Nearly 300 people gathered at the Sanibel Community Association building last Saturday night to eat goodies and listen to the likes of Dick Workman (on the conch), Fleur Weymouth (on the spoons) and Judy Kennedy (with her glorious voice). The Barrier Island Group for the Arts (BIG Arts) was the host for (hopefully) the first of many Super Stars of Stove and Stage gatherings.

Dr. Neil Frank to visit Sanibel

Dr. Neil Frank, Director of the National Hurricane Center in Miami and Jim Reif, Chief Meteorologist for WINK (channel 11) TV, will hold an open question and answer forum for Island residents this Thursday night, 7 p.m. at Sundial.

Islanders are invited to attend this free forum and ask any and all questions they may have regarding hurricanes and the hurricane threat to Southwest Florida.

The forum, sponsored by WINK, will be taped for airing June 1.

How real is the Island drug problem?

A questionnaire distributed recently to sixth, seventh and eighth graders at Cypress Middle School included one question that generated some very disturbing answers. The question: "Is there a drug problem in the middle school?" One answer: "Watch out for the bad ludes (short for Quaaludes - extremely potent barbituates)."

"Water, water everywhere..."

By Roxanna Motchan

"Water, water everywhere...but not a drop to drink." Inadequate and unfit water supplies are a major problem in many communities throughout the world.

Sanibel's Island Water Association (IWA) took a giant step forward to combat the problem locally last Friday at 10 a.m., when the long awaited reverse osmosis (RO) plant officially opened.

Featured speakers at the dedication included: Arthur Wycoff, President of the IWA; Gary D. Cobb, Director of the Office of Water Research and Technology, U.S. Department of the Interior; and John R. Maloy, Executive Director, South Florida Water Management District.

Arthur Wycoff led off the dedication ceremony by giving some of the background history of the IWA and how it has grown. He explained that the IWA, established in 1965, came about through recognition of the fact that shallow wells and bottled water could not meet the increasing demand.

In 1973, the electro dialysis water treatment plant was constructed by IWA at the main pumping station site. Wells were drilled to draw treatable water from the Lower Hawthorn Aquifer. The RO plant, drawing water from the Suwannee Aquifer, is an independent water system designed to accommodate foreseeable needs and planned buildout, according to Sanibel's Comprehensive Land Use Plan (CLUP).

Wycoff also said that as time goes on, by adding filter units to the RO facilities, the electro dialysis plant will no longer be necessary.

"Ultimately," Wycoff promised, "this plant will have salt water desalination."

Gary Cobb, of the U.S. Dept. of Interior, emphasized to the group the importance of water conservation. He said that IWA's RO plant is a good example of how government and industry may work together to plan a facility which will take care of a grave problem. Cobb pointed out that many places, not just coastal communities, "have inadequate water."

Cobb said that the kind of technology used in the RO plant design will be useful in helping to solve water problems in the United States.

The Executive Director of South Florida's Water Management District, John R. Maloy, was the featured speaker at last Friday's dedication.

"As Florida continues to grow, water resources management will be more important," Maloy said. "In Southwest Florida the important things are sound land use planning supported by the water management districts planning and regulatory effort."

Maloy said, "We do have a finite supply of water on Florida's peninsula. We do not want to sacrifice natural amenities for the sake of additional levels of population."

"The challenge," he explained, "is to plan for growth and protect natural resources at the same time."

Maloy pointed out that most people misunderstand water conservation efforts as denying them what they are entitled to rather than wise use of a limited supply.

But, Maloy also said that more and more people were becoming aware of the necessity to conserve the precious resource.

"Today's opening is a result of participation of a community where input is channeled into a positive direction," he said.

Following the dedication, tours of the new RO plant were given.

The first well of the RO plant is 770 feet in depth, and will pump 550 gallons per minute at 55 pounds per square inch.

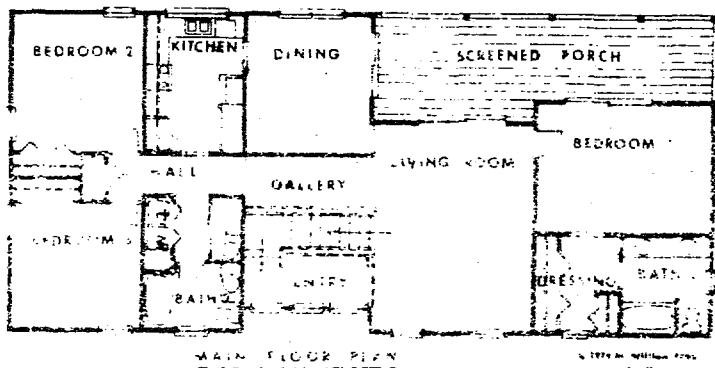

At start up, the plant is capable of producing 1.21 million gallons per day (MGD), and may ultimately produce 3.63 MGD.

Important design features in the new plant include: 1) lowest power consumption per unit capacity, 2) automatic operation with a computer control system, and 3) the RO plant is easily expandable for future growth.

Featured speaker John Maloy stressed sound land use planning as a means to manage water resources.

Commissioners give housing foundation the nod

By Roxanna Motchan

Sanibel's Planning Commission reviewed the proposed Moderate Cost Housing ordinance at a special meeting held yesterday, which resulted in a recommendation to City Council that a joint meeting be held with the Planning Commission, City Council, and Community Housing and Resources (CHR) organization to look into the proposed ordinance with greater detail.

The proposed Moderate Cost Housing ordinance is the end result of work done by the City appointed Moderate Cost Housing Committee. The planning staff report indicated to the Planning Commissioners that this was just a preliminary first step to establish a housing foundation which would administer Sanibel's moderate cost housing program.

The staff recommends that the foundation should be given the authority to buy, sell, receive, rent or donate any land or other properties which may help the foundation and the City attain a moderate cost housing (unit) pool. Staff also recommends that the proposed housing foundation be given the authority to work with the City in cooperation with the Lee County Housing Authority and the Lee County Housing Assistance Office, and State and Federal agencies to set up a moderate cost housing program.

Dr. James C. Nicholas, Professor of Economics at Florida Atlantic University, has reviewed the ordinance at the request of the City, and stated in a letter to City Attorney Neal Bowen that "the present conditions in the financial market make moderate cost housing of the type proposed impossible."

Upon abatement of the current interest rates, however, Dr. Nicholas said he could foresee the feasibility of moderate cost housing. He emphasized that cooperation from the City, the housing foundation, and financial institutions will be necessary.

Commissioners discussed the advantages and disadvantages of dispersion or concentration of the moderate cost housing on the Island, and agreed that dispersion would be the better alternative, avoiding what Commissioner Fred Valtin termed "the ghetto aspect."

Commissioner Judy Workman recommended in her motion that the wording "Moderate Cost Housing" be changed in the ordinance to "low market rate."

In accordance with the staff report, Workman also included in her motion that a study be made of the existing moderate cost dwelling units on the Island.

The motion also included the consideration of hiring a full time City employee to implement the housing program.

The Local Government Comprehensive Planning Act of 1975 requires, "the provision of adequate sites for future housing including housing for low and moderate income families."

In other Planning Commission business, the City appointed Sewage Committee reported their suggested revisions to the Sewage Treatment section of the Comprehensive Land Use Plan (CLUP).

Many of their recommendations deal with updating and revising facts and figures and rewording or clarifying tests.

The conclusion of the Committee was to: 1) identify goals for establishing inspection and regulation of present and future sewage treatment facilities and systems, and 2) establishment of a plan for Island-wide sewage treatment through a study of advanced technologies, appropriate geographical zoning, phasing, plant locations, funding and the benefits to the public health, safety and welfare of the citizens of Sanibel.

Planning Commission Chairman Ann Winterbotham commented, "This is an excellent report, and is similar to what the original Planning Commission wanted in the CLUP, and Council rejected it, so good luck in getting it back."

The report from the Sewage Committee will now go to City Council for further discussion and review.

Further Planning Commission considerations were unavailable at press time.

Exchange students seeking host families

Student exchange is a successful endeavor that grows each year, offering a rewarding experience in human relations. This August 4, 300 international high school students from 24 countries around the world will arrive in the United States as exchange students on the Youth for Understanding program. Of these, 180 will live with families in Florida or Georgia. These students are looking forward to enriching their high school years by living with an American family and attending local high schools.

The Host Family is the cornerstone of the Youth for Understanding program; it is also the stepping stone by which students and families from very different worlds can begin to communicate. Host families open their homes and hearts, share their lives and establish warm and lasting relationships with their new son or daughter. The daily living experience encountered by the student through the Host Family gives him an insight and awareness of the United States that is difficult to duplicate. At the same time, the student shares his own unique culture and national heritage with his family.

Youth for Understanding is a non-profit, educational organization founded in 1951 to foster greater world understanding through student exchange. Headquartered in Washington, D.C., the organization cooperates with and receives an annual grant from the International Communications Agency. Youth for Understanding has been the catalyst for an experience shared by more than 65,000 students and host families around the world and has provided an opportunity to encounter other cultures and presents a challenge to understand them.

For further information about becoming a Host Family, contact: Youth For Understanding, 325 Hammond Drive, No. 203, Atlanta, Georgia 30328, or call collect (404) 252-9384.

Accompanied by their real life counterparts, 17 Island students had a chance to pretend they were City leaders last Wednesday at Sanibel's Student Government Day.

The fifth and sixth graders from area schools wrote essays declaring, "If I could serve my City Government in some capacity I would..."

Those students submitting the best essays were chosen to represent positions in local government including: Mayor, City Manager, City Planners - and newspaper reporters.

Student Government Day began with tours of the Island Water Association (IWA) plant, fire station, and police station.

Following the tour and lunch in the Community Center, the students read their winning essays and participated in a mock City Council meeting.

Excerpts from the winning essays include:

-- Bill Zeiss: "I would like to see the bike paths extended to Blind Pass."

-- Carlyn Ramsey: "I think there should be no more condominiums, we should enforce protection of wildlife, and I also think the Island needs more stoplights."

-- Katie Krepin: "I think there should be a bike path all the way from Sanibel to Captiva."

-- Paul Evans: "I would build stores and pave roads. I would make the SCCF bigger. Captiva has too many crooks."

-- Brian Smith: "Our Island is a very fragile barrier Island. Our shopping centers should blend in with the Island. I would not want to see Sanibel turning into a concrete jungle like Fort Myers Beach."

-- Laura Stern: "I would work to save endangered plants. I would see that every house would be built according to the Comprehensive Land Use Plan."

After reading the essays, the kids got down to the real business of the day, the mock City Council meeting.

The student reporter for the Sanibel-Captiva Islander, Karen Pickens, wrote the following story covering the Council meeting:

Sanibel Elementary

On May 14, 1980, at 1:15 p.m., a special Council Meeting was held at MacKenzie Hall. Fourteen students got to be Council members and the press. They were talking about moving Sunset South back from the line because hurricane season is coming. After much discussion, the mayor said that the hotel would be moved back to the lines.

(Editor's note: The following is Karen Pickens' school essay that won her the role of reporter for the Sanibel-Captiva Islander at Student Government Day last week.)

If I could be a reporter I would give the news that people want. I would tell about things that happen on Sanibel. I would tell about the houses that are on sale on Sanibel. Put in ads that tell about the jobs available. I would like to be a reporter, because you get to go around Sanibel and get all the facts.

I would go to Captiva and get news about people on vacation.

I would put in weather reports from around the country. I would tell people about the various stores on Sanibel.

I would tell about the restaurants on Sanibel.

Island Family Forum tonight

All Island parents are invited to a family forum on parenting at the Sanibel Community Church this evening (Tuesday, May 20) at 7 p.m. The program is under the sponsorship of Edison Community College's Community Service section.

A 22-minute film will be followed by a panel discussion in which all aspects of being a parent will be explored. Included on the panel are representatives of the Counseling and Growth Center, Lee County Mental Health Center, Lee County Extension Service, Home Ec. teachers of Lee County Schools, Sanibel Police Department, Fort Myers-Lee County Library, a pediatrician, a parent-educator, and Rev. Bruce Milligan representing the ministry.

If enough interest is shown, a course in parenting could be formed. The Community Church Education Committee, under the chairmanship of Beverly Slay, is handling the arrangements for the Parents Day Event, and Polly Jacoby is supervisor of the Edison Community College Community Services section.

SPD sets meeting times for kids, parents

Sgt. Ray Rhodes and Officer Dick Noon of the Sanibel Police Department will be holding an open meeting with Island youngsters this Friday evening (May 23) at 7:30 in MacKenzie Hall. Children of all ages are welcome to attend, alone or with their parents. Numerous topics will be discussed including, a "Youth Power" employment service, an Island "hotline," possible recreational programs and any other ideas for potential programs on the Islands.

On June 12, at 7 p.m., the second meeting between SPD representatives and concerned parents and Islanders will be held. As requested by parents attending the first meeting, the topic for discussion will be 'Drug Abuse.' Patrolman Jim Fox of the Cape Coral Police Department, a counselor from the Lee County Mental Health Drug and Alcohol Abuse Unit and a local clinician will be the speakers. All concerned Islanders are urged to attend. The meeting will be held at the Sanibel Community Association Building.

flexible, luxurious, and economical --interval ownership makes sense.

Yes, Our vacations are special — we like to travel, stay at top resorts, dine at fine restaurants, and enjoy a variety of activities.

We've been visiting the islands for several years and have thought seriously about buying a vacation home here. We looked around, and discovered the interval ownership program at South Seas Plantation offers our kind of vacations — very economically and allows us to vacation more frequently.

In fact, it made sense for us to purchase four vacation weeks — two for our vacations at South Seas Plantation, one for our children to come and visit, and another week to use with the exchange program. The exchange week we'll use to go to Hilton Head, Europe, Hawaii or wherever.

Let's face facts. Renting accommodations at first class resorts is expensive. The vacation villas at Plantation Beach Club are luxurious, the one-time purchase price is very reasonable, and we always have something to show for the money we've spent.

Membership at South Seas Plantation and our beachfront vacation villa — that's the kind of vacation we value.

Islander Up Close

Bernie Murphy, City Manager

By Roxanna Motchan

By Mark Harmel

"Afterward a good friend of mine put his arm around me and said, 'You know, Bernie, what is life but a 3-2 decision?'"

In his low key, easygoing manner, Bernie Murphy explains one of the many reactions following the fateful Sanibel City Council vote last Fall that placed him in the respected position of City Manager.

In just five and a half months Murphy has gained the confidence and friendship of Councilmembers and Islanders alike. The Sanibel City Manager shoes are not easily filled - the wearer must be diplomatic, resourceful, knowledgeable, flexible, and semi-tough. He must act as a go-between for the City and the Council, providing information and implementing Council decisions. A huge amount of responsibility rests on the City Manager's shoulders but Bernie Murphy is not only showing no signs of strain, but indeed appears to be thriving on the life style and idiosyncracies unique to the City of Sanibel.

Part of the reason behind his ready adaptation is the fact that Murphy is no stranger to politics or politicians. As a boy, he spent many hours in the Council chambers of Pittsfield, Massachusetts watching his father, a City Councilman for 10 years, at work.

With a political science degree from the University of Massachusetts in hand, Murphy headed not for the courts, but for the business world instead. Why would someone with a political science degree want to sell insurance?

"Well, I'd just graduated from college and had very little money," Murphy explains with a grin. "I wasn't able to pursue graduate school, so I decided to give the business world a fling. I did it for two reasons: one, it would give me experience, and two, it would give me money."

"I don't regret that experience," he continues, "I think it legitimized me in the public sector."

Murphy's position with the Massachusetts' Mutual Insurance Company entailed more than sales - he worked in a group department that sold insurance but also provided service to industries, businesses, colleges, and institutions.

After one year with the company, he was placed in charge of insurance policies for the entire state of Connecticut. "I was 23 years old and in charge of a lot of businesses and industries in Connecticut," he says, pride evident in his voice. "I did very well and met some interesting people."

As soon as it was financially feasible, however, Murphy left the business world to return to graduate school, where he eventually received his Master's degree in public administration.

In 1966, Murphy was appointed Assistant City Manager in Auburn, Maine. The city of approximately 25,000 people was Murphy's home for the next 12 years. Woodbury Brackett, one of the "grandfathers of city managers," served as Murphy's boss, teacher and friend during this time.

"I had a unique opportunity to benefit from Mr. Brackett's 37 or 38 years of experience as a city manager," Murphy says. "He had great influence on my career and, in fact, I succeeded him when he retired."

From December 1970 to January 1977 Murphy was the Auburn City Manager and then he began to feel the need for a geographical and cultural change.

"I'd been a New Englander all my life and decided that I would like to try another extremity of the country," Murphy explained, adding, "I like extremes."

Murphy was contacted by an executive search firm in Chicago who indicated that the City government of Gainesville, Florida, was just undergoing a massive reorganization. After showing interest in the Deputy City Manager position, Murphy inquired a bit further, learned some more about the City of Gainesville and finally concluded that the offer would be a great opportunity for his career.

"Once I went to Gainesville," Murphy said, "the community attracted me, the staff attracted me, and I was excited about the opportunity. I was in charge of seven functions: police, fire, library, all of the transportation systems, all of the planning, inspection functions, and recreation. This gave me a chance to key into some of the things I hadn't had an opportunity to do before, because I'd been functioning as such a generalist in Auburn."

But after only two years in Gainesville, Murphy was ready for yet another change. "I was motivated to leave Gainesville," he says. "Harold Farmer, the City Manager, had been under considerable attack by at least two of the commissioners to resign, and that just created a great deal of unpleasantness. We were hampered, quite frankly, in our ability to do the things that needed to be done."

He continued, "Although those attacks were on Harold Farmer and not me, it was obvious to me that Mr. Farmer was not going to stay, and, while I did have an opportunity for that position, I concluded that I would have the same difficulties that he indeed had, and that it was not the climate under which I would function best."

And so Bernie Murphy happened to read about the position of City Manager that was available on the tiny island of Sanibel. "I can remember thinking after I met Bill Nungester a long time ago, 'Golly, if he ever resigns I'm going to be very interested in that position,'" he laughs. "Sanibel's the kind of place that I not only want to practice my craft in, but that I want to live in."

Sanibel as a permanent place of residence is not a strange idea to Murphy, he says. "Before my wife came down I called her up one Saturday morning and said 'Linda, I may not be City Manager here forever.' She interrupted, 'Should we move? Should the van be packed? Should we come?'"

"But I told her, 'We may live here forever.'"

Murphy has promised Sanibel's Councilmembers that he will remain as City Manager, "for a period of at least three years...ad infinitum."

Beyond that? "I'm not sure," he muses, "but I'm not going to sell interval ownership!"

While Murphy admits that the position of City Manager is somewhat volatile he claims, "The statistics are misleading. Golly, there are City Managers who stay in the same place for 20 or 25 years. I like to think I'm the staying kind."

It seems as though being City Manager might be one of the most difficult jobs on earth, especially when you consider all of the qualities necessary to be an effective one: brains, logic, a diplomatic manner, and an ability to follow through on numerous Council requests.

But, Murphy says, "I can honestly tell you that I've had more job satisfactions than frustrations. I think that's true in any profession. You don't get every sale if you're a salesman. That's a fact of life and you have to learn to accept it."

Is it ever frustrating to only be the advisor, mediator and planner doing all the research but never being able to vote?

"If I've done all my homework and given the best possible information and set forth my recommendations and points of view, then I am happy," Murphy claims. "I can recall 14 years ago when I went crashing into a Council meeting and my boss looked at me and said, 'Hey, you don't have a vote, what are you doing?'"

"So, you have to learn by living with it that the Councilmembers make the decision and boy, that's law and that's final. I have seen Councilmen who wouldn't give you a fair opportunity to present your position, and that's frustrating."

Murphy admits that it's a little early to set forth his own goals for the City of Sanibel, but indicates, "There are a number of unresolved, undecided issues, and I suppose one goal is to bring all these issues back on the table, and to try and encourage the decision making process. I want to revisit all the undone, undecided things."

A frustration sometimes experienced in a City Manager position is the public's ignorance and occasional inability to understand why certain laws must be followed. "A speeding law, while it might not be universally accepted, is more understood perhaps than a requirement of the Southern Standard Building Code," Murphy explains. "I would say in the latter instance that there's a need for us to constantly re-evaluate the purposes and points of these codes; but there's also a need for us to engage in some public education as to the points and purposes, and maybe we haven't done a very good job of that yet."

But one of the pleasant surprises about Sanibel, according to Murphy, is that "There is probably a broader and wider acceptance and knowledge of the laws of the City of Sanibel than most places."

Murphy sees growth pressures as one of Sanibel's biggest problems. "It's hard to achieve the balance between what was and what is," he says.

Murphy confesses he has thought fleetingly but not seriously about going into elected office. "Mostly because in Massachusetts it seems like, outside of the Boston Red Socks, the second favorite pastime is politics."

He will probably always stay at the local level, he says, even though he has been offered positions in state government by one governor and one senator.

"I can remember the great satisfaction that I used to have in Auburn," he reminisces, "driving around on Sunday, thinking, 'It took us three years, but we made this or that thing better.' I just had a feel for things and people that I felt I would lose in state government - you're just that much further removed and doing things through too many layers of people. I couldn't get excited about it."

It's obvious that Bernie Murphy cares about Island people and Island government. Hopefully, with Bernie Murphy as City Manager, both will experience, as he puts it, "a long and mutually beneficial relationship."

About this growing up business . . .

"Like its politicians and its wars, society has the teenagers it deserves."

- J.B. Priestley

I remember growing up in a small town in Southern Michigan in the Sixties - a rural community of 10,000 located 20 miles away from the State capital - and I remember, so clearly as to bring back the pain, suffering from a syndrome I thought uniquely, abnormally, solely mine.

I was bored. I was alienated by invisible walls from not only my family but the rest of the "outside world" as well. The drinking age was 21 so there were few night spots teenagers could go to even to dance and listen to music. The few dance halls for minors were located miles away. There was one high school in my town. One burger joint. No "hang outs" for kids - other than the sprawling courthouse lawn or the corner at the main intersection of "downtown."

It wasn't until 10 years later, when I was working as a counselor at a home for runaway teenagers in urban Grand Rapids, that I came to realize the commonality of the teenage isolation syndrome. By then, at least it seemed to me, there were great multitudes of activities for youths, especially in an urban college town. But it didn't matter. At least not to the kids I was working with - kids who ran away from home, kids in trouble with their parents, their school and, frequently, in trouble with the law. Kids who, in the final analysis, were not really and truly "bad" kids at all, but were for the most part, "status offenders" - guilty of crimes that were only crimes when committed by a minor.

Coming to Sanibel was, for me, like coming home. A small, safe community. A good place to raise my city born and bred daughter. A place where everyone knows everyone else. A place where parents are on a first name basis with teachers, police and city officials.

What naivety! What wishful thinking! Sanibel and Captiva, like every other community, large and small, across the country, has been unable to escape the "youth problem" that has existed for time immemorial. The problems change - may even be more serious now than in days past - and solutions vary, depending on how much time, creativity and empathy a town is willing to invest in integrating its youth into the community.

Island children seem to have unique problems specific to the unique, sheltered community from which they spring.

Think about it. How many after school activities are there for 5 to 17 year olds on the Islands? How many Island children have part-time jobs? How many Island children are bused to the mainland "outside world" five days a week where they encounter experiences parents can't even guess at? What does your own child do from 9-5 while you're at work? Where, on the Islands, can teenagers go to meet? Take a date? Go to escape traditional pressures?

It's time for the City fathers, educators, businessmen and parents to sit up and take notice of the growing youth population on the Islands. It's time to start formulating solutions in recognition of the present problem before it gets any worse. It's time to "own" our children - and the potential contribution or detriment to our community they may prove to be.

We salute Sanibel Police Officer Dick Noon for his work with the Sanibel Swim Team. We salute Officer Jack Primm for his dedication to the Sanibel Police Recreation Club - that lends tremendous support to activities for Island youngsters. We salute Noon and Sgt. Ray Rhodes for their willingness to found a youth program on the Islands and we salute the 40-odd parents who showed up for the first police-parents' meeting held two weeks ago to discuss the problems with Island children. We salute the Sanibel Community Church and Edison College for the family forum they are sponsoring tonight (May 20) on communications between parents and children.

But we'd like to offer a swift kick to those who feel it's not their job to integrate the Island youth into the Island community.

And two swift kicks to those who don't believe our Island children are in trouble.

— P.H.

Thank you

To The Editor:

A Thank You Note

Thank you once again, the people of Sanibel, for sharing your Island with me.

The construction has changed the Island since my first visit but the important things to me are still the same.

One still experiences the peace of mind that the Island offers. The waters of the Gulf are still the friendly waters capable of lulling one into a sense of tranquility. The sunsets at Captiva still inspire artists and poets alike. The natives and local people of Sanibel are still rightly protective and possessive of their Island, loving it untouched by the influx of your average tourist.

Having removed myself from the category of tourist I appreciate their care and concern for Sanibel. I am perhaps selfish when I feel the Island has grown enough. Probably I am greedy when I decide to tell no other outsider about my own little paradise.

Everyone should have their very secret world where dreams can come true and where fantasy borders on reality. Sanibel is mine.

Apology to SFWMD

To the Editor, The Sanibel-Captiva Islander

Mea culpa! mea culpa! I did wrong to our South Florida Water Management District (SFWMD). My letter of May 13 erroneously misjudged their motives for joining in the lawsuit to fight for water rights for polluters of that resource.

At the May 16 dedication of IWA's new

R.O. Plant, I took the belated step of discussing the matter with the District's Executive Director, Jack Malloy. He carefully explained that their motive was a very simple one to conserve the District's tax dollars by minimizing the costs of multiple law suits on the same subject. It was to seek a Court ban on what the District had become to believe were "frivolous" and certainly harrasing actions.

He convinced me that their motive was not to join hands with development and agricultural interests to protect their "rights" to continue polluting our water supply sources.

My apologies to the District for my misjudging their motives.

Contritely,
Paul A. Howe

Correction

Due to taping difficulties, several mistakes were made in last week's Portrait of Fleur Weymouth. Ms. Weymouth is not from Peterborough, New Hampshire but is from Frankestown, N.H. instead. At the age of 15 she was teaching children's art classes not, as reported, in New York City but on Martha's Vineyard. She started the Children's Workshop in New York City in the early Sixties. Ms. Weymouth's resistance to using a light meter in her work was based on her desire to train her eyes to be more sensitive to the gradations of light. She also believes art is treated with "such serious expressions" (not, as reported, "blank expressions") and wishes people were more "lighthearted" about it. Ms. Weymouth also declines the label of "expert" spoonplayer, preferring instead to view herself a beginner. Her outspoken views in New England concerning environmental issues were sincere reflections of her own values. She has not changed her values since moving to Sanibel or held her tongue to make a buck but has remained a tireless supporter of the arts and the environment. We sincerely apologize for any embarrassment our mistakes caused her.

What about guns?

By Jody Fisher

The following is a verbatim transcript of a recent interview with Ray Rhodes, an officer with the Sanibel Police Department. Rhodes was questioned on the safety and legalities of gun use by the average citizen.

Q. What are the legalities involved in having a gun in your home?

A. "There's no fault in having a gun in your home. You can have guns in your home all you like, but if you shoot somebody, that's a different thing."

Q. But doesn't someone have to have a license to go buy a gun?

A. "You just have to be a resident of the state in which you buy your gun, be over 18 years of age and you cannot ever have been convicted of a felony."

Q. How can they know that you're telling the truth? Do they just ask you and you say 'yes' or 'no'?

A. "They ask you, but then all the gun dealers have to file a report back to the state to the Federal firearms people and they check them out."

Q. But, meanwhile, you're walking around with a gun!

A. "Well, you've got to show some kind of identification."

Q. But what can you buy over the counter - you can't buy a Saturday Night Special, can you?

A. "You can buy anything. You're not allowed to have automatic weapons or what they term illegal weapons. Barrel lengths have to be a particular length on rifles and shotguns. But, other than that, you can still get anything you want."

Q. Well, I think that's interesting because they talk about gun legislation and this and that, but you can still get anything you want.

A. "I think the idea behind the cooling off period was that you could go in and apply to buy a gun and put it on layaway and then after 48 hours or a week, you could go back and get it. But right now, there's nothing like that - you can do whatever you want. When you get to the thing, for example, of someone breaking into your house and making you shoot them, the way the law likes to interpret that is that you have to use all of your resources to get away from them. In other words, you have to have your back against the wall."

Q. You have to be literally backed up?

A. "It doesn't say that as such, but that's the way they interpret it. You have to do everything you can to get away from the guy."

Q. Okay, let's assume that someone has broken into your house and you're scared to death and he's threatened you and you shoot him...

A. "Usually you get into the point where you're fearing for your life and that's the thing we're looking for. Does the guy have a weapon? Does he have a knife? Or is he just coming in and doing nothing and you wake up and blow him away with a shotgun?"

Q. But he's breaking into your house - isn't that enough reason to shoot?

A. "No, not necessarily. You could get away with shooting someone every time someone came into your house."

Q. Well, if someone, say, breaks in and rapes you and you shoot him - what about that?

A. "That's different. That was someone with the intent of doing you bodily harm and you're protecting yourself. But I'm talking about if somebody just walks into your house. There are good reasons for that law. What if a juvenile comes home and happens to have the wrong house - bam, he gets shot. Or what if it's a police officer? Maybe there's been a report of a burglar or someone there and you're supposed to be on vacation? You're in the house and instead of making a lot of noise and turning on the lights to see who it is, you say 'Halt, who's there?' and shoot and it's a police officer who thought your house was being burglarized because a neighbor called and said someone was in there."

Q. Well then, what should you do if you're lying in bed and you think that someone's breaking into your house. Should you make a lot of noise and turn on the lights and give him the chance to shoot you?

A. "Well, I don't know. You could lay down all kinds of rules about what you should do, but I don't really know. I would probably go investigate and see who it is. If you've got a weapon and you're a female, you might want to take it with you if that makes you feel safer."

Q. Well, sometimes I've jumped up and run into the living room in the night and people always tell me that I should make noise and turn on the light and give them a chance to leave.

A. "Yes, that's good because most burglars, or people who work at night operate, on one thing - that they're not seen. Most burglars are not violent people - usually they want to get out of there. When they've been confronted and someone's seen them, that's when they get really uptight. You know, little things race through their heads about getting rid of witnesses. But, usually I would say that that's a good suggestion. Turn on the lights, let them know you're up and yell, 'Okay, I'm coming out!'"

Q. I have one of those air horns by my bed - is that a good idea?

A. "Sure. Generally, anything that scares them or makes them run away. That's the main idea behind burglar prevention. It isn't that the crook can't get in - it scares them away."

Q. I was also wondering about those little hand-held mace things?

A. "There are some people who mace has no effect on - maybe a drunk, someone who's crying quite a bit, a person who's really emotionally upset. The only thing that mace is going to do to this man is make him angry. So, a lot of times you're just getting into more of a hassle than it's worth."

Q. Does it help if people see that you have a nightlight on?

A. "Yes. Nightlights help because then they're taking the chance of being seen. Radios and televisions discourage people. An outside light, the low voltage type, that's an excellent way to discourage people."

Q. What about the situation I read where a woman was attacked on the street and cut her attacker with a switchblade and was sent to jail because the judge said she was carrying a concealed weapon? What are the laws concerning concealed weapons?

A. "Well, that sounds like a particular judge ruling a particular way. Switchblades are usually a particular size and you have to get it (the knife) out of the realm of the common pocket knife. A common pocket knife is legal, but a switchblade isn't a common pocket knife. The blade is usually so long as to consider it illegal."

Q. I remember when the Manson trial was going on, his people stood vigil outside the courthouse with huge hunting knives strapped to their belts and they couldn't be arrested because they weren't concealed. I suppose that's legal, but what about guns? You can't walk down the street with a gun, can you?

A. "Yes, you can. You can walk down the street with a gun as long as it's in a holster. You can be charged with reckless display once it's removed. The state has a law against carrying a revolver in the open."

Q. But you can carry a gun in your car, right?

A. "Sure, you can carry them anywhere. The state lists about 13 places you can carry a revolver or a pistol by your side as long as it's in a holster - to and from your property, to and from hunting, that sort of thing."

Q. Can you carry a gun in your purse?

A. "A gun in your purse is usually considered a concealed weapon because a purse is considered a part of your body. But let me explain something. During all these interpretations, you get one ruling from one judge and another ruling from another judge from the same judicial district. One State Attorney will say you shouldn't have it in your glove compartment while another one will say it's alright as long as you have to move twice to get to it. What we recommend is for people to have them in their glove compartment with the glove compartment locked, for two reasons. One, you have to unlock the glove compartment to get to it which means you get a little time to cool off. Two, it also stops it from being stolen quite as easily. If someone breaks into your car and your glove compartment is locked, they're usually not going to take the time to pry it open. They'll just take what they can and split. Otherwise, you lose your gun."

Q. I've heard all sorts of contrasting ideas where, if you shoot somebody in your home, you'd better drag them out before someone gets there or if you shoot them outside your house, you'd better drag them inside. What's the truth behind these stories?

A. "Usually the best thing to do if you shoot somebody is to stand there and wait for the police! Don't move anything, just leave it the way it is. If you've shot somebody and you think you had good cause, it's best to just stand there and see what the hell happens. Again, everytime you get into a specific case, you get a specific ruling...I can't foresee any circumstance where you would be in trouble because you are protecting yourself. But, if you hear someone tinkering with your door, for example, and you run and get a shotgun or pistol and you wait by the door and as soon as he opens it, you shoot him, I'd say that you've got some problems because what that is is premeditated homicide, see, because you didn't warn him, 'Hey, what's going on?' What are you trying to do? You're trying to prevent a burglary or harm to your family, right? You can do that by simply saying, 'Hey, get away from the door. I'm back here with a gun and I'm calling the police!'"

Q. What about "booby traps"?

A. "That's the same thing - premeditated homicide. That can be first degree. There was a house here on the Island that was rigged with 16 gauge shotgun shells set up to mousetraps. There was a lot of discussion about that as to, number one, if it had caused a death, it would have been homicide, at least second degree. You have to get to a basic question of what is more important to you - property value or human life. Right now the law states and legislators feel that human life is more important than property."

Q. Is it true that most people who have guns for protection don't know how to use them?

A. "It's true that most people who own guns, period, don't know how to use them. Most people don't know how to use a weapon, don't know the safety to using a firearm. Using a

The Beachview Men hit new highs and lows on the green this week. Hank Groh continued his excellent play and was a member of both winning teams this week. In addition, he shot the high individual score last Saturday. Groh has now played on the winning teams for the last seven tournaments. Low scores are normally a prize in golf, but not under the point quota system used by the Beachview Men where high scores represent good games. On Saturday, a foursome, who wish to remain anonymous, managed to score a record low score of minus 16. Tuesday's match was Blind Partners. Hank Groh and Larry Romines won with a plus seven, followed by Ray Martorelli and Jim Briscoe at plus three. The third place team at plus two was John Forester and Ray Howland. On Saturday a high score of plus 11 was shot by the threesome of Mac McClintock, Hank Groh, and Phil Millson in contrast with the low minus 16. Hank Groh shot the high individual score of plus seven, followed by Bob Robertson at plus five.

Sanibel swimmers - the team to beat

The Sanibel Swim Team, defending champions of the Greater Lee County YMCA Swim League, proved once again Saturday that they are the team to beat this season. They won the YMCA Jamboree, the first meet of the season, by over 300 points.

Last year the Sanibel team made a surprise showing in their first year in the League by winning every meet they entered. This year more teams have been added to the League, and many of Sanibel's swimmers can only swim in the more competitive AAU meets.

Captain Dick Noon praised the swimmers for the "fantastic job" they did. He cited 20 swimmers who turned in times Saturday that were faster than they had ever swam before. A total of 79 Sanibel swimmers competed against 289 other League members for the honors.

The team now enters the season with a six win, no loss record.

Guns from page nine

firearm safely is a very touchy thing. The safety is the most important thing to using a weapon. You should go over and over and over the safety precautions in using a firearm. Anyone who owns a firearm should go through some training as to how to use it."

Q. Where can you get training?

A. "The Sheriff's Department runs classes. If we had a range, we'd probably run classes, too."

Q. Do the police have records of everyone who has a gun?

A. "No. The only time we have a record of who has a gun is if we register the gun for some reason. The second reason would be if someone came in and registered it with us."

Q. Do many people on Sanibel come in to have their guns registered?

A. "Well, we've had people come in and register guns and we've run into quite a few cases with people with guns. A lot of people on the Island have guns."

Q. What should the average person do to protect themselves if they don't have a gun?

A. "First thing you should do, if you're in a confrontation where maybe someone wants your money or if you're in a rape situation, you should go along with it. Remember as much as you can. Look at the person as much as you can."

Q. But what about the sick who likes blood?

A. "Yes, that's true. But if you're going to fight someone, make sure you can beat him before you get him angrier. If you can't handle him, don't get him mad at you. It's a very simple rule and you'll live much longer."

Q. In view of all this, would you consider a gun a good thing to have in your home?

A. "If the person has been trained in the use of a firearm, it's fine to have around the house. If they haven't been, then I'd say no. And I'd say you should be sure the firearm is safe. If you have children, make sure the firearm is left unloaded and the bolts are kept away from the gun and that there are locks on the weapon. You've got to take the safety precautions or you can get hurt."

Shelling Tips

By Mike Fuery

Somehow my name got on the "Nude Shellers of America" mailing list and the latest catalogue they sent me shows some really fascinating items for shelling in the buff. I thought I might share some of them with you, not that you would ever consider shelling sans clothes, but just for your personal information and curiosity!

Ever wonder what a nude sheller does with his shells without pockets? Last year I wrote about this group and told you that they don't like to carry anything while they shell but a smile. The whole idea of nature shelling is to go as natural as possible, so without toting bags or buckets, what do you do with your shells?

The Nude Shellers of American (NSA) has a new product for your shelling pleasure. It's a type of combination bag-coverup and you wear it like a kind of short, expandable bib around your neck. It has a pouch for shells and at the same time leaves your hands free. The best part about this item is that should a member of a law enforcement organization descend upon a beach with nude shellers, the wearer need only pull the bottom string of the bib and a loin cloth immediately unfolds to your feet. You need only reach down and grasp the snap at the end of the cloth and bring it between your legs and up your back to fasten at the back of your bib collar. Thus you are now clothed in a fashionable, as you can see, highly functional beach suit, suitable for keeping you formerly bare behind out of the local lock-up.

These suits, modestly called "Loin Loungers," sell for $9.95 and are available in blue, pink, gold and, of course, nude colors.

There is another product the group offers clubmembers that is one of the most innovative items I've come across in some time.

It's a motorized hole digger, for digging and covering up to three adults or 47 midgets in the sand, in less than two minutes. It's expensive, but when you hear what it does, you'll be amazed at the price.

This digger is called a "Fuzz Frustrator" because although it is illegal to be without your clothes on the beach, it is not illegal to be nude under the beach. There is a very important, though subtle difference.

You simply set this gasoline powered digger next to your beach blanket, or tote it along to your shelling area. Should the long arm of the law swoop down from the pine trees in your direction, cutting you off from cover, you casually gather intimate friends around you and turn on the Fuzz Frustrator. Shield your eyes, because sand is going to fly everywhere, but within a minute the Frustrator has dug a hole six feet deep and four feet wide. You and the gang hop in and in another minute the machine covers you to the chin in sand.

As the boys in brown descend, you smile accordingly. Only heads will be showing above the sand by now. This tends to get the fella with the ticket book very angry and he will probably try to give your digging a machine a summons, but court records have shown in test cases that because the machine lives in your house under common consent, it cannot be made to testify against you. Ah, saved again.

Once the heat has left the beach, and I'm not talking about the sun, then you dig yourselves out and rinse off in the water. Simple as that. The Fuzz Frustrator sells for a mere $569.

These are just two of the items available through the catalogue. You can get this home delivery shopping publication if you join the Nude Shellers of America. I can't imagine why they would send me the thing, but it's interesting reading.

By the way, you can always tell when one of their clubmembers has been on Sanibel and Captiva beaches because you begin finding shells on the beach with stick-on signs that say, "GRIN AND BARE IT - SHELLING IN THE NUDE WILL CHANGE YOUR LIFE."

I'll say!

Refuge Report By Donna Stanek, Outdoor Recreation Planner, "Ding" Darling Refuge

By Donna M. Stanek

Refuge Manager Del Pierce and Assistant Manager Bill Black assisted in the rescue operations of the Sunshine Skyway bridge disaster on May 9. They were on Egmont Key at the time and were the second boat on the scene.

The Refuge hosted a law enforcement seminar on May 19 for Refuge personnel. Special Agent John Minick from Tampa arranged the program dealing with refuge law enforcement problems in Southwest Florida. Personnel from Key Deer Refuge also participated.

The water management program is in its second phase now. Boards have been placed in the water control structures of the east impoundment. The water level is now sufficient to keep the mud flats flooded which should help control the mosquito population. The boards will be removed after the mosquito season.

We are anticipating a mid-summer completion date of the new maintenance center. The latest word on the visitor center-headquarters building is that construction should begin in mid to late August.

YCC applications are still being accepted. Anyone between the ages of 15-18 can apply by calling or stopping by the Refuge office located at the Lighthouse. The program runs eight weeks beginning June 16.

The Refuge johnboat and 35 h.p. engine are still missing. The items were taken April 27 from the Refuge docks in Tarpon Bay. Anyone having any information can contact the Refuge Monday through Friday 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 472-1100.

Police Beat

Cuban refugees have found their way to Sanibel's shore - or at least that's what one flustered resident thought last week when he notified the SPD that "a boatload of refugees" were wading ashore at the Fulger St. beach access.

Two officers responding to the call found a 35 foot houseboat belonging to a Cape Coral resident stranded on a sandbar. The visitors had waded ashore to wait for the tide to come in and dislodge the boat.

An accident last Thursday night at the Blind Pass bridge pinned a 20 year old Fort Myers Beach resident riding in a tiny Triumph between the car's transmission and door - the car ran into a guide rail and cement post. An unidentified mullet fisherman who pulled his boat to shore, Jim Aholt and the Sanibel Fire Department all worked - successfully - to extricate the trapped man from the vehicle.

More than a dozen random noise checks revealed all quiet on the Fountain Restaurant front - despite two phone complaints against loud noise emanating from within. One response to a complaint revealed that occasional notes from a female voice could be heard. The management was informed and immediately lowered the amplifiers.

Steve Phillips of the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation was kept busy this week as alligator reports rolled in to the SPD office. A 5' 6½" long, 80 lb. alligator was killed after being hit by a truck on San-Cap Rd. and another dead gator was discovered near Wulfert and San-Cap Roads - cause of death was attributed to a fight with another gator. According to Phillips, the creatures get very territorial this time of year during mating season.

A call from Hurricane House on W. Gulf Drive reported a gator in the surf being harassed by a man. The complainant simply wanted someone to chase the man away and leave the gator alone. The man was gone on arrival of the SPD.

A home on Southwinds Drive was broken into this week when someone slit the outside screen with a knife, reached inside, and opened the door. Nothing of value was removed but there were indications that the burglar spent the night.

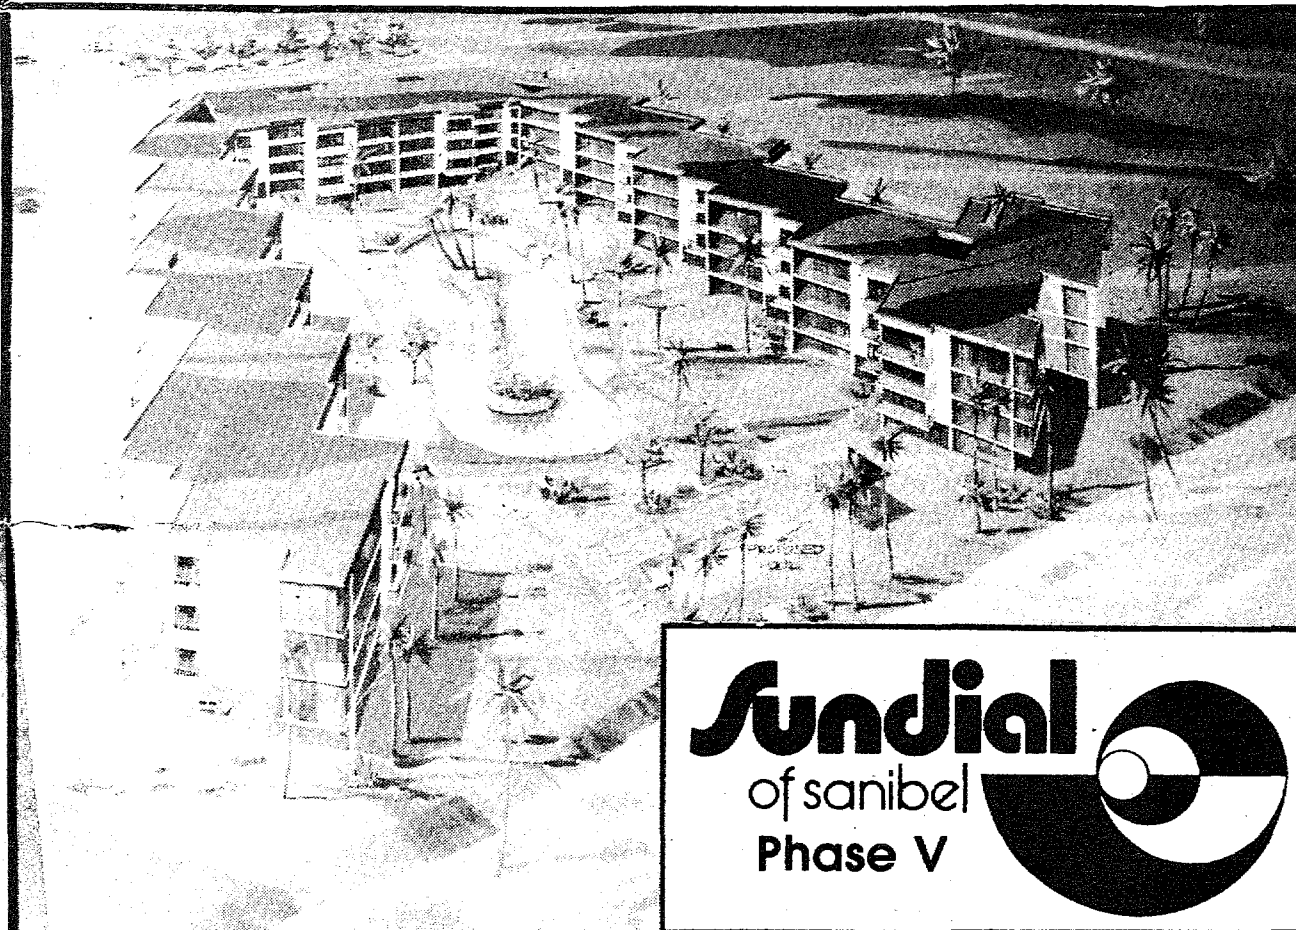

Another incident on the Cypress Middle School bus involving uncontrollable children led the bus driver to notify both the school and the SPD. An officer met the bus at Lindgren and Periwinkle and took down the names of five unruly children in particular, warning them against further outbursts.

Gators weren't the only animals running amok - there were at least three sting ray injuries reported as the dark creatures took over the shoreline of many Island beaches.

An Islander received a crank call from someone who identified himself as "the hangman" after giving her "three guesses" as to his identity.

Ian Watson

Age: "37 - 38 this month."

Height: 6' 1/2"

Roots: "I come from a suburb of London called Harrow."

Mentor: "The person I have the greatest admiration for is Winston Churchill. He was about as British as you can come. He and the other statesmen of that time probably shaped the world as it is today."

Last Book Read: "The Zero Factor."

Wish: "To take two or three years off and sail around the world with my family."

Words of Wisdom: "My particular philosophy that I try to live by is to give whatever task I'm engaged in my best effort and to be honest and straight forward in that particular task."

Pleasures: "Fishing and gardening."

When Ian Watson graduated from the Neath College of Technology in South Wales he immediately faced an unforeseen obstacle: despite the fact that he had attended college on a British Petroleum scholarship and worked for the company during school breaks, graduation revealed there was an upsetting lack of employment opportunities for engineers in England.

"So, I moved to Canada, spent a year there and then moved to the United States," he says, recalling the fulfillment of a dream he had had since he was a young boy living in the United States.

"I crossed the border at Buffalo on December 31, 1964 at about 11:30!" he laughs.

During the next several years, the challenges of engineering occupied a large part of Ian's life. "Although I had a basic education as a petroleum engineer, I can safely say that I never worked as a petroleum engineer!" he claims.

Nevertheless, Ian became involved in the design and construction of nuclear and fossil fuel power plants, highway and bridge design and state water supply studies.

"The most interesting job I've ever worked on," he says, "was a self-contained sewage treatment system for an army barracks. We actually worked it on a scheme that was technically feasible for complete re-use of the water for drinking and everything. We also had a total energy plant in there that generated electric power for the complex. The waste heap was used for heating, air conditioning and hot water."

Unfortunately, the project did not end happily. "They never built it," Ian shrugs, "primarily because the budget was cut. We worked on another project that was very similar for a Federal subsidized housing project in Maryland and that one also was never built for the same reason. The savings were there but they couldn't justify it on the basis of the amount of money they had available and the amount of money it was going to cost to do the job right."

Then, in 1976, the corporation Ian worked for was contacted by Sanibel's Island Water Association to submit a proposal for a study on the present Island water system - a project Ian describes as "a sort of look into the future."

When David Volkert and Associates (for whom Ian was Vice President) was awarded the contract, Ian traveled to Sanibel to present the results of their work to the IWA Board of Directors.

As it happened, the IWA was searching for a resident engineer and the job was eventually offered to Ian. Accepting the position "after much soul searching and discussion with my wife," Ian, with wife Dee Die and two sons in tow, moved to Ft. Myers late in the summer of 1977.

"I find generally that living in this part of the world is a lot more relaxing," Ian says. "Even working five or six days a week, I don't feel the same strains that I did in the Washington D.C. area. I guess the 'Tropical Syndrome' has gotten to me!"

Now IWA General Manager and Chief Engineer, Ian admits that the challenge was worthwhile. "We've done a lot of work here in the last couple of years and I think we're at the point now where we can see some light at the end of the tunnel. It's been a tremendous experience and I've learned a lot."

Describing the water treatment processes at IWA as "the forefront of technology," Ian explains that the main plant uses electro dialysis. "This separates the salt from the water by using high voltage current," he says. "The vibrations in the water passes the salt through a membrane."

The opening of the reverse osmosis plant last Friday was another major step in the complexity of engineering. "The reverse osmosis plant separates the salt from the water by using high pressure," Ian explains. "It presses the water through a membrane and leaves the salt behind. That's the main difference - in one the salt goes through the membrane and in the other, the water goes through. We do this because there is no fresh water on Sanibel - it's all brackish."

Despite the endless technology spent on the treatment of water, Ian predicts that it is inevitable - particularly in an area like Southwest Florida - that the re-use of waste water will become an important issue.

"Only 10 percent of the water that goes into your house is used in such a way that it has to be potable quality," he says. "The other 90 percent could be separated - for flushing toilets, doing laundry. To me it seems very wasteful that we treat all the water that goes into your house."

The water treatment field has proven so fascinating to Ian that he plans to continue with his studies indefinitely, remarking, "I've always been interested in the production of water for humans from what is considered non-usable sources. I think this branch of engineering is building very rapidly in the United States."

"It's really what I plan to do for the rest of my life," he says, then adds with a grin, "not that I'll necessarily do it here on Sanibel - but I have no intentions of leaving this tropical paradise!"

Drugs

Coming from a child under 14 years of age, this statement is a frightening example of the lifestyle many young people are choosing today.

According to Sanibel Police Officer Dick Noon, such cases are no longer isolated incidents. He says children as young as fourth and fifth graders (9 and 10 years old) were at one time gathering outside an Island business establishment collecting the remnants of beer from cans found in the garbage.

Another case: a 14-year-old was discovered selling drugs to other children on the Islands.

What causes these problems? Is it peer pressure? Parental permissiveness? Mere glory seeking?

"That kid (the teenager selling drugs) put it in a nutshell," says Noon. "He doesn't have any friends and he's very concerned about that. You ask him who he hangs out with and he says no one. Then you ask the other kids and they say it's true - they don't want to hang around him because he's kind of weird. What he considered friends before were people who would give him a little dope. He tried to get others into the same vein so he'd have a lot of friends who'd run around with him."

When a child becomes involved with drugs or other illegal activities parents may consider themselves failures because the values and morals they tried to instill in their children over the years never made an impression on them. But this isn't necessarily true.

Even though a child may want to please his parents, he may also desperately want to be accepted by people his own age, the people he sees most often. To achieve this acceptance, he may sometimes be dared or coaxed into doing something that is against the values his parents have established.

"The pressure to not be ostracized by your fellow students is pretty tough to cope with," says Noon. "You think of children who are not liked...children who when they feel this pressure are just thwarted in their lives so they can't get attention."

He describes a related episode where he was speaking with a young girl who was involved with a group of rowdy teenagers. "After I identified myself, she said, 'I want you to know something - I am not a bad girl,'" Noon recalls. "I talked to other kids and they told me that she had just happened into that certain situation."

However, at times the parents are not entirely blameless. Watching their parent's daily ritual of cocktail hour, wine with dinner and after dinner drinks is bound to have an effect on children of sensitive ages. "If the children see their parents drinking and coming home under the influence, you have to ask yourself if it reflects upon their thinking," Noon notes.

Alcohol abuse by minors seems to have increased in recent year, perhaps due to the availability of alcohol by friends of children who are over 18. Local youngsters have stolen liquor from stores, homes or where ever they can find it. Sanibel school buses have become stages for scenes of serious disturbances - one where a young girl was attacked and had her clothing ripped by two boys and another in which a 14 year old girl lost consciousness due to the effects of alcohol.

Drug abuse is stepping up as well, especially in younger groups of children. "Basically, what we've gathered in our investigations, is that many of the drugs we've confronted have been gotten at school or from people that they've (kids) met at school," Noon says, adding, "I'm not saying that they go directly to school and get drugs - what I'm saying is that many of the contacts are made at the schools and the arrangement is made at that point."

The Island is not isolated from the area's influx of illegal drugs either. According to Noon, "if we were to say that we have no drugs over here, who would we be trying to kid?"

"We know what the problem is," says Noon of the rise in drug and alcohol abuse among area children. "Now the question is, 'How to deal with it and how to get the kids back on the right track.' We should make them aware of the circumstances. Make them aware of the problems that could come out of drug and alcohol abuse. I guess if you save one out of 10, steer them in the right direction, you've obtained your goal, so to speak."

Unfortunately, disciplinary action against minors who have broken the law is a very volatile issue. Most children who are apprehended while engaged in illegal activities can only be turned over to the Division of Youth Service (DYS). The DHS in turn reviews the case and then takes what they deem to be appropriate measures. "Some kids, the only thing the DHS can do is spank them on the back of the hand and say 'Don't do it again,'" says Noon.

To resolve this problem, Office Noon and Sgt. Ray Rhodes have begun work on a recreational program for the Islands' young people. Noon's Sanibel Swim Team has proven to be a success and local parents have awarded Noon some very positive responses.

But, most important, the program seems to be reaching youngsters who had met Noon before - on a professional basis. "Out of around 20 names we have of kids who have become involved in drugs, alcohol or gotten into some kind of disciplinary problem in school," Noon claims, "10 or 12 are now on the Swim Team."

This personal contact with the young people is instrumental in the one to one relationship Noon hopes to establish. He has found that many are willing to come to him with problems or information leading to other kids in trouble.

"When I talked to some kids about this bus situation," he recalls, "one individual bowed their head and said, 'Oh, boy, we're going to be in trouble.' Now, they are giving me their confidence and I in turn told them that their names would never be drawn into it and if it ever got out, it'd be through their group sitting right there."

Another way in which Officer Noon and Sgt. Rhodes are

Lions

By D.E. Cooperrider

The regular meeting of the Sanibel-Captiva Lions Club was held at the Beachview Country Club on May 7. Lion Bud Ketcham read the slate of proposed officers for the coming year. Following this second reading, the slate was unanimously elected. Those elected for the coming year are President, Bill Hatcher; 1st Vice President, Fred Comlossy; 2nd Vice President, Fred Valtin; 3rd Vice President, Larry Van Til; Secretary, Don Cooperrider; Treasurer, Norwood Melcher; Tail Twister, Roy Davis; Lion Tamer, Joe Underriter; Directors, Len Yaeche, Bill Thomas and Norman Chambers.

Several letters of thanks were read as received, including one from the Captiva Library. The Lions Club was responsible for each of the libraries on the Islands obtaining large print editions of current books to assist those persons with sight problems.

The installation of the new officers for the coming year will take place at Chadwicks on July 12, and will include a seafood buffet, music and dancing. Lions International Director Lyonal Lindsey of Lakeland will install the new officers. Further details will be available about the middle of June.

Lion Dave Davenport, who is responsible for the program at the next meeting, was very mysterious about it but promised an exciting time for all.

It was reported that 10 Lions with their vehicles assisted in the May 3, SOAR project on cleanup of the roads on both Islands. The next meeting will be held at the Beachview Country Club on May 21 at 6:30 p.m.

COTI clarifies intent

By Jody Fisher

The Committee of the Islands (COTI) met last Tuesday morning at the Sanibel library.

After last month's minutes were reviewed by Secretary Bill Martin and Treasurer Jack Rogers gave his report, the floor was opened for discussion from the body of the Committee.

Committeemember Melena Eskew proposed that COTI have regular public relations material in the Island newspapers to let local residents know that COTI "is indeed doing something."

"So much of our work is low key," Mrs. Eskew said. "We work for months on one issue and then sometimes find that we can't pursue it any farther."

She suggested putting in writing just what COTI stands for overall - that they are a merger of the original planning board and Sanibel Tomorrow group. COTI was incorporated for the purpose of the City, Ms. Eskew stressed.

Other members agreed, adding that they believed COTI is building a reputation for a good working board that tries its best to avoid personalities when dealing with important issues.

"We didn't take a stand on the Lopsided O and kept yesterday's meeting (last Monday's Planning Commission meeting) at a low key," said Ms. Eskew, "but this isn't always apparent."

COTI Chairman, Dave Davenport, elaborated on the public relations aspects of COTI, advising that more write-ups and pictures be made available to Island newspapers and ads be designed to set them apart from regular retail ads. It was decided that Davenport would get together with two other Committeemembers to write the history of COTI, emphasizing constructive objectives and timely subjects.

Conrad Lickel then briefed the Committee on his attendance the night before at a meeting of the Federation of Lee County Citizens (FLCC) held in Cape Coral. Due to the zealous political stance of the FLCC, Lickel recommended that COTI not become affiliated with the organization until the FLCC minutes and bylaws could be reviewed by COTI members.

"They're genuinely concerned, but overly so instead of being constructive," said Lickel. "COTI has a history of being amicably constructive."

Davenport echoed Lickel's judgement, saying that the FLCC could be a vehicle for change, but not at the moment. He described the FLCC as "heavily emotional and electric."

Committeemember Bo Vea suggested that the Planning Commission receive a copy of COTI meeting notes concerning the control of commercial growth and hazard mitigation, saying that COTI will take a referendum to force action on commercial growth.

Davenport agreed, saying that "an Island with small acreage needs an overall plan."

Other topics discussed were the 29-unit increase granted to Shell Harbor Inn owner Dave Holtzman and the impending condominium construction on Buttonwood.

Members pointed out that these are the type of situations in which COTI could be of service to explain why these things come about and how the Island benefits from situations that initially "look bad."

It was suggested that the Board of Directors "keep an eye" on the Buttonwood development. However, Davenport pointed out that COTI should avoid taking a direct stand and "leave it in the hands of the Planning Commission."

Since the Buttonwood property is indeed zoned for condominiums, Davenport said that they "might marr the reputation of COTI by causing a stink."

The next COTI meeting will be held Tuesday, May 27, at 9:30 a.m. in the Sanibel library.

Shopping

Sanibel is a veritable shopper's paradise. Tasteful boutiques and casual Island shops join forces to present visitors with everything - and anything - a vacation shopper could hope for.

At the Lighthouse (Eastern) end of the Island, Punta Ybel Plaza and The Sea Horse Shops are right across the street from each other, providing a variety of products that can cure your sweet tooth or tickle your shell finder's fancy. Need a good haircut or coiffure? You can get it in either of these shopping centers. Most businesses open at 10 a.m. and close at 5:30 p.m. This holds true for many Island stores, although during the winter season, some are open evenings.

Tall Australian pines shade Periwinkle Way as the shopper travels west along this main thoroughfare. This stretch of road is truly a shopper's paradise! It's all here...the fast and not-so-fast eating spots, casual and elegant boutiques, hand-wrought jewelry, craft designs, shell shops and balms for health produce fanatics.

Watch to your right and left as you drive or cycle along. Photographic supplies, bait and tackle, deli foods, fresh seafood and baked goods, knick-knacks and what-nots can all be found along the drive to the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road. Along the way, shopping centers such as the Heart of the Islands, Periwinkle Place and Tahitian Gardens offer a variety of Island delights.

Palm Ridge Road, the Periwinkle Way turn-off to Captiva, offers several new shopping centers featuring everything from a gift shop for the discriminating shopper, plants and shells, to a sandwich shop, ice cream parlour, boutique shop and the Island Apothecary pharmacy.

At the Tarpon Bay-Periwinkle Way intersection, the Island Shopping Center features the Island's only supermarket, dry cleaners and movie house.

A left on Tarpon Bay Road takes the visitor past Sanibel's original schoolhouse, which now holds original island watercolors and woodcuts. Then on to West Gulf Drive and westward to an interesting little artisan's shop and gallery.

At the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road, you may choose instead to turn right and follow the signs to the Tarpon Bay Marina, where you will find a cluster of quaint shops overlooking the back bay...Some antiques, shells and shellcrafts, what-nots and clever clothes can be found here, as well as a great seafood sandwich and soft drinks.

The spectacular ride to Captiva, with its lush foliage and enchanting view of the Gulf, is well worth a day's outing. Talented artists display their works in one roadside shop, while others feature some nifty gifts for Grandma to take home to little hands as a pleasant hodge-podge of remembrances from these barrier islands.

Whether for shopping, or merely browsing, Island shops offer a surprising variety - from one-of-a-kind collectibles for the discerning shopper to postcards for the simple souvenir hunter and of course, for all, shells, shell jewelry, shell lamps, just plain shells...the most beautiful shells in the world from the most beautiful shelling beaches in the world.

For Your Information

BEACH ACCESS

Sanibel has miles of public Gulf-front beaches, any one of which is only minutes from your lodging. Lighthouse Point is a stretch of Federal land on the Eastern tip of Sanibel Island, and from there, the Gulf beach is accessible again at the end of Donax Street, at Tarpon Bay Road, at Bowman's Beach Road (off Sanibel-Captiva Road) and Turner's Beach, which is located at Blind Pass, between Sanibel and Captiva Islands.

On Captiva Island, public beach access can be found at Turner Beach (which has public facilities) or further north, just past the entrance to South Seas Plantation.

NOTE: STATE LAW PROHIBITS NUDE SUN-BATHING ON ALL FLORIDA BEACHES. VIOLATORS WILL BE PROSECUTED.

CAMPING

Camping on the beach is prohibited and while everyone enjoys a beach fire, you'll have to get a permit to have one on a Sanibel public beach. The Fire Department on Palm Ridge Road will supply you with a fire permit for $1. Their hours are from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. In addition, you'll be required to make a $25 deposit, returnable the day after your beach party when the beach has been inspected for litter and debris. Make sure you clean the area thoroughly or you'll be out $25!

Condo owners or managers may submit a letter to the Fire Department, acknowledging that they will assume responsibility for cleanup after a fire in front of their building. The $25 deposit will be waived in those circumstances.

GATORS

Feeding alligators anywhere within the Sanibel City limits is not only illegal (violators of the law are subject to a fine of up to $500, or up to 60 days in jail, or both), but can be extremely dangerous. Alligators can run 45 m.p.h., so if you're close enough to feed an alligator, he's close enough to feed on you. An alligator fed for fun loses his natural fear of humans and becomes a potential threat to children and pets.

FISHING

While no license is required for saltwater fishing, fishing in freshwater ponds or the Sanibel River requires a Florida fishing license - available at Bailey's General Store on Periwinkle Way. The fee is $3.75.

MINIMUM LEGAL

LENGTHS:
Blue Fish - 10 inches
Flounder - 11 inches
Grouper - 12 inches
Mackerel - 12 inches
Mullet - 12 inches
Pompano - 10 inches
Red Fish - 12 inches
Snook - 18 inches
Trout - 12 inches

SHELLING

The City of Sanibel Resolution limiting the taking of live shells to 2 live shells per person per species is one to be scrupulously obeyed. As a matter of fact, in order to preserve Sanibel's beautiful shelling beaches, most collectors refuse to take any live shells whatsoever.

SPEED LIMITS

There are varying speed limits (20-30 m.p.h.) as one comes across the causeway, and there is a very good reason for them...to preserve the bridge supports from strain and stress. This speed limit is strictly enforced with the use of radar on a 24-hour basis by both the Sanibel Police Department and the Lee County Sheriff's Department.

Driving or parking a motor vehicle or moped on the bike path is strictly prohibited. Violators will be ticketed.

BICYCLE RULES

If you're not used to a lot of bicycle traffic, watch out for it on Sanibel. The extensive network of bike paths on the island is clearly marked along the edge of the road. Observe caution when driving near the bike path. A State law and City Ordinance combine to PROHIBIT PARKING OR DRIVING ON THE BIKE PATH. MOPEDS ARE NOT PERMITTED ON THE BIKE PATHS.

Planning on spending some time on a bike to enjoy the Island sun and sights? Make sure your vehicle is equipped with a bike flag, horn, good brakes and a light for night riding. Under Florida law, bicycle riders have the same rights and responsibilities as motor vehicle drivers. Drive Safely!

DOGGY DO'S & DON'TS

If you're visiting Sanibel with the family Fido in tow, all the better. All family members can enjoy Southwest Florida sun and surf. The Chamber of Commerce can tell you what accommodations are available for families with pets. Remember: wherever you are, clean up after your pet! The friendly reminder... "Leave nothing on the beach but footprints"...applies to dogs, too. There's no leash law on Sanibel, but of course an excitable or unruly animal is better off when controlled with a leash.

Drugs

aiding local youths involved in drugs is by testing drugs for an individual suspicious of the drug's contents. This service is offered in strictest confidence and, according to Noon, "under the circumstances, it would be advantageous ... to have a person bring it in and say, 'Hey, Dick, this is here and out on the market - what is this?'"

Noon says that the biggest Island drug problem is that a good deal of the marijuana tested has been laced with substances ranging from formaldehyde to PCP ("angel dust" - a horse tranquilizer). "PCP is such a potent drug that a person, an adult especially, under the influence of PCP is just awesome," Noon warns.

"Whatever this drug does to them gives them almost a superhuman strength," he continues. "They are not under control of their faculties and therefore you are trying to deal with an irrational minor and that just isn't easy at all."

Actions will continue to be taken against the onslaught of drugs on the Island. Noon and Rhodes are also considering a telephone "hotline" which the area's young people could call on to speak with them anonymously. "They could call us and have no reason to fear if they're being taped and just talk about their problems," Noon says. "They wouldn't have to identify themselves."

Of course, this is in the future, but until then, Noon will be doing his best to help the Islands' kids. "Many of the children on the Island, I'm sure, are asking questions and would really like some answers," the concerned Noon says. "But with this program, maybe we can pull in other people who can put in their input who've had other successful programs and we can get something that's going to work."

"I think we're moving in the right direction."

Fishing Derby update

The fourth week of the Island Open Fishing Derby resulted in the dethroning of only one grand prize leader.

The largest snook snagged for the week was a 21-pounder caught by Carl Heibredner of Atlanta, Georgia. Heibredner hooked his catch in Pine Island Sound with a pinfish while fishing with Capt. Doug Fischer.

Russell J. Maynard of Rock Falls, Illinois, caused a big upset in the cobia division with his 59 pound catch reeled in at the Causeway flats. He was using pinfish as bait.

Larry Witt of Memphis, Tennessee, caught the largest redfish of the week - an 11¾ pounder caught at the Lighthouse Pier on Boone trout.

The largest spotted seatrout - 4½ pounds - was hooked by J.W. Rowlett of Cory, Illinois, in Pine Island Sound. Rowlett was fishing with Capt. Doug Fischer and used pinfish as bait.

With the exception of the junior angler division, entries were made for all divisions with 14 entries in all.

Grand Prize Standings:

Snook - 26 pounds, George Kneram
Redfish - 12¼ pounds, John Venham
Cobia - 59 pounds, Russell J. Maynard
Trout - 8 pounds, William Steve Childs
Junior Angler - 10½ pound snook, Kyle Bard
