VETERANS PARTY SUCCESS

The Veteran's party at the G. Pierce Wood's Memorial Hospital held last Monday in Arcadia was a great success, according to the members of the American Legion Auxiliary Post 123 of Sanibel-Captiva and Post 274 of Fort Myers Beach.

"We were pleased that we could make a contribution to the cost of the goodies that were served," said Mrs. Isabel Kirkpatrick, president of the Sanibel-Captiva Post. "On account of the distance, none of our members could make the trip but we did want to support this worthy cause."

Eight members of the Fort Myers Beach Post, Archie Schaffer, president of the Auxiliary, Chloe Carpenter, Ann Kircher, Vivian Pfeister, Edna Heller, Adele White, Mary Richards and Bea Warner took the party snacks and gifts to Arcadia, leaving at 11 a.m.

The party was served to 125 veterans and included a delicious lunch, candy bars, cigarettes and chewing gum as well as $500 worth of needed clothing.

On the way back, one of the gal's car ran out of gas and they had to wait two hours before getting in touch with a gas station. Most of them arrived home around 6 p.m.

The veterans enjoyed the occasion and particularly praised the coffee. "We don't get coffee like that here," they said, and drank three or four cups each.

One of the big needs according to Harden, recreation department head at the hospital, is clothing for larger women. "We would appreciate anyone's sending wearable clothes to us here at the hospital," he said.

WHO WINS PORTFOLIO ?

Friday, May 1, at 10 a.m., Miss Jane Bailey, age 5, will draw the winning ticket in the Sanibel-Captiva Art League benefit for the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation. The drawing will take place at the shopping center near the Baley Store; and the winner will receive a portfolio of eight prints depicting eight species of endangered birds. The prints are from a limited edition of 300 from originals painted by Richard Younger. Each print is personally signed by the painter.

Many Islanders and visitors have made donations and are hopefully waiting to hear the name of the winner.

FLORIDA A GREAT STATE

As Thornton Wilder says in "Journey," every state has something no other state has. It seems to the Hunters, however, on their return from a ten day visit that Florida is chuck full of exciting things.

Ruth and Philip Hunter visited with their son, Tweed and his wife, Mary Jo and their three grandsons, Richard, Raymond and Bernard on their miniature ranch in Homestead with a 3-story treehouse and to Lake Worth to see Grace McCullum and Anne Keenan whose sister Mary, entertained the Hunters in Ballymena, Ireland, then to Tomoka State Park with the beautiful Indian statue of Oleta, the Indian maiden slaying Chief Tomoka who dared to steal the dew from the wings of an angel. This has been executed by the artist Fred Marsh for whom the state has given a museum to show his unusual works; wood carvings such as the dainty cactus girl and beautiful paintings.

At their camp in Tomoka State Park, Ruth and Philip came upon a racoon who had pushed two baby squirrels out of a nest and then stood stock still high up in the branches peering thru Spanish moss.

Their friends, the Arthur Jones, (descended from the "Keeping-up-with-the Joneses of Long Island) welcomed them at Palm Beach.

They visited Southeastern pictures in Fort Pierce, the movie company which produced Philip's movie, Cotton Pickin Chicken Pickers, and then to Jacksonville to see their daughter and her husband, Robin and Gene Karr. A busy three days in Jacksonville took them to the Cullmer Art Gallery and Gardens on the St. Johns River, and a Harpsichord recital by a group from Jacksonville University. They also had a short course in rescue procedure given by the Jacksonville Fire Department and witnessed the beautiful illuminated fountains.

The Hunters camp at Hillsborough River State Park was close by the rapids and they were entertained at breakfast time with five tame squirrels.

The Gamble mansion at Ellenton was the next stop. Then to Tarpon Springs to see the sponge divers, the colorful boats and all the lovely things from Greece in the shops which line the wharf.

Ruth thinks the bird show in Tampa at Busch Gardens where macaws "play dead" is the greatest. The Hunters had a great time in Sarasota at the Ringling Art Gallery, Circus Museum and Cadzan, the mansion on Sarasota Bay, and chatting with old friends, Mary Lou and Dan Plugge, New York actors and Mackinlay Kantor, who wrote "The Voice of Bugle Ann," "Andersonville," etc.

A full moon shining over the Causeway greeted Ruth and Philip on their return as well as a contingent of loud voiced jolly froggies.

Florida is a great state, and it does have things no other state has got.

NATIONAL GOODWILL WEEK

National Goodwill Week starts Sunday, May 3. A salute to Goodwill, non-profit agency serving 650 handicapped persons in 29 of Florida's West Coast counties, starts Sunday, May 3, with area churches of all denominations participating.

Special messages in these churches will be designated to help Goodwill improve and expand its vocational rehabilitation services to disabled and disadvantaged persons.

Goodwill-Suncoast started 16 years ago in St. Petersburg with 16 handicapped workers. Today it operates Rehabilitation Centers in St. Petersburg, Manasota, Fort Myers, Tallahassee and is activating another Rehabilitation Center in Ocala.

In larger cities, Goodwill provides home pickup service to collect repairable clothing and household materials, donated by generous residents. For smaller articles, there are more than 700 bright yellow and blue Goodwill deposit boxes conveniently located at leading shopping centers.

Goodwill operates 24 retail outlets for the sale of these repaired garments and articles. Proceeds are used to pay the wages of handicapped men and women who are learning to qualify for jobs in private employment.

The theme of this year's National Goodwill Week is, "Goodwill Builds People for Jobs."

THE SURFRIDER

Mr. & Mrs. Fred Herbolzheimer of Appleton, Wis. are here enjoying the sunshine, peace and tranquility of the Islands. Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Gosman and daughter of Huntington, N.Y. enjoy the shelling and warm weather. Mr. & Mrs. G. C. Condon of Atlanta, Ga. are here for a week of rest and relaxation. Mr. & Mrs. Kenneth Jagger and children of Port Credit, Ont. are also enjoying the shelling and the change of temperature.

Mr. & Mrs. Fred Bunnell and grandson, Shannon Moody will be away from the Surfrider for a month on vacation. Mr. Bill Such, the owner will be holding down the fort. The Bunnells plan to go as far north as Caribou, Maine and then back by the Atomic Energy Museum in Oak Ridge, Tenn. and visit relatives for a few days in Memphis.

NOTICE

Please mark your calendar for Sunday, April 25, 1970, 3 p.m., 3643 Palm Beach Blvd., Fort Myers for the annual meeting of the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association of Southwest Florida.

Speaker will be Edward W. Swenson, M.D., Association Professor of Medicine and Chief of Pulmonary Disease Division, Department of Medicine, University of Florida. Subject: "Confronting A Goliath, EMPHYSEMA!!!"

You are invited to come and occupy one of the 100 seats available in our auditorium. An added attraction will be presentation of the volunteer recognition awards.

Please come!

REALTOR WEEK

"Realtor Week" -- 1970 -- will be celebrated May 17-23 by all 76 Boards of Realtors throughout Florida, according to Levie D. Smith, Jr., Lakeland, president of the Florida Association of Realtors.

"Right now," Smith said, "there are more than 15,500 Realtors and sales Associates in our state. 'Realtor Week' enables them to even further alert the public to the professional services they render. Many Boards of Realtors, with both small and large memberships, have special events planned including informative promotional messages in Florida newspapers."

The 1970 'Realtor Week' theme is "Under All Is The Land," the five words that initiate the Realtor's code of ethics. Smith said:

"The preamble to the code of ethics begins, 'Under all is the land. Upon its wise utilization and widely allocated ownership depend the survival and growth of free institutions and of our civilization.'"

Smith met this week with Governor Claude R. Kirk, Jr., who signed a proclamation heralding "Realtor Week" in Florida.

The proclamation cites Realtors for contributing to public confidence by their pledge to uphold the code of ethics of the National Association of Real Estate Boards; hails the right of private property ownership; and honors Realtors for their contribution to every level of local and state government by their participation in public affairs and charitable and educational causes.

"The term, 'Realtor,' Smith explained, "means that an individual is a member of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, the Florida Association of Realtors, and a local Board of Realtors. To be eligible for membership, a candidate must demonstrate a superior knowledge of the business, possess a record of business integrity, and subscribe to the strict Realtors code of ethics."

Realtors, well known for consulting with home seekers and home sellers, also serve as appraisers, industrial experts, property managers, company counselors, farm experts, and in other capacities related to real estate.

Letter To The Editor

To The Islander:

The following letter has been sent to us for publication:
 Mr. Kenneth Daniels, Chairman
 Board of County Commissioners
 Fort Myers, Fla.
 Dear Mr. Daniels:

I have received a notification from Mrs. Wisner relative to the changing of the date of your meeting and hearing pertaining to "H" Classification Zoning. I was in Florida on April 8 hoping to attend this meeting in person only to find that you had pushed it back to April 22. This was extremely disturbing to me as I want to voice my opinion relative to high rise conditions, apartments, etc.

As you know, I wrote you before pertaining to this. Relative to high rise buildings, I think that if this is allowed on Sanibel Island and even other parts of Lee County, you will be doing everything you possible can other than dumping your garbage in the streets to further the contamination and pollution of your air. Not only from the standpoint of polluting your waters but the pollution of your air and destroying the natural beauty of your area of Florida.

I am currently in the process of constructing a home on Sanibel Island, I have held up this construction until such time that I know your decision relative to high rise buildings.

Everyone in the country is talking about pollution of land, sea and air. The government and all citizens interested are pleading with the people of the United States and the like to curtail pollution to their greatest ability. However, it seems that the people endeavor to ignore their country's and cities plea turning a deaf ear to this problem that is going through the nation.

As I have said before, the politicians, the government agencies and the citizens of this country are doing everything in their power without half trying to destroy this beautiful country of ours. Our enemies need not fire a bullet at us in regards to the destruction of our country as we are doing a most adequate job ourselves.

Sanibel Island is among the few of the unspoiled areas of Florida. If you think I am kidding, take a look at Fort Lauderdale, etc. If you and your commissioners allow your own area to be destroyed, then I think I shall look for some other place to live; and I know other people will do the same so I plead with you for our present generation and future generations to pass the zoning law to prevent the high rise development.

/s/ Edwin A. Sweet, Jr.

SCHOOL ART TO BE SHOWN

Two art exhibits for the school art programs of Charlotte, Collier and Lee Counties will be sponsored by Edison Junior College in May and June. The pictures, with no limitations on media used, will be shown in the lobby of the Learning Resources Center at the college.

Each school may submit three entries. Judges, appointed by the college, will select best of show for awards for the three county area.

The first exhibit in May will be for high school students with judging May 4. The show will continue throughout the month. The second exhibit in June will be for elementary, middle and junior high students. Both shows are open to the public.

ISLAND GARDENER

There are bargain plants available, at usually you get what you pay for according to the Florida Nurserymen and Growers Association (FNGA). The new program sponsored by the nurserymen throughout the state called "Gold Seal" can give you a better plant. The way you determine the quality of a plant is to look for the gold seal tag. If a plant has this tag on it, it has been graded and the grade should appear on the tag. This gives you the assurance that you are buying a plant that is free of disease and insects. It also assures you that the plant is true to name and variety. It will have a dense foliage, correct shape, and a strong root system. It is better to pay for a gold seal plant than to buy a bargain plant. A bargain plant may be infected with diseases and insects and there is a possibility that it will need to be pruned and shaped. It also may not be true to name and variety.

The spring rains have washed out a lot of the fertilizer added in February and March. If your shrubs and trees are showing a light green color, it may be you will need to add additional fertilizer before you had planned. The FNGA suggests that you use a fertilizer containing a high percentage of organic nitrogen. The plant obtains a portion of the fertilizer as soon as it is applied, and then the organic material breaks down to feed the plant over a longer period of time.

Azaleas are forcing out a lot of new growth now, and if you have need for shaping or pruning of your plants do it quickly. Azaleas form their buds in early June. If they are pruned after this date you may have a lack of blossoms on your plant next year. Don't forget, azaleas need both iron and manganese. Both of these materials can be applied at the same time scattering them evenly on the ground around the plant. Iron in the sulfate form will stain concrete, so avoid getting any on the driveway or sides of the house.

Scale insects on all of the plants are producing young at this time of year. Scale on citrus, camellias, hibiscus, and ixora can be controlled more easily now than at any other time of year. Use malathion and oil for best results. Mix both of these materials carefully and according to directions in order to avoid damage to the foliage. Repeat a spray of straight malathion without oil in 10-15 days.

LAST ART FILM

"Contemporary Art in America -- Stuart Davis and Jackson Pollock," the last in a series of art films, will be presented by the Edison Junior College Fine Arts program Friday at 8 p.m. in the college auditorium. Mrs. Mimi Romig will lead the discussion period.

This film is an introduction to these two artists.

Stuart Davis (1894-1964) grew up in a family of artists, began his artistic career early and by 19 had finished his formal training. His style is based on cubism but with a distinctly American point of view.

Jackson Pollock (1912-1956) has been called the most authentic and thoroughly original artist of his generation.

This is the concluding program of this season's Fine Arts Series. It is open to the public at no charge.

THE ISLAND CHEF

SHERRIED FLORIDA BLUE CRAB

6 tbsp. butter or margarine
1 cup fresh bread cubes
1/3 cup diced green pepper
1/2 cup chopped onions
1/2 lb. mushrooms, thinly sliced
1/4 cup all-purpose flour
2 tsp. salt
1 3/4 cups milk
1 lb. Florida blue crab meat,

drained and flaked
1/2 cup diced sweet gherkins
1/4 cup sherry (optional)

About 40 minutes before serving: In large skillet over medium heat, in tablespoon melted butter or margarine, toast bread cubes 3 to 5 minutes, tossing frequently. With slotted spoon, place bread cubes on paper towels to drain. In same skillet over medium heat melt remaining butter or margarine and cook green pepper 7 minutes or until tender. Add onions and mushrooms and cook 5 minutes longer.

Over low heat, blend in flour and salt; gradually stir in milk, cooking until mixture thickens. Add crab and gherkins and continue cooking, stirring occasionally, until bubbling hot, about 15 minutes. Stir in sherry. Serve in chafing dish with bread cubes on top. Makes 6 servings.

FISHING AROUND THE BEACH by old salt

STORM WARNINGS

If you are boating in the vicinity of an officially designated storm warning display station, periodically observe the tower or mast for the signals that warn of approaching storms. Official display points include many Coast Guard stations and yacht clubs. Learn to recognize these signals and lights.

DISPLAY SIGNALS

SMALL CRAFT WARNING: One red pennant displayed by day and a red light over a white light at night to indicate winds up to 38 miles an hour (33 knots) and/or sea conditions dangerous to small craft operations are forecast for the area.

GALE WARNING: Two red pennants displayed by day and a white light above a red light at night to indicate winds ranging from 39 to 54 miles an hour (34 to 48 knots) are forecast for the area.

STORM WARNING: A single square red flag with a black center displayed during daytime and two red lights at night to indicate that winds 55 miles per hour (48 knots) and above, no matter how high the velocity, are forecast for the area.

HURRICANE WARNING: The hurricane warning is displayed only in connection with a tropical cyclone (hurricane.) Two square red flags with black centers displayed by day and a white light between two red lights at night to indicate that winds 74 miles an hour (64 knots) and above are forecast for the area.

PERSISTENT WINNERS

The team of Mario Hutton and Clarence Rutland keeps on bringing in the bacon from their weekly fishing trips aboard the Blue Heron. Last two times out, each won a handsome jackpot once, both hauling in a hefty black grouper, largest fish caught on that day.

Mario caught his prize fish early in the day, and it stood up to the end. Uncle Clarence did it in spectacular fashion, hooking his sixteen pound winner only seconds before the skipper blew his horn to signal it was time to head for home!

The trouble is that all the world believes that doing harm to the enemy is more useful than doing good to yourself.

The world hasn't been inherited by the meek, but it is largely supported by them.

I have a husband who is rich,
He adds much to my life,
He buys me everything I want
But please don't tell his wife.

Husband: "If a man ever steals he'll always live to regret it." Wife: "How about those kisses you stole from me before we were married?" Husband: "...like I said..."

Perhaps the cruelest thing parents can do nowadays is to push a bright child through school too fast. What if he arrives at college too young to grow a beard.

I have no doubt the devil grins,
As seas of ink I spatter;
Ye gads, forgive my literary sins
The other kind don't matter.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS: "I tell you Indians never attack before dawn. We have nothing to worry about if we stay here by the wagons"

FIVE SKILLS FOR ACCIDENT-FREE MOTORING LISTED

The driving skills of experts need to be learned and used by more motorists to insure accident-free driving the Florida Highway Patrol said today.

Colonel Reid Clifton, director of the Patrol said, "Many professional drivers have developed expert driving skills and habits in the course of their training and experience, and the average driver would do well to follow their example."

Five basic rules for expert driving were explained.

Aim high in steering -- this means looking well ahead of the path of your car and analyze traffic before you get to any place of potential hazard.

Get the big picture -- keep an all-inclusive watch over the entire roadway both ahead and to the sides and be aware of both sights and sounds around you.

Keep your eyes moving -- move your eyes to the rear, near, far ahead and to both sides, never letting your gaze fix on any one object for more than two seconds.

Make sure they see you -- let others know what you are doing or going to do by using your horn, lights, turn signals, stop lights or hand signals.

Leave yourself an out -- keep a space-cushion around your car, don't get boxed in, allow extra space at night and give yourself time and space in which to see, decide and act.

THE ISLAND CHEF

- 1 tsp. dried tarragon
- 1 tbsp. lemon juice
- 4 thin lemon slices
- Pimiento strips
- Green peas

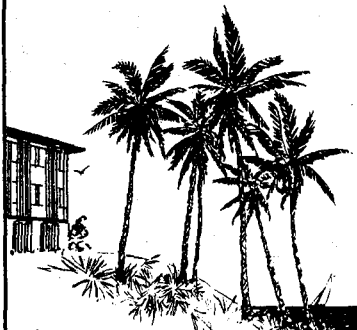

Rinse fish quickly under running cold water and drain on paper towels. Sprinkle lightly with salt. Melt butter in an 11" to 12" skillet over low heat. Sprinkle with flour and blend well. Stir in vegetable bouillon and cook, stirring, until thickened. Season with the tarragon and lemon juice. Arrange steaks in sauce in skillet and bring to boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 12 to 15 minutes or until fish is opaque and flakes easily with fork. Lift fish to serving plates. Spoon some of sauce on each steak and garnish with a twisted lemon slice and a pimiento strip. Serve with green peas, if desired. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

FISH STEAKS TARRAGON

- 4 fresh fish steaks, 3/4" thick (about 2 lbs.)
- Salt
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1 tbsp. all-purpose flour
- 1 vegetable bouillon cube, dissolved in 1 cup boiling water

"CLAWED" --- His Saga
by Jerry Smith

Those winter days so wet, and nights so cool and far
 Have pushed "Clawed," our swinging Tom, far below par.
 No more the tall hoisted proudly like a flag
 Now he trails it wearily, just letting it drag.
 The fire is gone from his slanting yellow eyes.
 They look to me more like two old french fries.
 His ears? Well, let's just say what's left bleeds less.
 He is so worn out he's really quite bloodless.
 Before he conked off on his usual long nap today
 He wheezed a good, long breath and began to say:
 "In days of old when cats were bold and always had their way
 A great white cat was the Island's bet to be our King some day.
 Well, it came about that "Arthur's" route made him our own great King,
 And he promptly knighted all of us to begin this legended thing.
 Called us all "Knights of the Round Table" and gave us titles suitable.
 Arthur sat at the head with his Guinivere at his side.
 The rest of us sat at his feet and listened while he cried
 Of battles we Knights had won over dogs, raccoons and snakes
 And how we made the night skies ring to give humans the shakes.
 We vowed with snarling lips 'twas all for one and one for all
 And pledged it fast with open glass, so full, so good, so tall.
 The King then called on each to stand and forsooth receive
 His title according to his talent, exploits and nobel deed.
 One was called "Sir All-He-Had," so brave and nightly too.
 Another he named "Sir Go-Win," he could really pitch the woo.
 Then he came to me and looked at all my scratches,
 Said "I have to call you Sir Lost-A-Lot for how well it matches.
 So on we fought for years in swamps and woods and streams
 While we became a legend in every critters dreams.
 Meanwhile those baffling humans came in by the score
 To make our work harder and our troubles soar.
 The King and Guinivere suddenly took it on the lam,
 Knight after Knight gave up ... just didn't give a damn,
 The like to live with humans and be boss of the house.
 Not for me -- I'd rather find, and nightly chase a mouse,
 Since Guinivere left me, each night I just have to prow
 To look, to search and ever yowl and yowl.
 The good old days were great. Yes, indeed they were.
 Why just to think of them is enough to make me purr."
 "Clawed," I said, "Those days are gone forever and ever.
 King Arthur and his Knights certainly were cats never.
 They were people and there is a great deal of doubt
 They ever lived anywhere or even moved about."
 "Sire," said Clawed, "I'll be real polite and say
 Cats were before people any old day.
 We are ancient; we have knowledge; we have culture and poise.
 Nine lives we have in which to live and make a lot of noise.
 Now go away and let me lay, here to snooze in clover,
 While you and yours rush madly about and get run over."
You know something? I think our old battle-axe just might be right.
