Shell Harbor owners concerned over "Lopsided O"

By Pat Harmel

When 100 Shell Harbor property owners met last Thursday afternoon their main area of concern was the recently approved "Lopsided O" intersection at Periwinkle Way and Causeway Road.

After hearing reports on a planned 120 foot beach access walkway, canal dredging, an entranceway fence and boulevard maintenance, the Shell Harbor Property Owners' Association turned the floor over to Councilman Duane White, City Manager Bernie Murphy and Public Works Director (and Assistant City Manager) Gary Price.

Councilman White began his presentation by telling the Association that by Christmas they would be able to "go from Shell Harbor to Bailey's without ever getting on Periwinkle Way."

White pointed out that the major premise of the Island's Comprehensive Land Use Plan (CLUP) was emergency evacuation - not just for hurricanes but for fire trucks and ambulances as well.

"We've known for years that our main arterials were in very, very bad shape,"

White said. "For two years the City Council has studied Island traffic. We had the Hubenette study. We had the Howard, Needles et. al. study. And last July we almost passed a road plan that I didn't like. But thank the Lord we didn't."

White pointed out that funds for the intersection, along with other road improvements such as the Gulf connector, were available to the City through the refinancing of the Causeway.

"By 1982," pointed out White, "those funds have to be spent - not committed but spent - or reinvested for not more than their current value."

White also told the audience that the County was slated to take control of the main Island arterials in 1982 so it was imperative that the City do whatever it planned to do before then.

"Wait till build-out (estimated at 18,500 residents by the City's Rate of Growth Ordinance)," warned White, "and you'll see what the County does. When they see a

Sanibel Police crack down on nude sunbathers

By Pat Harmel

Unbeknownst to most Islanders the tiny island of Captiva has received a bit of national publicity of the sort that lead (in a roundabout way) to seven arrests last week by the Sanibel Police Department.

Swank magazine, a rather sleazy, borderline hard-core pornography publication, compiles an annual directory to nude beaches in the United States and Canada. And, in 1978 at least, (no one has seen an edition of the directory since,) the Islands' Bowman Beach scored five gold stars.

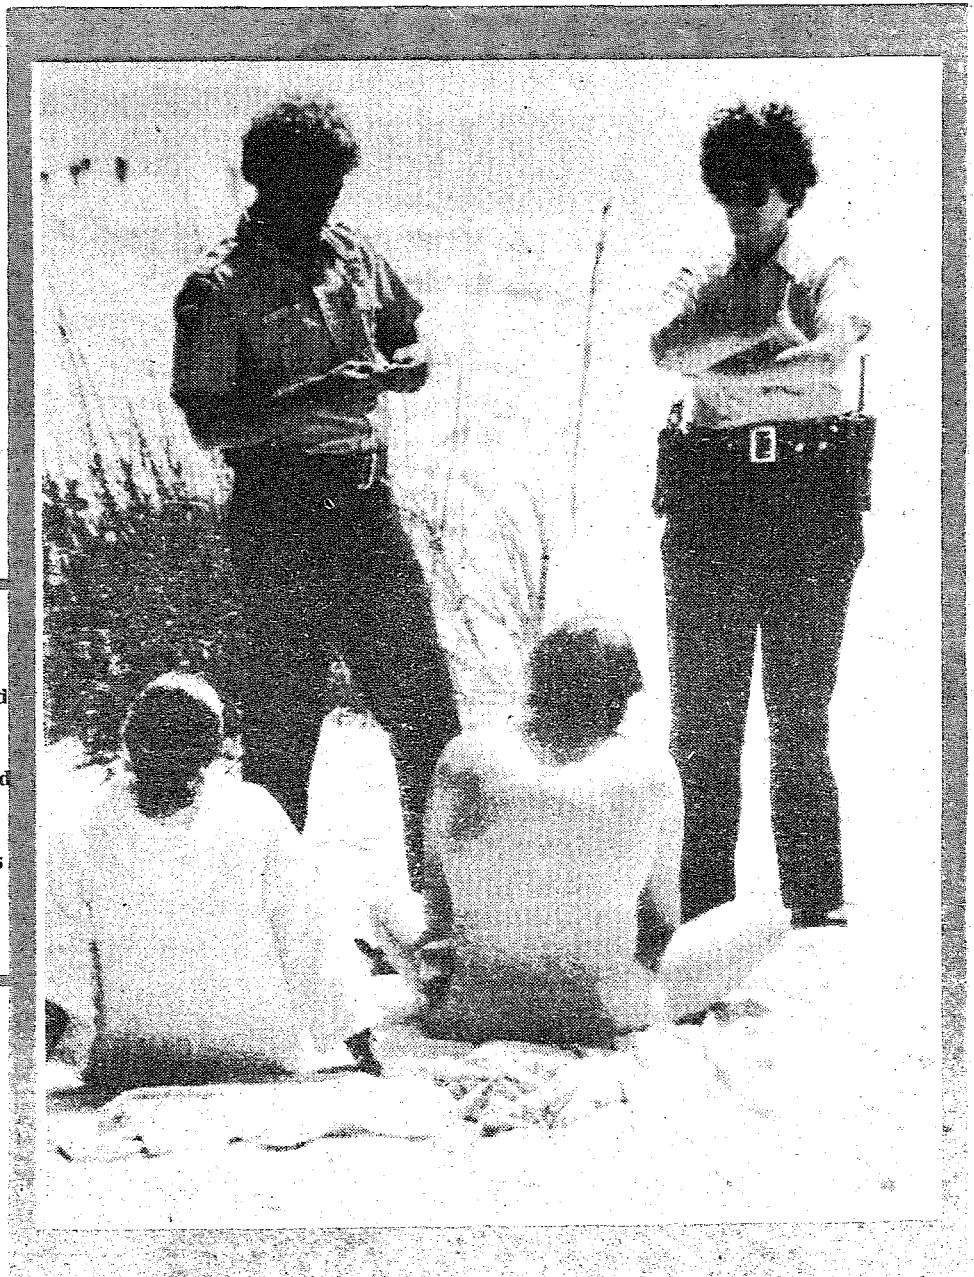

The Swank description of how to reach

Bowman's Beach makes one wonder how any of the sun worshippers manage to find the place - but find it they do and the subsequent word of mouth advertising brings in more of the topless-bottomless visitors than any billboard might attract.

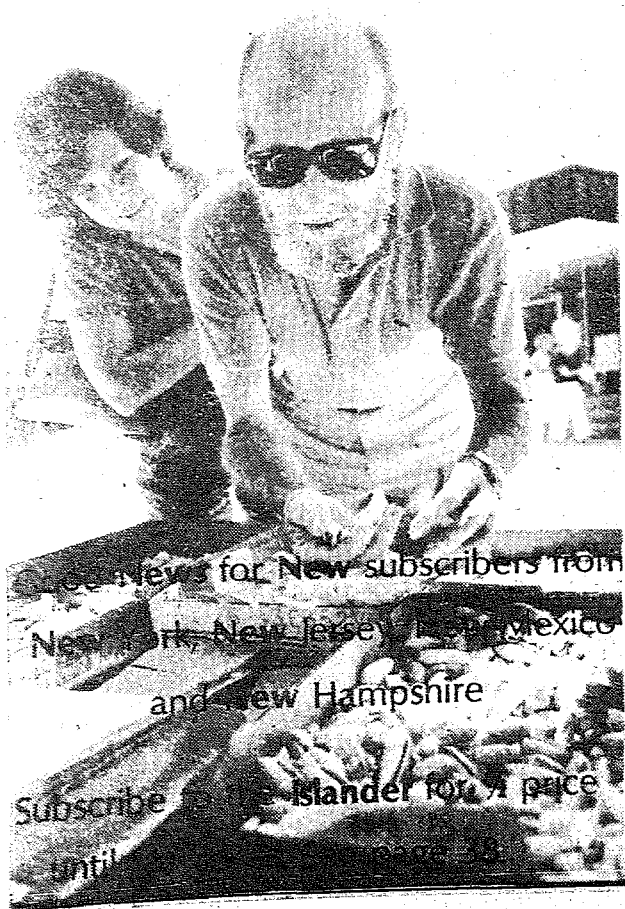

Last week, acting on orders from Sanibel Police Chief John Butler, Officers Jamie Phillips and Betty Weir made seven arrests at the Bowman site (about 8-10ths of a mile from the Blind Pass footbridge) over a period of two days.

Richard Lewis Steinkamp, 39, of Fort Myers, David Damoth, 28, of Fort Myers,

Whatever it was that seemed inviting to Billy Jacobs of Leakesville, Ms. (who mailed a postcard to "Bowman's Gay Nude Beach" last February asking for information and free color brochures) evidently appealed to seven other beachgoers last week - who found themselves under arrest for public nudity.

George Kammer, 39, of Canton, Ohio, Craig Ed Shumar, 21, of 6460 Sanibel-Captiva Road, Sanibel, Glen Tilse, 48, of Fort Myers; Jack Silverman, 32, of Merrillville, Indiana and Peter C. Monson, 25, of Malden, Massachusetts were arrested for public nudity - a violation of Florida State Statute, Chapter 800, section 800.03.

A Chapter 800 violation constitutes a first degree misdemeanor. The Statute reads: It shall be unlawful for any person to expose or exhibit his sexual organs in any public place or on the private premises of another, or so near thereto as to be seen from such private premises, in a vulgar or indecent manner, or so to expose or exhibit his person in such a place or to go or be naked in such place.

Six of those arrested for public nudity bonded out on $158.55 apiece. The seventh, David Damoth of Fort Myers, was transported to the Lee County jail after a routine check revealed he was wanted on a bad check charge.

According to Chief Butler, Sanibel resident Alice Kylo had complained to the SPD several weeks ago about nudity at the beach but a cold snap put an end to the problem for awhile. Several months ago, however, another Island resident had been strolling the beach with her two small children when a naked man in a state of apparent sexual arousal approached her. When Chief Butler himself witnessed naked sunbathers in the Bowman Beach area from his boat a week ago a regular patrol by the SPD was ordered.

According to Butler, the problem with nude sunbathers has been greatly reduced since the incorporation of Sanibel (and with it the formation of a local police department). "It used to be," said Butler, "that you could see all kinds of nude people down there - walking around, playing volleyball - and nobody complained. Of course there weren't any condos there then either. Now every year during the season we have to crack down but it's our responsibility and we'll do it. After a few people are arrested every year the word spreads and then we don't have much of a problem for awhile. If we didn't crack down we'd get to be another Key West and we're trying to discourage that type of element from coming to the Islands."

It was someone belonging to "that type of element" who last month mailed a postcard to "Bowman's Gay Nude Beach" requesting a free color brochure. The postcard was turned over to the SPD.

From Swank magazine's "The Bare Facts - 1978 Nude Beach Directory for the U.S. and Canada"

Bowman Beach on Captiva Island

"Even though the directions are a little intricate to Bowman, as the best accepted free beach in Florida, finding it is worth the effort. Take Route 867 out of Fort Myers to Captiva Island (it'll cost $3 in tolls), turn right at Periwinkle Way, then follow signs (Palm Ridge to Captiva Road) to Ding Darling Wildlife Refuge and park on Coconut Drive. Wade across the lagoon, walk through the woods and presto! A beach. You'll find it extremely pleasant, very lively on weekends, and totally safe from official pettishness."

Other nude beaches cited in the directory were at Key Biscayne and Singer Island.

DNR head asks for limits on setback variances

Florida Department of Natural Resources Director Elton Gissendanner wants the State Cabinet to limit the number of structures that can receive variances from State beachfront setback lines, he told Cabinet aides last week. If no limits are placed for each stretch of beach, Gissendanner said, coastal erosion will become greater than it is.

Gissendanner's remarks were inspired by the second request in two weeks to come before the Cabinet that was based in part on what the fellow next door was allowed.

Howard E. Sproat and Ray C. Palmer of Sarasota asked for permission to build a two-story structure 55 feet beyond the coastal setback line as part of a multi-family complex on Mansanto Key in Charlotte County.

Gissendanner recommended denial of the request, noting that the structure would be entirely beyond the line as planned and contending it could be moved back some.

The Legislature created the setback line to prevent beach erosion and protect existing structures. Before a variance is granted, DNR engineers would have to determine if the proposed structure would significantly add to erosion or damage neighboring buildings.

On February 22, Gissendanner recommended approval of a variance for a beachouse in Port St. Joe that by itself would not significantly increase erosion. The Cabinet, however, also heard testimony that there were 11 similar lots on the same stretch of beach for which variances would also be sought.

When the Cabinet rejected the variance by a one-vote margin, Gissendanner asked for guidance on future requests where it appears likely one variance will lead to demands for others.

Building a dream house - solar style

By Betsy Nichols

How to build a dream house - solar style - was the story shared by C.B. and Ruth Frank with visitors to the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation's Tuesday at the Center presentation last week.

The Franks, winter residents of Sanibel, live in Connecticut's first totally solar-heated home, which they constructed in 1974 at Pilot's Point, a small shoreline community east of New Haven, Connecticut.

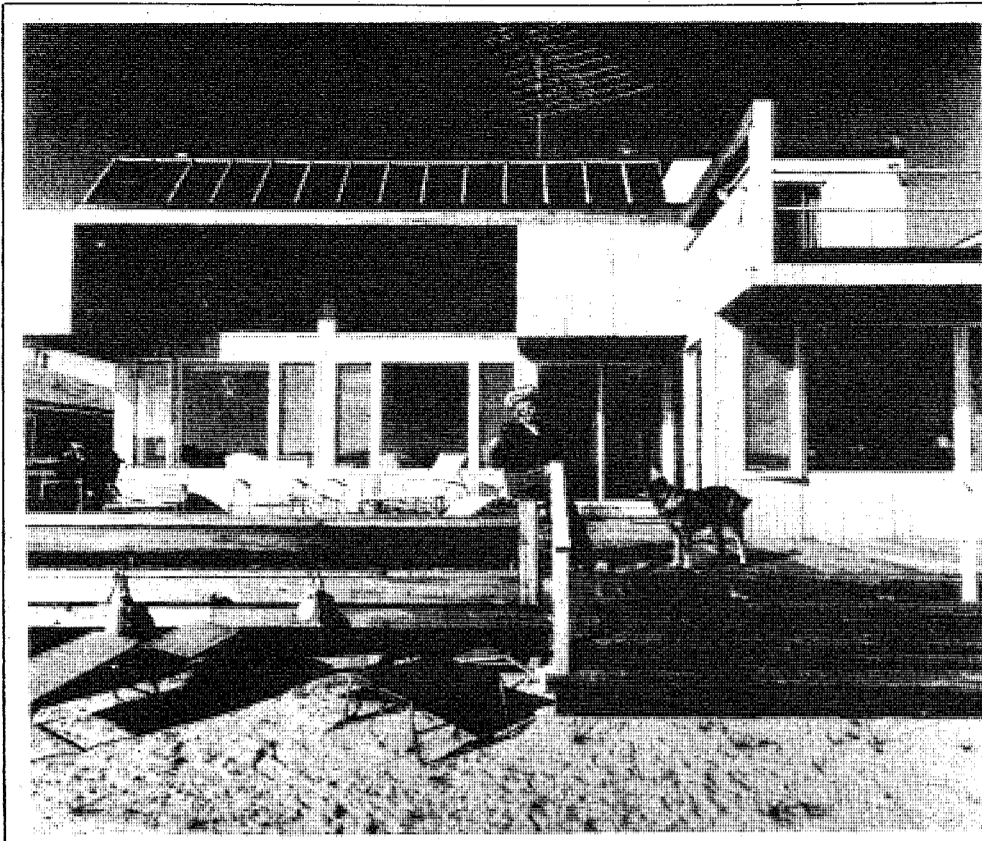

Principals applied in the construction of their home, "Sol-A-Sea," could be used and modified to create a similar solar air-conditioned home in this area, according to the Franks.

Construction of their Connecticut home attracted unanticipated national attention for the Franks. Out of nowhere appeared TV film crews, Jacques Cousteau, the New York Times and other visitors from this country as well as from overseas.

In the midst of all the public curiosity, Mrs. Frank decided to write a book through which she could share her experiences from the building of the home. She autographed copies of that book, Something New Under The Sun, for Islanders who purchased them from the Center last week.

In their talk, the Franks discussed how they began planning for their home back in 1973. After conferring with a number of building contractors, they contacted Yale University and were referred to Donald Watson, a visiting professor of architecture. It was Watson, who as plans progressed, first suggested the possibility of solar heating the home.

The difficulties were obvious. That was 1973. No solar homes had been built, not, at least, for private use. Construction techniques were still, in large part, untested. None of the required equipment was mass produced or even standardized in design. Everything, it appeared, would have to be fabricated by hand. But Watson was enthusiastic and his energy was contagious.

Watson called in an expert, Everett M. Barber Jr., a pioneer in the solar field. Barber had worked for many years with NASA and with the National Bureau of Standards. He had developed designs he knew would work but he had not, as yet, seen his designs incorporated into a real home. Nevertheless, he too inspired confidence in the Franks, and they quickly gave him the green light.

As construction began, a personal problem nearly terminated the project. C.B. was told he was terminally ill and physicians gave him only a year to live, at the most. To their credit, the Franks were determined to proceed with their long awaited dream house. They decided they would enjoy it for as long as they could. The story does have a happy ending however, - the medical diagnosis fortunately turned out to be overly pessimistic.

Much of the design for the Frank home was simply common sense. Windows and doors were placed in such a way to take advantage of "passive" solar heat. That simply meant placing things like big windows on the south side where the New England sun is clearly visible and putting a sheltered doorway on the north side to prevent the heat from leaking out the colder side.

Special equipment for the home included 36 solar collectors mounted in three rows on the south facing roof. The Franks obtain about half their heat from the sun and will save around $700 this year in fuel costs. As fuel prices continue to rise so will the Frank's savings.

The solar system, which cost around $7,000 to install, is supplemented by a back-up electrical system which kicks on automatically when the home's reservoir of stored solar energy gets low.

For those who love the outdoors, the house is a delight, an extension of the seascape outside rather than a concealment of it.

Now houses similar to the Franks dot the country and building techniques have vastly improved. The pioneering Franks claim to be entirely satisfied with their home and believe that a similar house designed to utilize solar energy for air-conditioning would be especially effective in Florida. As long as plenty of ducts were installed the design would be much the same as the Franks Connecticut home.

Additional information on the use of solar energy is available in Mrs. Frank's book, published by Brick House Publishing Company, Inc.

Fort Myers Beach heading towards incorporation

By Sue Thomas
 A group of Fort Myers Beach residents are so angry at the Lee County Commission's refusal to impose a moratorium on multifamily Beach dwellings that they are claiming incorporation may be the only way to get relief.
 The Commission has refused to take action, requested by the Beach Voter's Association (BVA), against multifamily dwellings until the April 2 Commission density hearing.
 The BVA Board of Directors met last Thursday with Charles Bigelow, their legal advisor, to discuss possible legal remedies to counter the Commission's refusal to declare an emergency situation.
 Among the remedies discussed were an injunction to stop the County from issuing building and construction permits and the ramifications of the possible incorporation of Fort Myers Beach.

there is not going to be anything to lower the density on," said Bonita Beach resident Chris Sapp.
 County attorneys advised the BVA there was not enough evidence to substantiate an actual emergency. Assistant Attorney Bev Myers said the Commission needed more staff input and research on the conditions for an actual emergency to be declared to hold up in court.
 Ro Roberts disagreed, however. "If construction continues even for a short time, the increased living units are compounding on an emergency we already have," he said. "We have staff input on Estero and Hickory Boulevard traffic conditions. The water pressure condition is a matter of record. We do have proof."

 Sapp, a retired attorney, maintained the emergency moratorium could be imposed just as it was in Charlotte County and on Sanibel.
 Attorney Ken Jones, representing several property owners, told the Commission the economic effect of a moratorium would be "devastating," and questioned the Commission's authority to grant such a request.

One Beach resident termed the delay "a calculated move," and added, "We hate to be skeptical but the Beach people have been fed enough and we're tired of swallowing."
 The Beach Democratic Club and the Sanibel City Council have both endorsed the requested reduction of density on Fort Myers Beach.

BVA members claimed that the Commission's postponement of the density hearing until April 2 will "solicit everyone in the County to pull a (building) permit," in their request for a moratorium during an emergency meeting set up by Commissioner Ro Roberts.
 "There are 14 condominiums with a total of 198 units now under construction. Six permits have been issued making a total of 1425 units," said BVA member Paul Hoffman. "Adding the 1300 units yet to be completed at Bay Beach makes 2725 units total. The road, water and sewer conditions won't sustain what we already have. If we continue construction with the increased density on the Beach, we will sink it."
 Residents from Bonita Beach also supported the moratorium. "If the Ordinance reducing the density is delayed, it is a matter of fairness that the moratorium be imposed immediately or

State expects gasoline increase

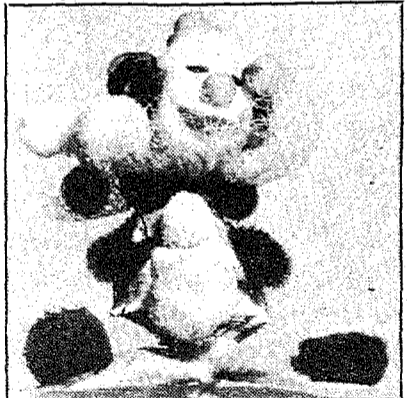

By Sue Douglas
 Florida's gasoline supplies will be increased by four million gallons this month according to State Energy Officer Ron Cossman. Although Governor Graham hopes the increase will prevent the lines of frustrated motorists that appeared at the end of the past two months, Lee County Energy Officer Bill Neron said he doubts it will be enough.
 Neron said last Thursday that he had not had any official word on the increase but that if the allocation were only four million gallons statewide, it would be no more than a drop in the bucket.
 The emergency allocation system operates on the basis of gasoline dealers calling the County office to request more supplies because of hardship shortages. Neron processes the requests and sends those meriting hardship status to Tallahassee. Neron said the energy requests were running about the same as last month. In February, Neron received 212 requests, more than three times the amount received in any prior month.

 According to information released last week by the State Energy Office, four major oil companies agreed to provide the extra gas from a discretionary pool. The suppliers include Gulf Oil, Texaco, Sunoco and Cities Service.
 The one-time increase will not affect other states, said Ron Cossman, a spokesman for the State Energy Office.
 Governor Bob Graham said the extra gas should prevent the lines and frustrations motorists encountered at the end of January and February when the pumps went dry in some tourist areas.
 "I feel this cooperative effort is the first step in the alleviation of potential gasoline shortfalls within the state," he said.

 Meanwhile, Cossman said the Governor is continuing to urge the Energy Department to give Florida a permanent five percent increase in its gasoline allocation. The governor made the request to Energy Secretary Charles Duncan on February 29 but has not yet received a response.
 "We're literally asking them to rework the national allocation formula and that's going to take some time," Cossman said.
 Cossman said the four million additional gallons will raise the March allocation to 420 million gallons—still 42 million gallons short of the supply available in March 1979.
 Gulf, Sunoco, and Cities Service will add 2.8 million gallons for distribution statewide and Texaco's 1.2 million gallons will go to heavily traveled Dade, Broward and Palm Beach Counties.

Sgt. Ray Rhodes to receive award today

Sargeant Ray Rhodes of the Sanibel Police Department will be awarded a citation "For selfless and humane action in saving the life of a near-drowning victim" by Lee County Commissioner Harry Rodda at today's City Council meeting.

The American Red Cross Citation reads:

"On November 5, 1979, Sgt. Rhodes, trained in Red Cross first aid and cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), went to a residence to inform a woman of a job opening. At about that time the woman's 18-month old daughter slipped away from her and fell into the family backyard swimming pool. Alerted by the woman's other daughter the victim was in the pool, the woman rushed to the scene and retrieved the victim. After determining that the victim had neither pulse nor respiration, Sgt. Rhodes began CPR. After a few moments the victim responded. She was then taken to a hospital. Without doubt, the use of CPR by Sgt. Rhodes saved the victim from death by drowning.

For this act of mercy Sgt. Rhodes has been named to receive the Red Cross Certificate of Merit. This is the highest award given by the American Red Cross to a person who saves or sustains a life by using skills and knowledge learned in a volunteer training program offered by the Red Cross in first aid, small craft or water safety. The Certificate bears the original signatures of the President of the United States, Honorary Chairman, and Jerome H. Holland, Chairman of the American Red Cross.

This action exemplifies the highest ideal of the concern of one human being for another who is in distress."

Sgt. Rhodes was also awarded the News Press Public Service Award earlier for his role in saving the drowning girl.

According to SPD officials this is the first time such a high citation has been awarded to anyone in this area.

problem with Causeway traffic they'll just say 'Do it,' and they won't care what the people of Sanibel think and they won't care about the environment either."

White cited the alternative plans presented to the Council for what he labeled "an unbelievable circulation problem on a narrow, barrier Island," all of which he found unsuitable for either their use of the land or the dangerous vehicular situation they created.

"What if this plan (the "Lopsided O") doesn't work? What will we have lost," queried White, and then answered himself, "Not much."

City Manager Bernie Murphy told the group "I've attended dozens and hundreds of public hearings on transportation problems and people never want the changes."

Murphy then reiterated White's statement that the "Lopsided O" was one of six proposals given consideration. "All of the others," said Murphy, "were much more complex, more costly and more big city-ish."

Murphy called the intersection design "simple" because "it utilizes existing roads and only adds one road, 24 feet wide, and is meant to be a low speed system," moving up to 3000 cars per hour at a speed of 25 mph.

Murphy stressed the need for action on the intersection saying, "We have thousands of people a day at this intersection and we're confident this situation cannot continue. We've already exceeded some of the traffic figures calculated by the experts two years ago that weren't supposed to be reached until build-out."

After many objections from the audience were registered against the plan and its inconvenience to those persons coming off the Causeway who desired to go down Lindgren or to the Lighthouse, Murphy again took the floor.

"This plan," he said, "is not without its imperfections. Some people are going to have to change their driving habits and some people are going to be inconvenienced. But the majority of the vehicular movement will be better; more safely, more quickly accomodated. To do nothing is just going to worsen the situation."

Murphy told the citizens gathered that the City was not unaware of their concerns but that the approved plan was the only alternative presented that offered "minimal disruption of the Island's character." Murphy agreed with White on the County's possible solution to Causeway traffic, saying, "There's little doubt in my mind that as that corner worsened Lee County would take action - possibly with barriers - possibly with traffic lights."

Planning Commissioner Don Manchester, present in the audience, pointed out that to utilize the Causeway property for a rotary (the plan favored by Councilmembers Bailey and Butler) "We'd be using a million dollars worth of land just bought by the citizens of Sanibel."

Manchester added that "It will only take 30 to 40 seconds to drive around this little impediment."

The Sanibel Planning Commission has already registered an objection (although not unanimous) against the plan with the City Council.

The City hopes to have the intersection under construction by July or August to coincide with the Gulf Drive connector and be completed by December.

Communities do not need protection from police reports

A 15 year old Sanibel boy is mugged in broad daylight while walking on the Island's main thoroughfare.

Visitors keep the police airwaves crackling with resident's complaints against their illegal camping, beach fires, littering, taking of live shells, drinking, noise and nude sunbathing.

More than $6000 worth of valuables are reported stolen in one week from cars, resorts and construction sites.

These are not big city crime statistics - they are facts culled from seven days worth of Sanibel Police Department reports.

Crime has come to the Islands in ways and numbers that most Islanders would prefer not to hear about. But we think it's important that you do hear about it. And think about it.

And take preventative measures against it.

Police reports from the Islands have been largely overlooked by the area media in the past - until something sensational happens. Arrests of nudists or an occasional murder manage to make news all the way to the wire services. But the day to day crime, the vandalism, the thefts, the drunks and the drugs go largely overlooked by the general public. After all, we don't have any crime on the Islands. Do we?

The Islander has recently instituted a weekly column called Police Beat. We are unable to run every police report largely because of the space requirements doing so would demand. What we do try to do is pick out what we see as being the most severe crimes - or those most damaging to the Islands' quality of life. Complaints of excessive noise emanating from an Island restaurant - or an Island child - may not seem like a severe crime. But three complaints against the same offender on the same day means the Islands have a real problem.

We firmly believe that a newspaper performs a disservice to its readership by trying to protect a community from itself and the problems that it has. We do not run accident or arrest pictures or the police reports for their sensational effects or with the intention of humiliating anyone. We run them because they are news, because they occur in your community and because we believe you have the right to know the truth about all the elements of your environment.

A Handy Guide to Sanibel Bureaucratese

(also completely applicable to Lee County)

By George R. Campbell

In recent weeks we have observed in our local press a lament by leading citizens (and editors too) concerning the paucity of citizen involvement and verbal participation in the day-to-day development of Sanibel's City laws that govern us and the daytrippers (and the night-trippers too).

In the hope of engendering a great public response whereby Alice, Paul and I may be joined by throngs of our fellow citizens eager to contribute substantially to the public participation process, but being fully aware they may find themselves unable to immediately cope with the language and intricate thought processes evolved by our keen minded public leaders from the very beginning, I have developed (this handy guide for all to use. Should you find yourself with an uncontrollable urge to offer wise, thoughtful comment on an issue (any issue), simply select numbers from the accompanying list. Thus, the following passage could easily establish the final truth to a topical subject:

"A balanced policy contingency, not yet cast in concrete, but in truth, a kind of bottom line, preliminary, final solution to the circulation problem at Causeway Road, is the Lopsided O (or oh!) configuration. This logical concept must be re-visited time and time again from the points of view of flexibility, programming, and time phase projection, and then daily monitored for systematized compatibility because much third generation intervalization and condominiumization is taking place in a very transitional manner at that end of the Island.

The whole balanced management problem should be memorandumized and projected in open-ended graphics so that iron-clad conclusions can be reached."

Thus, "9, 28, 47, 13, 49, 29, 57, 18, 24, 43, 32, 39, 42, 44, 45, 21, 2, 8, 27, 33, 11, 25, 9, 19, 48, 45, 51, 56, and 17" can constitute an intelligent sounding contribution to the Democratic process.

An effortless way to select the "buzzwords" for the next public meeting would be to have your visiting infant grandson choose the numbers at random while you are watching the evening sports news or learning about the latest flip-flops during the Comedy Hour - This Week At The White House.

Dear Editor,

I would like to bring to your attention this year's National Wildlife Week.

We, at Sanibel Resources Center, would like your support in helping to save the wildlife in the United States. This means protecting parks, swamps, prairies, and the wetlands where the wildlife live. There are many damaging things going on such as construction, and dumping and filling for the purposes of building more airports, roads, condominiums and housing developments.

My class and I are going to do a walk for the sake of the Eagles in Florida.

I think that the people of Sanibel and Ft. Myers should look at this week as National Wildlife week, and watch out for the wildlife, especially on Sanibel. For instance, don't build in areas that will destroy or disturb birds' homes in nearby trees or in breeding areas for other wildlife. Don't dump things in the rivers and ocean, that will kill and upset the "way of life."

Man has created parks and bought prairies & wetlands for preserves but that is not enough. We all need each other's help to keep it going after this week. We don't want you to think about it today and then forget about it until next year. It might be too late.

Letter to the Editor

I would like to thank Ralph and Esperanza Woodring for the interesting variety of specimens for the live shell exhibit at the Shell Fair. Also, thank you to all the volunteers who helped to prepare and man the booth and particularly to Pat Kair and to the Sanibel Elementary School students who added so much to people's enjoyment of the exhibit.

Gratefully,
Louise Johnson

Dear Editor,

The National Wildlife Federation has declared the week of March 16-22 National Wildlife Week.

The theme this year is "Save a Place for Wildlife." There is a growing concern about the habitat destruction going on all around the country. Many animals are threatened with extinction, not because of over hunting, but because of habitat loss. Florida's mangrove estuaries are being destroyed with little consideration of the effects it will have on marine life and then man. Estuaries are the spawning grounds for shrimp, grouper, snappers and many more food fish. Florida depends on the fish and shrimp for its multimillion dollar fishing industry. Anyone who destroys the estuaries is destroying the fishing industry.

Many conservation organizations are working on special projects to protect habitat and to help educate the public about the serious need for habitat protection.

Individuals are showing their support by joining local and national conservancies. You too can help by expressing some positive views on some important wildlife issues.

Sincerely Yours,
Adamm H. Smith

To the Editor:

Oscar Wilde once stated, "There are no indiscreet questions only indiscreet answers." The question of Classical Music Programming in Southwest Florida has recently come to the fore with the advent of a business decision to eliminate that programming by the station that had historically provided it. We here at WRCC wish them well. It must have been an agonizing decision.

To set the record straight, however, understand that no torch has been passed on to WRCC or to any other station. No provisions were made to assure that Classical Music would continue in Southwest Florida; WRCC has decided to fill the cultural void created in this area.

We are now proud to be broadcasting the Metropolitan Opera each Saturday afternoon. It will be preceded by "Concert Hall" with Charlie Stiles and followed by Classical Music until 6 p.m. We have historically provided our listeners with 6 hours of Classical Music Programming, from 6 p.m. to midnight Sunday evenings, which we will continue.

As of Monday, March 31, we will begin programming 2 hours of Classical Music nightly, Monday through Friday, 6 p.m. until 8 p.m. Ken Stanley follows with the "Big Band Show," a retrospective look at the Glory Years of American Music. It has always been a great success and in our eyes embellishes the other cultural aspects of our programming.

It is our intent and purpose to provide programming that seeks to edify and dignify the community that serves us through its listenership. We are aggressively attuned to your comments, concerns, and hopes. In the words of George Santayana "Our dignity is not in what we do, but in what we understand."

Your continuing input is vital and we invite you to write and express your interests to Robert Diederich, General Manager, WRCC, P.O. Box 189, Cape Coral 33904.

Jesse Daniels,
Program Director, WRCC

Many Thanks!

Fae and Charles Muller wish to thank the following persons for their shell donations and help at the Shell Club's Booth during the Shell Fair: Francis Bailey, Walter Hedder, Ralph Moore, Joe McMurtry, Dottie Stearn, Jerry Weirman, Howard Sexauer, Earle and Sylvia Angell, Al Bridell, Harry and Louise Baldwin, Mary Clifford, Blanche Ford, Emma Guthrie, Jorge and Cora Kinkstra, Art Mooney, Janet Paddison, Doris and Steve Pieri, Edna Schneider, Vi Voss, and Kit and Daniel Yukowitz. It was a very good Fair and your help was greatly appreciated. We couldn't have done it without your help.

Many thanks!

Flood elevations may rise again

By Jim Stasiowski

Throughout the furor over Lee County's flood elevations one area both the Federal and local governments agreed upon was that coastal elevations were acceptable.

That may all change in the near future. Max Plaxico, an official of the Federal Flood Insurance Administration (FFIA), recently stated that the National Academy of Sciences has adopted a new methodology for the computation of wave heights during a storm surge. When the new methodology is applied it could mean higher elevations for buildings on the Gulf and East Coasts of Florida.

"Until now, when we did the base flood elevations for coastal communities we took into account storm surge, but we did not take into account the wave action on top of the wall of water," Plaxico said.

"Now we have a method (to take wave action into account) developed by the National Academy of Sciences."

Plaxico said that the FFIA is "currently in the process of going to the coastal communities of the Gulf and Atlantic coasts" to factor in the new heights.

The areas affected are the "V" (velocity) zones noted on flood insurance maps. A "V" zone is defined as an "area of special flood hazards, with velocity, that is inundated by tidal floods (coastal high hazard area)."

Lee County has a considerable area of "V" zones, including Sanibel and Captiva, Estero Island and the coastline of Pine Island.

According to the Lee County flood elevation maps, a thin sliver of coastline from Cayo Costa south along the entire barrier island chain through Bonita Beach is a "V" zone. The flood elevations determined by the Federal Government in those areas range from 10 feet in the north to 13 feet in southern areas. Punta Rassa to Bunch Beach is also considered a "V" zone.

It is estimated that the new methodology could add a maximum of 55 percent to the already determined flood elevation level.

The Lee County Coastal Construction Code allows no building at a height below 13 feet, so at present, the Federally determined levels do not pose a problem. However, the new methodology could change all that.

County Flood Insurance Coordinator Ed Rich refused comment on the matter until he has more information from the FFIA. His office has to date received no notice of the new methodology and its possible affects on the area.

Plaxico could not state definitely that the Lee County coastal areas would be among those studied for the wave action addition, but he did say that it is "generally true" that all "V" zones will be taken into account.

Inspirational Library started

A library of inspirational, self-help or family-oriented literature is being established at the Sanibel Community Church. The Christian Education Committee, under the chairmanship of Beverly Slay, requests that anyone having books of this type which they would like to donate to the library bring them to the church office on Periwinkle Way.

A small selection of books is already available in the Church Fellowship Hall. Anyone wishing to borrow a book may check it out through the church office.

Lenten and Easter festivities

Observance of the Lenten and Easter seasons at Sanibel Community Church continues with two events of interest to residents and visitors.

The CANCEL Choir, directed by Robert Jacoby, will present a shortened version of the well-known cantata, "The Seven Last Words" on Palm Sunday (March 30) at 7 p.m. The evening's program will include a mini organ recital by Arthur Worthley, a winter resident of Sanibel who is serving as interim organist at the Church.

Plans for the annual Easter Sunrise

Service are now being formulated in conjunction with the Congregational United Church of Christ and the Sanibel Baptist Church. The service will begin at 6:13 a.m. on Easter, April 6.

The committee in charge of the service includes Mary Wegmuller and Ben Pickens from the Community Church; Abbott Byfield and George Michaels of the CUCC; and Frank Powell, Jim Thomas and Chuck Nave of the Baptist Church.

Further plans for the Easter Sunrise Service will be announced later.

--interval ownership makes sense.

Yes. Our vacations are special — we like to travel, stay at top resorts, dine at fine restaurants, and enjoy a variety of activities.

We've been visiting the islands for several years and have thought seriously about buying a vacation home here. We looked around, and discovered the interval ownership program at South Seas Plantation offers our kind of vacations — very economically and allows us to vacation more frequently.

In fact, it made sense for us to purchase four vacation weeks — two for our vacations at South Seas Plantation, one for our children to come and visit, and another week to use with the exchange program. The exchange week we'll use to go to Hilton Head, Europe, Hawaii or wherever.

Let's face facts. Renting accommodations at first class resorts is expensive. The vacation villas at Plantation Beach Club are luxurious, the one-time purchase price is very reasonable, and we always have something to show for the money we've spent.

Membership at South Seas Plantation and our beachfront vacation villa — that's the kind of vacation we value.

Howe memo to City on beach accesses

To: Sanibel City Council
From: Paul A. Howe
Subject: Beach Parking at Public Access Points

Current public discussion of the above-mentioned subject reveals at least two misconceptions that are clouding any reasonable solution of the vexing beach parking problem on Sanibel.

One prevalent misunderstanding is what can be classified as a "carefully cultivated myth." It is that the Courts require that any solution must be completely free of "discrimination" as between the Island's resident and nonresident publics.

The City Attorney, I feel confident, will confirm that the U.S. Supreme Court in 1977 dispelled that myth. They did that by overruling the Virginia Supreme Court on the matter as it applied to a parking and traffic control permit ordinance of Arlington County near Washington, D.C. That ordinance had made such a distinction between the two publics.

The highest Court in the land succinctly stated: "A community may also decide that restrictions on the flow of outside traffic into particular residential areas would enhance the quality of life there by reducing noise, traffic hazards, and litter. By definition, discrimination against nonresidents would inhere in such restrictions. The Constitution does not

Police Beat

By Pat Harmel

Burgeoning warm weather traffic, live shell collectors, lost and found dogs, kids on motorcycles and prank stick-up notes kept the Sanibel Police Department hopping this week - as did some far more serious crimes.

Five seemed to be the unlucky number this week with five different reports of illegal camping on the Island checked into by the SPD with all violators (all out of towners) subsequently informed of the Ordinance banning camping outside the Trailer Park.

There were also five complaints from Island residents involving juveniles on motorcycles and five complaints against the Fountain Restaurant in Tahitian Gardens for excessive noise and rowdy inebriates.

On March 9, there was a complaint registered against someone soliciting on the beach "in an obnoxious manner" for interval ownership condominiums. "The complainant stated he thought it was bad taste to allow persons to solicit on the beaches of Sanibel," according to SPD reports. Captran was contacted and no further action was taken.

There was a report that an object had been thrown from one car at another driving along the Casa Ybel Road S curve. The SPD sent out a description of the offending car which was then apprehended at the Periwinkle and Causeway intersection. Three males, ages 20, 16 and 17 from Fort Myers and one female, age 18, of Cape Coral claimed to have thrown paper out of the car window but that was all. They were informed by Officer Blackmore that the complainant could bring charges if he so wished.

Huxter's Market on Periwinkle Way reported the theft of a six-pack of beer and a bottle of soda. The SPD advised the toll booth and the Lee County Sheriff's Department to be on the watch for a faded olive green Ford station wagon but the offenders were not apprehended.

On March 8, a visitor to the Sanibel Shell Fair, Cledith Shoop, of Manchester, Kentucky, stepped into a hole in the blacktop pavement leading to the Community Center and fell, injuring her knee. She was transported to the Cape Coral Hospital by the Medics.

On March 8, Officer Primm, the Sanibel Fire Department and the emergency medics responded to a call that a seven year old was injured on Casa Ybel Road. Upon arrival it was learned that the child had lost control of his bicycle and fell to the pavement, sustaining injuries. He was transported to the Wegryn Clinic.

On March 8, the medics and the SPD responded to a call that an employee of Duncan's Restaurant was injured. The employee was air-lifted to Fort Myers Community Hospital.

On March 6, an Ohio visitor reported having a camera stolen from his car parked in the Sundial parking lot. On March 8, the News Press rack in front of Sundial was reported missing. On March 8, $715 worth of cameras were reported stolen from a car parked in the Sanibel Community Center parking lot. On the first of March a two-carat diamond ring, valued at $12,000 was reported missing from a Kansas visitor's room at the Caribe Inn. The SPD also received a letter from a visitor living in New York who reported a necklace, bracelet and watch apparently removed from her room Feb. 29 during a stay at Tween Waters Inn on Captiva.

On March 7, four spools of electric cable, weighing 500 pounds each and valued at $3300, were stolen from a locked, second

On March 9, a 15 year old Sanibel resident walking along the Periwinkle bike path towards his home was attacked by a stranger who proceeded to knock out several of the youth's teeth, jump into a car and then drive away with other companions.

The youth, whose name is being withheld because of his age, told police he had never seen his assailant before and was unable to identify the car. The assailant is described as young, white, and having black curly hair. Police have no suspects at the present time.

floor, storage room at the Gulfside Place construction site. Entry into the storage room was gained through the ceiling, according to SPD reports, and the spools were then apparently rolled down two flights of stairs. Investigation is continuing.

On March 14, a generator valued at $400 belonging to Cable Vision was stolen from the back of a Cable Vision truck in the Par View Drive area. Investigation is continuing.

A possible prowler was reported at 4639 Brainard Bayou Road on March 12, after the resident noticed dark footprints on his back porch. Investigation into the incident is continuing.

The Sanibel Police Department received a report from an Island resident who stated he had received a phone call from a man representing himself as a Mike Williams with S Magazine. The phony Mr.

Williams then told the Islander that he would pay him $25 to answer a questionnaire for the magazine. The resident became suspicious when the questions became sexually oriented and called the

SPD. Law officials advise anyone receiving this type of call to report it and never answer any type of personal information questions over the phone.

Sanibel on Periwinkle Way was reported to the SPD.

On March 13, Grant Electric reported the theft of 2000 feet of copper wire, valued at $100, a three pound sledge hammer, valued at $15, a wire tester, valued at $247.50, and two pairs of tin snips stolen from 2902 West Gulf Drive. The investigation is continuing.

On March 12, a dead sea turtle was reported washed up on the beach in front of Sundial. The Public Works Department and Caretta were both notified by the SPD.

Elkton Starr Gerhard, 64, of 3744 DeSoto Avenue, Fort Myers, was arrested March 3 by the Lee County Sheriff's Department and charged with trafficking in marijuana. The arrest stemmed from a continued investigation of the December 17, 1979 seizure of 2,205 pounds of marijuana on Upper Captiva. The investigation is a combined effort of the Sanibel Police Department, U.S. Customs Service, Drug Enforcement Administration, State Attorney's Office and the Lee County Sheriff's Department.

Ms. Kay LeBlanc, an off-duty nurse and resident of Fort Myers, was responsible for saving the life of 23 year old Benjamin Halloway of Fort Myers on March 8.

At 2:52 p.m. the SPD received a call on an emergency call box reporting a possible drowning at Bowman's Beach. Sgt. Ray Rhodes and Officers Jack Primm and Dick Noon were dispatched to the scene.

Upon arrival they learned that Ms. LeBlanc had noticed Halloway floating in the water and had pulled him onto the beach and began administering cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR). By the time SPD officials arrived a representative of the fire department was already administering oxygen to the unconscious man. Halloway then went into cardiac arrest and the officers and the fireman began CPR. Eventually Halloway began to breathe on his own requiring assistance from time to time. The medics arrived and began treatment and Halloway was transported to Lee Memorial by air ambulance.

According to police reports, onlookers advised that the subject had been drinking vodka and taking barbituates before entering the water.

Shelling Tips

By Mike Fuery

The natica shell not only has a beautiful name, it also is an outstanding, colorful shell. The natica, along with the shark's eye, are interesting specimens you might find on the beaches. Let's talk about where to find them this week.

The shark's eye suffers from an identity crisis because everyone seems to have a couple of different names for it. As I might have mentioned before, the shark's eye is often referred to as being in the "moon snail" family. That is, it is lumped into the same category as other shells which are somewhat round, colorful, and formed in a growing swirl.

Along the Texas Gulf coast, especially in the Padre Island area, the shark's eye is often called a "bull's eye." Up along the Carolinas the shellers call them "cat's eyes." Whatever you want to call the shell, it's a prized specimen and well worth searching the beaches and waters for.

As with most shells, you can occasionally come upon a shark's eye which is alive and well, living in shallow, sunny sand flats. However, you will find twice as many on the Gulf side of the Islands as they are washed up with the waves.

The natica is much harder to locate in numbers than the shark's eye, even though they are the same shape. I have never personally found a live natica—I suspect they are inhabitants of the gulf's deeper waters, while the shark's eye shell are comfortable right close to shore.

Both of the shells may be found in ankle-deep water just at the edge of the beaches. Any shells with some weight to them occasionally settle into that slight depression at the shoreline and don't come tumbling up on the sand so check carefully in the water for them.

The shark's eyes and naticas are about the size of walnuts, with a large opening on one side of the shell where the animal retracts its protective foot.

The natica has a delicate brownish coloration on its shell, while the shark's eye is usually more of a gray with a distinctive blue "eye" right in the center of the swirl.

Both of these shells are extremely shiny, but you can enhance their color by spraying them with clear protective coatings. Shark's eyes tend to get larger than the natica, but my favorites are the tiny little shells that always seem to have better markings.

Good shelling this week and keep in mind the limit of two live shells per person per species. With all the problems involved with processing live shells, I really never do understand why anyone wants to take them.

(Capt. Mike Fuery offers daily shelling trips by boat to North Captiva and Cayo Costa Islands. Call 472-3459 for details).

on the water

by Captain Mike Fuery

There is one item I have on my boat which is indispensable but at the same time is dirty, smells like a dead fish, and is suspected of carrying several diseases!

I am referring to that old cleanup rag which every good fishing boat should have and which no experienced skipper would dream of washing.

The other day I saw someone on my boat give a side glance at my towel which hangs proudly next to the steering wheel. It was so full of fish slime, oil drippings and catfish blood that I'm sure the gal thought it should have been taken out and shot. But really, that towel was just getting broken in.

I believe that most fishermen carry something to wipe their hands with, but forget that old rag once and you're lost for the rest of the day. That is, of course, if you didn't bring a long haired dog to wipe your hands on.

The beauty of having an "experienced" fish rag on board is that the chances of someone stealing it are nill. The current towel I have was pressed into service about a year ago. I think more of the towel than I do of some friends. At least the towel never tries to borrow money.

Once, I bowed to pressure from my wife and agreed to wash the towel. I soaked it in bleach for about a half a day, but that only brought the color from dark reddish brown to light gray. And, compared to my towel, other fishermen I've met have much more cultivated colors with mildew accents. The worst fishing towel I've even seen came complete with a large family of palmetto bugs.

There are several things around the boat which don't really cost much but are vital to successful fishing trips.

Another one you might have on deck is a wooden push pole.

You can go into most lumber shops and get a 10-foot piece of wooden rod for about five dollars. If you run the flats in Pine Island Sound it's a wise and inexpensive investment and it will get you out of some very trying situations.

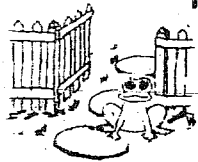

If you fish the shallow waters and run aground, the push pole will get you back into deeper water. It will also show depths if you paint foot markings on the side. Before I got a depth finder installed on my boat I used the marked push pole all the time to find the right water for fishing.

Good fishing this week and keep after the sea trout. They seem to be feeding near the bottom with this cooler weather, so try white or yellow bucktails tipped with a little shrimp. That should work just right for those good eating fish.

Antique doll show at Tuesday's Child

A collection of Japanese and Chinese dolls belonging to Eloise Bisha was on display last Friday and Saturday at Tuesday's Child. The dolls shown by Mrs. Bisha were a set of 15 Japanese ceremonial dolls. They were originally not treated as toys but rather were used only once a year to teach social graces to children.

The other dolls were museum quality Chinese funeral dolls from the 1800's. The dolls were made in the image of a person and kept in the house, much like we now keep old photographs.

Governor's office offers free energy design brochure

The Governor's Energy Office has published Houses and Climate - An Energy Perspective for Florida Builders to assist builders and designers of residential housing. The publication was developed under an Energy Office contract with the Bureau of Research, College of Architecture at the University of Florida. It provides information on how to make maximum use of natural shading and ventilation systems for energy conservation in housing design. Sections on comfort factors and basic "passive" design principles are supplemented by climate summaries and interpretations for Florida's geographical climate zones. A final section provides a walk-through design sequence which illustrates how to use the information provided to actually design or modify site and building plans to take best advantage of natural systems. Appendices specify the methodology from which the information was developed.

Builders and designers are encouraged to utilize this publication. To receive a copy, write the Energy Information Center, Governor's Energy Office, 301 Bryant Building, Tallahassee, Florida 32301. Specify the geographical area of interest. Copies of complete climatic data for all zones in Florida are also available for persons designing houses in all areas of the state.

outlaw these social and environmental objectives, nor does it presume distinctions between residents and nonresidents of a local neighborhood to be invidious. The Equal Protection Clause requires only that the distinction drawn by an ordinance like Arlington's rationally promote the regulation's objectives."

The second misconception involves an historic bit of coercive "contract zoning" popular years ago with the Lee County Commission. (It is of questionable validity today with the current emphasis being placed by sophisticated multi-family residential project developers on their "vested rights" and the "taking issue"). It was perpetrated mainly on smaller and unsophisticated single-family residential developers of such subdivisions as The Rocks in the then-virgin West Gulf Drive area.

The technique of the Commissioners was to make their approval of the subdivision plat contingent on the developer's reneging on his oral sales promotion promise to furnish a "private" beach access to prospective lot purchasers.

Additional bait used by the Commissioners was the irresistible lure of property tax exemption inherent in the alternative "public" easement. The end result was that the lofty objective and Commission responsibility of providing public access to the public beach to all was placed on the narrow shoulders of the subdivision's lot buyers. That lot buyer, however, was unaware of this ploy until he read his deed abstract some time after purchase.

In view of the above, it seems appropriate that any ordinance now prepared on the subject matter should reflect a careful recognition of the respective equities of neighborhood residents, non-neighborhood Island residents, and non-Sanibel residents.

Incidentally, I note that no public discussion has been accorded to my Memorandum of January 4, 1978 addressed to then-Mayor Butler on a related matter. It had proposed a plan for financing the acquisition and maintenance of such parking facilities and beach accesses by use of tolls to be collected from nonresident users of Sanibel's roads and beaches.

Temple Beth-El activities

Friday, March 21, Sabbath Services at Temple Beth-El will be held at 8 p.m. The Service will be under the leadership of Cynthia Davis, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Richard H. Davis. During the Service, Rabbi Agin will address the congregation on the sermon topic, "Must Old Age Mean Stagnation?"

Following the Service there will be an Oneg Shabbat hosted by Cynthia's grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. Gerhard Joseph and Mrs. Mary Joseph, in honor of her becoming a Bat Mitzvah.

On Saturday morning during Sabbath Services, Cynthia Davis will be called to the Torah in honor of her becoming a Bat Mitzvah. Sabbath Services will start at 10:30 a.m.

The newly formed Sanibel-Captiva Rotary Club will officially receive its charter from Rotary International this coming Thursday night in the Fort Myers Exhibition Hall where the Rotary Clubs of southwest Florida will celebrate the 75th anniversary of Rotary International.

District Governor Joe L. Pendleton of Clearwater will make the presentation assisted by Rotary International past president Bill Robbins.

Rotarians to receive charter

Rotary was founded by a Chicago lawyer, Paul Harris, back in 1905 on the premise of good-fellowship and a dedication to community service. To gain a comprehensive and wide spread overview of community relations, one member of each type of business or profession was invited to be a member if they met the qualification of high integrity and morals. This apparently caught on as Rotary has expanded to the extent that there are now over 854,000 members in 18,342 clubs in 183 countries.

Since the founding, Rotary has exhibited considerable interest in youth through the associated and related programs of Interact, Rotaract and Youth Exchange. Rotary also has taken an initiative in the promotion of international cooperation and good-fellowship through its Rotary Foundation.

Rotary members subscribe to the motto, "Service above Self," and to the "four way test": 1) Is it the TRUTH? 2) Is it FAIR to all concerned? 3) Will it build GOODWILL and better FRIENDSHIPS? 4) Will it be BENEFICIAL to all?

The Sanibel-Captiva Rotary Club meets every Friday at 11:30 a.m. at the Timbers Restaurant, with lunch at noon, and features and interesting speaker at each meeting. Visiting Rotarians are welcome.

This Friday the speaker will be a well known Sanibel resident and real estate broker, "Bob" Dormer, who will tell of his recent trip to Taiwan as a guest of the Chinese Intelligence Bureau, and in his capacity as president of the Sino-American-Cooperative-Organization.

Obituary

LeBuff

Ruth V. LeBuff of Naples died last Thursday in Naples Community Hospital. A native of Wakefield, Massachusetts, Mrs. LeBuff had lived in Naples for the past 28 years.

Mrs. LeBuff is survived by her husband, Mr. Charles LeBuff Sr., three sons, Charles LeBuff Jr. of Sanibel, Laban LeBuff and Lawrence LeBuff, both of Naples, one daughter, Natalie R. Kirkland of Naples, one brother, Eben W. Mick of Reading, Mass. and eight grandchildren.

Services were held yesterday at Pittman's Naples Chapel. Burial was in Naples Memorial Gardens Cemetery.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests contributions be made to the Collier County Chapter of the American Cancer Society in memory of Mrs. LeBuff.

Sea World is for the birds!

To assist the Florida Audubon Society in its efforts to fund a rehabilitation program for injured birds of prey, Sea World is discounting its adult and child admissions by $1 to guests who present 10 canceled U.S. or foreign postage stamps at the theme park admission windows.

Conservationists who wish to help the Society and at the same time take advantage of the admission savings should remove canceled stamps from envelopes leaving a wide margin of the surrounding paper. (Cut stamps are not saleable, so care should be taken in removing them from envelopes). The stamps may then be mounted with rubber cement on cards available at local Audubon Society offices and other conservation groups. Or they may be packaged loosely in an envelope for presentation at the Sea World gates.

Admission to Sea World's Shark Institute in Layton on Long Key in the Florida Keys is also being reduced by 10 percent from the normal adult admission of $3.50 and child's (4-12) admission of $2.25. Standard admission to the Orlando theme park is $7.95 for adults and $5.95 for children. The save-your-stamps program is in effect at Sea World through June 1. Thereafter, bird lovers may send canceled stamps directly to the Florida Audubon Society's Bald Eagle Stamp Program to P.O. Drawer 7, Maitland, Fla. 32751.

Sea World has also designated April 19 as Florida Audubon Society Day. From 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. that day, Doris Mager, the "Eagle Lady," will visit Sea World with General Patton, a southern bald eagle, and El Tigre, a great horned owl. Ms. Mager, vice president of the Society, nursed both birds back to health.

Two performances of "Three on a Bench" will be given this weekend at the Pirate Playhouse, Periwinkle Way.

A change in schedule is announced as the comedies will be presented on Friday, March 21 and Sunday, March 23.

An addition to the cast of Traveling Sisters is Terri Weinberg in the part of Lois Glover and includes Peggy O'Kelly Lickel, John Walsh, Lora Mainard, Dick Robeson and the Hunters. "Table for Two" will also be presented by the Hunters, Ruth and Philip. The title piece of the production, Three on a Bench, is proving a most successful vehicle for the Hunters who are most ably assisted by juveniles, Robin Pickens and Dick Robeson, in this delightful romantic comedy.

Two weekend performances: Friday, March 21 & Sunday, March 23. Curtain 8:15 p.m. - Box Office 472-2121.

"Animal Crackers," the Marx Brothers comedy film classic, will be shown on all three Edison Community College campuses. This 1930 movie stars Lillian Roth and Margaret Dumont as well as the famous Marx Brothers trio and is rated "G" for family entertainment fun.

The film will first be shown at the Punta Gorda Care Center, 773 East Olympia at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, March 18. The Collier Center will present the film on Wednesday, March 19 at the Collier County Free Public Library, 650 Central Avenue in Naples at 9 p.m. The final showing will be on Thursday, March 20 at both 12:30 and 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium on the ECC Fort Myers campus.

There is no admission charge for the film and the public is invited to attend. This series is sponsored by the college and the First Commercial Bank.

The film is in sepia tone and lasts 97 minutes. Gene Shalit of NBC's TODAY SHOW described this film by saying, "Good humor is ageless...All it takes is genius."

The Barrier Island Group for the Arts and Bank of the Islands presents "Room Service," a 1938 movie starring Groucho, Harpo, and Chico Marx with Lucille Ball, Ann Miller and Frank Albertson. There will also be two surprise "short" features. The movie date is for Sunday, March 23 at 7:30 p.m. at the Sanibel Community Center.

Directed by William A. Seiter, produced by Pandro S. Berman, with screen play by Morrie Ryskind, "Room Service" is an ideal vehicle for the Marx brothers. A tremendously popular success as a Broadway comedy, it not only provided a tailor-made framework for their type of humor, but it also served as a springboard for the comedic talents of Lucille Ball.

An often frantic, always very funny movie, it was based on the play by John Murray and Allan Beretz with the script adaption by Morrie Ryskind who had already adapted "Coconuts," "Animal Crackers" and "A Night At The Opera."

Another Spring Thing sponsored by the Southwest Florida Craft Guild will happen at The Rafters Shopping Mall on College Parkway and Winkler in South Fort Myers on Saturday, March 22 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The show will take place indoors both upstairs and downstairs, with demonstrations of spinning and weaving, knotting, carving, basketry, needlework, scrimshaw and other crafts. Pottery, copper enameling, sculpture, stained glass, jewelry, lapidary and articles in wood and metal will be on display and for sale by members of the Southwest Florida Craft Guild. This is an organization of the top craftsmen in this area. Its purpose is to encourage the development of high standards of accomplishment in a variety of standard crafts and to provide craftsmen with an opportunity to exhibit and sell their hand-crafted products. All exhibitions emphasize excellence and originality of design and technique. The public is urged to attend, browse, and watch the craftsmen at work.

The Rafters is a new, unique shopping mall, on two floors with an escalator and elevator, and many fine shops. Food is available in the Mall restaurants and food shops.

Phebe Bell is Chairman of the Rafters Craft Show. For more information call her at 463-2778.

Three Crafty Ladies, located on Periwinkle Way, will be featuring an exhibit of "Wildwood originals" by local artist Mell Goodwin beginning March 28.

"Wildwoods" are oil paintings on wood and this exhibit will feature Ms. Goodwin's bird and animal interpretations. There will be a public reception for the artist on March 28 from 5 till 8 p.m.

Classes

An Intermediate Photography class will begin Tuesday March 25. The ten week class, taught by Islander photographer Mark Harmel, will meet at The Photographers' Gallery from 7-10 p.m. Participants are expected to have a working knowledge of their cameras.

The class is offered through the Lee County Adult and Community Education Program. The fee is $6.

The Lee County Alliance of the Arts cordially invites you to attend a reception for artist Mary Ann Field and her show Fifth Dimension in Color 1980 at the Lee County Arts Center, 5111 McGregor Boulevard on Sunday, March 30 from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m.

The show will include sculpture, figure painting and colorfield painting.

Mary Ann Field says about her work "Nature and the humanities are the catalysts for my paintings which express emotions, feelings, impressions and ideas in the abstract as they relate to color relationships and forms."

The Mary Ann Field show, Fifth Dimensions in Color 1980, will be open for viewing at the Lee County Arts Center, 5111 McGregor Boulevard, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. through April 30.

The Lee County Arts Center, 5111 McGregor Boulevard, presents its spring class schedule for Adult and Community Education. Classes will start on Monday, March 24 and run through Monday, June 9.

The Lee County Arts Center offers a wide variety of visual arts classes for both adults and children, as well as lessons in music, photography, theatre and dance. All classes are scheduled at convenient times.

For detailed information, please call the Lee County Arts Center at 939-2787.

Folklore preservation gets a boost

A project that will send Florida's musical heritage spinning its way into homes, libraries and classrooms throughout the state got a major boost last week with the approval of a $7,760 federal grant.

The project - being conducted by the Department of State's Florida Folklife Program - calls for the production of the first in a projected series of record albums featuring selections of vocal and instrumental music indigenous to Florida.

The National Endowment for the Arts awarded the $7,760 folk arts grant to the Folklife Program as partial funding for the project. The Federal funds will be matched by State funds.

After Folklife Program researchers complete their search for Florida artists and tunes, 1,000 albums - accompanied by a 16-page booklet - will be produced and distributed.

Copies of the album and booklet will go primarily to schools, libraries, archives, media and folklife centers, government agencies and community groups.

Portrait

By Betsy Nichols

Geddes Carrington

Age: 58

Height: 5' 10"

Roots: "Born in Dallas, grew up in Kansas City, Missouri."

Pleasures: "Fishing, traveling, cooking."

Mentor: "The U.S. Marine Corps First Division Rifle Battalion."

Wish: "I wish politicians would say what they think rather than what a poll tells them is the national opinion...I'd also like to turn the Gulf into fresh water."

Last Book Read: "River of Grass, the story of the Everglades and all of Southwest Florida by Marjorie Stoneman Douglass."

Words of Wisdom: "Keep moving and never look back - that's borrowed from Satchel Paige. Another thing worth remembering - Don't tell the crocodile he has a big mouth until you're across the river."

A resident of Sanibel only since November, Geddes Carrington could be called a newcomer to the Island, but he's the sort few could think of as a stranger for more than five minutes.

Word is spreading of his reputation as a cook, and both he and wife Charlotte are already known for their hospitality. In their new home on Isabel Drive they make everyone feel comfortable and it doesn't take long for you to feel as though you've known them a long, long time.

The Carringtons came to Sanibel after years of residency in Winnetka, Illinois where Geddes was president of Buchen Advertising - a $15 million per year advertising agency in Chicago. Before that he was a marketing and advertising executive for 24 years with the Morton Salt Company, his last position there being that of division president.

The Carringtons enjoy traveling and to date have safaried into Africa and visited such South Pacific attractions as Bora Bora, Tahiti and the Fuji Islands. Everywhere they have visited good food has played an important role. Even in Africa, dinner for two was served beside their tent on a table complete with white tablecloths.

At home Geddes does all of the cooking, according to Charlotte, and everywhere their travels take them they search out new recipes.

"Throughout most of our marriage Geddes has had the ability to duplicate almost any dish we've tried - even without a recipe," says Charlotte.

The winner of a national chef's award, Geddes says that he is really a fraud and his cooking abilities have been exaggerated. But "I do know more than three ways to cook zucchini," he admits, laughing easily.

The national chef's award was awarded him by the International Maple Syrup Association and was actually for a tasty mixed drink he concocted from the sticky stuff.

Some of the dishes the Carringtons have sampled during their travels may not be especially appealing to everyone.

"We had a house on the British Virgin Islands," Geddes explains, "where there was this great cook who used all the native stuff. Among her specialties was a dish including sea urchins. Though she was a great cook that was one recipe I never tried to duplicate. We also knew a kid from Texas who loved fish eyes - I've never tried that one either."

With three of their four children living in California the Carringtons manage to pay frequent visits to the West Coast and have found themselves with an acquired taste for California cooking.

A few specialties from Wyoming are also Carrington trademarks. For 10 years Geddes and a few partners owned a dude ranch there. It was an old weigh station on the Yellowstone Trail with the partners owning 22 acres and leasing 1500. Located at an elevation of 9200 feet, the ranch could only be reached by horseback or on foot.

Rich with beautiful wildflowers, the ranch made the perfect setting for the movie "Jubal," which was filmed there. Though the movie starred Glenn Ford and Ernest Borgnine, Geddes admits jovially to only remembering one of the cast - actress Felicia Farr.

The ranch now belongs to the Retlaw Company (Walter spelled backwards), a company owned by the Walt Disney family.

One of Geddes favorite ranch pastimes was fresh water fishing. Now his fishing is likely to be done at Boca Grande or in the salty canals and bay waters near his Island home.

"I don't know anything about salt water fishing," he confides, "that's why I wish I could turn the Gulf into fresh water."

Island Lions host area clubs

By D.E. Cooperrider

The Sanibel-Captiva Lions Club was host to nearly 30 Lions from Cape Coral, Fort Myers Beach and south Fort Myers last Wednesday night.

This zone meeting was for the purpose of informing the clubs of the status of the club's memberships and projects. All were in good state and were active in their projects and donations to local and statewide sight conservation projects and programs.

The meeting was chaired by Zone Chairman Gary Hensley of Fort Myers Beach and Deputy District Governor Dee Amon of Sanibel-Captiva. District Governor Garland Roberts of the Tice Lions Club spoke about membership needs and District Governor-candidate William Miller of Lakeland discussed projects. Both recommended that newly-elected officers attend the State convention at Hollywood in May where leadership training seminars will be conducted.

The Sanibel-Captiva Club is showing an increase in membership as are the other clubs in the area and were complimented by the District Governor.

The next meeting will be held at the Beachview Country Club on March 19 at 6:30 p.m.

painless fish hook removal

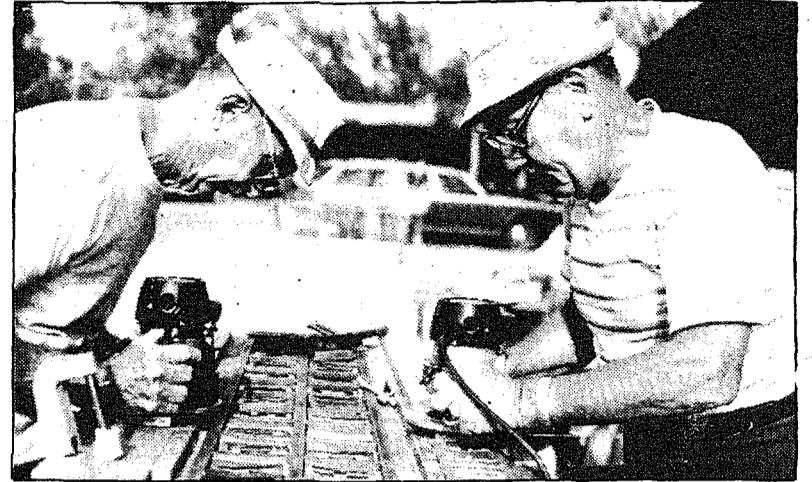

Sooner or later nearly every fisherman becomes the victim of his own hook. Even if he's lucky and escapes being hooked himself, it's unlikely that any serious fisherman has escaped the responsibility of removing a hook from someone else.

A simple and painless technique for removing a hook is possible, so possible in fact, that it's being taught in emergency rooms around the country. The only tool required is a two-foot piece of strong (15-pound test or more) monofilament line. The line is doubled, then looped around the imbedded hook. The eye of the hook is pressed firmly down on the flesh so that the hook stands arched upward. Then the doubled line is gripped firmly and given a good hard yank. The hook flies out painlessly, leaving only the original prick in the skin and muscle.

Save a place for wildlife

By Page Tom

11 grade, Sanibel Resources Center

March 16-22 is National Wildlife Week 1980. This is the 43rd year the National Wildlife Federation has sponsored this event. This year's goal is to express to people the importance habitat has on wildlife.

Habitat provides food, water, shelter, and a place to raise young. The more different kinds of habitats that exist, the greater the variety and numbers of animals there will be.

People are destroying the wildlife habitat with projects. Housing projects such as condominiums, built on highlands, are destroying the habitat of the gopher tortoises on Sanibel. Filling in the estuaries in order to build houses destroys the rearing grounds for young fish and other marine life which make up Florida's fishing industry. Oil spills ruin the habitat of marine life. Strip mining for coal is another one of man's projects that destroys animal habitats. Better planning can help us meet our own needs, as well as the habitat needs of wildlife.

By joining in wildlife week events and by speaking out for habitat protection all year long, we can help protect the beauty and interest wildlife adds to our lives and we can also leave the same heritage to future generations.

Caloosahatchee River Basin Festival

The Third Annual Caloosahatchee River Basin Festival will be held at the Jr. Museum Nature Center on Ortiz Avenue near Colonial Boulevard extension from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. It is open to the public and most events are free.

The Festival theme is the Caloosahatchee Coast, featuring Folk Crafts, demonstrations by Master Craftsmen, Old Timers' recollections, the music and instruments of nationally famous Kentuckian, Homer Ledford, and workshops on the coastal resources.

The program at the Nature Center is focused on the weekend of March 22, 23, 29 and 30 with field trips from the Nature Center on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday to areas of interest in the county.

TRAVEL: - JOURNEY: to go on a trip or tour; a journey to a distant or unfamiliar place.

TRAVEL AGENT: A person or persons trained to give professional assistance to those wishing to travel.

An airline ticket purchased from a travel agent costs the traveler no more than a ticket purchased directly from the airline. However, better service or connections can frequently be obtained through a travel agent. The agent will choose the most convenient flights and connections, irregardless of airline, while the airlines will naturally promote their own flights whenever possible, even if it means an extra hour or more between connections for you.

The services of a travel agent are not limited to airline ticket sales. Agents are also familiar with all the hotels and car rental companies and often know who has a special rate or promotion going at various times of the year. Agents are qualified to sell cruises and tours and are also in a position to advise you on the advantages of one cruise ship or tour company over another. They know the "hidden costs" of the tours that are packaged at a "cheaper" price, and while in some instances the less expensive tour might be just what you're looking for, on a per diem basis and taking all things into consideration, the "expensive" tour may be a better value for the money.

Hidden costs and knowing what additional expenses can be expected during a tour can make the difference between an enjoyable vacation and a potential disaster.

A travel agent can also advise clients and potential travelers on what countries or parts of the world are the best "bargains." Travel agents try to travel as much as possible so they're in a position to advise on a first hand basis. If we're not always in the office when you need us, we're out laying the groundwork for your next trip!

In future columns we'll be exploring potential destinations and reporting on some of our own trips to keep you up to date with happenings in the travel industry.

The tourney for the Beachview Women's Association Champion is currently in progress. Forty-one players competed in the first round on Monday March 10. Bird Rosen and Erna Mickulic each got a gold star for hitting birdies.

Joe Hunter hit a hole-in-one on the fifth hole last week at the Dunes Country Club Men's Association Wednesday tournament.

First place was taken by Ted Tyler. Fred Weymouth, Joe Hunter, and Fred Grassie all tied for second. Bob Jenkins won a prize for coming closest to the pin on the sixth hole.

The full quota of 60 Beachview Men's Association players filled the course for the first time this year when gathered to play in the sun last Saturday.

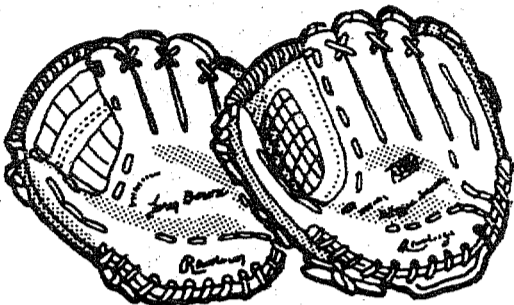

The team of George Siri, Clay Marsh, Elvin Johnson, and Art Snell finished first with a score of plus five.

Second place was won by Don Purcell, Jack Adams, Henry Gustafson, and Hugh Crider, finishing with a plus three.

A score of plus five won the high individual title for Ray McKernen.

The Beachview Men will sponsor a "Scramble" tournament on Sunday March 23. On Wednesday, March 26, the Association will hold the Oliver Matinzi Memorial Tournament, with the annual cocktail party afterwards. All events are open to members of the Beachview Men's Association.

Property Speaking

income, you are destined to remain a renter.

In a previous column I touched on the increasing popularity of two or three couples buying a home, condominium, or a piece of land together. This is done every day in the business world as financial realities force more and more people to partner. Here on our Islands, with rentals in high demand, a house or condominium can become a small business for two or more couples. This way the risk is spread and the cost of ownership, over and above the income which may be generated from rentals, is spread between two or more families. Additionally, financing is easier when the financial statements are combined. Probably the most important advantage is that by pooling resources you are able to make inflation work for you, rather than let inflation push Island property further and further out of your reach.

Should this idea appeal to you, I would recommend talking to your attorney about the best way to organize; i.e., partnership, limited partnership, corporation or Sub-Chapter S Corporation. Compromise and adaptability have long been the key to a successful business venture. Joining financial forces with friends or relatives to purchase an Island property could prove to be the best way to own your own piece of these beautiful Islands during this period of high inflation and high interest rates.

The latest annual adjusted inflation figure of 15-18 percent just boggles the mind.

In addition to scaring us all to death the inflation impact on Island property is very apparent when you read the real estate ads. Certainly, in many cases, the prices have risen above the reach of many moderate income families. You may feel that an Island property would be a good investment, but if the down payment and the monthly payments cut too deeply into savings and discretionary

The Green Thumb...

The dish garden

The dish garden must be one of the most popular and most welcome gifts in the entire florist industry. Many of you probably had one delivered on your birthday or when you reached some great achievement. These little tropical plants arranged in a ceramic or clay container will compliment any interior.

With such a variety of plants in our dish garden how do we care for such a unique design? Fortunately it is very easy and can be accomplished by the blackest of thumbs.

In this modern time of horticulture sciences our green plant propogators acclimate the plants to the normal level of foot candles found in the average home. This simply means that the green plants in your dish garden will do just fine in your living room or bedroom without any special attention given to light. This is a pure luxury compared to what people went through 30 years ago when they had to acclimate plants on their own.

Dish gardens require very little care, in fact the easiest way to kill them is by overcaring. Most dish gardens do best in indirect light such as the light found in the average house but if you have a dish garden of cactus or succulents they will need at least half a day of sunlight. With this type of garden make sure the dish is rotated as to let all the plants share the sunlight. Dish gardens require no feeding insomuch as they will grow too quickly and the enjoyment of your design will soon be gone. They do need water, make no mistake about that. If your garden is in a clay container it will need more water than the garden in a ceramic container as the clay will absorb water much like a sponge. My general rule of thumb on watering is to be conservative. On my cactus and succulent gardens I let the soil become very dry between waterings. When I do water I like to use the rain water we get so much of during the summer. It's pure horticultural champagne! On my tropical plant arrangements I maintain the soil so that it is barely moist.

Now here is a trick that I learned from Jim Crockett which makes watering this type of garden a snap. Fill your sink or a pail with water (preferably rain water) and submerge the container, pot and all, until the bubbles cease to rise to the surface. After that, remove from the water and lay the container on its side to drain for a good 30 minutes or so. If you do that at least twice a month your gardens will give you much enjoyment

There will come a time when your plants will begin to outgrow their home, of course. When this happens simply lift them out of the dish and put them in their own container.

The dish garden is one of the plant favorites and rightly so. Always remember to do things conservatively and when in doubt don't. This philosophy is the best I have in regards to all plants.

Sanibel has miles of public Gulf-front beaches, any one of which is only minutes from your lodging. Lighthouse Point is a stretch of Federal land on the Eastern tip of Sanibel Island, and from there, the gulf beach is accessible again at the end of Donax Street, at Tarpon Bay Road, at Bowman's Beach Road (off Sanibel-Captiva Road) and at Turner's Beach, which is located at Blind Pass, between Sanibel and Captiva Islands.

On Captiva Island, public beach access can be found at Turner Beach (which has public facilities) or, further north, just past the entrance to South Seas Plantation.

The Right Side of the Law

CAMPING

Camping on the beach is prohibited and while everyone enjoys a beach fire, you'll have to get a permit to have one on a Sanibel public beach. The Fire Department on Palm Ridge Road will supply you with a fire permit for $1.00. In addition, you'll be required to make a $25.00 deposit, returnable the day after your beach party when the beach has been inspected for litter or debris. Make sure you clean the area thoroughly or you'll be out $25.00! Condo owners or managers may submit a letter to the Fire Department, acknowledging that they will assume responsibility for clean up after a fire in front of their buildings. The $25 deposit will be waived in those circumstances.

GATORS

Feeding alligators anywhere within the Sanibel city limits is not only illegal (violators of the law are subject to a fine of up to $500, or up to 60 days in jail, or both.), but can be extremely dangerous. Alligators can run 45 m.p.h., so if you're close enough to feed an alligator, he's close enough to feed on you. An alligator fed for fun loses his natural fear of humans and becomes a potential threat to children and pets.

FISHING

While no license is required for salt water fishing, fishing in fresh water ponds or the Sanibel River requires a Florida fishing license, available at Bailey's General Store on Periwinkle Way. The fee is $3.75.

Minimum legal lengths

Blue Fish	10 in.
Flounder	11 in.
Grouper	12 in.
Mackerel	12 in.
Mullet	12 in.
Pompano	10 in.
Red Fish	12 in.
Snook	18 in.
Trout	12 in.

SHELLING

The City of Sanibel Resolution limiting the taking of shells to 2 live shells per person per species is one to be scrupulously obeyed. As a matter of fact, in order to preserve Sanibel's beautiful shelling beaches, most collectors refuse to take ANY live shells whatsoever.

SPEED LIMITS

The varying speed limits as one comes across the causeway may seem almost schizophrenic, but there is a very good reason for them. The stress and strain of traffic over the years has weakened the bridge supports (not to the point where there is any danger, fortunately) so in an effort to preserve the existing structure, the speed limits have been imposed.

They are to be taken seriously, for they are rigidly enforced by radar on a 24-hour a day basis by the Lee County Sheriff's Department. Observe them, please.

DOGGY DO'S... & DONT'S

If you're visiting Sanibel with the family Fido in tow, all the better. All family members can enjoy Southwest Florida sun and surf. The Chamber of Commerce can tell you what accommodations are available for families with pets. REMEMBER - wherever you are - CLEAN UP AFTER YOUR PET! The friendly reminder - "Leave nothing on the beach but footprints" - applies to dogs, too. There's no leash law on Sanibel, but of course an excitable or unruly animal is better off when controlled with a leash.

BICYCLE RULES

If you're not used to a lot of bicycle traffic, watch out for it on Sanibel. The extensive network of bike paths on the island is clearly marked along the edge of the road. Observe caution when driving near the bike path. A state law and a city ordinance combine to PROHIBIT PARKING OR DRIVING ON THE BIKE PATH. MOPEDS ARE NOT PERMITTED ON THE BIKEPATHS.

Planning on spending some time on a bike to enjoy the island sun and sights? Make sure your vehicle is equipped with a bike flag, horn, good brakes and a light for night riding. Under Florida law, bicycle riders have the same rights and responsibilities as motor vehicle drivers. DRIVE SAFELY.

To Your Health

While Sanibel and Captiva have no hospitals, they are served 24 hours a day by a team of paramedics who are widely recognized for their competence. In the event of an emergency, they will call upon the Air Ambulance, which transports patients to the hospital of their choice in the Fort Myers area via helicopter.

The paramedics are based at the Fire Station, just off Periwinkle on Palm Ridge Road. Phone 472-1717 or 472-1414 or 936-3600.

Shopping

Sanibel is a veritable shopper's paradise. Tasteful boutiques and casual island shops join forces to present visitors with everything - and anything - a vacation shopper could hope for.

At the Lighthouse (Eastern) end of the island, Punta Ybel Plaza and The Sea Horse Shops are right across the street from each other, providing a variety of products that can cure your sweet tooth or tickle your shell finder's fancy. Need a good haircut or coiffure? You can get it in either of these shopping centers. Most businesses open at 10 am and close at 5:30. This holds true for many island stores, although during the winter season, some are open evenings.

Tall Australian pines shade Periwinkle Way as the shopper travels west along this main thoroughfare. This stretch of road is truly a shopper's paradise! It's all here...the fast and not-so-fast eating spots, casual and elegant boutiques, hand-wrought jewelry, craft designs, shell shops and balms for health product fanatics.

Watch to your right and left as you drive or cycle along. Photographic supplies, bait and tackle, deli foods, fresh seafood and baked goods, knick-knacks and what-nots can all be found along the drive to the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road. Along the way, shopping centers such as the Heart of the Islands, Periwinkle Place and Tahitian Garden offer a variety of island delights.

Corner Gulf Drive and Palm Lake Drive

At the intersection, the Island Shopping Center features the Island's only supermarket, dry cleaners and movie house.

A left on Tarpon Bay Road takes the visitor past Sanibel's original schoolhouse, which now holds original island water colors and woodcuts. Then on to West Gulf Drive and westward to an interesting little artisan's shop and gallery.

At the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road, you may choose instead to turn right and follow the signs to the Tarpon Bay Marina, where you will find a cluster of quaint shops overlooking the back bay. Some antiques, what-nots and clever clothes can be found here, as well as a great seafood sandwich and soft drinks.

The spectacular ride to Captiva, with its lush foliage and enchanting view of the Gulf, is well worth a day's outing. Talented artists display their works in one roadside shop, while other feature some nifty gifts for Grandma to take home to little hands as a pleasant hodge-podge of remembrances from these barrier islands.

Whether for shopping, or merely browsing, island shops offer a surprising variety - from one-of-a-kind collectibles for the discerning shopper to post cards for the simple souvenir hunter and of course, for all, shells. Shell jewelry, shell lamps, just plain shells ... the most beautiful shells in the world from the most beautiful shelling beaches in the world.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Festival

Third annual Grecian Festival will this year on Saturday and Sunday, March 22 and 27, at the Fort Myers Community Center in Hall. The proceeds from the festival will go solely towards the financial needs of the Greek Orthodox Church in Sanibel, which is the only Orthodox church serving the Greek communities in Sarasota and Miami. We are a small congregation and depend upon the success of the Festival to meet the financial demands of our parish. In addition to current obligations, the church has a large indebtedness incurred during the building of the new Church on Periwinkle Way.

Committees for the Festival are now being formed. A gift table and a white elephant table are being set up. Any of our friends on the Island who would like to help, we would very much appreciate it - new articles for the gift table, used saleable ones for the white elephant table.

Bring your contribution to the Festival to the Beauty Shop in the center, or if you wish, we will be glad to pick it up. Please call Mary Aleck at 472-1111, or Bella Kontinos 472-1366.

The Greek Orthodox Church of Southwest Florida is located at 3611 Cypress Lake Drive in Fort Myers. Phone number: 481-2099.

PTL meeting

The Sanibel Elementary School will be holding a PTL meeting in the cafetorium tonight at 7:30 p.m. There will be an open house.

Audubon

The Sanibel-Captiva Audubon Society will be holding the following programs for the month of March at the Sanibel Community Center on Periwinkle Way at 8 p.m. The general public is invited to attend.

Thursday, March 13: "Guide to the National Wildlife Refuges" - a color slide show talk by authors Laura and William Riley.

Thursday, March 20: "Yellowstone Concerto" and "Birds of Our Lives" - two excellent color-sound nature films.

Thursday, March 27: "Annual Meeting" - Committee reports, election of directors and officers. "Sanibel Sightings" - color slide show by George Weymouth, local birding guide, artist, and wood carver.

The Kiwanis speaker for Wednesday, March 12, will be Mr. John Clayton, of the Complete Count Committee Speaker's Bureau, on the subject of "Mysteries of the Census."

The Kiwanis meet every Wednesday at Scotty's Restuarant on Periwinkle Way at 7:30 a.m.

Kiwanis

Garage sale

St. Isabel's Catholic Church on Periwinkle Way will be holding a garage sale on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday of March 14, 15, and 16, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The public is welcome.

Homes and Gardens Tour

The Periwinkle Garden Club is presenting their 20th Annual Homes and Garden Tour on Sunday, March 16 to benefit civic beautification.

Donation is $4 and tickets are on sale at: Colonial Garden Center; Tourist Center (downtown Fort Myers); Homes on Tour, Periwinkle members; and First Federal Savings and Loan offices on Sanibel Island.

- The homes on tour are:
1. Mr. & Mrs. William R. Spear
 2. Mrs. Patrice Gage
 3. Mr. & Mrs. Bolton McBryde
 4. Mr. & Mrs. J. Tom Smoot, Jr.
 5. Dr. & Mrs. R. Peter Rosier

League of Women Voters

The Sanibel-Captiva unit of the League of Women Voters will hear "remarks" on Hazard Mitigation and Hurricane Safety by Porter Goss at their regular monthly meeting Monday, March 18 at 10 a.m. at the West Wind Inn on West Gulf Drive.

Councilman Goss and the League urge all interested persons to attend in order to learn what preparation will be necessary in the management of fragile barrier islands.

Coffee will be served at 9:30 a.m. and the program will be at 10 a.m. For further information, call unit chair Dorothy Leslie at 472-1693.

The Lee County League will be meet on Tuesday, March 19 at Seven Lakes Recreation Center to decide on program items for the coming year. Local items may be proposed from the floor at this meeting which starts at 10 a.m., with a coffee hour preceding at 9:30. Car pools will leave from the Chamber of Commerce at 9 a.m. for those wishing transportation. Please call Charlotte Hamlet for information at 472-2927.

Weight Watchers

Meets Thursday evenings in the Sanibel Community Association Building at 7:30 p.m. Call 936-0306 for information.

ABWA

The American Business Woman's Association will be presenting their annual flea market on March 30, 1980, from noon to 4 p.m. at the Community House on Periwinkle Way to provide scholarships for women. Join the fun and help us help our girls complete their education!

Exhibitors Information:
Table Size: 2' x 8'; Cost per Table: $25;
Set-Up Time: 9 a.m. until 11 a.m.

There will be a limited number of tables allotted on a first-come, first-serve basis. Preference will be given to ABWA members, but all applications will be acknowledged.

Applications and check must be received by March 15, 1980. Mail to B.J. Puff, 2402 Palm Ridge Road, Sanibel, Florida 33957.

Taxation Committee to pursue options through League of Cities

City Committee on Dual Taxation voted last week to follow advice from County officials and pursue the matter with the Florida League of Cities, along with the budgeting process by the County.

Chairman Fred Zander had requested the Committee obtain a report from the State Attorney as to whether the County had to break down the budgeting breakdown showing that revenues expended by the County in determining the dual taxation system. Currently, the County is broken down into countywide and local expenditures.

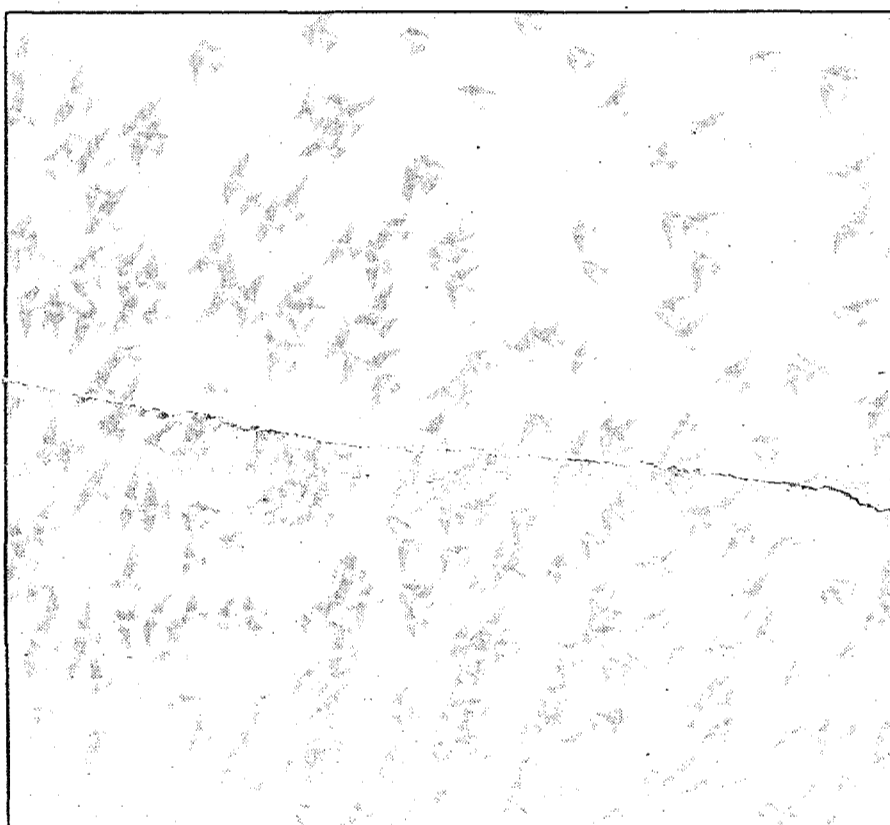

Committee member Roger Henderson said the League of Cities has no experience with the dual taxation system which could be an indication that it has attempted to circumvent the system. Henderson suggested the Committee contact the State Attorney and he doesn't think he'll volunteer any help unless we ask him," Henderson said.

Committee member John Blomquist said that the Committee "try to get it done with a timetable. If they don't, we'll handle it ourselves."

Blomquist added that a formal resolution by the three municipalities of Cape Coral, Fort Myers and Sanibel could be mandated by the League. "We have no formal root" with that agency, Blomquist said, "but member cities do."

Henderson also suggested the Committee look into a budgeting system currently in use by Longboat Key, a City in Manatee County. That city, Henderson said, has a taxing and budget system that

City to conduct roadside trip survey

By Pat Harmel

The City of Sanibel will be conducting an Origin and Destination (O & D) study on March 25, 28, and 30 and on April 5, to help determine the who, what, where, when, why and how of Sanibel's tourists, daytrippers, residents and workers. The survey will furnish the City with much needed information concerning the use of Island beaches, shops, roads and accommodations.

According to Assistant City Manager Gary Price, the City hopes to evaluate 25 percent of the total Causeway traffic during the four days the study is conducted.

An extra traffic lane will be established on Causeway Road across from the Chamber of Commerce office and vehicles will be tallied between 6:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. A Roadside Trip Survey Questionnaire will be administered by volunteer workers and information collected will include: date, time, vehicle license number and state issued, whether the vehicle is a car, motorcycle, pickup, auto with trailer, recreational vehicle, 2, 3, 4, or 5 axle, number of occupants in the vehicle, residency, whether they're visiting Sanibel or Captiva and for how long, type of accommodations, the purpose of their trip (work, personal, shopping, sightseeing, vacationing etc.), the frequency with which the trip is made and whether it was paid or a bridge ticket used to cross the Causeway.

According to Price, the City is looking for volunteers to help man the survey traffic lane. Three four-hour shifts per day will be established with seven volunteers working each shift. Volunteers should contact the City Manager's office at 4135.

Commissioners frown on "Lopsided O"

By Paul Howe

Yesterday's Sanibel Planning Commission session opened with only four "regulars" in the audience. Fred Valtin was the only absentee Commission member.

Commissioner Judy Workman kicked off the meeting by condemning the City Council's recent approval of the "lopsided O" intersection at Causeway Road and Periwinkle Way. She recommended that the City Council be memorandized that "nothing should have been done to the intersection at this time." Her recommendation was adopted by the Commission with only Commissioner Manchester dissenting.

The first case for Commission consideration was a City-initiated Special Amendment to the Comprehensive Land Use Plan (CLUP). It was proposed that the Ecological Zones Map be revised to conform to the recently-approved development and plat for a sector of the East Rocks subdivision off West Gulf Drive. There were objections by Commissioner Workman and members of the audience in the manner in which the previous approvals of the Army Engineers, Department of Environmental Regulation (DER), and the City was accorded the development. After considerable

rk ("Bird") Westall of Sanibel and i native Peter Quincy paddled a e into Timmy's Nook on Captiva at 4 last Tuesday, completing a 12-mile Quincy's 904-mile expedition around Florida coastline from Pensacola to onville.

Two began their day's journey at Pt.
 Grande on Gasparilla Island around clock that morning. Westall, representing the Sanibel-Captiva Audubon ty, accompanied Quincy across the rs of the Pine Island Sound Aquatic ervice.

Quincy, who embarked alone from the el Lighthouse Wednesday morning, is ng the voyage as a representative of Florida Audubon Society. The trip was ed to dramatize the "Year of the t" as proclaimed by President Carter Governor Graham and is the Society's of focusing attention on the state's and fragile coastline and the need for mprehensive coastal resource plan to ct it. The Pine Island Aquatic ervice is one of the regions for which ctive regulations are sought.

The Sanibel-Captiva stop represented completion of some 470 miles of y's trip. By nightfall Wednesday, he destined to travel another 26 miles ss the waters to Ft. Wiggins, just of Naples.

The trip began February 25 at Pena. From there, Quincy travelled ward across the icy coastal waters of anhandle, enduring temperatures as as 20 degrees F. He has made erous stops as he paddled southward g Florida's West Coast and will make y more as he winds around the nsula moving northward to onville.

Seeking both cooperation and funds for the many coastal projects of the Florida
 Audubon, Quincy talks with local citizens at every stop.

"Florida's coastline is its strength," he says, calling attention to the longest coastline in the 48 contiguous states.

Westall, who is known on the Islands for his birding canoe tours, joined Quincy at Pt. Boca Grande Tuesday morning to serve as one of several partners scheduled to help Quincy with the oars.

Tuesday's segment of the voyage was not difficult according to Quincy, who was greeted by Islanders at a reception at the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Society
 Tuesday night at 8 p.m. He reported that the weather was no real obstacle. The wind was favorable part of the day but then shifted to oppose their course. "But with Westall in the bow, we really had no problems," said Quincy. "This trip wouldn't be at all difficult for me if I had someone like him paddling with me all the way. He is accustomed to frequent canoeing and is in condition for it."

Quincy described the waters between Boca Grande and Sanibel as an especially beautiful section of Florida's coastline -
 "An area well worth preserving," said
 Quincy.

"We saw many ospreys and possibly some eagles breeding under all sorts of conditions. Most of the grass beds are undisturbed. In other areas we have seen coastline ruined by over-development. In this area, however, the only problem observed was some erosion of beaches.
 The water was a bit cloudy, but this was probably due to turbulent weather conditions of the previous three days."

portions of the trip "very interesting," according to Quincy.

He described Sunday's voyage as "kind of neat," explaining that with the wind's force in the right direction, the canoe had made rapid progress at speeds up to seven knots, without the assistance of either of its occupants.

To date the canoe has not capsized. Only once has it been swamped. That was when a large boat named "The Sweet Revenge," passed at full speed within only a few yards of the lone canoe.

In addition to Quincy and his partner, the 17-foot canoe carries 250 to 300 pounds of equipment and supplies.

Included are a sleeping bag, preservers, dry clothes, a three-supply of food, a 76-quart ice radio, flares and a camera. The equipment for the voyage was by Sears.

Quincy, who has lost 10 or more during the trip, said he does mend such a voyage for everyone. "The coastline is so vulnerable to over-exposure, sun, or to heart and blood problems should not even think of it."

"But it would be nice to know the natural beauty I've seen will be there for the enjoyment of others to come," he concluded.

Spectacular Tree Swallows

By George Campbell

Exciting event occurred on February 18 of this year approaching my home on the Island in the West

When I returned home I saw three separate flocks of Tree Swallows (Iridoprocne bicolor), flying overhead. I estimated there were about 10,000 birds, all flying at an altitude of approximately 500 feet. As I watched, they melded into one large flock and then split into three distinct groups again, flying in a circular pattern above the natural forest regenerating on the West Rocks.

The attraction for the Swallows to this area is the Bayberry, Myrica cerifera, a tree very closely related to the one whose leaves can be purchased in the market for seasoning soups and stews and whose wax provides the aroma for old-fashioned Bayberry candles. At this time of the year the Southern Bayberry is heavily laden with round, bird-shot size, blue-black waxberries which is highly calorific due to its high wax content. In the winter phase of its life cycle the Tree Swallow feeds on aerial plankton that serves as its usual diet. By aerial plankton I, of course, mean insects and other invertebrate life that fly or waft through the air. Did you know that many spiders are found on aerial plankton? They float freely on webs for long distances. Mosquitoes, flies, some moths and other insects attracted to light in the summertime provide the highly proteinaceous diet the Tree Swallow feeds on during its summertime nest-building and baby-rearing activities. Protein in the diet, after all, builds strong young bodies while wax, in its proper place and time, provides high levels of readily available energy.

In the wintertime Tree Swallows migrate in vast numbers to Florida and can be seen anytime between December and April. Considering the chill weather we've had off and on since February (and now in March) it would be quite impossible for there to be much in the way of invertebrate plankton in the air. Consequently, these huge numbers of birds have to subsist on waxberries from the Southern Bayberry tree.

As I watched the three flocks separate and meld into one, and then separate again, they were drifting westward at a considerable elevation and did not appear to be searching for food. But, upon arriving at my home, I took up a favorite vantage point near some very fine and highly productive Bayberry trees and waited. Soon the huge flock, now estimated at about 50,000, descended on a Myrica tree only 20 or 30 feet away from where I was concealed. With a great fluttering of wings the beautiful, bi-colored, iridescent, tiny green-backed birds settled in all their thousands upon a 30 foot tree, bending many of the branches in such a way as to nearly break them. The combined weight of the thousands of birds must have equalled hundreds of pounds because the tree was badly distorted as they fed upon the abundant fruit, emitting a liquid call and causing a great vibrant disturbance with their very audible fluttering.

Again and again they rose from the same tree only to descend again. This aspect of the Swallow's eating habits was new to me for I had, in previous years, thought that a Tree Swallow consumed all of the fruit from a tree in one fell swoop and then traveled on to another. In this instance, the feeding was rather sloppily accomplished. Later I found, on a smooth surface under the same tree, thousands of uneaten berries carelessly dropped and wasted. Walking on that little smooth surface was like traveling a sidewalk covered with small ball bearings - kind of risky. There being no Myrica in the immediate vicinity of my observation point I watched as the flocks settled on various other trees over a period of about an hour. As they flew over the cabbage palm canopy the sound was like that of a minor hailstorm, for the seeds were passing through the birds' digestive tracts with amazing rapidity, spattering down upon the palm trees as miniature hailstones on a forest of drumheads.

There is some indication that seeds having passed through the gut of a Tree Swallow germinate more readily than those that simply fall from the tree - a kind of naturally evolved scarification. That afternoon, while discussing this orthological phenomenon with a neighbor, I learned that a few thousand Tree Swallows had passed over her home a few days earlier. While dipping down to drink from her swimming pool the birds had dropped a neat layer of "ball bearings" on the pool's bottom.

As far as I'm concerned, that's the only problem the species creates and, since my pool is screened, I think it's a small penalty for others to pay to view this incredible sight here on the Islands each year.

South Seas scores Commission victory

Wednesday, March 19 the Army of Engineers will hold a public meeting on the proposed South Seas renourishment project. The meeting will be held at the Captiva Community Center at 7 p.m. and the public is invited to attend.

at Harmel

After listening to nearly three hours of testimony, both for and against the proposed South Seas property owners renourishment project, the Lee County Commissioners voted 4-1 last week to recommend approval of the project.

The South Seas group must now attain approval from the Army Corps of Engineers, the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) before taking further action on the project that would dredge 765,000 cubic yards of sand and place it along 10,000 linear feet of South Seas shoreline.

After viewing a slide show presented by South Seas president Allen TenBroek and hearing conflicting opinions from more than 20 concerned citizens, the Commissioners asked for a report from Commissioner Harry Rodda - representative for Sanibel and Captiva - who has participated on the committee established to study the issue.

Rodda, without discussing any of the issues raised by the numerous speakers, told the Commission that he believed the project would not injure the "environmental integrity of the shoreline" and pointed out that the Commission had always "supported renourishment in concept." In addressing the possible long and short term environmental impacts of the dredging, Rodda said he resented the Commission being put in a position to rule on technical matters for which they had no expertise.

"It's not appropriate for this board to be put into a situation to determine something this technical," he said, adding, "I don't see how our board can make this decision."

Rodda then told the Commissioners that in his estimation the proposed project was "in the public interest."

"If we're not interested in renourishment we shouldn't be pursuing acquisition of barrier islands," he added.

Rodda then moved for approval of the project with the following conditions: that the County's environmental concerns be examined by the DER; that a detailed monitoring program of the project's affects be implemented; that lowland turtles in the immediate vicinity of the renourished beach be relocated; that appropriate stabilizing vegetation be planted.

Rodda's motion was seconded by Commissioner Wade Scaffa and passed by a 4-1 vote with only Commissioner Harry Roberts (Fort Myers Beach) dissenting.

The City of Sanibel's recommendations were delivered to the Commission Planning Director Bruce Rogers and discussed by the Commission. The Council had earlier in the week approved the recommendations in the Commission gave the dredging project a vote of approval.

The Council asked that approval of the project include conditions addressing issues of lowered densities on Sanibel and Captiva, adherence to the setback line on Captiva rather than the County setback, the examination of alternative traffic routes for Captiva, adoption of a hazard mitigation program for Captiva and a recognition that resources were being used to protect private property.

The entire design functions as a one way intersection, with vehicles traveling from Lindgren and the Lighthouse having to travel a half mile out of the way down Bailey Road to gain entrance to Periwinkle Way. Eastbound Periwinkle traffic will be able to turn onto Causeway Road without stopping.

Harry Bertossa, one of the consulting engineers, estimated the traffic capacity of the new design to be about 3,000 vehicles per hour. Bertossa told the Council, "We haven't presented anything to you that will solve all your problems," and pointed out that most of the designs submitted would work more efficiently with traffic lights. The Council, however, took an adamant stand against signalization despite resident Paul Howe's warning that they were "turning themselves inside out to avoid traffic lights."

The proposed intersection now goes before the Planning Commission for final design approval, and if no snags are hit, construction could begin as early as July.

A requested Development Permit for "Dunes" work, discussed at previous Commission meetings, was again discussed. Two changes were made in the plan as a result of the discussion. The changes involved a relocation of a road and a reconfiguration of several lots. Disagreement arose over the road drainage plans as to whether a grassy swale or a culvert-catchbasin system would be used. The applicant requested that the case be continued for further

Why a census?

by Paul Howe

A treasure of historical sidelights on the Federal Centennial Census is buried in the information made available to me as Sanibel's volunteer representative on the Public Information Division of the Regional "Complete Count" committee.

Many complaints are currently being voiced in the local media about the intimate nature of the questions to be answered on April 1. Central to those gripes is the pervading belief that the answers constitute irrelevant invasions of privacy because they are not essential to "just a basic head count."

Contrary to a widely held belief, the U.S. Constitution does not call for the census to be merely a "head count." It actually provides that the enumeration shall be made "in such manner" as the Congress "shall by law direct." Ever since the first census in 1790, the Congress has freely exercised that prerogative. Looking back over the questions asked in the Nation's 19 censuses since, reveals an interesting catalogue of changing statistical needs of our burgeoning growth as a new republic.

In planning that very first census, Congress wisely saw it as a ready tool for getting facts on key problems needed to formulate sound policies on the future of our national destiny. The 1790 census, therefore, counted the number of free white males both over and under 16." This was done to determine the industrial and military potential of our original 13 states.

The 1810 census was planned with the clouds gathering for America's War of 1812 with its former Mother Country - on whom it still depended for most of its factory goods. Accordingly, the manufacturing data sought was for determining our degree of dependence on Great Britain for supplies and the nature of such materials.

In like manner, the number and variety of questions were fashioned for subsequent censuses. Mental health data was sought in 1880; labor union participation in 1890; such items as illiteracy, inadequate housing, ownership of radio and TV sets etc. were probed until the need for answers became obsolete and they were dropped in favor of more current demands.

Nowadays Congress is demanding data on: the bases for revenue sharing and grant programs; the structure of overlapping governmental bodies; taxing potentials; condition and capabilities of the nation's farms and factories; the size and shape of election and voting districts; availability of raw materials for domestic trade and a welter of other subjects pertinent to bringing us out of our economic doldrums. This is badly needed as we soar into a population of 200 million recorded in 1970.

In light of these revelations it behooves each of us to answer the 1980 questions on April 1 - be they on the "Long" form. Remember that if ALL the questions are not answered it will cost our Federal Treasurer a special enumerator to get the missing answers. Don't waste both your and his time and money.

Uncle Sam is again counting on you for a complete count on April 1!

To the Editor of the ISLANDER:

WINK - FM has capitulated to commercialism! That means that the 90-minute program of symphonic music which used to be aired from 7 to 9:30 p.m. will no longer be heard. Instead, the station will fill our air waves with ROCK - like all the other commercial stations.

To The Editor:

I wish to thank each and every person who so kindly helped me when I had blacked out and my car went off the road and turned on it's side last Monday near the entrance to South Seas Plantation.

Very truly,
Jane S. Stein
(Mrs. William M.)

We believe there are two things citizens can do. One is to take the opportunity to make a negative contribution next time any one of the VOTERS come up for re-licensing. They can support the Edison Commission's efforts to get a PUBLIC radio and PUBLIC television station in Sanibel. Only when this is accomplished can there be an alternative to the programming which we are subjected to on every commercial radio station.

It is clear that commercial radio is entirely concerned with making money and commercial messages. We deserve an opportunity to escape the dull fare.

DeVerna

F. DeVerna, 55, of Periwinkle Park, Sanibel Island, died Monday, March 3. Survivors include his wife, three daughters: Mrs. Diane Jonesville, Michigan; Mrs. Cassberger of Alexandria, Mrs. Barbara Miller of Lake Florida; a brother, Stanley Lambertville, Michigan; his daughter, F. DeVerna of Lambertville, a sister, Mrs. Florence Temperance, Michigan, and children. Arrangements were handled by the Phil Myers Funeral Home on Lake Drive, and the Boyer-Van Cott Funeral Home of Toledo.

Harper

Margaret L. Harper, aged 85, Stanley J. Harper, and an annual winter visitor to Sanibel since 1965, died unexpectedly at her home in Minneapolis, Minnesota on Thursday, February 28, the day following her return from Florida. She is survived by one son, James L. Harper of Minneapolis; five daughters: Josephine L. Harper of Madison, Wisconsin; Mrs. Charles A. (Helen) Davis of Aberdeen, South Dakota; Mrs. Elizabeth Gilroy of Grand Haven, Michigan; Ruth Harper and Mrs. William A. (Kathryn) Soules of the Minneapolis area; 15 grandchildren, and 6 great grandchildren. The family suggests that memorials, if desired, be made to Chapel By the Sea in Captiva, to the Heart Association, or to the Diabetes Association. Funeral services for Mrs. Harper were held in Minneapolis on March 3.

Summersby

Mrs. John Summersby, a Sanibel winter resident, died on February 28 in Summit, New Jersey. She is survived by her husband John, of Summit; a daughter, Mrs. Richard Emmett, and a son, Edward Summersby, both of Boston. Services were held in Summit.

Births

Pastor Jamie Stilson and wife Kim, of the First Baptist Church of Sanibel, proudly announce the arrival of Christie Jenelle, 5:30 a.m., at Lee Memorial Hospital in Fort Myers, March 4. Miss Christie weighed in at seven pounds, fourteen ounces. Mother and daughter are doing fine and so is daddy.

Happening Today

Tuesday at the Center

Today's Tuesday at the Center presentation will feature Mr. and Mrs. C.B. Frank of Connecticut, builders of that state's first solar home.

During the 2 p.m. program entitled "Something New Under the Sun," they will discuss experiences included in their book of the same name. They will be sharing with Islanders the knowledge they have gained from building a dream home - solar style.

Tips will include how to choose a site, positioning the house for greatest advantage of natural elements, integrating solar features into home design, and finding the right builder.

In addition they will offer advice on obtaining available grants, loans and tax incentives.

Tickets for the program will go on sale at 1 p.m. at the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Center. Seating is limited to 66.

PTL meeting

The Sanibel Elementary School will be holding a PTL meeting in the cafeteria tonight at 7:30 p.m. There will be an open house.

1980 Shell Fair

The 43rd Annual Shell Fair drew a record crowd of over 15,000 people to one of the most respected shell shows in the world. This year's Fair had more exhibits than ever before. The tent over the Sanibel Shell booth, and the outside Driftwood Shop, Live Shell Exhibit, and plant sale helped give the event a "Fair" feel that Shell Fair Chairman Anne Joffe believes makes the event attractive.

Memorial Trophy - A Victorian flower arrangement made with local shells and fish bones.

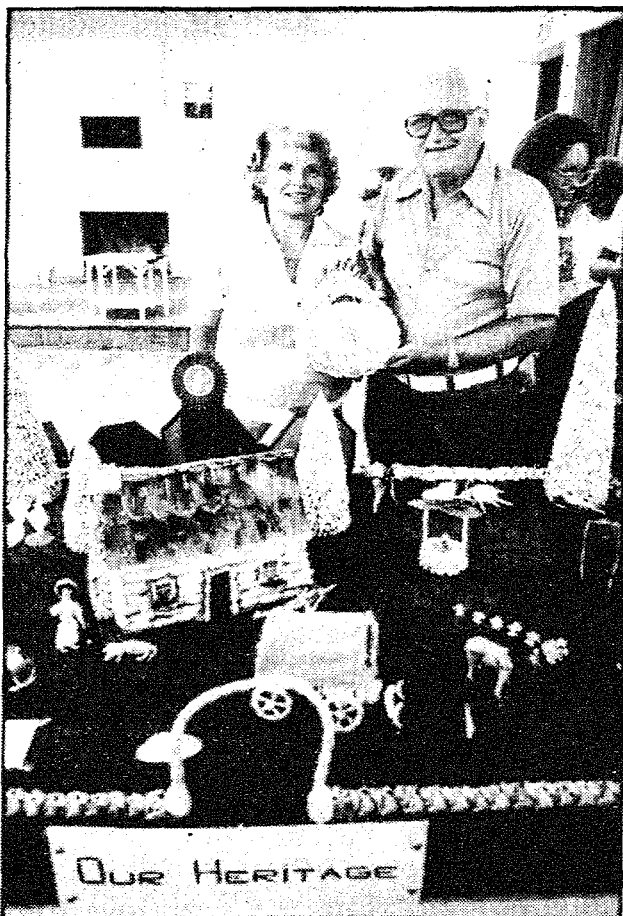

Lowell (slit shells) is the most complete exhibit of this family ever put together. The rare shells were dredged from around the world.

Gene Everson photograph of a Morum's radula. The Morum genus was previously considered not to have a radula, the shell's equivalent of teeth.

The idea for the display came from a Sanibel shell shop. A stamp with the shell's photograph came with the purchase of a Japanese Emperor's Slit Shell.

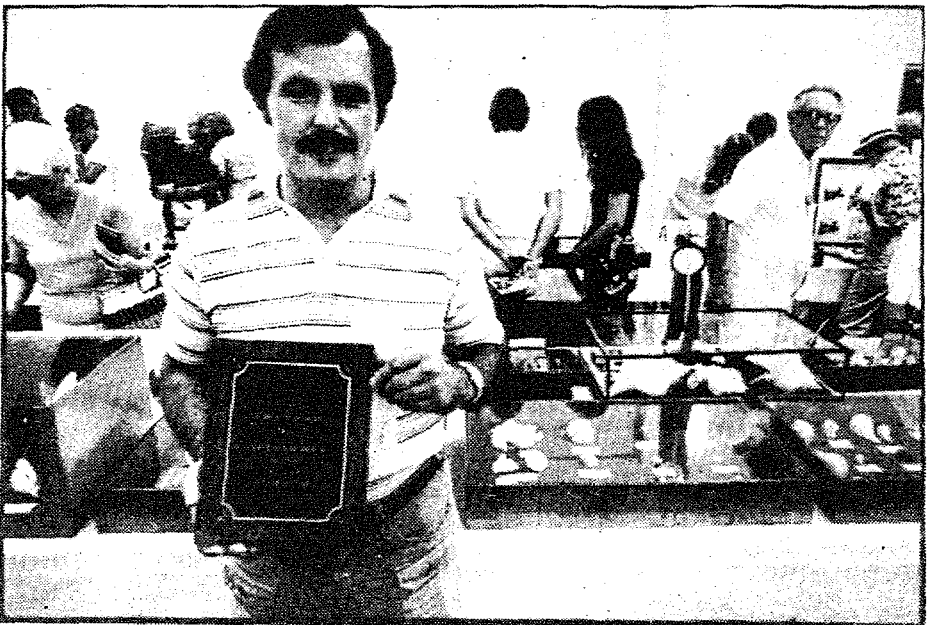

People's Trophy, Artistic - Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Stoltz

The Ohio residents' display began with a collection of olive shells from Sanibel. Virgil had the idea to make a log cabin when "one thing led to another."

The Mary Cunningham Memorial Trophy - Shamie Baum Most of the shells were found at Blind Pass after a storm. Shamie claims that she is successful because, "I have a secret way of sifting through the piles of shells."

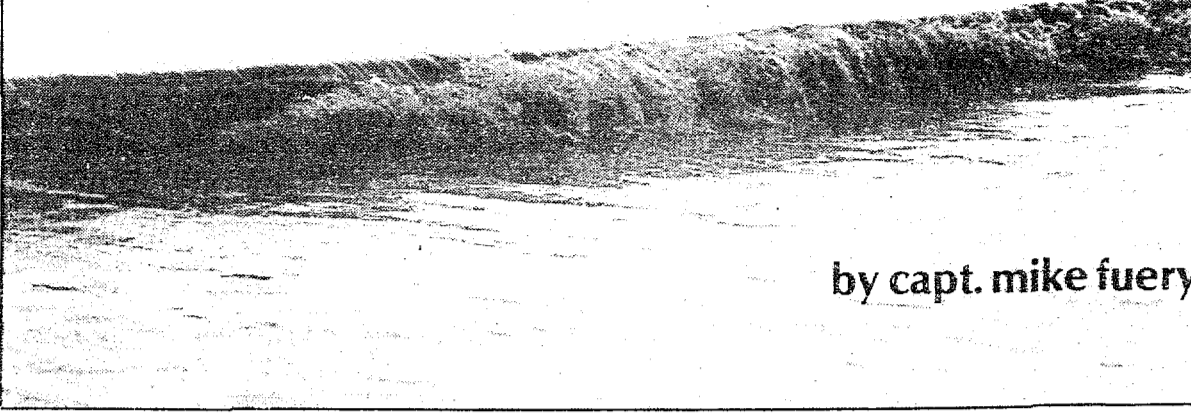

The Conchologists of America Award - Edward Sarkin A huge showing of Florida and Caribbean shells. Sarkin has been working on the extensive collection for the past five years. He has won four major trophies in four shows with this exhibit.

Story and photos by Mark Harmel

by capt. mike fuery

Between fitting a dead pigmy killer whale into my boat, finding a bottle with a note and two "joints" in it, and of course about freezing to death while out shelling, I had what we call in the news business, a busy week!

You might recall that a couple of years ago I found another note in a bottle and decided not to open it, going on the time tested theory that no good news ever travels by bottle. I didn't open that one, but someone else did and gave me the message and that started all sorts of time consuming correspondence. From that time on I ignored notes in bottles. That is, until last week.

I was up on Cayo Costa Island with a shelling party when I about tripped over a half-buried wine bottle. There was a cork in the end and I could see that there was a note inside. Not this time, I said to myself, and walked on a few paces. But no one ever said you have to be smart to be a fishing guide. I went back and pulled the bottle out of the sand.

Not only was there a note in the tall bottle, but at the bottom there were two perfectly rolled marijuana cigarettes, or joints, as some segments of the Island population call them.

Now I've done it, I said to myself. I've put my fingerprints on a bottle with enough grass in it to keep me in the "lonesome stony" for about six months—with good behavior. Now what? Oh, and there was another item in the bottle also—a package of empty cigarette rolling papers. Nothing suspicious there to me! I put the bottle on board unopened and forgot about it.

When I went home with the story and the bottle, my wife, Carol, said I might as well find out what was inside. If it was grass, then call the Lee County Sheriff's Department have them come out and pick it up and let them worry about it.

I sniffed the cork on the bottle. That's my brand. I decided to open it and bounced around happily on the bottle.

The cork came out easily, but the joints and neither the joints nor note would hold together. I decided to say to hell with the works when Carol finally managed to get the note past the joints. The note and cigarettes fell out on the kitchen table.

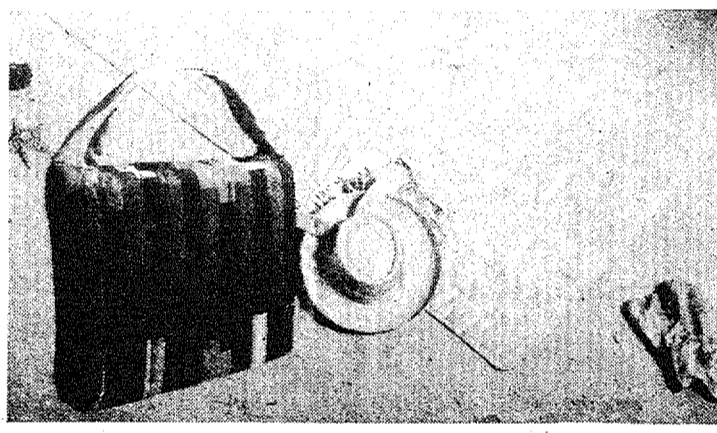

I can't tell you the exact words on the note, but it was a family newspaper. It had a great deal of news, including a running hard aground on a sandbar and spending at least three hours there. There were also vague, but pointed

There is one other very popular shell for both jewelry and collecting and it's called a flat shell, or more often a "fan" shell.

The fan shells are usually a dark brown, like the lion's paw. Both shells often have color variations but, even so, you can't mistake the identity of the two because of their obvious flat form.

The largest fan shell I've ever come upon on Island beaches was about an inch and a half long. That's not very large compared to some that I've seen for sale in shops. They often look like they would come close to being four inches or more in length and nearly that in width.

The flat shells not only make fine jewelry but can be set easily into picture frames under glass. I've seen some very nice displays in frames, but so far I haven't collected enough to design one of my own.

Keep searching. No one ever gathered a prize set of collector shells in one outing. It takes many, many trips. These persistent cold fronts have brought in some great shelling for those brave enough to venture out. I heard from someone that a three inch junonia had washed ashore just the other day.

The fish that didn't get away!

Keye Daus, 15, of Sanibel, demonstrated his ability as a skilled fisherman by catching five of the infamous, elusive Tripletail, the largest of which (pictured here) weighed in at 15 pounds. Tripletail are frequently seen eating algae off of floating crab pots and to land one of the suspicious fish a boater has to sneak up behind them without casting a shadow. Keye caught his fish between Shell Harbor and Knapps Point, about a mile off shore, by casting beyond the fish and then dragging the bait (shrimp) in front of them. Tripletail are infamous fighters and according to Keye, each one took about 15 minutes to land.

We had a good laugh. And here, all the time I had felt like a criminal driving around with a couple of joints.

As for the big fish story, I'll have to admit that it's not often you see a whale in your fishing boat and live to tell about it. As you might have read in the Islander, while shelling up on Johnson Shoals, we discovered the dead body of a pigmy killer whale, went back later that night, and retrieved it just before the tide was about to sweep it out. Thanks to the efforts of several people around the Tween Waters Marina, the fish is now being studied by scientists exhibits

Sanibel's Artfac Gallery will be featuring a photographic exhibit by Conrad Bailey from March 14 until April 16.

The exhibit will begin with a reception - open to the public - from 5 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. on March 14. The Gallery is open daily between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

The show will include some of Bailey's more recent works, including local landscapes, wildlife, portraits and still life subjects. One of the most interesting aspects of this exhibit will be a group of wide-angle landscape scenes shot with a 100 year old Russian camera. "I not only can't remember the name of the camera, I couldn't even pronounce it," says Bailey.

This will be Bailey's first local exhibit, as most of his work is seen in advertisements and fashion photos, including Time, Life, Mademoiselle, Harpers Bazaar and Vogue magazines.

Bailey studied art at Indiana University and other various schools of photography and apprenticed under some of the finest photographers in Chicago and New York. He was chief photographer for several leading Chicago creative firms, one of which was headed by Wesley Bowman, now a Fort Myers resident.

Bailey was also president of his own firm, working as a photo illustrator, set designer for films and television and lighting consultant for motion pictures and television. During this period Bailey also owned and operated his own film and television production company in Chicago and New York. His national and international assignments were for leading corporations and advertising agencies in the United States and abroad.

Now a full-time resident of Sanibel, Bailey still accepts national and international advertising photographic assignments, but manages to devote considerable time to this area where he is in demand for television commercials, photographic assignments and serves as director of photography for Lee Living Magazine.

The Schoolhouse Gallery will be featuring an exhibit of Sanibel artists Polly and Ikki Matsumoto's work beginning March 16.

Ikki Matsumoto, born and raised in Tokyo, Japan, attended the Tama Art Institute of Tokyo, the John Herro Art

School in Indianapolis, and is a graduate of the Art Academy of Cincinnati.

Before moving to Sanibel, Matsumoto worked for several advertising agencies, illustrated books for McGraw Hill and worked for Mifflin publishing company. She has done illustrations (and redesigned) for the latest edition of the Joy of Cooking, designed a set of illustrations for nature animals marketed by Random House under the name "Zoo-It-You" and numerous book, magazine, textile and design assignments and designs for ceramic dinnerware, napkins, runners for Denby of England.

Since moving to the Island, Matsumoto's work has focused on drawings and paintings in watercolor and hand printed silk screens.

Polly Matsumoto, a native of Sanibel, met her future husband while attending the Art Academy of Cincinnati. Her focus is on the art of hand spinning and weaving.

INTERVAL OWNERSHIP — it's the most vacation for our money.

True — we work hard to earn our vacations and we want the most for our money. Inflation is making resort rentals just too expensive for a family — and we simply can't afford the year-round ownership and maintenance of a vacation home.

So we're here at Plantation Beach Club where interval ownership gives our family the assurance that we can enjoy leisurely vacations each year, in comfort and luxury, — all at a one-time cost that's easy to afford.

We love the islands — it's a great place for June and me to relax and there's so much for the kids to do. Our vacation villa is right on the beach, fully furnished, complete with linens, all the kitchen utensils, magazines, — you name it. We've got two private bedrooms, two bathrooms and a screened porch, so there's plenty of room for the kids.

With barbecues and a full kitchen, we fix breakfast, lunch, snacks and dinners — and save enough money to treat the whole family to nice restaurants once in a while.

There's also an exchange program — so we can change our vacation times and visit other resorts, all without paying rent. We believe Interval Ownership provides the most vacation for our money.

Gulfside Place denied Building Permit extension

The Sanibel City Council demonstrated their dismay at the slow development of Gulfside Place Condominium last week by voting 3-1 against granting a further extension of the project's Building Permit.

The first Building Permit for Gulfside Place was issued in October, 1977 but was later declared invalid in May, 1978 for not having met a 60 day foundation inspection requirement. That decision was appealed by the owner and in August, 1978 the appeal was upheld by the Board of Adjustment and Appeals.

Since that time the Sanibel City Council has granted three 90 day extension periods of the developer's Building Permits. When the developer's attorney appeared before the Council last week a memo was submitted from Acting City Manager Gary Price recommending approval of the fourth extension "since the project is proceeding and is 65 percent completed."

Councilman Duane White told the attorney that in his opinion "You people have tried to hoodwink us." City Manager Bernie Murphy pointed out to Council that the "Staff is not overwhelmed by their progress," but Building Official George Blaine interjected that "The contractor is working diligently...and the project appears to be moving well."

When questioned as to an approximate completion date the City Official estimated the time to be about six more months.

Councilmembers expressed emotions regarding the repeated extensions but the possibility of a deserted home.

Councilmember Zee Butler's attorney "The City of Sanibel project over and done with" Councilman Charles LeBuffert commented saying, "It's getting out of the rope for extension concerned."

Councilman White moved for a 90 day Permit extension (the current one expires March 18) and Councilman White seconded. The motion passed 3-1 with Mayor Bailey dissenting and Councilman Porter Goss absent.

Now the developer must wait for a Permit, which if secured, would be for a period of one year. White said a thorough inspection be conducted on existing development.

City-Library contract in the works

Sanibel Library Vice President George Tenney appeared before City Council last week to request a committee be formed to draft a contract between the Library and the City.

The Library Board must give the Lee County Commissioners notice of the cancellation of the Library-County contract before July 1 and, according to Tenney, "The day the City and Library enter into contract the County-Library contract will be cancelled."

A committee consisting of the City Manager, City Attorney, Councilmember Zee Butler, Paul Howe, George Tenney, Howard Hulsman, Harriet Howe and Arthur Clark was established to draft the City-Library contract.

Tenney also told the Council that the Library's name was being shortened from The Sanibel Island Free Public Library to The Sanibel Free Public Library.

Council supports efforts to lower Fort Myers Beach density

The Sanibel City Council passed a Resolution last Tuesday requesting the Lee County Commission lower the maximum density per acre on Fort Myers Beach.

Councilmember Zee Butler introduced the request in response to a letter from Dennis Simon, secretary of the Beach Voters Association.

The Lee County Commission is expected to hear arguments April 2 concerning a request for rezoning Beach 30 to 14 units per acre.

Calling the lowered density a "conscionable amount" Councilmember Porter Goss seconded the Resolution in support of "a reduction of density on Fort Myers Beach access, traffic congestion, mitigation, water quality, and environmental impact." High density as factors affect

City approves Aloha Taxi

City Council last week granted unanimous approval to an Occupational License for the Aloha Taxi service, owned and operated by Jeanette Daniel, resident of Trans-Oceanic Resort, Inc.

According to City Code Enforcer Dick Baker, the License will allow Ms. Daniel to house her "corporate headquarters" in her Tahitian Gardens place of business.

Ms. Daniel asked for approval of three taxis on the Islands with options for a total up to 11. According to Baker, the taxis will not be housed on the Islands but will work instead out of Kingston Square in Iona-McGregor.

City supports census

City Council approved a motion to support the Citizen's Census Commission allocation to help with the cost of the census. The motion to approve "not to exceed $300" passed.

Cyprina Beach denied Graphics variance

Cyprina Beach Condominium was turned down last week by City Council on their request for a Graphics Ordinance variance that would have allowed two small signs in place of their existing one (permitted by the Ordinance).

Appearing on behalf of the owners, a representative from Environmental Graphics told the Council that Cyprina Beach was requesting two small signs - one at each entry to the development - in place of their one large sign currently standing in between the two drives. Maintaining that this was a special case - because the two separate drives do not interconnect inside the development - the spokesman said that both signs together would not equal the maximum space allowed for the large single sign currently permitted.

Claiming that the vegetation buffer and the location of the drives made it impossible to see the single sign coming from both directions, the spokesman told Council that granting a variance for Cyprina would not set a precedent.

Councilmember Zee Butler agreed that the Cyprina Beach sign "was attractive" but added, "there's no doubt in my mind that it's a graphic. I can't see where you'll be hurt by our turning this down." Duane White agreed, adding, "I'd like to see people make an honest effort to comply with this Ordinance."

Mayor Francis Bailey pointed out that perhaps this was a special case and reminded Council, "We've agreed to review these on a case by case basis." Council, however, voted 3-1 against the variance, with Bailey dissenting.

Triplex request withdrawn

Robert Sagers of Sanibel last week withdrew his request for an Amendment that would allow conversion of a single family home to a triplex.

Sagers, who admitted that the home had two kitchens in "closets" without City approval, told the Council meeting with City Staff members that the Planning Commission he had formed would not "ever be able to get a permit" and was therefore withdrawing.

When questioned by Council whether the home was being used for purposes other than a single family home, Sagers responded no, "I swear to you it has never been rented and is not being used as a single family home."

Standard & Poor's Register offers executive information

By Mildred C. Chamberlin

Who are the officers of Eastern Airlines? Who is the vice president in charge of nuclear affairs of the Florida Power and Light Company? How many persons are employed by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company? What are the annual sales of the Florida Land Company?

Of what companies is David Rockefeller a director? What is his education, his age, his business address? Where can I find a list of manufacturers of pens and mechanical pencils?

All of these questions and similar ones can be answered at the Sanibel Public Library. The Library has recently added the 1980 edition of "Standard & Poor's Register of Corporations, Directors and Executives" to its Reference Collection.

This three-volume set contains a list of 37,000 corporations with officers and directors in the first volume; brief biographies of 75,000 executives and directors in the second volume; a classified industrial index, and a geographical index of corporations as well as lists of executives who have died since the previous edition and those who have been added to the new edition in the third volume. It is the most complete national directory of corporations and their personnel published today.

Here are some of the ways the "Register" can be used: to verify correct titles and proper spelling of names of important company officials; to identify interlocking business connections of officials; to determine importance of a company by checking number of employees and annual sales; to locate headquarter offices and home addresses of corporation executives; to identify officers and engineers; to identify companies that are engaged in various types of business and are in the process of identifying personal acquaintances.

The Sanibel Public Library has 70 volunteers with a special program in the use of the reference service. Don't hesitate to ask for assistance. Visit the Library located at 1000 Road next to the Fire House every day except Sunday and holidays until 4 p.m.

Photography as art means higher prices

by Mark Harmel

though he admits that "My own photos are uniformly horrible and out of focus," Harry Lunn has helped revolutionize the world of photography. As owner of two galleries and a leading name in the art, Lunn has been a major force behind the dramatic price increase in photographic prints over the past few years.

Writing photographs by Ansel Adams, Robert Frank, Henri Cartier-Bresson, and Yousuf Karsh, Lunn shared his experiences from the photographic world at Sundial last Saturday. The event was sponsored by The Photographers' Gallery.

Lunn wasn't always involved with photography. He began as an art dealer selling lithographs and etchings. One day he happened to view a few photographs by Ansel Adams at a friend's home - and was immediately impressed "with the freshness of the prints." He later arranged to have a showing of Adams' photography at his own Washington D.C. gallery.

When the show generated a bigger response from both the media and the viewers than any other he had previously presented, he decided to "take a closer look at photography."

Lunn began handling Adams' work in 1971, and was in the perfect position when the artist made the momentous decision to refuse any more commercial print orders after 1975.

Two dealers, Light Gallery and Lunn, surmised the impact of Adams' decision. They both placed large orders for Adams' prints.

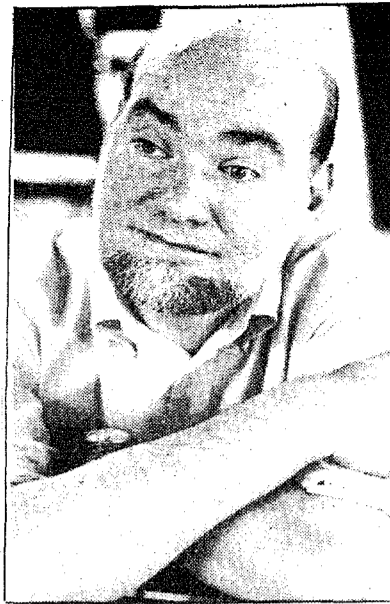

The demand for Adams' photography was still growing, but now the supply of prints was limited. Prices skyrocketed. The most dramatic increase was demonstrated in a print Lunn calls an emblematic image, "Moonrise, Hernandez, New Mexico." In 1972 a print of "Moonrise" was selling for $150, the asking price now is $20,000!

Later Lunn began buying entire collections of other established photographers' work. He currently handles the photographs of Walker Evans, Robert Frank, Ansel Adams, and Yousuf Karsh.

The commercial practice of Adams is now being copied by other photographers. By limiting editions of prints, other established photographers are now riding the increased price bandwagon started by Adams and Lunn.

The photographic art boom has yet to benefit the unestablished photographer. For that photographer Lunn recommends limiting prints and holding on to them for as long as one can afford to.

Harry Lunn has been credited with a dramatic boom in the photographic market.

Here are two junonia stories that dedicated shellers are gonna hate to hear.

Dedicated shellers have the image of a junonia firmly burned upon their brain by the many long hours spent dreaming of one. They firmly believe that the only reason they haven't yet found a junonia is because they haven't quite worked hard enough at it.

Rosemary Bock was in knee-deep water off from Shell Harbor digging for a horse conch when she saw another shell that she thought looked "interesting." She picked up both the conch and the mysterious looking spotted shell. By Mark Harmel

Rosemary had seen pictures of junonias before and thought that she just may have found one, but to be sure she took it down to the Shell Fair, where her find was confirmed. She was also shown a crack on the shell where there had been a break that the animal mended.

John Hotchkiss's find is the real heartbreaker.

John was taking his evening walk last Friday night, and although he is not an avid sheller he carried a flashlight looking specifically for a banded tulip for his sister-in-law. The beam of the flashlight spotted a tulip and on the edge of the beam, at the waterline, was a perfect junonia. John too took it to the Shell Fair where a mentioned that he would be proud to have John's shell in his collection.

So much for dreams and hard work.

Residents and visitors are welcome at all programs. There will be a continuing art show by the Schoolhouse Gallery in the parish hall all week. A reception will follow all programs.

Student Government Day date set

May 14 will be the day Sanibel students get a chance to observe the stuff municipal government is made of.

Sanibel Elementary Principal Barbara Ward has requested that only fifth graders participate in the activities sponsored by the Sanibel City Council, as they are the students studying American History. Some Councilmembers, however, feel all grades should be able to participate in the Council meeting held for the students but participation in the essay contest will be limited to fifth graders.

Grade levels able to participate will be worked out between Ms. Ward and the City Manager at a later date. Island children attending off-island schools will be invited to attend.

University of Illinois Alumni Club of West Florida is now accepting reservations for their March 15 luncheon at the Landings in Fort Myers. $5.50 per person. Make your check payable to the Club and mail to Mrs. Mary C. Monaco, 5831-2 Vancouver Road, Fort Myers, Florida 33907.

Luncheon will be held upstairs above Palm dining room. Social begins at 6 p.m. with cash bar and luncheon will be served at 12:15 p.m. A string quartet will play old favorites such as "Swing Time," "Gigi," etc. and after the luncheon Philip and Ruth Hunter of the Pirate House on Sanibel will present "Table for Two," a one act play, with Rena and Larry Waxman.

Mrs. Monaco advises that reservations should be made as soon as possible, as space is limited, and one-hundred and thirty alumni showed up for the Club's annual gathering in January. "We were disappointed to see our last baked potato, and hoping to be enough of everything else to go around," she says.

According to the UI Alumni Office in Urbana, over 300 alumni reside in Lee, Collier and Charlotte counties. Membership in the Club is open to anyone who attended one of the University's three campuses: Urbana-Champaign, Chicago Circle, or the Medical Center. Graduation is not a requirement. Dues in the local Club are $6 per year and include your spouse, whether or not he/she attended UI. Retired professors are especially welcome. Make checks payable to the Club and mail to Mrs. Monaco. The Club was organized a year ago March 31, and holds three meetings between October and April. There is also a summer get together in July.

An Island hero

Bill Cocoran was at the Fort Pierce City Marina on Saturday March 1, when he saw a 7 year old boy lose his balance while jerking back on a fishing pole. When it became obvious to Cocoran that the boy couldn't swim, and that he was slowly drifting away from the dock, Cocoran put down his glasses and wallet and went in after him. The boy first grabbed Cocoran around the neck but his grasp was easily broken loose. Cocoran then put his arm around him from the back. He knew the mechanics but had never practiced pulling a drowning person in before. "The kid had a look on his face that couldn't be ignored. I felt good about it afterwards," said Cocoran. "There was nobody else close enough to help him."

Next Week at the Center

Maggie Foskett, a Brazilian who specializes in macro-photography, will be the featured speaker for Tuesdays at the Center, March 18 at 2 p.m.

"In macro-photography, I see an opportunity to suggest the preciseness and the ambiguity of nature," says Mrs. Foskett.

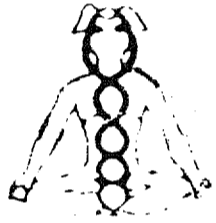

Mrs. Foskett's exhibits hang in the Conservation Center and the Photographer's Gallery on Sanibel, and in several locations throughout Wisconsin and Illinois.

"I've always carried a camera and had a real commitment to photography. I didn't start until 1976, when I built a darkroom and began to print my own work. Photography is essentially a means of capturing and controlling light. It's about explaining. "When you process negatives and place that negative in the lens of an enlarger, you have to use your fingertips the means to bring out the trace of the light and form that you see in your imagination."

MUTUAL FUNDS

QUESTION: I bought some mutual fund shares this year. I have received an earnings report showing $700 gross dividends consisting of $100 qualifying dividends, $265 capital gain dividends, $80 return of capital and $255 non-qualifying dividends. I have reinvested these dividends in additional shares and have not received any cash. Do I have to report this income on my return?

ANSWER: Yes. Gross dividends are includible in income in the year constructively received. Qualifying dividends are eligible for the $100 exclusion, nonqualifying dividends are fully taxable, capital gains are eligible for capital gains treatment and a return of capital reduces the basis of the stock on which paid—only amounts that exceed the basis are taxable.

New Captiva gift shop offers something for everyone

Gift shops may be prolific on Sanibel and Captiva Islands but, according to Francis Hollinrake, her new shop is one that places a different perspective on the subject of gifts.

Hollinrake's newly expanded South Seas Gift Shop recently opened in the building adjacent to Chadwick's Restaurant. Hollinrake, whose shop was formerly in Captiva Court, says her store provides additional and innovative answers to the perpetual question of "What do I want for myself or my family and friends?" The shop tries to have everything for everyone, from yacht owners to value-conscious islanders, and prices are available for everyone. Hollinrake said that her most expensive item is a $950 Italian inlay game table. "The venerated table top can be pulled off to display a green felt cover for bridge-playing," Hollinrake said. "There is also a section for playing checkers and a roulette wheel pulls out from the sides."

Her shop also features shell arrangements and bouquets created by a local designer from the numerous shells found on Captiva.

The Gift Shop joins the recently opened Chadwick's General Store, a sales office of Vacation & Investment Properties Inc., and South Seas' information office in Chadwick's Plaza.

The Gift Shop is open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Hollinrake said that next month she plans to keep the shop open until 9 p.m.

South Seas appoints European Sales Representative

International Tourism Marketing Inc. (ITM), a Longwood, Florida, sales promotion concern, has been appointed European sales representative for South Seas Plantation.

The announcement of ITM's appointment was made recently by Dennis O'Flannery, Director of Marketing for South Seas.

O'Flannery said the decision to retain a European representative was made concurrently with the initiation of additional marketing activities for South Seas in Holland, Germany and England.

"Trans-Atlantic tourism is expected to increase significantly in the 1980's," O'Flannery said, "and airline and state commerce officials report that Florida will be a favored destination."

"In light of South Seas' excellent reputation in Canada and the continental United States, we see excellent potential for the resort in European markets. A number of tour operators have been contracted to market South Seas packages. These groups include H. Florida Limited.

Leslie Hadi, ITM's director, said his group will handle South Seas' promotion in Europe through contact with travel agents, trade show representatives and familiarization tours to South Seas.

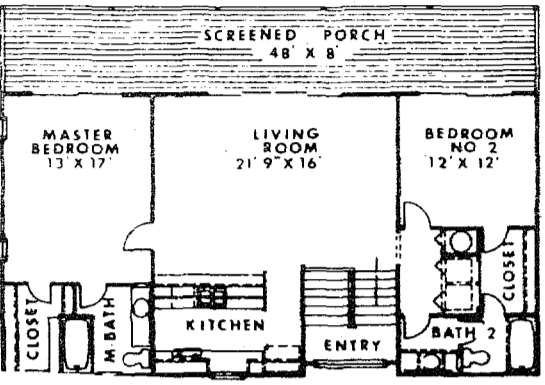

South Seas, which has been designated one of "America's Best" resorts by Homes and Gardens magazine, offers more than 500 condominium accommodations, conference facilities and a wide variety of recreational activities under the ownership-management of the Mariner Group of Affiliated Properties Inc.

South Seas is additionally represented on an international basis by Warner Inc.

Passive solar technology can cool your home

You can minimize the sun's scorching affect's on your home this summer and reduce the need for air conditioning, according to Peter Valtin, last week's speaker at the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Center.

Valtin, an Island carpenter who specializes in solar passive construction, stressed measures other than carpentry to reduce the sun's effects on your home. He said that changes through carpentry should be used as a last resort.

It's important to study your home, its orientation with other homes in the area, and the vegetation surrounding it, according to Valtin. "Study the direction of the sun through the windows and doors. Study the trees in the yard to see where the shadows fall," he said. "Shadows can be very helpful in protecting areas from heat."

Plants in the yard can either block breezes or channel them to maximize effective ventilation and cooling without air conditioning.

By getting maximum benefit from breezes and shielding a home either with plants or with the addition of overhangs and shutters, air conditioning may even become unnecessary.

In a home in which air conditioning is absolutely necessary, the approach will be somewhat different. As the home should remain as airtight as possible, breezes should be channelled away from windows and doors of the home. In considering what should be done to get maximum (or minimum) benefit of breezes, it should be remembered that winds in this area generally come from the south and southeast, Valtin said.

To shield a home from the hot summer sun, medium-sized shade trees, possibly evergreen, should be located on the northeast and northwest corners of the home to protect it from the low angle of the sun's rays in June.

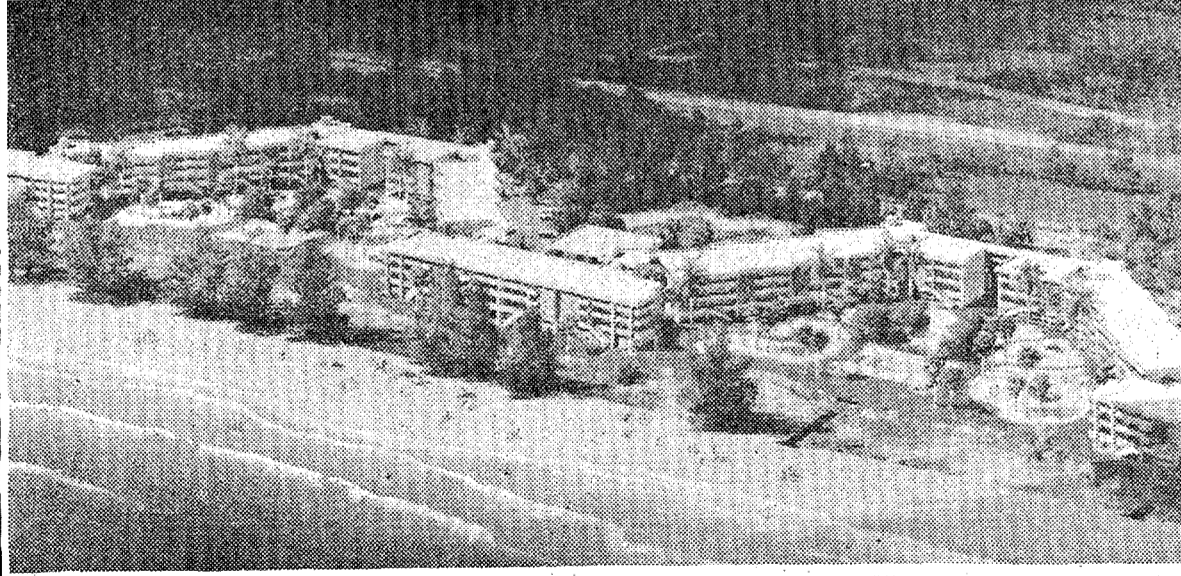

The placement of very tall canopy trees at the southeast and southwest corners will do much to protect the home from the even hotter August sun.

The breeze flow into and around your house is largely determined by its position in relation to other homes in the neighborhood. In some cases other homes help to channel an existing breeze. When a natural channel such as this does not exist around your home, shrubs can be planted to form a tight web of growth that can serve as a wall to channel and intensify breeze effectiveness.

Valtin recommends that you make a diagram of your home and the other homes on the street. Indicate on your map the direction of breezes, and the customary angle of the sun's rays. By studying the diagram, he said, you will begin to understand how to make your home solar passive.

Marian Cannon

74 (75 in November)

5' 2 1/2"

Charlotte, North Carolina

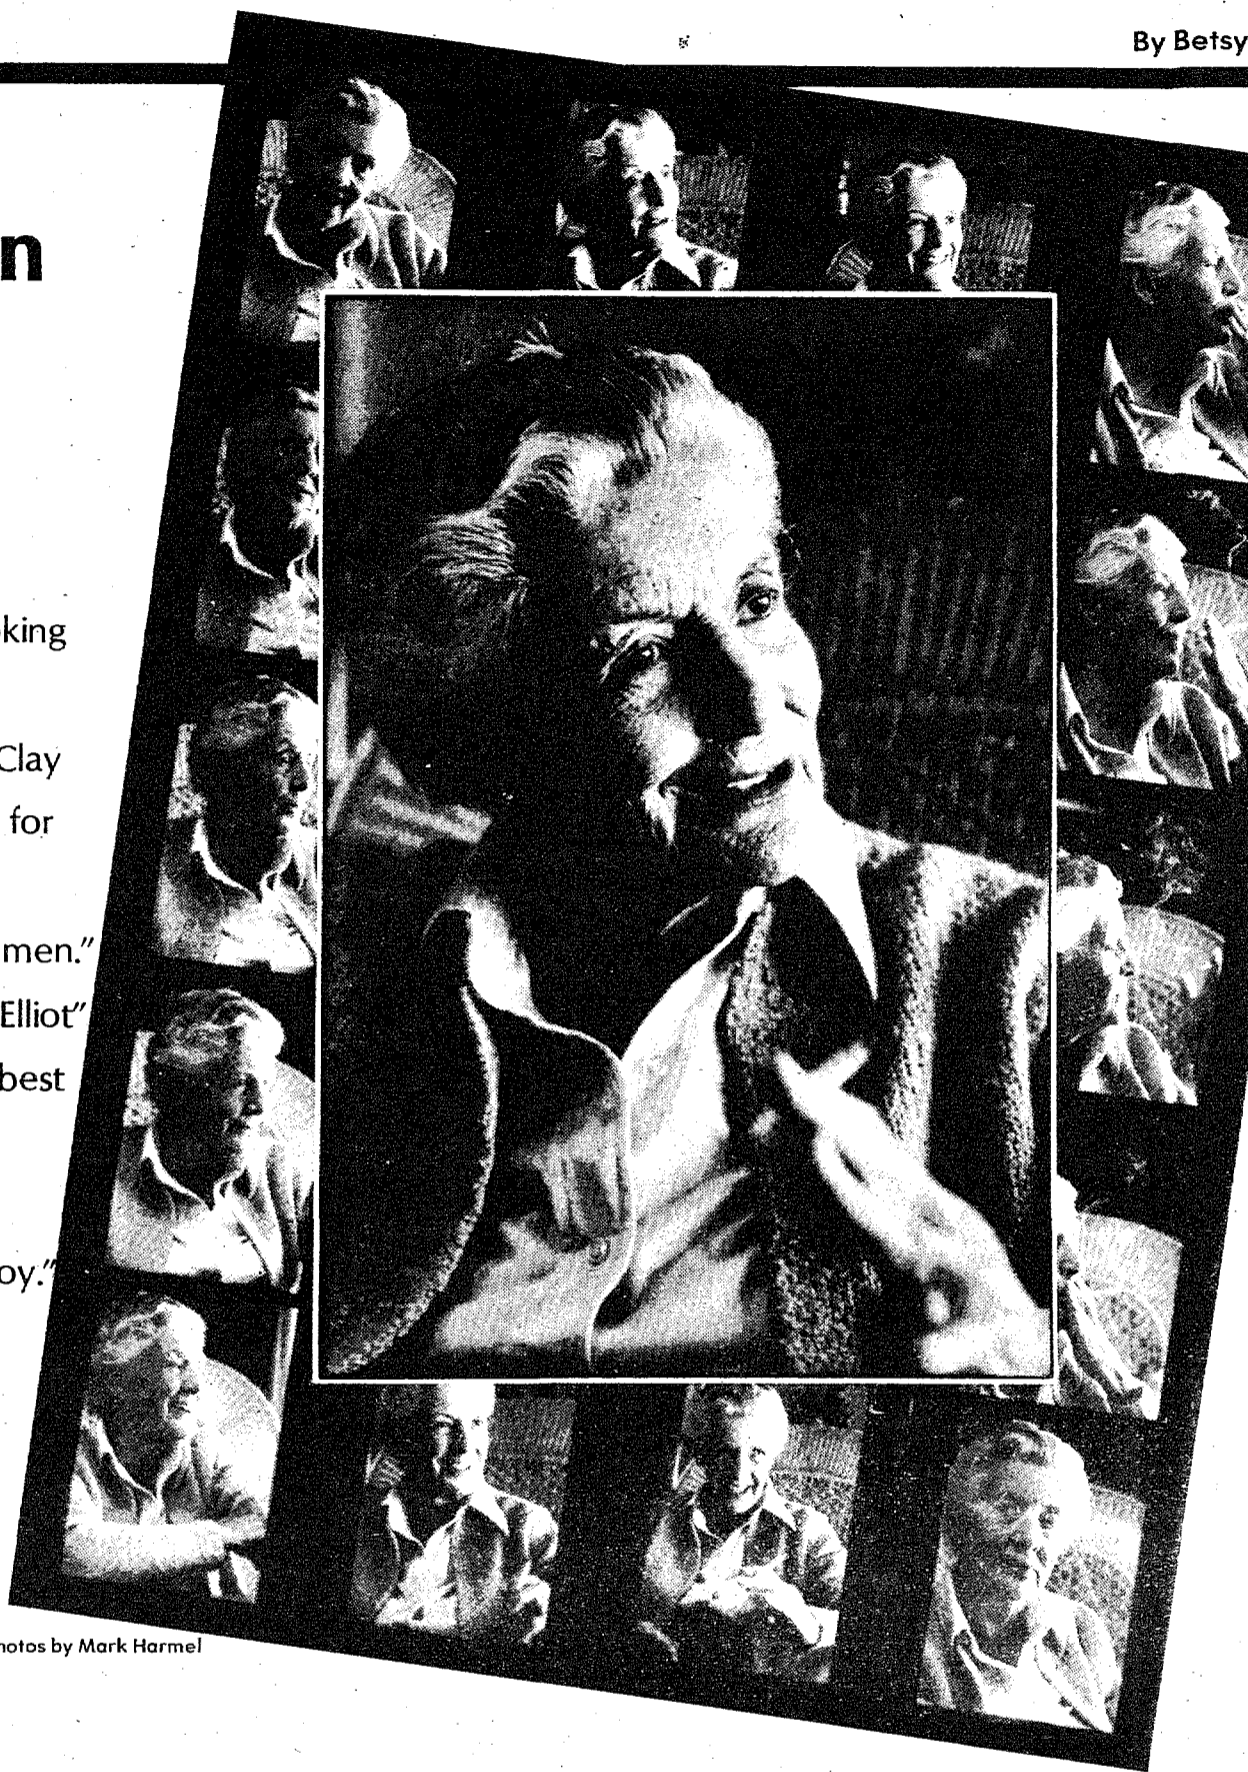

Interests: "Traveling, gardening, smoking and needlepoint."

Occupation: "Charleen Swansea of Red Clay Press - the editor and publisher for my books."

Quote: "Peace on earth, good will to men."

Book Read: "The Poems of T.S. Elliot"

Words of Wisdom: "Curiosity is the best thing anyone can have - just wanting to go on, see more, do more. Never fear old age, its a joy."

...successfully published her first two books of poetry on her 68th birthday, Captivan Marian Cannon has a lot to be good about.

In recognition of her accomplishments as a poet she has won several awards and served as poet-in-residence at several colleges and universities in North Carolina, including Belmont Abbey and St. Andrews.

At 75 years old, Marian radiates the excitement of youth, involvement and accomplishment. Her eyes sparkle with enthusiasm for life - warm with a soft glow of joy. At one moment they may flicker with amusement and at another moment dance with excitement and then they sparkle with the fire of a cause.

Marian Cannon has devoted her life to causes. A native of North Carolina, where she still has a home, she is a "very, very Democratic, very liberal, and very socially oriented." She has been a leader of the Charlotte Women's Movement since the early 1950's.

Her poetry is not only the product of Charlotte's prevailing culture of aristocracy but a product of a mixed marriage as well. A poem published in her first book best sums up her

But every man my brother."

After traveling North to Columbia University, where she attended school with Black students, Marian returned to Charlotte a true crusader. Later, as chairman of the Council for Human Relations, she received repeated midnight calls from the Ku Klux Klan and learned (from the FBI) that her phone was tapped. It was then she learned the meaning of personal harassment - all the while taking great delight in the slow progress being made.

"Through the years," she says today, "we have accomplished a lot. But so much more still needs to be done." Charlotte is the only city in North Carolina where a strict 60-40 ratio of black and white is enforced through school busing. "It is working," she maintains, "with no ill effects on the quality of education there."

Her published poems reveal her ardor for the "cause." Both books are currently out of print but will soon be reprinted as a single volume. Titled "Another Light" and "Second Wind," Marian's books reveal her life. A poem from "Second Wind" sums up her feelings for the Civil Rights Movement:

*"Until this year I was a revolutionary.
I've marched and picketed,
Written to my Senator, voted 'left.'
I've shouted slogans, even coined a few;
Lost old friends, made new.
But I look upon the world with tired eyes.
I've changed it not at all.
There is still war, and poverty and hunger.
The ears in Congress are deaf and voices dumb.*

*What shall I do with the brief time I have?
Cultivate my garden? No!
I'll carry banners for a losing cause!"*

Other poems tell of her love for her Island home in the midst of South Seas Plantation.

Fourteen years ago she built a piling home so she could see over the tops of the dunes and seagrasses to the sea beyond. Today those dunes are gone, along with many of the sea grapes. Erosion has claimed 60 feet of beach once there.

A rope swing drops some 20 feet from the ceiling of the atrium living room and, except for the extra long rope, is like a child's tree swing. Does she swing in it? "I don't know what sorts of people do!" she twitters with amusement.

From the swing or from her favorite chair Marian Cannon has a full view of the Gulf and the pounding of the surf. The ebb and flow are in her blood, she says.

Here in front of the Gulf she reflects her past and her future. Perhaps another trip? She has recently returned from the People's Republic of China where she found it "much warmer than the Russians." She has traveled to Moscow, Africa, Australia and for nine years to Europe. Next month she will take one of two grand cruises on a Caribbean cruise.

"There is so much to do in this world. So much I have not experienced. So much more to be accomplished. So much more to learn and enjoy," she says. "I love life because I can say and do what I want with no obligation. People tend to let you be."

Property Speaking

Condominiums have become a new way of life here on Sanibel and Captiva as well as in most areas of the country. They have survived their infancy and matured into an excellent way of life.

Much of the negative publicity surrounding condominiums has involved escalating lease agreements on the grounds and recreational areas. Here on Sanibel and Captiva we are very lucky in that all but one condominium is a "pure condominium" in which every owner owns his share of the common areas and there are no grounds or recreational leases.

A condominium offers the ready-to-retire person an opportunity to purchase a home and not have the normal concerns as to care for that piece of real estate. Condominium Associations are set up with a maintenance fee to cover the normal maintenance problems that many non-handly home owners run into. Here on the Islands the maintenance fees vary from $55 to $215. This fee covers a multitude of things including: ground maintenance, pool maintenance, insurance, water, trash pick-up, outside lighting, septic and maintenance of the common areas. Inflation has certainly affected maintenance on our Islands.

Many people have asked me about maintenance problems on condominiums. Generally speaking the problems are the same. However, in many cases the maintenance fee is too low. I have attended several condominium meetings and I find that obtaining money to properly maintain a condominium project is a frequent problem. As the project ages, timely maintenance will become more and more important.

I have also been to condominium meetings where the budget was rather important maintenance was included. No doubt this is part of the reason many folks purchased their condominium units as a short to medium term investment.

Golf

The golfing news from the Beachview Women's Association this week is Jim Laidlaw - who won everything there was to win this week, and topped it all off with a hole-in-one.

The hole-in-one was hit on the 170 yard 13th hole. Laidlaw's four iron shot hit the edge of the green and bounced into the hole on one bounce.

With a hole-in-one under his belt, Laidlaw continued his hot streak to take his high individual score of the day with a 10. And if that wasn't enough, he also led his foursome of Warren Hyde, Ed Johnson, and Dick Hawthorn to the team win. The team finished with a score of plus seven.

Finishing one stroke behind was the team of Britt Wood, Hugh Crider, and Bob Johnson. The third place team of Lee Johnson, Bob Doubet, Jim Ketchan, and Ed Johnson finished with a plus seven.

Last Monday the Beachview Women were led by the team of Ann Hamilton, Zee

Butler, Dorothy Ristow, and Syril Rubin.

Two teams tied for second place: one team was a foursome consisting of Maureen Hawthorn, Mary Jane Preston, Louise Ristow, and Peggy Wiginton; the other second place team was a threesome made up of Jean Laidlaw, Betty Puff, and Ellen Lawrence.

The Dunes Men's Association had a tie for first place between John McGee and John Seabrooke. Bob Curtis finished second, and Dick Light was closest to the pin on hole number eight.

The Dunes Women held a Get-Acquainted Tournament. Nellie Peterson and Bette Puff were the winning team. The teams of Bettie Uhr and Giny McKee, and Peg Wilhoit and Ada Ayers tied for second. Dottie Seabrooke won a prize for a chip-in on hole number six.

Wrestling

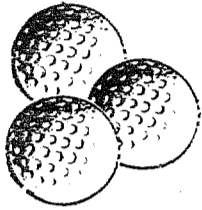

The Cypress Lake High School wrestling team finished its season recently, placing fourth in the Southwest Florida Conference with a 12-4 record.

Sanibel resident Keye Daus wrestled on the team in the 130 pound weight class and ended the season undefeated in his five Junior Varsity matches, and won two and lost two Varsity matches. Keye is a sophomore. His fastest pin this year was 32 seconds.

Property Speaking

and do not want to put their into roofs and other major repairs will be forthcoming in the distant. This is certainly shortsighted, as condominium units selling at prices it pays to keep one's in top shape. If a condominium does not provide a budget that funds for needed maintenance the association must pass an assessment is usually a significant of money which may be spent for an expenditure such as the of the roofs, renovating the porches or some other major maintenance item. If you are thinking purchasing a condominium I would recommend that you check into the quality maintenance the association has under

One can easily check those items by finding out if the building's exterior paint is up to standard. Don't just look at the exterior wall carefully, but inspect the facer boards and soffets to see if they are in good shape also. The soffets will show the need for repair first. Additionally, check the pool and the pool furniture to see if it is clean or if it needs repair. The grounds will also tell you whether or not the association is trying to skimp - remember, here on our Islands we get about 56 inches of rain per year and most of that falls in the summertime, so lawn care in the winter dry months gives you the real clue to good ground maintenance.

The management can also be a good indicator. If the management is highly motivated and appears to be happy, the project probably is receiving adequate funding and the association leadership that it needs. If you do find a unit that you like but the project isn't up to your standards, don't immediately rule it out if the price is right. As a voting member of the association you can be a moving force to see that proper maintenance is given a higher priority. You can also easily get yourself appointed to the board and have a larger voice in how your association is run. This is especially true if you live there a significant part of the year.

Condominium ownership is growing every year and is an excellent way to have worry-free home ownership. Condominium ownership plus meticulous maintenance of the project can add up to an owner satisfaction that is hard to match!

C.R.O.W. fundraising raffle needs your support

Did you know that C.R.O.W. (Care & Rehabilitation of Wildlife) was able to release 166 birds last year? This means that 166 birds that might have died otherwise are back where they belong, living somewhere on these Islands or possibly in the Wildlife Refuge. And in case you don't know, this is due to the unflagging labors of a very few people who put a lot of time, love and effort into all kinds of ways to keep C.R.O.W. going. It is hard work, but so worthwhile to look after so many injured birds - and the joy, when another bird is ready to be released, is great - as is the sadness when some don't make it.

Right now C.R.O.W. is in the planning stages of building a permanent home for its many patients. We have all sorts of plans and ideas as to how the new facility should look - but we need money - your money! We think that most people who either live here or come here year after year to enjoy the unique atmosphere of these Islands, are willing and able to support our cause, so please be generous and help us continue and even improve our efforts.

We are now in the middle of a fundraising campaign to get our building from the planning stage to reality. We are selling raffle tickets to achieve this goal and one lucky winner will be the proud owner of an interval ownership condominium for life at the new Shell Island Resort. Isn't that worth taking a chance on? And even if you don't win, it will make you feel so good to be helping us keep more birds flying.

Tickets are available at Gallery, The B-Hive, Vterfly, Dotti's, MacInte Framing. Also, if you time to help us, please call 472-4354.

Finally, here is C number in case you need injured animal: 472-3644.

Drivers receive threatening phone calls

Sanibel Police Chief John Butler says the number of obscene and threatening phone calls have been increasing by Island residents. The calls of the same type are being made by mainland residents working closely with the Sheriff's Department to determine the calls are related. Chief Butler prohibits the use of a phone for the purpose of harassment, annoyance, abuse, or threatening, obscene or indecent calls and provides for a punishment of up to five years imprisonment or a fine of up to $1,000 upon conviction of a violation.

Chief Butler advises a person receiving such a call to listen for identifying background noises and observe carefully the caller's dialect. It is best not to respond verbally to the caller and the police should be contacted immediately.

Stay off the bike paths!

The Sanibel Police Department has announced that they will be paying special attention to vehicles driving on the bike path and passing on the right by driving off the pavement onto the shoulder of the road - in violation of State law and City ordinances that prohibit vehicles from driving or parking along the bike path.

State law also prohibits passing on the right of a vehicle when the passing vehicle is driven off of the paved portion of the roadway.

Persons found violating these laws will be issued citations by the Sanibel Police Department

This week...

Illegally parked vehicles, sprinklers spraying excessive amounts of water on the road, lost wallets and cameras, visitors removing live shells and a dalmation threatening a postal employee were all just part of the job this month for officers of the Sanibel Police Department.

On March 3 at 6:07 a.m. SPD personnel responded to a call that a man was suffering from a possible heart attack near Sundial. Upon arrival of the SPD and Emergency Medical personnel it was learned that Mrs. William Deverna, returning from shelling on the beach to her vehicle, found her husband in a possible state of cardiac arrest. Three visiting residents of the Periwinkle Trailer Park, Richard Pierce of Alexandria, Virginia, Hilary K. Pandak of Stanton, Virginia and Steven Trozienski of Cresskill, New Jersey were performing cardio-pulmonary resuscitation on Mr. Deverna. Despite their efforts, William Junior Deverna, 56, of Brooklyn, New York was pronounced dead on arrival.

On March 5, Officer Lew Phillips responded to a 5:25 a.m. emergency call from a resident of Pointe Santo. The caller told Officer Phillips that he had woke up to find a 16-18 year old blonde youth standing in his bedroom door. The caller said he had then jumped from his bed and pushed the youth out of the front door. The intruder, he said, had not spoke a word nor did he offer any resistance. Phillips could find nothing missing or disturbed in the residence and no breakage to gain entry was apparent.

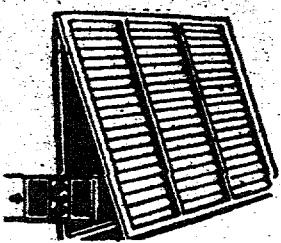

While checking the surroundings the Officer discovered that the sliding glass doors to the residence could not be secured. Two partial fingerprints were discovered on a metal door frame and investigation into the incident is continuing.

correction

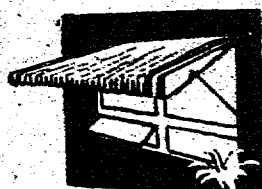

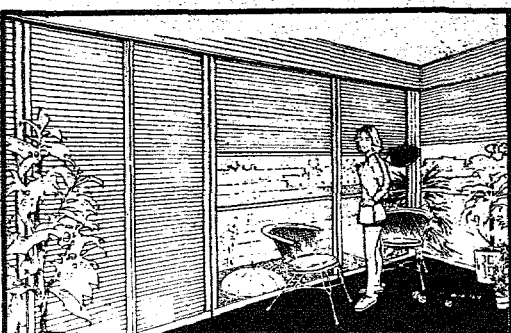

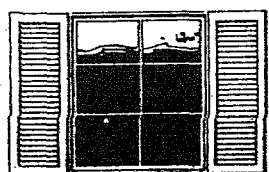

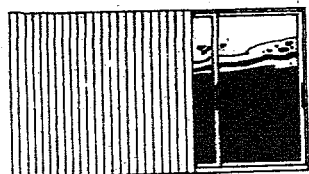

In last weeks Islander report on the arrest of Kenneth Robert Schulze, 20, of Cape Coral, (on felony possession of marijuana charges) we mistakenly reported that the marijuana was found by the Sanibel Police Department in Schulze's car. The police record shows that a member of the Sanibel Fire Department discovered two bags of marijuana, a brown cube (possibly hashish), a book and a ceramic pipe in a wooden bowl located approximately 60 feet from the Schulze vehicle.

Beach Access

Sanibel has miles of public Gulf-front beaches, any one of which is only minutes from your lodging. Lighthouse Point is a stretch of Federal land on the Eastern tip of Sanibel Island, and from there, the gulf beach is accessible again at the end of Donax Street, at Tarpon Bay Road, at Bowman's Beach Road (off Sanibel-Captive Road) and at Turner's Beach, which is located at Blind Pass, between Sanibel and Captiva Islands.
On Captiva Island, public beach access can be found at Turner Beach (which has public facilities) or, further north, just past the entrance to South Seas Plantation.

SHELLING

The City of Sanibel Resolution (limiting the taking of 2 live shells per person per species is one to be scrup obeyed. As a matter of fact, in order to preserve S beautiful shelling beaches, most collectors refuse to ta live shells whatsoever.

SPEED LIMITS

The varying speed limits as one comes across the ca may seem almost schizophrenic, but there is a ver reason for them. The stress and strain of traffic over th has weakened the bridge supports (not to the point wh is any danger, fortunately) so in an effort to prese existing structure, the speed limits have been imposed.
They are to be taken seriously, for they are rigidly e by radar on a 24-hour a day basis by the Lee County S Department. Observe them, please.

DOGGY DO'S... & DONT'S

Sanibel is a veritable shopper's paradise. Tasteful boutiques and casual island shops join forces to present visitors with everything - and anything - a vacation shopper could hope for.

At the Lighthouse (Eastern) end of the island, Punta Ybel Plaza and The Sea Horse Shops are right across the street from each other, providing a variety of products that can cure your sweet tooth or tickle your shell finder's fancy. Need a good haircut or coiffure? You can get it in either of these shopping centers. Most businesses open at 10 am and close at 5:30. This holds true for many island stores, although during the winter season, some are open evenings.

Tall Australian pines shade Periwinkle Way as the shopper travels west along this main thoroughfare. This stretch of road is truly a shopper's paradise! It's all here...the fast and not-so-fast eating spots, casual and elegant boutiques, hand-wrought jewelry, craft designs, shell shops and balms for health product fanatics.

Watch to your right and left as you drive or cycle along. Photographic supplies, bait and tackle, deli foods, fresh seafood and baked goods, knick-knacks and what-nots can all be found along the drive to the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road. Along the way, shopping centers such as the Heart of the Islands, Periwinkle Place and Tahitian Garden offer a variety of island delights.

A left on Tarpon Bay Road takes the visitor past Sanibel's original schoolhouse, which now holds original island colors and woodcuts. Then on to West Gulf Drive and west to an interesting little artisan's shop and gallery.

At the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay you may choose instead to turn right and follow the signs to Tarpon Bay Marina, where you will find a cluster of shops overlooking the back bay. Some antiques, what-nots, clever clothes can be found here, as well as a great seafood sandwich and soft drinks.

The spectacular ride to Captiva, with its lush foliage and enchanting view of the Gulf, is well worth a day's visit. Talented artists display their works in one roadside shop, other feature some nifty gifts for Grandma to take home to the little hands as a pleasant hodge-podge of remembrances from these barrier islands.

Whether for shopping, or merely browsing, island offers a surprising variety - from one-of-a-kind collectibles to the discerning shopper to post cards for the simple southerner and of course, for all, shells. Shell jewelry, shell jewelry, just plain shells... the most beautiful shells in the world, the most beautiful shelling beaches in the world.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

The annual Grecian Festival will be held this year on Saturday and Sunday, March 22 and 27, at the Fort Myers Community Center. The proceeds from the festival go solely towards the financial needs of the Greek Orthodox Church in Sanibel, which is the only Orthodox church serving the Greek communities in Sanibel, Sarasota and Miami. We are a small congregation and depend on the success of the Festival to meet the financial demands of our parish. In addition to current obligations, the church has a large indebtedness incurred in the building of the new Church on Periwinkle Way.

Committees for the Festival are now being formed. A gift table and a white elephant table will be set up. Any of our friends on the Island who would like to help, we would very much appreciate it - new articles for the gift table, used saleable ones for the white elephant table.

Bring your contribution to the Festival to the Beauty Shop in the Community Center, or if you wish, we will be glad to pick it up. Please call Mary Aleck at 472-1111, or Bella Kontinos 472-1366.

The Greek Orthodox Church of Southwest Florida is located at 3611 Cypress Lake Drive in Fort Myers. Phone number: 481-2099.
