REMINISCENCES OF "UNCLE ART" GIBSON

We moved here on a Sunday afternoon, January 6 in 1900. We had lived up in Hillsborough County (on Tampa Bay) at that time and it was awful hard times up there. They just had a big freeze in eighteen hundred and ninety four and ninety five. They had two freezes in one winter. We moved -- it was four of us kids. I was the oldest and there were three girls. We moved from there in a little sailboat, a little schooner. My father came down here to try and locate a place where it would be easier to make a living than it was up there because it was awful dead. That is right after the Spanish-American War, that is, just after the close of the war. And all the citrus that were growing in that country at that time were killed in the '94 and '95 freeze. At that time it was awful hard in that section so he came down this way with a friend of ours, a neighbor, to just look around. He got as far as Sanibel here and decided this was the place he could make an easier living for the family. So he worked about two months or so and then went back and got the same man that he came down here with to move us back down here in a little sailboat. His father did vegetable farming; tomatoes and egg plants, pepper and squash on the other end of the island (west). We moved up on to the Wulfert end of the island. Of course, there were people living all over it. All this land here was in vegetable farms, Tomatoes and stuff. Planted 'em twice a year and shipped them to the northern markets in the winter and we got a good price for 'em so that's the way we made our living. And we lived as long as our family held together. Mostly we lived entirely on the other end of the island on Wulfert. We built a house. My father filed on a homestead and he sold his homestead claim out to another man. The girls in the family grew up and married off and my mother and father lost their robust health and it kind of split the family up. I went to work for myself as another breadwinner in the family. I was 16 years old when I went and got a job. First job I went on was right here to plant out grapefruit for another man. I worked a full year for that job. Then I went up on the Caloosahatchee and worked on groves up there for 6 months. I came back and worked on a freight and passenger boat. I ran from Fort Myers to Punta Gorda. I was six or seven years on that job. While I was on that boating job there was a storm -- the first hurricane after we moved here. It was in 1910 on October 17. It's a long story. I was working for the Kinzie Brothers and they were running the mail from Fort Myers down by Iona and Punta Rassa, Sanibel, St. James over on Pine Island, and Wulfert and then over to Captiva. That's the post offices we had to carry for. And I went out that morning. We had our regular boat up on the dry dock getting it cleaned and painted. So I took another boat, an Orange River boat, to run the mail. It was a motor launch 34 feet long and we were supposed to carry passengers and mail on it and some little freight. But this morning, in question, the captain came to my place and woke me up early and asked me if I could take the motor launch and run the mail that day. He said the weather was too bad for the other boat they had intended to use. I said, 'Yep.'

To The Islander:

Thank you for the first issue of my new subscription. It's wonderful.

I read the Tribute to Mario Hutton with interest and respect, but I'd like to pay tribute to Jordan Davidson for his "It takes a lot of help to grow a forest."

An admirer of the well turned phrase, I read with deep satisfaction his words:
The shouting of the wind...

A bragging brook has songs to sing...

A thousand years of lost designs...

A waterfall that knows what Aprils know...

A hidden spring that gives the stars a twirl...

I've looked at nature and longed to express what I saw like a singer yearns to sing. My compliments to Jordan Davidson. I wish I knew him.

BOARD MEETING

Mr. Snider, attorney, was on hand to restate his advice that the Board go strictly according to the by-laws as set forth in the Constitution of the Chamber.

The Board went over the minutes of the general meeting very carefully, and found that there was still no clear-cut mandate on the booklet and brochures, so will pursue this matter further before making a definite decision.

Mr. Howard Dayton of Casa Ybel asked the Chamber to use its influence to see if it could get the Lee County Electric Co-op to change the dangerous overhead power lines that cross the west end of the airstrip and Gulf Drive as it is such a menace to the planes landing and taking off. He has been unable to get anything done although he has contacted the Electric Company several times.

The question of the signs was brought up again for discussion, as there have been many inquiries about them, so it was decided to revitalize the original sign committee of Holtzman, Bruno and Rushworth to pursue this matter further and report back at the next monthly Board meeting.

It was noted that anyone wanting to attend the Board meetings held the last Monday in each month, should call the president, Mr. Rushworth, or the secretary, Mary Funk and be put on the agenda.

PROGRESS?

In the Sunday edition of the Miami Herald (April 27) is an advertisement by one of the leading and most popular resort motels on Miami Beach. They offer:
"All Rooms" -- including ocean-front and poolside rooms at $3.50 per person, daily, double occupancy -- April 27 to June 15 -- efficiencies, add $1.00. And -- complete breakfast and deluxe 7-course dinner for $4.50. Of course, these low prices can be attributed partly to the "slack season." However, Miami Beach is super-saturated with hotel and motel accommodations. Competition is fierce. It's a visitors' market. Could the nascent Sanibel and Captiva Islands get into the same predicament which could result in the over development of a single business?

REMINISCENCES OF
"UNCLE ART" GIBSON

I can run the mail if you give me something to help & not require me to carry any freight or passengers, just the mail. So he said, that's a good idea. All you'll have to carry will be fresh meat. People had ordered from town, from Fort Myers, and we always had brought down a shipment for everybody on the island that wanted to buy meat. There wasn't any fresh meat sold on the island. You had to get all of your fresh meat from town. So I told him I'd deliver the meat and the mail on the run that day. He said, "All right." And he gave me the fireman off the boat that they had on the dry dock. It was a steamboat. And he gave me that fireman as a helper. We left Fort Myers at 6 o'clock. We were supposed to leave at 6 o'clock and go down to Captiva and make all these different stops, transfer the mails and go back to Fort Myers the same evening -- get back about 5 o'clock. That was about our schedule.

"We started out and made all our landings down but it was getting rougher and rougher. At that time we didn't know what a hurricane was. There had no weather reports, no weather bureau, no hurricane warnings or anything. You just took it as it came. So, it kept getting worse and worse. We made it on to Captiva and back as far as Wulfert. We made it that far back and it got so bad we had to tie up there and spend the rest of the hurricane. Our boat wrecked, went ashore, sunk, scattered the mail and everything else all along. The Mail was in heavy canvas bags and they were all over the beach. The boat went ashore some time between 11:00 and 12:00. We went back into a little house that was there.

"As soon as the hurricane began to pass on by and the weather got better we began to get to work on the boat as soon as the tide went out and daylight came. We bailed the boat out, raised it, got the mud and leaves and grass and stuff out of it. We cleaned up our motor and got it to running. The rudder was bent and we had to take it out, straighten it all on our own. We had nothing to work with.

"Anyway, we left Fort Myers at 6 o'clock one morning and we got back to Fort Myers the next day with that boat and all the mail at twenty after six the next evening. We were two days and one night when we were supposed to make it back in one day. We had no idea how hard the wind blew because we had nothing to measure the wind with. There was a wind gauge at Punta Rassa but it blew out at 110 miles an hour. So we never knew how hard the wind blew but from the damage it made, all the foliage and everything, the way it tore up trees and blew everything down, we just assume it must've been the hardest one we've had here. Since then we've never had one that did as much damage to the foliage. We decided that that's the worst one that -- I concluded that it was the worst one that has been here and I still think it was.

"The highest tide we've had since 1900 on Sanibel was in 1944. It was a pretty rough hurricane, too. While the hurricane was passing over Wulfert, the center passed right over our little house there. When the vortex, the center of the hurricane passed over, the wind went down to where you could walk out in the yard and strike a match, hold it up that way, and it wouldn't go out. It was like that for 23 minutes and then the wind came from the other direct-
