SANIBEL HEIGHT FEB. 10

The Lee County Zoning Board did not discuss the case on building height restriction at their Monday meeting in Fort Myers but will continue the case at its Feb. 10 meeting although it has already denied the petition to limit construction to 35 feet in elevation. Nevertheless, Malcolm Beattie requested the delay because some legal questions have been raised and time was needed for research, he said.

JANUARY THAW

On Sunday, Jan. 11, "January Thaw" will be present at the Pirate Playhouse at 8:15 with a fine cast of players; Edith Craig, Alice Aleck, Lucia Fishburne, Wally Henderson, Ted Fonda, Ruth Hunter, Don Modrall, Reason Goodwin, Raymond Rhodes, Duane White with Elaine Patton and Phillip Hunter in the leading roles. Mr. Hunter has also directed this delightful comedy.

The author of the Novel, January Thaw, Bellamy Partridge, was a good friend of Captiva's Maude Meyer and she has presented that Island's Library with five of Mr. Partridge's books, several of them autographed.

Mr. William Roos has fashioned a great play from this well known novel which delighted first night audiences in December at the Pirate Playhouse. The action of the play takes place in an old house in Connecticut during 1945.

The Hunters did a lot of searching and have come up with some fine antiques which are used onstage in "January Thaw." Next performance, Jan. 11, 8:15 p.m., Pirate Playhouse, Box Office, GR 2-3943.

SANIBEL-CAPTIVA AUDUBON SOCIETY

The Sanibel-Captiva Audubon Society held its annual Christmas bird count on Dec. 30. The leader, Griffing Bancroft of Captiva, announced that 20,892 individual birds of 110 different species were sighted during the day-long count.

Among rare and unusual birds seen were a black rail and eight anis seen in the old Bailey sanctuary. Also worthy of note was the sighting of both the white and reddish color phases of the reddish egret, and the discovery of a red-eyed vireo, extremely rare in Florida in the winter.

Besides the Bancrofts, those participating in the count were: Mrs. Hugh Asbach, Dr. & Mrs. C. F. Cori, William Deknatel, Mrs. R. M. Elliott, Mr. & Mrs. Hal H. Harrison, Mario Hutton, Charles LeBuff, Thomas and Louise LeDuc, Mrs. Leon Levy, Earl Lillie, Emery Pierson, Mr. & Mrs. Hervey Roberts, Mrs. Francis M. Saxinger, Joseph Van Vleck and Miss Sarita Van Vleck.

BASEBALL TICKETS NOW ON SALE

Ned Foulds, chairman of Advanced Ticket Sales, reports that season ticket reservations are now being taken for the Kansas City Royals Games at Terry Park in Fort Myers. The Royals will play host to the New York Yankees in the season opener March 6, 1970. Ten other games are set for Terry Park with the Philadelphia Phillies closing the training schedule on April 2, 1970.

"Holders of tickets last year have first claim on their same seats for the coming season, but we MUST have your verification by Jan. 18," Foulds said. He continued, "There are many excellent seats available which were not sold on a season basis last year." These seats will be sold on a first come, first served basis, of course.

Prices for the 11 game schedule are: reserved seats $19.25 each, while a book of 8 general admission tickets is $10.00.

You can reserve your tickets for all games by mailing your reservation to Baseball Ticket Office, P.O. Box CC, Fort Myers, Fla. 33902, or by stopping at the Tourist Center Ticket Office each Wednesday afternoon or evening.

Letter To The Editor

To The Islander:

Using the Caloosahatchee as a sewer system may be a matter of indifference to the people of Tice or Russell Park, but it cannot be to the rest of us, particularly to the inhabitants of Sanibel Island, awash as we are in the pollution of that river.

Arguments, such as, that it has been going on for ten years, or that the cost of correcting it has gone up, are irrelevant and unconvincing, to understate, especially in view of critical changes in the ecology of the area if correction is not made forthwith.

If local areas perpetrating such pollution are unwilling or unable to effect correction of the situation the rest of us must look next to the County to take appropriate action, without further delay.

Unless effective action is taken immediately by responsible authorities at all levels, the pollution problem in this nation, already neglected far too long, may find us with nothing left to take action on in another decade.

/s/ J. W. Snyder
Sanibel Island, Fla.

To The Islander:

As a property owner on Sanibel and hopefully an eventual resident, and as one who has known the Islands for 15 years, I wish to commend, and associate myself with Elinore Dormer's letter in the Islander of Jan. 1.

In these days when greed stalks Sanibel and Captiva from one end to the other, it is good to know that there are still those who are fighting valiantly to save them from being overwhelmed.

Sanibel and Captiva need high-rises like they need ten new bridges, and no doubt someday those who want the high-rises, if they are allowed to have them, will also be clamoring for the bridges.

The fast-buck artists who don't give a damn for anything except their own precious dollars are on the rampage. The islands, their beauty, their serenity, their welfare and their preservation as retreats from the sick world mean absolutely nothing to these individuals because they are sick themselves -- money sick.

They want to get in fast and get out fast and to hell with Sanibel and Captiva. And to hell with those who want to preserve the peace and quiet, already sadly eroded, which still exists here.

As Mrs. Dormer so accurately says, things are moving too fast for niceties. Feb. 10 is the decisive Commissioners' meeting.

All those who love Sanibel and Captiva as we have known them, and still in considerable degree know them, should write at once to the Lee County Commissioners, Fort Myers, against high-rises and in support of continued stringent height controls on the Islands.

We don't need high-rises and we don't need fast-buck artists on these islands. Let them go where they are welcome -- let them despoil with their own kind. There are plenty of places in Florida and plenty in this whole money sick world where they will be greeted with open arms.

Lets don't let them in here.
/s/ Allen Drury
Island Inn, Sanibel

To The Islander:

Re: letter by Elinore Dormer, 1/1/70 Islander. Believe it! She told it like it is.

Recommended reading, Isaiah 2-3.

/s/ Donald L. Modrall

To The Islander:

The people of Sanibel and Captiva are not trying to keep high rises out of all of Lee County, only off our islands. Both islands are represented on our planning committee. Only one resident of either island has ever publicly opposed our proposed ordinance to limit the height of buildings. In order for zoning to be completely fair, each section of the county should be considered in the light of not only its special needs but also its desires. This is what democracy is all about.

Our figures based on existing plans show that infinitely more people can occupy a small area if high rises are permitted -- to the detriment of all. However, density is not the only consideration here. Esthetic values are extremely important. I have never seen a rural community retain its charming simplicity in the shadow of high buildings served by acres of paved parking areas. We islanders consider high rises unsuitable, unattractive and undesirable for our community. We want to keep Fort Myers where it belongs -- firmly entrenched within its city limits. Once Estero Island was beautiful then developers made it Fort Myers Beach. We are adamantly opposed to becoming Fort Myers Island.

Mr. Keathly is convinced that people who own land here "would not build another Miami Beach." He has great faith -- so very commendable for this time of year. Yes, 'tis the season to be jolly, but we won't be so jolly in the Christmases to come if high rises ruin our lovely Sanibel and Captiva.

/s/ Elinore Dormer
Sanibel.

THE ISLAND GARDENER

Many people destroy a good source of organic material and mulch by burning pine needles leaves, according to the Florida Nurserymen and Growers Association (FNGA). Both of these types of leaves add an acid condition to the soil and are very beneficial to azaleas and camellias. Why waste something that you can have for free?

Strawberry plants are coming along well now in certain parts of the state, but they like other plants are subject to fungus attack. If you have a home strawberry garden, you may find some of your plants affected with a small brown spot, circular in shape, and scattered randomly over the leaves. This disease, called cercospora leaf spot, can be controlled with a spray of neutral copper. In addition to this problem you may encounter berries that have been half eaten or destroyed by some unknown fowl. Of course, the professional gardener knows that this damage is caused by slugs or snails. About the only way to control slugs or snails is by using metaldehyde bait. This is available under a number of trade names, so consult with your nurseryman or garden supply store.

There may be a few azaleas popping their blooms now, particularly some of the Belgium varieties. Azaleas need plenty of water and as is known by the old-timers, January can be a dry month. The large amount of flowers produced give off loads of water, so you need to apply plenty. Don't drown them, however.

There are two problems encountered with camellias, both winter and summer. The common one is undoubtedly camellia die-back. This is a disease that shows the symptoms of dead leaves hanging on a branch that has become entirely blackened by the fungus. About the only control is to prune off the dead branch, dipping the pruning shears into alcohol each time a cut is made, and then painting the wound heavily with a pruning paint. Following this procedure you should spray with neutral copper. The second problem is an insect called Japanese wax scale. This scale forms a rosette-type growth, is creamy-white in color, and is as large as a pencil eraser. It is most difficult to control, but cygon or ethion will do the job. One other insect that gives you a problem on camellias is tea scales. This is a white growth on the underneath side of the leaves, often mistaken for a fungus, but the FNGA says it too can be controlled by the two chemicals mentioned. Repeated spraying may be necessary.

EJC THANKS ALL

Edison Jr. College is very grateful to its many friends who have made possible a full and rich year. Visits by people from other countries, other states, and other colleges have enriched our professional as well as our personal lives. And to those in our own community who continue to support and sustain our efforts, we offer our deepest gratitude.

The support just mentioned was very much in evidence during the last election when our voters determined that the state bond amendment was needed for future growth ...and you passed it. Many thanks to our students who went out and contacted people in their homes to tell them of our needs. At a time when many students are ready to tear their institutions apart, we have a student body at Edison which is very concerned with building one!

RSVP: In memory of Doris Corbin, assistant business manager and wife of instructor Donald Corbin, passed away in November but she will be remembered in a most appropriate manner in the naming of the auditorium in the Learning Resources Center as the Doris Corbin Fine Arts Auditorium. Her interest in the arts gave impetus to our fine arts programs at the college.

New leadership: The Board of Trustees approved the appointment of Ralph Richard, presently comptroller of Florida Technical University, as our new Dean of Business Services to begin in January, replacing Dean Clay Ernst who will continue on in faculty status.

A New Year's message: Those of us who work in higher education are perhaps the "luckiest" people in the world. We have, in most cases, an interested student who is about to assume his responsibilities in an adult society. We are fortunate because we are able to observe from personal contact what our future leadership in this state will be like. We see the seriousness with which many of our students view their world and their efforts to understand it.

And from this contact with students comes the assurance that they will make fine future leaders. These students challenge each of us to be better teachers, administrators, and better citizens.

COPE MEETING

The next COPE (Community Organization for Patients with Emphysema) meeting will be Monday evening, Jan. 12, 1970, at 7:30 p.m. at the TB & RD office, 3643 Palm Beach Blvd., Fort Myers.

Mrs. Virginia Bomgardner, inhalation Technician and president of the Fort Myers Surgical Supply Co., will give a demonstration of the kinds of equipment that are used as an aid to breathing, that have been prescribed by physicians for patients with respiratory conditions. She will also discuss the care and sterilization of this kind of equipment.

Family and friends of patients with Emphysema as well as anyone interested are welcome. Refreshments will be served.

AUDUBON PROGRAM TONIGHT

Tonight, Thursday, at 8 p.m. the local Audubon Society will hold its third weekly program at the Sanibel Community House. One of Walt Disney's most thrilling true life adventures will be presented. Titled "White Wilderness," this full length color film depicts the mysterious frost bitten Arctic regions, home of the most savage, as well as some of the most gentle creatures on our continent. The polar bear, grey wolf, musk ox, wolverine, caribou, whale and reindeer are the stars of this amazing wild-life epic. As usual, the program is open to the public, and all are cordially invited.

WATCH OUT

From the Sheriff's Department, and a word of advice, there are many people on the Islands, going to the beaches, visiting friends, and staying at various motels. Please put your money, cameras, credit cards, and other valuables in the trunk of your car and LOCK IT! Or take them with you. Some of the motels will help you with your valuables, but you are responsible. Be sure you lock your car, and take your keys.

BE CAREFUL!

Now that "Santa" has come and gone, packages opened with children, family and friends, thank-you notes written, even those letters that should have been written months ago, we are not facing a most critical period of our happy holiday. Please, don't end it when New Year's comes. Please drive defensively and enjoy another Christmas and holiday next year.

You read in the papers daily of the many deaths on our highways. Neither Sanibel nor Captiva roads are a speedway, but some drive as if they were going to where!!

The Captiva Memorial Library will be the setting of the island premiere of Mario Hutton's newest edition of his photo-verse presentation, "Imperiled Eden." The showing will be at 8 p.m. and the proceeds will be for the benefit of the library. Donations are tax deductible.

Mr. Hutton, president of the Sanibel-Captiva Audubon Society, is well known for his artistic photographs which he has shown throughout Florida and in New York under the auspices of various Audubon Societies and other organizations. The subject of this particular series is the beauty of Sanibel and Captiva Islands. This latest edition contains much new material including a feature titled "True or False."

Florida has no inheritance tax, no income tax, no severance tax on minerals and no tax on the first $5,000 of the appraised value of an occupied home.

No point in Florida is more than 70 miles from the sea.

New industries are entering the state of Florida at the rate of 60 to 80 each month.

New residents pour into Florida at the rate of 3,000 per week.

Florida produces about 40 per cent of the total citrus grown in the world!

Two out of every three vacationers to Florida don't make advance motel reservations.

PISCASSO EXHIBIT

An exhibition of Picasso lithographs and a one-man show by Mrs. Pat Ryan, opened Jan. 5 in the lobby of the Learning Resources Center at Edison Junior College.

The exhibit is open to the public and may be seen during January.

The Pablo Picasso lithographs and posters reflect the artist's capability as a draftsman and designer. The show is part of the selection of circulating art works of John and Mabel Ringling Museum of Art in Sarasota.

Mrs. Ryan will have 12 paintings on exhibit. The works, executed in acrylics, are hardedge geometrics and reflect her study with Mrs. Barlett Tracey, art instructor at Edison.

Mrs. Ryan studied with the Graphic Sketch Club in Philadelphia, and while in Central America for a number of years studied at the University of Panama, specializing in portraits. She has shown her work in many area shows, and was included in the Sears Traveling Exhibit. Mrs. Ryan now lives in Grove City.

A PLEA TO MY SPOUSE

Some morning at low tide, please come with me,
We'll stroll by the shell-laden shore of the sea,
In the soft morning breeze palm fronds wave lazily,
While graceful sea gulls will surround us hungrily.
The parade of the shrimp boats going out to sea,
Is a glorious sight, I'm sure you'll agree.
If you still will not heed my enticing plea,
How about breakfast beside that beautiful sea?
