Astronauts Off to Salvage Crippled Skylab in Space

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla (AP) — Three American astronauts rocketed from earth today on an unprecedented mission to salvage the crippled Skylab space station and make it their orbital home for a record 28 days.

Riding with the all-Navy crew of Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz were hopes that they could repair this nation's first orbiting laboratory and save the $2.6 billion project.

A 22-story-tall Saturn 1B rocket blasted away from Cape Kennedy to start the astronauts in pursuit of the 85-ton station. They were to stalk it through the skies at 17,100 miles an hour, catching up with it after 7½ hours.

Once there, they will examine damage caused when a heat shield was ripped away during the launch of the laboratory 11 days ago, exposing the lab to the extreme heat of the sun.

They'll determine how best to erect a sunshade to cool the overheated lab and decide if they can free a jammed solar panel to produce more electrical power.

If they succeed, their mission could signal a new era in which the United States shifts emphasis from space exploration to space exploitation, intended to benefit mankind in many ways.

Conrad, 42, Kerwin, 40, and Weitz, 41, were up early for their big day, rising at 3:45 a.m. for the traditional astronauts' launch day breakfast of steak and eggs.

As they left the crew quarters, they smiled and waved at a group of newsmen and space workers. They boarded an air-conditioned van for the short drive to the launch pad and rode elevators to the spacecraft level.

As Conrad made communications checks in the Apollo cabin, spacecraft test conductor Bob Reed asked, "How's the handyman today?"

"Are you guys going to blow the rest of those clouds out of here by 9 a.m.?" Conrad asked.

"What we don't blow out, you guys will," Reed replied.

With mission commander Conrad at the controls, the Apollo was to execute a series of intricate maneuvers to track down the space station and rendezvous with it 275 miles above the earth. This would take about 7½ hours.

The astronauts carry with them three folded gold-and-silver shades, one of which they hope to erect to shadow the Skylab from the sun and permit them to take up occupancy for a record 28 days in space. They also have tools that might free a jammed solar panel and replacements for film and medicine believed to have been spoiled by the high heat in the station's cabin.

Preparing various sun shields under a crash program almost caused another delay in the astronaut liftoff. It already has been postponed 10 days because of the launch mishap that ripped a heat shield from the Skylab on May 14.

After considering several sunshade candidates, Skylab program director William C. Schneider made an 11th hour decision last night on which three to take along.

The No. 1 choice, as it has been most of the week, is an umbrella-like device.

If that does not work, Kerwin and Conrad were to open a hatch in the side of the vehicle the next day and erect two 55-foot poles into a V-shape holder on which they would unfurl an awning.

The third choice would involve undocking the Apollo and maneuvering it close while Weitz leaned out the open hatch and attached a sail-like shield.

Commander Conrad, with advice from the ground, would make the decision.

McCrane Is Indicted On a Fraud Charge

NEWARK (AP) — Former State Treasurer Joseph M. McCrane Jr., already under indictment for alleged misconduct in office, has now been accused of fraud by a federal grand jury probing possible irregularities in the funding of Gov. William T. Cahill's 1969 campaign.

McCrane was indicted on the fraud charges yesterday. He was later scheduled to be arraigned June 1 in federal court here.

The indictment specifically charged McCrane with taking part in an allegedy conspiracy to make some campaign contributions look like tax deductible business expenses. The indictmen alleged that McCrane directed a public relations firm, named as Writers Associates, to take in $46,710 in donations from individuals and corporations then issue phony vouchers.

According to the indictment, McCrane also aided the companies in preparing false 1969 income tax returns in which they deducted money for non-existent work by Writers Associates.

Ironically, the indictment was handed up exactly one week after McCrane was arraigned on charges of misconduct and soliciting three banks and the state pension funds to buy securities through his brother Kevin in return for the banks obtaining a greater share of deposits of state funds.

Joseph M. McCrane Jr.

The indictment was handed up by a state grand jury and although the former state official entered no plea to the charge, he later issued a statement in which he denied, "categorically, emphatically, and without equivocation" any wrongdoing during his three years as treasurer. He is now free on $5,000 personal recognizance bond.

Among the firms named in yesterday's indictment were the Atlantic City Racing Association, which gave $9,500, Hialeah Race Course, Inc., donor of $2,000, and Trap Rock Industries, Inc., Middletown, which gave $15,000 to the campaign through Writers Associates, the indictment said.

The money was allegedly used for public relations expenses, advertising and helicopters used during Cahill's campaign against former Gov. Robert B. Meyner.

The indictment was returned by the same grand jury that indicted former state Republican Chairman Nelson G. Gross on charges he, too, was part of the scheme and that he coerced one of the contributors to lie to a grand jury about the alleged scheme.

Gross, who was named an unindicted co-conspirator in yesterday's charge, has denied any wrongdoing.

Report Magruder Ready To Become U.S. Witness

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. attorney here has disclosed that a key member of the Watergate conspiracy has agreed to plead guilty without immunity and to testify as a prosecution witness at trial. He did not identify the individual.

U.S. Atty. Harold H. Titus Jr. said yesterday that after confering with his three principal prosecutors he had learned that "it is realistic to anticipate a comprehensive indictment within 60 to 90 days."

Government sources quoted in the New York Times today identified the conspirator mentioned by Titus as former White House aide Jeb Stuart Magruder. Magruder later served as an assistant to former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell on the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

Titus also said that negotiations currently are under way aimed at obtaining guilty pleas and cooperation from others implicated in the wide web of scandals that have come to be known as the Watergate affair.

Addressing himself to speculation that he and his prosecutors would withdraw from the Watergate case, Titus confirmed this had been their intention up to the time of a meeting Wednesday afternoon with Archibald Cox, the newly named special Watergate prosecutor.

"He urged us, in view of the important work we were doing, that it was in the public interest that we carry on the development of the case," Titus said. "At this time, I wish to advise you that we will accede to Prof. Cox's request. . ."

Titus did not specifically say their stay would be permanent, however, and, in a statement issued later, Cox appeared to indicate that their status is his to decide at some future time.

"The public interest requires you as honorable and responsible public officials to carry on while I am familiarizing myself with all that has been done. . . As soon as I have taken office in the department, I would of course expect to be consulted before any decisions were made," Cox said.

In other developments yesterday, the Senate's Watergate hearing recessed until June 5, and former FBI acting Director L. Patrick Gray III said that he warned President Nixon last summer that "people on your staff are trying to mortally wound you."

In testimony before a closed session of a Senate Appropriations subcommittee — and reported later by the subcommittee's chairman, John L. McClellan, D-Ark. — Gray said he spoke to Nixon last July 6.

Gray said he cautioned Nixon after agreeing with Lt. Gen. Vernon Walters, deputy CIA director, that confusion had arisen about the investigation of Mexican aspects of the Watergate case.

Brookdale at Impasse With Faculty Members

By DORIS KULMAN

LINCROFT — The Brookdale Community College Board of Trustees yesterday declared an impasse in its contract negotiations with the Faculty Association and will ask the state Public Employes Relations Commission (PERC) to mediate.

PERC is now mediating the contract dispute between the board and the college's Non-Academic Staff Association. The board declared an impasse in those negotiations several months ago.

According to Faculty Association spokesmen, stalemates in its negotiations are money (the Association asking an 8 per cent wage hike, the board offering 4½ per cent); workload (the Association wants less working days, the board wants more), and grievance procedures.

Averring the Faculty Association's willingness to continue negotiations "until all matters are resolved," its president, Frank Reddington, told the board last night "we were stunned . . . when the board's negotiations team suddenly declared impasse and walked out" of yesterday's negotiating session.

After Seven Months

Mr. Reddington said the impasse was declared by the board's $50-an-hour negotiator, Robert Murray, after seven months of weekly sessions.

"We cannot understand how we can be at impasse at a college whose basic philosophy has been the team approach and group approach to problem solving. We want to solve this problem," Mr. Reddington told the board in a prepared statement.

"We would like to learn more about this from the administration," Maj. Gen. W. Preston Corderman (USA Ret.), the board president, replied. The board then will be in a position to act on the Faculty Association's statement, he said.

According to George Abel, cochairman of the faculty negotiating committee, the Association is asking a cost of living adjustment "plus or minus," in addition to the 8 per cent wage boost, and wants the number of working days shaved from the present 170 to 165.

Board Wants Increase

The board wants to increase the number of working days to 180, he said, and the first package it put on the bargaining table didn't include any wage hike.

Many Towns Plan Memorial Day Events

Communities throughout Monmouth County will observe Memorial Day with parades and wreath-laying ceremonies. Most ceremonies will be conducted on Monday, but some are scheduled for Sunday.

In Red Bank, Army Chaplain Capt. Ned R. Davidson of Ft. Monmouth, will be the principal speaker at 11 a.m. services at the War Monument in front of police headquarters.

The highlight of Middletown's activities will be a parade scheduled for 11:30 a.m. Monday. Sponsored by the American Legion Post in Leonardo, the parade will begin at Viola Ave.

Troops station at Ft. Monmouth will serve as either color guards or firing squads at ceremonies in 22 county municipalities.

Scheduled observances are as follows:

ASBURY PARK

The city will "oficially" open its 1973 bathing season with a colorful ceremonial at 11 a.m. Monday.

"Father Neptune," in full regalia, will emerge from the ocean with bikini-clad mermaids, ending their winter hibernation.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS

Marchers in the annual Atlantic Highlands Memorial Day parade will assemble at 10:30 a.m. at the municipal Yacht Harbor for an 11 a.m. start.

Members of fire companies, first aid squads, Scouting and veterans organizations, will be included in the line of march.

Also marching will be the Atlantic Highlands Elementary School and Henry Hudson Regional School bands. A firing squad from Ft. Monmouth will attend.

Services at Memorial Park will conclude the day's activities.

A memorial service is scheduled for 8:30 a.m. Monday at Bay View Cemetery, Leonardo. Flags will be placed on veterans' graves.

COLTS NECK

Colts Neck Township will combine its annual holiday remembrance Monday with the groundbreaking for its Future First Aid Squad headquarters.

Earlier this month the Township Committee awarded a $142,687 contract to Stephen Grega, Farmingdale, low bidder, for general construction work on the facility. Groundbreaking ceremonies will be at the site, which has been named Heritage Lane, behind the township hall at Cedar Drive.

Taking part in the ceremony, which starts at 10 a.m., will be Mayor Robert L. Simms; Committeeman Frank Kane, instrumental in the township's building and grounds planning; Alfred Ruppel, president of the First Aid Squad, Bernard Kellenyi, architect, and Mr. Grega.

After the groundbreaking the Memorial Day parade will start at the community complex and proceed along Ilyers Mill Road to the gravesite of Pvt. Michael Field, a Revolutionary War hero. Pvt. Field, a member of the Middlesex County Militia, was wounded and captured by the British in the Battle of Monmouth. He died during the British retreat through Colts Neck and was buried here. The site was recently donated to the township by Frank J. Cahir.

Participants in the grave site ceremonies will be Mayor Simms; Arthur Goodwin, of the Colts Neck Fire Department, master of ceremonies; Mrs. Peter Krupa, who will sing the Star Spangled Banner and give a patriotic reading; the Veterans of Foreign Wars; the Joshua Huddy Boys, Troop 90, Boy Scouts of America, who will perform colonial and patriotic songs, and the Rev. Thomas Hoard, of Monmouth Christian Church, Marlboro, and the Rev. William Bausch, pastor of St. Mary's Church, here.

Parade participants will include the First Aid Squad; Fire Companies 1 and 2; area

765 Petitioners Oppose a Half-Way House in Keyport

KEYPORT — About 50 borough residents, their mayor and councilmen and several more borough officials listened patiently but noncommittally last night as a panel of five outlined plans for a half-way house in the Seabrook Nursing Home, 160 W. Front St.

When the panelists were finished, their audience asked questions. Some residents favored the project, some spoke against it. Many who spoke seemed undecided.

However, before the meeting, Mayor William A. Ralph was handed a petition which was reported to contain the signatures of 765 persons opposed to the project.

The residential treatment facility would house a maximum of 30 clients of both sexes, perhaps a majority of them with alcoholic histories, released from terms in the county jail or confinement in the state hospital at Marlboro. The clients would be carefully screened, with acceptance limited to those showing not only a desire but an aptitude for rehabilitation.

Function of the facility would be to prevent recidivism by filling a void left by the lack of any transitional route between release from jail or hospital and reentry into the community as a useful citizen.

5-Man Panel

On the panel were Frederick Forrest of New Shrewsbury, president of the Monmouth Community Services Council, who acted as moderator; James B. Deans, executive director of the Monmouth County Alcoholism Council; Paul Brown and Henry G. Mueller, members of the Monmouth County Citizens Correctional Association, and Dr. Richard Waite, a member of the staff of the Community Services Council.

Mr. Forrest set forth the problem which gave rise to the project. Eligible for treatment will be those persons who have gotten into trouble with the law often through alcoholism, and have served time in the county jail or in the state hospital at Marlboro, he said.

They will be a small group who have paid the price and are ready to go back into society, but are not admitted able to either to start life again on the outside," the council president went on.

The need for a transitional facility was brought to the attention of the Community Services Council, whose function is to coordinate social services in the county, Mr. Forrest said.

"The need is not being met. The idea is to have some place for these people to go — to give them a chance," he explained.

"These people," Mr. Forrest and other panel members made clear, include not arrested alcoholics and persons who have been confined in the county jail for crimes classed as misdemeanors or less serious offenses. [illegible] addicts or mental patients will be eligible for treatment."

Last night's meeting was characterized by Mr. Forrest as "a learning experience." No decisions were asked of borough officials or the audience," and none were offered.

Mr. Deans outlined the functions of the proposed treatment facility with respect to arrested alcoholics.

"The prime need is for the arrested alcoholic to have a fresh start. He needs a supporting hand to become a contributing member of society. There is no more frustrating experience than to see a recovered alcoholic reenter the community. What we want is a place for him today, his head while he becomes reoriented [illegible]," he said.

Problem Detailed

Mr. Mueller, whose organization is in the business of "giving encouragement to people institutionalized but coming back," explained the treatment facility's function with regard to ex-inmates of the county jail.

With such a facility, such persons often start new lives and become respected members of the community — in some cases, even rise to prominence, Mr. Mueller, who has experience with "half-way houses" in New York state declared. Many of these persons, involved in petty crime principally through alcoholism, drop back to the Bowery because of the absence of residential treatment facilities, he said.

"We don't want this to happen in Monmouth County. It's up to us as citizens of Monmouth County to do something about it," Mr. Mueller urged.

Mr. Brown, speaking of nonalcoholic offenders, cited hopelessness that descends on ex-inmates released to seek employment without help. Unable to find work, they often despair and drop back into the criminal activities which landed them in jail in the first place.

House Rules

"They are trapped in a pattern of ineptness and can't escape without a helping hand. With one, the large majority become useful members of society," Mr. Brown explained.

Recidivism in Monmouth County averages 60 to 70 per cent, he added. "That's a tough thing for an offender to face," Mr. Brown commented.

Dr. Waite outlined procedures to be followed in the facility, which he said, might be called "Welcome House."

Key concepts are intensive interviews before clients are chosen for admission, with clear demonstration of motivation toward self improvement required; compatibility with clients already at the facility; establishment of a family residential atmosphere with a maximum of 15 persons in each of the two houses on the Seabrook tract; admission voluntary, with individuals required to help themselves; work and therapy programs to be followed under close supervision, and gradual insertion of clients into society as self-supporting citizens.

Dr. Waite also explained that first crack at about half a dozen staff positions planned at the facility will go to Keyport residents. "So Keyport will have a voice in its affairs."

He added that he has received an expression of interest from members of the Keyport Historical Society. The Seabrook property is a borough historical site some 125 years old.

"Wouldn't it be fantastic if the Historical Society could help direct the efforts of the people in the program toward restoration of the building as a historical project," Dr. Waite suggested.

First to volunteer for service in the proposed facility was Miss Vera Conover, whose family once owned the Seabrook property. Miss Conover explained she is the youngest of the Seabrook grandchildren and admitted she is more than 75 years old.

"We were all delighted when the property was converted as a nursing home, and we're thrilled that it will be used for the service of people," Miss Conover said.

Officials Balk

She added that she will be the first to volunteer her help in making the facility a going concern.

Another resident, who admitted that he and many members of his family are alcoholics, stated the turning point in his life was a halfway house.

"I urge you to listen to this thing and dig into it. If you can help one person, you've done something. Let the light in — I mean that," he stated.

Mayor Ralph and several councilmen were less sanguine. The mayor questioned the impact of the facility on the local labor market, expressing concern that clients might take jobs from Keyport residents. He also asked what disposition would be made of clients who fail "to make the program — will they be dumped on the borough as welfare cases?" he queried.

Petitions Circulated

Councilman Harold A. Stout asked whether the sponsoring organizations expect Keyport to take risks the clients' own families are not willing to accept, recalling that many ex-inmates and alcoholics are rejected by their families.

Councilman Richard Volpe cited the compassion already shown by Keyport in allowing two boarding houses which currently accept Marlboro hospital patients. He added that he talked to 25 residents about the treatment facility and found none who favor it.

Councilman Donald H. Redmond warned that parents will be frightened on behalf of their children if the facility is permitted and asked whether it would be feasible to establish it at Marlboro State Hospital.

Mayor Ralph stressed council will keep an open mind and collect all possible information before making a decision. It was for that reason that he and the councilmen stayed after last night's session to talk informally with the panel.

Another public meeting will be arranged if residents desire it, Mr. Forrest promised.

Mayor Won't Accept Movie Pass

By SHERRY FIGDORE

SHREWSBURY — When Mayor Robert C. Lawrence 3rd cuts the ribbon tonight opening Cinema I and II, the new twin theaters in the Shrewsbury Plaza Shopping Center, he won't stay to see the show.

And the mayor is going to pay for any future movies he plans to see at the borough's first theaters. Mr. Lawrence is the only borough official who has returned a courtesy pass, distributed by the theater to 20 municipal officials.

Charles L. Gershon, manager of the twin theaters, denies that any such passes were issued.

"None have gone out," he declared. Later, he added that "This company (General Cinema Corp.) doesn't usually give them out. I asked my supervisor, and he said there were no immediate plans for any passes."

Theater Denial

Late last night, Mr. Gershon announced that "I have nothing further to say. If you want information, call Boston."

General Cinema, owners of 427 theaters, including the Shrewsbury "twin house," is headquartered in Boston.

Mayor Lawrence said he had returned his pass, which came in a bundle for distribution to council, as a matter of course.

"I expected each council member to return his, too," he said. "But that's a decision for each independent individual to make for himself."

Councilman Gerald A. Bruno, said last night that he had gotten a pass, and had "stuck it somewhere, and haven't really looked at it since."

Added Mr. Bruno candidly, "I don't know if I'll use it or not. I'll have to think about it. The pass was restricted anyway. It wasn't good for weekends, for instance.

Charles L. Kroll, chairman of the Zoning Board of Adjustment, said he hadn't received a movie pass.

"I don't know anything about this," said the chairman of the board that last Wednesday approved a variance application allowing erection of two oversized signs at the shopping center.

The board voted three-to-one with Richard Devine dissenting, to allow the two illuminated signs, 14 feet wide and 5 feet high, at the Broad St. entrance to the shopping center.

The number of variances granted to allow the building of the entire shopping center has brought an accusation from the two Democratic candidates for Shrewsbury Council that Shrewsbury Plaza is "literally the house that variances built."

Robert W. Stewart and Fred W. Yorg will send a letter of inquiry to the mayor and council requesting confirmation that "two-dozen, year-long free passes to the movies" had been issued to borough officials.

"If there is any truth to this story, it definitely has the color of conflict-of-interest," Mr. Yorg said in a statement. "The Cinema and the shopping center have been granted numerous concessions by the mayor and council, Zoning Board of Adjustment and Planning Board of this borough.

The development received at least 10 variances that I know of," said Mr. Stewart.

Citing the Wednesday variance approvals, Mr. Stewart said "I hope the zoning board members weren't offered, and if offered, didn't accept, any of these passes."

"If any member of the zoning board received these passes we believe that the recent sign variance should be rescinded and the matter referred to the County Prosecutor's office," he continued.

"These passes could be construed by some to be gifts for favors or concessions rendered in the past and as insurance for the future."

Mr. Yorg said mayor and council should reveal names of any one who received a pass and either refused or returned it.

"The theater manager, he said "should be admonished to contain his expression of affection for Shrewsbury's officials within the bounds of propriety."

Mr. Gershon, meanwhile, still insisted he hadn't issued any passes, and couldn't see what all the fuss was about.

"If this is big news in Shrewsbury, things must be bad," he grumped.

Suit Blocks Long Branch Beach Plan

FREEHOLD — The city of Long Branch has been blocked by a court order from taking any action in connection with a $3.6 million bond ordinance to acquire about 30 acres of oceanfront property for its North End Beach Project.

The court order was obtained yesterday from Superior Court Judge Merritt Lane Jr. by the Citizens Against the North End Project. Joseph Pandure of 322 Brett Ter.; Edgar N. Dinkelspiel of 351 Ocean Ave.; Milton Garr of 295 Ponte Ave.; Samuel R. Weir of 265 New Ocean Ave.; Leathea E. Riley of 175 Airdale Ave. and Edward L. Reaves Jr. of 182 Airsdale Ave.

Judge Lane imposed a temporary restraint blocking city council from proceeding with any activity concerning the bond ordinance and scheduled a hearing for Monday, June 4.

Long Branch City Council adopted the $3,630,000 bond ordinance May 8. It has applied for funding from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and from the state's Green Acres program. The project area is within the area of Sea View and New Ocean Aves.

According to the complaint, Mr. Pandure owns real estate within the project limits. The complaint did not state whether the other defendants owned property or had any interests in property within the project boundaries.

The complaint alleges that City Council did not, during the period April 10 through May 8 when the bond ordinance was introduced and adopted, present a plan or feasibility study for development of the area so the plaintiffs or the public could examine them.

The legal action alleges that City Council's action was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable and contrary to law.

The plaintiffs are asking the court to set aside the bond ordinance and declare it void or to restrain the city from proceeding with the project and for an enlargement of time so they can obtain the necessary number of signatures for a referendum on the bond issue.

The complaint maintains that the real estate in question is zoned C-4 Resort Commercial which permits motels, tower apartments, hotels and parks.

Union Beach Remains JCP&L's Favored Site for Power Plants

MIDDLETOWN — Jersey Central Power and Light Co. is paying no more attention to this township than to any other with possible sites for power generating plants, Jack R. McGalliard, vice president in charge of operations, told The Register yesterday.

Mr. McGalliard said his remarks were "twisted" in a report yesterday that Middletown is being considered as a site for two power generating plants of 400,000 kilowatts each scheduled for construction in Union Beach.

"As far as we're concerned, we're still pursuing the Union Beach site, and we're waiting for the okay on the permits," the vice president said.

Asked whether the utility still considers their 216-acre tract in Union Beach the best site for the power plants, Mr. McGalliard replied, "I think you'd have to say that. We're spending a lot of money there."

Middletown is considered as an alternate site by the utility only in the sense that Jersey Central Power and Light Co. is interested in any municipality which may have power station sites to offer, Mr. McGalliard stressed.

Some time ago, he went on, B. G. Tipton, chairman of the Middletown Industrial Development Task Force, asked the utility if it would be interested in possible power station sites in this township.

"We told them we are always interested in such sites. That's all there was to it," Mr. McGalliard explained.

The site proposed by Mr. Tipton was the landfill in the Belford area, about 100 acres on the shore of Raritan Bay.

Mr. McGalliard conceded that obtaining necessary state permits for the Union Beach site has been a slow process, but added that the utility has applied for them and expects them to be granted.

"And we'd have to get permits anyway if we were to use the Middletown site," the executive added.

Mayor Alfred T. Hennessy Jr. of Union Beach, who had already received clarification of yesterday's report when he was reached by The Register, was calm.

"I don't blame them for keeping a spare room in the closet," the mayor said. "I'm very hopeful that the power stations will be built here. Any other site would face the same difficulties," he added.

College Declares Impasse

The board's final offer yesterday was a 4½ per cent salary boost, but no cost of living adjustment, Mr. Abel said.

The present contract, which expires June 30, included a 5 per cent salary increase and a cost of living adjustment.

Minimum salaries now are: instructors, $8,927; assistant professors, $10,817; associate professors, $13,022. There aren't any full professors at Brookdale.

Mr. Abel said the Association, which represents the 164-member faculty, wants the grievance procedure changed to require an independent arbitrator, and not the college president, as the final arbiter.

If there isn't a new contract by June 30, when the present one expires, the Association "will take the action required," Leo Gaicher, a field representative with the N.J. Education Association, of which the Brookdale group is an affiliate, said later. He is representing the faculty in the negotiations.

"Moral pressure," Mr. Abel said. "We will abide in all cases by the law."

Members Restive

The Non-Academic Staff Association (NASA) has had two meetings with the board negotiators and PERC mediator and a third is scheduled two weeks from now, but the meetings have been five weeks apart and the slow progress is making NASA members restive, James Wood, chairman of that organization's negotiating committee, told reporters after last night's board meeting.

Mr. Wood disbanded a group of demonstrators carrying signs proclaiming that Brookdale is "Not Image? No Substance," from in front of the college gates the morning after the last negotiating session two weeks ago.

NASA, negotiating its first contract, is asking a 13 per cent wage boost and, according to its spokesmen, the board agrees on the money but says it doesn't have it to pay.

The non-academic staff has gotten a total of a 5 per cent increase in its salary schedule over the past four years, Jack Martin, NASA president, said.

The salary schedule for the 270 employes NASA represents — secretaries, technicians, carpenters, groundsmen — ranges from $4,800 to $10,000.

Mr. Martin said that aggravating NASA's unhappiness is the fact that the college administration is spending enough money on the signs it is erecting on the campus "to give a 3½ per cent cost of living increase to every non-academic employe."

The board last night approved a salary schedule for managerial and supervisory employes which is the same as last year, noting an increase "is under consideration." The minimum salaries range from $5,000 for administrative assistants to $25,000 for the vice presidency.

Award Sewer Pact

UNION BEACH — Central Construction Co. of Hazlet was awarded a $90,475 contract by Borough Council last night for installation of five miles of clay pipe — the first of three phases of installing the borough's first sanitary sewer system.

Council authorized the advertising of specifications for installation of the final 10 miles of pipe with bids returnable June 14.

Although the award is "approximately 10 per cent higher than the engineer's estimate, Frederick H. Kuntz, borough engineer said, the specifications were drawn two years ago and the rise in cost was anticipated.

Council president Arthur J. Lembo, who presided over the meeting in the absence of Mayor Alfred T. Hennessy Jr., said work on the project will begin "as soon as we receive final approval from HUD (federal Department of Housing and Urban Development) which has assured a $1.3 million grant toward the estimated $3 million project."

Council unanimously adopted an ordinance authorizing filing of a petition with the state legislature requesting enactment of a special law to permit Borough Council to permanently appoint four patrolmen who have not passed Civil Service requirement.

Councilman Lembo proclaimed the period between May 28 through June 4 as "First Aid Week" throughout the borough.

Death by Auto Count Admitted

FREEHOLD — Richard J. Maletto, 30, of 44 Community Drive, West Long Branch, will be sentenced June 8 for causing the death by auto of Hazlet Tax Collector Robert R. Brady last year.

Mr. Brady died Jan. 30, 1972 from injuries he suffered in a head-on collision on Laurel Ave., Holmdel, just north of Rt. 35 on Jan. 26.

Nixon Backs Government Secrecy

WASHINGTON — Defending the government's right to keep secrets in the national interest, President Nixon says it is time "to quit making national heroes out of those who steal secrets and publish them in the newspapers."

Nixon brought nearly 600 returned Vietnam POWs to their feet, cheering with emotional enthusiasm, as he made this off-the-cuff remark in briefing them yesterday on foreign and defense policy.

Nixon did not elaborate on the remark. Although it appeared to be a reference to Daniel Ellsberg and the Pentagon papers case, Nixon also may have been mindful of national-security documents that he has said are threatened with exposure in the many-faceted Watergate investigation.

Nixon spoke to the former prisoners in the State Department auditorium before entertaining them, their wives, mothers and girlfriends at a lavish, rain-marred state dinner for 1,300 under a vast tent on the south lawn of the White House.

Followed 'Orders' at Watergate

WASHINGTON — A member of a prominent Republican family and a zealous foe of Cuban communism say they involved themselves without question in the Watergate affair because they were trained to "follow orders."

The ultimate origin of those orders remains a major unanswered question of the Watergate scandal.

But the directives led Cuban-born Bernard L. Barker on a midnight search through Democratic party headquarters in the Watergate, and former FBI agent Albert C. Baldwin III to a lookout and wiretap listening post across the street.

Both were members of a team described ruefully by Barker yesterday as having become "the best-known burglars in the world."

Barker told the Senate Watergate investigating committee he was looking for proof that the government of Fidel Castro, a government he fought at the Bay of Pigs, was funding Democratic campaigns. He did not find it, he said.

Baldwin, a member of a prominent Connecticut family which can count relatives who rose to the governorship and the state supreme court, said he was looking only for a good, steady job. He did not find it.

It was the fifth day of hearings in the crowded Senate Caucus Room and five spectators were forcibly ejected by police, one after shouting that he was a candidate for president.

Congressman in Apparent Suicide

EASTON, Md. — "He sounded tired, he sounded down, but he didn't give me any sign," recalls one of the last men to speak to Rep. William O. Mills before his apparent suicide.

That was George Dietrich, manager of Easton radio station WEMD, which the congressman called Wednesday night to read a statement responding to newspaper reports he failed to disclose a $25,000 campaign contribution from the Committee to Re-elect the President.

Mills' body was found yesterday by a caretaker on the floor of the horse barn at his Mulberry Hill Farm here, a 12-gauge shotgun nearby. In his pocket was a copy of the statement.

"It appears the cause of death was the result of a self-inflicted gunshot wound in the chest," said Talbot County State's Atty. William S. Horn.

The Washington Post reported Wednesday that Mills' 1971 campaign received $25,000 from the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President and the contribution was not reported to state election authorities as required by law.

"I wish to assure everyone that I have done nothing improper," said the statement he read over the radio station Wednesday night.

Argentine Inauguration Today

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — Hector J. Campora, a dentist wooed into politics by Peronism, becomes Argentina's 30th president today in inauguration ceremonies closing seven years of military rule.

Cloudy but clearing weather was forecast, and Peronist leaders predicted hundreds of thousands of celebrants would jam the streets.

The inaugural program included a three-hour speech by Campora to the new Peronist-controlled Congress, transfer of the blue and white presidential sash and the state baton from the three-man junta headed by President Alejandro Lanusse, a thanksgiving mass and a parade by 3,000 soldiers, sailors and airemen.

Parking Survey Reaffirms the Obvious: Red Bank Needs More Parking Space

By BEN VAN VLIET

RED BANK — The results of a parking survey of downtown businesses has proven what everyone already knows—there's a need for more parking.

The survey also confirms that Riverview Hospital has a major parking problem which is limiting the number of available spaces for shoppers.

And, the survey also shows that construction of a multi-level parking garage would not be financially self-sustaining.

The survey was made two months ago by members of the Red Bank Police Department at the direction of Dr. Michael Arnone, police commissioner.

The idea was to determine the scope of the parking problem and the number of additional spaces needed.

At the time, the borough was considering construction of one or possibly more small ramp garages which would be built on existing parking lots.

Survey Limits

The survey was made in the area bounded by Maple Ave., Reckless Place, Broad St., West Front St., and N. Washington St.

It also included the business areas on Linden Place, Wallace St., Mechanic St., Globe Court, Wharf Ave., and Union St.

Of 2,909 persons employed during the day time in businesses in these areas, 2,486 said they drove cars to work.

About half of them said they were provided on-site parking; 182 said they parked in private lots, and the remainder said they parked on the street.

The survey shows that 257 of the employes said they would use a ramp garage if provided, and 30 said they would not pay for all-day parking in a ramp garage.

In the business area there are 404 street parking spaces in restricted areas (those with time limits, but not metered). There are 134 parking spaces in the nonrestricted areas located at Marine Park and on Peters Place.

Riverview Impact

One of the key points in the survey was in showing the impact that employes and visitors of Riverview Hospital have on the general parking situation.

According to figures compiled by the police, Riverview has 1,200 total employes, and parking decals have been issued to 1,100 employes, which includes persons working on all three shifts.

Not included in the employe total are the 150 doctors who visit the hospital. Of the 1,200 total employes, the survey says 800 work during the day.

"Riverview," the survey said, "only has space for 300 of their day-shift employes and doctors. The remaining (approximately 500) employes park either in Marine Park or on the street in the area of the hospital."

The hospital has a visitors' lot which has a capacity of 81 cars and for which the hospital is charging fifty cents for admittance.

There is a lot reserved for doctors with a capacity for 100 cars.

Disputes Figures

There are also two other pay lots with a combined capacity for 100 cars, and a 200-car lot reserved for other hospital employes.

The figure of 800 daytime employes at the hospital was questioned by Frank Blaisdell, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

Mr. Blaisdell said there are slightly less than 600 day-time employes at the hospital.

Mr. Blaisdell also took issue with comments made Tuesday by Council President Frank McKenna, who urged the Planning Board to withhold approval for a small addition to the hospital until the hospital enters into serious talks about resolving the parking problems.

The Planning Board agreed to hold action on the application for an addition to house an intensive surgical respiratory unit for one month.

Mr. McKenna had charged that the hospital had been uncooperative with the borough in efforts to provide more parking for both the merchants and the hospital.

Mr. Blaisdell said the hospital has cooperated fully with the borough and is as aware of the parking shortage as anyone else.

Legal Difficulties

Dr. Arnone agreed with Mr. Blaisdell and said he had discussed the parking situation last year with Mr. Blaisdell, and John Pawlowski, hospital administrator, and "found them to be cooperative and to be looking for a solution just as hard as we are."

Dr. Arnone said the possibility of entering into a joint effort to build a ramp garage was discussed, but legal problems would appear to prevent such a venture because the hospital is a private, but tax exempt institution.

Mr. Blaisdell said the hospital is willing to discuss any proposal the council might have.

However, he declined to comment on a suggestion by Mr. McKenna that the hospital lease its visitors' parking lot to the borough and the borough then build a multi-level garage on the site and lease a portion back to the hospital.

Figures obtained by two builders of such facilities place the cost of a ramp garage holding about 500 cars between $750,000 and $1.35 million, depending upon design and capacity.

Cost of a two-level garage with about a 450-car capacity would be $750,000, the survey said, which, based on current parking rates, would end up costing the borough just under $30,000 a year as an operating deficit.

Dr. Arnone said the cost of the ramp garage just isn't feasible.

The borough is now considering acquiring one or more properties in the business area which might be turned into additional metered parking.

Rumson Denies Bank Building Expansion

By GREG BORAK

RUMSON — The Borough Council last night rejected the Zoning Board of Adjustment's recommendation to approve the Central Jersey Bank & Trust Co.'s proposal to add two drive-in windows to its facility on West River Road at 2nd St.

Councilman Lawrence R. Malone cited traffic problems and "to some extent an infringement of the zoning code" as reasons for the denial.

"The Borough Council's concern about traffic problems and the extension of the building representing to some extent an infringement of the zoning code of the borough are reasons to reject the zoning board's action," he said.

"The bank has need for additional space and windows," Mr. Malone continued, "but other considerations are overriding."

Residents in the area of the proposed bank addition opposed the plan before council recessed and returned with its decision.

Peter McDonough of 53 West River Road, who lives on the west side of the bank where the two drive-in windows would have been built, said his property's value would decrease if the proposal was approved.

"My major objection to the addition is that the value of my house would decrease if this is built," he said. "I have consulted a real estate agent and he has confirmed this."

Mr. McDonough also cited increased traffic, noise and pollution as reasons for rejecting the proposal.

His house is about three feet from the bank property line and about 21 feet from where the bank windows would have been built.

John McMann of West River Road, who resides across the street from the bank, said the bank's plan posed a safety hazard.

"Traffic exiting onto West River Road making a right turn would have to swing into the oncoming lane to negotiate that turn," he said. "Cars traveling west on River Road have a speed of 40 m.p.h. and there is a possibility of having head-on collisions."

The zoning board recommended approval of the bank's proposal subject to site plan approval by the Planning Board and with the stipulation that exiting cars be allowed to only turn right onto West River Road.

Plans showed two lanes exiting onto West River Road from the bank drive-in windows requiring cars to merge into one lane before negotiating the turn.

Police Chief James K. Shea said he did not think the right turn rule could be enforced since it was on private property.

"Traffic problems caused from two lanes merging into one are bound to be excessive," Councilman Francis E. P. McCarter said after the vote. "I feel strongly that the bank should go back to the drawing board with these plans."

Council introduced an ordinance amending the zoning code to require garage space and offstreet parking areas in several sections of the borough.

First introduced at the Council's April 26 meeting, the ordinance then required one-car garages in R-4, R-5 and R-6 zones.

The ordinance introduced last night deleted these requirements but stipulated each single family detached house in R-1, R-2 and R-3 zones must have garages to house at least two cars.

A public hearing on the ordinance will be conducted at the Council's June 28 meeting.

Council will advertise for bids on the local sewer project's Contract 7.

Sewer construction is scheduled for Rumson Road, west along Buena Vista Road to the Little Silver-Rumson line, including streets on the south side and some on the north side of Rumson Road.

An ordinance requiring police to first warn people violating park curfew hours before making arrests was adopted.

The action stems from a recent Supreme Court decision in which a conviction was reversed because the borough ordinance governing curfews did not contain a clause requiring a warning be issued before an arrest is made.

Borough park hours are 6 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Council reappointed Thomas P. Santry of Rumson as borough engineer, and William R. Blair Jr. of Fair Haven as borough attorney. Elmer S. Hunt of Wolff & Co., Trenton, was appointed borough auditor.

The works of prominent New Jersey artists will be on display through the end of June.

Adolf Konrad's lecture is entitled "The Artist Speaks." His work is represented in several museum collections and numerous private collections. He has exhibited at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and the Butler Institute of American Art.

He has exhibited locally in Tinton Falls, Red Bank and Monmouth College. He has won numerous prizes, including the Andrew Carnegie Prize of the National Academy of Design in 1967. Mr. Konrad studied at the Newark School of Fine and Industrial Arts and the Cummington School of Art with Herman Maril.

His works cover a broad range of expression, from early abstractions to his present realist-surrealist style. His oil painting, "Morning on Fulton Street," is part of the "Curator's Choice" exhibit.

Jacob Landau will speak on "Pledge to Humanism" June 2 at 2 p.m. He will exhibit an intricate watercolor triptych and two black-and-white lithographs.

Mr. Landau studied at the Philadelphia College of Art; the New School for Social Research, N.Y., and the Academie de la Grande Chaumiere, Paris. His works are in collections throughout the country, including Yale, Princeton, Rutgers and the Montclair Art Museum.

He is currently an instructor and chairman of the Department of Graphic Arts, Pratt Institute, Brooklyn.

Further information can be obtained from the Monmouth Museum Office here.

—And a Prayer for Our Future Peace

Memorial Day, 1973

There are many distractions on our national scene today which vie for our attention, but on Monday most U.S. citizens will spend at least a moment of their holiday for a respectful thought of what Memorial Day has come to mean in this year of 1973.

It still is "Decoration Day" for those who will visit cemeteries for religious services or to place flowers or flags at gravesites, but principally it is a time to remember those whose lives were lost in the service of their nation.

As taps are sounded at 11 a.m. Monday, old-timers who survived World War I will be joined by veterans of World War II, the Korean Conflict and the Vietnam War in tribute to their comrades in arms who are no longer among them.

The young people whose lives were claimed in Vietnam will be the subject of many eulogies, because their loss is still very fresh in our minds. The memory of them should be cherished inasmuch as they are the most recent group to have paid the price for what we call freedom.

The celebrities of Memorial Day, 1973, undoubtedly will be the Prisoners of War whose return to the U.S. gave the citizenry a reason to rejoice in sorry times and an opportunity to unleash the patriotism most of us too often keep buried within ourselves.

"Lest We Forget" is Monday's motto, one which this year most certainly should include the military who are still listed as Missing in Action, as well as their families whose grief carries the extra burden of uncertainties. Their plight highlights the barbarism of humans who realize the futility of war, yet do nothing but threaten still more of it.

In Monmouth County, more and more municipalities are using the Memorial Day weekend to schedule observances, parades and special recreational activities. Since this is the unofficial start of the vacation season at the shore, the programs are very much in order.

They will not, however, overshadow the solemnity which Monday merits. Americans at home and abroad will be remembering our deceased war veterans, and praying that their rolls are not increased.

Harmonious Architecture

The Red Bank Area Chamber of Commerce has a new committee, one which will study a suggestion that a uniform building design code be established for the Red Bank business area.

We partially agree with chamber members who favor a plan for harmonious architecture, but the committee assigned to recommend such a proposal should approach their job with caution.

There is something about uniform architecture that can create a sterile quality, whether in business districts or housing developments. Part of the beauty of Red Bank's business district at present is its individuality.

Monmouth St., Red Bank, has had some interesting architectural blendings, both in new construction and in storefront renovation. They add to the borough's charm, but a rigid conformance to one style along that throughfare would tend to reduce its attractiveness.

Many Red Bank businesses are in buildings that were constructed 50, 75 and 100 years ago. If structurally sound, their modernization will help the borough's image, customer comfort and efficiency in general.

We'd suggest that the chamber committee concern itself more with trying to upgrade building standards rather than entering the difficult area of deciding how a building should be designed or changed.

Working with the Mayor and Council and the building inspector's office, the committee might well address itself to what has been a problem for many years — the inadequate system of checking construction when it starts and in each stage of its progress.

Roy E. Cotten

When Roy E. Cotten of Little Silver succumbed last Sunday to the illness which forced his early retirement, a gentleman left our midst who did a great deal to improve an area he loved and which he came to call his home.

For 40 of his 64 years, Mr. Cotten was associated with the YMCA. Six of those years following World War II were devoted to the Red Bank Community YMCA, and it was a period when the former Y on Riverside Ave. started to become the important organization it is today.

A close friend, Willard F. Browning, principal of Red Bank Regional High School, said Mr. Cotten was completely dedicated to the YMCA philosophy and to youth activities. Part of that philosophy, as defined by Mr. Cotten, was "trying to make people better, whatever they are."

Many adults in this section of the county who have gained the respect of their neighbors can partially credit their success to the fact that, as teen-agers 27 or so years ago, they enjoyed the friendship and counsel of Mr. Cotten.

As saddened as they must be, members of the Cotten family and his devoted friends should be proud to know that Roy E. Cotten, a mortal who could pass this way but once, left an indelible mark of goodness.

Watergate 'Go Easy'

WASHINGTON SCENE

By JACK ANDERSON

Assistant Attorney General Henry Petersen, who has been in charge of the Watergate prosecution for the past 10 months, has been quoted as saying President Nixon personally instructed him to "go easy" on the investigation.

This statement was attributed to Petersen by his brother-in-law, Melvin Clark, in front of my reporter Barbara Browne. Two other witnesses have also sworn they heard Clark repeat the statement on at least two separate occasions.

Petersen vigorously denied that the President has asked him to restrain the Watergate investigation in any way. He told us that his relationship with the President was "straight up and down" and the president "has never asked me to do anything improper."

Petersen acknowledged, however, that he had discussed Watergate confidentially with his brother-in-law and confirmed that his brother-in-law had correctly reported other details of their conversations.

Easy on Nixon

Before we delivered our copies of the secret Watergate transcripts to Judge John Sirica, we searched them for signs that the prosectors might be pulling their punches. We found they had spared no one, with one exception. It seemed to us they were easy on the President.

They missed several opportunities to ask witnesses about the President's involvement in the Watergate scandal. We could find only one instance that the prosecutors brought up his name in their cross-examination. Of course, we were unable to examine all the transcripts.

Petersen admitted to us that he advised his prosecutors not to probe into the personal conversations between the President and his lawyer. He also reminded them that the President was not on trial. His own view, he said, is that the Justice Department cannot prosecute the President but that any evidence of wrongdoing should be submitted to the House of Representatives.

He didn't feel his admonition inhibited the prosecutors. This was echoed by one of the prosecutors who told us that Petersen in no way had tried to leash them. For years, we have known Petersen as an honest and honorable law enforcer who would not yield to political pressure. His three Watergate prosecutors also impressed us as men of integrity and ability.

Sought Deal

Nevertheless, we learned last December that the White House hoped to confine the Watergate case to the seven original defendants. We wrote on Dec. 26th that the "Justice Department was discretely sounding out some of the defendants . . . about entering guilty pleas and settling the affair without trial."

We suggested "the White House would like to avoid the embarrassment of a public trial, which would spread on the court record details that have been limited so far to newspaper accounts . . . By pleading guilty, the defendants could avoid a public spectacle and save the White House embarrassment. The White House, therefore, has a keen interest in preventing the case from ever coming to trial."

Petersen acknowledged that the prosecutors, indeed, dickered with the defense attorneys over offering guilty pleas. This is routine procedure, he said, before a prosecution. He would have been disappointed, he said, if the seven defendants had pleaded guilty to avoid a trial.

He also confirmed our report that White House counsel

ANDERSON

John Dean had been in close contact with the prosecution during the early investigation. Petersen insisted, however, that Dean had brought no pressure upon the prosecution to settle the case out of court.

Orders on Ellsberg

From Justice Department sources, we have also learned that President Nixon gave explicit orders not to investigate the government burglary of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist and the use of wiretapping to uncover news leaks. As justification he cited the national security. Both Petersen and outgoing Attorney General Richard Kleindienst, nevertheless, were prepared to resign over this issue. But the President later reversed himself without any ultimatums.

When we asked Petersen about this incident, he would say only that the President made the right decision to go ahead with the investigation of the government's role in the Ellsberg case.

As the brother-in-law related it, the conscientious Petersen has agonized over the Watergate horror. He is deeply troubled over his responsiblity to investigate the presidency without, at the same time, damaging it.

He has been in direct touch with the President both in person and by telephone since the April 15th order to find out who at the White House was responsible for Watergate. At their last meeting, the President gave him a set of cufflinks.

'Misunderstood'

Petersen confirmed all these details, plus additional personal information that came from the brother-in-law. He insisted, however, that his brother-in-law must have misunderstood him if he got the idea the President had directed him to "go easy" on the Watergate investigation.

Footnote: the "go easy" statement was given to us by two witnesses, one of whom offered a detailed affidavit. Yet, because one of the witnesses is a defendant in a case indirectly funded in part by the Justice Department, we sent reporter Browne to accompany them on their next visit to the brother-in-law. She identified herself only as a "helper" and, in front of her, the brother-in-law repeated his statement.

The TV Spectacular

THE NEW POLITICS

By MILTON VIORST

It's been two decades since we in America have seen anything like the great televised spectacle which Sen. Sam Ervin touched off in what he called "an atmosphere of the utmost gravity."

Two decades ago, television was still new — and neither we nor the Senate fully understood the enormous impact it would have. We have since learned that television not only records the news but creates it. Day-long TV coverage makes an intense national experience of what might otherwise be only lightly absorbed into public consciousness.

Such an experience can be justified only rarely. In this justification, there is similarity — real or illusory — between the great spectacles of the early fifties and the show that Ervin is providing now. Central to both is the theme of crisis in our basic institutions.

The Senate's television spectaculars of our youth were Estes Kefauver's hearings on organized crime and corruption, and the various hearings — most notably Sen. Joseph McCarthy's — into the threat of domestic communism.

It is difficult, to this day, to assess the importance of Kefauver's work. From the evidence publicly available, organized crime still thrives, corrupting public officials at every level. Kefauver probably changed very little directly, but by going on television he alerted us to a real and ongoing menace to the soundness of our governing institutions.

Delusions Intensified

In contrast, I think most Americans would now agree that the televised hearings into domestic communism focused on a threat that wasn't real at all. Post-war hysteria produced the threat — and television, indavertently fanning our anxieties, probably intensified our delusions.

Certainly, the McCarthy hearings were a crossroads. Television, ultimately, made McCarthy's procedural abuses repugnant to all Americans. Never again, we decided, would there be hearings like these. Sam Ervin, sitting in McCarthy's chair, will not commit McCarthy's excesses.

But Ervin's task — not merely because he will be functioning under more severe procedural restraints — will be far harder than Kefauver's or McCarthy's.

Kefauver aimed to show a threat from gangsters and crooked officials, who willingly betrayed their trust to line their own pockets. McCarthy played on our national sense of insecurity to find Communists and homosexuals who were undermining the republic. These were easy targets — and the American people were willing enough to believe the worst of them.

Ervin must go after the underlings of the man who was just re-elected President by the widest margin in American history. Ultimately, he may have to go after this man himself. Presidents and their subordinates are not the people we like to find guilty of eroding our institutions.

Indeed, though we knew of Watergate months before the election, though we knew of the money gushing into the President's campaign, though we knew of ITT and other shady deals, we did not want to believe that a pattern of political corruption existed.

Ervin's Task

Ervin's task is to use television to establish to the satisfaction of the American people the degree to which the democratic system has been shaken — and then to devise steps to restore its integrity. As he said the other day:

"If the allegations that have been made in the wake of the Watergate affair are substantiated, there has been a very serious subversion of the integrity of the electoral process, and the committee will be obliged to consider the manner in which such a subversion affects the continued existence of this nation as a representative democracy, and how, if we are to survive, such subversion may be prevented in the future."

The responsibility that Ervin has set for himself, then, is to find a way to do something to correct the conditions which his television hearings establish. Kefauver never found such a way; McCarthy probably never intended to.

It is this responsibility that distinguishes Ervin's work from that of the various prosecutors, grand juries and other accoutrements of the law enforcement process that are variously occupied with aspects of the Watergate affair.

Their job is to convict the guilty. Ervin's is to restore the integrity of the electoral process, and revive public confidence in the democratic system. That, more than anything, justifies the spectacle he is putting on television.

Watergate Inundates Press

THE REPORTER

By JIM BISHOP

Watergate unfolds like a diminishing roll of toilet paper. My interest is as a reader, not a writer. I have not covered the story, and it is almost a cliche to state that no person is ever guilty until a judge or jury says so. Even then, the imputation is open to appeal.

Personally, I am a political cynic. I have enjoyed the confidence of four Presidents of the United States and, more important, the friendship of some retired White House Secret Service Agents. I revere the latter more than the former.

My prime interest in Watergate is not so much in reading about burglary and thievery, but in watching the changing attitude of my confreres of the press. Without collusion, they seem to be in the process of making a right turn away from the Oval Office of the President.

A psychiatrist-author says: "You can't involve the President in this. The office itself is holy." This feeling is shared by many publishers and editors. To besmirch Richard Nixon would damage the country. This, I submit, is hysteria because there is no hard evidence to link him to Watergate except by self-confessed losers like John Dean and L. Patrick Gray.

I do not defend the President. I didn't admire him even when we were on a "Dick" and "Jim" basis 13 years ago. He was a below-the-belt fighter then and I see no reason why he should alter his principles or his personality. He will fight hard, you may be sure, and will emerge with a shiny halo on his head and mud on his shoes.

Judge Sirica

My interest is in watching the press. Within 90 days, they have altered the adversary role from cringing defendant to belligerent plaintiff. The reporters touched upon Watergate lightly and politely from June, 1972, when the "Watergate Seven" were arrested, until Judge Sirica busted the story wide open and forced them to go out and earn their daily bread.

Today, it is the President who cringes in loneliness. He even ducked into the White House press room and asked the "boys" to continue to call their shots and "tell me when I'm wrong."

However, once the investigation reached up high to topple Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Mitchell, Kleindienst and Gray, some of the opinion-molders began to murmur: "That's far enough."

Some good friends began to revise their thinking. Jack Anderson, who published grand jury notes, backed off. Scotty Reston and Tom Wicker wrote as thought they felt embarrassed to find their feet on the President's Oval Office rug.

BISHOP

"I have said it until I am blue in the face that in my opinion Nixon ought not to be impeached even if he is established to have had knowledge of Watergate before March . . ." Unfortunately, Buckley prefaced this charity with the observation: "The fact of the matter is that President Nixon has, in effect, taken the Fifth Amendment."

Kilpatrick's Scorecard

James Kilpatrick, who runs a scorecard telling the President, the Supreme Court and the Congress when they are right and when they are wrong, said, in substance, that loyalty to Nixon has its limits. I am naive: I never knew until now that newspaper writers had a right to be loyal to politicians.

Richard Whalen, who writes for "The Washington Star," refers to the Watergate crimes as "The Elite of the Stupid." I have covered criminal trials for 40 years and I can't remember one guilty buffoon getting off by pleading that he was stupid.

Sydney Harris writes: "If Washington correspondents could tell what they really knew about the personal characters and habits of many of the men they report on, half the political figures would be in hiding, and the other half would be suing."

John S. Knight, editor of the Knight newspapers, writes: "Most members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors with whom I talked are appalled by the incredible bungling of President Nixon's now departed palace guard." The editors leave the impression that the shocking aspect of the alleged crimes is that the perpetrators were accident-prone.

A crime is a crime is a crime, no matter who commits it. To clear the President's good name by a conspiracy of silence is as much of a disservice to him in the cold light of history as to try to drag his name in by the heels when, in truth, he may have been gulled by his aides.

What Price Watergate?

By SYLVIA PORTER

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

How much is Watergate contributing to today's disturbing economic scenario of a superheated economic boom, a galloping rate of inflation, a sick stock market, a dollar again under speculative attack, spreading danger of recession in 1974?

You'll never be able to prove precisely how much, and comments blaming it all on Watergate are nonsense. But the psychology of this political crisis has undeniably now become a factor — so here are five basic points to guide you in your suspicions:

1 — Major economic policy decisions at the White House level have been and are being greatly modified or shelved. Preoccupation with Watergate must play a part in this weakening of leadership.

As just one illustration, President Nixon's tightening of price controls early this month was little more than a gesture. All he has ordered is advance clearance of some price increases by companies with annual sales of more than $250 million.

That's so modest that, even within the administration, no one has bothered to claim any significant impact for the moves.

Whether or not Nixon would have taken more drastic action is not the issue. The fact is that this crucial policy decision was so undramatic it actually has had an adverse effect. And while you'll never know how much Watergate contributed to Nixon's failure to act as so many of us hoped he would, you can suspect.

2 — As a result of this lack of anti-inflation leadership from the White House, the Federal Reserve has assumed more of the burden of the inflation fight.

Credit Clamp

It is clamping down even more on credit, encouraging interest rates to rise even higher — and both policies are adding to the decline in stock prices and the threat of business recession.

The Federal Reserve is well aware that its latest moves carry risks of future recession, and it certainly will try to avoid a repetition of the "credit crunch" that led to the first Nixon recession in 1969-70. But the danger is there. At the same time, high interest rates on bonds are draining money from the stock market.

Would the Central Bank be going this far in tightening credit had the White House acted more vigorously to curb inflation? You'll never be able to prove how much Watergate cut into the capacity of the White House to act — but you can suspect.

Stock Market

3 — Out in the real world, consumers and businessmen are spending at an unsustainable rate for goods, services, plants, equipment. But in the stock market, prices are fading — more in reflection of dwindling buying than heavy selling.

It's ridiculous to blame the stock market's prolonged slump on Watergate. This decline began long, long before Watergate entered the American language — in response to rising interest rates, persistent inflation, distortions causud by institutional investors, the individual investor's bloodbath in 1968-70 and subsequent decision to abandon Wall Street in massive numbers and other factors.

But the individual investor's confidence is being further undercut by this crisis — that's for sure — and until he regains confidence, he will not return to Wall Street on a large scale.

You'll never know how much Watergate is now helping Wall Street's declines to feed on declines — but you can guess.

Attack on Dollar

4 — The renewed attack on the dollar and the upsurge in the price of gold in world markets must be attributed in major part to Watergate. Here, the tie seems clear and the danger of political upheaval in the United States obviously runs over into the economic sphere.

There is no economic-monetary reason for another speculative attack on the dollar at this time. Our trade balance is improving, not worsening; our dollar has been devalued twice in a short span; our inflation is bad but not nearly as bad as in many other leading nations.

The attack has to reflect a crisis of confidence arising out of Watergate and the fear that the President won't be able to lead.

5 — Finally, the 1972-73 business boom has been allowed to become so superheated and unsustainable that it cannot last — and it well may do more than slow down.

Economic Trouble

Indications are multiplying that economic trouble is starting to develop below the surface and talk of recession is becoming much more open. It could be only a "Japanese recession" — meaning a slower rate of rise in '74 than in '73; it could be a leveling off with only moderate impact on paychecks and profits; it could be an actual downturn, the second recession of the Nixon tenure, and opinion is increasing that this is what it will be.

You'll never know how much Watergate has kept the Administration from acting in time to curb the boom — or how much the crisis is weakening Nixon's authority in the economic sphere. But you can suspect.

And no matter where these five guidelines take you, your suspicions will not be good news for this nation.

Magnavox Downtrend

By ROGER E. SPEAR

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Q — I would like your opinion of Magnavox (NYSE). In view of their earnings and the very high yield do you think they will cut the dividend? — P.L.

A — The answer to your question is now a matter of record; Magnavox directors reduced the dividend payable June 15 to 15 cents a share from 30 cents. The cut in payout reflects the declining profit trend of the last five quarters. For the March period earnings dropped 46 per cent on a 4 per cent decrease in year-to-year sales. The earnings figure included a gain equal to 9 cents a share from the sale of Consolidated Furniture Industries. Excluding this extraordinary profit the quarterly comparison would have shown net at 11 cents a share in the period ended March 31, 1973, versus 37 cents a share in the previous year.

The disappointing results at Magnavox are attributable to many factors, one of which was alleviated by the sale of a furniture operation. Short-term debt which had been required to finance heavy inventories was eleminated. Magnavox has lost ground in its share of the color and solid-state TV market. Sizable expenditures will be required to restore the company to its former industry position. Shares lack appeal at the present.

Q — Addresses of corporations, their transfer agents and registrars are very difficult to obtain. How may I locate this information? — A.M.

A — Most corporate information releases which are sent to shareholders, reports such as annual meeting notices, dividend notices and earnings reports, etc., include the corporate address. Annual reports almost always list the addresses of company headquarters, transfer agent and registrar. Moody's Manuals, Standard & Poor's Corporate Records and Individual Stock Reports all carry this information. Most libraries carry at least one of these reference sources. If your public library has none of these last named research volumes in their business section, then perhaps your broker might be prevailed upon to supply the addresses for you.

'Cries and Whispers' Dares to Be Different

By BETTE SPERO

Ingmar Bergman has good intentions — I think.

The Swedish film writer, producer and director has produced again, in his "Cries and Whispers," something a little bit different for those who don't like their filmfare to be all the same, old story.

There is no danger of "Cries and Whispers" being confused with any same, old story. It dares to be different in the spirit of, say, the individualist who bathes only once a month.

Though that may sound a bit harsh, and it is not really meant to be, I think the general moviegoer should certainly be forwarned so he can be forearmed for this latest Bergman production. The circle of Bergman buffs, and it is a select one indeed, would argue the general filmgoer would not frequent this film.

But Bergman is no longer a little known word spoken only in intellectual film circles; it has become well known through its bandying about by movie critics, nearly all of whom have placed "Cries and Whispers" on their "ten best" lists. And the esoteric Swedish artisan is reaching the masses quite well too, through another of his works that inspired the story line for the Broadway show, "A Little Night Music."

So, it is well past time to initiate the uninitiated to a small dose of Bergman. As a moviegoer and critic, I happen to think he is an artist, in the purest sense.

He brushes across the screen, with an ever-constant eye to perfect execution, verbal and visual strokes bespeaking interesting and different details of a fantasy life story. At times the film, purposefully, is slow-moving; one can almost feel the indolence and indifference of the rich, bored characters smothered in their existence by ennui.

Bergman's direction is just perfect, and surely well deserving of best director award from the New York Film Critics. Every stare, every stroke, every scream of the actors is in absolute syncronization while yet always allowing for a wonderfully natural flow of emotional spontaneity.

Acting Magnificent

That is due too, in no small part, to the magnificent acting, especially evident in the four starring women. Liv Ullmann won the New York Critics best actress award, but it's a shame they could not have awarded four.

We have no quarrel whatsoever with Miss Ullmann's superior ability or her selection, but her compatriots were outstanding as well. Harriet Andersson, Kari Sylwan and Ingrid Thulin each molded their roles into distinctive components of a very workable whole which wound up a winner.

Bergman's original screenplay, which also won awards from the N.Y. Critics and the National Society of Film Critics, revolves about four women living in Sweden at the turn of the century. The middle sister, 37-year-old Agnes played by Miss Andersson, is dying and her two sisters, the older Karin played by Miss Thulin and the younger Maria (Miss Ullmann) return to their late parents' baronial estate to share their sister's dying days.

The fourth important distaff role is that of Anna the house servant, as portrayed by Kari Sylwan, who has been Agnes's caretaker and close friend (and I do mean close) for several years.

All the women are markedly different in appearance and attitude. Agnes, in a somewhat vague way, appears to be a bit of an aesthetic; in a not-so-vague way, she is a lesbian. She is not at all physically attractive, being emaciated with illness, but projects through her acting a powerful depiction of pain tempered with a more quiet elusiveness that strangely enough borders on a touch of beauty.

Physical Counterpart

Anna, a big, heavy, solid-looking woman, is Agnes's physical counterpart and about the only one who seems to have any conception of affection or concern for a fellow human.

Karin, a raven-haired beauty who is actually the most attractive of all physically, is frigid. Locked in marriage, she spends most of her time hiding behind a very proper, and cold veneer while secretly (and sometimes not so secretly) crying to her husband: "Don't touch me!" And she eventually, in an act of self-sadism, deforms herself to make damn well sure nobody does.

Maria, played by the very buxon-looking, red-haired, sensuous Miss Ullmann, is supposed to be the flirt, playfully smiling like the perennial spoiled child. After a few frames of this film, Maria the near-nymphomaniac is about the only one who appears normal.

And that, alas, is the key. It is all a very interesting endeavor, stimulating intellectually and moving aesthetically. But it is hardly normal. And I can't imagine that proverbial "general reader" for whom we're always supposed to be writing finding it so for one second.

Though the mind is willing, in all good heart I just cannot recommend this film for anyone who has nursed a sick person on their deathbed or for anyone who is sensitive about lesbianism. Some scenes, though very tastefully done, are explicit — especially the aforementioned sadism act. And the air, not to mention a film frame here and there, is leaden with the lesbianism theme, which hangs overhead, figuratively, much as the heavy red carpeting, walls and drapes do.

Symbolism In Red

Symbolism seems to be synonymous with Bergman films and predictably I found myself trying to figure out what all that red meant. In a letter that Bergman wrote to his cast, before filming began, he gave one of his typically cryptic "explanations:"

"There is one peculiar thing, however: all interiors are in different shades of red. Don't ask me why because I don't know. The bluntest but also most tenable explanation is probably that the whole thing is something internal and that ever since childhood I have imagined the soul to be a damp membrane in varying shades of red."

Now, about normal . . .

In his pre-filming instructions, Bergman was also insistent about the film projecting a dreamlike atmosphere and cinematographer Sven Nykist captured that command beautifully. The scenery is like a tableaux panorama of pastels in landscapes, alternating with the bolder, deeper hues of the interior scenes. Mr. Nykist received quite appropriately the National Society of Film Critics best cinematographer award.

The English is dubbed, quite well, in the Swedish film which is distributed in the United States by New World Pictures. But whatever language you speak, bear in mind this film is not for everyone.

BERGMAN — INSPIRED RENDEZVOUS — Liv Ullmann who plays the flirt Maria in "Cries and Whispers," a film written, directed and produced by Swedish movie maker Ingmar Bergman, steals a moment with the family doctor, played by Erland Josephson, while he is on a house call. The film, which has won wide critical acclaim and several awards, is playing this week at Cinema III, Red Bank.

Simon, Without Garfunkel, Emerging

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Paul Simon

Paul Simon is emerging some more. He has a new album out, "There Goes Rhymin' Simon," his second solo album since the breakup of Simon and Garfunkel, and he started his first tour in three years, his first as a solo, May 4-June 3, in 11 cities; then to London.

That's going so well, Simon thinks he'll do another tour in the fall. "At the end of Simon and Garfunkel, it was all too big. The halls were too big and it was getting boring.

"Then it was sort of beginning again to start to develop a repertoire of songs that were closely associated with me and not just with Simon and Garfunkel. That takes time. Now my program is kind of balanced between my own albums and songs I wrote for Simon and Garfunkel. And partly it was fear, that I laid off so long. Once you get where you achieve some kind of strong popularity and you lay off awhile, you start to get very afraid to go back."

Simon is pleased with the new album, on Columbia, which he also produced. "I wanted this album to be richer in voices than the last, which was sparse. I used the Dixie Hummingbirds, a famous gospel group, and Maggie and Terre Roche, two friends, sang with me on 'What a Sunny Day.' The Rev. Claude Jeter, a well-known gospel singer, sang with me on 'Take Me to the Mardi Gras.'

"I really like to hear voices. I think voices will come back. I don't know if it is going to come this year, but I'm sure sooner or later there will be a shift back to singing together as opposed to hearing a band together. I think there will be a shift away from the lead guitar as the lead instrument of rock 'n' roll. I'm bored with screaming electric guitars."

The Onward Brass Band recorded with Simon on "Take Me to the Mardi Gras." "I'd tell them to begin to play here and it should build here. Otherwise, I let them do it. That is really why I have them; their strengths are what I want.

"I wanted different textures on the album, real people instead of imitators, combining that with modern songs.

"I like the principal of variety. I think some things I'm better at than others; I think I sing ballads better than I sing rhythm tunes, though the first single is a rhythm tune, 'Kodachrome.'

"But I have an interest in a lot of different styles of writing. And partly it is part of the puzzle of making a record — something like the 12-tone scale. You're not supposed to repeat yourself until you've used them all up.

"I think in certain ways writing in a lot of styles works to my disadvantage. I don't think people have a clear picture of me. I think people did have a clear picture of Simon and Garfunkel. 'Scarborough Fair' was typical; pretty, sweetly sung harmonies.

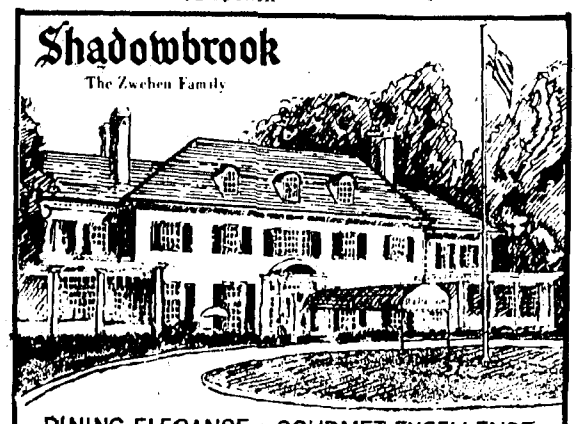

"I'm sure a lot of people were disappointed when it ended, but it was the best possible thing to do. The frustrations of continuing a relationship that is not fruitful any longer but is enormously successful is a strain. We had different musical tastes and different ambitions. When a group ends there is a little bit of rancor involved, it's unavoidable, but with us there wasn't much, really.

"It starts out good and it traps you. You have something good and you get bored. You try and change and the public doesn't want you to change. It's happened to so many people."

Simon says he got interested in Jamaican music in 1967. "I

SISTERLY LOVE — Stefanie Powers (left) and Sheila Larken guest-star as sisters in "A Substitute Womb," a drama about embryo transplant in which one sister (Miss Powers) is unable to carry a child full term and the other agrees to be the recipient in the transplant, to be colorcast on "The Bold Ones" tonight at 10 o'clock on the NBC Television Network. (Repeat)

By SANDY COLTON
AP Director of Photography

So you've taken a picture by the light of a match. Big deal! Also . . . big grain, high contrast, fuzziness caused by camera movement or subject movement, or your inability to focus in the dim light!

Oh, maybe you were lucky and did get a sharp picture. And, maybe, it was interesting, different, unusual. Okay, you're forgiven. But why is it that so many people today are taking pictures in very dim light, settling for just getting an image on film when they could, with very little effort, get a well-exposed picture?

Why rely on large lenses that are less sharp wide open and forced development of high-speed films that result in grainy pictures? Are we getting lazier?

Not so many years ago press photographers carried a large case containing a Speed Graphic camera, film packs or cut film holders, a battery-powered flash unit with plenty of flash bulbs, extra extension flash units, an extra lens or two and a focusing cloth. A few smart ones also carried with them two or three 250-watt photoflood bulbs. The case, when loaded, could weigh as much as 35 or 40 pounds.

Today's photographer carries two or three 35mm cameras, lenses, a small strobe unit (some of these only weigh ounces) and, if he's smart, a few photoflood bulbs. His bag weighs in at around 10 pounds, about a fourth of what his brother in arms carried only a couple of decades ago.

Consider that the average amateur photographer carries even less! Then why should another pound of equipment be such a big headache? Or is it that everyone has become so brainwashed with the idea of taking pictures in natural light, no matter how bad, that quality has been kicked out the window?

Why not boost the light level in a room with photofloods? I like the small 250-watt bulbs that look just like a regular light bulb.

Try screwing two or three of these into the sockets of table lamps or overhead lights in a room. It can boost the light level by two or three f-stops.

AP photographer Tony Camerano holding a homemade spring clamp with an electrical socket, adapter and 650 watt quartzlite. Normal exposure without the light in this room with Tri X film was 1/60th of a second at f 2.8. With the lamp turned on it jumped to 1/60th at f 11. (AP Photo)

If you need more light than that, there are adapters on the market that screw into a regular lamp socket into which you can plug a small 650-watt quartzlite. That will boost the light level another stop or two!

If no lamps are available, you can make your own and carry them around with you. I use a regular electrical socket attached to a spring clamp so that it can be attached to something high in the room where I'm shooting. I don't use reflectors. I like the light to scatter evenly around the room.

Any photoflood or quartzlite will do when shooting black and white film. If you want to shoot color, make sure that you're using the right lamp and the right film. Each lamp has a color temperature rating, called kelvin. Type B tungsten color film needs a lamp with a 3200K rating. Type A tungsten film needs a rating of 3400K. Using the wrong film will result in hotter than normal colors.

A few words of warning: 1. Don't plug too many of these into the same outlet. You may blow a fuse. 2. Make sure that the lamps are positioned normally, that is, where existing lights are or, if you're using an extension, high and in a corner behind you. 3. The lamps get hot so let them cool off before you touch them.

Now, if you're one of those people with an expensive camera and big lenses, switch to a slower film and see how much sharper your pictures are. Stop playing with matches. You might start a fire!

Shore Teen-Agers Will Appear in Talent Expo

HOLMDEL — Several Northern Monmouth County area teens will be among those who will take part in the "Showcase Of Stars," the annual Talent Expo to be held at 8 p.m. June 2 at the Garden State Arts Center.

Soloists include Victoria Bing, Middletown, who will perform a ballet-acrobatic dance, and Carol-Andrea Penn, Red Bank, who will do a modern ballet.

Among the performing groups will be the Bryan Broderick Friends singers. Members are Bryan Broderick, Pat Goeller, Tony Fernandez, Richard Piro, Jane Broderick, Maria Taghavia, all Hazlet, and Janet Martin, Holmdel.

The New Jersey Public Television network, which will inaugurate two new channels that night in Arts Center ceremonies, will telecast the Talent Expo live and in color over all four New Jersey stations.

Simon Emerging

tried to capture it on 'Why Don't You Write Me?' on the 'Bridge over Troubled Water' album but I didn't really get it. The first time I really used it was on 'Mother and Child Reunion,' my first solo album. I liked the beat. It's simple, open music with a syncopated feeling to it."

There's a picture on the new album cover of Simon and his infant son in Jamaica. There's also one of Simon at 14. He's now 31 and not very interested in most pop music, which he thinks is aimed at teen-agers instead of people his age. He thinks it's one reason people his age are turning so much to 1950s rock 'n' roll revival shows.

He doesn't aim his writing specifically at an age group. "You have to write what interests you. You can't go looking for a market. Even the people who write bubblegum music must have some real feeling for it. Most of it doesn't sound phony to me, but it doesn't interest me very much."

On the tour, Simon has the Jessy Dixon Singers and a South American group, Urubamba — two-thirds of the old Los Incas plus two more.

"It fascinates me to deal with very talented people that the public doesn't really know. It's not like dealing with superstars, yet they are enormously talented. I'm working with one of the most famous of all gospel quartets but the general public doesn't know any gospel quartets.

"That's not to say that superstars wouldn't be really nice, too. I never asked any to play with me. Part of the reason was embarrassment; I didn't want to call them up and ask.

"I think it's a little bit incestuous, everybody playing around with everybody else. It's hard to maintain your identity. Everybody influences everybody, so you're getting part of yourself back.

"When the Dixie Hummingbirds sings, it is coming out pure Dixie Hummingbirds. They don't know me; their children or grandchildren might. But they're very interested to see what is going on and how you're doing it and happy to be part of something that is popular. They're people of great musical ability who never attained any significant amount of attention or money."

Simon says recording an album takes him less time than it used to. "I work with musicians who I know will play what I want on that particular song. I'm enjoying myself more now. I don't get tripped up too much any more. There's always some way of doing something that is interesting.

"It is more fun to sing, too. I stopped smoking several years ago and I really felt the effects of it over the last few years. And the more I sing by myself the more confident I get, so the more I enjoy singing by myself. I have much more freedom. I'm not locked into a two-part harmony situation. I can do the harmony the song calls for.

N.J. Public Broadcasting Is Awarded

TRENTON — New Jersey Public Broadcasting has been presented the George Washington Honor Medal award for 1972 by the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, Pa.

Maj. Gen. James Cantwell, representing Freedoms Foundation Board of Governors, presented the award to Dr. Edward J. Meade, Jr., Chairman of the NJPBA for the 30-minute color production entitled "McKonkey's Ferry: Christmas 1776."

The program, honored in the governmental unit category especially for use on WNJT-TV Channel 52 in Trenton, was produced by Robert L. Garthwaite, a nationally known independent film producer.

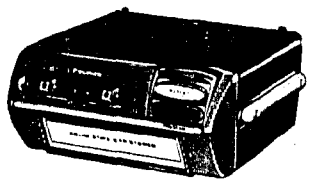

The program used still pictures and film to depict hardships suffered by General George Washington's army in the days preceding and following this historic crossing of the Delaware River to rout the sleeping British forces on Christmas night.

Washington's army had retreated across New Jersey and many enlistments were up the last day in December.

"McKonkey's Ferry" is one of several historical programs planned by New Jersey Public Broadcasting for use on the four New Jersey UHF TV stations operated by the Authority. The NJPBA now has Channel 52 in operation in Trenton and Channel 23 in South Jersey. New Channels 50 and 58 begin telecasting in northern New Jersey on June 2. The historical program emphasize the role played by New Jersey and are being produced so they can be clustered together for rebroadcast during the 1976 Bicentennial.

New Perry Mason Has Made One Court Appearance

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK — Monte Markham, who next season portrays Perry Mason in a recycled version of the old courtroom TV series, says he's been involved in a court case only once in his life—as a defendant.

It happened eight years ago in Small Claims Court. At issue was a beef over the length of lease for a house he was renting in Pasadena, Calif., while appearing at the Pasadena Playhouse.

"The thing that really destroyed me was the speed of the judge," grumbled Markham, who once planned to be a criminal lawyer and had arrived in court armed with an eloquent, impassioned defense of his case.

"I found that there's nothing faster than Small Claims," the future television barrister said. "I had a big lineup of character witnesses, including my minister, and nobody got to speak.

"I said, 'Wait a minute, I've got pages and notes here.' The judge said, 'Oh, forget it,' and that was it."

How did the case turn out?

"I won," Markham laughed. "The judge listened to my landlady's testimony and turned to me and said, 'You're right.'"

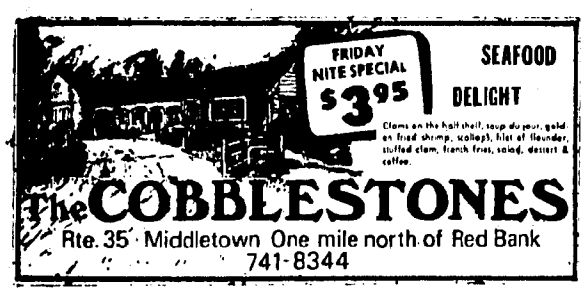

As the star of next season's "The New Adventures of Perry Mason," Markham will have to win far tougher cases for 24 successive Sunday nights on the CBS television network.

His series will be up against ABC's "The FBI" and NBC's "Walt Disney" shows. In some markets, it may even be competing against the old adventures of Perry Mason, starring Raymond Burr.

That series ran nine years on CBS before its cancellation in 1966. It's still having a successful run in syndication. The major problem it'll pose for the 1973 model is that for many viewers the only Perry Mason is Raymond Burr. They may not accept substitutes.

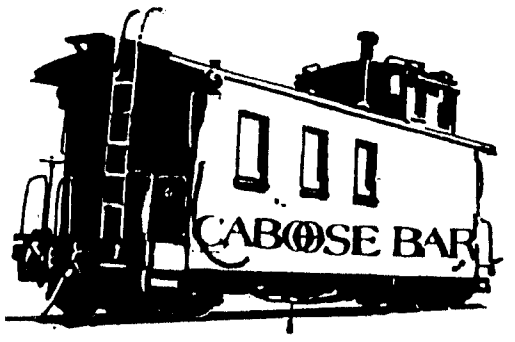

And Markham, 37, bears no physical similarity to Burr. He's lean while Burr is heavyset; his movements and speech are quick and animated, where those of Burr are slow and deliberate.

Despite all this and the fact that two other TV series in which he starred bombed, Markham next week is leaving the relative security of "Irene"—a hit Broadway musical—to take up again the total insecurity that is the lot of the Hollywood actor.

Brookdale College Play Tryouts Set

LINCROFT — Tryouts are being held for Brookdale Community College Theatre Department's second annual season of summer repertory. The plays this year are 'Butterflies Are Free' by Leonard Gershe; 'The Crucible' by Arthur Miller, and 'The Wizard of Oz' by Frank Baum.

'Butterflies Are Free,' the longest running comedy of the past decade is a ringing affirmation of life with both its comic and serious moments. The show was a successful film last year. Eileen Heckart won an Oscar for her portrayal of Mrs. Baker. 'Butterflies' will be directed by J. Laurence Lowenstein, assistant professor of drama at Brookdale. He has directed 'Boys in the Band,' 'Company,' 'Sign in Sidney Brustein's Window' and 'Champagne in the Garbage' at the college this year.

'The Crucible,' one of America's contemporary classics, deals with the Salem witch trials. Originally written as an indictment of the McCarthy era, many of its statements can be applied to current political situations. It is a story of human beings as well as ideas. 'The Crucible' will be directed by Theresa Joseph Trocchia who has appeared locally in 'The Homecoming,' and has organized and directs the Red Sneakers Children's Theater for Monmouth County Parks System at Thompson Park.

'The Wizard of Oz,' based on the novel, play and film will be directed by Karen Ludemann who has directed for Brookdale's Theatre Workshop and Children's Theatre. This version will include music, Anthony Zaleski will be musical director.

The season will run from July 5 through August 12.

Supremes to Join Hope

HOLMDEL — The dynamic Supremes will be joining Bob Hope at the Garden State Arts Center during Hope's week long engagement at the Center from June 18th through the 23rd, it was announced Monday.

The Supremes combine beauty, great singing ability, the Motown Sound and great stage presence to present an act that has thrilled audiences ranging from rock and roll fans to the sophisticated taste of Las Vegas audiences. Their name is synonomous with excitement, the "now" sound and they have become known as one of the best "female class acts" in the country.

This will be Hope's second Arts Center appearance. It will, however, be his first appearance at popular prices. He teamed with Duke Ellington at the gala benefit opening in 1972.

Handbell Ringers' Concert Scheduled

RED BANK — The Handbell Ringers of the First Presbyterian Church, under the direction of Robert Ivey, will present their annual concert at 8 p.m., Friday, June 8 in the Church Sanctuary Atop Tower Hill.

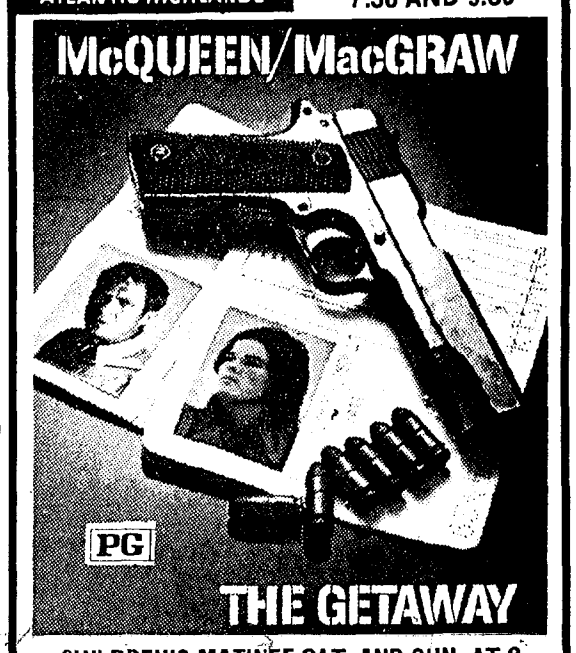

Members of the Calvin, Chapel and Tower Handbell Ringers, numbering 30 senior high students, will perform on 86 precision tuned English Handbells. They will be playing music which they will perform at the forthcoming National Festival of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers, Inc., to be held at Morehead, Ky. during the last week in June.

Tickets are available at the Church Office during the week, or may be purchased at the door the night of the performance.

Class of '33 to Dine, Dance June 2

RED BANK — Plans are being finalized for the 40th reunion of the Class of 1933 of Red Bank High School.

The dinner-dance will be Saturday, June 2, at Lincroft Inn, with dinner planned for 7 p.m. Dancing will be from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., with Music by Jules.

Miss Mary Margaret Rice, class adviser of the June class, and Mrs. Robert C. (Theodore) Brown, a member of the faculty, will be guests of honor.

George Decker, class president of the February class, and Charles Wodehouse, class president of the June class, will both attend. Harry Pitcher will be master of ceremonies.

The host class of 1933 has extended invitations to members of other graduating classes of Red Bank High School and several responses have indicated their intention of attending.

Confirmation has been received from Jack Jacoubs of New York and Harry Gage of Florida, outstanding athletes in the 1930s, that they will attend.

Since the last reunion, a number of class members have moved and left no forwarding addresses or their time of forwarding mail has expired. As a result, the committee is without the addresses of almost two dozen class members.

Serving on the committee are Mrs. Mary New Sagotsky of Freehold, Mrs. Dorothy Decher Gunther of Colts Neck, Harry Pitcher of Holmdel and Chester L. Forrar of New Shrewsbury.

Reservations must be submitted by Wednesday.

Doctor Says Cases Were Not Typhoid

MANALAPAN — An Englishtown doctor has squelched rumors that two juvenile patients in the same family contracted typhoid fever from playing with ducks in a stream running through Monmouth Heights.

Dr. E. E. Burnham, said Wednesday that the juvenile had contracted a form of salmonella which induced vomiting and loss of appetite.

But, she said, the patients are "clinically cured." The patients were not identified.

Rumors spread through Monmouth Heights Wednesday that the child contracted typhoid fever, and several residents called area newspapers to express their concern.

Mayor Kenneth G. Olsen said at the Township Committee meeting Wednesday that the misunderstanding was apparently caused when Dr. Burnham's nurse referred to the ailment as being "para typhoid."

Dr. Matthew Bonese, of the state Department of Health, said yesterday that there are "upwards of 1,000 variations of salmonella." He said one of those is salmonella typhi, or the "classic dangerous typhoid."

The state official said that a Monmouth Heights resident brought a water sample from the stream to the Freehold Area Hospital for analysis. The initial results of the test showed the water contained salmonella bacteria, he said.

However, a state analysis of the sample did not confirm that finding, he said. The water sample contained citrobacter, which does not produce disease or is not involved in food poisoning, Dr. Bonese said.

Dr. Bonese said a state representative took samples of the stream Tuesday, and the results should be known in a few days.

Parks Topic Of Holmdel Discussion

HOLMDEL — Parks and recreation in Holmdel was the topic presented by a guest panel at this month's general meeting of the Holmdel-Colts Neck chapter of the League of Women Voters.

John Wadington, a Planning Board member, opened the program with an outline or provisions for recreation facilities in the township master plan.

Committeeman George Boggio, the Township Committee's delegate to the Board of Recreation Commissioners, told of ongoing acquisition of park sites.

Mrs. Elaine Frey, chairman of the Board of Recreation Commissioners, explained the background and responsibilities of the board and cited its involvement in the summer playground program, adult recreation, senior citizens activities and special recreational events.

James Brady, vice president of the Holmdel Youth Activities Association, told of the growth of his group and described its aims.

Ralph Brainard, a member of the Environmental Commission, gave information of his group's role in planning land usage.

2 Commissioners Complete Course

MIDDLETOWN — Mrs. Carol Huber and Donald Abrams, members of the Environmental Commission, have completed a nine-week course for commissioners at Rutgers University.

There are now five of the six commissioners who have received the training.

The Rutgers course provides practical and theoretical instruction in all phases of environmental problems. It confers semi-professional status on its graduates.

JOHNNY TIES JOHN

Comedian Johnny Brown tied the record of John Davidson (who will star in NBC-TV's "The Girl With Something Extra" next season) in coming up with a word in four seconds on NBC-TV's "Baffle." The clues were VDB and Johnny responded with Vida Blue, the Oakland A's ace pitcher.

Ira and Irene Popkin came home to a '73 Pinto Squire Wagon because they wanted a shopping cart built like a car instead of a car built like a shopping cart.

Irene Popkin, Clifton, N.J., mother of two and shopper for four, wanted a car that was a lot more than "cute."

Her husband Ira had owned small cars before, wanted their economy—but without being pushed across the road whenever a stiff breeze came along.

The Pinto Squire Wagon gave them what they wanted.

Fold down the rear seat, open the rear liftgate, and you have almost 6 feet of loadfloor that can gulp up sixty cubic feet of kids, cartons, bridge chairs, or whatever else you get carried away by.

You also have a surprisingly big, 2000cc overhead cam, 4-cylinder engine. And front disc brakes to harness this extra power.

"I do all my shopping once a week," says Irene, "and when I come out with my bundles, it's a joy to get everything in the back of the car and still have plenty of room for the kids and their paraphernalia."

"The Pinto's ability to hold the road at high speeds with no feeling of any cross-current of winds surprises me," says Ira. "I think it's a great tribute to a small car."

The 1973 Pinto Squire Wagon is a subcompact that won't cramp your wallet or your legs or your notion of what a car should be.

Your Ford Dealer is waiting to welcome you home to try one on for size.

Candidate Raps Middletown Aide Hiring

MIDDLETOWN — "It is apparent that the Township Committee's idea of good government is to hire a full-time department head and when he fails to perform, to give him a full-time assistant and hope that between them, they'll get the job done."

So says Eugene J. Farrell of East Keansburg, candidate for the Democratic nomination in the June 5 primary election.

"When our full-time $18,000-a-year tax assessor was hired, we were told he would be able to handle the job with the existing staff. A few months later, they hired an assistant assessor for $10,000. The Township Committee is in the process of repeating the fiasco by creating the position of assistant recreation director. Such are the myriad benefits of professionalism," Mr. Farrell declared.

"If elected, I shall not only seek a moratorium on the creation of new exectuve positions, but I will take a long look to see if we can 'uncreate' some positions," he promised.

Mr. Farrell also stated that as a committeeman, he will not accept any salary or make use of the expense account available to committeemen.

"This is one expenditure I would have complete control over. If I believe what I say about fiscal austerity, that's a place to start . . .

"While it is true that in a democracy you get the kind of government you deserve or at least will tolerate, I don't believe the average Middletown taxpayer is such an invidious fellow that he deserves what he's been getting from other parties over the past several years," Mr. Farrell continued.

"If the June 5 primary runs true to tradition, probably less than 10 per cent of the eligible voters will exercise their franchise. But no boss, no political faction can defeat you if you really want change," Mr. Farrell said.

Orders Subdivision Approval

FREEHOLD — Superior Court Judge Merritt Lane Jr. yesterday directed Marlboro Council to grant final subdivision approval for three lots to U.S. Home Corp. in its Whittier Oaks development.

"This matter has been before the court for too long," said Judge Lane, noting that he had ruled on this matter May 2, 1972, and that it was not resolved by the township. "Enough is enough.

"The Township Council's hostility is obvious," continued the judge, adding that this is apparent from what happened after last year's court decision.

Judge Lane directed council to grant the approval within 30 days and without any referrals to other municipal agencies. This is what happened last year after Judge Lane ordered council to approve the subdivision.

After the judge last year told council to approve the plan, council referred the matter to the Planning Board which then granted conditional approval subject to the developer obtaining a variance from the Zoning Board of Adjustment.

The Planning Board felt that the developer needed a variance because the lots did not meet the minimum frontage requirements. The zoning board subsequently denied the variance.

U.S. Homes Corp. then filed the legal action to obtain the approval for the three lots in an eight-acre tract in its Whittier Oaks development. The tract is at Sandburg Drive and Nash Court.

Judge Lane said the developer did not plan to reduce the dimensions of the frontage and, therefore, it did not need a variance. The judge set aside the Planning Board's conditional approval.

The judge said the Planning Board could have raised the variance issue at the May, 1972, court hearing but it did not. The earlier decision precludes the imposition of conditions now, he said.

Concerning Township Council's argument that the developer said it would not construct on the lots, Judge Lane said the township and the residents could not expect that the lot would remain vacant.

The judge added that there was no indication that a developer's representative said there would be no more construction; nor could the objectors reasonably rely on such a representation.

Judge Lane said he found no justification for the zoning board's denial of the variance based on the evidence before the board.

Concerning the developer's request for reimbursement of legal fees — it was seeking $750 from each of the three municipal agencies — Judge Lane said he saw no justification for it. To allow costs, he continued, would be to punish the municipality, he said, and this was not the purpose of the legal proceeding. The judge said he felt the zoning board acted in good faith, although in error, and that the Planning Board was mistaken in its conditional approval.

Why Mercedes-Benz Diesel owners insist that it's all those other people who are out of step.

The 220 Diesel is no ordinary automobile. It is, in fact, an extraordinary automobile...almost eccentric. Consider its penchant for paring down running costs.

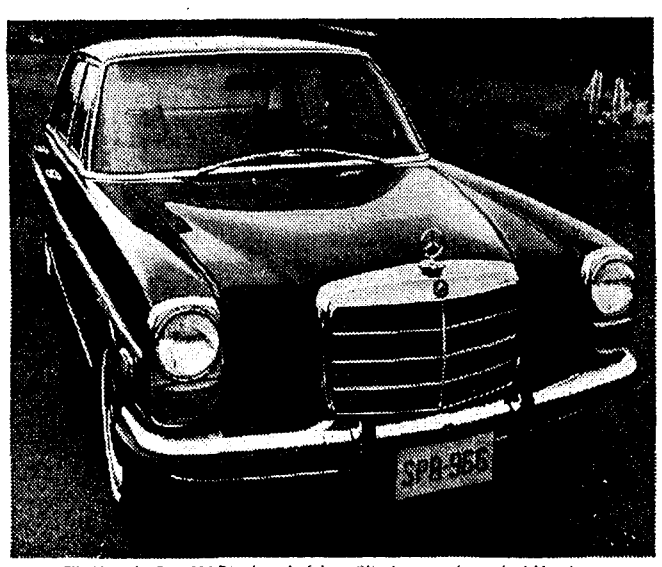

Diesel owners sidestep all these expenses:

1. Tanking up on gasoline—a fuel that can cost 49 cents a gallon for the more exotic "premium" blends.

2. Tanking up often—Diesels seldom drop below 20 miles per gallon in average driving. And with a light foot on the throttle, you'll be amazed how much better than this you can do.

3. Replacing spark plugs—or adjusting carburetors, or fiddling with distributors and condensers, or installing new points.

No wonder Diesel owners say it's everybody else who's out of step.

Why Diesel owners have the last laugh

Pop open the hood of the 220 Diesel. You'll see an engine that doesn't need the traditional delicate ignition system. There are no spark plugs, no points, no condenser, no distributor. And our Diesel uses a direct injection system to feed fuel to the cylinders—no carburetor.

Parts that aren't there will never have to be repaired or replaced.

And consider the fuel. Diesel fuel is a crude oil, cheaply refined. So, in many areas of the country, its price is lower than regular-grade gasoline.

Where the economy stops

Enjoying Diesel economy means no comedown in your standard of driving comfort. In fact, if you have never owned a Mercedes-Benz it may mean a step up.

Try spotting this "economy" sedan in a showroom full of Mercedes-Benz cars. It won't be easy; from the engine compartment rearward, the 220 Diesel is almost identical to several sister models.

This sturdy machine weighs over one-and-a-half tons. It is welded more than 6,000 times, painted 4 times, sealed beneath with 24 lbs. of undercoating.

Saves money—and nerves

People often enthuse about the pleasure of driving their 220 Diesels. Each wheel is sprung independently. Only a test drive can show the difference this makes on bad roads and sharp curves. Like all models of Mercedes-Benz, each wheel—not just the front ones—carries its own disc brake.

Suggestion: Bring your wife along when you test drive the 220 Diesel. She'll be delighted at how easy and relaxing this machine is to drive. She'll discover that this roomy 5-passenger sedan actually turns in a tighter circle than most compacts.

Debunking those Diesel myths

Over three decades, Mercedes-Benz has refined Diesel engine performance to a point where many familiar old criticisms are nothing more than myths.

"Diesels are noisy!" Have you heard a Diesel lately? Due to its combustion process, it does click and clatter at idle—especially when cold. But once it's under way the sound fades. By the time you hit 30 mph, it is actually hard to tell by the noise that you're riding in a Diesel.

"Diesel fuel is scarce!" Have you talked with a Diesel owner lately? The fact is, that while Diesel fuel may be scarcer than gasoline, it's available wherever Diesel trucks stop. And that adds up to thousands and thousands of places across the U.S.A.

"Diesels don't go fast enough!" Not fast enough to win a drag race, true. But fast enough to cruise comfortably on any highway in America (and faster than the posted limits in 48 of the 50 states).

A $6,662* investment

The Diesel comes fully equipped at a basic price of $6,662.* You can order extra equipment, e.g., automatic transmission, air conditioning, power windows or a sun roof, to suit your special needs.

See your authorized Mercedes-Benz dealer soon. He will gladly arrange a thorough test drive for you in the extraordinary 220 Diesel.

Perhaps your next new car shouldn't be a new car at all.

It may make more sense for you to spend $5000 for a previously owned Continental than for an average new car!

1970 CONTINENTAL MARK III

1971 LINCOLN CONTINENTAL 4-DOOR SEDAN

If you're going to spend the kind of money that can put you in an immaculate, fully equipped, late-model Continental . . . don't settle for less. Move up to the prestige, luxury and pride of ownership that is uniquely Continental.

There's no better time than now. Unprecedented sales of 1973 Continentals have resulted in an outstanding selection of previously owned models. You'll be impressed with the cars and the relative cost of moving up.

However you look at it, a nearly new classic Continental makes good sense. Think it over, then talk it over with the dealer nearest you . . . before you buy a lesser car.

The typical previously owned Continental has a full range of luxury and convenience features. Air conditioning, full power and leather-with-vinyl upholstery are common.

New Shrewsbury Has a 'Home' Where Problems Are Shared

By MARYBETH ALLEN

NEW SHREWSBURY — Nobody lives at the house on Apple St.

Yet, everybody may live a little bit better because it exists.

Interfaith House is a community home, with its door open to those with problems to be solved or shared. Its rooms are painted a rainbow assortment of chartreuse, peach, blue and yellow. And perhaps it is symbolic that youngsters, who love the colors the most, are unaware of color when it comes to themselves.

Black and white children play side by side — which is part of what Interfaith House is all about. There are, however, programs for people of all ages. And of special interest is a black students' vocations seminar scheduled from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. tomorrow.

The Participants

Among those scheduled to participate are Clinton Crocker of Rutgers University, who will speak on the performing arts; Wilson Shepherd, a past president of the Shore Citizens for Better Human Relations, starting a business; Al James, a former Interfaith House board member, executive positions in business; Mrs. Pearl Brown of the county Welfare Board, social work and administration; Stafford Thompson, a law student; Frederick Grey, a psychiatric social worker and supervisor of the Work Incentive (WINS) program, counseling; John Westbrook of Brookdale Community College, Lincroft, college scholarship opportunities, and Berkely Burgess of the New York office of the United Church of Christ, church scholarship opportunities.

Johnny Etta Green, Interfaith House recording secretary, will be chairman. A $2 individual fee or a $10 group fee, including lunch, has been established. Edward Wake of Eatontown, Interfaith House treasurer, is in charge of overall registration. Betty Lawrence and Vickie Davis will be conference registrars.

Serving on the planning committee are the Rev. Joan M. Higgins, Interfaith House director, Don Norman, John Westbrook, Stafford Thompson and Dorothy James.

Five to Seven

Already, those involved with Interfaith House are looking forward to the summer season of the year-round after school program for children age five to seven. The program serves families who are receiving Aid to Dependent Children (A.D.C.) and about 30 children from low-income families in the immediate area are expected to participate.

Among those who will serve on the staff are teachers Sheila Conroy of Atlantic Highlands and Irma Frazier of Matawan and aides John and Bertha Bowles, Betty Lawrence and Debra Taguinot, here. The Rev. Mrs. Higgins notes that Miss Taguinot, who is the oldest of eight children, also worked at Interfaith House last year and, as a result of her experience, has decided to go into the field of early childhood education.

The program for the youngters will feature trips twice a week. There will be visits to the ocean — which some of those involved have never seen — and to parks, museums and other local points of interest.

'Invest Yourself'

Through "Invest Yourself," a booklet which lists national and international volunteer opportunites, Interfaith House has gained the summer help of two workers from out of this area. They are Betty Irvin, a recent graduate from a Wisconsin high school, and Elizabeth Sechs, a German college student. It is hoped that they will be able to make their temporary homes with local families.

Interfaith House strives to involve people on all income levels. In 1972, counting only those who served a minimum of 12 hours, there were 104 volunteers who gave a total of more than 8,000 hours. Fifty-nine of the volunteers were from low-income familes and were therefore working to help themselves.

Through the house, middle-income youngsters are introduced to low-income problems. And they are given help in working out intergroup relationships and prejudices. This year, time will be set aside for discussion . . . because last year, the young people wound up staying on their own time to discuss the things which were on their minds.

Humor, the Rev. Mrs. Higgins notes, helped ease a difficult moment which occurred last summer. She explains that she had been in the habit of driving some of the white youngsters home because they lived farther away than the blacks — and she was asked if she liked white people better than those who were black. She answered that people would be foolish if they didn't like themselves — but they should also be willing to like others.

At Interfaith House, teens are encouraged to break the habit of using bad language. And, through role play, they learn why some of their other habits may also bother people. Some of the best things accomplished at the house on Apple St. are intangible . . . like the experience of being greeted cordially by someone who had formerly been hostile.

Interfaith House, which was established as a learning center for self-improvement by the disadvantaged, was incorporated in 1970. It is a nonprofit educational institution and a religious and child protective agency licensed by the Education Commission of the Division of Youth and Family Services, Department of Institutions and Agencies, State of New Jersey.

The Programs

Programs offered include:

— Free tutoring service for people of all ages, arranged through the cooperation of local schools and boards of education.

— Counseling on low-income housing by members of the Shore Citizens for Better Human Relations.

— Provision of emergency housing.

— Vocational rehabilitation counseling, offered in cooperation with local high schools and colleges and the N.J. Rehabilitation Commission.

— Referral help for emotional problems

— Supervision of Neighborhood Youth Corps trainees.

— Space for community group meetings, including those of Boy Scouts.

Volunteer Professionals

— Enrichment programs by volunteer professionals in the fields of art, ballet, woodworking, and sports.

— Programs on food management, child development, and infant and early childhood education.

Veita Barr of Colts Neck is membership chairman for Interfaith House, which has a roster of about 100. Those who sign the membership cards affirm that they will not use drugs. They are also asked to indicate if they are registered to vote — and it is hoped that rather than check the "no" square, they will go out and register so they can check "yes."

Boy Found Guilty in Slaying

TOMS RIVER — A 15-year-old Ocean County boy was found guilty of juvenile delinquency, by a county Juvenile Court judge yesterday, in the beating death of a six-year-old girl.

The girl, Nancy Kathryn DeMasi, was found bludgeoned and floating in a pond in Manchester Township last Feb. 26.

According to Judge William H. Hubert, the convicted youth, Edward James Davis of Central Pine Village, Manchester Township, will receive an indeterminate term in a state youth correction center, although he withheld formal sentencing.

Huber said the boy would have been guilty of second-degree murder, which carries a 30-year sentence, if he had been tried as an adult.

The youth will remain in the Ocean County Juvenile Shelter until he is sentenced.

State Lottery Ad Firm Cited

TRENTON — The advertising firm that holds the lucrative New Jersey State Lottery contract received funds allegedly obtained in a criminal manner for the Republican Party, according to a federal indictment.

In the indictment handed up yesterday against former State Treasurer Joseph M. McCrane Jr., the New Jersey branch of Bofinger-Kaplan, Inc., was cited as a recipient of two checks totalling $7,000 for public relations work performed for the 1969 gubernatorial campaign of Gov. William T. Cahill.

Various sources said it is believed that the firm also performed "some free work for Cahill's primary campaign" in 1969.

Bofinger-Kaplan was not accused of any wrongdoing in yesterday's indictment.

The firm's lottery contracts have totalled $4.6 million, according to Frank Papale, director of the state Division of Purchase and Property.

Prior to landing the lottery advertising and promotional account, and the state's general promotional campaign account, the Bofinger-Kaplan New Jersey branch operated out of a Moorestown office.

Exxon Renews Colts Neck Pact

COLTS NECK — The operator of Colts Neck Airport said yesterday the Exxon Corp., which had originally refused to renew a contract for aviation fuel, has agreed to continue supplying the small Monmouth County airfield.

Paul Wille, 36, said Exxon notified him Wednesday that it was offering him a 30-day renewable contract for fuel at the same price he has been paying for the past five years.

Exxon originally let the airport's contract expire May 15. Wille said no reason was given for non-renewal at the time.

"We only assumed it was due to the alleged fuel crisis," said Wille. He contacted every other aviation fuel supplier in the area — Texaco, Shell and Mobil — "but they were hesitant about taking us on."

The airport consumes 45,000 gallons a year, which is less than some gas stations sell in less than a week.

Willie said his attorney had been in touch with Exxon about the failure to renew the contract.

Exxon owns the two underground tanks and two pumps at the airport.

"Exxon has offered them to me for a courtesy fee of a dollar a pump," Wille said. "We have not accepted."

Wille runs a flight school and also rents small planes.

Guard Offered Trip to Canada

CAMP DRUM, N.Y. — Some 3,300 New Jersey National Guardsmen have been offered a chance to spend Memorial Day weekend in Canada as a break from their annual two-week training period at this Army post.

Maj. Gen. James H. Wehenmeyer Jr., of Livingston, N.J., commander of the 50th Armored Division of the New Jersey National Guard, announced the new training pass program.

The announcement said buses would leave tomorrow morning for French Canada and return here Sunday night. An alternative trip is being offered to guardsmen who want to visit the Thousand Islands resort area near here.

The two-day trips to Canada and Lake Oneida cost the Guardsmen $30 each.

The general said he had increased the weekend pass to two days this year over past one-day weekend training passes "to have everyone get an opportunity to visit the country up here."

Poll Shows More Integration Is Favored

By SHERRY CONOHAN

NEW YORK — More integration of public schools by race and income and establishment of a minimum income for everybody in need were favored by more than half the respondents to the "Choices for '76" town meeting on poverty, according to the Regional Plan Association.

The association reported that 62 per cent of those who returned ballots in response to questions posed in the televised program on poverty supported greater integration of schools while a bare majority of 51 per cent endorsed a minimum income.

Better than 80 per cent of the respondents favored more widely available pre-school education and day care for children of working morthers and more government-provided jobs for the unemployed. Three-fourths of the voters also supported government action to raise incomes of the working poor, either in the form of higher minimum wages or as a negative income tax.

Seventy-one per cent of the voters favored higher federal income taxes for higher income people (those earning more than $18,000 a year), and 61 per cent favored greater reliance on income taxes at the state and local level and less on sales and property taxes.

Smallest Vote

Regional Plan officials said the figures were based on the tabulation of 6,425 of 11,500 ballots received in response to the program, the fourth in the "Choices for '76" series. It was the smallest return to any of the programs thus far and association officials attributed the decline in response, at least in part, to the fact the program was aired April 28-30 during the Easter holiday period.

The fifth and final program in the "choices" series, which examined problems of the New York urban region, was aired over local television stations the weekend of May 12-14.

A sixth program summarizing the opinion expressed in the balloting on the five "town meetings" televised this spring is planned for next fall, provided the Regional Plan Association can raise the money to produce it.

The association plans to submit the results of the balloting on the five programs this spring to all government officials and others in the tri-state metropolitan region, extending from Trenton to New Haven, who have anything to do with planning.

Climate for Change

William B. Shore, vice president for public affairs, summing up the response to the first four programs, said, "there is a substantial number of people out there that are willing to consider policy changes.

"To politicians," he said at a news conference, "this indicates you can open the door. . .that it isn't the risk you thought it to be" to propose policy changes.

"It tells the politicians that with some kind of political leadership change is possible. . . that they at least will have a basis for support, that they won't be made a pariah," if they do propose change, Mr. Shore said.

The response to the eight choices proposed in the town meeting on poverty is as follows:

Choice 1 — Should the public schools become more integrated, and if so, how (circle as many as apply)? a) no, 38 per cent; b) yes, house more low-income families in middle-income neighborhoods, 28 per cent; c) yes, change school attendance boundaries for more integration within walking distance, 52 per cent; d) yes, use buses to achieve more integration over wider areas, 14 per cent.

Various Choices

Choice 2 — How much money should be spent to educate children whose reading and math scores lag seriously behind national norms? a) the same as is spent on other children, 33 per cent; b) more than is spent on other children, 63 per cent; c) less than is spent on other children 2 per cent; d) no opinion, 3 per cent.

Choice 3 — Do you think that pre-school education and day care for children of working mothers should be more widely available, with the charge varying from nothing to full cost, depending on income, or not? yes, 81 per cent; no, 46 per cent.

Choice 4 — In the fall of 1972, the inflation rate was 3.6 per cent, and there were 4.5 million unemployed in the nation. Suppose that a 2 per cent higher inflation rate reduces the number of unemployed by an additional 1 million, would you be willing to accept this increased inflation, or not? yes, 32 per cent; no, 57 per cent.

Choice 5 — Should the government provide jobs for the unemployed? a) not at all, 12 per cent; b) yes, for some of the unemployed, 36 per cent; c) yes, and guarantee a job for all who want to work, 51 per cent.

Higher Minimum Wage

Choice 6 — What, if anything, should be done to raise the incomes of the working poor? a) nothing, 16 per cent; b) raise minimum wages and provide public service jobs for everyone, 36 per cent; c) support low wages with federal cash supplements varying with family size (negative income tax), 40 per cent.

Choice 7 — Should the government guarantee a minimum income for everybody in need, and if so, what should it be for a family of four? a) $2,400 with supplements up to an income of $4,800, 12 per cent; b) $4,200 with supplements up to an income of $8,400, 21 per cent; c) $5,000 with supplements up to an income of $10,000, 11 per cent; d) $6,500 with supplements up to an income of $13,000, 8 per cent; e) no guarantee of minimum income, 41 per cent.

Choice 8 — Do you favor or oppose any of the following tax policies? a) making people with higher incomes pay more federal income tax — favor, 71 per cent; oppose, 24 per cent. b) at the state and local level, relying less on sales and property taxes and more on income taxes — favor, 61 per cent; opposed, 32 per cent.

Stearns Is Named 'Man of the Year'

VENICE, Fla. — Milburn C. "Mel" Stearns of White Road, Shrewsbury, N.J., has been named "Senior Citizen Man of the Year" at the Harbor Lights Mobile Park here.

He was awarded the title for an act of kindness performed for old-time friends, Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Feeney of 152 South St., Red Bank, N.J.

Mr. Stearns and his wife, Bernice, who were vacationing here, visited Mrs. Alice Hill, also from Red Bank, at the park and learned that Mr. Feeney and his wife, Kathryn, wanted to cut short their vacation because of Mr. Feeney's health.

Mr. and Mrs. Feeney were unsuccessful in advancing their reservations on the auto train, and Mr. Stearns solved the problem by driving them, in their car, back home. He then returned here by airplane.

Mrs. Feeney said she and her husband are grateful to Mr. Stearns and that it may have been a case of "one good turn deserves another." She explained that many years ago she saved the Stearns' son from drowning in North Jersey, where both families were visiting. The son is Police Capt. Walter B. Stearns of Little Silver, N.J.

Woman Cleared Of Fraud Charge

UNION BEACH — Mrs. Dolores M. Melhado, 39, of 22 Dibling St. has been cleared of a charge of embezzling $567 from her former employer.

Mrs. Melhado was taken into custody last December after a complaint had been signed against her by a security officer for Two Guys Department Store, Rt. 35, Middletown.

It had been charged that Mrs. Melhado, while employed at the store, fraudulently obtained refunded cash for her own use.

She was informed by Benjamin H. Danskin, county clerk, that a county grand jury found no evidence for indictment.

Facing School Failures

Family Counselor

By DR. JAMES M. LONG

We are approaching the time of year when many parents have to face the reality of the question, "Why did he fail in school?"

It is difficult for parents to realize the significance of what their child's failure means. Put in a defensive position, their response is one of amazement — "How could he do this to us? He has had all of the advantages with none of the problems." When this accusation fails to relieve the personal feeling of parental failure the parents then turn on each other and one points to the other claiming it to be his or her "non-interest;" or if their relationship is stronger, both may agree to seek outside help. The basic question parents want answered is why their children fail when they have been raised in a home that provides material advantages.

School failures are among the most prevalent problems faced by youth today; although just as important are the problems of drug use and sexual promiscuity. The immediate problem, but one difficult to cope with, is to understand the reason for a child's failure. The young people express a feeling of rejection and accuse the adults of placing a higher value on "things" and "possessions" over and above their involvement with their own children.

Without parental involvement and support, many young people lack a successful model-relationship for identity. When they fail to receive the necessary source of parental support, they turn against society, which may include failures in their school work.

In an attempt to analyze the reason for the development of the conflict of ideas and goals, it is important to realize that most parents grew up during the depression of the '30s and were effected by it. In retrospect, it is understandable that this type of life-experience would seem to develop individuals who perhaps place a greater emphasis on a value system which may involve tangible property with a limited appreciation for the intimacies of complete trust and involvement. The conflict between the sons and daughters and their parents today is one of priority. It involves a shift in needs from goals to role.

Many children find it difficult to feel secure in a particular role. For some the inability to find a comfortable "slot" gives the child a sense of failure. Life becomes a continuous struggle to relieve his pain. Because of their young years, they do not have any inner strength to relieve pain. It is for this reason that continued parental support is needed in order for the child to grow, and when necessary to cope with the diffucult periods that all of us must face in a lifetime.

One of the many ways open to parents to help their child cope with school failure is through the involvement of outside assistance. The use of a tutor can help. However, particular attention should be given to the task of selection of a tutor. In the past most parents expended hours in their selection of a suitable baby sitter for their babies, so too, should they concentrate in the selection of a tutor. One of the musts should be to locate someone who is just a few years older. The closeness of age can assist in establishing a bridge of understanding between the child and tutor. Prior to the actual task of learning a relationship should be formed so that the friendship can assist when the learning become difficult.

Parents with understanding and patience can help their child overcome his school failure. Contrary to what some parents may feel, the child does not want to be a failure. Give him the opportunity to experience the satisfaction of success and he will know the difference between pain and happiness.

Federated Clubwomen to Convene

ATLANTIC CITY — The Memorial Day holiday will be a time of preparation for some 1,000 delegates of clubs in the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs who will attend the 79th annual convention here in Haddon Hall.

Preconvention activities begin Monday, when federation board of directors assembly that evening for a festive dinner.

Delegates will arrive Tuesday for registration. A workshop for club presidents and officers will be conducted and that evening a processional and dinner honoring club presidents is scheduled. The Cecelia Gains Holland award will be presented, the highest accolade of the federation given annually to honor one clubwoman for her outstanding civic achievements. Five new clubs will be welcomed.

Mrs. Donald T. Bixby, Lawrenceville, will preside. She will be attending her 20th convention since she joined her local woman's club in Castro Valley, Calif., that many years ago. She became active on a district and state level in the Trenton area, and is working with more than 41,000 women in 362 clubs throughout the state.

Keynote speaker will be Dr. Thomas S. Haggai, a minister who was born in Kalamazoo, Mich., preached his first sermon in Boston at the age of 12 and majored in political science and history. His topic will be "The Influence of Eve."

Wednesday's speakers will be Mrs. Kermit V. Haugan, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs on "The Three R's," and Miss Margery Somers Foster, dean of Douglass College on "Douglass—The Future of Women's Education."

Workshops Wednesday

Workshops Wednesday afternoon will include one on civics and legislation led by Mrs. August P. Wilkins of Sea Girt, from the fifth district, and Mrs. Stanley J. Lester, Jamesburg.

The evening program will feature entertainment by the music and drama departments of the federation under the direction of Mrs. Lauretta Bouwmeester of Shrewsbury, and Mrs. John M. Boland of West Orange. Mrs. Bouwmeester is federation drama chairman.

The Fifth District, which includes Ocean and Monmouth County, is expected to have 800 women attending.

Mrs. Bouwmeester also will lead a workshop Thursday afternoon on drama.

Elections will be conducted Thursday and installations, Friday. The position of state recording secretary and treasurer will be filled. Candidates for district positions, will include Mrs. Charles E. Genter of Sea Girt in the Fifth District. Delegates representing 360 clubs will elect the officers and chairmen. Other officers will complete the second half of their terms in 1974. Gov. William T. Cahill will be the speaker at this concluding session.

EMD Anniversary

Evening Membership Department clubwomen will be celebrating its 35th anniversary. Thursday has been proclaimed EMD Day at the convention. To provide opportunities for community service by those women whose household duties or careers made it inconvenient for them to attend meetings during the day, the EMD was organized. There are some 3,000 women who belong to EMDs throughout the state.

Mrs. Thomas E. Decker, Somerville, EMD state chairman will preside at all EMD sessions. A processional and dinner honoring the chairmen of the 74 New Jersey EMDs will begin at 5:30 p.m. Thursday. Mrs. Bixby, president of the federation, will be principal speaker.

Community Awards

Mrs. Louis Egidio of Asbury Park, state EMD project chairman will present nine community awards, plus the outstanding all-around community welfare award, to winning EMDs. Walter Matheny of the Matheny School in Peapack will speak to the women about the needs of the school for handicapped children.

Since EMD members will be attending an anniversary celebration, many former officers and members will be attending. Among those serving on the committee making convention arrangements is Mrs. Egidio. Special anniversary centerpieces are being made by the Hillside EMD. EMD women will compete in their own contests for outstanding community achievements.

Awards in the general membership competitions will be presented at convention, including American Home department's clubwoman's costume contest. Also entries in needlework, dressmaking, macrame, crochet, knitting, quilting will be judged and art department district winners for painting, photography, sculpture and crafts will be named. A special essay contest on "How art changed my life" has been judged and the winner will be announced.

Other winners will be announced in playwriting, costumed dolls, creative writing for poetry, essays, short stories and book reviews.

Silver trays will be awarded to club and state representatives who were responsible for largest membership increases this year. Winning pressbooks will be on display and club public relations chairmen will be honored for outstanding efforts. In addition to individual awards, clubs will be given merit certificates for outstanding work in all departments of the federation.

A resolution to be voted upon at convention will concern justice for juveniles, in support of the General Federation of Women's Club's national campaign to help correct the inequities suffered by children. The resolution states that "100,000 children are deteriorating in jails in the United States and 4 out of 10 of these youngsters are merely status offenders, guilty only of curfew, truancy, running away or incorrigible behavior, offenses for which no adult could be incarcerated."

Library Friends To Host Authors

LITTLE SILVER — Friends of the Little Silver Public Library are sponsoring an autographing party June 8 at 8:30 p.m. for Hannah Johnson, local author of "Let's Make Bread," and Daniel Dorn Jr. whose photographs illustrate the volume which is intended primarily for young people.

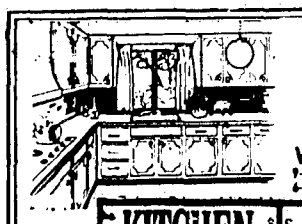

Their book, and an earlier children's book by Mrs. Johnson, "Hello, Small Sparrow," will be on sale that night in the library.

Mrs. Fenwick To Be Cited

PRINCETON — Millicent H. Fenwick, director of the state Division of Consumer Affairs, will receive the 1973 New Jersey Historical Society Award at the society's 17th annual dinner Thursday at Morven, the governor's mansion, here.

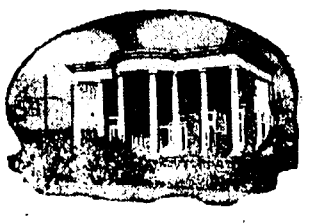

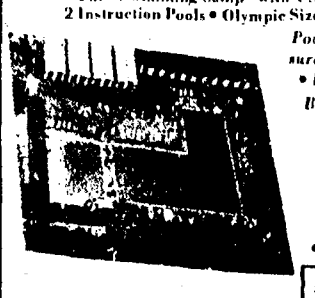

Mrs. Fenwick, who was named to the post early this year after serving four years in the state assembly, is being given the award "for distinguished contribution to the history of New Jersey." She has served as president of the Morrow Association on Corrections, the Somerset County Legal Aid Society and was vice chairman of the New Jersey Advisory Committee to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

Jerome Hines, Metropolitan Opera basso, will entertain. Gov. and Mrs. William T. Cahill are honorary chairman and co-chairman, and Donald B. Kipp is chairman of the event. Frederick H. Groel is chairman of the awards committee.

Finger Licking Chicken

By BARBARA GIBBONS

Slim Gourmet

Neat trick! Low-calorie fried chicken in the bag!

No, silly . . . you don't fry the chicken in the bag. You use the bag to coat the chicken with egg and crumbs.

Actually you use two bags — plastic bags — one for the egg coating, and the other for the crumb mixture. And you don't fry the chicken at all! You bake it in the oven, with no fat added. But nobody will know the difference, because this Slim Gourmet "fried chicken" tastes like the kitchen-messer kind. (Of course, your scale will know the difference, because this "fried" chicken is only half the calories of the usual kind, and a whole lot less than the stuff-in-a-bucket).

I told you it was a neat trick!

Here's what makes it really neat: There's no crumby counter to mess with, no splattering fat to smoke up your kitchen. You won't even get your hands dirty. When you're finished, you simply toss out two plastic bags.

One word of caution, however. Some chicken pieces have sharp bones that can tear plastic if it's flimsy. So be on the safe side, do it in your kitchen sink. Even if the plastic tears, the bags will still contain enough of the coatings to cover the chicken properly. And you can rinse away the overflow with your faucet.

Even though the recipe calls for a half-cup of bread crumbs, the chicken will absorb only half the mixture. You'll have ¼ cup left over. Measure it for yourself and see! That's only one tablespoon of bread crumbs per portion!

SLIM GOURMET "FRIED" CHICKEN

frying chicken, completely cut up
2 tablespoons water
1 teaspoon onion salt
½ teaspoon MSG optional
1 egg
½ cup bread crumbs
1 teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon black pepper

Place the egg and water in one plastic bag. Put bread crumbs and seasonings in the other. Shake both bags to combine ingredients. Press bag to break egg yolk. Shake to combine.

Put the chicken pieces in the egg bag. Hold the top of the bag with one hand and spread and maneuver the chicken pieces around. Press the chicken pieces in with the other hand, so that all surfaces are coated.

Shake up the bread-crumb bag to mix seasonings. Add all chicken. Put all the egg-coated chicken pieces in the bag at the same time. Hold the top firmly and shake the bag, until all surfaces are crumb-coated. Discard remaining crumbs (about ¼ cupful).

Place the chicken pieces skin side down on a nonstick cookie sheet or baking tray. Place in a preheated 350-degree oven and bake for one hour. Turn chicken pieces skin side up halfway through baking period.

Forbearing Four Fathers

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: About six years ago I accidentally discovered through blood-typing that I could not be the biological father of one of my children. After confronting my wife with the scientific evidence, she confessed it was true, and named the man who had fathered the child. Two days later she admitted that every one of our four children have different fathers. None is mine. I walked around in a state of shock for a week. Finally I had a long talk with my clergyman and my doctor. They both asked me if I felt any resentment against the children. I said no. They then asked if I could forgive my wife. I said yes. At that point I was advised to keep the family together and I decided to do it. I figured she was a good wife and mother with a sex problem.

What I need to know is this, Ann. Do you feel that the children, now that they are teen-agers, should be told who their real fathers are? Every one of these men lives in town and has a family. I ask this question because it might be a bad thing if our teen-age son, for example, should fall in love with his half-sister and not know she was related. What do you say? — Deceived

Dear Deceived: I say — say nothing. The chances of one of your children marrying a half-sister or brother are probably remote. If it appears that such a marriage might occur, consult your physician about the genetic hazards. The emotional impact on your children, should you tell them, might be disastrous.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the driver of the school bus who complained that the kids were so unruly he had a hard time driving. He described their lack of discipline as a safety problem. May I say, Ann, this bus driver has a lot to learn and I know someone who could teach him.

I rode the school bus for three years, 50 miles a day, 25 miles to and 25 miles from. Our driver had no problem with kids fighting and screaming. He wouldn't put up with it. When there was any commotion he simply pulled the bus over to the shoulder of the road and stopped. He never said one word. In fact he didn't even turn around — just looked into his rear-view mirror and the culprits knew that they were being observed.

When things calmed down (it usually took less than a minute) he'd get the bus rolling again. This man never had an accident and all the kids had a lot of respect for him.

So, Ann, whenever you get a letter from a bus driver who complains that the kids are running wild on his bus and jeopardizing their lives, toss it right back. Ask what's the matter with him? — Wyoming

Dear Wyoming: It is the responsibility of the driver to deliver his cargo safely. Obstreperous behavior is as much of a safety hazard as faulty brakes. The disciplinary measure you described sounds perfect. I recommend it.

Dear Ann Landers: I can't understand the logic of the young couples who don't want to have children because "there are already too many people fouling up the environment." Yet they have a dog or a cat, or both. Don't animals breathe oxygen and excrete waste? I'm for ecological preservation, but what about this nonsense? — I Like Kids

Dear I.L.K.: Any couple who would rather have a pet than a child should have it. It's their right. I'd hate to be born into a family that would rather have had a dog or a cat. How about you?

Bombers Drop Back to Second

By The Associated Press

Dick McAuliffe hit a three-run homer and Mickey Lolich pitched a six-hitter, leading the Detroit Tigers to a 4-0 victory over the New York Yankees last night.

The first homer of the season for McAuliffe landed in the upper deck in right field in the fourth inning following a single by Gates Brown and a fluke single by Duke Sims. Sims' popup appeared to be lost in the lights by shortstop Gene Michael.

Lolich won only his third gam in eight decisions. It was his sixth complete game this year. The hard-luck left-hander has lost four of them, including two 1-0 defeats and two 2-1 losses.

The Tigers took over first place in the American League East with the victory. The teams entered the game with identical 20-20 records, tied for the division lead.

"He's just Wilbur Wonderful!," says Chuck Tanner. He's really Wilbur Wood, but you can pardon the Chicago White Sox manager for speaking in superlatives.

Chicago's star pitcher had just won his, 11th game — tops in the majors — with a 4-1 decision over the California Angels yesterday.

"My knuckler was real good," said Wood, pointing to the obvious while celebrating with a cigar. "I don't know why, but it wasn't breaking too sharply and was around the plate all the time. As a result, I was ahead of the hitters all the way."

Because of his fabulous start, an 11-3 record and 10 victories in the last 11 games, Wood was naturally asked about a possible 30-victory year. Or even 40, for that matter.

"No comment," he said. "My goal now is the next game — No. 12."

He'll get that chance against Cleveland on Sunday, since the portly left-hander normally pitches with only two day's rest.

In the other American League games, the Boston Red Sox walloped the Milwaukee Brewers 10-1; and the Minnesota Twins trimmed the Kansas City Royals 2-0. Rain postponed a doubleheader between the Baltimore Orioles and Cleveland Indians.

In the National League, the Atlanta Braves turned back the San Francisco Giants 2-1 and the New York Mets stopped the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-3 in 19 innings.

Wood lost his bid for a shutout in the ninth, when the Angels rallied for their only run, and needed last-out relief help from Cy Acosta.

"No, I wasn't getting tired," said Wood. "Bill Grabarkewitz got a broken-bat single and Frank Robinson got a single on a knuckler jamming his wrists."

Mike Epstein did get a solid hit, though — one Wood called a "stinger" — and that was the end for "Mr. Wonderful." Acosta came in and got Bob Oliver on a fly ball for the last out.

Wood earned the decision over Nolan Ryan, the Angels' hard-throwing right-hander. Ryan struck out 13 batters to raise his major league-leading total to 107.

"This is the best control I've seen Ryan have," said Tanner. "He threw more breaking balls than we've had from him in a long time."

Dodgers Losers In Longest Game

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rusty Staub doubled home the goahead run as the New York Mets scored four runs in the 19th inning to beat Los Angeles 7-3 last night and end the longest game in Dodger history.

The marathon contest took five hours and 42 minutes to play and featured a six-hit performance by the Dodgers' Willie Davis that tied a club record.

Both teams wasted several scoring opportunities before the Mets broke through for their winning rally. The Mets and Dodgers collected a total of 40 hits before the game finally ended at 4:44 a.m., EST.

Cleon Jones opened the 19th with a single to left and raced home on Staub's double to break a 3-3 tie that existed from the eighth inning.

The Mets then put the game on ice with an RBI single by Ken Boswell and two-run double by Ed Kranepool.

Grid Giants Settle On Yale Bowl Site

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The New York Giants' negotiations to find a temporary home were completed successfully yesterday when it was announced officially that the National Football League team will play five games at Yale Bowl during the regular 1973 season.

The Giants will play their first regular game in their temporary home on Oct. 7 against Green Bay as a result of an agreement between Yale University, the cities of New Haven and West Haven and Giants' officials.

The announcement was made yesterday by New Haven Mayor Bartholemew F. Guida.

The Giants must be out of Yankee Stadium in New York City by Oct. 1 to make way for renovations.

The NFL club also has an option to play its 1974 home games at the Bowl, their General Manager, Ray Walsh, said.

Yale Bowl holds nearly 72,000 spectators, 7,000 to 8,000 more than Yankee Stadium.

The team's desire to use Yale Bowl during the interim period became public knowledge early this year, but the agreement was delayed for several months by numerous issues.

The Giants also conducted exploratory talks with Princeton University for use of its stadium, which is much smaller than Yale's.

Yale demanded that WTIC-TV in Hartford be allowed to televise games as part of any contract. In order to meet league rules, the Giants obtained permission from all the teams it plans to play here for the games to be televised.

The final agreement permits coverage by WTIC only for games which are sold out, Walsh said.

The Giants return to New York for another preseason game, against Pittsburgh on Aug. 26, and then play regular season games against Houston and against Philadelphia.

The remaining five "home" games will de played in the Yale Bowl. They are Oct. 7, Green Bay; Oct. 14, Washington; Nov. 11, Dallas; Nov. 18, St. Louis, and Dec. 16, Minnesota.

Johnny Rodgers

Canadian Cash Lures Rodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Johnny Rodgers, Nebraska's explosive Heisman Trophy winner, said yesterday he will play for the Montreal Alouettes for the richest contract ever signed in the Canadian Football League.

Rodgers refused to disclose provisions and actual figures of the contract except to say it covers three years. The versatile ball carrier, kick returner and pass catcher who scored 46 touchdowns for the Cornhuskers, was the 25th player drafted in the National Football League, a late first-round choice of the San Diego Chargers.

"Money is the basic reason I chose Canada," the 5-foot-9, 180-pound Rodgers said. "That and I've been to Canada once and my first impression is it's a beautiful place. I know I'll be happy there."

Michael Trope, president of World Sports Management Inc., and attorney Barry Langberg negotiated with the Alouettes and Chargers.

Trope said the Montreal pact "is in excess of six figures per year for three years, with triple pay if he is cut or traded."

Trope said San Diego's offer was "substantially lower" and the Chargers contended "it would make him this year's highest paid first-round draft choice."

Rodgers said he will be the second Heisman Trophy winner to choose Canadian football over the American brand. Billy Vessels of Oklahoma was the first, and Johnny added, "He's a very rich man today."

Rodgers said he looks forward to playing in Canada because of the "more wide open game. They'll automatically have to give you more room because the field is wider and longer. I'll be doing the same thing I did in four years in college. I'll have no adjusting."

Landberg said neither team was told the other's offer.

"We told San Diego their offer was somewhat less and we were inclined to take Montreal's. We asked if they cared to make another offer, and in this case they had made their highest offer."

In Montreal, J.I. Albrecht, general manager of the Alouettes, said he was aware of Rodgers' annoucement in Los Angeles but declined to discuss it.

Nicklaus Returns To Pace Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Admitting he played well, Jack Nicklaus shared the lead with two realtive unknowns after the first round of the $150,000 Atlanta Golf Classic.

Nicklaus, who has won $146,063 on the PGA tour this year, swept from behind with birdies on the final two holes yesterday for a five-under-par 67 over the 6,883-yard Atlanta Golf Club course.

Also at 67 was second-year pro David Glenz and tour veteran Mac McLendon.

At 68 were rookies Bruce Ashworth and Tom Kite and tour regular Hubert Green.

Last week's Memphis Open winner, Dave Hill, was at 69 along with Red Funseth and unknown Larry Wise.

Tom Weiskopf, who fired a hole-in-one on the par three, 135-yard 13th hole, led a parade of 15 golfers at 70.

"I played well," said Nicklaus, who is gunning for his fourth tour victory of the year in only his 10th start.

A first-place triumph, worth $30,000, would place the Columbus, Ohio star atop the money winning list. Leader Bruce Crampton, who has earned $167,652, is not competing here.

"I was close to the hole all day," said Nicklaus. "I came up with the right shot when I needed it. It was a tough day to play. You never knew what the wind was going to do."

Winds were gusting up to 33 miles per hour throughout the cloudy, overcast day, which created havoc among some of the golfers.

Wide-Open Fight Seen In Indy 500

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Take it from former winners Mario Andretti and Al Unser, the Memorial Day Indianapolis 500-mile race is going to be a "wide-open, knock-down, dragout affair."

"I don't see anybody running away from the others at the start," said Andretti, the 1969 champion and an international star of some magnitude. "When you analyze the speeds of the cars in the first three rows, you'll notice that about all that separates them is just a tick of the watch."

Unser, whose two wins and two second-place finishes in the last five years give him the best recent record of any driver in the field, agreed with his driving mate.

"Sure," Unser said, "I would have liked to have been able to start further up front. But winning the pole position represents more in prestige than any particular advantage in the race."

He added, "You're in a decent position when you can fire off from the first three or four rows."

Andretti won a sixth place berth in the 33-car lineup with a speed of 195.059 miles per hour. Unser's 194.879 m.p.h. placed him in the middle of the third row.

'Superteam' Challenges

The two former winners, along with two-time national driving champion Joe Leonard, comprise the "Superteam" managed by Parnelli Jones, who himself captured Indy in 1963.

The team, one of the richest in racing, is heavily backed by Viceroy Cigarettes and the Samsonite Luggage Co. and will wheel cars built in Jones' California shops.

All three drivers got in final practice runs yesterday as the 2½-mile oval opened under gray, humid skies for a four hour session of "carburetion tests."

The session gave drivers and mechanics one last opportunity to check fuel consumption and tire wear, along with race day chassis setups. All the cars carried full 75 gallon fuel loads.

The day's top speed was recorded by Bobby Unser, the No. 2 starter and the 1968 champion, with 192.554 m.p.h. Mike Mosley, who starts 21st, ran 190.073 — almost a mile faster than his qualifiying speed.

Also in the 190-plus bracket were Andretti, No. 5 starter Gary Bettenhausen, defending champion Mark Donohue, Gordon Johncock, and Swede Savage.

Unser Optimistic

Al Unser, who managed to whip an ill-handling car into second place last year, said of his 1973 machine:

"There is no comparison between this car and the one I had here last year. I never felt competitive at Indy in 1972. This time, if nothing breaks, I'll be right there at the finish."

Unser, one of auto racing's $1 million career winners — more than $650,000 of it at Indy — ran his car at 191.4 m.p.h. Thursday and said it felt "absolutely super."

As for his own plans on race day, the 1970-71 winner said:

If the weather is decent, I think the race speed will be in the 188-190 bracket, that is, whoever is leading will be able to run that fast out front. It might drop a couple of miles an hour for someone in the middle of the pack."

"My own plans are just to keep the leader in sight. Then, I believe I have a good chance to win. But take it from me, it's going to be a knock down, drag out battle," he added.

Andretti noted that the last driver to start in the pole position and go on to win the race was Al Unser in 1970. And the last time prior to that was team manager Jones in 1963.

Ocean Rates Crack at CBA

Tom Wilson
Ocean Township

Dan Hammond
Mater Dei

By RICH NICOLETTI

Ocean Township earned the right to play first-seeded Christian Brothers Academy in the first round of the Monmouth College Invitational Tennis Tournament yesterday. The Spartans defeated Freehold Township, 4-1, in a preliminary match and moved into the eighth-seeded position of the draw.

The victory gave Ocean revenge over a previously 5-0 loss suffered at the hands of the Patriots.

Ocean will have its hands full against the well-balance Colts when they meet Tuesday at the Long Branch High School courts. CBA (17-1) has lost only to Mater Dei, but recovered two weeks later and gained revenge.

Top Match

The view from here is that Wilson and Smith will provide onlookers with a first-rate match, but the Colts will be too strong in the other four positions.

Shore Regional, Shore Conference "C" Division champ, and fourth-ranked in the MCIT, is a completely rebuilt team from last year. The Blue Devils are hooked up against Long Branch at the college courts on Tuesday.

The Devils' most consistent performer is Rich Shirvanian, the third singles player. Shirvanian (14-1) lost the season's opener to Colt Smith, but has won 14 straight since. He will face Brancher Steve Bova, and in all probability, will win easily.

Dave Aronson and Steve Poretzky, have been alternating in the role of first and second singles, but Aronson will get the nod froom coach Ray Shadow when the tourney begins. Aronson will be a lot of trouble to Wave Marc Greenspan.

Shore's problem's stem from weak doubles teams, but Long Branch has strength in its tandems.

The forecast here is for a 3-2 Shore victory.

Lions Fall

Middletown Township, which was eliminated from the State Central Jersey, Group IV tournament by J.P. Stevens, 4-1, yesterday, has a third seed in the MCIT and meets sixth-ranked Rumson-Fair Haven Regional (11-1) at Long Branch next Thursday.

Lion Roger Buckley and Bulldog John Freeman will lock horns in the first singles, but more important are the doubles combinations, which are fairly well-matched.

This match could be the closest of all first-round events. It's a tossup. Rumson's Jeff Jones (3-7) and Middletown's Jim Boyd could decide the match in the second singles slot.

Seventh-seeded Wall Township has the uneviable task of facing Mater Dei's second-ranked team. Wall (11-3) has to face the powerful Seraph singles players.

The argument against Mater Dei is the weakness in its doubles combinations, but the team has been able to roll to a 9-3 record by virtue of the ability of the singles players to win all three matches. Dan Hammond heads the Seraphs with a 7-0 mark. John Cahill is 11-1, and Ted Scholtz is 9-3. The combined effort of both doubles teams is 4-8.

Wall has Greg Ewanisky (13-1) in number one singles. His only loss came at the hands of CBA's Smith. Kevin Kennedy (13-1) lost to CBA's Rich Fitzsimmons. Bob Kerr has not been consistent for the Knights and should he easy prey for Seraph Scholtz.

The Knights' only real hope comes in the doubles, but they are not much stronger than Mater Dei there eithter.

Chalk up a 4-1 breeze for the Seraphs.

While this year's draw is probably the most well-balanced of any of the previous five.

In any event, it looks to be a Mater Dei-CBA finale. Here's the argument. Shore should get by Long Branch in the first round and meet CBA. The Devils lost, 5-0, against the Colts earlier this year. Long Branch is just too inconsistent to handle CBA even if it does upset Shore.

Mater Dei lost to Rumson in the first match of the season, but the Bulldogs have lost John Kaplan and the Seraphs now have a healthy Hammond. That combination would turn the tide in the event that the two should meet in the second round.

Middletown's Buckley is one of the better first men in the area, but Hammond rates among the top three with CBA's Smith and Ocean's Wilson.

Mater Dei's advantage in singles strength will make the difference.

Down Two

Mater Dei is at a two-point disadvantage against CBA before stepping onto the court. The Colts have blasted the Seraph doubles in both previous encounters. So once again, Mater Dei will have to rely soley on its powerful singles players.

CBA's Rich Fitzsimmons delivered the goods for his team in the second singles over John Cahill last week.

Wall Clinches 'C' Tie On 2-1 No-Hit Effort

WALL TOWNSHIP — Bob Przybylowski pitched a no-hitter here yesterday as Wall Township beat Asbury Park, 2-1, and gained at least a share of the Shore Conference "C" Division crown.

Przybylowski fanned 16 Blue Bishops to set a new school strikeout record. He also walked four and hit one batter while upping his record to 4-3.

The Knights' season mark is now 16-5, and they are 8-3 in the conference. Manalapan, which still has a shot at a tie, is 7-4, and the two teams will play each other Tuesday.

Przybylowski's shot at a perfect game was ruined when he walked Mike Smith in the third. He then lost his shutout in the fourth on an unearned run.

The righthander hit Any Aldino to start the fourth, and Aldino got to second when Mike Lyons dropped the throw on an attempted steal. Ray James then hit a fly to left which was dropped by Don Slocum. An error was charged although it was a difficult chance.

At this point of the game, Marshall Tesauro was outpitching Przybylowski and had a 1-0 lead.

However, in Wall's turn in the bottom of the fourth, Tesauro walked Jeff White. Przybylowski lined a single, and Rich Wall ran for him under the speed-up rule and stole second.

Tesauro walked four and struck out four. He is now 2-7 on the year.

Middletown Wins; Rockets Triumph

Middletown won 14 of 15 events yesterday while beating Matawan Regional, 99-32, and Mel Ullmeyer set another school record as Raritan edged Long Branch, 67-64.

Middletown was prevented from sweeping all events by Bob Jackson's win in the 100 for Matawan. The Lions' Joe DiPadova doubled in the 220 and 440, and Dan Sima took both hurdles events.

Ullmeyer ran a 9:36 two-miles to break the Raritan school record formerly held by Kevin Banks. Ullmeyer also hold the Rocket mark for the half-mile and one mile.

Long Branch got first place in 10 of the 15 events, but Rocket depth turned the outcome around. John Blanton of Long Branch doubled in the 100 and 220, and Joe Wright won the high and low hurdles.

Steve Nicholl copped the discus and javelin for the Rockets. Raritan is now 4-2; Long Branch is 5-2.

Lion Netmen Fall In Group Finale

J.P. Stevens ended Middletown Township's hopes of a Central Jersey, Group IV tennis title yesterday. The Lions fell, 4-1, but Roger Buckley gave the losers a bright moment when he captured his match in the first singles slot, 6-3, 6-4.

After that, it was downhill for the Monmouth County representatives.

J.P. Stevens is 15-2, while Middletown is 9-2.

In other matches yesterday, Mater Dei dumped Long Branch, 3-2; Christian Brothers Academy polished off Red Bank Regional, 4-1, and Cedar Ridge beat Raritan, 3-2.

Mater Dei crushed all of the Long Branch singles players, but the Branchers came back and won both doubles. The Seraphs lost only four games in the entire three singles positions.

Clarke Named Hockey's MVP

MONTREAL (AP) — Bobby Clarke, whose scoring and play-making talents often were overshadowed by the roughouse play of some of his Philadelphia Flyers teammates, was named today winner of the Hart Trophy as the National Hockey League player judged most valuable to his team.

Clarke, 23, is the first player from a West Division club to receive the honor, which carries with it a monetary award of $1,500.

Clarke received 158 points in the voting conducted among members of the Professional Hockey Writers' Association in the 16 NHL cities. Runner-up Phil Esposito of the Boston Bruins received 96 points and Bobby Orr of the Bruins was third with 63.

Donna Johnson led Ocean Township with two runs and three stolen bases, including a theft of home.

PRAISING THE COLTS — Pete Carlesimo, athletic director at Fordham University, congratulates senior representatives from Christian Brothers Academy's athletic teams last night at the school's sports banquet held at Buck Smith's Restaurant. Bass Flock to Sea Bright

Large bass are being taken in the Sea Bright, Monmouth Beach areas along the jetties. So far live herring is doing most of the work for the fishermen, but some are being picked off by sand worms and plugs.

Anglers are beginning to take their fish to the local bait shops for weigh-ins. Karl Kramer of Middletown took one to Giglio's in Sea Bright which tipped the scales at 36 pounds. Tony Cicero, also of Middletown, caught a 31-pounder. Another Middletown fisherman, Fred Sampson, hauled in a 29½-pound bass.

Most partyboats are waiting for the water temperature to rise a few more degrees before hitting the Sandy Hook area. That's when they start bunker dunking.

Fluke fishing disappointed the mobs at the Long Branch Pier over the weekend. After an almost unbelievable week, the fluke quit just in time to foil the weekenders who figured on a great couple of days.

The fluke are back again. Earlier in the week, the top catch was 47 fish.

BOWFISHING

Combine one of man's first hunting tools — the bow and arrow — with one of his latest fishing tackle developments — the spinning reel — and the result is an action-filled outdoor adventure called bowfishing.

Practiced in both fresh and salt water, bowfishing is most popular in lakes and streams. Carp are most often the target of bowfishermen. Carp can be easily found in late spring and early summer when they spawn in shallow water.

No special equipment is needed to bowfish, although it is suggested that you use an inexpensive outfit that moisture and dirt won't harm. Arrows are usually solid fiberglas or steel tubing and the points are simple one-or two-barbed steel heads with a hole drilled to attach the line. It is important to run the line through a hole at the notched end of the shaft to prevent sideways drag by the line as it comes off the reel. A simple spinning reel that can be taped to the bow below the handle is filled with limp 40 to 50-pound test nylon line.

Use a boat to approach the fish. Have someone operate the outboard motor while you brace yourself in the bow, ready for a shot. Carp spook easily, so move quietly. If they are frightened, drop anchor and wait for their return.

When you see a fish, remember that water deflects light rays and the fish is not where he seems to be. Usually it's necessary to aim slightly low to compensate for the image reflection. Practice by sinking some water-filled milk cartons and shooting at them. Most shots at fish will be less than 30 feet, and in water not more than two or three feet deep.

Sink a gunnysack filled with corn, bread or commercial livestock feed in the shallow end of the cove. Carp will be attracted to the area within several hours and can provide some hot bowfishing action.

Sports included in the camp will be basketball, track, softball, tennis, fencing, gymnastics, volleyball, judo and cheerleading.

Specialized instruction in every sport, including motion pictures and explicit techniques, using overhead projectors and instant TV camera replay will be featured.

Three Cyclists Off to England

Three members of the Century Road Club of America cycling team, Rumson residents, Tim Maloney, John Axt and Fred James are scheduled to broaden their racing horizons as the strong junior team of CRC will depart for racing schedule in England.

Among the highlights of the tour will be racing at Birmingham against the best juniors from England and Holland during Leicester week. Maloney, Axt and James will depart June 9, and return about June 25. All three racers have been training for this tour event with the expectation of a strong showing for the junior Century Road Club team.

Track Taps Lawrenson As Steward

OCEANPORT — Philip H. Iselin, president and chairman of the Monmouth Park Jockey Club, has announced the appointment of Richard W. Lawrenson as a steward for the upcoming Monmouth meeting beginning Monday, June 4.

Lawrenson will join Sam Boulmetis and state steward Keene Daingerfield in the stewards stand, replacing Aidan Roark who will not return this season due to a full 1973 schedule as a steward in California.

A native of Philadelphia, Lawrenson has considerable background in thoroughbred racing as a horseman and as an official. Now 42 years old, his first job on the race track was at Monmouth Park in 1949 with trainer Joe Camac.

After a four-year tour of duty in the United States Air Force from 1952-56, he returned to the track and in 1958 went to work for George Palmer at Delaware Park as an assistant starter and continued in that capacity at various tracks for the next 10 years.

During the past five years, Lawrenson has been the paddock judge at Monmouth Park, Atlantic City, Garden State and Hialeah.

Shrewsbury Gals League Race Close

SHREWSBURY — The recreation committee's distaff softball league race tightened this week with four teams sharing first place.

The Kit Kats gained revenge over Charlie Brown's All Stars with a 11-5 victory.

The defending champion Gum Drops hurdled previously undefeated Herbie's Girls, 8-4. The Lambchops took the measure of the Jamkajulas, 8-1.

The Lambchops scored their second consecutive win after three straight losses. They throttled the last place Jamkajulas, 11-2. Donna Holloman allowed six hits and led her team with three hits, one a triple in the first inning. Teammate Phoebe Davis banged out a double and triple to net her four RBI's.

The Kit Kats scored their third victory of the week by nipping the Gum Drops, 8-7. They jumped to a 5-0 lead through the first three innings of play. Debbie Bartosh led the victors with a perfect four for four at bat. In the sixth inning, the Gum Drops drew within one run of the leaders. Libby Minton stroked a home run to open the final frame. Penny Pendell and Lori Vatti wrapped up the scoring with singles.

The C.C. Allstars tripped Herbie's Girls from the top of the heap, 3-1. C.B.A. jumped back with 3 runs in their half of the fourth on Melody LeValley's line drive triple along the right field line with two mates aboard. She scored seconds later on Marilyn Poyner's infield hit. Herbie's Girls scored their last run on a hit, two walks, and fielder's choice play Amy Greenberg whiffed 17 batters for the victors while Jennifer Newman notched 15 strikeouts for Herbie's Girls.

Herbie's Girls, C.B. Allstars, Gum Drops, and the Kit Kats all share the league lead with a 3-2 record.

Oak Lounge Cops Crown

COLTS NECK — Oak Lounge won the statewide Open Softball tournament for the second consecutive year without the loss of a game.

Oak Lounge, representing the Bayshore Softball League in the double-elimination event, downed Schmidt's of Somerville, 6-5, on a single by Dennis O'Keefe in the bottom of the seventh inning in the game held at NAD Earle over the weekend.

The run was scored after Schmidt's had tied the game in the top of the seventh. Joe Nappo opened with a double after one out in the frame. Fred Bertha, who went three for three in the game and garnered the tourney's most valuable player award, was intentionally passed and O'Keefe lined his hit over the first baseman's head.

Missouri Synod's Jake Preus and His Brothers

By LESTER KINSOLVING

Periodically, the 7,300 clergy of the 2.7 million-member Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod receive an impressively printed newsletter from their denomination's president in St. Louis.

The letter, from the Rev. Dr. Jacob A.O. Preus, is poignantly entitled "Brother to Brother."

Ordinarily, this title could be entirely appropriate for what should be the eternally fraternal relationship which, ideally, should exist among Christian clergymen.

But there are literally hundreds of clergy in this furiously embattled denomination who regard Jake Preus' Big Brotherhood as something akin to the experience of Joseph (Genesis 37:12) — whose big brothers dropped him into a pit and then shipped him out of the country.

The Moderates

For they are the denomination's moderates — translation: they cannot honestly believe that such obvious Hebrew myths as the Jonah fish story, or a world created in 144 hours, are literal history.

Because of this, President Preus has purged a number of the headquarters personnel (after solemnly promising, at the time of his election, that "No heads will roll"). He also has launched a boffo Holy Inquisition at one of the nation's top theological seminaries, Concordia in St. Louis — causing its very accreditation to be threatened.

The embattled moderates tried to draft famed Lutheran Hour radio preacher Oswald Hoffman. But after some months of the acute discomfort of (1) Being associated with the "heretics," (2) Being a candidate who cannot campaign, and (3) Facing the awesome Preus establishment while being officially sponsored in his radio job, Dr. Hoffman discovered an effective out. Faced with the requirement that he state whether he would serve if elected, he announced that he was withdrawing.

This leaving of the moderates in disarray makes Preus an even heavier favorite, not only because of the advantage of incumbency, but also because of the same machine which brought about his surprise election in 1969 — this despite the notably disparaging remarks he made about the Missouri Synod in 1954, when he belonged to the ultra-conservative Norwegian synod.

The intensity of the politicking for this Norwegian carpetbagger was so unprecedented in 1969 that the denomination's executive director, Dr. Walter Wolbrecht (since purged), decried what he called:

"A series of serious breaches of the democratic process . . . badly bruised brotherly relations . . . repeated and relentless attacks on individuals and groups . . . a full bag of propaganda devices, ranging from name-calling and card-stacking to the lure of glittering generalities, transfer, testimonial, plain folks and bandwagon techniques."

Bruises, Brothers

Speaking of bruises and brothers, President Preus has a brother who is indeed a bruiser. The Rev. Dr. Robert Preus is a faculty member at the same Concordia Seminary where Brother Jake has been conducting his Grand Inquisition.

Brother Bob also writes for a Milwaukee-published pamphlet called "Affirm" (which might more appropriately be called "Affright").

In a recent issue, Brother Bob zeroed in on one of the Missouri Synod's most distinguished (even though moderate) theologians, Dr. Martin E. Marty of Chicago.

According to Brother Bob, brother Martin is guilty of writing which contains:

"As much freight in terms of hard core distortion as the most vile four letter words . . . the great lie . . . wrong and wicked sin against the truth and against God's holy name"

What had brother Martin done to evoke this hideous malediction?

Why, Professor Marty wrote a rather restrained and scholarly critique in which (noted Brother Bob, furiously) he contended:

"Missouri's president acts with a kind of authority that has to be called papal."

Church Bond Issue Is Rapidly Sold Out

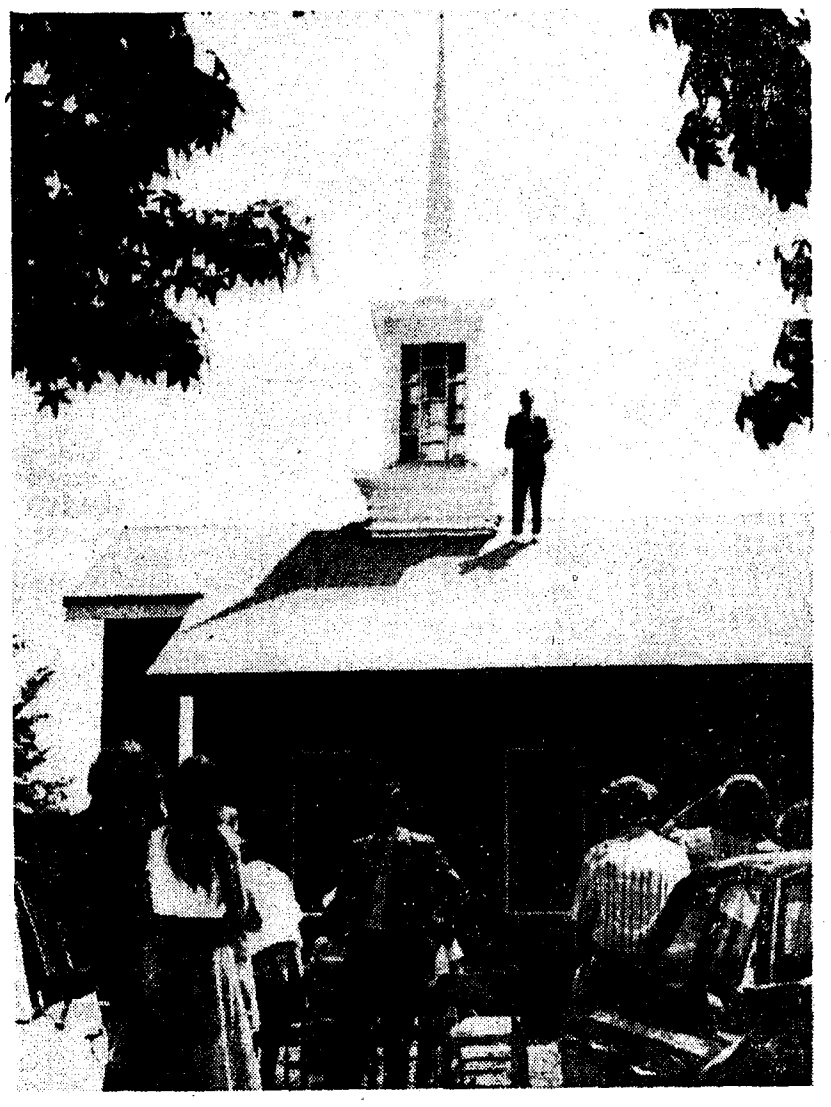

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS — The bond issue offered by Emmanuel Baptist Church here sold out in less than 48 hours, the pastor, The Rev. Richard Shaw, announced.

The selling time for the $140,000 issue was originally scheduled to be two weeks. Reservations for the bonds started last Sunday afternoon and the final bond was reserved at 10:26 a.m. Tuesday.

Fidelity Plan, Inc. of Atlanta, Ga., is underwriter, and Colonial National Bank is paying agent. The church's associate pastor, the Rev. Wayne R. Dyer, is coordinating the congregation's side of the program, with Paul Shoot as bond chairman, and Mike Rosko, vice chairman.

The funds are being used for alterations to the Christian education facility, and the construction of a new sanctuary. The work on the building has begun and is scheduled for completion by late fall.

The Charles Lang Construction Co. of Port Monmouth is the builder, and the architect is Thomas G. Smith of Rumson.

SHOUTING FROM THE ROOFTOPS —. The Rev. David Bailey preaches from the roof to congregation of the First Baptist Church at Okawville, in southern Illinois. The Rev. Mr. Bailey made a pledge to the congregation that if the membership in the church grew to 100 or more he would "shout it from the rooftops." There were 107 members Sunday and the Rev. Mr. Bailey delivered his sermon from the roof of the church. His topic was 'shouting the good news from the rooftops." AP Wirephoto

Temple Shalom to Have Its First Confirmation Class

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP — Shavout, the festival completing the end of seven full weeks from Passover, will be celebrated by Jews throughout the world beginning at sundown June 5. The holiday is celebrated for one day by Reform Jews and Jews living in Israel; and two days by Orthodox and Conservative Jews.

Shavout originally was a harvest festival and recorded the time when seven full weeks after the planting of the first grain and the first fruits of the field were harvested in the land of Israel and the choicest of these were taken in a religious pilgrimage to the temple in Jerusalem. They were offered as a gift of thanksgiving to the Lord. Shavout was and is today one of the major festivals of the Jewish religious calendar.

In time, the agricultural nature of the day was preempted by a more spiritual meaning as it became identified with the time when seven weeks after the exodus from Egypt, the newly freed Hebrew people stood at the foot of Mt. Sinai and received the Ten Commandments for themselves, their unborn generations and all mankind.

Confirmation

In this spirit, Reform liberal progressive Judaism invested the holiday with even greater significance when 150 years ago it introduced into the observation of the festival the ceremony of Confirmation. At this ceremony, Jewish youth, male and female, stand before the Holy Ark in a formal ceremony and are inducted as full members of the household of the Jewish people.

The symbolism is ripe in traditional meaning — these young people, the fruit of their parents' love, now receive the Torah for themselves and as their forefathers in Sinai, in solemn view, pledge themselves to its identity and the preservation of the Jewish way of life and the Jewish peoplehood.

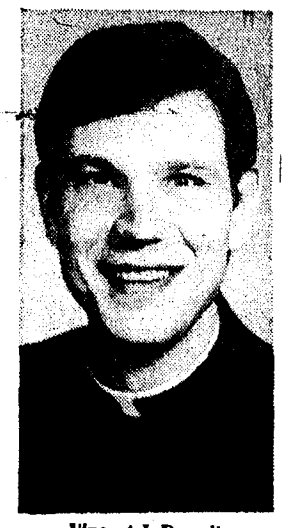

Confirmation marks the successful completion of the required years of basic religious education. This year, marking the tenth anniversary of congregation Temple Shalom will be the first Confirmation class that has gone through all levels of the religious school.

The following young men and women will be inducted by Rabbi Henry M. Weiner: Faye Alba, Elyse Baliff, Stephanie Dressman, Kenneth Fishman, Amy Goroff, Lee Gordon, Cindy Mirchin, Randy Roberts, Pamela Sackerman, Keith Shelman, Michael Silverman, Lawrence Silverstein, Laura Stein, Jeffrey Steinberg, Jeffrey Wallach and Steven Warshauer.

The Service of Confirmation will be held Saturday, June 2, at 7:30 p.m. at Temple Shalom, at which time a Havdallah Sabbath Evening service written by the Confirmation students will be presented.

Mobile Blood Bank to Be At Temple

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP — Next Thursday, the Monmouth County Mobile Blood Bank units will be at Temple Shalom, Ayrmont Land and Church St., here, between the hours of 6 and 10 p.m.

The blood donor group sponsoring the drive is the Bayshore Jewish Community Council Blood Bank which serves the blood needs of the families belonging to the following organizations: Temples Beth Ahm, Beth Ohr and Shalom, B'nai B'rith — Bayshore Lodge, B'nai B'rith — Ayelet Chapter, Hadassah, National Council of Jewish Women, Jewish War Veterans — Bayshore Post.

Anyone in good health, between the ages of 18 and 66 may give blood. No special diet or fasting is required. At the same time, they can help the person in a hospital right now who needs blood.

Blood donations collected by the Monmouth County Blood Bank will be credited to either the Bayshore Jewish Community Council Blood Bank or to any other blood donor group or person the donor designates. More than 200 pints of blood already have been released by the council's blood bank to families who have requested it.

Presbytery Has Youth Retreat

RED BANK — A Youth Retreat held last week by the Monmouth Presbytery in Columbus, N.J., was termed "a real success" by Tom Shostak, program leader, and the Rev. John Kleffel, program coordinator.

Planned Parenthood of Monmouth County, Inc., the Youth Council and the Christian Witness Committee of Monmouth Presbytery jointly sponsored the retreat.

Mr. Shostak, program leader, is an assistant professor at Brookdale Community College and an adviser to the Planned Parenthood education program. Mrs. Maxine Brown, Ms. Beth Davis and Mrs. Jane Green, all of Planned Parenthood, were resource people for the program. Spiritual leader was the Rev. Ray Trout of the Westminster Choir School, Princeton.

The Rev. Mr. Kleffel of Columbus, new chairman of the Christian Witness Committee, said "my committee was delighted with the outcome of the retreat and we hope to plan similar programs for the fall."

ON THE HOUSE

What's new on the market?

THE PRODUCT — A jet "gun" for removing stoppages in toilet bowls, floor drains, wash basins and other piping complexes.

Manufacturer's claim — That gas pressure is released from an aerosol-type cartridge when the tool is fired ... that the pressure strikes a single hammer-like blow to water in pipe or drain ... that this pressure is transmitted 250 feet down the line, dislodging the obstruction ... that the action of the tool will not damage piping ... and that, since the gun is fired in water, there is no loud noise.

THE PRODUCT — Plastic housing that makes an electric drill shockproof as well as unusually light in weight.

Manufacturer's claim — That the housing is made of polycaronate and guaranteed for life against breakage ... that it will not crack from low temperatures nor warp from extreme heat ... that it is nonconductive and that the drills using it carry UL labels ... that the housing won't rust, dent, peel or corrode.

THE PRODUCT — A group of 16 garden hose connectors designed to allow the user to connect or disconnect house and water accessories without turning off the faucets.

Manufacturer's claim — That the line is composed of couplings, hose menders, regular nozzles, pisto-jet nozzles and area sprinklers ... that the connections and disconnections are made with a quick click ... that a special gripper ring is used so that the harder the hose is pulled, the tighter the connection becomes ... and that there are two sizes of replacement couplings to cover different sizes of garden hose.

THE PRODUCT — An add-on stairs for swimming pools that features a jet spray for water massage.

Manufacturer's claim — That the jet spray converts the well of the stairs to what is called "a private spa," since it massages the pool user with millions of tiny bubbles of air and water ... that the temperature can be adjusted as desired in heated pools ... and that the stairway comes in a one-piece fiber glass, vinyl-lined, nonskid unit that can be added to the wall of an old pool or installed in a new one.

(A helpful handbook for do-it-yourselfers is Andy Lang's "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

(The jet plumbing aid is manufactured by Debric Innovations Inc., 64-24 137th St., Flushing, N.Y. 11367; plastic by General Electric, 1 Plastics Ave., Pittsfield, Mass. 01201; the hose connectors by Black & Decker, Towson, Md. 21204; and the pool stairs by Cascade Industries Inc., Talmadge Road, Edison, N.J. 08817.)

Cedarbrooke Models Open for Inspection

DOVER TOWNSHIP — Cedarbrooke, a 54-home year-round development of three and four bedroom houses in the Toms River section of this township is open, with three decorated models for inspection.

Cedarbrooke homes include a ranch, bi-level, and a colonial, according to McConnell & Co., Pompton Plains, Brick Town, and Cherry Hill, exclusive sales agent.

The colonial features a large master bedroom suite with walk-in closet and bath with shower and marble top vanity in the dressing area, three additional bedrooms, full bath with custom vanity, and powder room on the first level.

The four-bedroom bi-level has a front-facing living room, an 18-foot wood-paneled recreation room with sliding glass doors to an optional rear patio, formal dining room and large eat-in kitchen. A large laundry/utility room and adjacent den or playroom, half bath and garage with inside entry complete the lower level.

The ranch has an 18-foot living room, wide open kitchen and dining room and a wood-paneled family room with sliding glass doors. There are three bedrooms, a color-keyed bath with marble top vanity, a laundry/utility room with rear service entry and an attached garage with inside entry.

All models include wall to wall carpeting and color coordinated kitchens with dishwasher, oven/range and range hood, and wood laminated cabinets of birch and oak.

Cedarbrooke models and the McConnell & Co. sales office are on Delaware Ave. off Fischer Blvd. in Toms River. To reach the site, take Exit 82 of the Garden State Parkway, go east on Rt. 37 approximately three miles to Fischer Blvd. Make the judghandle left and continue to Delaware Ave. Turn left for one block to the models.

Nitrogen is the element in the fertilizer mixture that increases the size of the plant and flower. But too much nitrogen can cause radishes that are "all tops" or tomatoes that produce more vine than fruit.

193-HOUSE COMMUNITY — Weatherly is the name of the bi-level model at the 193-home Windward community just off exit 67 of the Garden State Parkway in Barnegat. Total Building Systems Inc. of Farmingdale is developing the community which offers models in ranch, bi-level and colonial two-story design on half acre and larger lots.

Barnegat Windward Opens This Weekend

BARNEGAT — Windward at Barnegat, 193-home year-round community of homes with three and four bedrooms, previews this weekend. It is just off Exit 67 of the Garden State Parkway.

Windward is the fourth new community which Total Building Systems Inc. of Farmingdale is developing in New Jersey. Other communities include The Mews at Dover, Burnt Tavern Manor in Brick Township and The Pennant Club in Jackson Township. TBS is a subsidiary of The Arundel Corp. of Baltimore, Md., a public company listed on The American Stock Exchange.

Eugene L. Fishkind, president of Total Building Systems, said he expects to start delivering Windward homes this summer and anticipates 100 occupancies by December.

Using a Nantucket theme, the models are "America" ranch, "Weatherly" bi-level and "Intrepid" colonial two-story designs. They are on half-acre and larger lots.

The Weatherly bi-level illustrates the spaciousness of the homes. Entrance is on the upper level through a foyer which leads to the living room with picture window. A few steps up is the kitchen-family room which measures 20 feet long. Outside the family room is an optional rustic wood deck. Down the hall in a private wing are three spacious bedrooms and a full bath.

On the lower level is a huge area with sliding glass doors leading to the rear lawn, a one-car garage, and a large crawl space for storage. There is room on this level for a fourth bedroom, half bath, a 17-foot recreation room, a laundry and utility room, plus an additional garage.

Features in the Weatherly, and other models, include wall-to-wall carpeting, closet space, furniture-finish kitchen cabinets, Westinghouse electric oven and range, range hood with light, ceramic tile full bath, color co-ordinated bath fixtures, full vanity in both baths and lighting fixtures.

Homes are heated by oil and have copper plumbing, full circuit breakers, city water, aluminum siding on the facade and underground electrical wiring. Paved streets and curbs are installed.

Options include central air conditioning, second garage, large recreation room, and fireplaces in family and recreation rooms.

Parties Scheduled For Pool Openings

MIDDLETOWN — Shadow Lake Village, here and Covered Bridge in Manalapan officially open their newly completed swimming pools Sunday, with parties for residents of the two adult condominium communities.

Kevork S. Hovnanian, president of Hovnanian Enterprises, Inc. of Englishtown (NJ), said the formal openings mark "another step in the continuing program aimed at making these the most complete and attractive residential communities in New Jersey.

"The immediate accessibility of such recreational amenities as golf courses, swimming pools and clubhouses means that residents, whether retired or following active careers, will always find their favorite leisure time activities within walking distance of their homes."

At Shadow Lake, residents also have the benefit of boating and fishing in Shadow Lake and the use of their own boathouse.

"We're right in the middle of opening new sections," Mr. Hovnanian said. "One is Claremont Court in Shadow Lake Village, with unique new designs that blend clustered single-story townhouse homes with the natural wooded environment. Completely new single-story designs are also being offered in Section Three at Covered Bridge. Again our philosophy of living in harmony with the countryside is demonstrated in a distinctive architectural approach to creating housing without detracting from the aesthetic impact of the land."

Fidelity Union Profits Climb

NEWARK — Income of Fidelity Union Bancorporation, before securities transactions, for the three-month period ending March 31, was $3,632,000 or $1.22 a share.

The per share figures represents a rise of 11.9 per cent from the same period last year when earnings before securities transactions were $3,272,000 or $1.09 a share.

Net income, after securities transactions, totaled $3,629,000 or $1.22 a share. This compares with $3,318,000 or $1.10 a share in 1972.

Condominium Bylaws Explained by Agent

MONMOUTH BEACH — The bylaws of a condominium owners's association is a buyer's assurance of collectively controlling his property with other owners in the same community, according to Paul Brager of the Paul Bragar Agency, Shrewsbury, exclusive sales agents for the Pirates Cove townhouse condominium community here.

"Basically, bylaws list the operating rules of the community and the rules of the association of owners," he explained. "A good set of bylaws, such as Pirates Cove has, provides for such matters as the selection of an administrative board, the calling of association meetings, the rules for giving notice to the association if one owner decides to sell his home, and the maintainance of common areas."

Mr. Bragar said two of the biggest selling points of condominium communities are the advantage of few maintenance responsiblities for the owner and his vote in deciding governing rules of the community, and to have these points defined in the bylaws avoids future discrepancies on issues vital to the condominium homeowner.

"In all probability, the homeowner wants a voice in how recreation facilities, such as the swimming pools and tennis courts that are included here at Pirates Cove, will be maintained. The owners' association is the means for the owner to express himself," Bragar continued.

Bylaws usually make very complete provisions for financial settlements in case of damage, and reselling of individual units; and since most people purchase condominiums both as a primary residence and as a financial investment, a concrete statement on financial operations of the community can be reassuring, he said.

Pirates Cove, on the Shrewsbury River, offers both riverfront and inland one- and two-bedroom homes. All homes are of a two-story design, giving a "whole house" effect to the interior living space.

Home Buyer, Seller Seminar Scheduled

MIDDLETOWN — Sterling Thompson's Gallery of Homes, residential real estate division of Sterling Thompson and Associates, is sponsoring its third "Home Buyers and Sellers" seminar Tuesday, June 5, at 7:30 p.m. in Holiday Inn, Rt. 35, Hazlet.

Admission to the three-speaker seminar is free to the public with reservations being made by calling any of the Sterling Thompson offices. Reservations will be limited to 125 seats.

"Buying or selling a home is the largest financial transaction 90 per cent of the public will ever be involved in, and whatever Sterling Thompson can do to help will be done," said Larry Finkelstein, marketing director.

Three guest speakers, a Realtor, a banker, and lawyer, will each discuss real estate as it relates to their respective fields.

Subjects discussed include "The Five Different Financial Ways to Buy a Home," "Legal Obligations of Your Contracts" and "Tips on Buying or Selling a Home."

Mr. Finkelstein said attendance at the first two seminars was evenly divided between present homeowners and apartment renters.

Here's The Answer

Q. — There is a worn area on our kitchen linoleum. The pattern is quite distinctive, but I recently saw some linoleum tile that is a perfect match. Can I cut out the worn part and replace it with one of the tiles? If so, how should I do it?

A. — Yes, you can replace the worn section with the tile by using the new tile as the guide for cutting out the old piece of linoleum. Use a linoleum knife to do the cutting. Work very carefully. If the knife doesn't cut all the way through easily, don't force it. Cut part way through, then go back and start over again. This gradual method will insure accuracy, but more important, it will prevent knife slippage that might injure you.

When the worn section has been cut out, scrape out the area thoroughly, then apply cement and put in the new piece. Be generous with the cement, but keep a clean cloth handy so that when you press the tile into place, you can quickly wipe up any cement that oozes up at the seams. The only drawback is that the tile, being new, will look extra clean in comparison with the rest of the surface. You can leave it that way, allowing time to take care of the difference, or you can deliberately dirty up the tile a bit.

Incidentally, I recently saw how a homeowner solved his problem of a couple of worn spots in a linoleum floor. He cut out eight diamond-shape patterns in the floor at measured intervals so that two of them fell on the worn parts. He then sliced diagonally across four linoleum tiles and used the eight pieces to fill in the places he had cut out. After he dirtied up the tiles a bit, it appeared as though the diamonds were part of the original design.

Q. — We have a very old wooden fence made from cypress. It appears to be very dried out. Can it be restored to its original condition?

A. — Not very likely. However, you would be wise to apply a couple of coats of wood preservative to it. Despite its condition — and assuming that it is not actually decayed — it may still last a long time.

Your Horoscope, Birthday

FRIDAY, MAY 25 — Born today, you are one who puts great store in a good reputation. You will protect your "good name" beyond anything else, even if you have to suffer disappointment, bring disappointment to others, or otherwise discomfit the world about you to do so. You have no qualms about refusing to "cover" for mistakes, whether they be yours or someone else's, for you would rather be known as one who makes an error now and then — or recognizes one — than as one who refuses to admit his own humanity.

You enjoy travel and would not be averse to the kind of work that would carry you far from home base on a periodic basis. You thrive on the excitement of new places, new people; you have a great sense of adventure that allows you to accept anything different and fully appreciate the experience. Strange sights and sounds, exotic foods and clothes — whatever and wherever the oddity, you take from it the most it has to offer.

Because you are quick to take advantage of whatever opportunity comes your way, you will ultimately know more of life and living at firsthand than most people know through living, dreams, and reading put together. This does not mean, however, that you will strike others as an ultrasophisticate; rather, you will keep your sense of wonder about it all, never in attitude rising above that producing the child's joy.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let sour birthday star be your daily guide.

Saturday, May 26

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Don't let your strong sense of tradition keep you from looking into something new where family entertainment is concerned.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — A day when physical sensations may overshadow any intellectual value of a new experience. Rely on your own senses to bring you meaning.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Control your emotions this morning and you should be able to make a go of things this afternoon. Friends of the family come to your aid.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — You ought to be on the right road this Saturday — but only if you are wise enough to avoid oversentimentalizing a highly romantic past.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Continue to exercise your imagination where creative enterprise is concerned. Don't be discouraged should you be rebuffed during afternoon or evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — The Scorpio who is overly anxious about the future may well spoil things for himself insofar as immediate gains are concerned. Take things as they come.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Though you may not have planned any output of energy this Saturday, you would be wise to do what is necessary to meet and overcome an emergency.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — If your views are never opposed, you will surely become overconfident of your ability to come up with solutions to problems. Welcome an objection.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — A complete understanding of the prospects that lie before you just isn't possible at this time. Rest content with being semi-informed.

PISCES (Feb. 29-March 20) — Make a positive effort in the direction you've chosen to go. If you put off beginnings any longer, you may miss out on the project completely.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Know that there are good and bad facets to each man's nature. Be wise; judge on quality, not quantity. Let your imagination go and solve a problem.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Pay less attention to the why of things and more to the what and when — for the moment. You can come to terms with the source of trouble later on.

Sheinwold's Bridge Advice

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

When a hand looks difficult from your side of the table, imagine that you are sitting in your partner's shoes. There may be no problem at all when you change your point of view.

West opened the five of spades, and South wondered what to do about the losing diamonds. He thought of drawing just one round of trumps and then running all four clubs. This would allow him to discard the losing diamond from dummy if either opponent had four trumps and also four or more clubs.

Very unlikely. South decided. The situation looked hopeless, until he thought of playing the hand as though North were declarer. North would ruff out the losing spades, so South proceeded with that plan.

He won the first trick with the ace of spades and ruffed a spade. Declarer returned to dummy with the queen of clubs to ruff a second spade. He got back with the ace of clubs to ruff a third spade, and led to the ace of diamonds to ruff the last spade with the ace of trumps.

One Trump Left

Having ruffed four times, South had only one trump left in his hand: the queen. He led this and overtook with dummy's king of hearts. He proceeded to lead out the jack and nine of hearts from dummy, discarding two diamonds from his own hand. South's king and jack of clubs then took the last two tricks.

Did you foresee that South would discard his losing diamonds on dummy's trumps?

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold: S-A Q 9 8 4 H-K J 9 D-A 7 C-A Q 5. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one spade. The hand is not strong enough for a forcing opening bid. Some experts might open with 2-NT, but this supresses a fine spade suit and overstates the high-card strength of the hand.

PROFESSIONAL CENTER PROPOSED — Proposal to build $1.2 million professional office building on Beers St., Hazlet, was discussed at public hearing by Hazlet Zoning Board of Adjustment. Bayshore Professional Center builder anticipates renting to doctors because of proximity to Bayshore Community Hospital, Holmdel. This is one of two buildings, similar in design, that would be built on the three-acre site.

Mrs. Klein Hits Foe On Debate Refusal

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP — Visiting members of the Matawan Township Democratic Club in Burlew's Cliffwood Inn, Rt. 35, Assemblywoman Ann Klein, Democratic gubernatorial hopeful, chastised her opponents for refusing to meet her in debate.

Two other gubernatorial candidates had accepted invitations to the meeting, which drew about 60 persons, but they failed to appear.

Mrs. Klein said the 20 million population projected for New Jersey cannot be supported by existing land and facilities.

"We must stop the uncontrolled growth of this state or face serious shortages and increased population," she warned.

Gov. William T. Cahill, she declared, is "arrogant" in his alleged refusal to meet with "people who have needs." She added, "He has locked himself away from the people and even from his own advisers. The governor was full of promises, but has fulfilled few," she charged.

Stating her position on other issues, the candidate declared tax reform based on an income tax is the only plausible solution to the tax crisis in the state. She called for drafting of a statewide master plan for education, and stated that "the certainty, not the severity of punishment is the deterrent to crime."

Tree Fete Planned For Ex-POW

HOLMDEL — A Freedom Tree honoring former prisoner of war Cmdr. Raymond A. Vohden will be planted in Holmdel Park Saturday at 1 p.m.

The ceremony, sponsored by the Shore POW Action Committee, will be held at the Mobile Arts Center in the Park.

Cmdr. Vohden, whose parents still reside in Wall Township, was shot down over North Vietnam and captured April 3, 1965. His parents will attend the ceremony. Vohden expects to enter the hospital Monday for corrective surgery on his leg, hurt in his crash.

When he was released Feb. 12, Cmdr. Vohden was the first POW to cross the line to freedom in Hanoi. He is a 1952 graduate of Rutgers University, where he was an undefeated wrestler, a football player, and recipient of the Ernie Gardner Athletic award. He enlisted in the Navy and received his wings at Pensacola.

The Freedom tree and plaque will be accepted by Victor Grossinger, chairman of the County Park and Recreation Commission.

The speaker will be Cmdr. Paul F. Selby of the Lakehurst Naval Air Station, and the colors will be presented by N.A.D. Earle.

Mrs. Meredith Canale of the POW Committee will be mistress of ceremonies.

The public is invited.

5 Boys Held In Looting Of Meters

HAZLET — Five boys between the ages of 12 and 13 are to appear before the Juvenile Conference Committee for allegedly damaging and breaking into parking meters at Hazlet railroad station, police said.

Detective Sgt. Warren Briggs said the youths used hammers and screwdrivers to release money from the meters, and in some instances took the meters off of the posts. Seven meters, in all, were damaged.

The incidents took place over a three-week period, Sgt. Briggs said, starting the last week of April.

He said a break in the case came last week when he caught two of the suspects in the act of vandalizing the meters. They were captured after they ran into a wooded area near the station. Sgt. Briggs was assisted by Patrolman Harold Donlin in making the arrests.

Arrests of the remaining three youths took place after police talked to the first two suspects, Sgt. Briggs said. All of the suspects live in the vicinity of the railroad station, he added.

Because of the youth of the youngsters and the fact that all are first-time offenders, their cases will not be heard in Juvenile Court, Freehold, the police sergeant said.

Wetlands Photos Exhibit to Move

SHREWSBURY — Carroll Siskind's photographic exhibit of the New Jersey wetlands will move from the Middletown Library to the Eastern Branch of the Monmouth County Library, Broad St., here, on Saturday June 2.

Sponsored by Monmouth Museum, the exhibit will run through June 29. Mr. Siskind of Shark River Hills, created this exhibition under a grant given to him by the New Jersey Council on the Arts last summer('72).

Mr. Siskind spent more than 20 full days taking photographs of the New Jersey shore, from Atlantic Highlands south to Brigantine. An additional 20 days was spent in developing, enlarging and mounting the show, which also includes pictures taken at an earlier date.

Sandy Hook, the Navesink and Shark Rivers, Point Pleasant, Tuckerton and Brigantine are all a part of Mr. Siskind's photographic presentation. In addition his interpretation includes "Craftsmen of the Wetlands", men who have been inspired by their closeness to the sea to create bird sculptures, hunting decoys and to design and build shallow-water boats.

Mr. Siskind, a shore resident for 15 years, is an instructor of photography at Brookdale and Monmouth Colleges and has a photographic shop in Shark River Hills. He has worked as a photographic illustrator and a research photographer at the shore and in New York City and has also taught photography in the city's adult education program.

The photographer will present a slide lecture on interesting people he met while taking pictures for the exhibit on Saturday, June 9, at 2 p.m. at the library.

RED BANK — A woman was injured Wednesday in a two-car accident at the corner of Monmouth Street and Bridge Avenue near the railroad station.

The injured woman, Mrs. Lillian Griesnbeck, 52 Main St., Manasquan, was reported in fair condition last night in Riverview Hospital.

Police said she was the driver of a car on Monmouth Street which was struck in the side by another auto on Bridge Avenue driven by Andrew Coyle, 530 Mackey Ave., Belford. Mrs. Griesnbeck's car was knocked 42 feet by the impact of the collision, according to police.

The accident occurred at 11:25 a.m.
