared ahead again on a 12-yard pass from Taylor to Falco. The Spartans' march covered 67 yards in only five plays, as Taylor also connected with passes of seven and nine yards to Vincent and a big 35-yarder to Karl Bauer.

Another pass for the conversion failed, but the momentum swung back to Ocean . . until later in the second quarter a fourth down snap from center sailed over punter Taylor's head. Taylor gained control around his own goal ine and managed to get off a running punt with several Falcons in pursuit. The ball, however, traveled only to the Ocean 10. Three plays later Ken Henderson tied the knot at 14, but deRouen's two-point attempt failed to unknot it.

Harriers Shine In Sectional

NEW BRUNSWICK — Middletown Township and Rumson-Fair Haven Regional's Russ Jones raised the Monmouth County crosscountry banner high here Saturday by emerging victorious in the N.J State Interscholastic Athletic Association's Central Jersey Sectional Meet.

Middletown, with Pete Manning (12:41) and Gary Mitchell (13:42) finishing third and fourth, respectively, captured the Group IV championship, while Jones (12:42) was the individual winner as Rumson-Fair Haven finished third in Group II.

Middletown and Rumson join five other Monmouth County teams who qualified for next Saturday's state finals at Warinanco Park in Elizabeth.

Rockets Third

Raritan, the Group III champion a year ago, wound up in a tie for third in Group IV, Matawan Regional and Monmouth Regional finished second and third, respectively, in Group III, and Freehold Township, third, and Keyport, tied for fifth, qualified in Group I.

Four other county harriers, representing teams which failed to qualify, made the finals on their individual performances. Neptune's Steve McDuffie was seventh (12:58) in Group IV, while Long Branch's Rich Crump was second (12:57) among Group III entrants. Also in group III, Manasquan's Jim Clayton (13:10) and Howell's Dave Geer (13:13) qualified.

Monmouth Regional was paced by Charles Sumrell's fourth place finish of 13:04, and Matawan's Dennis Mabbitt was sixth in 13:09.

Raritan's fine showing was led by a second place finish by Mel Ullmeyer (12:36) and a ninth by John McKenna (13:10).

The Buccleuch Park course measured 2.5 miles.

Meanwhile at Warinanco Park Saturday, Red Bank Catholic, with Jim Keiser finishing 11th, wound up fourth in the N.J Catholic Track Conference Championships.

The finish was the best for the Caseys in a decade, and they had to beat out Christian Brothers Academy, fifth, and St. John Vianney, eighth, to do it.

CBA received a second place finish from Bill Huntley, who trailed winner Chris Inman (12:20) of Essex Catholic by a scant 15 yards CBA's Dennis Fay was fifth and St John's Greg Gibbs eighth

Largey Field Goal Saves Caseys

NEW BRUNSWICK — Sophomore Bob Largey's 22-yard field goal turned apparent disaster into a victory for Red Bank Catholic, 10-8, over St. Peter's here yesterday.

The visiting Caseys went into the contest as heavy favorites on the strength of their 4-3 record. St. Peter's, soundly drubbed only five days earlier by Mater Dei, victims of RBC, was 0-6-1.

Largey, the only Monmouth County schoolboy to kick a field goal this fall, booted his second three-pointer when the Caseys were faced with a fourth down after driving 67-yards in 12 plays, all on the ground.

Jay Sciortino picked up 28 yards in four carries and quarterback Rusty Olivadotti netted 23 more on a pair of lugs, one of whch owas the big play of the drive.

Faced with a third down and four to go at the St. Peter's 41, Olivadotti dropped back to pass, but finding his receivers covered, broke loose and scampered 16 yeards to a first down at the Cardinal 25.

An offside penalty moved the ball five yards more and Sciortino ran for four to the 16. After an incomplete pass, Olivadotti advanced to the nine on a keeper, and Scoritino picked up four yards in two carries.

A third down Olivadotta pass from the 5 felt incomplete when John Schaefer couldn't find the handle in the end zone. That set up Largey's winning field gal.

Largey's other three-pointer, a 23-yarder, came in a 16-0 victory over St. John Vianney and represented the first for Red Bank Catholic since the school resumed football in 1945.

The first half was scoreless, but Red Bank Catholic broke the famine in the third period. The touchdown came on Bob English's 18-yard run one play after Ed Sutphin recovered an Ed Hussey fumble at the 21.

English ran for three yards and then took off on his TD jaunt.

Largey booted the extra point for a 7-0 RBC lead that was short-lived.

The Petreans came back to march 60 yards in 19 plays, but the drive was helped by a roughing the kicker penalty against the Caseys.

The drive was apparently stopped early — three plays and a punting situation. St. Peter's got the boot off, and it was returned 70 yards by Sciortino, only to have the run nullified by the penalty flag.

Given new life, the Cards, drove for the score on a two-yard run by Dick Farrell, who has 28 yards during the march.

A pass from Rich Padavano to Landis Speight for the two-point conversion gave St Peter's an 8-7 lead which stood until Largey pulled his late heroics.

FALCON IN FLIGHT — Carl Norman, who gained 122 yards in 22 carries for Monmouth Regional Saturday, picks up a substantial gain in the 22-20 victory over Ocean Township.

Seraphs Headed Off at Pass

MADISON — Mater Dei, always finds the going tough when it travels to Bayley-Ellard, didn't reverse the situation here yesterday.

The Seraphs, stopped cold by a hard-nosed defense, fell, 22-6.

Mater Dei, which has hurt its share of teams with the pass, was riddled by the combination of quarterback Frank Dolan, and Joe Milde The pair hooked up for the insurance touchdown in the fourth quarter Dolan hit Milde for 22 yards and John Gibbons kicked the extra point producing the final score.

The Bishops scored first after a Mater Dei fumble of a fair catch put the ball on the Bayley-Ellard 45-yard line.

It took the winners 15 plays before Jim Turner ran over from four yards out

Mike Feehan led the Bishop march He picked up a needed half yard to the Mater Dei 10-yard line on fourth down

Mater Dei came right back with a 60-yard march of its own

Tom Kelleher, who has missed a great deal of the season due to injuries, led the attack. He gained 28 yards in four carries and then rolled in from the nine with a minute left in the first quarter.

A pass for the two points fell short

Bayley-Ellard went in front for good in the second quarter. The winners took the ball at midfield and Feehan led the charge to the end zone

Dolan went to the air on one play to Steve Sebelle for 27 yards to the Seraph seven, and then hit Sebelle again for the TD.

Milde caught the two-point conversion for a 15-6 halftime lead.

Chris Ryan, Seraphs quarterback Mike Corley's favorite target, was well covered throughout the contest. Ryan did give the Mater Dei fans something to cheer about when he caught a 33-yard pass from Corley in the scoreless third period.

The Seraphs, trying to make a comeback late in the fourth quarter, had to deal with a tough prevent defense set up by the Bishops.

Bayley-Ellard rambled for a total of 281 yards — 205 of which were on the ground Feehan ran 38 times and collected 147 yards.

Ball control was the name of the game, and Bayley-Ellard held the pigskin for 81 plays to Mater Dei's 45.

Terry Philpott, Devaney, Mike Kassinger and Rich Martin were standouts on defense for the Seraphs.

Both teams left the field with 5-3 records

Cards Close Slate, 0-7

TOMS RIVER — Vinnie Thompson deserves a better fate than an 0-7 football season at Croydon Hall Academy, but that's exactly what the fleet-footed fullback got

The Cardinals saw their last chance to crack the win column on Saturday when quarterback Farragut pulled off a devastating 68-20 victory.

The win was the Middies' second in seven contests. It was the final game for both teams.

Thompson, who has been the bright spot in the otherwise bleak season, rolled up 190 yards on the ground to up his season total to nearly 1,000.

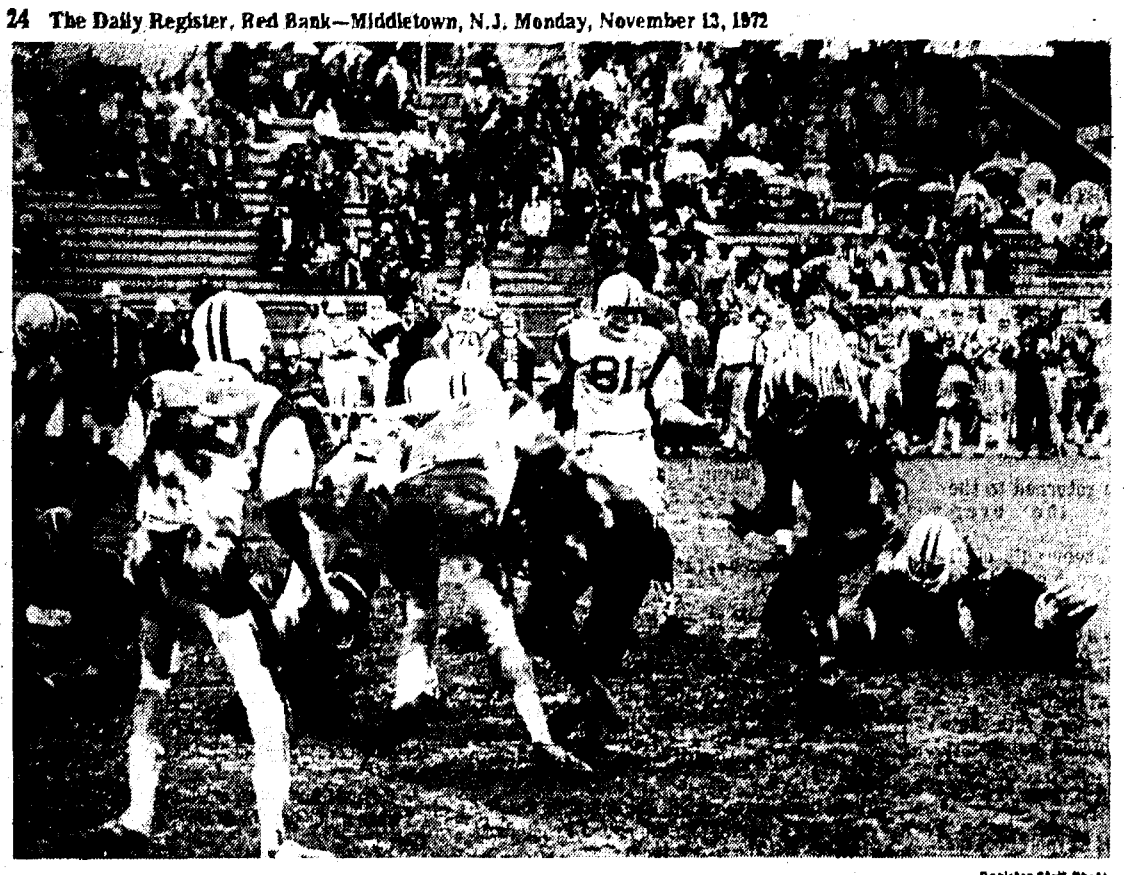

He added two touchdowns, brining his total to seven. He has 46 points this season.

Thompson grabbed a fumble and scampered 65 yards for one TD, and legged out a 70-yard run for another

Henry Monserratt produced the Cardinals' other score when he rolled 95 yards with a punt He also added a two-point conversion

RAINY DAY BLUES — Umbrellas and fumbles highlighted Saturday's 28-8 Rumson-Fair Haven Regional victory over Howell. Members of both teams and a dampened crowd watch as the pigskin gets loose in the Rebel backfield. Identifiable players are Purple Bulldogs' Mike Olshan (23), left foreground, and Rich Conley (81), background.

McManus Engineers Win For Injured Bulldog Finn

RUMSON — Senior Ed McManus, shouldering the burden created by the loss of classmate and captain Jim Finn, paced Rumson-Fair Haven Regional to a 28-8 victory over Howell in the Purple Bulldogs' Shore Conference "B" Division finale here Saturday.

McManus, a 6-0, 180-pounder, rushed for 78 yards, two touchdowns and a pair of conversions as the Bulldogs, 3-5 overall this fall, concluded their first season back in the conference tied for fourth place with a 3-4 record.

Hapless Howell absorbed its seventh victory in eight outings this fall. The Rebels, winless in seven "B" encounters, hook up with Jackson Township (0-8), also without a conference victory, on Thanksgiving Day.

Rumson's Turkey Day opponent, as usual, will be Red Bank Catholic here.

Finn, the Bulldogs' leading ground-gainer, broke his leg a week ago against Highland Park and was presented the game ball Saturday.

The crowd scarcely had time to wipe off the rain from their seats when halfback Mike Riley returned the opening kickoff 86 yards for a touchdown, and three minutes later quarterback Kevin Callinan scored on a one-yard sneak to cap a modest five-play, 18-yard assault. Mike Olshan put the Bulldogs in business when he recovered a Howell punt blocked by teammate Geoff Kieburtz.

Howell's lone touchdown came before the first period had ended. It came on a 44-yard pass from Ed McCarthy to Bob Ayers shortly after the ball changed hands several times on fumbles. A pass to Ray Fisher from McCarthy made it 16-8 heading into the second quarter.

McManus' first touchdown en route to his 16-point afternoon, came early in the second stanza on a five-yard burst into the end zone to climax a five-play, 64-yard parade highlighted by McManus' 17-yard run and 40-yard pass reception from Callinan.

His final TD came in the fourth period on a two-yard lug.

The Rumson defense, though spotty at times, limited the invaders to a net 15 yards rushing and only 62 passing.

Rockets Reach Peak In Best Performance

EDISON TOWNSHIP — Raritan High School's defense played its best game of the season here Saturday to pace a 22-0 Rocket victory over Edison Township.

The Rockets, slight underdogs, bunched all their scoring in the second and third quarters to up their record to 2-6 on the season.

Edison was held to under 100 yards in total offense and now has a record of 2-4-2.

Poor punts kept Raritan under pressure in the first period, but the defense stopped Eagle thrusts inside the 20 twice.

The Rockets then drove 74 yards for their first touchdown in the second period. The scoring play came near the end of the half and was a 16-yard pass from Steve Nicholl to Matt Thomson. Nicholl bootlegged around left end to make the score 8-0.

Mark Limongello, one of the standouts in the Rocket line, recovered a fumbled punt at the Eagle 34 to launch the first third period scoring thrust.

Fullback Mark Polansky and Thomson gained all the yardage needed with Polansky smashing over from the 3 on his sixth carry of the drive. Nicholl again kept for the two-pointer.

Less than two minutes late, Jack LaFalce, who had another big game, blocked a punt, and Tom Smith ran 15 yards for the touchdown with the loose ball. The two-pointer was stopped.

Raritan outgained the Eagles on the ground, 168-76, and led in first downs 10-5. However, the Rockets were penalized 10 times for 90 yards.

Raritan closes out its season on Thanksgiving Day at Matawan Regional.

Fliers Sail Over Wave

NEPTUNE — It has been one of those years for Long Branch High School, which is accustomed to winning.

It also has been one of those years for Neptune, which had become accustomed to losing.

Therefore, it wasn't surprising that the host Scarlet Fliers defeated the Green Wave, 12-6, in their Shore Conference "A" Division meeting here Saturday.

The setback was the sixth against only two victories for Long Branch, and fifth in seven "A" outings. Neptune, meanwhile, continues to show life after winning only one game in two previous seasons. The Fliers, under new coach Lou Kirschner, are 3-5 overall and 3-4 in "A" play.

Neptune scored both of its touchdowns in the second period and then held off the Branchers the rest of the way.

The Fliers took command after a first period dominated by the Wave when they paraded 76 yards in 14 plays to open the scoring. Halfback Kirby Scott bolted into the end zone for the six points before quarterback Terry Hamm's two-point-after pass attempt failed.

Hamm didn't fail later in the second period when he spotted Bill Bahr open, and the two connected on a 22-yard pass for another Flier touchdown.

Keansburg's Finest Season Assured With Easy Win

HOLMDEL — Keansburg's 50-0 victory over Holmdel Saturday assured it of its best season since the school opened.

The win was the third for the Titans. They have lost four and tied one.

Halfback Jeff Schulte, who has been injured during the better part of this season, has returned with a vengance. The hard-nosed junior, who scored four touchdowns last weekend against Allentown, added three more against winless Holmdel. He scored on runs of three and four yards and then took a pass for a 61-yard touchdown from quarterback Bob Creighton late in the game.

While Schulte was having his own personal picnic with the Hornet defense, junior flanker John Donnelly was busy returning punts for long yardage.

The Titans used two quarterbacks in the game. Bob Sullivan was the other signal caller who teamed with Creighton to roll up nearly 200 yards in the air.

While the wet football didn't deter the Titan attack, it did hamper the Hornets. The Titans turned two Holmdel errors. Sullivan threw to Joe Memmolo for one and Schulte ran the other.

Donnelly was also on the scoring end of a 28-yard pass from Sullivan at the close of the first half. The TD gave the Titans a 28-0, insurmountable lead.

One of Donnelly's punt-return ventures netted Keansburg six points. Donnelly ran the ball 65 yards to the end zone late in the first period.

Keansburg's scoring machine was well oiled by a sturdy defense. The Holmdel attack never got off the ground. The Hornets were held to a yard in the air and 120 yards on the ground, and never breeched the Titan 30-yard line.

Holmdel, feeling the full brunt of its initiation into the Shore Conference "D" Division, drops to 0-7-1.

Lancers Build Tradition

HOLMDEL — One of the roles of any new high school football team is to establish tradition, including giving succeeding teams something to shoot for.

The 1972 St. John Vianney eleven — the second in the young school's history and the first to include a senior class — is giving future Lancer squads a yeoman task.

Coach Ray Geneske's ever-improving club swarmed over Green Brook, 32-8, for its seventh victory against only one setback. A climaxing victory over Manalapan on Thanksgiving Day would complete an 8-1 season and establish a winning tradition that will be difficult to improve upon. In fact, only perfection will do it.

St. John received another sterling performance from halfback Berney DiBenedetto, who scored two touchdowns and a two-point conversion run to bring his season totals to 11 TD's and a total of 72 points, ranking him third in Monmouth County.

DiBenedetto didn't wear the hero's mantle alone, however. Quarterback Mike Kiley passed for two touchdowns and scored one himself; halfback Jim Lenahan contributed heavily to the Lancers' 113-yard ground attack, and the defense limited Green Brook to just 25 yards rushing and 97 passing.

The Johnnies led at the end of every period, but didn't sew up the verdict until the final quarter when they put 18 points on the scoreboard.

DiBenedetto's first touchdown, a four-yard run to cap a 67-yard drive in the opening period, gave his team a 6-0 lead, but Green Brook took an 8-6 edge when it scored in the second quarter on a 25-yard pass from quarterback Bruce Douglas to Bud Bossmann and a conversion pass from Douglas to Jim Carroll.

That was it for the visiting Bengals, as the Lancers came right back to take a 14-8 halftime lead when DiBenedetto took a screen pass from Kiley and ran 60 yards for a TD. DiBenedetto followed with his two-point run.

In the final quarter, Kiley scored from the one after the Lancers recovered a Green Brook fumble on the visitors' 23 and then passed 38 yards for a TD to end John Mairs.

St. John's tackle Augie Young took his place in the sun late in the game when he picked up a Bengal fumble and rambled 32 yards for the final TD.

Buc Gridders Regain Flicker of 1971 Glow

By JONNI FALK

RED BANK — For the first time this season, Red Bank Regional had the same team on the field for two straight weeks, and the Buccaneers responded by blanking Marlboro, 14-0, here Saturday.

The win was the second straight for last year's "B" Division champs and Rutgers Cup holders who are 2-5-1 on the year and 2-3-1 in the "C" Division. It was the first shutout — the trademark of last year's champs — for the Bucs.

Marlboro, which seemed flat, slumped to 3-5. It is 1-4 in conference play.

"We've gotten better," Buccaneer coach Bob Strangia reported after the game. "We're still making mistakes, but having the same team together for two straight weeks helped."

Strangia's thoughts then turned to the Thanksgiving Day clash with Long Branch, and he said, "We'll have to play our best game of the year to beat Long Branch. They have the best running backs and line we'll face this year. Everybody will have to give 100 per cent to beat Long Branch, starting now."

The Buccaneers went 64 yards after receiving the opening kickoff for their first eight points. The big play in the drive was a 31-yard pass play from Chris Ward to Craig Wedel.

Wedel ran a crossing pattern, beat Mustang Mike Kwiatkowski at the Marlboro 32 and ran to the 22 before Doug Alexander caught up to him.

Bobby Tamaino, the sophomore tailback who scored four times last Saturday, carried three straight times for the touchdown. The scoring play was a 16-yard sweep of right end on which he carried Alexander into the end zone.

Tamaino, who wasn't good enough for the freshman team last year and who was the fifth tailback at the beginning of this year, ran the same play for the two-point conversion.

The Bucs had plenty of opportunities after that, but didn't score again until late in the third period when Benny Roundtree broke a flanker reverse for a 43-yard TD run.

It was a picture play. Roundtree, reversing to his left, found a huge hole in the Mustang right side, vaulted Mike Kwiatkowsi and broke Alexander's shirt tackle at the 25 before finding clear sailing. Sam Peluso's conversion kick was low.

In between, the Bucs blew chances. Following the first TD, they got the ball at the 'Stang 34 after a bad kick, but a holding penalty and 20 yards in losses stifled them. Jimmy Pica then blocked Kark Kleeberg's punt, and Bill Johnston recovered at the Marlboro 13, but four plays got only to the 6.

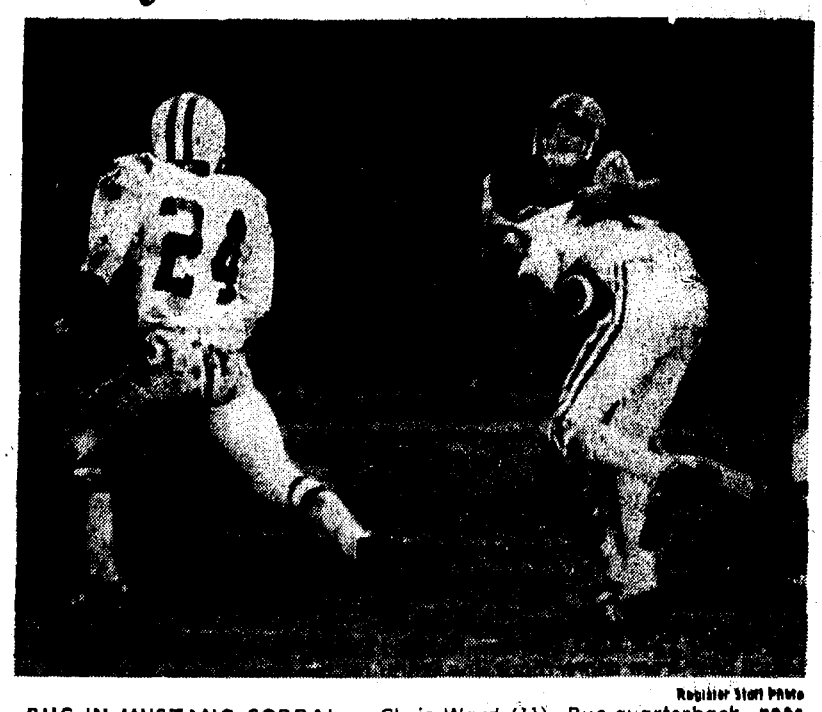

Walt Perry recovered a Pat Duffy fumble at the 8, and that's just where the Bucs stayed. They later drove to the 28 before John Usalowicz smothered Ward.

Not until the waning moments of the half did the Mustangs get out of the hole, and then the clock and a Ben Reed interception stopped them on the Buc 15 after Kevin Emmons recovered a Ward fumble.

The second half started the same way. Pica returned an interception 57 yards to the Mustang 11, and the Bucs were stopped on the 10.

Emmons recovered another fumble, and Marlboro marched to the Buc 12 for their best threat.

Strangia selected Johnston, Skip Gettis, Pica and Wedel as his defensive standouts. Wedel, who recovered a fumble and also once sacked Marlboro quarterback Dave Gorence for an 18-yard loss, played his best game since coming off the injury list.

'Squan Adds Knight Scalp

By AL TOOZE

WALL TOWNSHIP — There is always an exception to the rule.

Steve Merli, Manasquan's halfback speedster, proved to be just that on Saturday, as the undefeated Warriors beat Wall Township, 36-14.

The unwritten rule dictates that a team controls the ball and the statistics the way Wall Township did, it should win or at least come close.

The Knights ran off 75 plays to the Warriors' 39, and clicked off 17 first downs to 'Squan's four. The Warriors didn't have a first down until the fourth period.

But the exception someone didn't count on, was a team possessing a back like Merli, who may be small but does it all.

Three of his crowd-pleasing touchdown runs were all the Warriors needed to insure their victory in a game dominated by the Knights.

The first two times he touched the ball he found himself in the end zone on runs of 73 and 69 yards.

All he needed was a step on his man around the end and he was gone. He added another touchdown run of 15 yards in the second half.

He carried only 12 times, but picked up 205 of the Warriors' 275 yards. Merli has scored 116 points on the year.

A frustrated Wall coach Jim Refosco said, "We outplayed them, but mistakes hurt us."

The Knights were their own worst enemy. Included in the Knights' control of statistics were all the bad ones. They lost three interceptions and two fumbles. Two of these mistakes proved to be the turning points in the game.

After the first-period touchdown run by Merli broke the ice, the Knights came right back at the Warriors and scored on a seven-play drive of 65 yards, with Jack Curley going over from the one.

After the Knights held the Warriors on downs, they drove swiftly to the Warrior 37 all on running plays. For some reason, they went to the air, but the Warriors' Tim McCorkell picked off the Mike Hackett toss and ended the threat.

Two plays later, Merli outraced the pack, to put the Warriors in front for good at 18-6.

In the second half, the Warriors were finding the going rough. Wall was on the march and had a first down on the Big Blue 27. Hackett pitched out to George Panasuk and the ball squirted free. The alert McCorkell gobbled it up and raced 73 yards for the score, that put the game out of reach at 22-6.

"We're a young team, and inexperience did the damage," said Refusco.

The Warriors (8-0) are synonymous with ball control, grind-it-out offense and team efforts. But they let the big play do the damage.

In the fourth period, the Warriors went to the big play again for their final score on a 70-yard touchdown interception by Stu Whitman.

With a minute to play, Wall closed out the scoring on a 17-yard passs from Hackett to Panasuk. They also combined for two additional points.

Jim Dickson threw for three two extra pointers on passes to Merli, Arnie Anderson and Steve Koenig.

The Knights had many golden opportunities through the game, but couldn't capitalize.

In the first half, the Warriors fumbled on the first play of the game, but the Wall drive stalled at the Warrior 37. Time ran out as the half ended, with the Knights on the nine yard line of the Big Blue. Two drives in the second half went to the 27 and 18 of Manasquan, but fell short.

The Warrior defense gave up much yardage, but shut the door when it counted. Wall had a total of 329 total yards.

Hackett went to the air 28 times with 13 completions.

HUSTLING INDIAN — Joe McIntire (18) of Toms River reels off yardage against Matawan in the Jersey Shore Pop Warner League playoff yesterday. McIntire later scored on a 30-yard pass play. The Little Indian won, 33-0 and will play Howell Sunday for the championship.

Matawan Warnermen Fall in Playoff, 33-0

I'VE BEEN HAD — Jimmy Flynn (11) of Toms River grips his head in anguish after missing a pass in yesterday's Toms-River Matawan Pop Warner playoff. Hustling into the play for Matawan are Laverne Underwood (84) and Percy Richardson (29).

MATAWAN — In Jersey Shore Pop Warner League playoff action yesterday, Matawan dropped the Midget game, 33-0, to Toms River but picked up a win in the Pee Wee tilt, 19-13, over Ocean Township.

Doug Benson scored three touchdowns on runs of 40,60 and 35 yards to lead the Little Indians over the Falcons in the Midget tilt.

Joe McIntire scored on a 30-yard pass from Danny Mangano, Matt Baranyay booted one two-pointer, and Roy Goodheart ran for another.

Toms River will play Howell next Sunday at Toms River for the overall JSPWL championship.

The Matawan Pee Wees scored in the third period on Bill Bader's 50-yard run which won the game.

The Falcons had opened the game with John McQuarrie's 25-yard touchdown run and his conversion sweep. They added another TD in the first period when McQuarrie and Tom Deitz teamed up on a 40-yard pass play.

Steve Darcy brought Ocean back in the second period on a one-yard sneak and then passes to Ken Hitchner for the conversion.

Darcy climaxed a 48-yard Ocean drive after the second half kickoff with another one-yard sneak to tie the game. Bader then came through with his heroics.

Matawan will play St. Joseph's of Toms River at Toms River Sunday for the Pee Wee championship of the Jersey Shore.

George Kaccandes was outstanding for Ocean Township on defense. Frank Ziegler, Darryl Vanderbilt, Tim and Rich Clifton, and Bader led the defensive charge for Matawan.

Huskie Star Has Day In Whirlaway Effort

MATAWAN — It was Alan Smutko day here Saturday, but none of the Toms River North fans who ventured out on the damp day, paid any attention. The Mariners came away with their first touchdown of the year after the Huskies went to the bench, but still lost, 48-7.

Smutko rolled every which way, and when the 48 minutes were up, he had scored five touchdowns — more than any other player this season.

While Smutko was toying with the Mariner defense, Steve Merli, Manasquan's wonder boy, was scoring three touchdowns and one two-point conversion. He clung to the Monmouth County point lead by two points, 116-114.

Scores Three

Smutko scored three times in the first period to provide coach Barry Rizzo and company with a comfortable 19-0 margin. Rizzo went to the bench immediately.

Smutko plunged over the goal line from the one-yard line on his first two trips to the end zone and then scampered 13 yards on his third TD carry.

Bob Casagrande was three for five on conversion kicks, upping his total to 20 for the season. Casagrande also ran one conversion over.

Skip Deitz, who does all of Matawan's passing, legged one out in the second quarter for six points, and Smutko bulled 31 yards for the other score in the period, giving the Huskies a lopsided 33-0 margin at the half.

Smutko's last call came in the third period when he rolled in from a yard out. The TD gives Smutko 19 for the season. Merli's first two-point conversion of the season against Wall Township on Saturday, is the only difference between the two standouts.

Both will get a shot to up their totals on Thanksgiving Day. Matawan travels to Raritan, while Manasquan plays host to Point Pleasant Boro.

Matawan capped the day's frolic when freshman Ed Stewart bolted over from the five-yard line in the fourth quarter.

Lions' Defense Falls Shy; Indians Roar Back for Tie

TOMS RIVER — Middletown Township played 46 minutes of solid defensive football here Saturday afternoon. Unfortunately for the Lions, 48 minutes does a game make and they saw apparent victory slide into a 14-all tie with Toms River South.

The Indians, trailing 14-0, scored two touchdowns in the final two minutes to assure themselves of the runner-up spot in the Shore Conference "A" Division. In a sense, the tie was as good as a win for the home team.

TRS concluded its "A" campaign with 11 points on the strength of its five victories, one loss and a tie. Middletown, which needed a victory to gain a share of the runner-up spot with the Indians, wound up with nine points via its 4-2-1 record.

Overall, the Indians are 5-2-1, while the Lions, with only a non-conference Thanksgiving Day home appointment with Ocean Township, is 4-2-2 against all-comers.

Middletown scored all of its points in the second period on touchdowns by Fred Chalmers and Mike Chevalier and a pair of extra point place kicks by Brian Robinson.

The Lions' defense set up the first TD when Mike Logel tackled TRS quarterback Steve Petersen who fumbled at the Lions' 42. End Jeff Johnson scooped up the ball and returned it to the Indians' 28. Moments later, Chalmers went in from six yards out. Robinson booted his first conversion.

Later in the period Chevalier scampered 15 yards for another touchdown and Robinson's toe made it 14-0 at halftime.

Aside from a pair of unsuccessful 28-yard field goal attempts by Robinson, the second half was status quo until the home team caught fire to gain the deadlock late in the contest.

The Indians' first touchdown came on a rapid-fire 81-yard drive immediately after Robinson's second FG try was blocked. First Tom Walters dashed 58 yards to the Middletown 23. Two plays later, Ken Martin went 21 yards and Walters knifed over from the one.

The extra point run failed, so the Lions still seemed in shape to bring home a victory. However, they were forced to give up the football on downs, enabling the Indians to take advantage of their final opportunity.

The TD, set up on a 29-yard pass from Petersen to Ken Martin to the Middletown 34, came when the Indian quarterback flipped a 30-yard pass to Jerry Costain, who juggled and caught the ball on the 5 after it had been batted by Chevalier.

Petersen's quarterback sneak tied the knot.

Middletown's ground gain, paced by Chalmers and Ken Jones, netted 144 yards, while four Lion pass completions accounted for another 85 yards.

Defensively, Middletown, came to the fore when it had to until the disastrous late-going yielded 190 ground yards and 61 aerial yards to the Indians.

Bishops, Rams Roll To League Shares

Three teams own a slice of the Shore Conference "C" Division crown after one of the weirdest season battles ever.

Saturday, Asbury Park buried Freehold Township, 64-6, and Southern Regional blitzed Manalapan, 35-6, just to make sure that their titles had no chance of slipping away this time.

Both teams, and Wall Township have had their chances to win the title all alone. Asbury Park lost its chance when Wall Township scored a last-minute 8-6 victory after a fumble.

Wall's hopes of a solo were blasted in a defeat to Southern, and the Rams' chances were dashed last weekend by Asbury Park, 19-14, when the Bishops scored at the close of the game.

As in the past, the Bishops' offensive plundering was led by the Butler. The question is, which one?

The brother act of Lindsay and Gene had the Patriots scratching their heads all day long. And while the Butler brothers were working their magic, the rest of the Bishops were bury amassing more than 400 offensive yards.

The Patriots, playing their first year of varsity football, showed lots of inexperience, and before long, Bishop coach Ed Hudson went to his bench to give his own youngsters a little experience.

The Butlers did all the damage in the first quarter. Lindsay broke the ice after a bad Patriot snap from center on a punt attempt, landed on the Freehold Township 15-yard line.

Lindsay went in three plays later.

Gene Butler, who has been bringing smiles to Hudson's face for three years, gave Asbury Park its second TD when he knifed through the Patriot defense for 48 yards to cap the first-period scoring.

The worst was yet to come for the lowly Patriots. The Bishops, who know what it is to have victory slip away, pounded out 28 more points in the second quarter.

Bishop signal-caller Rickey Brown went to the air, and the Bishop defense looked to the sky and found two Patriot aerials for two more TD's. Gene Butler also did his thing. He ran a 62 yard touchdown.

The Brown touchdown pass went to Theaudric Holmes good for 61 yards. Lindsay Butler lit the board for two more points with a reception.

The TD interceptions were gained by James and Charlie Johnson. Charlie's was good for 50 yards.

Freehold's lone score was a pass from quarterback Frank Signorelli to Joe Murphy, capping a 65-yard march.

Hudson's subs, not to be outdown, added 24 more points to the bulge, and a little embarrassment to the Patriots.

Lindsay Butler stayed and scored again. This time he went in from the three.

James Johnson's second pilferage of a Patriot pass produced his second TD. He ran this one back 35 yards.

The Bishop jayvees made it 12 more points in the fourth period. John Smith ran 32 yards for one, and quarterback Tim Schaefer passed 40 yards to Jim Ferguson for the other.

Brick Blanks Montclair, 20-0

BRICK TOWNSHIP — Brick Township added to its claim as one of the state's best teams by blanking Montclair, 20-0, here yesterday.

The Green Dragons, winning their 16th straight since a tie to open the 1971 campaign, got themselves into a hole early but recovered. They then scored a touchdown in the second period and iced the game with 13 points in the final stanza.

Kevin Keeney scored two of the Brick touchdowns, both in that final quarter.

Bob Walters fumbled the opening kickoff and Montclair recovered at the Dragon 24. However, Brick stopped the Mounties on the 15. Dale Berra, son of the Met manager, then intercepted a Dan Duddy pass at the 50 and returned to the 28, but Paul Lawrence recovered a Mountie fumble at the 22 to halt that threat.

Brick launched its first assault in the second period after Walters returned Greg D'Alessandro's punt to the Mountie 45. A run lost two and a pass was incomplete.

Walters then beat Clarence Black at the Montclair 20, gathered in Duddy's pass and ran into the end zone to complete a 42-yard touchdown play. Clark Goldey kicked the point. The TD came with only 48 seconds left in the first half.

The next Brick score was helped by a face mask penalty which put the ball on the Mountie 27 after Gary Humble had returned a punt to the 42. It took Brick eight plays to score with Keeney diving over from the 2. He carried on the last three plays. A conversion pass was incomplete.

The Dragons need only dispatch hapless Toms River North to complete another undefeated season. Montclair is now 3-3-2.

Beach Blitzed By Allentown

POINT PLEASANT BEACH — Allentown converted a third period fumble into a touchdown here Saturday to down Point Pleasant Beach, 14-6, for its first win of the year.

Allentown is now 1-7, and Point Beach is 4-4.

The winners recovered the fumbled punt on the Garnet Gull 23, and three plays later, Joe Gunter sped around left end for 32 yeards and the touchdown.

Allentown went 50 yards (35 of them at one bite by Gunter) for an opening period score with Ernie Martin cracking over from the 3.

The Gulls tied it in the second period on Keith Hertling's 10-yard run, which ended a 65-yard drive.

Gunter ran for two points after the second Allentown touchdown.

Allentown completely dominated the statistics in its upset win.

Thurston Girls Score in Swim

METUCHEN — Colts Neck swimmers fared well in yesterday's first state AAU event, a one-meter age group diving competition at the Metuchen-Edison Community YMCA here.

Barcey Thurston won the 15-17 event, while sisters Nancy and Ann were third and sixth, respectively, in the 11-12 group. Cathy Quinn was fourth in the latter event.

Sandy Thurston was fourth in the 13-14 age group, while David Groff finished fifth in the boys' 13-14.

2 Fires Within 24 Hours Damage Eatontown Home

EATONTOWN — Local firemen doused two fires at the same address in less than 24 hours over the weekend.

Fire Chief E. Charles Britton last night reported that volunteer firemen were called out at 3:30 a.m. Saturday to fight a blaze in a two-story, vacant house on South Street. He said it took firemen two hours to put out the fire which gutted one side of the structure.

Then, at 10:30 p.m. on Saturday, firemen were called back to the scene to deal with a fire in a barn at the rear of the same property. The fire chief said the fire was contained to one corner of the building.

Chief Britton reported that the barn is used for storage by the Bendix Corp. here. However, he said that the property owner has not been identified.

HEAVY FEELING — Guest star Sally Struthers (left, of TV's "All in the Family") and Sarah Kennedy have that upholstered look as they participate in a "salute to fatties" segment of "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" tonight at 8 o'clock, on the NBC Television Network.

TV Movie Produced Amid Ireland's Strife

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — The news from Belfast last Aug. 21 was that two Irish Republican Army guerrillas had accidentally blown themselves up and killed six others while trying to bomb a border customs post.

It raised to 527 the number of people killed in three years of bloodshed in Northern Ireland. And it occurred the day filming started on a gentle story with a chilling title: "A War of Children."

The movie, to be shown Dec. 5 on CBS television, is about two families — Protestant and Catholic — in Belfast. It concerns the efforts of one young boy from each family to keep up their friendship despite the religious barriers and bitterness of their city.

While set in Belfast, most of the story had to be filmed in the relative security of Dublin because, among other things, it used actors dressed in British military uniforms.

"Belfast was absolutely unfeasible," says the show's producer-director, George Schaefer. "It's an armed camp. There would have been no way of getting any protection there."

Misery Not Exploited

Although he says the teleplay, written by James Costigan, doesn't seek to exploit the misery of Northern Ireland, the show still is in keeping with television's trend towards drama based on topical events.

Television Comment

It may just have been playacting, but Dublin authorities insisted on certain precautions to keep the peace.

"They wouldn't allow any authentic British uniforms to be used, because they said the uniforms would be stolen and used to infiltrate up north," Schaefer said. "So we had to make our own.

"They also refused to let us use real guns of any sort, which made me furious," he said. "But it turned out they were right. The third day we were shooting someone broke into the prop wagon, stole all the dummy guns and set fire to the wagon."

Tried to Be Unobtrusive

He said the film company tired to do the show as quietly as possible. But when a scene calls for actors in British army uniforms to go about in the main street of Dublin, certain things happen.

Like a newspaper headline: "British Land in Dublin."

The film crew was a potentially explosive blend of Englishmen and Irishmen, some of the latter actual IRA members. But there was no war.

In fact, there was a great deal of harmony and advice from both factions on what might improve a scene, Schaefer observed.

At the end of filming, he said, there was a grand party where the ale flowed, the crew's IRA men and Protestants linked arms, sang heartily and generally carried on "like an old school team on its reunion."

Did any of them feel that sort of peace ever would end the madness in Northern Ireland? Schaefer shook his head. His voice became sad.

"No," he said. "No, I must say none of them did."

Reviewer Is Irked By 'Ladies' Room'

By MARY CAMPBELL

NEW YORK (AP) — Five women have the parts and a woman wrote the lyrics for off-Broadway's "A Quarter for the Ladies' Room" and women's lib won't thank them for being a crushing bore.

We won't thank them either. The "musical review" opened last night at the Village Gate.

The setting is the outer, makeup room of a plush ladies room. There are a sweet young thing, the mistress of a married man and a self-described harlot. They all want to be married.

There is an older wife and a ladies' room attendant. They all sing a lot of boring, banal stuff about men and they all come across ignorant.

The sweet young thing sings about the horoscope sign she wants her man to have; ho hum. The mistress sings about wondering what her man is doing when he's at home with his wife. That one was notable for how disgusting it could be without really being pornographic.

Ruth Batchelor was making a debut as a lyric writer. John Clifton's and Arthur Siegel's music was even less distinguished. The costumes and staging, the latter by Darwin Knight, looked like amateur hour. Phillip R. Productions Inc. produced.

We fled at the first intermission Saturday night, having heard a lot better in real ladies' rooms.

IN THE WORKS

Wally Cox, of NBC-TV's "The Hollywood Squares," is currently writing his third book. "I haven't got a title yet," Wally admitted, "but my publisher is interested in the idea."

Miss Jersey USA Applications Available

The selection of Miss New Jersey U.S.A. is based on

DRAMA OF REALITY

Alistair Cooke, whose "America" series premieres on NBC-TV tonight, originally wanted to be a director in the theatre. After graduate studies at Yale and Harvard, he changed his mind. "American society and its politics were far more dramatic than Broadway," he said.

Marlboro to Plan For New Library

MARLBORO — The Township Council has launched a campaign to have this municipality's first library building constructed by this time next year.

The council authorized Mayor Morton Salkind to hire an architect and library planner to work on the project.

The mayor said the library would be built as part of the planned educational-cultural complex to be located on a 47-acre tract at the southwest corner of Rt. 520 and Wyncrest Road.

Mayor Salkind said the project's cost, which he estimated at $150,000, would be paid for through capital bonding, which must be approved by council.

The mayor said that he hopes to have a request for the necessary fiscal appropriations ready for the council meeting next month.

Meanwhile, the present library, located in one room in building on Rt. 79 that also houses the police department and the Road Department, will be moved.

The mayor announced that the township will lease space for the library in a building next to the Wickatunk Post Office on Rt. 79. The space, which he said is 50 per cent larger than the present library facilities, will be leased for one year until the new library is completed.

Mayor Salkind said that the police department will be able to use the space in their building that is vacated by the library.

Also expected to be built on the 47-acre tract are a municipal building and a school.

2 Held on Charges Of Theft, Shoplifting

MIDDLETOWN — A man and woman arraigned in Municipal Court on charges of possessing stolen credit cards and shoplifting are being held in county jail in lieu of $2,500 bail each.

PFC Robert J. Horowski, 21, and Denise M. D'Arcy, 19, a WAC were arraigned before Judge Ronald L. Horan. They are stationed at Ft. Monmouth.

They are charged with having in their possession credit cards from W. T. Grant Co. and Sear Roebuck and Co.

The cards allegedly were stolen from their owner, Leonard Benaples, in Long Branch Monday. In addition, the defendants allegedly had a stolen social security card belonging to Mr. Benaples in their possession.

Police claim the man and woman attempted to purchase two tape decks and a record at Sears Roebuck, Rt. 35, Tuesday night by using the allegedly stolen credit card. When a credit card check was made and it was determined the card the pair used was stolen, the suspects allegedly picked up the bag containing the items they attempted to purchase and fled from the store.

Patrolman Richard Heidel apprehended the suspects at Middletown Shopping Center, Rt. 35.

Police also allege the pair had two tires in their possession when they were arrested. The tires were allegedly purchased at the Sears store prior to the attempted tape deck purchases.

Miss D'Arcy is also charged by police with possession of amphetamines in an improperly marked container.

Detective Sgt. Joseph T. Shaffery is in charge of the investigation.
