Thieves get $20,000 in gems

By Pat Harmel

The second Island jewel robbery in eight days occurred last Friday evening at the Sanibel Arms West, netting the thieves jewelry and other items with an estimated value of more than $20,000.

9:30 p.m. Friday evening to go to Captiva for dinner. Upon their return, around midnight, the couple found the apartment totally ransacked and numerous valuable items missing.

According to the Sanibel Police Department, entry to the apartment was apparently gained through a west window. The thief, or thieves, then exited through the sliding glass doors.

Items stolen from the apartment included an emerald pin valued at $3,000, an antique cameo brooch valued at $1,000, a diamond ring valued at $10,000, several pearl necklaces worth more than $1,000, three gold bracelets valued at $5,000, diamond earrings valued at $2,000, two wedding bands and a set of pearl and gold earrings valued at $1,000.

Numerous other pieces of jewelry were missing as well as an electric hairdryer, a color TV, a gold lighter, cosmetics, beer, cigarettes, ashtrays, a lamp and company records from G.E.S.T. Inc., of which Mr. Hamley is president.

A rubber raft belonging to the couple was found outside the building and may have been used to transport the stolen items from the apartment. SPD investigators were able to lift numerous fingerprints from the site and the investigation is continuing.

SPD officials say that at this time there is no evidence linking the burglary to the July 3 jewel heist from a private residence on the island.

Planners pan CLUP violations

By Roxanna Matchan

Sanibel's Planning Commissioners will be recommending that City Council deny an application for a specific amendment to the land use plan (CLUP) submitted yesterday by Neal Thompson. If approved, the amendment would allow retention of an existing boat ramp and balcony constructed closer than the required setback from the water. These improvements took place at Thompson's home in the Castaways subdivision.

Thompson began construction on these facilities, plus a concrete block retention wall (which Planning Commissioners voted should be allowed to remain) even though his development permit as for him to do so. Commissioner Joe Searing asked Thompson why he did indeed begin construction without having permission. Thompson responded, "It was out of ignorance."

A letter written by a City building inspector on April 17 instructed Thompson that a "stop work" order had been posted and that he was to cease all construction until a specific amendment could be obtained.

Commissioner Arthur Wycoff asked Thompson who did the construction work, and Thompson explained that he had acted as the general contractor, sub-contracting the work to various firms and individuals.

The micro-universe of the frog is rapidly changing on Sanibel

By George Campbell

It is during this period each year that we normally bear the choruses of breeding frogs throughout Sanibel's freshwater wetland areas and also, believe it or not, in some of the semi-saltwater areas too.

Altogether there are 12 kinds of frogs and toads found on Sanibel, but today we are going to principally discuss the large foreign interloper, the Cuban Tree Frog, Hyla septentrionalis.

This is a semi-domesticated foreign creature that has invaded Sanibel in recent years in plant pots via the nursery trade, much to the detriment of a number of native frog species. It may be found nightly, even in dry periods, in gardens that are slightly damp from sprinkling or in places where there is standing water in which it can lay its eggs.

The Cuban Tree Frog is our largest tree frog; a big female may be four inches long, tailbone to nose, when in the sitting posture. The big female in my personal study is, perhaps erroneously, called Fidel, but that is her name anyway. She does a fine job of keeping the cockroach - or palmetto bug - population within manageable levels. This was accomplished after her species had already wiped out the two native tree frogs of Sanibel - the Squirrel Tree Frog and the Green Tree Frog, both of which, as recently as four or five years ago, existed around my house in huge numbers. Now it is impossible to find more than one or two and even that is a rare occurrence. The reason, of course, is that this large Cuban interloper swallows the little fellows whole. The two native species may soon be literally exterminated on Sanibel.

A very unpleasant thing about the Cuban Tree Frog is that it is toxic to the touch. It has a poisonous mucous exudate originating in the skin. If this material gets into a cut or wound it will cause excruciating pain for long periods of time. A strong soap and water wash helps but the pain will endure for many hours in any case. If anyone is foolish enough to grasp one of these animals and then rub his eyes temporary but very painful blindness will result.

You can always tell the Cuban Tree Frog adult by its large size. Even the baby ones may be distinguishable by tiny bumps on their backs. They usually range in color from almost white or cream to a dark brown. They are agile climbers equipped with large terminal digital disks which enable them to stick to many surfaces, even glass. They are generally very efficient in rapidly colonizing, not only on Sanibel but in many other parts of Florida as well. Probably they came into Florida via Key West, after having crossed in snafks from the Bahamas or Cuba or both, as they are native to both of those countries.

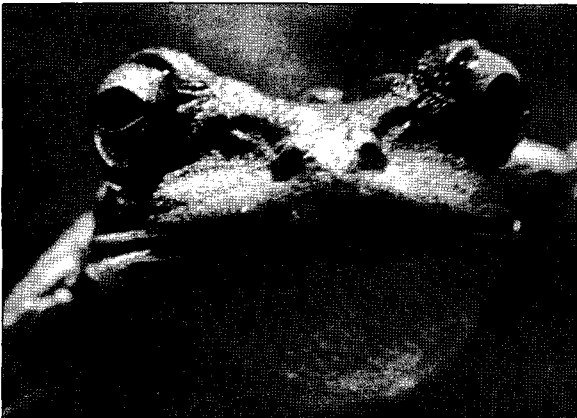

On June 6, Fidel laid a few thousand eggs in one of my aquariums which hatched into tiny flat tadpoles after about 24 hours of incubation. They grew rapidly on a diet of Purina Cat Chow to almost two inches overall by June 30.

The accompanying photograph shows some of Fidel's youngsters. They are all from the same batch. The little ones have simply been deprived of food as they had lived several weeks forgotten in a cottage cheese carton. The larger ones that are well fed are ready to metamorphose, and the one individual still sporting a tail already has all four of its legs and is about ready to disappear into a bush somewhere.

I feel that having Hyla septentrionalis here is better than having no tree frogs at all, so I'm not one of those people who rush around trying to kill them. We're not going to get rid of them anyway. They can withstand all kinds of abuse. I even experimented with a tray of tadpoles and an insecticide, pyrethrum. They seemed to grow a little faster on the pyrethrum than did the ones that I was feeding cat chow. In addition to the other frogs mentioned, Cubans consume large quantities of flying insects at night and they will also eat small to half grown mice. So really, I'm not too unhappy with the existence of this species here today, considering the fact that it has already wiped out the Green Tree Frog and the Squirrel Tree Frog population around my house.

ROGO point system still untested

By Roxanna Motchan

Rate of growth allocations were distributed Friday by Sanibel's Planning Commission for the four month period ending June 30, 1980. As a result, a total of 65 dwelling units will be under construction shortly.

This is five units in excess of the normal allocation amount, because five applicants withdrew applications from the previous rate of growth allocation period. Because of this, the previous leftover allocations were added to this period's 60 - the number normally given out in any rate of growth period.

Once again, more than a year after the Rate of Growth Ordinance's (ROGO) adoption, all dwelling unit distribution was made without resorting to the point rating system which goes into effect when there are more applications than allocations.

It almost didn't happen that way. On Monday, July 7, the Planning Commission met with the intention of allocating the units. Planning Director Bruce Rogers explained that 68 applications had been processed and issued development permits, three in excess of the 65 allocations available. The Planning Staff went through all the applications and applied the first criterion of the ROGO, which is whether or not the property already has obvious "beneficial use."

Three of the applications were determined to have existing beneficial use, therefore they would not be allowed a dwelling unit. These were: Porto and Graesser, Care and Rehabilitation of Wildlife (C.R.O.W.), and Signal Inn. Although each of these developers had requested more than one unit, one is all that would have been granted at this time. "This does not mean that these applications have been denied," Rogers said. "It means only that those applications where more than one dwelling unit is being requested and who already have beneficial use are being deferred to the next allocation period without having to apply for a new building permit."

It all seemed cut and dried, but Sanibel attorney John Wilcox, representing Porto and Graesser, questioned whether or not his client had beneficial use. Wilcox contended that the four Shell Harbor lots purchased by his clients in 1973 (lots 118, 119, 120, and 121) were being developed as two separate parcels, since two of the parcels had been sold. Sea Wind Condominiums, a 10-unit development, is on two of the parcels of land.

"In 1973 my clients received two building permits from Lee County," Wilcox said. "And when the City incorporated we had to stop building because of the moratorium." "We applied to finish after the City incorporated, but were denied, and this became the subject of a lawsuit."

"On October 9, 1979 the suit was settled and terms of the agreement were that five more units could be built subject to the ROGO," Wilcox said.

"Now there's some sort of idea he has beneficial use because of the 10 units on the other parcels," Wilcox continued. "Mr. Graesser feels he's being stepped on. This new application has nothing to do with the 10 Sea Wind condominiums. Graesser sold them."

Rogers said that the four lots had always been combined as one parcel for the development application, and has always been referred to as "in addition to." He mentioned some of the plans for shared facilities between the condominium groups. A tennis court and a pool will be shared between Sea Wind Condominiums and the new development.

"That was brought upon us by the choice of the City," Wilcox said. "In our original petition it was one parcel...but it's not our choice it's your choice. The attorney putting this together is making a lease arrangement with two separate associations."

Former Planning Commissioner Betty Robinson pointed out that as a member of the fact finding team associated with the lawsuit, "the parcels of land were considered separately. The proposed solution was in relation to the five units on the two remaining lots."

City Attorney Neal Bowen offered to call the consultant who drafted the ordinance, Fred Bosselman, "to see what he envisioned in a case like this."

After contacting Bosselman, Bowen said, "He is of the opinion that there is no retention of property interest in the Graesser corporation, and therefore Graesser would be without beneficial use. However, this is based on the court stipulated settlement, and no other applicant should rely on this as a precedent."

Commissioner Joe Searing made a motion to support the staff recommendation that 65 dwelling units be allocated, "to bring City Council into play." (Wilcox said that if this happened he would contest the decision before Council.) The motion failed 5-1.

Commissioner Bill Hagerup said, "In my opinion there is a strong probability that Porto and Graesser do not have beneficial use and I would move that the Planning Commission allocate or determine by vote that they do not have beneficial use on the parcel as presented."

That motion failed 4-2 (with Hagerup and Commissioner Judy Workman voting in favor).

Finally, Commissioner Arthur Wycoff made a motion to continue the meeting so that the City Planning staff could further study the case, and that passed unanimously.

On Friday, at the continuation of the meeting, Rogers said that the Planning staff had gone back and checked the tax rolls, and Seawind Condominium is definitely represented as being on parcels 120 and 121, with separate ownership on parcels 118 and 119. "This would support the applicant's position that there is no beneficial use," Rogers said.

Attorney Wilcox said that he had spoken with Graesser and that the developer had agreed to "back off until the next go round" if the beneficial use question could be resolved in his favor.

Searing moved that the development permit by Porto and Graesser be deemed to have no obvious beneficial use. The motion passed 5-0. (Planning Commission Chairman Ann Winterbotham was absent.)

That left the Commissioners with 65 units to allocate, exactly as had been planned at the beginning of Monday's meeting. However, there was another fly in the ointment when developer Rick Hugger of Signal Inn contested the decision that his property had beneficial use.

"The two lots adjoining Signal Inn are owned separately," Hugger said.

Workman pointed out that the obvious difference in this case was the Porto and Graesser decision was based on a court stipulated settlement, and "the Court said two parcels, regardless of the intent of the City."

In your opinion

A copy of the following letter was given to the Islander for publication:

City Manager
Sanibel, FL 33957

Dear Mr. Murphy:

In early June of this year, my family and I visited your very lovely island for a week; a trip which we had been looking forward to for quite some time. We had heard a great deal about Sanibel's unspoiled beaches and undeveloped surroundings.

We were quite pleased with our accommodations, the stores and shops, as well as the very friendly attitude of virtually all of the people we had come in contact with.

We also eagerly looked forward to roaming the beaches in the popular shelling activities. We were quite shocked to observe the amount of debris in the way of beer cans, coke cans, beer bottles and even broken beer bottles on virtually all the beaches. We visited Bowman's Beach perhaps on five occasions during our stay. We noted the signs placed by the City of Sanibel including the very famous slogan "Leave Nothing On The Beach! But Footprints." It was quite disheartening to say the least to note that the trash barrels which had been filled, overflowing at the woods edge of the beach were still overflowing when we left and that the collection of broken bottles particularly on Bowman's Beach seemed increased with every visit. You folks enjoy a rare treat in nature's wonders present on both the islands of Sanibel and Captiva; however, it seemed quite apparent to me particularly as a retired service officer that no attempt has been made to enforce your laws other than threat of penalties. Perhaps it would be more practical to place barrels on the beach at the high tide line rather than some distance away. Perhaps a little concentrated law enforcement might improve your image to an outsider such as myself who has spent many years in the great outdoors in many different places.

Very truly yours,
Seymour W. Liebmann, Col.
USA Retired

To the Editor:

DO NOT FEED THE ALLIGATORS. That's the law on Sanibel and it's also the legend on the attractive green buttons which Dr. Stanley Wegryn has had produced and is distributing to his patients. Sincerely,
George R. Campbell
Chairman

A copy of the following memo was given to the Islander for publication:

TO: Sanibel City Council, and Planning Commission
FROM: Paul A. Howe, Taxpayer
SUBJECT: Proposed CLUP Amendment Defining "Single-Family Dwelling Unit"

The proposed clarifying Ordinance on the above subject was received by me today and was carefully analyzed.

It does not appear to strike at the heart of the problem as envisioned by City Attorney Bowen's memorandum to you of March 16, 1977 nor mine of June 24, 1979.

Simply stated, the problem is lodged in the fact that CLUP's Definition Section (Part 3.1) fails to expressly define the term "Single Family." The other two terms "Duplex," and "Multi-Family" also intended to quantify the term "Dwelling Unit," however, are so defined in Sections 3.1.8 and 3.1.15 respectively.

To correct this unintended CLUP omission, I suggest that the following simple addition be made to Section 1 of the proposed Ordinance that now defines "Dwelling Unit." The total Section 1 would read:

"Any structure or portion thereof which is designed for, or capable of use as a self-sufficient, independent unit for residential purposes. When the term "single-family" is used to quantify "dwelling unit," it shall mean:

- a. a group of any size related by blood, marriage, or adoption, and
- b. a group not so related if there are no more than two persons."

The above bold faced addition is taken verbatim from the City Attorney's 1977 memorandum. He was reciting the U.S. Supreme Court's language in the 1974 case of the Village of Belle Terre (Long Island, N.Y.) vs. Borass. The Court then held that requirements (a) and (b) above were violated when a rental occupancy was permitted by six unrelated university students at that resort community.

I believe that the City Attorney will agree that the inclusion of my proposed addition to the draft Ordinance will obviate the need for any revision of CLUP's Permitted Uses (Section 3.4.1) that is now proposed under Section 2 of the draft Ordinance. Obviously, the title would change.

Correction

In last week's "Island Shorts," young Island resident Duffy Traucht (who spotted a fire), was erroneously referred to as a seven-year-old. Duffy is actually five.

Captiva erosion

Core samples prove suitable

By Bill Motchan

The core samples taken by an off-shore drilling device last week indicate a suitable source for Captiva beach renourishment, it was announced at the Captiva Erosion Prevention District (CEPD) July 7 meeting.

According to project manager Dick Stevens, the special floating device hired by the CEPD last week took nine core samples, three in the limestone shelf and six in the shell mounds area near Blind Pass.

"The material beneath the limestone is very thick and unsuitable for beach renourishment," Stevens said. "However, preliminary findings support the shell mounds as a suitable source."

The cost of last week's core study was slightly over $8,000, Stevens said. This figure was about $2,000 less than anticipated. The reason, according to Stevens, was that the work was done in one day instead of two.

Coring and engineering was supervised by Tetra Tech, the firm working with CEPD on erosion prevention. Stevens said he had instructed Tetra Tech not to do any more engineering on the project at the present time.

"We must, as soon as possible, allow Tetra Tech to go ahead, to permit us to work together with South Seas in a single contract," Stevens said.

"Tetra Tech compared the 1979 findings with those found this spring," Stevens continued, "and found that erosion on Captiva this year has been twice what it was in previous years."

Completing the project manager's report, Stevens said the District has applied to the Army Corps of Engineers for assistance.

ROGO cont'd.

Searing moved that the application already had beneficial use. The motion passed unanimously.

Finally, Commissioner Fred Valtin moved that the Planning Commission allocate the dwelling units in conformance with the Planning staff recommendations, noting for the record that the application by Porto and Graesser had been withdrawn for the time being. This motion passed unanimously.

Commissioner Workman noted that in the event of disagreements regarding the allocations, individuals have seven days to respond by writing a letter to the City Manager.

Bonfires outlawed

By Bill Motchan

The Sanibel Fire Board signed into law last week an ordinance prohibiting open beach fires. Prior to the ordinance, a permit was necessary for a beach bonfire, but as of July 18 (ten days after the signing) it will be illegal.

An exemption to the ordinance is a fire in an approved cooking container (not to exceed 48" X 24" X 12" deep with an extruded metal grill) for non-commercial food preparation. This type of container will be allowed on the beach without permit.

"Actually, what we're doing is extending to the beachfront what the rest of the Island already had," said Fire Chief Allen Nave at last Tuesday's board meeting. "From our point of view, it (the new ordinance) will control the size of a fire to a point where it will be safe."

The decision to adopt the bonfire policy came as a result of a special Fire Board meeting held May 29 during which City Manager Bernie Murphy and Police Chief John Butler were present to discuss the issue.

At that meeting, Chief Butler expressed concern over controlling the crowds that seemed to congregate at beach bonfires. A fire in a hibachi or barbecue grill would not draw as big a crowd as a large open fire, the board members decided. The chance of the fire spreading would also be greatly reduced.

"If we can keep fires down to this size container," Nave said last Tuesday, "the safety aspect will be taken care of. If anybody doesn't use a container of this size, it will be an illegal activity."

According to the Fire Board, the Sanibel Fire Department now has the legal power to put out open beach fires, but that is all they can do. Arrest power (by the Sanibel Police Department) for violations must come from the City.

Continuation of public hearing and a second reading on the issue will come before Council today.

Scottish funny money

It has long been known that Scottish folk are thrifty, but the U. S. government apparently felt that one Sanibel "Scot" was on the verge of carrying the idea too far.

Al Duncan, marketing wizard and owner of Scotty's Restaurant, recently designed a "Scottish Reserve Note" - an oversized replica of a dollar bill with a photo of Captran President Keith Trowbridge in place of the father of our country. The idea was to include the "dollar" in Captran interval ownership pockets. It would be good for $1 off dinner at Scotty's.

Just to make sure Uncle Sam didn't mind, Duncan made a few phone calls. "I called the FBI and they said 'that's not our department,'" Duncan says, "so I called the Secret Service and they had an answer right away!"

"They said you can't photocopy a dollar bill in any way. When you do, it's illegal. It's a good thing I checked, too - I was going to have 10,000 printed."

A tree grows in Haiti

A group of Haitian visitors came to Sanibel last week, but not to check out Island shelling. They were here to study planting procedures at the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation native plant nursery.

"It's called 'Operation Koumbite,' which is actually a reforestation all over their country," according to nursery manager Norma Jeanne Byrd. "They have come to learn some of the methods we use for growing plants, trees and shrubs.

"They have grown their young trees in plastic bags until they're about 12 to 18 inches high. We're going to show them how to grow the trees larger before replanting so they'll have a longer survival rate."

Ms. Byrd said that she would show the visitors how to treat the seeds before planting, how to plant them, and use of pot size gradation. "This will produce a hardier plant that's better suited for the wild."

New gallery for Captiva

Sanibel and Captiva seem to attract many artists so, naturally, art galleries seem to follow. A new gallery on the scene will open its doors for business Monday, July 21.

"The Art Gallery" is located below the Tree House Gift Shop on Captiva Road near the entrance to South Seas Plantation.

Owners Arthur and Sheila Tardosky plan to stock the gallery with work created exclusively by local artists. "We have oils, watercolors and sculptures," said Arthur, adding that Sheila's work will also be on display.

The gallery features space for 50 paintings and a courtyard with chairs. A grand opening is planned for the fall when many Island artists return for the season. Any artist wishing to exhibit work at The Art Gallery should call the Tardoskys at 472-1850.

Trolley trivia

Ben Pickens' hobby is somewhat unique. In fact, he knows of only about 70 other people worldwide who share his particular interest.

Pickens, the owner of Photo-Sanibel, collects St. Louis streetcar transfer tickets; and they are not easy to come by, as streetcars were phased out of St. Louis in the mid-1900's.

"It goes back to St. Louis when I was a kid," Pickens says.

"Anywhere you went, you used mass transit. I think I started out to see how many different streetcar lines I could collect during a year's time. Then relatives and friends found out I collected them, and they started saving them for me. Even a couple of motormen on the streetcars got to know me and started saving them."

Millions of people collect stamps and coins, and Pickens "looks at the transfers as funny shaped stamps. I obtained almost all of mine by trades, although I bought a few. The oldest date back 100 years. The early ones have excellent quality engraving. Some even have advertising on the back."

Pickens has a fairly complete collection of the streetcar passes, and started compiling a history of them about a year ago. He has traced mass transit in his hometown from horse-drawn cars to electric cars to the buses used today.

"It's been a lot of fun," Ben says. "When you get into researching it a little bit, you really see how the city grew."

City approves $55,000 hazard mitigation study

By Roxanna Motchan

Sanibel's City Council members voted unanimously in a special meeting last week to direct City Manager Bernie Murphy to establish a contract with the consulting firm of Wallace, Roberts, and Todd (WRT) for the process of carrying out a hazard mitigation program.

The firm, which will charge $55,000 for the six-month study, helped develop Sanibel's Comprehensive Land Use Plan (CLUP).

Bill Roberts, one of the principals of the firm, appeared before Council to describe just how the company plans to respond to the request for proposal submitted by the City.

Roberts said that he will act as team coordinator of a group consisting of Bob Hubenette, author of the transportation section of Sanibel's CLUP; James C. Nicholas, a professor of economics at Florida Atlantic University; and Robert Simpson, former Director of the National Hurricane Center.

First, the firm will collect all data necessary to complete the study. Roberts said that the team would research procedures and compare them with other communities that have experienced disasters.

Next, the existing City procedures will be studied, such as Sanibel's EPERT system. "Because the City is taking a responsible attitude, it is necessary for us to re-address every issue," Roberts said.

After the first two steps are completed, the warning element and the evacuation element. WRT will come back to the City with the findings. "At this point," Roberts said, "it will be identified if any additional studies are necessary."

Councilman Porter Goss said, "I don't want to spend our money re-inventing the wheel. It may be from the purist planner point of view that we have inadequacies. I would be extremely unhappy if your data proves inadequate."

The discussion turned to Lee County, the evacuation plan for the County, and how the County might hinder or help Sanibel's efforts to evacuate.

Councilman Duane White said, "I'm not going to sit here and appropriate Sanibel ad valorem taxes to give Lee County a plan."

"We haven't examined how adequate Lee County is in meeting needs to evacuate from Sanibel's point of view," Roberts said. "I am of the opinion that experts will find substantial deficiency in the evacuation routes."

The recovery element will also be studied in detail, in addition to damage reduction, coordination and implementation. However, some of these subjects will only be briefly touched on, as Roberts indicated that the money to be spent on the study is not adequate for in-depth study into each area.

The firm will provide 120 man-days to work on Sanibel's study under the constraints of the budget. Roberts said that WRT expects to make a 12 to 15 per cent profit.

Roberts also warned the Council. "If you wish to select our team you have to have some confidence in our ability. I'm cautious about undertaking this work. It's going to be extremely difficult if everything we produce is going to face counter proposals. Who do I have to satisfy? We think we've got better experts than those who reside on Sanibel... otherwise do it yourself. We plan on reporting to the City Manager and the Planning Director, as is traditional, including a series of checkpoints with the Council."

Islander receives award

During Honors Week at the University of South Florida, Bruce Speckerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Speckerman of Sanibel, was recognized as the 1989 Outstanding Cooperative Education Student.

The award was made during the annual spring reception sponsored and hosted by the Cooperative Education Advisory Council on Friday, May 18.

Bruce, a management major who graduated in March, now works for his co-op employer, The National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) in Miami, Florida.

In addition to outstanding performance with his employer, Bruce served for two quarters as Chairman of the Co-Op Student Advisory Council and was instrumental in getting additional funding for the Council.

Sanibel Island isn't the only place worried about the future of its live shells. Now, people living on the islands called the Florida Keys are alarmed about their Queen Conch population.

You have probably seen the Queen Conch either in piles around some of those roadside "shell shops" or in personal displays. It's a delicate colored, pinkish shell with a large outer lip. While it is a good shell for collectors, it is also a great shell for human consumption. That's why, while driving in the Keys, you see signs reading, "conch chowder," "conch fritters" or "raw conch salad."

It might be interesting to note that this shell is the only one protected by the State of Florida.

There is only one problem with the Queen Conch - she can be found too easily and that's the reason for her greatly diminished numbers. This shell is, or I might say was, found fairly easily along the shallow islands which bordered the Overseas Highway, that two-lane road which ends in Key West. Twenty years ago, it seemed there was no end to the numbers of these shells and I think that there have been plenty of families who survived hard times, thanks to the delicate meat of this conch.

That era might be coming to a crashing halt now, however. Shellers along these islands are becoming concerned about this conch, and I wouldn't be surprised if newer restrictions aren't enacted or possibly "safe" or sanctuary sites established that are off-limits to those who take shells in large numbers.

If you have been to the Bahamas, you know that this shell also plays a big part in the economy, but there the depletion story is about the same. I remember standing next to a Bahamian conch fisherman about 15 years ago and watching him reach into his boat and bring out conch after conch. He poked his stick over the flats and in the clear waters, he would reach into the depths with a pole and hook to pick out the conchs.

He beached the boat at the same place each day to take the conchs out, knock a hole in their shells, cut the muscles and then pull out the conch meat. He then tossed the shell onto a mound in the water.

Sanibel, of course, has a limit of two live shells, per person, per species and from those I've talked with who are active in shelling, the ban seems to be helping in bringing back the live shell populations.

One shell you'll probably never find alive is the coveted Junonia shell. It just might be the most sought after collector's shell found on the islands and, thinking over the past year of shelling, I don't recall a more unproductive year for finding these rare shells.

The reason for this has to be the comparatively mild winter, without too much of the strong winds and high seas that seem to enhance finding shells on the beaches.

I don't think my groups found more than two Junonias this past winter season when most of the big storms came, but the year before we found about 10 in that same period.

Good shelling out there this week end, given the choice, I would say that working the lighthouse end of Sanibel Island at dawn - if there is a southerly wind - will be your best bet for finding a few good shells.

(Capt. Mike Faery offers daily shelling trips to North Captiva and Cayo Costa Islands. Call 472-3459 for details.)

Mariner donation

The Fort Myers Little League recently became $11,000 richer thanks to the generosity of an island developer.

Mariner Properties donated a week of interval ownership at South Seas Plantation to the Little League, which was then given away in a fund raising raffle. According to League President Charlie Edwards, the money will go to the Fort Myers Little League capital improvement fund.

"Mariner has been very successful in this area," Edwards says, "and I have found them to share their success with the community."

Commission

Wycoff said, "My concern is that more and more situations are coming to light where construction is taking place which is outside planning procedures. Our Comprehensive Land Use Plan is only as good as the support it receives from the residents and the City. I think we are rapidly reaching a point where we are going to have enforcement or no Plan. I do believe it is important now for the City to take action to prevent a contractor or subcontractor to undertake work without a permit."

The City staff report recommended that Thompson be able to keep some of the improvements he had started. In the case of the retaining wall, the report stressed that to remove it "will cause more damage than leaving it there." However, several logs have been placed between the wall and against mangroves in the area, and the staff recommended removal of the logs. Staff also recommended that the 9 foot by 16 foot balcony which was already constructed be removed since it violates setback requirements. Finally, a recommendation to the Planning Commissioners was made that the boat ramp be allowed to remain since removal "would achieve little."

Commissioner Stearing asked, "What's unique about this situation? The fact that a development permit was received and ignored?"

Thompson attempted to explain that he had been "quite excited about getting the permit. Perhaps I acted childishly. I think I left it lying on the building inspectors desk or I dropped it. Either way, I didn't read it."

Commissioner Fred Valtin moved that the Planning Commission deny the specific amendment with the exception of allowing the retaining wall to remain, since everyone concurred that to remove it would cause additional harm to the mangroves. Commissioner Arthur Wycoff seconded the motion and it passed 6-0. Planning Commission Chairman Ann Winterbotham was absent.

Other Planning Commission action:

- A specific amendment allowing the First Baptist Church of Sanibel to buy and use a nearby 1.65 acre parcel west of the church for a parking lot was unanimously approved. The following conditions will apply to the parking lot: 1) no more than two driveways will have access to Sanibel-Captiva Road, 2) the front 50 feet of the parcel will be preserved and landscaped, and 3) the parking lot must comply with the CLUP for land adjoining which has residential uses.

- A specific amendment allowing a tennis court to be built at Seawind Condominiums was unanimously approved.

The planning staff report indicated that the tennis court will encroach upon the setbacks from both the road and canal. In addition, the clearing and coverage will exceed that permitted. However, the report recommended approval on the contention that a tennis court on the site would be beneficial to the community because it would reduce the impact upon the public courts and the traffic to them.

Sanibel resident Alice Kylo commented, "I think we're building too many tennis courts. They are generating too much heat, and wasting vegetation. They're changing the whole climate of the island." Commissioner Fred Valtin made the motion to recommend to City Council that the tennis court be approved subject to the staff's recommendations that the tennis court not exceed certain dimensions; that it be no closer to the canal than 15 feet; that the land surrounding the tennis court be vegetated with native vegetation; that rain runoff from the tennis court be directed into a retention-percolation area between the road and court; and that lighting of the tennis court not be permitted. The motion passed unanimously.

Further Planning Commission considerations were unavailable at press time.

This week our article deals with accessibility to clothing stores by the handicapped. We continue to stress accessibility because one of the basic needs of handicapped people is clothing. Very often the cost of safe adequate walkways and entrances to the shops are minor as compared to the cost of an accident, and the increased cost of insurance premiums resulting therefrom.

The clothing stores selected this week as being the most accessible to the handicapped are those located in the Tahitian Garden Shopping Center and the new Palm Ridge Shopping Center.

The stores in Tahitian Garden offer the most shopping variety to the handicapped. Such stores as Jeanette Daniel Tropical Fashions, Jeanette Daniel Menswear, Sanibel Beachwear Center, Sportsware by Nicole and Island Shoes and Sandals offer a wide variety of clothing.

The parking area for the shopping center is entirely paved. We would advise a handicapped shopper to park as close to the ramps as possible. No handicapped parking spaces are provided - but I believe that once the management of the shopping center becomes aware of the tremendous mobility problem the handicapped person faces, they will correct this minimal cost oversight.

The slope of the ramps leading to the floor level of the shops is greater than the one inch per foot recommended. Ramps with slopes greater than those mentioned cause handicapped people great apprehension, whether they be on crutches or in a wheelchair. The wide walkway in front of the shops provides a safe and convenient means of reaching all of the stores. Assistance is required, however, to open the doors to all the shops.

The Palm Ridge Shopping Center is new. It deserves mention not only for its new clothing store (India Imports of Sanibel) - but for the concern shown by our City planners, the Planning Commission, and the architect. These shops have a paved handicapped parking pad, while the remainder of the parking area is so-called permeable: shell and sand. There is a continuous paved walkway from the handicapped parking area to all of the shops. The doorways to the store floor levels are without elevation changes but assistance is also required here to open the doors to all the stores.

The aisles between the racks of clothing are wider and more accessible than many larger shops in town. The dressing room is adequate for a person in a wheelchair and, again, more accessible than those in town.

It's nice to be part of a community that is planning for the welfare of all its people. It's nice to know that the City Council has appointed a Planning Commission that shows empathy and concern for those with afflictions. And it's even better when they demonstrate visible evidence of that concern with visible action.

We recommend both shopping centers mentioned in this article to handicapped people looking for clothing. It's regrettable that assistance will be required to open the doors to the shops. This will change with time, however, when men of good will realize that it's good business, and that it generates good public relations to help those least able to help themselves.

Sanibel is a veritable shopper's paradise. Tasteful boutiques and casual island shops join forces to present visitors with everything, and anything - a vacation shopper could hope for.

At the Lighthouse (Eastern) end of the island, Punta Ybel Plaza and The Sea Horses are right across the street from each other, providing a variety of products that can cure your sweet tooth or tickle your shell finders' fancy. Need a good haircut or coiffure? You can get it in either of these shopping centers. Most businesses open at 10 a.m. and close at 5:30 p.m. This holds true for many island stores, although during the winter season, some are open evenings.

Tall Australian pines shade Periwinkle Way as the shopper travels west along this main thoroughfare. This stretch of road carries shoppers' paradise! It's all here - the fast and no-to-so fast eating spots, casual and elegant boutiques, hand-wrought jewelry, craft designer shops and salons for health product fanatics.

Watch to your right and left as you drive or cycle along. Photographic supplies, bait and tackle, shell goods, fresh seafood and baked goods, knick-knacks and what-nots can all be found along the drive to the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road. Along the way, shopping centers such as the Heart of the Islands, Periwinkle Plaza and Tahitian Gardens offer a variety of island delights.

Palm Ridge Road, the Periwinkle Way turn-off to Captiva, offers several new shopping centers featuring everything from a gift shop to the discriminating shopper, plants and shells to a sandwich shop, ice cream parlour, boutique shop and Island Apothecary pharmacy. At the Tarpon Bay, Periwinkle Way intersection, the Island Shopping Center features the island's only supermarket, dry cleaners and movie house.

A left on Tarpon Bay Road takes the visitor past Sanibel's original schoolhouse, which now holds original island watercolors and woodcuts. Then on to West Gulf Drive and westward to an interesting little artisan's shop and gallery.

At the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road, you may choose instead to turn right and follow the signs to the Tarpon Bay Marina, where you will find a cluster of quaint shops overlooking the back bay. Some antiques, shells and shellcrafts, what-nots and clever clothes can be found here, as well as a great seafood sandwich and soft drinks.

The spectacular ride to Captiva, with its lush foliage and enchanting view of the Gulf, is well worth a day's outing. Talented artists display their works in one roadside shop, while others feature some novelty gifts for Grandma to take home to little hands as a pleasant hodge-podge of remembrances from these barrier islands.

Whether for shopping, or merely browsing, island shops offer a surprising variety - from one-of-a-kind collectibles for the discerning shopper to postcards for the simple souvenir hunter and of course, for all shells, shell jewelry, shell lamps, just plain shells...the most beautiful shells in the world from the most beautiful shelling beaches in the world.

Miami arts exhibit

Artists are invited to exhibit and sell their original artwork at Baptist Hospital of Miami's first annual "Artists' Showcase," which will be Saturday and Sunday, November 29-30.

Some $10,000 in purchase awards and prize money will be awarded in the categories of mixed media, oils and acrylics, watercolor, ceramics, fiber, glass, graphics (drawings and pastels), photography, jewelry and sculpture. A special purchase prize of $500 will be given for the best work relating to a medical subject.

Claire Grieves, who has many years of experience organizing art shows, is the volunteer coordinator of "Artists' Showcase," which is free to the public. Monies raised by the art show will support the hospital's pulmonary rehabilitation program, which helps people with asthma, bronchitis, emphysema and other lung diseases.

The show will be held on the front lawn of the hospital, which is located on a 65-acre lake site in the heart of Kendall at 8900 North Kendall Drive. Snacks and information about hospital services will be provided in a large tent.

Entry fee for artists is $65, and the deadline for applications is October 18. Information and applications are available from the hospital's Development Office, (305) 596-6535.

Soja - Hamley wed

Doctor and Mrs. Stanley Pennington Wegryn have the joy of announcing the marriage of his daughter, Heidi Wegryn Soja, to J. Robert Hamley at Saint Isabel's Catholic Church on Sanibel, Wednesday, July 16, 1980 at the 5:30 p.m. mass.

Officiating at the ceremony will be the Right Reverend Gerald Beauregard. The bride will be escorted by Dr. Wegryn and Judge John T. Soja. Witnessing the ceremony will be the groom's parents, Doctor and Mrs. John J. Hamley, who will be celebrating their 32 wedding anniversary. They were also married on a Wednesday, July 16, 1948. Mrs. Wegryn will sing the "Ave Maria" and Mrs. Soja will read the liturgy.

Heidi is a magna cum laude graduate of Seton Hall University and a graduate of Seton Hall Law School. A member of New Jersey Bar, Ms. Soja is a law clerk for the Honorables Milton Peller, Bryant W. Griffin and William McCloud, Superior Court, Union County, New Jersey.

J. Robert attended Memphis State in Tennessee and is a graduate of Seton Hall University. Mr. Hamley is president of G.E.S.T. Inc., and is vice-president of Sente Inc.

Police Beat

By Pat Harmel

Sanibel Police officials worked overtime around the clock last week as the reported incidents of vandalism and thefts rose.

Officers are still investigating the $250,000 jewel heist that occurred July 3, and the $20,000 burglary of a Sanibel Arms West apartment last Friday night.

In addition, the office of the Sanibel Beach Club I was broken into and a bank deposit bag containing travelers checks, personal checks and currency valued at $1,154 was removed. Entry to the office was apparently gained through sliding glass doors and a claw hammer, kept in the office and now missing, was apparently used to pry open a locked file cabinet containing the bank bag. The incident is still under investigation.

A burglary at Lighthouse Point Condominium last Tuesday resulted in the loss of a shotgun, telescope, silverware, cassette player and speakers and numerous other items. Aquatronics Marina reported the theft of two outboard motors valued at $5,400 last Wednesday. Investigation into both incidents continues.

A boat was vandalized and $79 worth of equipment reported stolen while parked on E. Gulf Drive. Vandalism to two parked cars at Mariner Pointe was reported and Atrium residents reported broken globe lights, damage to the Atrium sign and the removal of a convertible car roof from a vehicle parked at the condominium.

Hurricane House also reported vandalism resulting in the removal of several small wooden signs, floodlights unscrewed and damage to a gas bar-b-que grill.

Clifton Allen Robie, 54, of Captiva was arrested for driving under the influence by the Lee County Sheriff's Department last Sunday. Robie was pulled over after a report that a man in a truck, fitting his vehicle's description, had fired shots from a .22 caliber rifle in the vicinity of Murrmond Lane. Robie had the rifle in his possession at the time of his arrest in the parking lot of the Mucky Duck Pub.

A possible arson incident was reported to the SPD by the Sanibel Fire Department concerning an incident at Sayana of Sanibel. A burned tiki hut and several charred chairs were found at the scene.

"Awright now you guys! Let's get some sticks together! Swing level and wait for your pitch!" says Mike Courtney confidently as he urges on his Timbers softball team to yet another big inning.

Currently sitting in third place in the Sanibel Softball League, the Timbers team, at 9-2, has found the winning formula. The important thing, Courtney says, is not getting overconfident.

"Every team in this league can beat any other team at any given time," he says. "When I prepare the team for a game, I talk about the opposing team as if it can beat us, whether it is a weak team or a strong one."

Courtney, 34, started his ball playing at age six in the Peewee League. He moved up to Little League, Pony League, and has played both fast and slow-pitch softball. He loves playing the game, but with a sore shoulder, he is confined to the dugout this year as a field manager.

"This is my first straight coaching job on a men's team," he said. "I have coached a women's team for the past two years, the old Sea Fillies (now

E.S.I. Swingers) with Thom Traucht.

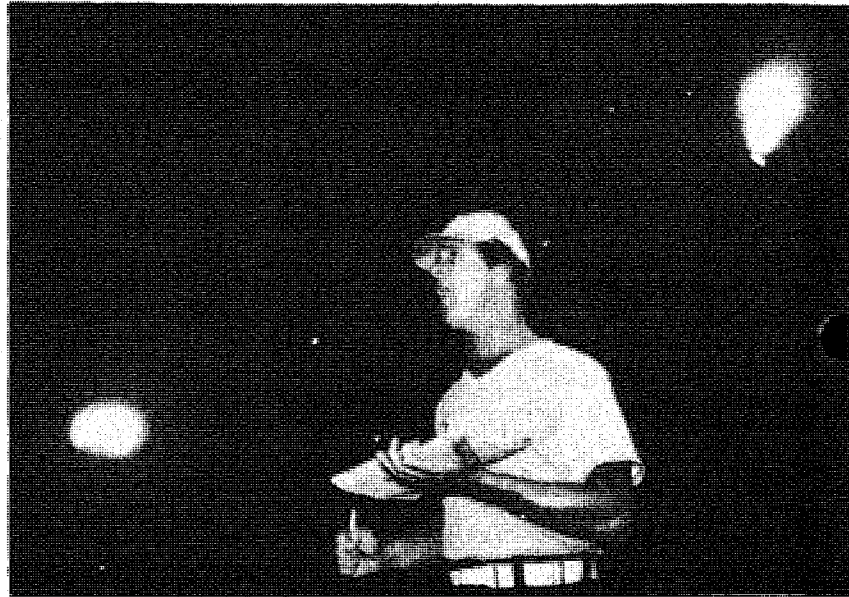

"I put this team (the Timbers) together from nothing - it was really a word-of-mouth team. Some of the guys are playing different positions than they played last year or have ever played. But I found the positions that I want them in - I like to think that I have the helm.

"It's a team with atmosphere," Mike says. "For dugout rapport, this is as good a team as I've ever coached. And a team with good rapport will play well.

"We're a team that doesn't hassle mistakes. I don't bear an error on a guy, but I get in my critique after each game, and most of the guys respect my opinion."

Courtney says he is pleased by the performance of his first-year team. "I didn't really expect to be doing this well at the end of the first third of the season. But I think the record will show at the end of the year that we're a good solid competitive team."

It's a challenge to keep the team on an even keel, Courtney says, and he misses playing ("I might try to play and coach next year, if it's not a conflict.") but he's not concerned about being out of shape from the lay-off. "I'm certainly keeping my weight down," he said, "by the way I pace in the dugout!"

INTERVAL OWNERSHIP — it's the most vacation for our money.

True — we work hard to earn our vacations and we want the most for our money. Inflation is making resort rentals just too expensive for a family — and we simply can't afford the year-round ownership and maintenance of a vacation home.

So we're here at Plantation Beach Club where interval ownership gives our family the assurance that we can enjoy leisurely vacations each year, in comfort and luxury, — all at a one-time cost that's easy to afford.

We love the islands — it's a great place for June and me to relax and there's so much for the kids to do. Our vacation villa is right on the beach, fully furnished, complete with linens, all the kitchen utensils, magazines, — you name it. We've got two private bedrooms, two bathrooms and a screened porch, so there's plenty of room for the kids.

With barbecues and a full kitchen, we fix breakfast, lunch, snacks and dinners — and save enough money to treat the whole family to nice restaurants once in a while.

There's also an exchange program — so we can change our vacation times and visit other resorts, all without paying rent. We believe Interval Ownership provides the most vacation for our money.
