IMMORTAL RENDEZVOUS by Jordan Davidson

I can't believe this world of ours Was meant for brief delight; That death will make it swiftly

Forever from our sight;
That there is naught of perman-

To which we may adhere Upon this most delightful Mystifying sphere.

I can't believe that every trial, Each struggle, strain a stress, Beset us for the simple whim Of shadov-windowdress;

Nor can I think that brave crusades

That men embark upon Are but the jestures of a clown Lost with the setting sun,

For this would make of life a farce.

And earth, a worthless bubble, Disintegrating into naught But death and doubt and trouble.

I much prefer to think the goal Is just beyond our view, Where each will keep, in his own

It's going to be like Christmas all over again for the lucky one who gets to call the 1970 shell table his own. The table itself is a work of art fashioned of Hawaiian Koa wood and Phillipine mahogany by the loving hands of Charles LeBuff.

Looking under the glass, the large angel wing (Barnea costata) is the gift of Bob and Jeanne Aycock. Barbara Bancroft put in the red Lion's paw (Lyropecten nodosus) from her own collection. Joyce Irwin contributed the twin cat's paws (Plicatula gibbosa.) From Elsie Malone came the rare murex beaui and bequarti also lace (dilectus), hexagonal (Muricopsis oxytatus) and cabriti; the pink and white Spondylus americanus, a jewel box tree (Chama macerophylla), spiny jewel box (Echinochama cornuta), Roostertail (Strombus gallus), Kieneri volute, austini and sozoni cones, Cypraea zebra and cervus, Star shells (Astrea) phoebia, americana and tuber; large channeled turbo (Turbo canaliculata), chocolate top (Calliostoma jujubinum) and the uncommon Galliostoma bairdi psyche; Dog head triton (Cymatium cynocephalum); Frog shell (Bursa granularis) Sundial (Architectonica nobilis); Rare Gyphoma mcgintyi with the animal showing; vasum muricatum; large deep water bubble (Bulla stolida); Carrier shell (Xenophora longleyi); Bleeding tooth (Nerita peloronta): Tegula fasciata; miniature triton (Pisania pusio); Large Tellina interrupta; Turkey wing (Arcazebra); Buttercup (Anodontia alba) Semele purpurascens; rare orange tulip mussel (Modiolus americanus); A pearl oyster with coon oyster attached (Pinctada radiata with Ostrea frons); a variety of pectens including the rare glyptus, imbricata, orange ziczac as well as common ziczac, three muscosus-orange, brown and beige, four sentis indifferent colors; cockles including Atlantic (Trachycardium magnum), Strawberry (Trigoniocardia media), Paper (Papyridia seleniformus), Egg (Laevicardium laevigatum) and a pink Gibbs clam (Eucrassatella speciosa.) The lovelies that Bernice McGaul added are: a yellow and white Spondylus americanus, orange Lion's paw and the rare flame auger (Terebra taurinum.)

Volutes dohrni and junonia, a Spondylus gussoni, Lima scabra tenera, tiny false angel wings (Petricola pholadiformis) and fallen angel wings (Barnea truncata); Scotch bonnet (Phalium granulatum) and a dwarf hawk wing (Strombus raninus nanus.)

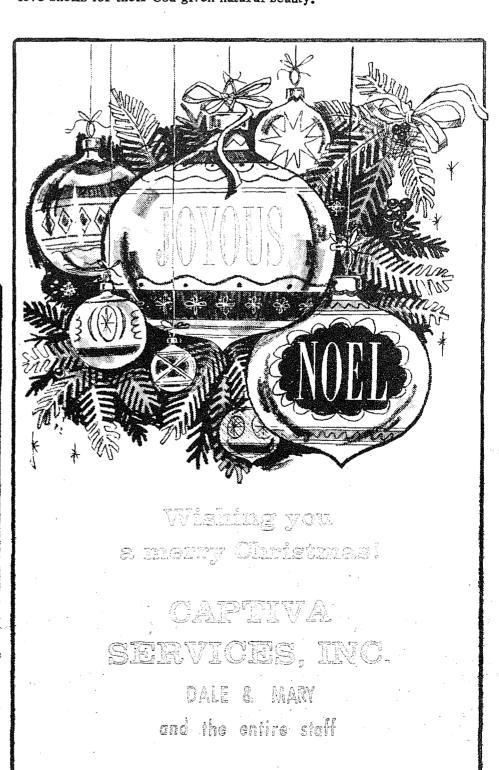

Our own Florida fighting conch (Strombus alatus) and left handed whelk (Busycon contrarium) are gifts from Fae Muller. The rare and beautiful Gaza superbais from Priscilla Murphy. Blanche Pflough always gives a pair of tiny angel wings, under an inch, and perfect (dredging later ruined the bed.)

Thanks goes to Mary Purdy for the beautiful Voluta musica. Delmar Reynolds gave the trumpet triton (Charonia tritonis nobilis) and the In-

perial venus (Chione latilirata,)

Grace Shepherd gifted the table with a double spined King's Crown (Melongena corona.) This summer Mary Nixfound and donated the golden olive (Oliva sayand citrina), common olive, Bumpless wonder (plueroploca reevii), Tulips (Fasciolaria tulipa and F. hunteria), Sunray venus (Macrocallista nimbosa), and cones (regius, spurius atlanticus, floridanus and stearnsi), small lima lima and lima scabra, ladies ear (Sinum perspectivum), Shark's eye (Polinices duplicata), Flamingo tongue (Cyphoma gibbosum), Lace murex (dilectus), purple mussel (Modiolus americanus), pink and yellow Tellins (Tellina alternata), yellow and gray Cypraea (spurca acicularis and cinerea) and the Morton's egg cockle (Laevicardium mortoni.)

A real conversation piece whether you're a serious collector or just love shells for their God given natural beauty.

Christmas Creche Has Age-Old Tradition

We do not know when the first creche was set up as a tableau to illustrate the nativity, but church records indicate that St. Francis of Assisi received special permission from the Pope to reconstruct the scene in the Bethlehem stable.

Today the crib, surrounded by figurines of the Holy Family, the Three Wise Men, shepherds, angels and farm animals, is to southern Europe and Catholic countries what the brightly decorated Christmas tree is to America.

THE ISLAND GARDENER

Now that the holidays have almost passed and you are looking forward to a new year, you may want to make plans for a rejuvenaring your landscape and your lawn, according to the Florida Nurserymen and Growers Association (FNGA), Most people who become residents think that they must have large shrubs in order to make their home beautiful, but landscaping can be a gradual thing. The selection of a few basic plants of some size can begin the foundation of a fine. finely landscaped home, Most nurserymen will aid you in developing your over-all plan so that if you are on a basic budget you can do the job over a period

Select plants that are functional. Use plants that will provide you with not only an artistic effect, but that will also shower you with fruit or flowers. Florida has no freezing of the soil, so this landscaping can be pursued throughout the year. Large trees and shrubs can be moved best during the winter season.

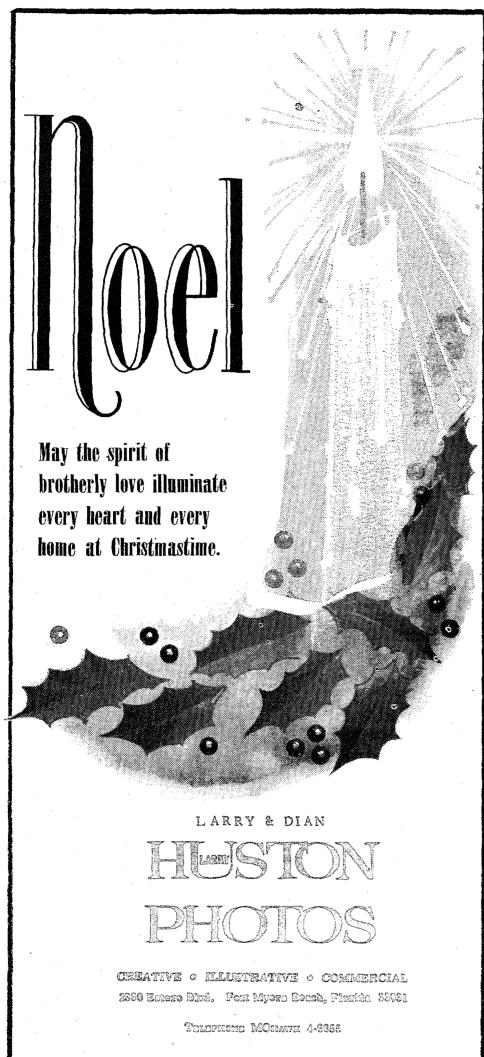

One of the problems facing the home vegetable gardener is that of bugs, and the winter is no exception. Vegetables such as turnips, mustard, cabbage, and others are quite subject to aphids. Aphids come in all sizes and descriptions from light green to black. The proper spray to use is malathion for good control, but you may need a second application 10 days after the first. Never use more than the label specifies. Always observe the waiting period before picking the fruit or the vegetables.

Several diseases develop on our trees during the winter months, and undoubtedly the most troublesome one is scab on citrus. Scab attacks primarily the sour fruits, temple oranges and occasionally a tangelo. This disease can be controlled by spraying the tree with neutral copper. The FNGA also suggests you watch for melanose, a brown tear-ctaining disease on grape-fruit. The same neutral copper spray you use for scab can be used for the control of melanose.

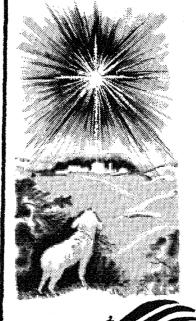

Disease and insect problems sometimes are quite invisible. If you have a lawn that has been seeded with rye, watch it closely for the indication of brown patch, a soff-borne disease. It is not unlikely that this disease quietly attacks your permanent grass while your winter grass grows lumiriantly. An application of a good fungicide may be beneficial to your lawn at this time of year. Here are a few fungicides you might want to consider for application to your lawn: Dithane M-45, Thiram, Terrachior, or one of the mercury compounds. Apply all materials according to the directions for best control.

EPISCOPAL CHURCHWOMEN

Many Islanders know of the activities of the Episcopal Churchwomen of St. Michael's because of the three community related projects, Noah's Ark (thrift shop), the annual February Fashion Show and the March Tour of Island Homes. These are well publicized events spearheaded by Mrs. Robert Haynie.

Each year, however, the women send two children of the church to Camp Wingman, a summer camp at Avon Park. This activity was originated by Mrs. Richard Fuller.

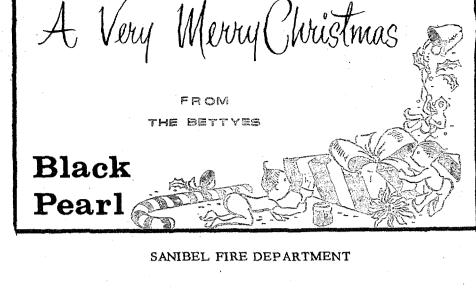

And through one Episcopal woman, Betty Sears, the children of the island are given a bit of background in music education. William Sur, retired professor of music education, Barbara Sur and Thomas Madden have all been instrumental in helping with this activity. All of the women in the early years of St. Michael's met to sew the original twenty blue choir robes that make our children "marching" angels.

And last, the women of the church make possible the Christmas party for the children of the church Sunday School, 60-plus children this year. It is as important to our Father Madden to have a church family Christmas as it is to have a lovely spiritual Christmas mass. And if any Islander has missed seeing the blessing of the children at the Christmas morning service at St. Michael's, that Islander has missed one of the loveliest Christmas activities on our Island.

The Sanibel Volunteer Fire Department, as the name implies, operates on a volunteer basis, the fire-fighting and emergency-rescue equipment owned by the Sanibel Fire Control District of Lee County, The main fire station on Periwinkle Way houses the newer pumper along with the emergency-rescue vehicle while the Rabbit Road station garages the other pumper.

The present active roster of men includes Alan Nave, Fire Chief; Ed Legel, Assistant Chief; Herb Purdy, Captain; Marty Holtz, Rescue Captain; Preston Woodring, Ray Rhodes, Chuck Holloway, Chucky Nave, Ray Turner, Jerry Muench and William Main, Jack Remus, Gordon Tracey and Skip Walter participate when home from college and Tom Holtz when on leave from the Navy. Numerous former members such as Uncle Art Gibson and Jake Stokes help whenever needed. The Fire Commissioners are Pat Murphy, Tom Nix and Floyd Pflough. Plans are being developed to build a new fire station in the Martin's "Palm Ridge" business area located in the shopping district.

With the growth of the Islands and increased need for man-power, any and all able-bodied men are invited to join. Training-meetings are held the second and last Monday of each month at 8:00 p.m. at the main fire station.

The protection of your family and your property needs YOUR help. Also a reminder of the telephone numbers to use in case of emergency:

SANIBEL-CAPTIVA LIONS CLUB REVIEWS 1969 PROJECTS

The Sanibel-Captiva Lions Club, in its second full year of operation, has continued its efforts to be of service to the Islands. It has contributed financially to Boy Scout Troop88 and to the Island Improvement Committee as well as making a substantial contribution through Lion Club channels for the relief of victims of Hurricane Camille.

In the Spring of this year the Club initiated an Island Cleanup Campaign and, with the assistance of the local Boy Scout Troop and the loan of trucks from some Island residents, covered the main roads picking up drink cans and other assorted debris left by winter visitors (and some thoughtless year-round residents.) This campaign eventually evolved into the Island Improvement Committee which included the Chamber of Commerce, American Legion, and Sanibel

Community Association. These organizations gave financial support as well as serving on the committee and giving physical assistance in the periodic cleanup efforts. This committee has purchased additional trash cans and placed them at busy traffic locations to helpthose using the roadways to dispose of travel trash. They have also installed many attractive signs along the roadways urging all to "Keep Our Islands Ciean."

The Lions provided, also, to the Sanibel Elementary School a film and necessary materials for a Perceptual Testing and Training Program for first grade pupils. This enabled the teaching staff to discover pupils who needed sight, hearing or coordination adjustments and to give the necessary training to effect the corrections.

During the summer months the Lions were successful in sponsoring a series of swimming classes for youngsters in two age groups. They were fortunate to As the glad obtain the services of a qualified instructor from the Fort Myers Red Cross, The Jolly Roger Motel very kindly allowed the classes the use of the motel pool on the several mornings when instruction was given. Several Lions and their wives assisted in the supervision of the children.

While 1969 has been a productive year, the Lions Club hopes to continue these projects and to start many new ones during the coming year.

BUSY YEAR

1969 began with members of the Sanibel Community Associarion hard at work preparing for the annual Sanibel Shell Fair held the first consecutive Thursday, Friday and Saturday each March, Installation was finished on the air conditioning system to provide year-round comfort for our own meetings as well as those of the many island organizations that use the building. The Association assisted the Lion's Club and Boy Scouts in their island cleanup campaign and shared the expense with American Legion, Chamber of Commerce and Lion's Club in providing trash receptacles on both Sambel and Captiva and procuring "Keep our Islands Clean" signs.

Having almost daily power failures during the summer, the Association went to bet for residents with letters to our Senators and Congressman and some relief was achieved and a sub-station promised for the near future.

Less success was experienced in getting the main road to the East end of the island reopened after building of a bridge was started early in the year and still has a detour around. When it became necessary for our Island doctor to return to the mainland, the Association placed an ad in the Florida Medical Journal, later turning our effort over to another organization and we do have a doctor in residence on Sanibel,

Our improvement Committee works closely with the island Planning and Zoning Committee.

All is not workthough, Priday nights members and guests enjoy Game Night, bridge, canasts, play ochie, etc. There are mountly hosts who provide delicious refreshments and see that things run smoothly.

The monthly covered distribute fets have given the ladies of the Islands a reputation for governer cooking.

Seventy two new members have joined Samber Community Association during the past mine months.

So -- we ring out the rid and ring in the new and we find the members hard at work preparing for the 1970 Sambel Shelf Fair

WHO'S WHO AND WHY

Mr. & Mrs. THOMAS MUS-SON have moved to Fort Myers. TOM and JO will be missed by their many friends.

Mrs. KATHY BUNNELL has been in Miami, visiting her daughter, Mrs. JUDITH MOODY, who is very seriously ill.

Col RUSSELL RUPERT was taken to Lee Memorial Hospital last Monday, and is in the intensive care ward.

Mrs. MARY BAILEY told us that she has been playing the organ at the Chapel by the Sea, Captiva, for 20 years, and missed once --- Congratulations!

HELENE SPARKES, local artist has returned to Captiva with many prizes she wonforher art during the summer.

This vivacious young artist lives in Boonton Township and winters on Captiva Island with her husband and sons.

Mrs. Sparkes has studied at the Whitney School of Art and Traphagen School in New York. Helen's work has been seen at major and local exhibits in Florida, and has had several one man shows. Mrs. Sparkes scenes include water colors of barns, trees, docks and boats, Helene has a new guitar; Leon Levy you have a partner.

'Tween Waters Inn on Captiva held their first dinner of the season. Many of the Islanders and guests attended.

CORRECTION

Mrs. Frederick Reeddoes not live in Periwinkle Trailer Park as erroneously reported last week. She lives on Palm Ave. and came here from Langhorne, Pa. Her guests last week came from Rochester, N.Y.

NOTE OF THANKS

Kathy Bunnell, former Islander reporter, wants to express her sincere thanks and appreciation to all the good friends on Sanibel and Captiva for their helpful and interesting contributions. She says she will miss their wonderful assistance.

Her doctor has ordered her to give up the reporting but she says she will never forget the interest and the doors they opened for her. Thank you all, she

SANIBEL LIBRARY

As a friend of the Library, one has access to countless hours of enjoyment. Among some good reading is Richard Condon's new novel "Mile High," a great story about the man who invented and promoted this country's experiment with prohibition. Mystery addicts should try Patricia Moyes latest Inspector Tibbett story, "Death and the Dutch Uncle, which turns out to be a good suspenseful whodunnit and a travel book too, "Raven Seek thy Brother" is another of Gavin "Raven Seek thy Maxwell's remarkable books about life in the Highlands of Scotland, and has more tales of the beguiling otters among many amusing anecdotes. For those who prefer spy stories to mysteries, Eric Ambler has a new very off beat yarn concerning two tired elderly spy masters who hope to retire to quiet lives in the sun, via "The Intercom Conspirator" spiracy.

For identifying birds and plants the local interest shelf has a wealth of information for newcomers to the Island.

All visitors are welcome to join as non-resident friends of the Library and to make full use of Library services.

SANCTUARIES SAVE BALD EAGLES

With the proclamation by Governor Claude Kirk setting Dec. 7 to 13 as "Save the Bald Eagle Week," the Florida Audubon Society from its headquarters in Maitland calls on all citizens to continue supporting its campaign to protect and restore America's National Bird in Florida.

"Unquestionably the cooperation of Florida's people since the Bald Eagle was listed as endangered in 1958 has helped to save this fine bird from extinct-ion," is the statement made by C. Russell Mason, executive director of the Society. Two members of the staff of the Society, Nina Dean Steffee of Kissimmee and Doris Mager of Apopka, are members of the Statewide Bald Eagle committee, which under the leadership of George and Dorotha Heinzman of Winter Haven devised a system of Cooperative Bald Eagle Sanctuaries scattered throughout the State, half of them centered in the Kissimmee Valley region. Florida, with approximately 250 eagle nests, is the only extensive nesting area for the species south of Alaska. The decling of the bird started 20 years ago with loss of nesting territory due to development, but was accelerated by disturbance during nesting, partial sterility or loss of thin-shelled eggs from DDT and related pesticides in the birds food, and to a limited extent, wanton shooting by irresponsible gunners.

Through the Bald Eagle Committee, the Florida Audubon Society has enlisted the aid of close to 150 land owners and organcontrolling izationss, 3,770,000 acres of Florida land that is eagle territory. These cooperators sign arrangements to guard nest trees from fire or bulldozing and preventing human intrusion during the six months required for the eagles to rebuild their nests, incubate the eggs and get their young to the flying stage.

Foresters and ranchers, development corporations and timber harvesters, State parks and national wildlife refuges, national forests and paper companies, have joined in the effort to save these impressive dark birds with white head and tail when adult, that like remote placesfree from the haunts of man and find such on many Florida tracts. Occasionally the eagles will become used to the building of homes near their nests and will continue to use and rebuild their cradles annually. However these are the exception.

Rigid Federal and Florida State laws provide penalties for harming the National bird or disturbing its nest or young; but it takes the concern of millions of U. S. citizens to enable the Bald Eagle to survive.

Governor Kirk in calling on the people of Florida to cooperate with the Florida Audubon Society, state and federal agencies and affiliated organizations in all effective measures to protect this "living symbol of our nation's majesty," brings a warm response from men and women, boys and girls, who watch admiringly the eagles flying overhead as they carry on their quest for their favorite food of fish, Selected by the Continental Congress in 1789 as the National Bird, the Bald Eagle is now scarce enough to be listed by the Fish and Wildlife Service as an endangered species. "Let's build up the population of eagles to where they can be removed from the endangered list," is the plea of George Heinzman, chairman of the Eagle Committee for the Florida Audubon Society.

FULL LIFE IS GOAL OF VFW HOME FOR VETERANS' ORPHANS

With its home-like atmosphere, there is no resemblance between the National Home established by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States at Eaton Rapids, Mich. and the old fashioned type of orphan home. But then this is typical of the V.F.W. In its 70 year history, this oldest of veterans' organizations has been in the forefront of caring for others.

Commander Chester Townsend of Post #10097 explained that the V.F.W. traces its beginning to a small group of Spanish-American War veterans who wanted to do something for less fortunate veterans of that conflict. From their first meeting in September 1899 in Columbus, Ohio, came the spark which grew into the V.F.W.

"It was this same concern for others that lead to the establishment of the National Home," Commander Townsend said. Established in 1925, it has been home for thousands of children of deceased or disabled members of the VFW. Presently over two hundred children make their home there

The National Home is supported entirely by the V.F.W. mostly through the sale of home Christmas seals and Buddy Poppies which was very successful here at the Beach this year.

Located on 640 acres of rich, rolling land, the National Home is a combination village and farm. Everyone of the two-story brick, ranch style cottages is truly a home with each having a family of six to eight children plus their housemother. Because most of the housemothers are widows of V.F.W. members who also have children residing at the house, this children's village abounds in typical family activity. As one youthful resident of the Home remarked, "I have 200 brothers and sisters. We're a big family."

The house mothers plan meals, fill grocery orders from the Home store, direct and aid their children. The youngsters, as in every well regulated family, help with home duties and help each other. The children wear no uniforms. Each one has a voice in selecting his own clothing, the idea being that the opportunity to exercise choice should be given to strengthen the child's individuality and personality.

At the home there is a modern day-nursery for pre-school children and a well equipped and staffed hospital to safeguard the health of all residents. For recreation, there are 15 acres of playground and athletic fields, a beautiful swimming pool, library, gymnasium, a small movie house, a miniature golf course, a small lake stocked with game fish and a spacious picnic area for outings. In addition, there is a chapel and guest lodge.

Education is important at the Home. Children attend school in nearby Eaton Rapids. The acceptance and popularity with their classmates is shown in their participation in such extracurricular activites as band, athletics and class plays. Many have been selected as class officers and every year Home students appear on the honor roll.

Interest in its "family" is maintained by the V.F.W. even after residents graduate from high school. Those who want to continue their education are aided with scholarships to colleges or business schools of their choice.

From the ranks of former residents of the home have come teachers, ministers, lawyers, engineers, nurses, business leaders and homemakers.

Forty five years ago the VFW Home founders stated: "We shall give these kids the kind of home their fathers would have wanted their children to enjoy if they were living today."

This remains the underlying principle which guides the administration of the Home. It is a unique, one-of-a-kind experiment in the care of dependent children. It also stands as living proof that the V.F.W. members believe in its 70-year-old motto, "To Honor the Dead by Helping the Living."

BOTANISTS VISIT ISLANDS

A field trip was held on Sanibel and Captiva last weeked by eight botanists from Miami and Tampa with Harvey and Hazel Roberts of Captiva as guides. The group, members of the South Florida Native Plant Workshop, spent the night as guests of Willis and Opal Combs and Tom and Frances Mitchell of Sanibel and the Robertses.

The visitors were Dr. Derek Burch, University of Southern Florida at Tampa; Dr. Robert J. Knight, U. S. Plant Introduction Station at Coral Gables; Mrs. Frances Young, botanist of the Dade County Fruit and Spice Park; Wayne Wellman, Nature Conservancy, Miami; Betty Mc Cormack, naturalist of the Dade County Recreation Department: Betty Wallace, recreation leader, Dade County Recreation Department; Mrs. Pearl T. Skill, Girl Scouts, Homestead; and Jeanette Wragg, Miami.

The botanists were particularly interested in the unusual variety of plant species occurring in the small area of the Islands. Sanibel and Captiva are in a region where the tropic and temperate zones overlap, while being barrier islands adds specialized island species. The result is flora found in few other places. Many of these plants are becoming rare.

The group took with them two specimens of an unidentified dwarf century plant that they felt might be useful as an ornamenal. The specimens will be propagated.

tbsp. butter or margarine 6 fillets (about 2 lbs.)

1 tsp. salt

1/2 tsp. monosodium glutamate

1/2 tsp. leaf tarragon

1/2 lb. fresh mushrooms, trim-

mied and sliced 1/2 cup dry white wine

1 tsp. cornstarch

tbsp. cold milk Saute onion in butter or margarine until soft in a large heavy frying pan, Place fillets over onion; sprinkle with salt, monosodium glutamate, tarragon, and pepper; arrange mushroom slices on top. Pour wine into pan; heat to boiling; cover. Simmer 8 to 10 minutes, or until fish flakes easily. Carefully lift fillets mushrooms from pan with a pancake turner and place on a deep serving platter. Keep warm.

Blend cornstarch with milk until smooth in a cup; stir inte liquid in pan. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and boils 3 minutes. Spoon over fish and mushrooms. Makes 6 servings.

An underwater picture of two poisonous, black and white water snakes mating near the Okinawa reef was only one of the many fascinating views shown by Mrs. Bernice Albert at the Sanibel-Captiva Shell Club meeting Monday evening.

There were many slides of the shells the Alberts had collected in their twenty years on Okinawa where he was a civilian engineer in charge of all the non-military installations and she was at the Army switch-board.

To most people Okinawa is just the name of an island somewhere out in the Pacific but it came alive as we saw the great tidal flats (where not a shell was to be found in four miles) and then the good collecting areas on the reef, the rocks and the beaches. In the cliffs above one of the good spots were a number of rectangular holes which were old tombs, many containing the bones in curious carved containers.

Transportation sounded a bit rugged. By small power boat to the outlying reefs, a truck with side benches, politely called a bus, or a jeep. But that is all part of being a sheller.

Then came the Obon Festival in various villages with each group in their individual village costumes. This is a happy festival and is observed all over the world in July or August wherever groups of Japanese people live.

Cookies and punch were served by Mrs. Walter Strong and Mrs. Paul Kearns and many gathered around the boxes of shells, all live taken.

UNITED TELEPHONE CO. OF FLORIDA

The Christmas spirit almost inevitably is expressed in part by an effort to communicate — particularly with the folks back home, whever that may be.

United Telephone Company engineers are predicting a 70% increase in Christmas telephone calls this year -- imposed ontop of the phenomenal increase in "normal" demands for telephone service which has been experienced throughout Florida.

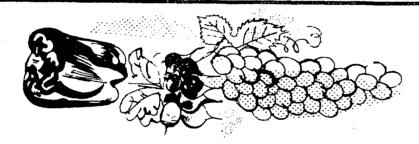

Oscar Holway, general traffic manager for United Telephone, has announced the company has declared a red alert for the expected flood of calls -- particularly on Christmas Day.

"Every operator, every service assistant, every supervisor will be on duty over the holiday period," he said. "We will do everything within our power to assure completion of calls from 7 p.m. Dec. 24 to 7 a.m. Dec. 26. But we know the demand will far exceed the facilities to handle them. If trouble develops, we do ask for patience of the public."

Holway said 60,000 calls are expected to develop in Greater Fort Myers, 30,000 in Naples, and 25,000 in Avon Park. In Fort Myers 232 operators will be on duty. In Naples, 94 operators will work the critical holiday time slots -- and 102 will work in Avon Park.

Holway suggested that callers make sure of the complete telephone numbers of the called parties, including the area code. Where possible, he recommended, the calls should be placed by dialing directly.
