What's a kid to do?

By Roxanna Motchan

The afternoon was overcast, muggy and unbearably hot. I went into the Burger Emporium to buy an iced tea and it was there that I saw Art, Mike and Jimmy. They were not only hot, they were bored, as evidenced by the little pools of ice cream Mike was swirling lethargically with his spoon.

Their sodas were almost finished, but still they sat, looking almost listless, crunching on ice cubes, and whispering among themselves as boys do.

For Art, Mike and Jimmy, summer afternoons and long lazy days on Sanibel Island do not represent the idyllic paradise craved by the tourists who flock here. Nor, for that matter, do Island summers necessarily equate an environment that perhaps their parents mistakenly thought would be "good for the kids."

In the travel brochures life on Sanibel is the equivalent of paradise: sunshine, blue skies, beaches, bike paths and tennis courts are free for the asking. There's only one problem: it doesn't take long to become bored with even these things.

Mike is 12 years old. He has lived on Sanibel since he was five. He wants to participate in activities that aren't available on the Island. Fort Myers offers some of those activities, but it's hard to get over there when you can't drive. And, it's hard for parents who don't have the time to make the 45 minute drive to Fort Myers, only to repeat the performance when the child's activity is over.

Mike says, "My dad's too lazy to take me to Fort Myers," failing to realize the time involved. He adds, "My dad says it's a waste of gas," which is probably true enough.

So, what is a child to do? It's a tough question. According to Mike, "When I get bored, I just start figuring out what to do. Usually I go find my friends at Island Moped or 7-11. The only problem with 7-11 is that half the kids on the Island aren't allowed to go in there any more. We want to play pinball, but the machine is usually unplugged."

Mike is involved in Boy Scouts and will be going to summer camp. "It's one thing I have to look forward to," he says.

Art has the fanciest bike I've ever seen. And he also has a dream. He would like to see a BMX (bike motorcross) track for the children put somewhere on the Island.

Art has lived on the Island for only nine months. He moved to Sanibel from Cape Coral because his mom is employed on the Island.

Art is pretty busy for a 13 year old. He works part time at the Landlubber restaurant, swims on the Sanibel Swim Team, and is also on the BMX team.

But he wrestles with the boredom problem too.

"I like to go to the movies," he reveals.

Sanibel's one theater is a nice one. However, not every movie is suitable for a young person of 13. And, after you've seen the week's attraction, then what?

"I like to go roller skating, too," Art says.

I asked the kids why they couldn't skate on the bike paths, not realizing as they do that the pine needles and other obstructions ruin expensive skates.

Some concerned Island mothers have banded together to take the children roller skating on the mainland once a week. According to Pat Kair, one of the organizers, there are so many kids who want to go that their names are placed on a list, and they have to wait their turn.

Art is getting to the age where "little kid" activities don't interest him. Yet he is too young to drive, and he is becoming more restless by the day.

Jimmy is 11 years old, and is also a relative newcomer to the Island, having moved here last July. He is freckle-faced, impish, and mischievous.

He described to me how some nights, when there is nothing to do, he and some friends go to a local resort and ride their bikes down a car ramp. "They are chasing us in little go carts, yelling 'I don't want you kids going through there again.' It's fun!" he exclaims.

If a good fairy dropped by to grant these youngsters one wish, what would it be?

"A roller rink," Jimmy says.

"More planned events for the kids," Mike says.

And Art, the dreamer, says, "A YMCA with an indoor pool, weight room, game room, and basketball court."

Don't forget the BMX track. I reminded him, "Oh yeah," he says, "that would help keep us out of trouble."

In search of the flip side of the coin, I spoke with some older Island teenagers and young adults on the Island. I found them at the Dairy Queen, where several work part time.

At 18, Jeannie has lived on Sanibel for four years. She admits that it was tough to find something to do.

"I still don't have that much to do and I'm not a kid," Jeannie laments. "I don't like to hang out at Pate's, and I spend a lot of Friday nights at home watching TV."

"Some of the old people on this Island don't want kids to get involved," Jeannie says, adding, "Then they complain when they get into trouble."

Although she still goes to the beach, Jeannie admits that after awhile she just got "tired of it."

She also told me that the kids on the Island used to have bonfires, but that out-of-towners have ruined it for the Islanders. "That's not fair," she charges. "If you go down to the beach now after a bonfire that a tourist has had, there's all kind of debris everywhere. Sometimes I pick up after them, even though I didn't do it, cause I know that we're going to get the privilege taken away if we're not careful. All the kids on the Island used to gather around the bonfires, and we would cheer 'We are Islanders!' and give our names. It was so much fun."

"It's getting harder for the kids now than it was for us," admits Jeannie. "It's so sad because there is all this space. You'd think that the people involved with the City would put something on this Island for the kids to do."

"I see so many kids hanging out at 7-11 and I think that's sad too," she says, adding that in her opinion a lot of the Island kids are getting into drugs, smoking pot and drinking beer. She thinks the lack of recreational activities has something to do with it. "I'm sure the kids would much rather be playing pool in a game room than drinking beer at somebody's house or on the beach," she says.

Jeannie survived. She became active in a hobby that may someday blossom into a career. She was swept up by the lure of the theater.

"The parents need to push their kids to become involved," she says, citing her own involvement with singing, dancing, and dramatics.

"I'd like to see more Island youths become involved in the arts," she muses. "So many people here don't realize how many good art and music teachers are on the Island."

At least one young person on Sanibel is worried about the future, and concerned about her brothers and sisters. That person is Isabelle, 21 years old, a native Islander.

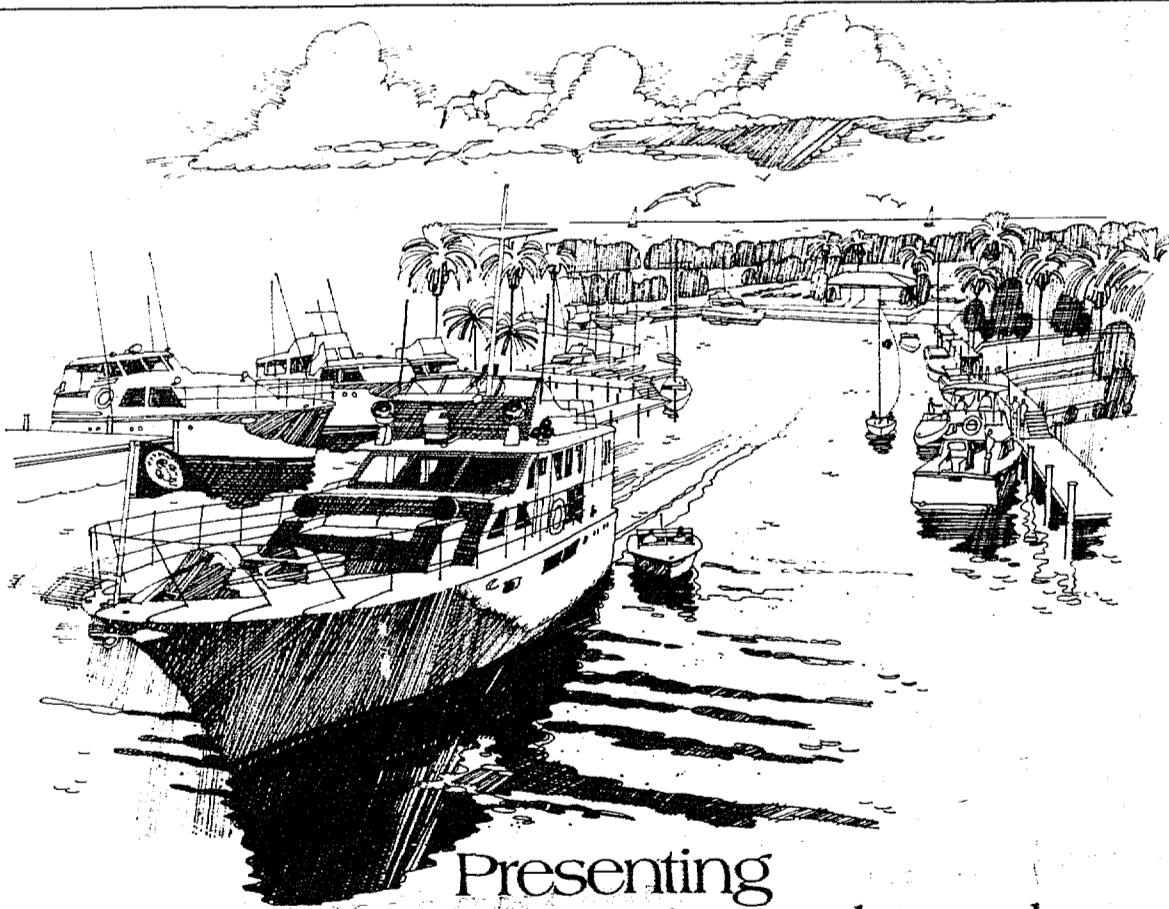

"I grew up here so I was used to having nothing to do," she says. "This place depends on what you make it. But I was bored a lot of the time, and spent most of my growing up years taking care of my brothers and sisters, and without them I don't know what I would have done."

"I never looked forward to the weekends when I was growing up; when they got here whatever came up, you did. We didn't have planned activities."

Isabelle admits that she probably is more than a little mothering instinct on the side. "I'm always concerned about my brothers and sisters, where they go and what they've been doing," she says.

"I'm not sure parents should be so hard on their kids, because a lot of them get in trouble because they're bored."

When Isabelle was in high school, the students who were the least bored were the ones involved in sports or school activities. "But face it," she says, "the average kid has a lot more time on his hands. If you don't enjoy school and aren't into it there's not much else."

Donna, Isabelle's 18 year old sister, didn't have much to do either. "What I liked to do was go out at night and dance, and there was no place for a teenager to do something like that," she says. "I like sports, but all there is on this Island is softball."

"I'd like to see a big recreation center put on the Island," Donna says, "and maybe a place for teenagers to go at night. Seems like this Island is made for the older people."

"Over the summer it's really hard to find something to do," according to freckle-faced, dimpled Wendy, 15 years old. "I'm old enough now to play softball on a women's league, and that really helps. Over the summer, it's really hard unless you go away, and even then it's only for a couple of weeks."

"There are two types of kids here," Wendy continues, "the All-American kids who do extra things, get involved in school, and stuff like that. Then there are the drop out types. The two crowds don't mix very much."

Obviously, there is a problem here. Obviously there is no easy solution. But the children of Sanibel all agree on one thing: sometimes it's boring, so boring you almost can't stand it.

—And boredom is a dangerous thing.

Graham

By Pat Harmel

Speaking to a crowd of several hundred Florida newspaper editors and publishers Graham addressed the issue of "Press Freedoms - Are We Really In Trouble?"

Graham's overwhelming personal answer to the question was, "Yes, indeed."

Citing the "extraordinary and distressing and depressing...Supreme Court decisions against the First Amendment" during the last few years, Graham constructed a scenario he claimed "historians will look back at and just shake their heads at."

Over the last 190 years, Graham said, the Supreme Court, from time to time, has been "out of step and hostile to a group." He cited periods of anti-labor and anti-New Deal Court decisions as examples. "And now," he charged, "it has happened to the press."

Using Watergate and the investigatory methods of Washington Post reporters Carl Bernstein and Bob Woodward for an example, Graham cited the Burger Court decisions that today would make the uncovering of Watergate an impossibility - at least within the boundaries of the law.

Confidentiality of sources, file searches, closed pre-trial hearings, interrogation of the editing process and telephone wiretaps were all cited by Graham as "erosions of the First Amendment," approved by the Burger Court.

"There have been 800 subpoenas against the press since 1970," Graham said, "300 gag orders, 14 newsroom searches, 50 reporters indicted or arrested - and those figures are probably low."

"The government," he stressed, "was supposed to keep its hands off the press, according to the First Amendment."

Graham urged the press representatives present to be ready to go to jail to protect their First Amendment rights. "You must appeal every single infringement," he declared. "Be fair, be responsible...but fight every libel charge, gag order and closed pre-trial hearing. We must do what we can to preserve the First Amendment values until the pendulum swings back - not just for ourselves but for everybody in this country."

Hurricanes topic of Town Hall meeting

By Roxanna Motchan

It's a beautiful summer day - the sun is shining, there isn't a cloud in the sky, when all of a sudden warning that a hurricane is coming and the Mayor of Sanibel has ordered evacuation is sounded on radio station WRCC.

Sound unbelievable? Believe it. "Hurricanes are serious business and Mayor Bailey wants everyone to be aware of that," Councilman Porter Goss told a packed Community Center crowd last Tuesday.

The event was this year's annual hurricane Town Hall meeting, and the purpose was education.

The goals set forth for the meeting were threefold: to stimulate awareness of hurricanes, stimulate initiatives of preparedness, and provide answers to questions that persons living on the Islands might have.

"We're going to talk about you and what you might do to save your life and minimize damage to your possessions," Goss said.

Islander Ben Pickens showed slides of the damage inflicted on Sanibel by Hurricane Donna in 1960. That hurricane, of "moderate" proportions, caused thousands of dollars worth of damage, ripped houses off of pilings, felled trees, and left hundreds homeless in its wake.

Pickens said that the main problem from a hurricane is the water, adding that nine out of 10 people killed in this type of storm are drowned.

"Torrential storms cause flooding," he said.

"In addition," he continued, "people don't know how to drive under those conditions; dirt roads are vulnerable, and rain creates pressures behind seawalls and retaining walls."

"Since 1900, more than 11,000 Americans have died in September hurricanes," Pickens warned.

Goss explained some of the conditions which might prevail after a storm, including lack of water and electricity.

"There will be no air conditioning, and none of the amenities you are used to," Goss said. "Following the Dauphin Island devastation, it took months to get things back into shape. They just recently had power lines installed, and that storm took place last summer."

Chief John Butler, of the Sanibel Police Department, explained the purpose of the Emergency Preparedness Evacuation Relief Team (EPERT) and emphasized that radio station WRCC, 103.9 FM, is the official hurricane information station.

"If there's any danger of a big blow stay tuned to WRCC," Butler said.

Butler and Goss explained the difference between a hurricane refuge, shelter, and temporary housing.

"There are no shelters on the Island," Goss said. "We have some refuge areas, and the Bank of the Islands is one such refuge. But we do not anticipate having to use it."

"There are some shelters in Ft. Myers," Goss said. "But shelters are not hotel rooms, they aren't the Hilton and they aren't the Holiday Inn, so don't expect comfort. You need to take a blanket, a pillow, any necessary medication, and food."

"The decision to evacuate isn't one lightly made," Goss said, "and that decision can come from the Governor, the County Commission, or Mayor Bailey. We can sit out here and be the most nervous, so we might be in the cry wolf situation most often."

Goss said that the three important questions an individual needs to ask himself are: 1) Am I going to leave and if so, when? 2) When do I plan to return to Sanibel and how? and 3) Do I have adequate insurance?

Goss showed slides of Dauphin Island, and the devastation inflicted upon the Alabama area by Hurricane David last year.

"Think about the Sanibel Causeway as we look at Dauphin Island," Goss said. "Their causeway was very similar to the one we have now, and it will take at least two years to rebuild."

No boats on Dauphin Island survived Hurricane David, the trailers there were devastated and, Goss said, "even well made structures didn't do well."

"Once you see that kind of problem you become a believer," Goss concluded. "There is a certain amount of responsibility involved living on a barrier Island."

People in the audience asked where they should evacuate to. According to Goss, "a lot of people went back to Ohio last year."

A warning was issued to pay close attention to only the local television stations.

Below market rate housing discussed at workshop

By Roxanna Motchan

A proposed below market rate (BMR) housing ordinance was reviewed by Sanibel's City Councilmembers, Planning Commissioners, and members of the Moderate Cost Housing Committee in a joint workshop last Thursday.

A decision was reached to study the ordinance in greater detail after appointments are made to fill two vacated positions on the Housing Committee. The vacancies will be discussed at the July 1, Council meeting.

Zee Butler, Councilmember and Chairman of the Housing Committee, explained that one concept of the ordinance is to establish a non-profit housing foundation governed by the City. This foundation would be responsible for maintaining a pool of persons eligible for below market rate housing; another function would be to match up dwelling units with those eligible applicants.

Butler said that the idea of the housing foundation, responsible for controlling the dwelling units, is a good one. "I personally don't feel that the City wants to get into the real estate business," she said.

"However, a franchise agreement will allow the City to retain some control," Butler added.

Butler addressed some of the concerns felt by Island residents. "We don't propose creating a potential ghetto on the ground," she said. "There will be specific guidelines for eligibility. Full time employment will be one requirement. Necessity will be based on total family income and assets."

Councilman Porter Goss expressed concern that the housing foundation will have a tremendous amount of power. "They will be responsible for passing out something strong in demand and short in supply," he said.

"I have seen some communities absolutely destroyed by certain types of people," Goss continued. "We should make certain that those involved in the public interest are made eligible for the housing first." He cited as examples policemen and firemen.

Planning Commission Chairman Ann Winterbotham asked Councilmembers if they agreed with the recommendations made earlier by the Planning Commission.

Planning Commission recommendations were: that BMR housing be dispersed, an inventory be taken of existing BMR housing, the City give consideration to hiring a full time employee devoted to studying BMR housing, that controls to avoid City liability be established, and that questions be answered regarding the event of an owner making improvements to the house which would raise its value above the BMR limit.

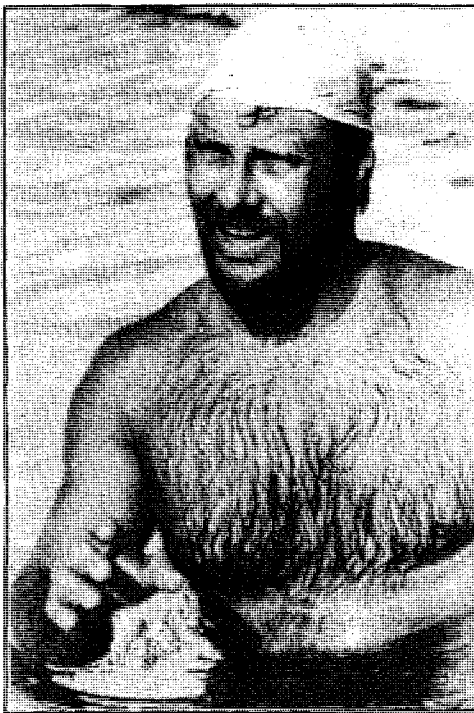

City Councilmembers agreed with all of the Planning Commission's observations.

Butler said, "If it is the consensus that this is the way to go, this ordinance must go the regular ordinance route, and will be on future Council agendas for a first and second reading."

According to Butler, the two questions which must be answered are the specific types of guidelines for the housing foundation and the quality and criteria of the housing foundation. The Housing Committee, after the two new members are added, will establish guidelines for the proposed housing foundation.

SPD ready for olympics

By Mark Harmel

Seven of Sanibel's finest will be competing in the State Police Olympics this Wednesday through Saturday in Tallahassee.

Last year the Department finished ninth among all departments - the best of any small group in the state.

Olympic Coordinator Dick Noon predicts that the Department won't do as well this year because of rule changes. "The little departments won't have a chance," Noon said. The Sanibel team this year will also be competing without the help of Lew and Jamie Phillips - who combined for five medals last year.

The Sanibel team expects to do well in pistol shooting, swimming and the javelin throw.

Chief John Butler, Jack Primm, and Sgt. Ray Rhodes all have a good chance to win in the sharpshooter division of the pistol competition. Dick Church has a shot at the marksman division.

Despite having to compete in a younger age group Dick Noon has a good chance of winning three swimming medals.

Church also has a chance for a medal in swimming and the javelin throw; Rhodes and Primm are unknowns in their first year competing in bowling and racquetball.

The Department will field a relay track team, and Don Case could do well in track competition if a softball injury doesn't hamper him.

Hurricane continued

Some confusion resulted last year when persons in the area watched cable TV and became confused as to where the hurricane actually was.

Chief Butler informed the citizens of the emergency telephone numbers to be familiar with: Sanibel emergency 1414, Sanibel Police - 3111; and City Hall 4135.

In your opinion

Bay Drive preserves Island character

Dear Editor:

There has been much discussion of paving Bay Drive. In fact, a recent survey conducted by an advocate for the paving indicated a majority of the affected property owners favor its being paved and are willing to contribute to it. I feel it is important to present my viewpoint to these property owners and the Island community in general. In my opinion, the entire community is involved because public funds will be spent and a beautiful sandy island road destroyed.

THE ACTUAL COST

A primary factor to be considered is that of cost. The proposed pavement is below City standards and is only expected to last five to ten years. Thus the property owners and the City would have to pay their respective shares periodically at an average annual cost two to four times the present annual maintenance expenditures. This seems to be a waste of money and I can't afford it.

A paving job done properly and to City standards would cost roughly five times as much as the proposed paving. I am certain the property owners willing to pay their share of two-thirds of the cost (the public pays the other third) would balk when their individual shares increase from roughly $1000 to $5000.

STATED REASONS FOR PAVING BAY DRIVE

There are five reasons stated for paving Bay Drive:

- (1) Reduce dust on cars and adjacent houses
- (2) Stop damage to cars.
- (3) Improve safety
- (4) Increase property values.
- (5) Provide a more comfortable ride.

While all of these are laudable goals, it is doubtful if these problems exist, whether paving will solve them, or whether the actual result is sufficiently worthwhile to warrant expenditure of public money and sacrifice of Island character and heritage.

DUST

Dust only poses a problem to cars and a few homes. Neither of these "problems" seem worthy of public money or sacrifice of Island character. In fact, several of the handful of households bothered by the dust are opposed to the paving.

CAR DAMAGE

I, my family and cousins have driven on Bay Drive since it was constructed and our cars have never been damaged by the bumps in the road. When this history is compared with the inevitable pot holes of a paved road, it is doubtful if there would be any improvement as claimed.

SAFETY

It has been proposed the paving would improve safety by preventing the road from being too "muddy" to drive through or washing out during a heavy rain. However, except when the road was freshly constructed many years ago, there have been no wash-outs, nor has the road been impassable due to "mud."

In addition, I question the sincerity of the safety argument because paving the road would increase the average speed, not improve visibility nor address the danger posed by the Australian Pines. These trees frequently drop branches or blow over and thus are capable of blocking the road.

INCREASED PROPERTY VALUES

In my opinion, keeping Bay Drive as a shell road and maintaining the Island character will improve property values for this neighborhood and the entire Island more than paving the road. Nevertheless, why should the Island community sacrifice Island character, heritage and public funds so that a private individual can get more money when he sells and leaves the Island.

COMFORT

To pave Bay Drive so that a few people can have a more comfortable ride does not seem a worthwhile cause.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST PAVING BAY DRIVE

There are three unrelated reasons for not paving Bay Drive:

- (1) Destruction of Island character and heritage.
- (2) Inconsistency with the Comprehensive Land Use Plan (CLUP).
- (3) Inappropriate use of public funds.

ISLAND CHARACTER AND HERITAGE

Paving Bay Drive would destroy much of the Island character in that part of the Island. At the moment, Bay Drive is a quiet, white, sandy road. When a person drives or walks on it, there is no doubt of being on a tropical barrier island. To me, this Island character is not just a quaint commodity to be marketed in motel brochures and post cards, but is part of my life style and family heritage of over sixty years and four generations. When this heritage is destroyed, we can't leave and pick up elsewhere. Sanibel is it. I appreciate new people with the desire to "improve" things and am happy to accept their help, but some things can't be improved. If they don't like Sanibel as it is, then perhaps they have made a mistake in moving here.

It is also important to realize Bay Drive is part of the entire Island character. Its loss will be a loss to everyone and its paving would set a dangerous precedent for paving more of Sanibel's country roads.

INCONSISTENCY WITH CLUP

The proposed paving of Bay Drive would be inconsistent with many goals of the CLUP. The more important of these state road capacity should not be increased beyond the projected development because it will cause unnecessary expense, and the design of Sanibel's streets should take into account the non-urban, tropical barrier island environment of the community. In addition, the proposed paving would not satisfy other goals relating to safety, energy conservation, alternative means of transportation, shortening the length traveled or scenic preservation.

INAPPROPRIATE USE OF LIMITED PUBLIC FUNDS

The proposed paving does not address crucial issues of the Island community, but only a few relatively unimportant luxuries for a small group of property owners. There are more important projects to subsidize, such as purchase of wetlands and other valuable wildlife habitats, housing for working people being displaced by rising property values, expanded plans for hazard mitigation, an expanded library, a community pool, control of Brazilian Peppers, scholarships for disadvantaged students, mass transit, and so on.

Sincerely,

Ty Symroski

What's a kid to do?

Dear Editor:

You have my deepest sympathy if as a kid you did not enjoy yourself to your fullest. At the young age of 26, going on 18, I am still doing that with every minute of my life. As Scoutmaster of Sanibel-Captiva Boy Scout Troop 88, I spend every spare minute of my time with the boys in my troop who at 11 to 14 are at that age where they might well be off getting into trouble somewhere else.

On Friday evening, June 6, one of my scouts and his brother who are residents at Mariner Pointe, had two other scouts and myself over as their guests to swim in the pool on the premises. I have yet to know a boy who while enjoying himself to the fullest didn't make a little extra noise while doing so. These kids are certainly no exception. The yelling that always goes on when kids get into a pool went on from about 8:30 p.m. to 11 p.m. Needless to say, the many negative comments that I received the next day made the episode sound worse than it really was. As an end result, I took the comments to mean, "Please don't return."

These kids might just as well have been off doing something new and exciting that would make for mention of them in the local papers under "Police Beat." However, if you are under the age of 18, they usually don't put your name in for those things anyway. So many times I read of our Island youth's involvement in some senseless doings.

The kids of today WILL run the world of tomorrow. I feel there is still time to stir them in the right direction, and I will continue to do all that I can to help direct them.

By the way, if you know of a large swimming pool where a group of scouts might be welcome now and then, please drop me a line.

"Natural pool" for kids?

A copy of the following memo was given to the Islander for publication:

TO: Sanibel City Council
FROM: Paul A. Howe, Taxpayer
SUBJECT: Municipal Swimming Pool

Reports of your June 12 workshop with the Planning Commission indicate that you favor the subject facility. Aside from the tort liability aspects, it appears to be a desirable recreational tool for the community's youngsters. There was a great merit also in the suggested utilization of a "natural pool." It would be both feasible and economical to provide and maintain. Such a pool is presently available in Bowman Beach park area. An excellent location would be in the immediate vicinity of the existing wooden footbridge over Old Blind Pass located at the foot of Bowman's Beach Road.

The needed water and land is now in public ownership and should prove adequate to maintain a satisfactory water quality. The sheltered nature of the site permits year-round use. The greater buoyancy of the salt water should enhance the safety and performance of the competitive swimmers.

The tax-supported capital outlay and maintenance cost features of the proposal should be closely examined before any definitive action is accorded it. Particularly pertinent is the fact that the site is in the County's proposed Regional Park. Total funding would, therefore, be appropriate from county-wide sources - with State participation.

Respectfully,
Paul A. Howe

Lee Tran wants input

Dear Editor:

As I am sure you're aware, Lee County Transit (Lee Tran) and the City of Sanibel are holding workshops on Sanibel, June 19 at MacKenzie Hall on Palm Beach Road. Assistance from the newspaper will be very helpful in determining transit needs for the Island.

We have received inquiries on what people might do to support the need for transit if they are unavailable to attend the meeting. We would appreciate it if a brief survey could be put in your paper so people might fill it out and send it to us.

ARTS and ARTISTS

The Arts in Public Places Program of Metro-Dade County (Miami) is hosting an International Competition for two major public artworks. Both commissions are for large-scale outdoor industrial sites near Miami. All appropriate media will be considered. Artists commissions: $120,000 and $40,000. Entries must be received by August 1, 1980. Contact: Art Coordinator, Art in Public Places Program, 140 West Flagler Street, Suite 1108, Miami, Florida 33130.

The Lee County Alliance of the Arts invites you to share your talents with them. Volunteers are needed at the Lee County Arts Center, 5111 McGregor Boulevard, to type, telephone, greet people, file and generally be an agreeable staff. Please donate a few hours a week to uplift the state of the arts in Lee County.

For further information call the Lee County Arts Center at 939-2787.

The Lee County Alliance of the Arts invites the public to an outdoor concert of cosmic music by Emerald Web at the Lee County Arts Center, 5111 McGregor Boulevard on Tuesday, June 17, at 8 p.m.

Admission is $2.00 for those 12 and older and $1.00 for those under 12. Tickets are available at the concert.

The concert features flutes and a wide variety of synthesizers. Musicians Bob Stohl and Kat Epple create this beautiful, ethereal sound. Don't miss this very special concert.

Extra, extra, read all about it! The Fort Myers News-Press is sponsoring a Kodak Photo Exhibit at Coralwood Mall from Monday through Saturday, June 23-28.

The pictures to be exhibited are the winners of the Kodak International Newspaper Snapshot awards. This contest was held last year for amateur photographers in the United States, Canada and Mexico who competed through their Metropolitan Daily Newspapers.

The prize-winning photographs will be displayed all week during store hours. The styles and subject matter are extremely diversified, but they all show a common knowledge of the art of photography.

The Lee County Alliance of the Arts cordially invites you to attend a reception for artist Philecia and her pen and ink show Impressions in Black and White at the Lee County Arts Center, 5111 McGregor Boulevard, on Sunday, July 6 from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m.

Philecia earned her B.F.A. at the well known Pratt Institute in New York. Her Masters Degree was awarded by C.W. Post College of New York. She has won many awards such as the prestigious Salmagundi Scholarship Award for Graphics in New York. Her works have hung in the Hecksher Museum in Huntington, New York and are in private collections as well as public institutions.

Philecia's pen and ink show, Impressions in Black and White, will be open for viewing at the Lee County Arts Center, 5111 McGregor Boulevard, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. through July 29. The public is invited. Admission is free.

CDM now QTD

"It just came to me," said Bill Boyd, new part owner of Casa Del Mama, on how he thought up a new name for the restaurant. "The Quarterdeck," reads the new sign in front of the former CDM on Periwinkle Way.

The old sign will come down Wednesday night ("I think maybe we'll burn it and roast hot dogs over it," Boyd laughed) and on Thursday, June 19, CDM will officially become QTD.

"The menu is going to be all seafood, for lunch and dinner," Boyd said. "We wanted a name with the sea or ships to get people to think about seafood."

Boyd and his associates had a good time thinking up names, he said. "We'd just toss them out and laugh." What were some that didn't make it? "Fisherman's Table," "Captain's Table," and "Casa Del Papa."

Elementary registration

This is to remind parents to pre-register their children who are entering Lee County schools, for the first time, before June 20, 1980 at the elementary school they will be attending. Please be sure to bring the child's birth certificate and certificate of immunization.

Rotary president attacked

Sanibel resident, John Murray, president of the Sanibel-Captiva Rotary Club was "attacked" by Rebel, the Sanibel Police Department's K-9 animal, last Friday in the parking lot of the Timbers Restaurant. John was a volunteer in the K-9 demonstration that was presented by Betty Weir, a Sanibel police officer with her K-9 animal. John was invited to try his hand at "escaping," but Rebel quickly cornered him. John was not injured.

Betty was assisted by her fellow police officer, Jamie Phillips, who acted the part of a gunman, firing shots at Betty, and was soon overwhelmed by Rebel.

Correction!

In last week's article on the fire insurance rates for Sanibel we forgot to mention the 12 volunteer firemen associated with the Sanibel Department. According to Lt. Charles Frederick, "On Sanibel we can't get along without our volunteers." We apologize for our omission.

on the water

by capt. mike fuery

When we think of shark fishing, the JAWS syndrome always seems to get the upperhand in our imagination but, realistically, there is some great angling for these fascinating creatures right here in our backyard...well, back bays.

Perhaps you have heard of the blacktip shark. People who have fished for them in other parts of the state sometimes call them "spinners" because they take to the air like a tarpon when hooked. Either way, the blacktip is a top gamefish and one of the few local sharks that make a fine meal

I think that most fishermen discover the blacktip shark by accident: I know I did. We were fishing for sea trout near the north set of powerlines in Pine Island Sound, using shrimp and popping corks. One person in my charter group threw his outfit off the bow and sat back, waiting for one of the little one-pound trout we were catching to gurgle the cork under the water

The next thing he knew, his line was slicing through the water and his cork was now at the stern, heading away from the boat at an alarming rate of speed. It was great fun while it lasted. We had only 20-pound leader and 12-pound mono line. I caught a glimpse of the fish - it was probably three feet long, its black tipped fins easily identifiable. It was just too strong for what we were working with at that time.

As I have talked with local fishermen over the years, I have found that there are many who like to fish for, and better yet, to eat blacktips. And not just the small ones either. Five and six footers also make great meals. This week, let's go over some of the ways to get one of these fish to your boat.

First, I would have to say, you need a boat to get to the best places, although some are taken from the beach on Sanibel and Captiva Islands.

Probably one of the most productive spots for the blacktip is in the middle of Pine Island Sound, between the two sets of powerlines. My favorite is off Chino Island and I think you will do best in this area this year. I have to move around, but to the west and northwest of Chino there seems to be a flats area that the sharks love.

Perhaps you will recall that this same area was once a favorite spot for tarpon fishing, but in recent years the big silver fish have taken up hunting spots in different locations.

Once you get to this shallow section of the Sound, I would suggest rigging with steel leader. Any shark can cut a monofilament leader in a matter of seconds. I would go with as thin a leader diameter as possible. Next, you will need size 6-0 hooks with a couple of 5-0's and 8-0's along for insurance purposes if the fish are throwing the sixes.

Live bait, such as pinfish, pigfish, mutton minnows and small mullet work well for the blacktip. If you float the fish under about two or three feet of leader, with a cork, you will be able to drift the flats and perhaps find one of these blacktips.

They have been known to school at times, but most often you will come upon single fish here.

The folks who eat these sharks say they are very good, but you have to act quickly when they are boated. First, you should kill the fish as soon as possible. Within say, 20 minutes, the tail section (that is from the dorsal on back) should be cut off from the rest of the fish and put on ice. Let the meat bleed and keep it cold. The fish spoil easily and that's the reason for fast action once you've got one on board. Shark "steaks" are white meat, with no heavy taste. The skin should come off easily when cooked and the rest is white meat. Good eating and good shark fishing!

For Captiva Island Gulf side, subtract 30 minutes from each high tide, and subtract hour and 16 minutes for each low tide.

For Captiva Island, Pine Island Sound (Bay) side, add 1 hour and four minutes for each high tide and add 52 minutes for each low tide.

In between these points, gulf or bay, guesstimate and have good fishing and or shelling.

Shelling Tips

By Mike Fuery

It's hard to believe that a shell could be aggressive but, in the case of the King's Crown, a small band of shells can be a fascinating sight as they trail a dead shell (such as a horseshoe crab) and feed upon it later.

There are several sand flats in Pine Island Sound where I have come upon an overturned horseshoe crab and found it literally filled with all sizes of King's Crowns.

The shell we are talking about ranges up to three or four inches tall, but normally the found shells are an inch or two high. There is a ridge of "crowns" on the top and sometimes you will even find one with a second set of crowns. The double set shells are more valuable to me, when I'm looking for Crowns.

The shell is actually a conch and, like the Fighting Conch, is an active feeder constantly searching the shallow bay waters for other shells to feed upon.

Getting back to watching King's Crowns feeding upon horseshoe crabs, I can't help but wonder if they have some sort of communications system which can travel, for say, a hundred yards or more.

One of the last mass feeding sprees with Crowns and horseshoe crabs started me wondering when I found even tiny Crowns coming from 50 and even 100 feet away, aimed right at where the crab lay dead with other Crowns feeding.

The Crowns are the only ones I regularly see gang up on a dead creature. Perhaps, in the deep Gulf, this could happen more often.

While we are on the subject of unusual aspects of shells, someone in my charter group asked me the other day if sand dollars and sea urchins have any natural enemies. It seems that most shells chase and are chased by one another but I have never come upon anything eating a live urchin or sand dollar.

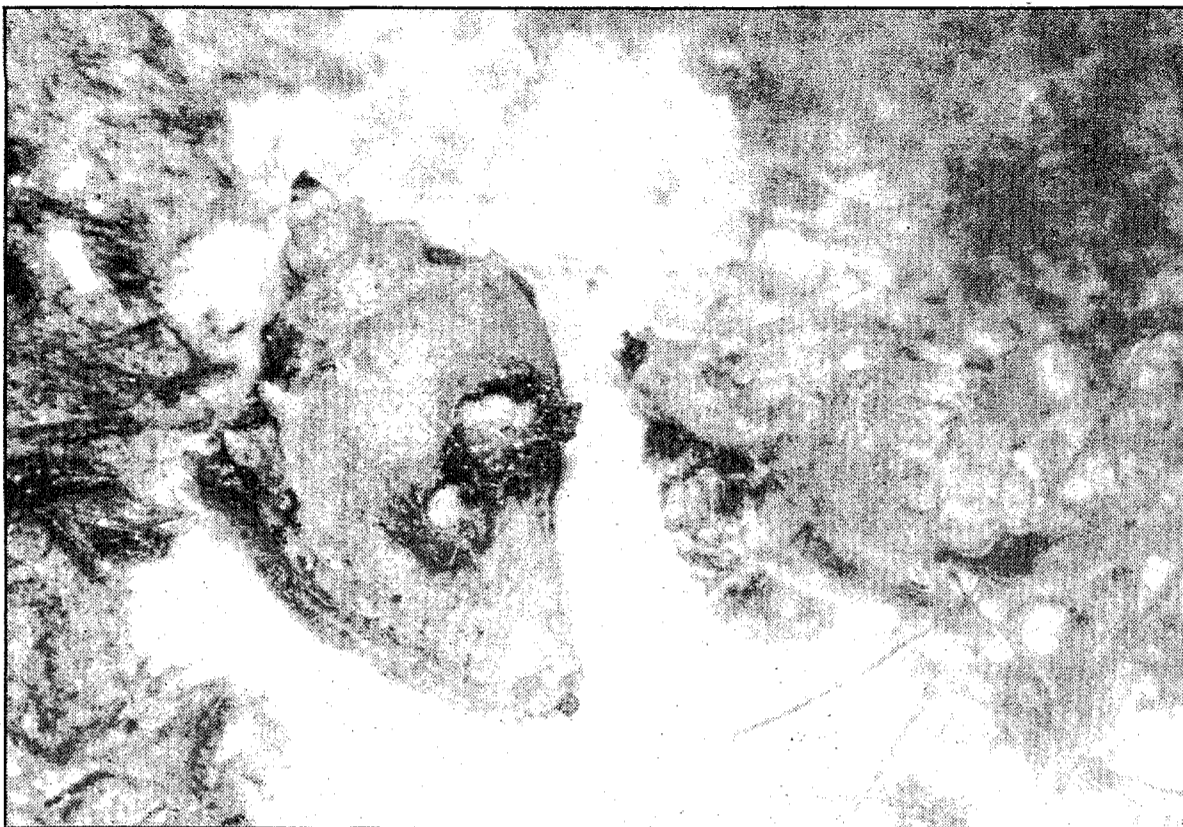

I mentioned several weeks ago that on occasion I have found "kills" of hundreds of urchins on some beaches, particularly on North Captiva Island.

I believe that a virus or some sort of disease is the reason for hundreds of these shells coming on shore.

The King's Crown is both the victim and the aggressor. If you do happen upon a colony of these shells feeding on a dead shell, it will usually be in a shallow area - so get a photograph of it, if possible.

Good shelling out there this week and keep in mind the shell limit of two live ones, per species, per person. Keep at the beaches; first thing in the morning is best along the more populated areas of the beaches.

The King's Crown is an active feeder, constantly searching for other shells to feed upon.

Fishing Derby Update

A snook weighing 26 lbs. caught by M.J. Barrett of Savannah, Ga. was just ½ pound away from the grand prize leading fish. Barrett's weekly winner was caught on pinfish, off Captiva, with Capt. Bob Sabatino.

The small 2¼ lb. seatrout of Sanibel resident Hank Ridall was good enough to win this week. Ridall was using pinfish at the Causeway when he nabbed his prize winner.

Richard Lea's heart skipped a beat when his prize winner struck. Lea was tarpon fishing in Boca Grande Pass when something struck his squirrel fish. Lea soon knew that he didn't have a tarpon, but his 23 lb. cobia was a weekly winner.

There were no redfish, or junior angler entries this week.

Sundial Hotel Manager Gregory Wilson, Diamond award from Hampton Dunn, and Advertising & Public Relations Director Jack Ronan, receive the Four-Diamond award from Hampton Dunn, AAA Senior Vice President.

Island resorts win AAA award

On Friday both South Seas Plantation, and the Sundial Beach Hotel and Tennis Club received one of the highest honors a resort can earn -- the American Automobile Association's Four-Diamond rating.

According to AAA, "The Four-Diamond rating is awarded only to those exceptional properties which significantly exceed AAA requirements in most physical and operational categories."

Under the AAA system accommodations are assigned an overall rating of one to five diamonds.

The Emergency Card...

It saves time, lives, and your healthcare dollars.

The Emergency Card® is one of a kind.

There is nothing else like it. It is the card carried by members of the National Emergency Network®, the world's most comprehensive medical identification system and total emergency service—developed by emergency physicians, emergency nurses, and rescue specialists.

It will be the most important card you carry.

Because it is the key to help when you need it. Anywhere, at any time. And the Emergency Card® can help you in any emergency.

You will also be able to contact the National Emergency Operations Center® free of charge from anywhere in the world. Our operators can give doctors more detailed medical information about members in an emergency. They can also give you direct help by referring you to doctors, hospitals, or police. If necessary, we can actually dispatch assistance to you in an emergency.

It's there when you need it, and it's easy to use.

You may use the Emergency Card® anywhere in the world to get help when you need it. And the Emergency Card® may be presented at any hospital or medical facility to give those helping you the information they need—information designed to save admitting time, verify insurance coverage, and give you prompt treatment as well as the right treatment. Because in an emergency, you don't have time for paperwork, and those helping you don't have time to guess about your medical background.

It can save your healthcare dollars...

The Emergency Card® contains vital information about you and your medical history, and this information helps to avoid unnecessary and prolonged tests in hospitals.

And when tests are avoided, dollars are saved—your healthcare dollars.

And it might save your life.

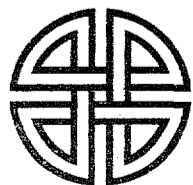

The information on the Emergency Card® and the help our Emergency Operators can give you could save your life, especially if you have a medical condition, an allergy, a medical history, or take medications. Because in emergencies, this kind of information can save lives.

Can you spend a penny a day to protect yourself in emergencies?

By joining the National Emergency Network® and carrying the Emergency Card®, you will be able to go anywhere at any time, and you will know that you can get help when you need it. You and your family will feel more secure because you will be more secure.

Join the National Emergency Network®, and get the Emergency Card® today.

Police Beat

By Pat Harmel

There were stingray encounters, would-be burglars and deceased animals on the police blotter for last week.

The mystery of the missing "Ding" Darling Refuge boat was also solved this week when an Islander called to report he had found a sunken boat near the southeast shore of Tarpon Bay. The caller raised the boat and left it at the Tarpon Bay Marina - a computer check later revealed it was the boat missing from the Refuge for several weeks.

Sixteen porch screens were slashed at the Wegryn Clinic on San-Cap Rd. last week but SPD investigators were unable to locate the instrument used. It was not apparent whether someone was trying to gain entry or just interested in destroying the screens.

Several Island thefts were also reported: the owner of Oh, Susanna's in Periwinkle Place reported her purse stolen from the store, possibly by two customers; an Island visitor who had stayed at both South Seas and the Castaways reported a wallet stolen from one of her rooms; a set of keys and a pair of shorts were reported stolen from a parked van; several bikes were reported missing and a five foot tall, 250 pound palm tree was reported stolen from the Sanibel Standard Station.

On Saturday several people called to report a group of young men traveling the Causeway and the Island "mooning" passersby. The SPD was unable to locate the group described.

A mutilated sea turtle reportedly washed up on Bowman's Beach and Caretta head, Charles LeBuff, was contacted. A coral snake was sighted - and then run over - by an Island resident at the corner of Atlanta Plaza and Capital City Roads. The SPD was contacted and verified the snake's demise at the scene.

The SPD also received a call from a concerned citizen that he had just hit a racoon in front of the Timbers on San-Cap Rd. The SPD arrived to find the animal dead, whereupon he was pushed gently to the side of the road. According to the police report, however, the caller was distraught that the SPD did not take further action. It was explained that officers do not carry the necessary equipment to conduct burials with.

Sports Jamboree

By Bill Motchan

Duffy Traucht dug his feet in and stared straight ahead. In front of him lay his nemesis: the tire course. Many brave six-year-olds had gone before Duffy and failed; their limber but short legs fell victim to the maze of whitewalls.

"On your mark, get set, go!" barked the starter, and Duffy was off like a shot. When he got up to the row of tires, he just kept running - right on past them.

Naturally, he was called back to start again. The look in his eyes seemed to say, "I wonder if Bruce Jenner started this way?"

For Duffy and 122 other Island youths, it was a day of joy, frustration, and by the end, exhaustion. The event was the annual Sanibel Police Recreation Club's Sports Jamboree.

Held last Saturday, the Jamboree's contestants and spectators braved 90 degree temperatures to see a junior olympic competition and enjoy free hot dogs.

SPD Officer Dick Noon, organizer of the Jamboree, started off the day addressing the competitors in true Knute Rockne fashion.

"To win a trophy," Noon said, "you've got to get the high point total - and the only way to get the high point total is to go out there and be competitive - get out there and try the best you can!"

With those words, the Island kids were off and running . . . and jumping and throwing. The track and field events included the frisbee throw, shotput, standing broad jump, and runs of 60, 100, 220 and 440 yards.

As each event ended, the results were posted. Mark Leonardi had finished two events and searched the list of winners.

Competition was fast and furious at the Jamboree. Just a few of the events were: frisbee throw (far left); tire course; shot put and (left) standing broad jump.

A summer recreational program for the Island children aged kindergarten through high school will be held at the Sanibel Elementary School through July 18. The days are Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. and involve indoor and outdoor sports, games, arts and crafts and films. A visit to the library for primary children is scheduled on Wednesdays. Registration began yesterday, June 16, and will continue through this week.

his head, Mark lamented. "Oh, we gotta get some points." Scares and pains of the competitors nothing, however, to match the of Dick Noon, in fact, fell victim to an hot shower following the water throw. "I'll get even with all of you ming practice," Noon said. Kids competing in the Jamboree "City of Sanibel Olympics" T and almost everyone got ribbons. At the end, the high point totals were ed, and trophies were presented. Jamboree winners were: six and Joel Cramer and Susanna Stern; ar eight year olds, Brian on and Lisa Fenton; 10 and 11 year ke Elias, Katy Krepin and Melanie 12-14 year olds, Art Lewis and e McCann; 15-18 year olds, Mike vich.

Jean Hayford

Age: "Well, I'm way over 50!"

Height: 5' 1"

Roots: Ottumwa, Iowa

Mentor: "Jay Darling. Why he helped design this house."

Last Book Read: "Growing Native, by Dick Workman."

Wish: "That we still had the ferry. We wouldn't have had the growth here that we've had."

Words of Wisdom: "That's foolish. Everybody has their own thoughts and reasons and they don't like being dictated to."

Pleasures: "Reading and gardening."

"When we started building here, there was just one house between here and the bridge," recalls Jean Hayford of her lack of Captiva neighbors in February of 1944.

That was the year that she and her husband began work on their new house - a lovely mid-Island home where Jean still lives.

Using sand shipped to Captiva and some from Bowman's Beach, the Hayfords helped shape their home, with the aid of hired help, by creating the bricks themselves.

"We had the block machine and they would make the bricks and set them aside to dry in the sun," she explains. "They made 300 to 500 bricks a day."

The Hayfords initially discovered Captiva Island in 1938 as winter visitors. When Jean's husband became plagued with health problems six years later they chose Captiva for a permanent home because of the sub-tropical climate.

The 40's on Captiva was, for Jean, an era when she and her close friends "used to have the grandest time. We'd go swimming every afternoon. Then, at four o'clock, we were out fishing in our boats."

This same group of friends would often hold musicales where, according to Jean, they'd "sing forever," although she shyly admits that her role was to "sit and listen!"

Having been an Island resident for so many years, Jean has been witness to more than her share of hurricanes. In fact, she had lived here only eight months when she experienced her first big storm.

Two years later, when the hurricane of '46 struck the area, Jean played hostess to 25 friends and neighbors who had chosen her home as a haven against the storm.

"My mother was here and she went to sleep in the front bedroom," Jean recalls with a chuckle. "She got up the next morning and said 'I thought you were going to have a hurricane,' and we said, 'We did, but you slept right through it!'"

The leisurely days of musicales and afternoons spent aboard fishing boats are, for the time, just lovely memories. Now Jean claims that she simply doesn't have the time for such activities.

Since her husband's death in 1955, and up until recently, she had assumed the role of Vice President of Lee County Electric (her husband had been President). In addition, she is Director of the Statewide Rural Electric in Tallahassee and, still a board member of the Lee County Co-Op, is responsible for all business deals at the Co-Op.

"I don't have anything to do with the actual electricity," she says of her position, "but I have the business of the running of the Co-Op. It's mainly the engineers and the working people at the Co-Op that you just have to oversee."

Representing Captiva and Sanibel, Jean is involved in the confrontation between the Co-Op and the City of Sanibel concerning the installation of underground power lines and will be meeting with several architectural firms this week to consider bids for two new buildings the cooperative is planning to construct.

"We (Lee County Electric) serve 65,000 people," says Jean. "When we first started out in 1938, we had 138 members. We didn't start growing here on the Islands until after the bridge was put in."

Jean confesses that local residents, once they learn of her position, call her with complaints about their electric service, even though she asks them not to.

"They'll call up and say, 'There's an outage - what's the matter?'" she says, mimicking her customers. "I say, 'Well, now, listen! You know just about as much as I do and I don't recommend you calling the office because you aren't only delaying the men getting to repair the job, but they're too busy answering telephones to get out there!'"

"I think I've just about trained all the people on Captiva not to call," she smiles.

When Jean attended Northwestern University (where her husband would later become a faculty member) in Evanston, Illinois, she majored in history and English while minoring in geology and botany. Her knowledge of botany is evident today in the beautiful lawn surrounding her home, which she proudly notes was personally landscaped with native plants from around the Islands. A stroll through her lush tropical yard reveals fine specimens of succulents, orchids and exotic trees such as the Hawaiian Monkey Pod.

Jean's English courses could also come in handy if she one day takes the advice of friends who urge her to put her Island experiences into writing.

"They want me to write stories about the early days here, but I say 'no thank you,'" Jean says firmly. "There are stories that I could tell, but I just don't think that it's time to tell them."

"I've had an extremely interesting life," she acknowledges, "but I'm a private person - very much so."

Schoolhouse exhibit features exceptional women

Green peppers, geometric sunsets and the mystery of Stonehenge combine to create a unique mixture of style and medium in the New Graphics exhibit now showing at Sanibel's Schoolhouse Gallery on Tarpon Bay Road.

In the four-woman show, artists Judy Targan, Jan Ehrenworth, Grace Treleven White and Judith Shahn display both originality and technical excellence.

Judy Targan's intaglio embossments "Dream Shell I" and "Wildflower I" feature the brightly hued title subjects superimposed on fitting embossed backgrounds - the sea shell being lapped by abstract waves and the flowers in a field of flowing wheat.

"Green Peppers," another intaglio by Ms. Targan, finds the crisp green vegetables amid a backdrop of embossed geometric shapes - a pleasing study of clear color and subdued texture.

Toasty earth colors warm the angular shapes in Jan Ehrenworth's embossed print "Spherical Interlude." In this work, a fiery orb slashed with raised angles is centered on a field of chocolate brown.

In direct contrast, Ms. Ehrenworth's "Circular Rhythm" and "Interspace State 2" employ pale melon, white and flesh tones, creating a soft aura that surrounds the embossments.

A recurrent Stonehenge theme appears in "The Giant's Dance," "Sarsen's Circle" and "Winter Solstice," three collagraphs by artist Grace T. White. In each work, the realistic stone formations of England's Stonehenge are featured beneath hovering arches or planets.

Ms. White's "variations on a theme" is continued in a series of mountain landscapes which include cork-like textures and the same rising moon found in her Stonehenge works.

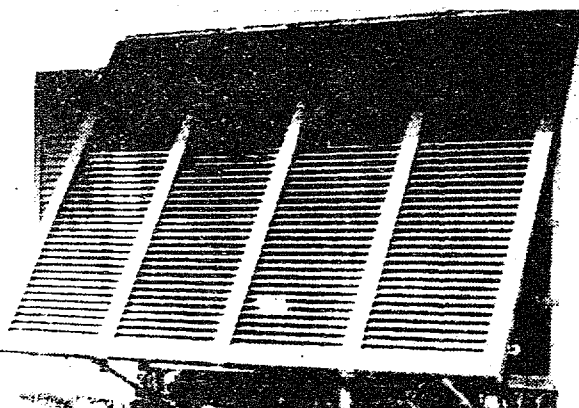

Brilliant colors and comfortable settings lend charm to the still life serigraphs and silk screens of Judith Shahn. "Interior With Red Leaves," depicting a vase of bright leaves and a matching braided rug, bring to mind the coziness of a country home.

Stocked, pleasantly disorderly shelves in "Still Life With Paints" are overflowing with an artist's tools of the trade. Glue, tape, brushes and even Crayolas are portrayed in cheery, whimsical hues by Ms. Shahn.

This exceptional and colorful graphics exhibit will be on display through June 30 at Schoolhouse Gallery, at the intersection of Tarpon Bay and Island Inn Roads, daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. except Sunday and Monday.

SWIMMING

By Mark Harmel

Even missing seven of the team's stronger swimmers, the Sanibel Swim Team scored an awesome victory in Wednesday's Greater Lee County YMCA Swim League's first quadrangular meet.

The Sanibel team racked up an impressive 694 points, leaving 244 points for Lehigh, 174 points for North Fort Myers, and 107 points for Fort Myers' Swim Club.

In many of the age groups Sanibel swimmers finished first in each of the different strokes, including the 10 and under group where Jennifer Muench won every event.

"I thought we did a tremendous job," said coach Dick Noon. But Noon was more excited about qualifying 24 swimmers for the Greater Lee County YMCA team to compete in the upcoming AAU Gulf Coast Championship meet later this summer.

"Everything we have done has been looking toward the Gulf Coast Championships, our goal is to have 35 (Sanibel) kids qualify for the Gulf Coast." Noon has his sights set high too. "Our goal is to win the Gulf Coast Championships this year, and be the state champs the next year."

Kiwanis

The Sanibel-Captiva Kiwanis is sponsoring a new club, the Iona-McGregor Kiwanis, which is being organized by past business members. Committee Chairman for the new club is Ron Weaver.

The Kiwanis meet every Wednesday, 7:30 a.m. at Scotty's Restaurant on Periwinkle Way.

Rotary

On Friday, June 20, the featured speaker for the Sanibel-Captiva Rotary Club will be Sanibel resident Robert Sagers. His topic, for which he is well qualified, will be "Australia, As A Country." Mr. Sagers will cover the people, politics, climate and culture. He spent four years in Australia as the general manager of the Ken-metal Inc., business in Sydney. Mr. Sagers is a graduate of Drexel Institute of Technology, majoring in mechanical engineering. He is well acquainted with Sanibel, having visited here in 1965 and purchasing an interest in the Colony where he now lives in retirement.

The Sanibel-Captiva Rotary Club meet every Friday at 12 p.m. at The Timbers Restaurant on Rabbit and San-Cap Road

Coast Guard prep class

The Sea School Maritime Training Facility announces it's next U.S. Coast Guard Examination Prep Course for the Fort Myers area to commence on Tuesday, July 1, and running through Friday, July 11 (no classes July 4, 5, and 6). Classes will be conducted from 6 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. weekday nights at the First Presbyterian Church, 2438 Second Street, Fort Myers.

This intensive 36-hour cram course prepares candidates for either the Motorboat Operator Captain's License (6-PAK) or the Ocean Operator Captain's License (100 Ton). The U.S. Coast Guard will administer the written examination following completion of the course.

Sea School, with headquarters in St. Petersburg, Florida, conducts USCG Exam Prep Courses in major boating areas and in the cities along the Gulf and Atlantic coasts. For more information and enrollment, call Sea School collect at (813) 527-9104.

Edison registration

Registration is now open for the Edison Community College Summer Session on all three campuses. Students may now register for classes at the admissions offices of the college in Fort Myers, Naples and Port Charlotte. Courses begin June 19 and continue through August 9.

According to Joseph A. Roof, assistant director of admissions and records, several evening classes will be offered for the first time during this summer session. This session offers an opportunity for students enrolled at other colleges and universities to earn needed credits during their summer at home. It also offers greater individualized instruction due to smaller class enrollment.

For further information please call the admissions office at each ECC Center.

Beach clean up

A beach cleanup is scheduled for Sunday, June 22 and the public is invited to participate. The meeting place is at the end of Nerita Street at 1:30 p.m. Take Donax to Tulipa Way and turn left, go to Nerita and turn right. Groups will be assigned for each area. After the cleanup there will be a cookout with fun and games for everyone at the Lighthouse beach. Hot dogs and cold drinks will be served.

Health and Family Living

Seminar scheduled

A Health and Family Living Seminar will again be presented to aid participants in handling health and safety emergencies. After last year's program drew a full house, the forum is being held again in the Edison Community College Auditorium through sponsorship of the Division of Continuing Education at the college and the Department of Community Instructional Services.

This free program will take place Tuesday, June 24, from 12 noon to 3 p.m. and participants may feel free to come and go during any and all sessions. A question and answer period will follow each discussion period. The first session will feature Travis Fauntleroy and Daniel Rodriguez who will discuss the role of the Red Cross in disaster situations. Colonel I.J. Turon, director, Lee County Civil Defense, will provide information on disaster preparedness and Steve Juntikka, assistant chief of the Iona-McGregor Fire Department will explain the role of the citizen in fire prevention and use of the Vial of Life.

The final session scheduled to begin at 2:15 p.m. will present Terry Dillon of the Paramedic Service who will give a live demonstration of the new rescue helicopter. He will also explain life saving techniques and describe what to do before help arrives.

To register for this seminar call ECC at 481-2121, extension 235 or 236. Registrations will also be accepted at the door on a first come first served basis.

Parents learn about drugs

Cape Coral Patrolman Gene Fox and Richard Sapp, director of the Lee County Mental Health Drug Abuse Unit, addressed a group of about 50 Islanders last Thursday night on the problems of juvenile drug abuse.

The program, sponsored by the Sanibel Police Department, focused on education the education of parents as to what drugs are, who is using them and how. Two long tables were filled with various types of drugs and drug paraphernalia for the group to see - one paraphernalia laden table consisted solely of confiscated items taken from Sanibel juveniles during the last year and a half. The items exhibited, according to Sanibel Sgt. Ray Rhodes, represented only about a third of the total drug equipment confiscated during that time period by the Department.

Fox started off the program with a drug identification slide show illustrating the most widely abused narcotics. Included were: inhalents (Pam spray, kerosene, gasoline, airplane glue); drugs that are smoked and the paraphernalia involved (marijuana, roach clips, bongs, hashish oil, exotic and homemade pipes); pills (amphetamines, qualudes, methedrine, LSD, PCP) and drugs that are injected or snorted (cocaine, heroin etc.)

Fox urged the parents to keep an open eye for signs of drug use in their own family. "Watch for aluminum foil," he said. "Kids carry drugs in aluminum foil." "You, as a parent," he continued, "have every right to barge in to your child's room. He lives with you; you don't live with him! If you had a roomer you'd sure be in there finding out what was going on. If your child had cancer you'd get help drug abuse is a disease too. Don't be an ostrich - get help."

Sapp reiterated Fox's message and further encouraged parents to take an active role in their children's lives. "We don't have a drug problem," he said. "We have a people problem. People take drugs, drugs don't take people."

Sapp advocated "a return to basics," saying that "sometimes we leave our families to raise themselves."

Sapp told the audience that drug abuse on the Islands was a reality, not a threat. "You've got heroin addict here on Sanibel

- not you might have - but you do have, and I'm talking the facts," he said.

"You as a parent have the right and responsibility to know what your child is doing," he said. "Is the parent raising the child or is the child raising the parent?"

Sapp urged the parents to open communication lines. "Don't run screaming, 'You've been taking drugs!,' he warned, "but sit down with them and say, 'I get the feeling that because of X, Y or Z something is wrong.' Point out your observations; inquiring is not accusing." Sapp also addressed the phenomena of 'recreational drug abuse' - when kids take drugs for fun - not because of their sordid homelives. But he stressed the fact that even a recreational drug user can soon become hooked.

Counseling, institutionalization, hospitalization and working through the Division of Youth Services were all cited as possible solutions to the juvenile drug abuse problem.

"But," said Sapp, "admitting that there is a problem is 50 per cent of the battle."

Shopping

Sanibel is a veritable shopper's paradise. Tasteful boutiques and casual Island shops join forces to present visitors with everything - and anything - a vacation shopper could hope for.

At the Lighthouse (Eastern) end of the Island, Punta Ybel Plaza and The Sea Horse Shops are right across the street from each other, providing a variety of products that can cure your sweet tooth or tickle your shell finder's fancy. Need a good haircut or coiffure? You can get it in either of these shopping centers. Most businesses open at 10 a.m. and close at 5:30 p.m. This holds true for many Island stores, although during the winter season, some are open evenings.

Tall Australian pines shade Periwinkle Way as the shopper travels west along this main thoroughfare. This stretch of road is truly a shopper's paradise! It's all here...the fast and not-so-fast eating spots, casual and elegant boutiques, hand-wrought jewelry, craft designs, shell shops and balms for health produce fanatics.

Watch to your right and left as you drive or cycle along. Photographic supplies, bait and tackle, deli foods, fresh seafood and baked goods, knick-knacks and what-nots can all be found along the drive to the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road. Along the way, shopping centers such as the Heart of the Islands, Periwinkle Place and Tahitian Gardens offer a variety of Island delights.

Palm Ridge Road, the Periwinkle Way turn-off to Captiva, offers several new shopping centers featuring everything from a gift shop for the discriminating shopper, plants and shells, to a sandwich shop, ice cream parlour, boutique shop and the Island Apothecary pharmacy.

At the Tarpon Bay-Periwinkle Way intersection, the Island Shopping Center features the Island's only supermarket, dry cleaners and moviehouse.

A left on Tarpon Bay Road takes the visitor past Sanibel's original schoolhouse, which now holds original island watercolors and woodcuts. Then on to West Gulf Drive and westward to an interesting little artisan's shop and gallery.

At the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road, you may choose instead to turn right and follow the signs to the Tarpon Bay Marina, where you will find a cluster of quaint shops overloping the back bay...Some antiques, shells and shellcrafts, what-nots and clever clothes can be found here, as well as a great seafood sandwich and soft drinks.

The spectacular ride to Captiva, with its lush foliage and enchanting view of the Gulf, is well worth a day's outing. Talented artists display their works in one roadside shop, while others feature some nifty gifts for Grandma to take home to little hands as a pleasant hodge-podge remembrances from the barrier islands.

Whether for shopping, or merely browsing, Island shops offer a surprising variety - from one-of-a-kind collectibles for the discerning shopper to postcards for the simple souvenir hunter and of course, for all shells, shell jewelry, shell lamps, just plain shells...the most beautiful shells in the world from the most beautiful shelling beaches in the world.

For Your Information

BEACH ACCESS

Sanibel has miles of public Gulf-front beaches, any one of which is only minutes from your lodging. Lighthouse Point is a stretch of Federal land on the Eastern tip of Sanibel Island, and from there, the Gulf beach is accessible again at the end of Donax Street, at Tarpon Bay Road, at Bowman's Beach Road (off Sanibel-Captiva Road) and Turner's Beach, which is located at Blind Pass, between Sanibel and Captiva Islands.

On Captiva Island, public beach access can be found at Turner Beach (which has public facilities) or further north, just past the entrance to South Seas Plantation.

NOTE: STATE LAW PROHIBITS NUDE SUNBATHING ON ALL FLORIDA BEACHES. VIOLATORS WILL BE PROSECUTED.

CAMPING

Camping on the beach is prohibited and while everyone enjoys a beach fire, you'll have to get a permit to have one on a Sanibel public beach. The Fire Department on Palm Ridge Road will supply you with a fire permit for $1. Their hours are from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. In addition, you'll be required to make a $25 deposit, refundable the day after your beach party when the beach has been inspected for litter and debris. Make sure you clean the area thoroughly or you'll be out $25!

Condo owners or managers may submit a letter to the Fire Department, acknowledging that they will assume responsibility for cleanup after a fire in front of their building. The $25 deposit will be waived in those circumstances.

GATORS

Feeding alligators anywhere within the Sanibel City limits is not only illegal (violators of the law are subject to a fine of up to $500, or up to 60 days in jail, or both), but can be extremely dangerous. Alligators can run 45 m.p.h., so if you're close enough to feed an alligator, he's close enough to feed on you. An alligator fed for fun loses his natural fear of humans and becomes a potential threat to children and pets.

FISHING

While no license is required for saltwater fishing, fishing in freshwater ponds or the Sanibel River requires a Florida fishing license - available at Bailey's General Store on Periwinkle Way. The fee is $3.75.

MINIMUM LEGAL LENGTHS:

Blue Fish	10 inches
Flounder	11 inches
Grouper	12 inches
Mackerel	12 inches
Mullet	12 inches
Pompano	10 inches
Red Fish	12 inches
Snook	18 inches
Trout	12 inches

SHELLING

The City of Sanibel Resolution limiting the taking of live shells to 2 live shells per person per species is one to be scrupulously obeyed. As a matter of fact, in order to preserve Sanibel's beautiful shelling beaches, most collectors refuse to take any live shells whatsoever.

SPEED LIMITS

There are varying speed limits (20-30 m.p.h.) as one comes across the causeway, and there is a very good reason for them...to preserve the bridge supports from strain and stress. This speed limit is strictly enforced with the use of radar on a 24-hour basis by both the Sanibel Police Department and the Lee County Sheriff's Department.

Driving or parking a motor vehicle or moped on the bike path is strictly prohibited. Violators will be ticketed.

BICYCLE RULES

If you're not used to a lot of bicycle traffic, watch out for it on Sanibel. The extensive network of bike paths on the Island is clearly marked along the edge of the road. Observe caution when driving near the bike path. A State law and City Ordinance combine to PROHIBIT PARKING OR DRIVING ON THE BIKE PATH. MOPEDS ARE NOT PERMITTED ON THE BIKE PATHS.

Planning on spending some time on a bike to enjoy the Island sun and sights? Make sure your vehicle is equipped with a bike flag, horn, good brakes and a light for night riding. Under Florida law, bicycle riders have the same rights and responsibilities as motor vehicle drivers. Drive Safely!

DOGGY DO'S & DON'TS

If you're visiting Sanibel with the family Fido in tow, all the better. All family members can enjoy Southwest Florida sun and surf. The Chamber of Commerce can tell you what accommodations are available for families with pets. Remember: wherever you are, clean up after your pet! The friendly reminder... "Leave nothing on the beach but footprints"...applies to dogs, too. There's no leash law on Sanibel, but of course an excitable or unruly animal is better off when controlled with a leash.

Offering a choice of canoe trips on the Sanibel River, through the Wildlife Refuge, or to Buck Key. Trips last approximately 2 1/2 to 3 hours and the charge is $15 per person. There are discounts available, however, so inquire about them when you call the above number for information and reservations.

To Your Health

TO YOUR HEALTH

While Sanibel and Captiva have no hospitals, they are served 24 hours a day by a team of paramedics who are widely recognized for their competence. In the event of an emergency, they will call upon the Air Four Ambulance, which transports patients to the hospital of their choice in the Fort Myers area via helicopter. The paramedics are based at the Fire Station, just off Periwinkle on Palm Ridge Road. Phone 472-1717 or 472-1414 or 936-3600

Tired of dealing with the goliaths of real estate?-- Give David a call.

David L. Schuldenfrei has formed Fantasy Island Property Sales and Management to do big things in a small way. Fantasy Island is big enough to take care of all your real estate needs - sales, rentals, housekeeping, maintenance, repair, remodeling and landscaping and more - and it's small enough to do all these things in a very personal way. If your real estate plans are bogged down with the big guys, call David for some old fashioned personal service.

Golf

The Beachview golfers kept the greens busy this week. They played their regular Tuesday and Saturday matches, and had an inter-club match scheduled for Wednesday that was changed into a Beachview scramble when the other clubs didn't show.

In the scramble, the team of Ray Martorelli, Hap Personett, Bob Dormer, and George Siri finished first at 12 under par. One stroke back were the second place finishers: Robby Wilson, Ray McKernan, Jeff Dean, and Bob Gibson.

Tuesday's match was won by Larry Simon, Bob Sagers, and again this week, Hank Groh. They came in with a plus six. Buhl Bergoyne shot the high individual score of plus four.

Two teams finishing at plus three sent Saturday's match into a sudden-death play-off. But on the first hole of overtime Tram Sessions dropped a long putt to birdie the hole and break the tie. Session's partners were Ray Howland, Jim Briscoe, and Rudy Mikulic.

The second place team consisted of George Siri, Bob Robertson, Charlie Uhr, and Don Purcell.

Islander wins Florida Press awards

The Sanibel-Captiva Islander, entering the Florida Press Association Better Newspaper Competition for the first time, was awarded a second place for feature writing, a second place for pictorial essay and an honorable mention in the best columnist competition in our circulation category.

We got our money's worth —and then some.

This is great! We're playing tennis and golf, taking it easy on the beach, doin' a little sailing, dancing at night and we're not spending a bundle.

Erad and I have our own place here on the beach at South Seas Plantation for two weeks every year. Plantation Beach Club sells interval ownership and we were able to buy just what we could use and afford. We've fixed the cost of our vacations and didn't let ourselves get tied down.

You see, there's this exchange program that lets us trade our vacation time at South Seas Plantation and go to other resorts around the world. So, not only can we travel, but we're not tied down to taking our vacation the same time every year.

Our friends Rob and JoAnn are also owners here, and we've planned to spend one week here next spring and then all go to Acapulco together. We really look forward to the vacations we can now afford to take.

We figure we'll get our money's worth in a couple of years —and then no matter what inflation does—we'll still be taking first class vacations every year.
