Fund Disclosure Bill Gets Tardy Assembly Approval

TRENTON (AP) — It took nearly the entire legislative day but the Assembly has finally passed a compromise bill requiring candidates for public office to disclose all campaign contributions greater than $100.

The Senate, which had waited in the State House for hours yesterday so it could act on the amended bill, finally went home in disgust while the Assembly was out of the chamber for a short recess.

As a result, the measure cannot be enacted into law in time to affect candidates in the gubernatorial and legislative primary elections in June.

Both houses recessed for three weeks to permit the legislature's Joint Appropriations Commiittee to review Gov. William T. Cahill's $2.38 billion budget for the next fiscal year.

In other legislative action yesterday:

— The Senate gave final passage to a bill appropriating $12 million in matching funds to 24 cities to help them get more policemen back on foot patrols and to clean up their streets.

— The Senate Republican caucus cleared the way for public hearings on constitutional amendments legalizing numbers and casino gambling and removing altogether the constitutional ban on gambling.

— The Assembly approved a measure permitting first offenders for all but serious crimes to undergo rehabilitative treatment rather than be prosecuted.

— A Cahill administration bill requiring all three commissioners on the Public Utilities Commission to serve full-time was introduced in the Senate.

The campaign disclosure bill approved yesterday had been drastically amended in the Assembly Judiciary Committee as a substitute for a tougher measure that passed the Senate in December.

Half the committee amendments were deleted on the Assembly floor in a series of votes which often crossed party lines.

The final vote on the bill itself was 61-7, with four Democrats and three Republicans opposed.

Cahill, a Republican, had said he favored a strong campaign disclosure bill. But it was the four GOP members on the seven-member Judiciary Committee who voted to release the substitute instead of the bill sponsored by Sen. William E. Schluter, R-Mercer.

Democrat Herbert Klein of Passaic said if Cahill really had wanted the original bill he could have gotten one Re-

Braun Resignation Held Up As Middletown Tension Rises

By BOB BRAMLEY

MIDDLETOWN — In a short and stormy special session, the Township Committee last night postponed the resignation of J. Peter Braun, township administrator, and acquired his services part-time over six additional weeks.

A resolution adopted 3 to 1 sets back the administrator's resignation date from today until Friday, March 2, and provides that he shall devote nine hours weekly to township affairs during the six weeks thereafter.

The part-time work may be performed weekdays, Saturdays or evenings, and Mr. Braun will be paid on an hourly basis prorated to his $25,000-a-year salary.

The administrator will receive no severance pay at the end of the six weeks and has waived the right to such pay.

Temporary Basis

The part-time appointment is to be terminated immediately on the hiring of a new full-time township administrator without further notice.

Committeemen Wilford L. Wisner, Frank H. Briggs and Peter J. Carton, who voted for the resolution and carried it, maintain Mr. Braun's part-time appointment is necessary to insure a smooth transition to the regime of the new full-time administrator the committee seeks.

Committeeman William E. Schell, who chaired last night's meeting as deputy mayor in the absence of ailing Mayor Thomas J. Lynch, voted against the resolution, stating he is "appalled at the so-called professional behavior of this gentleman (Mr. Braun) and I don't condone his coming back to this township one hour."

4 Applications

Mr. Braun, who agreed in a letter to the Township Committee Jan. 30 "to try to help with completing actual work involved with new programs and staffing now under way on some type of a temporary, part-time arrangement," was absent last night. He is in South America, where his father has died.

The post of administrator will be filled by Herbert E. Bradshaw, township tax collector, with Mr. Braun's help until a new full-time administrator is hired.

Thomas J. Magin, township clerk, said four applications for the post have been received. They are in the hands of Mayor Lynch. Because of his illness, no action on them has been taken.

Tension was evident from the opening of last night's meeting, called for 8 p.m. At several minutes past 8 o'clock, when Mr. Schell had not appeared, Mr. Wisner began looking through the township charter and administrative code to see what procedure should be followed in conducting the meeting without him.

At 8:04 Mr. Schell walked in briskly.

Big Peking Concession Seen in Liaison Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Peking apparently is making a big concession in agreeing to exchange official liaison offices with Washington, and a major reason probably is China's rivalry with Moscow.

The Nixon administration, which wants to avoid offending either of the two Communist giants, is keeping mum about this aspect of the surprise speed in the normalizing of U.S.-Chinese relations.

But Peking's willingness to exchange long-time missions with diplomatic trappings admittedly is a significant comedown from the public stance so vigorously reaffirmed during President Nixon's visit a year ago and repeated in succeeding months.

"The Chinese government," said the post-summit Shanghai communique last Feb. 27, "Firmly opposes any activities which aim at the creation of 'one China, one Taiwan,' or advocate that 'the status of Taiwan remains to be determined.' "

The Washington-Peking communique issued yesterday, announcing the liaison-offices agreement, made no mention of any concession by the United States in its support of Nationalist China.

And presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger told newsmen the United States will continue its diplomatic relations with its Taiwan ally and will not at this time pull out any of the 9,000 U.S. troops stationed there.

Peking's price to countries seeking formal diplomatic relations has been abandonment of such relations with Taiwan. The Communist Chinese say theirs is the sole legal government of all China, including Taiwan.

The liaison-office formula falls short of a full exchange of embassies between Washington and Peking, which may be years away. But the potential for embassy-like operations has been set, to begin within a month or so.

Kissinger said the Chinese office here and the U.S. office in Peking would "cover the whole gamut of relationships" except strictly formal diplomatic aspects.

The government officials manning the offices are to get diplomatic privileges. They will, like full-fledged diplomats, be allowed to communicate with their capitals by code.

Court Ruling Postpones State Redistricting Plans

TRENTON (AP) — Because of a ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court, the State Apportionment Commission has temporarily postponed its plans to immediately redraw New Jersey's legislative districts.

The commission had intended to submit a new plan Friday for this year's legislative elections.

But Sen. Raymond H. Bateman, the Republican co-chairman of the bipartisan commission, said the commission will seek a delay to permit the State Supreme Court to interpret the significance of the U.S. Supreme Court ruling on the shape of New Jersey legislative districts.

All 80 Assembly seats and 40 Senate seats will be at stake in November.

Bateman said he did not rule out the possibility that the current districting plan, which had been declared unconstitutional, could be reinstated for the 1973 election.

"We have several options," Bateman said. "We need a clarification from the State Supreme Court and we must have it quickly."

The filing deadline for the June 5 gubernatorial and legislative primary elections is April 26. District lines must be agreed upon before then or it will force a postponement in the primary election, a step that leaders of both parties say they oppose.

However, a bill was introduced in the Senate yesterday to push the primary back to September if need be.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled Wednesday that the one-man, one-vote concept which mandates equal representation could be relaxed for legislative districting. The high court said the standard need not be as strict as the one applied for congressional districts, which must be nearly equal in size.

The court upheld a districting plan in the state of Virginia in which the largest district is 16.4 per cent bigger in population than the smallest legislative district.

Under New Jersey's current districting plan, the largest district has 31 per cent more residents than the smallest district, a deviation that is nearly double the Virginia standard.

Bateman said that he had not read the U.S. Supreme Court decision but left open the possibility that it "might have a more restrictive meaning for New Jersey than we think."

The Apportionment Com-

Beadleston Can't See N.J. Affected by Ruling

TRENTON — N.J. Senate President Alfred N. Beadleston, R-Monmouth, said yesterday he doesn't think a U.S. Supreme Court ruling allowing more lenient standards in drawing legislative districts will have much bearing on New Jersey's pending legislative apportionment.

On Wednesday, the court upheld a Virginia reapportionment plan which allowed a maximum deviation of 16.4 per cent from the average size of a legislative district.

The New Jersey Legislature is now operating under a reapportionment which has already been declared unconstitutional because it has a maximum deviation of 31 per cent between the largest and the smallest district.

A bi-partisian commission has been drafting an apportionment plan under which the maximum deviation in population would be less than two per cent.

"I don't think people really understand what the Supreme Court did," Sen. Beadleston said, "The court ruled on a Virginia apportionment plan based on the Virginia Constitution."

Although he said he hadn't seen the court's decision, he felt the Virginia Constitution is far less restrictive than the New Jersey Constitution.

"Our Constitution," he said, "says that the legislative districts must be as nearly equal as possible."

The reapportionment plans are to be based on the "one-man, one-vote" concept, which in New Jersey means that each legislative district should have an ideal population of 179,270.

Sen. Beadleston said he felt the New Jersey apportionment commission would continue to strive for a less than two per cent deviation.

He said if the New Jersey apportionment plan was taken to the U.S. Supreme Court, the court would probably rule based on what the state Constitution said, and not on the basis of the Virginia decision.

"People," he said, don't want to jump to the conclusion that the Virginia decision applies to New Jersey."

His view was shared somewhat by Lewis B. Thurston, Republican staff director of the apportionment commission.

Mr. Thurston said he was "reasonably certain" the commission would draft an apportionment plan for this years' legislative elections within the narrow guidelines set by the New Jersey courts.

A spokesman for the apportionment commission said the proposed plan for this year's elections will consist of 40 legislative districts, each to be represented by one senator and two assemblymen.

The plan will eliminate the "at-large" assembly districts.

Monmouth County now has three state senators, who run at large in the county, plus five assemblymen, two from

Ocean Lures Retired Couple to Long Branch

Long Branch attracts many people for many reasons, not the least of which is that the city is a major resort. For a gentleman and his wife who recently moved to the Elberon section, however, the ocean's proximity was the principal reason for making it their retirement home.

Marybeth Allen of The Register's Red Bank bureau interviewed the couple. From them, she learned how the steamship Queen Mary got its name and some personal impressions of such celebrities as Elizabeth Taylor, Queen Elizabeth, the former Duke of Windsor. Her story is being prepared for Monday's editions.

The first of a 10-part series, "Save on Taxes," will start Monday. Prepared by Sylvia Porter, the informative articles will help the decision-making of people preparing their federal income tax returns. Her "Your Money's Worth" column is a regular feature in The Daily Register, Northern Monmouth County's largest newspaper and Monmouth County's most interesting newspaper.

Braun Retained At Middletown

what to do in case you didn't arrive," said Mr. Wisner.

"It would be interesting to see what the solution would have been," replied Mr. Schell.

"There'd have been a solution," Mr. Wisner declared.

William J. Doyle of 245 Forest Ave., East Keansburg, protested the meeting as illegal, claiming insufficient notice was given the public and the committee. He asked for a ruling from Peter P. Frunzi, township attorney.

When Mr. Frunzi ruled the meeting legal in that the required 24-hour notice was given committeemen and official newspapers, Mr. Doyle remained unsatisfied. He pointed out there were only six members of the public present.

"Six representatives for 60,000 people—what kind of representation is that?" he demanded.

Mr. Doyle also maintained Mr. Braun left the township "in the lurch" and insisted that Mr. Bradshaw can do the administrator's job without his help.

Mr. Carton observed that Mr. Bradshaw himself has stated he would prefer to have Mr. Braun's assistance.

A dispute flared between Mr. Schell and Mr. Carton, who insisted that Mr. Schell agreed in a committee caucus last Saturday that the resolution hiring Mr. Braun part-time was to appear on the agenda of the special Township Committee meeting last Tuesday.

"I was appalled not to see it there," said Mr. Carton.

"The understanding about the meeting was not mine. I have never had an intention of extending Mr. Braun's service. I have never been committed to putting this item in any meeting. I am against this meeting. In fact, I considered not coming tonight, but decided that would be shirking my duty," Mr. Schell declared.

Blames Committee

"You have a very convenient memory, Mr. Schell," Mr. Carton retorted. He insisted once again that Mr. Schell knew and agreed last Saturday that the Braun resolution was to be on last Tuesday's agenda.

In a loud, stern tone, Mr. Schell reacted. "Are you doubting my word, Mr. Carton? Perhaps you'd better get a stenographer," he suggested.

"Perhaps I'd better get everything in writing from you from now on," Mr. Carton replied.

"Very fine, Mr. Carton," the deputy mayor said curtly.

Best Alternative

Mr. Wisner lost patience at this point.

"There are so many distortions here I don't know where to start," he declared. "The committee has been seeking a successor. The only reason no interviews have taken place is that Tom Lynch is in the hospital, as you well know, Mr. Schell."

"He only went into the hospital last week," Mr. Schell put in.

Mr. Wisner said he regards last night's resolution not as a permanent solution, but "The best interim answer until a new administrator is hired."

"It will cost less than alternatives suggested by Mr. Schell," he stated.

Committee Chastised

"Bringing a full-time professional in for the short time," said Mr. Wisner.

"Mr. Wisner referred to an individual in the township who volunteered his services for a few weeks. I still think this is the best of several alternatives," said Mr. Schell.

(The volunteer was former Mayor Earl Moody, who has since withdrawn his offer.)

Mrs. Richard R. Anderson of River Plaza, who had listened patiently to the exchanges nearly an hour, asked to be heard.

"The Township Committee is responsible for the shameful situation that has arisen. The public is appalled at the failure of the committee to conduct its business in a businesslike manner and is disappointed that the committee has got to such a point in such a short time with a man recognized to be tops in his field.

Attacks Braun

"A new administrator should be found and there should be an orderly transition as soon as possible. Do what you can to retrieve something from this mess for the residents of the township," Mrs. Anderson urged.

Mr. Schell's answer was an attack on Mr. Braun, who has stated he is resigning because of political interference with his function.

"He has disrupted the community and taken away the feeling of trust we have tried by honest and open government to put back in it. His allegations are not supported by any statements of fact. I am shocked and disappointed in his behavior in resigning," the deputy mayor stated.

Arabs Ask Retaliation In Downing of Jetliner

By The Associated Press

Arab spokesmen yesterday called for retaliation against Israel for downing a Libyan airliner in a crash that cost more than 100 lives. Egypt asked the United States to stop supporting the Israeli government, the Arab Socialist Union said.

A statement from that ruling party charged that if the big world powers had taken a strong stand against "Israeli aggressions, Israel could never have committed its latest horrible crime."

Western officials expressed fear that the incident would hurt chances for an Arab-Israeli settlement. Official Soviet news media charged the Israelis had shot the plane down for that very purpose.

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, at the United Nations, urged "the most thorough investigation of the circumstances" surrounding what he termed "one of the most shocking incidents in the history of civil aviation."

Britain also called for an inquiry.

Egypt sent a request for an investigation to the International Civil Aviation Organization, a specialized U.N. agency in Montreal, and one is expected to follow.

Pope Paul VI sent a telegram to Libyan leader Muammar Kadafi expressing severe disapproval of Israel's "tragic attack" on the plane.

"We repeat our reprobation of every act of violence that takes the lives of innocent persons and we reaffirm the necessity that respect for human life prevail in the consciences of individuals and nations," the pontiff said. He added that he wished to express his "profound grief" and to offer condolences to the families of the victims.

The International Committee of the Red Cross in Geneva said its delegates had received Israel's permission to visit the survivors in a Beersheba hospital. It offered to help return survivors and victims to their homelands.

Egyptian Deputy Prime Minister Abdel Kader Hatem, at a Cairo news conference, said the attack on a clearly marked and unarmed civilian plane was "one of the most cowardly, barbaric acts ever committed."

Hatem, also information minister, said, "Israel should bear the consequences of her aggression." He called for appropriate international action, which he did not define.

The Egyptian official said the Libyan Revolutionary Command Council was meeting on what to do. One Egyptian spokesman said Israel would "pay dearly" at the hands of the Arabs.

A Lebanese newspaper said the Libyan leader, Kadafi, now must "put up or shut up" and "his retaliation should match his declared enthusiasm for the battle."

New Teaching Methods At RBRHS Explained

RED BANK — Close to 100 parents gathered in the cafeteria of Red Bank Regional High School last night to learn something about the changes in education that will accompany the school's move into a new building in Little Silver in the fall of 1974.

From Superintendent Harold C. Schaible, from a department chairman who is heading a program for retraining teachers and from a ninth grade English teacher who has brought an individual study program into her classroom, they got a glimpse of what lies ahead.

A film tracing the evolution in recent years of the classroom, from a traditional square or rectangle of a certain general size to a mixture of many sizes and open space layouts with movable walls to alter size in moments, set the tone at the outset of the meeting.

Innovations Readied

Mr. Schaible said the new facilities that will be available when the new high school opens, including some open space classrooms, would make it possible for the administration to put into effect many innovations in teaching — innovations which really no longer are new in education.

Robert McCall, chairman of the Social Studies Department and head of the in-service training program for the high school's teachers to prepare them for the changes, said there would be a continuous progress curriculum in the new school with the emphasis on individual learning.

An individual learning program introduced this year was explained to the parents by Mrs. Bonnie Leverette, a ninth grade English teacher who has taken this approach with one of her classes.

Desks Divided

Mrs. Leverette said the desks in her classroom are divided for this group into three separate areas with students in each doing different things. The students work from individualized learning packets which contain the course program for the year and each moves ahead from unit to unit at his or her own speed. It is the student who decides when he or she is ready to take the final exam on a unit and move on to the next, she explained.

In the classroom, a student may be taking a final test on a particular unit in one area, other students across the room may be reading for a book report or working on grammar exercises, while she's holding a private conference with still another student, Mrs. Leverette explained.

This method, she said, allows the student to progress at his own pace and have learning experiences at which he can succeed. "The point is to give him successful experiences."

Her explanation brought a question from the audience asking whether this amounted to supervised study rather than instruction.

Mrs. Leverette replied that most instruction was on a one to one basis. She said some students were nearly ready to move from grammar into literature and when they did, there likely would be some group discussion of the works they ready, perhaps in groups of five.

College Experience Queried

Another parent asked how a student taught in such a manner would do in college.

Mrs. Leverette said she had noticed, with this method, that the students had picked up a responsibility for learning which she felt would be of particular value in college where they would have more freedom of study.

Mr. Schaible added that the high school would have to maintain some structure for the students and, said those students who show a lack of initiative would be restricted to a more conventional format until they had demonstrated they could handle the freedom.

"This thing is not going to be a cure-all," Mr. Schaible said, explaining the approach would not put an end to failing grades. "I think what we're saying," he told the parents, "is that the student has less chance for failure.

"What Mrs. Leverette is doing may not be what we end up with . . . but I'm optimistic," he said.

publican vote for it on the committee.

The architect of the committee substitute was William K. Dickey, R-Camden. His version removed criminal penalties for violations, raised the reporting threshhold to $250, exempted towns with a voting population of 5,000 or less, exempted school elections and set a spending limit of 50 cents for each vote cast in the previous presidential election.

By floor amendments, the threshhold was lowered to $100, as it was in Schluter's bill, and the bill would apply to all elections in all towns. But the assembly declined to re-insert criminal penalties or to eliminate the spending limit.

Dickey lambasted the $100 threshhold, saying it would discourage many contributors who wanted to remain anonymous.

"This bill favors the rich candidate," Dickey said. "I'm talking about the sponsor of this bill, Senator Schluter, who can afford his own campaign. He doesn't want any poor guys running against him."

Karl Weidel, R-Mercer, who is from Schluter's district, rose to his senator's defense and objected to what he called Dickey's "personal attack on a senator." And then he launched into an attack of his own on Dickey.

"If Mr. Dickey can't afford $250 after 40 years of being a bachelor and an attorney, then he's been spending his money more on other things I don't know about," Weidel said.

Borough Equipment Use Protested in Union Beach

UNION BEACH — Peter Sabo Jr., a member of the Board of Education, said last night a grader was seen working on property owned by former Borough Councilman Thomas Perno.

Councilman Arthur Lembo — who termed the machine a bulldozer — didn't deny the accusation.

"We have used borough equipment to help many residents clear up debris," Councilman Lembo said. "And, in fact, Mr. Perno said he will pay for the 15 minutes the machine was in operation on his property."

"We won't have it happen again," the councilman continued. "But from time to time we have had borough equipment help our residents, seeing that we have a cleanup week once each year."

"Last year Mr. Perno used the borough dump and now this year he used the borough equipment," Mr. Sabo accused.

"Make your political statement and be seated Mr. Sabo," the mayor said.

E. Webster England of Ninth St. complained of a "sea of mud" at the end of the roadway where his home fronts which results in blocked drainage.

Fred Varlese, chairman of the Bayshore Regional Sewerage Authority, said he will personally inspect the area and rectify the problem.

Citing a technicality, council, with Councilmen George Warren and Walter Scott dissenting, reintroduced its $984,254 general appropriations budget for 1973.

Because the budget failed to get a two-thirds majority at its introduction Feb. 22, council had to present it again to a full council.

A public hearing date has been set for March 22.

In qualifying his vote, Councilman Scott said after the meeting, "I only had two hours to look over the entire budget. I certainly can't form an opinion from this.

"I also had five minutes before the last meeting when the auditor came in and dropped the budget copies off," he added.

Council unanimously voted to include in the file of Detective Sgt. Henry Riegler a letter of commendation from the Hazlet Police Department for Sgt. Riegler's aid in the apprehension of two suspects who allegedly, while armed robbed a guest at the Holiday Inn of Holmdel Jan. 24.

With Councilman Warren dissenting and Councilman Scott abstaining, Mayor Alfred T. Hennessy Jr. appointed Councilman Lembo as a member of the Bayshore Regional Sewerage Authority.

Councilman Lembo replaces Paul Smith, who resigned to accept the $18,800 per year position of executive director of the authority.

Marlboro Plans 4 New Voting Districts

MARLBORO — The Township Council last night, in a special meeting, introduced an amendment to the administrative code and passed a resolution creating four additional voting districts.

The amendment would add the divisions of streets and roads, buildings and grounds, engineering and all inspections to the Department of Public Works.

In addition, a Department of Public Safety would be created which would include the police and fire departments. The hearing on the amendment was set for March 8 at 8:30 p.m. at the Marlboro Elementary School.

Council also passed a resolution splitting election districts 4,5,6, and 8, thereby bringing the total number of election districts here up to 12.

The part of District 4 to be known as District 9 encompasses land bounded by the Matawan Township Border, Rt. 79, Tennent Road, Wooleytown Road and the Madison Township border. The rest of the district will remain unchanged.

The portion of District 5 to become District 10 includes the area bounded by Rt. 9, Sandburg Drive, Riley Road, Millay Road, Union Hill Road, and Rt. 9.

The newly-created District 11, severed from District 6, includes the area bounded by School Road West, Stockton Drive, River Road, Fairview Drive, and School Road West.

District 12, which is severed from District 8, includes the area northeast of Church Road. The area southwest of Church Road will remain District 8.

The Monmouth County Board of Elections must approve the changes.

Goals of Education Project Described to Welfare Board

NEW SHREWSBURY — A $75,000 program designed to help break the cycle of poverty by which families remain on the welfare roles from generation to generation has been outlined to the county Welfare Board.

Nat Auerbach, administrative supervisor of the board's special services division reported Wednesday on the allowances for training under the program supervised by his department. Clients enrolled in fulltime vocational training or job-experience training programs are granted $50 a month allowances for "expenses incident to training."

No money is allowed for the costs of education or the training itself and participation is voluntary, Mr. Auerbach stressed. He assured the board that allowances are not granted if scholarship funds are available or if the training is sponsored by the Rehabilitation Commission which has its own funds to cover such costs.

He said that there are 143 clients currently receiving the allowances. The majority are between the ages of 18 and 21 and are not heads of households.

As students, who are members of client families, they are eligible to receive financial assistance until they reach 21. After that they are on their own.

This is in contrast to the state-run work incentive program (WIN) which is aimed at mothers of families receiving welfare under the Aid to Dependent Children category.

The board's program is limited to those not eligible for the WIN program. "It's a program of last resort," Robert C. Wells, county welfare director said. The state Labor Department has primary responsibility in this area through its WIN program. When that program is blocked for these clients, we provide this service."

Mr. Auerbach added, "Because of limited financing we cannot provide this service to all those interested and referred to us for training."

Funding Cut

Under its 1973 budget, the board cut funding for this program by $20,000

Of the 80 youths in the local program, about 25 are attending Brookdale Community College, Mr. Auerbach said and the others are attending Monmouth College and other four-year institutions.

The students have a wide range of career goals. Some are studying to be teachers, others aim to be ministers, social workers, secretaries or nurses.

There are 63 adults who are heads of ADC families receiving the allowances for training.

"We are continually trying to enroll as many adults as possible in the WIN program," Mr. Auerbach said. "But because of the limited nature of the WIN program, we have not been very successful."

Brookdale-Phalanx Group Readies Marathon Benefit

LINCROFT — It begins at 9 a.m. tomorrow this concert to Save the Phalanx, and it will go on until 12 midnight Sunday with 39 continuous hours of rock music, folk singers, and old-time movies sponsored by a Brookdale Community College offshoot of the Save the Phalanx Committee.

The name is now something of an anachronism, admits Jerry Ceres, a Brookdale student from Mt. Campbell Road, Holmdel, who is chairing, emceeing, and generally organizing the weekend marathon in the college gym.

The student group, officially part of Brookdale Students for Recognition and Restoration of Historic Sites, organized last fall to help restore the tattered North American Phalanx buildings in Colts Neck. The marathan fund-raiser sprang to life after the 130-year-old building was gutted by a suspicious fire last November, when the aim refocused on saving a portion of the Phalanx' apartment wing in which American critic Alexander Woollcott was born.

When the owners of the Phalanx property bulldozed the remains late last month, leveling the last remnant of the famous experimental commune, the concert committee decided to contribute proceeds of the rock-dance fest toward purchase of the 6½-acre tract as a historical site.

Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development and state Green Acres applications toward the purchase have been processed by the Colts Neck Township Committee and have received preliminary approval from the Monmouth County Planning Board.

Young Ceres said 20 groups have signed for the weekend, including Cold Steel and Blana-na. Several local groups, including the Matawan High School Jazz Ensemble, are filling time slots during the 39-hour session. A dual stage has been set up in the college gym, allowing nonstop music, while one group plays and the next band sets up behind them.

At noon tomorrow, a dozen couples will attempt a recreation of that peculiar 1930's phenononom, the dance marathon. Prizes for the marathon winners, the best musical groups, and victors in a "battle of the bands" will be awarded at midnight Sunday.

Time chinks will be filled by Charlie Chaplin and W.C. Fields movies, auctions of such goodies as cans of kangaroo tail soup, and a road rally rambling over 80 miles of Monmouth County roads from 11 a.m. Sunday.

Registration for the rally can be made in advance with Mr. Ceres or before 10:30 a.m. Sunday at the marathon.

Tickets will be available at the door throughout the two-day fest.

Redistricting Plan Delayed

mission has five members appointed by the state Democratic chairman and five named by the Republican party leader. In the event of a deadlock, the State Supreme Court may name a tie-breaking 11th member.

The State Supreme Court ruled last May that New Jersey's current reapportionment plan was unconstitutional because of the wide deviations in the size of individual districts.

In a sweeping decision with far-ranging impact, the court ordered the apportionment commission to ignore county lines in drawing new districts. The counties have traditionally been respected as important political entities.

Furthermore, the state's highest court ordered an end to multi-member Senate districts in which candidates for the upper house run countywide, rather than from smaller areas.

For example, under the current plan, all five senators in Essex County — the state's largest — were elected on a countywide slate.

Bateman said yesterday that the U.S. Supreme Court ruling left open the possibility that the State Supreme Court could reverse its earlier decision requiring single-member districts that cross county lines.

The Apportionment Commission had been working on a plan in which the deviation between the largest and smallest districts would not exceed 2 per cent.

Weather: Partly Sunny

Partly sunny today, high in the upper 30s. Clear tonight, low in the mid 20s. Tomorrow sunny, high in the upper 30s. Sunday, partly sunny and colder.

In Long Branch, yesterday's high temperature was 44 and the low, 33 degrees. It was 36 at 6 p.m. and the overnight low was 23. It was 23 at 7 a.m. today. There was a trace of snow after 7 a.m. yesterday.

The nation enjoyed fair weather today with only a few exceptions.

Rain spread across the Southern Plains and Gulf Coast states. Travelers advisories were issued for parts of New Mexico and Arizona because of the fog and light snow and in western and central Texas because of residual snow.

Snow flurries flecked the sky from the Great Lakes to southern New England, but the accumulation was less than an inch in most places.

Dollar Bounces in Europe

LONDON — The devalued U.S. dollar plunged to its floor level in half an hour of panic selling at the opening of European foreign exchanges today, and the price of gold soared to record peaks. But by midday a rally brought on by government buying pushed the American currency back toward its par values.

Dealers in some markets were too busy to give reasons for the wild selling of dollars and the continuing boom in gold, but it looked like a loss of confidence in paper money.

The dollar was steady in Tokyo, where the market opens earlier than elsewhere. It managed to gain half a yen to close at 265.50.

But in Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam and Frankfurt, the dollar plunged to its lowest permitted level before the state banks of Belgium, the Netherlands and West Germany started buying to support the rate.

Laos May Ask Air Attacks

VIENTIANE, Laos — Premier Souvanna Phouma said today he will ask the United States to resume air attacks in Laos if the North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao continue to violate the two-day-old cease-fire.

"If the other side does not keep their words, we are not obliged to keep ours," he told a news conference at his office. Asked if he thought Washington would agree to resume the bombing, he replied, "Certainly."

U.S. air attacks on the North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao stopped several hours before the cease-fire went into effect at noon Wednesday. It was the third cease-fire in Laos in more than two decades of war.

Prince Souvanna said the North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao launched a general offensive in northern and southern Laos Wednesday and committed at least 29 major violations of the truce. The premier said he would protest to the International Control Commission, although it is not yet operational.

Pipeline Blast Kills 4

AUSTIN, Tex. — A series of thundering explosions in a liquid petroleum pipeline sent flames shooting hundreds of feet into the air and killed at least four persons, authorities reported early today. Others were injured.

Two automobiles and a truck on a nearby roadway were destroyed by the blast 10 miles southeast of here.

Four persons were brought to Brackenridge Hospital here with burns. Two of the injured with the most severe burns were to be moved by helicopter to the burns treatment center at Brooke Army Hospital in San Antonio.

An injured survivor, Michael Grant, 26, of Long Island, N.Y., said at the hospital he was driving a panel truck with several companions near a Phillips Petroleum Co. booster station when his motor died.

Grant said when he turned on the ignition again there was a tremendous explosion and that's all he remembered.

Disaster Relief Voted

WASHINGTON — A multimillion-dollar bill reviving a disaster-relief program ended by the Nixon administration has passed the House in a show of voting strength that would be large enough to override a presidential vote.

Rural Republicans joined Farm Belt Democrats yesterday as the House voted 269 to 95 to reinstate the emergency loans to farmers whose crops and livestock suffer heavy losses from bad weather.

A two-thirds majority, 243 votes, is required in the House to override a presidential veto, which House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford indicated might be forthcoming if the bill passes the Senate as is.

Meanwhile, the Senate Appropriations Committee voted unanimously yesterday to approve a two-month emergency extension of foreign-aid funding while accepting a four-month continuation of money for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare. The House voted Wednesday to grant a funding extension for both programs to June 30.

Thieu Asks Elections Now

SAIGON — President Nguyen Van Thieu today called for immediate elections in South Vietnam to prevent the Communists from bringing in "millions of people from the North in order to obtain votes."

He also told newsmen his government would like to open talks at once with North Vietnam to make a start toward normalization of relations between the two Vietnams and eventual reunification. A government spokesman cited mail service and travel between the North and South as two things that might be arranged first.

Vet Benefits Cut Fight Seen

WASHINGTON — If the Nixon administration has its way, many of the nation's veterans will experience sharp reductions in pension benefits and wide-ranging cutbacks in education and medical programs.

Key members of Congress are lining up with the politically weighty veterans' organizations to fight the proposals with legislation and a lawsuit.

The brewing battle threatens the government career of Donald E. Johnson, the Iowa Republican President Nixon chose to run the Veterans Administration, but may give him an early start on a 1974 campaign for the Senate or for governor of his home state.

A White House source confirmed reports that Johnson has fallen into some disfavor in recent days, but said he knows of no decision to fire him. Another source said, however, "The decision has been made that he's going to go."

China to Free 2 Americans

Members of the families of two American fliers long held captive in China harked back to old uncertainties but expressed new hope after hearing that the men would be released within the next few weeks.

And the sister of John Thomas Downey, a Central Intelligence Agency employe captured in China 20 years ago, also sounded encouraged, although prospects for his release appeared less certain.

Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger announced yesterday that one dividend of his recent trip to China was a promise that Air Force Maj. Philip E. Smith and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Robert J. Flynn would be freed soon.

Kissinger said he had been told that Downey, who is not due to be released until 1976, had been an "exemplary" prisoner and that his case would be reviewed later this year.

Union Beach Cop Fired As Row Simmers

UNION BEACH — The police department pot that began simmering two weeks ago reached the boiling point at last night's borough council meeting when one patrolman—with three years service—was told his job terminates Feb. 28.

Details surrounding the incident that has led to the sudden end of employment of Patrolman Peter M. Shane are sketchy but the patrolman said after last night's Borough Council meeting he was notified of his discharge by Detective Sgt. Henry Riegler five hours before he was to resume his regular shift.

Patrolman Shane, who is not certified by Civil Service, said he had taken his wife to a doctor earlier in the evening and upon his return home he received a call from the wife of Sgt. Riegler who advised him her husband wished to see him.

"I was told by Sgt. Riegler I was finished as of Feb. 28," the patrolman said.

"He said the chief (Police Chief Richard F. Trembly) told him to inform me my job was finished," the patrolman added.

Will Show Up

"I am going to continue to show up for work until I am told I can no longer work but, in the meantime, council is supposed to meet and try to resolve the whole thing," Patrolman Shane stated.

During the course of last night's council session, Peter G. Walker, a Democrat and chairman of the police committee, and George Warren, a Republican and member of the same committee, locked horns over incidents that have been taking place within the department over the past several weeks.

Mr. Walker has replied to 20 alleged shortcomings within the department while Mr. Warren has labeled his answers "A whitewash."

"I think Mr. Warren has missed the point of the whole thing," Mr. Walker said. "If he wishes to remark the way he did I can't stop him or anyone for that matter if they seek a political gain.

"But I promise everyone this, the same way I promised them when I replied to the charges in the department, as long as I am chairman of the police committee there will never be any political interference in the police department," Mr. Walker stated.

Says 'No Politics'

"There aren't any politics as far as I am concerned," Mr. Warren replied.

"As a member of the police committee I tried to contact Mr. Walker several times but I wasn't successful.

"I recommend the borough take advantage of the State Police Administrative Bureau and have an evaluation of the whole department at no cost to the taxpayer," Mr. Warren stated.

"I feel this is the ideal thing to do," he concluded.

Mayor Alfred T. Hennessy Jr. explained that the Civil Service Commission has rejected the payroll list of borough police officers.

"In addition to Patrolman Shane six other officers may be losing their jobs," the mayor said.

He stated that under Civil Service regulations each noncertified officer may work a maximum of 25 hours weekly.

"We have many applicants but we prefer to hire from our own town," the mayor continued. "This is one of the reasons we have rejected the (Civil Service) list before," Mayor Hennessy added.

"Nobody here wants to degrade our chief of police but we can't work with him," Police Capt. Joseph Nappi said.

"Joe," Mayor Hennessy stated, "I have a great deal of respect for you and I want to do all I can to aid you and the department. That's why I have scheduled an executive meeting of council for Monday night in hope we can resolve whatever is going on."

Colts Neck Has Cease-Fire In Firearms Control Battle

COLTS NECK — In a late blooming furor that usually occurs during the fall in rural communities, the question of gun controls for hunters has snowballed into the winter business of Colts Neck government.

The Township Committee last night was host to two divided camps, the hunters and the residents who are afraid of being hunted in the somewhat densely wooded areas of this western Monmouth municipality.

About 15 persons spoke for and against a firearms regulation ordinance that is aimed at restricting hunters in populated areas. After a public hearing that spanned such sundries as the township's topography, constitutional and civil rights and various grades of buckshot, the committee tabled the ordinance for further study.

Remarks from the audience were about evenly divided in their sentiment and equally intense in their emotion, with frequent waves of applause from the hunters when spectators spoke in their behalf.

"I want to express my congratulations to the audience for its restraint and reasonableness," noted Mayor Robert L. Simms Jr. at hearing's end.

The hunters contended local ordinance was not needed because state law was adequate and uniform in governing hunting throughout New Jersey. Local law would also present a problem in law enforcement, according to ordinance critics, because the township has no police force and must rely on the State Police stationed here to enforce laws.

That observation prompted a side debate on the merits of coverage by the State Police. Several persons commended the police for their promptness in answering calls but regretted that hunters were even more prompt in escaping through woods.

Residents propounding the ordinance told tales of buckshot being fired at homes; pet ducks being shot in residential ponds; being wakened in the mornings by the sound of gunfire, and children being afraid to go out to play because of the shooting.

Concern for children generated another discussion over whether Colts Neck is a rural or a suburban community and whether children should or should not play in the woods during hunting season.

Two young girls who said they grew up in the township were always disciplined, they said, by their parents to avoid the woods during the hunting season. A woman spectator added the township previously sent out a newsletter to residents advising them of the season and suggesting they use caution.

But several other residents countered that the growing township is no longer strictly rural but is developing into the density patterns of a suburb. The alleged hazards of hunting so close to the populace threatened the civil rights of residents, one spectator suggested.

Previous Ordinance

But one hunter protested that his constitutional right to bear arms was being threatened by ordinance regulations that prohibit hunting within 450 feet of a dwelling, even if that dwelling is owned by the hunter.

The hunters also suggested no law is going to be effective with irresponsible hunters who don't even bother to read it, and would unduly hamper those who do follow state game regulations including wearing the proper clothing and having licenses.

"Four or five years ago, the committee tried to pass another one of those ordinances, only it was more severe," commented Thomas Jamison, one of the resident hunters. "And we had a real knock down, drag-out on that one."

"The only reasonable, sensible way to do it is to come up with something that will work for both sides," Mr. Jamison added.

The committee agreed.

"Both the pro-gunners and the anti-gunners have articulated their sides very well," commented Committeeman Frank Kane. "I'm pretty confused from what I've heard tonight so I suggest we table this to at least next month."

Deputy Mayor John Pyron seconded Mr. Kane's motion to table ordinance action and suggested the committee meet with state game officials and respresentatives of both sides to study the question before reaching a decision on the ordinance.

Act Soon

Committeeman Thomas McClintock voted in favor of delaying action by stressed the committee should do its fact-gathering with dispatch and be ready to vote on the matter in the near future.

The ordinance, which was introduced by the committee last month, forbids the use or carrying of firearms within 450 feet of a dwelling or 1,000 feet of such facilities as playgrounds, schools and athletic fields. Penalties for conviction of violations include a $200 fine and 30 days in jail.

Officials cited the increased population in the community as one of the factors in formulating the ordinance.

The committee also indicated the ordinance was the first step in creating a wildlife preserve in the area bounded by Willowbrook, Cross, Conover and Laird Roads. Last month 50 residents signed a petition seeking the preserve. About 90 per cent of the land in question is privately owned, with the remainder owned by the township.

Citing their concern for "the safety of our children and citizenry and the preservation of our natural environment," the petitioners also asked the committee to prohibit hunting and trapping in the preserve.

Oceanport Renewal Area Residents Endorse Plans

OCEANPORT — Residents of the urban renewal area last night endorsed the proposed second-year program of the borough's redevelopment project which will be centered around the relocation of Main St. slightly southward.

Members of the Project Area Committee (PAC), which is made up of residents and businessmen in the urban renewal area, gave tentative approval to the plan after it was outlined by Gene Lonergan, of Mullin and Lonergan Associates, Inc., Philadelphia, planning consultants for the project at a meeting in the Oceanport firehouse.

The approval was made conditional on the receipt and review by PAC of the actual application for federal funds from the Department of Housing and Urban Development to help finance the second year program which begins July 1. The application is expected to be filed by the borough by mid-March.

Under the proposed second-year plan, the stretch of Main St. and its continuation as Oceanport Ave., from Arcana Ave. eastward to the fork of Oceanport Creek just east of Pemberton Ave., will be replaced with a realigned road built south of the existing one.

This will necessitate the purchase of all properties on the south side of Main St. and Oceanport Ave., between Arcana and the creek fork, which are not scheduled to be bought in this year's program. Involved are eight properties, including the Park Studio Apartments, the Turf Bar, a service station, another commercial property and four homes.

The relocation of Main St. will have the dual effect of straightening and widening the old road and adding depth to the properties on the north side of the street which back on Oceanport Creek. A decision on what will be done with these waterfront properties is not expected to be made until the third or fourth year of the urban renewal programm

In other action, PAC went on record as supporting the proposed 110 foot right-of-way for the relocated Oceanport Ave. which will run southward across the urban renewal area and directed that a copy of the resolution approving it be sent to the county Board of Freeholders.

The freeholders recently approved the new road's alignment which will be built with county funds, and they are expected to act soon on a cooperation agreement with the borough for its construction.

The approval of the 110-foot right of way was made contingent on certain stipulations. These included that the road be no more than four lanes wide, exclusive of turn lanes, that there be no median strip and that there be a minimum buffer zone of 15 feet on either side of the road at its widest section.

Acquisition of land for construction of the relocated Oceanport Ave. has been the focal point of the first year program of the urban renewal project.

Rumson Pay Codes Hearing Scheduled

RUMSON — The Borough Council will hold public hearings March 8 at 8:30 p.m. on two salary ordinances.

Under the proposed police salary ordinance the chief's salary would be raised from $15,200 to $16,115; captain from $13,300 to $14,100; lieutenant from $12,750 to $13,515; sergeant from $12,250 to $13,000; second year patrolman from $11,600 to $12,300; first year patrolman from $9,600 to $10,175, and probationary patrolman from $8,400 to $8,900.

The second ordinance covering other borough employes salaries would boost the borough clerk's pay from $21,310 to $23,310; assistant to the borough administrator from $7,915 to $10,000; assessor from $15,615 to $17,110; collector-treasurer from $8,970 to $9,510 and Municipal judge from $4,750 to $5,035.

The council adopted an ordinance lowering the speed limit on Fair Haven Road between Ridge and Rumson Roads from 50 to 35 miles an hour.

Councilman John H. Dill, who presided in Mayor John O. Teeter's absence, announced that the annual blood donor drive will be conducted March 3, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Rumson Fire House. Members of the Oceanic Fire Department Ladies Auxiliary will staff the drive. Additional information is available by calling J. Gary Salmon, assistant business administrator and blood drive chairman, at Borough Hall.

The council appointed John J. Sparling of 30 Lafayette St., to a four-year term on the Recreation Commission, and Curtis B. Morehouse of Blackpoint Horseshoe to the Board of Health.

To Present Workshop

NEW MONMOUTH — Mrs. Petronelle Barrett, a supervisor in the Middletown School System, will present a workshop on "Values of Education" at Monday's meeting of the Harmony School PTA at 8:15 p.m. in the all-purpose room. Second grade students will display science projects.

West Long Branch Cuts Local Tax Cost

WEST LONG BRANCH — The local purpose tax rate will go down five cents per $100 of assessed property value, if the municipal budget, introduced last night is approved at the next Borough Council meeting.

The $869,530 budget for local purposes represents a hike of $20,536, including a reserve for uncollected taxes of $100,818.

The amount to be raised by taxes for the local purpose budget totals $284,924, a decrease of $19,519.

The overall tax rate here, however, is expected to be $4.40 per $100 of property value, an increase of 35 cents per $100.

The major increase, it was said, is reflected in the 23-cent regional school tax rise and the nine-cent local school tax hike.

Tonti To Be Sentenced On Tuesday

NEWARK (AP) — Next Tuesday has been set as the sentencing date for D. Louis Tonti, Holmdel, the former executive director for the New Jersey Highway Authority who pleaded guilty to shaking down firms doing business with the agency.

The sentencing is set for 10 a.m. in U.S. District Court before Judge George H. Barlow.

Tonti, 54, also a former candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, pleaded guilty Jan. 18 to one count of a 47-count federal indictment charging him and two others with conspiracy and extorting more than $200,000 from three firms that did business with the authority.

Winthrop Rockefeller Succumbs to Cancer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller, the millionaire's son who brought widespread reform to Arkansas as its first Republican governor in nearly a century, died yesterday. He was 60.

A family spokesman said Rockefeller died of cancer at 11:30 a.m. EST. Once a robust 200-pound 6-footer, he had been weakened by an illness discovered during surgery last year and was hospitalized a week ago with a chest ailment.

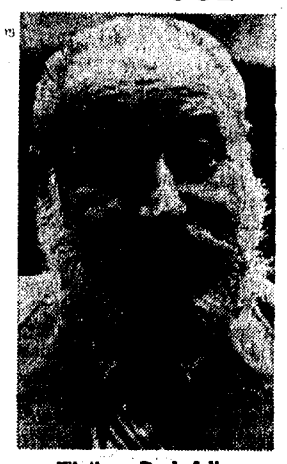

Although they refused to give details of his illness, doctors said it was related to exploratory surgery he underwent in New York after removal of a malignant cyst on his back. Last fall he began a program of chemotherapy.

Rockefeller was elected governor of his adopted state in 1966 after failing to defeat sixth-term Gov. Orval Faubus two years earlier. He was reelected in 1968, but Arkansas voters rejected his bid for a third two-year term in 1970 after he had led a far-reaching reform movement in the state.

President Nixon hailed Rockefeller as a "man of many dimensions" who contributed to the nation "through his quiet philanthropy, his public leadership and his enterprising sense of adventure in making America a better country."

Unlike his four brothers and his sister, he failed to complete college. Instead, the son of multimillionaire John D. Rockefeller Jr. left Yale and worked in Texas oil fields for three years and enlisted in the Army as a private in World War II.

Winthrop Rockefeller

He later maintained he loved the state more than native residents because he chose to come there.

After his arrival in the state, he quickly became a leader in business, cultural and civic affairs and was chairman of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission from 1955-64. In 1960, he began to build an effective statewide GOP organization, filling its coffers with his own fortune.

He pledged to run again after his 1964 defeat and, after a bitter campaign, Rockefeller was elected governor, the same year his brother, Nelson, was elected to a third term as governor of New York.

By the end of his second term, Rockefeller had succeeded in putting through the state's first general minimum wage law and a freedom of information law.

He also established the state's first Model Cities program, strengthened pollution control agencies, created a code of ethics for executive branch employes and expanded the state's red meat inspection program.

John P. Blake Sr.

AVON — John P. Blake Sr., 78, of 709 Ocean Ave., died yesterday in Monmouth Medical Center, Long Branch.

Mr. Blake retired two years ago as a certified public accountant who had maintained offices for many years in both Freehold Township and Upper Montclair.

He was born in Jersey City, son of the late Simon and Mary Blake, and had lived in Freehold Township until his retirement when he moved here.

He was a graduate of Christian Brothers Academy and Pace College, both of New York. He was a communicant of St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church of Avon.

Mr. Blake's wife, Mrs. Lauretta Hill Blake, died in 1964.

Surviving are a son, John P. Blake Jr. of Rochester, N.Y.; a daughter, Dr. Lauretta A. Blake of Avon; a brother, Terrance A. Blake of New York City, and two grandchildren.

Mrs. Bernhard Volkmann

HOWELL — Mrs. Alice Marie Volkmann, 76, of Strickland Road, died Wednesday at Freehold Area Hospital, Freehold Township.

She was born in Audinghcourt, France, and came to this country as a child. She lived in Montclair before coming here 25 years ago. She was a member of Siloam United Methodist Church, Freehold Township, and its United Methodist Women.

Surviving are her husband, Bernhard Volkmann; a son, Bernhard Volkmann, here; a brother, Albert Calame of Lake Hopatcong, and five grandchildren.

The C.H.T. Clayton and Son Funeral Home, Adelphia, is in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Maude H. Gage

KEYPORT — Mrs. Maude H. Gage, 87, of 227 Second St. died yesterday in Riverview Hospital, Red Bank.

Born in Brooklyn, she was the daughter of the late Winant S. and Georgianna Rickard Hooper.

She was a member of Tadmore Chapter 602, Order of the Eastern Star, Queens, N.Y., and Ascension Church, Staten Island.

Surviving are two sons, Carl W. Gage of Great Kills, Staten Island and Alfred H. Gage of Parlin; two daughters, Mrs. Blanche L. Dysinger of Mahwah and Mrs. Evelyn Meehan, here; 12 grandchildren; 23 great-grandchildren, and two great-great-grandchildren.

Ellis Kelly Jr.

FREEHOLD — Ellis Kelly Jr., 54, of 65 Center St., died yesterday in Freehold Area Hospital, Freehold Township.

Mr. Kelly was born in St. George, S.C., son of Mrs. Sypher Kelly of Daytona Beach, Fla., and the late Ellis Kelly Sr.

Mr. Kelly had lived most of his life in Freehold. He was employed as a janitor for the Union Parts Manufacturing Co. of New Brunswick. He was a former member of the Walter J. Conley Elks Lodge of Freehold.

Card of Thanks

Children of Mrs. Trelle B. Kelly wish to express their thanks to the Pastor and members of St. Paul's Baptist Church, friends and neighbors for their kindness and thoughtfulness during our recent bereavement.

PROPOSED SENIOR CITIZENS APARTMENT — Architectural rendering shows senior citizens apartment planned for Oceanport. The six-story, Y-shaped building would have 100 apartments — 55 one-bedroom units, 23 with two bedrooms and 22 efficiencies — and is slated to be built on a five-acre site on Oceanport Ave. across from Lake Drive. The project, to be developed by Howard W. Heck & Associates, Shrewsbury, and designed by architect Robert Doerner, has received preliminary Planning Board approval but faces more official hurdles before being cleared for construction. The next step will be application for a variance from the Zoning Board of Adjustment because the proposed site is zoned for business use.

McKenna Urges 4% Cut in School Budget

RED BANK — Borough Councilman Frank J. McKenna said last night the defeated Red Bank Board of Education budget should be trimmed by at least three or four per cent.

Mr. McKenna is chairman of a special council committee which is scheduled to meet with the board Tuesday to decide what action will be taken on the $1,631,411 current expense tax levy.

Borough voters rejected the proposed budget by a vote of 500 to 274. Under state law, the fate of the budget is up to the council.

The council had been critical of the budget before the election saying that the board was proposing an overall increase of nine per cent in spending.

"The board, in my opinion," Mr. McKenna said, "has not adhered to what we (the council) have tried to do by staying within a 5.5 per cent increase."

Mr. McKenna said he will recommend the council cut the board's budget back to a 5.5 per cent increase. This would mean a reduction of about $70,000.

"The board has to come to realize that while the young people in town are important, the bills are also being paid by older people on fixed incomes and they have to be considered also," Mr. McKenna said.

"The council," Mr. McKenna said, "is not trying to diminish the importance of quality education."

Kuhn Heads Colts Neck School Unit

COLTS NECK — Donald H. Kuhn will continue to serve as president of the Board of Education this year.

The board reelected Mr. Kuhn at an organization meeting last night.

Elected vice president was John Z. Jacoby.

Major appointments remained unchanged, with Henry J. Saling, Eatontown, and Armour S. Hulsart, Avon, being retained respectively as attorney and auditor.

The board will continue to hold its public meetings 8 p.m., the second Thursday of each month in the Cedar Drive School.

Sworn in to three-year terms were incumbents Virginia Amend and George Schenck and newcomer Charles Quackenbush. Walter Dowd Jr., serving his first term on the board, was sworn in to an unexpired two-year term.

Committee assignments made by Mr. Kuhn include:

— Personnel. Mr. Jacoby, chairman through June 30 and Gerald D. Haynie, chairman starting July 1. Mr. Quackenbush will be a member.

— Legislation. Mrs. Amend, chairwoman.

— Policy. Mr. Jacoby and Mr. Kuhn.

Oceanport Pupil Registration Set

OCEANPORT — Kindergarten registration for children who will be 5 years old on or before Oct. 1 will be held in the Wolf Hill School on March 1 and 2 between the hours of 9 a.m. and 11 a.m., Superintendent of Schools Robert I. Price announced.

Mr. Price said those children whose last names begin with A to L will be registered on Thursday, March 1, and those from M to Z on Friday, March 2.

No Toll Increases Slated on Parkway

WOODBRIDGE — "There are no toll increases on the horizon," George M. Wallhauser, chairman of the N.J. Highway Authority, operators of the Garden State Parkway, said yesterday.

Mr. Wallhauser was responding to a question posed during the press questioning period of yesterday's monthly authority session.

The N. J. Turnpike Authority announced earlier this month it will raise its minimum toll between interchanges to 25 cents.

"While it is true the 25 cent toll we received 15 years ago is worth only about 14½ cents today the volume of cars traveling the Parkway has made up the operational cost of the roadway so at least for the moment our tolls will remain as is," Mr. Wallhauser stated.

He said that 166 million vehicles used the Parkway last year.

John P. Gallagher, authority executive director, stated that the Parkway's overall expansion program "is on target cost wise."

An additional two contracts totaling $9.9 million were awarded yesterday leaving a lone award for work in the Union area the only contract remaining on the authority's $83 million project.

Conduit and Foundation Corp. of Clifton was awarded a $5.1 million contract to reconstruct access plazas at Interchanges 96 and 97 in Wall Township.

A left lane exit onto Rt. 34 will be eliminated by the contractor and both interchanges combined to form Interchange 98.

Shiavone Construction Co., Inc. of Secaucus was awarded a $4.7 million contract to complete grading, drainage and paving for one mile of the proposed inner lane (express lane) in the area of Interchange 117.

Prestige Maintenance Inc. of Morristown was awarded a $224,250 contract to provide janitorial maintenance service at toll, State Police, and administration buildings along the Parkway. The contract is for a two-year period, at a proposed saving of $53,000.

Police Nab 4 In Drug Case

MIDDLETOWN — Four persons including two juvenile girls were taken into custody Wednesday afternoon and charged with possession of less than 25 grams of marijuana.

Detective Capt. Robert M. Letts said Patrolmen Harold H. Foulks Jr. and Stephen Xanthos, members of the police department's narcotics task force, stopped a car on Leonardville Road 4:20 p.m. Leonardville Road at 4:20 p.m. and after an investigation arrested the occupants.

Free in $50 bail each pending a hearing in Municipal Court March 12 are Gregg P. Facon, 19, of 17 Millbrook Drive, and Stephen J. Kovacs, 19, of 8 Gayle St., New Monmouth.

The girls, identified as Barbara L. Cree, 16, of 19 Claridge Drive and Ann R. Willner of 8 Foxhill Road, were released in the custody of their parents pending action by juvenile authorities.

Says Firms Abusing WIN Pacts

NEW SHREWSBURY — Mrs. Esther Redd of Neptune, a new member of the county Welfare Board, has charged that private companies participating in on-the-job training programs are "taking welfare out of clients' mouths and cheating the taxpayer."

She explained that a company involved in Work Incentive Program (WIN), is obligated to hire the participant for a nine-month period after training is finished.

"They are firing these people without cause after the nine-month period is over," she said. "They are discriminating against the trainees and just taking money from the program to get a tax break. I know the problem is not under the control of this board, but as a taxpayer I must speak out against injustice."

Dr. James W. Parker Jr., chairman of the Welfare Board, said he would ask a WIN representative to meet with Mrs. Redd.

"The problem may be beyond our jurisdiction," he observed, "but we are concerned with the results of training programs. We are trying to take people out of dependency. When the training programs don't work because of problems in various agencies we get the impact because the people are not working and remain dependent."

'You Must Learn to Pull Yourself Up by Your Bootstraps'

Mr. Nixon and the Poor

President Nixon's decision to dismantle the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) has been one of the most disturbing of all the announcements coming from the White House since his January inaugural.

Both rich and poor, and those in between, probably support the President in his desire to reduce the size of the executive branch of government. The bureaucracy which has grown there in the past decade is unwieldy. Some capital observers see it as an autocracy which thwarts some of the chief executive's own goals for our nation and which sets up unreasonable barriers between him and members of his Cabinet.

Because it has had such a big job to do, OEO is among the agencies that is heavily staffed. Its aim, from the start, was to channel federal funds to the poor and disadvantaged. The best way to do that was to have representatives in the poverty pockets, places where the need was greatest and best understood.

From that worthy philosophy developed such groups as the Monmouth Community Action Program, an agency which set up offices throughout the county where it assist the most number of people.

MCAP had its growing pains, mismanagement and shortcomings. Despite that, however, it has to its credit many achievements, not the least of which are the learning centers which provided incentives for self-improvement. Another important plus was that MCAP served as a liaision between the improverished and agencies—both public and private—that are in existence to help them and to show that someone cares.

Earlier this week, about 500 Monmouth County residents visited Washington to participate in the national mobilization that seeks continuation of all antipoverty programs. Wilbert C. Russell, executive director of MCAP, said he is encouraged that the demonstration would have a favorable impact on Congress.

The travelers had a long day—from 5 a.m. to almost midnight—but the response they received from U.S. Sens. Clifford P. Case and Harrison A. Williams Jr. and Rep. James J. Howard left them confident that their mission will succeed.

An indication of the widespread public concern about cutting off federal aid for domestic programs is the amount of mail our two U.S. senators are receiving on the subject. The mountains of letters that are building up in the Case and Williams offices may not be answered for awhile.

There are two reasons the replies may be delayed. One is the tremendous strain of the senators' staffs and the other — which is the more important — is that the senators have not been advised what the President's plans actually are.

We believe it is unfortunate there had to be a protest demonstration last Tuesday, but we're pleased that it was orderly and, from the travelers' viewpoint, at least, somewhat productive.

The argument between Congress and the White House about Mr. Nixon's threat to impound funds that are appropriated for programs which he believes are inflationary or wasteful must be resolved.

That debate, though, cannot be intelligently staged because the President and his advisers haven't confided their thoughts to the rest of us. All we have been told is that special revenue sharing is in the works which will reduce the amount of machinery that will carry federal funds to the intended beneficiaries.

We find it almost impossible to believe that Mr. Nixon is indifferent to the plight of the poor or to the many domestic ailments our nation is suffering. We wish he would "make it perfectly clear" what his intentions are, and how he will put them into effect. The anxiety his silence is causing must be relieved, lest our nation again suffer the divisiveness that the end of the Vietnam War started to heal.

The County Budget

The county Board of Freeholders has introduced a budget that may mean a lower levy for municipalities. If adopted, the county tax rate will decrease 1.42 cents, despite a budget total of $41,635,328, which is $6,420,729 more than the 1972 spending schedule.

The freeholders were able to put together a budget that will not curtail any vital services. In fact, just about every major department of government—judiciary, correctional, health and welfare, education, recreation, capital improvements—will get additional funds to function adequately.

The three major reasons for presenting a lower tax rate are last year's improved economy which resulted in more revenue than was anticipated, a steady growth in ratables, and a reduction in departmental requests. The last of those is particularly noteworthy, because it is a sign that the heavy demands of previous years may be leveling off.

The major part of the county tax dollar—73 cents—still comes from property taxes, but that, thanks to anticipated federal revenue sharing, is down nine cents from 1972. Until our state legislature enacts tax reform, real estate will have to be the major producer of tax revenues.

The county budget is realistic and merits adoption.

FBI Versus Columnist

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON SCENE

The false arrest of my associate Les Whitten, we have now learned, was used as a pretext for launching a massive FBI investigation into our operations.

Some excuse was needed to get a court order to pry into our telephone calls around the world. This was provided by Whitten's arrest on Jan. 31 while he was reporting on the return of stolen Indian documents to the government. A grand jury agreed this was no crime and refused to indict him.

But meanwhile, the FBI, pretending to investigate Whitten's "crime," secured a court order and served it on American Telephone and Telegraph. FBI agents immediately began checking into our phone calls, digging into our news sources and using all powers of government to find out how we get information that the government doesn't want published.

The court order was granted on Feb. 2, two days after Whitten's arrest. Its stipulated purpose was to investigate the theft of the Indian documents. Yet the FBI subpoenaed our telephone records back to July, four months before the documents were stolen.

Home Phone, Too

When I appeared before the grand jury, the prosecutor emphasized that I was not under investigation. He declared in front of the grand jury that I was not in any way involved in the alleged "crime." Yet the FBI also subpoenaed the telephone records of my home as well as the office.

Once the FBI got its hands on our telephone records, the agents seemed less interested in our Indian sources than in our sources inside the government. They tried to find out which B-52 crewmen, for example, had talked to us by overseas phone about the failure to change flight patterns during the first three days of the Hanoi bombing last December. This failure, the pilots alleged, cost lives.

The G-men traced phone calls in an effort to locate the sources of our information about the Watergate scandal, secret drug-smuggling reports and other stories. Most of all, the agents seemed eager to find out who has been slipping us confidential excerpts from the FBI's own files.

Harassing Sources

All of this has nothing to do, of course, with the Indian documents, which the FBI used as the excuse for getting our telephone records. This was a flagrant violation of our rights under the First Amendment. Obviously, freedom of the press is a mockery if the FBI can block our access to the news by investigating and harassing our news sources.

This is just another example of how the FBI, under Pat Gray, has been used as a political police force.

Footnote: We invited the FBI to comment, but a spokesman had no response.

Washington Whirl

Military Snooping — To stop military spying on civilians and other abuses, former Defense Secretary Melvin Laird announced two years ago that all personnel investigations, counter-intelligence and criminal investigations would be brought under Washington control. This would take the sleuths out from under the domination of the local generals and admirals who no longer would be able to quash investigations of their own misdoings. The big brass raised such a howl, however, that the reforms promised two years ago still haven't gone into effect.

Army Credit — House Banking Chairman Wright Patman has asked government auditors to investigate the Army's credit schemes. He is particularly critical of the charge system used by Army officers clubs around the world. The Army advertised for a firm to handle the credit, then chose the Bank of America for a tryout. This was restricted to the Sixth Army in California. It was a fiasco, yet a permanent, Army-wide contract was granted to the Bank of America.

The cost of the operation promptly went up about 20 cents per officer each month, but the proceeds to the Army Central Welfare Fund went down. A bank spokesman in San Francisco at first denied that its Army credit system had failed but finally acknowledged: "There may be truth in what you're saying."

Brass ring — The brass ring, good for a free ride on the Washington Scene, is awarded today to James B. Jenkins. As a custodian at Washington's St. Elizabeth's hospital, he befriended a lonely, hostile, mentally disturbed patient. For 18 years, Jenkins has paid the patient out of his own pocket to help with small chores around the hospital. The friendship and the activity completely changed the patient's attitude. We found him happy, optimistic and extremely fond of his friend, James B. Jenkins.

Washington Wit — Satirist Mark Russell tells us he has taken off the POW bracelet he was wearing for Les Whitten. He is anxious meanwhile, to see the ballyhooed movie, "The Last Tango in Paris." When he first heard of it, he thought "it was about Henry Kissinger." Russell also has some advice for the oil industry, which is worried about bringing down Alaskan oil. "How about busing it down?" he suggests.

Curious Position on Taxes

By MILTON VIORST

THE NEW POLITICS

The Nixon Administration takes a curious and rather original position on the subject of taxes.

While virtually every other government in the world — including, certainly, our own state and local governments — complains that it can't raise enough revenue to meet needs, the Nixon government is determined not to raise as much money as it legitimately ought to get.

The other day, Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, told a congressional committee that if tax reform results in increased federal revenues, then he is opposed to tax reform.

To be sure, one way to keep down the budget is to collect less money. Then, whenever some liberal says we ought to clean up our rivers or improve our schools, or makes some other absurd demand, the administration can simply reply, "We can't afford it." That's precisely what Stein wants.

But I am stunned, nonetheless, by the administration's insensitivity to what is involved. Stein conceded, rather reluctantly, that some "redistribution" of the tax burden might be in order, if Congress insisted. But he seemed unable to focus on the real question: the fairness of the tax system.

The tax reform movement, basically, is not directed at increasing revenues. I think most reformers recognize now that the amount of money which slips through the loopholes probably doesn't exceed $10 billion. That's a lot of cash but, even in the "austere" Nixon budget of $268 billion, it's only marginal. It certainly won't redistribute much at the lower levels.

What we are talking about is a tax system that, over the years, has grown rotten with special privilege. The abuses have been too frequently presented to bear my repeating them here. But we have created a tax structure where the poor pay more than they can afford, while the rich pay less than they should. And, as everyone knows, some of the rich pay almost nothing at all.

The Injustices

A year ago, many politicians detected a rising resentment on the part of the voters toward tax injustices. Both George Wallace and George McGovern tied their candidacies to tax reform and rode it successfully during the primary season.

But like so many other important issues, tax reform was lost in the muddle of McGovern's election campaign and, presumably, was buried in the Nixon landslide. Since then, rather little has been heard from it.

To revive interest, former Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma announced this week the beginning of a new mass organization to conduct a "tax-action campaign." He recalled that, as a member of the Senate Finance Committee, the only tax lobbying he ever encountered came from the oil companies.

"The reason tax reform has failed," Harris said, "is that there is no organized constituency out there."

What the administration is trying to do, through testimony such as Stein's, is to reduce the tax issue to its economic implications — when it is fundamentally a moral question.

Stein is claiming that the government doesn't want this $10 billion — or any fraction of it that Congress might see fit to command — because the money would upset the government's careful budgetary calculations.

Politics, Economics

But, as economists long ago established, it makes absolutely no difference to the overall performance of the economy whether the government or the private sector spends this money. What matters is how it is spent.

That decision is political, not economic. The administration — out of philosophical conviction and a sense of self-interest — prefers to forego social needs to let the rich spend their money as they please. That's one of their prerogatives of being in office.

And, indeed, we should admit that it's not to get a few more bucks for pollution or education that tax loopholes ought to be closed. These are separate issues, and an administration that is determined to starve such programs won't change its mind over another $10 billion, more or less.

We need tax reforms to get more fairness, not more funds, into our system. Tax reform is not directed at the many who pay enough — but at the few who pay too little. Stein's calculations blur the issue: It would have only a small impact on the budget but would make a big difference in the kind of country we have.

Peace With Honor, But No Joy

By JIM BISHOP

THE REPORTER

There was no dancing in the streets when peace came. This was a surprise to many of us in the news media. I asked some solid citizens about the lack of enthusiasm. One and all they said, in so many words: "What's to celebrate? It's like leaving a sick room."

On Nov. 8, 1918, there was a false armistice. Headlines shrieked that Germany has been defeated. As a little boy, I crept to the front window in fleecy nighties. Men were at the street corner, throwing empty boxes on top of each other at dawn. The flames were long and orange. The carousing men looked like black insects around the fire.

Times Square was jammed with kissing, hugging people when Germany collapsed in the spring of 1945. People told strangers how wonderful it was to be alive, and how great that "our boys are coming home." There was a lot of singing and drinking which expired in meditation and tears.

Church bells rang when the Civil War ended. The people were quiet, almost sullen. It had been a long, exhausting war with Americans shooting Americans. The deep bells tolled, but few went to church. It was as though — on reflection — a struggle had ended between a winner ashamed and a loser starving, silent and independent.

It has taken 11 years and 350,000 young men dead and wounded for us to learn that the gallant days of victor and vanquished are gone. War has always been the final playing card in the diplomatic deck.

This time, the people seemed to know. In a century, nothing has divded us like this small oriental torture, the death of a thousand cuts. We are poorer in blood and treasure, and we require time to recover.

I know of no one who wants to see the word "Vietnam" on the front page, even in a happy context. We have lived with that name in its most dolorous aspects since the administration of John F. Kennedy. And that's a long time ago.

President Richard Nixon says that we have "peace with honor." So be it. I see no honor in dragging our tails off the Asian mainland, but I'm glad we're leaving. I see no honor in the corrupt government of President Thieu. In Saigon, I could by U.S. razor blades and toothpaste in the black market, but the soldiers couldn't find any at the PX.

Lyndon Johnson began the Vietnamization of soldiering, but the Vietnam army had no heart for fighting for their homeland. I walked the streets of Saigon asking American G.I.s about the fighting qualities of Thieu's army. Their opinions are not publishable.

The North Vietnam soldiers, in pairs, carried a 50-pound mortar and two rounds of ammunition down the Ho Chi Minh Trail. It required weeks of living in mud and loneliness. But they had a cause. They believed communism was worth fighting for.

At the end, each team crept into tall grass around Tan Son Hut airbase, and fired the two rounds at night. If they could set fire to a fuel dump, or a million dollar American plane, they did not regret being flushed out by helicopters and killed. To them, it was worth it.

BISHOP

Nor could I understand how Americans fought so valiantly in steaming jungles and decaying villages for a cause they could not embrace. It was a dirty, rotten job all the way — and they did it. There were a few who quit, deserted, but the main bodies of all units slept in the mud and fought in the rain.

Peace with honor? Lyndon Johnson, who was my friend, told me he would not go down in history as the first President who lost a war. Nixon felt the same way. It did not occur to either of them that the British almost beat us in the War of 1812 and burned our sacred buildings in Washington.

It required no more than simple-minded guts to concede that Vietnam was a civil war, and the stronger, sooner or later, would beat the weaker. Outsiders do not belong in a civil war. We could have pulled out in 1966, when General Westmoreland had 520,000 Americans in Asia. But our leaders were imbued with a pride which led them to think in terms of winning or losing.

The crooked curling smile creeps to your lips. North Vietnam cut down our sons and brothers in a cruel and dirty business. Now, more than a decade later, we propose to lend money to help rebuild North Vietnam.

When North Vietnam becomes strong enough, it will engulf South Vietnam. This is logic. It may not happen until after we give them the money, but it will happen.

At that time, 45,000 young men will turn over in their graves and ask "Why?" . . .

Satan Gets Bad Press

By ROBERT YOAKUM

ANOTHER LOOK

NEW YORK, N.Y. — I assumed, naturally enough, that the message left in my box at the Algonquin Hotel here was the work of a prankster: "Meet me in the lobby at 5 p.m. Next to newsstand. Drinks on me. Satan."

So I went downstairs at 5, expecting to see a smirking friend. Instead, there stood a very tall, thin man. A wispy white beard, sunken eyeballs, extremely long fingernails, and translucent skin made him look a lot like those imaginary drawings of Howard Hughes.

"What do you want with me?" I asked, feeling half convinced by now that I was dealing with the real article.

"Advice," he said. "I've been getting a terrible press here recently. The other night I spent half an hour watching Billy Graham, President Nixon's theologian, blaming me for everything but hoof-and-mouth disease."

"I'll have to admit," I said, "that you have aroused an unusual amount of animosity recently. People didn't pay much attention to you for a long time. What's the explanation?"

He shrugged: "Oh, that's simple. If people didn't blame me they'd have to blame themselves. The bigger mess people make of things, the more they lopk for a scapegoat.

"The disgusting stuff they're trying to pin on me! Ugh! Look at Vietnam. Or Northern Ireland. Or the Middle East. Or race riots. Or American television!

Revolting Things

"Can you imagine? Humans doing these revolting things to each other—things that turn my stomach, frankly—and then saying it's all my fault?"

"I see the problem," I said, "but what can I do?"

YOAKUM

"I need a good public relations firm to improve my image, to get a resolution of regret through Congress, and to get me a presidential pardon of the kind Jimmy Hoffa got."

"Wow! That's a big order! Do you realize how much all that would cost?"

"Yes, and since the payment will have to be made in hard currency dollars, I decided to soften them up and have a little fun at the same time."

"You mean you were responsible for the dollar crisis?"

"That's right. I own the soul of every gnome in Zurich and quite a few on Wall Street, too." He sighed. "It was one of my best ploys in a long time. Now that's the kind of operation I'd like to get credit for, but they didn't even give me a line on the financial pages.

"Humans are hopelss. They take all the fun out of being bad."

Matawan Twp. Man Purveys Radio Nostalgia

By BETTE SPERO

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP — "Welcome to the Past" is the opening invitation in Richard B. Wolfe's catalogue for his Old Tyme Radio Co. service that specializes in tapes of old radio programs.

But there is nothing musty about that past at all when Mr. Wolfe, an ardent advocate of the airways, starts talking, in the living room of his home at 65 Ivanhoe Lane, about the realm of radio.

The 40-year-old lawyer whose practice is in New York City has turned a nearly 30-year-old hobby into a full-time lucrative operation. He has been taping shows, and exchanging them with other radio buffs for about 20 years, but his interest goes back farther than that, to the days when your parents told you to go listen to the radio.

Grew Up With Radio

"I grew up with radio. It was my childhood," Mr. Wolfe recalled. "We didn't have television. That didn't become popular until 1948.

"And then when one family would get a television, they became celebrities," he added. "The whole block would come in to watch it on a tiny screen with names, like Dumont, which they don't even make anymore."

But that was really after the fact for Mr. Wolfe because his real growing up was in the early 1940's when radio, coupled occasionally with the movies, were the creative entertainment outlets for children.

He described a typical Saturday as a morning before the radio ("We would start at 10 with 'Let's Pretend.' Then there was 'Stars Over Hollywood,' 'Grand Central Station,' and 'City Hospital.' "); an afternoon at the movies (complete with "Captain Marvel" serials) followed by games of boxball (also called "slug," described as a miniature handball game) and then back to the radio for "Gangbusters."

Soap Operas, Too

During the week, there was a bit of diversion programwise. "The Lone Ranger" started off the evenings instead of "Gangbusters," and sometimes when children were home sick, their mothers would let them listen to daytime soap operas such as "Stella Dallas" and "John's Other Wife."

"Radio became very much a part of our lives. When the second Lone Ranger (there were several who played the part) died, I remember it very vividly because I cried," Mr. Wolfe recalled. "That's all everyone was talking about the next day in school."

Mr. Wolfe thinks radio was more stimulating than television because it stimulated listeners to use their imagination. But sometimes that could turn out to be a cruel disappointment when reality stepped in.

After listening for hours on end to Saturday sessions of "Let's Pretend," dramatizations of children's fairy tales, Mr. Wolfe got a chance to visit the studio and see the show.

"I was very disappointed. I expected to see fairy princesses and dwarfs but instead I saw all my peers standing around a microphone," he said.

Recalls Color

Mr. Wolfe is a compendium of verbal notes about the radio he remembers:

"The interesting thing about Tonto (the Lone Ranger's Indian sidekick) is he was an Irishman by the name of Dodd. He was in his 70's and going senile. When they did one show, that supposedly took place in a hotel room, he fell asleep for most of it. The Lone Ranger kept talking in a one-way conversation when Dodd suddenly woke up and yelled 'Get 'um up, Scout.' No one could figure out how Scout ever got into the hotel rooms."

—Scout's original name was Paint.

—"Sorry, Wrong Number" was originally a radio show with Agnes Moorehead before it went on to be the basis for a famed movie of the same name, starring Barbara Stanwyck.

—As well as starring in such musical programs as "Hit Parade," singer Frank Sinatra also played the part of a truck driver in a show called "Rocky Fortune."

— Comedian Danny Thomas was one of the villian's voices in "The Green Hornet," which was produced by the same man who did "The Lone Ranger."

One thing Mr. Wolfe does not remember is the original broadcast of the Mercury Theater's presentation of 23-year-old actor Orson Wells' "modern adapation" of the H.G. Wells writing, "The War of the Worlds." For Mr. Wolfe was only six years old when that show was broadcast as "entertaining Halloween fare" the night of October 30, 1938.

Martians Didn't Appear

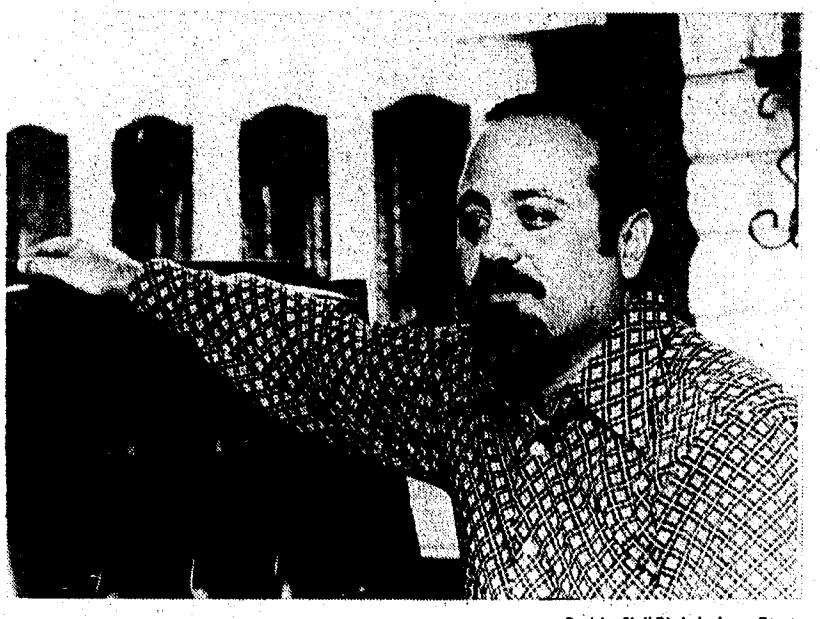

But he has a tape recording of the broadcast which an estimated nine million persons heard, and the reactions thereafter when an estimated two million of them believed that Martians had really invaded Grovers Mills, New Jersey.

And with little more ado he ran the tape which one had to strain a bit to hear because the quality made the sound almost as distant as 1938. Others, of "The Lone Ranger" and "Baby Snooks," (which starred late comedian Fanny Brice, then over, 50, as a five-year-old) were louder and clear — just as if you had turned on the radio.

Turning on the radio is not anything that Mr. Wolfe does anymore with much relish, however.

"The news is depressing and the music isn't much better," he remarked. "Most of it seems to be Negro spirituals turned into bop tunes. There are a hell of a lot of us who would like to hear the old tunes of Cole Porter."

Mr. Wolfe isn't kidding. There are about 100 buffs like himself who belong to a nationwide club, Vintage Radio Enthusiasts, based in Connecticut. The group has an annual convention, with the most recent speaker having been Brent Morrison whom you might better remember as "The Shadow."

RADIO RELIVED — Richard B. Wolfe, a Matawan Township resident, and old time radio buff, listens intently to his tape of the 1938 broadcast of Orson Welles' adaptation of the H.G. Wells classic, "The War Of The Worlds." Copies of parts of his ever widening collection are much sought after. He has received requests for tapes from as far off as Lebanon.

For 20 years or so, such devoted hobbyists traded radio shows through the mails and kept track of radio "stars," occasionally meeting some of them. Then a nostalgia craze spanning entertainment, fashion, and communications took hold.

"I love nostalgia," declared Mr. Wolfe, as he gestured to a bookcase filled with old, "great comics" like Dick Tracy.

"People are coming back to 'The Staturday Evening Post,' " he added, suddenly whipping up a copy of same from a nearby table which also held issues of "Liberty" and a magazine called "Good Old Times."

He thinks the current nostalgia fad is a quest for a simpler life.

"In a sense, I think it's a desire to return to a simpler, quieter time when the villians wore black hats and the good guys wore white," he suggested.

Whatever it might be philosophically, it is beginning to mean something financially to the Wolfes who have found themselves in the old time radio business, or at least in the business of duplicating it via tape cassettes.

Started Mail Sales

Mr. Wolfe started selling the tapes (which go for $8.50 per hour show), he said, in order to get enough money to buy more for his collection. Interest started to be more than mild when The Advisor, a Monmouth County weekly newspaper, and The Village Voice, a New York City newspaper, published articles about him.

But the real mushrooming erupted when Robin Sloan mentioned Mr. Wolfe and Old Tyme Radio in his nationally syndicated column that is carried in the New York Daily News. Since then the Wolfes said they have been getting an average of 350 letters a day, including one from Beruit, Lebanon, requesting catalogues and tapes.

One of those letters was from none other than former radio personality Rudy Vallee and another from CBS News which is scheduled to film the Wolfes this week at their home.

Mr. Wolfe estimated he has answered requests for about 5,000 catalogues, which span such selections as "Inner Sanctum," "The Great Gatsby" (with Kirk Douglas), "Dr. I.Q.," "Richard Diamond," and the music of Bunny Berrigan.

Interested persons may obtain catalogues, which cost $1 each, or other information at Old Tyme Radio Co., P.O. Box 81, Hazlet, N.J. 07730.

Interferes with Pursuits

Mr. Wolfe's only complaint — and that of his wife Lillian, who acts as his secretary — is that Old Tyme Radio is beginning to interfere with his present time pursuits.

Those other pursuits include, though certainly are in no way restricted to:

—The law. He specializes in medical litigation and says he is the first attorney to win a lawsuit where a client was literally frightened to death (having suffered a heart attack while witnessing an accident).

—Politics. Mr. Wolfe is a former president of the Regular Democratic Club of Matawan Township, lost a bid for a Borough Council post, and works as cartoonist and photographer with the county Democratic newsletter.

—Civic activities. He is a member of the Matawan Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Wolfe also disseminates his radio nostalgia to the community via children's and adult sessions at the local library.

Wanted to Star

His one regret is that he was never really a radio star himself. One brief childhood fling, when he sang on the air as a soprano, ended quite abruptly in a case of stage fright, he said.

So he contents himself with being on the other side of the microphone from whence he collects nearly every facet of radio memorabilia. His son Brian, 7, a pupil at the Strathmore Elementary School, seems to be following his footsteps on that count. Brian eagerly showed off his rock collection after explaining he was going to be a volcanist.

And when his father took a visitor on a tour of the garage where Mr. Wolfe keeps collections of model airplanes hanging from the ceiling, a wall replica of the rifle that was used to shoot President John F. Kennedy, and sundry posters and political buttons, Brian discussed the fact that President Franklin D. Roosevelt was the only American president to be elected to a fourth term.

Daughter Stacey, 5, a pupil at Creative Campus Nursery, did not express any interest in radio or collecting, though at one point she announced she was going upstairs to listen to HER tapes (of the musical "1776," to which she sings the score).

Benefit Concert Tomorrow

NEW SHREWSBURY — Two local guitarists will team their individual styles of classical and blues-ragtime, Saturday evening, as they appear on stage in a benefit performance at Monmouth Reform Temple, Hance Ave.

Jared Phillips, Rumson, is the classical performer, who will share the program with Steve Sussman, Shrewsbury, specialist in blues, ragtime and modern complex finger-picking styles. They appeared together last November at the Rumson High School Cultural Series.

The Happening for Two Guitars is a benefit for the summer program for the underprivileged children of New Brunswick. It is sponsored by the Monmouth Reform Temple chapter of the Jewish Federation of Temple Youth. Howard Koslow, New Shrewsbury, is president.

Tickets for the 8 p.m. performance are available at the door.

Mr. Phillips, a teacher with the Monmouth Conservatory of Music, appears regularly at Le Fromagerie Restaurant, Rumson. California born, he has performed throughout the country, and his recent concert at Brookdale College, Showcase I, was well acclaimed.

On Saturday, Mr. Phillips will play the works of Bach, Carcassi, Sor and Villa-Lobos, among others. He includes the flamenco style in his repertoire.

This particular performance will mark the debut of a brand new guitar that Mr. Phillips constructed himself. An endeavor that took over a month. This is the fourth such instrument that the artist has made.

Mr. Sussman performs his blues and ragtime on six and twelve string guitars. He has appeared for the past three years at the Middletown Folk Festival and has performed at concerts in Holmdel Park and Red Bank's Marine Park. He is a member of the Holmdel Folk Music Club and has performed at their many concerts at Bell Labs, where he is an electrical engineer.

Among the pieces on Mr. Sussman's program are the works of such composers as Robert Johnson, whose music of the mid-1930's is the basis for many present day rock numbers. These numbers include Mississippi Delta Blues and the popular Kind Hearted Woman. He will also perform the music of Leo Kottke, a composer in the modern vein. In addition to being a performer, Mr. Sussman is a composer in his own right. He will perform some of his own compositions, including Pacific Coast Highway Blues and Lament of a Space Cadet.

Woodwinds Recital Scheduled by MAF

RED BANK — The New York Kammermusiker Woodwind Quintet wil give a concert at 8:30 p.m., Monday at The Barn, Avenue of Two Rivers, Rumson.

The special non-subscription program is presented by the Chamber Music Society of the Monmouth Arts Foundation.

The quintet consists of a flute, clarinet, oboe, French horn and bassoon. Its members are five of the most outstanding young wind players currently resident in New York.

During the past two years, the group has performed extensively in New York City, most recently at Carnegie Recital Hall, Lincoln Center Library, and Federal Hall, where they were invited to present the first concert series in this national shrine. They have also appeared on Robert Sherman's "The Listening Room" program on radio station WQXR.

The Chamber Music Society, also sponsors a concert series in Rumson's First Presbyterian Church.

Tickets will be on sale at the door of The Barn the evening of the concert. Further ticket details are available from Mrs. Richard Wexelblat of New Shrewsbury.

INFATUATION — Gregory Peck portrays a rural Tennessee sheriff who is almost destroyed by his infatuation with a young backwoods girl, portrayed by Tuesday Weld, in "I Walk the Line," a drama to be colorcast on "NBC Saturday Night at the Movies" tomorrow at 9 p.m., on the NBC Television Network.

PHOTOS INTO PAINTINGS. A new process, "Personal Paintings," offers people a chance to become Sunday painters. Here, Mrs. Barbara Glick, Monsey, N.Y., studies a 16" x 20" coded outline and the color print of her daughter from which it was made. A completed painting of her father is in the background.

Photography, we are aware, nourishes creative ability in people in the process of taking pictures and making prints. It brings into play the art of seeing and evaluating light, composition, timing and cropping.

I've just learned of another new area in which photography plays a part in encouraging creative ability in people. The new art form, called "Personal Paintings," is a process whereby small color photos — usually portraits — can be converted into distinctive 16" x 20" oil paintings and the camera fan, or some member of the family, becomes a "Sunday painter."

The process, introduced by Craft Master of Toledo, Ohio, is a patented procedure which starts with color prints or transparencies. They are copied, color-corrected, enlarged and reproduced on 16 x 20 panel boards in black-and-white outlines containing tiny numbered areas. These act as painting guides and the numbers are duplicated on little containers of oil paints.

By painting in the numbered areas with their matching oil paints and using the original color photo for reference, the result is a large impressive oil painting that is truly personal and creative.

It's simple to say the small color photo is converted into a large black-and-white painting guide. Actually the process is an example of photographic space-age technology in computerized optical magic. And no wonder, it was developed by Itek Corp. which also developed camera systems for the Apollo and Mars satellites and landing vehicles.

The "Personal Paintings" camera system was perfected after a three-year research and development study in joint cooperation with Craft Master, a division of General Mills. It utilizes a precision copy camera for 70mm film, a laser beam, a television-type scanner, three computers and an optical card reader.

It isn't necessary to understand the precise technical details which produce the enlarged, coded, paint-by-number black-and-white duplicate of a color photo or transparency. It is important to know what kind of pictures are acceptable for this creative process.

Good, clear, sharp, head-and-shoulder color close-ups of people make the best subjects for painting. The better the picture, the better the result is likely to be. They can be snapshots or enlargements, wallet or jumbo prints, studio portraits, Polaroid prints or slides. Faces should be at least the size of a quarter but the bigger, the better. Backgrounds should be simple and nondistracting.

Not acceptable are faces that are fuzzy or too small — such as found in group shots or a full-length figure — and those with complicated backgrounds which merge with the face.

Good black-and-white portraits are acceptable if the sender has a favorite photo and doesn't mind painting it in shades of sepia. In some cases, the scanner can create its own set of color values by referring to sample photos which represent good color values.

A complete kit for about-to-be-artists consists of the color photo originally sent in; a 16 x 20 coded outline of the subject mounted on stiff board; a book of instructions for this painting technique; an assortment of about 48 small containers of oil paints, each numbered; a practice panel and paint brushes.

A kit is returned about four weeks after a satisfactory photo (and the cost of $19.95) is received. An average person should spend between 10 and 20 hours to complete the painting. And until he tries, one never knows what hidden talent is waiting to be uncovered.

Batik Works Exhibited

LINCROFT — The First Unitarian Church of Monmouth County, 1475 West Front St., is presenting an exhibition of batik paintings by Mrs. Pushpa Lata of Delhi, India. The exhibit opened Sunday, and will be open to the public for several weeks.

Mrs. Lata, known professionally as "Pushpa," has exhibited internationally. Her exhibit at the Unitarian Church has been arranged by Mrs. Sondra Sen of Middletown.

Batik art has been practiced for more than 2,500 years, principally in India. The technique involves painting designs in wax on cloth. The cloth is then dyed and the wax removed, leaving an uncolored design defined by the surrounding dyed material. This process is repeated many times, building up layers of colors and designs that are unique to each batik.

Pushpa is a graduate of Agra University and has taken courses in the ancient batik method at Delhi University. While producing her own batiks for worldwide exhibition, Pushpa runs her own school on batik methods in Delhi.

The exhibit, which is free of charge, will be open to the public from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays, and from 10 a.m. to 12:30 during Sunday Services in the main hall of the church. The exhibit is one of a series sponsored by the church during the year to spotlight local and nationally-known artists.

Forrestdale School Schedules 'Wizard'

RUMSON — A fully staged musical production of "The Wizard of Oz" will be produced at Forrestdale School March 23 and 24 at 8:15 p.m. The first all-school show of its kind ever given at the elementary school involves 122 students and is directed, staged and choreographed by Mrs. Betty Jane Shaw.

Rehearsals have been under way since November for the cast of 22 speaking parts, two choruses and a marching band of fourth grade girls.

Dorothy, the little girl who wakes to find herself in the magical land of Oz, is played by Cricket Herr. Her storybook friends are: Scarecrow, Edna Mae Waters; Tin Man, Sue Osinski and Cowardly Lion, Peter Love. The Wicked Witch they triumph over is played by Lisa Golder.

Mrs. Donna Fitzgerald and a team of girls are making the costumes and Ernest Zahn and a crew of boys are preparing flats and properties. Musical accompanist is Mrs. Dianna Cardwell.

Reserved seats only will be available by advanced sale only. If necessary, Mrs. Shaw says, a command performance will be given on March 30.

Musical Theater Base Of Brookdale Course

LINCROFT — Musical theater, an indigenous American art form, will be examined and enjoyed in a mini-course being offered during the Spring term by Brookdale Community College's Institute of Applied Humanities.

Open to any county resident, the course will carry from one to three credits, depending on the amount of time and effort the student chooses to put into it.

It will deal in depth with the musical theater, from its origins in the early 1900's to the present and studies will include trips to New York to see at least two of these three shows: "A Little Night Music," by Stephen Sonheim, "See Saw," or "Pippin." Guest lecturers from the field will also be a highlight of the course, and will include such luminaries as Margaret Whiting.

Starting with opera and proceeding through operetta, vaudeville, burlesque and the music hall, the course will trace the evolution of musical theater, highlighting the shows and the musicians who have contributed to the evolving form.

Special projects will offer students an opportunity to concentrate on the style or techniques of an individual writer or musician, or to focus their attention on some other aspect of the musical theater — whether historical or current.

The course is intended to familiarize students with this form of theater, to enhance their critical abilities and to increase their appreciation and knowledge of the historical, developmental and aesthetic qualities of the American theater.

CLOWNING

CLOWNING AROUND — Host Lorne Greene is surrounded by several clowns who will join him in the all-new "Highlights of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus," to be colorcast as a "Bell System Family Theatre" special on the NBC Television Network Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Black Teen-Age Crown Applicants Being Sought

NEWARK — Applications are being accepted for the third annual Miss Black Teenage New Jersey beauty pageant. Mrs. Jean Bryant, producer and co-sponsor, said the pageant is open to girls 13 to 16 years of age with a good appearance and a performing talent.

The event is scheduled for June 17 at the Terrace Ballroom, here.

A $500 cash prize will be awarded to the winner who will also receive an all expense paid trip to Hal Jackson's Miss Black Teenage America televised final in New York.

Co-sponsoring the pageant with Mrs. Bryant are Sandra Hughes of Plainfield, Mrs. Mary Rogers and Mrs. Patricia Fletcher of East Orange and John Alston of Orange.

Applications are available by writting Miss Black Teenage New Jersey, 427 Orchard Place, Plainfield, N.J. 07061.

MAF Awards 8 Students

RED BANK — The Monmouth Arts Foundation has named seven students to receive Merit Awards in Music for 1973, and one to receive a Merit Award for Dance.

The list of winning musicians includes two composers: Alison Carlson of Marlboro High School, and Martin Grey of Middletown Township High School, both of whom were selected for original choral works.

Two vocalists were also named: soprano Bonnie Anne Mullen of Middletown, and lyric soprano Victoria Hill of Freehold.

Pianist Ann Brause, flutist Leigh Grau and violinist Amy Ingram, all of Middletown Township, complete the list.

The single Merit Award for excellence in Dance, went to Lauren Overby, a senior at Red Bank Catholic.

The young performers were selected in auditions last month. They will all receive Certificates of Merit from the Monmouth Arts Foundation. In addition, they will be eligible to apply to MAF for scholarship aid toward further study in their chosen fields.

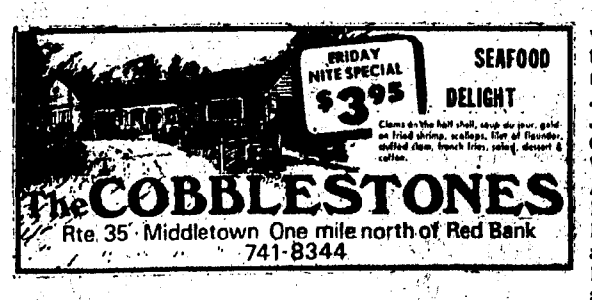

The final music auditions were judged by a six-member team representing a range of musical activities in the area. Judges included: Miss Helen Jepson, former Metropolitan Opera star; Dr. William A. Wollman, professor of Fine Arts at Monmouth College; Robert Spencer, Choral Music Director at Red Bank Regional High School; flutist Alicia Rowe, violinist Carl Safran, and brass player Al Tomaino.

At present, the Monmouth Arts Foundation plans to sponsor a Spring Concert by the Merit Award musicians in June.

FOR YOUR WEEKEND

ENJOYMENT

Theater Box Score

"No Sex Please, We're British," a farce from London at Broadway's Ritz, received no laughs from the New York critics.

The Associated Press said: "Tony Tanner is terrific, the play is a trifle." The Times: "Its triviality is beyond contempt." The News: "It is unlikely to have the same effect as amusement in New York as in London." The Post: "Dreadful." CBS-TV: "The price of a laugh comes high."

Tanner and Maureen O'Sullivan star in the story about a young couple accidentally engulfed in miscellaneous pornography after ordering some Swedish glass.

"Status Quo Vadis," satiric comedy at Broadway's Atkinson, closed after one performance. It was liked by the Post which said "frequently impressed me," and by The AP with "a cheerfully cynical charade." Opposed were The News and The Times.

FAMILY ARGUMENT — Ernest Borgnine is the hard, big city detective who quarrels with his wife, an ex-prostitute (played by Stella Stevens), over an invitation to the captain's ball in the sea adventure, "The Poseidon Adventure." The film, which has garnered seven Academy nominations, is being exhibited at several Shore theaters.

Nixon Likes 'Irene'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon took his wife and daughter to the theater Thursday night and literally bumped in to a Massachusetts woman who had danced with him at his inaugural ball a month ago.

As the chief executive, Mrs. Nixon and daughter Tricia Cox arrived at the National Theater to see the musical comedy "Irene," they had to work their way through a crowd of several hundred standing outside the entrance.

The crowd closed in and the first family was slightly jostled. They found themselves face to face with a Mr. and Mrs. Cririe of Worcester, Mass. Mrs. Cririe told the President she had danced with him at one of his inaugural balls and Nixon responded that he remembered.

The first family had orchestra seats for the nostalgic musical, set in the turn of the century and starring Debbie Reynolds.

At intermission, as other theater patrons moved slowly by his aisle seat where he signed autographs, the President said he was enjoying the musical and "I hope it will be a big hit."

He said Miss Reynolds "is just a superstar . . . this is her best performance . . . she is displaying a range of acting and dancing I've never seen before."

The President said he had invited Miss Reynolds and her family to the White House for Sunday worship services.

In predicting success for the show, now in its pre-Broadway tryouts, the President called it "a great production"

Aruba has a square nickel which is often carried away by collectors. In fact, it is so popular that it is sometimes in short supply.

Seniors Club Gets Special Pool Rate

MIDDLETOWN — The department of parks and recreation has a summer treat in store for members of the Middletown Senior Citizens Leisure Time Group.

James E. Duke, director, announces the department has accepted a proposal from Clearwater Pool Club, Rt. 36, offering special low cost senior citizen memberships for this summer at $5 a person.

All facilities of the club will be open to senior citizen members, who must be bona fide members of the Senior Citizens Leisure Time Group and must show membership cards to use the club.

PARALYZED YOUTH — Frank W. Jenkins Jr., 16, center, paralyzed from the neck down as a result of a gymnastic class accident, reads card held by his sister, Evelyn, 11, at his bedside in Valley Forge General Hospital, Valley Forge, Pa., while brother, Joseph, 14, looks on. A fund raising drive is being started to help the youngsters' parents, retired Army Sgt. and Mrs. Frank W. Jenkins, 40 Locust Ave., Eatontown, pay mounting medical bills.

Courses Varied at Brookdale

LINCROFT — "Great American Trials," in which the student will serve as a juror for five of America's most famous trials, is one of many short, non-credit courses being offered this spring at Brookdale Community College. The courses are open to teen-agers and adults and carry no requirements. No grades or examinations will be given.

Subjects range from landscaping, to the environment, to secrets of Monmouth County chefs. Some are free, others have a nominal charge.

Leopold and Loeb, Sacco and Vanzetti, and the Chicago Eight are three of the trials discussed in "Great American Trials." The student will hear the arguments of the case and consider and discuss them with his fellow jurors — all members of the class. This course, held on Wednesdays at 8:30 p.m, starts March 21.

Another course in an historical vein with lessons for today is a study of Gandhi, Lenin, Zapata, Guevara, Castro and others. Entitled "20th Century Revolutionaries," this course looks at familiar historical events from a fascinating and different perspective. Classes run on Wednesday mornings beginning March 21.

A resurgent interest in crafts and homemaking arts is recognized in the Spring curriculum with several courses designed to make the student more expert in these accomplishments.

In "Fabric Printing" students will experiment with the techniques of tie and dye, cloth printing, and batik designs in wax to design fabrics for the home. Elaine Sinins, a local craftswoman, will instruct for the six-session course which will run on Monday evenings beginning March 26. Ms. Sinins will also teach "Warp and Weft," featuring the ancient art of hand weaving. This six-session course will be offered Monday mornings starting March 26.

Interior Design Course

A course on interior design, "The Interior Story," will be by Frances A. Macdonald, an interior designer. The student will learn how to fix up his home on a limited budget. Classes will be held on Thursday mornings starting March 22.

"Secrets of Shore Chefs" will include cooking demonstrations. Professional chefs — Tom Ilonnen of the Lobster Shanty, Hans Pfeiffer of the Shadowbrook, Fun-Wah Chin of the Canton Kitchen — will demonstrate secrets of ingredients and tricks of preparation. The course, cosponsored by the New Jersey Natural Gas Company, will be held on Monday evenings beginning April 2.

For people interested in gardening, the Spring noncredit program offers two opportunities: Dr. Norman D. Hungerford of the Marlboro Flower & Garden Center will instruct "Landscape Your Home," a three-session course to improve the student's own garden. The student will use a plot plan of his house and existing plantings to develop a workable plan based on his taste and pocketbook. Cosponsored by Steinbach's, the classes will meet on Saturday mornings beginning March 3, and will be conducted at Steinbach's Manalapan store.

A single session on organic gardening will be offered Saturday, March 10, at 9:30 a.m. on the Lincroft campus of the college. M. C. Goldman of Organic Gardening magazine will speak and there will be a discussion of new varities of vegetables, freezing, and canning, organic gardening as a therapy, the making of cold frames, techniques of growing, and other related topics.

For those who would rather spend time in the garage, than in the house or garden, Brookdale also has something to suggest.

"Pit Stop," which welcomes men and women, focuses on the fundamental mechanics of the automobile including basic engine service, drive systems, transmissions, the electrical system, tire service, and basic maintenance. The classes on Saturday mornings will start March 24.

To Study Engines

"The Little Engine and Owner That Could!" is a course on engines used around the home. The student will learn to repair lawnmowers, edgers, mini-bikes, and the like. General maintenance and tune-ups will also be taught in six Saturday afternoon sessions beginning March 24.

For visual delights, Brookdale's community education department suggests "Modern Art, Simplified" and "Photographers' Journal."

"Modern Art, Simplified," is a course which culminates in a visit to a modern art museum in New York City. The student will discover the meanings of paintings that use dots, splashes, cubes, and flat colors — impressionism, expressionism, pop, op, dada, conceptual art, and kinetic art on Tuesday mornings beginning March 27.

"Photographers' Journal" will be a study of the works of Saul Bass, Ansel Adams, Dorothea Lange, Ed Weston, and Gordon Parks. Through a series of documentary films, the student will become acquainted with the work, attitudes, and techniques of these photographers. The course will be held on Fridays, beginning April 27, at 8 p.m.

One additional group of courses defies categorization.

An internist, clergyman, and psychiatric social worker will discuss the decisions, facing many people, regarding the care of our aged and ailing parents in "Generations." Here the student will discuss the emotional, social and financial dimensions of aging. The single-session, cosponsored by the Institute of Interreligious Studies and the county medical society, will be held on May 16, Wednesday, at 8 p.m.

"The Sky Above, The Earth Below," explores America's environmental crisis — air, water, landscape, noise, food and drug pollution. It runs on Friday mornings beginning March 9, while "Energetics" a practical course for men who cannot get to the gym, will run on Friday evenings starting March 30.

"So You Want To Work!" is a course designed to help its students return to work. This seminar deals with assessment of the students' skills, existing job opportunities, retraining techniques and procedures for finding the right job. Linda Oxman of the Career Services Center at Brookdale will instruct the course which will run on Friday mornings from April 27.

Robert Papon of the New School for Social Research will be the instructor for "Fact or Fake?" a course on yoga, witchcraft, astrology, and reincarnation. The classes will meet on Tuesday mornings beginning March 20.

EXTENSIVE RENOVATION — The Sea Bright Bathing Pavilion will be spruced up in time for the summer season as shown by this frontal sketch. Interior improvements include altering lockers, adding new cabanas, a coffee shop and furnishings. The alterations will begin in March and will be completed by summer. Vivian Chimento of Little Silver will operate the bathing pavilion, which will have a representative at the club on Sundays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in March to accept membership applications. Applications will be mailed to current members.

Adult Classes Start March 5

EATONTOWN — Residents throughout the central Monmouth County area will begin receiving by mail, the spring term brochure of classes being offered by the Monmouth Adult Education Commission (MAECOM).

The 20-page catalog, complete with photographs, contains a listing and description of over 200 subjects and more than 300 individual classes scheduled to begin March 5 at four area high schools and several satellite educational facilities. In addition, the brochure includes the time and location of each class as well as registration and tuition information.

The spring brochure also pays special tribute on its cover to Dr. John Gilbert, Rumson, chairman of the commission's board of trustees, whose vision, leadership and devotion has enabled MAECOM to become one of the most successful adult educational organizations in the state.

Thomas R. Niles, MAECOM Coordinator said that 77,000 brochures, weighing nearly five tons, were mailed to homes and businesses by Addresses Unlimited, Middletown.

In addition to such topics as Adventures in Parapsychology, Romance of Wine and Workshop on Women's Liberation, the adult school offers a wide variety of technical, general education and employment related classes designed to upgrade the student's skills and abilities for the job market. Some of these courses are secretarial studies, computer applications and business management, he continued.

Two unique programs being offered deal with pilot training and professional real estate workshops. Also available are courses in auto repair, arts, crafts and sports. A Career Development Program in the field of hotel-motel operations is being offered for persons desiring to prepare themselves for this rapidly growing industry.

Classes are held evenings at Long Branch, Monmouth Regional, Ocean Township and Red Bank Regional High Schools and also at MAECOM's Educational Center, here. Instructors for all classes are selected on the basis of both knowledge of their subject and demonstrated teaching ability.

Plan Hearing Tests For Middletown Tots

MIDDLETOWN — Screening by the Lincroft Woman's Club of the hearing of some 1,300 kindergartners will start March 3.

The screening, a free community service project of the club, comprises a survey for hearing defects of all children registering for kindergarten classes in 1973. School nurses and Parent-Teacher Association members will be on hand to assist, as will members of the Middletown and River Plaza Woman's Clubs, the Junior Woman's Club and the Lincroft Sub-Junior Group.

The club has designated five screening centers. In Lincroft School Saturday, March 3, children from Lincroft, Nut Swamp and River Plaza Schools will be tested. In Bayview School March 10 kindergartners from Bayview and Belford Schools will be screened.

Children from Fairview, Navesink and Leonardo Schools will be tested March 17 in Leonardo School. In East Keansburg School March 24, children from Harmony and East Keansburg Schools will be screened. In Middletown Village School March 31, children from New Monmouth and Middletown Village Schools will be tested.

Testing will take place in the designated schools from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

One child in 10 has an undetected hearing loss, and early detection of mild to moderate hearing losses can forestall permanent handicaps, parents are warned.

The screening test makes use of a verbal audiometer, with children wearing earphones like those worn by the astronauts. The test is conducted like a game, with the child requested to point out pictures.

IRS Can Be Wrong

By SYLVIA PORTER

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

"I have lost confidence in your income tax articles and no longer keep them for information," wrote Mrs. A.M.C., president of a manufacturing concern in the Midwest. "For the past several years I have followed your financial column with the greatest of interest. I was always under the impression that I could believe what you said. I felt certain the articles were thoroughly researched.

"However, I have just had a very unpleasant experience with the IRS, who audited my 1971 federal income tax report.

"I had followed the instructions given in your article published on Monday, Feb. 28, 1972, pertaining to the 7 per cent investment credit as it applied to a business automobile purchased in December, 1971, and depreciated over a three-year period.

"The IRS disallowed this deduction, stating that the 1971 law covering the investment credit apply only on an asset depreciated over four years."

Then Mrs. A.M.C. told me she had "lost confidence" in me and signed off with a very cold "Yours very truly."

Important Message

For the sake of Mrs. A.M.C. and her future relations with the Internal Revenue Service in her district, I have changed her initials and omitted the name of the newspaper which carried that column. Otherwise, this correspondence is precisely the way it was written, the tale I am telling is accurate — and the message I am sending is important to you now and in the future.

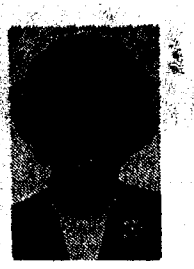

In blunt words, that message is: an IRS agent who questions a deduction you claim as a result of what you read in my annual tax series may not have yet caught up with new regulations, some a mere few months old and not well circulated. Or the Treasury itself may not have publicized a court decision it considers unfavorable and is resisting.

To go on. In explaining how valuable a tax break the 7 per cent investment credit could be to buyers of autos used for business purposes, I had written:

Car Purchase

"Say you bought a $4,500 car in December, 1971, and you are in the 50 per cent income tax bracket (federal, state and local taxes). You figure the useful life of your car at three years. This useful life entitles you to an investment credit of 2⅓ per cent of $4,500, or $105. This will directly reduce your 1971 tax by $105. Even though you bought the car in December, you also can claim depreciation on it for half a year. Using the double declining balance method of depreciation, this will give you a $1,500 deduction (half of the year's full deduction of $3,000). At a 50 per cent tax bracket, this will save you $750 in taxes.

"Thus, when you file your 1971 return, you will have a net-in-pocket saving of $855 . . . recoving a major part of the purchase price of your car."

The IRS agent said the column was inaccurate because an asset must have a useful life of at least four years to qualify for any investment credit and, on that basis, he disallowed Mrs. A.M.C's investment credit.

After receiving Mrs. A.M.C.'s letter a few weeks ago, I checked back with a Research Institue of America and immediately replied:

100 Per Cent Accurate

"My column, as it appeared Monday, Feb. 28, 1972, was 100 per cent accurate. The statement about the investment credit for a car with a useful life of three years is 100 per cent accurate.

"The IRS was 100 per cent wrong in disallowing your credit on the basis that the investment credit could apply only on an asset depreciated over four years.

"Attached you will find xeroxes of the 1971 Revenue Act, page three, which covers this point. You will note that it says 'four years' is to be replaced by 'three years.' You also will find copies of the Internal Revenue Code reflecting the 1971 changes, and also making it very clear that three years is now the rule, not four years.

"May I strongly urge you to return to the IRS immediately with these xeroxes at hand and to request a re-examination of the disallowance. May I also request that you let me know how you fare."

But Mrs. A.M.C. was cowed. When I telephoned her this week to find out what happened, she said, "It's closed and I don't want to get them back on my neck again. Don't use my name. Don't identify my city."

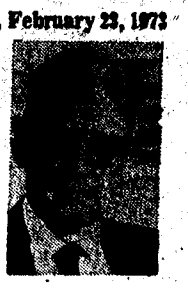

Then she added in a soft voice, "But the IRS was wrong and I'm awfully sorry I wrote you that nasty letter."

And now, won't you please read and trust my annual tax series starting Monday? And use its hints to save money, time and trouble on your '72 tax return.

Growth Funds, Stocks

By ROGER E. SPEAR

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Q — Could you please explain what are growth funds and growth stocks? We are thinking of investing. — A.M.

A — Growth stocks are those securities which have a record of annually increasing sales and earnings. The usual outcome of such consistent improvement in operating results is higher dividends and an overall uptrending pattern in share price. For the younger person or individual anticipating retirement in 10 to 15 years, the growth stocks make sense. Because the span of years is extended, interim prices fluctuations tend to be obscured by the longer-term rising trend.

Growth funds are mutual funds which have price appreciation or growth as their investment goal. In order to achieve this goal, mutual funds invest in stocks which appear capable of appreciating in price. Many individuals choose to invest in mutual funds rather than directly in stocks because they prefer that a professional make their investment decisions. In a mutual fund the holder owns, indirectly, a small percentage in a broad portfolio of securities. This diversification helps to spread risk. In the 1969-70 bear market, however, this did not always prove to be the case, thus many mutual fund shareholders were disillusioned and redeemed their holdings.

As a guide to you in your decision, I am forwarding two lists, one of recommended growth stocks and the other of suggested growth funds. These lists are available to all readers free of charge upon receipt of a large stamped, self-addressed envelope. Please direct your request to Roger E. Spear, c/o Red Bank Register, Box 1618 Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Q — I own 1,000 shares of Palomar Financial Corp. (ASE) for which I paid $12 per share. Earnings keep rising but the share price goes the other way. Should I hold or sell? — J.H.

A — The decline in share price reflects investor apprehension over rising interest rates, a dispute between Palomar and the IRS, a $5 million suit against the company and the narrow margin between current assets and liabilities. Because recovery may be slow, I would sell shares.

Columnist Criticizes 'Vietnamese Billy-Beating'

By LESTER KINSOLVING

If peace is really "at hand" — and not endangered by either Cong-Hanoi or B-52 treachery — then there may be an end to what could be called "Vietnamese Billy-beating."

Billy's last name is Graham and the question of where he stands on the Vietnamese War has been asked him almost every day since the war began. For he is regarded by most people as the most effective evangelist in U.S. history. In other sectors of the body politic (or the clergy politic) his very name evokes a sneer, or an angry or ribald remark.

It was understandable for the public to wonder how this renowned evangelist felt about a conflict regarding which most people have had mixed emotions. For many were not anwhere nearly as assured as some of the war's critics — who seemed blind to the fact that neither the Cong nor the North Vietnamese were boy scouts.

The Demands

When President Nixon resumed the bombing of North Vietnam (just before the long-awaited peace treaty which critics said could never result from bombing) the impatient questioning about Graham's position turned to demands. From Dallas to Manhattan's Riverside Church, clergy demanded that Billy Graham demand that his close friend, the President of the United States, cease and desist from this activity. (No one, however, demanded that Miss Jane Fonda travel to Hanoi and order her friends in the government to withdraw troops from the south.)

Even the Rev. Carl McIntyre, New Jersey's hyper-fundamentalist Victory-in-Vietnam radio preacher, leaped upon this Graham-demand brand bandwagon. ("Connonball Carl" had, however, a distinctly different set of demands for Billy to deliver to The President.)

Just how Billy was to have gone about informing the President to cease and desist was never quite fully explained by the assorted urgers.

Should he have done so during dinner at the White House?

INSIDE RELIGION

Well, of course he could have done so, actually. He might have also — and with no doubt similar effectiveness — in full view and hearing of the other guests, have winked and smiled lasciviously at either Pat, Julie or Tricia and drawled sensuously:

"Read any good sex books lately?"

Or, after dinner, he could have asked for a few minutes alone with the President. And since it was Billy who counseled Nixon (when Nixon asked him) about trying again for the presidency after the California disaster in 1962, certainly the request would be granted.

"About your bombing . . ."

This, of course, would be as professionally appropriate and effective as if Sen. Edward Kennedy's personal proctologist were to wait until he had the senator upended before saying:

Socialized Medicine

"Now about your views on socialized medicine . . ."

Any clergyman with even minimal training, or more than a few months of experience, should know that taking advantage of one's personal friendship, or pastoral relationship, in order to deliver a gratuitous lecture is rarely an effective way in which to influence the powerful for good.

If Nixon were a King David, as in 2 Samual 12:7, he might put up with denunciations by visiting Nathans — but only if he realized that he had sinned. But Nixon's refusal to see a collection of his critics who are heads of National Council of Churches denominations indicates that this is a different age. And, whether they like it or not, Nixon is not about to play host to clergy whose sole purpose in visiting is to engage in a game of Press The Pres, on a issue in which he is undoubtedly familiar with the various arguments.

Billy Graham could have, however, sounded off, suddenly, in one of those White House sermons (during services which critics have with some justification wondered just who is being worshipped.) Sure. Like Eartha Kitt, who once sounded off, rather rudely, during a White House dinner. Eartha may be invited back someday, however. Along about 1999.

Not Graham's Fault

The subject of Vietnam has apparently been Nixon's deepest concern — for he certainly did not look glum in announcing the peace.

Billy Graham, as one of his closest friends, could hardly have preached upon, or even issued a statement about Vietnam, without it appearing that he was revealing what he may very well have discussed with the President, in the confidentiality to which both men should be entitled.

This column has often criticized Billy Graham. But Billy can hardly be regarded as amoral for Nixon's sake — not when he has taken public stands for abortion law liberalization and abolition of capital punishment — both of which are strongly opposed by his friend in the White House.

Jesus Movement Methods Questioned

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Church authorities are taking a harder look at the youthful Jesus movement and find some of its methods shallow, devious and potentially harmful. Its energies also seem to be running out in some areas.

"The danger is that many young people may be so scarred by their experience that they will be 'burnt out' as far as future religious experience goes," concluded the Rev. Laurence Murphy, a Roman Catholic, after a special study of the movement.

"The last state will be much worse than the first."

Another critique came from a Protestant theologian, the Rev. Walter R. Beach, of Washington, D.C., who pointed out that the "Jesus people", in shunning the organized church, are ignoring a key teaching of Jesus himself.

Jesus stressed the importance of the church, Dr. Beach said, adding: "Apart from his intention to form a church, the events recorded in the Biblical Book of Acts are unintelligible." That book describes formation of the church.

Father Murphy, director of the U.S. Catholic Conference's division of higher education in Washington, said the movement is "frequently antirational," frequently very manipulative," and "often utterly naive."

Seen as 'Simplistic'

A "very simplistic mentality" is found throughout much of the movement, he said, suggesting that it is "easy to be saved if you love Jesus, clap your hands or honk your horn." The focus is on "feelings, emotions, 'experiences'."

Some 'charismatic' leaders use techniques to persuade and even to coerce young people," he added. "They manipulate their emotional needs . . . and at times quite knowingly use the Bible dishonestly."

Dr. Beach, field secretary of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, pointed out that while Jesus emphasized the "centrality of the church," the Jesus movement brushes this aside and largely rejects the organized churches.

Jesus, in voicing his objective of founding "my church," said: "The powers of death will not prevail against it."

It takes more than saying, "Amen, Lord Jesus," to advance his cause, Dr. Beach said, adding: "The total Christian experience consists of more, much more, than repeating slogans or accepting neat little formulas."

"Without correct religious beliefs," he said, "experience and conduct become matters of opinion rather than of truth and conviction, of prevailing moods rather than of abiding principle, of a goodness without a firm foundation."

Nevertheless, he said that organized Christianity might well follow one example of the Jesus people in going "into the marketplace, into the arena of the world's activity, where people are."

That, incidentally, was also a pattern followed by Jesus' early church. But it did so with the intellectual underpinning of a pre-eminent theologian, the missionary-apostle Paul.

A Frequent Criticism

One of the frequent criticisms of the Jesus movement has been that it is generally scornful of Biblical scholarship and theology, insisting that just reading and interpreting the Bible for themselves is sufficient.

"It is assumed with uncritical conviction that anything departing from the purview of their literal fundamentalism is demonic and unsaved," writes theologian Eugene C. Bianchi, of Emory University in Atlanta.

"With such a basically anti-intellectual presumption," he adds, "scholarly Scriptural exegesis is dismissed let it interfere" with their narrow "reading into the Bible" what they choose.

They also tend to give up the self-searching anguish of adult religious decision making in exchange for the "security of total salvation in a closed sect," Bianchi said.

This "lends itself to a dangerous sort of separatism," he added. "They avoid institutional religion even in its conservative forms." He says the movement has some "good features" in its yearning for meaning and cooperative community but "its weaknesses far outweighs its strengths."

RETURNING TO RED BANK — The Lenore Gospel Singers of Newark will make their second appearance in Red Bank 3 p.m. Sunday when they perform a musical program at the Pilgrim Baptist Church, 172 Shrewsbury Ave. The public is invited to attend the concert which is being sponsored by the church's Willing Workers Club.

Father Anderson Stresses Openness

By HILDY FONTAINE

HOLMDEL — A spirit of openness and communication in his own parish, throughout the community and the diocese is probably the best reason why the Rev. William C. Anderson of St. Benedict's Catholic Church has been named to receive the annual Bayshore Lodge, B'nai Brith Americanism award.

The presentation will take place Sunday at a dinner in Buck Smith's Restaurant, East Keansburg.

Father Anderson's commitment over the years to interfaith and ecumenical activities both here and in Red Bank, where he was associated with St. James Catholic Church, has permeated Christian boundaries.

Very simply, Father Anderson said, "We are very updated and try to live the spirit of the Second Vatican Council." Basically, he said, renewal and openness within the church are the important changes effected by Vatican II.

He rejected the idea that ecumenism is a great compromise. "It's not so," Father Anderson declared.

Spirit of Openness

"You can't have real ecumenism unless you have a deep devotion to your own religion," he continued.

And because he feels "so much of our background is rooted in Judaism, to be ignorant of it is to be ignorant of our whole tradition. I respect Judaism as a religion," he said.

With this spirit of openness, Father Anderson has brought about a harmonious exchange of ideas with rabbis and Christian leaders of the area.

He has spoken in area temples at Sabbath services and to Hadassah and high school groups.

Last spring Father Anderson invited area Jews to St. Benedict's Church. "We celebrated mass and showed them our form of worship," he said. There was a special liturgy for this meeting, and the mass was explained "as we went along," he said. "We will do it again if we are asked," he continued.

Last fall Father Anderson was one of 45 priests who visited Israel as part of a three-week tour of the Middle East.

Mission Work

Father Anderson has spent a great part of his priesthood involved in propagation of the faith or mission work. This has, of course, included much work in the ecumenical movement.

"We had a good program at St. James," he said.

With that involvement, he went onto work on a diocesan-wide committee on the interfaith and ecumenical movement.

Results of some of this work can be seen, he said, in the gradual elimination of "geographical and mental ghettos."

The ecumenical commitment, he explained, is to "see the parish as a total worshipping community. We are trying to build a family community of worshippers."

This concept, of course, has expanded with the dedication of persons working toward such ends.

"In a religion that is really lived, a person will have real respect for others," Father Anderson declared. "If a pastor or rabbi serves and teaches well a love of God, what more can be done?" he continued.

"We go out from here to involve ourselves in the greater world. This," Father Anderson said, "is vitally important."

He emphasized that whatever the involvement is, "there is sharing."

Father Anderson was born in New Brunswick and was educated at St. Peters School and St. Francis College, Loretto, Pa. He was graduated from St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore, Md., and was ordained in Trenton in 1952.

His first assignment as a priest was in Lakewood, where he was pastor of St. Mary's of the Lake for 1½ years.

He then spent 15 years in Red Bank at St. James Church and has been with St. Benedict's for 3½ years.

"There is a lot of love around here even though it is a large parish. We have 2,100 registered families," Father Anderson said.

Rabbi to Speak on Film Violence

LONG BRANCH — Rabbi Joseph Goldman will conduct Sabbath Eve Services at Temple Beth Miriam at 8:30 tonight when he will speak on "The Pornography of Violence." Cantor Walter Blazer will participate in the service with the liturgical responses.

Rabbi Goldman has said that pornography is commonly associated with obscene sexual display. If it has "socially redeeming values" such materials may be shown publicly.

"What are the values of the blood splattered sights offered by so many of our commercial films?" He is concerned how they will help our children to grow into decent sensitive people.

You keep telling your parents to retire and enjoy life. Maybe this ad will really convince them to do it.

You know how the conversation comes up, whenever you see them looking a little weary. "Why don't you retire and take it easy—you've saved your money," you say. "We will, we will," they say. "When?" you say. "Soon, soon," they say.

But what they really are saying is: How can we move to some strange place after all these years? Where can we live on a reduced and fixed income? Who wants to be half the USA away from our grandchildren? What will take the place of work?

Leisure Village West was created to answer those questions—and to make retirement living an active, healthy, fulfilling experience.

Beautifully situated near Lakewood, about an hour from Newark Airport and 20 minutes from the Jersey shore—Leisure Village is far from the city's pressures, but near enough so you and the kids can drive over to spend an afternoon.

They're free of tiresome chores, too. The Village staff takes care of exterior maintenance—like lawn mowing, leaf raking, snow shoveling.

Which leaves your parents free to enjoy the luxurious recreational facilities that make life at Leisure Village seem like a perpetual vacation.

"We bought a way of life," say Henry and Helen Kaiser of nearby Leisure Village East, N.J. (where all photographs were taken).

As well as a uniformed security force and round-the-clock gatekeeper to insure their privacy and safety.

We don't know what your parents are paying for the care and feeding of their present house. But our new condominium homes are priced from $21,000 to $38,700. With monthly living costs from $77 to $160 per month, not including financing.

Next time the subject of retirement comes up, why not show your parents this page? Then, take them for a drive in the country to Leisure Village West, newest addition to the original Leisure Villages at Lakewood.

Author Explains 11 Major Estate Planning Principles

By JOHN BARNES
Chapter X

In addition to the testator's estate plan, embodied in his final legal document, there are other estate planning principles which the property owner should apply if he is going to obtain the maximum enjoyment from his living estate, and if his heirs are to have the maximum income from the estate they will inherit.

Here are 11 estate planning principles which can help you add cash flow, improve investments, protect your heirs, and ensure future growth to protect your estate from inflation.

1) When retired, take an income from all of your assets. The habit of a lifetime of saving is difficult to break. It is surprising how many people, for instance, will hold a substantial amount in E bonds, even though they are retired. E bonds do not pay a current income, for they automatically compound the return every six months. Retaining them after retirement is simply saving interest for your heirs. If you have quit working, now is the time for you to enjoy the income from all of your assets, for isn't this why you saved your estate in the first place.

2) If you are receiving all of the income from your estate, but still need more money, spend part of your capital so you can live better. Don't hang on to all of your assets for dear life, just to leave them intact to someone else. The majority of retired people could increase their standard of living and enjoy their retirement years more if they would apply this principle.

Don't Leave Cash

3) Don't leave your heirs too much cash. "Easy come, easy go" is an old expression; but still a true one; as a consequence, cash will too often be spent. Exercise your mature judgment and invest the money. If heirs are left a sound investment, with a good income, they are more inclined to leave it alone.

4) If you need more income, stop paying premiums on permanent life insurance when you are retired. Whole life insurance has a cash value which should be used at retirement, when needed, in one of three ways, called nonforfeiture options by the insurance company.

(a) You can take the cash.

(b) Take the reduced paid-up option with the cash. Under this option a policy for a lesser sum than the face amount will be in force for life.

(c) Take the extended term option with the cash. By this method the entire face amount of the policy will be in force for a certain number of years and days, with no further premium payments.

5) If income real estate is presenting such a management problem that you cannot retire and enjoy your golden years, you should sell it and invest the money elsewhere.

Inexperienced Heirs

6) If you own securities and you have inexperienced heirs, either create a bank trust or start training them immediately how to manage your investments.

7) Don't own too many assets. They present a management problem to you in your living estate, and extra work for your executor in your death estate.

8) Don't keep assets that have a small monetary value. They simply clutter up your living estate and your death estate. Five shares of a $5 stock are worth $25, and one matured E bond for which you paid $75 is now worth $100. Such small assets are hardly worth keeping in your estate. They should be sold and the money put in a bank.

9) Be chary of making gifts. You should enjoy your living estate, and remember that any taxes saved by making gifts benefit only your death estate and your heirs. Gifts should be made where there is a serious death tax problem that cannot be sufficiently reduced by creating a trust, but the donor should always be sure that he is not hurt financially in any way.

10) Don't make yourself financially responsible for your grandchildren. You don't have to put yourself in this position if your son or son-in-law is insurable.

11) Even a small estate can benefit from estate planning. Testators and heirs alike, through lack of information, worry about probate, taxes, delay, and other problems, even though they may be nonexistent.

Once you have drawn your estate plan, don't mistakenly feel that the job has been done. Resolve to review your plan periodically, particularly when there has been a marriage, a death, or a birth in your family.

And remember that estate planning is a must if you are to transfer your assets to your heirs with the least trouble and expense.

Kawaida Factions in Initial Clash

NEWARK — White opponents and black supporters of Kawaida Towers have clashed for the first time in three months of protests outside the site of the black-sponsored housing project.

Police quickly stepped in to break up the fighting that erupted yesterday morning when members of the Temple of Kawaida attempted to pass through a crowd of whites across the street from the project in this city's North Ward.

One policeman suffered a broken leg when he was pushed or dragged over a temporary fence. Police spokesmen blamed both sides for the fighting, but arrested three black men.

"I was personally kicked in the face by a policeman," said Mfuasi. "Three of our people were arrested, but no Italians."

Mfuasi said the police "worked in league with the racist Imperiale forces who caused the conflict."

Assemblyman Anthony Imperiale, leader of the protests, blamed "hot heads on both sides" for the fighting. He claimed the blacks were on the scene to disrupt picketing and possibly pave the way for further limitations on pickets.

Kugler's Stern Statement Enigma

TRENTON — In a statement that seems to conflict with his testimony before the State Commission of Investigation, Attorney Gen. George F. Kugler Jr. says he has "an excellent working relationship" with U.S. Attorney Herbert J. Stern.

Kugler issued a brief statement yesterday that broke his silence over last week's 93-page report by the SCI which exonerated him of charges that he covered up a criminal conspiracy involving former secretary of state Paul J. Sherwin.

Kugler said he thought "the report speaks for itself and as far as I am concerned the issue is closed."

The attorney general added, however, that he was "disturbed by published reports indicating that there has been less than full cooperation between my office and that of the United States attorney with resultant dimunition of services in the field of law enforcement."

Gaming Hearings Seen in April

TRENTON — The chief sponsor of three proposals to liberalize New Jersey's gambling laws says he expects Senate hearings on the measures in early April.

Sen. Wayne Dumont, R-Warren, said yesterday that the 22-member Republican Senate conference had cleared the way for public hearings. The proposals would provide for legalized numbers betting and casino gambling or for total elimination of the state constitutional ban against gambling.

Dumont said the conference action would make it possible for the Judiciary Committee to schedule hearings when the Senate returns March 19.

The Legislature recessed yesterday for annual budget hearings by the Legislature's Joint Appropriations Committee.

Dumont said, "The votes are there for release," and added "we're getting there" when asked his estimation of the chance for passage of one or more of the proposals.

Resort Supplier Denies Kickbacks

CAMDEN — A heavy equipment supplier says Atlantic City officials never demanded or received 10 per cent kickbacks on the $50,000 worth of equipment his company sold annually to the resort city.

But the supplier, William Nelson, a defense witness in the extortion-conspiracy trial of four present and former Atlantic City officials, conceded yesterday under cross examination that three company checks made out to "cash" equalled 10 per cent of a $40,000 contract between the city and his company.

Prosecution witnesses testified earlier that making out checks to cash was one method they used to generate money to pay off city officials.

Nelson, vice president and general manager of Murphy Industries of Mays Landing, testified he has been dealing since 1970 with Public Works Commissioner Arthur Ponzio and his aide Germaine Fisher, two defendants in the trial, and neither ever asked for kickbacks.

Cahill Vetoes PERC Bill

TRENTON — Gov. William T. Cahill conditionally vetoed yesterday a bill which would have given the Public Employment Relations Commission jurisdiction over unfair labor practices.

In a lengthy and technical veto message to the Legislature, Cahill said the PERC law, enacted in 1968, should be drastically changed rather than being amended piecemeal.

The proposed bill, Cahill said, included language which could be "construed to override all existing law relating to Civil Service . . . and the education laws."

"Destruction or substantial erosion of our civil service laws would be, in my opinion, ill-conceived, detrimental to our dedicated employes and could, under certain circumstances, violate the New Jersey Constitution," the governor said. He recommended numerous amendments to the legislature in the message designed in part to make the state law conform to the National Labor Relations Act.

Crabiel Hits Ruling on Kugler

TRENTON — Senate Minority Leader J. Edward Crabiel said yesterday the exoneration of State Attorney Gen. George F. Kugler Jr. by the State Commission of Investigation of charges he covered up the Paul Sherwin case was not supported by the record.

Crabiel, a candidate for the Democratic Party nomination for governor, said the SCI report "raised more questions than it answered."

He said conflicts in testimony before the SCI by Kugler and U.S. Attorney Herbert J. Stern "alone would seem to preclude an outright dismissal of the charges."

Crabiel said it would be appropriate for a court to resolve the discrepancies in testimony between Stern and Kugler but that "it is difficult to see how an investigating body can have the same discretion."

Last week the SCI said it found no evidence to support the charge that Kugler had covered up charges that subsequently resulted in Sherwin's conviction on bribery and conspiracy charges in connection with a $10,000 contribution by a contractor to the Republican Party in return for Sherwin's intercession on a Rt. 46 repair contract award.

Rahway's Inmates Plan Stoppage

RAHWAY — Inmates at Rahway State Prison are demanding action on a list of grievances and say they will stage a work stoppage next week if the demands are not met.

The grievances, which focus on parole and work compensation, were submitted to Gov. William T. Cahill in a letter from the Rahway Prisoners Council, a group representing the inmates.

"In the absence of any meaningful parole change a violent potential will always exist at the three major prisons in New Jersey," the letter said. "The prisoners of Rahway, recognizing the futility of violence and destruction, have decided to stage a peaceful work stoppage until our just demands are realized."

BUSINESS PERSONALITY

By BETTE SPERO

RED BANK — Diamonds may be a girl's best friend, but to jewelry craftsman Horner Williams all gems are precious.

Whether it be a sparkling white opal flashing rainbowish hues as it catches the rays of light cascading from a lamp or a tiny garnet that is surprisingly pinkish in tone (to those neophytes who are more accustomed to the deep red of the synthetic genre!), Mr. William handles the stones with care.

But rather than the somewhat standoffish awe a spectator might show to the unknown, Mr. Williams exhibits an easy going kind of care, born of a longtime familiarity with the painstaking but pleasurable craft of making custom jewelry.

"There are people who just love jewelry and beautiful things," Mr. Williams commented.

And he certainly is no exception.

An interview which transpires amidst a work room chock full of sketches is supplemented every so often with Mr. Williams easy smile and the suggestion:

"Let me show you this gem."

The stones, brilliant in their stark simplicity, are wrapped in envelopes of tissue paper and tucked away, with names and carat sizes listed, much as you would do in a filing cabinet. Only this is some fantastic filing cabinet.

Under rare gems would be the croisobyrle, or "cat's eye," termed so because the slim white streak stripping the greenish hued stone's middle is reminiscent of cats' eyes. And if you turn the stone slowly and glance at it closely, you will see the "eye open and close," just as a cat's does.

Or under the "tendermost care" category in that figurative filing cabinet would be the opal and the emerald, both of which require the greatest care, Mr. Williams says, in the setting.

Last but hardly not least in this particular listing is the famed dfamond which, according to sales records, is still a girl's best friend — and a lot of other people's as well.

"There's no rival for diamonds," Mr. Williams said. "More people are in a position to buy them and the supply is not keeping up with the demand."

The jewelry maker who operates a retail and custom store at 10 Broad St. showed no partiality to any particular gem but discussed, and displayed, many.

He noted, however, that diamonds because of their peculiar chemistry and physical nature, are the most durable.

Incidentally, the opal gets its name from the underside color of the stone, not the surface side play of colors. A "black opal," the rarest form of that specific gem, for instance, is a coolish array of green and blue sprays of color, with its appellation coming from its "black bottom."

Such stones are fashioned into sundry pieces of custom jewelry as varied as the gems themselves. Some of Mr. Williams more unusual pieces among a very versatile lot were a lion's paw, with the pad studded with diamonds and a cast reproduced in a charm.

Both those items were made at the requests of customers, the former being a sentimental gift from a young man to his fiancee ("The lion's paw signified something to them. What it was, though, I don't know," commented Mr. Williams), the latter commenorating a young girl's recovery from a very long confinement with a broken limb.

Gallstones, Too

And for that person who is really searching for something different, as Mr. Williams put it, there was the woman with her gallstones. Yes, gallstones about 41 of them.

The lady who had recovered from a serious gallstone operation wanted the stones fashioned into a necklace. After determining that their pulverizing nature would insure only a very short life span and feeling their drab color was hardly aesthetic, Mr. Williams talked the woman into encasing one stone in glass and letting it hang, as a simple pendent, from a gold chain.

"But I don't want people to know me as a fashioner of gallstone jewelry," commented the craftsman. "I'm more interested in rare gems and fine jewelry."

Whatever that story may do for the future of gallstones, it does serve to underscore Mr. Williams' philosophy that custom jewelry is supposed to please the customer.

"I work under the contention that a piece of jewelry does something for a person," Mr. Williams said. "You couple the material with the personality of the person — or as it's reflected to someone who is a jewelry designer — and then put it all toegher within the bounds of the budget."

Customer Control

According to Mr. Williams, the customer controls the project whose product, as he sees it, is the result of a team effort between the customer's wants and the jeweler's capacity to fashion something that will fulfill them.

And as far as fulfillment goes, sketches and snapshots of Williams' crafted handiwork showed that can span nearly every facet of the imagination: large rings, small rings, dainty pendants atop fine chains; large, big stoned necklaces; petite pearl earrings fashioned in a form somewhat reminiscent of rose petals; an anchor pin resplendent in diamonds and buoyed with a single sapphire.

Mr. Williams, who started in business purely as a wholesale craftsman and then turned, in time, to retailing as well, said the volume of custom jewelry sales will never put the stock jewelers out of business.

"But to have a piece of well crafted, custom jewlery — the two expressions really go together — is something special in a jewelry wardrobe," he said.

As far as Mr. Williams' own jewelry wardrobe goes, he does not have enough time to make jewelry for himself anymore.

Attired in a black pinstripe suit and copen blue and white striped shirt, his jewelry consisted of two rings, a watch and a tie tac.

Favors Cufflinks

His favorite male jewelry is cufflinks which he thinks men should wear because they add an incomparable dress accent, fashionwise. He owns a pair of engraved cufflinks that he fashioned himself — for himself.

Mr. Williams first learned about the art of fashioning jewelry at the age of 11½ when he started work as a stock boy with the Seldin's jewelry shop here. The child showed an interest in the art, so Mr. Seldin took him on as an apprentice.

Succeeding years meant sundry other apprenticeships as well as learning watchmaking while Mr. Williams was attending local grammer school and Red Bank High School.

His education in the craft of custom jewelry making was interrupted when he joined the Army at age 20 and served two years in the South, mostly in Louisiana. But the art of creativity was never far from him, albeit jewelry might have been, for he spent many of his free hours learning, and then teaching other soldiers, to make leather handbags.

Lifetime Apprenticeship

Learning is all important to Mr. Williams who considers any true craft really a lifetime apprenticeship.

He has trained others in his profession, including his younger brother whom he felt responsible for when their father died during their childhood. His brother is now a jeweler, too, and helps out Mr. Williams on Saturdays when he is not working at his full-time post for another jeweler.

Mr. Williams also is assisted by his wife, Julia, who takes care of the "front" or retail portion of the business and two helpers in the "shop," a young woman and man who deal with the intricacies of watchmaking and jewelry repairs.

He was 24 when he opened his own shop, a wholesale operation in a loft at 64 Bridge Ave. where he crafted jewelry for many of the stores serving Monmouth County. Two succeeding locations at Monmouth St. and Grant Court preceded his move four years ago to the modern arcade nestled near the corner of Broad and Front St.

Learn by Teaching

The 29-year-old Mr. Williams, who can look back over almost three decades of observing and working in the jewelry business, says there is no better way to learn than to try to teach someone else.

He is especially interested in a national program he has been asked to introduce in New Jersey where young people will work with experienced jewelers in an effort to learn the trade.

That program, if it does in fact reach fruition, will do so under the auspices of the N.J. Retail Jewelers Association, of which Mr. Williams is president.

There are more than 800 jewelers in New Jersey, Mr. Williams estimated, with about 250 of them being "active" association members. Mr. Williams was elected to head the group, for a one-year term, last June.

He said the function of the group, which is affiliated with the Retail Jewelers Association of America, is to bring the jewelry industry together in order to share information that is beneficial to the trade and to foster an exchange of dialogue and ideas among members.

Fair Trade Practices

The association also polices fair trade practices that affects its industry, a move that sometimes points to consumerism, he said.

One of the industry's plights, he said, is "false advertising," with jewelers presently pushing for a federal law that would prohibit banks from selling jewelry, at reputedly lower than retail prices, in order to entice customers to open new accounts. He said such bank actions could constitute false advertising because the so-called bargain prices are not documented enought.

"They say you can buy a piece of jewelry that would cost $80 in a fine jewelry store for $40 if you open an account," Mr. Williams commented. "What constitutes a fine jewelry store? And where is it? And how do you know those prices are ocrrect?"

It is hard to predict how such business moves affect the economy of the industry, said Mr. Williams, who suggested his field experiences the same unpredictable ups and downs as the economy in general.

But he struck an optimistic note.

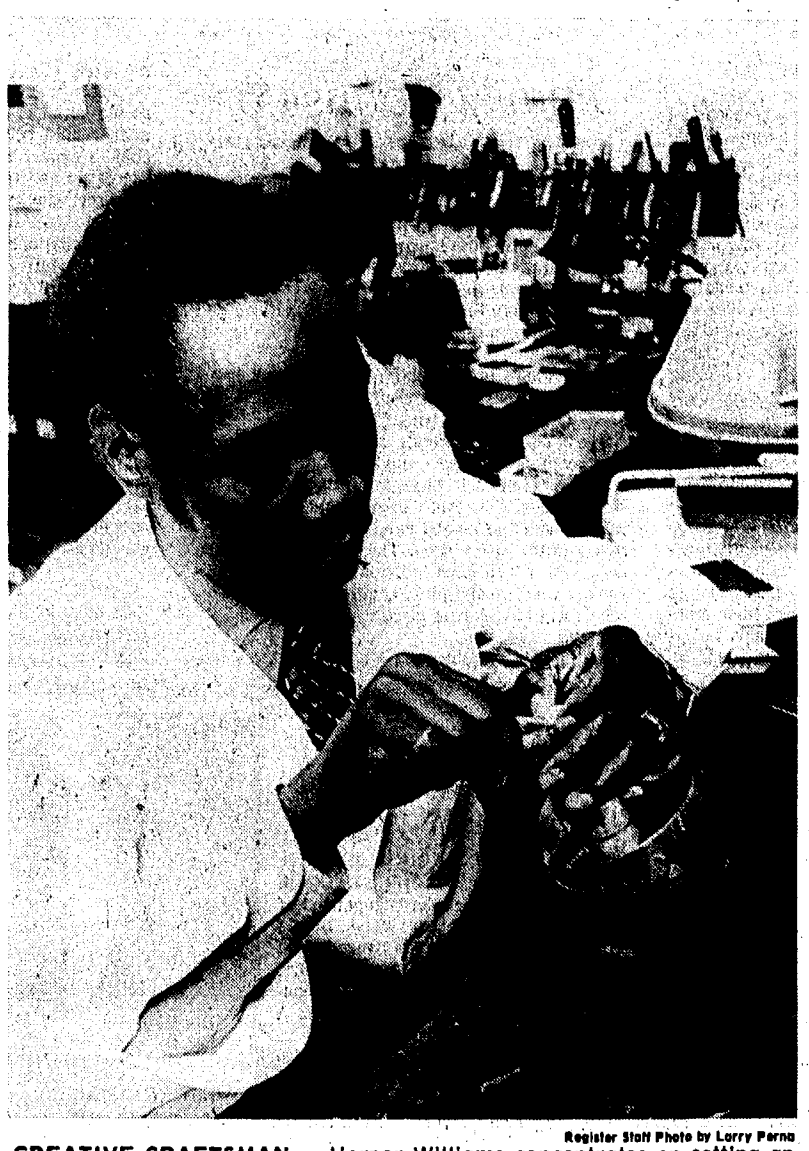

Climate, Desire

"The climate and desire for jewelry could never be better," he noted. "People are earning more. They're more fashion conscious and they're more interested in technology. Twenty years ago you couldn't interest a guy in a watch that was only two seconds off."

When it comes to interest, Mr. Williams said he couldn't choose between making custom jewelry and selling it, both adjuncts of his current business.

"I used to think I knew the answer to that question, but I don't know now," he said. "Certainly I enjoy executing an idea and getting the materials together is interesting. There's a difference in trying to come up with a design or selling a piece of jewelry."

Perhaps the answer to that lies in the next generation of Williamses: Melissa, 10, and Horner, 7, who could start their apprenticeship at home. Their mother, the former Julia Terry, was a teacher in Fair Haven before joining her husband in the jewelry business. And their father? Well, how many potential apprentices get a chance to learn with a mentor whose philosophy, planted perhaps at age 11, is: "To train another person is to train yourself better."

Howard to Preside At Flood Hearings

WASHINGTON — Rep. James J. Howard, D-N.J., will preside at Congressional hearings in Bergen County, N.J. today and tomorrow on flooding problems in the area.

Mr. Howard, a member of the House Public Works Subcommittee on Investigations and Review, is heading the hearings at the request of Rep. Henry Helstoski (D-N.J.) whose Congressional District encompasses Bergen County.

According to Mr. Howard, officials from a number of affected communities will testify. The hearings began at 9 a.m. today in the Ridgefield Borough Hall. Tomorrow the subcommittee will participate in a field trip through several of the affected communities.

"Many areas of New Jersey have experienced serious flooding problems and I am hopeful that we in the Congress might be able to come up with some plan to resolve this problem," Mr. Howard said.

Both Democratic and Republican Congressmen who are members of the subcommittee have been invited to participate in the hearings, Mr. Howard said.

"We are aware that this is a serious problem, and we need the opportunity to discuss this with municipal officials and to personally inspect some of the areas which have experienced severe flooding," Mr. Howard added.

High School Is Seen Unlikely in Colts Neck

COLTS NECK — Residents can expect to know by Spring if the next school in the Freehold Regional High School district will be in Colts Neck — but a regional board member has indicated it probably won't be.

Donald Nash, Regional Board president and a Colts Neck resident, indicated last night that though the number of local high school students has increased, the most growth in the district is in Freehold Township, Marlboro and Manalapan.

Mr. Nash was a guest speaker at the Township Committee meeting. His talk was described by officials as an informational one designed as a public service to local residents.

The board representative stressed no decision has been made, however, by the regional officials who are awaiting the results of a study being conducted by Temple University, Philadelphia.

Report Awaited

University researchers are currently studying various aspects of the district, including where the next school should be built. That university report is expected to be completed May 1, Mr. Nash said.

He said projected district enrollment indicates the district will need its next high school by 1976. Since three years is usually needed to get a complete new school built, Mr. Nash explained, plans would have to be revealed in 1973, in order to meet that timetable.

There are 5,858 students in the regional district which is composed of the eight municipalities of Freehold, Freehold Township, Manalapan, Marlboro, Howell, Englishtown, Farmingdale and Colts Neck.

The district includes five high schools, Freehold, Freehold Township, and Howell, Marlboro, and Manalapan. Local students attend Marlboro High School.

Mayor Robert L. Simms Jr. and Committeeman Thomas McClintock questioned if local students would stay in Marlboro High School and where the next school would be built.

"That's the $64,000 question," Mr. Nash said. "May 1st would be a good time to ask that question."

"There are no indications yet from Temple on that. They want to study it in more depth before they make even a concrete proposal," Mr. Nash added. "They're aware of our problems and I don't know what they'll propose for a solution."

Mr. Nash also reviewed other board business, touching on taxes and school budgets, as well as the Temple study of the school system.

"I know Temple will say our community relations have not been the best. In fact, they have been poor," Mr. Nash commented. "We're hoping to improve that."

He invited residents to attend the board's monthly public meetings, noting "There are plenty of empty seats."

In other business, Township Clerk George Handzo read a letter from the state aeronautical division informing officials the Colts Neck Airport is being operated in compliance with state and federal regulations. Mayor Simms said the committee had contacted the division after residents had questioned the safety of the airport.

The committee adopted two ordinances, one providing a $43,000 bond issue to buy a fully equipped fire truck and the other granting a 5.2 per cent pay increase for township employes.

The Shield of Closeness

By DR. JAMES M. LONG

Family Counselor

There has been so much written and discussed about "closeness" and yet, there are some people who avoid closeness like "the plague."

On the other hand, there are various experts in marriage and human relations who condone separateness and feel that "togetherness" is nonsense. They base their claim for individual identity on the contention that it is impossible for one person to meet all of the needs of another. Yet, there are many couples who feel just the opposite, and who express their need for a total commitment to another person. During the 60s, the leading TV shows dramatized the typical American family as being extremely close, and one who always aired their problems in a sensible and reasonable manner.

Like so many known concepts there are degrees of closeness varying from complete avoidance of human contact, i.e., the recluse, to those who cannot be without companionship. Within the continuum are those who withdraw from a mere touch of a hand or an arm on the shoulder. However, most people with a problem relating to closeness must exist in society. Therefore, in order to do so they must learn ways to conceal their problems from others. In normal relationships this is not difficult to accomplish, but in the more intimate relationship of marriage, problems are bound to arise.

Conceals His Fear

In the daily life of a person, he may find ways to conceal his fear of closeness through legitimate activities. Sometimes the choice of employment represents more than a desire to earn a living and is in actuality an escape from closeness with another individual.

Individuals protect and guard their own space area. Such areas can be visualized as a circle outlined by a piece of string. The space inside the circle is one's own private sanctuary, and, therefore, available to others only by invitation. Intruders are prevented from entering the circle by the space owner who stands at the edge of the circle with extended arms and hands and prevents intrusion into the space area. The size of one's space area varies with each individual, and, those individuals who are the most comfortable with themselves will have larger circles of closeness and intimacy.

Although a problem in adult years for some, the origin of one's ability to allow for closeness is traceable to earlier developmental tasks. For all of us the initial closeness experience is found in the mother-child relationship. It would seem reasonable to expect that if the initial experience was successful and rewarding, the infant would continue to seek similar relationships.

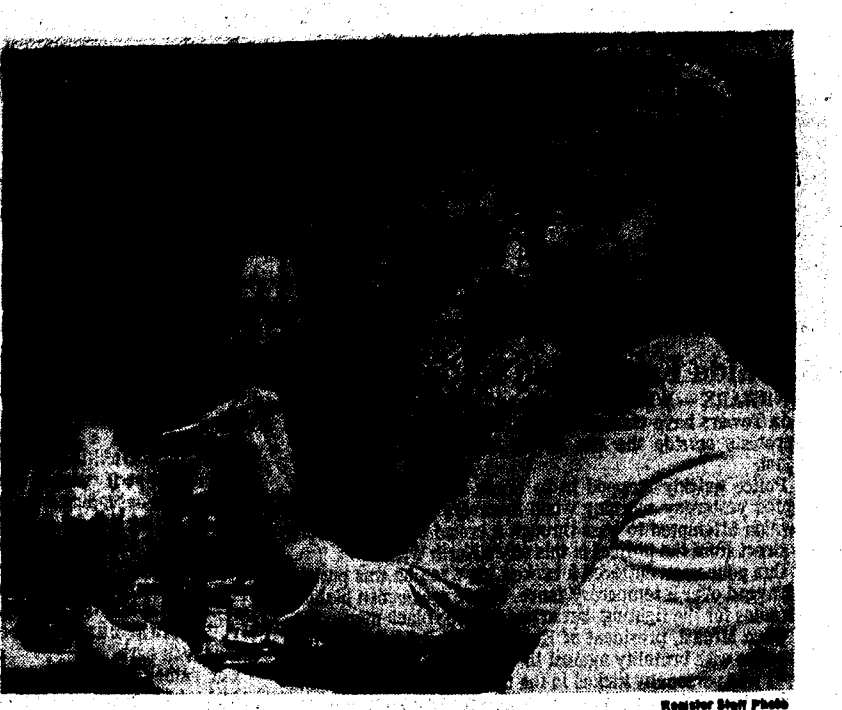

Harmful Experience

In situations involving the "brutalized child," it is apparently from the child's behavior that his initial experience with closeness has been harmful. Since the infant is not able to verbally express himself, he may violently react when approached. The child seems to say, "people hurt, stay away." Unfortunately many adults still carry such wounds, and have erected a barrier between themselves and close relationships. Their task is to lower the protective shield and, hopefully, trust others.

Man is born with a capacity to develop trust in himself and others. However, he must experience trust in others, so that ultimately through the process of continued trust and closeness, he is able to expand his horizons to include all people.

Those Carpet Beetles Are Unwanted Guests

Carpet beetles are "guests" that you don't want coming to dinner. They damage home furnishings and clothing, containing wool, hair, fur, hide and feathers. They may infest pepper, cereals, cake mixes, and stored grains. Blankets, comforters, rugs, carpets, draperies, pillows, hair mattresses, brushes, and upholstery very frequently harbor these pests.

The larvae, the immature, causes the feeding damage. They crawl from room to room, becoming widely distributed. They may live behind baseboards, moldings, in cracks, corners and behind radiators and heating systems, air ducts, in clothing, dressers drawers, etc. Once a carpet beetle infestation is known to exist in the home, insecticidal treatment should be used where needed. If the infestation appears to be heavy in hard to treat places, the services of a pest control operator may be necessary

PTA to Stage 'Disc-o-Sox'

WANAMASSA — Vince Hartnett and Bob McAllen will entertain at "Disc-o-Sox," a dance reminiscent of the 1940's and 50's, to be staged here March 16, starting at 8:30 p.m. in Christie's.

The evening is sponsored by the Ocean Township School PTA. Mini class reunions are being encouraged and it is hoped that couples will dress in styles that were popular in those years.

Church to Get CDA Memorial

COLTS NECK — Court Marian, Catholic Daughters of America has chosen a bronze statuary of St. John Baptizing Jesus as its memorial to St. Mary's Catholic Church, here. The statuary is to occupy a prominent place in the new church. Mrs. John Mayerski is regent.

Antique Doors Back on Their Hinges

The doors — those that separate foyer from tap room at the Olde Union House, 11 Wharf Ave., Red Bank — had been stilled for the past several years. Set in handcrafted frames, they served as stationary room dividers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Hillman, Branford Circle, Tinton Falls.

Now they are back on their hinges because Mrs. Hillman, prepartory to her family's move to Eatontown, contacted the restaurant's owners Lou and Dom Vaiti to tell them (as the late Frank Friscia, from whom she purchased the doors, had told her) of the swinging doors' Olde Union House heritage.

Known Cabinet maker

Mr. Friscia is remembered by many hereabout as a first class cabinet maker, as well as a dealer in antiques at Redman Hall, Church St., Rumson.

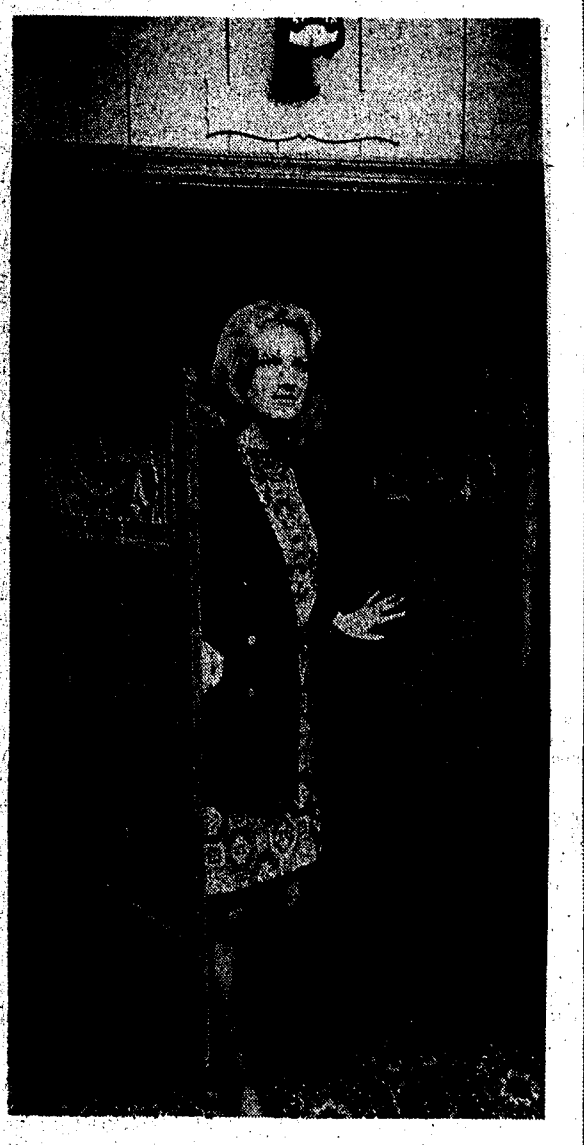

Examples of Mr. Friscia's painstaking work with wood may be found among the furnishings of many stately county residences, as well as in the homes of his offspring: Leonard Friscia, Frank Friscia, Mrs. Raymond Kelly and Mrs. George Cuje, Rumson; and Mrs. Walter Cuje, Middletown. Also revealing Mr. Friscia's care are the solid wood doors he made for Holy Cross Catholic Church, Rumson.

Baby Oak Trees

But these swinging doors, apparently among Mr. Friscia's many refinishing projects, are of another genre. Framed in oak, they feature horizontal panels of stained glass at the top and, below, unusual panels woven of baby oak trees.

It is presumed the doors are of turn of the century vintage. That was a time when the Olde Union House (established at its present site in 1971) bustled with passengers from the paddle boat steamers that docked at the foot of Wharf Ave., as well as with show business folk appearing at the Old Opera House on W. Front St. and at the Lyceum Theather, where the Red Bank municipal tennis courts are now located.

So those who push these barroom doors may be following in some famous fingerprints.

Women in Medical, Dental Schools on the Increase

TRENTON — The enrollment of women in medical and dental schools has risen sharply in the past three years.

At the request of Stanley S. Bergen Jr., M.D., president of the college, a committee on the status of women was recently formed to study the role of women at the four schools of the college, Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences and New Jersey Medical School in Newark; the New Jersey Dental School in Jersey City; and the Rutgers Medical School in Piscataway. The study has shown that the number of women in the student body has mushroomed in the past three years.

There are presently 41 women in the student body at Rutgers Medical School, as compared to 2 in 1969; 60 at the New Jersey Medical School as compared to 16 three years ago; 9 at the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences as compared to one; and 6 women at the New Jersey Dental School, where only one woman was enrolled in 1969.

The College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey actively encourages women applicants, aiming both campus visits and mailings at predominately women's colleges.

According to Mary J. Mycek, Ph.D., associate professor of pharmacology at the New Jersey Medical School and chairwoman of the committee on status of women, recruitment of female students represents a new trend for professional schools.

"Traditionally, professional schools had no recruitment programs, since the number of applicants was more than they could possibly accept," she pointed out. "But in recent years, we have begun to seek applicants from specific groups, including women and certain other minorities, because of past practices in limiting the number of these minorities admitted into the professions."

Dr. Mycek attributes the increasing interest of women in professional schools to a shift in the attitudes of society both toward women and toward home and family.

"Women were formerly discouraged from seeking careers in medicine and dentistry," Dr. Mycek said. "If a woman expressed an interest in the health sciences she was directed toward nursing or dental hygiene because society enforced the traditional image of woman as an auxiliary to man."

She said that changing lifestyle patterns and smaller families have made the prospect of a professional career more feasible for a woman.

Although the percentage of women in dental school is improving, they still lag far behind medical and other professional schools in the number of women enrolled.

Grace B. Austin, D.D.S., assistant professor of prosthodontics at the New Jersey Dental School, feels that the major problem is that most women don't even consider dentistry as a career possibility, envisioning it as a mechanical field, involved with the use of complex equipment and the possibility of causing pain.

Possible Bridge

She sees the advent of the expanded duty dental auxiliary as a possible bridge to bring women into dental careers.

"As auxiliaries begin to assume the duties formerly performed by the dentists alone, women will begin to understand dentistry, and accept it as a reasonable career choice for them," she predicted.

Both Dr. Mycek and Dr. Austin project that the ratio of women in the college will continue to spiral upward.

"In each of the schools," Dr. Austin pointed out, "the largest number of women are in the freshman class. At the New Jersey Medical School, we have 30 women in the first year; at Rutgers, 25, and four at the dental school.

"The door is open for women," Dr. Mycek observed. "What we are aiming for, it seems, is a sufficient number of practitioners in the health professions to satisfy the need and that their calibre and training be of higher quality regardless of their sex."

Birth Control Pill Approval Due by FDA

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration says it plans to approve the drug DES for use as a morning-after birth-control pill.

FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards made the announcement Wednesday during the first day of extensive hearings before Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's health subcommittee into human medical experimentation. The hearings are to continue today.

Edwards told the panel that fresh evidence presented by a scientific advisory panel indicates DES is safe for the user and effective when taken on a one-time, small-dose basis.

But he warned that the possiblity — as yet unproven — exists that DES may cause cancer in an unborn human fetus if mistakenly administered to pregnant women.

In such cases, Edwards said, an FDA scientific advisory committee recommends "an early abortion induced by conventional means."

DES is the abbreviation for diethylstilbestrol, a synthetic estrogen which has been available for 30 years for the treatment of certain gynecological symptoms.

Edwards said earlier evidence has associated the drug with cancer of the vagina and cervix when taken during pregnancies to avoid miscarriages.

Banned for Cattle

Illegal residues had been found in the livers of slaughtered cattle.

Other FDA officials said the use of DES as a contraceptive is now widespread, especially on college campuses.

Edwards said the drug is an example of "the difficult benefit-risk judgments" facing FDA.

He said that at a session last month the advisory committee was unanimous in stating substantial evidence now exists that DES is effective in preventing contraception after sexual intercourse.

No Evidence of Risk

Edwards said the committee also held the unanimous opinion that, except for some immediate and minor side effects, "there is no evidence of a significant risk to the patient" and no proof of cancer-causing potential.

Edwards said the findings are based on a limited recommended doseage given daily for five consecutive days and begun within 72 hours of intercourse.

Edwards said DES will be approved for "emergency treatment only" and that DES is not considered a proper medical method for continuous birth control.

Labels Can Mislead Dieters

By BARBARA GIBBONS

— An overweight teen nibbles on a "sugar-free" chocolate bar, not realizing that it's even higher in calories than her favorite brand because it has a special diabetic sweetner more fattening than sugar.

— A secretary snacks on "99 per cent fat-free" yogurt, unaware it's as fattening as ice cream.

— A cardiac patient's wife buys a nondairy cream substitute because it "contains no butter fat," but it's made with coconut oil, even more cholesterol rich!

— A homemaker mixes up what she thinks is a low-calories tuna salad, using "diabetic" mayonnaise that's merely salt-free.

These are some of the misunderstandings the Food and Drug Administration hopes to correct in a forthcoming set of proposals regulating low-calorie and other diet foods. According to FDA spokesman Donald A. Berreth, the new regulation will address itself to such questions as "When is a low-calorie food really low-calorie?"

For example: most fresh fruits are low in calories, but canning them with sugar makes them high calorie. Eliminating or replacing the sugar can cut canned fruit calories in half or less, and under current practice this would justify the "low-calorie" label. But suppose the reduction is only 20 per cent, or 10 per cent. Or . . . suppose the product is so fattening to begin with that even a half-as-fattening version is still several hundred calories . . . a hypothetical "diet fudge" for example! Since there's a definite and growing market for such calorie-reduced foods, what fair phrase can be used that communicates without misleading?

It's a virtual certainty that such products will be required to conform fully with the New FDA nutritional labeling law announced last month. In that action the Federal agency set sweeping new label requirements for many packaged foods, indicating the content in calories, fat, carbohydrates, protein, vitamins and minerals. Food makers have the rest of this year to work out the new labels. Old-style labels won't be permitted in interstate commerce after Dec. 31, 1974.

The new nutritional labeling law also covers two topics of interest to processors and consumers of special diet foods:

— Contrary to previous policy, food producers will be able to spell out the types of fat on the label, along with the cholesterol content. Prior regulations forbade this, making it difficult for heart patients and atherosclerosis sufferers to follow low-cholesterol diets.

— It is no longer necessary for makers of low-calorie, low-fat or low-sugar foods to use the word "imitation" on their label when the product is not "nutritionally inferior." Previously, foods that didn't conform to a standard Federal "recipe" had to use the "imitation" label, even if the product were nutritionally superior, as in the case of a low-sugar jam that contains more fruit than the "real thing," or a high-protein spaghetti that réplaces part of the ordinary flour with soy flour. The new regulation specifically recognizes that an increase in protein or a decrease in calories or fat may be desirable and "would not constitute nutritional inferiority."

Neighbor Is Among the Uninvited

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a couple moved next door and we became friendly. I showed the woman where the best markets were, the choice cleaning shop, the hair salon, and told her all the little things a new neighbor needs to know.

When they entertained for the first time we were invited. It was a beautiful party for their friends from Europe — champagne and all the trimmings. Three weeks later they gave a dinner for my husband and me to show their appreciation for our help. They invited four couples besides us — some of our closest friends.

Last night (and this is not sour grapes, Ann) they gave a very large party. The cars were lined up for a block. One of their guests put his car in our driveway which I thought was rather rude.

This morning I jokingly mentioned it to my neighbor and added, "It looked like quite a party. How come we weren't invited?"

She replied, "I wasn't sure you enjoyed the last two parties. I never heard from you."

I told my husband about her remark and he said, "I believe she has a point. Why didn't you drop her a note?

I think they are both crazy. Do you believe a next-door neighbor should expect a gold engraved thank-you note? I'd feel like a fool writing a letter to the woman next door. Sign me — Snubbed In California

Dear S.: A written thank-you note need not be in "gold," but it is certainly in order when a party is given in your honor. If you didn't want to write a note you should have telephoned the following day — and perhaps sent flowers.

If I sound like a moth-eaten square, forgive me, but too many of the old customs are being dropped these days and I think it's a shame.

Dear Ann Landers: I am the mother of an 18-month-old child. I'm sure millions of other young mothers have the same problem, so please print my letter and tell us what to do about it.

Since Jimmy was old enough to walk, strangers have been giving him candy, chewing gum and money whenever we are in a supermarket, or even on a bus. Our little boy is very cute and friendly and says "Hi" to everyone. That expression, "He never met a stranger," was made for this kid. If Jimmy was a diabetic or had some allergies he would be in serious trouble. Why don't adults think about such things? It so happens that he's a healthy child, but this business of getting so many gifts has spoiled him to the extent that now he expects things and doesn't even say thank you.

Will you please tell the well-meaning public not to offer small children sweets or money? Thank you, Ann. — Mother Of An Overly-Gifted Child

Dear Mother: My advice is for you, not the "well-meaning public." As the mother of this child it is your responsibility to see to it that the boy not be permitted to accept gifts from strangers. When someone offers Jummy candy, gum or money, you should say "Thank you for wanting to be generous, but we don't allow him to accept gifts from strangers." The "something-for-nothing" philosophy is already too deeply ingrained in our young people. Misguided generosity only serves to promote it.

Dear Ann Landers: Am I money mad or do I have a legitimate complaint?

I bought a bus-tour ticket (complete with lunch) for a historic tour of Virginia homes. The day before the trip a lucrative writing job turned up and since I work on a free-lance basis I couldn't turn it down.

A friend who also had bought a ticket told me about a woman who had wanted to go but her check was returned because she waited too long and the tour was an early sell-out.

I made arrangements for the disappointed woman to use my reservation. Yesterday I received her very lovely thank-you note. No check.

I've never met this person and never expect to. I did not mean for her to be my guest. Had I wanted to be so generous, I have plenty of friends to whom I am socially indebted.

Do I have the right to expect the woman to pay me for that ticket? — Reluctant Lady Bountiful

Dear Lady: Obviously there was a foul-up in communications and a misunderstanding. I do not feel it would be out of line if you dropped the woman a note explaining that you were merely accommodating her and you'd like to be reimbursed for the ticket.

What's prudish? What's O.K.? If you aren't sure, you need some help. It's available in the booklet, "Necking And Petting — What Are The Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper, enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ocean Walks Line to Title

By CHUCK TRIBLEHORN
Register Sports Editor

LINCROFT — Those countless hours spent shooting foul shots at the conclusion of every practice session paid off for an underdog Ocean Township High School team under the Brookdale Community College rotunda last night.

And today a band of Spartans who know how to take advantage of charity stand alone as Shore Conference basketball champions. Coach Ron Truex' unrattled club used the foul line to turn back Neptune, 71-63, for the second overall conference crown in the school's history.

Outgunned, 29-21, from the field, Ocean (22-3), battling back from a rocky start, connected on 29 of 39 free throws. The Spartans, an uncanny 28 for 33 from the line in the second half, made those penalty pills tough for the losing Scarlet Fliers to swallow

18-Game Streak Ends

Neptune, which saw its 18-game winning streak abruptly halted, went to the line only 13 times and hit on just 5. In all, 28 fouls were called against the Fliers, 16 against the Spartans.

"We didn't play the game we had planned to play," said Truex, reviewing his team's early difficulty with the Fliers' pressing defensive tactics. Neptune led, 14-9, after one quarter and, 30-25, at halftime, although the Spartans did manage to gain a slim lead (23-22) in the second period.

After the intermission, it was Neptune's turn to struggle, as the whistle-blowers had a field day signalling violations against the Fliers. Ocean hit on 14 of 17 free throws in the third period and it took the lead on six straight (four by Bruce Hlatky and two by Jim Cassidy), 41-40, with 2:33 left to play.

Fliers Discover Dividend

The Spartans then forged to a 47-42 advantage before Neptune discovered the dividends the 15-foot line can reap. The Fliers tied the game heading into the final period on what amounted to a five-point play in the last 24 seconds of the third stanza.

Stan Smith hit two charity tosses, Sam Johnson dropped in a technical foul and the latter came right back with the tying field goal when his team maintained possession.

The score was knotted three times in the fourth quarter, the last at 53-all, before a pair of foul shots by Chuck Simon put Ocean permanently in front. Hlatky followed with two more foul conversions and captain Don Boughrum flipped in a layup to complete a six-point run for a 57-53 advantage.

The spread widened to 66-57 with less than two minutes to play before Neptune made its final bid on consecutive field goals by Derrick Roberts and Smith off a steal.

Boughrum Hits Five

However, Ocean, which converted 14 of 16 fouls during the last eight minutes alone, sealed the verdict on five straight charity swishes by Boughrum.

"Wasn't that clutch foul shooting?" Truex said without waiting for an answer. "That Donnie Boughrum is Mr. Pressure. There's nothing like him when it comes to being cool."

Ocean needed foul-shooting profiency to salvage a lackluster 21-for-60 field goal showing and 21 turnovers. Neptune hit on 29 of 71 attempts from the floor. The Fliers turned the ball over just 10 times.

However, Ocean, with the 6-8 Simon 6-5 Hlatky and 6-3 Ed-Edwards leading the way, also enjoyed an overwhelming 41-18 rebounding edge over the smaller Fliers.

Cassidy finished with 18 points, including eight fouls, while Hlatky, who had nine from the line, finished right behind with 17. Boughrum, with a perfect seven fouls, and Simon added 15 and 13 points, respectively.

Game scoring honors with 19 points went to Sam Johnson of Neptune, which had won 18 straight after losing its first five (non-conference) games this season. Craig Mannings and Roberts added 12 and 10 to the losing effort.

Gym Meet Moved to Ridgewood

RIDGEWOOD — Henry Hudson Regional, the Central Jersey gymnastics title holder will meet South Jersey champ Cherry Hill West and East Brunswick, the North Jersey champ in a triangular state title meet at Ridgewood High School on March 3, at 1:30 p.m.

The meet was originally scheduled to be held at Montclair State College.

Show Unveils Hovertrek

ASBURY PARK — There are three days to catch the 20th anniversary edition of the Jersey Coast Boat Show at Convention Hall here; three days to get a gander at Hovertrek, the newest, wildest recreation vehicle on the market.

"It's so new," said Jim Murray, treasurer of Air Cushion Vehicles, "that we're planning demonstrations for those interested in the Hovertrek. According to Murray, prior to the Jersey Coast Show, (but including the New York show) more than 500 persons have shown an interest.

"We haven't begun to count the names taken this week," Murray said. "We're not selling Hovertrek yet; just taking names, so that we can demonstrate the vehicle."

Hovertrek isn't a member of the "21 Club." It's 22nd on the list of vehicles of its nature, and may be the answer to the logistical problems associated with its 21 prototypes.

The result of four years of research, Hovertrek is the first craft of its kind to be American made of American components. It's safe, simple and, stresses Murray, economical, despite its application of the complex laws of aerodynamics.

"My father (Arthur) was the first commercially licensed hydrofoil pilot in this country and operated the hydrofoil (Enterprise) in trial runs six years ago," Murray said. "But the hydrofoil trial was canned and he looked into Hovertrek."

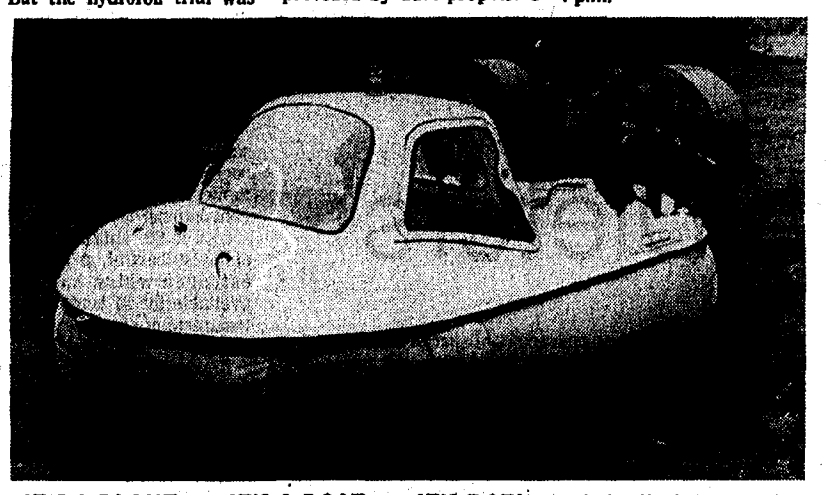

Aside from economy, Hovertrek's outstanding feature is stability, easily controlled — difficult to unbalance and impossible to tip or sink — over a wide range of terrains.

The principle is simple, yet complex. Hovertrek, which hovers some 14 inches from the surface, attaining speeds up to 75 m.p.h., has a fiberglass hull with a lift fan centrally located behind the cockpit and forcing air downward. The air is trapped in a skirt around the hull, providing a lift and a cushion of air to eliminate friction at the surface. Forward movement is provided by dual propellers mounted at the rear of the hull.

Steering and resulting stability is allowed by vanes (rudders) in front of the propellers, while throttles operate the lift fan and propeller thrust.

Hovertrek, which lists Canadian auto racer Jean Pierre Racine as one of its designers, comfortably seats two adults and three children in an enclosed cockpit. The vehicle is almost 14 feet long.

Hovertrek has been one of the new and different shining lights at the Jersey Coast Show, which is open today and tomorrow from 11 a.m. until 10 p.m. and Sunday (closing day) from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Madsen Saves Knights

By JONNIE FALK

LINCROFT — Duke Madsen's tap-in with three seconds to play gave Wall Township a 68-67 win over Henry Hudson Regional and third place in the Shore Conference Tournament here last night.

Madsen's shot climaxed a freakish last minute in which he had a chance to clinch the game for the Knights. With 23 seconds to play, Madsen was fouled by Charlie Lawler and blew a one-and-one.

Bill Hungrecker then drove the length of the floor and scored with 13 seconds to go to put Hudson ahead, 67-66.

Bob Przbylowski took what could have been Wall's last shot from the outside, but the rebound caromed directly to Madsen, who had no trouble laying it back up for the win.

Fouls killed the Admirals. The Knights made only 26 field goals but converted 16 of 20 free throws. Hudson hit 30 from the field but went to the line only 12 times, making 7.

The largest lead held by either team in the game was by Hudson early in the fourth period when Billy Connell's driving layup put the Admirals ahead, 49-42.

The longest scoring streak was Hudson's 10 late in the third period which overcame a 40-35 Wall lead.

But the story of the game was Wall's 26-point splurge in the free-wheeling fourth period, and the main character was Przybylowski, who had 14 of his 30 points in the closing stanza.

It was his steal and layup at 3:30 which tied the game at 59, and 33 seconds later he cashed a brace of free throws to tie it again at 61. Connell tipped in a rebound, and Przybylowski duplicated at the other end on the play that fouled Masse out of the game.

Przybylowski canned the foul to give Wall the lead, 64-63. Tom White hit from the circle to make the lead three points, but Hungrecker closed the gap with a tip-in to close the gap, and set the stage for the final minute.

Madsen scored 14 points to help Przybylowski, and Bill O'Connell, who was tough around the boards all night, led Hudson with 24. Hungrecker got 21.

Wall took 60 shots and made 43 per cent. The Admirals got off only 55 and hit 54 per cent.

Red Wings Tie Canadiens

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit's Marcel Dionne scored three goals, two on power plays and the other unassisted, as the Red Wings held-off the National Hockey League's East leading Montreal Canadiens 3-3 last night.

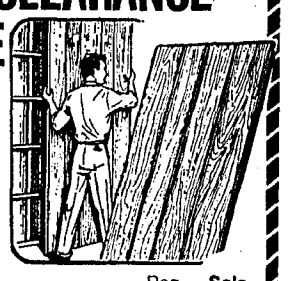

It was the second time in his career the second-year Red Wing had scored three goals in a game, the other time also against the Canadiens, last year.

Guy Lafleur opened the scoring for Montreal with a goal at 4:23 of the first period and then Dionne came back to tie the score at 15:53 on a power play.

Montreal has only lost two of its last 25 games and Detroit only one of its last 11.

Maybe This Year for Matmen

By JONNI FALK

The annual quest to put the Shore area on the wrestling map begins again tonight for 30 teams which will be competing in four districts of the NJSIAA Tournament.

Those 30 teams will put 360 wrestlers on the mat, and each of them hopes to be the first area wrestler since Pete Black of Christian Brothers Academy to become a state champion. Black turned the trick at 141 pounds in 1969.

Just 3 Titles

The area has won only three state championships in the 30-year history of the state tournament, and the other two belong to Carlos Fontanez, who won at 130 for Freehold in 1963, and 136 for Southern Freehold (nee Howell) in 1965.

Three second places last year topped a showing that promised to be even better. This year, the prospects may not be as bright.

The district lineup sends Matawan and Raritan to East Brunswick to battle six Middlesex County teams: Sayreville, South River, East Brunswick, Madison Township, South Brunswick and Cedar Ridge.

District 23 will be hosted by Christian Brothers Academy and has Red Bank Regional, Red Bank Catholic, Holmdel, Keyport, Middletown, Rumson-Fair Haven Regional, Long Branch, Shore Regional and Monmouth Regional in addition to CBA.

Freehold entertains the District 24 gladiators: Asbury Park, Neptune, Freehold, Howell, Wall, Manasquan, Ocean Township, Marlboro and Manalapan.

The Ocean County schools will compete in District 25 at Lakewood. Vying are Central Regional, Toms River South, Southern Regional, Lakewood, Brick Township, Point Pleasant Boro, Jackson Township, St. Joseph's of Toms River, and Toms River North.

Preliminaries begin at 7 tonight. Semi-finals are at 2 tomorrow afternoon with consolations at 7. The finals will begin after the consolations.

Cedar Ridge is the defending team champion in District 22 and figures to repeat. However, in District 23, Long Branch, which snapped Middletown's Shore Conference streak this season, should topple the Lions.

Howell should retain its District 24 crown, and powerful Jackson looms as the repeater in 25.

Individually, things are harder to predict. Matawan and Raritan could get as many as three champs in District 22. They are John DiMaiola of Raritan at 98; Baron Franklin of Matawan at 178; and Jack Coughlin of Raritan at heavyweight. Coughlin appears to be the best bet.

District 23 has three of last year's champs returning, but only a maximum of two can repeat. Middletown's Ken Hopfensberger, titlist last year at 106, should meet Long Branch's Rich Johnson, the defender, in the 115 final. Hopfensberger won their duel earlier this season.

The Green Wave's Terry Brewer won last year at 178, but has been competing at 168 this year. He should win again.

136 — Guy LaCorte of Long Branch has the credentials, but Hal Zahl of Holmdel could surprise.

141 — Not a strong weight in this district. Wally Morales of Long Branch is as good as any. Middletown's Dennis Freshnock and Holmdel's Jeff Ewin rate.

98 — Jeff Lomasson of Ocean Township.

115 — Charlie Steinfield of Howell.

141 — John Hoyt of Wall.

148 — Rod Alexander of Howell.

168 — Nils Deacon of Howell aims to repeat.

178 — Doug Bower of Wall.

Heavyweight — Lloyd Larkin of Freehold.

District 25:

98 — Andy Prendimano of Jackson.

115 — Joe Reabold of Toms River South.

123 — Jesse Rines of Toms River North.

130 — Stan McConville of Jackson.

141 — Al Lee of Jackson.

168 — Steve Peterson of Toms River South.

178 — Dan McCullough of Brick Township.

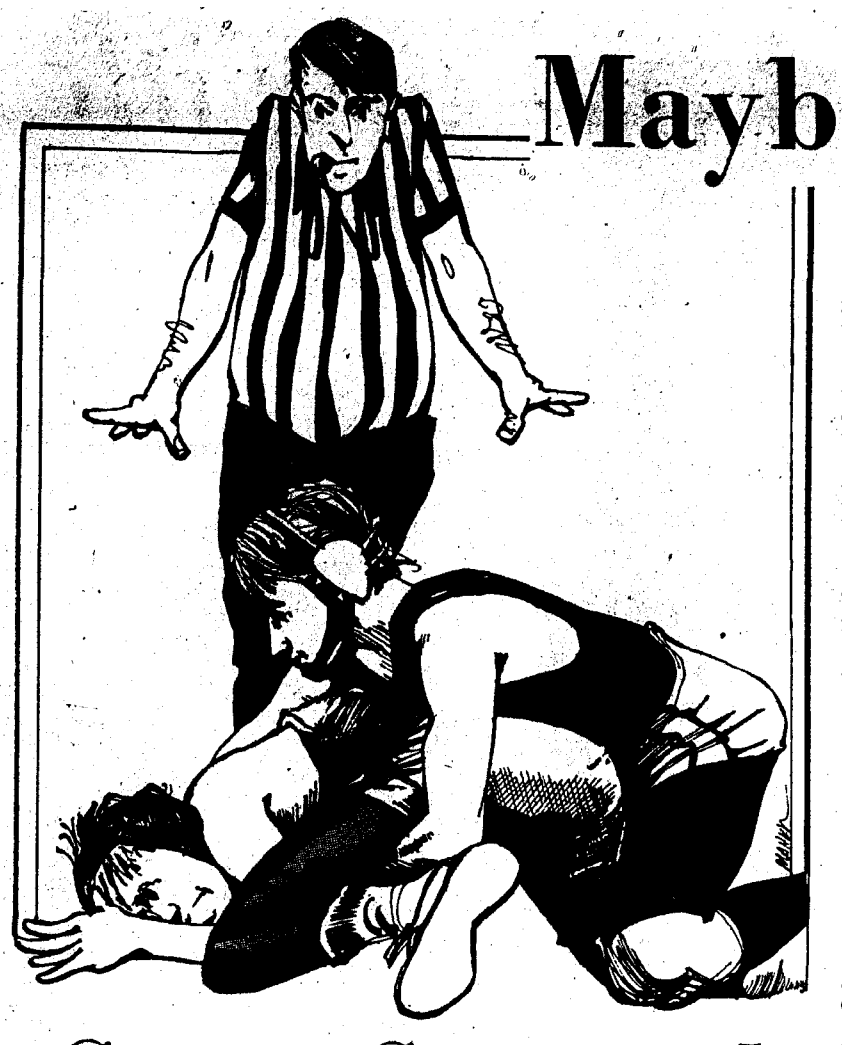

Heavyweight — Bill Ellis of Toms River North.

Champs and runners-up from Districts 22, 23 and 24 will compete in the Region 6 tournament next weekend at Cedar Ridge High School.

Winners and runners-up from District 25 will vie at Cherry Hill High School in Region 7.

The semi-finals of the NJSIAA Tournament will be at Jadwin Gymnasium, Princeton University, March 9. The finals and consolations will be the next day.

Caseys Squeezed By Colts' Defense

The Colts, led in scoring by 6-7 center Bob Roma's 26 points, held the Caseys to just four baskets in the first half.

RBC's cold shooting, coupled with CBA's frustrating man-to-man defense, turned the game into an early runaway. Roma scored 11 of his total in the first period when the Colts jumped off to a 15-4 margin. CBA scored 13 times before the Caseys found the range.

The loss was the fourth in five trips to the hardwood for the Caseys (16-7). CBA upped its record to 22-0, and is the only undefeated team at the Shore.

Paul Rich, a Casey reservist, came off the bench in the second quarter and produced one of the few bright spots in an otherwise bleak evening. Rich scored 10 points.

Bill Paterno was behind Roma for the Colts with 12 markers, while Leon Simmons added 10.

RBC's junior varsity squad finished the year with its finest record (20-3) by downing the Colts, 66-55, and won the Central Jersey Catholic Federation title. Pete Fitzpatrick led with 18 points.

The Casey frosh nipped CBA, 51-50, and ended the season at 12-8.

Cardinals Soar To 9th Straight

LEONARDO — Croydon Hall Academy's basketball team surged to its ninth straight victory and 12th in 13 games here last night by tying up MacArthur Military Academy, 84-58.

Norm Caldwell was again responsible for most of the scoring. He totaled 43 points and raised his average to 31.8 points per game, but freshman Jules Willimas led the Cardinals to the lead they never relinquished in the second period when he scored eight of his 14 points.

The game was tied 10-all at the end of the first period, but CHA rolled to a 13-point lead at the half as Williams and Caldwell began to connect. Caldwell scored 11 points in the second period and added 11 and 18 in the third and fourth sessions, respectively.

MacArthur's taller players held the Cards at bay under the boards, but poor shooting from the field by the Cadets was the difference.

Penguins Edge Islanders, 2-1

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Al McDonough scored his 28th goal of the season in the second period, lifting the Pittsburgh Penguins to a 2-1 victory over the New York Islanders in a National Hockey League game last night.

McDonough's goal came on a rebound of a shot by Syl Apps midway of the second period.

Just four minutes later, however, Penguin defenseman Dave Burrows scored his second goal of the season to knot the score.

Brewer Catches Fezler

FORT LAUDERDALE (AP) — Forrest Fezler, an obscure tour sophomore, looked uncertain and a little confused as he tried to shake off a double bogey six that cost him the lead in the richest 72 hole golf tournament on the American tour.

"There's a lot more holes left," the 32-year-old Fezler said in a soft voice. "I'll just try to play it cool the rest of the way."

His four wood tee shot on the short seventh hole — his 16th of the day since he started off the 10th tee — in yesterday's first round found the lake on the right and cost him sole possession of first place in the $260,000 Jackie Gleason-Inverrary National Airlines Golf Classic.

"I came off the shot pretty bad," he said.

The tournament offers $52,000 for first place, more than Fezler has earned in his brief pro career. He's tied with old pro Gay Brewer, who has picked up three checks bigger than that since scoring his last American victory in the 1967 Masters.

They matched 67s, five under par, on the 7,128 yard Inverrary Golf Club course while Lee Trevino made his first challenge of the year and tricky winds took care of many of the other great stars of the game.

No Challenge

Trevino, never a factor in the seven week western swing, and Gibby Gilbert had 69s, just two strokes back.

Caldwell Stands Alone

The four top Monmouth County scorers of last week remained in their respective places after last week's action, but the big man, Norm Caldwell of Croydon Hall Academy appears to be making a bid to catch his last year's output of 34 points per game.

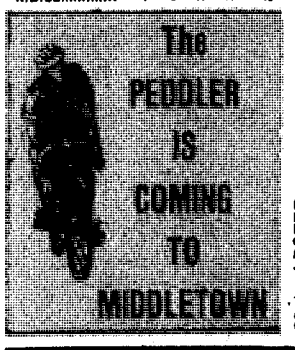

The CHA superstar is up to 31.8 and has scored more than 40 points per game for the last two weeks.

Pete Peltz of Keansburg, still second, is up to 25.3, and Vinnie Thompson of CHA improved to 24.8.

NOTICE

AN ORDINANCE TO ESTABLISH THE OFFICE OF JOINT MUNICIPAL TAX ASSESSOR FOR THE BOROUGH OF SHREWSBURY AND THE TOWNSHIP OF COLTS NECK, IN THE COUNTY OF MONMOUTH.

BE IT ORDAINED by the Mayor and Council of the Borough of Shrewsbury, in the County of Monmouth and State of New Jersey, that:

Section 1. The Office of Joint Municipal Tax Assessor is hereby established and shall be maintained by and for the Borough of Shrewsbury and the Township of Colts Neck, both in the County of Monmouth, to assess real and personal property for taxation within each of said municipalities, all as authorized under and by virtue of the provisions of N.J.S.A. 40:48 B-14 through N.J.S.A. 40:48 D-21, inclusive.

Section 2. The governing bodies of said municipalities shall, by agreement, provide for the appointment of a Joint Municipal Tax Assessor and such other personnel as may be necessary, for the apportionment of the costs and expenses of operation of such office between said participating municipalities and for such other terms and conditions as may be necessary and convenient for the establishment and maintenance of the office.

Section 3. Such Office of Joint Municipal Tax Assessor shall consist of a Tax Assessor and such such subordinate personnel as may, by the governing bodies of said municipalities, be deemed necessary and proper to perform the assessment function in each of said municipalities in accordance with law. Any person who may hereafter be appointed to office as Joint Municipal Tax Assessor for said municipalities shall hold such office for a term of four (4) years, as shall be provided for by agreement of the governing bodies of said municipalities, provided that any such person reappointed as Joint Municipal Tax Assessor after serving for four (4) years in that capacity shall thereafter hold his position during good behavior and efficiency notwithstanding that such reappointment was for a fixed term of years, and he shall not be removed therefrom for political reasons but only for good cause shown and after a proper hearing before the Director of the Division of Taxation of the State of New Jersey or his designee.

Section 4. All employees in the Office of the Joint Muncipal Tax Assessor shall be deemed to be the employees of the municipality having the largest apportionment valuation determined under N.J.S.A. 54:4-49 in 1972.

Section 5. The assessment function of the Joint Municipal Tax Assessor shall be exercised in the same manner and to *the same extent as though it was ex*ercised in each municipality separately, and the tax list and duplicate, property record cards, and all other records for each of the said municipalities shall be maintained separately and shall be available for public inspection pursuant to law.

Section 6. The joint agreement may be terminated upon the adoption of a resolution to that effect by the governing body of either of the aforesaid municipalities. Except by unanimous agreement, such termination shall not be made effective earlier than June 30 next succeeding the expiration of twelve (12) full calendar months following the adoption of such resolution.

Section 7. This Ordinance shall take effect upon its passage and publication according to law if a similar ordinance of the Township of Colts Neck has been adopted within six (6) months prior to the adoption hereof or upon the effective date of a similar ordinance hereafter adopted by the Borough of Shrewsbury, provided such similar ordinance is adopted within six (6) months from the adoption hereof.

NOTICE

The foregoing ordinance was introduced at a meeting of the Borough Council of Shrewsbury held on February 13, 1973 and will be considered for final passage after public hearing at the Council meeting to be held on March 13, 1973 at 8:15 p.m. in the Broad Street Auditorium of the Shrewsbury School, at which time all persons who wish to be heard thereon will be given an opportunity.

BOND ORDINANCE PROVIDING FOR THE IMPROVEMENT OF THE PUBLIC SWIMMING POOL COMPLEX BY THE CONSTRUCTION OF TENNIS COURTS THEREON IN AND BY THE TOWNSHIP OF HOLMDEL, IN THE COUNTY OF MONMOUTH, NEW JERSEY, APPROPRIATING $180,000 THEREFOR AND AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE OF $171,000 BONDS OR NOTES OF THE TOWNSHIP TO FINANCE PART OF THE COST THEREOF. (No. 2-73)

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE TOWNSHIP COMMITTEE OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HOLMDEL, IN THE COUNTY OF MONMOUTH, NEW JERSEY (not less than two-thirds of all the members thereof affirmatively concurring) AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. The improvement described in Section 3 of this bond ordinance is hereby authorized as a general improvement to be made or acquired by The Township of Holmdel, in the County of Monmouth, New Jersey. For the said improvement or purpose stated in said Section 3, there is hereby appropriated the sum of $180,000 said sum being inclusive of all appropriations heretofore made therefor and including the sum of $9,000 as the down payment for said improvement or purpose required by law and now available therefor by virtue of provision in previously adopted budget or budgets for down payment or for capital improvement purposes.

Section 2. For the financing of said improvement or purpose and to meet the part of said $180,000 appropriation not provided for by application hereunder of said down payment, negotiable bonds are hereby authorized to be issued in the principal amount of $171,000 pursuant to the Local Bond Law of New Jersey. In anticipation of the issuance of said bonds and to temporarily finance said improvement or purpose, negotiable notes in a principal amount equal to said principal amount of bonds are hereby authorized to be issued pursuant to and within the limitations prescribed by said Law.

Section 3. (a) The improvement hereby authorized and purpose for the financing of which said obligations are to be issued is the construction of new tennis courts and related facilities at the site of the municipal swimming pool complex located on the easterly side of Holmdel-Keyport Road in the Township, including all work or materials necessary therefor or incidental thereto, all as shown on and in accordance with the plans and specifications therefor on file in the office of the Clerk and hereby approved.

(b) The estimated maximum amount of bonds or notes to be issued for said purpose is as stated in Section 2 hereof.

(c) The estimated cost of said purpose is equal to the amount of the appropriation herein made therefor, the excess thereof over the said estimated maximum amount of bonds or notes to be issued therefor being the amount of the said down payment for said purpose.

Section 4. The following additional matters are hereby determined, declared, recited and stated:

(a) The said purpose described in Section 3 of this bond ordinance is not a current expense and is a property or improvement which the Township may lawfully acquire or make as a general improvement, and no part of the cost thereof has been or shall be specially assessed on property specially benefited thereby.

(b) The period of usefulness of said purpose within the limitations of said Local Bond Law, according to the reasonable life thereof computed from the date of the said bonds authorized by this bond ordinance, is 15 years.

(c) The Supplemental Debt Statement required by said Law has been duly made and filed in the office of the Clerk and a complete executed duplicate thereof has been filed in the office of the Director of the Division of Local Government Services in the Department of Community Affairs of the State of New Jersey, and such statement shows that the gross debt of the Township as defined in said Law is increased by the authorization of the bonds and notes provided for in this bond ordinance by $171,000 and the said obligations authorized will be within all debt limitations prescribed by said Law.

(d) An aggregate amount not exceeding $20,000 for items of expense listed in and permitted under Section 40A:2-20 of said Law may be included as part of the cost of said improvement and is included in the foregoing estimate thereof.

Section 5. The full faith and credit of the Township are hereby pledged to the punctual payment of the principal of and interest on the said obligations authorized by this bond ordinance. Said obligations shall be direct, unlimited obligations of the Township, and the Township shall be obligated to levy ad valorem taxes upon all the taxable property within the Township for the payment of said obligations and interest thereon without limitation of rate or amount.

Section 6. This bond ordinance shall take effect 20 days after the first publication thereof after final adoption, as provided by said Local Bond Law.

STATEMENT

The bond ordinance published herewith has been finally adopted on February 21, 1973 and the 20-day period of limitation within which a suit, action or proceeding questioning the validity of such ordinance can be commenced, as provided in the Local Bond Law, has begun to run from the date of the first publication of this statement.

NOTICE
CODE ENFORCEMENT PROGRAMS

Dear Resident:

The Borough of Keansburg is conducting a program to enforce housing codes. This program is designed to establish and maintain property standards which will protect your health, safety, and welfare. Areas exhibiting deterioration and high density living are given priority for inspections, however, the entire community will be visited.

After an inspection is made, a notice is mailed to the property owner which appraises him of the violations against his property, and the time within which he must remove them.

Should removal of the violations cause displacement of persons or businesses, assistance for relocation will be provided in accordance with the New Jersey Relocation Assistance Law of 1971 as follows:

1. Persons to be relocated must be rehoused in decent, safe, and sanitary accommodations within their financial means (rent paying ability).
2. In addition rental assistance and payments are available to displaced tenants, if eligible.
3. Payments are available to displaced howmeowners, if eligible.

Your Relocation officer, Anthony Chesney, or one of the relocation staff will assist you in processing your relocation payment claim. The Relocation Office is located at Municipal Building and is open between 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. If you are unable to visit the office during the established hours, a special time can be arranged when you call the office. Phone 787-0602.

If you feel you are not being treated fairly during the relocation process, you have the right under the Relocation Assistance Law to request an Administrative Hearing before the Commissioner of the N.J. State Department of Community Affairs:

REMEMBER — YOUR RELOCATION OFFICER HAS BEEN APPOINTED TO BE OF SERVICE TO YOU . . . IF YOU HAVE ANY PROBLEMS OR QUESTIONS, DO NOT HESITATE TO CALL.

In case any such owner or owners of land shall not construct the said sidewalks and appurtenances on or in front of such land within thirty days after service on such owner or owners of notice pursuant to Sections 40:65-2 to 40:65-5 of the Revised Statutes of New Jersey, the said sidewalks and appurtenances shall be constructed by the Borough at the expense of the owner or owners of the land on or in front of which the improvement is made.

Section 4. The total cost of all such sidewalks and appurtenances constructed by the Borough pursuant to Section 3 hereof shall be assessed and paid for by special assessments to be levied upon the several properties fronting thereon in proportion to their respective frontages thereon. The number of annual installments in which may be paid the said sidewalk assessments to be levied on properties in front of which the improvement is made is ten (10).

Section 5. The owner of any land upon which any such sidewalk assessment shall have been made may pay such assessment in the number of equal annual installments hereinabove determined, with legal interest on the unpaid balance of said assessment. The first of said installments shall be due and payable thirty days after the confirmation of the assessment and each subsequent annual installment and interest shall be payable in each successive year thereof at the time the first installment of tax of said year shall be payable, provided that any owner of land so assessed shall have the privilege of paying the whole of any assessment or any balance of installments with accrued interest thereon at one time; in case any such installment shall remain unpaid for thirty days from and after the time it shall become due and payable the whole assessment or balance thereof shall become and be immediately due and payable and shall draw interest at the rate imposed upon the arrearages of taxes in the Borough and shall be collected in the same manner as provided by law for other past due assessments; such assessment shall remain a lien upon the land described therein until the same with all installments and accrued interest thereon shall be paid and satisfied. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the Borough shall have such right to waive default as may be permitted by law.

Section 6. All such sidewalks, structures and appurtenances shall be constructed in accordance with, and shall in all respects conform with, the plans and specifications therefor prepared by the Borough Engineer, which are on file in the office of the Borough Clerk and hereby approved.

Section 7. For the said sidewalk improvement described in Section 1 of this bond ordinance, there is hereby appropriated the sum of $30,000, said sum being inclusive of all appropriations heretofore made therefor and including the sum of $1,500 as a down payment for said improvement and now available therefor by virtue of provision in a budget or budgets of the Borough previously adopted.

Section 8. For the financing of said sidewalk improvement and to meet the part of said $30,000 appropriation not provided for by application hereunder of said down payment, negotiable bonds of the Borough, each to be known as "Sidewalk Assessment Bond", are hereby authorized to be issued in the principal amount of $28,500 pursuant to the Local Bond Law of the State of New Jersey. In anticipation of the issuance of said bonds and to temporarily finance said improvement, negotiable notes of the Borough in a principal amount not exceeding $28,500 are hereby authorized to be issued pursuant to and within the limitations prescribed by said Law.

(a) The said purpose described in Section 1 of this bond ordinance is not a current expense and is an improvement which the Borough may lawfully make as a sidewalk improvement and constitutes a local improvement as described and defined in said Local Bond Law.

(b) The estimated maximum amount of bonds or notes to be issued for said purpose is $28,500.

(c) The estimated cost of said purpose is $30,000, the excess thereof over the said estimated maximum amount of bonds or notes to be issued therefor being the amount of the said $1,500 down payment for said purpose.

(d) The period of usefulness of said purpose, within the limitations of said Local Bond Law and according to the reasonable life thereof computed from the date of the said bonds authorized by this bond ordinance is ten (10) years.

(e) The supplemental debt statement required by said Law has been duly made and filed in the office of the Borough Clerk and a complete executed duplicate thereof has been filed in the office of the Director of the Division of Local Finance in the Department of Community Affairs of the State of New Jersey, and such statement shows that the gross debt of the Borough as defined in said Law is increased by this bond ordinance by $28,500 and that the said obligations authorized by this bond ordinance will be within all debt limitations prescribed by said Law.

(f) An aggregate amount not exceeding $10,000 for items of expense mentioned in and permitted under section 40A:2-20 of said Law has been included in the foregoing estimate of the cost of said improvement or purpose.

(g) Nothing will be contributed by the Borough at large to payment of the cost of said sidewalk improvement, and the estimated amount of the special assessments to be levied upon the property front on said improvement is $30,000.

Section 10. The full faith and credit of the Borough are hereby pledged to the punctual payment of the principal of and interest on the said obligations authorized by this bond ordinance. Said obligations shall be direct, unlimited obligations of the Borough and the Borough shall be obligated to levy ad valorem taxes upon all the taxable property within the Borough for the payment of said obligations and interest thereon without limitation as to rate or amount.

Section 11. This bond ordinance shall take effect twenty (20) days after the first publication thereof after final passage, as provided by said Local Bond Law.

NOTICE OF PENDING ORDINANCE

The ordinance published herewith was introduced and passed upon first reading at a meeting of the Borough Council of the Borough of Keansburg, in the County of Monmouth, New Jersey, held on February 21, 1973. It will be further considered for final passage after public hearing thereon, at a meeting of said Borough Council to be held in the Borough Hall* in said Borough on March 7, 1973 at 7:30 o'clock P.M., and during the week prior to and up to and including the date of such meeting, copies of said ordinance will be made available at the Clerk's Office in said Borough Hall* to the members of the general public who shall request the same.

Boat Show Fish-In Set

The Striped Bass Fund, a newly organized group of private fishermen from among 10 Atlantic costal states, will conduct a Striped Bass Fish-In educational program Sunday at the Jersey Coast Boat Show at Convention Hall in Asbury Park.

Surf, Field and Stream

The marathon teach-in will take place in a series of 30-minute presentations, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Some of the country's foremost fishermen and ecologists will participate in order to provide some tips for anglers of all ages, and some ecology tips on how to keep our waterways 'right' so that our children will also be able to grow up and enjoy the sport of game fishing.

To Speak

Ken Lauer, a noted North Carolina sportsman and an expert on surf fishing, will speak on the effects of netting bass in North Carolina.

Dr. Jack Pearce of Sandy Hook Laboratories will speak on water quality and marine game fish, while Derry Bennett of the American Littoral Society will show a presentation on the N.J. estuaries and the striped bass.

Other participants are Al Reinfelder, (small boat fishing for stripers); Mark Sosin, (fly fishing for stripers); Milt Rosko, (surf fishing for stripers); Jim Renzo, (trolling for stripers), Al Ristori, (finding the big ones), and Pete Barrett, (the fight to save the stripers).

The 30-minute presentations will be moderated by Rod Vandivert.

The Striped Bass Fund was formed to bring together marine interests in the coastal states to protect the fishery and its habitat, estuaries and coastal waters.

The Fund will support research and litigation to help prevent damaging development and pollution that endanger the striped bass and support species as well as people recreation.

Sets Aim

The Fund's aim is to insure progress and development for proper safeguards for marine resources.

The Jersey Coast Boat Show is maintaining a fishing information booth to advise the boating and fishing public as well as interested environmentalists, on details relating to the threat of extinction of "that glamour game fish of the Atlantic," the striped bass.

In addition to the fishing information booth, the volunteer group has selected a young lady to serve as "Miss Bass," and provide general information to visitors about the dangers to out "aqua-environment," harmful to aquatic life.

Admission to the Striped Bass Fish-In is included with your boat show fee. The show hours are 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily. Sunday 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Bowling Honors To Mrs. Puronas

MIDDLETOWN — Agnes Puronas of Farmingdale won all events in the 27th annual Woman's Bowling Association tournament at the Middletown Lanes over the weekend with 1,693 total pins.

Jean Allen of Middletown was runnerup with 1,680 and Kay Ayles of Asbury Park was third at 1,650.

Grace Burke won all events for handicappers with 1,919.

Doubles scratch winners were Jackie Silvergate and Mrs. Puronas at 1,096, but the best game was the combined efforts of Barbara Ulisnik and Gert Cataldi with 400.

Doubles handicap victors were Brenda Ashton and Linda Diebold (1,290). The duo was captured to game at 476.

In singles scratch competition, Loantha Eardley had the best set at 594 and the top game of 230.

The best handicap set was also rolled by Mrs. Eardley at 675, but the high handicap game went to Shirley Norman at 272.

The annual 600 Club Tournament will be held at Middletown Lanes Sunday at 2 p.m.

State Slates Tournament For Tankers

ROBBINSVILLE — The 51st annual N.J. State Interscholastic Swimming Championships will be held at Dillon Pool in Princeton University on Friday night and Saturday, March 9 and 10, according to an announcement made today by James G. Growney, Executive Secretary-Treasurer of the N.J. State Interscholastic Athletic Association.

The competition will be staged in two divisions — Division 'A' comprising Group IV and Parochial 'A' high schools, and Division 'B' for public school Groups I, II and III, and Parochial Group 'B' and 'C' high schools.

There will be a total of 11 events in the championships and the 1973 NCAA swimming rules will govern the competition. All the diving events will be held on Friday night, March 9, and the swimming trial heats are slated throughout the following day starting at 9:30 a.m. The finals will begin that night at 7:30 p.m.

Individual medals emblematic of the NJSIAA interscholastic championships will be awarded to the first six finishers in each final event, and a team trophy will be presented to the winning school team in each division. A school without a dual meet schedule may enter individuals in the state meet, but no points may be scored for that school.

Entries for the swimming championships must be received by the meet director, Mr. William E. Kogen, 131 Lake Drive, Mountain Lakes, no later than Friday, March 2.

Buc Tankers End Year On Victory

The boys (11-2) downed Asbury Park, 72-26, while the girls (8-0) topped the lady Bishops, 72-13.

John Clews got three wins for the Bucs. He captured the 50-yard freestyle and the 100-yard butterfly and had a hand in the winning 400-yard freestyle relay along with Dave Leggett, Doug Rose and Jim McCabe.

McCabe, Bob Clark, Craig Wedel and Andy Lee won the 200 yard medley relay.

Rose won the 200-yard freestyle; Drew Hessinger took the 200-yard individual medley and the 100-yard breaststroke. Leggett won the 400-yard freestyle and Dave Banta won the 100-yard backstroke.

Meg Deiss played a major role in the girls' victory with three wins. She took the 100-yard breaststroke, the 200-yard freestyle and helped in the 400-yard freestyle relay with Carol Wichman, Barbara Tirone and Judy Galatro.

Other Buc victors were Leslie Woodward (50-yard freestyle), and Midge Kassinger (100-yard butterfly). The 200-yard medley relay team of Miss Wichman, Ann Litteri, Miss Kassinger and Miss Galatro also won their event.

Hope Is Set To Reign At Mardi Gras

The pre-Lenten festivities of New Orleans' Mardi Gras will provide the gala setting for "The Bob Hope Special" to be colorcast on the NBC Television Network Wednesday, March 7 at 8 p.m.

Comedian-singer Phil Harris, trumpet virtuoso Al Hirt and clarinetist Pete Fountain are the first three guests set for the Mardi Gras show, which will be filmed on location in New Orleans.

Bob Hope, as this year's "King of Bacchus" for the Mardi Gras, will preside over the parade, during which members of the carnival Krewe will throw in excess of one million doubloons (special aluminum coins minted for the occasion with the reigning king's face imprinted on them) and one million gross of beads.

Solution to Yesterday's Puzzle

Your Horoscope, Birthday

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 23 — Born today, you are a determined person, bent on achieving the success you feel due you as a result of your talents. Such determination leads you into tremendous effort; indeed, it sometimes leads you into expending more in the way of energy that you actually have. You will have to be on guard, therefore, against overdoing things. Always be sure to leave room for periods of play — as therapy for your mind — and periods of complete rest — as therapy for your body.

Although your achievements may at first go unheralded by those who could see to it that success was translated into material gain, you will take a great deal of personal satisfaction from the knowledge that you have done what you set out to do. The likelihood of your failing to attain the heights in your career are slight but — as with all people — present. Should failure occur, you will know how to deal with it and how to build upon it.

You are intellectually inclined — but at the same time you thoroughly enjoy physical exercise and actually revel in those activities which are body-building and health-giving. Happily attuned to your general surroundings, you know no fear of being surprised by things you have overlooked. The unexpected excites and interests you; it does not alarm you.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 24

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Attend to the words of the young. You may find yourself in the position of gaining much knowledge the easy way.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — A day when you ought to be able to realize more of your potential than usual. Listen carefully to all directions before starting to work.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Disregard your own personal reactions to another's proposals. If they satisfy the majority, make an effort to give them a try.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Take the first opportunity this morning to offer your apologies for yesterday's behavior. Don't hesitate to take blame on yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — A chance for personal gain arises early in the day. Take advantage of it immediately or give it up permanently!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Gains made this morning may well be lost this afternoon — unless you are wise enough to safeguard your interests against loved ones!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Gear yourself for a difficult afternoon and evening. If you play your cards right, you can come out on top with real gains.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Play it cool this morning. If you allow another's pronouncements to get under your skin, you may forfeit the day's opportunities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Unless you have answers ready and waiting, you would be wise to avoid any whom you know to have questions. Be guided by good sense.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — The less traditional you are today in celebrating gains, the happier you'll be with the results of your efforts.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Think twice before committing yourself to any program of activity. Become involved only where you are prepared!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Diligent observation of all that goes on around you today will aid you in discerning genuine opportunity for advancement tomorrow.

Sheinwold's Bridge Advice

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

When you went to yor first party, your mother undoubtedly instructed you not to take everything that was offered to you. Of course you didn't take this advice, but maybe wisdom has come with the years. Try a little self-denial at the bridge table.

East won the first trick with the king of hearts and returned a heart to remove dummy's ace. Now there was no side entry in dummy for the long clubs.

Undismayed, South returned a low club from dummy and finessed with the nine of clubs from his own hand. This fine play gave West a chance to blunder.

You can see what happens if West wins with the jack of clubs. South later overtakes the king of clubs with dummy's ace. When the queen of clubs drops on this trick, the rest of dummy's long suit becomes good.

Sees Trap

Seeing the trap just in time, West refused to win the club trick. Now South was in trouble, with only two club tricks instead of five.

After some thought, South decided to play for a 3-3 break in spades, with the king in the East hand. He therefore led a low spade after being allowed to win a trick with the nine of clubs.

West won and knocked out the jack of hearts. Now South overtook the king of clubs with dummy's ace to try a spade finesse. This lost and West cashed two hearts and jack of clubs to put South down two. Refusing the first club trick made a difference of three tricks to the defenders.

South can make the contract if he sees all of the cards. After winning with the nine of clubs, South cashes the king of clubs, the jack of hearts and the top diamonds. Then he puts West in with a low spade. West can cash two hearts but must then give South three spades or dummy three clubs.

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer, at your right, bids one heart. You hold: S-A Q 6 2 H-J 5 2 D-A K 7 5 C-K 9. What do you say?

Answer: Double (for a takeout). You have the right general strength and distrubition for an overcall of 1 NT but cannot afford to make this bid without a single stopper in the opponent's suit.
