SANIBEL COMMUNITY ASSOCIATION

An enthusiastic audience heard the officers of the Sanibel Community Association report on a record breaking year of accomplishments at the annual business meeting of the fifty year old organization.

Daniel J. Moore, treasurer, announced that the Association has paid off its twenty-year mortgage on the four acre property purchased by the Association only six years ago. This property lies directly across Periwinkle Way from the Community House and is now being used as a parking area. The ability of the Association to prepay this mortgage resulted from the remarkable success of recent Shell Fairs sponsored by the organization.

"Much of the credit must go to Paul Mamet, and the many people who assisted him," according to C. Duane White, president of the Sanibel Community Association. Mamet was general manager of the 1973 Shell Fair, and in that capacity, he succeeded in realizing a net income of $13,138.00, surpassing all previous records for Shell Fair income.

In the election of officers for 1973-74, the Community Association re-elected Mr. White as president. Porter Goss was elected vice president, Mrs. Helma Reynolds secretary, and Daniel Moore re-elected treasurer. Newly elected directors are Victor Hagerstrom, Paul Mamet, and Dr. John Willard.

President White joined with Paul Mamet in expressing the Association's gratitude to the many people who devoted their time and talent to making the 1973 Shell Fair an outstanding success. Included among those participating in preparations for the Fair, and receiving specific expressions of appreciation for their efforts were Mrs. "Cookie" Duggers, "Dottie" Stern, "Hollie" Moore, and Mrs. Fae Muller.

Porter Goss, in his capacity as chairman of the Action Committee, reported on the efforts of the Association to establish better lines of communication between Islanders and the County Government. Among the many accomplishments for which the Community Association can claim credit within the past year, Mr. Goss cited the establishment of frequent opportunity for personal meetings with their County Commissioner. Walter Shirey, Count Commissioner for this district, is now coming to the Community House on the first and third Mondays of each month in order to talk personally with any residents wishing to make an appointment. He expressed the Association's gratitude to Mr. Shirey for the time and attention he has given to our problems. Mr. Goss added that the Association sponsored "Commissioner's Day" in February was most effective.

Don Whitehead, the Association's representative on the County's Committee for a Comprehensive Zoning Plan for Sanibel and Captiva, reported on the progress of this committee. In addition to a factual report on developments to date, Whitehead expressed his personal concern that delay in presenting a final plan could run the risk of unduly penalizing investors and developers on the islands. Whitehead also emphasized that he, as representative of the Community Association, viewed his duty as speaking for all Association members, regardless of their personal interests, whether home owners, developers, or both.

President White, in his closing remarks, stated: "The two main objectives of the Community Association this year are (1) increased membership, to enable the Community Association to speak for the broadest possible spectrum of the Island residents; and (2) to lay the ground work and establish definite plans for a Community Center that serves the social, cultural, educational, and entertainment requirements of the community."

ANDY ROSSI of Captiva was rushed to Lee Memorial Hospital last week and he has been in Intensive Care for treatment of a bleeding ulcer. Andy has lost so much blood he has had to have numerous transfusions and more may be needed. If there are any donors, of any blood type, son CHARLIE ROSSI would be happy to know.

Mr. & Mrs. AL BEHAR from Westport, Conn., are being welcomed to Captiva on a visit to view their property they have recently purchased here. They will stay over until after Easter.

South Seas Plantation Gift Shop has moved from their old location just a few steps up. The TEN BROECKS helped decorate in selecting the blue on blue shag carpeting and drapes with a blue and white design, looking very crisp and pretty with the old white woodne walls. Many new items have been brought in such as artifacts from West Africa, made into large and interesting necklaces with Carnelian stones, trade beads, and even a gold weight used in weighing gold dust. The jewelry is from the Asbouti element in Africa. Also shown and featured are delicate scrimshaw rings and other jewelry of authentic design. Some lovely little locket are made with tiny dried flowers and there are some dainty framed pictures of tiny dried floral arrangements. One particularly spectacular ring is made of black coral which comes from Maui, and green jade with cultured pearls. There are some large pendant type necklaces made of chain link fish and owls and other motifs. There is alabaster from Italy and china from India, Spain and Poland. Sheskamwood tables from India, and inlaid tables with music boxes come from Italy, and there are some unique swag lamps with sand cast candles, and an array of other new items.

SUSAN STEVENSON of Wilmette, Ill., who is staying at the Sanibel Moorings, found a junonia on the beach by the Lighthouse.

ELLIOT and ALDA IRWIN are enjoying showing the island to her sister and brother-in-law, BETTY and GERRY LOZEN of Mt. Clemens, Mich., staying at the Snook Apts. and here for the first time. The Irwins have been coming to the Island since 1960, staying at Duggers Tropical Village and visiting HAL and JOYCE IRWIN.

CORRECTION

Last week, the ISLANDER said the Arthur Clarks were opening up a new shopping plaza on the Island. Well, we goofed. It should have read Mary and Harold Clark, who are opening the Punta Ybel Plaza. Sorry for the mix up.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCEMENT

Lt. Col. & Mrs. Bert L. Jenks of Sanibel announce the engagement of their daughter, Deborah Rae, to Bill Allen Hughes, son of Mr. & Mrs. William Hughes of Captiva.

Miss Jenks is a graduate of Munich American High School, Germany, and presently attends Edison Community College.

Mr. Hughes will graduate from Edison Community College this June and plans to further his college education in the field of law.

No date has been set for the wedding.

WHO'S WHO AND WHY

VICKIE BATES of Brielle, N.J., has been coming to the Islands several years and now has a lovely new home in the Rocks area, and we are happy to welcome her to the islands as a permanent resident, and she has been having a wonderful visit with her friends, HARRIETT and GORDON MacGREGOR of Sea Grape Lane. The MacGregor's are from Buck's County, Pa., and are enjoying the islands too.

BARBARA LOOMIS, a potter of some renown on the East Coast, has been visiting some of the shops and particularly enjoyed seeing Thetan shop's wares as WILLIAM COMPTON showed her and her friend, Mrs. JOHN MacDONALD around. Barbara has a pottery studio at Laguna Beach.

Mr. & Mrs. FRANK KISE from Cincinnati, Ohio, are enjoying a visit with their daughter on Castaways Lane, and they have all been entertaining dear friends, Mr. & Mrs. MAL STUCKENBERG, now living in Punta Gorda Isles, but formerly of Cincinnati, too.

Mrs. SHIRLEY SWANSON and daughter, JUDY ANN, from Lake Geneva, Wisc., have been sightseeing on the islands. They are distant relatives of the HARVEY MEYERS on Captiva.

Mr. & Mrs. C. H. MEADOWS and Mr. & Mrs. I. J. SCHNAUTZ, all from Tavares, are enjoying a visit on the islands and shelling is their intent.

Miss BLANCHE FORD and Mrs. ALICE STRUNK were lunching at Castaways Restaurant on Friday and enjoying a charbroiled steak. Mrs. Strunk has a lovely home in Water Shadows, and Blanche lives at Periwinkle Trailer Park.

Other guests on the islands who are avid shellers are Miss VIRGINIA SPAULDING of Chapel Hill, N.C., and Mr. & Mrs. EDWIN DELANEY from Naples, and Mrs. JOSEPH WATERS from Boston, Mass.

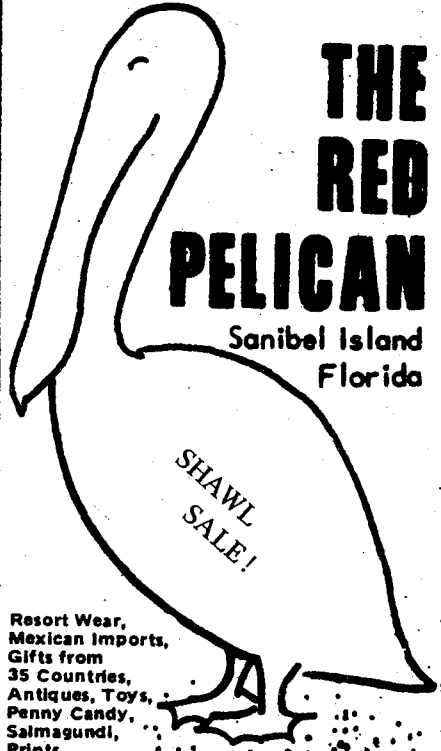

Mr. & Mrs. TOM MANSEL have been enjoying a visit from their daughter and son-in-law while they are on their annual return to Castaways for a vacation.

And at the Castaways, GRACE was a darling little sad-eyed Bassett Hound puppy, and now she has grown into a beautiful sad-eyed dog, looking somewhat abashed at her big feet and enlarging figure. She belongs to BILL and JEAN SOWERS, and Grace's constant companion is a beautiful Dachshund named RED. Grace used to get into some pretty fantastic situations when cutting her puppy teeth, gnawing on a wire to some outdoor lighting. Shocking!

During a recent visit to the islands Mr. J. ENOCH of Denver, Colo., caught 3 snook weighing 11, 12 and 18 pounds. His guide was Doug Fischer of South Seas Plantation.

MAKING TRACKS with Sandy

Not too long ago I read about a woman in Oregon who has been doing research on house plants' reaction to music and every day conversation. For what it's worth, she's been subjecting one roomful of plants to rock and roll, and another to soft strains of Brahms and Chopin. Naturally, the plants who've received the torture test of rock and roll vibrations plus nary a civil word from her each day are withering and dying, while the others are thriving and blooming under the spell of "Lullaby" and the "Minute Waltz." The latter also receive a cheerful one-sided conversation like "Good morning, precious petunias," and "Right on, vivacious violets." Tender loving care, it seems is the answer.

She could have saved months of effort and time had she come, as I did, to visit Uncle Clarence Rutland. Without trying to prove anything, Sanibel's beloved 84 year old resident does what comes naturally; giving TLC to his back yard nursery of trees, shrubs and flowers and they respond by thriving and growing.

Clarence Rutland has lived in the same house for 50 years — a house by the side of the road — but he hasn't had time to "watch the rest of the world by" because he's too busy. Still active and concerned with civic affairs, he is very much aware of our changing world. He fondly recalls, though, the old days when he was a boy on the island and how he had to work carrying five-gallon cans of kerosene up 127 spiraling steps to fuel the oil lamp in the Lighthouse.

Uncle Clarence has a quiet, gentle humor but grows serious when asked about the way Sanibel is changing. "I don't like it," he is quick to say. "Once we were different, now we're the same as every other place."

Through the years he has lived here he has weathered every hurricane. Of these violent storms he advises: "If you know that one is headed our way, leave the island immediately or stay in a good shelter. The people who get into trouble are those who wait until the last minute and then try to get out." His old house has seen storms come and go with only minor repairs to the roof. "Wooden houses are still the best," he says.

Continuing his reminiscing as we strolled through part of the grounds of his 20 acres, he talked about his father whose farm on the mainland was wiped out by the freeze of '95 and who then moved his family to Sanibel to start another; of his boyhood days here; of the time he ran away at 14 and got aboard a cattle boat to Key West; of the many jobs he's had including that of a streetcar conductor in Tampa; of a flight to Alaska "because I wanted to see what Alaska looked like," and his stopping over in Canada on the way home to see Expo '70.

Yes, Uncle Clarence (fondly called "Uncle" even by strangers) is still leading a busy life and although he's been in many parts of the world he still prefers Sanibel. I'm so glad he does, and I couldn't help noticing that his trees and flowers are glad too, for I could swear they nodded as he passed by.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR*TO THE ISLANDER:

During high tide on April 4, there was dry walking space in front of every structure between West Wind Inn and Tarpon Bay Road on the Sanibel beach, facing the Gulf, except for the huge 20-unit structure at Shalimar which juts beyond the high water mark. Water swept beneath the first three sections of this building (in excess of 30 feet) making it impossible to walk beyond Shalimar except for wading through the surf.

The usurpation by Shalimar of beach property beyond high water mark, reaching into the Gulf, deprives the public of free access back and forth on a beach which the Federal Government reserves for public use and not private appropriation.

Tides such as that which occurred on April 4 are facts of life encountered a substantial number of times, year in and year out. Every other structure on that length of fine beach is within the law and Shalimar should be no exception. To permit Shalimar to jut beyond high water mark into the Gulf would set a precedent to which other developers could point in seeking similar illegal advantage.

The civic bodies of Sanibel should promptly start action to remove, at a minimum, the first three sections of this usurping building.

TO THE ISLANDER:

Every member of the Rescue Squad and the entire Volunteer Fire Dept. do everything they can to help out anyone in distress. This takes a team effort where no individual person stands out. There is one person who never gets credit or even mentioned but is responsible for what the Rescue Squad is today. Through her tireless efforts and many hours spent teaching us everything we know, she is still helping out wherever she can. Her name is Mrs. Marty Holtz and she deserves one helluva round of applause from everyone on Sanibel and Captiva Islands.

/s/ Chief Alan Nave

TO THE ISLANDER:

It's a strange situation when the residents of Sanibel and Captiva Islands are now being deprived of a service which they worked many years to obtain. I refer to the Lee County Mosquito Control.

The last dragline will leave these islands shortly as permits for the type of work they have been doing are not obtainable because of, (in part), the diligent efforts of the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation. This organization is headed up by a roster of officers many of whom will not be on these islands when the insects arrive this coming summer and fall, but up north.

Mr. Wayne Miller, director of mosquito control operations in Lee County, with his able assistants, has done a very commendable job over the years. It is too bad when so much work will go down the drain because of a few ecological minded do-gooders.

/s/ Bill Way
Sanibel, Fla.

TO THE ISLANDER:

The following letter was sent to the Islander for publication:
Parks & Recreation Dept.
Lee County
Fort Myers, Fla.

Dear Sirs,

My family has been visiting Sanibel Island every spring since 1958. We were shocked this year to find the amount of beer cans that have accumulated on the Sanibel beach. In investigating this situation, we discovered that there were no trash containers put out at any of the public access points to the beach. It is my contention that part of the reason for the increase in the number of beer cans was that there was no place for people to put their trash and refuse while they were on your beach.

I would urge you to investigate this problem and see to it that trash containers are put out and regularly picked up so that we will not have this litter problem on the beautiful Sanibel beach.

Rather than simply talking about this problem, our family actually picked up 12 plastic trash bags full of beer cans on the one section of beach where we walked.

We were wondering if you couldn't get into some kind of positive approach to this problem with your tourist guests. Why not start a campaign and say that "if you pick up a shell, pick up a can" or something to that effect. Get the people to realize that if they like that beach they have to help police it. If all the people who were bending over and picking up shells just picked up one can, that beach would be spotless and it would remain that way.

I hope that you can do something about this problem because it grieves us very deeply to see the beautiful Sanibel beach so badly littered this year.

Thank you very much for your interest.

SCHOOL NEWS

Easter vacation will start with the close of school this Friday, the 13th, and school will start again on April 23 right after Easter. April 14 is the day of the big PTA fair.

Mrs. Judith Krabill who has been out of school because of her husband's illness, reports that he is improving.

Sanibel School children will be cooperating with the American Cancer Society by sending a mouse to college (for research) again this year. Principal G. L. Dissette announces with regret that he will be retiring this year, and he will be missed by the children in the second and third grades, whom he has taught the past year, not to mention the rest of the grades in Sanibel School. The Dissettes will retire to their home in Fort Myers after June 30.

ART LEAGUE TO SPONSOR SECOND DECOUPAGE CLASS

The first three classes in decoupage, with Jean Dean of Cape Coral as instructor, proved so popular that the Sanibel-Captiva Art league has made arrangements for a follow-up series. The classes will continue to meet at the Sanibel Community House on Tuesday, April 17 and Tuesday, April 24 and on Wednesday, May 2, from 9:45 a.m. to 1 p.m. as formerly. Many members of the first class are expected to join and others interested will be welcome. There will be the same charge of $18 for the three classes payable in advance at the first class.

For new people wishing to join, Mrs. Dean emphasizes the fact that there is no requirement of academic training necessary for collage. She is adept in helping the students develop greater creativity, originality and imagination which are the assets for this type of work. Either acrylics or watercolors can be used with canvas or paper. Those wanting to continue with the second series or to enroll as new members should call Selma Heinke, 472-2474, for reservations and further information on materials.

CERAMIC LEAGUE HOSTED BY DUGGERS

The Fort Myers Ceramic League was entertained by Bob and Cookie Dugger Sunday, April 8. A group of about 50 of the leading ceramists from the Fort Myers area enjoyed a picnic, shelling, swimming and just admiring the beauties of Sanibel.

Installation of new officers was also a part of the most enjoyable day.

ISLAND GARDENER

Landscapes are not eternal and many need rejuvenating from time to time says Florida Nurserymen and Growers Association (FNGA). Diseases, insects, cold winters, droughts and floods all take their toll of your prize plants.

Now is an excellent time to take inventory of your home grounds. New growth is emerging rapidly, plants are bursting with growth and flowers. Are there some plants that aren't doing too well? One plant that frequently shows the early symptoms of decline is the azalea. It is one of the most susceptible plants to mushroom root rot. This disease has no control and once it begins to attack azaleas or any other plant there are definite symptoms by which you can recognize it. A dead limb appears in the center of the bush or on the side. You cut this out and things seem normal. Later another branch or limb dies, you repeat the process. Such a condition indicates that the fungus is working rapidly and in a few years will completely kill off the azalea. One of the best symptoms of the disease as it progresses is to peel off the bark at ground level and look for white threads beneath the bark. If you find this, you have mushroom root rot.

Insects are devious in their manner of attack on your landscape. Some insects bury beneath the bark such as camellia mining scale and some types of oleander scale. You must look closely for scale insects or they will cause slow decline and ultimate death of the plant.

Plants that are deficient in certain elements may detract from your landscape says Florida Nurserymen and Growers Association (FNGA). Feed these plants nutritional elements in liquid form, spray for insects and rogue out any unhealthy plants. This rejuvenating of the plants around your home will increase their beauty.

ISLAND KIWANIS CLUB

Larry Gnagy, director of Community Services for Lee County, was the guest speaker at last Thursday's noon time Kiwanis Club meeting at the Golden Sands Restaurant on Sanibel. Director Gnagy told the group about the bicycle trail project on the Islands and the proposed artificial fishing reef to be constructed off Blind Pass and Sanibel.

Director Gnagy also told the group about the county's future plans for the Island. The county is presently making an inventory of the recreational facilities available on the Islands and is planning a projected future program to provide community recreational facilities for the Islands' residents and guests.

The Island Kiwanis Club voted to undertake a survey project to determine the desires of the Island residents concerning a summer recreational program for young people. The Island Kiwanis Club has placed a questionnaire in the Island paper to help determine the possible interest of young people in a supervised recreational program.

The Island Kiwanis Club is exploring the possibility of conducting a summer tennis clinic for all ages, a swimming, sailing, and water sports program, a camping program, summer theater workshop program, and a summer sports program including both team and track sports.

Depending on the number of young people interested in these programs, the Island Kiwanis Club will attempt to design an overall program to serve these various activities.

For additional information concerning the Kiwanis summer survey of activities, Islanders can contact either Fred Fox, Steve Reynolds or Dick Brodeur, or attend the next Kiwanis meeting on Thursday, noon, at the Golden Sands Restaurant on Sanibel.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY
by Russell Kay

You would probably be startled and indignant if somebody called you a slumlord. But you are just that if you happen to be an American taxpayer, for the U. S. Government probably owns more slum property than anyone else.

There used to be a time when "Landlord" was a dirty word. Now, in major cities, landlords have been going out of business so fast it isn't funny.

During the last few years owners have abandoned 105,000 housing units in New York City alone, or enough to house the population of Newark, N.J., if they were occupied.

It is no longer profitable to try and maintain rental property in most metropolitan slum areas. In fact, you can build new housing from the ground up cheaper than you can rehabilitate the old structures.

For example, a 36 apartment building in Boston which was structurally sound was purchased by an investor who borrowed $456,000 from the Federal government to make it habitable again. It was a sad experience. Since he renovated the building insurance rates have doubled, heating costs have risen 60% and taxes have gone up 30%. Rental rates sufficient to meet actual operating costs are beyond the means of underprivileged families. The owner can either default on his mortgage, walk away leaving the white elephant to Uncle Sam, or continue to operate and lost his shirt.

Today in all major cities we find block after block of abandoned buildings suitable for housing that are ghost towns in the middle of the city. Rat infested with broken windows, they serve as temporary shelter for junkies. Many have been destroyed by fire of unknown origin.

People in dire need of housing are afraid to rent in certain areas. Vandalism and crime run rampant. Tenants, particularly the elderly, are mugged. Rooms and apartments are entered and everything of value is taken.

It appears that none of the government's programs to provide low cost housing have met with success. Bright young bureaucrats of the numerous agencies set up to solve the problem have only developed more problems and more red tape.

What has happened, housing experts agree, is that the private housing market can no longer afford to shelter the poor. Labor costs have risen steadily. No landlord can meet the costs of providing hot water, heat and other services. They throw up their hands and walk away while the luckless tenants follow them hoping that, some how, some way, their problem will be solved by government housing agencies.

In the meantime we continue to conduct costly surveys, investigations and hearings to no avail. Millions of federal funds go down the drain and we are no where nearer the answer. Congress studies and ponders but can't find an intelligent, workable answer. It is a pitiful situation that promises to get worse before it gets better.

BLUE CIRCLE

Linn Kuder was hostess for the Blue Circle on Monday in her beautiful Gulf home at Chateau Sur Mer. Present to roll bandages for the Catholic Medical Mission Board were Virginia Blanchard, Dorothy Robinson, Kay Schultz, Peg Dunham, Dorothy Seymour, Pin Mills, Emma Lerch, Dorothy Dickey, Violet Renshaw, Peg Racek and Ruth Hunter, who read a letter from the Board acknowledging a gift of medicines sent by the group and Mary Bailey for the earthquake victims of Nicaragua.

specimen for pesticide contents; an attempt to determine exactly what the limiting factors for this species are; and experiments in captive propagation to bolster wild populations, for although the peregrine lays 3 to 4 eggs in a clutch, hatching success is low.

The accompanying pen and ink drawing of the peregrine falcon was contributed by local artist and sculptor Mr. George Weymouth, maintenance man at the J. N. Ding Darling Refuge. Mr. Weymouth drew this study from several photographs he made of an immature bird feeding on a black skimmer along the causeway. For the next several weeks, Mr. Weymouth will be treating readers to drawings of the threatened wildlife species they will be studying in this article. You will appreciate his talent for visually conveying habitat, body form, and distinctive behavior patterns of the animals.

DING'S THINGS

The fastest hawk in the world occasionally winters on Sanibel. The bird which thrilled kings and emperors on its upward-spiralling hunting flights and whose use today as a hunter ties modern man to the past still arouses excitement on the Islands. The falcon once seen in all areas of the United States is now scarce in its western range and is being extirpated in the eastern United States. This bird is the peregrine falcon, the duck hawk, the falconer's dream.

The distinctive facial pattern and dark cap of this falcon are its best field marks. Even in the immature, such as the bird in the drawing, the characteristics are seen.

Strangely enough the range of the peregrine falcon has changed little although its breeding area once covered the eastern United States and no longer does so. Therefore, one of the most common causes of an animal population's decline does not seem to greatly limit the duck hawk. Its decrease comes primarily from the accumulating effects of pesticide poisoning in the falcon's food. These pesticides have both killed the birds outright and have made their eggs nonviable. Furthermore, mankind directly limits peregrine populations by molesting and raiding their nests and by shooting these birds of prey.

By United States law, all hawks are protected from shooting; yet peregrines are migratory and spend parts of the year outside the United States borders in Canada and Latin America. International conservation agreements could do much to protect this bird in North America. Other measures aimed at grasping the peregrine from the brink of extinction include thorough studies of foods, eggs, and tissues of any dead

Yes, I know, you can't find the eyes. Neither could I when I was lying on my stomach watching these birds, only a few yards distant, through my binoculars. Being a realistic painter, that's the way I've shown them at midday on the hard sand of the outer beach, all facing into the wind. They have eyes, of course; they are just above the black-white line dividing the face.

THIS WEEK AT THE SANIBEL LIBRARY
by Hal H. Harrison

A long awaited book, "The Fall and Rise of Jimmy Hoffa," has arrived at the Sanibel Library. Expectations for this book have been high because the author, Walter Sheridan, was Robert F. Kennedy's chief investigator in the "Hoffa Squad" of the Justice Dept. in the early sixties and has been involved in the case for about 15 years. In view of Hoffa's position since his release from prison by commutation order of President Nixon just prior to the presidential election, critics of the book have wondered if it should not have been more correctly titled "The Rise and Fall of Jimmy Hoffa." Read it carefully and determine your reaction to the author's appraisals.

Two other important biographical books are now available at the library: "Luce and His Empire" and "Citizen Nader." The former, written by W. A. Swanberg, was a Book-of-the-Month Club selection. It is the life story of the premier journalist of the 20th century. Swanburg recounts in detail the career of Luce and the import of Time Inc. on our world. Charles McCarry, author of the Nader book, spent one year researching his material and now offers the first objective portrait of a man whose war with the corporate state may alter the balance between public and private power.

Those who have read "Addie Pray" by Joe David Brown (it has been moving in and out mighty fast at the library) will be interested to know that it will soon be a Paramount motion picture starring Ryan O'Neal ("Love Story") and directed by Peter Bogdanovich. The movie is re-titled "Paper Moon," which is also the paperback book title. The story, like "True Grit," features an 11 year old orphan who is quite a girl. O'Neal plays Long Boy, Addie's con-man confederate in this warm, funny bit of southern fiction.

And speaking of movies, if you are a "Jonathan" fan and you happen to be in New York on October 15, you might try to get into the premier showing of the motion picture, "Jonathan Livingston Seagull." The film, which features an all-gull cast (no humans) cost $2 million to shoot along the California coast, Yosemite Park, Death Valley and Mt. Whitney. Production started last October and has just been completed. From what I have read, a best-seller could be written about HOW the movie was produced. Some of the adventures are fantastic.

The Newberry Medal for the "most distinguished contribution to children's literature" in 1972 went to Jean Craighead George for "Julie of the Wolves," an engrossing survival story about an Eskimo girl who is lost and starving on the North Slope of Alaska.

The Caldecott Medal for the most distinguished picture book for children in 1972 went to Blair Lent whose detailed pictures enlarge on a Japanese folktale, "The Funny Little Woman."

Women have always played a major role in the work of the Sanibel Library (and they still do) but the masculine percentage is rising rapidly. The names of George Tenney and Leigh Bair have been added to those of John Cook and George Weyl as library aides. John Cook was the first to break through on the all-female staff, and John has been manning the circulation desk on Thursday afternoons for a long time. The new male aides are taking the same prerequisite course in library training as the newly recruited women. No, the new movement has not been named "Men's Lib" --- Lib for LIBRARY of course.

SCHOOL TO HOLD RAFFLE

Sanibel Elementary School will hold a raffle, rummage, and bake sale at Bailey's Store and in conjunction with Bailey's sidewalk sale on the same Saturday, April 14. "The sale is to help replenish the PTA treasury so that the incoming president will have some money to work with. The funds were used to purchase fans for each of the schoolrooms this year," said Mrs. Don Bissell, interim PTA president, filling in the unexpired term of Tim Squires.

"We have in mind the purchase of a row of shade trees to shade the west side of the building from the afternoon sun, which is hot and distracting," she said.

Household items have been donated by Sanibel Standard Station, Elsie Malone, The Lst Straw, The Black Pearl, the B-Hive, Bailey's General Store, The Seahorse Shop, Dotti's Boutique, Photo Sanibel, and Adelaide Bailey donated a picture made by her. Any others wishing to donate to the sale will be thanked by the grateful group who will be receiving the donations at the Sanibel School on Thursday and Friday before the sale. So please do your spring cleaning early, and give your trash or treasures to the school. No clothing, please.

Tickets for the raffle will be drawn each half hour on the 14th and a carnival atmosphere will prevail. There will even be a balloon seller there. So see you at the Street Fair.

BENEFIT PERFORMANCES FOR S.O.L.V.E.

The final performances of "The Bishop Misbehaves" and "The Blue Goose" at the Pirate Playhouse are benefits for the new Lee County Branch of S.O.L.V.E. (Save our Lives - Volunteers in Every Way), a pro-life organization to help expectant mothers.

The Hunters hope to buy a number of layettes for dear little new babies and are grateful indeed to all Pirate Playhouse actors and friends for their help.
