SANIBEL FISHING PIER NEWS

Our long awaited fishing pier now in use but not quite completed has been well used already. A large group of fishermen had good fun over the Memorial Day weekend and many good fish were caught.

There is still money left in the account to put in a waterline, lights, benches, a fish cleaning table, and possibly a partial canopy; all to making the pier more convenient. These conveniences were made possible by donations from people all over the country and the latest not herefore mentioned were from good friends such as Mr. & Mrs. Wm. D. Ellis from Atlanta, Ga., Mr. & Mrs. Fred Rohn, Jr., of Madison, N.J., and Mr. & Mrs. Lloyd R. Kylo of Sanibel.

Thanks to all contributors who helped build this convenient fishing pier.

LIMIT SET ON ISLAND POPULATION

A master plan which would limit the population of Sanibel and Captiva Islands to 36,000 will be presented to County officials June 18.

The plan, according to County Commissioner Walter Shirey, is the result of two years of study aimed at "preserving the uniqueness and ecology of the islands."

Limiting the Sanibel-Captiva permanent population to 36,000 is a drastic cut from previous predictions the area would ultimately have 96,000 residents, a total which county officials have called "ridiculous."

The Sanibel Community Association lists 2,500 permanent residents of the islands at present, with the population growing to an estimated 7,000 during the tourist season.

Shirey said density limits will be 18 units per acre for condominiums and 22 units for hotels and motels.

Included in the master plan are updated zoning trends, an analysis of permanent and transient residents, data on land usage and types of uses permitted in each zoning classification.

The plan also includes public services available on Sanibel-Captiva and recommendations on use of present roads as well as projected future needs, Shirey said.

The master plan, according to county officials, is an outgrowth of the campaign started by island residents in 1964 when the Sanibel Causeway was opened.

Sanibel-Captiva building regulations, being augmented by the master plan, are among the most stringent in Lee County, and residents of the islands "have fought long and hard to keep them tough."

Shirey pointed out that naturalists have said the islands are irreplaceable natural assets which are becoming internationally known as an ecological showcase.

Public hearings will be held later this month and in July.

As part of the program to preserve the islands' image, county commissioners and County Administrator Lavon Wisher were guests of the Sanibel Community Association for a daylong tour while the master plan was being drawn.

The purpose of the tour was to acquaint the county's governing body with what is happening on Sanibel and alert them to the danger of overbuilding and development on Lee County's offshore islands.

Prior to the final plan being drawn, C. D. White, Sanibel Community Association president, said: "The point we want to get across is that if these unique islands are lost to overdevelopment, Lee County and all its citizens will lose their most precious natural resource.

"If they are destroyed, it will be a loss not only to the island and Lee County residents, but to the entire state of Florida."

SUMMER READING PROGRAM FOR CHILDREN AT SANIBEL LIBRARY

The Sanibel Public Library's annual summer reading program for children from age four through second grade will start June 14.

On five consecutive Thursday mornings, from 10 to 11 a.m., there will be a story hour for the children, conducted by librarians Mrs. Walter E. Strong, Mrs. George F. Zajicek and Mrs. Arthur Clark, plus the opportunity for them to check out books for home reading.

This is the eighth year of the summer program for children. The theme this year is "Mysterious Readers" and some of the stories told and books read to the children will be mystery stories. Pins and certificates will be given to the children completing the five-week program. Last year there were 15 in the program.

In addition to entertaining and enlightening the children, the aim of the program is to get them familiar with the library and with how to find books and check them out.

Librarian Mary Margaret Emmons points out that aside from this special children's program, all children and students of any age are invited to use the library for reading and checking out books during the regular library hours. During the summer these hours are Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday from 10 to noon; Monday and Thursday from 2 to 4 p.m.

SANIBEL-CAPTIVA LIONS CLUB NEWS

The chivalrous members of the Sanibel-Captiva Lions Club played host to their ladies Wednesday night, May 30, at the Island Beach Club. A most delectable dinner was served by our pal Scotty. There was an installation of the new officers for the coming year.

The evening was highlighted by a floor show cast with Sanibel talent. Cookie and Bob Dugger conceived, directed and presented the show. LeeRoy Friday, Ingalls Simmons, Duane White, Will Haskell and Helma Reynolds were featured performers. Dance numbers were performed by the lovely Ireland sisters, Debbie, Jane Ann and June, plus vivacious Barbara Humphries. Mrs. Jean Culpepper efficiently and expertly played the accompaniment for the show. Mark Muench and the Vartdal brothers, Eric and Bret also contributed to the fun. It was a festive and joyous evening for all in attendance.

SOCIAL SECURITY NEWS

Widows who have been getting survivors payments from social security but who have been severely disabled for the last 2 years may be eligible for Medicare starting July 1 -- "but they must file a disability claim," according to social security officials here.

Medicare has been available only to people 65 and over. Starting in July, the government health care insurance will be extended automatically to all disable people under 65 if they've received monthly social security disability payments for 2 years or more.

"But some severely disable widows 50 and over have never applied for disability payments," a social security spokesman said. "Generally they've been getting social security survivors benefits because they're 60 or over or they've been getting benefits as widowed mothers who have young or disabled children in their care.

"To get Medicare, these widows must file a claim for disability payments," he said. "As soon as possible, they should call, write, or visit any social security office. If a widow is unable to make the contact, a friend or relative may help. If necessary, arrangements can be made for a social security representative to visit her."

TO THE ISLANDER:

After seeing today's issue of the Islander, I can't resist the urge to thank you for your wonderful coverage of our new library building.

As you may know, Victor Hackler, who wrote the copy was with the Associated Press for over 25 years and is a great guy. The photographs were done by Sue Pickens, the daughter-in-law of Jim and Jo Pickens who have been here for years. The young Pickens have recently opened a photo shop in Periwinkle Place. All of these people donated their services.

Thanks again for your continued help and cooperation.

/s/ Robert C. Haynie, President
 Sanibel Public Library

TO THE ISLANDER:

The Island Water Co. is grateful for the rain that finally fell last Friday evening and report that with the cooperation of the users the new storage tank is about half full. We are still dependent upon Pine Island for water and it is still necessary to curtail pressure from time to time to conserve the supply. Last year in May 1972 the Island Water Co. used 16 million gallons and this year another 25% increase to 21 million gallons.

The new treatment plant continues on schedule with the principal hold up now being bus bar enclosures. The Square D Company promises delivery in a few months in time to meet the scheduled completion date.

NEW GROUPS OF BOYS NOW ELIGIBLE TO BE SCOUTS

Boys who have just completed the second or fifth grades in school are now eligible to become Cub Scouts or Scouts, according to Charles Stiles, Commissioner of the Southwest Florida Council, Boy Scouts of America.

The local BSA council has 46 Cub Scout Packs and 70 Scout troops in the Lee, Collier and Charlotte County area. They are part of the youth program of local religious, educational, civic, fraternal, and other community groups.

"Scouting is for all boys who have completed the fifth grade or who are 11 through 17 years of age," Stiles said. "The focus of the program is on rounding out a boy's physical and mental fitness through a vigorous program of activities. They meet once a week as a troop under the guidance of a Scoutmaster and are also members of a smaller group called a patrol."

Stiles explained that Cub Scouting is a family-centered program for boys who have completed the second grade or who are 8 through 10 years of age. They meet weekly as a den under the supervision of a den leader. Monthly, all the dens come together for a Pack meeting led by a Cubmaster.

"There's probably a pack and troop near every boy in our council area," Stiles said, "or boys will know friends who are Cub Scouts or Scouts."

Information about a neighborhood pack or troop is also available from the council service center, 334-2317.

MYSTERY TOUR ENDS AT SOUTH SEAS

Mr. & Mrs. Carvel C. Linden arranged a mystery bus tour from their home in Indian Creek, Florida, (where he's the mayor) to end up at a golfing weekend at South Seas Plantation last week. The tour, in honor of Mrs. Linden's 60th birthday, was a mystery since the 20 couples aboard the chartered bus didn't know where they were going.

After getting to South Seas, the guests played a 36 hole golf tourney with Vic Ghezzi's team and Buzz Courtley's team tying for first place. Mrs. Linden's team came in next.

Tuesday, the group went shelling on Sanibel and James Knight of the Miami Herald found and won the prize winning shell.

Wednesday, the group had a birthday banquet, the main feature of which was stuffed capon as well as other good food and friendship. The group then returned, happily we hope, to their homes.

THIS WEEK AT THE SANIBEL LIBRARY

by Hal. H. Harrison

(Note: This week's guest column was written by Jean (Mrs. Russell O.) Denyes, assistant librarian. Her column is the only one actually assigned to a specific subject: "What is it like to work at the library?" I hope you find her answer as interesting and revealing as I did.)

What is it like to work at the library? It is challenging, interesting, and never boring. People not only come to find books but to find answers. They ask questions. Here are a few that I have been asked to answer:

"I saw such a pretty little pink flower, just about so big. Do you know what it is called?"

"What color is water? I am taking a class in painting and want to see how others painted water."

"Is the library incorporated? How many books do you have? Who buys them?"

"What books do you have on fossil shells? I am writing a children's book and want to be accurate about fossils."

"Do you have a geographical dictionary? Will it tell me the hours the fort in St. Augustine is open?"

"What is the date of Easter 1974?"
He looked a bit sheepish as he said, "I didn't come in to read, but could I use your bathroom?"

"Do you have books on death? I'm writing a book, and need more information on death."

"Where can I find a Sanibel Island plate for my car?" (Here for $5).

"Where will you put your new building? When will you start building?"

"Do you think it would be alright for me to give a check for $100 to the library?" (We locked the door before he changed his mind).

"Why doesn't someone write a book about Sanibel?"

"I'm making an embroidered patch for a blazer for my friend, and I want to use his Scotch crest. Do you have a picture of such?"

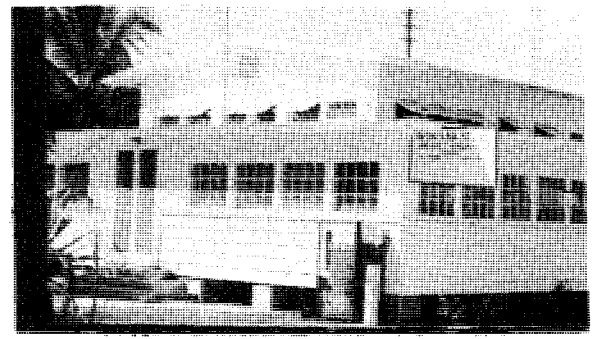

"I'm beginning to lose my native language. Do you have Spanish books I could read?"

"Do you have cookbooks? No one would bring a cookbook on a vacation, but my husband wants me to make him a Key Lime pie!"

"My grandchildren are coming down to visit. What do you have I can use to keep them quiet if it rains?"

"Do you have bird books for stupid people like me that only know that I saw a grey bird that flies like this. . . ?"

What is it like to work at the library? You meet the nicest people!

SUCCESS IN MARRIAGE
by Prof. J. Kenneth Williams

DEAR PROFESSOR WILLIAMS:
What is the best age for marriage?

PROFESSOR WILLIAMS: There is no "best age" for marriage as far as all males and females are concerned. However, there is an age for each individual whereby he may be more ready for marriage than at any other time. For examples, Bill and Jim are twins. They are twenty years of age; both have steady girl friends. Bill has shown by his behavior and attitude toward certain areas of life that he's ready for marriage. So, for him, twenty years of age may be the "best" time to get married. Jim, on the other hand, although dating steady, is still showing signs of immaturity and lack of responsibility. For him, then, twenty is not the "best" age to get married.

Usually, a fairly high level of maturity in attitudes toward spending money, the proper place of sex in life, having and rearing children, and married life in general are not reached until the person is in his late teens or early twenties. Statistics show that the present average age at marriage is around 22 for the male and 20 for the female. Some persons at 16, however, are more mature and ready for marriage than others at 30, so we can't say that age is the sole criterion for marriage. There are just too many other factors involved.

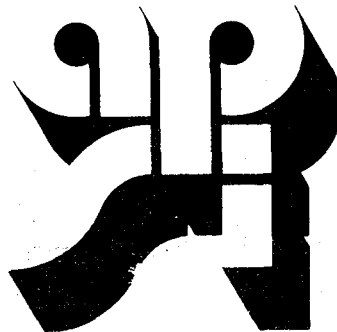

DEAR PROFESSOR WILLIAMS:
How do you feel about a married person who is unfaithful to his spouse because he can't be sexually satisfied at home? In order to satisfy this desire, he or she seeks satisfaction outside of marriage. Is this behavior ever justified?

PROFESSOR WILLIAMS: When one is married, there is no justification, spiritually, morally, or socially for one to seek sexual satisfaction outside of marriage. However, let's go deeper into the situation and ask the question, "Why isn't one satisfied, sexually, at home?" There can be a number of reasons. Maybe, the wife, due to early home conditioning, has certain fears of pregnancy, pain, or aversions against sex. The husband, due to a dating background of sexual promiscuity, may be more demanding, sexually. Sometimes, a very confining religious background can retard freedom of sexual expression. The fact of just living together for a number of years with resulting boredom, at least for some, sets the stage for extra-marital sexual behavior.

Whatever the excuse or reason may be, there is no justification for sexual unfaithfulness on the part of either spouse. Our religious, moral, and social codes for living prohibits this type of behavior. When one gets to this stage in marriage a re-evaluation of the situation including the possibility of professional counseling is in order if the marriage is to continue with any degree of happiness and stability.

Note: If you have a question you want answered, write Prof. J. Kenneth Williams, 3211 Dover Road, Pompano Beach, Fla. 33062. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DING'S THINGS

Sanibel's dearth of certain birds, mourning doves, common crows, redheaded woodpeckers, and others, extends to the owl family. The J. N. Ding Darling Refuge lists four kinds of owls in its bird leaflet: barn, screech, great horned, and burrowing. The last of these four species is listed in the Fish and Wildlife Service's "Redbook," the list of endangered, threatened, peripheral, and status undetermined animals of the United States.

The burrowing owl is a small screech owl-sized bird that, as its name implies, lives underground. It is the only owl to do so. Its greatest numbers occur in the western United States and Mexico where the prairies and plains are suitable for ground activities. Yet there is a status undetermined population in Florida where these long-legged owls live. They are more commonly found on the prairies of south and central Florida and in airport fields!

The burrowing owl is a "bobber," quickly bending its legs up and down when agitated. This jumpy habit will occur whether the bird is perched on the ground or on a fencepost.

The nests of the burrowing owl are underground where the six or seven eggs are incubated in a grass-lined chamber at the end of the burrow. These young are fed on insects and other small invertebrates that form the stable diet of the owls.

Man's encroachment onto prairies and plains have threatened the burrowing owls. In the west the destruction of prairie dog towns in which the owls often live have also added to the current status of the bird.
