State to Assist Sagging Mortgage Market

TRENTON (AP) — The state Mortgage Finance Agency plans to sell bonds in November to bolster the sagging mortgage market in New Jersey with the expectation that mortgage lending rates can be lowered for some middle income home buyers.

The planned sale was announced yesterday by Gov. William T. Cahill who said the agency plans to sell between $75 million and $100 million in bonds.

The governor said the bond sale would be the largest single issue sold by the agency in its two-year existence "and should provide an urgently needed stimulus to the mortgage market."

Cahill estimated the money realized from the bond sale could provide financing for the purchase of 5,000 homes in the state. Officials estimated the mortgage money would be available at an interest rate no higher than 7.7 per cent.

The New Jersey mortgage lending rate is currently limited by law within an 8 per cent ceiling. Banks and other mortgage lenders contend they cannot finance mortgages at that rate and make a profit.

The administration has introduced legislation that would allow the ceiling to float for six months with a provision to allow homebuyers to renegotiate mortgages if the situation improves later.

The Assembly Banking Committee has scheduled a hearing on Nov. 8 to consider the proposal and two other bills introduced independently by legislators to lift the 8 per cent mortgage lending ceiling.

The Mortgage Finance Agnecy (MFA) was created in November 1971 and in the two years since then it has issued $166 million in loan bonds to banks which nave provided mortgage loans for the purchase of 9,000 homes.

The agency is authorized to sell its bonds and then lend the money realized from the sale to banks that participate in its program. The banks borrow the money at the same rate of interest at which the bonds were sold plus a maximum half per cent charge for administrative costs.

The banks are then permitted to make mortgage loans with the money at interest rates no more than 1.75 per cent above the rate they pay the MFA.

Philip A.Kerner, deputy state banking commissioner, said yesterday if the current bond market remains stable for the next 40 days, the period in which the sale will be prepared, he anticipated an interest rate between 5.35 per cent and 5.45 per cent.

Thus, if the agency sold its bonds at 5.45 per cent and added a half per cent for administrative charges while the banks added the full 1.75 per cent allowed them by law the mortgage rate for homebuyers utitlizing the program would be 7.7 per cent, three tenths of a per cent below the current prevailing rate.

Under present regulations the program is limited to the purchase of single family homes whose appraised value is no more than $32,000 and to two, three and four-family homes appraised at a value of no more than $45,000.

Cahill said the MFA's Board of Directors has indicated it may be possible to increase the limit on single family homes to a $35,000 value appraisal.

Kerner said so far 37 savings and loan associations and 12 commercial banks in the state have replied to a survey that they would participate in the program.

He said their replies indicated a need for $73.8 million but that banks which want to take part in the program can still apply. Kerner said the MFA expects the total mortgage money requirements to fall between $75 million and $100 million when all the applications are processed.

'Park-Ride' Rail Station Plan In Matawan Twp. Gets Praise

MATAWAN — Officials here and in Matawan Township reacted enthusiastically to yesterday's announcement that the state plans to establish a "park-and-ride" rail station on Lloyd Road in Matawan Township to replace the one on Main Street here.

The state Commuter Operating Agency approved the expenditure of up to $400,000 to purchase land adjacent to the Garden State Parkway, approximately a mile away from the present station.

Municipal leaders here are happy because the new station will ease traffic congestion in the area immediately surrounding the old station and may cut down on traffic on roads leading to the station.

Robert D. Halsey, county Planning Board chairman described the new facility as "a park-and-ride station." There will be parking for 1,400 to 1,800 cars, and the station will be located in such a way that it will not interfere. with local traffic.

Matawan Borough's facility can accommodate 300 to 400 cars.

Peter Koelsch, chairman of the Borough Transportation Committee, said the new location will reduce commuters' monthly parking fees.

The cost now, he said, is $10 a month. He said this will probably be reduced to $3 when the new facility is completed.

The new location, he continued, will provide greater access to county highways, and make commuting easier for residents of Colts Neck and Marlboro.

A major asset, Mr. Koelsch said, would be the potential elimination of a train stop in Hazlet, thus speeding up the train from one stop to another.

"It will also release land for possible better ratables in the township," Mr. Koelsch said.

But one of the aspects that he was most pleased with, Mr. Koelsch said, was that this action "shows one effort of the state to assist the New York-Long Branch Railroad."

Mr. Koelsch is a member of the Shore Transportation Committee which met with the governor and the municipal coordinating committee, Red Bank, on the plan.

"I am definitely in favor of this," said Mayor Thomas J. Powers of Matawan Township, although he admitted, "certain members of council don't want to see it come into the township because of increased traffic problems.

'But I feel it is a good thing. The community is large enough to warrant it," Mayor Powers declared. "It has to be a plus for us."

Matawan Mayor Victor R. Armellino is eager to see the facility moved from the borough. Citing traffic congestion as his primary concern, the mayor said, "Trying to cross Main St. at 7 a.m. is taking your life in your hands.

"I don't think the station is any great loss. The town will be better off," Mayor Armellino continued. "As far as I am concerned, they can move it tomorrow. We have to maintain it, and we get all the complaints about it. It will be good to be rid of it."

Michael Piperno, borough coordinator, said policing the area will no longer be up to lo-

Court Gets Tapes Issue Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Court of Appeals, having failed to obtain a compromise settlement of the White House tapes controversy, returns to the constitutional questions in the dispute.

Special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox and the White House notified the court yesterday that their "sincere efforts" to reach an out-of-court settlement "were not fruitful."

The court had asked a week earlier that the attempt be made.

If the search for a compromise failed, the court had said, "This court will discharge its duty of determining the controversy with the knowledge that it has not hesitated to explore the possibility of avoiding constitutional adjudication."

An appeals court decision is expected by Oct. 1, when the Supreme Court returns from its summer recess.

Whatever ruling comes from the appeals court is expected to be appealed to the Supreme Court.

In nearly identical letters, Cox and Charles Alan Wright, White House consultant for the tapes case, told the appeals court that they had failed to reach a compromise in three meetings this week.

The court has before it appeals by both the President and Cox from U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica's order that he be given the tapes to determine whether the President's claim that they must be kept secret is valid.

Cox contends that the tapes of the nine presidential conversations are vital evidence for the grand jury.

In other Watergate developments:

— Cox asked Sirica to require that five Watergate conspirators who want to change their guilty pleas support in detail their claims that they were misled by high government officials. The pleas had been filed last January by E. Howard Hunt Jr., Virgilio R. Gonzalez, Eugenio R. Martinez, Frank Sturgis and Bernard L. Barker.

— Another convicted Watergate conspirator, G. Gordon Liddy, pleaded innocent in Los Angeles to state charges of burglary and conspiracy in connection with the 1971 break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

— Henry Rothblatt, fired as defense attorney for four of the Watergate defendants because he refused to let them plead guilty, sued President Nixon and others yesterday for $10 million "for malicious interference with an attorney-client contract. Rothblatt had represted Martinez, Gonzalez, Sturgis and Barker.

Agnew's Office Declares His Public Support Overwhelms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's office says there has been "overwhelming" public support for him following reports that he might resign because of involvement in a federal investigation.

An account of the response in the past two days was given amid signs that the inquiry into alleged political kickbacks was moving again on the strength of a decision by Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson to submit data concerning Agnew to a grand jury.

Agnew aides said that as of yesterday afternoon 664 letters and telegrams had been received urging Agnew not to quit, and nine others calling on him to do so. They said, hundreds of phone calls had been received — all favorable to the vice president.

J. Marsh Thomson, Agnew's press secretary, called it "a terribly impressive and overwhelming public reaction."

The letters and phone calls were spurred by a newspaper report saying a senior Republican figure had predicted Agnew would resign, probably this week, because of the investigation. The vice president faces possible charges of extortion, bribery, tax fraud and conspiracy stemming from the time he was a county executive and governor of Maryland.

Agnew, who has denied any wrongdoing, refused to comment on the report but aides were emphatic in saying he would not resign and was determined to fight the case.

With the grand jury resuming its secret deliberations in Baltimore, U.S. Atty. George Beall Jr., who is leading the probe, has been in Washington in recent days conferring with Justice Department officials.

Sources said the meetings probably dealt with plans on the Agnew phase of the inquiry and with procedures to be used if his attorneys try, as has been reported, to keep evidence from going to the grand jury.

Department spokesmen maintained a firm "no comment" on the consultations, but Beall was known to have met at least once with Richardson, who will make the final decision on matters involving Agnew.

Mayor Says Officials Seek Wilson Meeting

KEYPORT — Mayor William A. Ralph and Borough Councilmen will seek a meeting this weekend with John Wilson, business administrator, to hear his comments on his indictment in Union County Wednesday on a charge of misconduct in office.

The date and time for the meeting have not been set, Mayor Ralph said last night.

The decision to confer with the administrator was taken at a special Borough Council meeting called by the Mayor Wednesday after Mr. Wilson told him of the indictment by telephone.

Mr. Wilson, a resident of Westfield, has held his $15,000-a-year post here since May 30. He and three others were indicted for alleged misconduct while Mr. Wilson served as business administrator in Clark in 1970.

"I was shocked," said Mayor Ralph. "Of course, I called my council together last night to discuss the matter. We decided last night that we would meet with Mr. Wilson over the weekend and hear his side of the story."

Councilman Donald H. Redmond, reached last night, commented, "I'm a firm believer that a man is innocent until proven guilty. It's a shame that too many people automatically think of the word 'guilty' when they hear the word 'indictment.' I can't buy that."

Mr. Redmond said he would be in a better position to comment on Mr. Wilson's indictment after the council meets with the business administrator.

Councilman Harold A. Stout said, "Until we have a meeting with our atttorney, and we all meet with Mr. Wilson and his attorney to discuss the matter, I won't have any further comments."

"It came as quite a surprise," Councilman Richard I. Volpe.

Mr. Volpe recalled that Mr. Wilson was the first business administrator hired by Keyport.

"He was the unanimous choice of the council for that

NOW Backs Woman's Efforts to Join Squad

RED BANK — The Monmouth County Chapter of the National Organization for Women has joined in the fight of Mrs. Barbara Van Pelt to become a member of Red Bank's First Aid Squad.

The NOW chapter said it will stage a demonstration from 6:45 to 8 p.m. Thursday starting at the Red Bank Regional High School and ending at the First Aid Squad building on Spring St. The demonstration is timed to coincide with a squad membership meeting.

Mrs. Van Pelt, is the wife of Patrolman Ernest Van Pelt, who also is a volunteer fireman and a member of the first aid squad. She is attempting to become the first woman member of the squad.

Mrs. Van Pelt has already passed required state courses, and applied to the squad for membership in February, and her application was reportedly voted upon twice the following month, and voted down twice.

Mrs. Van Pelt has taken her case to the state Division on Civil Rights and will be represented in that case by Mrs. Adrienne McOmber, a Fair Haven lawyer, and NOW's legal counsel.

Jacqueline T. Yuhasz, NOW chapter president, said Mrs. Van Pelt's application was denied because a number of squad members apparently feel women don't fit the requirements for membership. However, she said, the requirements have never been spelled out.

Mrs. Yuhasz, Matawan, said first aid squads throughout the nation have women members, whose worth has been proved in hundreds of emergency situations.

She noted that women are more likely to be available than men during the daytime

Normal Comic Page; Sports 'Tab' Monday

Beginning Monday, The Register will return to its normal sized comic page. Because of the critical newsprint shortage, we had condensed that page. Even though newsprint is still in short supply, complaints from readers, especially our elderly subscribers, have prompted us to take this step.

Despite conditions, we are striving to include all of our regular features. We may occasionally have to miss, but we hope our readers understand.

Another temporary casualty of the newsprint situation is our annual high school football tabloid. It had been scheduled for today, but the special size newsprint roll required for it was not available. That's why it will be published Monday to coincide with the initial coverage of the season in the sports section of The Daily Register, Northern Monmouth County's largest newspaper and Monmouth County's most interesting newspaper.

Two Men Are Accused Of Robbery in Freehold

FREEHOLD — Two men have been indicted by a Monmouth County grand jury on charges of robbing two employes of the N.J. Bell Telephone Company's business office in Freehold of $472 at gunpoint.

Eugene R. Miller, 29, of Grant Court, Long Branch, and Daniel Johnson, 19, of 1009 Madison Ave., Asbury Park, are charged with robbing Joe Palmieri of Harding Road, Freehold, and Vicki Loser of 42 Attaboy Court, Middletown, both cashiers at the telephone company's business office at Hudson and Center Streets, Freehold, of the money while armed with a pistol Aug. 7.

This indictment was among those handed up to Superior Court Judge M. Raymond McGowan, county assignment judge.

James B. Pratt, 21, of 904 Emery St., Asbury Park, is charged with breaking into the home of Bruce Huber, McClees Road, Middletown, July 22 and attempting to break into the home of William Lynch, 36 Northover Place, Middletown, the next day. Mary Jane Paseler, 51, of 150 East Washington Ave., Atlantic Highlands, is charged with aiding and abetting Pratt.

John J. Moore, 19, of Pond Road, Freehold, is charged with committing an atrocious assault and battery upon Michael P. Young, 32 Brentwood Ave., Freehold, June 26 in Freehold Township.

Leslie Macilwraith, 31, of 271 Central Ave., Long Branch, is charged with forging an endorsement to a check for $297.24 belonging to D. G. Flynn, 14 Arthur Place, Red Bank, July 18. Jerry Cartier, 22, of Long Branch is charged with aiding and abetting.

Enrique H. Marrero, 23, of New York City is charged with receiving stolen property, a car valued at $1,400 belonging to Cynthia Zucker, Yonkers, N.Y., July 21 in New Shrewsbury.

In separate indictments, Jerry Benjamin and Arnett Thomas are charged with escaping from the Rahway Unit of the Marlboro Hospital July 22 by allegedly leaving without consent. No addresses were available for the two.

Water Problem Reported Easing in Matawan Twp.

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP — Residents served by the Strathmore water treatment plant still find rusty water emanating from their taps, but the situation has eased slightly since last month.

Only one Fordham Park resident, Leonard Geltzeiler of 23 Fayette Lane, turned up to complain about the problem at last night's Matawan Township Municipal Utilities Authority (MTMUA) meeting.

In August approximately 30 unhappy residents met with the authority seeking a solution to the problem and assurances that it would be corrected.

Frederick Almerino, authority chairman, told those residents a solution would take time.

Last night he told Mr. Geltzeiler, "We are trying to handle the problem with a systematic, orderly approach."

Authority members adopted a resolution authorizing the MTMUA consulting engineer, Harry S. Allen of Charles J. Kupper Inc., Piscataway, to undertake a study to define the nature of operating difficulties at the plant.

Mr. Allen's Study is being undertaken after MTMUA members conferred with the state Department of Environmental Protection.

He is to complete the study and submit it to that agency by Nov. 1. He said he expects to have it available for MTMUA members prior to that date for their study.

In the meantime, Mr. Almerino said the next move will be to determine the condition of the plant's filter beds. He said there are four, "but we are operating with only three." A thorough cleaning of them, he added, may be in order.

Mr. Almerino repeated what he told residents last month that a solution to the problem will not come overnight, "but we are trying to see if we can resolve the problem without taxing the residents."

The chairman announced completion of emergency correction work to the aerial crossing in the Oxford Park section. Total cost of the project was $12,000.

Weather: Sunny, Cool

Handicapped Aid Being Considered By School Board

MANALAPAN — The Manalapan-Englishtown Regional Board of Education wants to know the number of preschool children with autistic tendencies it might help place and support in special education programs.

Board President Anthony Morelli has asked the school PTAs to conduct a survey to determine the number.

Mr. Morelli said the survey was prompted by a request by parents of two pre-school children for financial aid and advice in placing the children in special education programs.

He said the board cannot make a decision on the matter unless it knows the number of similar children in the district who might be eligible for aid.

The board does not have a program for the placement and financial assistance for pre-school handicapped children, Mr. Morelli said.

He said if the number of eligible children "was within reason," the board might consider a budget provision next year for the assistance.

The amount of state aid that might be available for the assistance program was not known last night, Mr. Morelli said.

In other action, Mr. Morelli reported the board is having trouble finding a replacement for Henry Carr, the board representative from Englishtown who resigned in July.

Mr. Morelli said technically the matter now rests with Earl B. Garrison, county superintendent of schools, since the board was unable to name a replacement within 60 days of the resignation.

Last night, however, the board received an application which it must investigate, Mr. Morelli said. He said no applications were received until now.

Mr. Morelli said the applicant has not lived in Englishtown for two years, which is one of the requirements for a board member. The applicant was not identified.

If the applicant is appointed, with the approval of Mr. Garrison, he would serve until the February election. If he has not lived in Englishtown for two years by that time, he would be prohibited from running for the remaining two years of the term, Mr. Morelli said.

Station Plan Is Praised By Officials

cal officials. Another asset in moving the station to Matawan Township, Mr. Piperno said, is that this municipality will no longer be responsible for paving the area.

Councilwoman Lillian G. Burry, described the relocation proposal as favorable for the borough.

"It will take a considerable amount of traffic off of Main and Broad Sts.," she said. Describing traffic as "one of the borough's biggest problems," she said, "Anything that can alleviate that can only be a benefit to the community."

And the benefits, she said, far outweigh the inconvenience that some commuters might experience by relocation.

Mrs. Burry said the existing station is scheduled to be abandoned and demolished by the railroad. She said $10,000 has been earmarked for this project.

However, because the station is "one of the oldest in New Jersey," Mrs. Burry said she would like to see the funds used to move the structure to another location here and used as a teen center.

Mr. Koelsch said the new facility calls for a bi-level platform, and a "small overhead shed" to house a ticket agent and toilet facilities.

He expects construction will probably begin in March. Bidding on the project has not taken place yet, he said, but added he expects that will be done before the end of this year.

Mr. Halsey said the relocation project is part of a proposal that evolved in the 1950's in the original transportation plan for the coastal area.

The location, he said, was considered ideal because major north-south highways — Rts. 34, 35, 36, the Garden State Parkway — converge here.

position. Everybody voted for him — Democrats, Republicans and Independents," the councilman said.

But like Councilmen Redmond and Stout and Mayor Ralph, Mr. Volpe refused to comment on the indictment itself.

"To comment on that now would be improper. It just wouldn't be fair," he explained.

Councilman Stout voiced the feeling of his fellow council members when he observed, "We'll all just have to wait and hear what Mr. Wilson has to say."

Variance Hearing Is Continued

LITTLE SILVER — The Zoning Board of Adjustment last night continued until its meeting next month the application of Polly Safka for a variance to operate an arts and crafts business at 50 Church St. in an R-2 zone.

Ms. Safka, owner of Paint-N-Place in the Monmouth Shopping Center, Eatontown, said she would like to purchase an older home at the Church Street address for use as the headquarters for her business.

Mrs. Marion Marotta, who lives a few doors away at 80 Church St., spoke in support of the proposal. She told the board the house had been vacant and was in a run-down condition and said she welcomed a business such as Ms. Safka's and the prospect of the property being improved.

Mrs. Marotta said the location of the property made it undesirable for use as a private residence.

The board said it would like to have a plot plan of the property and some indication of where off-street parking would be provided before acting on the application.

Coyle Benefit Tonight

EATONTOWN — The wind-up to the Stevie Coyle Fund Drive, initiated seven months ago by Long Branch Mayor Henry R. Cioffi, to help the family of the 10-year-old kidney disease victim is tonight at a 6:30 p.m. dinner in Old Orchard Inn.

The drive is now under its stated goal of $30,000 by a few thousand dollars and it's hoped the dinner will make up the differential.

Monies collected will be presented to the family and put into a trust fund for its use.

Stevie's condition is unchanged. He still receives dialysis treatment three times a week at Monmouth Medical Center and is awaiting word on when a kidney will be available for transplant.

Tickets may be obtained from drive chairman Ted Genola, 88 S. Fifth Ave., Long Branch or from Mayor Cioffi's office.

Residents of Monmouth County are urged to attend the dinner to help the Coyle family during a critical financial crisis.

Oceanport Rejects Road Bids, Seeks New Ones

OCEANPORT — The Borough Council last night rejected all three bids received last month for improvement of Gooseneck Road because they substantially exceeded the borough engineer's estimate. New bids will be sought.

The proposed work consists of improvement of the drainage and regrading and refinishing of the road. The three rejected bids were $52,455.10 from Monmouth Conduit Corp., Belford; $53,985 from James Nannini, of Red Bank, and $67,236.50 from A. Campo Equipment Co., Inc., of Farmingdale.

The new bids on the road will be opened at the next council meeting on Oct. 4.

Council also introduced an ordinance officially establishing a seven-member Shade Tree Committee and detailing its responsibilities. A public hearing on the measure was scheduled for Oct. 4.

The ordinance is designed to outline the extent of the borough's existing Shade Tree Committee's authority over the cutting and planting of trees and other aspects of its control over public property.

Controls Planned on Some Fuels

WASHINGTON — The White House appears almost certain to impose mandatory controls on wholesale distribution of home-heating oil, propane and perhaps diesel fuel, informed sources indicate.

A decision has been made, subject only to presidential approval, to impose mandatory allocation of propane and to ban switching from coal and other high-sulfur fuels to scarcer low-sulfur petroleum, a source said.

Presidential proclamations on those two decisions are expected within a few days, a source said.

John A. Love, director of the White House Energy Policy Office, the public and other sources in private have indicated strongly that at least home-heating oil and probably diesel fuel would be brought under mandatory allocation. The remaining question seemed to be whether all petroleum fuels including gasoline must be controlled.

"Mandatory allocation" would apply only at the wholesale level and avoid direct rationing of fuel among consumers.

Astronauts Set News Conference

Astronauts Alan L. Bean, Jack R. Lousma and Owen K. Garriott are to reply to a series of questions submitted by newsmen and read to them by Mission Control during an 11-minute news conference.

Bean, Garriott and Lousma also scheduled several hours of preparation for the third space walk of their mission.

During 2½ hours outside the spaceship tomorrow, Garriott and Bean will work together to remove used film from the Skylab solar telescope camera system and replace it with fresh film.

They will also remove a speck obscuring the view of one of the telescopes, recover a sample of test material experimentally exposed to space and recover a device which collects space particles.

The astronauts have been in space almost eight weeks and most of the rest of the mission will be devoted to preparations for their return to earth next Tuesday.

Action Due on Chrysler Pact

WASHINGTON — A quick end to the Chrysler Corp. strike would restore this year's remarkable labor peace, with its pattern of relatively modest wage settlements despite spiralling prices.

Limited by government wage guidelines, the unions have focused on improving working conditions, early retirement and workers' rights.

The Chrysler pact, up for ratification this weekend, provides wage hikes of 3 per cent for each of the three years, less than in major industrial contracts negotiated earlier this year.

But it also carries an improved cost of living formula, big pension concessions, voluntary overtime and paid dental care which United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock termed "'a breakthrough and precedent setting."

With one of the heaviest bargaining agendas in recent years, 1973 was expected to be turbulent for labor.

Contracts covering more than five million workers were up for renewal in the trucking, auto, railroad and electrical industries. Heavy pressure was expected for big wage settlements as inflation surged upward at the highest rate in more than 20 years.

Warning Issued on Contraceptive

WASHINGTON — The government says it does not consider the drug DES to be safe for repeated use as a "morning after" contraceptive.

The Food and Drug Administration said yesterday the drug, Diethylstilbestrol, contains relatively large amounts of estrogen which increases the possibility of blood clots.

The agency recommended that a woman who finds herself pregnant after taking the drug consider an abortion.

It also proposed a regulation requiring manufacturers to provide package inserts explaining benefits and risks of the drug to purchasers.

Women Space Roles Under Study

WASHINGTON — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has started studies aimed at eventually putting women into space.

Announcement of the experiments, already under way in California, comes only weeks after a women's magazine, Ms., accused the space agency of sex discrimination in its selection of astronauts.

There never has been a female U.S. astronaut, although the Soviet Union's Valentina Tereshkova spent 70 hours and 50 minutes in space in 1963.

The California tests are the first ever conducted by NASA on the suitability of females in space. However, NASA officials have been saying for three years they hoped to put a woman aboard the space shuttle flights scheduled to start in 1978.

The five-week NASA studies, involving 12 Air Force flight nurses, started last Monday at the Ames Research Center in Mountain View, Calif.

Scientists hope to determine how well women withstand the low gravitational forces of re-entry and the tendency of the blood to pool in the legs.

They also will study specific changes in the body induced by weightlessness. The studies will concentrate on biorhythms, body biochemistry, cardiovascular responses and changes in the endocrine gland, NASA says.

Democrats Seek to Prevent Fight

WASHINGTON — Democratic party leaders seek to head off a divisive fight today as the party's reform commission meets to consider new guidelines for picking 1976 national convention delegates.

National Chairman Robert S. Strauss set the tone yesterday when he warned the warring factions to compromise.

Strauss said the American public is "sick and tired of those on either side of the political spectrum who create ill will where there is none, exaggerate points of issue and controversy where there should be compromise, take cheap shots at the leaders and standard-bearers of our party . . . and use reform as a tool to destroy individuals, destroy institutions and advance private goals and personal ambitions."

Strauss recommended the scrapping of the controversial "quota" system, more assurance that elected officials are included in party affairs and limits on the application of proportional representation.

All three actions already were expected, but Strauss' added voice appeared to be a notice to diehards on both sides of the ideological struggle that he expects them to join the compromise.

380 Honor Brotherhood Award Winners

SHREWSBURY — More than 380 guests gathered at the Shadowbrook Restaurant last night to pay tribute to four recipients of the Monmouth-Ocean Counties Chapter of the National Conference of Christians and Jews' Brotherhood Award.

Honored at the organization's fifth annual awards dinner were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Paul F. Bradley, pastor of St. Michael's Catholic Church, West End; Mayor Daniel S. Kruman of Deal; Mrs. Mary Henry Anthony, chairman of the English department at Neptune Junior High School, and the Rev. Dr. Ansley Gerard Van Dyke, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Toms River.

A special citation for continued interest and devotion to the ideals of the conference was presented to Frank W. Sutton Jr., a member of the organization.

Msgr. Bradley became pastor of St. Michael's in 1969. After his ordination in 1941, he was commissioned as a Navy chaplain and during World War II, he served with the Marine Corps in the Pacific. He was chaplain of the flag-raising regiment on Iwo Jima.

He was awarded the Purple Heart for wounds suffered on Iwo Jima and holds the Bronze Star Medal for combat duty.

Mrs. Anthony, who was graduated from Montclair Normal School in 1923, has been teaching for half a century. She is currently working for her doctorate in English at Rutgers University.

A member of St. Augustine's Episcopal Church, Asbury Park, she is also a member of LINKS, a national group of professional women dedicated to improving people's cultural standards.

Mr. Kruman was appointed a commissioner in Deal in 1963, has served as mayor since 1967, and is the Republican candidate for state Assembly in the coastal district.

Serving as president of Seaboard Service, Neptune City, he is treasurer of the New Jersey Conference of Mayors, a trustee of the Monmouth Museum and the President's Council of Monmouth College. Mr. Kruman, among his other activities, is director of the Ft. Monmouth Chapter of the Association of the United States Army and a trustee of Temple Beth El, Asbury Park.

The Rev. Dr. Van Dyke has headed the fastest growing Presbyterian church in the state since 1942. He is noted for his preaching and he can be heard by those who listen to "Worship Service of the Air," broadcast each Sunday morning over WOBM, Ocean County.

He served as treasurer of the war-time USO, and is a chairman of the Protestant Committee on Scouting and the advisory committee on Family Planning for Ocean County.

Bike Controls Are Enforced Politically, PBA Head Says

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP — Enforcement of laws governing bicycle riders is being used by Township Council members for political purposes in an election year and as a lever against the Policemen's Benevolent Association as it attempts to negotiate a work contract with the township, says Patrolman William J. Andrews, local PBA president.

In a release to area newspapers the PBA president charges that in 1971 the governing body watered down a strict bicycle ordinance adopted in 1969 and has since done nothing to educate children and the public in legal bicycle operation. In addition, the PBA says, the council has "seen fit to curtail or cause to stop the bicycle program in the schools."

The governing body has scored the police publicly in the past month for not issuing more than about 200 warnings to bicycle violators since the first of the year, Patrolman Andrews reports.

He explains that more warnings have not been issued because township police wish to avoid sending township children to Juvenile Court in Freehold to answer charges of violations of bicycle regulations and provisions for bicycle use under Title 39, the state motor vehicle statute.

Upon the second warning to a single offender, a complaint, not a summons must be signed, the PBA official states. Motor vehicle summonses can be issued only to licensed drivers, he added.

"Is it the wish of the council to have the parents and the juvenile brought before the Juvenile Court?" Patrolman Andrews queries. "The PBA feels that the council seems to be using the police department as a political expedient when the police are before council to negotiate a contract, and this being an election year," he writes.

Alleging council first criticized the police for not issuing enough warnings to bicycle offenders, then complaining that too many were issued for not having "audible signals" (bells) as required by Title 39, the PBA charges council wants enforcement of only those bicycle regulations it deems politically expedient.

"It is the police officer's duty to enforce all laws pertaining to bicycles, including audible signals . . . It seems to the PBA that the council has now directed the police department to enforce only the laws they think are just . . .

"The PBA members, who are concerned citizens also of Matawan Township, feel that the manpower of the department should be used to enforce laws pertaining to criminal and motor vehicle (offenses) and that direction should be issued by the chief of police, not the political whims of council," the PBA president concludes.

Only Six Attend 48% Sewer Rate Increase Hearing

LONG BRANCH — Richard Bonello, a local attorney, told the Sewerage Authority last night that its proposed 48 per cent hike in sewer rates was "inequitable."

He was one of six city residents who attended the authority's public hearing on its plans to hike the sewer rate from $45 to $66 a year effective Jan. 1.

The attorney rapped the authority for proposing an increase that would cost "a Sixth Ave. homeowner as much as it would an Elberon resident." He said many city families can "ill afford to spend the added $5.50 a month" that would be required as a result of the new rate structure.

Despite announcements in recent weeks by the authority concerning the hearing, only six residents appeared.

Mayor Henry R. Cioffi Tuesday chided the authority for its attempt to increase the rate without discussing the issue with city councilmen and administrators.

"I do not accept the need for a 48 per cent rate increase as proposed by the Sewerage Authority," Mayor Cioffi said. "I stand in opposition to what appears to be an outrageous hike in the sewer rate."

Vincent J. Mazza, city business administrator, appeared at last night's session for Mayor Cioffi. He said the mayor has a copy of the authority's master plan and "seriously questions a number of its statements."

Mr. Mazza said the mayor wants the authority to postpone action on the proposed rate increase until it has met with the City Council to discuss the proposal.

The authority's master plan has not been made public. Mayor Cioffi, however, said he studied that document and finds flaws in its reasoning for the authority raising its rates at this time.

Listed by the authority as reasons for its rate hike are the state's edict to upgrade its treatment facilities from primary to secondary plant operations and the expansion of its plant and outfall line into the ocean offshore of the city.

While state and federal aid grants may amount to about $8 million, the authority claims it may have to raise up to $2.5 million to complete the program.

A survey by T&M Associates Inc., the sewer unit's professional planners, has indicated the overall project cost may exceed $3.2 million.

Also named as a cause for spiraling sewerage costs were the increasing expenses of day-to-day operations of the facility.

Mayor Cioffi last night called on authority members to meet with city officials to study details of the planned improvements and the "needs and methods of financing the proposed improvements."

Forbes Plans Cross-Country Balloon Flight in Two Weeks

By JOHN T. MCGOWAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Millionaire publisher Malcolm Forbes, who likes to get around by motorcycle, now is planning a cross-country trip by balloon.

He called a news conference here yesterday to announce he hopes to become the first person to fly in a balloon across the United States from the lip of the Pacific Ocean in Oregon to the Atlantic Ocean at the Jersey Shore.

"We hope to leave Oregon Oct. 4," Forbes said, "and we hope to land in New Jersey as soon as two weeks later. I say hope because a lot depends on the wind."

Forbes said he will need favoring wind all the way for his blue and white balloon, which will be kept aloft, again hopefully, with 95,000 cubic feet of hot air.

Forbes, 54, who had his first balloon flight just a year ago, will make the cross-country, trip in 20-hour hops. His balloon has been specially designed to stay aloft that long although the world record in its class is under 12 hours.

Forbes, whose high-flying political career was brought down by a defeat in 1957 when he ran for governor of New Jersey, outlined the purpose of his trip in three letters, "Fun."

He asked the first question at his own news conference, held at the Fifth Avenue office of Forbes magazine.

"What has this to do with a business magazine," Forbes was asked. And he replied, "Nothing at all."

One man (not always the same man) will be with Forbes in the 5 by 3-feet steel-reinforced gondola during the cross-country trip. Also in the basket will be twelve propane gas tanks. They will hold the fuel to keep the air heated and the balloon aloft.

Forbes said he will try to keep the flight line level at about 2,000 feet, close enough to land to be seen and far enough below the clouds to stay out of the path of jets.

The balloon is 58 feet wide and 65 feet high. He partially inflated it on the roof of the Forbes building yesterday and it looked about half the size of the eight-story building but a lot more flexible.

Forbes said he doesn't know how much the flight will cost, but added that he hopes to make up part of the cost by putting the balloon on exhibition in France after the flight.

He said the balloon cost $25,000 to build and "got up and down" all right when he took it for its maiden voyage at Sioux Falls, S.D., Tuesday.

Four autos and trucks will trail along the ground behind the balloon and will keep in touch with it through a radio relay system from a helicopter that will follow in the air.

The caravan will carry food and fuel and other supplies.

Forbes said he hopes to complete the trip in two weeks but he will stay with it if it takes months.

He said the only man he knows of who came close to accomplishing what he is setting out to do was a man named Tracy Baines whose balloon burned in Pennsylvania near the end of the journey.

Forbes said there were long interruptions in Baines's trip too. "Unlike me," he said, "he didn't inherit his business and he had to stay along the way to work to pay for it."

Someone at the press conference tried to recall whether the man who went "around the World in 80 Days" in a balloon was Phineas Fogg, Phidias Fogg or Phileas Fogg. Actually it was Phileus.

And someone else said it didn't matter because, "Forbes is going to make them forget his name anyway."

Keansburg Middle School Dedication to Be Sept. 30

KEANSBURG — Dedication ceremonies for the Keansburg Middle School, adjacent to the junior-senior high school, are scheduled at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 30.

Guest speaker at an open house planned in the school building is Rep. James J. Howard, D-N.J., George W. Preston Jr., president of the Board of Education, announced at last night's meeting.

Mr. Preston urged the public to attend the dedication and open house, adding that walk-thrugh tours of the new facility will be available.

The new building opened to students Sept. 10, three days after classes started in the rest of the system.

"As with any new building, there are a few problems, but it looks good," Mr. Preston commented.

A group headed by Councilman Peter L. Graham received permission to use the junior-senior high school cafetorium for a public information forum on the proposed change in borough government to a five-man nonpartisan council-manager form. The session will be moderated by representatives of a disinterested organization from outside the borough.

Borough voters will approve or disapprove the contemplated change in the November election.

Hired as Title I teachers were Miss Debrah D. Carusoe of 32 Deane Way, Red Bank, and Miss Sandra Jo Trufolo of 621 Harding Road, Little Silver. Both will serve as reading teachers at salaries of $8,400 yearly.

Oakhurst Man, 30, Killed In Holmdel Auto Collision

HOLMDEL — A 30-year-old Oakhurst man was fatally injured early yesterday morning when the car he was driving collided with a tractor trailer at Rts. 34 and 520.

The victim, Winston M. Churchill, of 13 Brown Place, was pronounced dead on arrival at Bayshore Community Hospital.

Patrolman John Mocik has issued a summons to the tractor trailer driver, Justin C. Lawyer, 36, of Miami, Fla., for allegedly causing death by auto, according to police.

Mr. Lawyer, who was unhurt, reported to police that he was traveling north on Rt. 34 at 2:20 a.m. when he approached a green traffic light at the intersection of Rt. 520. He said that Mr. Churchill's vehicle, in the southbound lane, suddenly tried to make a lefthand turn and collided with his tractor trailer.

A Quieter Keansburg Meeting Is Anticipated

KEANSBURG — "The next Borough Council meeting should be quieter," Councilman Raymond A. Reaney predicted last night.

The councilman made his prediction when asked what Mayor Eileen M. Lloyd and her two colleagues plan to do to keep the public from getting out of control at council sessions.

The last two meetings have ended in shouting matches among representatives of factions in the audience.

"I think the people realize what's happening. It's just that a few malcontents who are off the gravy train are taking potshots at the new conductor," Mr. Reaney said. He added that he believes the next council meeting will be quieter "because the public won't stand for this forever."

Asked whether council would consider stationing policemen in the council chamber to keep order, Mr. Reaney exclaimed, "Oh no, we'd never do that. The people have a right to be heard. If it gets too far out of hand, we'll just call off the meeting."

Mayor Lloyd could not be reached last night for comment. When shouting and catcalls from the audience drowned out her gavel Wednesday night, she adjourned the council meeting.

The packed council chamber was beginning to empty when a scuffle broke out. Former Mayor Harry Graham was seen being led from the hall by John Early, an off-duty police patrolman. Police said the scuffle involved the former mayor and another man they would not identify. No charges were filed.

During the meeting the former mayor had asked council why Patrolman Joseph Weber was removed from temporary duty as a detective and returned to a uniformed role. Mr. Graham stated the officer devoted much of his spare time to solving an arson case at the Walk-In Boys, Carr Ave., this summer, and helped to solve many cases of breaking and entry in the borough.

When he insisted on an answer, Mr. Graham was told by Francis V. Cappadona, borough manager, that the matter was an internal police issue.

Mrs. Elizabeth Connelly, former police records clerk who alleges she was fired by Mr. Cappadona in August "for no reason," questioned the manager's qualifications for office and demanded to know whether he has ever been fingerprinted locally.

It was at this point that the meeting was disrupted forcing the mayor to adjourn the session.

Bids on a new street sweeper for the road department are also returnable Oct. 3.

Mayor Lloyd announced preliminary plans have been submitted for a 150-unit motel to be built on the unused portion of the urban renewal area at Raritan Ave. and the Beachway.

The plans call for a swimming pool, coffee shop and cocktail lounge. The project would constitute a $1.5 million ratable for the borough, Mayor Lloyd said.

The Planning Board will renew the plans in an adjourned session Monday night.

The mayor reported that almost $2,000 was realized as profit from the Fun Week-end last summer in the Joseph F. Kennedy Recreation Center.

There is room now for 60 additional children in the center's pre-school. A program is planned under which mothers of children 4 to 6 years old will be able to leave their children in the pre-school Wednesday afternoons between 12:30 and 3:30 p.m. so they can shop. Supervisors will be paid by the state.

John J. Gough, 73; Retired Trucker

BELFORD — John J. Gough Sr., 77, of 183 Brookside Drive, died yesterday in Riverview Hospital, Red Bank, following a long illness.

Mr. Gough was born in Brooklyn and lived in Newark for most of his life. He moved here 21 years ago.

Mr. Gough was a World War I Army veteran. He served with the American Expeditionary Force in France. Since 1919 he operated Gough and Sons Inc., a trucking company in Newark. The company moved to Edison 15 years ago.

Mr. Gough, who retired in 1950, was a charter member of Teamsters Local 863 of Newark. He was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church, New Monmouth, and a member of its Holy Name Society.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Ann M. Gough; two sons, John J. Gough Jr. and Richard P. Gough, both of Port Monmouth; a brother, Walter Gough of Keansburg; two sisters, Mrs. Catherine Hughes of Highlands, and Mrs. Viola Burkenstock of Belmar; seven grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

The John F. Pfleger Funeral Home, New Monmouth, is in charge of arrangements.

Three Are Named To Recreation Unit

KEANSBURG — Mayor Eileen Lloyd announced the appointments Wednesday night of three persons to the Recreation Commission and two others to the Zoning Board of Adjustment.

Named to a five-year recreation term was Raymond Janesco. Thomas Greennan and William Pickens were named to terms ending next May.

Mrs. Isabelle McDermott was named to the zoning board for a term ending September, 1976. William Maylan was named a board alternate.

The Lawn-A-Mat man believes you should know
Why fall* is the best time to put in a lawn

From his successful experience on over one million lawns coast to coast, the Lawn-A-Mat man knows that Fall seeding is best because:
1. Fall is the seeding time for 15 of 22 seeded grasses including Kentucky Bluegrass and Fescues, the two best kind of lawn grasses.
2. Lawn seed sprouts fastest in cool weather, grows faster too. The Lawn-A-Mat man knows that grass is essentially a cool weather plant. Fall is the time of year when the lawn's enemies, the hot sun, heat, bugs and weeds are on the wane. He agrees with experts who say that Fall is the best time to start a lawn you can be proud of, one that will probably require less expense than you are putting into your present lawn.

Just as Fall is the best time to put in a lawn, the Lawn-A-Mat man is the best man to put in that lawn. Lawn-A-Mat has put in more than one million lawns and has more lawn care professionals from coast to coast than any other service. Its Lawn-A-Magic seed and chemicals are the highest quality, equal to the best you can buy at most garden centers. This means that you get more for your money in the Fall. The Lawn-A-Mat man is offering you Fall Specials to save you even more.

He will do all the work and it will cost you no more than if you did it yourself. All you do is buy the high quality "Lawn-A-Magic" products and the work will be done free! Take your choice of two Fall Specials or ask your Lawn-A-Mat man about the Annual Greenskeeper Program.

Egg Processing Plant In Disposal Complaint

FREEHOLD — The owners and operators of a commercial egg processing plant in Freehold Township are under court order to explain why they should not be stopped from allegedly allowing egg wash water to overflow the septic disposal system.

Freehold Township obtained a court order yesterday from Superior Court Judge Merrit Lane Jr. directing Colonial Poultry Farms Inc., Opatat Development Co., American Planned Communities and Colonial Foods Inc. to show cause Friday, Oct. 5.

In its complaint, Freehold Township said the defendants are all involved in either the ownership or operation of a commercial egg processing plant at 400 Broadway in the township.

The complaint said the defendants were served with notice April 29, 1967, that their operation was in violation of the sanitary code of the township by Isidore Sackowitz, executive officer for the local Board of Health.

The defendants are specifically charged with allowing egg wash water to overflow the septic disposal system and drain into a nearby lagoon pond. The complaints also alleges that this wash water contains among other things, feces from chickens and other microscopic organisms which are detrimental to the health of local residents.

The township said the defendants repeatedly assured the township that the problem was being remedied and no further violations would occur, said the complaint. However, Mr. Sackowitz wrote to the defendants May 25, 1971, that "once again" the disposal system was creating a nuisance, said the complaint.

The defendants replied June 1, 1971, it continued, that they had employed an engineer to bring about a solution and assured the township that there would be no further violations.

The township said that during the latter part of 1972 two municipal court complaints were issued and that on Aug. 2 the defendants were "again issued" a notice of violation. The complaint added that numerous complaints have been received by the township from nearby residents.

The township maintained in its complaint that this form of disposal of wastes creates a strong probability of contaminating subsurface water sources of residents with wells and the municipal water system, and that it constitutes a critical health detriment to the residents.

The complaint, filed by township attorney John A. Kaye, seeks to restrain the defendants from continuing this form of waste disposal and to order them to immediately find ways to alleviate and correct the situation.

Variance Is Recommended For Motel Plan in Hazlet

HAZLET — The Zoning Board of Adjustment last night recommended that the Township Committee grant a use variance to Harry Kampelman, of Red Bank, who seeks to build a motel on a 16-acre tract adjacent to the Rt. 35 Drive-In Theater.

Last month the Planning Board recommended that the Zoning Board rule unfavorably on the application because it found that no need for a motel exists and that the tract is not suited to the use.

The Zoning Board, however, felt that a motel is the best use for the property. It also agreed with the applicant's architect that the motel would provide a good transition between the drive-in and housing on the other side of the tract.

The site spans both a business and a residential zone. The use variance would be needed for the portion in the residential zone, since motels are permitted uses in the business zone.

Another reason for the favorable ruling, the board said, was the central activities of the motel, the pool, coffee shop and cocktail lounge would be in the business zone, with only the sleeping quarters in the residential zone.

The board granted variances to Robert Frazier Builders, Inc., of Woodbridge, and Charles Talamo, of 17 Daniel Drive, to build a single-family houses on undersized lots.

The lot for the Woodbridge applicant measures 76 by 75 feet and is on Willow St. Mr. Talamo's lot on First Ave., West Keansburg, measures 50 by 100 feet.

Honest Charley's of Hazlet, Inc., was granted a variance to erect a sign at its headquarters at 3141 Rt. 35. The sign will be 25 instead of 50 feet from the highway and will be free-standing.

William Colangelo, 19 Lake Drive, and Miss Ann Bechtold, 80 Second St., West Keansburg, were granted variances from rear yard requirements to build additions to their houses.

The board granted relief from sideline requirements to Mrs. Fred Moynihan, 65 Second St., West Keansburg, to permit addition of an attached garage to her home. In certain areas, the strucutre will be 2½ feet from the property line.

Carmine A. Mode, 7 Cork Place, was granted a variance from rear yard and sideline requirements to build a storage shed on his property.

Keansburg Man to Be Sentenced

FREEHOLD — Robert Fennen, 26, of 166 Center Ave., Keansburg, is to be sentenced Oct. 12 for four admitted crimes.

Fennen pleaded guilty to possessing a dangerous knife in Keansburg Sept. 9, 1972; committing atrocious assault and battery upon his wife, Martha, in Keansburg last Jan. 27; possessing heroin in Keansburg Feb. 23, and possessing a revolver without a permit in Neptune March 15.

Robert White, 40 Shore Blvd., Keansburg, will be sentenced Oct. 5 for admittedly committing assault and battery upon Patrolman John Early in Keansburg May 8, 1972.

Superior Court Judge Alton V. Evans set Oct. 12 for sentencing of persons who entered these guilty pleas:

Larry J. Ansell, 25, of 986 Ocean Ave., Elberon, soliciting a lewd act in Wall Township July 25, 1972.

Richard L. Bryan, 26, of 538 Bath Ave., Long Branch, possessing marijuana Aug. 31 in Long Branch, possessing less than five grams of hashish and growing marijuana at his home.

Melford Roper, 21, of Newark, possessing heroin in Matawan March 19.

Robert B. Townsend, 57 Monmouth Road, Oakhurst, issuing a worthless check for $1,805 to Robert Dwyer, trading as Bayard Sales Corp., Philadelphia, Oct. 10, 1972, in Ocean Township.

ABC Charges Red Bank Bar

CRANFORD — The state Division of Alcoholic Beverage Control has charged the Shamrock Bar, 172 Monmouth St., Red Bank, with having seven bottles of whiskey whose labels "did not truly describe their contents."

The ABC says the alleged violations took place on March 20, and has given the owners until Sept. 26 to enter a plea at which time a hearing date will be set.

Conditions in Middletown

Relations between the Middletown Police Department and some young people, along with the parents of many of them, have worsened in recent weeks. Conditions are nothing short of deplorable.

Police Chief Joseph M. McCarthy is an outspoken foe of crime of all nature, and he has been a forceful leader of his department. In the matter of antidrug laws, he insists that they be enforced with the same vigor and diligence as would be applied to any statute, whether it be motor vehicle operations or what some of us refer to as the more serious crimes that involve violence and death.

Regardless of how one feels about marijuana, its use is illegal. Among those 18 years old and above who are now permitted to consume alcoholic beverages, a combination with marijuana or harder drugs has had some dire consequences.

We believe it is most unfortunate that James "The Amazing" Randi scheduled a public meeting a few days before he was to go on trial in Middletown on a charge of interfering with a police officer in the performance of his duty. About 200 young people attended that meeting in the Unitarian Church of Monmouth County in Middletown, and most of them agreed with Mr. Randi's allegation that Middletown police illegally search persons.

Mr. Randi was convicted of the charge against him, and he is appealing it.

A talented entertainer-magician, Mr. Randi undoubtedly is sincere in his belief, but we also question the propriety of his having distributed automobile bumper stickers and shirts with slogans intended to embarrass or antagonize Middletown police.

We used the world "unfortunate" in commeting on Mr. Randi's public meeting because it appeared to be a rallying point to turn Middletown Police Department "upside down." Many youngsters would understand that his statement was intended to call public attention to what he considers illegal practices, but the irresponsible could easily attach other definitions that could lead to illegal acts.

It is always possible that a police officer will overreact when taunted or to "accommodate" those who seem to be inviting arrest. If that has happened in Middletown, it would be a serious problem, but one which won't be solved in the "court of public opinion."

If any segment of the public is annoyed by Middletown's tactics, the recourse is through the courts, not through utterances and statements that are not documented but are highly inflammatory.

There are ample agencies available to serve people who believe their civil rights have been violated or who believe they are victims of police brutality. Evidence, not words, is needed to get those agencies at work, however, and that is what the aggieved should be collecting.

The vast majority of Middletown citizens support Chief McCarthy and his department. He has earned their respect because of his honesty and competence and they are backing him in the current controversy with Mr. Randi. Just about a year ago, we had high hopes that the chief and his officers were gaining rapport with young people through their programs in the schools. The upsetting events of the past week or so shouldn't endanger that spirit.

This is an unhappy time in Middletown, and the police must be vigilant and continue to be effective in their role as protectors of people and property. It also is a time to "cool it" on all sides of the issue. It's a time when each person — young or adult — should be rational in the words spoken so that passions do not run high. This issue must be discussed and resolved — in a fair and objective manner.

Rockefeller's Visit

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's visit to Cherry Hill might be considered a plus for the candidacy of the Republicans' Rep. Charles W. Sandman Jr. for New Jersey's governorship. Most voters consider Mr. Rockefeller to be a liberal, much in the order of our present Republican governor, William T. Cahill. But the absence of Gov. Cahill at the dinner may have negated the effect. The question is why Gov. Cahill was not there.

Rocky's visit may swing some votes to Mr. Sandman, but the congressman still has a lot of work to do to convince us that he is moving to the center from his previous ultra-conservative stance.

We believe his comments on restoration of the death penalty and his strong stand against a statewide income tax really raise questions about how he actually approaches issues. Those stands may have a degree of popularity, but we think Mr. Sandman should be telling us what he thinks New Jersey needs and how he intends to provide them.

On the other side of the fence, Brendan T. Byrne was told by Hudson County Democratic leaders that he could count on carrying the county by 100,000 votes. That was not an unexpected prediction, but we wonder what Mr. Byrne meant by saying that, if elected governor, Hudson would no longer be treated like a stepchild. We weren't aware that our North Jersey neighbors had been given such a status.

The party faithful will probably not desert the man who heads their ticket, but we wish the candidates would realize that their election or defeat may well rest in the hands of independents. These are the people who want to hear something constructive and definite about solving our problems, be they property taxes, education, mass transit, prison reform.

V. P. Replacement Guidelines

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON SCENE

Three major congressional committees have secretly ordered studies of how Congress should respond to the constitutional challenge of ruling on a possible replacement for Vice President Spiro Agnew.

One preliminary study by the Senate Judiciary Committee began more than two weeks ago at a time when Agnew's aides were pooh-poohing any talk of resignation. The other two probes were ordered early this week by the House Judiciary and Senate Rules committees.

All three surveys are intended to prepare Congress for possible eventualities. The committees have no positive information that Agnew might actually resign in the wake of the grand jury investigation of Maryland kickback charges.

Although the replacement of a vice president would be unprecedented in American history, the Senate Judiciary study has already found guidelines in Congress' own rules and in the legislative history of the 25th Amendment. The six-year-old amendment says both houses of Congress must rule on any presidential nominee to succeed a vice president.

The Chairmen

If two sets of hearings are held under the 25th Amendment as is normal on legislation, the Senate Judiciary staff investigation has found it would be headed by Senate Rules chairman Howard Cannon, D-Nev., and House Judiciary chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J. Both are well-regarded, fair-minded lawyers.

One of the most intriguing precedents discovered by the Senate Judiciary staff has eerie parallels with the present situation. Thirty-six years ago, then-Sen. Hugo Black was picked by Pres. Franklin Roosevelt for the Supreme Court. So highly thought of was Black by his Senate conferees that they skipped committee hearings on the controversial nomination. It went straight to the Senate floor where it was approved.

Today, two of the men mentioned in the speculation as replacements for Agnew are also senators — Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa., either of whom could conceivably pass the Senate without hearings.

Another possibility is that Cannon's Rules Committee and Rodino's Judiciary group would hold joint hearings. Rodino's legislative sleuths have already discovered that a decade ago the House Judiciary and Senate Finance committees were ordered by an unusual Act of Congress jointly to study a taxation question. Although House Judiciary wound up doing almost all the work, the old act is a clear precedent for joint vice presidential hearings.

Select Committees

One of several other possibilities turned up by the studies is that a select committee would be appointed by each House or a joint select committee would be appointed by both houses. However, Senate historians feel any effort by the leadership to dislodge Rodino or Cannon as chairmen would be a flagrant slap.

ANDERSON

While Rodino is new to his blue-ribbon Judiciary post, he has been an articulate veteran chairman of other lesser House units for years. And Cannon's committee, while it generally does fuddy-duddy business on Senate procedures, was the forum for dramatic hearings on former Senate majority secretary Bobby Baker exactly 10 years ago.

Meanwhile, the strain between President Nixon and Vice President Agnew is approaching the breaking point. The rival staffs have become hostile camps, spreading rumors and leaking stories against one another.

Sources close to Agnew believe the President has stirred up the charges against Agnew to divert public attention from his own role in the Watergate scandal.

'Marvelous Distraction'

Before Agnew came under investigation in Maryland, they point out, there were public suggestions that the President should resign. This talk has now stopped, because Agnew is no longer an acceptable alternative. Public attention has been focused, instead, upon the possibility that Agnew might resign.

"The charges against Agnew have created a marvelous distraction," said one source. "Now the President can offer up Agnew as a blood offering to placate the public."

Friends of Agnew tell us he is aware of the White House backstabbing but, nevertheless, refuses to believe the President is personally behind it. Spiro Agnew, said a friend, "has this feeling of awe for the presidency, for the White House, which inhibits him from coming to the inevitable conclusion that the President is knifing him."

Saving a Million People

By MILTON VIORST

THE NEW POLITICS

OUAGADOUGOU, Upper Volta — It was barely 7 a.m., before the heat would begin churning up dangerous air currents over the desert, three metric tons of it — were stacked shoulder-high, and lashed tightly to the floor. Two French paratroopers, looking cool and tough in their camouflaged fatigues, lounged on the pile.

The grain had come from the United States, the heavy burlap sacks from Ghana. A team of U.S. Peace Corps volunteers and a group of local African teen-agers had bagged the grain and sewn it up, then loaded it aboard the aircraft, after the Frenchmen had returned from their mission to the Sahara's edge the previous day.

The plane in which I rode was one of two operated by the French out of Ouagadougou. At other points on the periphery of the desert, the Germans, the Belgians and the Canadians also were flying missions. Their objective: to save an estimated million men, women and children from starvation.

It was a half-dozen relentless years of drought in the sub-Sahara that had created these conditions of famine — but, ironically, it was the fall rains that had made the emergency relief necessary.

Marooned People

Indeed, as the plane flew northward through the unsullied atmosphere, we could look down upon unpaved roads that are passable 10 or 11 months a year, but which now run into ponds and rivulets that no surface vehicle can cross. Beyond those ponds and rivulets, the people are marooned.

Why, alas, if drought has been dessicating the land for a half-dozen years, did no one foresee the emergency? Why the inefficiency and expense of airborne relief? The answers are complex.

Food never is plentiful for the citizens of the sub-Sahara. They have one harvest in the early fall, and they parcel out their food to make it last until the next. During the drought years, their reserves grew increasingly thin. Only too late was it realized that, this year, food would run out.

These are people who are not accustomed to looking to the outside world. Spare as their lives are, they are economically self-sufficient. In good years, their herds may even thrive enough to permit them to export meat to the coastal regions. This year, the animals died — and the people would have died, too, had the world not responded to their belated pleas.

As we penetrated deeper into the sub-Sahara, the two Frenchmen got up, casually strapped parachutes to their backs and got to work. They unlashed the sacks of grain, 110 pounds each, and perilously restacked them, one by one, next to the open doors on both sides of the plane.

VIORST

In the cockpit, the pilot, copilot and navigator scanned the horizon in search of their target. About an hour out of Ouagadougou, they found it and made several passes at an altitude of 200 or 300 feet. What lay below was a town of several dozen buildings, mostly of adobe, and rows of robed men and women following us with their eyes.

The pilot took the plane down and, at about 30 feet, the troopers began pushing out the sacks from both doors. THUD-THUD-THUD, went the sacks as they hit the ground and bounced.

Then the pilot made a third low-level pass, this time to inspect the work. The sacks had fallen in the designated area and, apparently, none had broken.

I wondered why the people on the ground did not rush to take possession of the food. Later, I learned that, the week before, two men who had raced out after an initial drop had been hit and killed by sacks during the second drop.

The airborne missions will continue for a few more weeks, until the rainy season is over. Then the trucks will go through, to begin building up reserves. No one knows whether the drought will return after the rains — but the sub-Sahara has learned a lesson and wants to avoid a fresh emergency next year.

Simulated Flight Is Scary

By JIM BISHOP

THE REPORTER

The concrete runway at Atlanta, scarred with dark skid marks, stretched ahead. I sat in the skipper's seat of the Lockheed 1011, high above the ground. Captain T. J. Royall, manager of Eastern Airlines Flight Training, called out the final check list. Then he nodded to me.

The Whisperliner weighed 360,000 pounds. It holds 254 passengers in broad cabins with indirect lighting, giving the effect of a nightclub lounge. "Lift-off is 137 knots," Captain Royall said. I gulped. I had never flown a plane. I have been writing about them, and flying in them, since the Stinsons and Condors were the pride of the fleet.

Royall became impatient. The tower had given us a wave-off. He gentled the three gray throttles forward. The concrete began to loaf under the cabin. I tried to keep the nose wheel on the center line. Scared, my eyes watched the speedometer—one of hundreds of dials in the big cabin. I kept saying: "Don't pull back hard. Don't pull hard." At 138 knots, Royall lifted his arm.

I pulled back and the bumping stopped. The gigantic beast was off the ground. I saw buildings flash under our windshield, and miles of traffic criss-crossing below. I was climbing her at 2,000 feet a minute, with a forward speed of 250 knots. Royall pulled the landing gear up. I forgot.

All of this took place inside a huge building at Miami Airport. There, on three 16-foot hydraulic legs, stands a simulator — an exact replica of the flight deck of the plane. Every instrument functions as it does in the air. In front of the windshield, a big screen shows the airports, depicts takeoffs and landings, and mimics everything that can be done right or wrong to the real airplane.

All Sorts of Panic

The simulator costs $3,000,000, which isn't much less than the cost of the original commercial jetliners. Behind us, unseen, R. E. Bussey Jr., was hitting buttons which induced all sorts of panic in me. I knew the simulator was in a building, but I could look out and down from 6,000 feet and see the towns and villages of the red clay country.

"Take her to the right," Royall said, adjusting throttle settings. I turned the yoke gently. The horizon tilted. She made the turn as she does everything, with grace. The Rolls Royce engines, so big that you can run a small plane straight through them, hummed softly.

"Give us a zero-zero landing," Royall said. Bussey double-crossed him. He pressed a button indicating that the left engine was afire. Royall grinned at me. "You're the captain," he said. "See that red light? You have a fire aboard." I swallowed again. "I want to go home," I said.

"Pressing bottle one," he said, and pressed a fire-dousing chemical. The red light remained on. "Pressing two," he said, and the red light changed to green. The fire was out. We were flying without effort on two engines, but Bussey had us coming into Miami blind.

Little by little, I brought the plane down. "No," said Royall tersely. He pointed to an instrument. "There is your plane. That white strip below is the runway. Turn on your Instrument Landing System and she'll bring herself down without a bump. You don't have to see anything."

BISHOP

No Down; No Up

I tried it. It was black out front. Nothing could be seen. No down; no up. "Watch the white strip come up to meet your plane," the captain said. I watched, numb. We were at 1,000 feet and cleared for final approach. At 100 feet altitude, I could see nothing. The white landing strip on the panel was rising to meet the wheels of the plane. At the first bump, I could see the concrete and the night lights. Royall took it. He applied foot brakes—we were doing 120 m.p.h.—and eased off on the engines and put the clamshells into reverse.

We ground to a shuddering stop. I was a lousy captain, but I didn't wreck the plane. As Bussey and Royall explained more and more about the extreme sophistication of the Lockheed 1011 (at 30,000 feet it will even register a turbulence of only 10 feet), I determined to fly the simulator more.

I made eight takeoffs and landings. Once, I quit. We were five miles out of O'Hara in Chicago, on final approach with 20 per cent flaps, when I looked ahead and saw another jet racing down "our" runway for takeoff. "Take it, Thad," I hollered. He shook his head no and pointed to another red light.

"Bussey made us lose our hydraulic brakes. You bring her in." I brought her down over highways I wished I was on, and Chicago bungalows and factories I wished I was in. I used all of the runway to stop the big plane.

As we left, my wife helped me on with my coat. "Think of all the crews who are trained in that thing," she said. "Let's face it. You'll never be a pilot. Why not go back to writing?" . . .

Tricking the Washington Tappers

By ROBERT YOAKUM

ANOTHER LOOK

As everyone knows, dozens of people have been bugged or tapped by the Nixon Administration, from newspapermen down through Henry Kissinger's assistants to the President's brother Donald.

It was inevitable, I suppose, that my practical joker friend, Jason Hunter, would feel compelled to take advantage of this conspiratorial atmosphere.

Jason decided to call friends in government whose phones might be tapped — people. He began with Sumner Scratch, a research analyst for the State Department.

"Hello, this is Jason Hunter speaking. Is Mr. Scratch in, please?"

"Just a moment, Mr. Hunter, I'll see."

Scratch came on the phone.

"Hello, Jason, you retarded rat. What sort of foul play are you up to this time!"

"What kind of greeting is that?" complained Jason. "What did I ever do to you?"

'Short Memory'

"You sure do have a conveniently short memory," said Scratch, "but I suppose if you didn't you'd be forced to deep-six yourself in the polluted waters of the Potomac."

"What are you taling about?" asked Jason in an injured tone.

"Are you really going to pretend you don't remember writing those post cards from France signed Brigitte and Francoise and Murielle — and sending them to my home address where my wife would be certain to see them?"

"Sumner, do you really think I'd do anything that sleazy to a lifelong freind? That could cause real trouble, especially for a man who travels as much as you do."

"You're damned right it could cause real trouble. It did cause real trouble, you black-hearted, beetle-brained old . . ."

"watch it, Sumner. Your phone might be tapped, you know."

There was a short silence at the other end of the line. "Okay, Jason, what do you want?"

"It's about the . . ." (and here Jason began to whisper) ". . . confidential story you leaked to my fellow columnist, J.A."

YOAKUM

"I didn't hear the last part, Jason. Speak up."

"It's about the confidential story you leaked to my fellow columnist, J.A."

"What in God's name are you talking about? I didn't leak any story to any . . . Oh, oh! I see what you're doing. Why you slimy so-and-so! You think my phone's tapped and you're playing one of your stupid practical jokes."

"I'm sorry, Sumner," said Jason, again in a low voice. "I'll come over to your office to discuss it."

"No, no, no!" Sumner bellowed. "Cut this out!"

Sumner's secretary, who couldn't avoid hearing him yelling in the next room, later told a friend that she had never heard her boss use such words before.

"I certainly hope his phone isn't tapped," she added. "Using that kind of language could get him in trouble."

Meanwhile, Jason was dialing a friend at the Pentagon to warn him that he was drinking too much at cocktail parties and talking too freely about the Watergate mess.

Pinetree Players' Opener Called Uneven

By BETTE SPERO

SPRING LAKE — The Pinetree Players production of "The Gingerbread Lady" gives us a lot of food for thought in which to open the local community theater season because the show has met all the pitfalls to which amateur drama falls prey.

There is an air of lack of preparation about the show and a lack of interest on potential audiences' part that is even more disheartening.

It doesn't matter how many nights you practice but how that practice performs during a regular show and Pinetree's rehearsals should have been more well spent in a qualitative sense.

Real troupers give their all, however, and on that score Pinetree rates an unequivocal A for effort. They played to the house as if it were packed, and it's really a shame it wasn't for spectators missed a show that truly delighted despite its glaring unevenness.

The play moved quickly and drew lots of good, spontaneous reaction from the very sparse audience. Playwright Neil Simon had very much wanted this work, the story of an alcoholic, has-been singer, to be accepted as a drama but true to Simonesque form, the laughs always come through and in this production they are the strongest point.

But the show is a little too extroverted, something for which I blame director Norman Hart. Mr. Hart, who had the same directorial uncontrol in "Butterflies Are Free," should not take it for granted that his players are ready for such artistic license.

He should exercise his directorial discipline more heavy handedly so the product comes out as a well-meshed whole, instead of a series of up and down spurts. Mr. Hart, with his previous selection and direction of "The Cave Dwellers," has shown he has the interest and the talent; now is the time to show us he can disseminate it consistently.

The acting is also too rambunctious to be considered uniformly polished work. It is all just a bit too high strung and at time borders on the school of the hysterical.

Lines Are Fluffed

On opening night lines galore were fluffed by everyone with the nervousness running rampant throughout the whole show, constantly detracting from what is essentially a very fine play.

Pinetree has run into every bit of bad luck possible, except literally breaking its leg on opening night, and I have taken that into consideration. The play was a last minute replacement for "House Of Blue Leaves," which the group was unable to cast, and a very able replacement indeed.

Then one of the stars, Evelyn Franzoni, an accomplished actress who would be an asset to any cast, took ill a few days before opening night and could not perform the role of Toby.

But Cleo Zizos is one of the best embodiments the word trouper ever had in Monmouth County. Community theater cannot usually afford the luxury of understudies so Mrs. Zizos' feat of stepping into Toby's role and playing it (not merely reading) is a commendable one.

From earliest times, loaves of French bread were given a unique use in New Orleans. Nuns in the convents slit them lengthwise and filled the loaves with slices of meat, cheese, and whatever else was found in the larder. When waifs knocked at the doors asking for a pourboire, ("a dime for a cup of coffee", as it would be expressed later), the nuns handed out these filling sandwiches. Eventually they became known more popularly as "poor boy" sandwiches, as they are called in New Orleans to this day.

Szechuan Cuisine Unique Here

By SHERRY FIGDORE

EATONTOWN — Over the centuries, each of China's 35 provinces has developed its own unique cuisine. But what most Americans know as Chinese food is generally in the Cantonese style — "American-style Chinese," Geoffrey Liu, owner of the Peking Garden Chinese Restaurant here on Main St., calls it.

The "real, authentic Chinese food," says Mr. Liu, is in the sophisticated Mandarin style, developed as an art form by the chefs in the royal courts of Peking.

The local Peking Garden is offering both Mandarin specialities and dishes from Szechuan, a southwestern province where foods are hot, spicy and exotic.

The amount of spice in the Szechuan dishes is left to the diner's discretion, and Mr. Liu suggests bringing along either cold American beer or a good imported or domestic wine as a proper accompaniment. The restaurant has no liquor license.

Each order is handled separately and individual portions are stir-fried in peanut oil in woks the size of small snow saucers, then sauced and served to order.

Shin Fah Lee, who presides over the Peking Garden kitchen, is a third generation master chef and has, according to Mr. Liu, "1,000 recipes in his head."

The restaurant's scarlet menu lists about 150 items, but the chefs will make any dish on special order.

On the current menu are such rare treats as spring rolls and shrimp toast, shiny noodle and meat ball soup, abalone and chicken soup or beef with bean curd, broccoli or scallions.

Or one may try "chunked chicken showered with ginger sauce," Szechuan tea-smoked duck, Peking duck (which must be ordered in advance), prawns with hot garlic sauce, or moo shu pork, tender bits of meat and vegetable slivers rolled up in delicate rice-flour pancakes.

Rice and bean flours are the bases of most of the noodle products used in the Peking style, Mr. Lui said. Cantonese chefs use wheat flour, resulting in a heavier dough.

The owner, who formerly managed New York's Szechuan Restaurant, greets his guests in a dinner jacket in the candle-lighted, two-level dining room. He is delighted to explain specialties on the menu point out the subtle differences between black mushrooms and "black fungus."

Fresh vegetables are trucked in daily from a Chinese farm near Freehold that supplies many of the New York markets. Spices, fungi, and speciality items like the dessert loquats or winter bamboo shoots are purchased in New York or imported directly.

Through all the explanations, Mr. Kiu, who was born on the Chinese mainland but grew up in Taiwan, claims that "I personally feel I do not know about cooking. I'm the business type."

A listener who finds Mr. Liu holds a bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of San Francisco and has done graduate work in economics at the New York State University at Brockport, agrees that he has a point.

Mrs. Liu, whose father is a prominent restaurateur in Taiwan, grew up in the professional food business and acts as bookkeeper for the Peking Garden in addition to running their home here in Eatontown and keeping up with the couple's three-and five-year-old son and daughter.

A take-out menu provides 87 house specialities including lobster with black bean sauce, barbecued spareribs and Buddhist Delight, a delectable vegetarian combination of snow peas, three varieties of mushroom, bean curd and other vegetables.

Pine Tree's Opener Seen As Uneven

Mrs. Zizos' portrayal is not believable, however, because her dialogue does not jive with her demeanor. A woman obsessed with narcissim, as Toby is, would be jaded or vacuous but Mrs. Zizos comes off as a fairly nice human being. She should toughen up her portrayal and technically needs much work on making her soft, accented voice more clearly understood.

Henry Franzoni as the homosexual actor Jimmy rings his dialogue true, loud and clear, and though his pronounced portrayal is too high-spirited for my tastes, it holds the play together.

His strength is desperately needed in the show and really does a beautiful job of making his onstage moments, as well as those of the characters he plays against, lively. That is also the case with Kay Stansbury who plays the leading role of the singer Evie.

Both Mrs. Stansbury and Mr. Franzoni fire the show with their power, serving as fine contrasts to the less prominent personalities of Toby, Evie's daughter Polly, the singer's lover Lou and the delivery boy Manuel.

Maggi Smith as Polly shows an accomplishment that belies her childlike appearance and wholesome mien. But she has a tiny voice to match her tiny frame and must project her dialogue more forcefully in order to guard against throwing away lines.

James Flaugherty as Manuel is a perfect example of how an actor can turn a minor role into a memorable one. Young Mr. Flaugherty is a delight and shows amazing sensitivity at not underplaying or overplaying the role. The only thing wrong with his part is that it wasn't a bigger one.

Mr. Hart as Lou displays the proper sardonic assurance of the heel-lover but Lou has such a disinterested demeanor (You know the type — bored with life and all that jazz) he runs the danger of disinteresting the audience. Mr. Hart could sharpen his portrayal, make Lou a real s.o.b. or something, anything to get some feeling into the part.

Or better yet, perhaps Miss Smith or Mr. Flaughterty have a friend who can play Lou and Mr. Hart's time can be better spent with his main task, the direction of the play.

"The Gingerbread Lady" will be performed again 8:30 tonight and tomorrow night at the Spring Lake Community House Theater, 3rd and Madison Aves.

Duke Ellington to Appear in Ocean Grove

OCEAN GROVE — World famous composer-conductor-pianist Duke Ellington, who brings his new Concert of Sacred Music to the Ocean Grove Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 29, has been awarded six honorary doctorates recently by major colleges and universities.

He was presented with parchments certifying him as a Doctor of Music at Yale, Washington and Wilberforce Universities and at Morgan State College, Baltimore, Md., as well as being named a Doctor of Fine Arts of California College of Arts and Crafts and a Doctor of Humanities at Wisconsin's Milton College.

With his myriad achievements and accolades, Dr. Ellington has become the most honored musician in the world. He has received the New York City Medallion of Honor, designating him as musical "Man of All Years" and keys to scores of cities and towns around the world. Duke Ellington, his orchestra and their music were chosen by President Lyndon B. Johnson to represent the United States at the First World Festival of Negro Arts in Dakar, Senegal.

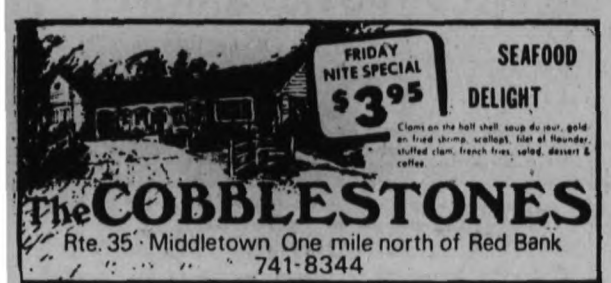

Above all, however, Dr. Ellington rates his scared concerts. He humbly described his first one at San. Francisco's Grace Cathedral in 1965 as "the most important thing I've ever done . . . my greatest opportunity."

Shoppell Again Directs Monmouth Chorus

RED BANK — Monmouth Civic Chorus will open its 24th season with a new director. William R. Shoppell Jr., who served as director of the chorus from 1962 to 1966 and then as associate conductor, has again been appointed conductor of the chorus.

A graduate of Lebanon Valley College, Pa., he received his Masters of Music Education at Columbia University, and has studied voice and conducting in Colorado and New York.

His fine bass voice is known throughout the shore area. Among his many and varied musical experiences are included: 10 years as Minister of Music and soloist at First Methodist Church, Asbury Park; soloist at Monmouth Reform Temple in New Shrewsbury; choir director at First Presbyterian Church, Asbury Park.

Mr. Shoppell has directed and appeared in many "Gilbert and Sullivan" productions, most recently, "Pirates of Penzance" in 1970, with the Monmouth Civic Chorus. He has had numerous solos with the chorus as well as with other oratorio and opera groups.

Mr. Shoppell is chairman of the Music Department of the Freehold Regional High School system and also teaches instrumental music

Holmdel High Facilities Are Nearing Completion

HOLMDEL — The gymnasium, auditorium and industrial arts classrooms of the new township high school on Crawfords Corner Road are expected to be occupied by Oct. 1, according to William R. Satz, superintendent of schools.

They are the only major areas of the building not yet completed. Students are now attending classes in the other instructional areas.

Dr. Satz also reported at Wednesday's Board of Education meeting that the tennis courts and running track should be completed next week. Because of a difficulty in acquiring steel, he said, the bleachers in the outdoor stadium probably wouldn't be installed until the middle of October.

The board authorized the establishment of an in-service course to increase staff ability to recognize and help the learning disabled child. It will start in November and will be limited to 50 members of the school district's staff.

Home instruction for students who will be absent a minimum of 20 days was authorized. The state will pay for 50 per cent of the cost.

The board approved establishment of a health council to deal with all phases of public health in the schools, such as review of present health programs and development of emergency health procedures. The board's vice-president, school physician, the high school nurse and Dr. Satz will be members of the council.

On Dr. Satz's recommendation, the board voted to provide two school buses to transport students to the first away football game Saturday, with the stipulation that the superintendent study the feasibility of providing buses for future games.

The board approved a $24 per-day salary for substitute teachers. The only dissenter was board member George S. Kinkade Jr., who said the pay should be higher.

Action was held on the awarding of a contract for sod and seeding at the high school. Bids were received by the board Monday.

A report on the results of standardized achievement tests given in all township elementary grades last spring was postponed until the board's October meeting because Dr. Thomas Mahoney, school district psychologist, was not able to attend last night's meeting.

Practical Nurses Graduate Today

The class completed its Phase I training at the Department of Vocational Education Building, Long Branch, and the clinical phases at Bayshore Community Hospital, Hazlet, Freehold Area Hospital, Freehold Township, Riverview Hospital, Red Bank, and the New Jersey Psychiatric Hospital, Marlboro.

Marvin A. Clark, president of the board, will address the class and present the diplomas.

The opening Flag Salute will be led by Mrs. Alice K. Phillips, instructor, and the closing Nightingale pledge will be led by Mrs. Rosemary Smock, instructor.

The graduates: Justine R. Andrews, Dora M. Barnes, Elizabeth A. Baur, Rosemary E. Caponigro, Ann E. Clinton, Suzanne B. Conley, Geraldine V. Criscillo, Brenda E. Day, Susan E. DeMarco, Kathy J. Property Ownership

By SYLVIA PORTER

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

Most of the couples we know who own houses own them jointly — and most of them also are befuddled about the tax aspects of their jointly owned property and are in doubt about how to handle those assets.

"What do you do?" is a question we are often asked, and when we answer we own our house as "tenants by the entirety," we have accurate records about our purchases and our lawyer says it's okay, a typical response is a quick change of subject.

How do you own your house or other assets? If you own property jointly, are you doing the right thing? It is vitally important that you determine, with the help of your lawyer, whether the property you own jointly is held as:

1 — "Tenants by the entirety;"

2 — "Tenants in common;"

Survivor Takes All

3 — "Joint tenants" with only a lifetime interest in the property and your survivor taking all;

4 — "Joint tenants with right of survivorship;"

5 — "Community property" (in certain states).

To illustrate, if the names of both the husband and the wife appear on the deed to their house, they are said to own the house as tenants by the entirety. When one spouse dies, the other becomes the sole owner. Only real estate can be held this way and it can be held this way only by a husband and wife.

But let's say the husband and a friend of his purchase a piece of property with the idea of building vacation cottages on it. Title to the property is held in both names. In most states, this constitutes a tenancy in common. In this case, each man owns an undivided one-half interest in the property, and either may sell his interest or dispose of it in whatever manner he chooses when he dies. The other partner keeps only his share of the property — in this example, one-half — with the balance going into the estate of the tenant in common who died, to be distributed according to the terms of his will.

Joint Tenancy

Other assets — e.g., joint bank accounts, stocks and bonds — can be held in joint tenancy and passed along outside the will. In this type of arrangement, two or more persons own a given property as joint tenants. If one of them dies, his interest in the property passes outside his will directly to the other tenant or tenants (survivor or survivors).

When a husband and wife together own assets worth not more than $60,000, it is generally wise for them to hold title to all their assets as joint tenants with right of survivorship. This assures that all such assets will pass directly to the survivor when one spouse dies. There will be no complicated probate proceedings and no death taxes, except, perhaps, in states that impose a state inheritance tax.

But when the value of your property exceeds $60,000, holding all assets in joint ownership could actually force you to pay far greater death taxes than any amount you could save in probate costs.

Do not fall into the widespread misconception that this type of ownership always frees property from estate taxes. It does no such thing.

For example, under federal estate tax law, it is assumed that all property held in joint names belongs to the owner who dies first, and the burden is on the estate to prove otherwise. Say a husband buys some property and names his wife as joint owner with him. If he should die, the full property — not half — will be included in his taxable estate. Or, if the wife dies first, the treasury could take the position that the wife was the original owner and that the property should be fully taxable in her estate.

As a further illustration of the pitfalls of jointly held property, say the wife dies first and the property consists of securities which were bought many years ago and were put in joint names. If the husband is unable to prove that he contributed the money with which to buy the securities, he might have to pay a sizable tax on the value of the securities which belonged to him in the first place. This problem of having to prove who paid for what — sometimes many years after a joint tenancy is created — is often sound reason not to create a joint tenancy in the first place.

Therefore, if you have jointly owned property:

— Keep accurate records showing how the property was acquired, who put up how much of the money, and have proof;

— Go the joint ownership route only on the advice of a competent estate lawyer — especially if your estate is a large one.

Vincent Zlata

Mexico City Trip Won By Zlata

NEW YORK — The Equitable Life Assurance Society has announced that Vincent Zlata attended the divisional leaders conference in Mexico City.

Mr. Zlata started with Equitable in July, 1971. In his first year, he qualified by making the "600" Club. His consistent record of high production and quality performance qualified him for the trip.

Mr. Zlata resides in Belford with his wife, Joy, and their children.

Nogueras Gets Post With Arlen

NEW YORK — Peter B. Nogueras has been named leasing manager of Arlen Development Company, with duties including leasing of the soon-to-be-expanded Monmouth Shopping Center in Eatontown, N.J.

When expansion is completed, the center will include five department stores and about 130 mall shops.

Before being named to the Arlen post, Mr. Nogueras was with Feist & Feist, a Newark based leasing and managing company that serves as resident agents for Monmouth Shopping Center. The Feist firm will continue to operate as managers of the center.

Mr. Nogueras lives in Cedar Grove, N.J.

Arlen, which developed Monmouth Shopping Center, owns and manages more than 200 shopping centers in the U.S. It is a division of Arlen Realty & Development Corp.

Woman Heads Bank Branch

BRADLEY BEACH — Robert B. Barlow, president of The Central Jersey Bank and Trust Company, has announced the appointment of Mrs. Gwendolyn King as vice president and manager of the office here.

The first woman to head the office, she succeeds Andrew Milligan, who retired Sept. 1 after 47 years with the bank.

Mrs. King and her husband, Edgar King, a pianist, live at 1503 Rustic Drive, Ocean Township. They have two children: Edgar King Jr., a teacher at Neptune High School, and Mrs. Kenneth Hamernick, both of Ocean Township, and three granddaughters.

Quality Portfolio

By ROGER E. SPEAR

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Q — Would you please comment on the enclosed portfolio? We are in our 50s and well covered by insurance, pensions and have no debts. Our portfolio is now 60 per cent in growth stocks and 40 per cent income investments. Three of our common stocks make up 48 per cent of our investments but these were bought many years ago and have increased in value many times. From here on until retirement we plan to buy good-quality, high-yield bonds. — O.M.

A — Your portfolio of investments has obviously been carefully and thoughtfully planned. Included in the list of 11 top-quality holdings are such growth issues as: First Chicago Corp. (NYSE) and Minnesota Mining & Mfg. (NYSE) and income stocks such as Lone Star Gas (NYSE) and B. F. Saul REIT (NYSE). Fixed-income investments which account for 20 per cent of the total include: tax-exempt bonds, a mortgage and savings. You also have a diversified portfolio with each holding representing a different industry from computers to petroleum and communications to photographic supplies. Keep up the good work; you are certainly on the right track.

Q — Do you recommend a passbook account at a savings and loan stock corporation insured to $30,000 by the Maryland Savings-Share Insurance Corp.? How safe is this insurance company? How does this compare with savings and loans insured by Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corp? — D.G.

A — This insurance fund has been in operation since 1962 and presently covers depositors' accounts in close to 150 savings and loan associations in Maryland. It was created by special statute, authorized by the state's legislature, and operates under state supervision. State Chartered Associations which are covered by the Maryland Savings-Share Insurance Corp. are not directly regulated by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board although state regulatory authorities frequently adopt policies similar to those of the FHLBB. You may rest assured that an account insured under this fund is secure. However, if you want further information I suggest you contact the agency which regulates savings and loan associations in Maryland.

Mustang II Ghia

Ford Mustang II. A new class of small car: First Class.

Mustang II is 19 inches shorter than last year's Mustang . . . even a bit shorter than the original one. It's more than a new Mustang. It's a whole new class of small car: First Class. In every way. From its jewel-like exterior to its handsomely appointed interior, the new Mustang II gives you a luxurious level of standard equipment you probably never expected to find on a small car. Yet Mustang II still carries an economical small-car price. Mustang II comes in two different body styles, four different models. See them soon.

1974 Ford Torino. The solid mid-size.

Gran Torino Brougham 2-Door Hardtop shown with optional deluxe bumper group.

Torino's got a new young look this year. Excitingly restyled outside . . . exciting new features inside. And lots of solid car to go with them. A new young look, a smooth and steady ride. That's Torino '74.

1974 Ford LTD. The quiet full-size.

Quiet, luxurious, beautifully built: that's LTD for '74. A high level of craftsmanship wherever you look, from the fit of the doors, hood and trunk to the impressive list of LTD features. Steel belted radial tires. Automatic transmission. Power steering. Power brakes, and more. All standard on LTD for '74.

Progress Reported In MS Research

OCEAN GROVE — Progress in the quest to isolate the cause of multiple sclerosis has been reported by Dr. Gerald F. Whalen of Red Bank, chairman of the medical advisory board of the Monmouth-Ocean Counties Chapter of the National MS Society.

The upsurge in MS research, he says, is due to several factors. One is the direction being provided by the recently created National Advisory Commission on Multiple Sclerosis. Another is the $100,000 Ralph I. Straus Award, the largest prize ever offered in American medical history.

Another source of encouragement is the discovery by three teams of researchers of a parainfluenza virus in the brain tissue of MS patients. "We have not yet proved that this virus is the cause of multiple sclerosis," Dr. Whalen says, "but it further supports the long-held theory that the disease is caused by a slow-acting virus."

Increased interest in MS research, he says, is exemplified by the society itself. In 1952, it raised $315,000 in its annual Hope Chest fund drive. In 1972, it raised $10,701,480. The society has headquarters on Main Ave., here.

Jiffy-Quick Steak

By BARBARA GIBBONS

For the cook with only seconds to spare there's no handier meat than the minute steak. Thin slices of machine-tenderized beef, these jiffy-quick skillet steaks take only a minute or two to prepare. They offer a definite bonus for calorie counters: most are cut from the fat-trimmed "round" of beef, one of the least-fattening parts, and weigh in at a skimpy 612 calories per pound. Beef rib, on the other hand, can be 2,000 calories or more!

The Slim Gourmet

Minute steaks are sometimes labeled "skillet steaks," "cube steaks" or "sandwich steaks." But be sure they're cut from beef round. Steaks from a cheaper cut will be fatty and less tender. They should be one-quarter-to-one-half-inch thick and may be cut in individual quarter-pound portions.

You may sprinkle them, if you like, with meat tenderizer and a little water. Because the tenderizer spreads through the meat, the steaks will be ready to cook immediately. They may also be stored in the freezer and cooked without defrosting . . . in which case they'll be "three-or four-minute steaks!"

With a little imagination it's easy to turn minute steaks into a delightful, diet-wise dinner:

MINUTE STEAKS WITH MUSHROOMS

garlic salt and pepper
4-ounce can button or sliced mushrooms
2 tablespoons dried onion flakes
4 tablespoons dry sherry wine (or mushroom liquid)

Season steaks. Combine with remaining ingredients in a large nonstick skillet over moderate flame. When liquid evaporates, brown steaks 60 seconds on each side. Stir onions and mushrooms to brown evenly. Makes four servings, 165 calories each.

MINUTE STEAKS PARMIGIANA

onion or garlic salt
16-ounce can plain tomato sauce (no oil added)
½ teaspoon oregano or Italian seasoning
2 ounces (4 thin slices) part-skim mozzarella cheese

Season steaks. Brown 30 seconds each side in a nonstick skillet over high heat. Pour on tomato sauce. Top each steak with mozzarella and oregano. Continue to cook uncovered until tomato sauce bubbles and cheese is melted. Makes four servings, 225 calories each.

MINUTE STEAKS IN BEER

salt and papper
½ teaspoon sugar
pinch of sage
1 tablespoon flour
2 tablespoons dried onion flakes
1 cup beer

Season steaks. Brown 30 seconds each side in a nonstick skillet over high heat. Sprinkle steaks with flour on both sides. Add onion flakes and beer. Simmer, uncovered, until the beer evaporates into a thick sauce. Makes four servings, 180 calories each.

Newcomers Club Welcoming Tea

HOLMDEL — A welcoming tea for new women in the area will be hosted by the Holmdel and Colts Neck Newcomers Club Thursday at 9:30 a.m. here in the United Church of Christ, Main St., where the club meets the fourth Thursday of each month.

The Newcomers Club was formed last year and members help new residents assimilate into the community, promote charity and fellowship and generate community service.

At its annual luncheon in the Bamm Hollow Country Club Mrs. William Lauten, president, was installed. Also seated were Mrs. George Boehm, first vice president; Mrs. John Chavers, second vice president; Mrs. Frank Codella, recording secretary; Mrs. Stewart Bucher, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Henry Dunn, treasurer.

Next Thursday's meeting, open to all new residents, will be the first of the new season. Babysitting is available by calling Mrs. William J. Lauten, 5 Field Gate Court, here.

Woelfle-Perry

FAIR HAVEN — Miss Karen J. Perry of Avenel Blvd., Long Branch, daughter of the late Mrs. Ellen Hughes Perry of Little Silver, became the bride of Richard H. Woelfle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur F. Woelfle, Third Ave., Neptune City, Aug. 25 here in the Catholic Church of the Nativity. Officiating was the pastor, the Rev. Donald E. Hickey.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle William F. Perry 2nd, West Paterson, was attended by Mrs. Charles D. Nelson. Flower girl was Carla Denise Nelson.

Mrs. Woelfle, a graduate of Red Bank Catholic High School and Brookdale Community College, Lincroft, is with the Curley Adjustment Bureau, Oakhurst.

Mr. Woelfle, a graduate of A. D. Eisenhower High School and Monmouth College, West Long Branch, is with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Asbury Park. The couple reside in Long Branch.

Gifford-Carlin

DARIEN, Conn. — Jane Carlin and Benjamin Gleason Gifford were married here Saturday afternoon in Talmadge Hill Community Church. The Rev. Kenneth Ruehl officiated.

The bride is the daughter of the late Harry J. Carlin who was a sports columnist for the New York Herald Tribune, and the late Elizabeth A. Carlin, assistant to the director of MCOSS Family Health and Nursing Service, Red Bank, N.J., and a president of the Jersey Shore Public Relations Association. The Carlin family resided in Navesink, N.J.

Mr. Gifford is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Paxson Gifford here. His father is with Consolidated Reactive Metals, Mamaroneck, N.Y.

H. Paxson Gifford Jr. was best man and the ushers were Glen Eichman, Michael Chwastyk, Robert Stader and James Carlin.

Ms. Carlin, who has chosen to retain her maiden name, was graduated from Southern Connecticut State College and is employed as a teacher of French and Spanish by the Greenwich Connecticut Public School System.

Mr. Gifford was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania and is a mortgage analyst for Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association of America, New York.

The couple will reside in Stamford.

Quinn-Leone

KEYPORT — Miss Edna Leone, daughter of Councilman and Mrs. George L. Leone, 22 Monroe St., was married here Sept. 8 in St. Mary's Episcopal Church, to William Quinn, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Quinn, 712 Prospect Ave., Union Beach. There was a reception in The CobbleStones, Middletown.

Miss Barbara Leone was maid of honor. Also attending the bride were Miss Diane Quinn, Miss Elizabeth Cahill, Miss Abbe McCann, Mrs. Michael Durko Jr. and Miss Edna McCleaster. Kathleen Barrett was flower girl.

Michael Quinn was best man. The ushers were Richard Barber, James Barrett, John Schanck, Mr. Durko and John McCleaster.

Mr. and Mrs. Quinn are graduates of Keyport High School. She is employed by Peoples National Bank, Hazlet, and Mr. Quinn is with International Flavors and Fragrances, Union Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Quinn will reside here.

Time for a Confab

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: We are fortunate in that we have a lovely, motherly-type woman who will come and stay with our children evenings, weekends — whenever we want her. The children love "Aunt Belle" and she loves them.

A problem has come up and I don't know how to handle it.

"Aunt Belle" is deeply religious and her religion is different from ours. She talks a great deal about her concepts which are not compatible with what our children are learning in Sunday school. For the oldest girl's birthday last week, "Aunt Belle" gave her a crucifix. This symbol is not worn by people of our faith. I said nothing, but I was not pleased. This afternoon my mother was here and when she saw the crucifix around the child's neck she blew up. The child is bewildered and can't understand what all the yelling was about. I realize now I mishandled the whole thing.

How can I set this matter straight without hurting "Aunt Belle's" feelings? — Smart Too Late

Dear S.T.L.: First, explain to the child why she can't wear the crucifix. Then have a friendly chat with "Aunt Belle." Ask her not to discuss religion with your children. Tell her they are becoming confused. Explain that your child cannot wear the religious symbol and ask her if she would mind if the child kept it as a memento..

Dear Ann Landers: How can I protect myself against a vicious liar? This person has been telling some terrible lies about me to anyone who will listen. I do believe she is a mental case. We are distant relatives and grew up together.

When I faced her with some of the stories she denied everything. In fact, she shrewdly twisted things around and made the person who told me the story look like a lair.

I need your advice. — Muddied A-Plenty

Dear M.: A person's record of performance is his best protection against destructive gossip. What you are speaks far more eloquently than anything anyone could say. Don't waste time or energy defending yourself. If the woman is as vicious as you say, people know it by this time.

Confidential to Knocked Down To My Knees By Trouble: So long as you're on your knees why not pray a little? Prayer has brought many discouraged and heart-sick people the strength they needed to pick themselves up and get moving. It works.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's And Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 35c in coin along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and your request to this newspaper.

Marital Conflict

By DR. JAMES M. LONG

Marriage can become the focal point for conflict which actually may have originated outside of the home and the marriage. Most married couples do not realize that a short temper and an angry outburst can be traceable to outside influences that are carried by a man or a woman into his family life. Unfortunately, unrecognized feelings of anger and frustration can initiate secondary reactions in the form of marital conflict. If children live within the household they are not spared from the attacks of a parent.

Family Counselor

Sometimes an individual may find himself bored with his daily life; and instead of trying to cope with his boredom, he may find a quick answer by placing the blame for his unhappiness on his marriage. It is for this reason that each alleged marital problem has to be scrutinized in order to determine the origin of the unhappiness.

One of the misconceptions about marriage includes the idea that the sex drive is the only motivating force in marriage and, therefore, a basic reason for the marriage. However, another source of energy, the aggressive drive, plays a vital role in the development of the marriage. The person's initiative, his self-assertiveness, forms of self-protectiveness and the ability to say "no" are evidence of positive uses of aggression.

We are all aware that when the aggressive drive is not under control, difficulties in day to day living result. Individuals find it hard to cope with the simplest forms of frustration and are constantly finding themselves in difficulty. Their frustration-tolerance is nearly non-existent, and may result in out-of-control rage.

Norman To Become Angry

From time to time it is normal for people to become angry with others. Sometimes the anger is justified and can result in a change in attitude or behavior. What should concern us is when a situation becomes so intolerable that frustration develops and one is faced with the question of withdrawal or to "hit out" at something. If frustration is experienced too intensely, or the situation appears hopeless, apathy or withdrawal may appear instead of aggression.

It sometimes happens that a person might attempt to contain his anger, but unfortunately this could develop into a hidden type of hatred, and it is only a question of time before it becomes explosive. Often, the "straw that breaks the camel's back" starts off as a minor incident — one easily within the confines of marriage.

An illustration of the displacement of one's frustration and anger is shown in the following case. This particular situation was brought to the attention of the counselor by the local school system. It concerned the behavior of a previously happy, outgoing nine-year-old child whose personality had changed since the beginning of the school year. Since then, he had become quite abusive and hostile toward other children. The youngster lived with his father and mother and with two younger brothers. His father was employed in a local government installation and had enjoyed a successful and lucrative career.

After an investigation was made, it became apparent that the father's behavior had recently undergone a complete change. It appeared that this had happened when his former supervisor had retired and a new person was appointed to replace him. The father's new superior was someone with whom he could not relate at all. As a result, he soon discovered that he hated his job; and, in fact, he resented the fact that he had to go to work at all. By the end of each day, his anger and hatred for his job, and, specifically for his boss, were difficult for him to control. At home, his anger and frustration became explosive and appeared in the form of unreasonable demands and in physical abuse toward his older son. In turn, the youngster was unable to understand his father's reaction to him, and he developed his own hostility which was expressed within the school system.

In order to assist the youngster, the father had to be helped to face his problem. This eliminated much of the tension within the family.

The temporary postponement of issues that involve the individual's mental health will reappear later and possibly affect his marriage and family. However, in order not to inflict extensive damage within the family unit, it is better for the individual to deal with the basic problem immediately rather than to try to evade the situation.

Henry Hudson Board Holds Off Decision on Bus Request

HIGHLANDS — Parents of elementary school children living in the Scenic Drive area failed Wednesday to gain a commitment from the Henry Hudson Regional Board of Education to provide bus transportation for the students to public and parochial school here and in Atlantic Highlands.

A delegation of approximately 25 parents appeared before the regional Board with their request. Allen Tracy, a former Atlantic Highlands councilman, served as spokesman.

Regional school buses, he said, now travel at times down Rt. 36 without passengers.

"Instead of sending buses down Rt. 36 empty, send them down Ocean Blvd., have them stop, pick up younger children and drop them at the various schools," he told the board.

Schools involved would be the Highlands and Atlantic Highlands elementary schools, and St. Agnes School in Atlantic Highlands.

'Empty Buses'

"It is a reasonable request," he continued. "The buses are running and the buses are empty.

"Because of the new concept of meeting community needs you should consider this on a trial basis," Mr. Tracy added.

He estimated that only one or two buses would be sufficient for such transportation.

In general, most board members favored the proposal. "I am favorable to the idea if it can be done without creating problems with other sections of the two communities," declared board member Peter E. Donoghue. "I, for one, am for this venture, but it has to be discussed with the other (Highlands and Atlantic Highlands) boards."

Feasibility

"I don't think there is anyone on the board who would vote against it if it is feasible," declared another board member, Donald C. Merker.

Mrs. Diane Hostetler, board vice president, told the delegation that they would have to appear before both local school boards and then the Tri-Board which includes the regional board, "before we make any commitment here."

Joseph L. Isch, school superintendent, told the delegation that the matter could become complicated since the regional school board purchased buses for use by students in grades eight through 12. "Our responsibilities are limited by statute," he said.

Furthermore, he said class scheduling for the upper grades is done "around the buses. This may defeat the purpose of owning our own buses," he said.

Delivery Delayed

A small bus purchased jointly by the three school boards last June to transport special class children has not yet been delivered, the superintendent reported.

Mr. Isch said: "The latest report is that it will still be three or four weeks before we can anticipate its use."

Severely handicapped students are now transported by their families, he said, until the bus is delivered, while special class students are being transported in the board's original van or by a Long Branch taxicab company. Coast Cities Bus Co. of Neptune, the firm which is supplying the new van, is assuming expenses incurred by failure to deliver the van by the opening of school, Mr. Isch said.

The school's annual Back to School Night for parents will be Oct. 15. The program will begin at 8 p.m.

Arrest of 8 Incorrectly Reported

The suspects were identified by Detective Lt. William J. Halliday as James Baptist, 20, of Long Branch; David Reilly, 19, of Keansburg; Brett Frommer, 18, of Belford; Steven White, 21, of Long Branch, Raymond Schiavo, here; Mr. Amorski, and two 16-year-old female juveniles.

In addition to the drug charges, the men were charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors. In Wednesday's edition of the Daily Register, it was incorrectly reported that the men were charged with possession of more than 25 grams of marijuana and narcotics paraphernalia.

Except for the juveniles, who were released to their parents' custody, the suspects were released in $1,000 each pending hearings in Municipal Court.

Pru, Banks Said Buying SA Bonds

NEWARK — Five of New Jersey's largest financial institutions have tentatively agreed to purchase $100 million in Sports' authority bonds to finance construction of the Giants football stadium, the Star-Ledger reported today.

Prudential Insurance Co. and four banks have tentatively agreed to buy the bonds in an effort to make the securities more palatable to other potential buyers.

Gov. William T. Cahill met with Prudential board chairman Donald MacNaughten last week. He helped Sports Authority Chairman Sonny Werblin and Commissioner Adrian Foley firm up negotiations with the four banks at a meeting Tuesday.

The banks have already committed themselves through loans to the sports authority, which were used to buy land and start construction. The banks are First National State Bank, National Newark and Essex Bank and Fidelity Bank and Trust Co., all of Newark, and Peoples Trust Co. of Hackensack.

Fuel Shortage Hits Bus Service

SOUTH AMBOY — A bus line that says it carries 1,500 daily passengers announced yesterday it may have to discontinue service because of a shortage of fuel.

Amboy Coach, Inc. here said it had been notified by its supplier, Gulf Oil Co., that it had exceeded its fuel order for the year and no further deliveries would be made.

Joseph Bartlinski, president of the bus company, said the New Brunswick-Woodbridge run was started Dec. 18, 1972 at the request of the New Jersey Department of Transportation. He said Gulf Oil was allocating only the amount of fuel purchased during 1972.

Bartlinski said Gulf Oil had "arbitrarily established" the quota, which does not allow for the added service.

Bartlinski said he had obtained about 4,500 gallons of number one diesel fuel from other suppliers but this was only enough for 10 days. He said the bus lines need a minimum of 20,000 gallons to operate for the rest of the year.

Offshore Broadcasts to Resume

CAPE MAY — Dr. Carl McIntire has vowed that "Radio Free America" will resume its offshore broadcasts by Saturday night.

The station went off the air yesterday after a mainland radio station said the fundamentalist preacher's broadcasts were jamming its frequency.

McIntire said his broadcasts will be on a different frequency when they resume.

But a Federal Communications Commission lawyer in Washington said the FCC would attempt today to prevent McIntire from resuming the broadcasts at sea.

Murdered Coed's Funeral Today

ROSELLE — Nineteen-year-old Ann Logan, whose body was found here Wednesday, is to be buried today as a police search continues for the murderer who strangled the attractive brunette coed and crushed her skull with a brick.

Miss Logan's partially nude body was found in a wooded area by a man walking his dog. Her skirt and slip were pulled up around her waist and her pantyhose had been ripped away.

Police said she was strangled and her skull and facial bones were fractured, apparently with a blood-soaked brick found near the body.

Search Continues for ILA Leader

JERSEY CITY — A police search continues here and in Manhattan for clues in the disappearance more than a week ago of Jersey City longshoremen's leader Frank Murray.

The disappearance of Murray, czar of the docks here for 20 years, is the third mysterious incident this year involving leaders of the International Longshoremen's Association.

A missing persons alarm has been out since Sunday for Murray, president of ILA Local 1247 here. He disappeared Sept. 13 after registering for a meeting of the union's national officers at the Sheraton Motor Inn in Manhattan.

In April, Hoboken ILA President and ILA International Vice President William Murphy was shot in the head by two masked men while his car stopped for a traffic light in Hoboken. Murphy is still receovering at St. Mary's Hospital there.

In July, Murphy's brother, Michael, 50 was found dead in his West New York home of a bullet wound in the head. Police found a .38 caliber revolver at the scene and described the death as an apparent suicide. Michael worked as a container coordinator on the Hoboken waterfront.

State May Relax Air Standards

TRENTON — State Environmental Protection Commissioner Richard J. Sullivan said yesterday he would prepare recommendations in two or three weeks for relaxing the state's air pollution standards in the event there is an oil shortage this winter.

Sullivan said,, however, that he is still not convinced there will be a shortage.

But he said that if one develops his department would be ready to relax the air pollution code restrictions on the use of low sulfur oil.

Burning oil with higher sulfur content results in more pollution because of the greater amount of sulfur dioxide released into the atmosphere.

Sullivan has said in the past that once states relax their restrictions on burning high sulfur oil they find that oil companies tend to offer only the kind of fuel for sale.

Sullivan's comments came during a public hearing of a legislative subcommittee investigating the state's energy needs and supplies.

Sullivan said that in order for the state to permit burning of high sulfur oil, the federal Environmental Protection Agency would have to relax its ambient air quality standards.

He said he would ask that this be done.

School Boycott Set for Today

NORTH BRUNSWICK — A parents group who want local students now attending New Brunswick High School to be able to use a new $10 million school here, planned a school boycott for today.

The new school is currently a junior high school.

George Corrado, president of the North Brunswick Citizens Action Group, said parents would picket in front of the new school and about 1,200 students in kindergarten through the 12th grade, as well as those attending New Brunswick High, would be kept home.

The state board of education held a hearing in Trenton Wednesday on this township's petition to withdraw its students from New Brunswick High, but no decision was reached.

Officials of New Brunswick have charged that taking North Brunswick students, who are white, out of New Brunswick, which has a large black population, would leave that high school segregated. They contend it would also lead to a segregated predominantly white school here.

BUSINESS PERSONALITY

NAVESINK — "My first newspaper work was with The Boston Herald," says onetime newspaper publisher Richard B. Scudder, "because it was the only place I could get a job."

But Mr. Scudder, an honors graduate of Princeton University and former publisher of The Newark Evening News, is in fact being facetious with that quip.

For nearly 40 years, the 60-year-old Mr. Scudder's career has been captivated by some adjunct of the communications business, whether it be print journalism, radio or the business of supplying the paper to hold all that news that other publishers deem fit to print.

He and his brother, Edward, inherited the reins of The News from their father and Richard was with the paper 30 years. The News had been founded by Richard Scudder's grandfather in 1882 and remained a family tradition 88 years until the Scudders sold it in 1970 to Media General, a Southern based communications conglomerate.

Making Newsprint

Nearly a decade before that sale, Mr. Scudder extended his interest to another newspaper oriented area, the making of newsprint — the paper on which newspapers are printed. That firm established by Mr. Scudder, Garden State Paper Co. Inc., Garfield, is one of the most important in the country.

The Scudders' communications interests also include WVNJ, a Newark based radio station which is run by Edward Scudder. But Richard Scudder had his own acquaintance — and hardly just a nodding one — with the airwaves in World War II while serving with the Army intelligence forces in Germany.

His main interest now is newsprint and never has the matter been of such news to the print media. Currently, newspapers across the country are experiencing a "desperate" newsprint shortage which Mr. Scudder predicted would get worse before it gets better.

Garden State, the only plant in the East to do so, makes its newsprint from old, recycled newspapers, as opposed to the older, less economical method of using virgin newsprint. The latter method is at the crux of the current shortages, but by no means is it the only factor in the industrial aggravation that appears headed for acceleration before eventual abatement.

Railroad, Mill Strikes

About two-thirds of the virgin newsprint used in the United States comes from Canadian plants which get their raw material from that country's forests. Recent railroad and mill strikes there have slowed even more the production that was already unable to meet a rising demand for newsprint supplies.

Enter Garden State — sort of. Such a situation would appear to open up a windfall for a supplier not dependent on raw materials and Canada. But that is hardly the case.

Garden State has been able for years to offer its newsprint for less than the virgin product (current ratio being $167 a ton for the former to $175 a ton for the latter) and hence has always been able to sell all it can produce. Despite expansion at the Garfield plant, which has a near daily capacity of 800 tons, Garden State cannot help any papers pressed by the print squeeze.

"I feel badly for the publishers," he commented. "They are begging for newsprint but there is nothing we can do."

$10 Million Addition

Plans call for a $10 million addition to the Garfield plant, but that will not be ready until next August, Mr. Scudder said. Garden State has two other plants in California and Illinois, but their functions are to serve papers in other sections of the country, such as The Chicago Sun-Times.

"We sell The Sun-Times about 70,000 tons of newsprint a year and that's about one-third of what they use," he noted.

Further expansion plans, currently in the discussion stage, include Garden State mills in New Jersey to supply Newsday in Florida for the Knight Newspapers (The Miami Herald), in California in conjunction with The Los Angeles Times, in Chicago to further aid The Sun-Times and in Texas.

They've come a long way since 1961 when Mr. Scudder said he was almost laughed out of the newspaper business for proposing to make new newspapers out of old ones. It doesn't take a genius to figure out who has the last laugh now.

Garden State developed its own method for taking ink out of old newspapers, a process that is patented.

"The paper industry laughed themselves sick, said it couldn't be done," recalled Mr. Scudder — with no trace of a laugh himself. "Now we're the only company in the world that makes new newsprint from old newsprint."

"I founded Garden State, financed it, took part in developing its chemical and patented processes and sold, by myself, 250 million pounds of newsprint," he said. "I'm proud of that."

An Experiment

The initial experimentation of perfecting the process, before Garden State went into full production in its own designed mill, included once renting a mill for $500 an hour.

"The next time you feel bad about sitting in the back seat of a taxi watching the meter tick away, think of us renting a mill for $500 an hour," he commented.

Right now, most publishers would probably be glad to pay anyone $500 an hour if they could taxi a ton or two of newsprint their way. But even if Canadian setbacks are reversed, Mr. Scudder said there is a national newsprint shortage that will be with us a long time.

The reason is twofold, as he explained it. Increased circulation and advertising have generated an increased demand but conditions in the newsprint industry have been counter to building new mills to meet the demand.

Until last November, there was an oversupply of newsprint and that lowered the price and hence profits for the industry. Meanwhile, building costs have escalated so substantially the return on a newsprint investment is about 2 or 3 per cent, Mr. Scudder estimated.

"Anytime you can get tax free bonds with twice as much return, who's going to invest in newsprint?" he questioned rhetorically.

Repercussions are reasonably serious for newspapers, he suggested, because newsprint manufacturers have indicated they will demand $220 a ton, $45 more than the present price of $175 a ton before they will agree to build new facilities, Mr. Scudder said.

Control of Exports

His firm, for one, does not feel it is prudent to build any more waste paper recycling machinery unless the federal government is willing to control the exporting of newspapers.

In addition to the domestic newsprint shortage, there is a worldwide fiber shortage which is causing Asian countries to buy huge amounts of paper. Because of inflation in those countries, where it is soaring even faster than it is in the United States, and their ability to buy with a devalued American dollar (which gives them about a 20 per cent advantage) they are paying $210 to $230 a ton for newsprint.

"In June, when California newspapers didn't have enough newsprint, 10,000 tons were exported to Asia," Mr. Scudder said. "Obviously the Orient, which is paying $210 to $230 a ton, can compete better than the guy here in the U.S. who is paying $168 a ton."

Mr. Scudder said the U.S. House of Representatives has invested the Department of Commerce with the power to control such exporting when inflation and domestic shortages are involved. But the department has failed to act in the industry crisis, he charged, despite pleas from industry representatives.

"I would rather not comment aboout Washington," he said. "It is government's tendency not to act quckly."

Mr. Scudder feels such newsprint exporting should be licensed by the government and allowed only when there are domestic surpluses.

Less in Dumps

Meanwhile, there is hope in the approximately 40 million tons of waste paper going to the dumps every year in cities and suburbs throughout the nation. By separating newspaper from regular garbage, a municipality can relieve its own collection and disposal burdens a bit while making a profit at the same time ($16.50 a ton).

The Hackensack Meadowlands Commission is sponsoring a workshop for 36 New Jersey cities. The seminar outlines several plans under which the cities can profit by selling old newspapers while reducing their dump loads by 10 to 20 per cent. Such procedures are successfully being used in about 50 U.S. cities, including Irvington, Mr. Scudder said.

Widescale use of the programs would ultimately help relieve the newsprint shortage by leading to more building of recycling plants, in Mr. Scudder's opinion.

The current newsprint crisis is part of a larger communications realm that has seen many changes since Mr. Scudder joined that Boston paper as a reporter nearly 40 years ago. Not all the changes have been happy ones. The survivial of metropolitan evening newspapers in the Northeast is in trouble, he thinks, and he can speak from experience on that score.

Newark News' Demise

Two years after the Scudders sold The Newark News, it folded. At the time of its demise, the paper was the largest evening newspaper in New Jersey.

Mr. Scudder blames the plight (one he does not feel is shared by newspapers elsewhere in the country) of Northeast newspapers on unions which he said have refused to allow automation, something he says is essential for papers to survive in this technological age. He also blames the death of The News, which had a 10-month strike by employes, on labor unions.

He is nostalgic about the newspaper business and the paper that played such a large part in his own life.

"I miss the newspaper business and I'm very sad about The Newark News," he mused. "It was unique. It had a real voice in Trenton and most of the time a voice for good. We certainly tried to make it that way."

To illustrate the power of the press, Mr. Scudder, who served on Gov. Cahill's tax study committee headed by former State Sen. Harry Sears, recalled an anecdote that reportedly once circulated in the halls of the N.J. statehouse:

"You won't have a state income tax until you repeal The Newark News."

Serious Mission

To hear Mr. Scudder recall it, The News took itself and its journalistic mission very seriously.

"We never even let any of our people kill a parking ticket," he said. "And we once discharged a state editor because he accepted a half empty bottle of whisky that was given to him after a legislative dinner."

He thinks papers today should be just as serious.

"It must have been fun to run a newspaper when there were seven in a city," he said. "You could be a character and say what you wanted. But with only one or two left in a city, they have a more serious responsibility to the reader and that has brought an end to colorful and personal journalism."

If newspapers lived up to that responsibility, he said, he would prefer the present state of journalism over its more extravagant excesses of the past.

Erodes Confidence

"But some of them have abandoned their objectivity and that's harmful," he said. "The bias of some newspapers is eroding some peoples' confidence in them."

He thinks the current communications credibility gap nosedives into a deeper chasm in television.

"TV never had any principle of objectivity," he asserted. "The most demagogic thing we (The Newark News) ever had was our editorial cartoon. It was one shot, the same as TV."

(But that cartoon, demagogic or not by genus, distinguished itself in species when one of its purveyors, editorial cartoonist William Crawford won a Pulitzer Prize for The News.)

Despite his disenchantment with electronic journalism and his discouraging appraisals for the life expectancy of Northeast, urban papers, he sees a boon for local, regional, suburban newspapers.

"Intelligent citizens have to know about their schools and their taxes," he said. "TV (which rarely reports, for example, the rise in the Red Bank school tax rate) can only infringe on local papers in reading time."

Unabashed Enthusiasm

He is unabashed in his enthusiasm for the print media, commenting "You can't live intelligently and not be a newspaper reader."

Once he departed a bit from the field he propounds so much when he served five years in the Army in World War II. Fluent in German from the age of three, when his German governess first introduced him to the language, Mr. Scudder helped run a German language radio station that was really a tactical front for American intelligence forces.

After the war, Mr. Scudder, who entered the service as a private and left as a major, was in charge of restaffing German newspapers resurrected with the U.S. government's guidance.

Despite a degree in economics, Mr. Scudder was never interested in the business end of newspapers but entered the field as a reporter, a stint that included covering a police beat in Boston and city hall in Newark.

When asked why he didn't pursue the business end, he responded: "You, as a reporter, can answer that better than I."

Family Background

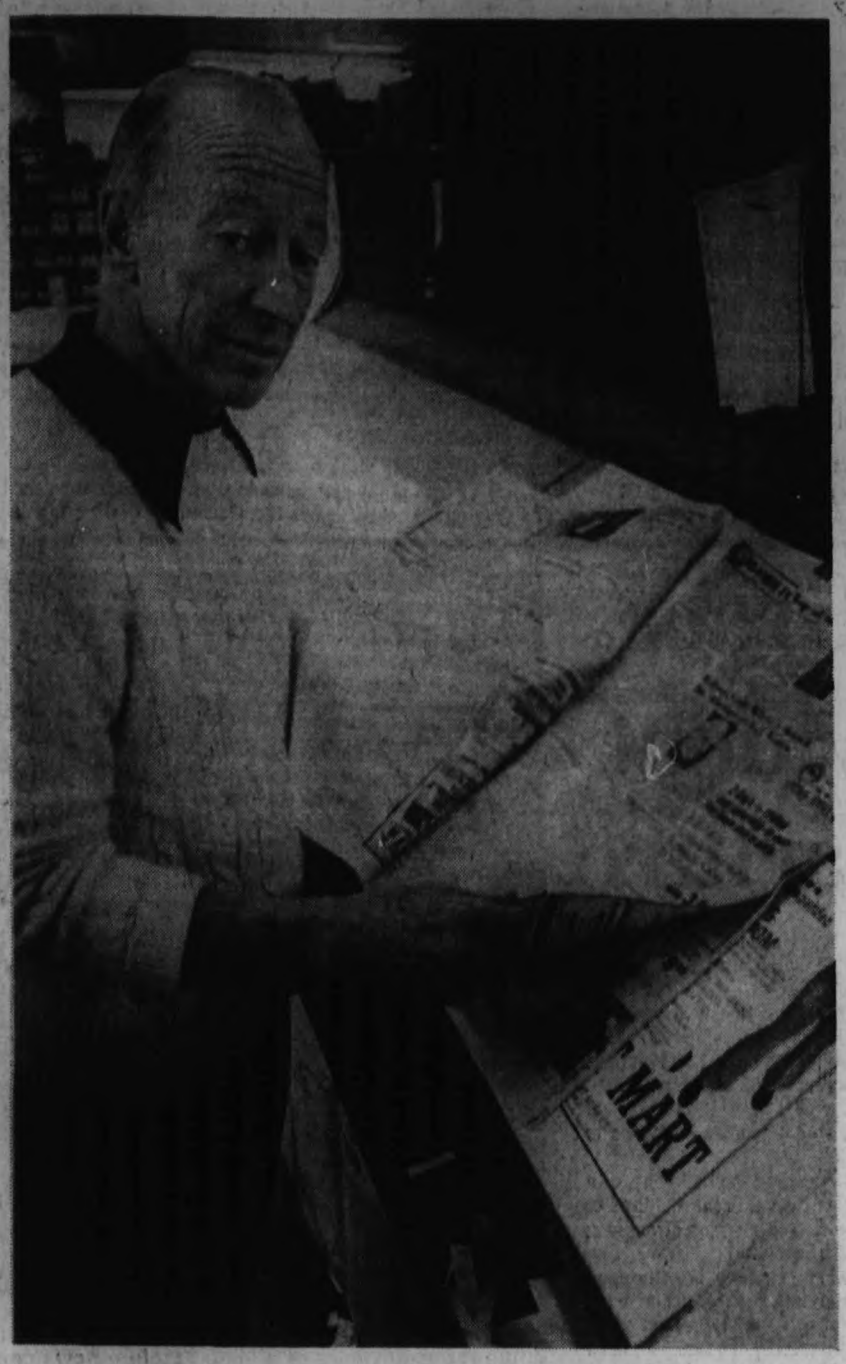

Mr. Scudder's family has been in America even longer than it has been in the newspaper business. The family, of British descent, came to New Jersey before 1700 and the Scudder homestead is still standing at Scudders Falls, a New Jersey hamlet near the Delaware River.

One of the ancestors, Nathaniel Scudder, helped sign the colony of New Jersey into the Union and was a member of the first graduating class at Princeton University. Mr. Scudder, his father and his son, Charles, were all honor graduates of Princeton.

In addition to their son Charles, Mr. Scudder and his wife, Elizabeth, have three daughters, Mrs. Holly Ford, Carolyn and Jean.

Mr. Scudder was born in Newark and moved to the Monmouth area in 1926, having formerly lived in Locust before moving to his present home in Navesink.

His activities at the Shore are hardly limited to reading newspapers. Among his interests are Riverview Hospital, Red Bank, where he has been a trustee well over a decade and the Navesink Library Foundation, which he heads as president.

Clergymen Support Police

MIDDLETOWN — Two area clergymen have offered firm support to Police Chief Joseph M. McCarthy and his department.

The Rev. Richard R. Schwartz, former pastor of Bayshore Community Church, East Keansburg, who is also a practicing attorney in Belford, said yesterday he is "100 per cent behind the Middletown police and the chief."

Mr. Schwartz added that he intends to attend a meeting of cops — Committee of Police Supporters — scheduled tonight at 8 o'clock in Buck Smith's restaurant in East Keansburg.

"As a clergyman and an attorney, I urge all interested citizens to be there and show their support for Chief McCarthy and the Middletown police department," Mr. Schwartz declared.

The Rev. A.D. Magaw, pastor of the Community Church of Port Monmouth, expressed his support in a letter to Chief McCarthy.

"The recent unwarranted and scurrilous attacks on the Middletown Township police department and on you personally have not gone unnoticed by those citizens of the township who believe in law and order," the Rev. Mr. Magaw wrote.

"It is unthinkable that one (not even a citizen of these United States or of this township) should be allowed to harass and intimidate the leadership and membership of a police department which is second to none . . . Further, it is unconscionable that a building presumably dedicated to worship of Almighty God, Who is a God of order and righteousness and justice, should be used as a gathering center for those who . . . seek to tear down the structure of our society . . .

"It is time that the citizens of this township rise up in protest against this calumny and indicate their support of the men of our police department and the chief who has devoted his life to the well-being of our community. It is also time time that the members of our town council . . . stand as one in the support of our police department and its leadership, remembering that if they do not begin to stand for something, they may fall for anything.

"We, the members of the church and congregation of the Port Monmouth Community Church once again . . . go on record that we are strongly against anything which would undermine trust and confidence in the work you and your department are doing," the pastor wrote.

MCOSS Opens VD Clinic

RED BANK — In cooperation with the state Department of Health, MCOSS Family Health and Nursing Service is starting a venereal disease clinic at the MCOSS Manasquan Health Center, 67 Main St.

The clinic will be open every Tuesday from 5:30 to 8 p.m. and is free to the public. No appointment is necessary. A public health nurse and physician will be in attendance.

Humbled Bobby Wants Rematch

HOUSTON (AP) — Billie Jean King, heroine of the women libbers, made Bobby Riggs eat his words about women's tennis with a humiliating 6-4, 6-3, 6-3 victory last night in their $100,000 winner-take-all Battle of the Sexes at the Astrodome, but she couldn't stop the little hustler from talking.

"Maybe I went too far out in my comments about the women's role," the 55-year-old former world champion remarked afterwards, "I take it back, but now I want a rematch."

The bandy-legged little veteran was a crestfallen figure after the two hour-and-four minute match in the air-conditioned arena which is a world showplace of sports.

"I'm going to the bridge," he said.

Riggs had boasted in one of his public appearances that if he didn't beat Billie Jean, the five-time Wimbledon champion, in their ballyhooed, Hollywood-produced spectacular, he would jump off Pasadena's "Suicide Bridge."

Billie Jean, who had called Bobby a "creep" before the match, had said that she would insist that he carry out his vow.

Asked what happened, a weary, downhearted Riggs replied, "she was just too quick. I couldn't get the ball past her. She didn't get a break but still won.

Bobby never quits hustling.

Billie Jean was ecstatic.

"This is a culmination of 19 years of tennis for me," she said. "I've wanted to change the sport and tonight a lot of non-tennis people saw the sport for the first time."

She said she was inspired by the boisterous, cheering crowd, the blaring bands and circus like atmosphere surrounding the match.

"This was a dream come true," she said, "I've always wanted people to scream at matches."

Asked about Bobby's request for a rematch, Billie Jean said, "Give me 24 hours and a beer — and I'll think about it."

She gave Margaret Court, who was beaten by Riggs 6-2, 6-1 in a Mother's Day match earlier this year, credit for advice on how to beat Bobby. "She told me to play his backhand," she said. Asked if she was tired, she said, "I just feel emotionally tired."

A wild roar went up from the 30,472 fans in the huge air-conditioned arena when Bobby dumped a weak forehand shot into the net for the final shot.

Billie Jean, leading 5-3 with Riggs serving, earlier blew two match points with weak shots into the net for errors.

At the end of the match, while skyrockets flared on the big Astrodome scoreboard and the University of Houston band played a martial tune, the happy Mrs. King flung her racket high in the air but the aging Riggs hurdled the net in traditional fashion.

The 55-year-old, bespectacled Riggs was a tired, rubbery-legged old man at the finish.

"She was just too good for me," he acknowledged ungrudgingly, rubbing his chronicly sore right elbow. "She was much too quick and made better shots than I did."

The veteran Riggs, Wimbledon and world champion now turned sports hustler, was just a shell of the man who defeated Australia's Margaret Court in San Diego May 13 in what he rakishly termed the Mother's Day Massacre.

The duck-footed little preacher's son, who turned this victory into a million-dollar hustle, appeared now to be bankrupt as far as any future such hustles were concerned. "Where can Bobby go from here?" everybody asked.

"Maybe I will take on the winning golfers," the dejected Riggs said. "I could play them from the women's tees. I hit the ball about the way a woman does."

Riggs was reknown as a golf hustler — making bizarre bets which he rarely lost — before he came back to tennis to capitalize on the new court boom.

He played at times like a prizefighter dazed by a punch. His legs were wobbly, his shots were insecure, his movement over the court were those of a decrepit male.

Mays' Grace Still Evident In Departure

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays announced his retirement from baseball yesterday the same way he's always played this game — gracefully.

Mays told a packed news conference that he's probably played his last major league game after a fabulous 22-season career. He did it with grace and style, the same way he might have gone back for one of his basket catches in center field.

"Maybe I'll cry tomorrow or the next day," the 42-year-old superstar said, "but not today, I've got too many friends in this room to feel sad."

So it was with pride that Mays recalled the highlights of a fabulous career that has reached its climax in the shadows of the New York Mets dugout, as he nursed a series of nagging injuries that an athlete his age must expect.

"I have to face facts," said Mays, who has been limping along with a .211 batting average this season. "The body catches up with you in the long run. It's time to get out when the game stops being fun, and batting .211 is no fun. I've been in slumps before and I've always come out of them. But not at 42."

Hits Six

Mays hit six homers this season, pushing his career total to 660, third on the all-time list behind Babe Ruth and Hank Aaron. Even with his struggling 1973 season, Mays still has a .302 career batting average. His 3,283 hits are seventh on the all-time list.

Willie made it clear that he intends to remain active in the game that carried him from the sandlots of Westfield, Ala., through Negro League baseball in Birmingham and eventually to major league stardom with the Giants, first in New York and then in San Francisco.

When Mays came to the Mets last season, the deal included a guaranteed $50,000 per year contract for his post-playing days. His duties have not been spelled out, but he feels he can help the club and the game in several areas.

"There are a number of things I would like to do," he said. "Work with youngsters in the organization. Teaching them."

That sounds like a coaching job, but Mays frowned on the traditional one. "I don't want to be standing on first base, not doing anything," he said. "I think I can do more than coach."

It's entirely likely that in the dwindling days of the 1973 season, Mays will play one or two more games as the Mets make a run for the National League's East Division title. It was the quest for the division championship that caused Mays to announce his retirement now.

"I didn't want to interfere with them," he said. "Look at the last two or three weeks, coming from 12 games behind to one. Somebody is doing something, and I don't want to interfere by telling them I want to play."

GOODBYE BASEBALL — The New York Mets Willie Mays gestures at a Shea Stadium news conference yesterday where he announced his retirement effective at the end of the 1973 season. Mays, who stands third on the all-time list for major league games played with 2,992, said, "This is it. I'm retiring after the season."

Mets See Some Title After Beating Pirates

Somebody up there likes the New York Mets. Or doesn't like the Pittsburgh Pirates. Or both.

"You've got to believe that someone is watching over us," says Met infielder Wayne Garrett, "and I hope He stays there."

Garrett and the rest of the Mets are more convinced than ever that there's a division title, at the very least, in their immediate future after last night's remarkable 4-3, 13-inning victory over the Pirates.

The win boosted New York into second place in the furious National League East race. Only three games separate the first five teams with just over one week to go.

The Mets are one-half game back of the front-running Bucs. The third-place Montreal Expos, 5-4 losers to the Chicago Cubs, are one game behind. The St. Louis Cardinals, who dropped a 6-5 decision to the Philadelphia Phillies, are in fourth place, 1½ games off the pace. The Cubs are three back.

San Francisco dumped Cincinnati 7-5 and Los Angeles beat Atlanta 5-3 in 12 innings in other National League games.

The Pirates got their first indication that Divine Providence was on the other side in the ninth inning. Dave Cash put the Bucs on top 3-2 with a run-scoring double in the top of the ninth and reliever Ramon Hernandez faced light-hitting Duffy Dyer with two out and a man on second in the New York half of the inning. Dyer, who hadn't driven in a run since July 10th, surprised everyone by drilling a double off the left-field wall to send the game into overtime.

"We can't lose now," said Dyer. "When things like this happen, when you can win a close game like this, nothing is going to stop us from winning the pennant."

If the Pirates were not convinced by that omen, a bizarre play in the 13th should have ended all doubts. The Mets have been getting the good bounces lately but the one they got in the top of the 13th may never be topped.

Richie Zisk was on first with two down when Dave Augustine drove a Ray Sadecki pitch deep to left field. The ball hit on the top corner of the Pittsburgh bullpen fence, inches from being a homer, and rebounded directly into the glove of outfielder Cleon Jones.

Jones relayed the ball to Garrett who fired to catcher Ron Hodges in time to nail Zisk sliding into home.

Americans Trail In Ryder Match

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP) — The upstart Great Britain-Ireland team, paced by Scots Brian Barnes and Bernard Gallacher, romped off to a stunning 5½ to 2½ lead over the heavily favored Americans yesterday in the first day of play in the biennial Ryder Cup golf matches.

Barnes and Gallacher scored two victories over shocked and subdued American teams, beating Lee Trevino and Billy Casper 1 up in the morning Scotch foursomes and then routing Tommy Aaron and Gay Brewer 5 and 4 in the afternoon fourball matches.

Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer scored one American point in their 6 and 5 romp over Maurice Bembridge and Eddy Polland in Scotch foursomes but lost to Bembridge and Brian Huggett 3 and 1 in the fourball.

Giants Bid Bronx Adieu

By JONNI FALK

NEW YORK — If fans failed to see the first New York Giant game in Yankee Stadium, back in 1956, on television, they will have the opportunity to see the last one Sunday.

When the Giants moved to the Stadium from the Polo Grounds, the Pittsburgh Steelers were their first regular season opponent, and the Maramen won that one, 38-10, behind Charley Conerly's three touchdown passes.

Another Pennsylvania team, the Philadelphia Eagles, will help the Giants bow out of the Stadium at 1 p.m. Sunday. In accordance with the new law, the game will be carried on Channel 2. It will also be on WNEW Radio (1130).

While the Giants were downing Houston, 34-14, in last Sunday's opener, the Eagles were bowing to St. Louis, 34-23. However, Roman Gabriel clicked on 22 of 37 passes for 162 yards and two touchdowns.

The Giants have now won eight in a row, starting with the season finale at Dallas last year and including six straight exhibition wins.

Another Giant streak belongs to tight end Bob Tucker of Lincroft. He has now caught passes in 39 straight games, a team record.

Getting back to Yankee Stadium, Jim Lee Howell, Allie Sherman and Webster have been the coaches during the Giants' tenure there. The Giants won a title in their first year there by blasting the Chicago Bears, 47-7, in the title game. There have been other memorable moments.

1958— Pat Summerall kicked a 49-yard field goal in a blinding snow storm to beat Cleveland and set up a playoff with the Browns for the conference title. The Giants won.

1961 — The Giants used a play suggested by assistant equipment manager Pete Previte. Out of a spread formation, Y.A. Tittle threw a TD pass to defensive back Erich Barnes as the Giants beat the Eagles, 38-21.

1962— Tittle tied the NFL record with seven touchdown passes in a 49-34 win over the Redskins.

1963 — Giants won their third straight Eastern title by beating Pittsburgh in the final game of the season. Gary Ballman, now a Giant, played in the game as a Steeler.

1967 — Fran Tarkenton led the team back from a 1-12-1 record in 1966 to a 7-7 and second place in the Century Division.

1972 — Giants set club record with 62 points in rout of Eagles.

GIANT NOTES: Team still has tickets available for the Green Bay game at New Haven, Oct. 7, and the Redskin game, Oct. 14. Season ticket sales for Yale Bowl were cut off at 58,000.

Johnny Roland, the newest Giant, will wear number 23 and play fullback — at least for the time being.

After one week of play, Donnie Anderson and Floyd Little lead NFL in scoring with three TD's each. Dick Shiner of Atlanta is leading passer with 158.3 under new rating system. O.J. Simpson has 107-yard lead over Jim Bertelsen in rushing derby after 250-yard day.

Giants are third in NFC (Atlanta is first) in total offense, and second to Washington in total defense. Jets rank 10th in AFC in offense and fourth in defense.

Bucs, Caseys, Lions: The 1st Big Weekend

By RICH NICOLETTI

Broad Street in Red Bank is again up for grabs.

The annual Red Bank Regional — Red Bank Catholic football fiasco has no league significance, but geographically speaking, it is THE game of the year for these two teams. Just ask anybody on Broad Street.

In a new confrontation, Middletown Township may meet a real lion face to face tomorrow in Westfield. Westfield, generally regarded last year as the most powerful team in the state has eight lettermen back from its much lauded campaign of a year ago.

Middletown has its entire '72 backfield in the fold, but people are still wondering if the Lions are biting off more than they can chew.

Both Tom Lalli, Red Bank Catholic coach, and Bob Strangia of Red Bank Regional have their usual apprehensions but both are high on their teams.

We're not going to be anybody's pushover," said Lalli about his Caseys.

Lalli is welll aware of Red Bank's reputation year in and year out as a strong defensive team. The Bucs had a disappoint 3-5-1 record last year but still gave up just 24 points over the final four games.

"We're looking forward to this one," Strangia said. "We turned the ball over 11 times one way or another against them last year and we still only lost, 14-6."

Red Bank may have a reputation for keeping the other teams out of its end zone, but Strangia is talking more about his offense this year.

"Our strength is definitely in our running game," he said. "We have three excellent runners in Benny Reed, Bobby Tomaino and John Summonte. Our quarterback, Chris Ward, added three inches to his height and almost 20 pounds in weight since last year. He's a good one."

Lalli counters with a strong backfield of his own. Jay Sciortino, a 5-8 halfback, averaged 6.5 yards per carry last year and was an important factor in RBC's easy victory over an otherwise undefeated Clifford Scott team.

Jim Catalane, who was used mostly on defense last year, will see two-way duty at fullback and linebacker. "He's going to be a tough one," Lalli said.

The Caseys aren't limited to the ground. They have a dual passing threat in ends Dave Bauer and John Schaffer.

Andy Bott is the RBC quarterback. He had no varsity experience at the position last year, but in Lalli's words, "he's a good athlete and an excellent leader."

Last year's encounter was marred with errors, but with two veteran squads going after one another and with the Broad Street bragging rights at stakes, you should witness one of the better games of the season at the Athletic Field in Red Bank tomorrow.

"They're the ones who should feel the pressure. They have the 42 straight wins, not us," Amabile exclaimed.

"This kid Abbot (Bruce Abbot, Middletown's junior quarterback) makes the team go. We have eight starters back, including our complete backfield," he said.

Amabile admitted that his team is not big and that he will have to go both ways with many of his performers, but, "if we don't get hurt we're going to be tough. We're quite confident."

Middletown plays in the Shore Conference "A" Division and will have to face another state power in Brick Township this season.

"It's to our credit that we play such tough schools. It can only benefit us," said the veteran mentor.

'Football '73' Out Monday

"Football '73," The Daily Register's annual football tabloid originally scheduled to appear today will be published on Monday to coincide with our initial coverage of opening weekend games.

The move was necessitated because of the unavailability of the special size newsprint roll required to print the section, which will be bigger and better than ever.

Fall Striper Run on Tap

It's time to hit the local tackle and bait shop for some mullet. The shops are stocking up for the striped bass run, which is currently strong in the Barnegat Inlet area.

Clam dunkers are hitting bass at Bay Head, while schools of stripers have been spotted in the Manasquan and Spring Lake areas.

Bass up to 20 pounds are being taken at Sea Bright and Sandy Hook, but Bluefish anglers haven't been able to do much since the storm last Friday.

Blues were breaking water around the Long Branch Pier early this week, but fishermen found that they wouldn't take lures.

NHF Day

Between 15 to 20 million Americans are expected to pass up football in favor of conservation tomorrow and take part in the thousands of National Hunting and Fishing Day observances planned across the nation. Not since Earth Day will so many people unite in the cause of conservation.

President Nixon has set tomorrow as the second annual National Hunting and Fishing Day. The states are unanimous in their support and hundreds of mayors have issued corresponding city proclamations.

More than 4,000,000 people took part in 3,000 NHF Day observances last year. That participation is expected to be four to five times as great this year, with programs scheduled for sportsman's clubs, wildlife refuges, shopping centers, malls, high schools, colleges, fish hatcheries, libraries and an amazing variety of other locations.

The purpose of NHF Day is to inform the public about the wide range of efforts sportsmen are making in the field of conservation and to involve the public in the environmental needs of their own communities.

In signing his original proclamation, Nixon said, "I urge all of our citizens to join with outdoor sportsmen in the wise use of our natural resources and in insuring their proper management for the benefit of future generations."

Even if it means missing one afternoon of football, all those interested in practical conservation are urged to attend the program nearest them.

Allen Cites Growth of Park System

MATAWAN — Twelve years ago, the Monmouth County Park System consisted of one park and several hundred acres.

Today, with five parks and a continuing series of acquisitions and donations, the county owns 1,940 acres and is working toward ownership of another 1,078.

Freeholder Albert E. Allen, tracing the rise of parkland acreage before the Matawan Chamber of Commerce at Buttonwood Manor, stressed the forethought that is creating a correct proportion of protected and useful land as the county continues to grow.

Monmouth greenery, he said, is being acquired according to the Open Space Master Plan created by the park system and adopted by the Board of Freeholders. Its aim is the preservation of 10 or 11 per cent of the county's land, including roughly seven per cent which is not suitable for development such as swamps and flood plains.

"It may well be that some of this land may be preserved through municipal zoning," Mr. Allen explained, "perhaps with developers asked to dedicate acreage for preservation."

Following the creation of Shark River Park in Neptune and Wall Townships in 1961 came Holmdel Park in 1964, Turkey Swamp Park, Freehold Township in 1967, and Howell Park along the Manasquan River in 1968.

The Thompson Park, Lincroft, was donated by Mrs. Geraldine L. Thompson in 1968, followed by two Freehold Township tracts donated in 1969 — the 90-acre Durand Conservation Area from Mrs. Elizabeth Durand and the 71-acre Baysholm Conservation Area from Miss Helen Herrmann.

Mr. Allen described the creation of Howell Park Golf Course, a success which inspired the Freeholders to begin their current push toward acquiring Asbury Park Golf Course.

The Monmouth County Horse Show, he said, was held this year for the first time on county-owned land. "The Board of Freeholders," he said, "which owns 160 acres in Freehold Township as the future home of a county administrative complex, donated 50 acres of that land for a horse show facility, justified by our reputation as the largest horse-owning and breeding county in New Jersey."

Mr. Allen also reviewed the continuing acquisition of federal surplus land, being obtained at no cost to the county, and described the diversified programs being offered in the parks for all age levels.

MD Carnival Raises $35

MATAWAN — Neighborhood children on Newland Place raised $35 at a Carnival Against Muscular Dystrophy and have donated it to the Jerry Lewis Telethon.

Marcy and Robin Bernstein, along with Barbara Rosar, served as ringmasters at the event. They were assisted by Joseph, Anthony and Angela DelBuono, and Scott, Mitchell and Jana Silver.

They have thanked all residents and merchants who donated funds which will be used in research to find a cure for muscular dystrophy.

Col. Hand to Direct Avionics Laboratory

FT. MONMOUTH — Col. Lee M. Hand is the new director of the Avionics Laboratory, Army Electronics Command.

Col. Hand was promoted to his present rank on Sept. 4. He succeeds Lt. Col. Everett Richards who retired in July.

A native of Draper, Utah, Col. Hand comes to the fort from Ft. McNair where he completed his course at the Industrial College of the Armed Forces.

The new Avionics chief is an Army pilot and a 22-year Army veteran. Commissioned in the Signal Corps at Ft. Monmouth in 1952, he graduated from Flight School at San Marcos, Texas in 1953. He spent four years in Germany in the 2nd Armored Division and has also had assignments at Ft. Hood, Ft. Huachuca, Ft. Monroe and Ft. Riley.

He has done graduate work in meteorology at the University of Utah and in 1963 headed the Signal Met Team in Greenland. He served twice in Vietnam, in 1964 with the 117th Assault Helicopter Company, and in 1966 with the 1st Aviation Brigade.

Col. Lee M. Hand

Flea Market Is Tomorrow

LINCROFT — The first annual Open Air Flea Market sponsored by the Lincroft United Presbyterian Church will be tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the church grounds, W. Front St. and Everett Road. Rain date is Saturday, Sept. 29.

Fifty dealers are expected to participate in the event, which will feature antiques, gifts and other items.

Post Seats New Officers

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS — Harry Murtha Jr. has been installed as commander of Sandy Hook Bay Post 141 American Legion and Mrs. Blanche Chapman, president of its auxiliary.

Other new post officers are David Carr, John Dellert, and Leo Rossi, vice commanders; C. Eugene Allen, service officer; E. Joseph Bissonnette, finance officer; Mrs. Margaret O. Cooper, historian; Calvin Steitz, chaplain; Michael Hoare, sergeant-at-arms, and Mr. Carr, adjutant.

Mrs. Cooper presented Richard McCaffrey, outgoing president, with a yearbook of the post's activities. Raphael Laurence of Neptune Post 266, county commander, commended Mr. McCaffrey for "a job well done" and especially cited him for "going over the top" in membership, thereby helping to secure for Monmouth County a good place in the line of march at the state convention in Wildwood.

Cmdr. Laurence was assisted at the installation by two members of the local post who are also county officers. They are George Himmel, a vice commander, and Mr. Allen, service officer. Other county officers participating were Chris Gifford and James Sullivan, vice commanders; Richard Francis, adjutant; George Allen, chaplain; Wesley Bendel, historian; Powell Scott, master-at-arms, and John Grau, department executive committeeman.

Other new auxiliary officers are Mrs. Mildred Meinert, vice president; Mrs. Jane Gaffey, secretary; Mrs. Alma Sahrbeck, treasurer; Mrs. Nina Hoare, historian; Mrs. Florence Emery, sergeant-at-arms, and Mrs. Audrey Steitz, chaplain.

County officers assisting at the installation were Mrs. Lillian Applegate, president; Mrs. Doris Cameron, Mrs. Eve Skyles, and Mrs. Sarah Reed, vice presidents; Mrs. Maude Bloen, chaplain; Mrs. Anna Lou Frazier, past president; Mrs. Ann Malcolm, sergeant-at-arms, and Mrs. Nancy Reynolds, secretary.

Cyclists Ask End of Ban on Parkway

UNION BEACH — The Committee for Cycles on the Parkway is urging the state's 100,000 motorcyclists to protest the Garden State Parkway's ban on motorcycles to their state representatives.

The committee contends that as the "safest road in the nation," the parkway should be used by motorcyclists because their accident rate would be reduced.

Position papers have been sent by the committee to legislative and gubernatorial candidates. A listing will be make of those supporting the committee.

". . . By electing officials who support our concerns," the committee states, "the cyclists will be instrumental in getting responsible people on our road authorities who will be responsive to the needs of cyclists as well as motorists."

Fellen Joins Law Practice

Leonard R. Fellen

FREEHOLD — Leonard R. Fellen, 8 Patterson Lane, Manalapan, has become associated with Sam Matlin in the general practice of law at 26 Court St.

A patent attorney, Mr. Fellen is a member of the bar associations of New York and New Jersey, the New York Patent Law Association and the American Patent Law Association.

He is a graduate electronics engineer and received his law degree from Brooklyn Law School in 1964.

Before joining Mr. Matlin, Mr. Fellen was associated with RCA Corporation of Princeton and Litton Industries, Orange, as patent counsel.

Mr. Fellen is married to the former Sandra Schaefer, a registered nurse, and has three children.

Seniors Set To Announce Champions

MIDDLETOWN — The Middletown Senior Citizens Leisure Time Group is staging a number of tournaments this month to determine champions of the year.

More than 60 members are competing in the table shuffleboard contest, with bumper pool, pinochle and bridge planned as the next events.

A bowling league, under the direction of Betty Corris, meets Fridays at 10 a.m. at Harmony Bowl.

A club film festival, featuring members' vacation slides and movies, is set for the last week of the month.

Scheduled for this month are trips to the Mohonk Mountain House in New Paltz, N.Y., Senior Citizens Day at the New Jersey State Fair and Hyde Park, N.Y., and the Vanderbilt Mansion.

The group, in cooperation with the Middletown Auxiliary to Riverview Hospital, will sew for the hospital's pediatrics and Grace Smith is project chairman.

Court OKs $35,000 For Injuries

FREEHOLD — County Court Judge Donald J. Cunningham has approved a $35,000 settlement of a lawsuit arising from an accident in Keansburg in which a three-year-old boy was injured.

The settlement gives $23,800 to Joseph Kreisberg, now six years old, for his injuries and $11,200 to his mother, Mrs. Julia Regan of 79 Maple Ave., Keansburg, for medical expenses.

The suit alleged that the child was struck by a car on Maple Ave. June 10, 1970. Joseph was allegedly dragged by the car, suffering injuries to his face and right arm.

The settlement was with the driver of the car, Peter Asmar of 19 Maple Ave., Keansburg, and its owner, Mr. Asmar's son, Robert Asmar of 28 Seeley Ave., Keansburg.

George M. Chamlin of West Long Branch represented the plaintiffs and George N. Arvanitis of New Shrewsbury represented the defendants.

Claire Leary Is Studying In Germany

MIDDLETOWN — Claire Leary, a senior at Middletown Township High School, is completing her last year of high school in Dillfgen, Germany, under the American Field Service Scholarship Program. She is living with the Wilhelm Held family.

Attending MTHS as a senior this year is Christel Janne Ghiesen, who lives on the Danish island of Fano in the North Sea. She is being hosted by the Leon Zuckerman family of 98 Iler Drive.

Mrs. Edward L. Minugh is president of the adult AFS chapter here, while Gayle Washburn heads the student branch at the high school.

Gets Election Post

FREEHOLD — Mrs. Kathryn L. Freret of Fair Haven, president of the Women's Democratic Club of Monmouth County, has been named absentee ballot chairman of the county Democratic organization. Planners Back Subdivision After Protests Are Heard

FREEHOLD TOWNSHIP — Despite objections from neighbors and a representative of the state Department of Environmental Protection, the Planning Board Wednesday voted to recommend tentative approval for an eight-lot subdivision in the area south of Turkey Swamp Park.

The recommendation to the Township Committee stipulates that approval of the tentative plot will be withdrawn if the state files condemnation action for the 9.5-acre property off Ely-Harmony Road within 45 days, or if the developer fails to complete two house foundations within one year.

The property is shown on county maps as slated for preservation under the state Green Acres program but is not so indicated on the township master plan or current zoning maps, according to the Planning Board.

The applicant for tentative plat approval, Frank Matthews, had first submitted the major subdivision application early last year. The application was resubmitted last month and held to Wednesday's meeting at the request of the state environmental agency.

Joseph Goeller, a representative for the state agency, testified that the proposed subdivision was within the "taking" area for expansion of Turkey Swamp Park. He asked that the application again be held, stating that the state would be ready to negotiate for the parcel and others in the area "by the first of the year."

However, he conceded that if necessary the state could prepare condemnation papers for the property within 30 days.

Dominick Cerrato, a Freehold attorney representing the applicant, contended that "the state is notorious for placing property in the "taking" area for Green Acres and then waiting years to acquire it."

David Nimmo, a board member, noted that "the board cannot hold an application on the mere expectancy that the state will take the land."

Seymour Spruch, a nearby property owner objected to granting approval, noting that "if the purpose of the application is to secure a better price from Green Acres, we as taxpayers who will pay for the state purchase are being used. Why should the township grant approval if it will just benefit the landowner?" he asked.

"We are ready to go and will begin construction shortly," insisted Kenneth Martin, a principal in Dave-Mar Builders, who plan to develop the property.

The only "no" vote on the board's tentative approval was cast by Mr. Nimmo who said the application "should be approved outright tonight due to the gross laxity of the state in delaying action so long."

The township Board of Education was granted a minor subdivision to divide a 26-acre parcel off E. Freehold and Waterworks Road into two lots; and approval was granted on a site plan application submitted by Peerless Tube Co. for a second silo in which to store plastics on property off Asbury Ave. in the M-1 zone.

Solution to Yesterday's Puzzle:

Your Horoscope, Birthday

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 21—Born today, you are a romantic by nature, finding life in general unappealing when looked upon with a practical, totally realistic eye. You enjoy the outdoors; though it may fall your lot to be of necessity a city dweller, you will take to the countryside as often and for as long as you can during any given year. Susceptible to the moods inspired by nature—depression when it rains; elation when the sun shines—you often find your spirits going up and down several times a day, according to the weather.

You have your own idea of what a man or woman should be but when one falls short of your ideal you never experience disappointment. You know that the ideal is never gained and even seldom approached. You like to think that all things are for the best, that all events are ultimately just. Even what to others might seem an obvious and even irreversible ill, to you appears otherwise, for you think of things in terms of wholes, not bits and pieces.

Loved ones are extremely important to you and you would go to great lengths to preserve intact the affectionate relationship you have with them. Early in life you will discover that it is not always wise to play "hard to get," that playing so may lead to the forfeit of your heart's desire. For this reason, you are prone to express your feelings of affection openly, clearly, lovingly.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Saturday, September 22

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)—Be protective where young children are concerned. You can ill afford to let down your guard now. You can gain much in the way of reputation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)—Don't become so wrapped up in what is going on in your immediate vicinity that you fail to realize the influence another has on you from afar.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)—Don't fail to live up to another's expectations of you now. You can relax your standards somewhat late in the day; morning hours demand rigid discipline.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)—You can't afford a serious error. Do what you can to avoid coming into contact with one who would ask favors of you that you don't wish to grant.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)—The Capricorn lacking in character today will be unable to fulfill the promise of the day. An excellent time for demonstrating your willpower.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)—Keep your ideals in the forefront of your mind. Even though you cannot quite come up to them, you can come close if you are determined.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)—Without the solace of friendship, this will be a sad day for Pisces. With it, this can be one of the best days you've had in a very long time.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)—Don't allow your dissatisfaction with your personal relationships to cause you to become overly distracted. Present home projects need a clear mind.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)—Offer loved ones the strength of your presence. Delay any departure. Regrets may come fast and furiously toward day's end—but they are short-lived.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)—Make an effort to be less critical of those who have worked hard and long lately to make things nicer for you on the home front. Sympathize.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)—A day for regaining your confidence. Bravely do what you have been afraid to do—but don't confuse bravery with carelessness! Watch your step.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)—Determination is easily misconstrued as stubbornness, particularly by those who would not hesitate to step on your toes on their own way to the top.

Sheinwold's Bridge Advice

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

"One finesse is as good as another," South cackled, as he played today's hand. The cackle was followed by the usual result — South laid an egg!

West opened the four of spades, and South won with the ten of spades. It was at this moment that South made his foolish statement.

South meant the heart finesse was as good as the club finesse, but he was wrong.

South backed his judgment by finessing with dummy's queen of hearts at the second trick. East won with the king of hearts and returned a spade. This allowed West to defeat the contract with the rest of the spades.

"Very unlucky, partner," South summed it up. "The club finesse would have lost also."

This was true, but South could make the game contract even if he lost the club finesse. That's why the club finesse was better than the heart finesse.

Get to Dummy

South's correct play is to get to dummy with a diamond at the second trick. He then leads the ten of clubs for a finesse.

West can win with the king of clubs but cannot continue the spades without giving South a second trick in the suit. If West leads anything else, South carefully wins (he must not risk a heart finesse) and runs his nine tricks. He collects one spade, one heart, four diamonds and three clubs.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids one heart. The next player passes, and you hold: S-A Q 10 H-5 4 D-10 8 7 C-A K J 9 4. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two clubs. Avoid a response of two no-trump when an unbid suit is wide open.

BOND ORDINANCE APPROPRIATING $845,000 AND AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE OF $845,000 BONDS OR NOTES OF THE BOROUGH, FOR VARIOUS IMPROVEMENTS OR PURPOSES AUTHORIZED TO BE UNDERTAKEN BY THE BOROUGH OF NEW SHREWSBURY, NEW JERSEY
BE IT ORDAINED BY THE BOROUGH COUNCIL OF THE BOROUGH OF NEW SHREWSBURY, IN THE COUNTY OF MONMOUTH, NEW JERSEY (not less than two-thirds of all the members thereof affirmatively concurring), AS FOLLOWS:
Section 1. The several improvements described in Section 3 of this bond ordinance are hereby respectively authorized to be made or acquired by the Borough of New Shrewsbury, New Jersey. For the said several improvements or purposes stated in said Section 3, there are hereby appropriated the respective sums of money therein stated as the appropriations made for said improvements or purposes amounting in the aggregate to $845,000.
Section 2. For the financing of said improvements or purposes and to meet the said $845,000 appropriations, negotiable bonds of the Borough are hereby authorized to be issued in the principal amount of $845,000 pursuant to the Local Bond Law of New Jersey. In anticipation of the issuance of said bonds and to temporarily finance said improvements or purposes, negotiable notes of the Borough in a principal amount not exceeding $845,000 are hereby authorized to be issued pursuant to and within the limitations prescribed by said law.
Section 3. The improvements hereby authorized and the several purposes for the financing of which said obligations are to be issued (each of which shall be made or undertaken in accordance with the plans and specifications therefor prepared by the Borough Engineer), and the appropriation made for an estimated cost of each such purpose, and the estimated maximum amount of bonds or notes to be issued for each such purpose, are respectively as follows:

IMPROVEMENT OR PURPOSE	APPROPRIATION AND ESTIMATED COST	ESTIMATED MAXIMUM AMOUNT OF BONDS OR NOTES
(a) The construction and reconstruction of roadways in the Hance Park section of the Borough of New Shrewsbury, including the following streets: Apple Street, Peach Street, Cherry Street, Pear Street, Clover Street, Blossom Street and that portion of Springdale Avenue located between Apple and Pear Streets, and including also storm water drainage facilities and other appurtenances.	$280,000	$280,000
(b) Construction and reconstruction of the roadway of Hope Road from the Central Railroad of New Jersey railroad tracks northerly to Tinton Avenue approximately 3,400 feet including storm water drainage facilities and other appurtenances, and including also the acquisition of necessary rights-of-way for said improvements.	$267,000	$267,000
(c) Construction and reconstruction of the roadway in Pine Brook Road from Hope Road westerly to Wayside Road approximately 5,200 feet including storm water drainage facilities and other appurtenances.	$298,000	$298,000

Section 4. The following matters are hereby determined, declared, recited and stated:
(a) The said purposes described in Section 3 of this bond ordinance are not current expenses and each is a property or improvement which the Borough may lawfully acquire or make as a general improvement for which the Borough is authorized by law to make an appropriation.
(b) The average period of usefulness of said purposes, within the limitations of said Local Bond Law and according to the reasonable life thereof computed from the date of the said bonds authorized by this bond ordinance, and taking into consideration the respective amounts of the said obligations to be issued for the several purposes, is 18 years.
(c) The supplemental debt statement required by said law has been duly made and filed in the office of the Borough Clerk and a complete executed duplicate thereof has been filed in the office of the Director of the Division of Local Government Services in the Department of Community Affairs of the State of New Jersey, and such statement shows that the gross debt of the Borough as defined in said law is increased by the authorization of the bonds and notes provided for in this bond ordinance by $845,000 and the issuance of said obligations authorized by this bond ordinance is permitted by the exception provided in paragraph (d) of said Section 40A:2-7 of said law to the debt limitations prescribed by said law.
(d) The aggregate amount of not exceeding $75,000 for items of expense permitted under Section 40A:2-20 of said law has been included as part of the estimated costs of the several improvements or purposes described in Section 3 of this bond ordinance.
Section 5. This bond ordinance authorizes obligations of the Borough solely for purposes described in paragraph (d) of Section 40A:2-7 of said law and said purposes are in the public interest and are for the health, welfare, convenience or betterment of the inhabitants of the Borough and the amounts to be expended for said purposes pursuant to the bond ordinance are not unreasonable or exorbitant and the issuance of said obligations authorized by this bond ordinance will not materially impair the credit of the Borough or substantially reduce its ability to pay, punctually the principal of and interest on its debts and supply other essential public improvements and services, and the Local Finance Board in the Division of Local Government Services in the Department of Community Affairs of the State of New Jersey has heretofore made a determination to this effect and caused its consent to be endorsed upon a certified copy of this bond ordinance as passed on first reading.
Section 6. Any moneys received by the Borough from the State of New Jersey or County of Monmouth as grants in aid to offset the Borough's share of the cost of any improvements or purposes described in Section 3 shall be used for financing such improvements or purposes. Any moneys so received shall be applied only to payment of the cost of such improvements or to payment of obligations authorized by this bond ordinance.
Section 7. The full faith and credit of the Borough is hereby pledged to the punctual payment of the principal of and interest on the said obligations authorized by this bond ordinance. Said obligations shall be direct, unlimited obligations of the Borough, and the Borough shall be obligated to levy ad valorem taxes upon all the taxable property within the Borough for the payment of said obligations and interest thereon without limitation of rate or amount.
Section 8. This bond ordinance shall take effect 20 days after the first publication thereof after final adoption, as provided by said Local Bond Law.

STATEMENT
The bond ordinance published herewith has been finally adopted on September 13, 1973 and the 20-day period of limitation within such a suit, action or proceeding questioning the validity of such ordinance can be commenced, as provided in the Local Bond Law, has begun to run from the date of the first publication of this statement.

Miss Peters is a direct descendant of Penelope Stout, the first white woman in Monmouth County.

Rock Salt Contracts Awarded by Parkway

WOODBRIDGE — Contracts for approximately 6,000 tons of rock salt have been awarded by the N.J. Highway Authority to the International Salt Company, Clarks Summit, Pa., and the Morton Salt Company, Philadelphia Pa.

The International Salt Company was low bidder for salt to be delivered to three of the Garden State Parkway's maintenance areas, and had the same bids as the Morton Salt Company for two other delivery points. The former company, however, received contracts for all five shipments at the authority's meeting yesterday because of easier delivery in bulk to the parkway's southern section, according to the authority.

International Salt Company's delivery points and prices per ton are: Paramus, $14.35; Clifton, $14.30; Barnegat, $15.25; Whitehorse, $16.15; Swainton, $16.80.

Morton Salt was awarded the contract for Telegraph Hill park at $14.41 per ton, the low bid. The company will also provide salt at $18.60 per ton if the parkway's needs exceed 6,000 tons this winter.

The authority will advertise the availability for sale of suplus property in Washington Township. The commissioners were reportedly unsuccessful in trading the property for land needed for parkway widening.

The following purchases were authorized:

Two coin assorting and counting machines costing $1,420 apiece from the Standard-Johnson Co., Inc., of Brooklyn, N.Y., to replace two machines to be traded in at $50 apiece.

Three bids for renovation of a canopy at the Raritan Toll Plaza northbound were rejected for reportedly not meeting specifications. The authority said it has not yet decided whether to readvertise the bidding.

Collector William Noonan, Plaza Supervisor William Reithoff and Section Supervisor Stephen Potter of the Asbury Park Toll Plaza were commended for their participation in the arrest of David Castro Rodriguez of Long Branch, who has been charged with fatally stabbing his girlfriend, Barbara A. Soles, also of Long Branch, at the toll plaza Sept. 10.

Self-Help Drug Program Set to Open New Facility

ORANCE — DARE (Drug Addiction Rehabilitation Enterprise), a self-help drug rehabilitation program, has announced the establishment of its latest facility.

The residence center, designed to accommodate 200 persons, is expected to open in November at 19 High St.

Monmouth County residents are eligible for inclusion in the DARE program, which accepts referrals from all 21 counties in the state. Participants are usually referred to the program through courts, clergy, other interested persons, or the affected individuals themselves.

'Help Line'

Interested persons may call the DARE "help line," which is open 24 hours a day, at (201) 642-7411 for information or may write to DARE here at P.O. Box 186.

DARE does not maintain any facilities in Monmouth but has publicized its program through radio stations, including several appearances on WRLB, Long Branch, area newspapers and several speaking engagements at Monmouth College, West Long Branch. Its nearest shore facility is a halfway house at Island Heights in Ocean County.

The free program, which is maintained through federal and state aid and contributions, was established in 1967 by Richard R. Roselli, a former drug addict. In addition to the new residence center here and the Island Heights facility, DARE also maintains other outlets here and in Newark, East Orange, Summit and Scotch Plains.

Rehabilitation by DARE is drug-free, with methadone being used only for initial detoxification and not for maintenance. DARE has its own urinalysis testing to insure that program participants are drug-free. It also has its own medical and dental staff.

A U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare study which evaluated the DARE program last year estimated it had a 65 per cent success rate. Both the department and the Essex County Narcotic Drug Study Commission have lauded the program whose other aspects include schooling for high school equivalency diplomas and job training and placement.

Man Sought On Charges Of Fraud

MIDDLETOWN — Police are searching for a black male believed to be in his early 30's who allegedly has been defrauding banks in the area by using checks stolen from the Catholic Digest of America, Passaic.

Detective Sgt. Joseph T. Shaffery said the man is of medium height and build. He said he is using the name of Michael Miller, and a fictitious address, 14 Beers St., Keyport.

The suspect enters a bank, Sgt. Shaffery explained, opens an account, and then, using his new account number, cashes the allegedly stolen checks. He is believed to have more than 200 checks belonging to the publishing company in his possession, Sgt. Shaffery said.

The man has been using rented cars in his travels, the detective said. The most recent offense here took place last Friday, Sgt. Shaffery said. The suspect has been operating throughout the state, he said.

Assisting Sgt. Shaffery in the investigation is Detective Lt. William J. Halliday.

LOVE STORY — Mrs. Marshall Love of Asbury Park holds her son, Marshawn Love, in maternity unit of Monmouth Medical Center, Long Branch, shortly after learning he was the winner of a $25 savings bond. Asbury Park Baby Parade Inc. awarded Marshawn the saving bond for being the first baby born in Monmouth County on the day of the baby parade. He was born at 12:02 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 26.

Parkway Schedules Traffic Slowdown

WOODBRIDGE — Northbound traffic on a one-mile strip of the Garden State Parkway near the Cheesequake Service area will probably be restricted for 20 hours on Tuesday and Wednesday. There will also be no northbound access to the service area at that time.

Commissioner John B. Townsend of the New Jersey Highway Authority, operator of the parkway, said the action is necessary "to help speed the work that eventually will expand the northbound roadway from three to five lanes."

The restrictions are scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday if weather is suitable to repave a mile of the existing northbound roadway.

The commissioner said contractors will work around the clock so that three northbound lanes will be open by 6 a.m. Wednesday.

Traffic will first be channeled into the existing left lane. After about five hours of paving work, traffic will be moved to two lanes of the outer roadway under construction. By 6 a.m. Wednesday, a third lane is to be opened.

Fire Damages A&P In Port Monmouth

MIDDLETOWN — A fire at the A & P store on Rt. 36 in Port Monmouth yesterday afternoon caused $10,000 damage to the store building, according to township Fire Chief W. Irvin Hendricks.

The fire reportedly started in the store's refuse room about 4 p.m. Chief Hendricks said flames soon spread to the adjacent air conditioning room and out through the roof.

The chief said two or three days' garbage in the refuse room was burning for three to four hours before it was noticed. The Port Monmouth, Belford Independent and Belford Engine Cos. were able to control the fire in a half hour, he said.

Cause of the fire is unknown. Chief Hendricks said the store is still usable and will probably be opened within a few days. He added, however, that only the Board of Health could determine how much smoke damage was done to food in the store.

Jury Awards $22,500 In Helicopter Crash

FREEHOLD — A jury has awarded $22,500 compensation to the owner of a helicopter which crashed at Colts Neck Airport two years ago when it became entangled in a gas hose after refueling.

The verdict was against Wilco Aviation Corp., operator of Colts Neck Airport, and William J. David, 5 Sweetbriar Lane, Holmdel, the airport employe who refueled the plane.

Mr. David was 17 years old at the time of the accident, in which the pilot, Michael V. Sheehan of Princeton Junction, was killed.

The award goes to Aerial Applicators Inc. of Homestead, Fla., which alleged in its suit that it lost money because the plane was completely destroyed and the corporation was unable to fulfill its contracts to rent the craft as a crop duster.

The plaintiff company alleged that the accident occurred because Mr. David replaced the fuel hose in the gasoline pump, but permitted part of the fuel line to be left entangled in the aircraft, causing the plane to crash as it attempted to take off. It charged both defendants with negligence.

The verdict ended a three-day trial before Superior Court Judge Andrew A. Salvest. William D. McGovern of Freehold represented the plaintiff and Paul B. Thompson of Jersey City represented both defendants.

3 Charged With Having Stolen Goods

OCEANPORT — Three suspects were arrested in Long Branch and charged with being in possession of property stolen from a home on Wyandotte Ave., here.

They are Howard Spencer Davis, 122 John St., John David Snell, 117 Lippincott Ave., and a 17-year-old juvenile, all of Long Branch. They were arrested Wednesday morning as they were boarding a bus on Broadway.

In addition to the Long Branch charge of possessing stolen property, Davis and the juvenile are charged by police here with breaking, entry, and larceny. They are scheduled for a preliminary hearing on Monday.

Police say the home was entered on Tuesday. Reported as stolen were $400 worth of silver certificates and two pistols, a .38 and a .22 caliber.

The arrest was made as a result of a county message about the larceny.

Colts Neck Planners OK Tennis Club Plan

COLTS NECK — Initial site work for the Colts Neck Indoor Racquet Club, the township's first tennis facility, is slated to start this month.

Plans call for six indoor tennis courts to be built at Rt. 34, behind Becker's Hardware Store. The facility is expected to be open in April.

Builders Joseph Manzo and Joseph Grossman received final site plan approval from the Planning Board Monday. The application had been before the board for seven months.

Mr. Manzo and Mr. Grossman are both township residents. Mr. Manzo is in the road construction business. Mr. Grossman, formerly an interpreter in Europe, has been engaged in area land development the past eight years.

They are builder-owners of the facility but will not operate it, Mr. Grossman said. The operator and professional staff have not yet been chosen, he added.

Plans include retaining the six and a half-acre site's wooded character, Mr. Grossman said, though the builders are considering the possibility of ultimately adding five outdoor courts when the indoor facility is completed.

Board Studies Plans For Air-Conditioning

WEST LONG BRANCH — Several months ago, the Shore Regional High School Board of Education advertised for bids to air-condition the school's windowless band room.

Last night, Monmouth Beach Commissioner Harold W. Peterson speaking as a parent of a band member, asked what had become of the air-conditioning plans. Board President Frederick J. Petschauer said the board had rejected the original bids as too high, and was now studying expanded plans to air-condition the auditorium, as well as the band room.

Mr. Peterson suggested the board seek bids on each room separately, insuring that the band room will still get its needed air-conditioning unit even if the combined bid exceeds estimates.

Two new school buses ordered by the district will not be equipped with power steering units.

In other bid changes, the board reawarded its ice cream contract to Jersey Farms, of Eatontown. Dolly Madison Ice Cream Co., the original low bidder on the contract for 12,000 ice cream sandwiches, is now bankrupt and cannot complete the contract.

A gasoline contract with Lawes Coal Co. Inc., of Shrewsbury, was amended to allow the firm to pass on any price increases or decreases in the wholesale price to maintain a dealer profit margin of 5.31 cents per gallon.

FLEA MARKET

LITTLE SILVER — A Flea Market featuring antiques, furniture, rugs, paintings, and both new and old other items, will be staged Sept. 29 from 9 a.m. to 4:30 by the Woman's Club of Little Silver at its headquarters on the corner of Church St. and Rumson Road. Mrs. Joseph L. Kirk is chairman of the sale, to take place rain or shine. Mrs. Joseph V. Mannino is vice chairman.

Board Receives Plans For School Addition

MONMOUTH BEACH — The Board of Education last night received preliminary plans for a proposed 12-room addition to its elementary school on Griffin Place.

Board President Andrew P. Cancalosi said no date has been set for a referendum on the proposed addition because the board wants to first determine exactly what the building program will be.

The board is considering building a 12-room addition to the school at a cost of $1.1 million to house students now attending classes in a rented church building which the board must vacate by 1975.

The plans are being drawn by Robert Cook of the Holmdel architectural firm of Boyken, Fessler & Cook.

In other business, the board approved six substitute teachers — Mrs. Mary Rider, Miss Beatrice DeAngelo, Miss Susan Argentieri, Miss Margaret Dedick, Mrs. Mary Anne Mills, and Mrs. Carol McKenna.

The board also approved an additional lunchroom and playground aide at $2.50 an hour. No one was named to the position.

Power Plant Backed By Businessmen

KEYPORT — The Chamber of Commerce has filed a statement with the state Department of Environmental Protection favoring proposed construction of twin power plants in Union Beach by the Jersey Central Power and Light Co.

The chamber makes the proviso that all ecological safeguards be taken as planned by the power utility.

Construction of the facility, which would be a ratable worth about $250 million on Union Beach tax rolls, depends on issuance of a wetlands permit by the state agency, which conducted public hearings in Union Beach earlier this week.

120 Teens Take 'Summer Leap'

UNION BEACH — Some 120 youngsters participated in the borough's four-week Title I "Summer Leap" program in August.

"Summer Leap" was designed to foster growth and interest in reading by coupling the subject with such elective activities as art, technology, drama, audio-visual aids, science, photography, gymnastics, sewing, typing and field trips.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, N.J.S. 40A:4-85 provides that the Director of the Division of Local Finance may, at the request of, or with the consent of, the governing body of any county or municipality, make such correction of the title, text or amount of any appropriation appearing in the budget as may be necessary to make said item of appropriation available for the purpose or purposes required for the needs of any such county or municipality,

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that in accordance with the provisions of N.J.S. 40A:4-85, the Governing Body of the Borough of New Shrewsbury hereby requests the Director of the Division of Local Finance to make the following corrections in the budget of the year 1973:

CAPITAL SECTION: State & Local Assistance Act of 1972
Entitlement Period Jan. 1, 1972 to June 30, 1972
Purchase of Road Sweeper from $30,000.00 to $19,955.00
Add New Items of:
Purchase of Sound Recording Equipment $2,000.00
Purchase & Installation of Gas Tank $5,000.00
Preliminary Architect Study of Future Municipal Buildings $2,500.00
Purchase of Office Equipment (Copy machine) $545.00
Entitlement Period July 1, 1972 to Dec. 31, 1972
Purchase of Lawn Mower from $1,700.00 to $1,390.00
Add New Item of:
Purchase of Office Equipment (copy machine) $310.00
Entitlement Period July 1, 1973 to June 30, 1974
Purchase of Container Winch from $2,000.00 to $1,020.00
Add New Item of:
Purchase of Office Equipment (copy machine) $980.00

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the foregoing correction is, in the opinion of the governing body, warranted and authorized by the statute above referred to, and is necessary for the orderly operation of the municipality for the reasons hereinafter set forth.

The necessity to purchase additional capital items of a crucial nature has arisen and it is prudent to provide for the purchase of these items with the use of revenue sharing funds. Since the cost of equipment previously budgeted for under revenue sharing funds was much less than anticipated, therefore by correcting our budget we can more readily utilize the total appropriations we budgeted for in 1973.

Narcotics Bureau Asked in Marlboro

MARLBORO — Democratic candidate for township council John F. Croddick has proposed that a police Narcotics Bureau be established.

He said two fulltime detectives would be retained — one to focus on investigation and prosecution, and the other working in a teaching program.

"With our police working in the community, our teachers and administrators working in the schools, and our parents working in the home, all under the guidance of experts, I feel we can develop a program unsurpassed in any of our neighboring areas," he said.

Mrs. Scott Is Eatonbrook Agent

EATONTOWN — Mrs. Ruth Scott of Sea Bright has been appointed rental agent at Eatonbrook Gardens, a 264-unit luxury garden apartment complex here by Samuel Calello, residential marketing director of r. e. Scott co., Realtors of Elizabeth and Freehold.

Eatonbrook is a joint venture of the Alexander Summer Co. and Petronella Brothers, apartment developers of Bergen County. The former nursery site abounds throughout its 22 acres with holly, dogwood, rhododendron and other shrubs and trees.

The complex features one- and two-bedroom units with one and two baths, respectively. One of the typical unit's two entrances leads to a landscaped court. In the future development will be a swim and tennis club as well as a play area.

Mrs. Scott was honored early this year as the company's first residential sales associate to exceed $1 million in gross sales volume in the year 1972. She previously had represented the Scott organization as the exclusive sales associate of Estates of Holmdel and Coventry Woods in Lincroft.

Management of the garden apartments is also handled by the r. e. Scott co.

Summer Sales Top $100 Million Mark

MIDDLETOWN — The Applebrook Agency hit a hundred millions dollars in real estate sales this summer — "and that's a lot of housing for an independent residential Realtor in Central New Jersey to achieve," reports Jacob R.V.M. Lefferts 3rd, president of the firm. "In the first seven months of this year, our real estate sales are over $12 million — the highest for any seven months period in our history."

Jacob R.V.M. Lefferts 3rd

Mr. Lefferts said "the soaring demand for residential property in New Jersey has been growing steadily" ever since his father organized the business in 1957, and he predicts that "buyer demand for homes in New Jersey has a long way to go before tapering off — if it ever does."

Mr. Lefferts said "the emphasis which is being placed on new types of home ownership — condominium apartments, townhouses and duplex — and the inference they will eventually replace the single-family home, is not reflected in the steadily mounting volume of individual home sales.

Young People

"It is true," Mr. Lefferts said, "that today's young people are starting home ownership at the earliest age in history, and in order to get started, their first home may be a modestly-priced townhouse instead of a rental unit. But this is only a temporary stopgap to build equity toward their dream of owning a single-family home.

"Instead of single-home ownership tapering off, as some economists predict, the desire for home ownership is at the strongest level since the early 1950s in America. We envision new and resale home sales in New Jersey booming in the years ahead and opportunities for real estate growth unlimited for Realtors who keep in step with buyers' desires and demands for shelter."

The family-owned Applebrook Agency was organized in 1957 by Jacob R.V.M. Lefferts 2nd. Headquartered on Rt. 35 here, it built its early reputation on representing executive estate properties in the Monmouth County area of Central New Jersey. During the years, business boomed and offices were opened in Rumson and Matawan. The firm now has 35 sales representatives.

Since son Jacob joined the firm in 1963 and became president in 1968, Applebrook has expanded its operations into other areas of real estate including land development, commercial investment sales, syndication and condominium home ownership.

Residential Sales

The company, however, is organized primarily around the functions of residential sales — new and resale single-family homes and estates.

"Our major sales area, the northeast section of Monmouth and southeast section of Middlesex Counties, is a vital factor in our success," Mr. Lefferts said. "It is one of New Jersey's most desirable regions for residential development. The expansion of interstate highways, the availability of transportation facilities, and the influx of corporations settling in the surrounding areas, has made it possible for people to live graciously in this rolling woodland countryside, and still be able to commute to business. It has grown from a popular summer home region into a highly desirable year-round living area for people seeking a convenient, out-in-the-country lifestyle. It is one of the most sought-after residential areas in the entire state."

Applebrook is sales agent for many single-home communities, including Oak Hill, Hillandale and Harmony Woods, as well as the luxurious high-rise condominium "Top of the East" in the Highlands. It is the exclusive member in Monmouth County of the national organization known as National Multi-List Service. Applebrook handles transferees and clientele brought to it from this network, as well as from Previews, Homerica, National Home Settlers, and other corporate relocation organizations with which it is affiliated.

PINE TREE COVE — The 12½-acre riverfront estate of John E. Toolan in Fair Haven has been purchased by the Willits International Company, Red Bank, and is being divided into 28 allotments and developed by Gene F. Miltenberger, Rumson. Known as Pine Tree Cove Estates, it has been sectioned with Pine Tree North, featuring access to the Navesink River and a common docking facility, and Pine Tree South, featuring secluded, wooded areas.

Mayors, Realtors Battling Slums

ASBURY PARK — Officials of the New Jersey Conference of Mayors have initiated a move in conjunction with the New Jersey Association of Realtors to develop a statewide program of rehabilitation of vacant buildings in New Jersey communities, aimed at preventing further deterioration and providing additional housing.

Hovnanian Realtor Concept Is Unique

EATONTOWN — A new sales concept has been developed between a national builder and a member of the Monmouth County Board of Realtors.

Kevork S. Hovnanian, president of Hovnanian Enterprises, Inc., developer of Shadow Lake Village, River Plaza, said he believed that to encourage sales by Realtors would bring greater exposure to Monmouth County residents, who compromise the majority of people living in the adult condominium community on the shores of Shadow Lake.

It is a pilot project and the first of its kind in the area. Mr. Hovnanian says people in the area benefit by dealing with Realtors whom they know and through whom they can, in turn, market their own homes, thus making the transition easier.

An exclusive agency agreement was developed with the McGowan Ryan Agency of Red Bank, which listed the properties with members of multiple listing services in the county, and distributed descriptive literature and brochures and conducted personal tours to acquaint Realtors and their associates with the units available and the living conditions in Shadow Lake Village.

Anthony J. Camassa, president of the Monmouth County Board of Realtors, said this is a radical but welcome departure from the normal practice of a builder or developer of maintaining his own sales staff exclusively for a property of this magnitude.

While Hovnanian does maintain a sales staff on the premises, it has worked in close cooperation with the Realtors, giving of their own expertise and assistance wherever possible.

The result during the first 90 days of this cooperative venture has been additional sales of units totaling $810,280 by participating Realtors.

Mobilhome Community Is Opened

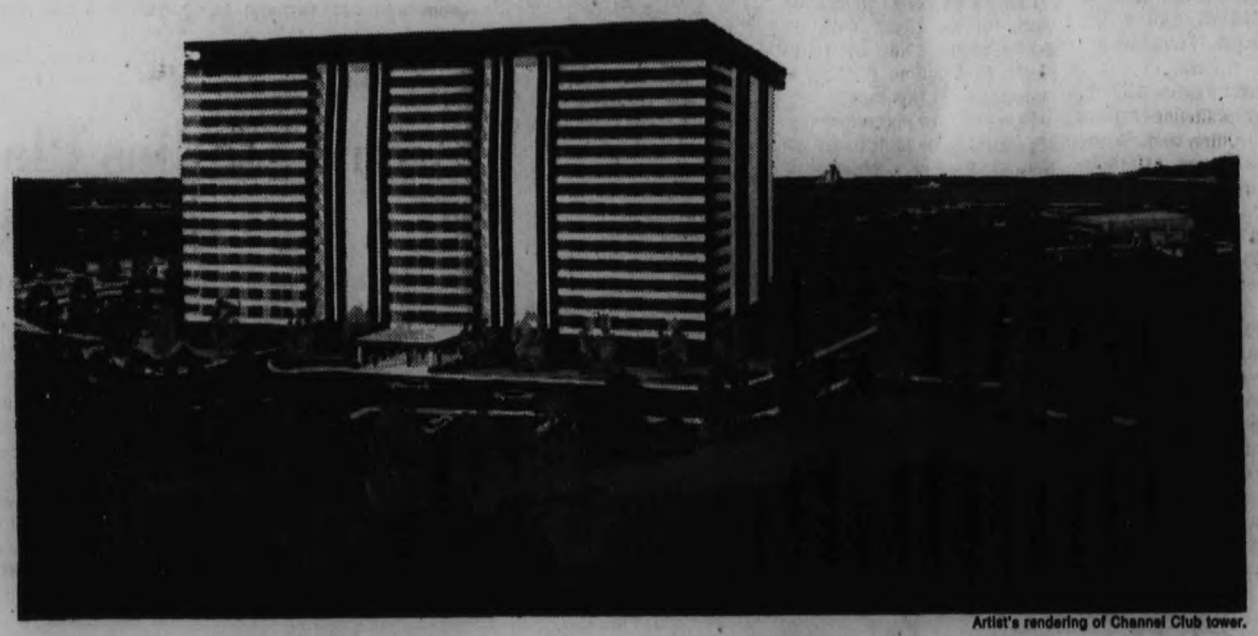

VINELAND — Nicolas Tuyahov, developer of Fairview Manor Park mobilehome community, reports that the first section of mobilehomes is open and available for occupancy.

The community will eventually accommodate 1,217 mobilehome units. Tuyahov, developer of the Oak Tree leisure mobilehome park in Lakewood and Toms River mobilehome park, plans to offer 40 distinctive home styles from which buyers may choose.

All homesites are on 50-foot by 100-foot lots and are fully landscaped. All utility wires run underground and a central water and sewer system has been constructed. Patios are included with each homesite, and cable TV services also are available.

Vineland is 35 miles south of Philadelphia and equi-distant from New York and Baltimore, Wilmington and Atlantic City.

A new high point in luxury on the Jersey Shore

Artist's rendering of Channel Club tower.

Within a short time after the final plans were drawn and approved, 25% of the available apartments were reserved.

That is success.

Channel Club Tower was designed to be one of the finest residential structures at the shore. It is directly across from the famed Channel Club, its impressive marina, restaurant and club facilities.

To enhance this unique location, great attention has been paid to every detail of the building, its apartments and grounds.

Rooms are exceptionally large and well positioned. All living areas are carpeted wall to wall. Windows are of insulated tinted glass and each apartment is individually air-conditioned and contains from 1½ to 3 baths. All apartments have a minimum of one walk-in closet.

Every apartment has its own Westinghouse washer and dryer. Compactor, dishwasher, extra large refrigerator with icemaker, and range with double ovens—one self-cleaning, all by General Electric in color combinations. In addition to excellent closet and storage space, extra enclosed storage is provided for each apartment within the building itself.

The building is pre-wired for Cable TV while a special closed circuit TV system will provide constant and comforting security 24 hours a day. Hallways are air-conditioned, pressurized and carpeted to help eliminate cooking odors and reduce noise.

The views from the solid reinforced concrete balconies are exceptional. One sees across to the quaint villages of Rumson and Deal, the Shrewsbury River, Middletown and Sandy Hook Bay. On a clear day it is possible to see New York City. And, of course the ocean views are ever present.

Downstairs, there is much pleasure, too. There is a health club with saunas for men and women. There are card and game rooms. And outdoors: a heated and lighted swimming pool and tennis courts, also lighted for night play, all included in the monthly condominium charge.

There is a covered parking space for your car. There will be a uniformed doorman on duty at all times to welcome you and your guests to the elegant canopied dual entrance lobby. Valet parking service is provided from dusk to dawn.

New Real Estate Firm Opens

MIDDLETOWN — Bob Warncke Associates, Realtors, have announced the establishment of an agency to serve Monmouth County clients in buying and selling residential, industrial and commercial real estate.

The new firm is at 590 Rt. 35 and Apple Farm Road.

Warncke is owned by J. Robert Warncke, who serves as president of and broker for the organization. The firm is a member of the Monmouth County Multiple Listing Service and Monmouth County Board of Realtors.

It will be exclusive agent for Deepdale Builders and Want-A-Key Builders, both of Middletown.

In addition to Mr. Warncke, the agency staff includes Jacqueline D. Lansing and Jack Preston Jr., associate brokers, and Madeline Polston, Joseph J. Quinn and Stephen R. Popaca, sales associates. The six Realtors said they have sold a total of more than $27 million in real estate to date.

Mr. Warncke, Mr. Preston and Mr. Quinn are members of the N.J. Association of Realtor Board's Million Dollar Round Table, members of which have sold more than a million dollars of real estate in one year.

Mrs. Lansing attended Endicott Junior College in Beverly, Mass., and was certified in real estate sales at Rutgers University and as a real estate broker at Asbury Park Business College. A Middletown resident, she is a member of the Peninsula House Beach Club, Sea Bright, and the Channel Club, Monmouth Beach.

Mr. Preston is an associate member of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers and serves as a notary public. He is a graduate of Middletown High School and Monmouth College, West Long Branch. Mr. Preston is a Marine Corps veteran.

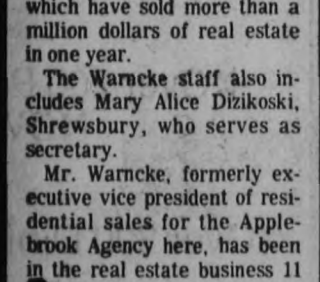

A resident of Little Silver, Mr. Preston is a member of the Little Silver Racquet Club.

Mrs. Polston attended the Tobe-Coburn School of Fashion and the New York School of Fine Arts. She has been engaged in real estate sales the past eight years. Mrs. Polston is a Middletown resident.

Mr. Quinn's previous posts have included owning a business for 10 years and serving as marketing manager for Look and the Saturday Evening Post magazines. He is a graduate of Seton Hall University. Mr. Quinn lives in Colts Neck.

Mr. Popaca is a graduate of Toms River High School, Los Angeles Valley College and holds a marketing degree from San Fernando Valley State College. He is a Normandy Beach resident. His civic activities have included serving as president of the Ocean Beach Volunteer Fire Department and being a member of the Dover-Brick First Aid Squad.

'Golden' Opportunity

By LESTER KINSOLVING

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. — After 17 years as a parish priest and college chaplain, the Rev. David Crump, 45, left the parochial ministry, here — to begin a full-time practice as a member of the California Association of Marriage and Family Counselors.

In the two years since he left St. James' Episcopal Church here, his income has already doubled.

He notes a similarly pronounced difference in the counseling atmosphere, now that he explains with complete and courteous candor to each of his 20 or so counseling clients per week:

"My fee is $25 an hour — and we'll work hard."

Industrial Consultant

During an interview, Father Crump, who also serves (on retainer) as a counseling consultant to an industrial firm as well as a local college, remarked:

"What a difference between this relationship and when they used to sit around the parish office knowing that you had to counsel them! Actually the fee understanding is an important part of the needed relationship."

How did he, while remaining in this community, manage the presumably delicate transition from fee-less parish priest to full-time counselor at near-psychiatric rates?

INSIDE RELIGION

"That's a good question!" chuckled the handsome and congenial Crump. "I was actually launched by a local obstetrician-gynecologist, who not only showed me how to set up an office and to discuss fees, but he also made referrals who were my first counselees."

What Fee Means

The fee means that Father Crump can concentrate fully upon his primary ministerial preference of counseling, for which he has spent years in special study, clinical experience and psychotherapy. (This is fortunate — for admission standards to the California Association of Marriage and Family Counselors include requirement of a considerable amount of supervised work, plus master's degree and passing of a rather rigid examination.)

He need never again be diverted (or even to sweat blood over) such attendant problems of the parish ministry as warring women's guilds, the care and feeding of organists, choristers, morticians and "Laypope" church board members; diocesan politics (especially being in the hands of a bad bishop) or the every member canvass.

The word about this golden Beulah land (Isaiah 62:4) of untrammeled ministerial specialization has apparently been widely transmitted (over the nation's undisputedly leading wire service: the clergy grapevine).

Large List

For when Crump was asked how many other clergy he knows who are now full time in the counseling field, he replied:

"If it were possible to get the complete list, you wouldn't believe how loaded it would be with clergy!"

Denominational headquarters are, however, understandably reluctant to publicize the number (or the accomplishments — including professional level salaries) of clergy who have departed the denomination's principle source of revenue: the local parish.

But the field of counseling, in which most clergy have both extensive experience as well as some professional training, may well be causing massive defections from the ranks of the parochial ministry.

It may even radically transform those denominations which are presently maintaining a paid, full-time parochial ministry (in contrast to such rapidly growing denominations as the Mormons and the Jehovah's Witnesses, who do not.)

Some clergy, however, are trying to have it both ways — by remaining as salaried parish clergy while at the same time setting up "private practices" on the side.

Questionable Work

Father Crump, who occasionally substitutes in officiating at services in nearby churches, regards this as "questionable." So does Dr. Henry Cassier of the Lutheran Council's Department of Institutional Chaplaincy and Clinical Pastoral Education, who warns:

— Such part-time counselors, when accepting professional-scale fees, may open themselves — as well as their church bodies — to malpractice suits, especially since states are beginning to license counselors.

— Parochial clergy can and should provide "pastoral care" — but avoid the intensive therapy of extended counseling. For parishioners may have faith in their pastor's counseling program even though it may be "so ill-prepared as to be dangerous to individuals and families."

LOOKING FORWARD — Ground will be broken Sunday for a parish hall addition at St. John's Episcopal Church, Little Silver. Architect's rendering outlines its structure. The ceremony will follow the 10 a.m. family service. Officiating will be the Rev. Ronald P. Jaynes, rector; James R. Deans, senior warden; Richard C. Wilson, junior warden; Milton S. Hall, building committee chairman, and R. Bradford Murphy, church school superintendent. The new building, designed by Red Bank architects Kaplan and Gaunt, will house five classrooms, a library, a rector's office, and an office and reception area for a secretary. Construction will begin immediately with Village Homes Inc. as general contractor. St. John's Church was built in 1876, with additions completed in the 1930s and the late 1950s.

St. John's Schedules Its 73rd Roll Call

HAZLET — St. John's United Methodist Church will have its 73rd Roll Call celebration on Sept. 30.

This day celebrations was introduced as a part of the church's program shortly after the church celebrated its 100th anniversary.

The afternoon service at 4 p.m. will feature a program of music by five college men. They call themselves "The Son Rise Group", and have sung in hundreds of churches throughout the country. They have just completed their Western tour.

At 5:15 p.m. a Free Fellowship Supper will be served to everyone in attendance. Last year some 600 people were served by the ladies of the church.

At 7 p.m., Dr. B. Sam Hart, founder and director of the Grand Old Gospel Hour will bring the message. Dr. B. Sam Hart is considered by many to be one of the most effective Black clergymen of our day. His programs are heard on hundreds of radio and television stations each week.

FUN FESTIVAL

BELFORD — The Mary-Martha Circle of the Belford United Methodist Church will stage its annual Fun Festival tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the church parking lot, Campbell Ave. and Church St. In case of rain, the event will be in the building at the rear of the church.

Temple Officers To Be Installed

NEW SHREWSBURY — Dr. Alton Meyer Winters of Monmouth Reform Temple will install the congregation's officers at the service tomorrow night.

Those being installed are: Monroe Deutsch, president; Howard Sadwith, Charles Rubinstein and Bernard Brandwene, vice presidents; Jack Kohn, treasurer; Peggy Baker, financial secretary; Phyllis Backover, recording secretary, and Cynthia Auerbach, corresponding secretary.

16 Baptized In River At Highlands

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS — Sixteen persons were baptized during the fourth river baptism to be sponsored on the beach at Miller St., Highlands, by the Emmanuel Baptist Church, here.

They were Linda Dougherty and Debra Sacaloff, Matawan; David Nilsen, Monmouth Beach; Dawn Curtis and Amy Sanders, Holmdel; John Rahm, Highlands; Carol Whelan, Little Silver; Constance Griesmer, Lisa Mines, Susan Dietrich and Karen Dietrich, Colts Neck; Nancy and Richard Haskew and Palmina Lingenfelter, Middletown; Beverly Mills, Highlands, and George Bertram, here.

More than 100 have been baptised in the river since a fire destroyed the church's sanctuary and baptistry in 1970. The church also baptizes each year in one of the local Baptist churches. Although the new sanctuary will be completed this winter, the river ceremony will probably continue as an annual event because of its popularity.

Temple Slates Midnight Rites

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP — Temple Beth Ahm, the Conservative Jewish Congregation of the Bayshore area, will have Selihot services tomorrow at midnight.

The services will be conducted by Rabbi Barry Dov Lerner, temple spiritual leader, and the liturgy chanted by Cantor Moshe Meirovich.

Before the services, there will be a social program, at 10 p.m. featuring refreshments, sponsored by the temple social committee under the chairmanship of Iris Reisberg.
