WHY ARE WE OFF-ISLANDERS INTERESTED IN YOUR ISLAND?

We are interested because we recognize it is the responsibility of each of us if we are to have a say in our destiny, which is dependent on the well-being of the environment in which we live. Each of us is becoming more interested and concerned with the things around us and especially our environment and its associated phenomena. And this is suite apparent by the number of persons who have turned out for these meetings.

this is quite apparent by the number of persons who have turned out for these meetings.

I want to assure you, many persons share your concern of retaining and further maintaining a healthful, productive environment in the Sanibel-Captiva area. On behalf of many faculty and students in your State University System with whom I work, I say to you, there is great concern.

You will find that scientists from academia use the marine environment for teaching and research purposes when practical. And with assistance by groups such as yours this will continue. They, too, need help; your fellowships and facilities support do, in fact, enable them to conduct in situ work as opposed to being limited to the university lab per se. Too often it is prohibitive in time and money to use nature's lab, the environment, and consequently this has to be simulated; this is only second best however. As part of our teaching and research we compare various types of habitats, ecosystems, populations, etc. The Sanibel-Captiva is a most remarkable area for these purposes and so this is one of many reasons why we, as off-islanders, are interested.

The State University System of Florida is in the process of developing a plan to conduct a long-term comprehensive study of the near shore and estuarine waters of

SALT WATER INTRUSION

The following is a statement by Dr. Frank C. Craighead, noted ecologist, who visited Sanibel May 14 and 15 with Dr. Maurice W. Provost, Director, Entomological Research Center, Vero Beach, Fla. Both are members of the Advisory Board of the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation and were asked to inspect the Sanibel Slough system, in particular from Casa Ybel Road east, to determine the effects of development activity in this area.

Salt Water Intrusion -- The deep ditch, 20-25 feet (your Panama Canal) is a most serious situation even if none of the intruding salt water had been pumped into Sanibel River. The narrow barrier between this borrow pit and the Gulf will break the pressure of the fresh water lens filling the middle of the island and probably come to balance with a few feet of fresh water on top during the rainy season and a large body of salt water beneath. One of the large borrow pits in the Everglades National Park has been in this condition since 1956.

There is also the possibility that this developer will later break through to the Gulf with this lagoon. The effect of tidal wash in and out of such a large body of water may completely change the beach line north and south of the new inlet. Exactly this situation has come about at Black and Lovers Islands at Big Carlos Pass, Lee County in the past 7 years.

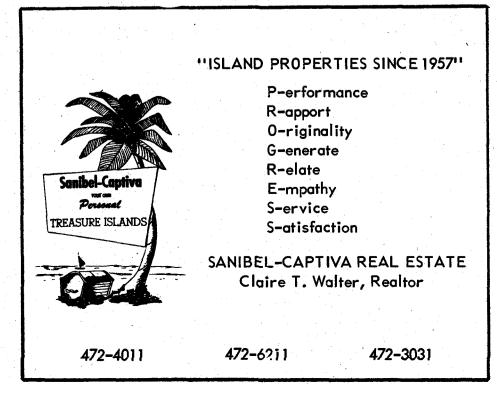

This kind of dredging on Sanibel should be prevented. Furthermore the deep borrow pits on the south side of Sanibel Garden and along Rabbit Road should be sampled, surface and bottom, for salt content. If there is no means of preventing such construction all operations should be restricted to hydraulic dredging, as Provost suggests, so that the pit is constantly filled with water during the operation.

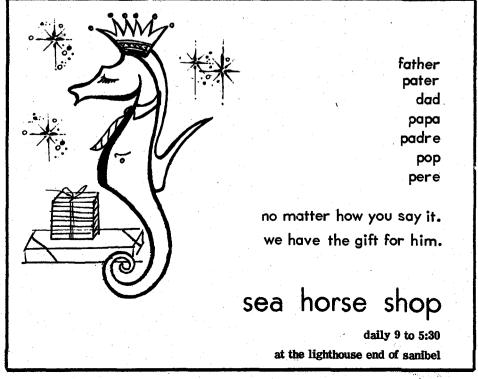

With the Sanibel River as low as it is now some of the salinity recorded at Bailey Road (67%) could be backing up through the culvert from the ditches open to the development to the east, i.e., toward Point Ybel.

In our studies here in the Park and Collier Co. another source of salinity has been found in deep subsoil of sands, marl, or peats called interstitial salt. These deposits are left in the sediments as they were covered by the rising sea. These strata may be from 12 to 15 feet in depth and nearly as high in chlorides as sea water.

Water-table Control -- If further deep dredging could be controlled and no further connection into the Gulf be opened it may be possible to hold the upstream areas west of Bailey Road and Casa Ybel roads at such a low subject that these swamps can still serve as good bird feeding grounds and carry the normal swamp plants.

I have watched the county agents salinity studies on farm land in Dade County east of U. S. 1 to the coast for some years. Although salt gates are now established on all creeks in this area salinities as high as 1500 to 5000 p.p.m. occur at times during very dry weather. Two inches of rain often leaches out sufficient salts to make these soils suitable for growing farm crops. In much of the mangrove swamps of the Everglades National Park salinities may run as high as 5000 parts per million during the dry period and less than 500 p.p.m. during the rainy season. At these summer salinities massive quantities of food fishes build up and carry through the rookery season. It is this food build up that concentrates at various places as the water falls and form the basis for the great bird shows in the Park.

NO TOLL-FREE CHARGES

ON ISLAND

The new area non-toll calls which will be made available to residents of Fort Myers Beach calling the city of Fort Myers, Cape Coral, Alva, N. Fort Myers and Pine Island on July 12 will not be available to residents of Sanibel and Captiva Islands, according to M. M. Mc Donald, area manager of the United Telephone Co.

. In order to have such non-toll calls, said MacDonald, island residents would first have to obtain a petition signed by many of the island residents and send it to the Public Service Commission which would, in turn, check with the Telephone Company to discover how many off-island calls were being made and what was the general situation in regard to community interest.

If the reports were positive, the Commission would then have a local hearing in which the residents could speak their piece. If the Commission then okayed the request, the matter would go to the Telephone Company and Island residents could also look forward to a much higher

Letter To The Editor

To The Islander:

We have had many inquiries as to the status of our fight against high rises. At the last hearing before the Commissioners, we had a letter of support from the Board of Realtors and a suggested new approach which we thought would smooth the way. While "H" was not completely abandoned, we proposed working through the new Lee County Zoning Code, (as yet, in the planning stage) with an added classification which would restrict building heights in certain areas if the residents there petitioned for it. While the Commissioners seemed to support us, the Lee County Zoning Board has done nothing but delay and obstruct. We are (mis)represented on this Board by Mr. W. C. Smith, a realtor, whose attitude toward the Islands and Islanders is far from friendly. He and the chairman, Mr. Kline, also a realtor, have consistently thrown up road blocks not only on our request to limit the heights of buildings here but also that of our Chamber of Commerce to regulate signs. Therefore, as we approach one more hearing before the Commissioners on July 7, we urge once again, please attend and also write the Commissioners. They are empowered to give us both our height restrictions and our sign regulations whether the Zoning Board recommends them or not, The opposition expects us to weary of the fight and let them win by default. Let's not. We are close to success. It is no time to be a "silent" majority!

FRIENDS OF SANIBEL SCHOOL

/s/ Elinore Dormer

I would like to thank all the people on Sanibel Island who made my tenure as teaching principal of Sanibel Elementary such an enjoyable and rewarding experience. Too, my wife and I would especially like to offer our appreciation to Mr. & Mrs. Ralph Woodring and the P.T.A. for the lovely gifts that were presented to us on our departure.

Be very proud of Sanibel Elementary for the school offers much to all the youngsters of the Island. Not only are the basic subjects covered, but a program of enrichment is offered that can't be copied anywhere in the county.

The best to all of you in years to

/s/ Jack L. Barnett, past principal of Sanibel Elementary

THANK YOU

The Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation wishes to express its thanks to Mr. Grady Edmondson, Lessee of Tarpon Bay Marina, for his fine cooperation with the Bureau of Sport Fisheries & Wildlife. Mr. Edmondson had been approached regarding the placing of a 150 foot marine radio tower and antenna on the marina property. Before deciding, he inquired as to the reaction of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries & Wildlife and was advised that they felt "very strongly that the tower proposed would seriously detract from the natural character of this area,"

Mr. Edmondson then refused permission for construction of the tower stating that "we do not wish any part in an action that could even remotely be construed as opposed to conservation efforts."

Thanks, Mr. Edmondson.

"APPRECIATION"

I wish to express my gratitute and heartfelt thanks, to our many friends for all their numerous kindnesses of calls, gifts, letters, flowers and cards sent to Fred and me during his recent illness and death.

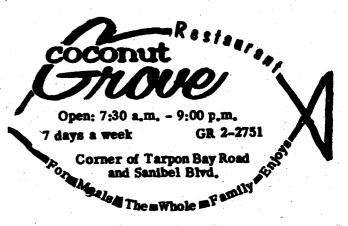

It was a great comfort to me to know someone cared and I shall never forget, /s/ Marie K. Kenkel dotti

BE PREPARED HURRICANE PRECAUTIONS

Wnen a hurricane approaches an area, residents are alerted through the issuance of hurricane watches and hurricane warnings. A hurricane watch is issued when a storm appears likely to strike an area within 24 to 36 hours. A hurricane warning is issued when it is likely to strike within 24 hours.

When a hurricane does threaten, certain precautions are recommended by the Insurance Information Institute for the protection of life and property.

1. Leave low lying areas which may be inundated by abnormally high tides or storm waves. Evacuation should not be delayed until the last minute because roadways leading to safety may become impassable before the actual arrival of the hurricane.

2. If your home is safe from high water and flash floods, remain inside.

3. Batten down the hatches. In other words, don't leave lying about any objects such as lawn furniture or garden tools which might be blown against buildings or through windows. Also be sure garage doors, awnings and storm shutters are secured.

4. Remove boats from the water if possible. Otherwise have them strongly and properly moored. Don't try to secure a boat after waters have become dangerously rough.

5. Be sure your automobile or other vehicle is on high ground and not in a spot where trees or other objects may be blown on to it.

6. Keep a full tank of gasoline in your car because a power failure can put gasoline pumps out of operation. If you must use your car, be on the lookout for fallen wires, fallen trees and flash flooding.

flashlight in good working condition and a supply of extra batteries. If you must use candles or emergency cooking facilities with an open flame, guard against fires.

8. Stock a generous quanity of drinking water in clean, sealed containers to guard against contamination.

9. Keep on hand a supply of food that does not require refrigeration or cook-

10. Keep a window opened slightly on the side of the building opposite the side from which the wind is blowing. This will prevent certain types of wind damage and provide ventilation. If a window is blown out, open a window on the opposite side of the house as wide as possible to prevent further damage.

11. Keep your radio or television on. A battery powered radio will prove useful in case of power failure.

12. If, in the midst of the hurricane, there is suddenly a lull in the wind and the skies clear, be cautious. This is most likely the eye or center of the hurricane passing directly over your area. This lull may last anywhere from a few minutes to a half hour. Remain inside, however, because the wind will return from the opposite direction without warning. AFTER THE HURRICANE

 Avoid felled or low-hanging power lines. Avoid coming in contact with metal objects which may be touching the damaged power lines. Notify police or utility company of dangling or broken wires.

2. Be cautious of streams or rivers. The water level can rise rapidly even after the heaviest rain has ended.

3. Control your curiosity. Stay away from areas of greatest damage. Allow rescue and first aid workers to operate without interference.

4. Listen to your radio for instructions. Drinking water may have to be sterilized.

5. If the power is off, don't open

THE ISLAND GARDENER

June is the month to fertilize your shrubs, trees, perennials, and lawns the second time this year according to the Florida Nurserymen and Growers Association (FNGA). It is also a desirable time to prune back those plants that have become overgrown. Pruning when done properly can produce a dense, even growth. Usually you can expect two branches where you only had one before. Most nurserymen will suggest that you apply fertilizer after pruning.

June is also a good month to set out fruit trees, particularly citrus. New trees should have a well prepared planting hole with some organic fertilizer incorporated into the planting area. Avoid setting citrus trees too deep, and avoid mulching of citrus trees. Trees that are planted too deep or mulched may develop a disease called foot rot. Water newly set trees at least twice a week or more often if the soil is extremely dry. You may need to cut your new citrus trees back onethird of its height if it's a large tree. This prevents excessive loss of moist-

Palm trees are easily moved during the summer months and June seems to be a favorite time. Remove all of the fronds except 4 or 5 in the very top. These should be tied together with string and left in this manner for at least 3 - 4 weeks. The tying of the fronds prevents loss of moisture by exposing less surface of the fronds to air and sun. Planting sites for palms should be improved with plenty of organic matter and some organic fertilizer.

This is an excellent time to propagate azaleas or to purchase azaleas from your local FNGA nurseryman. You use the tip growth of the azaleas for rooting. If the hairs on this growth are light brown, then the cutting will produce roots rapidly. Make the cuttings about 4 inches long and inset them into a mixture of half sand and halp peat to a depth of 2 inches. The lower leaves should be removed before setting it in the rooting mixture. Keep the cuttings well watered and partially shaded. Firm the soil around the roots after all cuttings are in place.

One of the biggest pests at this time of year is the grasshopper. The little black grasshoppers are quite prevalent now and they have big appetites. They will eat almost anything. As they grow larger they literally split themselves out of their skin. When full grown they are brown and yellow. To control these young grasshoppers use a good stomach poisoning such as Sevin or Chlordane. The full-grown adults are almost impossible to kill with an insecticide, the Florida West Coast, and rest assured, your area represents an integral part. Faculty members and students of six state universities will be involved and the areas embraced range from the Pensacola area in the Panhandle of Florida down to this present location here in the South.

The Sanibel-Captiva area holds special interest and this is demonstrated by the fact that three state universities have research teams working here now; Florida Atlantic University, Boca Raton; University of South Florida, Tampa; and Florida State University, Tallahassee. In addition, Mote Marine Laboratory has on-going studies in the Pine Island Sound area. Before going on, however, I would certainly be remiss if I failed to mention the local high school's involvement, the Sea Turtle research, the "Ding" Darling people and please forgive me for the others too numerous to cite.

The scientists involved are interested in determining what the environment is like today in order to develop baseline data to enable them to recognize changes tomorrow. Biological, chemical, geological, physical, meteological values will be taken and their interrelationships studied. Let us try to determine: What is natural, whatever this may mean; what it is that man considers natural changes; what man-induced alterations are beneficial, neutral or harmful; and so on.

The data and information gained in the study will, through proper data management, be stored in such a manner whereby it can be later located, manipulated and retrieved or displayed for analysis and other purposes by all interested parties. The knowledge can be shared and can be discussed in objective values -- facts. Then we will have greater strength in our future testimony; much more than when we have to base statements on hearsay terms or suspicions.

When and only when we are able to express ourselves in an objective manner, based on facts, will we be able to propose logical regulations and controls to protect our environment. Only then will our elected representatives be prepared to draft sensible and enforceable legislation for this purpose.

SQUIRRELFISH

The Squirrelfish also called Red Squirrel Fish and Soldier Fish. A pink or reddish fish with large eyes which are dark. Inhabiting the off shore reefs of the tropics, they are a timid fish by nature, hiding mostly in daytime and out at night. They spend most of their life in rocky crevices. Most of the larger fish prey on them for their food. They are comparable to red snapper as a food fish, although the flesh is a bit softer than red snapper.
