Annual House Tour

The annual house tour takes place Friday. Here are some highlights about the homes to be visited.

No. 1. Home of Mr. Robert Houston and Mr. George Rusch. "Fishing Shack" is what Mr. Houston and Mr. Rusch call their home on a corner of two canals in Shell Harbor. That the owners are avid fishermen is apparent upon entering the patio, but a shack, this charming house is definitely not.

The shell pictures and drawings gracing the foyer and hallway walls are by Kay Lawrence McRae, well known Sanibel artist. Of special note in the living room is a Chicago public school clock, over 125 years old, refinished and antiqued by Mr. Rusch. Mr. Rusch's interest in Oriental art shows in the fine wall hangings, objects d'art, furniture and especially the Chinese God of happiness statue in his bedroom.

No. 2. Home of Mr. & Mrs. Joseph G. Winterrowd. A Needleworker's dream house is the home of Mr. & Mrs. Joseph G. Winterrowd on Palm Lake Drive. The walls of the bright, gay living room are hung with crewel pictures of bouquets of Blue Lupine and Red Anemones copied from the National Geographic magazine as well as other pictures with motifs from a bedspread which is displayed in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. This charming and well-planned house was built by Robert Stevens.

No. 3. Home of Mr. & Mrs. Leslie G. P. Waller. Completely enclosing a central atrium containing exotic trees, plants and birds, the home of Mr. & Mrs. Waller in Chateaux Sur Mer was built by Everett Raines in a natural, tropical setting on the Gulf. The central atrium, the entrance court and the screened sun deck give the effect of outdoor living to the living room, dining area, den and two bedrooms which surround it.

No. 4. Home of Mr. & Mrs. James C. Worthy. Two massive Japanese Foo dogs, carved from solid granite guard the entrance way to the Chateaux Sur Mer home of Mr. & Mrs. Worthy and set the motif for some of the decor. A Japanese stone lantern and a lotus bowl enhance the patio rock garden. The spacious and airy home is a Richmond built home with several modifications. The rambling gracious house has two bedrooms and baths, a most comfortable den and a small creative room in which Mr. Worthy paints. This room also houses the stereo which is piped throughout the house.

No. 5. Home of Mr. & Mrs. Charles J. Wilson. One approaches the home of Mr. & Mrs. Wilson through lush, natural, tropical growth to which has been added many native plants. The house, built by Robert Stevens from plans drafted by Mr. Wilson, contains a noteworthy collection of Mexican, South American and African artifacts. Mr. Wilson is an anthropologist who has spent much time in Mexico.

No. 6. Home of Mr. & Mrs. Crawford Cate. Buenaventura, the home of Mr. & Mrs. Cate in Gulf Pines, could almost be classified as a museum. The many priceless antiques have all been family-owned since before Civil War days. A beautiful, curly maple dresser in the master bedroom was made from the wood of a curly maple tree hand hewn by Mr. Cate's great-great grandfather in 1835. The house, which was built by Rutenberg, fronts on the Gulf.

Around a plate rail in the den are antique wooden trains made by Mr. Cate's father and uncle between the years 1874-1879 when the boys were young teenagers. Authentic scale models of the trains of that day, they were made from wooden cigar boxes, cheese boxes and empty spool threads. It is interesting, too, to note how the deck outside the family room makes a perfect transition from room to beach, which is being kept in natural condition. The guest bedroom is almost a museum replica where there are two lovely antique dolls in residence.

The tour is sponsored by the Women of St. Michael's and All Angels Episcopal Church and will be open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tour visitors are invited to stop by the church during the afternoon for a cup of tea.

There's a $4 donation and the Willis Coombs Audubon registered native plant sanctuary will also be open to tour visitors.

Shell Fair Correction

An error was made in reporting the 1973 Sanibel Shell Fair official list of winners. This news release, given to the Sanibel-Captiva Islander by the general manager of the Shell Fair, Paul H. Mamet, published on Thursday, March 8, is corrected as follows:

- G. Commercial Dealers Division - Scientific:
- Class 1. Florida Shells: (1st) Fred F. Glancy
- Class 2. World Wide Shells: (1st) Fred F. Glancy
- Class 3. One Family: (1st) Mrs. Elsie Malone; (2nd) Fred F. Glancy.

WHO'S WHO AND WHY

Mr. & Mrs. VERNE PRICE of Burlington, Iowa, are returning home this week after a pleasant two months spent at TONI SKOCZAK'S Gumbo Limbo Apts. on Captiva. They had an opportunity to see, appreciate and buy a couple of her lovely pictures.

Mr. & Mrs. LLOYD RICE of Spencer, Iowa, returned home this week after a six week's vacation spent on Captiva.

Mr. & Mrs. TERRY BORCHERS had a social gathering at their home on Angel Wing Drive for Mrs. JANE SLOANE of Homestead, Fla., on Saturday, March 10 at 8 p.m. A pleasant evening was enjoyed by many Sanibel friends.

The AL MUENCHS have done so much to improve and develop the Periwinkle Trailer Park community by enlarging it and always ensuring that the entire park is clean and neat as a pin, and the birds on their little lake are truly some of the most gorgeous found anywhere in Florida. Some scarlet ibis are the most beautiful color in flame hues ever seen, and the roseate spoonbills and flamingoes are as colorful birds as one could see anywhere. The birds receive the best of care and diet, and special oils are fed them so that they always retain their vivid hues and colors.

SCOTT LANGSTON, 15, was one of the younger entrants in the Shell Fair who flew down from Indiana. He carefully arranged the shells in his four entries and though he did not win any blue ribbons we believe he was the best sport found anywhere, and he said he learned a lot from the Fair and we hope that he will try again, for he was most meticulous in his treatment of cowries and other shells displayed in glass cases which he carried by hand down on a plane from the north. And what a pleasure he was to talk with! He said he wished he could take a bit of Florida and Sanibel and Captiva back with him.

At the risk of going to jail, we feel that we must mention that HARRY at Tender Touch, male hair stylist works on not only ladies, but also men, who brazen it out and come in to have their hair styled and cut, and we are all for men being beautiful too, bless their pea pickin' hearts.

Boy, is our face red! Seems that an islander did win the beautiful shell table about five years ago when Mrs. GEORGE WILLIAMSON of Gulf Drive took the lovely table home with her and is still enjoying it in her home. And we goofed on not reporting that Mrs. ELSIE MALONE won a blue ribbon for her beautiful and complete shell dealers' collection of pectens in 8 boxes. She won in the World Wide collection of one family, and her shells of such delicate hues are a really beautiful and memorable sight. We truly wish to thank the Elsie for helping in arranging the shell tables and spending so many hours in helping to make it a success. Pectens are one of our favorite shells, since they do come in such vibrant colors, and the Elsie is some of the nicest people one can ever meet, and our sincere apologies for overlooking such talent.

MEADOWS-BRIGHT WED

Diane Ranney Meadows became the bride of Peter Ellison Bright on Friday, March 16 in the garden of Dr. & Mrs. I. H. Simmons at Chateau d' Orleans on Sanibel Island. Adm. Konrad of Chateau Sur Mer also served as host.

As guests viewed the ceremony from a secluded spot in the garden, the bridal party stepped through an archway formed by the trees, into a natural opening, closely enclosed by Spanish moss above, ground cover of fern, ivy and pine needles, and blooming with orchids and bromeliads, which formed the altar. Birds in the garden provided the only music. James H. McNeil, Esquire, officiated, using a ceremony written by the newlyweds. Copies of the ceremony were furnished guests.

Mr. & Mrs. Royal Ranney of Naples are the parents of the bride. Mr. Bright is the son of Thelma Bright and Raleigh Bright, both of Fort Myers. Escorted to the altar by her father and her young son, Trey, the bride selected a peasant dress with long flowing sleeves and skirt of patchwork design in pastels. Her bouquet was of spring flowers complimenting the colors in her dress, with similar flowers cascading from her floral headpiece.

The bride's sister, Mrs. David Howell of Naples, served as Matron of Honor. Mr. L. P. Varga of Fort Myers Beach was best man. Flower girl was Nichole Varga.

The reception was held in another part of the garden backed by hibiscus. The refreshment table was centered with the tiered wedding cake, which featured a miniature replica of the bridal bouquet on top, and carried out the color of the bride's gown in the cake floral decorations. Assisting with the hospitalities were Mrs. Nat Shepard of Cape Coral, and Mrs. Charles Haigler of Bonita Springs. The bride's book was kept by Mrs. Ralph Elver of Fort Myers. Photographer was James Ball of Fort Myers.

As the couple departed for their honeymoon in Acapulco, they were showered with flower petals by the guests. After the wedding trip, Mr. & Mrs. Bright will reside in Fort Myers where Mr. Bright is associated in the practice of law with the firm of Roberts, Watson, Taylor and McNeil.

HIS NAME WAS MATT by 'Lee' Clapp

I started calling early in the morning;
I called all through the day;
I called into the evening--

There never was an answer.

You see--
The day before, he told me he was sick,
But in the morning
He would bring his uniform, for me to fix.

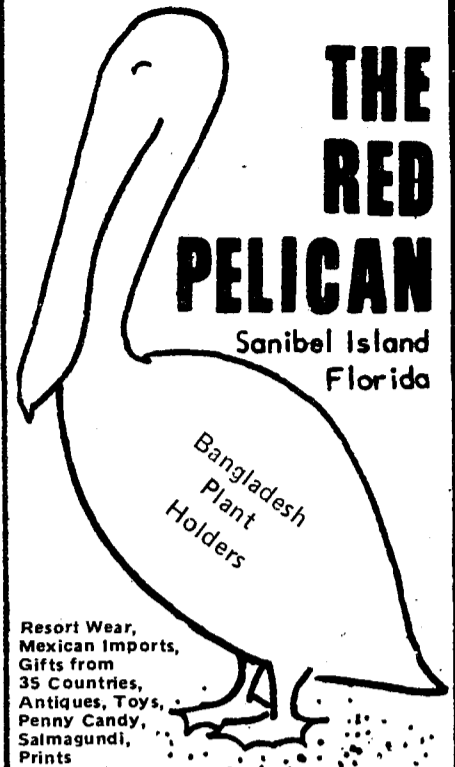

Later
I heard the phone ring loud and sharp--
This time, the answer came.

MORE ON SEBRING

It's one down and one to go for the Peter Gregg/Hurley Haywood Porsche team from Jacksonville in their all-Florida assault on the nation's endurance race classic: First the Daytona 24 hours, and next, on March 24, the Sebring 12 hours.

Winners of the Daytona race by over 80 miles in a Porsche Carrera, Florida's two road racing superstars turn their sights to the older Sebring airport circuit for the 23rd annual renewal of the nation's first endurance race; but if they manage the win, they'll have outraced the largest field in the track's history, and certainly one of the most competitive.

A starting field of 70 high-powered GT (Grand Touring) cars will take the starter's flag at 11 a.m. including one of the fastest fields of Corvettes ever assembled. And the Corvettes, with engines ranging up to 468 cu. in., will have history on their side in the battle against the Gregg/Haywood Porsche.

Last year, in the last Sebring race to include the sports prototypes, saw Dave Heinz of Tampa and Bob Johnson of Marietta, Ohio, drive to a GT class win and 4th overall, the highest placing ever by a GT car. And right behind in 5th and closing at the end, came Gregg and Haywood.

Heinz already has filed his entry for the race with new co-driver Jerry Thompson of Detroit. The two veteran Corvette pilots will run the LeMans car from last year following a complete winter rebuild by chief mechanic Dana English.

Johnson, meanwhile, has changed hats from Goodyear to Goodrich to join the John Greenwood Corvette team. Greenwood, in addition to promoting the Sebring event, will enter a three car team with drivers Ron Grable, Jim Greendyke, Don Venko and Denny Long sharing the driving of the other two cars.

Arrayed against the tire company efforts are a host of private Corvette pilots, including Tony DeLorenzo of Troy, Mich., with Can-Am veteran Steve Durst sharing driving duties in the Budd Engineering Car. "We've got a brand new car," DeLorenzo says, "And with our experience we feel we stand as good a chance as anyone. But looking back at last year and at this year's Daytona race, you have to give the nod to Gregg and Haywood, or to Heinze. They've just done fantastically well and they know how to run to the finish. But so do we, and I think we can do the job."

Vince Gimondo of Orlando will take on old rival Tom Nehl of Jacksonville in the Camaro matchup, continuing a five-year rivalry. Gimondo will co-drive with Bill Dingman, while Nehl brings in Gene Felton of Atlanta who originated the 427 Camaro and won with it last year in the IMSA Presidential 250 at Daytona.

Action gets underway at the track with practice sessions Thursday, March 22. Qualifying begins at 1 p.m. Friday, followed by the Sun 'N Lake Formula Ford race for a $3,000 purse at 3:30 p.m. A special GT qualifying race to fill the final 15 grid positions will get off the line at 4:30 p.m. to round out the 70 car field.

Race time Saturday is 11 a.m., with pre-race ceremonies scheduled to begin at 10.

At CAPTIVA ART LEAGUE, Adjoining Captiva Post Office

TO THE ISLANDER:

A copy of the following letter was sent to the Islander for publication:
Mr. Kenneth Daniels
Chairman, Lee County Commissioners
Fort Myers, Fla.

Dear Mr. Daniels:

Recently I read that a building permit, which allowed construction in excess of 35 feet height, had been issued to the developer of Loggerhead Cay on Sanibel Island. I followed very closely the height restriction issue and participated in the democratic process which led to the height restriction ordinance.

With all due respect, I request information on several questions:

1. Was a permit issued which permits construction in excess of 35 feet? If so, what rationale or loophole in the ordinance permitted this, and who, specifically, was responsible for the wording of the ordinance?

2. In the event that a newly constructed building does exceed the 35 foot height restriction, what sanctions are available to the Commission, and what alternatives are open to citizen voters who do not wish to condone contemptuous disregard of duly enacted legislation?

As a Sanibel property owner and Lee County voter, I abide by construction ordinances. In several ways, the restrictions are costly and personally inconvenient, and preclude financial gain which could be realized if the ordinances were less restrictive. However, the ordinances bring order, and, given our form of government, represent the will of the majority -- as such, they should be made to apply equally to all.

/s/ D. M. Malone
Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

TO THE ISLANDER:

On behalf of the Board of Directors, I would like to thank all of the people who attended the Feb. 28th public hearing regarding building permits for Loggerhead Cay. The 100 or so residents who turned out on such short notice strengthened the stand of the Sanibel-Captiva Planning Board as did the letters written by many who could not attend. Undoubtedly, this support will help immeasurably when matters of importance to the islands arise in the future.

The outcome of the meeting was that the owner of Loggerhead Cay and his architect agreed to scale down the parapet walls from 8½ feet to 3 feet. This is permitted under our building height ordinance. The question of building permits and water connection has yet to be resolved by the County Building Dept. and the Island Water Association.

A SPECIAL

Along with the other attractions at "Art in the Afternoon" on March 21, Arthur Ross from Toronto will have on exhibit his oils and acrylics and ink sketches. These are for sale to benefit the bike path and Right to Life in Pirate Alley from 3:30 to 4:30 at the Pirate Playhouse, and should appeal to many visitors as the subjects of Mr. Ross' works are scenes from Sanibel Island.

CARD OF THANKS

CARETTA RESEARCH

"Operation Loggerhead," a 16mm film produced by E. J. Phillips was shown to members and guests of the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation at the Sanibel Community House on Tuesday evening, March 6. Also on the program was a slide show by Paul Zajicek, entitled "The Next to Go; The Loggerhead Turtles of Cape Romano."

Charles LeBuff, Jr., Director of the Caretta Research Project, presented the program and spoke on the progress made by the Caretta Research team during the four years it has been in operation. LeBuff also outlined the objectives of the organization, composed of volunteers who work for the preservation and protection of Caretta caretta, the scientific name for the loggerhead sea turtle.

Each summer, young people, usually students interested in marine biology, work under the supervision of experienced Unit Leaders at the eight loggerhead stations between Clearwater and Cape Romano on the Gulf of Mexico. At some of these beaches, camps may be established for two months or more. The functions of the stations are multi-purposed and the work is often accomplished under the worst of conditions. Studies conducted during the summer by the Caretta units include general aerial nesting surveys, localized on-the-beach nest counts, tagging of adult turtles, nest site tenacity studies, determination of depredation on eggs by natural predators and hatching tabulation.

Since the establishment of Caretta Research, a great deal of new information on the life history of loggerheads has been provided and new techniques and expertise in conducting successful conservation programs has resulted. The job to be done by Caretta Research can be illustrated by listing the following general objectives:

1. Ongoing research into population trends within the marine turtle community of the Gulf of Mexico.
2. Maintain surveillance on known turtle nesting assemblages along the Gulf in the area where the eight units are located.
3. Expand sea turtle tagging. Much can be learned by the returned information concerning their reappearance in other areas after being tagged and released by the Caretta team.
4. Study factors of nesting and production success at established unit study areas.
5. When required by substantial data, collect and transplant loggerhead eggs to hatchery areas to reduce the destruction of eggs and increase nesting colony productivity.

6. Continue to push for new and tougher state protection laws.
7. Maintain limited numbers of young turtles in order to study growth patterns, evaluate the tags and other methods of marking, and for educational purposes.
8. Continue a program of public education to publicize the plight of all sea turtles; sponsor marine science workshops; develop audio-visual packets for distribution to schools, libraries and service organizations; and provide work scholarships in marine biology.
9. Cooperate and exchange information with other marine turtle conservation groups here and throughout the world.

Caretta Research was founded in 1968 by a group of conservationists who were concerned about the future of loggerhead marine turtles along the Gulf coast of the United States. Studies made on Sanibel-Captiva Islands, Fla., prior to 1968 had indicated that these turtles were seriously threatened in the Gulf of Mexico. Caretta Research was established to study the problem further, attempt to restore the number of loggerheads to a stable population, make sound recommendations to enhance the continued survival of sea turtles and initiate educational programs for dissemination through the news media, schools and civic organizations.

The loggerhead turtle is distributed world-wide in temperate and tropical seas. In North America, loggerheads are the only marine turtles which nest on our shores in numbers. Nesting occurs along the shores from New Jersey to Texas, but major concentrations of nesting are located in Florida, Georgia and South Carolina. In May, June, July and August, usually well after darkness has fallen, female loggerheads leave the water and clumsily make their way across the beach until they are above the zone of high tide. With her rear flippers, the turtle digs a flask-shaped hole approximately eight to ten inches in diameter and 20 inches deep into which she begins to deposit her eggs. Each one, somewhat larger than a ping-pong ball, has a pliable leathery shell and actually bounces as it falls into the hole. She will deposit between 40 and 180 eggs, depending on her size and cycle in the nesting season. She then covers the eggs with the rear flippers and with the paddle-like front ones, broadcasts sand back toward the nest as a camouflaging ploy. It is after this that she returns to the sea. But during the time she is out of the water, she is completely defenseless and the target of the worst predator - man.

Caretta Research is a non-profit organization which depends entirely on private contributions through memberships, gifts and grants. Those who are interested in becoming members may contact the main Unit office on Sanibel.

THIS WEEK AT THE SANIBEL LIBRARY by Hal H. Harrison

If I could write a library report daily instead of weekly, I might have some chance of keeping up to date, telling you quickly about the new books as they arrive at the Sanibel Public Library. As it is, I am far behind in my reports.

For example, the January selection of the Literary Guild is "Green Darkness" by Anya Sexton, and it arrived here in January. Those who visit the library regularly keep an eye on the best-seller shelf so the book has not been gathering dust, but I wish I could have told you about it sooner. Now that you know, put your name on the list to read this novel of mysticism, suspense and mystery, a story of good and evil.

Another book that arrived in January is Phyllis Whitney's new romantic suspense novel, "Snowfire." The setting is a snow-covered ski resort in the northeast. Attesting to Phyllis Whitney's popularity among Sanibel readers is the fact that the library has 7 of her novels on its shelves. They include "Columbella," "Hunter's Green," "Listen for the Whisper" (one of her best), and "Lost Island."

Then there is Ira Levin's "The Stepford Wives," another Literary Guild selection. Like Mr. Levin's "Rosemary's Baby," this chilling story of the wives (and their bewitched husbands) in a small village near New York, will be talked about -- and shuddered about -- for a long time.

Those who enjoyed Chaim Potok's two best-sellers, "The Chosen," and "The Promise," will be happy to know that his latest, "My Name is Asher Lev," is now at the library. This is the story of a great contemporary painter whose life is traced from his boyhood in Brooklyn to his triumphant exhibition that wins recognition for his art, a deep insight into the growth of genius.

Here's a real sleeper for you -- "Report from Engine Co. 82" by Dennis Smith. The author is a New York fireman who offers a skillful documentary of a dirty, hard, brutal profession. Exciting and tragic stories fill the book.

A woman's lib romp that should delight many distaff library members is Elaine Morgan's "The Descent of Woman," a Book-of-the-Month Club selection. The main theme questions the generally accepted fact that the evolution of the human race means the evolution of MEN. Arguments are presented thoughtfully and with considerable wit.

Lovers of sea stories will enjoy Edward L. Beach's new novel of submarines and the men who command them, "Dust on the Sea." You will remember Beach as the author of "Run Silent, Run Deep."

With five of Eric Ambler's novels already in stock, the library has added his new one, "The Levanter," a suspense story of a businessman who gets involved with a band of ultra-radical Arab guerrillas.

Ready for a good 87th Precinct mystery? "Sadie When She Died" by Ed McBain will keep you up late. McBain will have a new one out this month, "Let's Hear it for the Deaf Man," and we'll get it for you just as soon as possible.

MANY ISLANDERS ATTEND COMMISSIONERS MEETING

The public hearing held Feb. 28 was attended by about 100 islanders, and had been called because the Sanibel-Captiva Planning Board had asserted that the buildings planned by Loggerhead Cay violated the island's height limitation ordinance. Don Molloy, of the Lee County Building and Zoning Dept., explained that building permits had been issued last June for a model and two buildings but that only the model was built and the permit had since expired. Since the question of a violation of the 35 ft. limitation had been brought to the attention of the Board of County Commissioners, his department had not re-issued permits.

Robert Buntrock and his architect, Harold Hicks, then announced that an agreement had been reached to scale down the parapet walls to 3 ft. in place of the original 8½ ft. It was also agreed that the heights of buildings on Sanibel and Captiva would be measured from a ground site level of no less than 9 ft., for reasons of safety, and no more than 10 feet.

Mr. Walter Shirey was applauded when he severely criticised the building department for issuing such permits without consulting the Board of County Commissioners. Mrs. Wisher, County Administrator, pointed out that under the guide lines recently laid down, this would not happen again.

For the newcomer on the Islands, we have:
New supply of styrofoam shell trees & wreaths.
Collectors Hutch Boxes which are a brand new item this year to display your memorabilia.
Mahogany Dust-proof shell display boxes (over 12 different kinds & sizes).

For the Shell lover who doesn't pick up shells, we have:
Needlepoint kits with shell & also Bird Designs.

Our new supply of craft & art books will help while away the evening hours.

Just in - celluloid display cases that will protect your treasure even if it is over 20" high.

And, for all, shell gifts & jewelry made by local artists to take home as gifts.

NEW ADMINISTRATIVE DIRECTOR NAMED TO SANIBEL-CAPTIVA
CONSERVATION FOUNDATION

Mrs. Ann Winterbotham, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation, has announced the appointment of Richard W. Workman as Administrative Director of the Foundation, starting this week.

Mr. Workman's last position was as the first full-time administrator of the county park district of Warren, Ohio. This encompassed protecting the natural resources of the park district, fund raising through membership donations, public speaking and educational programs. He taught biological sciences at Little Miami High School in Morrow, Ohio.

After his discharge from active duty in the Air Force, Mr. Workman was employed by the Apple Valley School District in California. He has completed four and a half years of college and is working toward a degree in the natural sciences.

Born in 1944, Mr. Workman is married and has two children. They will live on Sanibel.

A 3 HOUR
ONE MAN SHOW

This Sunday, March 18, from 1 to 4 p.m., the Artisan Shop & Gallery will present 35 oil paintings by Don Lemon. That is a fact, but to the people who own his work or know of his paintings, it's an astonishing fact! His baby birds, bird families and seascapes find homes about as fast as the paint dries and to view 35 all at once, will be a treat indeed.

Don Lemon is currently listed in Who's Who in the South and Southwest.

He is a graduate of Northwestern University and received his art training at the Chicago Art Institute. He has exhibited and won awards in many juried invitational shows throughout the midwest and Florida.

Don's love of the outdoors is his inspiration. When not painting, he is observing and his work has the timeless quality of nature and undeniable appeal.

Two Sanibel residents have graciously consented to let the Artisan Shop "borrow back" a seascape painting and a chickadee painting so that you may see Lemon's style prior to this Sunday.

NEW ACCOUNTING OFFICE OPENED

Irene J. Lowe, founder and owner of Cape Coral Accounting Service, has opened an office on Periwinkle Way and Fitzhugh, Sanibel Island.

Ruth L. Faith, who has been associated with Mrs. Lowe for the past two years, will manage the office, known as Irene J. Lowe & Associates. Miss Faith is a graduate of Indiana University of Pennsylvania, and prior to her entering the tax field, was a computer systems analyst. She is listed in Who's Who of American Women and Who's Who in the South.

Mrs. Lowe will continue her practice in Cape Coral of general accounting, financial management and taxes and will supervise these services on Sanibel Island under the management of Ruth L. Faith.

SCHOOL NEWS

Children from the Major Work Area in grades two and three attended Edison Community College on Wednesday, touring the school and seeing the library and grounds, and returning to Sanibel Elementary at noon. Mrs. Winans' garden that children in the third and fourth grades planted is growing like mad and is in full bloom with petunias.

Mrs. Wightman is taking a leave of absence from her teacher's aide position and a replacement is needed for her.

Children who exhibited in the Shell Fair are June Ireland, Bret Vartdal, Yvonne Nave, Jason Trenery, Tom Carberry, Beth Holland, Blanche Bertolami, and Robin Pickens. Blanche won two ribbons and Robin won a third place yellow ribbon, and all of the children are to be congratulated on their efforts.

CAPTIVA CIVIC ASSN.

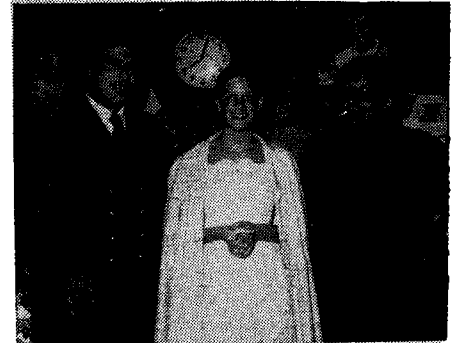

The Captiva Civic Association will hold a general meeting on Thursday, March 22, at 7:30 p.m. at the Captiva Community Center. On the agenda will be a proposal to amend the by-laws of the Association's charter. All members are urged to attend. Commissioner Walter Shirey will be guest speaker for the evening.

NOTICE SHELLERS

SANIBEL TO HOST RETURN FINE ART PHOTOGRAPHIC EXHIBIT BY IVIN WISE

Sanibel Island will be the site for the second Fine Art Photographic exhibition of works by Ivin Wise of Pompano Beach, Fla., this weekend when the Legel Art Gallery of Periwinkle Way, Sanibel, will sponsor a three day Open House displaying these pictures. The showing will start on Friday, March 16, and will continue through Sunday, March 18.

Mr. Wise had a similar exhibit at the Legel Art Gallery this past December when many Islanders and visitors viewed his work.

Ivin Wise returns to Sanibel after a series of similar shows in Fort Lauderdale and Coral Springs, Fla., where record crowds attended his openings. This past summer he had one-man shows in Wellfleet and in South Yarmouth on Cape Cod, Mass.

Except for a few instances, all of the pictures to be shown on Sanibel are new, and all were taken on either Sanibel or Captiva.

Mr. Wise is a photographer who has fallen in love with Florida and his exhibit reflects his infatuation with the flora and fauna of this state. The pictures are all of nature subjects without man, and this has been the theme of his work in recent months. He explains, "Sanibel and a few other similar places in Florida offer a wide variety of picture possibilities showing the different faces of nature at its best." His favorite pictures show the wide, lonely beaches, exotic birds, or dramatic, colorful sunsets.

There will be three varieties of pictures for the public to view. These include his studies in black and white, color, and a group of high-contrast reversal studies of selected subjects. All reflect his continuing interest in the Oriental art form of Sumi E, the ink brush work of simple subjects. He originally studied this form of art as part of his work in ceramics and pottery. Samples of his pottery will also be on exhibit at the Legel Art Gallery. Two of his pottery pieces were selected for permanent exhibit in the Miami Museum of Modern Art.

Mr. Wise will be at the Legel Art Gallery for the three days of his showing to meet with the public and hopes to renew acquaintances with the many Islanders who attended his first exhibit.

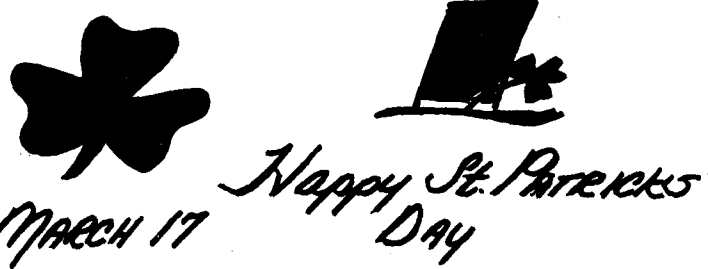

ATTENTION

Attention every one that has a fire extinguisher. Please check the tag on it for the inspection date. If it is more than a year old it should be re-inspected to make sure it is operable. Some have the window that tells if it is good or not. It may show that it is good but many times the gauge becomes corroded and does not work properly.

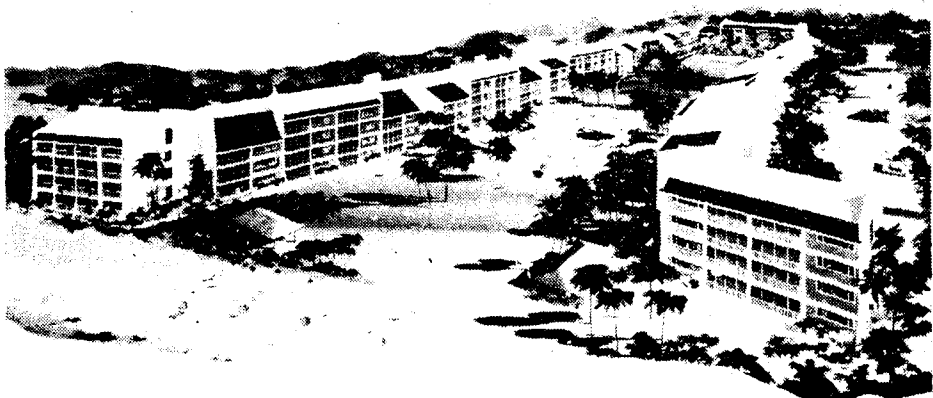

If you do not know where to have this done contact Phil Verdung at the new Fire House Monday through Friday between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., or call 472-1414 and he will be glad to assist you in any way he can.

DING'S THINGS

Fourteen wildlife species known to use the J. N. Ding Darling National Wildlife Refuge are listed in the "Redbook" -- the federal government's roll of rare and endangered fish and wildlife of the United States. The Florida manatee, southern bald eagle, peregrine falcon, and American alligator are termed "endangered species," meaning that their prospects for reproduction and survival are in immediate jeopardy. The Eastern brown pelican and Florida great white heron are "rare species." An animal with this classification occurs in such small numbers that it may become endangered if its environment declines. A third category defined in the Bureau of Sport Fisheries & Wildlife's "Redbook" is the peripheral species, one whose United State occurrence is at the edge of its natural range and which is rare or endangered in the United States but not throughout its entire range. Sanibel species classified thusly are the reddish egret, roseate spoonbill, mangrove cuckoo, and two accidentals, the sooty and noddy terns. The fourth group represented at Ding Darling are the "status undetermined" birds; the osprey, burrowing owl, and wood ibis. These creatures defy any other classification because little is known about their lives and habits.

In the weeks to follow each of these endangered, rare, peripheral, and status undetermined species will be in the limelight, in an effort to determine why they find themselves threatened with extinction.

Mrs. Frances Cook and Mr. John Kitches with their catch of redfish. Bob Sabatino was guide.

Seeing is Believing

Having been to Sanibel and loved the quiet, casual family atmosphere (so difficult to find in this day and age), we want Island Families to know about the comparable atmosphere at Lakeside Hotel on Clear Lake in Indiana. We don't have Sanibel's sea shells, but we do have a beautiful sandy beach. Lakeside is a Charming Family Hotel where grandparents bring grandchildren, parents bring children, and entire families meet to be together during the Summer.

Write for brochure and pictures.

SHELL FAIR ART SHOW

Hundreds of visitors to the Shell Fair passed through the Gallery Art Display of the Sanibel-Captiva Art League to view 131 pictures by 24 artists, either members or invited participants. Forty-five of these pictures and 11 photos were sold for the total amount of $1,187 to be shared by the artists, the Sanibel Community Association and the Art League. Chances were sold on a painting contributed by Jack Wilson of Cape Coral, who has conducted a class in watercolor during the past two months at the Community House. The sale of tickets earned $131 and the lucky winner was Kay Sanders.

Dorothy Robinson, president of the Art League, served as general chairman, and Helene Sparkes, the able chairman of the Hanging Committee. Assisting with receiving, hanging and sales were Mada Harrison, Wilber Snyder, Jane Bancroft, Kay Sanders, Jack and Phyllis Mount, Jessie Woods, Kathryn Mamet, Leigh Bair, Dr. Schennelle, Annie Morse, Mary Huldum, Linn Kuder, Emma Lerch, Charles Feirich and Adelaide Bailey.

The exhibition was a cross-section presentation of many media and forms: Photographs by Larry Huston of Fort Myers Beach, pencil and crayon drawings, pastels, oils, watercolors, acrylics, collage and serigraphs. They ranged from primitive paintings to sophisticated abstracts and unusual materials were employed such as printer's materials for distinctive work.

The Sanibel-Captiva Art League is open to both visitors and residents alike, and all artists and art lovers are invited to join. The dues are $2 for a year's membership, and checks may be mailed to Mrs. Richard Frieman, 2628 Coconut Drive, Sanibel, Fla. 33957.

BIKES AND BABIES

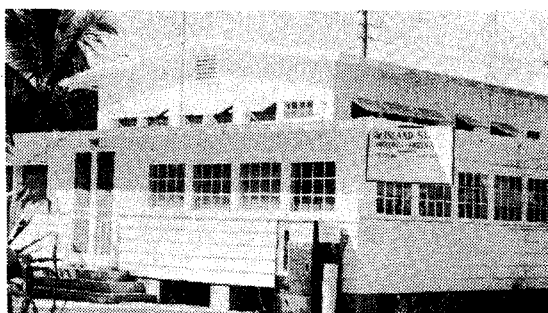

The benefit to raise funds for a bike path on Sanibel to give safety to cyclists and to Right to Life to save the lives of precious babies will feature this Wednesday, March 21, a collection of canes and parasols from the prop room of the Pirate Playhouse. There will also be Hazel Whitehead's Alice in Wonderland dolls, (she is sending some new Alices from Shawnee, Okla.) and the charming watercolors of Lester Baker.

There is a donation of 50 cents per person and the records played will be those of Wanda Landowska on the harpsichord. "Art in the Afternoon" in Pirate Alley, 3:30 to 4:30 p.m., March 21. Be sure to see a blackthorn cane from Dublin, a silver handled white embroidered parasol from the Teddy Roosevelt estate, and a wee one Ruth used aboard ship purchased in Aberdeen at Hong Kong.

BLUE CIRCLE

On Monday last, the Blue Circle met at the Ernest Dickey homestead on Captiva Island. Along with rolling bandages, Dorothy showed her guests all her beautiful treasures of grandmother's day.

Present to help with the work for the afternoon were Miriam and Ruth Biddle, Brita Wolleyhan, Margaret Dunham, Peg Racek, Miriam Johnson, Kay Schultz, Pin Mills and Ruth Hunter. The bandages are sent to the Catholic Medical Mission Board for distribution to the sick poor throughout the world.
