Commission discusses recreation millage increase

By Roxanna Motchan

Bill Hammond, Lee County Community Services Director, and Mike Roeder, Lee County Planning Director, appeared before Sanibel's Planning Commission yesterday to discuss the proposed ad valorem tax millage increase which will fund parks and recreational facilities in Lee County.

The increase, three quarters of a mill yearly for 10 years, would generate a total revenue of $38,890,000. This revenue, expressly used for County recreation programs and their maintenance, would be split into five categories: master parks list (development and acquisition of planned parks); return to planning districts (monies to be used at the discretion of the particular planning district in conjunction with the County's approval); libraries; bike paths; and operation and maintenance.

The City of Sanibel would contribute 7.7 percent of the total revenue, based on assessed valuation of the area. This is a total of $2,994,530.

Sanibel resident Conrad Lickel, the City's representative to the Community Services Advisory Committee, informed the Planning Commissioners of his support for the proposal.

"We have concluded that recreational needs are becoming more acute," he said. "The County has growing pains, and the competition for the tax dollar is becoming more acute. Parks and recreation facilities cannot be considered low priority. The dual taxation issue was laid to rest as far as this program is concerned because the millage will be based on property assessment rather than population."

Hammond informed the Commissioners that he had already appeared before the cities of Cape Coral and Ft. Myers, and also before the Lee County Commission, and they had all indicated support of the program.

"This is the only way we can continue with park development," Hammond said.

Roeder told the Commissioners that the tax would not go to public referendum until probably April or November of 1981 because a petition must first be circulated and five per cent of the qualified voters (or approximately 5,200) in Lee County must sign it, declaring a desire to have it to go to

Cockroach Control

Is the serious health risk worth the benefit?

By George Campbell
Photos by Bill Motchan

Every commercial Lee County pest exterminator (contacted by me) in a recent telephone survey uses a substance known as Dursban (a highly toxic organophosphate drug technically called chlorpyrifos) and they use it in a manner that is both illegal and dangerous to your health.

How can I make such a statement? It goes like this...The Center for Disease Control reports that on January 15, 1980, an 11 day old boy was taken to San Francisco General Hospital because of a cyanotic spell. This means that he had bluish discoloration due to excessive amounts of reduced hemoglobin in his blood. (Reduced hemoglobin is found in venous blood after it has given up its oxygen in the tissues.) This baby also suffered respiratory arrest - from which he was promptly resuscitated - but he remained limp and relatively unresponsive to needle pricks. His pupils were pinpoint size and there was excessive salivation. The doctors first suspected narcotic intoxication but soon ruled it out. The baby required mechanical respiration for 16 hours.

Everything about the birth of this baby was normal following an uneventful pregnancy. He was discharged from the hospital's nursery three days after birth, to a relative's house first because of the parent's concern over insect spraying around their home about the time of the child's delivery. The record is not clear as to exactly when he was taken to his parent's home, but it was inevitably after three days of age and before 11. Shortly after his arrival home the cyanotic episode occurred. The baby was bottle fed and the parents did not feel that the child had been directly exposed to the insecticide - although the house continued to smell strongly of the substance.

After ruling out narcotic intoxication, the infant was treated for organophosphate poisoning with atropine, the typical agent used in such cases, and immediate improvement was noted.

The medical conclusion was that the child had suffered from organophosphate poisoning, resulting in depressed cholinesterase levels. He recovered and was discharged to temporary housing.

According to the California Department of Food and Agriculture, who sampled the house for pesticides, Dursban (or chlorpyrifos) was found on dish towels, food preparation surfaces, and the infant's clothing.

Chlorpyrifos is a commonly used insecticide with a very long half life of 30 days. The use of this agent on food preparation surfaces is illegal. The infant's exposure to the pesticide was probably both oral and cutaneous and no doubt lasted during the relatively short time he was in the house. The clothing was probably contaminated when it was placed on shelving that had been sprayed.

After reading about this case I decided to find out how Dursban is used here in Lee County. I thought it a good idea to conduct a telephone survey of the pest control companies in our area.

I called four different companies and, having received similar shocking answers from each of them, tired of the exercise. The four I called are well known companies who advertise on TV and whose equipment is seen by the public almost daily. All of them acknowledged that they use Dursban or chlorpyrifos in the home and said that when it gets on food preparation surfaces in the kitchen, all they do is "wipe it off." One person even told me, "It doesn't hurt nothing, it's perfectly safe." Another said, "Dursban doesn't hurt you at all." Yet another company, which incidentally is a branch of the world's largest, said that Dursban is "perfectly safe."

Here we have four companies in our area that are using Dursban in kitchens to control cockroaches which, as we know, are euphemistically called "palmetto bugs." One of the four companies told me that to prepare my house for the treatment, I should remove all the dishes from the lower cupboards in the kitchen so that the cupboards could be sprayed and that two or three hours after application of the material, the surfaces would be dry - after which time I could safely put the dishes back and, "It's all perfectly safe and won't hurt anything."

Yet this is the same substance that is reported by the Center for Disease Control (CDC) to have caused the serious illness in an 11 day old infant! The CDC has this to say about the California case: "This case demonstrates several important points: (1) pesticides and other intoxications may mimic the 'sudden infant death syndrome,' (2) pesticides must be used with extreme care, particularly in home settings, (3) infants and children have increased susceptibility to such agents, and (4) pesticide related illnesses need to be reported promptly."

Mr. T. Wayne Miller, the Administrative Director of the Lee County Mosquito Control District, told me that Dursban is "very toxic" and that he would have "serious reservations" in using it himself in any of his insect control activities because of its toxicity to people and to non-target organisms. Mr. Miller is to be commended for his attitude.

I believe that the Lee County Health Department is not doing its duty when it allows Dursban to be used in kitchens by commercial operators in Lee County.

Bus service to Sanibel possible

By Roxanna Motchan

There is a possibility that Lee Tran bus service may be implemented on Sanibel Island between October 1 of this year and January 1, 1981. A final decision should be reached by the end of July.

Appearing before interested Islanders last Thursday, Lee Tran Director Tom Broadbent discussed bus service, listened to comments, and elicited information from the audience regarding the need for mass transit.

"I will listen and take notes and compile the information you give me today," Broadbent said. "We implement any route changes or expansion plans each Fall."

Broadbent answered questions concerning cost, frequency of service, and handicapped facilities.

A one way fare to Edison Mall would cost $1. Broadbent said that Edison Mall would probably be the final destination of the bus. Many other routes are available from the Mall to other areas, including: downtown Ft. Myers, Lehigh Acres, Bonita Springs, and Naples.

"The amount of days we come to Sanibel will be determined by what we hear and see and how much equipment we have," Broadbent said. Members of the audience said that twice weekly service would be adequate for their needs.

Broadbent said that he envisioned a morning pickup, returning to Sanibel in the afternoon. This would allow plenty of time in Ft. Myers to complete business, visit the doctor, etc. The trip will probably take an hour and a half each way.

Handicapped service is available, but must be requested in advance. Some of the buses are wheelchair lift equipped. However, according to Broadbent, it is doubtful that lift buses will be used on Sanibel.

Sanibel resident Arthur Hunter said, "There are a great many in this room who have tried to prevent an overrun of people on this Island. After you establish a bus service this place will turn out to be another Coney Island."

Islander Alice Kylo agreed, saying, "We're right now trying to keep daytrippers to a minimum. We're smothering with them."

Broadbent said that since there would be no Sunday service he couldn't see that this would be a problem.

Approximately 20 residents appeared to listen and offer comments regarding Island mass transit. Following the meeting, Broadbent indicated disappointment in the turnout.

"I wish we had greater interest," he said.

CROW receives 3 unit increase

By Roxanna Motchan

Sanibel's City Council awarded a three unit increase in density to the Care and Rehabilitation of Wildlife (CROW) facilities at last week's meeting.

The Sanibel Captiva Conservation Foundation (SCCF), in an earlier offer to help CROW receive the request for density, had offered to allocate two of their dwelling units to the CROW project.

George Tenney, SCCF Board Member, was representing Adelaide Cherbonnier (CROW director) at last week's meeting since she could not be present. He explained that she had earlier turned down the SCCF offer because she felt the CROW request could "stand on its own two feet."

Councilmember Zee Butler said that she would like to see the SCCF offer incorporated in CROW's request, and Tenney agreed saying that it would "clarify the density matter."

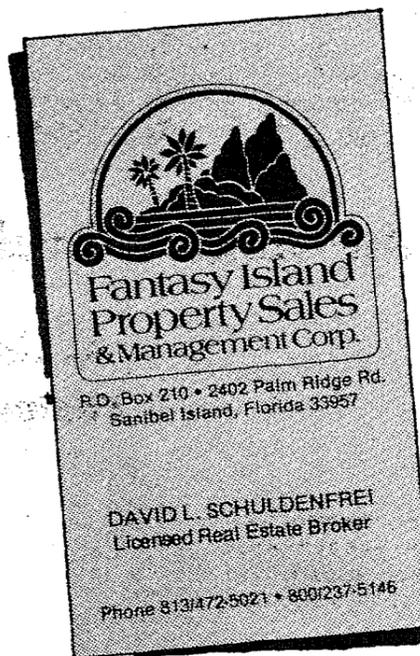

Mayor Francis Bailey indicated concern with the proposed exhibit area, which is a part of the request. The exhibit area would allow the public to view some of the animals who are almost well, but not in good enough shape to be released.

Tenney said, "There is a State requirement that there be some sort of public exhibit. We have no intention for it being a showplace. CROW is constantly being pressured for tours and such, but they don't want anyone in the injured animal area. There has been a misunderstanding of the purpose here. It just got blown out of proportion."

In her motion to approve the request, Councilmember Zee Butler said that the two units would pass into the hands of the SCCF should CROW ever "disintegrate." In this instance, the dwelling units should be used for the same purpose CROW needed them for, "students studying the Island ecology." She also recommended that the exhibit area be deleted and that a short form development permit be issued.

Bay Drive will remain a shell road

By Roxanna Motchan

Bay Drive will remain a shell road, City Councilmembers determined in a unanimous vote last week. However, City Manager Bernie Murphy was instructed by Council to explore the possibility of an alternate route out of the area.

Paul Lyon, Chairman of the Bay Drive Improvement Committee, submitted a document requested earlier by Councilman Porter Goss. (Goss was absent at last week's Council meeting.) The document showed the number of homeowners in the area who supported and opposed paving; 76 per cent of the owners in the area said that they would favor paving.

Councilman Duane White said that he had studied the issue thoroughly and felt that the only action Council needed to take was in support of grading and upkeep. "I cannot see at this time any necessity for paving," he said.

Councilmember Zee Butler remarked that Bay Dr. resident Ty Symroski had written a letter to the City which assessed the situation quite well. Symroski's letter stated that the proposed pavement is below City standards.

"It comes down to dollars and cents," Butler said. "It's very non productive for our City to enter into a program that does not bring a road up to our standards."

Mayor Francis Bailey said, "I think the road needs to be paved, but not if we have to come back in a few years and do it again."

Elinor Dormer, a resident of Bay Dr., suggested to Council that they consider Bay Dr. a scenic road and presented a copy of an ordinance adopted in New Hampshire to protect shell roads.

Lyon reminded the Council that even residents with no property frontage had indicated a willingness to pay for paving.

Butler commented that to proceed with paving would establish a dangerous precedent, and remarked that the possibility of finding an alternate route out of the area should be explored.

"We already looked into that," Lyon said. "But the developers of the Dunes subdivision will not permit this. In talking with the developers, we tried to guarantee them that there would not be more than 49 or 50 residents who are using the road, but they have guaranteed buyers of Dunes property no further use of those roads. Mariner Group is the developer of the Dunes subdivision."

However, Lyon admitted that an alternate route through the Dunes would be "a happy way out."

Sanibel resident Paul Howe said that the roads in the Dunes subdivision were public roads and that the City could, by the power of condemnation, acquire the right to construct a connecting road between Bay Dr. and Sandcastle road.

Councilman White suggested that Council ought to be "vigilant in working with the developer to gain the access road. Council should make known its desires, work with them, and follow this thing through."

Commission

public referendum.

The accumulated funds would be distributed in the following manner: 40 per cent would be for acquisition and development of area parks. In Sanibel's case this would be Turner Beach Park area.

Twenty percent of the millage would be returned to the Planning Districts to be used as they deem necessary; 15 per cent would be used for libraries; 10 per cent for bike paths; and 15 per cent for operation and maintenance.

Commissioner Bill Hagerup said, "I think it's a very good program, and the Advisory Board is to be commended. I, for one, am desirous of getting as much park area as we can off Sanibel, and I will support it."

"What happens after 10 years?" inquired Planning Commissioner Ann Winterbotham.

Roeder commented that her question was a hard one to answer since it was hard to get the taxpayers to commit themselves for even 10 years, but "we'll cross that bridge when we come to it."

Hammond and Roeder will appear before Sanibel's City Council to discuss the plan on July 1

Further Planning Commission considerations were unavailable at press time.

Would you believe Gulf oil?

Wouldn't it be wonderful if, instead of that scarce black oil we're always digging for underground, the water from the Gulf of Mexico could be used to produce energy?

Our ship may have just come in, figuratively speaking.

The U.S. House of Representatives authorized a $75 million project Tuesday to study Energy Department plans to develop ocean thermal energy in the Gulf Coast region and make it competitive with conventional energy sources by the mid-1990s.

Electrical energy would be produced from temperature differences in the Gulf, according to the plan.

The project would include two pilot facilities to be located somewhere on the Gulf Coast. Congressional sources indicate no specific locations have been picked because the project is still in the planning stages.

Also, though the plan sounds acceptable to House members, it received "authorization" Tuesday, but no funding, which means money for implementation of the project might be scarce in this year of budget-squeeze.

The chances of a facility being built in the local area are unclear, but it is surmised by Washington insiders that at least one of the two facilities will be built on the north Florida or Panhandle coastline. The reason for that supposition is that Rep. Don Fuqua (D-Altha) is the sponsor of the bill, and his district extends from Bay County through the Panhandle.

Passed by a voice vote, the bill calls for development of a test system capable of producing one megawatt (one million watts) of power this year, with subsequent construction of a 100-megawatt plant in 1986 and a 500-megawatt plant by 1989.

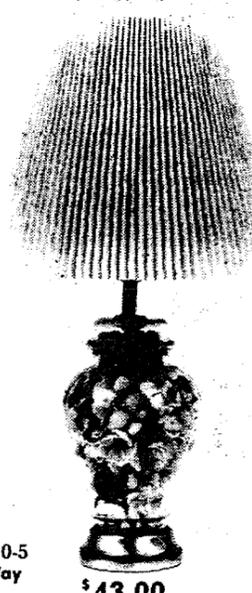

The bill, which now goes to the Senate, would require the Secretary of Energy to submit to Congress within nine months a detailed plan for development of the program.

It urges a national goal of 10,000 megawatts of electrical capacity by the end of the century.

In Your Opinion

Attention: Lord of the bikepaths

Dear Editor:

Whoever the "lord-of-the-bikepaths" on Sanibel is, had better open their eyes, or even better - start biking or jogging from the end of the existent bike path on the San-Cap Road at the Ding Darling entrance towards Captiva to see the extreme need for this extension before there is a fatality. Hazardous conditions is too soft a term to use in describing this stretch of road.

We don't have (or want) the population explosion other areas of the Island have had to "speed-up" acquisition - ours is plainly speaking, DANGEROUS!

We have heard both excuses of land acquisition and county-owned probabilities and yet know anything can be done on Sanibel if the powers-to-be give the right nod.

Check the police reports listing accidents from the American Legion to Bowman Beach Road and then add the near misses that can only be known by those of us traveling the road and living here.

The need is real - please take action before life is lost.

Rotary Committee report

A copy of the following letter to Rotary President John Murray was given to the Islander for publication:

Dear President John,

The Rotary Handicapped Committee has written an editorial to the people of Sanibel and Captiva in an endeavor to determine the needs of the handicapped. So far response has been poor, but there has been some.

Most of the problems seem to concern architectural barriers or accessibility to public areas. Unfortunately, architectural barriers and accessibility are not the only obstacles confronting disabled people. Equally disturbing are the problems in communication, education, transportation, legal problems and, to a lesser degree, the attitude of people toward their counterparts who have physical or mental impairments.

The latter problem is decreasing. A 1978 study by the research firm of Yankelovich, Skelly and White showed that Americans now believe that more should be done to meet the needs of handicapped people.

Inaccessibility costs all of us money because it prevents so many people with restricted mobility from getting off the Social Security rolls and becoming tax paying workers contributing to the national economy.

Yet the cost of keeping architectural barriers intact are high. In a recent book by Frank Bowe, "Rehabilitating Americans," he estimated the cost of inaccessibility at $100 billion dollars per year, rising to $200 billion dollars per year during the '80s. It would cost the public and private sectors approximately $20 billion dollars to remove most of the architectural barriers. It makes practical economic sense to deal with this civil rights issue.

Months ago the American National Standard Institute (ANSI) addressed the subject of architectural barriers to some extent. They issued a revised publication, A117.1 entitled "Specifications for Making Buildings and Facilities Accessible to, and Useable by, Physically Disabled People." These specifications were formulated with the aid of disabled people, and adopted on March 3, 1980. Recently, the President's Committee on the Employment of the Handicapped, in executive session, presented the (ANSI) viewpoint, that Standard A117.1 should be adopted by the Federal government as the single standard for making all Federal and Federally funded facilities accessible.

We have urged the Sanibel City Council to consider this Standard for the proposed City Hall, and to incorporate this Standard into the present building codes for buildings accessible to the public at large. To their credit they indicated this was a consideration in their planning.

The accessibility issue is also addressed by the National Center for a Barrier Free Environment. This private non-profit organization functions as a clearinghouse, providing information on accessibility to disabled people, to architects, to designers, to rehabilitation professionals, to public agencies and to corporations. This Center has been instrumental in changing public attitudes about barriers.

Your chairman of the Handicapped Committee has been appointed to the Lee County Handicapped Committee (newly formed), by the Sanibel City Council. Dr. Eleanor Goldbloom, a well informed lady concerned with problems of the handicapped, will lend her expertise to this important community function.

Yours very truly,
G.J. Christensen
Rotary Handicapped Committee Chairman

Editors Note: Next week Mr. Christensen, in collaboration with the Islander, will begin a series of articles focusing on Island establishments that meet the criteria for providing services to the handicapped.

MUNICIPAL RECORDS

Mosquito landing pad approved

A request by Wayne Miller of Lee County Mosquito Control District for a helicopter landing pad in Bowman's Beach Park, just south of Sanibel Bayous Subdivision, was unanimously approved by City Councilmembers last week.

Miller informed Councilmembers that Sanibel Bayous subdivision developer, William Brodeur, had visited him after the first reading of the specific amendment, and suggested that alternate locations be looked at. After reviewing various sites, Miller reported that Brodeur concurred with the District and admitted that they had selected the best location. He subsequently withdrew his suggestion.

Councilman Duane White said that he had "mixed feelings" about the site. "I'm concerned about the tranquility and peace of mind of the residents in the area," he said. "But if it has to be, that probably is as good an area as we can find."

Miller informed White that the District has operated from that immediate vicinity for the past five years. He also said that work would rarely start before 9:30 in the morning and that larger helicopters requiring fewer trips are now being used.

Councilmember Zee Butler asked Miller what equipment would be kept at the site, and he informed her that no supplies or chemicals would be left overnight in that vicinity. "It's going to be used strictly as a heli stop," Miller assured the Council.

Blind Pass Condominium owner L. N. Pierce told the Council that the noise was "not intolerable, but when you have to go back and fix pictures everytime they fly over your house it becomes a nuisance. We like peace, quiet and tranquility."

Mayor Francis Bailey told Miller to use "all due caution subject to the concerns of the citizens."

Christensen appointed

Islander George Christensen has been appointed as Sanibel's representative to the Lee County Handicapped Committee. City Council voted unanimously last week to the appointment and Dr. Eleanor Goldbloom will serve as Christensen's alternate in the event he cannot attend a meeting of the Committee.

Recycling site proposed

City Manager Bernie Murphy informed Councilmembers last week that a two acre parcel on the south side of Island Inn Road would be the best location for a proposed vegetation recycling center.

When the recycling center is complete, residents and construction firms will be allowed to haul in unwanted vegetative debris to be mulched. Murphy said that the final details should be ready by mid-summer.

Murphy also reported that he had met with Malcolm Beattie, Ken Preston, and Herbert Reinsmith of the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation (SCCF) and it was determined that the project would cost approximately $20,000.

That figure includes both a chipper and a fence. Murphy said the mulch might be sold as fertilizer for a nominal fee, but most of it will probably be taken off island.

Buildback approval vetoed

A request for a specific amendment to the land use plan that would have allowed Sunset South Condominium owners to rebuild forward of the Coastal Construction Setback Line in the event of greater than 50 per cent destruction to the buildings was denied 3-1 by City Council last Tuesday.

Councilmember Zee Butler was the only member voting in favor of the request. Councilman Duane White made the motion to deny without prejudice - which means that in the event new information is uncovered which would change the situation, the owners may come back to City Council without paying an additional fee to bring the new information to light.

Councilmembers had originally decided to delay a decision until the Planning Commission review of the Comprehensive Land Use Plan is complete. City Manager Bernie Murphy reminded the Council that it will be several months before the study is finished.

Jean Reed, representing Sunset South condominium owners, appeared before Council to reiterate the feelings of the owners that the specific amendment should be granted because their buildings are in compliance with the CLUP in every other way.

Resident Paul Howe commented that when the buildings were built in 1969 they were not subject to the requirements of the Coastal Construction Setback Line.

Algiers under siege

The Algiers steamboat has been subjected to repeated vandalism, City Manager Bernie Murphy informed Councilmembers last week.

"The City is in the process of removing valuables and placing them in safekeeping," Murphy said.

Some of the damage includes stolen faucets and kicked in doors. SPD Officer Betty Weir has informed Murphy that children are always in the area of the boat trying to seek entrance.

A planning staff report will be made at the July 15, City Council meeting as to how the City may proceed with the use of the Algiers property.

Extension approved

A request by Dr. James Moseley for a 60 day extension on a building permit was unanimously approved by Councilmembers last week.

Moseley's house is approximately 80 per cent completed and building inspector George Blain said that Moseley was doing much of the work himself, but has hired professionals in order to complete the work as quickly as possible.

Palm frond renourishment

An amendment to the litter ordinance allowing placement of palm fronds on the beach to prevent erosion was passed unanimously last week by City Council.

The ordinance states that the fronds must be placed on the private property of the person placing the fronds, and that they must be secured to preclude creation of hazards to navigation by fronds drifting into navigation channels.

Periwinkle expansion denied

A request submitted by attorney John Wilcox for David G. Thompson to expand over existing office buildings at a location on 1633 Periwinkle Way was denied unanimously last week by City Council.

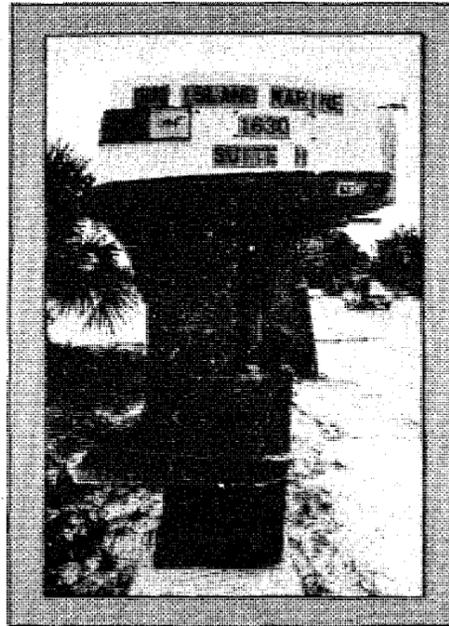

"I cannot approve your request because of the density already there," Councilmember Duane White told Wilcox. "Doing this would only contribute to an already deplorable situation and overly congested area."

Mayor Francis Bailey indicated he would support the amendment if he could be assured that it was only for expansion of existing offices.

Wilcox said that the additional office space would be used by existing tenants but "I can't tell you now that it won't be rented out by someone else in five years."

A mailbox is a mailbox is a . . .

City Councilmembers decided last week that a mailbox should be used to receive mail and nothing else. An amendment to the graphics ordinance was unanimously passed declaring that it "shall be unlawful to use a mailbox or mailbox supports for advertising."

One name may be used on a mailbox for identification purposes but a logo will be considered advertising. Letters are not to exceed three inches in height.

Decorative mailboxes serving commercial, restricted commercial, home occupation, or resort use must get their mailboxes cleared by the Postmaster and City Council by applying for a variance. City Councilmembers will then decide if they "are consistent with and promote the aesthetic pattern of the community, taking into account such factors as the standards of the ordinance and the Comprehensive Land Use Plan (CLUP)."

Pyramid scam hits the Islands

By Pat Harmel

An illegal, get-rich-quick "pyramid" game - the latest California rage and the subject of endless Johnny Carson jokes - has made its way across the country to Sanibel and Captiva Islands - where dozens of residents are emptying their piggy banks in hopes of reaping the promised $204,000 "gift."

The game, euphemistically labeled "a business opportunity" by its promoters, promises players "$204,000 without any risk" in exchange for an initial investment of $100.

According to Island participants, they were invited to a party by friends - with no mention of the game made. While at the "party" they were approached about the "business opportunity" which would pay off in big bucks - IRS exempt bucks. A mimeograph hand-out explains the game in detail and, despite frequent warnings from the party host to "not tell anybody about this," assures that the "concept falls within all current laws and has received approval of legal counsel."

For $100 each, the partygoers are invited to invest in the pyramid (although the word "pyramid" is not usually mentioned). New players pay $50 to the person introducing them to the game and are instructed to mail $50 to the person in slot number one on a list of 12 names they are given. "Make certain," say the instructions, "the cash is placed in the envelope wrapped in paper, data processing cards or inside a greeting card, so the postal service workers will not see the cash and be tempted."

But the "gift" is not yet forthcoming. In order to collect, the new player must first "sell" the list to two others, collecting their $50 and making sure they also mail $50 to the number one name. The number one person's name is removed after the sale and the other 11 names move up a notch - while the new player becomes number 12 on the list. A "monitor" is appointed to keep contacting new members to insure that they "sell" their lists and make their "investment."

Then, according to the instructions, "within approximately 12 days you will begin to receive your money. Your name simply has to move up 12 lines - one line per day." By the twelfth day, according to the instructions, there will be 4,096 memo's circulating - with your name in the number one slot.

There's only one catch, according to the instructions: "It does no one any good if you surrender this list to someone that is not responsible enough to administer it properly and meticulously. If this is kept as a No.1 priority, it will insure the validity of the list to each person involved."

The California version of the pyramid, which recently collapsed with the arrest of more than 300 participants, required an initial investment of $1,000. Obviously there is a finite number of potential investors and sooner or later someone breaks the chain - doesn't sell to two new members - and all the other investors get burned. California outlaws "endless chain games" and Florida, likewise, outlaws "Chain letters, pyramid clubs, etc."

Florida statute 849.091 makes illegal "The organization of any chain letter club, pyramid club or other group organized or brought together under any plan or device whereby fees or dues or anything of material value to be paid or given to any member thereof, which plan or device includes any provision for the increase in such members securing other new members and thereby advancing themselves in the group to a position where such members in turn receive a fee, dues or things of value from other members, is hereby declared to be a lottery, and whoever shall participate in any such lottery by becoming a member of, or affiliating with, any such group or organization or who shall solicit any person for membership...shall be guilty of a misdemeanor of the first degree..." punishable by up to one year in prison or a $1000 fine.

Perhaps that's why Island participants are urged to sell their lists within 24 hours, avoid contact with the police and keep no written record of club transactions or investments.

sovereignty land in the Captiva Island area.

The perplexing aspect was the differing opinions of two Department attorneys both predicated on their interpretations of departmental "rules" or "guidelines." Neither opinion, however, raised the question of such regulations possibly being based on a usurpation of Legislative powers and responsibilities.

Your attention is invited to Article X, Section 11 of Florida's Constitution which limits the sale and use of such lands to situations "in the public interest." Note that it also expressly states: "Private use of portions of such lands may be authorized BY LAW!" (emphasis added). That mandate clearly precludes the Executive Branch from itself deciding such authorizations.

Kindly clarify the paradox in this case.

Sincerely,
Paul A. Howe

Dave Kesler's

By Bill Motchan

Every night from 11:30 p.m. to 1 a.m., around 3,500 night owls tune their radio dials to 103.9 to listen to WRCC-FM's popular talk show host, Dave Kesler. The show is a forum for opinions of any and all kinds and has helped push WRCC to the number two station in the market.

What kind of person is Kesler? He is a friendly, laughing, silver-throated man who loves his work and loves talking to people.

"It's kind of a silly way for a 40 year old man to make a living, but it's fun," Kesler says.

Kesler is happy and probably secure in his job for the first time in years. But a year ago, things were a little shakier.

It was June, 1980, and, according to Kesler, he was doing his show one night when the station owner called during a commercial break and fired him.

"Well, the phone rang off the hook, and I answered it until one in the morning and my phone at home kept ringing until three in the morning," Kesler said. "There were people picketing the station and everybody wanted me back."

Kesler came back, but not for 10 months. On April 14, 1980, Kesler was hired back by WRCC's new owner, Mariner Properties, Inc.

"I'm Dave Kesler; I'm happy to be here," he said on his return. "Now where were we before I was so rudely interrupted!"

"In fact, the guy who I was talking to on the phone when I was cut off called back and said, 'now where were we?' and he remembered!" Kesler said.

Kesler's show revolves around call-ins, and he usually gets 18-20 calls a night. The callers make the hour and a half go quickly, but sometimes people just don't feel like dialing. What does he do then?

"Mainly sweat and worry!" Kesler says. "But I've got a lot of stuff I can read. News off the wire service or something in the newsroom; I'll go back to the past couple of days and talk about recent hot issues and shake their memories a little bit - then they'll start calling."

Kesler first became interested in radio in High School. He read announcements over the P.A. system and knew he had a good voice. It was at that time that he learned an important lesson about egos and personality.

"I was really interested in radio," Kesler says, "and I went to Tampa to a remote radio station to listen to a guy I really liked. He was one of the first rockers, a guy named 'Smilin' Brown-eyed Ed Bray.' He sounded so happy and cheerful on the air, so I went to see him.

"Well, he was a real horses' ass. I mean, just a total complete jerk. You know, a 'go-away-boy-you-bother-me' kind of guy. So I said to myself, 'If I ever get into this business, I'm going to be nice to people because that's what it's all about,' and I try to be."

Kesler's career in broadcasting took him from radio to television and back to radio again.

"I started part-time at WCAI (radio) and that fostered doing part-time at channel 20 (television)," he says. "I left 20 and went full time with WCAI, and two years later, left WCAI and went full time with 20!"

"I went from there to Augusta, Georgia, as news director at WRTW for 10 months. They had a revolving door for the news department. I think I was the fifth or sixth news director in three years. My turn came and went and out the door I went.

"I knew my limitations. I knew I wasn't going to be a network news reader. So I decided to go back to Fort Myers and get out of broadcasting entirely. I actually hired on in November of '78 as a salesman (at WRCC) and in February I took over the talk show.

"I did both for awhile, then left the sales department and went to Galloway Ford but kept the talk show. So, except for the 10 month hiatus, I've been doing the show ever since."

on the water

by capt. mike fuery

Just when I was beginning to think that I had heard all the strange stories about snook, along comes a couple from New York state hauling in a 29½-pound snook - caught on a sand flea!

The fish was at Tween Waters Marina to be weighed in for the Island Open Fishing Derby and to be made ready for mounting. As I filled out the form for the man, we came to 'type of bait used.' When he said 'sand flea,' those little shell-like light brown creatures, I couldn't believe it. He described the bait he used that afternoon south of Blind Pass and sure enough, it was a sand flea. He added that the flea was so small that he thought about using two, just for insurance.

That was the first and largest fish I have ever seen caught on a lowly sand flea. After talking with some of the guys at the marina, I learned that this lunker wasn't the only one that was weighed in during the past few days. Not long ago another snook, weighing 19 pounds fell to the same unlikely bait.

This brings up a good subject, and that is the changing diet of these much sought after game fish. A couple of weeks ago we ran a series of articles in the Islander on snook fishing and baits. I mentioned that the fish seem to like shrimp in the Spring, pinfish in the months of April and May and pigfish for the rest of the summer. But these big fish can be picky about their food.

The other day I was filleting a 16-pounder that a fella had caught with me early that morning. Inside the stomach (which should always be checked) were two sugar trout. If you fish the flats much, you know about the bait stealer called the sugar trout. I had never used them for bait before but I always carry a couple in my baitwell now.

Artificial bait users are prone to getting used to flinging one favorite plug and often get "blanked" at the ole snook hole when they could get results with a trial and error method of seeing what the fish are taking that day.

On a different subject, the jack cravelle is back in our waters in large numbers and as hungry as every. The only problem with catching these fun fish is that they can't be eaten - well, not as easily as snook or trout.

In Redfish Pass, where I do most all of my snook fishing, schools of jacks will tear into the baits we have intended for snook. A big yellow-tailed jack is a strong fish that will deliver a bigger fight than other fish of comparable size.

Speaking of the Redfish Pass area, a reef located a mile and a half west of the Pass is starting to deliver some fine grouper fishing for the anglers willing to poke around the area. It's marked with a white buoy at each end. A construction company is currently dumping more rubble on the reef and that will surely enhance the reef in the years to come.

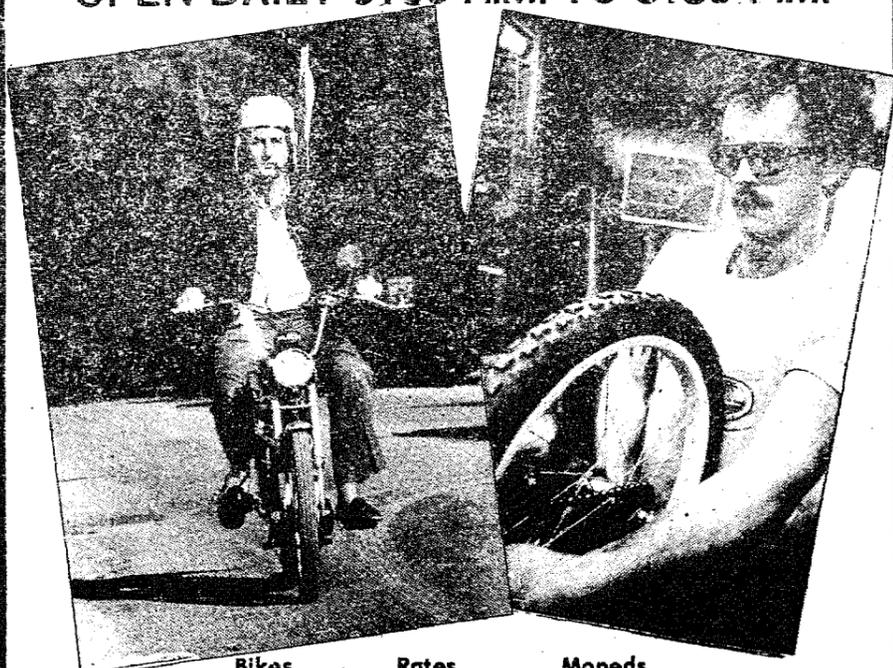

Reefs south of Sanibel Island near Naples have been producing some big catches of snook, along with other fish in season. If you have ever tried to drift a crowded pass on a big weekend, you can look forward to fishing for snook on a mile-long reef.

Remember, if you have a boat registered in Florida, you have until the end of the month to get the new decal on the vessel. The State usually sends you a renewal form, but they have been known to be late in returning the stickers for the side of the boat before the June 30 deadline. The Florida Marine Patrol recommends having a copy of the check or money order you paid the fee with so you can show an investigating officer when he sees your outdated sticker.

Good fishing this week and try a sand flea on those big ole snook!

For Captiva Island Gulf side, subtract 30 minutes from each high tide, and subtract hour and 16 minutes for each low tide.

For Captiva Island, Pine Island Sound (Bay) side, add 1 hour and four minutes for each high tide and add 52 minutes for each low tide.

In between these points, gulf or bay, guesstimate and have good fishing and or shelling.

Shelling Tips

By Mike Fuery

There are some funny aspects to shelling and one of the more common ones I'm asked about on my charters is how shells...well...what do they do to get little shells? I mean, without drive-ins down there under the water, how do teenage shells get in trouble?

I hadn't given this subject much thought, because of the theory that says if I don't ask them how it's done they won't ask me either. Besides, shells deserve their privacy too. But recently I bought another shell book and came across a reproductive chapter on shells.

I'm sure that those of you who have shelled the Sanibel and Captiva Island beaches for any length of time have come across the whelk egg cases. They resemble accordion shaped ribbons which house the tiny eggs of this popular and relatively abundant shell. That's a part of the life chain.

After reading over a lot of this information, most of which was very unstimulating by the way, I came to the conclusion that the girl and boy shells look about the same.

As you might expect, some shells have separate males and females and they reproduce a lot of the time without every touching each other. (It didn't sound like too much fun to me, either.) Then there are other shells that have both male and female equipment inside the same shell. These aren't gay shells, they were just built this way. Some scallops are like this. One book even said that there is a type of freshwater shell that reproduces "parthenogenetically, or without being fertilized by sperm."

I bring this all up as an introduction to what you will soon be seeing if you choose to walk the tidal creeks, backbays and sandbars of Pine Island Sound. This is the time of the year when the little shells are emerging and a careless person can destroy much of our future shell population without even knowing what they are doing.

King's Crown conchs are out now; some are the size of a pencil lead and others are perhaps the size of a pea. The small lightening whelks are also emerging from the warm sands of our Islands now.

I've come upon literally hundreds of tiny Crowns in an area the size of maybe an acre. For once, it seemed that there was a limitless supply of these shells. But natural predators, other shells, know where the tiny Crowns will be born.

It's the same with the little Horse Conchs and the Sunray Venus shells. They are all coming out now and it would be so wise this season to not collect these live shells. Many, many shells are killed in the natural feeding cycle (of big eating small and so on), and if you will look closely you should find some of these small empty shells for your collection.

As for the inside look at how shells do it, I really can't tell you much more. Knowing the pace that the average shell moves, it might take a male shell a year or so to catch a lady shell.

Good shelling out there this week, and remember the shelling limit of two live shells per species per person. Thanks!

Fish Story!

By Mark Harmel

It's the type of story that makes a grown angler cry.

Young Jim Toomy: age, 14; weight, 83 lbs, on only his second trip tarpon fishing at the famed Boca Grande Pass catches the biggest tarpon on the Islands this year.

When the 120 lb tarpon hit Toomy's line he immediately knew that he had hooked a whopper. Capt. Rocky Morgan gunned the boat to get them out of the pack and the 50 minute battle began.

With the fish still under water, its size remained a mystery until the tarpon jumped six feet into the air - and then they knew. One of the best fighting fish in the world, the tarpon both exhausted and out weighed Toomy, who accepted the help of his cousin.

The fish won't be hanging in Jim's bedroom though. A friend of the family, Dr. Leavell, who was on the boat but didn't get a tarpon, will have the fish mounted.

"So they went up to the Mock Turtle, who looked at them with large eyes full of tears, but said nothing. 'This here young lady,' said the Gryphon, 'she wants for to know your history, she do.' 'I'll tell it to her,' said the Mock Turtle in a deep, hollow tone. 'Sit down both of you, and don't speak until I've finished.'"

- Lewis Carroll

- Alice's Adventures in Wonderland

By Roxanna Motchan

The mystery of the sea turtle is as captivating today as it was over 100 years ago when Lewis Carroll wrote the fantasy tale, Alice's Adventures in Wonderland. Ritual, as ancient as mankind, repeats itself in the yearly pilgrimage of the loggerhead turtles who lay their eggs on the beaches.

Sanibel Island has long been a participant in the traditional ceremony, and I too, was a recent observer of one of the most interesting 'rites of passage' known to the natural world. Like Alice, I experienced my very own sea turtle adventure.

It was dark. Bailey's parking lot, our meeting place, was deserted. Clouds covered the moon, but occasional flashes of lightning sporadically brightened the sky. This was no clandestine meeting, but part of one man's yearly escapade.

"Let's go find a turtle," said Charles LeBuff, an Island resident and City leader deeply committed to Caretta (sea turtle) research.

Each year, from May through September, nightly beach 'turtle patrols' are conducted by a group known as Caretta Research, Inc. A jeep, filled with the knowledgeable and the interested, rumbles slowly off in search of the creatures.

The loggerhead turtle (scientifically known as Caretta caretta) has been going about this traditional egg-laying business for as long as it has been in existence. But now, due to encroachment by man and other predators upon the beaches, the loggerhead's presence is in great and immediate danger.

Caretta eggs were once considered a delicacy by gourmets, therefore, they were gathered up and sold. Other animals find them tasty morsels too - raccoons gobble up as many as they can find. Now, however, they are protected by Federal and State law, but intense development on the beach is still a discouraging factor.

When it is time, the mothers-to-be leave their home, the sea, laboring to make their way up onto the beach. Using alternate motions with her flippers, the female excavates a cavity in the sand, and deposits up to 200 eggs.

And then she weeps. Scientific explanation claims the loggerheads cry because the lachrymal glands in their eyes are adapted for taking excess salt out of their system. Therefore, on land, a continuous secretion is excreted.

But myth and literature prefer to think that the tears are caused by maternal happiness - or the turtles are saddened by the knowledge that they will never see their young.

"Nope, the baby turtles never do see their mommy or their daddy," LeBuff, Project Director and Board member of Caretta Research, Inc., confirms.

The sea turtles are capable of laying eggs up to six times each season. Each egg is approximately the size of a golf ball. It is leathery and has the ability to bounce a short distance. A mother turtle laying eggs this summer will probably not repeat the process until the summer of 1982.

Why do the turtles instinctively fight and crawl across the beach to deposit their eggs? LeBuff says that the eggs would not survive if they were deposited in the sea. Oxygen and minerals not found in the sea water are necessary for proper development.

Approximately two months later, the hatchlings emerge - less than two inches long, weighing approximately 19 grams, or two thirds of an ounce. What irony that a mother weighing in at almost 250 pounds can produce such miniscule youngsters!

Leaving the nest is not an easy process. Group effort is required. First the ceiling of the nest is caved in; then, using the sand which filters through as a staircase, the babies ascend. (It takes three or four days for each to leave the nest.) Finally, when the soil is cool enough (usually at night), the babies emerge. In a mass exodus they head for the sea, to go their own separate ways and continue the cycle.

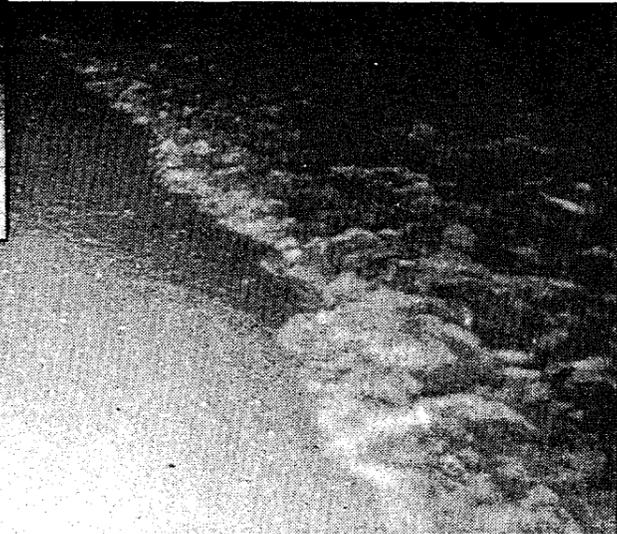

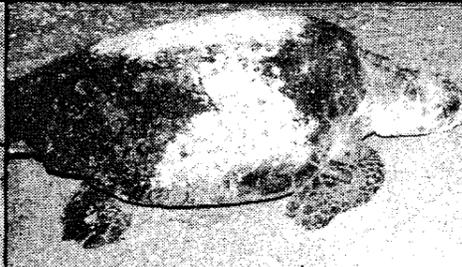

An important part of the research procedure used by Caretta is the tagging process. When a turtle is seen on the beach, after laying eggs and before it returns to the sea, it is flipped over on its back and checked for a tag. Many turtles have been tagged over the years and, if tagged, determinations can be made as to its recent history. Turtles without tags are given one. Not every turtle traveling to the beach will lay eggs, and this has been termed a "false crawl."

Caretta research has many objectives, including:

determining population trends in the Florida marine turtle community; studying factors of nesting and production success at various sites; promoting education and understanding of the Caretta turtle in order that people will work more diligently to protect them.

Memberships are available in Caretta Research, Inc. A student membership (under 18) is $5, associate membership is $10, contributing membership is $25, and certified membership is $100. For more information contact: Caretta Research, Inc., Post Office Drawer E, Sanibel, Florida 33957.

Fascinating creatures, the loggerheads. Their huge, sad eyes are most compelling. Excitement is contagious when a turtle is spotted, even when she's on a false crawl. Nothing can beat the exhilaration of a successful 'patrol,' but beware...it's not hard to become infected with turtle fever!

Island golf

By Mark Harmel

A very busy Beachview Men's Golf Association held four different events this week. In addition to their regular Tuesday and Saturday matches, the Association held a scramble on Wednesday and a mixed scramble on Sunday.

Playing blind partners Tuesday, two teams tied for first place. Ray Howland and Ray Martorelli, matched the plus seven score of Rudy Mikulic and George Siri. Also winning was Jim Briscoe for hitting closest to the pin on the seventh hole.

Back to regular foursome teams on Saturday, a foursome led by the plus five of Bill Estep set a blistering pace of plus 13. Everyone on the team finished with a positive score including Jeff Dean, Frank Rosen, and the ever present Hank Groh. Groh has now been in the money 13 out of 16 matches. George Siri tied with Bill Estep for high individual score at plus five.

At Sunday's mixed scramble the Sessions and the Oglethorpes were the clear winners at five under but everyone wanted to get into the act for second place.

Four teams tied for second. The Sirs and Mikulics, the Prestons and Wilsons, the Grohs and Howlands, and the Deans and Marsh with Puff all finished even. The deadlock continued through the first sudden death hole, and was finally broken when Rudy Mikulic sank a 40 foot putt on the second hole for a birdie.

Attention: Toyotas to Model T's

If the thought of folding a road map makes you cringe, you probably never thought about driving in a road rally. But anyone can enter the Sanibel-Captiva Lions Club Family Road Rally.

Scheduled for 1 p.m., July 4, the rally will start at the Dunes Country Club. Entry fee is $5 per car, driver and navigator; $2 for each additional passenger.

Each car team will receive a list of instructions and questions to answer along the route. At the end of the course, scores will be totaled and the top drivers will receive cash prizes totaling $200.

At 8 a.m. on July 4, a Lions Club-sponsored golf tournament is planned, also to be held at the Dunes. Entry fee is $6.

Derby update

Eric Schmidt, 14, of Ft. Myers Beach, is the new leader of the snook competition in the Island Open Fishing Derby. He also leads the Junior Anglers. On June 14, using pinfish for bait, he caught a 28 pound snook at the artificial reef off of Ft. Myers Beach.

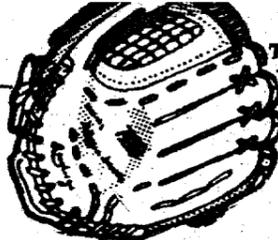

Joe Brock, of Lehigh Acres, was the lucky fisherman this week in the redfish competition. Using pinfish, he nabbed an 11 pound redfish on June 14 at Dixie Beach.

After last week's disappointing 2 1/4 pound seatrout entry, James F. Briscoe had no trouble beating that with his 4 1/4 pound catch this week.

A 27 pound cobia was caught June 12 by Gordon Cummings of Ft. Myers at the Sanibel causeway using pinfish.

A cool deal and a sound investment!

Install a selected Whirlpool central air conditioner before summer and we'll add a Magnavox stereo system for just $20* more.

Air conditioning costs can account for a large portion of your electric bill during the summer season, so it makes good sense to replace your old, inefficient air conditioner with a new Whirlpool central air conditioner or heat pump before the summer heat's on. And to emphasize what a sound investment a Whirlpool central air conditioner is for your home this summer we'll throw in a Magnavox Component Stereo System† for just $20* more, if you install your new Whirlpool air conditioner before July 31, 1980. That's a cool deal if there ever was one!

Tony!

By Bill Motchan

"Let's go, let's go, let's go!" implored Tony Franchi, coach of the South Seas 86er's of the Sanibel Softball League. Tony is prone to exulting his team with phrases in triplicate.

"You're on, you're on, you're on!" "Good hustle, good hustle, good hustle!" "Awright, awright, awright!"

Off the field, Tony is food and beverage manager for South Seas Plantation. For the last four years, he has coached the South Seas softball team. In 1979, they finished the season in second place and went on to win the Island's fall softball showdown, the "Noseeum Classic." What is the formula for the team's success?

"It's definitely a team effort," Tony said. "The team isn't built around any one individual. We're like one big family. And our attitude is great.

"Win, lose or draw, we're out there to have a good time," he said. "And a lot of the other teams have congratulated us on our attitude."

The 86er's attitude is extremely loose. They do have a good time -- and winning games seems to follow naturally. They are currently 4-1 this season, and seem destined to continue winning.

It is obvious that the team is fond of Tony, although they rarely get serious enough to admit it. ("What do we like most about Tony? -- he makes a great bowl of spaghetti," came the tongue-in-cheek answer of one player.) Tony let the remark roll off his back, but he is always ready to parry his players' good-natured barbs.

"What time is it coach?" "Time to play ball -- now let's go!" "Hey coach, when are we gonna get uniforms?" "I'm waiting to see who makes the team first," Tony shot back.

Franchi holds few practices and doesn't give the team any serious pep talks, but "if we play a little bad, we talk about it."

An emotional Italian, Tony often pats the heads, backs and stomachs of his players to show his approval of their efforts.

"I really like the guys," he said. "I've adopted them -- they're my family.

SPD may get power to fine and impound wayward cars

By Roxanna Motchan

A first reading of two ordinances which will allow the Sanibel Police Department to impound cars stolen or otherwise posing a danger to the public welfare and to levy a $25 fine on illegally parked cars was held last week at City Council.

SPD Chief John Butler assured the Council that "We're not getting into the towing business."

City Manager Bernie Murphy indicated that the current impoundment laws are inadequate.

Mayor Francis Bailey asked Butler for assurances that "a car out of gas will not be towed." The Chief told Bailey that the SPD was only asking for the authority to tow "in case we have to." Murphy assured Bailey that every effort will be made to notify the owner before towing.

Councilmember Zee Butler remarked that the law might be used more should the 'permit only' parking plans for the Island go into effect.

The draft ordinance levying a parking fine on offenders states that five days will be given to pay. Councilmember Butler remarked that five days is "too long."

Councilman Duane White stated that the parking fine should be $25. "I'm for letting them (the offenders) know that we mean business. We're talking about flagrant violations."

But Mayor Francis Bailey disagreed, saying, "We invite people to our Island and we shouldn't make it so hard on them if they make a mistake."

Chief Butler explained the collection process to Council. A ticket with an envelope attached will be left on the car. It may be deposited at the SPD station or mailed. If payment is not received within 48 hours, a warning letter will be sent, and if further ignored, a summons to appear in court will be issued.

Chief Butler remarked that a $25 dollar fine will be questioned by many people. "People will try your ordinance, and contest it," he said.

The second reading of this ordinance is scheduled for 11:15 a.m. at the July 15 Council meeting.

INTERVAL OWNERSHIP — it's the most vacation for our money.

True — we work hard to earn our vacations and we want the most for our money. Inflation is making resort rentals just too expensive for a family — and we simply can't afford the year-round ownership and maintenance of a vacation home.

So we're here at Plantation Beach Club where interval ownership gives our family the assurance that we can enjoy leisurely vacations each year, in comfort and luxury, — all at a one-time cost that's easy to afford.

We love the islands — it's a great place for June and me to relax and there's so much for the kids to do. Our vacation villa is right on the beach, fully furnished, complete with linens, all the kitchen utensils, magazines, — you name it. We've got two private bedrooms, two bathrooms and a screened porch, so there's plenty of room for the kids.

With barbecues and a full kitchen, we fix breakfast, lunch, snacks and dinners — and save enough money to treat the whole family to nice restaurants once in a while.

There's also an exchange program — so we can change our vacation times and visit other resorts, all without paying rent. We believe Interval Ownership provides the most vacation for our money.

Portrait

By Pat Harmel

Larry Kenyon

Age: 32

Height: 5' 10"

Roots: Ovid, New York

Mentor: "I consciously took inspiration from a composite of different people, but I guess if I had to name just one it would be Byron McCalmon. He was a high school football coach, a college financial aid administrator and a friend."

Last Book Read: Hawaii

Wish: "Besides wanting to be free of worrying about paying for things all the time, I'd like to be in a similar type vocational activity with a lot of close friends on Maui."

Words of Wisdom: "I saw so many young people close - not even try to open - so many doors that with just a little bit of effort they could have passed through. The opportunity to see different people and places is so important."

Pleasures: Sports

"Champ" Kenyon, the manager of both the Dunes and the Associated Properties rental program, came to the Islands via Cornell University - and the Dole Pineapple company.

Champ ("An old college nickname - the source of which is probably not worth divulging!") is a virtual newcomer to the Islands, having been here only since January. But the move from the small, rural community of Ovid, New York to our sunny, tropical community was in the stars, fated from the very beginning - in a roundabout sort of way.

After high school, where he had participated in "everything available on a team basis" ("I am the perfect example of the glorious old small town jock!"), Champ entered Cornell in pursuit of a business management degree ("the course of least resistance"). By happenstance he found himself rooming with one Scott Siler - the son of a Dole Pineapple exec. Two summers spent working for Dole in Hawaii in a management training program taught Champ "an awful lot about pineapples" and hooked him permanently on the surf and the sea.

After graduation from Cornell in the early seventies numerous friends of Champ's, including Siler, began moving south - to Sanibel and Captiva Islands - to go to work for a young company named Mariner. And the rest was just a matter of time.

Champ tried a semester of graduate school at Harvard, which did little more than convince him of the fact that, "I'd probably be happier teaching history and coaching in some high school than being vice president of a big company."

He also worked for several years at Cornell as a student financial aid administrator - until his immediate superior "got himself elected Congressman." His replacement lacked the "Rah, rah, rally round the flag boys' college attitude" that had made the job so appealing before. The Islands were moving nearer and nearer all the time.

Champ had kept in close touch with his old college chums and in 1973 had even spent a summer working at the King's Crown restaurant and living in the old Manor house at South Seas Plantation.

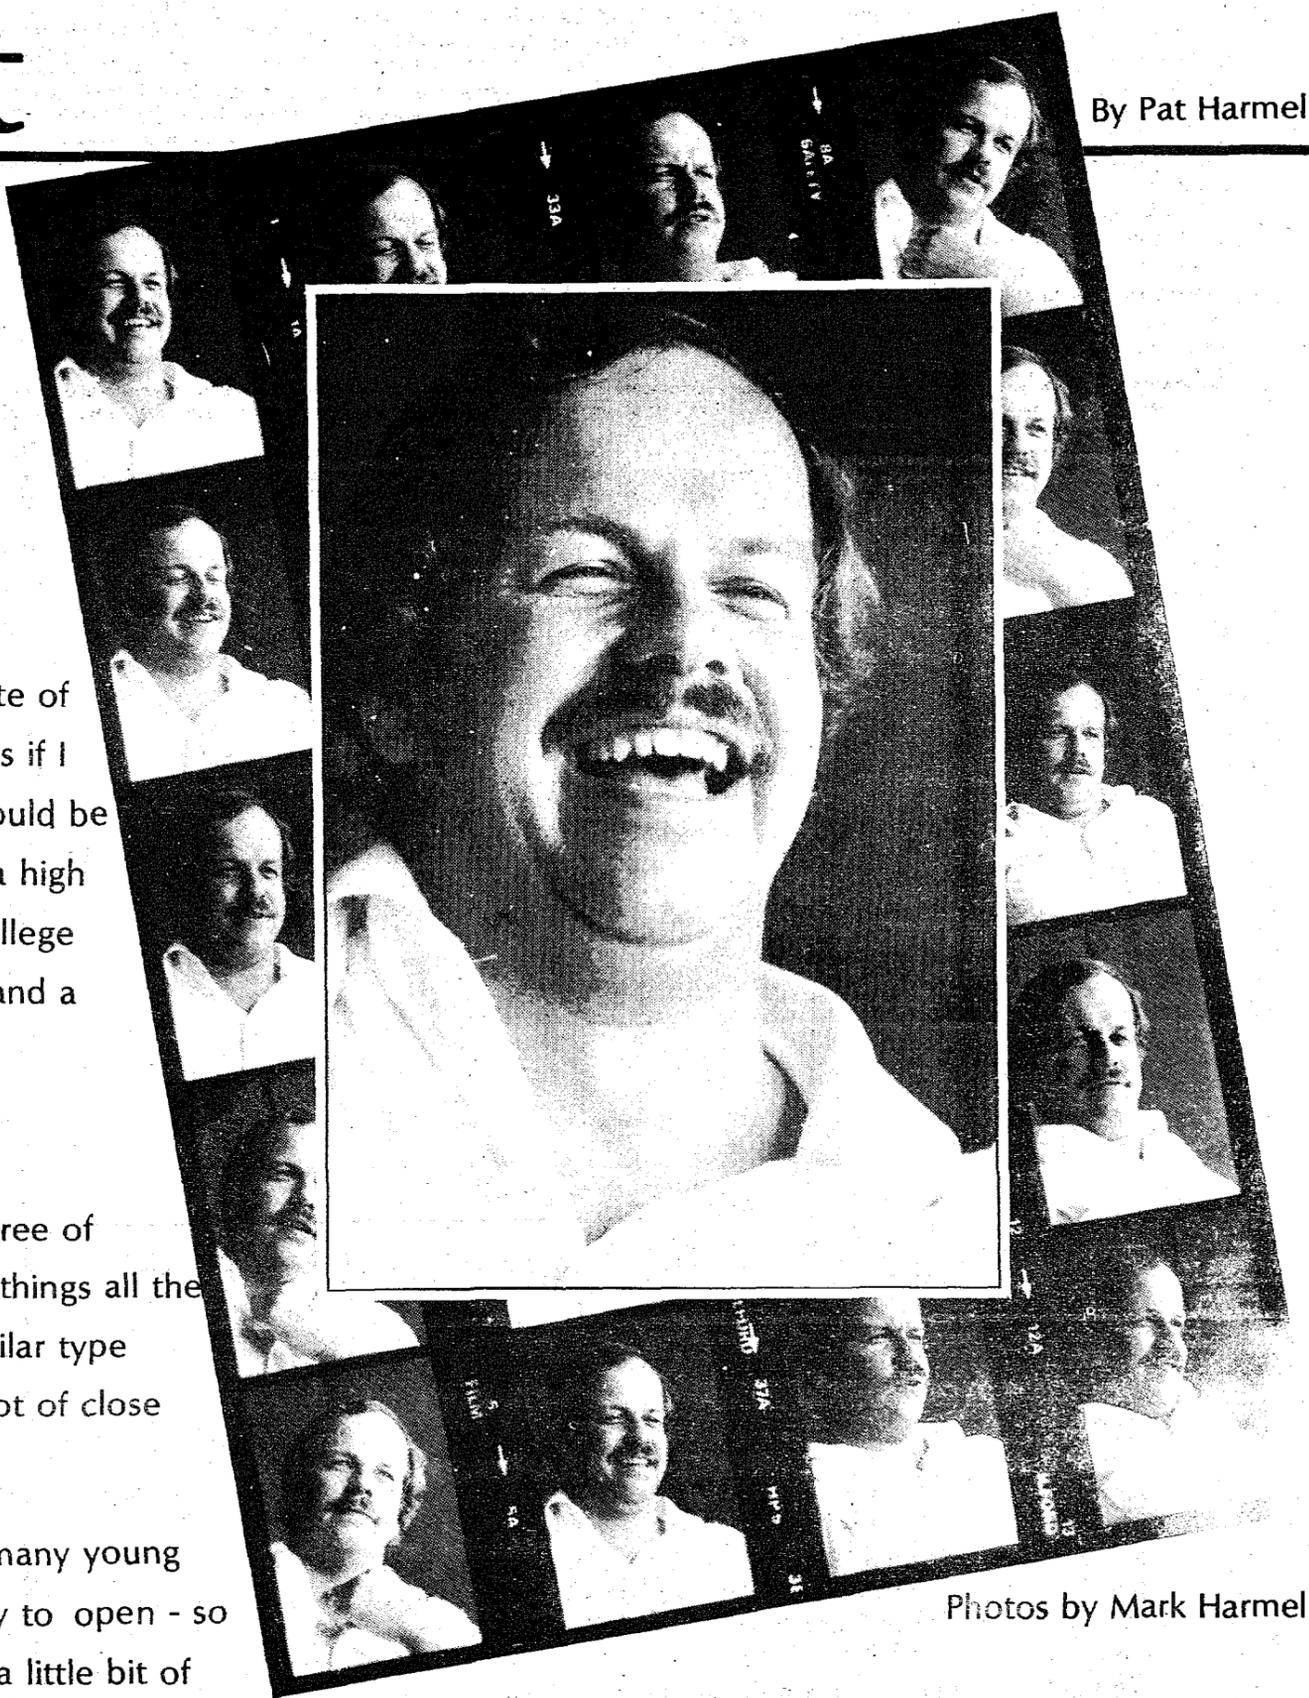

"Everything I had heard about the philosophy of this company," he says of the Mariner Group, "fit in with the way I like to do things. The things I enjoy doing the most are activities where it takes a number of people, or their collective effort, to make it work. That's Mariner's general philosophy of management."

So, in January of this year Champ and his girlfriend Betsy ("She prefers being called my reason for living!") made the big move. "The Islands," he says, "are as close as I'm going to get to Hawaii while still living on the mainland."

Jumping into the resort business in the middle of the 'season' kept him scrambling for the first six months but now Champ is right at home with the Islands, the company and the resident population. "I've met an extremely nice bunch of people here," he says of Sanibel. "They're courteous, helpful, the kind who say 'excuse me' when they bump into you. It's not like that everywhere."

His top priorities these days are the molding of the Dunes club into "the sports club of the Islands," picking up a Golden Retriever puppy ("That makes three") and his new home being built in the Dunes subdivision. And he's right at home. "The lifestyle and the pace at which the general public operates," he maintains, "isn't that different from my hometown up north."

He plays golf, is "a poor tennis player and an active participant of the South Seas softball team." Actually, he confesses, "I can be pretty happy doing anything I can have a cold beer or a vodka-tonic with!"

Coming Attractions

Sanibel Community Church will hold its annual Vacation Bible School Monday through Friday, July 7 through July 18, from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

To be eligible for the program, children must be scheduled to enroll this fall in kindergarten through eighth grade. Parents should register their children now to ensure their having workbooks and supplies available. Registration fee is $3 for members; $5 for non-members.

The theme of this year's Vacation Bible School is "God's Happy People." All children attending should bring a sack lunch; a drink and cookies will be provided. To register your child, call the church office, 472-2684 or Beverly Slay, 472-4267.

Over 350 Islanders (Sanibel and Captiva) have enjoyed the unique experience of appearing on stage at the Pirate Playhouse. This unusual arena theatre has been bringing outstanding entertainment to people from all over the country for 16 seasons.

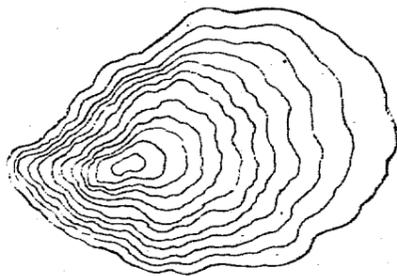

Philip and Ruth Hunter announce that while most of their players will be returning for the seventeenth season there are a few roles still to be filled. They invite anyone who may feel he or she would like to be a part of this cultural activity to call them at the theatre, 472-2121. Previous experience in theatre is not essential. Philip Hunter, who has been directing arena theatre continuously since 1956, takes pride in his record of developing fully competent actors and actresses out of earnest young and old from all walks of life.

It has been proven that an acting experience at Pirate Playhouse is an assist in any career a person may choose.

The Governor's Energy Office will be conducting a training seminar on the new Florida Model Energy Efficiency Building Code (FMEC) in Fort Myers at the Lee County Courthouse, First Floor, County Commissioners Meeting Room, on Thursday June 26, 1980. The session will be conducted from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

SPD strikes gold By Bill Motchan

As six members of the Sanibel Police Department arrived in Tallahassee to compete in the Florida State Police Olympics, Officer Dick Noon overheard a voice from a group of officers.

"Oh jeez, there's Sanibel again," moaned the policeman, who had undoubtedly seen the SPD compete in previous years. The Sanibel team, one of the smallest in numbers, always seems to accumulate the biggest point totals. This year's Olympics was no exception.

"I would say we're in the top 15 again," said Noon. "We did really well. We finished with 43 total points, the highest we've ever had. Our previous high was 39 last year, which was good enough for eighth place, but a lot of the departments have beefed up their teams, so you have to keep getting more and more points."

Sanibel's points break down like this:

bowling, 6; shooting, 4; track and field, 4; swimming, 29. Noon led the SPD swimming force with three gold medals and two silvers.

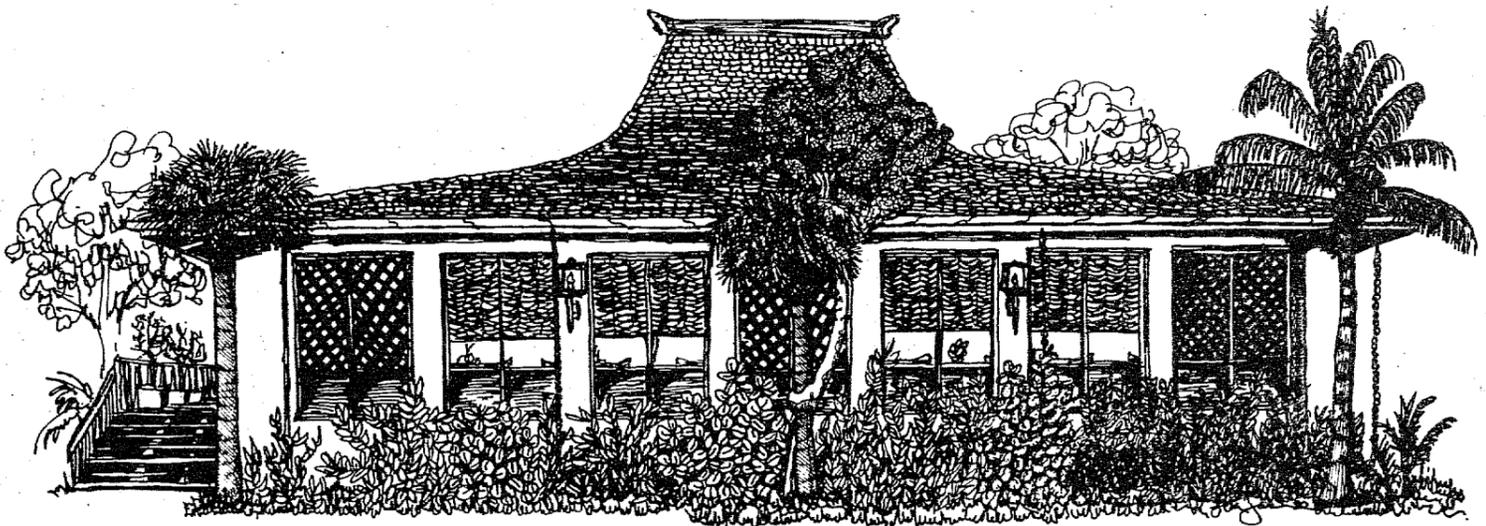

The absence of Jamie and Lew Phillips from the competition put the department's track hopes on weak legs, but Officer Don Case picked up the slack and ran off with silver and bronze medals.

"I've got to give Don a lot of credit," Noon said. "That man ran a quarter mile that was just fantastic! When he got on the curve, he put on a sprint that was great (for a second place finish). Five minutes later he ran a half mile for third place."

The State Police Olympics, a yearly event, attracts competitors from all parts of Florida. According to Noon, it is a good opportunity to meet fellow officers. "Also, he said, "it really keeps you in shape!"

Denny Faubert's brother Phil catches a wave on his wind surfboard.

Surf's up!

"It feels like being free — no engine, no motor — it's a unique feeling," said Denny Faubert of his favorite activity, wind surfing. Denny, 18, operates the boat rental at Sundial Resort and teaches wind surfing to anyone who wants to learn.

"It has the same principles as a sailboat, but it's unique, Denny said. "Leverage is most important in wind surfing — leverage and balance.

The oversized surfboard, sail and mast weigh an unwieldy 55 pounds, but Denny says it's easy to control it. "I've taught 20-25 people how to wind surf in less than an hour," he said.

You can rent a wind-surfboard for $9 an hour at Sundial and Denny will show you how to use it for $10 an hour. A wind surfing veteran of two years, Denny said it's easy once you get the hang of it.

"Just tuck in your hips, lean back with your shoulders and you're off," he said.

"I'm a pepper, you're a pepper . . ."

You may have noticed flying vegetation and bulldozing at the Bailey tract of the Ding Darling Wildlife Refuge during the past week...but don't worry. They're not trying to destroy the area, just return it to its natural state.

According to Ferrell Johns, an employee of Ding Darling, "We're trying to eliminate Brazillian Pepper, the tract was choking with it."

Brazillian Pepper was introduced in Southwest Florida in the early 1900's as an ornamental plant. "It's like crabgrass, it just takes over," Johns said.

More and more wildlife should be returning to the area now that the non-native vegetation is being removed. "We're about halfway through, and already I'm seeing more and more blue and green herons, snowy egrets, and mottled ducks," said Johns.

There are also plans to develop three man-made ponds in the tract. "There used to be lots of water in here," Johns said. "But the ponds got choked off by the vegetation."

"I love telling stories," says Carolyn Beebe. "It comes from being a school teacher." Ms. Beebe, formerly a teacher in Buffalo, N. Y., now spins yarns for Island children. She and Emily Muench hold a captive audience every Wednesday morning at the Sanibel Public Library.

The one hour Library visit is part of the Sanibel Summer Recreation program.

Kids participating in "summer rec" also get a chance to check out books.

The program runs through July 23 and Children's Librarian Ruth Clark says there are some exciting Wednesdays coming up.

"Later on, we're going to have a presentation on live snakes with Steve Phillips from the Conservation Center," Ms. Clark said. "And Fran Levy is scheduled to read a horror story."

Bread time story

"Here's a song I picked up in the islands, duty free!" (laughter) "Bahama Bread, Bahama Bread, the flavor of the tropics for you; Bahama Bread, Bahama Bread, it's the hit of any menu" (applause).

Recognize this catchy song? It's been bombarding the ears of Southwest Florida radio listeners for the past six weeks. It's the commercial where the stand-up comic tells jokes and sings about Bahama Bread. A product of Holsum Bakeries in Miami, Bahama Bread goes through a yearly sales pitch in Florida.

"Once a year we do a Bahama Bread campaign," said Pete Barnes, Executive Creative Director of Sandy Tinsley Advertising. "The original Bahamian recording of the jingle is so well known in the market area, that we thought, 'well, let's have a little fun with it.' So, we re-adapted it to this lounge or coffee-house approach."

The voice of the lounge singer belongs to Byron Warner, a professional jingle writer and producer. Barnes' reasoning for picking Warner was logical - the two had roomed together years earlier when Warner was a real-life coffee-house folk singer.

"Pete called me last year for another bread client and said, 'I've got this wierd idea. I want to do something like a night club thing - remember when you used to do the night club act in the folk days?'" Warner said.

Warner recorded a demo tape for the client with the night club approach but it never aired. He took the name, Country Hearth Extra Thin Sliced Sandwich Bread, combined the first letters of each word and created the abbreviation "CHETSSB."

The bakery loved it, but the man who created the CHETSSB recipe vetoed it, so the lounge act was scrapped until the Bahama campaign was borne.

"The client said, 'Do it! Every year you do something strange with Bahama Bread, go ahead and do this strange thing!'" Warner said.

Warner and Barnes created the characters, including Fred the bongo player and Big Ralph the bass player. (Fred, incidentally, is really Harold Harms, who has a master's degree in percussion.)

According to Dick Kelsey, of the Sandy Tinsley agency, Holsum Bakeries has been very happy with the campaign, and sales are up. Barnes says the reason is Bahama Bread is really very good.

"Toasted it's really great," said Dolores Chamberlain, secretary to the president of Holsum Bakeries. "It has a nice crust and sesame seeds on top - it makes a great sandwich."

Byron Warner, the 1980 Bahama Bread spokesman (or spokes-singer) trusts Tinsley and Holsum that it is good bread, although he said "I never saw it in my life."

"Give me a cheeseburger and a knish"

If you left New York City to come live in Florida (as so many of us have), you probably noticed there aren't many subways here . . . or skyscrapers or smog. Makes you homesick just to think about it, right?

Weil, the next time you get an attack of the Big Apple Blues, stop by the Burger Emporium. Owner Lou Martelli has recently started stocking that venerable New York delicacy, the knish.

"They're made in Newark, New Jersey by a knish manufacturer," Martelli said. "Actually, they are highly seasoned potato pies."

The knish is an ethnic food of Jewish origin and no self-respecting New York deli would be caught without a supply. "Knishes are part of the character of New York," Martelli said. "I'm not sure how they will do down here."

At 75 cents each, the Emporium's knish is a delicious snack, especially about an hour before lunch when your stomach starts growling.

And if you don't cotton to knishes or care much about New York, how does the "City of brotherly love" grab you? The Burger Emporium's hot salted pretzels come all the way from Philadelphia.

Sanibel is a veritable shopper's paradise. Tasteful boutiques and casual island shops join forces to present visitors with everything - and anything - a vacation shopper could hope for.

At the Lighthouse (Eastern) end of the Island, Punta Ybel Plaza and The Sea Horse Shops are right across the street from each other, providing a variety of products that can cure your sweet tooth or tickle your shell finder's fancy. Need a good haircut or coiffure? You can get it in either of these shopping centers. Most businesses open at 10 a.m. and close at 5:30 p.m. This holds true for many island stores, although during the winter season, some are open evenings.

Tall Australian pines shade Periwinkle Way as the shopper travels west along this main thoroughfare. This stretch of road is truly a shopper's paradise! It's all here...the fast and not-so-fast eating spots, casual and elegant boutiques, hand-wrought jewelry, craft designs, shell shops and balms for health produce fanatics.

Watch to your right and left as you drive or cycle along. Photographic supplies, bait and tackle, deli foods, fresh seafood and baked goods, knick-knacks and what-nots can all be found along the drive to the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road. Along the way, shopping centers such as the Heart of the Islands, Periwinkle Place and Tahitian Gardens offer a variety of island delights.

Palm Ridge Road, the Periwinkle Way turn-off to Captiva, offers several new shopping centers featuring everything from a gift shop for the discriminating shopper, plants and shells, to a sandwich shop, ice cream parlour, boutique shop and the Island Apothecary pharmacy.

At the Tarpon Bay-Periwinkle Way intersection, the Island Shopping Center features the island's only supermarket, dry cleaners and movie house.

A left on Tarpon Bay Road takes the visitor past Sanibel's original schoolhouse, which now holds original island watercolors and woodcuts. Then on to West Gulf Drive and westward to an interesting little artisan's shop and gallery.

At the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road, you may choose instead to turn right and follow the signs to the Tarpon Bay Marina, where you will find a cluster of quaint shops overlooming the back bay...Some antiques, shells and shellcrafts, and clever clothes can be found here, as well as a great seafood sandwich and soft drinks.

The spectacular ride to Captiva, with its lush foliage and enchanting view of the Gulf, is well worth a day's outing. Talented artists display their works in one roadside shop, while others feature some nifty gifts for Grandma to take home to little hands as a pleasant hodge-podge remembrances from barrier islands.

Whether for shopping, or merely browsing, island shops offer a surprising variety - from one-of-a-kind collectibles for the discerning shopper to postcards for the simple souvenir hunter and of course, for all, shells, shell jewelry, shell lamps, just plain shells...the most beautiful shells in the world from the most beautiful shelling beaches in the world.

For Your Information

BEACH ACCESS

Sanibel has miles of public Gulf-front beaches, any one of which is only minutes from your lodging. Lighthouse Point is a stretch of Federal land on the Eastern tip of Sanibel Island, and from there, the Gulf beach is accessible again at the end of Donax Street, at Tarpon Bay Road, at Bowman's Beach Road (off Sanibel-Captiva Road) and Turner's Beach, which is located at Blind Pass, between Sanibel and Captiva Islands.

On Captiva Island, public beach access can be found at Turner Beach (which has public facilities) or further north, just past the entrance to South Seas Plantation.

NOTE: STATE LAW PROHIBITS NUDE SUN-BATHING ON ALL FLORIDA BEACHES. VIOLATORS WILL BE PROSECUTED.

CAMPING

Camping on the beach is prohibited and while everyone enjoys a beach fire, you'll have to get a permit to have one on a Sanibel public beach. The Fire Department on Palm Ridge Road will supply you with a fire permit for $1. Their hours are from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. In addition, you'll be required to make a $25 deposit, returnable the day after your beach party when the beach has been inspected for litter and debris. Make sure you clean the area thoroughly or you'll be out $25!

Condo owners or managers may submit a letter to the Fire Department, acknowledging that they will assume responsibility for cleanup after a fire in front of their building. The $25 deposit will be waived in those circumstances.

GATORS

Feeding alligators anywhere within the Sanibel City limits is not only illegal (violators of the law are subject to a fine of up to $500, or up to 60 days in jail, or both), but can be extremely dangerous. Alligators can run 45 m.p.h., so if you're close enough to feed an alligator, he's close enough to feed on you. An alligator fed for fun loses his natural fear of humans and becomes a potential threat to children and pets.

FISHING

While no license is required for saltwater fishing, fishing in freshwater ponds or the Sanibel River requires a Florida fishing license - available at Bailey's General Store on Periwinkle Way. The fee is $3.75.

MINIMUM LEGAL LENGTHS:

Blue Fish	10 inches
Flounder	11 inches
Grouper	12 inches
Mackerel	12 inches
Mullet	12 inches
Pompano	10 inches
Red Fish	12 inches
Snook	18 inches
Trout	12 inches

SHELLING

The City of Sanibel Resolution limiting the taking of live shells to 2 live shells per person per species is one to be scrupulously obeyed. As a matter of fact, in order to preserve Sanibel's beautiful shelling beaches, most collectors refuse to take any live shells whatsoever.

SPEED LIMITS

There are varying speed limits (20-30 m.p.h.) as one comes across the causeway, and there is a very good reason for them...to preserve the bridge supports from strain and stress. This speed limit is strictly enforced with the use of radar on a 24-hour basis by both the Sanibel Police Department and the Lee County Sheriff's Department.

Driving or parking a motor vehicle or moped on the bike path is strictly prohibited. Violators will be ticketed.

BICYCLE RULES

If you're not used to a lot of bicycle traffic, watch out for it on Sanibel. The extensive network of bike paths on the island is clearly marked along the edge of the road. Observe caution when driving near the bike path. A State law and City Ordinance combine to PROHIBIT PARKING OR DRIVING ON THE BIKE PATH. MOPEDS ARE NOT PERMITTED ON THE BIKE PATHS.

Planning on spending some time on a bike to enjoy the Island sun and sights? Make sure your vehicle is equipped with a bike flag, horn, good brakes and a light for night riding. Under Florida law, bicycle riders have the same rights and responsibilities as motor vehicle drivers. Drive Safely!

DOGGY DO'S & DON'TS

If you're visiting Sanibel with the family Fido in tow, all the better. All family members can enjoy Southwest Florida sun and surf. The Chamber of Commerce can tell you what accommodations are available for families with pets. Remember: wherever you are, clean up after your pet! The friendly reminder... "Leave nothing on the beach but footprints"...applies to dogs, too. There's no leash law on Sanibel, but of course an excitable or unruly animal is better off when controlled with a leash.
