DNR holds first erosion control line hearing

By Pat Harmel

Islanders who gathered last week for a Department of Natural Resources (DNR) hearing on whether or not South Seas Plantation might be able to claim two-thirds of a beach renourished with State sand found themselves experiencing deja vu.

The hearing, held at the Captiva Civic Association and advertised as an erosion control line public hearing, turned out to be a rehash of the pros and cons of the proposed renourishment project.

Henry Dean, an attorney for DNR and the hearing officer, told the packed house "Even though this is an erosion control line hearing we'll listen to the public's comments on the merits or demerits of the project."

Sanibel resident Paul Hqwe called a point of order pointing out to Dean that the hearing had been publicly noticed strictly as an erosion control line discussion.

Nevertheless, Dean and Bill Carlton, DNR engineer, permitted discussion of the entire South Seas proposal. That proposal calls for the dredging of 765,000 cubic yards of sand from Redfish Pass to be placed along 10,000 linear feet of eroding South Seas shoreline.

Allen TenBroek, president of South Seas, presented a slide show explaining the proposed project and the history behind it. That same slide presentation was presented several weeks ago at a County Commission hearing on the proposal. At that time, the County gave South Seas a vote of approval for the renourishment project.

Also present to speak at last week's DNR hearing were Ken Ortell, attorney for South Seas and Eric Olson, project engineer.

Olson spoke for several minutes on project elements he felt had been "maligned or misunderstood" by the public. Addressing the question of whether or not renourishment could have negative affects on Cayo Costa or upper Captiva Olson declared, "I can unequivocally state that this project will have no effect" on those islands.

Olson also claimed that the project would have no detrimental effects on Sanibel and, in his opinion, "long run benefits" by Sanibel could be accrued through the littoral drift system.

"I can essentially guarantee," said Olson, "that erosion on Sanibel will increase if this project is not done...due to sand starvation." Olson continued, "If the problem is not solved on Captiva...the people of Sanibel will be looking at the same problem in the near future."

Attorney Ken Ortell explained the formula used to reach the two-thirds private ownership proposal for the erosion control line.

According to Ortell, his first proposal to DNR had been that South Seas receive 100 percent ownership of the sand since they were paying for the entire project. But former DNR director, Jay Landers had vetoed the idea.

Landers, according to Ortell, was the first to propose the two-thirds private one-third public settlement. That formula, according to Ortell, was based on the fact that the project would cost $3 million if the sand were paid for at $1 per cubic yard. Since South Seas property owners are

Grove quarters get a closer look

By Pat Harmel

Investigation into possible building and health code violations at the Coconut Grove employee housing quarters was begun last week by the City of Sanibel.

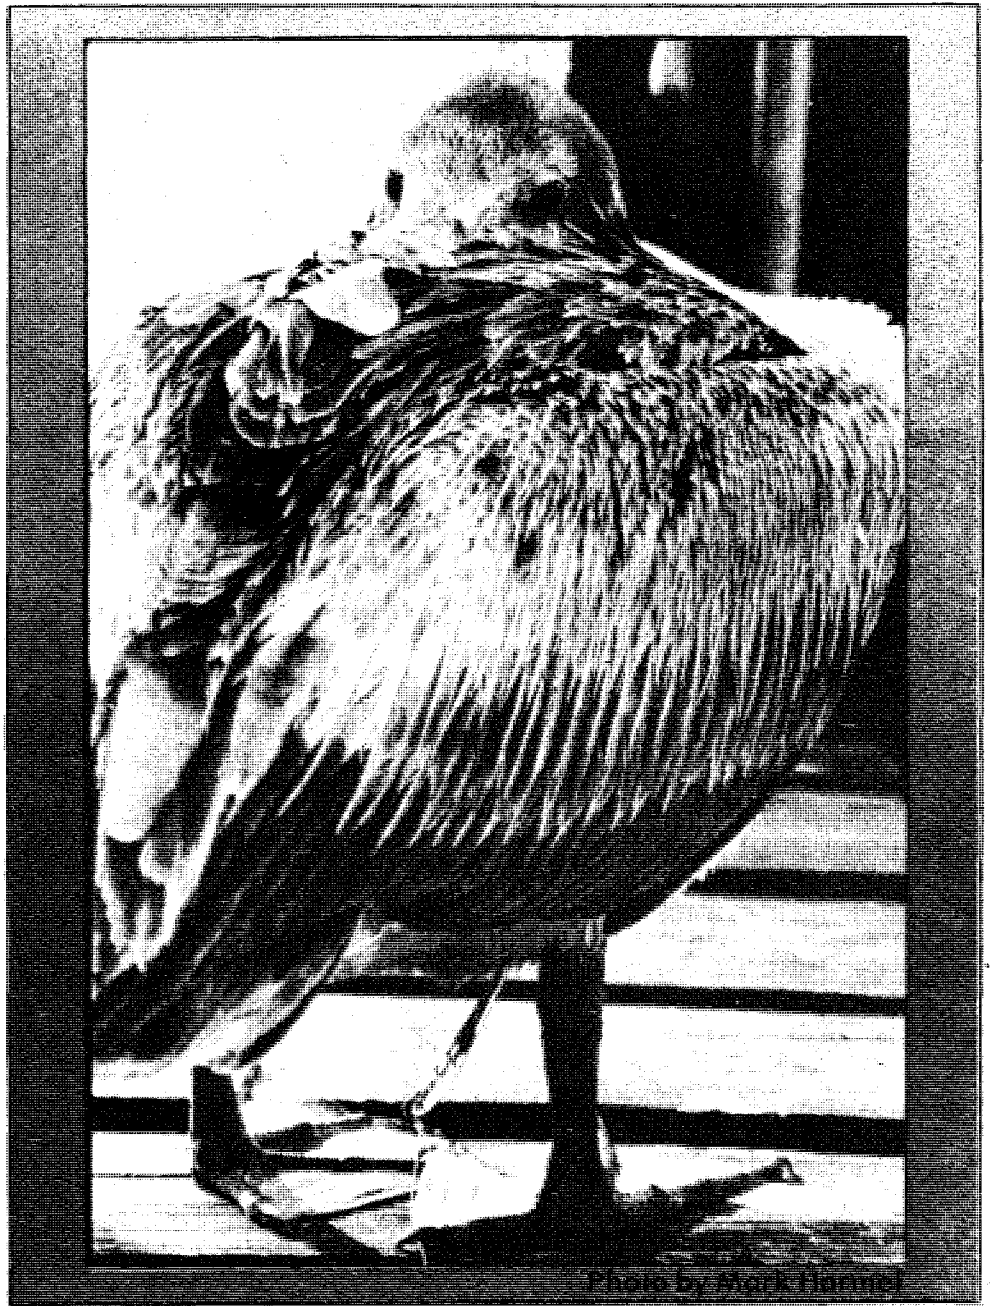

The employee quarters, located off an alleyway next to the Island Shopping Center, house numerous kitchen workers for the Coconut Grove restaurant.

Islander staff members toured one of the housing units last Friday afternoon with an inspector from the City Building Department.

Paper sacks overflowing with beer cans littered the kitchen area while other rooms could barely be entered due to the broken mattresses, dirty clothes, broken appliances and other debris piled nearly to the ceiling.

Don't forget Earth Day

This weekend Islanders will be celebrating Sun Day, Earth Day and the year of the Coast all rolled into one.

Exhibits stressing conservation, natural Island foods, solar experiments, music, speakers, puppet shows and films will all be part of the fun this Sunday from 1 - 5 p.m. at the Community Association Building.

Grove continued

Broken windows and screens and at least one entrance door that would not shut tight were also clearly visible.

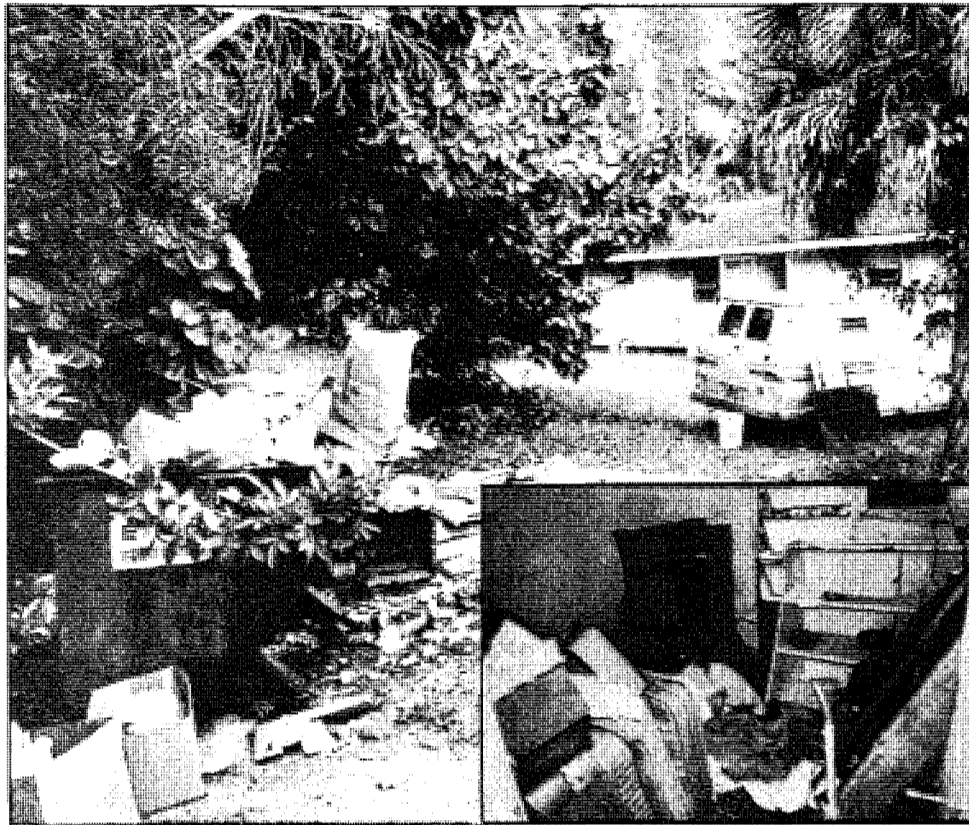

Outside the housing area a dumpster overflowed with garbage. There is an abandoned trailer sitting behind the largest of the two buildings used to house employees. A third building, with a sign labeling it the "Swamp," has reportedly been given to the First Baptist Church for conversion into a Christian coffee house at a later time.

One Grove employee who resides at the quarters told the Islander that kitchen workers were paid minimum wage at the restaurant and were charged $7 a day for room and board.

At least three separate sources have claimed the Grove hires the majority of its kitchen help through the Goode and A1-A employment agencies on the East Coast. The employees are allegedly charged $75 by the agencies for job placement at the Grove. One Grove employee told the Islander that his bus and cab fare from the East coast to Sanibel had been paid for "by somebody" but that he was obligated to pay that amount back to the agency later.

According to a spokesman for the Lee County Health Department, the Coconut Grove restaurant was cited twice for unsanitary conditions in March.

Inadequately covered and stored garbage, closures on restroom doors and unclean floors in the restaurant were cited by health inspectors on March 6. A follow-up check by the Department on March 20 revealed all three violations still in effect.

Another restaurant inspection and an inspection of the exterior grounds of the employee quarters will be conducted this week, according to the Department Sanitary Supervisor.

The Sanibel Police Department has responded to over 20 calls since January 1979 involving either incidents at the housing quarters or employees of the Grove. According to public police records complaints ranged in severity from excessive noise to physical assault.

Police calls to the Grove quarters for the month of April alone include: four noise complaints; two assistance calls; two reports of assault and a report of an ex-employee returning to the quarters with a knife.

On February 15 of this year the Sanibel Police department arrested Alvin Stanley Swanson, 45, of the Coconut Grove quarters for grand theft. The arrest stemmed from an investigation into an Island construction site burglary.

Earlier this month John Hills, 28, of the Grove quarters was arrested when he returned to the area with a knife after having been fired from his job. Hills had allegedly been beaten up by another employee the day before and had been treated for facial lacerations by the Island medics.

Another ex-Grove employee, Steven Ammons, 25, is wanted by the police for questioning in connection with a burglary at the employee quarters in March. According to four Grove employees, Ammons frequently carried a .22 revolver and often spoke of needing to kill someone to satisfy a satan's cult rite.

Library dedication

An informal dedication ceremony will be held tonight at 5 p.m. honoring the opening of the new Captiva Library addition.

A social hour will follow the dedication at the Captiva Community Center and all library patrons are invited to attend.

paying $2.2 million - or two-thirds of the estimated total - they should be given two-thirds of the new property

"We feel," said Ortell, "that it's a fair consideration of the equities involved."

Cape Coral attorney Richard Roosa, representing several Captiva property owners, disagreed. "They've pointed out that they don't want more land," charged Roosa, "and now they're asking to file State land with State sand and then take ownership."

Roosa also contested whether an erosion control line was even an "appropriate" subject for DNR discussion - since South Seas is a private entity and Florida law, according to Roosa, does not address itself to private renourishment projects.

Ortell maintained however, that State law declares the State should pay for renourishment projects.

TenBroek, angered by references that South Seas might only be proposing the project to gain more land and that the public's one-third of the project would be the first to wash away, said, "I resent accusations that we're trying to grab property from the State or the public." TenBroek claimed that South Seas was willing to have the two-thirds one-third partnership with the public "continue forever - until the (erosion) line returns to where it is today."

Another DNR hearing on the South Seas proposal has been scheduled for 10 a.m., May 28, at the Lee County Court House.

Residents will have to pay for paving road

By Roxanna Motchan

Dissatisfied users of Bay Drive appeared before Sanibel's City Council last week to reiterate their desire for the paving of that shell road.

Sanibel's Planning Commission had earlier rejected a petition submitted by the residents requesting the paving, but voted instead to recommend City Council mandate better maintenance of all Island shell roads. No action was taken however, on the Commission's mandate recommendation at last week's Council meeting. The issue will be re-considered at a later date.

At last week's meeting City Manager Bernie Murphy cited some of the steps the City could take to improve the shell roads.

"Limited applications of calcium chloride would help decrease the dust problem," he said. "This is because calcium chloride holds and retains moisture and water. This will hold the dust in. It also has a pretty long life span and will last awhile, depending on the weather. Speed on the road should also be strictly enforced. This would help solve the problem."

Isabel Drive resident Paul Lyon, representing signers of the petition, made a statement in support of paving.

"The City's concern is that shell roads are more in character with the Island. We challenge that issue," he said. "We feel that no roads at all is more in character with the Island, but people need roadways."

Lyon said that the residents of Fay Drive and Sanibel Harbours subdivision are being discriminated against. "It is stupid to set aside a certain number of shell roads for preservation," he argued. "A number of roads are being upgraded and shell roads are sinking to an ever lower quality. The only difference we can see between driving down Bay Drive (a shell road) and Dixie Beach Boulevard (a paved road) is what's happening to our cars."

Councilman Porter Goss agreed with Lyon that driving down a shell road can cause damage to automobiles. "But," he pointed out, "damage to your car is part of the game of living on a barrier island."

Sanibel resident Durwood Kirby was also present to make a statement in support of paving the road.

"We admire anyone who wants to keep the Island beautiful," he said. "But times did change, we came to the Island and we even blacktopped roads! We even surfaced bicycle paths! Why did we do this? We did it because we knew shell roads would not survive. Tin Lizzies deserve wagon trails and modern cars deserve modern roads."

Kirby contended that implementation of the City approved traffic intersection at Periwinkle Way, Lindgren and Causeway Road will cause further problems to develop.

"The new traffic concept will encourage visitors to use Bay Drive. They will come onto it from Bailey Road. They will ride down the street just out of curiosity to see what is at the end of it. This will cause rut after rut."

Lyon said that he felt Bay Drive and Sanibel Harbours property owners would be willing to support two-thirds of the cost of paving Bay Drive.

City Manager Murphy pointed out that the original petition, although it contained 29 signatures, represented only 18 of the 49 property owners in the area. "I'm not sure a majority of owners are willing to pay the $74,000 cost of paving," he said.

Lyon disagreed, saying, "After the petition was mailed in, there was a considerable feeling that easily, a majority would support sharing of costs."

Councilman Duane White told the Council, "I would have no objection to a double bituminous surface providing the cost will be born by a majority of the property owners."

Murphy requested that, if the City were to undertake such a project, it be budgeted for the next fiscal year, which begins October 1.

Councilman Goss recommended that Lyon go out and determine how many of the property owners would be willing to support the project.

Lyon said later that he and other concerned owners will undertake the task of determining who will be willing to support the cost of paving.

"We have no certainty as to what people will think about this when they discover that they have to dig down into their own pocket," he said, "but it's my own personal feeling that paving Bay Drive will increase the value of the property in the area."

Lyon believes that Council treatment of the subject was fair. "We are happy that our low priority matter has been given a fair hearing and a surprising amount of attention in a reasonable time frame," he said. "This could have been summarily dismissed, and it wasn't. Regardless of the outcome, none of us will be embarrassed."

"Right now we're in the thinking stages," Lyon added. "When we have a clear idea of our support we'll return to Council with our findings."

Scouts sponsor Goodturn

Saturday, April 26, is Boy Scout-Goodwill "Goodturn Day" in Lee, Collier and Charlotte counties. Cub Packs and Scout Troops in all three counties will once more visit the neighborhoods in which they left Goodwill bags last Saturday. Residents who return one or more filled bags of used clothing and small household items for Goodwill will receive a McDonald's Good Neighbor coupon for a free hamburger. This year McDonald's in each of the three counties are participating. Goodwill trucks will be at all five McDonald's locations in Lee County, and Goodwill attended centers will be at McDonald's Charlotte Harbor and at McDonald's on North 41 in Naples from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. to receive the bags the Scouts have collected.

This special Scout drive for Goodwill is a long-standing tradition with local Scouts, and is an official activity of the Southwest Florida Council, Boy Scouts of America. It comes at a time of year when donations are critically low at Goodwill, and helps maintain the jobs of the handicapped workers Goodwill employs. The Scouts and Goodwill ask you not to take your donations to McDonald's, however, as they do not have room to store them.

Pack 88 and Troop 88, sponsored by the Sanibel Elementary School PTO, will be collecting on Sanibel, according to their respective leaders, Cub Master Tom Uhler and Scout Master Ron Sebold.

Will you be able to rebuild after a hurricane?

Gordon Kiddoo is a concerned citizen with a fear.

He is one of the many Islanders who fear that it will be impossible or too financially exorbitant to rebuild their homes after a hurricane, fire, or some other disaster.

A big question for the City of Sanibel concerns what might happen to existing Island structures in the event of greater than 50 percent destruction. Last week, Sanibel's Planning Commission discussed the possibility of amending the ordinance in the Comprehensive Land Use Plan (CLUP) which provides for continuation of structures and uses lawfully existing as of July 19, 1976.

As the CLUP reads now, a business or resident with greater than 50 percent damage would have to apply for the necessary permits to bring their reconstructed area into compliance with the CLUP. There is a growing concern by both city planners and citizens as to the consequences of a three or four month wait to begin rebuilding in the event of a disaster.

Associate City Planner Bob Duane has been instrumental in drafting an ordinance which would require lawfully existing buildings to conform to current land use requirements except in the case of residential density. In that case, residential density may be re-established to the intensity lawfully existing at the time of the destruction or damage.

Audience members did not react well to the figure of 50 percent, even after Duane explained that it is "universally accepted."

Kiddoo, a resident of Shell Harbor, distributed a study he had made of his own property, containing facts and figures giving information on the cost to rebuild his home in compliance with the CLUP. It was his estimate that a $78,000 price tag could be placed on rebuilding expenses.

Kiddoo recommended that destruction should exceed 85 percent before requiring the building be brought into compliance with the plan.

Kiddoo stated, "On top of the cost, I am concerned about the length of time to obtain a specific amendment. After a disaster, you want to get started with the cleanup and rebuilding as soon as possible."

Duane agreed that certain guidelines should be set up to establish degrees of non-conformity that could be allowed without an amendment during rebuilding.

If these degrees are established, it might be easier for a single family resident to acquire the necessary permits to rebuild than, for example, a large condominium too close to the Gulf.

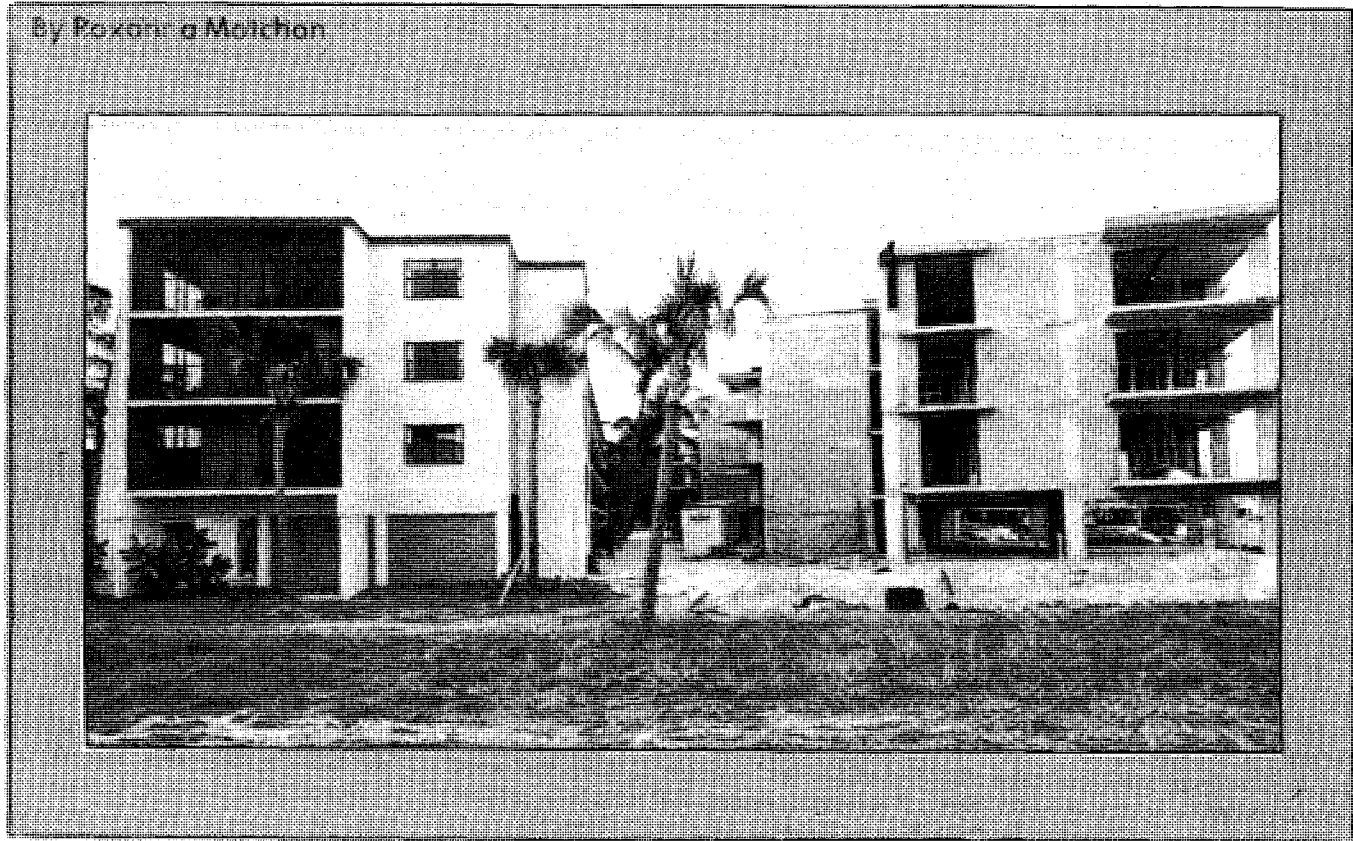

Members of the Planning Commission had varying reactions to the subject, although all agreed that something should probably be done before the beginning of this year's hurricane season.

Planning Commissioner Bill Hagerup, supporting one claim made by the public, commented, "The way I look at it, it would be almost impossible to handle all the requests if something isn't done now."

The question of what is going to happen to overdeveloped parcels of land in the event of destruction was never answered. Planner Duane did note, "What are 15 people going to do with one fifth of a dwelling unit?"

A motion was made to continue the discussion at a later date. This will give the City Planners and Commissioners time to study audience input.

Gala Greek Festival this weekend

Southwest Florida Greek-Americans are giving young and old an opportunity on April 26 and 27, to share their rediscovered ethnicity by eating gourmet ethnic Greek foods, listening to ethnic music, entertainment and participating at the gala fifth annual celebration at Fort Myers Exhibition Hall. Exposed to such exotica, non-ethnic neighbors are invited to follow suit.

Ethnic Greek-American Festivals and bazaars, those traditionally unsophisticated counterparts of mainstream and lifestyle, are moving into the bigtime all over America. Their growing success stems from national discovery and affirmation that the U.S. is a pluralistic society. This ethnic festival process began in the 1960's, when Greek-Americans and other ethnic groups with foreign roots wanted to share their foods, entertainment and cultural customs with their friends and neighbors.

Moreover, ethnic festivals offering ethnic foods, music, dancing and hand-crafts have proved so appealing to Americans of all backgrounds, that most city and county officials throughout America have been using them to promote interest in declining urban centers. "The festivals have a binding effect on the morals of a community," commented one official.

Deep down there is a need for traditions and values. Committee members believe that the ethnic Greek-American revival represents a reaction by people who, for generations, felt pressure to discard their pasts and "Be American." America, they say, never wanted to deal with ethnicity before. Now with Hispanics, Asian Americans, Blacks, Polish, American Indians, Italians and dozens of others, ethnic groups are inviting America to sample their ethnic wares and cultural traditions.

If you want to enjoy a fantastic weekend, you are welcome to attend the Grecian Ball at the Fort Myers Exhibition Hall, Saturday, April 26, at 6:30 p.m. Dancing and entertainment will be by the Gus Vali internationally renowned Greek-American orchestra. Donation for this colossal evening, that includes a sit-down dinner and open bar, is $25 per person.

The second day of the festival, Sunday, April 27, starting at 11 a.m., at the bazaar, you will have the opportunity to visit the many arts and crafts booths. Gourmet Greek foods will be available to eat at the festival or packaged to take home. Again, there will be entertainment and dancing by the Gus Vali orchestra.

This gigantic event is being sponsored by the Greek Orthodox Church for the church building fund. The church is located at 3611 Cypress Lake Drive, Fort Myers.

According to the committees working on this event, it will be bigger and better than last year's, which had people clamoring for the delicious foods, pastries, hand-crafts, etc., and above all "fun for all."

Tickets for the Grecian ball and festival information may be had by phoning 542-2822, 481-2099, 542-8482 or 472-2253.

Quote

One of the most highly touted, flaunted and expounded upon aspects of life on Sanibel has always been the "uniqueness," the "quality of life," the "protection offered by a $3 toll against a "certain element" prevalent in other parts of the County.

Privileged Sanibel, protected by its residents, City fathers and land use plan is pledged against the kinds of vandalism, environment, aesthetics and attitudes prevalent in the "outside world." But, nevertheless, a situation involving all of the elements considered anathema to Sanibel standards has been allowed to exist at a favorite watering hole of City officials and employees alike.

No one questions the inability of Island businessmen to hire and house good hired help anymore. The cost of living, the wages earned and the decided lack of available moderate cost housing is a constant thorn in the side of businessmen and City administrators alike.

But still some businesses DO manage - without importing transients from the east coast and without housing them in sub-standard buildings.

The current investigation into the Coconut Grove employee housing situation brings to light several issues that should be of utmost concern to Island residents. Number one, is the lack of community support toward young families willing to work in service jobs in exchange for becoming contributing community members. In a poll conducted last year 61 percent of the Islanders surveyed were against providing moderate cost housing for middle income families on the Island.

Faced with such attitudes businessmen may be forced more and more to turn to single, transient workers to keep their businesses running.

Number two, is a community willingness to participate in a double standard. The Grove quarters were not built yesterday - yet City officials and residents have heretofore chosen to ignore a burgeoning mess in the heart of their community; the same officials and residents who stress "aesthetics" and "Island compatibility" when considering new Island development.

Number three, is the judgement demonstrated by importing unemployed, transient outsiders - many of whom have prior arrest records - into a closed, privileged community. According to one source, the majority of the Grove employees arrive on the bus with a paper sack of belongings and a carton of cigarettes. Low wages result in their scrounging through Goodwill boxes for clothing and vandalizing Island residents and construction sites for valuables.

To say that the Grove employees are not being held prisoner and can leave at any time is too simple. The truth is that they make too little money to be able to move away and with the police record common to many of them another job will be hard to come by.

We find it appalling that satanic cult members and convicted burglars are being imported into our community by one of our Island businessmen - and we hope you do too.

A copy of the following letter was given to the Islander for publication:

Honorable Francis Bailey
Mayor
City of Sanibel
P.O. Box 436
Sanibel, Fl. 33957

Dear Francis and members of the Sanibel City Council:

I recently received copies of two new Sanibel City Ordinances, 80-03 and 80-12, regarding coastal zone surveys and procedures.

As usual, Sanibel has taken the lead among all of Florida's local governments in dealing with the critical environmental concerns of this state, and I am particularly impressed by and appreciative of these two ordinances, for they show that you and the council are actively grasping the lead in dealing with important concerns and setting a precedent for other local governments to follow.

I am sponsoring, as I am sure you know, HB 268, which would clearly establish Florida as an ebb and flow state and secure the state's sovereignty over submerged and environmentally sensitive coastal areas for all generations. The law I am seeking to initiate would require the Department of Natural Resources to review coastal surveys which delineate the boundary between public and private property and attest to their technical accuracy instead of merely approving methodology and accepting these surveys without question. The resulting loss of environmentally sensitive lands through this practice is appalling and must stop. The recognition of this problem by the city as evidenced by your recently passed ordinances is commendable and I am hopeful that the Florida legislature is going to give you a revised Chapter 177 which will really place teeth into this state law and greatly strengthen the practical impact of your ordinances as well.

I might add, that the bill for canal maintenance on Sanibel has been prefiled, and I should have a bill number and committee reference for you shortly.

As always, I am appreciative of your support and assistance, and my best wishes go to you and all the members of the city council.

Sincerely,
(s) Franklin B. Mann

Pesticide labels reviewed

By Elaine Blohm

Statements found on the labeling of pesticide products registered for use in mosquito control programs were recently reviewed by an advisory committee of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

In a confidential memorandum not yet issued for general publication from A.E. Conroy II, Director of the Pesticides and Toxic Substances Enforcement Division, an interpretation of various precautionary statements on pesticide labels was reviewed.

The study was initiated because of citizen's complaints received about the aerial application of various mosquitocides by thermal fogging techniques in the state of Florida and subsequent drift associated with their use.

The strategy of aerial application of certain mosquitocides by means of thermal fogging is to lay down a dense cloud of the pesticide along the windward side of the target area and to allow prevailing winds to aid in the dispersal of the pesticide throughout the area. This method maximizes drift, and a certain amount of the pesticide inevitably moves to non-target areas.

Due to the geographic nature of many areas where this method is used, the spray drift comes in contact with water. For this reason, questions arise about possible water contamination and the agency's position on the enforcement of label restrictions.

Some precautions and restrictions recommended by the Agency include: No applications of pesticides where important natural resources, such as crabs and shrimp, are found, or when weather conditions favor drift from treatment areas; thermal fogging should not take place when wind speeds are less than two mph or more than two mph and when prevailing winds are predominantly in the direction of non-target areas; mosquitocides should only be applied during early morning or late evening hours when birds, bees or other wildlife are less active.

The Agency presumes that minimal adverse effects to non-target areas will occur if those precautions are taken but the Pesticide Misuse Review Committee recommends that State and local pesticide officials, in cooperation with the EPA, investigate the need for conducting a monitoring program during the 1980 spray season.

Other options being considered are a label improvement program, a regulatory restrictions program and possible complete performance standards for mosquitocides.

INTERVAL OWNERSHIP — it's the most vacation for our money.

True — we work hard to earn our vacations and we want the most for our money. Inflation is making resort rentals just too expensive for a family — and we simply can't afford the year-round ownership and maintenance of a vacation home.

So we're here at Plantation Beach Club where interval ownership gives our family the assurance that we can enjoy leisurely vacations each year, in comfort and luxury, — all at a one-time cost that's easy to afford.

We love the islands — it's a great place for June and me to relax and there's so much for the kids to do. Our vacation villa is right on the beach, fully furnished, complete with linens, all the kitchen utensils, magazines, — you name it. We've got two private bedrooms, two bathrooms and a screened porch, so there's plenty of room for the kids.

With barbecues and a full kitchen, we fix breakfast, lunch, snacks and dinners — and save enough money to treat the whole family to nice restaurants once in a while.

There's also an exchange program — so we can change our vacation times and visit other resorts, all without paying rent. We believe Interval Ownership provides the most vacation for our money.

Dual Taxation Committee studies Manatee area solution

The Tri-Cities Dual Taxation Committee last Friday received a policy statement that aided the resolution of dual taxation problems facing Manatee County (near Sarasota).

Sanibel Councilmember Zee Butler, who obtained a copy of the statement from the Manatee County Clerk, suggested that the Committee members study and then consider the possibility of applying the policy to Lee County's dual taxation issue.

Ms. Butler said she was particularly encouraged in Manatee County's resolution to the dual taxation issue because the adoption of the statement resulted from the combined efforts of the county and six municipalities located there.

The precedent setting policy, as described in "Dual Taxation In Florida," a published report from the State Department of Community Affairs, outlines how both revenues and expenditures in Manatee County are allocated on the basis of delivery of each (County) department's services to the various municipalities and unincorporated areas.

As an example, the cost of the County Election Office's services are distributed on the basis of registered voters in each municipality and in the unincorporated areas.

"For those countywide services whose benefits are virtually impossible to track," the report said, "a weighted average of population and assessed valuation (of property) is employed as an allocator."

The policy statement, which went into effect in June 1979, outlines how each of the six municipalities were levied a different tax rate, based on the weighted population and assessment formula. The revised millage rates effectively eliminated the dual taxation problem in Manatee County, according to the report.

The Committee also heard from Cape Coral Committee representative John Blomquist, who had been assigned the task of uncovering areas of dual taxation in the County Roads and Bridges Department.

Blomquist suggested that the County road system, for dual taxation analysis, be broken down into two parts: one countywide, including those roads in general use and of substantial benefit to residents of unincorporated areas; and the other non-countywide, including those roads in unincorporated areas supported by Municipal Service Taxing Units.

In short, Blomquist said, the unincorporated areas of the County should take responsibility for the maintenance of roads passing through them, and not depend on countywide revenues supplied in part by County residents who receive no benefits from the roads.

Blomquist explained that the State is responsible for the classification of whether city, County or State is responsible for construction and maintenance of roadways.

He suggested to the Committee that the State Department of Transportation be asked to reclassify all present public roads in Lee County in accordance with the two part system he had outlined.

That accomplished, he suggested the Committee then request the County and the three City Councils of Cape Coral, Sanibel and Fort Myers to direct budget preparation in compliance with the State's reclassifications.

The migratory fish might have just passed us by

We've been waiting patiently for the Spring run of blue fish and mackerel, but apparently the migratory fish have passed our Islands by.

You might have read or heard about mackerel being spotted out in the Gulf of Mexico, but very few of the fish were taken because of the rough weather conditions.

There is still a chance, however, that the smaller blue fish and Spanish mackerel will make an appearance around the passes. If you see birds working over the Gulf, then troll by with small silver spoons or yellow jibs and if there is fish under the birds you will soon know it.

We are also moving into that time of the year when anglers begin to see large trout around the grass flats and holes in Pine Island Sound.

As many of you know, the Island open Fishing Derby has begun and a trout over two pounds is eligible to be entered into the contest at any of several participating marinas.

A two-pound trout is a big fish and don't be surprised if there are many fish this size entered daily until the contest ends on June 29th.

While we are talking about sea trout, remember that this time of the year, we at the marinas often get some larger shrimp in the tanks for bait. That means you should be able to take some of the bigger fish with shrimp of say three or four inches in length. Not all the shrimp are like that, of course, but the return of warm weather often brings in the larger shrimp and along with them, the trout.

One of the best baits for large trout is a small pinfish. If you have a cast net, then you can get some of these pinfish of about an inch to three inches in length. And they are a favorite of many kinds of game fish besides the trout. You can float a pinfish under a cork, just as you would a shrimp, or you can put the little guy on the bottom and hope for a strike.

I'm a top water lure fisherman, and my season is about to come back, too. In the winter months, very few fish can get interested in a noisy, splashing top running lure, but now things change.

I've taken many blues, jacks, ladyfish and even had a five-foot shark come after one last year. I just like to see fish hit on the top. My favorite lure for this is the Dalton Special lures, sold at most bait shops. The color really doesn't seem to make that much difference.

Good fishing out there this week, and if the weather will calm down and the bait supply stays constant, we should be in for a good Spring fishing season.

SCCF sponsors flower identification walk

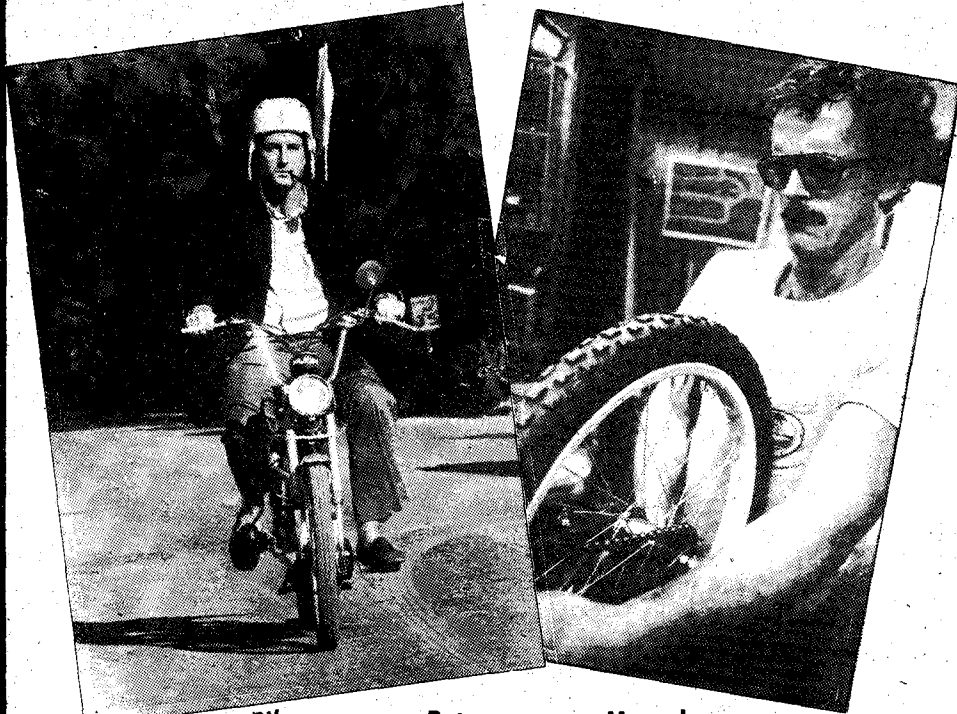

A trail walk to study the identification of wild flowers in bloom on the Islands will take place on April 29 from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. at the Conservation Center. Admission is free to members. The fee for non-members is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. The walk will be led by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clark and will entail learning to recognize many of the native plants in bloom this time of year. As the walk will take place on the SCCF nature trails, dress accordingly; i.e., sneakers, long pants, etc. Bring your camera.

For further information, and to sign up, call Steve Phillips at 472-2329.

Shelling Tips

By Mike Fuery

Murex and worm shells are two of the more unusually shaped shells, even for the world of odd, beautiful and interesting forms. Let's talk about these shells this week.

As I collect and study the murex shells we have here in Southwest Florida, an interesting tale begins to unwind. From reading about shells I have learned that the murex is found all over the world and at one time, during the Roman and Greek empires, was used as a source of dye. According to R. Tucker Abbott, author of Seashells of the World, "The murex snail secretes a yellowish fluid which, when boiled and treated, makes permanent purple dye. Wool and cotton dyed with this so-called "Royal Tyrian Purple" brought very high prices and during Roman times only senators and emperors were allowed to wear the purple cloth. After the fall of the Roman Empire, the dye was used by the Christian Church and gave rise to the official colors of the Cardinals."

So the little, plain colored murex seemed to be a very popular shell in its own right. Incidentally, that is one of the earliest records I have found of shell collectors. You may have just discovered shelling, but according to some very good information, it seems that the Romans and Greeks were at it a long time before Sanibel was even formed.

No matter what you see in display cases in shell shops, there are only two kinds of murex shells that I find with any consistency on Sanibel and Captiva beaches.

We have the apple murex, a roundish shell with decorative spines about a quarter of an inch long, and the lace murex, which is all decked out in intricate spines.

The apple murex might get to be four inches long, but the majority you will see are about 2-3 inches. The lace murex never seems to get longer than two inches, but of the two, the lace is far more beautiful.

What I look for most in a murex is good clarity of the shell and pure color. One of the most outstanding murex shells ever found on one of my charters was pure black, perfect, and a prize for any sheller. The apple murex shells seem to be more dull in color, but a very good one is well received in any collection.

I wish I knew where to tell you to find these shells consistently. The live ones like a mud and shell beach area which means finding a sandbar with mud behind it and hoping there will be some murexes. But, most often, we find them in the dead shells (empty of creature) along the beaches.

The murex is fascinating, with its own history, but the worm shells are some of the favorites of my shelling groups.

The worm shell often reaches six inches in length, with a very vivid point at one end and an opening at the other. I have never found a live one and I suspect that there are many which live outside of Redfish Pass, because if there was ever a single beach where I had to bet on finding a top quality worm shell, it would be at the southern tip of North Captiva Island.

A good collector's worm is a reddish tan color. The ones which have been beached for some time will be all white from the sun and salt. The worm shell, like most all shells, has an exterior shell and although it sounds strange to be gathering worms, once you find a perfect specimen, you will be convinced that it's one of the best in your collection.

(Capt. Mike Fuery offers daily shelling trips to North Captiva and Cayo Costa Islands. Call 472-3459 after 6p.m. for details).

Scouts attend campout weekend

By Ron Sebold

The Sanibel-Captiva Boy Scout Troop 88 enjoyed their family camp-out the weekend of May 12 and 13.

The outing, which was held at Camp Miles Scout Camp, also included a 20 mile hike for the Scouts who attended. Lunch was prepared in camp for the hikers and later delivered to them on the trail.

After completing the first 14 miles the hikers returned to camp - already set up, with the exception of a few tents. After a rest period, a fire was built and dinner preparations made. Although weather had been perfect for the hike the camp was hit by a harsh storm during the dinner preparations. The fire was doused and the dining fly went down. The food and equipment under the dining fly was soaked but the Scouts and their gear stayed relatively dry in their tents. The storm ended as quickly as it had started and a replay of the earlier preparations got underway. All hikers were treated to a special desert of starwberry shortcake.

After the evening meal the Scouts were invited to a campfire by a training session group also using the camp.

Sunday morning was greeted by Jim Hermes - who was ready and waiting to serve the Scouts breakfast. After breakfast the Scouts completed the final six miles of their hike.

After cleaning and packing up camp the pool was opened to everyone for swimming.

Those attending the camp-out were: Brian Welker, Keith Wainright, Greg Hermes, Sam Clifford, Ross Bjerke, Grant Slay, Todd Lorenz, David Krepin, and Mike Hermes. Adults present were: Scoutmaster Ron Sebold, Glen Slay, Robin Lorenz, Ben Bjerke and Jim Hermes.

Fountain lowers noise, keeps license

Sanibel's City Council last week considered a possible revocation of the Fountain Supper Club's entertainment license.

After hearing comment from Club manager Jim Gillis and the public, Council decided to simply issue a warning until the Club's entertainment license comes up for renewal in September.

Numerous noise complaints filed with the police department against the Club prompted last week's review of their entertainment license. At that time Gillis told Councilmembers that a letter of apology had been sent to the surrounding residents who might have been disturbed.

"Since learning of the complaints we have proceeded to cancel the high volume groups," he said. "We don't want hard rock and roll ever again. In fact, one night when the noise was particularly bad we flipped the circuit breakers."

Councilmember Zee Butler contended that the situation should never have occurred in the first place, since a warning to keep the volume low was issued along with the original entertainment license last February 19.

"The whole thing could have been avoided at the beginning because we didn't want to see what happened happen," she said. "Now you're apologizing and saying that you're never going to do it again."

Gillis told the Council that there was originally a lack of communication among the Club owners, and that he had never been made aware of such a limitation.

Herb Purdy, a resident living behind the Fountain, was present to voice his complaints against the Club.

"We haven't been able to use our master bedroom since the Fountain opened," he charged. "It's in the rear of the house and the noise would keep us awake at night. After 2 a.m. the employees start throwing bottles into the dumpster, breaking them, and we hear crashing. Between 2 and 3 a.m., when the help is leaving, we hear roaring, skidding tires."

"One night it got so bad I called Mayor Francis Bailey at home," he continued. "It was 1 a.m. I said 'Francis, just listen, I'll hold the phone' and from inside the house he could hear thumping and banging."

Purdy also mentioned his growing concern over another problem.

"This is even worse than the noise," he said. "We have uninvited guests - big, large, garbage rats. It's dangerous for our kids, who, as kids do, like to camp out in the backyard at night. The rats come from the garbage dumpsters, which are overflowing. My wife is about to have a nervous breakdown. She won't go outside after dark."

City Manager Bernie Murphy advised the Council and public that some complaints have been received recently against Sanibel Disposal, and this could have been a contributing factor to the Fountain's garbage build-up problem. He said that one of Sanibel Disposal's trucks recently blew up, leaving the company with one less truck than usual for trash pickup.

Gillis said that there have been problems with pickup, but that calls have been made to Sanibel Disposal and the problem would be rectified shortly.

Island resident George Campbell said, "Most of our dumpsters, from those behind our esteemed Mayor's store to the top of the Island, are rusted out on the bottom. No wonder there are rats."

According to Gillis, the County Health Department paid a recent visit to the Fountain and pointed out that the dumpster lids should be kept closed, but made no mention of rats.

"I honestly do not feel the rats are coming from our area," Gillis said.

Resident Joan Leanos commented, "I have not personally seen a rat, but I have warned my children not to walk through the high grassed areas."

Councilman Duane White warned Gillis, "You people are just about at the end of a plank. I do not like to see situations created that are disturbing residents. So far as I'm concerned, one more well founded, documented complaint and that place will be closed down.

Councilman Porter Goss said, "Mr. Gillis has taken steps to reduce the noise. Anyone who is further bothered by noise should call me at 1 a.m. I would vote to yank the license if there's a problem and then go back into the question of compatibility of restaurant use in this area."

Gillis informed the group that the owners of the Fountain have requested Sanibel Police to regularly patrol the area.

Since no formal action was taken last week, the owners of the club will be able to continue operation until September, when the occupational and entertainment licenses must be renewed.

Vice Mayor Charles LeBuff concluded, "I might add, beware."

Prior disaster amendment denied

Steffen Brown, representing Sunset South Condominiums, was denied a request for a specific amendment to the Comprehensive Land Use Plan (CLUP) at last week's Planning Commission meeting.

Brown's request was to permit reconstruction, in the event of greater than 50 percent destruction, two buildings which are located forward of the coastal construction setback line (CCSL).

Brown's rationale for requesting the amendment was that, "Sunset South is not a monolithic structure. Only the front two buildings are in front of the setback line. We do comply with other aspects of the Comprehensive Land Use Plan (CLUP). We are built 14.5 feet above the mean high tide line."

Brown continued, saying that he didn't know what would happen to the owner's investment in the event of large destruction.

Associate City Planner Bob Duane recommended to the Commissioners that Brown's request be denied on the basis that, "we're dealing with a case of development in an area that's not permitted."

"What you're telling me," Brown responded, "is that our property is useless."

The Commissioners all agreed that it was undesirable to set a precedent by granting Brown's request before the question of lawfully existing uses and rebuilding has been thoroughly researched.

City vacates Sanibel Gardens right of ways

Sanibel's City Council last week agreed with the Planning Commission's recommendation to vacate certain rights of way in the Sanibel Gardens subdivision.

Most of the land in Sanibel Gardens subdivision is owned by the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation (SCCF). Malcolm Beatty, representing the SCCF, was present to explain that the foundation would like to see the land vacated because much of the area has been used as a dump for vegetation, debris and other garbage.

"Our principal concern is to restore as much of Sanibel Gardens as we can," he said.

Councilmembers agreed that rights of way along Boca Grande and east-west alley ways should be vacated. However, Locke Avenue will remain public. This will allow owners in Tarpon Bay Subdivision to retain access to their property.

Graphics variances denied by Council

Two separate requests for variances to Sanibel's Graphics Ordinance were denied last week by the City Council.

Mrs. Barbara Ward, Principal of Sanibel Elementary School, was denied her request to keep the existing sign on the front of the school. The sign in question, which reads "Sanibel Elementary School" is larger than the Ordinance specifies. It is 120 square feet and, according to the Graphics Ordinance, the largest any sign may be on Sanibel is 40 square feet.

Mrs. Ward indicated to Council that she had been unaware she was doing anything wrong. "When I came to Sanibel, I looked over the grounds and thought, 'There's no way to tell this is a school.' I was never aware that I had broken a law because I had never come here to do that." She explained, "I feel it's a very tasteful design. I was delighted with it and the children were happy."

Councilman Duane White moved that the school be denied the variance request, but be given three years, or until the sign needs major repairs, to come into compliance. The motion passed unanimously.

In a separate hearing, a request from the Sanibel-Captiva American Legion to be allowed two signs on their property was also denied.

According to the Graphics Ordinance, one street graphic is permitted. The American Legion Post has one ground mounted sign, and one wall mounted sign.

Peg Schneider, representing the American Legion, asked Council if their signs might possibly be grandfathered, as they were erected 21 years ago.

Councilman Duane White said, "I'm big supporter of the American Legion but I feel the Graphics Ordinance is too important that I would not want to let you keep your extra sign up. It's not a matter of years, it's a matter of keeping in character with the Island."

The American Legion has 90 days to bring their signs into compliance with the ordinance.

CROW granted exhibit area, living quarters

Adelaide Cherbonnier, representing Care and Rehabilitation of Wildlife (CROW) was granted a request for multi-purpose living quarters and a small public exhibit area by Sanibel's Planning Commission at last week's meeting.

The request was granted in spite of mixed feelings and strong reactions from various Commissioners.

The proposed exhibit will fulfill a public relations function for CROW, as visitors will be able to view the animals who are on the road to recovery. The exhibit facility will be separate from the animals who are too ill to be disturbed.

State and Federal regulations require that employee living quarters be nearby such an exhibit, to ensure prompt attention and security from vandals and predatory animals. These living quarters will be used by student "interns" who are earning college credit studying at the CROW facility. The proposed building will be energy efficient, and is designed to allow for natural cooling. Water recycling methods will also be incorporated in the building, requiring only back-up water from the Island Water Association.

Commissioner Joe Searing responded lukewarmly to Cherbonnier's request, saying, "I feel all this is beyond your function. It's making an attraction out of CROW. I think you've gotten carried away. Forget the exhibit area and you won't need the living quarters."

Cherbonnier defended her request. "The interns who come to CROW are here to learn exactly how to run an operation like this. It's impossible for them to find a place to live for four months."

Chairman Ann Winterbotham was in favor of Cherbonnier's request and said, "I support the concept of educational opportunities, and it's refreshing to consider an amendment that supports the Plan (Comprehensive Lane Use Plan)."

Planning Commissioner Judy Workman pointed out that the planned apartments provided by CROW will take low income people out of the market vying for City-sponsored moderate cost housing.

Members of the Planning Commission expressed concern about what might happen to the dwelling units if and when CROW dissolves.

Bruce Rogers, Planning Director, assured the Commissioners, "The rationale for granting the increase in density is based on CROW's needs. Whoever takes over following CROW will have to make an additional plea for a specific amendment."

"I have a feeling we're being salami'd, one little slice after another," replied Commissioner Fred Valtin. "As worthwhile as CROW is, a 300 percent increase in density is so much more than we would ever consider granting anyone else. I can see this becoming a tourist attraction with problems of parking, traffic, and litter."

Valtin also added that granting CROW three dwelling units at once will limit the others who will be competing for dwelling units under the City's Rate of Growth Ordinance (ROGO).

Cherbonnier assured Valtin that the CROW exhibit area will not be advertised. "The exhibit area will only be open a few days a week," she said. "But we feel we must have it because a great many people are interested in what CROW is doing. We try not to be visible, but it's impossible sometimes. We're basically a hospital for sick animals."

Commissioner Don Manchester made the motion to approve the CROW application. Manchester added that, in the event CROW is dissolved, the new owners must re-apply for the amendment granting dwelling units.

The motion passed unanimously, although Valtin still appeared concerned. "I'm deeply troubled by the possible consequences," he said.

City drafting anti-paraphernalia ordinance

Mrs. Curtiss (Cindy) Beach, representing Parents Really Care, appeared before Sanibel's City Council last week to request their support for the organization.

Mrs. Beach explained that Parents Really Care is committed to promoting exposure of parents and others in the community to information and education regarding mind-changing chemicals (drugs and alcohol).

Another goal of the group, according to Mrs. Beach, is to provide current resource materials and information to parents through establishing resource files at high schools, middle schools, local libraries, and local newsletters.

Parents Really Care seeks to educate parents through training and developing a network of speakers to appear before Parent and Teacher Organizations (PTO).

Committees are also to be established to lobby for State and local legislation to ban the sale of drug paraphernalia, raise the drinking age from 18 to 21 and contact local and chain business establishments to solicit voluntary removal of drug promotion literature from their magazine racks.

Councilmembers indicated interest in Beach's proposal. Councilmember Zee Butler told Beach that she had checked with Sanibel Police Chief Butler, and he informed her that no drug paraphernalia is being sold on Sanibel at this time.

"It's better to pass an ordinance against such a thing now," Beach warned. "We should lock the barn door before the horse is stolen."

Councilmembers instructed City Attorney Neal Bowen to draft an anti-paraphernalia ordinance for their review.

Mosquito Control denied landing pad

The Lee County Mosquito Control District was denied a request to locate a helicopter landing pad near Bowman's Beach last week by the Planning Commission.

Phillip Andrews, representing Lee County Mosquito Control, told the Planning Commissioners that the request was made because the City has asked that the present site, located near the City Park and picnic ground off Periwinkle Way, be vacated.

Lee County currently has landing pads at the Causeway and South Seas Plantation. Helicopter landing pads are important to the Mosquito Control District, according to Andrews, because otherwise the helicopters have to return to the landing pad in Ft. Myers to refuel.

"The more loads we can get out the sooner we can get off Sanibel," Andrews said.

Andrews told the Commissioners that in the "worst case" a helicopter would land and take off every 30 minutes. However, under normal conditions the pad would only be used twice weekly.

The Commissioners voted 4-2 to deny Mosquito Control's request. Reasons stated included the disturbance to the surrounding residents. City Council will consider the issue at a later date.

Vegetation for erosion control raises problems

Many Sanibel residents are using palm fronds to help retard beach erosion and last week City Councilmembers debated whether or not a citizen concerned with building up the beach could be sued or otherwise condemned for a seemingly innocent act.

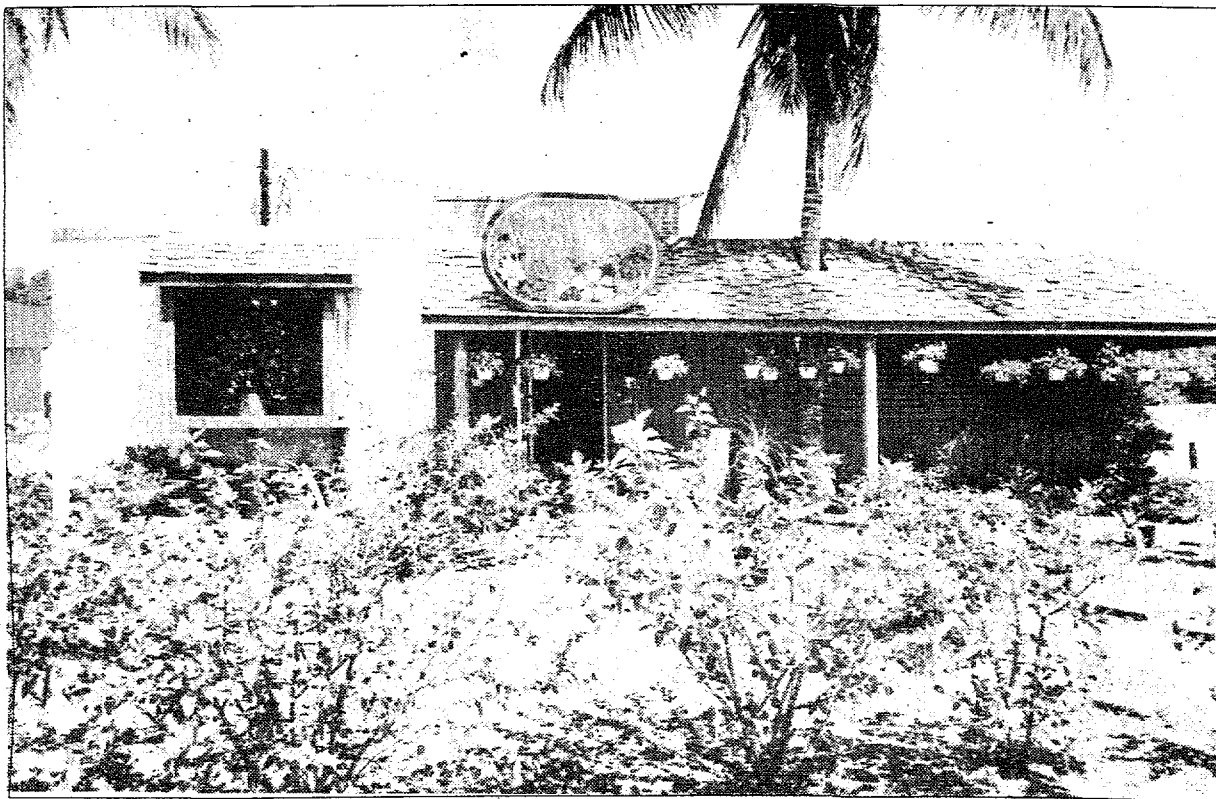

Sanibel's Planning Commission had earlier determined that only palm fronds should be used for renourishment, and that other forms of vegetation and any other item should be discouraged. Councilmembers concurred, but certain issues were raised at last week's Council meeting for the first time.

"Could I sue the City of Sanibel if palm fronds poked a hole in my boat?" asked Councilman Duane White. "What if someone was walking along the beach, stumbled in the fronds along my property, and broke a leg? Am I liable?"

City Attorney Neal Bowen said the City would not be liable but that the fronds should be securely staked to the ground.

White maintained that Bowen's proposal wasn't easy to do. "I really think there's going to be some serious problems," White said.

Bowen was instructed by Council to draft an amendment controlling use of vegetation for erosion control projects.

Weeds & Things will stay one story

Bert Jenks, president of Sanibel Realty, appeared before the Planning Commission last week seeking approval for expansion of the 'Weeds & Things' florist shop on Periwinkle Way. His request was denied. Jenks' proposed renovation would add a second story to the existing building. He stated that the renovated building would be more attractive.

City planners recommended to the Planning Commission that Jenks' request be denied on the basis that the adjacent property is already too crowded, and that the existing building is too close to Periwinkle Way.

The vote to deny the request was unanimous.

ARTS and ARTISTS

music

The Lee County Alliance of the Arts and the Department of Adult and Community Education of the School Board of Lee County will present Peter Segal, Classical Guitarist, in concert on Saturday evening, April 26, at 7:30 p.m. at the Fort Myers Senior High School auditorium. Tickets are $2 for adults and students over 12, and $1 for children 12 and under and are available from all community school coordinators as well as at the Lee County Arts Center. They will also be available at the door the evening of the concert.

For additional information, please call 939-2787.

plays

The Actor's Repertory Theatre (ART) of Cape Coral will present "Vanities," a bittersweet comedy, at South Seas Plantation's Lindbergh Hall April 25 and 26.

The performance will be ART's sixth production for a continuing series of dinner theater nights open to the public at South Seas.

"Vanities," currently in production off-Broadway, is a sharp, snapshot chronicle of three Texas women who grow old but not up. ART's production features Theresa Watts as Joanne, Joan Olsen as Mary and Mary Beth Poindexter as Kathy.

A fast-moving comedy with razor-sharp dialogue, "Vanities" traces the friendships of the three women from their college years to three years and five years after graduation. As the friends chose divergent paths and grow apart, the play shows that friendship is sometimes as impermanent and transitory as life itself.

Tickets for Friday and Saturday performances at South Seas are priced at $18.50 a person. The price includes a lavish buffet dinner, taxes and gratuity. On both nights, the doors will open at 6:30 p.m., with buffet service from 7:00 p.m. to 8:15 p.m., when the curtain will promptly rise. Tickets can be reserved by calling South Seas at 472-5111, extension 3369.

Richard Westlake, theatre instructor at Edison Community College, has announced auditions will be held on Tuesday, April 29 for the department's Spring production of "Antigone." Auditions will be held in the college auditorium, room E-103 beginning at 7 p.m.

Community members are encouraged to audition for the play. The selected cast and crew will become members of Mr. Westlake's theatre arts class which carries one hour of credit. Performances of "Antigone" are scheduled for June 7, 12, 13 and 14 at 8 p.m. with a 4 p.m. matinee on Sunday, June 8.

Further information may be obtained by calling Mr. Westlake at the college at 481-2121, extension 333.

dance

The annual meeting of the Lee County Dance Council will be held tonight at Edison Community College beginning at 7 p.m. On the agenda:

7:00 - Reception in gymnasium

7:30 - "Salute to the Olympics" (Gymnastic World)

8:00 - Business and election, exchanging ideas and setting goals for 1980

8:30 - Refreshments

The meeting is free and the public is invited to attend.

The Lee County Alliance of the Arts cordially invites you to attend the opening reception for the Southwest Florida Branch of the National League of American Pen Women, Inc., at the Lee County Arts Center, 5111 McGregor Boulevard, on Sunday, May 4, from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m.

The Southwest Florida Branch was established in 1977 by Sylvia Glenn Honeywell who was the first branch president. Due to illness, she resigned in 1978 and Mimi Romig has led the group since that time. The newly elected president for the 1980-1981 term is Katherine Reynolds. There are some 35 members from Charlotte County to Collier County, most of whom are in the visual arts.

The present show of works of art by area artist members of the American Penwomen, Inc., is open for viewing at the Lee County Arts Center, 5111 McGregor Boulevard, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. through May 28.

Are you a humdinger on the harmonica? A whiz with a woodwind? Or, perhaps, you are a master of the monologue, an ace with an aria?

Whatever your talent, here's an unselfish opportunity to share that wealth with admiring friends and neighbors: the Saturday Super Supper Show (SSSS), coming to the Sanibel Community Center on May 17.

Invented and sponsored by the Barrier Island Group for the Arts (BIG Arts), this is to be an occasion for the whole family. SSSS will feature Sanibel Stars of Stove and Stage, and that should include just about everybody.

Further details about the Super Supper will be announced as time goes by. The important thing right now is lining up the show. All kinds of "acts" are encouraged to apply for a spot in the program.

To get your name on the list, call BIG

Art's Talent Scout, Dick Workman, any night after 7 p.m., at 472-2840.

SSSS is intended to demonstrate the wide range of the serious and some of the silly accomplishments of our own Islanders.

There will be only one rehearsal, under the direction of professional actress Fran (Mrs. James) Levy. Master of Ceremonies will be Marty Grasgreen, entrepreneur of the great Edison Theatre.

BIG Arts urges you to call Dick Workman immediately, so the Show can begin to take form. Deadline for inclusion in the talent roster is Saturday, May 10.

With everybody's enthusiastic cooperation, the Saturday Super Supper Show will confirm publicly that the Islands attract superior artists and enterprising entertainers. Both are needed to make the Show truly Super.

Call Dick Workman tonight or any night after 7 p.m. at 472-2840.

SCCF offers program on horseshoe crabs

The horseshoe crab, an evolutionary wonder that may just hold the secret to cancer within its own antibodies, will be the subject of a program this Saturday at the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation.

Dr. Elias Cohen, associated with both the Roswell Park Memorial Institute of the new York Department of Health and the Children's Hospital in Buffalo, New York, will be the guest speaker.

Dr. Cohen is involved with the biomedical applications of cancer research, using antibodies from several invertebrates - including the horseshoe crab.

The horseshoe crab is considered an evolutionary wonder - having survived more than 280 million years - and is closely related to the scorpion and spider.

Seating for the presentation is limited to 66. The program will begin at 2 p.m., April 22, at the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation on San-Cap Road.

The ice man cometh

Chef Andre Lengacher abruptly halts his saw and bends his head to the block of ice, his ear almost against the frigid surface.

"I heard a ping," he frowns.

Andre is nearing completion of his sculpture of a majestic eagle which has been sawed, chiseled and scraped during the last hour from a 300 pound chunk of ice. The ping is a bad sign - it could mean a flaw in the portion of ice he was shaping and ultimate disaster. The chef's suspicions prove valid for, minutes later, the eagle's tail disintegrates in a burst of crystal splinters under the artist's chisel.

Andre, executive chef of South Seas Plantation's Chadwick's, seems undaunted by the mishap, an attitude acquired over 17 years in a profession riddled with just such disappointments.

As a boy of 12 in Chur, Switzerland, Andre was urged by his father to consider a career in the culinary arts. "In Europe, chefs are high respected," Andre remembers his father as saying.

Taking his father's lead, Andre enrolled at the Hotel Montana Training School in Lucerne, Switzerland three years later and eventually served his apprenticeship at the Hotel Hof-Maran in Arosa, Switzerland. This led to chef positions in such prestigious kitchens as the Regency Hyatt O'Hare in Chicago, the Keystone Resort in Keystone, Colorado and most recently, before his appointment as executive chef at Chadwick's, the Grand Hotel in Anaheim, California. This is quite a resume for a man only 32 years of age.

Although he excels in all facets of his profession, Andre's specialty is ice carving, for which he has won several gold and silver medals in national competitions. While most chefs do their sculpturing in the privacy of the kitchen, Andre prefers to display his talent in front of an audience. He performs for Chadwick's seafood buffet guests every Friday night at 6:30, shaving and chipping frozen figures to the delight of adults and children alike. "My friends tell me I'm a ham," he smiles.

The art of ice carving originated in Europe and, according to Andre, is not limited to simple decorations. A popular form is elaborate boats used to hold seafood or fruit and Andre once designed a wine rack of ice to keep champagne chilled.

"The sculptures also help in keeping the air cooler and the food fresher," Andre adds.

Presentation of the food for the Chadwick's buffet is also an important part of Andre's job. "It's my major duty to make the food look good, but people always look at the carvings first," he says. "For some reason, people like to touch the ice!"

In preparation for his Friday night performances, Andre removes the block of ice from the freezer 30 minutes in advance in order for the frost to melt and leave the surface with a shiny consistency. Working from a free-hand sketch, he reproduces the drawing directly onto the block, calculating the size by leaving room for the natural melting process. Using a wide-toothed saw, he removes the larger pieces of ice while more detailed work requires the use of a four-pronged ice chisel. The chisel is always kept at an angle, he says, because a wrong move straight onto the ice can cause it to crack.

Not one to pass up an opportunity for good public relations, Andre will often talk to his younger admirers while working, sometimes letting them participate. "Will you be on the Island long?" he asks the children. "Be sure to ask your parents to bring you back next week, alright?"

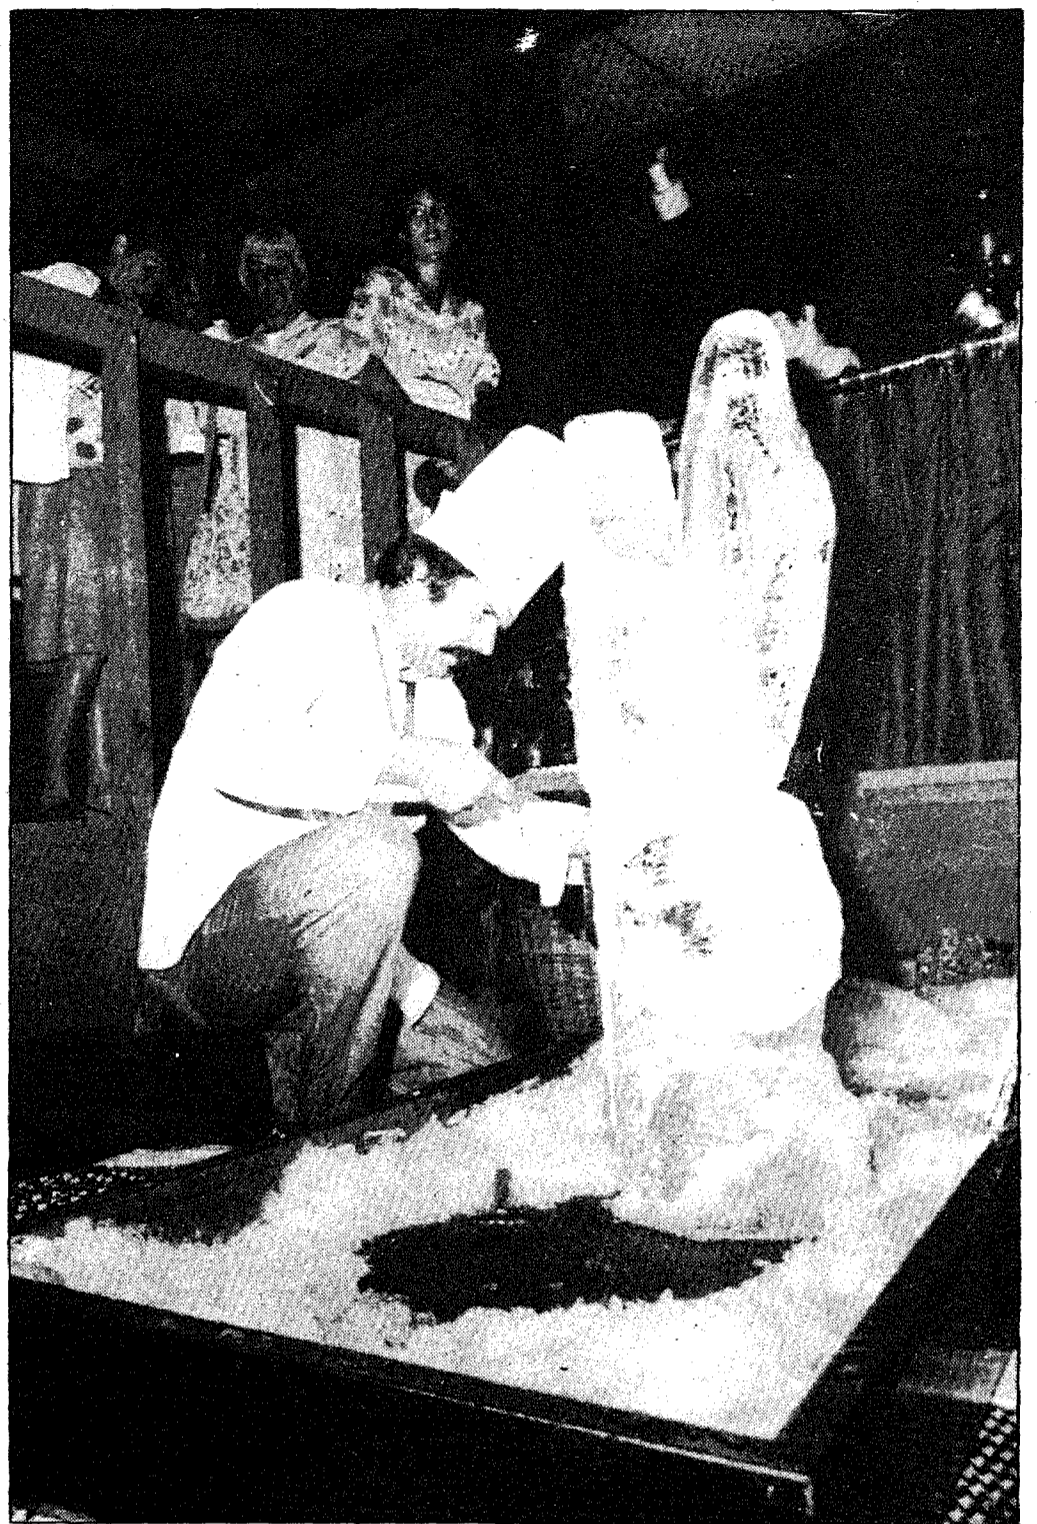

"Wherever I go, I make sure we have more ice carvings," Andre says of his tendency to keep up with the times by using new and different foods and displays. "1980 is different from three years ago. There's a different life style - why not different food?" he asks.

His personal tastes lean toward lighter foods and he suggests that people should "stick to the quiches and stay away from the pork chops." He is toying with an idea of presenting a wild game buffet in the future, featuring such unusual dishes as buffalo, bear and deer meat. "I do refuse to cook dolphin, though," he insists, the main reason being that he sees the creature as the "human of the sea."

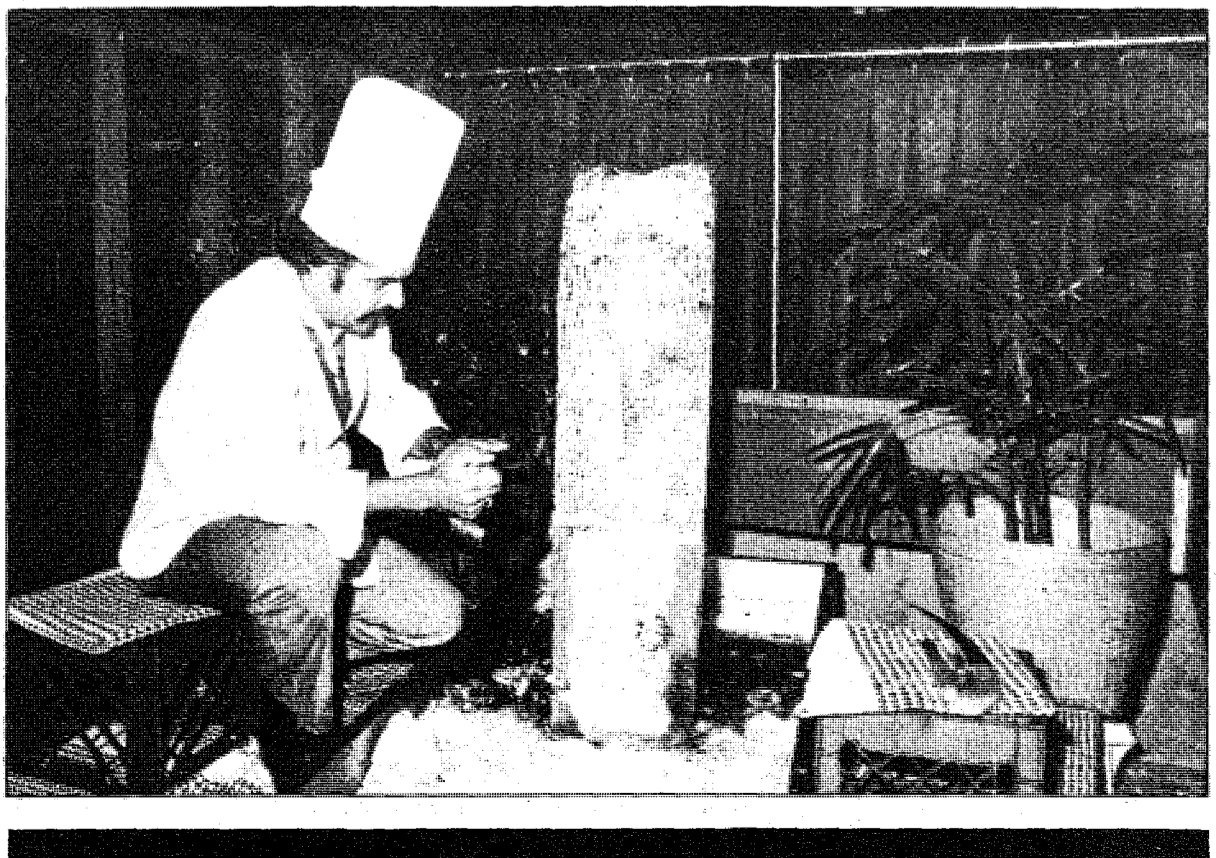

The pressure of being executive chef can sometimes be taxing on one's temper, according to Andre, but he usually tries to take hold of the situation before it gets the best of him.

"You can get much farther if you just go out on the dock, have a cigarette and take 15 minutes off. That's the mistake of most chefs - they work against the servants," he claims, adding that he doesn't believe in playing role games.

"I want to be a chef," he states emphatically, "and I'm going to stay one."

Robert Shakespeare

Age: "39 plus"

Height: "78 inches"

Roots: "Stratford on Avon, England to Richmond, Virginia to Cleveland, Ohio."

Last Book Read: "I mainly read magazines on airplanes, flying, even rocketry."

Mentor: "All of my teachers from days past."

Wish: "That they could invent a perfect flying wing. I'd love to follow the air currents over this Island - like a bird."

Pleasures: "Model airplanes and doodling on the piano and organ."

Words of Wisdom: "Love and understanding can accomplish miracles, but hate can destroy you."

A freeway was being built in front of Robert "Shakey" Shakespeare's Cleveland, Ohio home, causing his bed to shake and his nerves to fray. He also just happened to be working for a chemical company and a brokerage house and owned a maintenance company. Things were very hectic for Shakey.

Then, in 1974, the brokerage firm held a contest for employees - first prize being a week-long trip for two to Sanibel. When Shakey won the contest he was not immediately impressed.

"I remember saying, 'Where's Sanibel Island?' he recalls. "On the map, it's just a tiny little thing." But once he saw the Island for himself, he realized, as he says now, "There just isn't anywhere else in the world like Sanibel."

In fact, Shakey and his wife Shirley were so affected by the beauty and serenity of Sanibel that they returned here a month later, setting wheels in motion for the opening of a store in Cleveland specializing in "items representing the sea." Shakey stocked it with 5,000 pounds of merchandise towed back by trailer from Sanibel.

On top of his other three jobs, Shakey kept his store open from 6-10 p.m. week nights and all day Saturday and Sunday. "People would ask me if the shop was successful and I'd answer 'I'm here, aren't I?'" he says. "But it gave me the experience that I needed to go into retail - and it did bring me down here."

As history has it, right in the midst of all his confusion, Shakey received a phone call from an acquaintance interested in selling a condominium on Sanibel. "I bought it over the phone, sight unseen," Shakey laughs. "After a 3-month garage sale, we moved to Sanibel."

Pulling up stakes and moving to parts unknown is no simple task, says Shakey. "It takes pure guts," he admits, "but, people just have it up to here with business sometimes. I had four things going at once - I just took a chance."

"It took me about 15 minutes to get used to Sanibel, and I hope that by now my wife is used to it," he says. "I mean, here was a woman who was following me in hopes that we could succeed in what we were doing. I love her for it."

After taking a couple of months off, Shakey worked for an Island service station as a gas jockey, sold water softeners in Cape Coral and served as "part-time bartender-waiter-PR-man" at Casa Ybel before finally leasing a shop in Periwinkle Place and beginning the struggle to accomplish what he had already put down on paper while in Cleveland.

What Shakey created was "Shakey's Noisy Oyster," a shop now in its fourth year with an atmosphere that he describes as "a warm feeling."

"We deal in nickel items all the way up to $650," Shakey says. "So, if you have a lot of money, go ahead and spend it. But if you don't, just come in and have fun. Basically, when a customer comes in, I want them to feel a part of what I have going here - a warm atmosphere, good music playing."

"In fact, last year I came across a couple dancing in the back - so I did a little dancing with them!"

Shakey enjoys bantering with his customers and making friends with them, but it's not always easy to get to the pleasant conversation stage. When the Noisy Oyster first opened, he recalls, an arguing couple stopped in. After the spat continued and the husband began swearing, Shakey took matters into his own hands. "You get out of my shop and I want you to go to the beach and stay there for three days!" he told the surly shopper. "When you come back, I'll talk to you, but get out of here now!"

"My wife about crawled under the counter!" he remembers, but the customer took Shakey's advice and, when he indeed returned three days later, the two enjoyed a good natured conversation.

Children with "sticky fingers" are less complicated to deal with, says Shakey. "I tell them, 'If you behave yourself, I won't let my alligator out of the back room.'" Eventually the kids become curious and Shakey lets them into the back room to see his stuffed Cayman, Sandy. "I've had kids come back for the last three years to pet that Cayman," he claims.

"I will not take anything from anybody because I don't feel I have to in life," Shakey says of his method of salesmanship. "If people want to be kind, I'll be kind back. But if they want to be insulted, I'll insult them."

All of which brings to mind a recent customer who tried to barter down the price of a piece of Shakey's gold jewelry. His response? "I can sell all the gold I can get. If you want to go to Tijuana and deal, go ahead - but don't do it here!"

Shakey does keep to himself at times, designing and constructing the engine-powered model airplanes he enters in free flight model aviation competitions. His creations, one of which has a wing span of over six feet, have won him trophies in international as well as State contests.

He is also a 19 year veteran of the Kiwanis, served as president of the Sanibel-Captiva chapter last year, and is currently finishing up a stint on the board. Along with his involvement in the Kiwanis came his personal drive against abuse to the Island.

"We have a beautiful Island here and no one seems to realize the problem we have with the people who couldn't care less about it," he says in regards to littering along Sanibel roadways.

"I see people throwing garbage out of their windows and it makes me want to push it into fifth gear and try to stop them. If I had a bag of garbage I swear I would push it right into their car - upside down!"

Shakey is likewise concerned about the average tourist's knowledge of local wildlife. In fact, he has an article on display in the Noisy Oyster warning of the dangers of alligators.

"I try to tell them about them (alligators) because people don't realize that they can get up on all fours and go 45 miles an hour. Yet," he says, "I still see people feeding bread to them and I think, 'how stupid can you get?' They don't know the difference between a piece of bread and your child or dog. It just makes me heartsick what they do."

Despite these annoyances, Shakey has found running the Noisy Oyster and meeting new people "a real joy. But I tell you one thing - my wife has been much more than a help. She is the quiet one and I am the noisy one. It's a good combination because she settles me down."

Police Beat

The end of the "season" signaled not only a drop off of tourists but a drop in Island fender-benders, lost persons, auto thefts and beach incidents as well.

Last week the Sanibel Police Department (SPD) had the following "found" items turned in for safekeeping: one watch, six bicycles and one purse.

One wallet, a set of keys, a checkbook and a bracelet were reported lost.

A fire extinguisher from Ocean's Reach and signs from numerous locations around the Island were reported missing.

A stored boat on Dunlap Street was reported burglarized as was the Beachview Cottages area where 12 colored spotlights were taken.

A head-on, two-bicycle collision on the Periwinkle Way bike path sent one cyclist to Lee Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries.

Two young girls, ages eight and 12, were accosted in the elevator of a condominium on Middle Gulf Drive by a middle-aged man exposing himself. The SPD was contacted by the children's parents and both girls were able to give a description of the man. SPD investigation is continuing into the matter.

A dirt bike was recovered near Shell Harbor Inn found to belong to Island Moped.

A visitor staying at Shell Harbor Inn also reported valuables and cash worth $3100 stolen from two suitcases and a purse left in her room. Two witnesses claimed to have seen a man climbing the exterior railings of the building. Investigation, is continuing.

Last Tuesday an Island resident received a phone call from an unidentified man who told her he had her daughter and intended to "tie her to a tree and set fire to her" if his demands were not met. The unidentified caller then hung up. The FBI and the Lee County Criminal Investigation Division were contacted by the SPD and a "trap and trace" placed on the resident's phone. The resident's daughter was later located at school and brought home.

Numerous calls of this nature have been received by parents on both the Islands and the mainland. Persons receiving such a call are advised not to respond to the caller or his demands and law enforcement officials should be contacted immediately.

Four pornographic magazines found laying in a mailbox at Sandalfoot Condominiums were turned in to the SPD by a concerned resident this week.

A truck hauling concrete pilings ran into a power line near Signal Inn, knocking it down. The driver was cited for improper backing.

Three speeding tickets and a citation for passing in a no passing zone were issued this week.

After responding to an excessive noise complaint last Sunday in the Gumbo Limbo subdivision, SPD officers arrested Chuck LeBuff, 19, of Tarpon Bay Rd

Smith was also arrested for felony possession of marijuana and transported to the Lee County jail. LeBuff was released with a notice to appear and the minor was released to the custody of his parents.

One vicious dog attack on West Gulf Drive and one vandalism to an auto - sand in the gas tank - were also reported this week.

Requiem for an alligator

An alligator, belly-side up, was discovered last Thursday morning near the City barn off Periwinkle Way. The alligator, 6 feet and 5 inches long, was approximately seven years old. Cause of death? "It was giggered," said Curt Reinhardt, of the Public Works Department. Translation: stabbed numerous times on the back and between the eyes with a three pronged spear. The alligator assailant has not yet been caught.

IWA elects officers

On Monday, April 14, the annual meeting of the Island Water Association was held at the Sanibel Community building for the board of directors election.

Three members were elected to the board of directors. They are: John B. Cook for a two year term; Richard M. Wilson - two year term, and Lothrop Withington for a one year term.

At the meeting of the board at the IWA office on Tuesday, April 15, the following officers were elected for the coming year: Arthur Wycoff, president; Richard M. Wilson, vice-president; Lothrop Withington, treasurer, and Carol B. Davenport, secretary.

Butze appointed to board

Governor Bob Graham has announced the appointment of Richard J. Butze, of Captiva, to the Captiva Erosion Prevention District Board of Commissioners.

Butze, 51, is president of Richard J. Butze and Associates Inc., a home and industrial building inspection and condominium property management firm.

Butze's term will expire in November 1980.

Shell Club dinner held

Over 40 Shell Club members attending the First Past Presidents and Annual Dinner Meeting were given a delightful treat last Wednesday night, April 16.

Mary Aleck, a charter member and the first acting president, told how the founding of the Club was fostered by the growing need for shell conservation and the desire of many to learn about shells and sea life.

Maude Meyer brought the "Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences Trophy" awarded to her at the 1966 Sanibel Shell fair for "Best in Show." Ms. Meyer is the only Islander to ever achieve this honor.

Edith Mugridge presented the Club with a folder of photos and news clippings covering Shell Club activities over the past 15 years and a supply of handbills distributed back in the Sixties explaining the conservation of live shells.

Fae Muller, "The Shell Lady of Sanibel," told about her first visit to Sanibel, missing the ferry and spending the night sleeping in the family station wagon.

The next Shell Club meeting is slated for November.

Softball season on Sanibel will begin on May 12 with the Annual Old Sports for Youth Sports Tournament.

This season's schedule and other matters were decided upon at the Sanibel Softball Association's organizational meeting last Wednesday.

"This year I want to get back to a fun league," said Association President Dick Muench, "I want to get back to having a good time."

The Men's League will have at least 10 teams, and the Women's League currently has five teams and is hoping to pick up another team to even up the schedule. A decision on the formation of an Over 35 League has not been reached. There has been interest in forming an Over 50 League, but it is not yet known if the formation of an Over 50 League would take too many players away from the Over 35 group for an Over 35 League to form.

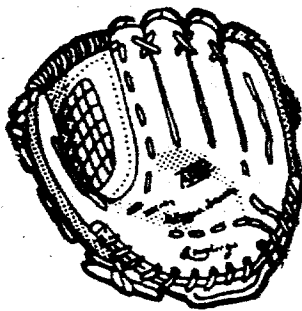

Conspicuously absent from this year's roster is last year's Men's League champion - Nave Plumbing. The Nave team was involved in the two divisive issues of last season - beer drinking and the competitiveness of the games.

The Old Sports for Youth Sports Tournament will again begin the season and determine who is the team to beat in the regular season. Old Sports for Youth Sports will run for two weeks starting on May 12 and concluding on Memorial Day, May 26.

The men will start the regular season on Tuesday June 3, the women's season will begin the following day.

The women's games will be held on Wednesday and Sunday, and the men will play Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday. The season will be extended through August this year ending with the finals of the No-see-um Classic on Labor Day, September 1.

A number of new rules will go into effect this season. In order to keep the games on schedule there will be an hour and a half time limit on all games, and a 15 run rule will go into effect at the end of the 5th inning. A game may be called either at the end of the time limit, or if there is a 15 run spread at the end of five innings.

There will also be a $20 forfeit fee charged to any team that can not field nine players for a game. The new rules will be enforced for the first time this year by a paid umpire staff.

Persons wishing to serve as umpires are asked to contact Dick Muench.

For softball players looking for a team, there are two men's teams and one women's team seeking players. The Women's League is also looking for another team to round out their schedule.

A new men's team sponsored by F & M Island Ground Service is looking for players. Bruce Weekley may be contacted by players that want to be on this "fun" team. He may be contacted at 472-5224. The Timbers is also accepting players. The team may be contacted at the ball field during Sunday practice at 10:00a.m.

The Sea Fillies is also looking for players. Mary Ann may be contacted to join at 472-1111.

The Dunes Men Association held an individual low-net tournament Wednesday April 9th. Tying for first place were Dick Wilhoit and Tony Zappia. Frank Uhrich, Fred Weymouth, and Fritz Holtz tied for second. John Seabrooke came closest to the pin on the ninth hole.

On the 16th the Men played a four-man best ball tournament. The team of Minor, Wilhoit, Curtis, and Lloyd tied for first with the team of Uhrich, VanderBeck, Seabrooke, and Ohmann. Second place went to Gibney, Weymouth, Holtz, and Kimmel.

Jean Corace won the Women's Golf Association's Bingo, Bango, Bungo tournament on April 11th. Syril Rubin finished second, and Dottie Miller came in third.

The Beachview Men's Association still had 42 players around to hit in their Saturday outing.

The first place honors of the day, with the score of plus seven, went to the threesome of Ray Howland, Harry Gustafson, and Rudy Bennardie. The second spot went to the team of Rudy Mikulic, Jack Davidson, Clay Marsh, and Larry VanTill. They finished with plus six.

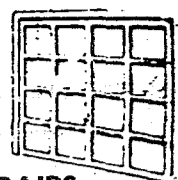

A plus three was enough to give the team of Bob Neth, Ray Martorelli, Hank Groh, and Bud Walters third place.

Ray Howland's plus six was the high individual score.

Something Grand is happening on the home front.

Carved into a forest near the Caloosahatchee River and the Gulf of Mexico is an imaginative community, McGregor Woods. Grand in concept because it honors both the need for privacy and the need for sociability. Lush, quiet homesites nestle against a freshwater lake. Abundant recreation facilities — tennis courts, spa, playground and heated swimming pool — sprawl across manicured acres.

McGregor Woods. Grand in style because it offers top-quality, beautifully-designed homes, with exteriors as natural and regal as their rustic setting.

Something grand is happening on the home front: the majesty of McGregor Woods.

The Right Side of the Law

CAMPING

Camping on the beach is prohibited and while everyone enjoys a beach fire, you'll have to get a permit to have one on a Sanibel public beach. The Fire Department on Palm Ridge Road will supply you with a fire permit for $1.00. In addition, you'll be required to make a $25.00 deposit, returnable the day after your beach party when the beach has been inspected for litter or debris. Make sure you clean the area thoroughly or you'll be out $25.00! Condo owners or managers may submit a letter to the Fire Department, acknowledging that they will assume responsibility for clean up after a fire in front of their buildings. The $25 deposit will be waived in those circumstances.

GATORS

Feeding alligators anywhere within the Sanibel city limits is not only illegal (violators of the law are subject to a fine of up to $500, or up to 60 days in jail, or both.), but can be extremely dangerous. Alligators can run 45 m.p.h., so if you're close enough to feed an alligator, he's close enough to feed on you. An alligator fed for fun loses his natural fear of humans and becomes a potential threat to children and pets.

FISHING

While no license is required for salt water fishing, fishing in fresh water ponds or the Sanibel River requires a Florida fishing license, available at Bailey's General Store on Periwinkle Way. The fee is $3.75.

Minimum legal lengths

Blue Fish	10 in.
Flounder	11 in.
Grouper	12 in.
Mackerel	12 in.
Mullet	12 in.
Pompano	10 in.
Red Fish	12 in.
Snook	18 in.
Trout	12 in.

SHELLING

The City of Sanibel Resolution limiting the taking of shells to 2 live shells per person per species is one to be scrupulously obeyed. As a matter of fact, in order to preserve Sanibel's beautiful shelling beaches, most collectors refuse to take ANY live shells whatsoever.

SPEED LIMITS

The varying speed limits as one comes across the causeway may seem almost schizophrenic, but there is a very good reason for them. The stress and strain of traffic over the years has weakened the bridge supports (not to the point where there is any danger, fortunately) so in an effort to preserve the existing structure, the speed limits have been imposed.

They are to be taken seriously, for they are rigidly enforced by radar on a 24-hour a day basis by the Lee County Sheriff's Department. Observe them, please.

DOGGY DO'S... & DONT'S

If you're visiting Sanibel with the family Fido in tow, all the better. All family members can enjoy Southwest Florida sun and surf. The Chamber of Commerce can tell you what accommodations are available for families with pets. REMEMBER - wherever you are - CLEAN UP AFTER YOUR PET! The friendly reminder - "Leave nothing on the beach but footprints" - applies to dogs, too. There's no leash law on Sanibel, but of course an excitable or unruly animal is better off when controlled with a leash.

BICYCLE RULES

If you're not used to a lot of bicycle traffic, watch out for it on Sanibel. The extensive network of bike paths on the island is clearly marked along the edge of the road. Observe caution when driving near the bike path. A state law and a city ordinance combine to PROHIBIT PARKING OR DRIVING ON THE BIKE PATH. MOPEDS ARE NOT PERMITTED ON THE BIKE PATHS.

Planning on spending some time on a bike to enjoy the island sun and sights? Make sure your vehicle is equipped with a bike flag, horn, good brakes and a light for night riding. Under Florida law, bicycle riders have the same rights and responsibilities as motor vehicle drivers. DRIVE SAFELY.

Beach Access

Sanibel has miles of public Gulf-front beaches, any one of which is only minutes from your lodging. Lighthouse Point is a stretch of Federal land on the Eastern tip of Sanibel Island, and from there, the gulf beach is accessible again at the end of Donax Street, at Tarpon Bay Road, at Bowman's Beach Road (off Sanibel-Captiva Road) and at Turner's Beach, which is located at Blind Pass, between Sanibel and Captiva Islands.

On Captiva Island, public beach access can be found at Turner Beach (which has public facilities) or, further north, just past the entrance to South Seas Plantation.

State law prohibits nude sunbathing on all Florida beaches.

Violators will be prosecuted.

Shopping

Sanibel is a veritable shopper's paradise. Tasteful boutiques and casual island shops join forces to present visitors with everything - and anything - a vacation shopper could hope for.

At the Lighthouse (Eastern) end of the island, Punta Ybel Plaza and The Sea Horse Shops are right across the street from each other, providing a variety of products that can cure your sweet tooth or tickle your shell finder's fancy. Need a good haircut or coiffure? You can get it in either of these shopping centers. Most businesses open at 10 a.m. and close at 5:30. This holds true for many island stores, although during the winter season, some are open evenings.

Tall Australian pines shade Periwinkle Way as the shopper travels west along this main thoroughfare. This stretch of road is truly a shopper's paradise! It's all here...the fast and not-so-fast eating spots, casual and elegant boutiques, hand-wrought jewelry, craft designs, shell shops and balms for health product fanatics.

Watch to your right and left as you drive or cycle along. Photographic supplies, bait and tackle, deli foods, fresh seafood and baked goods, knick-knacks and what-nots can all be found along the drive to the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road. Along the way, shopping centers such as the Heart of the Islands, Periwinkle Place and Tahitian Garden offer a variety of island delights.

Palm Ridge Road, the Periwinkle Way turn-off to Captiva, offers several new shopping centers featuring everything from shells to plants to an apothecary shop.

At the intersection, the Island Shopping Center features the island's only supermarket, dry cleaners and movie house.

A left on Tarpon Bay Road takes the visitor past Sanibel's original schoolhouse, which now holds original island water colors and woodcuts. Then on to West Gulf Drive and westward to an interesting little artisan's shop and gallery.

At the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road, you may choose instead to turn right and follow the signs to the Tarpon Bay Marina, where you will find a cluster of quaint shops overlooking the back bay. Some antiques, what-nots and clever clothes can be found here, as well as a great seafood sandwich and soft drinks.

The spectacular ride to Captiva, with its lush foliage and enchanting view of the Gulf, is well worth a day's outing. Talented artists display their works in one roadside shop, while other feature some nifty gifts for Grandma to take home to little hands as a pleasant hodge-podge of remembrances from these barrier islands.

Whether for shopping, or merely browsing, island shops offer a surprising variety - from one-of-a-kind collectibles for the discerning shopper to post cards for the simple souvenir hunter and of course, for all, shells. Shell jewelry, shell lamps, just plain shells... the most beautiful shells in the world from the most beautiful shelling beaches in the world.

The Kiwanis meet every Wednesday morning at 7:30 a.m. at Scotty's Restaurant on Periwinkle Way. Visitors are welcome.

Coconut Co-op meets tonight

There will be a Coconut Co-op meeting tonight at the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation at 7:30 p.m. Food orders will be taken and are expected to be paid for at this time.

Elvis week of nostalgia

A "Weekend of Nostalgia" featuring Elvis Presley's greatest concerts shown on a life size screen in full video and stereo will be held May 2-3 on Cabbage Key. Friday night's show will run 9 - 12:30 with musical performances by "The King." A continuation of Elvis's greatest performances will be shown Saturday, 9 - 11:30. Dinner will be served both nights from 7 - 9 p.m. Space is limited, so make dinner and overnight reservations now (there is no cover charge). For more information, call 813-283-2278.

Attention Washingtonians!

All former Washingtonians living in this area are invited to attend the Spring no-host cocktail party to be held at the Sheraton Inn on Route 41 south of Fort Myers on April 28 between 4 and 6 p.m. This is the first get-together since the Christmas party where 64 former Washingtonians met for the first time on an areawide basis.

Most of the former Washingtonians living in this area were career Federal employees or worked in areas related to Federal government, some going back to Roosevelt's "New Deal" and beyond. For the younger guests, there will be a special table for those 33 years old or under.

Since no Washington party is complete without a strong dose of politics, a poll will be taken which will ask: "As a former Washingtonian, which of the following do you think would make the best President in the 4 - 8 years ahead?" The choice will be from Anderson, Brown, Bush, Carter, Ford, Kennedy and Reagan.

As at the Christmas party, guests are asked to bring a can or package of food to be donated to the Salvation Army for distribution to the needy.

No reservations for the party are necessary. For further information, call Elizabeth Evans, coordinator for the event, at 1-369-2882.

SCCF offers basketweaving

A workshop on the preparation and use of local natural plant materials for basket-making will be held May 3 from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation Center. The registration fee is $10 if paid before April 26. The fee does not cover materials.

Registration is limited to 35 participants. Instruction will include beginning basket-making technique and advanced instruction on identification and preparation of local materials for those with previous experience in basket-making. Instructors include noted Sanibel craftspeople. Bring a sack lunch, bucket or dishpan and a knife, clippers or scissors. Materials already processed will be available for sale or you can bring your own.

For more information contact the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation at 472-2329.

Summer Library hours

Summer hours at the Sanibel Public Library begin May 1.

This year, in order to make the schedule less confusing, the library will be open daily, except Sunday, from 10 - 12 a.m.

Institute of Sanibel self awareness workshop

The Institute of Sanibel will be presenting a one day workshop on Exploring What Is...an experience in self awareness and a new way of thinking, Sunday, April 27, at the West Wind meeting room, West Gulf Drive, Sanibel from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Topics to be explored will include why we do what we do; why we don't want to see what we do; how we try to keep from seeing what we do, and such concepts as self-image, expectation, reality and illusion.

There will be an opportunity for relaxation processes as well as exercises in relating to the self and others. Bring a light lunch; soft beverage and dessert are included in the price of the seminar; wear casual clothing.

Enrollment is limited. The fee is $45 per person or a deposit of $10 can be made to reserve your place - balance payable at the workshop. Graduates of the self awareness workshop may repeat the experience for a $10 total. There is also a group rate (three or more) with a 30 percent reduction in price. You may write the Institute of Sanibel, 4140 West Gulf Drive, Sanibel, or call 472-5300 - 482-2983.

"VANITIES"

Chadwick's at South Seas Plantation on Captiva will be the scene of Actors' Repertory Theatre's next production, "Vanities".

"Vanities" is a bittersweet comedy that is an astute shapshop-sharp chronicle of the process in the lives of three Texas girls. Joanne, Kathy and Mary are aggressively vivacious cheerleaders — five years later — in their college sorority house, they are confronting their futures with nervous jauntiness. Nine years later they reunite briefly in New York. Their lives have diverged — their friendship, which once thrived on assumptions as well-coordinated as sweater sets, is strained and ambiguous. Old-time banter rings false, like cue cards flashed too quickly too late. Their attempts at honest conversation only show they can no longer afford to have very much in common.

Make your plans today for a great evening with a fabulous buffet and play for $18.50 per person. (Tax and gratuity included). Doors open at 6:30 p.m. and we recommend you telephone your reservations today due to the large demand for tickets. Phone 472-5111, ext. 3369.
