The Mystique of the Alligator

Myths and half-truths

By George C. Campbell Photos by Mark Harmel

Tourism and public relations people in one central Florida community, recently issued a press release on a "scientific" activity taking place at what they labeled the "world's largest Alligator farm." There are at least six "world's largest Alligator farms" around Florida, all of them, populated by ancient "thousand-year-old Methuselahs," and each involved with attracting the tourist and accumulating the now not so almighty dollar.

The gimmickry involved in the circulated press release - which is designed to cause tourists to leave the main south-bound artery and seek out a roadside zoo and perhaps spend the night in a local motel, eat the local fried chicken, and buy the local gas, all of which may slightly stimulate a chilling off-season economic situation - is no more than a bit of sensationalism about Florida's most tourist attractive wild arrival, the Alligator.

The new gimmick (sensationalism) that is advertised is artificial insemination, no less. Imagine, artificial insemination of Alligators! Well, what a preposterous situation! There's no value to inseminating cow Alligators. There are no prize bloodline bull Alligators, and bull Alligators don't have any problem doing their own inseminating anyway. The old bulls have been cruising around this Spring from pond to pond seeking out the cows, and natural insemination is taking place with great efficiency just as it has for the last 180 million years since the early Mesozoic. The idea of stimulating huge bull Alligators with male hormones and vitamin supplements so that they can undergo the donation process, is certainly a new experience for them at least, and, I suppose, is presumably attractive to the tourists.

The whole distorted process is designed to make more Alligator products available on the legal marketplace once again. By Alligator products, of course, one thinks of watchbands, belts, boots, handbags, and now the new and obscene practice of selling meat in Florida restaurants. It is alleged that there are almost 50 such restaurants legally operating in this State - to the shame of our State government.

There is said to be still another demand, teeth, from which to make jewelry. I'm sure tourists would look almost as good with Alligator tooth necklaces as do primitive Paupuan tribesmen from New Guinea with Crocodile tooth adornments, but such usage among the tribesmen is part of their legitimate culture. For Americans to wear such jewelry is grotesque.

Actually in this writer's opinion, it's time to stop exploiting endangered or threatened wildlife species and, for that matter, most other wild animals. I find Zebra sofas and monkey rugs unacceptable. Dallas cowboy tycoons in their high-heeled Alligator boots do not cause credit to be showered upon themselves.

The effort of the central Florida community which is being touted - even if it should miraculously be a success - from the point of view of increasing the numbers of animals legally available for slaughter for hides and meat - would offer a very serious backlash to conservation of Crocodilians in general throughout the world. It works this way. There are 26 different kinds of Crocodilians in the world. They range from the Yangtze Alligator, the world's only other Alligator which exists today in numbers perhaps fewer than 100; the Nile Crocodile, which was found sometimes in the tombs of designer and quality. Such high quality products stimulate the marketplace to provide cheaper substitutes and this is where species from other parts of the world come in.

Natives of Paupua, New Guinea or Siam or Malaysia or especially Colombia and other countries in South America, will be stimulated to butcher their already sadly depleted Crocodilian populations to provide inferior products to the world market for $50 or $100 instead of the much higher prices sometimes commanded by the high quality American Alligator products.

ancient Egyptians mummified along with the Pharaohs, to the New Guinea Crocodile, to the Gaharial - that narrow-snouted monster of the Indus and Ganges systems, to the great Black Caiman of the Amazonas. All of these and all of the other Crocodilians of the world, with the possible exception of one species on the north coast of Australia, are in serious danger of extinction. The stimulation of the Crocodilian hide market through a readily available legal hide source (based on the American Alligator) on an international basis, stimulates the killing of all other species throughout the world. True, the American Alligator makes the best leather: a good pair of boots or a good handbag can cost from $500 to $1,000 or even $2,000 or more depending on the

So, the whole idea of creating a big market based on the American Alligator is false and counterproductive, and will only hasten the extinction of the other 20 odd kinds of Crocodilians in the world. And remember, extinction is forever.

In late 1978, the Fourteenth General Assembly of the International Union for the Conservation of Nature, met in Ashkhabad, Turkmenia, U.S.S.R. There, 59 nations condemned the relaxation of any protective laws governing the taking of the American Alligator. Fifty-nine nations from Argentina to Zambia condemned this activity. This condemnation-recommendation was sent to the United States Department of Interior which - you've already guessed it - totally ignored the resolution to maintain a high degree of protection for the American Alligator. And since that time, the Alligator is now legally killed in this State as well as in other parts of its 11-State range. True, the Alligator is not, at this moment, in danger of extinction. But it is threatened and over-use can cause damage.

Artificially raised animals will stimulate the illegal poaching of wild Alligators no matter how vigilant the State authorities are in branding legal hides. It's inevitable that illegally poached hides will enter the market.

There is only one place in Florida where the Alligator is safe from danger, and that is Sanibel Island. And that's due to the efforts of the Southwest Florida Regional Alligator Association which solved the problem of tame, dangerous Alligators years ago when the City of Sanibel passed an ordinance preventing the feeding of Alligators. The concept of prohibiting the feeding of Alligators prevents them from becoming tame and allows the animal to blend into the background environment as wild animals should. Such a wild animal, not tamed, is not dangerous, and is not a problem.

It's the tamed Alligator - the ones that are fed - that are indeed a problem. The concept of Sanibel's law, as promulgated by the Southwest Florida Regional Alligator Association, was extrapolated throughout the State through the efforts of Dick Workman, a founding member of the Association, and the legislators of the region. The law now applies throughout the State and this law would solve 95 or 97 percent of all Alligator problems, rendering the legal killing of any Alligators unnecessary. But this did not satisfy the greed of those who are constantly seeking a new target animal. It did not satisfy the State authorities who wished to try and recover some of their (our?) monies expended on Alligator control through the sale of hides which is accomplished by a 70-30 split - the hunter gets 70 and the State gets 30 percent.

We know that the system pioneered by our Alligator Association on Sanibel works. We have substantially reduced nuisance complaints. Citizen understanding and awareness of the Alligator as a valuable member of the Island ecosystem is more readily understood by most people today. Nuisance Alligators on Sanibel hardly exist.

Consequently, we can flatly say that had the State opted to utilize the Sanibel plan rather than the legalized killing of nuisance Alligators, the problem would have been solved and the stimulation by foreign markets of our species appearing as leather goods, meat, or jewelry trinkets, would not have taken place and as a consequence, the conservation of all Crocodilian forms would have been accomplished in a much more civilized and decent manner than any program that contemplates killing off the resource.

Fire Control Board votes to ban bonfires

By Jody Fisher

In a special meeting held last Thursday morning, the Sanibel Fire Control Board decided to present an ordinance to the Sanibel City Council which, if adopted, would ban open bonfires on the Island.

Attending the meeting was City Manager Bernie Murphy who told the Board that although he appreciated the special meeting he wanted "to make it clear that the City never intended to go into the fire control business," adding "We're in the policing business. If it's dry and Chief Butler says 'Thou shalt not have fires,' - that's it."

A lengthy discussion covered Fire Board and Fire Department members' suggestions for solving the Island bonfire problem.

Fire Board Treasurer, Floyd Wakefield, bristled at the idea of beachfront property owners being allowed to have open fires. "If we allow private owners to say, 'That's my beach,' I contest it," he said. "Why should those wealthy enough to live on the beach be allowed to have bonfires with or without a permit?"

"It's a Sanibel tradition to have bonfires and we don't want to take that away," interjected Murphy, "but, in a situation with 200 people assembled, that situation could get out of control."

Secretary of the Fire Board, Rick Kennedy, protested the association of bonfires with rowdy parties. "It's only a few that cause the problems, but they ruin it for everyone else," he said.

"It's hard to determine just what a bonfire is," said Sanibel Fire Chief Allan Nave. "We're trying to get away from 'bonfires' because there's no limit on their size. If we go to (having fires in) appropriate containers, that limits the size; not that you can't have a fire on the beach."

Murphy agreed on the logic of requiring containers of a specified size, reasoning, "You usually don't get 200 people around a hibachi!"

"You'll still have the crowd," warned Lt. Charles Frederick of the Fire Department.

Nave added that people probably wouldn't congregate around a fire in a container. "With an uncontained fire," he said, "people will fuel it with anything they find, so it's (the container ordinance) fire protection, too."

Wakefield argued that because of technicalities, the ordinance could "open a Pandora's Box of problems," and that they should ban beach fires entirely. "I hate to do it," he said. "Francis (Mayor Bailey) doesn't like it, but for the benefit of the Sanibel Fire Department, it's better to have no fires at all."

At the conclusion of the meeting, the Board decided that an ordinance would be drawn up specifying the rules regarding the size and location of fire containers. The ordinance will then be presented at the City Council meeting today (Tuesday, June 3).

DER denial likely

By Roxanna Motchan

Steve Fox, Director of Environmental Permitting for the Department of Environmental Regulation (DER), has indicated that an application submitted by South Seas Plantation to dredge a Redfish Pass shoal for beach renourishment will be denied.

"The potential disruption of fishing for a year or two is not in accordance with the public interest," Fox said last week. The area is currently used widely by local fishermen, many of whom make their living fishing near Redfish Pass.

Fox has said that this decision is just a "preliminary one," but he is making this early judgement at the request of the attorney representing South Seas Plantation, Ken Ortell.

"Five weeks ago, the developer and his attorney came and made a presentation to me, and I think it was the same one they showed the County Commissioners at an earlier date," Fox said. "I reviewed their proposals, and came to the conclusion that the project is not in the best public interest."

Fox explained that once the decision has been officially released, a "90 day clock," goes into effect. Within 90 days, South Seas Plantation must accept the decision or petition for a hearing. At the hearing, presided over by a Department of Administration hearing officer, the judge will either support or overrule the earlier decision made by Fox. The process is not completed even then, however. If the hearing officer rejects the earlier decision and supports the dredging project, the case must go before the Secretary of the DER, who makes the final decision. If the decision is further contested, it will have to go to State appellate court.

The South Seas proposal included the dredging of 765,000 cubic yards of sand from a borrow site located in Redfish Pass approximately 2,000 feet offshore and relocating the dredged sand along 10,000 linear feet of beachfront property.

South Seas Project Manager Dick Stevens, when contacted for comment, said that further discussions will be held this week with Mr. Fox at the DER offices in Tallahassee. "Other than that, it's too early to comment," Stevens said.

Derby update

Sanibel's Barry Greenfield came the closest this week to a grand prize catch. His 24 lb. snook was just two lbs. short of the grand prize leader. Greenfield's weekly winner was caught on shrimp in San Carlos Bay.

A 13 lb. redfish from Pine Island Sound was big enough to earn Sandi Kassal from Woodstock, Ill. a weekly award. Kassal was fishing with Capt. Duke Sells using pinfish for bait.

Capt. Ted Cole had another winner this week in the cobia category. Cole was guiding Tom Kindred of Fort Pierce when Kindred caught his 20 lb. cobia. They were fishing under the Causeway using pinfish to catch the only cobia entered this week.

Another Sanibel resident, Damon Surgener, caught the largest trout of the week at Redfish Pass. He was fishing the pass with Capt. Larry Gann.

House passes Sanibel bill

By Roxanna Motchan

A bill allowing Sanibel's City Council to create special taxing districts for the maintenance of canals and waterways was passed May 23 by the Florida House of Representatives.

Should dredging be deemed necessary in an area, the bill authorizes City Council to adopt an ordinance which will create a special taxing district. However, adoption of the ordinance does not automatically create the district; a public referendum must first be held.

Prior to the consideration of the ordinance, a preliminary report must be submitted by a City engineer. The report must include the following information: a general description of the territory to be included in the taxing district; a general description of canals and waterways; the present condition of the canals and waterways and any recurring maintenance problems; a general estimate of the cost of maintenance; and findings with respect to the reasonableness and necessity of the project. Finally, the report must include a general description of the proposed maintenance measures.

Sanibel's City Council is established by the bill as the taxing district governing body. The City will be responsible for acquiring any personnel or maintenance persons to do the work.

The decision to create the special taxing district will be made by the citizens of Sanibel in that proposed district, after Council adoption of the ordinance, by a special public referendum.

A millage fee will be levied on the residents of the district to cover the cost of the project.

Lee Tran to hold Island workshop June 19

A special City workshop will be held on June 19, with representatives of the Lee County Transit Authority to determine whether or not there is enough public interest on Sanibel and Captiva to support a Lee Tran service for the Islands.

Tom Broadbent, Lee County Transit Director, will conduct a survey of the citizens who attend. The survey will ask such questions as what hours during the day bus service is necessary, who will use the service, methods of transportation most utilized at this time, etc.

The public is invited to attend this special meeting. In order that continuity be maintained, special times for special groups have been established. Residents are invited to come and speak at 3 p.m.; motel and business owners at 4 p.m.; and commuters who live on Sanibel but work in the Ft. Myers area at 7 p.m.

Broadbent has said that he hopes for a large turnout at this workshop. This is an area where public input is extremely vital, and the service will never be established here unless a great need is indicated. He also mentioned that in this day of an energy crisis which is not likely to ease, Lee Tran service may become "invaluable."

The handicapped - neglected by the Islands?

By Jody Fisher

"When we're together, she's never handicapped," says George Christensen of his wife, Doris, who lost a leg to cancer.

"I don't look at her as being handicapped, but a little thing like getting in a screen door with a high latch can pose a problem."

George and Doris are Island residents - residents with much bigger problems than reaching a door knob. "When your wife is handicapped, you look at everything: the height of hand rails, the way doors open, the access to toilet facilities," George says.

It's because of this special insight that George is the chairman of the Rotary Handicap Committee and it's because of his close relationship with Doris' problems that he is now campaigning to rid Sanibel of some flagrant disregards for the needs of the Islands' handicapped.

"The biggest problem right now is to find out what the problems are," explains George. He lists several known issues, including:

- Handicapped in the area who don't have access to meals.
- The handicapped who don't have cleaning services.
- Restricted transportation for those who cannot drive or get around on their own.
- The limitations on the area's handicapped regarding shopping and entertainment.

George stresses that the term "handicapped" does not necessarily pertain to those people confined to wheelchairs or crutches. "There are people who are handicapped in the sense that they just can't get around," he explains, such as shut-ins with no source of contact with a mobile society.

"We need to create access to entertainment, libraries, shows and parties," says George. "Some old people only have the TV, they have no company. When they get together with someone, they may talk and talk and it can be kind of irritating. But actually, they're just so glad to have some company."

On the subject of legal violations by facilities ignoring the physically handicapped, George cites many Island buildings inaccessible by wheelchair.

Many Island business have wheelchair ramps - with two or three inch steps at the bottom of them, he says. That small step makes it all but impossible to navigate a wheelchair onto the ramp.

Parking lots made of soft sand are another obstacle, according to George. "It's disastrous," he claims. "They (the wheelchair-bound) can't negotiate in the sand."

Sanibel's second-story City Hall is a major constriction that George claims "should be corrected as quickly as possible. The handicapped should be able to air their views and complaints some other way than by phone."

The curse of poor construction extends to the Island's places of worship. St. Michael's has no ramp for wheelchairs and George recalls a time when Doris had a broken wrist and couldn't use her crutches to navigate the church's steps.

"They (the handicapped) are being denied their right to get into the churches for meditation," he says, adding, "and many of them do need that meditation."

Fishing piers and beach accesses pose additional problems for the handicapped because, according to George, "they have no visible means for people to get out there."

"But, the Community Center is great," he says, noting that they have taken measures to insure adequate toilet facilities and no bumps on the ramps for the handicapped. However, even the Center couldn't remedy everything - the soft sand parking lot makes traveling difficult from vehicles to the building.

Through the Rotary Club, George is hoping to correct some of the problems facing the area's handicapped. He notes that miracles have been accomplished recently with the use of bionic artificial limbs and other scientific breakthroughs, but until these are available for open market use, something must be done to aid the handicapped now.

By using information volunteered by alert and concerned citizens, George plans to take action against the hazards and restrictions placed upon the local handicapped. Some of his tentative projects include convalescent care, education for the handicapped on how to function more easily, a special school for handicapped children, physical therapy facilities, entertainment accessible to the handicapped (especially during the holidays), and a "place where these people can clear their problems."

"I'll make a record of the information that people will give me, put a handle on the cost (for correcting problems) and, through the Rotary, perhaps get some aid through some agencies," George says of his plans. "Once I know what the problems are, I can set some goals. Hopefully, people on the Island will get in touch with me and identify some of the problems that they're aware of."

George urges Island residents interested in making the Islands more accessible to the handicapped to contact him by phone at 472-2086 or write to him at 1535 Wilton Lane, Sanibel, FL, 33957.

In your opinion

...and more thanks

Thanks...

To the Editor, ISLANDER

What can we say, after we've said a TREMENDOUS "Thank You?"

Our gratitude goes to every one of the over 400 people who made our Saturday Super Supper Show into a genuine Occasion.

About 50 BIG Arts members were involved in one way or another in putting SSSS! together. You were great!

Nearly 50 merchants and individuals donated prizes to add to the fun. You were generous!

Another 300 people, all the Sanibel Community Center could comfortably hold, brought terrific covered dishes, and then put themselves together into one perfect audience. You were sensational!

BIG Arts extends special appreciation to the editorial staff of the ISLANDER for their civic excellence in spreading the news of SSSS! to the public. You were right on!

This kind of community support encourages BIG Arts to keep on planning unusual events for the Islands. Next season's program will close with the SECOND ANNUAL SSSS!, thanks to all of you.

Peter Smith,
President, Barrier Island Group for the Arts
Polly Matsumoto,
SSSS! Chairman

To the Editor:

This year's 2nd annual Project S.O.A.R. was a huge success thanks to all who contributed toward making it happen. The project is one of our largest community service projects and is certainly most beneficial to everyone. Thank you to the following people and businesses for their part in the Islandwide cleanup project:

Volunteers: Boy Scouts: Troop 88, Project Sponsor; Troop 163, Naples; Troop 52, Naples; Troop 100, Sarasota; Troop 117, Fort Myers; Troop 6, Fort Myers; Troop 1, Fort Myers; Troop 101, Fort Myers; Troop 34, Cape Coral; Girl Scouts of Sanibel; Cub Scouts of Sanibel; Sanibel-Captiva Lions Club; Sanibel-Captiva Rotary Club; Sanibel-Captiva Kiwanis Club; and the many individual volunteers.

Island youth programs

A copy of the following letter is being mailed to residents of both Sanibel and Captiva Islands:

Dear Resident:

We would like to take this opportunity to acquaint you with the youth-related programs that the City of Sanibel Recreational Department and the Sanibel Police, in cooperation with the Sanibel Police Recreation Club, have started for the youth of the Islands.

At the present time the Island Swim Team, coached by Officer Dick Noon, has approximately one hundred participants between the ages of eight through fourteen. They are doing very well in competition with other area teams.

June 1 - Registration for "Kid Power." Summer employment program at the Police Department. After June 15, call the Chamber of Commerce if you have part-time or full time employment for an Island youth; i.e., lawn mowing, pool cleaning, etc.

June 12 - Second meeting of Island Parents concerned with youth.

This one will deal with Drug Abuse. Meetings will continue throughout the year with varied programs. Program at Community Center at 7:30 p.m.

June 14 - Sports Jamboree. Starts at Sanibel Elementary School at 11 a.m. Free food for parents and kids.

Building Permits

Ten building permits for construction valued at $329,698.39 were issued by the City of Sanibel during the week ending May 30. Permits were issued to:

Peter F. Skehan, Huxter's Market and Deli, for two permits: one for a pad for walk-in cooler at $170 and one for a storage shed at $500.

The Reef Motel for insulation, redecoration and ceiling work at 3215 West Gulf Drive by Donald A. Calandra for $359.64.

Mariner Properties, Inc., with four permits for duplexes on Sandpiper Circle by Construction Management, Inc., with three at $78,000 each and another at $80,000.

Reliance Construction for remodeling at Duggers Unit 6D on West Gulf Drive by owner for $68.75.

Periwinkle Partners for dumpster enclosure at 2075 Periwinkle Way by Mariner Properties for $400.

Captran, Inc., - Shell Island Beach Club II for pool mechanical and restrooms at Lighthouse Road by Construction Managers, Inc., for $14,200.

INTERVAL OWNERSHIP — it's the most vacation for our money.

True — we work hard to earn our vacations and we want the most for our money. Inflation is making resort rentals just too expensive for a family — and we simply can't afford the year-round ownership and maintenance of a vacation home.

So we're here at Plantation Beach Club where interval ownership gives our family the assurance that we can enjoy leisurely vacations each year, in comfort and luxury, — all at a one-time cost that's easy to afford.

We love the islands — it's a great place for June and me to relax and there's so much for the kids to do. Our vacation villa is right on the beach, fully furnished, complete with linens, all the kitchen utensils, magazines, — you name it. We've got two private bedrooms, two bathrooms and a screened porch, so there's plenty of room for the kids.

With barbecues and a full kitchen, we fix breakfast, lunch, snacks and dinners — and save enough money to treat the whole family to nice restaurants once in a while.

There's also an exchange program — so we can change our vacation times and visit other resorts, all without paying rent. We believe Interval Ownership provides the most vacation for our money.

A letter from the Mayor

TO: Residents of Sanibel and Captiva
 FROM: The Mayor of the City of Sanibel
 SUBJECT: IMPORTANT INFORMATION ON NOTIFICATION PROCEDURES FOR EMERGENCIES

The 1980 "Hurricane Season" is here. It is vital to your life and your property that you have immediate and accurate information if a serious situation appears to be developing. DURING AN ANTICIPATED OR ACTUAL EMERGENCY, TUNE YOUR RADIO TO WRCC 103.9 FM FOR OFFICIAL SANIBEL AND CAPTIVA NOTICES.

The Sanibel Police Department will have direct police radio contact with WRCC radio and Meteorologist Bill Zeliff, through the cooperation of TV station WBBH-TV 20 (Cable 2). During an emergency on Sanibel and Captiva WRCC 103.9 FM will broadcast all official statements and decisions made by the City of Sanibel. IF IT SHOULD BECOME NECESSARY TO EVACUATE THE ISLANDS, THE ANNOUNCEMENT WILL BE MADE AND BROADCAST REPEATEDLY FROM RADIO STATION WRCC 103.9 FM.

Complete and full information pertaining to hurricane procedures, prepared by our EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS, EVACUATION AND RELIEF TEAM (EPERT), is being made available in local newspapers. Please study this information carefully; it would be wise to keep copies for future reference.

If it should become necessary to evacuate our Islands, advance preparations, accurate information and complete cooperation will be necessary not only for your safety but for the safety of everyone.

Sincerely,
 Francis P. Bailey, Jr.
 Mayor, City of Sanibel

Town
 Hall meeting next week

City Manager Bernard J. Murphy, Jr. announces that on Tuesday, June 10, 1980, at 7 p.m., a meeting will be held at the Community Center on Sanibel for all Sanibel and Captiva residents pertaining to hurricane preparation, evacuation and lessons learned from Dauphin Island during hurricane Frederick in 1979.

Porter Goss, along with other members of City government, and the Emergency Preparedness Evacuation and Relief Team will be making a presentation. Representatives of Lee County Disaster Preparedness and others will be available for a question and answer period. All residents of Sanibel and Captiva are urged to attend.

The EPERT will be distributing hurricane identification cards, windshield stickers and hurricane supplements from the local papers.

Dorothy Brumbach, 74, of Sanibel died last Tuesday, May 27. She is survived by her husband, William C. Brumbach; two sons, Joel H. Brumbach of Boynton Beach, Florida and William H. Brumbach of Reading, Pennsylvania, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Thursday, May 29 at Harvey Funeral Home, Fort Myers.

Sudler

Carroll Hopkins Sudler, a civic leader and winter resident of Captiva, died last week in his Lake Forest home.

Mr. Sudler, 83, was a former partner in Sudler & Co., a real estate agency and management firm. He and his brother, Louis, founded the company in 1927. Mr. Sudler retired in August 1978.

A Lake Forest resident for 47 years, Mr. Sudler was a life trustee of Lake Forest

College and a former chairman of its board.

He was a life trustee of the Newberry Library and Chicago Academy of Sciences, former president of the Civic Federation of Chicago, and former director of Lake Forest Hospital.

Mr. Sudler also was a life member of the Chicago Crime Commission and a long-time director and officer of the board of the YMCA of Chicago.

Mr. Sudler attended Chicago Latin School and was graduated from Yale University in 1917. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa there.

Immediately after college, he served a year in France as an Army second lieutenant, later attaining the rank of captain. After World War I, he became a salesman and director of Ketterlinus Lithographing Co., in Philadelphia.

He is survived by his wife, Martha; a son, Carol B. III; two daughters, Mrs. Patricia Stimpson and Mrs. Barbara S. Maltby Jr.; his brother, and seven grandchildren.

Something Grand is happening on the home front.

Carved into a forest near the Caloosahatchee River and the Gulf of Mexico is an imaginative community. McGregor Woods. Grand in concept because it honors both the need for privacy and the need for sociability. Lush, quiet homesites nestle against a freshwater lake. Abundant recreation facilities — tennis courts, spa, playground and heated swimming pool — sprawl across manicured acres.

McGregor Woods. Grand in style because it offers top-quality, beautifully-designed homes, with exteriors as natural and regal as their rustic setting.

This week, in the last of our series on snook fishing, we'll talk about some of the more productive spots, many of which are adjacent to busy resorts or high boat traffic areas.

The beginning snook fisherman might think that a quiet, ripple-free lagoon tucked back somewhere in the wildlife sanctuary is an ideal spot for the sport. But, take a look at Redfish Pass, north of South Seas Plantation, on a July morning when 20 boats are competing for snook with engines blaring and noise all around.

My first choice for a snook hole would be Redfish Pass. You really need to have a boat as you can fish from shore, but your bait will always come back to the bank because of the strong tides in this narrow gap between Captiva and North Captiva Island.

The snook fish this pass by drifting, bow towards the shore, engine at idle, with the pinfish or pigfish baits bouncing along the bottom. It's a method used for years and is effective. Don't ever anchor in this pass in snook season, however, as you're liable to take a lot of verbal abuse from the drifters.

Probably the best time for Redfish Pass snook fishing is an outgoing tide. Yes, fish are caught on the incoming tide, but a novice fisherman can control the boat better when the tide is going out. It's important that one person always be at the wheel, so bring at least two people to fish so the boat operator can take a turn at the rod.

Captiva Pass, in the inside of North Captiva Island and Cayo Costa Island to the north, are also productive snook areas for boats that can drift it. Use the same method as in Redfish Pass, and the same bait too.

On that inside shore of Cayo Costa, at the southern tip of the island is a top-notch place for plug casters. The snook stay in that depression along the shore. Those who wade out and cast lures here at daylight seem to connect regularly, but I would hate to count the number of catches. It figures out to 10 per snook.

Heading south again, for plug casters, the beach just to the west of the Sanibel fishing pier at the lighthouse end of the island is a good spot. Some artificial lure users depend on the Number 2 Reflecto lure, but the live bait fishermen can do just as well.

 For Captiva Island Gulf side, subtract 30 minutes from each high tide, and subtract hour and 16 minutes for each low tide.
 For Captiva Island, Pine Island Sound (Bay) side, add 1 hour and four minutes for each high tide and add 52 minutes for each low tide.
 In between these points, gulf or bay, guesstimate and have good fishing and or shelling.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Schoolhouse Gallery exhibit

The Schoolhouse Gallery will be sponsoring a New Graphics exhibit now through June 30, featuring the following artists:

Judith Shahn - a graduate of the Institute of the Arts, New York University, N.Y.C. Her one-woman shows include exhibits in Galeria Beatrice Viggiani, Rome; the Gallery of World Art, Newton, Massachusetts; as well as the Schoolhouse Gallery in 1974. Her work has appeared in The New Yorker, Harpers, Glamour and Mademoiselle magazines. Ms. Shahn has also illustrated several children's books and designed greeting cards and fabrics.

Jan Ehrenworth - a veteran of over 35 exhibits and winner of over 15 awards for graphics and printmaking. Her work is featured in the permanent collections of IBM, First National Bank of Boston and Bridgewater State College, among others. As a printmaker, she is interested in using design, color, shape, form and texture in a contemporary, abstract idiom.

Grace Treleven White - a former student of Master Printmaker, Donald Stoltenburg. Her graphics have won numerous awards, including first prizes and best of shows. Ms. White's print-making process is described and illustrated in the recently published book, "Collagraph Printmaking." A member of the Boston Printmakers, her works are in private and corporate collections throughout the United States and Europe.

The Schoolhouse Gallery is located at the intersection of Tarpon Bay and Island Inn Roads and is open daily, 10 a.m. through 5 p.m. except Sunday and Monday.

Rotary

On Friday, June 6, the Rotarians will hear Sanibel resident, Dr. Charles Gold, who is a long-time Rotarian of over 30 years and a charter member of the Sanibel-Captiva Club. Dr. Gold will review the aims and goals of Rotary, as well as kicking off a membership drive. He will be assisted by members of the board.

Nature camp

An exciting, opportunity-filled summer awaits children at the Nature Center's one, two, and three week sessions. Help your child discover a meaningful and enjoyable relationship with his or her natural world. Call the Nature Center for more information. The number is 332-2206.

Kiwanis

On Wednesday, June 4, 7:30 a.m., the Kiwanis will hold a round table meeting at the Sundial instead of Scotty's Restaurant, due to renovations. Notification of where the next meeting will take place will be given next week. The Kiwanis meet every Wednesday at 7:30 a.m.

Christian women's Club

The Sanibel-Captiva Christian Women's Club will hold its monthly luncheon at Chadwick's, South Seas Plantation this Thursday, June 5, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Donation is $5.25.

The theme will be an "Ice Cream Social" for mothers and daughters with fashions for young and old to be presented by five shopkeepers in "Periwinkle Place." The participating shops are: Lads & Lassies, The Irish Look, Her Sports Closet, The Beach House, and Tennis Anyone?

Doug Strader, a young, dynamic singer and youth leader from Fort Myers, originally from Pontiac, Michigan, will entertain us with his voice and share with us a message of inspiration.

Reservations may be made, if not contacted, by calling Mrs. Charlotte White at 472-2406, or Mrs. Myrtle Mayer at 472-4047. If you need the nursery, call Becky Cowan at 472-4241. Cancellations are necessary 48 hours before the luncheon.

Safe boating classes

Experienced as well as new boaters are invited to sign up for the next safe boating class at Cypress Lake High School on Monday June 16 at 7:30 p.m. Classes will continue each Monday and Thursday until completed. For more information, phone 549-5058.

Photographers' Gallery exhibit

An exhibit opening on Tuesday, June 3 in The Photographers' Gallery on Sanibel proves the point that you don't have to have expensive camera equipment to take good photographs.

Eric Lindbloom's "Private Lives of Public Places," a show of 31 black and white images, were all taken with a toy camera called a Diana. The product of Hong Kong is made entirely of plastic, including the lens, uses 120 color or black and white film, and for years has sold at five and dime stores for less than $5. A Diana will be on display throughout the show, which runs through June.

Golf

Tuesday was a dreadful day for 24 members of the Beachview Men's Association. Even with the high individual play of the day the winning team could only manage to hit a plus one. Ken Preston paced the field with a plus five and led his teammates Hank Groh, Frank Rosen, and John Forster to the high team score.

The mass slump was broken on Saturday when the team of Bill Estep, George Christenson, Eben Joy, and John Forster combined for a score of plus eight. Forster also finished with the high individual score at plus six.

Self Defense

"Of course, I'm prejudiced towards the martial arts! I think that it's probably the best form of self defense, seeing as it's not practical or lawful to be toting a gun around with you all the time. It's something that you've got with you all the time and you don't need a weapon."

So says Lew Phillips, Sanibel police officer and second degree karate black belt who, along with Ken Claveau and Brad Johnson, is an instructor at the Ali Kai Martial Arts Academy in Fort Myers.

Because of his background in law enforcement and the martial arts Lew is well aware of the importance of a practical form of self defense.

But despite the fact that proficiency in karate can make you feel as though you can handle any given situation, Lew is quick to point out that, "It doesn't mean that you can go up and spar with a 250 pound man on the street. But," he adds, "if you took that person by surprise, if he was attacking you or caught you off guard, at least you'd be able to respond immediately and be able to get yourself out of that situation."

The main objective of the martial arts, as well as any other form of self defense, is to successfully protect yourself - which, according to Lew, begins with a certain state of mind.

"It's a way of thinking," he explains. "For example, I don't frequent places where I'm likely to get into a fight. So, my way of thinking changes somewhat and I'm a little more conscious about what I do, where I go and who I'm with."

"When I go out," he continues, "I usually go in the company of a couple of friends. There's safety in numbers. Women and children can do the same thing. If you go someplace, you don't go by yourself. This doesn't have anything to do with the martial arts - it's a way of thinking."

According to Lew, one of the most valuable means of self defense is continuing education in the martial arts field. Self defense courses are generally a good idea, but they usually last only a few weeks and add up to only a small amount of time spent on a subject that could someday well save your life. And, six months later, many of the tactics learned in a flash course may well have faded from your mind.

"It sounds like I'm trying to sell it, and I am!" Lew admits. "It's the best form of self defense. If you don't engage constantly in your form of self defense, then you lose it. A person, after a while, becomes used to a fighting situation. They become used to handling and dealing with a man's strength, at least being able to see what a man's strength is like. Intuitively, you find out ways of overcoming another person's strength. Speed and brains can overcome strength. In the long run, if you can act quickly, you can get out. If a person practices this all the time, it becomes second nature to him."

If you indeed decide to enroll in a martial arts program, Lew stresses the importance of "shopping around" to find a studio and instructor best qualified for your purpose.

Beware of studios that guarantee a black belt in one year - in most cases you'll be buying ranks instead of actually learning the trade. If the routines and tactics taught in the class don't look quite right, take heed. "The fighting arts should make sense," warns Lew.

Also be wary of the instructor who informs you that "his hands are registered with the FBI" - a common ploy. "You can be sure that that's a lot of B.S.," Lew grins. "I've never had anyone come knocking on my door to register my hands with the FBI - and I've had a lot of schools!"

Another important factor in choosing a martial arts school is the amount of class participation by the instructor. "It takes street knowledge from your instructor," says Lew. "If he hasn't been in those situations, he couldn't very well know how to teach you how to handle them. A lot of schools teach theoretical self defense. That's fine, but you find out that, in reality, it doesn't really work too well."

In a martial arts school, you may learn katas (pre-arranged fighting forms against one or more opponents which are theoretical movements against different types of attacks) and ju kumite (sparring with an opponent while wearing safety equipment).

"It's still a couple of steps back from reality," Lew says of the traditional forms of karate, "because there are certain things you can and can't do. You're going to get hit, but not the way you would in the street. But it does prepare you better for the street if you understand the reality of the situation."

It's only common knowledge that an actual street fight or attack is totally different from squaring off with a fighting partner in the confines of a studio. "A real street fight takes place in less than that long," says Lew, snapping his fingers. "With a well-trained karate man, anything that happens is going to happen in the first minute. You won't see me or any of my students out there sparring in the street for five or ten minutes."

Lew is by no means condoning street fighting. As a police officer, he points out that it is unlawful for anyone to engage in willful combat. "However," he adds, "the law does provide that a person may defend himself if he's attacked and that's what we're dealing with here. That's the situation when people get hurt and that's when they should know what to do."

Appraisal of every individual situation and being "healthily paranoid" are two safety precautions offered by Lew. When you enter a building, don't walk in blindly - take a head count, notice the people sitting near you and note any unsavory characters nearby. If you are uncomfortable, simply leave and go somewhere else.

"Defending yourself is knowing who's around you," Lew explains. "Karate doesn't equip you to go anyplace you want to. It equips you to know better than to do some of these things."

This state of mind is a significant step in the right direction towards purposeful self defense. Concentrate on preventing an attack, not on what to do in the event of one. Lew stresses self-awareness of the things you say, the things you do and where you are doing it.

"Let's say you are out in the Publix parking lot talking with your girlfriend," he offers as an example. "You say, 'I'm going to my house.' She says, 'I'll meet you there, how do you get there?' You give her the directions and say, 'Tom won't be home until ten o'clock.'"

"What I'm saying is that, before you say something out loud, you've got to check around! Rapists eat and they have to go to grocery stores. Muggers, thieves, robbers, murderers - all these people are there. They're everywhere. You can hide a lot behind a smile and a person's looks don't mean a thing as far as who they are. So that's self defensive thinking."

Lew also suggests the installation of adequate lighting around your home as a preventative defense, pointing out that most attackers don't care to perform in the light and well-lit homes fall prey to break-ins less frequently.

If you live alone, it's important to incorporate certain defensive measures into your lifestyle. "If you've got good solid core doors and double locks but meanwhile have all the windows open with just the screen there, that doesn't provide you with very good protection," Lew reasons. "Start asking yourself, 'If I'm lying in bed at night, what have I got besides doors and windows to protect me?' Then you have to consider the dogs, the guns. Everybody has their vulnerable periods. What you've got to do is try to minimize those periods."

"There are only so many things a person can do to you and only so many things you can do in defense," Lew says of street assaults. "You start breaking it down logically. The first thing a person has to do to attack you is move towards you. What we try to impress on people is to maintain a safe distance from everybody. I do it as a police officer as much as I can."

"You want to try to keep people off balance gracefully," he continues. "You'll know when someone's too close to you. If someone comes up behind you and starts looking over your shoulder, I'll bet that you can feel it. It's within your orbit - that space of distance in which a person has to make a total body commitment to you. You always want to keep people at that distance. That gives you time to react."

If and when you are attacked, the main thing is to do whatever it takes to escape your assailant. Do not try to confront him or engage in a fight.

Ask yourself, "Is it impossible to get out of this? No! You can find advantages. It may come down to injuring this person permanently or getting injured permanently yourself - or killed. If you can take his eyes with your fingers, his groin with your knee or his throat with your fist, fine. I'm not talking about some out-of-the-way karate techniques - I'm talking about jabbing all of your fingers in his face. The more fingers you've got going, the more chance you have of hitting your obstacle."

"It may not disable him permanently, but if it's done correctly, it can give you enough time to get away and that's what you're looking for. When you've got your fingers inbedded in someone's eyes, they'll be involved in so much pain that they're not going to be thinking about you anymore. With a knee in the groin, it's the same thing," says Lew.

A loud scream is also a good deterrent, according to Lew. The shock the scream gives your attacker may give you those extra seconds needed to get away. Use any part of your body that is free to cause pain or surprise to your assailant.

"You've got to remember that there's always going to be something available," Lew explains. "Let's consider the foot, the knee, the elbow, the fist and the head as weapons. If someone grabs you with two hands, he's lost two of his weapons. Generally, if he grabs you, then he's getting ready to do something else, but until that time, you have time to react."

"You've got to learn to use whatever you've got. If someone grabs you from behind, you can use the instep stomp because their feet have got to be on the ground. You have a certain amount of weapons. If you have long fingernails, you've got a weapon. If you've got on high heeled shoes that are easy to remove, that's another weapon."

Again, Lew stresses the need for constant awareness of self defense. "It's simply knowing that you're not defenseless and that self confidence comes from working out a long time and knowing what you can do," he says. "Self defense is right here in your mind. If you don't have that intellect, you don't have anything!"

Cypress winners

By Mark Harmel

The Cypress Lake Panthers outscored both of their opponents in the Lee County spring football-jamboree held last week at Edison Stadium. The jamboree was a tune-up for the fall season and each of the five area high schools played two other teams for one period.

Cypress Lake topped Riverdale 3-0 in a defensive contest decided by a Cypress Lake field goal kicked by Jamie Sanders.

Pitted against Fort Myers in the fourth quarter, Cypress Lake withstood an opening threat to win 7-0. Fort Myers' Jay Randolph grabbed the opening kickoff and proceeded to scramble 76 yards downfield only to be stopped by the last possible man, Sanibel's Calvin Gavin.

Preparing for his senior year, Gavin played every minute of the two quarters, switching from wide receiver on offense, cornerback on defense, and playing on special teams. Panther coaches have great hopes for Gavin next year. "He should be one of the best players in the conference next year," claims defensive line coach Ray Rhodes.

The Sanibel Swim Team

By Mark Harmel

The Greater Lee County YMCA Swim Team, including 19 members of the Sanibel Swim Team, literally creamed the nine other participating teams in the Triton Invitational swim meet held in Fort Myers last weekend.

At 2:30 p.m. Sunday, with several events left to go, the GLCY had totaled 1427½ points. Their closest competitor, the Collier County YMCA, had scored only 589 points and it was downhill for everyone else - ending with the Cape Coral team with only 33 points.

Sanibel fielded a 10 years and under boys medley relay team that placed third. Other Sanibel winners included: Lisa Fenton (8 years old), a third in the 100 yd. individual medley, seventh in the 50 yd. freestyle and membership on the eight years and under medley relay team that took first; David Buntrock (10 years old), swam on the winning 11 and 12 year old boys medley relay team; Laura Fenton (8 years old), took a third in the 25 yd. butterfly, sixth in the 50 yd. freestyle, seventh in the 100 yd. individual medley and seventh in the 25 yd. freestyle; Heather Muench (six years old), a fourth in the 25 yd. backstroke, fourth in the 25 yd. freestyle and eighth in the 100 yd. individual medley; Jennifer Muench (10 years old), a seventh in the 50 yd. breaststroke; John Healy (10 years old), a fourth in the 50 yd. backstroke and a seventh in the 50 yd. breaststroke; Scotch Peloso (10 years old), an eighth in the 50 yd. breaststroke and a member of the boys 10 and under relay team that took third.

"The kids far exceeded every event we swam in over anything they ever swam before," said coach Dick Noon. "Every single one of the kids did times I didn't believe they could do!"

Other Sanibel participants were: Gerrit Goss, Reggie Noon, Amber Noon, Todd Noon, Dawn Moss, Bill Zeis, John Feeney and Karen Muench.

Police Beat

By Pat Harmel

Two Island gators bid adieu this week, a cormorant took an unauthorized dip in the Casa Ybel pool and a five brush fires in six days started law enforcement officials looking for a suspected arsonist.

When the Bank of the Islands security alarm went off late last Saturday night the SPD dispatcher called the bank - and a man answered. The man refused to identify himself until the dispatcher explained who she was and why she was calling. The Lee County Sheriff's Department, Sanibel Police Sgt. Ray Rhodes, Officers Weir and Church and the K-9 unit were dispatched to the scene - only to find that the chairman of the bank's board of directors had accidentally set off the alarm while exiting the bank with weekend paperwork.

Two Sanibel officers responded to a call for back-up from the Lee County Sheriff's deputy on Captiva last Thursday. Artist Robert Rauschenberg had reported that a Vietnamese man had entered his home and tried to remove food from the refrigerator. The Lee County deputy transported the man to Lee Memorial Hospital for psychiatric observation.

A Casa Ybel guest reported that a $100 dollar bill had been removed from his wallet in his rented room. Investigation into the incident continues.

$1000 worth of tractor tires were reportedly slashed sometime over the Memorial holiday in Sanibel Bayous.

Erik H. Thoreson

Age: "I'm 46, look much younger and act even younger than I look!"

Height: 6' 2"

Roots: Copenhagen, Denmark

Mentor: "The only mentor I ever had, in the professional sense, was Albert Ellis. I certainly admire him a great deal."

Last Book Read: "War and Remembrance"

Wish: "That's very hard for me - I guess it just doesn't fit, but, if I could have anything I'd love to travel the planets."

Words of Wisdom: "If we treated our physical health as we treat our mental health we'd all be dead by the time we're 24."

Pleasures: "I'm an absolute wiz at doing nothing. If I want to turn my mind off I turn on the television."

Erik Thoreson loves to talk.

"I sense that people like to talk about themselves - just absolutely love it!" he reasons. "It used to be, I'd ask a lady a question and she'd start talking for half an hour. I'd often wonder if she was ever going to ask me anything about me and most of the time she didn't. I'd think, 'Well, gee, I like to talk about me, too!'"

When Erik was six years old, his family joined his father in New Jersey soon after the Germans invaded his homeland of Copenhagen at the start of World War II. Eight years later, the family moved again, this time to Detroit where Erik eventually graduated from South Eastern High School.

He then attended Eastern Michigan University where he received his B.A. in art education. But after teaching art for four years, he left the profession due to the lack of a challenge.

At that time, the mid 1960's, a friend told Erik that he was going off to attend graduate school and that the National Defense Education Act was going to foot the bill. "I said, 'Well, where's that?'" Erik recalls and he was soon enrolled in the program as well.

In a drastic change from teaching elementary school art classes, Erik dove into counseling psychology courses at the University of Northern Iowa, where he later received his Masters degree.

"I really wasn't driven to help people or to work with people, nor did I have any particular interest in psychology," he confesses, "but the government was paying and it was enough to support me. I think it was a super experience. I certainly learned a lot and it turned my life in a different direction."

After leaving graduate school, Erik would begin what would later become a whirlwind string of counseling jobs. One of his first job offers was a job in the Women's Job Corps - which Erik describes as "eleven hundred women with about three guys. But," he adds with a mock shrug, "I was married then and it wasn't nearly as appealing!"

Instead, he accepted a position in the counseling center of Mankato State University in Minnesota, a job he kept for two years until he found it "was too damn cold in Minnesota and I decided to come to Florida. What I did was get a map and all the counties that were on the water; I just wrote them my credentials."

Erik was hired by the Pinellas County school system where he worked as a school psychologist for a year in Clearwater. Immediately following that position was a one-year stint at St. Petersburg Junior College and a three-year stay as the Director of Counseling at the University of South Florida in Tampa.

"I was looking for some kind of identity and I decided I was an existential counselor, which really translates to: if you care about people enough, you develop a good relationship with them in your therapy session that they can use to get better," he explains, adding, "The only trouble is that this is terribly draining on you."

Then, Erik went to see Albert Ellis, the founder of rational psychology.

"I saw him as the only psychologist that made sense and I became a 'born-again' rational psychologist," he says of the experience.

Subsequently, Erik co-started the Florida branch of the Institute of Rational Living in Clearwater. For three years, he had, in essence, his own private practice, as well as running a group called "How to Practically Never Upset Yourself About Anything."

And then came semi-celebrity stardom. An article about his work appeared in the Floridian magazine of the St. Petersburg Times and later in the Tropic magazine of the Miami Herald. Erik was also interviewed four times for the Evening Independent in St. Petersburg. He became a semi-regular guest on a Tampa television mid-day talk show and claims that the highest ratings were made on the days he appeared. "It's not that I'm so marvelous!" he laughs.

"What I used to do was answer questions that people called in on the air."

Due to the less-than-attractive salary he was earning as a therapist, Erik started a company to sponsor seminars for the general public.

"In essence," he says, "we took all the rational principles and put them into a two-day seminar with music and work sheets and everything. It was in the vein of EST, but really it was used quite differently."

The initial success of the seminars was very misleading. "When we first started, we had like 140 people and we thought, 'Geez, we're going to be rich! I tell you, this is going to sweep the nation and we're going to be invited to the White House!'" he exclaims.

However, because of business problems, there were times when there was only $10 in the company kitty. Erik's best friend lent him an apartment in his Clearwater Beach motel and his trusty transportation was a '66 Oldsmobile that was "just awful."

Erik's seminars were adapted for the use of automobile dealerships and business picked up to the tune of 44 seminars in six months. Next came seminars on rejection for real estate firms and the company flourished. The rejection seminars were beginning to take shape as a book and one of Erik's friends secured a financial backer by saying that his book was already written.

"I sat at the typewriter for the next six weeks," Erik remembers. "It was the first time I'd ever gone through the summer in Florida without air conditioning. I sat there every morning with the fan blowing on me - I was a dedicated writer!"

"Handling Rejection in the Selling and Listing of Real Estate" was finished in 1978. He has also authored three other books: "Learning To Think - A Rational Approach," "Teaching Elementary School - Without Going Crazy" and

"Thoreson's Guide to Making

A's in College Courses."

The story of how Erik happened to move to Sanibel fits in comfortably with the unusual turns his life took during pre-Island years. It seems that last year, Captran's Keith Trowbridge was talking to a friend affiliated with Rutenberg who was looking for something in his car trunk. There, amid the common car trunk debris, sat a copy of Erik's real estate book. It caught Trowbridge's eye and he later offered Erik a job training interval ownership salespeople.

"I thought I had found a whole new marketing approach," Erik quips. "Get your book in trunks all over the world!"

Although the job was initially designed as part-time, it proved more demanding than anticipated and Erik moved to Sanibel permanently in April, 1979. He was with Captran up until last April.

"It was a great experience," he says of his work with the company. "Before that time, I'd never heard about time-sharing and I learned all about it. This is such an exciting field in a sense that it's just expanding so rapidly. They must be adding two resorts a week into interval ownership, so the market is tremendous and for anyone who has the skills, it's just a super place to be."

At present, Erik is publishing an interval ownership sales letter entitled "Timesell," as well as doing consulting, training and writing on the subject of interval ownership. He continues his rejection seminars, having presented a total of 85 seminars for real estate boards and firms, 25 of which were conducted in the last year.

Other projects include a book on coping rationally with infidelity and the production of a video and written program for sales training.

"The idea is that the new salesman would just sit down in front of a machine, turn it on and in two or three days be trained," Erik says, explaining his new invention.

"I hope I can get that going," he grins, "because I think that it's something that's really neat!"

Refuge staff increased by one

By Donna M. Stanek, Outdoor Recreation Planner, J.N. "Ding" Darling National Wildlife Refuge

The staff at the J.N. "Ding" Darling National Wildlife Refuge recently increased by one with the appointment of Larry Narcisse as a Biological Technician. Mr. Narcisse came to Sanibel from Baton Rouge, Louisiana, where he has been doing graduate work in wildlife management at Louisiana State University. He and his wife, Peggy, will reside at the lighthouse.

Mr. Narcisse's duties will include analyzing the effects of the Water Management Program, censusing wildlife and helping with other Refuge management projects.

Army Corps application filed

Sanibel resident Rob Leonard has filed an application with the Army Corps of Engineers for a permit for a manmade canal connected to San Carlos Bay.

The canal, in Sanibel Isles subdivision, is approximately 150 feet of riprap seawall below mean high water. Less than 500 feet of backfill will be required.

A t-shaped dock with pilings will also be connected to the proposed wall. This will help reclaim eroded property and also provide a mooring area for a private boat.

According to Jim Bajek, of the Army Corps of Engineers, the State Department of Environmental Regulation exempted the project from permit-certification requirements. This is because the size of the dock is under 500 feet.

Comments regarding the application should be submitted in writing to the District Engineer at the following address: Jacksonville District, Corps of Engineers, P.O. Box 4970, Jacksonville, Florida 32201. The Corps will take comments on the application until June 20, 1980.

Music recital held

The Sanibel Elementary School auditorium was the setting for the Kennedy Music Studio Spring Recital last Sunday afternoon.

Talented young performers under the tutelage of Judith Kennedy entertained the audience with piano and voice selections.

Sunday's pianists were: Jennifer Workman, Heather Derowitsch, Nicole Weinberg, Michael Workman, Wendy Leonard, Shannon Cole, Caty Hamilton, Shawn Cole, David Krepin, Beth McCusker, Slade Cole and Heather Kennedy.

Songsters included: Chuck Edwards, Jeannie McLoughlin, Tammy Powell and Randall Anne Brooks. Voice students were accompanied on piano by Mrs. Kennedy.

After the program, and during a small reception featuring cookies and punch, Mrs. Kennedy rewarded each student with some new sheet music to encourage their continued successful studies.

"This was the first time many of these students have played in front of an audience," Mrs. Kennedy remarked. "I was very proud of all of them."

A rare find . . .

By Mark Harme

Earlier this month Hazel Overbey found the best shell of her life. The Topeka, Kansas resident was walking a sandbar in front of Sand Castles By the Sea "looking for a baby octopus to take back to Kansas." She could see that the sandbar was full of live tulips, murexs, and fighting conchs," but I passed by most of the extremely rare shell for the Islands. "Any albino is rare," according to Anne Joffe, owner of She Sells Sea Shells. "An albino fighting conch is a nice thing to find, but it is not a one of a kind shell, because fighting conchs tend to become albinos more than other shells." Joffe said the albino conch was not as rare a find on Sanibel as a junonia.

mounds," explains Overbey. "I reached down for only one, and as soon as I picked it up I knew that I had found something."

But Hazel Overbey isn't the least bit discouraged. Her albino fighting conch has a prime spot waiting in Hazel's shell collection.

What Hazel had found was an excellent albino fighting conch, an unusual but not

Davenport - Dumas wed

On Saturday afternoon, May 31, Miss Carolyn Wesley Davenport, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Wesley Davenport of Sanibel, Florida, was married to Mr. Guy Dumas, son of Mrs. Gertrude Dumas of Montreal, Quebec, Canada. The ceremony was performed in the St. Michael and All Angels Episcopal Church, Sanibel, by Father James D.B. Hubbs. A reception followed at Lindbergh Hall, South Seas Plantation, Captiva, Florida.

Mr. Davenport is Vice President of the RZD Corporation, Fort Myers, Florida, a condominium development corporation.

Miss Eileen Birns of New York City was maid of honor. Other attendants were Mrs. Michael Gallo of Merced, California, and Miss Gwendolyn Parks of Cleveland, Ohio.

Mr. Pierre Gervais of Montreal was the best man. Ushers were Paul Dumas, Gerald Dumas, and Gilles Dumas, brothers of the groom, and David Nicholas Davenport, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Dumas was graduated from Chatham Hall, Chatham, Virginia, attended Pine Manor Junior College, Chestnut Hill, Massachusetts, graduated from Denison University, Granville, Ohio, and Case Western Reserve University Law School, Cleveland, Ohio. She made her debut at the 1970 Assembly Ball in Cleveland, Ohio. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. Henry Cowles Wadsworth of Buffalo, New York, and Naples, Florida, and of the late Howard O. Babcock, and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Leroy B. Davenport of Cleveland, Ohio. Mrs Dumas is associated with the New York law firm of Graubard Moskowitz Dannett McGoldrick and Horowitz.

Mrs. Dumas wore the Alencon lace wedding veil worn by her grandmother, Mrs. Leroy B. Davenport, at her wedding at "Broadfields," Unionville, Ohio, in 1918, and by her great grandmother, Mrs. Frederick Mortimer Nicholas, at "Elmwood," Unionville, Ohio, in 1880.

Mr. Dumas was graduated from the Universite St. Louis in Edmundston, New Brunswick, Canada, received his M.A. from the Universite de Montreal, and his doctorate from Indiana University. He is Director of Financial Management Development, International Paper Company, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Dumas will reside at 310 East 46th Street, New York City.

Sanibel is a veritable shopper's paradise. Tasteful boutiques and casual island shops join forces to present visitors with everything - and anything - a vacation shopper could hope for.

At the Lighthouse (Eastern) end of the Island, Punta Ybel Plaza and The Sea Horse Shops are right across the street from each other, providing a variety of products that can cure your sweet tooth or tickle your shell finder's fancy. Need a good haircut or coiffure? You can get it in either of these shopping centers. Most businesses open at 10 a.m. and close at 5:30 p.m. This holds true for many Island stores, although during the winter season, some are open evenings.

Tall Australian pines shade Periwinkle Way as the shopper travels west along this main thoroughfare. This stretch of road is truly a shopper's paradise! It's all here...the fast and not-so-fast eating spots, casual and elegant boutiques, hand-wrought jewelry, craft designs, shell shops and balm for health produce fanatics.

Watch to your right and left as you drive or cycle along. Photographic supplies, bait and tackle, deli foods, fresh seafood and baked goods, knick-knacks and what-nots can all be found along the drive to the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road. Along the way, shopping centers such as the Heart of the Islands, Periwinkle Place and Tahitian Gardens offer a variety of island delights.

Palm Ridge Road, the Periwinkle Way turn-off to Captiva, offers several new shopping centers featuring everything from a gift shop for the discriminating shopper, plants and shells, to a sandwich shop, ice cream parlour, boutique shop and the Island Apothecary pharmacy.

At the Tarpon Bay-Periwinkle Way intersection, the Island Shopping Center features the Island's only supermarket, dry cleaners and movie house.

A left on Tarpon Bay Road takes the visitor past Sanibel's original schoolhouse, which now holds original island watercolors and woodcuts. Then on to West Gulf Drive and westward to an interesting little artisan's shop and gallery.

At the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road, you may choose instead to turn right and follow the signs to the Tarpon Bay Marina, where you will find a cluster of quaint shops overlooming the back bay...Some antiques, shells and shellcrafts, what-nots and clever clothes can be found here, as well as a great seafood sandwich and soft drinks.

The spectacular ride to Captiva, with its lush foliage and enchanting view of the Gulf, is well worth a day's outing. Talented artists display their works in one roadside shop, while others feature some nifty gifts for Grandma take home to little hands a pleasant hodge-podge of remembrances from these barrier islands.

Whether for shopping, or merely browsing, island shops offer a surprising variety - from one-of-a-kind collectibles for the discerning shopper to postcards for the simple souvenir hunter and of course, for all, shells, shell jewelry, shell lamps, just plain shells...the most beautiful shells in the world from the most beautiful shelling beaches in the world.

For Your Information

BEACH ACCESS

Sanibel has miles of public Gulf-front beaches, any one of which is only minutes from your lodging. Lighthouse Point is a stretch of Federal land on the Eastern tip of Sanibel Island, and from there, the Gulf beach is accessible again at the end of Donax Street, at Tarpon Bay Road, at Bowman's Beach Road (off Sanibel-Captiva Road) and Turner's Beach, which is located at Blind Pass, between Sanibel and Captiva Islands.

On Captiva Island, public beach access can be found at Turner Beach (which has public facilities) or further north, just past the entrance to South Seas Plantation.

NOTE: STATE LAW PROHIBITS NUDE SUN-BATHING ON ALL FLORIDA BEACHES. VIOLATORS WILL BE PROSECUTED.

CAMPING

Camping on the beach is prohibited and while everyone enjoys a beach fire, you'll have to get a permit to have one on a Sanibel public beach. The Fire Department on Palm Ridge Road will supply you with a fire permit for $1. Their hours are from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. In addition, you'll be required to make a $25 deposit, returnable the day after your beach party when the beach has been inspected for litter and debris. Make sure you clean the area thoroughly or you'll be out $25!
Condo owners or managers may submit a letter to the Fire Department, acknowledging that they will assume responsibility for cleanup after a fire in front of their building. The $25 deposit will be waived in those circumstances.

GATORS

Feeding alligators anywhere within the Sanibel City limits is not only illegal (violators of the law are subject to a fine of up to $500, or up to 60 days in jail, or both), but can be extremely dangerous. Alligators can run 45 m.p.h., so if you're close enough to feed an alligator, he's close enough to feed on you. An alligator fed for fun loses his natural fear of humans and becomes a potential threat to children and pets.

FISHING
While no license is required for saltwater fishing, fishing in freshwater ponds or the Sanibel River requires a Florida fishing license - available at Bailey's General Store on Periwinkle Way. The fee is $3.75.

MINIMUM LEGAL LENGTHS:

Blue Fish	10 inches
Flounder	11 inches
Grouper	12 inches
Mackerel	12 inches
Mullet	12 inches
Pompano	10 inches
Red Fish	12 inches
Snook	18 inches
Trout	12 inches

SHELLING
The City of Sanibel Resolution limiting the taking of live shells to 2 live shells per person per species is one to be scrupulously obeyed. As a matter of fact, in order to preserve Sanibel's beautiful shelling beaches, most collectors refuse to take any live shells whatsoever.

SPEED LIMITS
There are varying speed limits (20-30 m.p.h.) as one comes across the causeway, and there is a very good reason for them...to preserve the bridge supports from strain and stress. This speed limit is strictly enforced with the use of radar on a 24-hour basis by both the Sanibel Police Department and the Lee County Sheriff's Department.
Driving or parking a motor vehicle or moped on the bike path is strictly prohibited. Violators will be ticketed.

BICYCLE RULES

If you're not used to a lot of bicycle traffic, watch out for it on Sanibel. The extensive network of bike paths on the Island is clearly marked along the edge of the road. Observe caution when driving near the bike path. A State law and City Ordinance combine to PROHIBIT PARKING OR DRIVING ON THE BIKE PATH. MOPEDS ARE NOT PERMITTED ON THE BIKE PATHS.

Planning on spending some time on a bike to enjoy the Island sun and sights? Make sure your vehicle is equipped with a bike flag, horn, good brakes and a light for night riding. Under Florida law, bicycle riders have the same rights and responsibilities as motor vehicle drivers.
Drive Safely!

DOGGY DO'S & DON'TS

If you're visiting Sanibel with the family Fido in tow, all the better. All family members can enjoy Southwest Florida sun and surf. The Chamber of Commerce can tell you what accommodations are available for families with pets. Remember: wherever you are, clean up after your pet! The friendly reminder... "Leave nothing on the beach but footprints"...applies to dogs, too. There's no leash law on Sanibel, but of course an excitable or unruly animal is better off when controlled with a leash.

Water

Fishermen often wade out, put down a four-foot section of PVC plastic pipe for a rod holder, then put out a second rod in the same manner and fish for snook this way. I would keep away from that fishing pier as much as possible with my baits. The snook won't stay right under the pier, but will be on a half circle out 100 feet or so waiting for a bait that suits its feeding for that day.

The Sanibel pier, like Redfish Pass, is a good place for drift fishing, but there are so many lines in the water that it seems nearly impossible to get anywhere near to it with a boat and not foul up someone's line, causing harsh words to be sure.

I meant to mention this earlier in the series on snook, but now is just as good: if you are just starting snook fishing, go at night. I know that it would be nice to sit at home watching the evening news on the TV, but as sunset approaches, your odds rise. Besides, there is no sunburn problem and there are hardly any other fishermen around at night.

A really great place for summer night fishing is under the Sanibel Causeway bridge. Anchor about 50-60 feet out and cast under. The no-see-ums aren't too bad that far out from shore and some very, very big snook patrol that bridge at night.

I almost neglected to mention our Gulf beaches. On low tide, I believe the snook pull back from the flats in Pine Island Sound and from the passes to cruise the beaches. There have been more novice fishermen getting their first taste of snook fishing this way than any other. I would lean towards early mornings and evenings, but give this a try if you don't have a boat.

Keep at snook fishing. Don't give up. It's worth the wait.

(Capt. Mike Fuery offers daily charter fishing and shelling trips. Call 472-3459 for details.)
