Sanibel visited by Spanish youth group

Last Wednesday, a group of forty young students from cities throughout Spain visited the Islands for a day of shelling and cavorting in the surf on Sanibel's Gulf Beach. Although on the whole, their Ingles was no muy bueno, you could say, many were nevertheless fluent enough to tell us that Sanibel was indeed, "very, very nice."

Their day on the Islands began with an early afternoon welcoming ceremony at the Chamber of Commerce on Causeway road, with Vice-Mayor Zee Butler presenting each student with a letter of greeting from the City of Sanibel, among words of welcome from other prominent Islanders.

From there, the group proceeded en masse to the beach for a picnic, accompanied by their guide on the Islands, Sherry Vartdal, who offered to fill in at the last minute for Esperanza Woodring, who was ill that day. The young students seemed to enjoy the beach, all in all, and spent much of the afternoon either romping in the waves or comparing sea shells with one another.

In that the shelling was pretty slim last Wednesday, the group stopped at Elsie Malone's for a shopping spree before departing late in the afternoon to return to their home base during their stay in Florida, Delray Beach. The group also visited Disney World, Six-Gun Territory, Cape Kennedy, and the Edison Home in Fort Myers during their brief stay in the Sunshine State.

Also accompanying the foreign study group during their tour of the States were their chaperone, Father Claudio Zudaire, and their American escort, John Schiffermuller, Special Representative of the Foreign Study League of the Reader's Digest Educational Service. It was at Schiffermuller's instigation that the group visited the Islands. He and his wife have been visiting Sanibel and shelling Island beaches for years.

The Spanish students ranged in age from 13 to 21, and hailed from major cities in Spain, most of them from Madrid, Barcelona, Bilbao, Toledo, or Escorial. All of the students who participated in the month-long tour of the United States were approved by the Spanish government, and according to Schiffermuller, all are scions of the wealthiest and most influential families in Spain, who footed the bill for the expedition.

Christina Rodriguez, one of the most fluent of the students in English, told the ISLANDER that her visit to the States had been most enjoyable, and that the majority of her companions had found Disney World the most beautiful thing they had seen during the course of their travels. She also deigned to act as interpreter for some of the young men in the group, who told us that they found American girls "very nice, and very open minded." A number of the lads expressed their surprise at the fact that American boys are allowed to drive cars before they are allowed to drink beer, which is the reverse of the case in Spain, they told us. They also compared Sanibel's beaches to Spanish beaches on the Mediterranean—favorably, we might add.

But on one aspect of American life, they were all in agreement, it seemed. "The food here is not very good," Cristina told us for the group as a whole. "Too many hot dogs and hamburgers and sandwiches. You can eat a hamburger and your stomach still tells you it wants to eat!"

Oh well, and buena suerte to our Spanish friends. You deserve a break today?

Special note:

Inside (on pages 10 and 11) there is an article and a map on hurricanes. You may think about comparing the evacuation of Sanibel and Captiva with the evacuation of 72,000 people from Guadaloupe and its erupting volcano (which was accomplished over narrow mountain roads with Mercedes and hand carts fighting for position in 21 hours Sunday) and Think; "Well, even if the Comprehensive Land Use Plan (CLUP) predicts a maximum traffic flow of 1,400 vehicles an hour, it probably won't take that long, so I don't have to hurry," we'd like to remind you that while we also don't believe it will take that long, the people running from the volcano were in the mountains, and did not have the flat, flood prone areas we have to deal with.

PLEASE, when and if you're told to go, --- GO. (Or maybe even before you're told.) We cannot emphasize too many times that 'tis better to spend a few days off the Islands without a real storm than to take your chances here and perhaps lose your life.

Sanibel's vice mayor Zee Butler welcomes the Spanish youngsters.

In men's softball action last week, the Sanibel Fire Department team upheld their undefeated status by beating the Police Department by a score of 17 to 6 in a game that was played last Tuesday evening. All in all, it was a hard hitting game for the firemen, with Roger Tabor, Chuck Nave, Oscar Gavin, and Curtis Nave hitting back to back home runs early in the game to give their team a margin which proved too wide for the local gendarmes ever to catch up.

A number of women's scores were reported last week. In a game played on Sunday, the 8th, the Sanibel American Legion Angels won a squeaker (?) from the Bonita American Legion Women's team by a score of 38 to 8. The game was called in the sixth inning because there was little likelihood of the Bonita women ever catching up.

Then last Tuesday, Francis' Foxes wrenched a 12 to 3 victory from the Police Department ladies in a game which found Claudia Carpenter hitting a three run homerun for the Police squad. The winning pitcher was Debbie McQuade of the Foxes, with Monica Gabrysh picking up the loss.

On Wednesday, the Lions Club Ladies suffered their first defeat of the season in an extra inning game which found the Executive Services Eskimoes winning by a score of 7 to 6. The close fielding game went nine innings before the Eskimoes could steal the win.

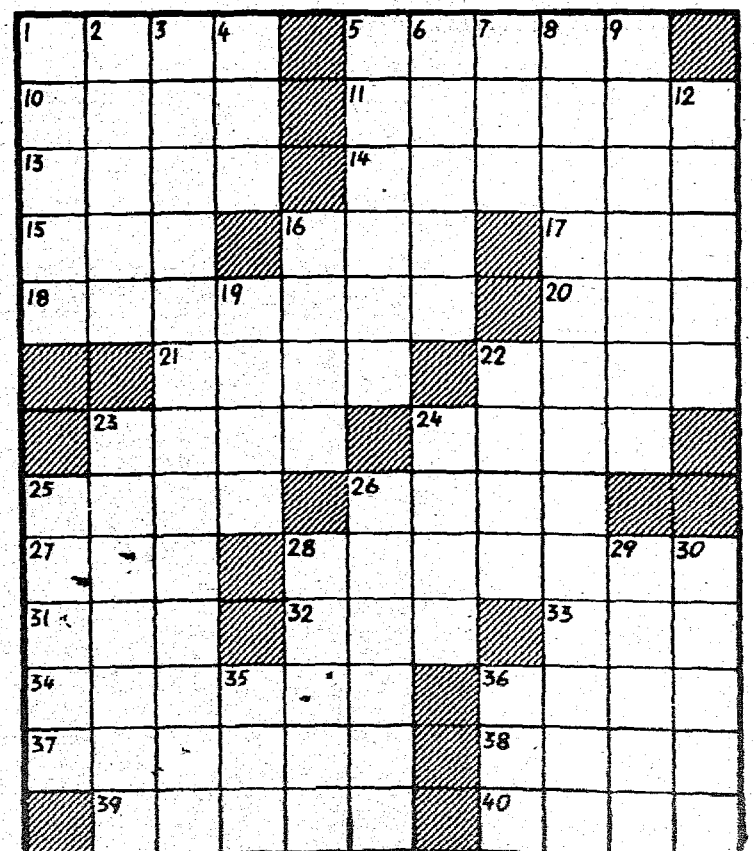

Softball action tonight will feature the Sanibel Fire Department and the Lions Club at 5 p.m. and the Police Ladies playing the American Legion Angels at 6:30 p.m.

Letters to the editor:

A copy of the following letter addressed to the Sanibel Police Department was submitted to The ISLANDER for publication:

Dear Friends:

We want to again express our most sincere gratitude and "Thanks" to each of you for your help and kindness shown our family on July 28, 1976 in searching and locating our missing son safe and sound.

Words cannot express how we felt so helpless until you people began and completed your most expert and professional job. The citizens of your beautiful community are certainly blessed to have working and caring for them such true Americans as your organization.

-s-Mr. and Mrs. Keith Flanagan
Brunswick, Georgia

To The ISLANDER:

The following statement was issued Aug. 9, at a special meeting of the Board of the Committee of the Islands (COTI). The Board speaks for the Committee's 565 members.

"Our City Charter was carefully written to create for Sanibel the form of government best suited to a small community. A five-member City Council "with all legislative powers of the city vested therein" was determined to be the least cumbersome and most responsive. Simply put, it is an anti-buckpassing situation.

"Our first elected Council, in turn, created a Planning Commission and charged its seven members with the responsibility of putting together a land use plan for presentation to the Council. This was done prior to the enactment of Florida State Statute 75-257, which made mandatory the designation of such a local planning agent.

"By appointing the members of the Planning Commission, Councilmen are assured of a team as dedicated as they to the principles of our City Charter.

"The Planning Commission should remain an appointed body, chosen by the elected Council. Let us keep our City government clearly defined, with as simple a structure as possible. It will then be strong and undivided in its devotion to the preservation of Sanibel Island.

"A Council and-or Planning Commission with any other view would be acting in violation of our City Charter and our laws. Our government would be weakened, our purpose lost, and Sanibel Island would once again be exposed to death by uncontrolled development.

"It is time for us to concentrate on electing four City Councilmen. Our attention must not be diverted from this vital issue."

-s-The Board of The Committee of the Islands (per C.R. Heimann).

To the ISLANDER:

I do not know just why the controversy over new construction on Sanibel and Captiva Islands is going on.

I do not recommend any new buildings on the Islands to be built. The main reason is that I have seen much new construction in the past few years, and I have not seen any new buildings here which have lasted longer than the old ones.

-s-Dahl Ross
Djakarata, Indonesia

SPD speeded up

The Sanibel Police Department last week began testing and installing their new Plectron radio communication equipment, which will allow both on-and off-duty officers to be quickly notified in the event of an emergency no matter where they happen to be on the Island. Aside from the police radios installed in the Sanibel patrol vehicles, officers can only be reached by telephone at the present time. In the event of a major emergency, such as a hurricane, the Plectron system would enable the police dispatcher to mobilize Island rescue workers speedily and efficiently even if telephone lines were blown down.

By activating the master control system in police department headquarters, any or all Island policemen and firemen can be notified immediately of an emergency call via their small individual receiver units which they are to keep handy at all times. The short-wave system will be used by SPD, as well as by both Sanibel and Captiva firemen, to provide better emergency protection to residents of both Islands.

The installation of the new Plectron system on the Islands was made possible by a federal Civil Defense grant of $3,111, matched by an equal amount of funds raised jointly by the City of Sanibel, the Sanibel Fire Prevention District, and the Captiva Fire Prevention District. The total cost of the Plectron equipment was $6,222.

The weeks ahead will find the Sanibel Police Department with even more new equipment on the Islands, in the form of 25 emergency call boxes to be installed at various points on both Sanibel and Captiva where public telephones are lacking at the present time.

The new call boxes will provide Islanders with emergency hot line service from any of the boxes directly to police headquarters, should a person be either witness or victim of a crime. Special telephone lines will connect the call boxes to the station, so that all one has to do to report a crime is pick up one of the 25 emergency telephones, immediately engaging the hot line emergency light to be installed at the police station, at which officers will be dispatched instantly to the source of the emergency call.

The 25 tentative locations which have been selected for installation of the new, bright red police call boxes include the Blind Pass area, the Sanibel Causeway, the Lighthouse, Captiva, a number of points along Sanibel-Captiva Road, Dixie Beach Boulevard, and various beach access points, to name but a few.

Installation of the new call boxes, to be funded with a $12,000 federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grant, is slated to begin within the next two to three weeks, according to Sanibel Police Chief John Butler. The LEAA grant is authorized under the provisions of the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act.

Chief Butler hopes that the new call boxes will enable SPD to give Islanders better, more direct protection from criminal activities.

SPECIAL NOTE: As most of you (with the possible exception of any recent escapees from Outer Angola and Timbuctoo) must be aware, the Republican National Convention started yesterday.

This Great News Happening (will Buckley, the unheard from cousin who has been quiet these many years, make his presence felt in the the erstwhile happy homes of cozy Californians, to say nothing of the Other Family, which has found Happiness in a central seaboard Metropolis, or will the Olde Guard hold fast?) will probably replace most of the soap operas and game shows scheduled during the day, and quite possibly, will surplant the late night movies and talk shows, depending on when the Gavel Falls.

CBS (Ch. 11) and NBC (Ch. 20) have promised "gavel to gavel" (starting between 10:30 and 11 a.m.) coverage; ABC (Ch. 26), as usual, is announcing a few (comparatively) short spates of coverage, but that is not to say that the ABC Network shall be Outdone.

One can only know by turning on one's TV dial (as, we mentioned in week before, ABC News has a habit of either ignoring immediate spot news coverage or springing a full blown in-depth program on their local stations without warning. Perhaps, come to think of it, that's why they're gaining in the ratings.) Anyhow, unless otherwise announced, the following programs are scheduled to be shown this week.

(Friday and Monday and Tuesday of next week are fairly secure, since the Convention will be over by then and Kansas City will have relaxed once again.)

Happy viewing. If what follows ISN'T what you see, please don't blame us or the local station; direct your ire to New York.

The CBS Late Movie will only be shown if the gavel falls "in time" which may be anywhere between 11:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. depending on how CBS-NY feels; the NBC "Tonight" and "Tomorrow" shows will be shown depending on the gavel descending between Midnight and 1:30 a.m. or as whim dictates. This applies to all weekday nights except Friday, by which time the Convention will be over.)

Bloody trail left at attempted B & E site

At approximately 1:45 on the morning of Sunday, August 8, Harry Jabaay was asleep in the back room of the office at the Caribe Adventure Inn on West Gulf Drive when he was awoken by the sound of the front door of the outer office rattling. The rattling sound was so odd that he immediately aborted his slumber and walked out into the front office. In the moonlit darkness he espied an arm reaching through the broken panes of the jalousie door groping for the doorknob and cried out, at which point the arm and its owner hastily withdrew into the night.

In his cry of alarm, Harry Jabaay thwarted what may have been the third in a series of unsolved breaking and entering attempts on West Gulf Drive that evening.

Needless to say, Harry called the Sanibel Police Department immediately, and officers were dispatched to the scene post haste. At the Caribe Adventure Inn, Sanibel Patrolman Ray Rhodes found the broken Jalousie panes liberally spattered with blood (evidently the blood of the would-be burglar) and accordingly took fingerprints and blood samples from the door. SPD officers then found a distinct trail of gouges of blood in the bright moonlit sand, which led from the broken door along West Gulf Drive to the public beach access at Tarpon Bay Road, where the trail of blood ended.

Later that same day, SPD received calls from both Nutmeg Village and the Artisan Shop on West Gulf Drive to report similar breakings and enterings which had occurred during the night.

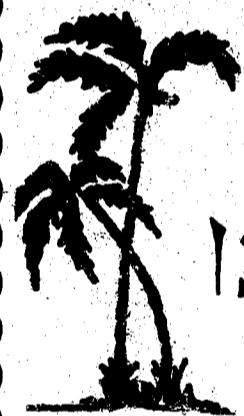

Although both shops had been successfully entered, only one reported that items were missing, and in the other case, the prowler had overlooked a small amount of ready cash in the form of contributions to the Sanibel bike paths.

Both shops had been entered by the same means as that employed in the attempted break-in at the Caribe Adventure Inn, leading authorities to presume that the three crimes had all been perpetrated by the same person in rapid succession. Evidently, the prowler abandoned his work and fled following his close shave at the Caribe Adventure Inn.

Thus, SPD is looking for a young person with signs of having recently incurred deep cuts on the left and possibly the right hand. The person may also have some deep scrape marks on the upper part of the left forearm, incurred while pulling the arm back through the torn screen at the Inn. Due to a fair amount of blood that the prowler left on the night of the attempted entry, SPD officers have notified doctors to be on the lookout for a person desiring treatment for such wounds, but as of yet, no suspects have come to the attention of anyone, it seems.

Harry Jabaay described the arm which he saw on the night of the crime as "long and slender with a moderate tan, like that of a young boy."

SPD would welcome any information which might lead to the arrest of the perpetrator of any or all of the above mentioned crimes.

Hurricane hints, information for before, during

by gin

The ISLANDER was going to wait until the new hurricane wardens were appointed for the Islands, but with two hurricanes having bopped around (fortunately not in our area) and two more forming or having formed by the time this is written, we thought we'd better not put it off any longer.

This section is designed to be kept and we hope will offer helpful hints and suggestions which we also hope you will never have to use.

SPECIAL NOTE: The two sections under "Hurricane Watch" and "Hurricane Warning" may or may not do you any good. We have seen the very best preparation completely wrecked by a stray tornado which frequently fringes hurricanes of any strength, and houses in which the owners have done nothing except lock the door behind them come through a devastating storm with nary a scratch, bar a broken window or two (and sometimes not even that).

We do suggest, though, that if you collect first editions and Shakespeare folios, you do not leave them on the bottom shelf of your bookcase, and if you have precious china, glass or crystal, that you do not leave it in cabinets or on exposed shelves—it should be packed to withstand at least the same amount of stress you might expect in a cross country move. But we again stress, unless you take your treasures with you, no matter what you do, they many not be there when you return.

Why?

Because your house might not be there either, my friend, that's why.

The following suggestions are partially official from Civil Defense (or, as it seems to be preferred to call itself this year, the Emergency Preparedness, Evacuation and Relief Team (EPERT) which is headed by Sanibel Police Chief John Butler on Sanibel and Captiva Islands.

The suggestions are in five parts—"General Early Preparation" which you may start on tomorrow, if you wish, what to do when a "Hurricane Watch" is in effect, what to do in a "Hurricane Warning" (basically boiled down to GET OFF THE ISLANDS NOW), what to do "During the Storm" and what to do (or be prepared to) "After the Storm."

GENERAL BEFORE THE STORM PREPARATIONS:

Be sure you have enough canned or keepable foods (including pet food) to keep your family going for a minimum of two weeks after the storm. Buy a couple of rolls of 1½ to 2" masking tape, and at least one roll of three or four inch masking tape. Buy (or have on hand) a liquid bottle of chemicals for a chemical "john" (Civil Defense suggests you buy a bag of lime, and if you wish to take your chances with an open trench in your backyard, go ahead.) We believe the chemicals, along with a plastic garbage pail in a pinch, will do a lot less damage to the ecology, if you wish to stop and think about such.

Buy at LEAST one or two (or up to three) months supply of drugs you need to take regularly (heart medicine, thyroid, birth control pills, medicines for diabetics and so forth).

We have been assured by pharmacists that even nitroglycerin, if stored in a cool place, can be safely stored for three to five months. (The pharmacist also suggested that once hurricane season is over you start using the stored medicine supply immediately.)

We also suggest that you write down and carry with you drugstore name, the prescription number, the name of doctor AND the name of the drug of anything you may need over a long period of time. The "Why?" to that is simple—it is quite possible your drugstore will not be there when you get back, or if it is, its records may be scattered from Naples to North Port.

On your "beforehand" shopping list should be enough extra products (plates, napkins, towels, etc.) to last you and yours for a couple of weeks, at least one sturdy styrofoam chest (Bailey's has a very good brand, "Lo-Boy" which will not only keep ice for three days but can be sat upon as well), charcoal, plastic covered torches (the red kind which float are great), soap which lathers in any kind of water (such as Zest, Dial, Irish Spring or the like), a bottle of Joy (which will wash ANYTHING including your hair, if necessary), and, if you have an all electric home, a charcoal grill, habachi or some sort of cooking container. (In a pinch, four cement blocks and a rack from your oven will do) and INSECT REPELLENT!!!

When we're under a HURRICANE WATCH: removing ALL movable objects from the outside of your home—garbage pails, driftwood, stone and statuary decorations, lawn and porch furniture, coconuts from your trees (you haven't really appreciated the force of a hurricane until you have seen what a four inch by one inch piece of dry driftwood which you can easily break in your hands can do to a window, the side of a metal trailer, or a car roof when driven by winds of up to 186 mph).

If you haven't taken your precious first editions off the first shelf, and you intend to do so, now's the time to do it. However, preparations of this kind depend on your luck... one family we knew lifted everything in one house (including all the bedding) four feet above the floor and got four and a half feet of water in the house, but didn't bother trying to "save" anything they had in some rental units across the street from their home. The rental units had ¾ of an inch of water in them, total.

Also, this is the time to decide where you plan to stay when you evacuate the Islands.

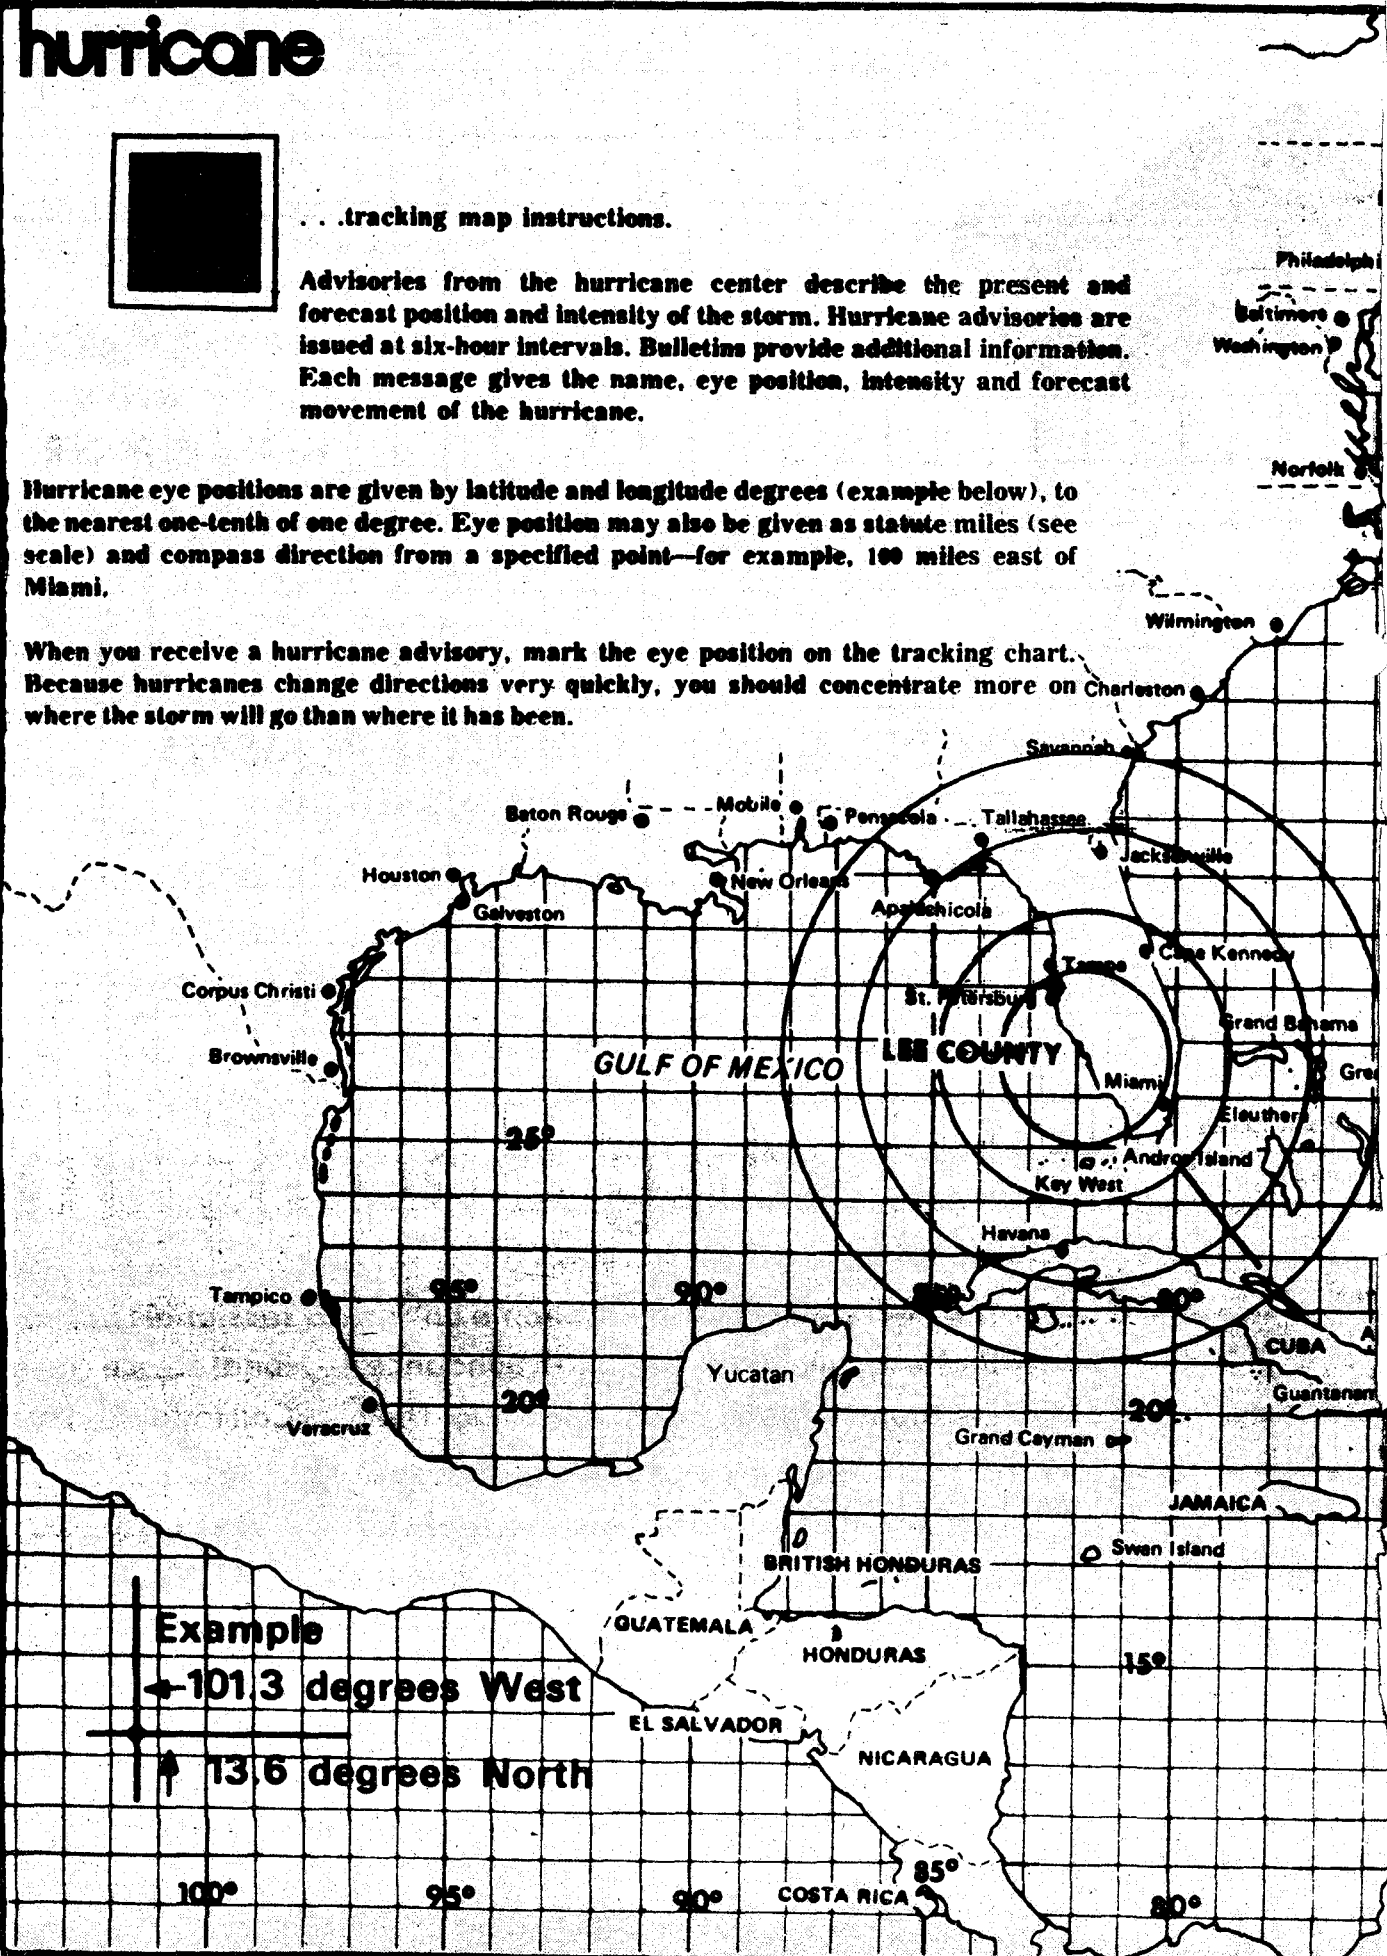

If there is ANY way to avoid going to a public shelter (the one designated for Sanibel and Captiva Islands is Fort Myers High School), we advise you to do so, having had the dubious pleasure of riding out Donna there. Not only did all the cars in the parking lot get cracked windshields from gravel blowing off the roof, the windows broke and flooded the shelter floors. We didn't get killed, but we certainly were not comfortable. If you can stay with friends (NOT people with homes along the river, please—try to stay on the other side of U.S. 41 above College Parkway) in their homes, or can make a reservation at the hotel or motel of your choice, do it.

Hurricane warning is also the time to tape your windows (the criss-crosses of tape won't necessarily keep them together, but they will prevent flying splinters of glass and to also run the narrow (1½ to 2½") strips of tape along your door jambs and doors. (The idea being that masking tape will not stick to wet surfaces, and by the time the warning arrives, it will probably be raining—at which point, presto, as you go out the door, strip off the narrow tape from jamb and door and cover with the wide tape, which will provide at least a measure of water-proofing.) A thought about the tape—if you live on the east end of Sanibel you can expect to be flooded. If your house is well built and a window breaks, the tape can keep the water inside the house. Well...ya places ya bet and takes ya chances.

Now (during the "WATCH" period time) is the time to pack your immediate storm and post-storm necessities—a sack with pet food (pets are not allowed at public shelters, so if you plan to go to one, the Humane Society will keep your pet for you. It would be a nice gesture, however, to bring the food with it.)

You will also need your medicines, one or two bathing suits (or anything you can wear which will not feel uncomfortable if wet), tennis shoes, dry towels, matches, cigarettes, INSECT REPELLENT, and enough food to get you through at least one day in the shelter and one day back at home (hopefully, the stock you laid in earlier will still be there, as, also hopefully, your home will be). If you have any doubts about the latter, take your whole stock with you (remembering that canned hams keep, but roast or fried chicken doesn't).

Turn your freezer and-or refrigerator on the lowest (coldest possible) setting. The fuller a freezer is, the better the food in it will keep. If you have both a freezer and a refrigerator with a freezer in it, and everything can fit into your refrigerator freezer, put it there and unplug the regular freezer. If, of course, both are full, just get everything as cold as possible. DO NOT GO OUT AND BUY MORE FOOD TO FILL YOUR FREEZER. Lee County Electric Cooperative told The ISLANDER that foods like ice cream will keep in an UNOPENED freezer for 36 to 40 hours, while # ation and suggestions and after a storm.

meat will keep safely for up to three days, but if the power is not back on in three days, you will either have to cook or throw out everything you have.

When asked how long the Electric Co-op expected it would take to restore full power to the Islands, Manager Homer Welch said, "Oh, about five days—if you still have a causeway, of course."

Mr. Welch also asked that we ask you to TURN OFF ALL ELECTRIC APPLIANCES (with the exception of your refrigerator and-or freezer) so that when the power comes back on, the company does not get hit with a power surge which will overload the transformers and blow everything out again.

If you're lucky (or have been foresighted enough) to have gas appliances, you do not have to worry, as long as your home and your gas tank stay intact.

Speaking of which, during the watch period, fill up ALL vehicles under your control with gasoline, water, etc., (if you happen to have a generator, get a couple of cans of fuel for it), make sure you have drinking water (plastic containers or five gallon glass bottles) since your tap water may not be usable for quite a while after the storm. The civil authorities say to fill your bathtub—personally, we've never found a bathtub which can hold water for more than a couple of hours. Of course, you can experiment with Saran wrap and a brick or something if you want to.

If you're really playing it safe, NOW is the time to leave the Islands, since we personally think that if you don't get off two to four days before the storm, you may not get off at all. However, that is just our personal opinion, and the actuality depends on from where the storm comes, how much pre-storm flooding there is and a number of other circumstances completely out of our, your or Civil Defense's control.

Also, unless SPD Chief John Butler has informed you otherwise, now is the time to leave your chain saws and other such equipment which can be used by the community to clear Periwinkle Way and-or the alternate routes. They are to be left at the Anholt Standard Station, where, theoretically, they will be there after the storm to help clear up the trees along the main roads...or clear the houses off, for that matter.

Also, if you have a choice in the matter of shelter, a frame home on pilings is the safest bet. Next choice would be between a frame home on the ground (mainland ground, that is) and-or a structure you know has ridden through a number of storms, such as the hurricane shelters, the Bradford or the Spanish Main. Your last choice (outside of staying on Islands—almost anything is better than that) would be a CBS home, and for heaven's sake, don't even THINK of trying to ride out a hurricane in a mobile home (or whatever they're calling them these days).

HURRICANE WARNING—NOW is definitely the time to leave... taking with you not only the supplies you've packed, but a full styrofoam ice chest - full of ice.

As to alcohol, the authorities warn against it (although a wee bit of medicinal brandy surely can't be frowned upon). The official reasons are reasonable; one, alcoholic beverages are not allowed in public shelters, two - the last people anyone in authority needs is a bunch of drunks wandering around during a storm having fun and taking unnecessary chances, and three, if you come right down to a crisis situation (the roof blowing off the shelter, for instance) you will not be able to help yourselves and others if you are "bombed."

Our feeling on the matter is (taking into account that wee bit of medicinal brandy, of course) that Murphy's Law will be in force, and if you remember the booze, you'll forget either the mix or the ice, and please believe us—a tall glass of vodka and warm Hawaiian Punch just won't do a thing for you or anyone else's nerves.

The Governor of the State of Florida has passed a law making evacuation mandatory upon advice of the civil authorities. In practice, we doubt that if every citizen decides to stay, that the local authorities will have the time (or the inclination) to carry them kicking and screaming off the Islands.

If you decide to stay, at least have the courtesy to register your next of kin with the Police Department, so they'll know who to ship the body to. They're going to have enough to do after a storm without having to worry about your funeral.

If you really and truly CANNOT get off the Islands, tell your area warden as soon as possible (or alert the SFD dispatcher) since emergency "last ditch only" safety headquarters have been set up on the Islands, although we're not going to tell you where, since you will be asked to leave and should not depend on a last minute "rescue" out of stubbornness.

If you have not been lucky enough to make arrangements to stay at a motel or with a friend on the mainland (high mainland, we hope) and do plan on using the public shelter, please expect to also take with you blankets, pillows and air mattresses for each member of your group. If you're lucky and your air mattress doesn't leak, you'll stay a bit dryer on top of one.

Do NOT leave the public shelter or your in-town haven until the authorities have told you it's okay. (Oh, we assume you also have at least one transistor radio—if not, get one back under "GENERAL BEFORE THE STORM PREPARATIONS." If you wait till the watch or warning periods, you will either find that everyone is out of radios or two, if they have radios, they won't have any batteries, or vice-versa.)

DURING THE STORM: Stay inside AWAY from large sheets of glass. Make sure at least one window is open to reduce pressure. (This last "rule" is very important, since your house might implode if the pressure cannot be equalized. To counteract it, however, we have not as yet heard about any house which did not have at least one window pane or jalousiebroken during the storm. But we suppose if you don't leave that window open, you'll be the classic one who doesn't get a broken window and does get an imploded home.)

If you're going to the public shelter, head for the upstairs (between the library and the auditorium) and away from the ends of hallway with all the windows which will surely break getting you all wet. ('Tis better to be wet than dead, however).

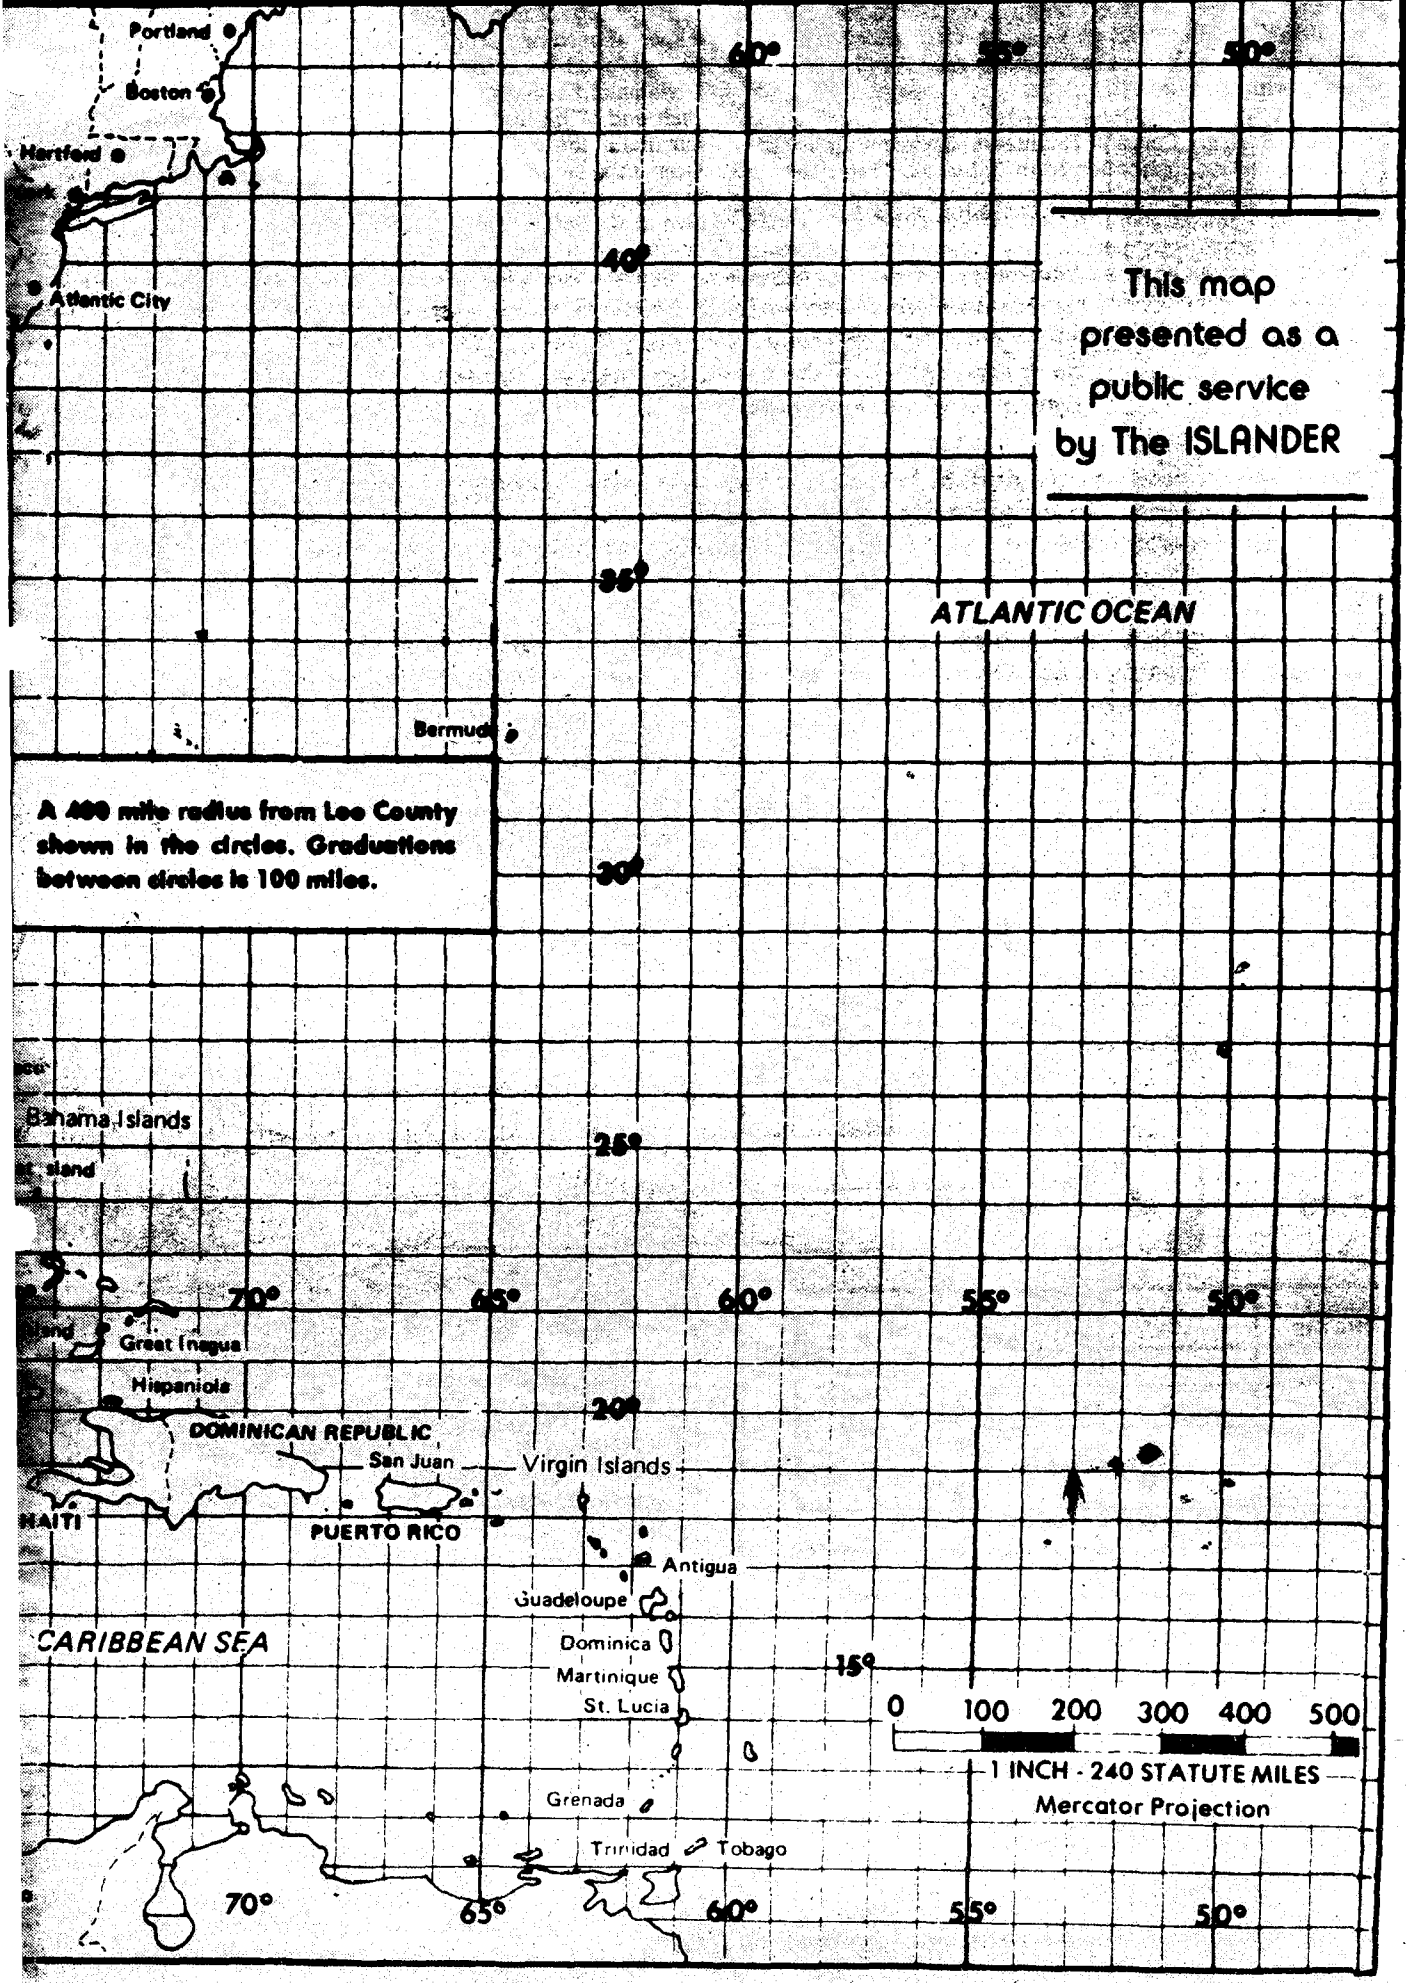

Wherever you go, be it the public shelter or a private home or motel, and all of a sudden the sun starts shining and the wind stops blowing, DO NOT GO OUTSIDE. You are merely experiencing the "eye" of the storm, which can last for 10 minutes to almost an hour, depending on the size and strength of the hurricane. After it passes over, you will be hit once again with winds and rains, frequently stronger than the ones in the first half. (Oh, if you have any intact windows, now's the time to shut the ones on the lee (away) side of where the wind was blowing before, and open the ones on the other side of the house.)

After the second portion of the storm passes, DO NOT return home until the authorities tell you it is safe.

AFTER THE STORM: We surely hope you haven't missed the many references to INSECT REPELLENT, because now's when you'll need it. You'll also need fortitude, the chemicals for your john, the bathing suits, footwear which can be worn in the wet, and a lot of muscle for cleaning out and up the mud, water, broken trees and wet mattresses. Even if the electricity is back on in a week, and the roads are cleared in a day (Ha!) and you can arrange with your favorite contractor to put your roof back on, you should plan to basically be able to "camp out" for anywhere from two to four weeks.

ANOTHER SPECIAL NOTE: All of the above can be avoided by - 1) moving to Labelle, 2) planning your vacation to start the first day of hurricane warnings and not returning home till after Christmas.

In case it is any comfort, Louisiana is the single state to have the dubious honor of having the most "disasterous" hurricanes strike it; the New England Coast has the distinction of being in the path of more disaster hurricanes than any other section of the country, but Florida gets the most publicity. However, so does our sunshine.

COME 'N GET 'EM!

*Sure can't hurt the environment

Environmental notes

Sanibel Vice-Mayor Zee Butler expressed her disappointment last week at the decision of the Lee County Commissioners to grant Robert Troutman's Estuaries Properties, Inc. a hotel-motel zoning for their 40-acre portion of Connie Mack Island, located in the Caloosahatchee River north of nearby Punta Rassa.

The decision, approved last Wednesday by a 3-to-1 vote of the commission with commissioner Dick Sayers absent, will allow Troutman to build 91 single-and multi-family units on the small mangrove island, as well as permitting him to dredge a small lagoon for a boat dock.

According to Vice-Mayor Butler, the buyers of the 91 new units to be constructed on Connie Mack Island as a result of the decision will place an even greater (albeit minimal) strain on the already overcrowded roads and beaches of neighboring Sanibel.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Jacksonville District, has received an application from Estuaries Properties, Inc. for permission to fill about 28.6 acres of wetlands north of State Road 867 on Punta Rassa for agricultural purposes.

Although the Corps' preliminary review of the application indicates that an environmental impact statement will not be required of the applicant, the Corps still feels that the fill work "will incur short-term environmental impact of consequence and will permanently alter the existing characteristics of the project site."

The decision whether to issue a permit will be based on an evaluation of the probable impact of the proposed activity on the public interest. Authorization is also required from the State Department of Environmental Regulation.

Anyone having an interest which may be adversely affected by the issuance of this permit may request a public hearing on the matter in writing by September 7. Anyone having questions on the proposed work are asked to call Steve Rose at 904-791-2211.

Island environmentalists tell us that the sizeable aggregations of jellyfish that have been remarked more and more often during the past few weeks in Island waters are "moon jellies," which, although they do indeed sting, do not carry a very painful toxin and should not be feared by anyone, with the possible exception of very small children.

It is, however, quite unusual for moon jellyfish to appear in such large numbers around the Islands, and according to one Island environmentalist who has examined a few of the coelenterates, the presence of gonadal tissue in some of the specimens indicates that they are here for breeding purposes.

The largest specimen reported in Sanibel waters measured 16 inches across.

Dick Workman, Director of the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation, reports that in the weeks ahead, the Foundation is planning to undertake a small experimental control burn of spartina grass on a small section of a slough running through a parcel of Foundation property located one-half mile to the east of Rabbit Road off of Sanibel-Captiva Road.

As the proposal stands now, the fire is to be monitored and controlled by the State Division of Forestry, with the assistance of the Sanibel Fire Department. Although Sanibel Fire Chief Allen Nave had not been apprised of the proposition by the time of the ISLANDER's deadline last week, the Foundation's proposal calls for the local firemen to participate in the burn as a learning experience, in order to give them some practice in controlling grass fires on the Island.

Under the provisions of city ordinance 75-23, Foundation representatives must appear before the city council to obtain a special burning permit for the proposed work, which must be approved by both the local Fire Department and the Division of Forestry. The same regulations apply to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, which plans to do some control burning in the J.N. (Ding) Darling National Wildlife Refuge later this summer. The underlying principle in control burning is to remove vegetation that might catch fire of its own accord and spread to adjacent areas during the winter dry season ahead.

"We're going to learn from this one," said Workman, "and if all goes well, we'll eventually try other control burns."

Ideally, the Foundation is hoping for a day with a very light breeze, followed by an accommodating rain to aid in extinguishing the fire.

police reports

If nothing else, the Sanibel Police Department can claim (validly) to be kept on their toes by "that" alarm all by itself, which went off 21 times this past week, being joined by 13 other either business or personal alarms. Causes for the alarms ranged from loud thunder to power outages to ringing telephones to accidental tripping by nervous new owners. A policeman's lot is not a dull one, at least not on the Islands.

One accident was reported, one call each for the ambulance and assistance were made and answered, four "dark house" checks were intensified because of open doors and or windows, but nothing seemed to be missing, two tickets were issued for unlawful speeding, one watch, one dog and one camera were reported lost, as were three people, two of whom were found and one of whom may not have been here in the first place anyway.

Some one or ones decided that boats were lonely and promptly made them more so by relieving them of boating equipment--in one case, life jackets and in another, gas tanks and a battery. Investigation continues on both cases.

Visitor made the mistake of getting thirsty late of an afternoon and leaving his fishing gear on the beach whilst he concocted a tall, cool one. Thirst quenched; equipment gone.

Motel manager called to report a "suspicious car and persons," said alleged car being filled with eight or more young loud females. GOA.

Motel broken into, without success on part of break-ee, who not only didn't profit from attempted crime, but cut him or herself badly in the process. Blood samples and fingerprints taken. Six young people checked out and cleared. Investigation continues.

Two more B & Es attempted. Fingerprints and photos taken at each place. Jewelry reported missing from one, to the tune of slightly over $200.

Call came in that a power conductor was down and that a palm tree was on fire.

Sanibel fire department responded. Lee County Electric Coop didn't, basically because no one could reach them by phone, or any other way.

Complaint came in that a car was parked in a cul de sac near caller's home and was shining lights into home. Car left when spouse lifted curtain to investigate.

Call came in that complainant had just run off five teenage boys who didn't belong on complainant's property. SPD found two boys and one girl fairly nearby, who were registered guests at yet another property, and seemed to be going in legal manner from one place to another.

Thunder, first heard over an alarm system, set system off. Thunder was then heard directly outside door of dispatcher. Power went off, too.

Earlier victim of a commercial B & E reported finding a dry brown paper sack on her front step containing some jewelry which had been stolen, plus a note expressing apology, among other things.

A noisy dark motorcycle has been doing its thing, annoying all who hear it.

Specially made beach chairs were removed and placed somewhere else. Possibly suspicious (and possibly official) cars had been in area when chairs were moved. Everything okay next day.

Shop owner reported "suspicious" person possibly "casing" place. Suspicion based on fact that alleged case would not remove hand from pocket.

Shell shop personage reported that a man came in his store and said that he was going to remove and destroy all of a certain kind of shell, being as they (the shells) were "an endangered species." SPD advised shop person to call back immediately if threatener turned up again without a search warrant. Further investigation showed that threatener seemed to be Marine Official. No explanation of how destroying already dead shells could help endangered species, but perhaps that's nit-picking on our part.

Call came in that a woman was adrift on a raft which was headed out to the open sea. Two officers immediately set out for beach, only to find that woman had been rescued from a watery fate by person or persons unknown.

Complaint came in that unauthorized vehicle was "selling clothing out of van." Turned out van was delivering legal clothing to legal shop in shopping center. Everything 10-4.

Some one or ones (possibly two left-over flower children, female, and two more, male) had taken a five foot hanging staghorn fern, valued at $175, which is $75 into the Grand Larceny range. (Just because a plant may look lonely to you does NOT mean that it is unwanted and unloved and you should take it, my friends.)

Report came in on possible lead on earlier B & Es. Lead did not check out -- person checked had broken knuckles, but no cuts.

Mosquito Control helicopter reported some well hidden campers, who, when checked by SPD personnel, said they had permission of property owner. They didn't.

Someone committed vandalism by cutting slashes in 100 sq. feet of screening and chopping about on badminton net. That's dumb.

Manager of large establishment reported theft of two tv sets from a storage area.

Person moved into residence as handyman, but evidently wasn't very handy (having painted only half a ceiling in just under a month of living there) and owner of residence wanted him and his possessions out. Spouse contacted; promised to remove husband's possessions. Residence owner satisfied with SPD handling.

Complaint came in that an injured dog was in area, which "could hardly walk." Whilst SPD officer was on way to scene, owner of dog called station and said if officer would pick up dog, owner would take it from there. Unable to locate dog; owner of dog later called and said dog was in his possession and was okay.

Boating Tips...

VENTILATION

Gasoline fumes, being heavier than air, can collect in any confined space. While most outboard craft are open enough for natural air circulation to carry fumes away, ventilation still requires some attention. An electric blower is recommended for ventilating closed areas, particularly after fueling or when the boat has been idle for a considerable length of time. If you have any doubts about adequate ventilation in your boat, the Mercury outboard boating authorities recommend that you consult your local marine dealer.

News & editorial notes

BY GINNI BROWN

What with a couple of hurricanes having already been and a couple more forming, we've decided that our hurricane section is about due - - so you should find a pull out section elsewhere (probably center spread) in this issue.

Hurricanes can be fun--in much the same manner that snowstorms were fun, when one got out of school and was not yet old enough to worry about work, what to eat and so forth. Many of the suggestions and tips in the "before the storm" section may well prove useless, if a hurricane decides to sneak across the Gulf of Mexico without due (more than 12 hours) warning, which, whether the Civil Defense officials wish to admit it or not, has happened.

Happily, not very frequently.

We admit to a wry amusement in recent treatment of hurricane coverage--for instance, when we read in a local daily that New York City was waiting for the "Core" of Bella, we not only had visions of all our unemployed friends and acquaintances descending on the poor beleaguered city, but we instinctively thought, "Core," my eye."

(For those who haven't read up on hurricanes, or haven't concerned themselves with details, the center of a hurricane is the "eye"--not the "core"--and you can bet your foot on that!)

It is our most sincere hope that none of the helpful hurricane hints will be needed--after all, although this section of Florida gets a "severe" hurricane every seven (or 11) years, the one state which has sustained the most "hurricane disasters" (according to the World Almanac) is Louisiana, and the area of the U.S.A. which most frequently gets buffeted about by nasty hurricanes is New England--and Jacksonville didn't get one for 100 years (but when they did, they got Dora, who was 400 miles across)--but if any of them help you through what might be a difficult or uncomfortable time, we'll know we've done our job.

As a further note--the worst thing about hurricanes relates to the story of the little boy who cried "Wolf" once too often. It is our personal belief that if you don't get off the Islands 72 to 30 hours before the storm hits, you ain't about to be able to get off at all, and it is our very strong feeling that 'tis wiser to spend a couple of extra days in town than to end up on a dead or missing-in-storm list.

If you do choose to ignore the advice of experts on when to evacuate, please do your relations a favor--let the SPD know where your next of kin can be notified--so that they don't only have to put your corpse back in one bag, they'll know where to send it. If that sounds morbid and dramatic, it is meant to be. Risking your life, and the lives of those who may try to rescue you, is not a laughing matter. When you're told to go, please GO.

Lecture over.

The COTI (Committee of The Islands) Board had a special meeting on August 9 (too late for The ISLANDER's deadline) in which they announced four campaign task members, Carol Davenport, Edna Russel, Jim Robson (who is also Chairman pro tem) and Mark Heinmann. It is COTI's intention to expand the task force, which, in essence, will appoint and support a slate of candidates for the city council seats to be voted upon in the General Election Nov. 2.

Chairman H. Wilson Smith said that COTI was "particularly pleased with the prospect of hearing the voice of the Youth of Sanibel...it's high time they make known their views on Island issues."

COTI (seemingly following the lead of at least one or more other Island groups) is not yet ready to announce who they are backing for the city councilmen seats left open in the upcoming election.

An educated guess may lead one to believe that this may be because no one has yet (at least as of the week's ISLANDER deadline) shown any intention of announcing their intention of running or re-running for office.

COTI held a board meeting last night, too late for this week's issue to report upon.

Plans are already underway for Labor Day Festivities--(one of them being if you get your paper on Sanibel and Captiva via mail, you'll be getting it a day late)--but that's rather put in the shade by the shindigs planned at the Stephen Foster Center in White Springs, Florida. (Did you ever stop to think that you live so far south that you have to travel 400 miles NORTH to cross Suwannee River?) Anyhow, in White Springs, folk artists and craftsmen will gather for one of "Florida's major Bicentennial events," according to Al Head, who is director of the Stephen Foster Memorial Center.

The "doins" will stretch over a four day period, beginning on Friday, Sept. 3, and ending after shows on Monday, Sept. 6, with appropriate family oriented shows and entertainment in between.

While there are no camping facilities in the Memorial grounds, there are four state parks within a 30 mile radius of the festival. For more information, we suggest you write the Stephen Foster Center, White Springs, DLFL 32096.

Jerry Lewis will be at it again, also on Labor Day Weekend, when he'll conduct the 11th annual Jerry Lewis Telethon Against Muscular Dystrophy, which will be carried locally by Ch. 11 (WINK-TV).

While we've never understood why one man staying awake so long is so special, we've got to admit the man has worked very hard for very many years for a very special charity--his reasons known only unto himself, no matter what you may have read elsewhere--and in our not-at-all humble opinion, Mr. Lewis being one (and possibly THE) greatest comic-tragic actor of our time, you might wish to tune in and pledge (and pay) a buck or two for the cause. Lewis's telethons are those rare occasions in which normally more money is sent in than is pledged, which always makes us feel nice

Wednesday, Aug. 11, the Sanibel Planning Commission held an informational meeting on the Comprehensive Land Use Plan (CLUP) to answer specific questions about specific pieces of land, which subject has been "not allowed" in previous public hearings.

It was attended by under 100 people, most of whom were relieved to find out that their right to build a single family home was passed on with the land in case of a sale, even if the property in question did not meet the new specifications of the CLUP, provided it was 10,000 or 15,000 square feet, and you could build two houses if you owned two lots (unless the lots adjoined) and so forth, but Patty Plum (the young lady pictured above) threw the meeting into a stunned silence when she asked what provisions, if any, had been made for the purchase and use of Sanibel land for commercial agricultural production (otherwise known as a farm).

The silence (and quiet giggles) were quenched when Chairman Duane White informed Ms. Plum that no provision had been made for commercial farming although she could ask for a specific amendment if the need arose, and of course, she was free to grow any kind of edible produce for her own or her family's use.

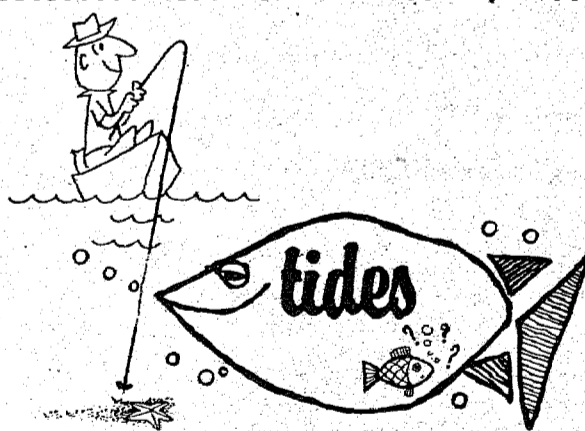

One point on which the audience seemed to think the CLUP unfair (that of having to obtain a building permit for any interior or exterior construction on an existing structure exceeding $100.00) really can't be laid at the feet of the planners, the CLUP or the Planning Commissioners. It's been a part of the Lee County Building Code for many a year and is more for the convenience and knowledge of the Tax Assessor rather than any implied "nosiness" on the part of the city.

Conversion table: The above tides are for the lighthouse point of Sanibel only. To convert for Redfish Pass (north tip of Captiva), add 55 minutes to the time shown for every hi tide, and subtract two (2) minutes for every low tide. (NO, we don't know why, but it works. Instructions following are even less sense-sical but, as we stated, they do work.)

For Captiva Island, Gulf side, subtract 30 minutes from each high tide, and subtract 1 hour and 16 minutes for each low tide.

For Captiva Island, Pine Island Sound (bay) side, add 1 hour and four (4) minutes for each high tide, and add 52 minutes for each low tide.

In between these points on gulf or bay --- guesstimate --- and have good fishing and - or shelling.

Crowded, eh what?

For those of you who've been marvelling at the busy streets, bustling shops, and crowded parking lots here on the Island over the past few weeks, statistics do indeed indicate that the Islands have entertained more visitors this summer than ever before during the off-season.

For instance, take the Causeway Toll figures for the month of July 1975 and July 1976 and you will find that 12,930 more vehicles crossed the Causeway this July than last, with 12,471 of the vehicular increase being attributable to passenger cars.

Said Walter Klie of the Sanibel-Captiva Chamber of Commerce, "The Chamber has been busier this July and August than any previous summer, and the majority of the visitors are day trippers."

Thus, it is almost a misnomer to refer to the summer months on the Islands as the off-season in this day and age, with scenes like the above becoming increasingly more common the whole way from the Lighthouse to South Seas.

This is Birdie Country

We may not have quite as many exotic bird species as The Sanctuary but then, nobody has bothered to count. They just enjoy having them around. There is one specie you can't find anywhere else on this island. That's the thrill of knocking in a putt for a birdie on our golf course.

Add boating, fishing, shelling, tennis and the convenience of our clubhouse facilities, and you have unmatched country club living.

Your astrological week

especially cast for the Islands by Madam Dorinda
(phone: 481-3051)

Aries: People will tend to say things that they don't really mean in order to smooth things over. A friend's financial advice may be well meant but not too reliable.

Taurus: Aspects favor joint financial considerations. Expect unexpected events or changes. There will be progress made on an important creative project.

Gemini: Get authoritative advice on a condition that needs to be rectified, possibly in connection with work, service, or health. See what competitors are doing now.

Cancer: Children or loved ones may be difficult now. Aspects do not favor speculation now, but travel will come to many of you. Preparations for a major career change may be in the works.

Leo: An old romance will reenter your life if you allow it. Some domestic difficulties are probable, and it will be difficult to be interested in routine matters now.

Virgo: A favorable time for publicity and advertising matters. A lack of communication may develop into a misunderstanding. Don't take work for granted.

Libra: Don't rely on unsubstantiated information. A romance is likely on the job scene. There is no lack of ways you can improve living or working conditions.

Scorpio: Conflict is likely with a parent or someone in authority. Be careful if you are handling another's money, you are likely to overspend. Take your time.

Sagittarius: Secret worries will come out into the open, but this is a good time for handling difficult situations. Entertainment can get very lively.

Capricorn: Delayed messages could come through in an unexpected way. Give the best you have to situations for which there is little credit.

Aquarius: Clarify instructions so as not to waste time and money in a fruitless quest. A change of pace or presentation could be exciting.

Pisces: There will be an opportunity for you in connection with persons or places at a considerable distance. One pleasant contact could easily lead to another.
