It's delightful to see how surprised our savings depositors often are that their savings grow so rapidly when they get into the habit of saving here regularly. The simple fact is: Those who save here every month or payday are steadily building a substantial savings reserve ... seemingly "without even trying!"

Who's Who on Sanibel

Mrs. PAUL SIMONDS is left on Tuesday, January 5 for Milwaukee, Wisconsin where she will attend the Patricia Stevens College for several months. This is a college specializing in merchandising, fabrics, fashions, selling and buying.

She plans on spending a few days with her son and family in Ann Arbor, Michigan en route to Milwaukee. Mrs. Simonds' mother and sisters live near Milwaukee and her own former home was in Wisconsin.

The Thrift Shop of the Episcopal Church now has for sale a large upholstered chair with ottoman, and a television set which needs a bit of tinkering-- a roll away bed which is almost new, perfect for the unexpected guest. Be sure to come in Thursday after the holidays.

Mr. & Mrs. PETER TOMPKINS from Washington are staying in Barclay Read's gulf front cottage for several weeks. Mr. Tompkins is writing a book on the assassination of Admiral Darlan, the French Commander. If the Tompkins like living in Florida they may decide to remain.

During the war Mr. Tompkins was in charge of O.S.S. in Rome. He organized the espionage system for the Allied Armies. Once he was put ashore near Rome on the Mediterranean coast in Italy in a rubber boat. He went to Rome and organized the underground, took over espionage and gave information to the Allied Air Force.

Mrs. Tompkins is a missile expert in the production industrial phase in missile and rocket production. She is a promoter of the publication "Missiles and Rockets" a weekly trade journal publication. They are on their way to Mexico when they leave Read's cottage.

Mr. & Mrs. HENRY LYMAN, JR. and their children JUNE and BARBARA are at Shell Baskin. It is their second trip. Mr. Lyman is a trust officer in a bank in Winnetka, Illinois. He is a free lance writer and is at work now on a juvenile novel using Sanibel as its setting.

Mr. BARCLAY READ of New Jersey is in his beach cottage on Sanibel for a short time getting rested and is soon leaving for a Windjammer Cruise through the Bahamas. Mr. Read is president of Industrial Microbiologic Inc. of Cherry Hill New Jersey. This company is developing new processes to make important industrial chemicals by means of enzymes.

Mr. & Mrs. FRED WOLF & Mr. & Mrs. LESLIE SCHARF from Tampa are enjoying their stay at the Island Inn. They came to Sanibel for some of the wonderful fishing.

Mr. & Mrs. DICK PASCH of Tampa flew down to spend some time at the Island Inn. This is their fourth visit to the Island.

MARY ALECK'S sister Mrs. JOHN DEMOPOULOS from Washington, D.C. took time off from teaching to spend the Christmas and New Year's holidays on Sanibel with Mary. A good time was had by all-- as the old saying goes!

Mrs. INEZ REISINGER from Eric, Pa. visited the Islands over the holidays. She was here to be with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. & Mrs. Wm. VON. Mrs. Von is the former Cindy Reisinger.

Col. & Mrs. LEONARD SYMROSKI of Warner Robins Air Force Base, Macon, Georgia, and their three children spent Christmas with Mrs. Symroski's mother, DAISY MAYER, at Mrs. Mayer's home on Bay Shore Drive.

The children, BARBARA, a junior at Agnes Scot College in Atlanta, ALLISON, who is going to Middlebury, Vermont to school next year, and TY, a twelve year old boy, are all enjoying Sanibel.

CHARLOTTA MATTHEWS & Mrs. DOUGLAS CLAPP drove over from Fort Myers to enjoy New Year's dinner at the Island Inn. A good time was had by all. Happy New Year to you both!

Mr. and Mrs. VERNE RHOADES from Asheville, N.C. are at Island Inn to stay through March. Their grandchildren will be down later.

Mr. & Mrs. W.H. TEARE from Burnt Hill, New Jersey are at the Island Inn for a short stay. This is their fourth winter on the Island. Hurry back!

Mr. & Mrs. ROBERT STOUTEN from Grand Rapids, Mich. are at the Island Inn with their two children.

Dr. MURIEL ROSCOE of Montreal, Canada is a welcome guest at the Inn. Dr Roscoe is one of the regular guests of the Inn, comes when ever she can!

Mr. & Mrs. PAUL J. FOLEY from Wichita, Kansas are at the Inn until January 16. They have been guests here before and this time brought with them Mr. and Mrs. E.W. JACKSON from Peoria, Illinois. Let us hope the Jacksons get the Sanibel habit also.

Mr. & Mrs. WILLIAM C. FRYE of Tampa who are friends of "COOKIE" and SAM BAILEY have come to the Island Inn for the fishing. Best of luck!

Mr. & Mrs. S.A. MILLER from Copenhagen, Denmark are stopping at the Island Inn. Mr. Miller is an officer in the Danish Air Force and is on his way to Texas for a special training course. They will return to Denmark in March.

Mrs. JULIE PECK from New York arrived at the Inn New Year's night at 11:00. Without the bridge Mrs. Peck would have had to wait until the next day to ferry over to the Island.

Mrs. Peck is the mother-in-law of GENE SARAZEN, one of the better pro golfers in U.S. golfing annals, who has also often been an Island visitor. One time, quite a few years ago, in an effort to impress a carpenter who was doing some work around the house, we off-handedly said, "Oh, did you know that Gene Sarazen is on the Island?" to which the carpenter replied, "is she?"

Dr. & Mrs. HOWELL of Coral Gables, Florida spent a few nights at the Island Inn.

TO THE ISLANDER:

Our subscription must be about out--- enclosed is the $3 for another year. We have been coming to your wonderful Island for only a year, but use every excuse to get back.....the paper is always something to look forward to.

Our three children are also completely in love with the Island. Jennifer, the 12 year old, wrote the following:

SANIBEL STUCK

He was Sanibel stuck, what luck!
He couldn't get away from the sand
The surf or even the turf.
While miles away, he could sniff and say
Sanibel due south.
Now he enjoys shells and sand from that glorious land
Though miles and miles of endless dirt are between shore and home door.

Thank you and see you all at Easter.

Sincerely,
/s/ Theodore D. Bean, D.D.S.

Over the Christmas holidays, 23 states were represented by vacationing teenagers, all the way to Honolulu, Hawaii! There were also three other countries represented, Canada, France (by Danni Surpreant) and Germany (by Dieter and Gisela Finck).

Since school resumed Mon., there are few of us left on the Islands, but there are a number of teenagers who came too late to be put in last week's column. However, better late than never.

Staying at the Blue Dolphin were Marilyn and Cathy Smith of Miami Beach and 16 year old Cathy Turner of Chicago. Don Cantbelle, 18, of Evanston, Illinois, was staying at Island Inn. Also staying there were Bill and Robby Wells of Monmouth, Illinois. Russ and Cheri Swider, who visit the Islands regularly, are from Detroit, Michigan.

From Daleville, Indiana was Blade Hoy. He hopes to make it back sometime during the summer. Blade was staying at Gulf Breeze.

From Charleston, West Virginia, was Ken Smith, who stayed at the Shell Basket. A frequent visitor David Simons of Pittsburg, Pa., stayed at 'Tween Waters Inn.

At the Sand Dollar were David and Mark Burgess of Tallahassee, from Murphysboro, Tenn., was Liz Moffert, staying at Sea Grape. Another frequent visitor was Jon Joy, 18, of Middleburg, Vermont. Jon said he would like to have stayed longer, as he had a great time, but the snow and his skis were calling him.

Ed Hendrickson came down and visited his mother for about a week. His mother is a winter resident on Captiva. Ed, who attends K.M.I. plans to come back during spring vacation. Also home for the vacation was Chad Way, with a friend, Steve Steves of Cincinnati. While here, Dave and Chad made big hits playing the guitar and singing at Beach Parties.

Staying at Mrs. Lynn Beals, was Jim Steyaart, who comes down often. Jim plans to return to the Islands on his spring vacation from Kenyon College.

During the last week before school started, there were several parties and get-togethers. On the 26th, many of the teenagers attended the annual Christmas dance at the Community House. After the dance they all went to the Ways' house to finish the evening.

We should like to extend our thanks to Mr. & Mrs. Southward of the Snack Shack, who were kind enough to let us use the Snack Shack on the 27th for a small outside dance. Approximately 30 were there, and they all enjoyed themselves.

A small Beach Party was held at Bowman's Beach on the 29. The whole gang was there.

Chris Gault had a party on the 28th and also one on the 30th. At one party, Mike Rhodes played his guitar, which everyone enjoyed.

On the 31st, we had our last party. It was a "bring your own vittles" Beach Party at which we roasted hot dogs, marshmallows, etc. We all said our final goodbys (most were leaving the next day) hoping to see each other soon.

Who's Who on Captiva

Lt. Col. and Mrs. JACK MILLER, with their two children, MARILYN and JACQUELYN, are guests of Mr. & Mrs. WILLIAM PITCHFORD. Mrs. Miller (Beverly) is Mr. Pitchford's daughter. Col. Miller has just retired from the Air Force. For the past eight years he has been stationed in Washington, D.C. where his special mission has been pilot for the Vice-President and the cabinet.

Beverly, born in Jensen's Beach, Florida, where her father still has a home, is so delighted with Captiva because it reminds her of how lovely and unspoiled Jensen's Beach used to be. The Millers have just purchased a home in West Palm Beach, but in the near future hope to find a small cottage on this beautiful Island for short vacation periods.

Mr. and Mrs. HERVEY ROBERTS just returned from Tuscon, Arizona, where they made a flying trip to spend Christmas holidays with their youngest daughter and her husband JUDY & WALTER REIS and their three children. They were taken sightseeing all over, from desert trips to the summit of Mt. Lemmon in a Land Rover. All this with Hazel's leg still in a cast, brave girl! She was due to be free from this extra burden on Monday.

Mrs. D. FORBUSH has returned to Snug Harbor on Palm Avenue from her home in Canaan, New Hampshire. Mrs. MARTHA STEVENS from the same city will arrive early this week to stay at the Tom Fraser cottage while they are on a cruise, and then will move into the studio apartment of Dr. and Mrs. MALONE on Palm Avenue.

Mr. & Mrs. O.O. MURPHY (Pat to you) entertained with a cocktail party New Years Eve to celebrate the completion of remodeling and refurbishing their new home on Captiva, the former Bancroft home.

Dr. & Mrs. L. BERNSTEIN of Youngstown, Ohio, have been guests at the Blanks' Cottages. They have visions of having their own home here very soon.

WINSLOW GRULLEMANS, Jr., had a very bad experience after a wonderful Christmas holiday with his grandparents on Captiva Island. Homeward bound, the family stopped on the east coast of Florida where Winslow, while swimming, was struck on the back by a Man-O-War and was taken to the hospital in state of shock. We are happy to report that he is responding nicely to treatment.

Grandmother J.J. GRULLEMANS and Grandmother LYNN B. BEALS were pleased, and rightly so, when their two grandchildren GALE GRULLEMANS & JAMES L. STEYAART, invited them to dine at Golden Sands during the Christmas season. Mrs. J.J. Grullemans very proudly states, "Canes and all." Gale flew in from Judgen School in Arizona and James is in his senior year at Kenyan College in Ohio. James plans a medical career which is almost a tradition with the Beals and the Steyaarts.

Mr. and Mrs. GEORGE SCHMERER of White Plains, New York, will be staying for another three months in the INA WATSON house on Palm Avenue. Mr. Schmerer is one of the many avid fishermen on the Island and finds it quite a switch from the responsibility of the Chemical Bank New York Trust Company of New York City where he spent his time before his retirement.

A clipping from the New York Herald Tribune says, Announcement has been made by Mr. and Mrs. HORACE K. DUGDALE Jr. of Fox Hole Farm, Greenville, Del. of the engagement of their daughter, Miss ANN THOMPSON DUGDALE, to Mr. GEORGE Wm. LAIRD, of Louviers, Wilmington, Del.

Miss Dugdale attended Tower Hill School, Wilmington, and was graduated from West-over School and Bennett College. She made her debut in Wilmington in 1961.

Mr. Laird, after attending Tower Hill School, was graduated from Episcopal High School, Alexandria, Va. and Hamilton College.

Miss Ann Dugdale is the granddaughter of Mr. & Mrs. H. KIRKUS DUGDALE of Chestertown, Maryland and Captiva Island, Florida.

CAPTIVA LIBRARY FACTS

DO YOU KNOW THAT ----
The Captiva library at the Captiva Community Center is open on Tuesdays and Fridays from 10 a.m. to 12 noon?

The library has nearly 1300 volumes --- fiction; biography; mystery; history and travel; politics and current events; poetry; drama; natural history; children's books, etc.

The books are all cross-indexed by author and title. Books may be borrowed without charge (a fine of a cent a day will be asked for over-due books) for a period of two weeks. (New books most in demand for one week.)

The library has a "Fairy Godmother" (come in and we will tell you who she is) who has generously given us a very comprehensive group of dictionaries and encyclopedias for out reference shelves.

The library also has a "Fairy Godfather" of whom we will tell you also, who has presented us with The Encyclopedia Britannica.

Architect's rendering of the new St. Isabel Catholic Mission to be built on church property adjoining the Telephone Building. Work started about two weeks ago and the structure will be completed around Easter. The work is being done by the Ross Construction Company of Fort Myers. The architect is Robert H. Matts of Fort Myers. The $35,000 building will be a ten sided one with a 200 person capacity. Members have been meeting at the Shell Basket for quite awhile and before that at a home on Tulipa Way. This will be a good addition to our Islands as this is one of the two church groups that has not had a permanent building until this time.

ART GALLERY ADDS INTEREST TO ISLANDS

The Seahorse Art Gallery, now in its second season, has added a new dimension of interest to the Islands, and has succeeded in focusing attention on the work of the twenty artists whose paintings are now on display. Some of these artists are residents of the Islands and nearby areas, and many have had their paintings shown in other galleries and exhibitions in this country and abroad. Others are being presented at the Seahorse Gallery for the first time. The excellence of their work may be of interest to collectors who can discern possibilities of a future acceptance and appreciation by the art world.

Practically all painting media and styles are represented in the current show, as well as a wide variety of treatments and individual approaches to related subject matter. Devotees of the traditional, realistic, school will discover many fine examples of this idiom, and those whose taste is more conditioned to the abstract and impressionistic, or to "pop" art, or fantasy, will also find these types of work included.

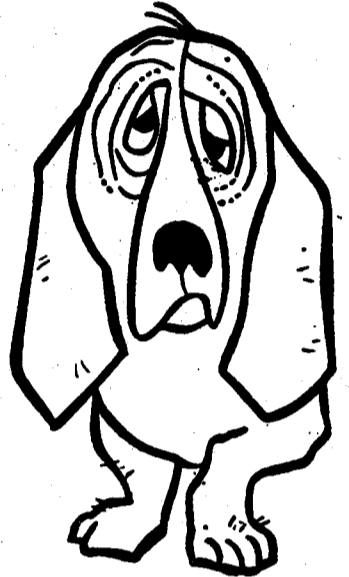

Leon R. Levy of Sanibel, the director of the gallery, said that the opinions of visitors to the gallery on the subjects of style and technique, run strongly in a number of different directions, and that there seems to be no pattern of conformity of likes - and - dislikes in any given age group. Older people, supposed to favor the more conventional or the nostalgic, are just as apt to be attracted by the avant-garde approach; the opposite reaction being often observed in younger connoisseurs, whether buyers or merely viewers.

However, what all groups have in common is a willingness and an ability to express their opinions, and Mr. Levy reports that some extremely entertaining and informative discussions on the state of painting have ensued at the Gallery as a result. He says that, since his own taste, interests, and painting techniques cover a wide range and variety, he has found himself arguing with gallery visitors many sides of the question as to "what constitutes art," with equally firm conviction, but with no observable conclusions. This, he says, makes running an art gallery interesting.

The current show features paintings by Asbach, Sherwood, Green, Solmes, Herzberg, Rieser, Bartok, Thomas, Booth, Bancroft, Stamper, Niven, Romig, Hartman, Eager, Rothofol, Halle, Feist, Levy and others.

SANIBEL ISLAND, FLORIDA

by ethel snyder

(Last week, Miss Snyder took readers along on a harrowing ride to the old post office. This is the rest of the story.)

Webb Shannahan, a tall, gray haired aristocratic man of few words but whose smile was friendly, was carrier for several years after I arrived in the Islands. The Shannahans lived near the light house on the Gulf side. Then came Walter Burke who had come to the Island during the war as an army radio man. After the war he stayed on and got the job of rural carrier and married our popular school teacher Sarah Robinson. Everything happened to Walter. His car got into the ditch and had to be hoisted out. He had breakdowns at inconvent moments. This and that unfortunate thing happened. You just couldn't understand why, but it did. There was an uneasy sense about getting the mail. "Of course Barkis was willin'" - so was Walter but that is how it was. Then came Pat Murphy who now lives on Captiva. Pat isn't really his name but it should have been. It was O. O. Murphy, first O for Oren. Figure that out! You could relax and know the mail was in good hands. Everyone loved Murphy. He had resigned a good job with the Postal Department in Detroit to come to Sanibel and never regretted the change. He was the only one who could yell at me with impunity "Hey Skinny." I loved it. At that time many packages of clothes were delivered at my cottage and he delivered them inside the cottage.

After Reid was gone it was obvious that a new location would have to be selected for the post office. There were two schools of thought. One favored a location at the ferry landing, the other favored having it inside Bailey's store at the mail boat landing on San Carlos Bay. Since I was a new arrival on the Island I knew little of the inner strings pulled but the upshot was that Capt. Kinsie, owner of the ferry line and considerable acreage on the eastern end of Sanibel, built a little post office and leased it to the government for years to serve as the post office. As I say, it was little. Three was a crowd inside, but there it settled down to a comfortable, well-ordered life. Scotia Bryant was appointed postmistress and what a wonderful appointment that turned out to be and still is!

Then one day, when the little building was not large enough to house the increasing mail coming to an going from Sanibel, a new efficient and much larger building was constructed in the same location. A picture of the new post office is now one of the favorite post cards. The American flag flutters on top of the pole in front and it is the first thing you saw when you got off the ferry.

The little old post office got trundled away on the back of a truck right down the main road and into oblivion. That was a sad event to have the old place just gone. Retired from public service with no fanfare or ceremonies! What the public doesn't know is that it is doing very nicely, thank you, as a home for chickens. No fluttering of flags, just fluttering of feathers, and silly cackles! It had been used to that before but had a kinder name for it. Same thing!

The Sanibel post office in 1964 is a far cry from the horse and buggy days when it got its start. It was a shock to me just before this Christmas when I got a glimpse behind the scenes and saw mail bags bulging with out going mail piled on the floor layers deep! It looked more like a big city scene rather than our Sanibel post office. Scotia our beloved postmistress was putting some finishing touches on the records as the truck was about to pick up the bags. A big hearty expression of gratitude and appreciation goes out to our post mistress who has regulated this efficient branch of the government over here for these many years. Three cheers and a hurrah to Scotia.

Mark McQuade and Tom Hines of Island went a-fishing this week and put the adult fishing population to shame---They brought in, between the two of them, five snook, weighing 14, 12, 11, 10, and 8 pounds, and two reds, at 7 lbs, 3 oz. and one at 5 lbs. We didn't have the nerve to ask if they were using a cane pole and worms for bait.
