ECC STUDENTS EXCAVATING ON SANIBEL ISLAND

ECC students in George Huggins' anthropology classes are assisting in excavation of shell mounds on Sanibel Island just north of the J.N. Ding Darling Sanctuary. The Calusa Indians probably built the shell dwelling mound which is rich with shells, pottery shards and other artifacts and which have not been fully evaluated, according to instructor Huggins.

Huggins also stated that the Calusas would eat the shellfish, then pile up the shells, and build their houses on the mound which was a protection against high tides.

Excavation work began in early April and will continue through the summer.

INCORPORATION CLOSER TO VOTE

Last Thursday, the Florida Senate unanimously passed Sanibel's incorporation measure and residents will be voting in November, barring a veto from the Governor.

Only registered voters will be allowed to vote on home rule in November and not all landholders.

Governor Askew could veto the local bill since his past record has shown him in opposition of more new Florida cities.

Before the bill was introduced into the legislature, about 400 Sanibel residents voted to pursue incorporation.

The bride attended Brevard Community College and will transfer to Edison Community College.

The bridegroom attended Brevard Community College, is employed at Hendry Hedging Inc. and will attend ECC.

THIS WEEK AT THE SANIBEL LIBRARY
By Hal H. Harrison

In our continuing effort to "feel the pulse" of our members, the Book Selection Committee of the Sanibel Library is launching a bit of experimental research. For some time we have been wondering about western fiction. We know there is a big market in America for books on cowboys, outlaws, bounty hunters, gold prospectors, frontier towns, western sheriffs and marshals, but we do not know how much demand there is on Sanibel for these adventure books. So, we have decided to find out. We are going to buy new and old western fiction and make it available to you. If these books circulate, we will know that we have an audience. If they do not, we will forget about them in the future.

To start our experiment, we have just received four new westerns. The first is by one of the most popular writers in this field, Max Brand. He has a long list of books to his credit and his new one is "The Outlaw of Buffalo Flat." This is an action-packed story of a man who lived at the point of a gun, hunted by the law, by his enemies, and even by those who wanted to be his friends.

"Maverick Marshal" by James Wesley is the story of Marshal Lance Weaver who was out to restore law and order to the Calverado Range. Weaver is the Gary Cooper type who never quits.

Cripple Creek was a roistering gold town where many dug but few hit it big. "Strike at Cripple Creek" is the story of one prospector who did hit it big.

Paperback fans will welcome Louis L'Amour in his first original hardback book, "The Californios." It's an exciting story of Spanish California of more than a century ago when Americans were just beginning to settle the rich and gold-filled land along the Pacific.

Finally, we have a book of non-fiction, a book of great art and myth-shattering history, "The American Cowboy" by Harold McCracken. This luxury-size collector's edition has more great masterpieces of Western American art, many in full color, than ever before in a book about cowboys -- Remington, Russell, Catlin and many others. There are 148 paintings, drawings and photos plus a fascinating history by a top authority.

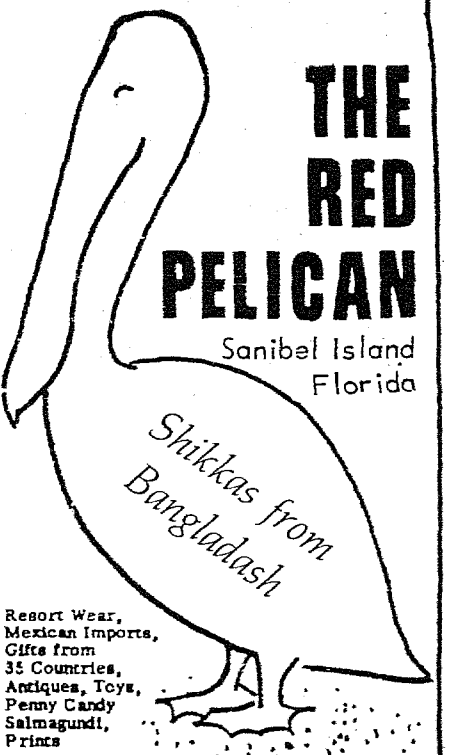

In the field of "Biography," we know we are on safe ground for our members lean heavily upon this department for their reading.

For those patrons, we now have "Departing Glory, Theodore Roosevelt as Ex-President" by Joseph L. Gardner. Roosevelt was the youngest man ever to leave the White House, an ex-president at 50. The years ahead were filled with flamboyant travels and adventures and eventually a return to politics. This is the first book to concentrate on Roosevelt's life after the White House.

"Edward the Uncrowned King" by Christopher Hibbert is a magnificent pictorial record of the life of the Duke of Windsor. In nearly 300 photographs, his life is followed from an Edwardian childhood to his love for Wallis Simpson, through the year of the abdication crisis and on through the final years.

Those who enjoy history and Floridiana as well as biography will be interested in "Osceola, the Unconquered Indian" by William and Ellen Hartley. Here is the story of the great Seminole leader who resisted removal of southeastern Indians by the government to Indian territory west of the Mississippi, a resistance that led to the second Seminole War in 1835 which actually never ended in a formal peace.

Raemel's Residential Riddle

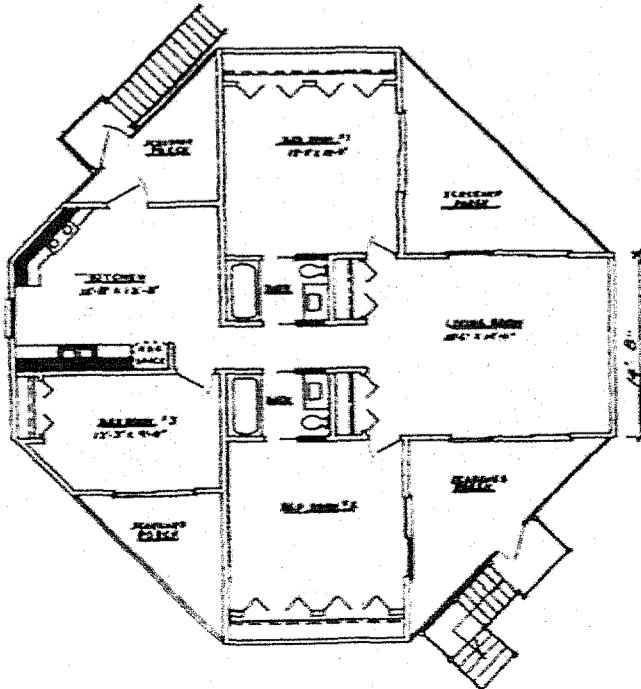

QUESTION? What is exciting in design, unusual in character, fun to live in, has two large bedrooms for loving and sleeping, two large baths for bathing, reading and thinking, a large living room for entertaining, a large country kitchen for cooking and eating, four screened terraces for outdoor living, abundant closet and storage space, plenty of glass sliding doors providing unrestricted views of the alligators and allowing Sanibel's gentle trade winds to live with you, may be constructed of wood or CBS, on the ground or in the air, with a wide variety of possible elevations, meeting all deed restrictions and can be completed in 149 days, and inexpensive by today's standards?

ANSWER: RAEMEL'S "OCTOBEL"

TO THE ISLANDER:
 In reference to Elinore Dormer's letter in the Islander of May 23, concerning who should or should not be on the Sanibel-Captiva Planning Board, I emphatically agree. To have on the board those with the "proven ability" to sacrifice Sanibel to the almighty buck would be the height of stupidity.

To reiterate what I said once before in a letter to the Islander, it would be as dopey as choosing a coyote to guard the hen house.

Let's support a Planning Board dedicated to the wise preservation of our one-and-only islands. Look around. It's already later than you think.

Cy Biscardi
 Sanibel Island

TO THE ISLANDER:
 I was interested in becoming a resident of Fort Myers Beach but after looking the island and situation over and reading articles in the News-Press I decided to stay in town. I could see what is happening to that beautiful little island. High rises are crowding everyone off the Beach. This all being caused by the money-making developers, realtors, zoning board and our so-called protective county commissioners.

Faithfully, I have been following the articles about our gift-taking commissioners closely and two articles on the same page, same date of the News-Press particularly interested me. One was about all the gifts taken but not reported by our elected commissioners and right below it was one about the dentist on Fort Myers Beach wanting a zoning change to put up townhouses, which in my estimation would enhance the island, and not make it another Miami Beach where the general public has no access to the beach.

However, the paper reported that the commission put a "bite" on the dentist's rezoning request. I don't think the dentist is getting as big a "bite" of the spoils as the commissioners are because of the recent disclosure of some commissioners accepting gifts from a land development corporation who goes before the commission for various zoning decisions, which is in the power of the commission to accept or reject.

This disclosure could very well lead to a vacancy in the commission, which I am sure the dentist could "fill!"

Harrison Edsforth
 Fort Myers

TO THE ISLANDER:
 I am officially announcing my candidacy for the Lee County Commission in District 2. I am running as an independent and will be using the alternate method of qualifying by petition. As an independent, I can remain unbought and unbossed. I pledge to preserve what is left of our county's natural resources at all costs, and will be readily accessible to constituents at all times, at home and in the office.

I am a mother of six, 52 years old, and came to Lee County from New Jersey in 1968. Ran for the county seat in District 3 in 1972 Democratic primary, but was defeated. Continued in the race as a Write-In candidate in the general election. Presently is the president of the local chapter of National Organization for Women and member of Florida Women's Political Caucus.

A Grain of Sea Salt by Betzi Abram

Last week I had a great time feeling sorry for myself. I cried and played my violin and turned in my column on blue paper drenched with tears and scented with violets. (Sweet violets!) Be it known to one and all, the sun shines once more and I have recovered.

The main thrust of my complaints was that no one had submitted any entries in the Grain of Sea Salt contest and that since obviously no one read my column anyway, I ought to go soak my head in a bucket. (Of course, this was a base exaggeration. I KNOW my mother reads it and my dog likes to sit on it and howl.)

Be that as it may, a short time later, my phone rang and a melodious voice said, "Betzi Abram? This is Charlotte Russell."

"Yes?" I did not know Mrs. Russell but she sounded great.

"I read your column and it broke my heart," she said with mingled laughter and sympathy.

"You did!?" I shrieked back with delight.

"Yes," Charlotte went on. "And I felt terrible because I have a whole food list from when we crossed the Pacific which I was going to cut down and submit..."

"Oh, please do!" I cut in. "There's still time. A whole two weeks."

"OK," said Charlotte, "I will -- and why don't you come on down here and have a swim with me?"

So I did, and we had a grand time splashing around in the water and talking about sailing and one thing and another. A most delightful person -- not only because she reads my column either.

In a few weeks, I'll tell you more about Charlotte and her fascinating husband, Red Russell, who has invented a new sail which is so successful that it's now on the market. But that will have to wait, because I want to remind you that there IS one week left to send in your entry for the contest. Especially if you meant to do it, but have just been putting it off -- please, make a little old lady happy (me) and give Charlotte some competition!

Submit a list of food and associated supplies (not including cookware, dishes or equipment) which would feed two persons for three weeks in the Bahamas on a monohull sailboat between 24 and 32 feet with no refrigeration and no ice for coolers. Beverages other than water and booze to be included.

Factors to be considered in the judging will be stowability, variety, economy, palatability, availability from average sources, completeness and usefulness. All decisions of the judges will be final. They are Warren Casazza, Commodore of the Calposahatchie Marching and Chowder Society; Fritz Seyfarth, independent seafarer and character extraordinaire; and Ernie Nellis, Commodore of the Fort Myers Beach Yacht Club. Entries must be received by June 13.

There will be a prize -- of no monetary value but great as a collector's item -- and an exciting interview with the winner. Think of the fame and the glory...why, some important person might even read your winning list (which I will publish) and pick it up for the movies. How can you resist?

NEWS FOR VETERANS

Educational training under the GI bill is not limited to classroom type learning says W. B. Mackall, director of the State of Florida's Division of Veterans Affairs.

There are many good paying jobs for which specialized skills are required, so the GI Bill offers a program of apprenticeship and on-the-job training. While you are learning, you are also earning, and receiving Veterans Administration payments to supplement your income.

For instance, if you are single and take on an approved program of apprentice training, the Veterans Administration will pay you $160 a month for the first six months. In addition, your employer will be paying you regular wages for that job. Together they add up to a program of on-the-job training that is hard to beat. If it has been less than eight years since you left the service, and your GI Bill entitlement has not been used, you may be eligible for up to two years of on-the-job training or an unlimited trade apprenticeship.

For further information on the above or any veteran matter, contact either your local County Veteran Service Office, any office of the Veterans Administration or write Mackall at Post Office Box 1437, St. Petersburg 33731 (including your VA claim number, social security number, service number of any means of identification).

THERE IS ORDER IN NATURE

The most enormous and imposing buildings designed and erected by men can never replace the simple eloquence of nature. If life becomes disorderly, it might help us to look around.

There is order in nature. The seas and rivers were created before the fish that were to swim in them. Birds were brought into existence only after trees were made for their nests and air to support their wings. Animals were created before man and for his benefit. Actually, everything was made for the pleasure and survival of man.

But man has managed poorly. He has polluted the water and air, and depleted the fish and animals. So now we must produce crops of fish and game in much the same way we produce crops of fruit and grain.

A major function of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission is to work in harmony with nature to produce healthy and abundant fish and game so that the surplus can be harvested annually without damage to the general supply.

In order to reach this objective, the Commission has a game management division to watch over the animal population, a fisheries division to try to maintain a balance of desirable fish in our streams, a law enforcement division to protect against poachers, and a division to inform and educate the sportsman and guide the public along the paths of wildlife and natural resource conservation.

But fishing has value far beyond the meat that goes into the frying pan. Many doctors recommend its therapeutic value, and those who fish know that it does help us to forget our troubles.

Of course, any form of recreation is expensive. But it is much better and easier to buy fishing supplies than to pay hospital bills.

A shopping center that's hard to find?

We just don't have the regular earmarks of a shopping center. There's no asphalt. No flashing neon stuff. And you'll have to look for our entrance sign behind some giant Australian pines we can't bear to cut down.

We're so low-key many people think we're a group of private homes or a beautiful resort of some type - but we're not. We're a cluster of small shops that are as beautiful as they are fun to shop in.

If you're looking for a lazy lazy afternoon of browsing, why not drop in for lunch or a little ice cream. You'll like our shops as much as you'll enjoy relaxing in the shade by our Fountain.
