United Way Close To Goal

Norman Chambers, hardworking Sanibel chairman for the United Way this year reports a total of $4,738 to date has been donated to the fund for the support of the 14 charitable organizations depending on it for the major part of their operating expenses.

Of this total, mobile homes contributed $50.00; building and construction $55.00; professional people, $475.00; commercial, $110.00; public services, $1,046; residential, $3,002; and clubs, $50.00. One generous gentleman, wishing to remain anonymous donated $300.00, in mock payment for calling it the United Fund instead of its new name this year, the United Way, and bringing the fund close to its goal.

Captiva, with its super chairman, Mrs. Max Hayford, working like mad, reports $805.00 with $37.00 donated by Government and education; $50.00 from mobile homes; $25.00 from public service and residents donating $693.00.

Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation

After several years of effort, the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation, working closely with state and local officials, has secured the grant of $281,000 in federal funds for the purchase of land on Sanibel.

The award, from the Bureau of Recreation of the U. S. Department of the Interior, came as matching funds for money raised locally. It will be used for additions to the Sanibel Freshwater Wetlands Sanctuary.

The official award was made at a ceremony in Fort Myers by Nathaniel P. Reed, assistant secretary for Fish Wildlife and Parks, at 2 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 28, at the Sheraton Inn.

Pat Murphy Feted

The Honorable Patrick O. Murphy was feted by the members of the Sanibel Volunteer Fire Department on Wednesday evening at Sanibel's Gasparilla Restaurant to honor his pending retirement as Commissioner and President of the Sanibel Fire Control District. Pat, who has not sought re-election, has served as a Commissioner for almost twenty years. Attending the party were Mrs. (Betty) Murphy, the other Commissioners, Floyd Pflough and Tom Nix, all of Sanibel's Firemen and their respective ladies.

Chief Alan Nave presented Pat with an engraved pipe rack and humidor from the men of the department; stating that although Pat retires as a Commissioner, the men had unanimously elected him to honorary membership in the Sanibel Volunteer Fire Department and will allow him "to continue directing traffic at its fires." Pat thanked everyone and recounted some of the past activities from the original formation of the Control District through this time with special thanks extended to Floyd Pflough and Tom Nix. Pat mentioned that our tax rate applicable to the Fire Control is less than one-tenth than permitted by Florida law. Even so, we now have one of the State's finest fire stations and operate four pieces of mobile equipment including the brand new rescue unit. He also noted that no volunteer fire department is any better than its wives who have to answer the emergency phones many times and stand by when their husbands are out protecting the lives and property of the Island residents and visitors.

The dinner and festivities were kept the best secret in the history of Sanibel Island by Betty Murphy who arranged, "to have Pat take me out to dinner," whereupon he was surprised to be greeted by the entire department at the Gasparilla. Following dinner, Toastmaster Marty Holtz expressed gratitude on behalf of the firement as well as the citizens for the many years of labor spent administering the Fire Control District. Emphasis was put on the fact that so few people realize the work exists much less its importance. Without this administration, there would be no equipment to operate by the volunteer firemen and, hence, no protection or rescue service on the Islands. Pat's original commission was signed by Governor LeRoy Collins back in the 50's.

Mr. & Mrs. WM SUCH, Jr., while gadding about on their boat, 3 Js, sighted 100 or more beautiful white pelicans on an island near Useppa. The birds seemed almost tame, allowing them to get within 75 feet of them before they took flight and displayed the distinctive black streak under the wings. Several cormorants were with the pelicans and they think they may winter here. Anyhow, they were able to get some really glorious pictures of them.

RANDY and DAPHNE APCHER, ardent shellers from Louisville, Ky., found a huge and perfect lions paw on Captiva Sunday. They also found a 5 1/2 inch king's crown and a 17 inch horse conch, indicating that the shells are staging a comeback. MAUDE MEYER agreed the shells were perfect.

DEE and LORAH BARNETT from Evansville, Ind., are avid shellers who have had some fantastic luck shelling, too.

Two ladies on R.R. are Maj. ALICE HAMPTON and Col. MILDRED QUALLS from St. Petersburg Beach, who had a great time shelling, finding mostly whelks, when they went island hopping with ESPERANZA WOODRING.

RAY and ALBERTA STAGGS of Maysville, Ky., are here looking over property for an early retirement and Mr. & Mrs. J. ZOSS of Hopkinsville, Minn., are visiting on the islands and resting.

The ROBERT HAYNIES are back from a vacation to everywhere. They visited the family in Ohio and North Carolina and then flew to London and spent a glorious two weeks there visiting and sightseeing as much as possible, and they are hoping to make a return visit to the continent next year. They got to see their newest grandchild while in North Carolina, too.

THE COLONY GUESTS

Guests at The Colony include Mr. & Mrs. Robin Ross Younts from Miami; Mr. & Mrs. Robert Day of Ontario, Canada; Mr. & Mrs. Michael T. Bova, Sr. and Mr. & Mrs. George Doherty from Indianapolis, Ind.; the B. Barstows from Paoli, Pa.; Mr. & Mrs. Roy T. Hull and Mr. & Mrs. T. Avery from Knoxville, Tenn.; Mr. & Mrs. Robert Rost from Loveland, Ohio; the Lewis L. Gotschalls and party from Sun City Center, Fla.; Mr. & Mrs. Richard Koss from Des Moines, Iowa; and the Tom Bowers from Hemet, Calif.

Mr. & Mrs. J. Norman Miller from Merchantville, N.J., are enjoying their stay in their cottage "Sea Oats."

SURF 'N SAND COTTAGES

Returning for their third winter season are Misses Bea and Irene Spillane and Miss Val Glass. They all hail from New England and report that cold weather has already set in and that they are so glad to be back on warm Sanibel.

Mr. & Mrs. Walter Sovick are enjoying some great fishing. All fish they catch, and there have been quite a few, are promptly returned to the sea. Mr. & Mrs. G. P. Sullivan and Mr. & Mrs. Way are enjoying some fishing, shelling and just relaxing before returning north to colder weather. Mr. Charles Collins is recovering nicely from a recent heart attack and will recuperate here before flying back to his home in Michigan.

AND WHY

MARYLOU and BILL MAIN just returned from vacationing in the hills of western Maryland. They left for several reasons. One was there was three inches of snow on the ground, and it was mighty cold up there. Then, too, they had to get back to the dress shop, and if you want to see what snow looks like again, they have some pictures in Marylou's.

MAUDE and HARVEY MEYER of Captiva will be up in the air in two weeks! Their house will be put on jacks and raised, and they will stay in the house during the whole operation. So if you plan a visit, be prepared to climb a ladder, for that will be the entrance plan for awhile until the lifting is completed and steps installed. "It may be hazardous for awhile but it will be worth it, as the view will be magnificent," said Maude.

The REYNOLDS of the Island Travel Agency will soon be opening their lovely new office next to the House of Treasures, and what a charming place it is! A lovely fountain tinkles in the foyer and all the literature directly from countries all over the world makes it seem like a world travel library. Every country is represented, even some behind the Iron Curtain, which is piquing the curiosity of many to learn just how bad it is. They will be opening this month for business as usual, after the tornado carried off their former offices.

And speaking of fountains, GRACE ROSCHE and VI JONES have some beauties fashioned by NEIL and JEAN GARRISON at the Artisan Shop. They are one-of-a-kind made of copper sculpture with enamelled leaves, and are self-contained and recirculating. You ought to see them.

The JOHN RUSHWORTHS have had a busy time this past summer. First they flew to England to visit with Jack's mother and sister in Brighton, and found very unusual weather, the coldest spring in history. Then they went to Scotland to visit Jack's best friend whom he had not seen in years, and all along they viewed all the beautiful and historic old castles and revelled in the London theatres. They flew back home, and then it happened. Mrs. R fell and injured her back, and since then it has been a long, slow recovery, but she is on the mend, we are happy to say. The Island Inn, which they manage, will open on Nov. 5 with their delightful meals, and many return resorters.

ANNUAL BUYING TRIP

Helen and LeeRoy Friday returned last week from their annual fall buying trip. They are now working long hours putting the final finishing touches on their new jewelry store.

The Fridays plan to open their new store on Monday, Nov. 6. This will be an "Anniversary Date" for them as it was just twelve years ago, on Nov. 6, 1960, that they opened their original shop on Sanibel. They well remember the occasion as they were spending their time getting their new shop open and in operation and at the same time cleaning up the debris that was created by hurricane Donna.

Since jewelry has always been the Fridays "First Love" they are very enthused with their new venture. They state that their new shop will be as "fine as any on the west coast of Florida," and they invited all their friends to stop in and see their new store and, at the same time, see their large display of really fine jewelry, crystal, porcelains, china, and watches.

While the new store will be opening next Monday, the formal grand opening will need to be delayed for a time. Watch the Islander for the big announcement in the very near future.

WILDLIFE NOTES by griffing bancroft

It is always an event when a new bird can be added to the official lists. We have been able to do this quite often on the islands, but seldom more than one a year.

This year we can add three new species to those known to occur in these parts. And each one represents a different manner in which such new individuals usually appear.

Keeping records of birds seen in an area and also, for migrants and part time residents, keeping tabs on times of arrival and departure, is important statistical work for the bird watcher and the ornithologist.

On the islands such records are now being compiled by George Weymouth. Any new sightings or first arrivals should be reported to him by phone, 472-2498, or by mail, Box 91, Sanibel.

As for the new birds seen this year, first is the yellow-headed blackbird, whose name aptly describes him; black with upper parts bright yellow. He can't be missed. He looks, and in fact is sort of half way between the blackbird and its close relative the oriole.

This is a bird which is fairly common in western United States and like some others in the past has apparently strayed to the Gulf coast and on to here because climate and food were favorable and familiar. Whether he remains an accidental or becomes a resident remains to be seen.

Next we can report the sighting this fall of several veerys. The veery is a thrush, and he can be missed. He is lighter with fewer spots but very similar to other thrushes. Like most of them he is highly migratory.

The mystery about the veery is why he has not been reported here before. Almost every fall Dorothy Mendinhall bands a good many of them in Maryland on their way south, along with other thrushes that regularly pass through here. The best bet is the veery has just, up to now, been overlooked. He will remain a migrant.

The final new bird is the monk parrot, a large, green fruit eater, seen in Boca Grande. This is an escapee. Like the budgerigger, or small green parakeet previously reported here, a caged bird that was set free or otherwise got away and is establishing himself in the wild and extending his range.

For information about bird tours call the MacIntosh Book Store, 472,1447.

The sailing course sponsored by the Sanibel-Captiva Lions Club and taught by Mr. Myton Ireland sails every Saturday morning at 10 a.m. from the Snook Motel. It is open to any islands' residents but they must be swimmers, and there are no age limits. The main requirement besides being a swimmer are you need a boat, a Sunfish sailboat, and of course you must wear a life preserver.

Sunday is the big day of the Sunfish races, starting at 1 p.m. and conducted by Mr. Ireland, ably assisted by daughters Daphne and Debbie. About two dozen are presently enrolled in the sailing course, mostly teenagers, but all are invited to come and learn to enjoy sailing.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

TO THE ISLANDER:

An open letter to the citizens of Sanibel and Captiva:

While we are awaiting the results of the work by the Analyzation Committee for the Islands' Master Plan as well as the report of the committee which is studying the pros and cons of incorporation, here are some things we can do which will slow down the increasing density of the Islands.

1. Owners of rental properties: Limit the number of persons per unit, or hold down the total number of persons on your property at any one time. We lose some business because we impose this restriction, but the guests who are here appreciate the effort. Limiting the number per unit cuts down on damage as well as on normal wear and tear of the furnishings.

Don't overbuild, even if banks impose conditions that require you to build more units just to get a loan. Such conditions are frequently imposed, but it might be better in the long run to get a new bank than to be pushed into building what you don't want in the first place.

2. Managers of rental properties: Take some time to inform your employers about general conditions on the Islands, especially if they don't live here. Try to get their authorization to institute policies suggested in No. 1.

3. Landowners: Insist on full disclosure from prospective buyers as to what they plan to do with your land. Become informed regarding ways to impose deed restrictions that limit density, preserve trees and open spaces.

4. Residents: If you live in a subdivision see that your local residents' association enforces deed restrictions you already have. A regular newsletter is helpful. Have everyone participate, not just your officers. If you live in a subdivision talk to your neighbors and form a neighborhood association. See that every resident has an opportunity to be heard and counted.

5. Organizations: Have your organization assess what you as a group can do to get accurate, up-to-date information distributed to all your members. Cooperating organizations could set up a special telephone "Information Hotline" manned by volunteers part time and a mechanical answering and recording device part time where anyone could have access to the information you leave available. Grapevine rumors do a lot of damage to people, and hinder the work that needs doing.

6. Individuals as individuals: Get a copy of the book "Property Power" by Mary Ann Guitar (Doubleday) and study it to see how other communities throughout the U.S. have faced and dealt with threats to their natural resources. Discuss the problems and solutions found with everyone, not just with those with whom you agree.

Write to our Planning Board indicating your interest in the work they and the Analyzation Committee are doing. Ask to see the maps; one shows all current zoning, the other shows all current land usage.

Take time to carefully study the maps as soon as they are available to the public and think seriously about what you would like to see as the future land use of our Islands. The Analyzation Committee cannot represent your view point in their recommendations to the County Commissioners if you don't tell them what you want. They need everyone's ideas and help.

Think about the advantages and disadvantages of incorporation of our Islands. The Committee that is studying this is not making the decision, they are gathering information. Ultimately, the people of the Islands will have to decide.

We should all remember that doing nothing is taking a stand just as surely as is doing something. But doing something just so it is "something" is wasteful of our time, energy and talent. We have to figure out what action will save us from the density of the east coast as well as that of the west coast islands, to the north and south of us. For them, it's too late. Is it too late for us?

TO THE ISLANDER:

The following are responses received from our last plea for funds for the Fishing Pier. Also, many people and businesses have contributed before our last plea in the Islander.

Contributors are as follows: Mr. & Mrs. Bernard S. Graves, Sanibel Lake Estates; Mr. & Mrs. Victor Hagerstrom, Sanibel Lake Estates; Mr. & Mrs. Ray H. Axling, The Rocks; Mr. & Mrs. Cecil S. Hudson, Shellpoint Village; Miss Doris Pivesser, Duggers of Gulf Drive; Frances and Wahnetta Aurenann, Angle Wing Drive; Mr. & Mrs. Thomas Timinea, Sr., Tipp City, Ohio; Mr. C. E. Kubat, Clarendone Hills, Ill.; Duncan J. McDonald, Brentwood, Tenn.; Clarence R. Conklin, Chicago, Ill.; Mr. & Mrs. Peter F. Falasco, Northbrook, Ill.; Mr. & Mrs. Stephen B. Kyte, Mankato, Minn.; John J. Sunnersby, Summit, N.J.; Mr. & Mrs. Fred Holtz, Elkhart, Ind.; John Kenedy, Tulipi Way, Sanibel; and Mr. & Mrs. Wm. H. Terrell, Glenview, Ill.

These contributions have helped immensely. We still haven't quite reached our goal. Any more contributions would be happily accepted.

/s/ Herb Purdy

TO THE ISLANDER:

I would like to endorse Mrs. Mary Baldauf, write-in candidate for the office of County Commissioner, Third District. Her commitment to protect the natural environment is unequivocal, specific and sincere and I am convinced that she would honestly serve all the people and concern herself with many other issues besides roads. She favors a comprehensive plan for the county, most candidates do, but she would tailor it to suit the special requirements of each area and so prevent it from becoming just another club with which to clobber our off-shore islands. It is frightening and, I believe, quite true that at this time a relatively small group of Fort Myers business men have the power to rule or ruin our lives. I vehemently object to this --- and so does Mrs. Baldauf.

She will be running against James Sweeney, who has always put his finger to the wind before speaking out on any issue, and a man named Mulkey, who keeps referring to "Cap-tee-vee-a" and is so sub-standard one wonders if he ever completed grammar school.

To vote for Mrs. Baldauf look to the left of the voting machine. There is a slot there for Commissioner, Third District, and, hopefully, a pencil. If you need more help, feel free to ask for it. We have our chance for better representation. Please --- care enough to vote.

IN APPRECIATION

Unknown to me and with utmost secrecy, in itself quite an achievement on Sanibel, members of the Sanibel Volunteer Fire Dept. surprised me, and SURPRISED means just that, with a testimonial dinner at the Gasparilla Restaurant last Wednesday evening.

Needless to say there was a conspiracy with the volunteers and Mrs. Murphy, and I was nearly trapped and delivered in person and on time at the premises, where we were greeted by the entire membership of the Department and their wives and sweethearts, applauding as we entered.

Mrs. Murphy and I were feted and toasted by those present, and Toastmaster Marshall Holtz, on behalf of the Department made a presentation of a beautiful humidior and pipe rack combination, with an attached engraved plaque honoring me.

The dinner was delicious and we had a wonderful time.

To all of you, members of the Department, your wives and sweethearts who planned and executed this surprise, I wish to express my heartfelt thanks and appreciation.

DECORATOR'S DIARY:

The charm of a garden room begins with print covering of iris, tulips, lilies, anemones & daisies . . . strewn over a pongee background forming the room's color scheme of orange, poignant hot pink of azaleas, cooled with whites & neutrals. It has become a room as exhilarating as champagne, and as welcoming as love. Who could be more at home in this exultant garden room than you?

GONDOLIER WEEKEND AT ST. MICHAEL & ALL ANGELS' CHURCH

This coming weekend will be "Gondolier Weekend" again at St. Michael and All Angels' Church. The Gondoliers area group of teenagers are from Northeast High School in St. Petersburg. They are known throughout that area as one of the liveliest, and most refreshing group of young singers.

They will arrive on the island in a chartered Trailways bus and remain until late Sunday afternoon. On the arrival at the Snook Motel they will have a beach picnic and then in the last afternoon start getting ready for the Folk Mass the next day.

The Folk Mass will be sung by the Gondoliers beginning at 11 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 5. This is an added service that day at St. Michael's; the other two services will also be held as usual.

The young people will begin rehearsing and practicing the Folk Mass in the evening Saturday about 6:30 p.m.

After the Folk Mass on Sunday there will be a free picnic at the Island Beach Club for all Church people, young people and visitors to the Islands from other Episcopal Churches in the area of Fort Myers.

The Folk Mass will feature some of the music from the musical "Godspell" as well as music composed by a teacher at Boca Ciega High School, St. Petersburg. The Offertory anthem will be a song written by Nancy Andreatas and sung by Doris Blankenship. This is a beautiful song composed simply around the word "Pray."

All of us at St. Michael's are looking forward to the coming of the Gondoliers and we invite the young people of the Islands as well as all other people to come and take part in this deeply moving experience.

"Gondolier Weekend" begins Nov. 4 and continues until the afternoon of the fifth. The Island Beach Club will be the site for the picnic. Come one, come all!

This United cable splicer is a "trouble shooter" ...working for you

Because a pair of wires from each telephone must be connected to a central switching center, the man who connects these wires — a cable splicer — plays a key role in your telephone service. Our cable splicers are also trouble shooters to restore disrupted service.

Splicing a couple wires sounds simple . . . until you consider a 3000-pair cable like the one shown below and the complexity of matching up the correct wires. But connecting wires is only part of the job. Often it means locating a break or short using electronic testing equipment and then digging a hole to get to it.

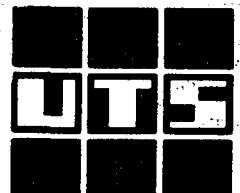

Electrical storms and water cause cable damage that must be repaired. Accidents, probing and excavation also cause cable cuts, resulting in telephone service disruption and the need for cable splicers to restore connections . . . regardless of the hour or the day.

In addition to all the emergency repairs and all the new connections required by the new areas being developed in Southwest Florida, growth and expansion in areas already served constantly calls for enlarging, upgrading and reworking the existing cable network. Next year United splicers plan to put in almost 1,000 miles of cable. Being copper, it's pretty costly, too.

Whenever you see one of United's splicers hunched over his maze of wires, remember . . . he's working for you to keep your telephone service improving.

DING'S THINGS

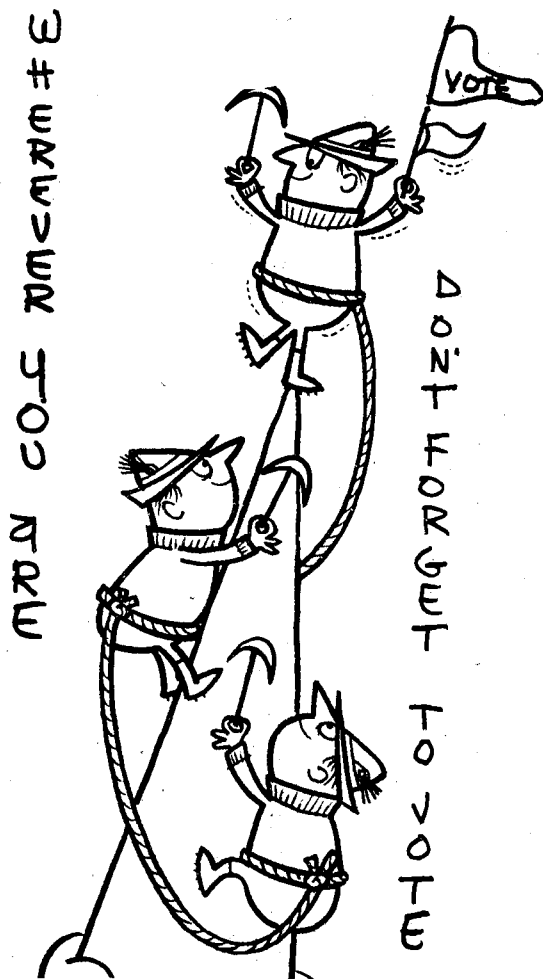

Last year the staff of the J. N. Ding Darling National Wildlife Refuge initiated a series of articles designed to acquaint islanders with the workings of the refuge and its role in the community, environmental problems, and announcements of refuge activities. Due to a reorganization of the National Refuge System's planning and budgeting methods, increased staff duties necessitated a temporary discontinuing of the column. Now, with the implementation of the new planning and budgeting system, schedules are returning to normal and the refuge staff again looks forward to reporting refuge concerns in The Islander.

The J. N. Ding Darling National Wildlife Refuge is charged with the administration of federal lands on seven refuges off the coast of southwest Florida: Sanibel Island, Island Bay, Matlacha Pass, Passage Key, Pinellas, Pine Island, and Caloosahatchee. All the above, with the exception of the Sanibel lands, are accessible only by boat. Two refuges, Island Bay and Passage Key, are designated as Wilderness Areas, about which a future article will provide further detail.

The seven refuges encompass 5,208 acres of mangrove, beach, fresh and salt water marshes, brackish waters, and wooded uplands -- a mix of varied and, therefore, highly attractive wildlife habitats. According to latest species counts, the Ding Darling Refuge provides useable lands and waters for 304 species, 226 of which are birds, 45 are reptiles and amphibians, 8 are mammals, and 25 are fishes.

Future articles will consider refuge species, management practices, explanations of legislation affecting the refuge lands, announcements of public use plans, and benefits to wildlife and the community. If readers have specific questions or comments about the refuge system, particular species, or refuge management, the staff will welcome their letters and attempt to answer these in this column.

PIRATE ALLEY ART GALLERY

This new season at the Pirate
 Playhouse, there will be a new Art Gallery in Pirate Alley, the lounge of the unique area theater of the Islands.
 The first and permanent exhibit of paintings will be the magnificent works of Lester Baker of London's Royal Academy. This will mark the third such venture for the Hunters. Their first was the Daily Cottage Art Galley in the dairy of J. P. Morgan which they bought along with his dairyman's cottage and formal garden at Glen Cove, L.I. Their second was the Green Room Art Gallery which they operated in their Towndock
 Theater on Manhasset Bay in Port Washington, Long Island.

All monies derived from the sale of the paintings in the Pirate Alley Art Gallery will go to Right to Life and Meals for Millions.

MEOWS WAITING

Ruth Hunter wishes to announce that four four-leggers who say "Meow" are now ready to leave home so will the three persons who left orders please call for said four-leggers, Mrs. D., Mark K. and D.W. anytime at the Pirate Playhouse. Oh, one is left over, first come, first served.

These meows are now half orphans, so early pickup is advised. Their father vamoosed some time ago and Mother Lily Pons had a stroke and finds it a strain to keep her children washed and brushed.

 PLANT SALE & TURKEY SHOOT

The Sanibel-Captiva Lions Club will hold their second annual Plant Sale on November 16, 17 and 18, in front of Bailey's Store from 9 to 5. Most of the plants come in one gallon cans and the price will be right.

A partial list of plants include crown of thorns, bougainvillea, boxwood carissa, copper plant, crotons, hibiscus and ixora. Some trees will be featured this year and they include banana, royal poinciana, key lime, lemon tree and Norfolk Island pine.

Another turkey shoot!! The Lions turkey shoot, which has been very popular in the past, will be held on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 17 and 18.
 The place will be on the west side of Bailey's Store from 9 to 5 each day.
 Shooting B-B guns at paper targets will decide the many turkey winners.
 Islanders had a roaring good time last year and the ladies proved to be almost as good shots as the men. Can they do it again?

All the profits from the Plant Sale and the Turkey Shoot go to support the Lions Sight Programs. Last year the Sanibel-Captiva Lions contributed almost one thousand dollars to the Florida Lions Foundation for the Blind and the South Florida Eye Bank.

CANDIDATES DRAW GOOD TURNOUT

Eighteen contenders for political office spoke before an audience of interested Islanders Thursday night, Oct. 26, at the Community House. Approximately 100 local residents heard candidates for County Commission, Supervisor of Elections, Clerk of Circuit Court, Tax Assessor, 90th and 91st State Districts, 10th U.S. Congressional District and County Sheriff.

State Representative Ted Randell and Lee County Sheriff Snag Thompson were the major incumbents present.

Many of the aspirants noted the uniqueness of our Islands and pledged to help try and keep them from becoming another East Coast. Candidates left literature on their behalf at the Community House where it can be obtained by interested voters.

All you boat buffs, or would-be boaters, and land lubbers too, you still have time to learn all about boats and safe boating procedures. The San Carlos Bay Power Squadron and the Sanibel Community Association will be sponsoring a course on all things nautical starting on Nov. 6 at 7:30 p.m. at the Sanibel Community Association clubhouse. The course is free and you will never find a better investment in time than the 13 week course, for what you learn could not only save your life afloat but the lives of others.

You will learn how to read a compass and how to set a course by it and the meanings of nautical flag language and buoy guide posts, plus many other things contributory to making you a good mariner. Lt. Harley Brown of 794 Conch Court, Sanibel, will be the instructor. You can phone him at 472-1395.

LIBRARY ENTRANCE FORCED

The Sanibel Library has been plagued by petty pilfering the past few months, which has finally totalled $110, according to Robert C. Haynie, president of the Library.

Thursday evening, the library was forcibly entered when someone knocked out some jalousies in the back door, but there was no money in the building and so nothing was taken.

"The Sheriff's Dept. is investigating, and new locks and bolts have been placed on doors and windows, but no money will be left in the building from now on," said Haynie.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Commissioner Walter Shirey will be at the Sanibel Community House on Monday, Nov. 6, from 9 a.m. Those wishing a firm appointment may call 472-1302 and leave their name, preferred meeting time and subject.

Mr. Shirey's visit is part of his regular plan to be available to talk over matters of interest to Islanders on the first and third Monday of every month at the Community House. The Sanibel Community Association is assisting in arranging Mr. Shirey's Monday schedules as a community service to promote better communication, coordination and understanding between local residents and the Lee County City Hall.

LANDS FOR YOU, INC.

During the 1972 regular session of the Florida Legislature, your lawmakers recognized a need for the state to take a more active role in the conservation and preservation of the irreplaceable natural beauty of Florida, and in the acquisition of parks and outdoor recreation lands. Two laws were enacted which give us the opportunity to preserve our natural heritage, prevent damage to our environment, add new state parks and recreation areas for people and wildlife, and protect historical and archaeological sites. Both laws require voter approval at the November, 1972 general election, when two referendum questions will appear on the ballot.

The first referendum question will ask for approval of a bond issue to raise the funds needed for environmentally endangered lands and for outdoor recreation lands.

If approved by the voters in November, the State will be authorized to issue up to $200 million in bonds for environmentally endangered lands, and up to $40 million for outdoor recreation lands. The type of bond to be sold is known as a "full faith and credit bond," because the bonds will be paid off from the general revenue with the State's full faith and credit pledged for repayment. This will give us the lowest interest rate.

The second question on the ballot will ask for approval of an amendment to the State Constitution which will allow the State to sell bonds to raise the funds needed to acquire recreation lands or improve existing recreation facilities. These bonds would be backed by the Land Acquisition Trust Fund, which receives money from a documentary surtax on land transactions throughout the state. The maximum amount which could be raised initially by selling bonds backed by the existing trust fund is no more than $35 million to $40 million. Since the trust fund receives about $5 million each year, it would be possible to issue new bonds in future years to finance a continuous program of capital projects for recreation. Because these bonds would be backed by a different revenue source than the full faith and credit bonds, the two bond programs complement rather than duplicate each other.

Once the bond programs are passed and the bonds are issued, the selection of sites for acquisition will be made by the Governor and the Cabinet, sitting as the head of the Department of Natural Resources. In each case, the selections will be guided by a comprehensive statewide plan prepared by the Department's professional staff, with the consultation and assistance of all other interested agencies. Any person can bring suggestions for projects to the attention of the Department of Natural Resources by writing a letter and explaining why he or she thinks the State should acquire a particular piece of property. The Department will investigate all new ideas for projects, and the comprehensive plan will be updated accordingly. A proper geographic balance across the state can be achieved in purchases by a systematic selection of sites.

To illustrate what can be done with these new funds for outdoor recreation and environmentally endangered lands, consider what happened when the state floated a $20 million outdoor recreation bond issue in 1968. The proceeds from the sale of those bonds were used to acquire eleven major new parks and recreation areas, comprising some 16,900 acres and including almost 10 miles of prime beach frontage. These projects were selected throughout the state and property was purchased in 12 different counties.

Why buy more land? Florida is the fastest growing large population state. Of the six fastest growing metropolitan areas in the country, three are located in Florida. At the same time, property prices are rising astronomically, and more and more people have more and more leisure time. If the State is ever going to set aside sufficient space to provide room to relax, fish and enjoy Florida's distinctive natural beauty, if future generations of Floridians and their guests are to learn to appreciate the State's irreplaceable environmental, historical and archaeological heritage, and if wildlife, unpolluted water sources and clean rivers and lakes are to be preserved, the time to act is now.

Why sell bonds? If bonds are sold now to raise the funds to acquire new land and water resources and to preserve them for future generations, the debts will be paid off over a period of perhaps 20 or 30 years by the people who will be here to enjoy the benefits of the land acquisition program -- by present Floridians, by their children, and by the millions of new Floridians who are expected to double our population by 2000 AD. Also, since land purchases require large amounts of money at the time of purchase, a bond sale is the only practical way by which the State can raise the necessary cash.

No new tax is tied to these bonds. The annual cost of paying off the bond obligation will be a small fraction of the overall state budget. Last year, for example, the State collected $2.5 billion in taxes, and that was before the corporate profits tax went into effect. The annual cost will be a fixed amount each year, regardless of future inflation.

The two bond questions on the November ballot hold much promise for the future of Florida. But before any of these things can happen, before the irreplaceable scenic and historical places of the state can be preserved for future enjoyment, the voters must show their approval at the ballot box. Between now and November, Floridians who are concerned about the future of our state's unique environment should actively work for the passage of both programs. If they are approved, we can take positive steps to protect the quality of life for many years to come.
