Mixing adolescence with drugs

By Pat Harmel

Remember me with smiles and laughter. If you can only remember me with tears then don't remember me at all.

- Carolyn Ritchie

Carolyn Ritchie had firm ideas about how she wanted her friends and family to remember her after she was gone.

She was 17, a blonde Captiva teenager, a poet spreading her wings, a child in love with the outdoors, a young woman searching to find her own way.

And today, for all intents and purposes, Carolyn Ritchie no longer exists - except in the hearts of those who knew her. She died on September 19 at 12:40 p.m. a victim of mixing confusion with drugs and alcohol.

Last Thursday evening more than 60 friends of Carolyn's gathered together on the Captiva beachfront to honor her request to be remembered with smiles and laughter. But the tears, impossible to contain, flowed freely.

The sunset memorial service, conducted by family friend John Talbot, eulogized Carolyn with rose petals, the planting of a seedling tree, a mass visualization by the mourners - and her own words, from her own notebook, written at some other, happier time:

*This life is mine
I take the power
to choose what I want to do and to do it well.*

*I take the power
to love what I want in life and love it honestly.*

*I take the power
to walk in the forest
and be a part of nature.*

*I take the power
to control my own life.
No one else can do it for me.*

City supports recreation complex

By Pat Harmel

The City of Sanibel last week tentatively approved the setting aside of $150,000 to be used as matching funds for monies raised by Islanders for the purpose of building a pool and recreational facility for the Islands' children.

Officer Dick Noon, Sanibel Swim Team coach and member of the Police Recreation Club, and architect Ray Fenton addressed the City Council last week at the first hearing of the proposed 1980-81 City budget.

Fenton outlined a plan for a multi-purpose gymnasium and swimming pool complex to be located at the Sanibel Elementary School. The Lee County School System and Recreation Department had, according to Fenton, already granted "conceptual approval" to the plan.

Fenton defined the proposed recreation complex as a gathering place for both children and adults. During the daytime the facilities would be available to the school. During other times the facility could be used by the swim team, various community and civic groups, classes, athletic teams and numerous other groups and individuals.

"This is something that would gather the entire community around it as a project," stressed Fenton, adding, the entire project would be turned over to the City upon building completion.

Detailing the design of the complex,

Planners approve restaurant seating

By Paul A. Howe

The Sanibel Planning Commission met on Monday, September 29, with a very full agenda and two absentee Commissioners.

Commissioner Valtin kicked off the meeting with an objection to enforcing the proposed commercial building moratorium in the interim between the first and second Council readings. He suggested deferment instead. The Commission agreed to to defer discussion until later in the day.

Chairman Winterbotham advised that public hearings on the five-year Comprehensive Land Use Plan (CLUP) would start in early January.

The first case before the Commission was a request from the Island Water Association (IWA) to drill a new well into the Suwanee Aquifer, and install equipment for it and an existing well at their Reverse Osmosis Plant. It was unanimously approved subject to the required approvals of other governmental bodies.

The second case was a request from the Janthina Condominium project, on West Gulf Drive near the Snook Motel, to add a seventh dwelling unit to the six approved last February. They also proposed to construct a sewage treatment package plant. Because of the need for further technical staff review, the Commission continued the case to an unspecified date.

The third case involved a request by the Buttonwood Bar-B-Q in the Blind Pass

It's A Dog's Life!

Marion Smith, owner of Kenbre Dog Grooming, has more sweetness in her little finger than a whole box of Valentine chocolates.

Story and photos by Ellen Mulligan

"I love dogs," says Marion, which may explain why she treats her customers as if they were her own children. Loving dogs comes easy to Marion who feels, "the love and affection you get from a dog, money can't buy. A dog is priceless."

"I'm lucky to be doing what I love to do," she explains. For Marion, going to work in the morning isn't like going to work at all. Rather, for her, it's like a second home where most of her favorite canine friends come to visit.

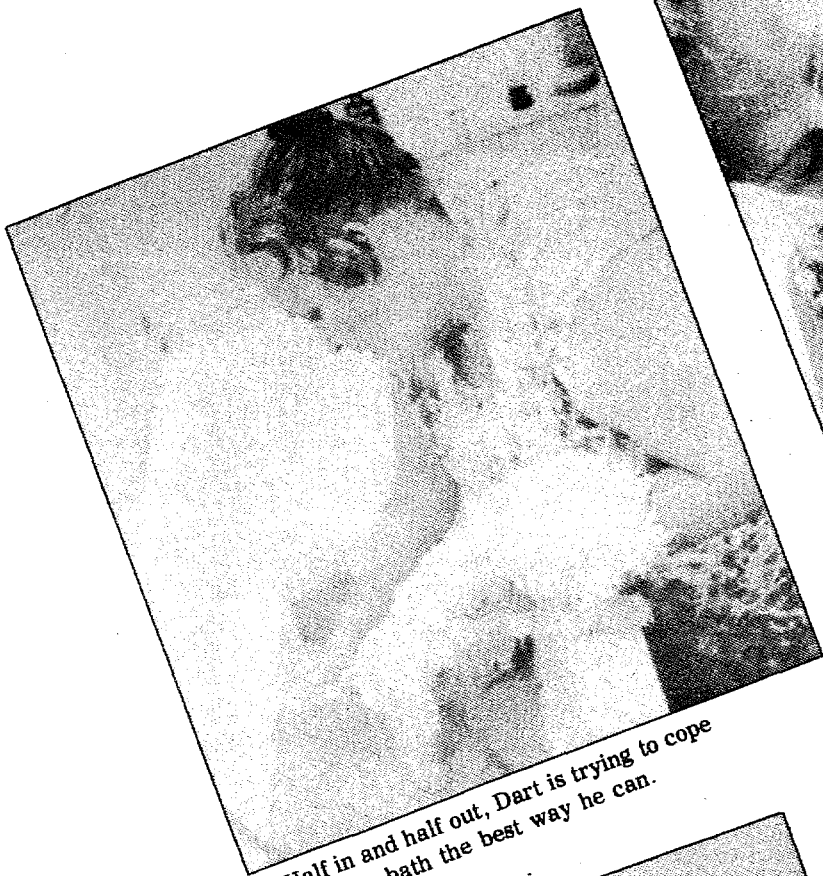

When her customers decide to bring their dogs in for a grooming they ask, "Do you want to go visit Aunt Marion?" And unlike the times when they're on their way to the vets, where they're running every which way but to the door, most of Marion's canine clients run in her door and jump for joy to see her.

"I'm so grateful to my customers," says Marion, adding, "they're wonderful. Dr. Paul and Phyllis Douglas are so encouraging and supportive." The Douglas' run the veterinary clinic and Marion's "beauty shop" is just behind that, which comes in handy if there is ever a medical problem with any of her friends.

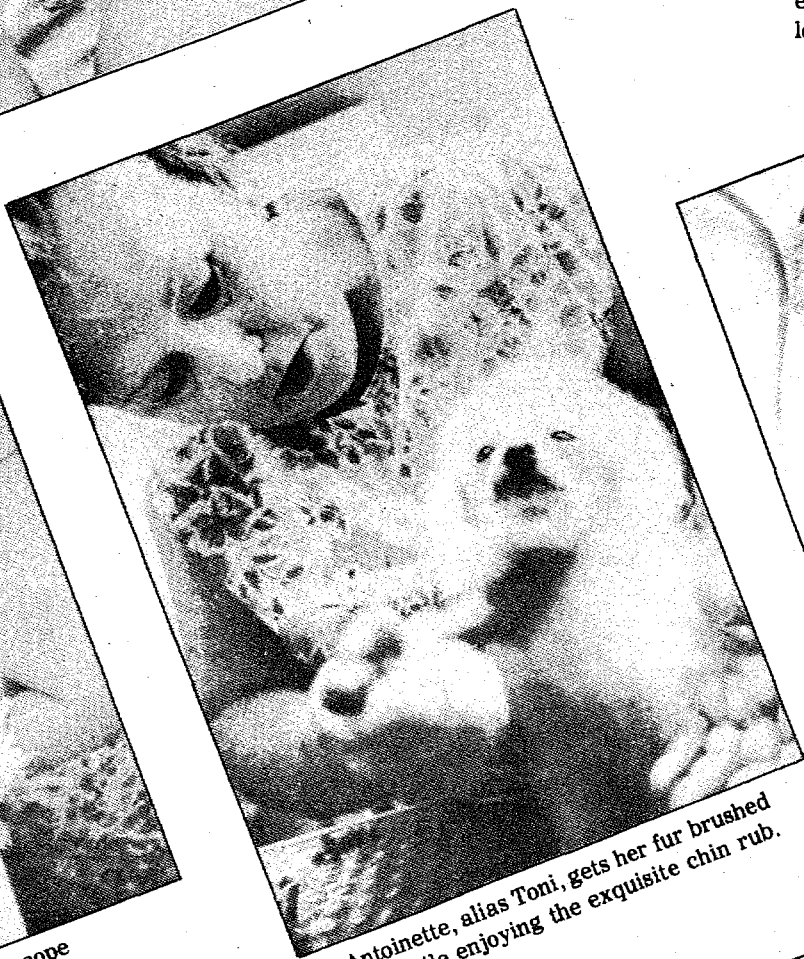

"It's not a bad experience for them," explains Marion. "When they know you love them and if you treat them well, they Beau receives some extra tender loving care. In her work, Marion is always talking to the dogs to make sure they know that they are loved.

Half in and half out, Dart is trying to cope with his bath the best way he can.

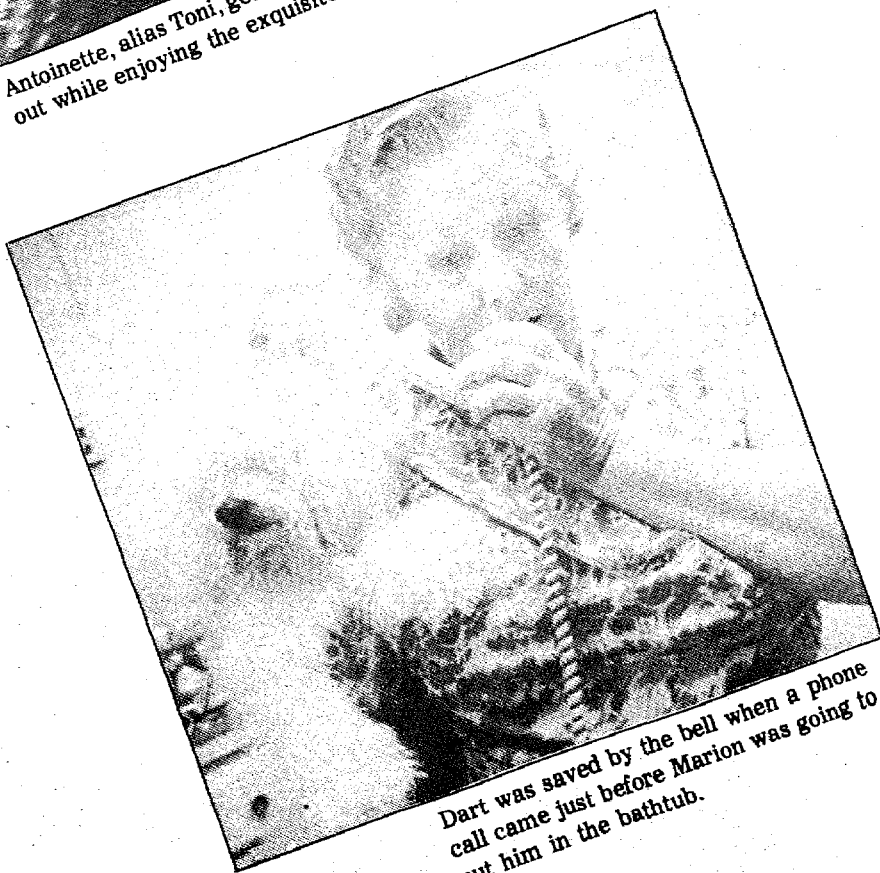

Antoinette, alias Toni, gets her fur brushed out while enjoying the exquisite chin rub.

"Is it over yet?" wonders Fedya, with her head resting against the side of the tub. Seemingly patient, Fedya tolerates the soapy suds.

Ricca is suffering from the bath tub blues.

Dart was saved by the bell when a phone call came just before Marion was going to put him in the bathtub.

don't mind." Kenbre, so named after Marion's two sons, Ken and Bret, runs very much like a human's beauty salon.

Customers make appointments two to three days in advance and leave their dogs with Marion for, "a good three hours." What Marion likes to do is bathe all the dogs in the morning before she clips, cuts, and cleans. After that, she returns them to their cage and points a blow dryer on them to speed up the drying process and keep them fluffy and warm. Unless the dog is on flea medicine, she'll give them a flea dip which sets deep into their coat and repels fleas for two or three weeks.

Not all dogs come for a hair cut. The grooming depends on the breed of dog. Shepards and furry type dogs usually just get a bath and a good brushing, while schnauzers and poodles have to be trimmed just so. Marion also sees to it that the toenails are clipped, the ears are cleaned and the anal glands are expressed. "It goes with the job," she says with raised eyes referring to the latter.

Some of them look like different animals by the time Marion is finished. "They're cleaner, they're bound to feel better. They go prancing out with their heads high," she says.

"I think that they enjoy it," Marion says. "To me they are just like people. They have a greater understanding than we sometimes give them credit for."

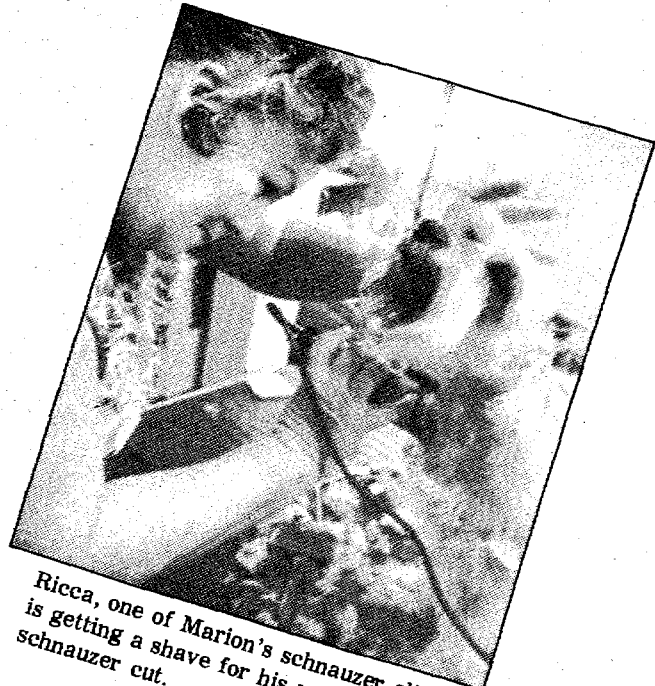

Marion believes that anyone who has never taken their dog to a groomer would be pleasantly surprised by her work. "If you love what you're doing, you do a good job," she explains.

At one point in her life, Marion wanted to become a veterinarian. Never receiving the opportunity, she chose instead the next best field, dog grooming, just so she could be with the animals.

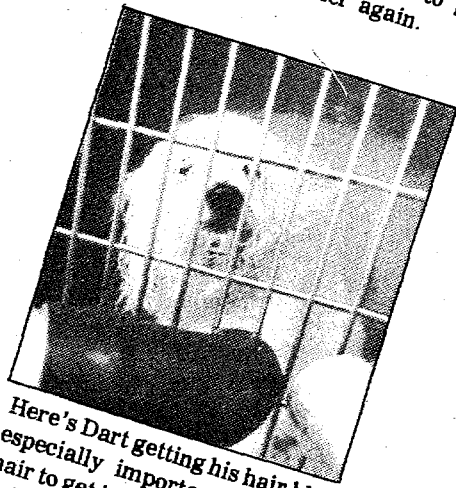

So, indicative of Marion, she earnestly believes, "They're special. The more I deal with dogs, the more I love them."

Ricca came in a little shabby, so Marion started shaving him immediately to get him looking like a schnauzer again.

Ricca, one of Marion's schnauzer clients, is getting a shave for his very distinctive schnauzer cut.

Here's Dart getting his hair blown dry. It is especially important for dogs with long hair to get it thoroughly dry. It makes their hair fluffy and soft.

The tools of Marion's trade are well used. "In the dog grooming business, you live, drink and sleep hair," says Marion.

In your opinion

Moratorium support

A copy of the following letter was given to the Islander for publication:

The Sanibel City Council
City Hall
Sanibel, Florida

Dear Councilmen:

Congratulations on your courageous and forward looking September 16 action in seeking a respite on commercial development until the completion and analysis of the current ongoing commercial study.

It is the consensus of the representatives of Sanibel's Neighborhood Associations that further commercial growth on the Island without authoritative factual data would be most inappropriate.

You will recall that a group of Sanibel merchants, on March 20, 1979, expressed a fear of damage to the commercial community from untrammelled commercial development. Inasmuch as residential growth has already been so regulated, it seems prudent and fair to also adjust commercial growth to our Island's limited carrying capacity.

Please feel free to avail yourselves of the facilities of CONA for guidance and support in your efforts to produce a timely and well balanced growth program for Sanibel.

Best Wishes,

(s) Urban Palmer, President

Save the Algiers

The following was submitted to the Island for publication as a letter to the Editor:

TO: City Council, Planning Commission and City Manager
FROM: The Photographers' Gallery, Inc.
RE: The Algiers Steamboat

The board of directors of The Photographers' Gallery, Inc., a non-profit, education organization, wholeheartedly supports efforts to preserve and restore the Algiers steamboat for the cultural benefit of island residents and visitors, in keeping with low intensity use requirements.

The City of Sanibel is recognized as a leader in land use planning and environmental conservation. Now we have the opportunity to enhance and enrich the cultural well-being of our community.

Great potential exists in the proposal outlined in the April 9, 1980 communication to you from Barrier Island Group for the Arts. We believe the unique character of the Algiers, with its own slice of romantic history, can serve as an ideal center for a variety of cultural activities and as a repository for historical artifacts.

In its proposal, BIG Arts suggested that "while some of the required repair work (on the Algiers) would call for professional services, much of it is cosmetic and could be done by volunteers from the community."

Our Gallery is a good example of that kind of volunteerism and dedication to a worthy cause. A handful of islanders bent on fostering one aspect of the arts, photography, were able to open our facility, which this week begins its third season on the island. We accomplished this with very little initial funding, all of which came from private contributions with no cost to Sanibel taxpayers.

A steadfast dedication to our goals, coupled with imagination and elbow grease, has enabled us to grow and to become a cultural asset to our community. The Algiers affords the island community an opportunity to combine several aspects of our cultural activities and heritage in one facility.

The Photographers' Gallery is ready to assist in any way we can toward these goals, and several of our members are anxious to volunteer their time, talent and elbow grease.

We ask you to carefully weigh your decision concerning the disposition of the Algiers, keeping in mind that the structure cannot be duplicated. As a community project, we relish the task of turning this "attractive nuisance" into a valuable island asset.

Lower fire insurance ratings?

A copy of the following letter was given to the Islander for publication:

Honorable James P. Hanna, Deputy Insurance Commissioner
The Capitol
Tallahassee, Florida 32301

Dear Commissioner:

Our local daily newspaper recently reported the Lee County Fire Chief Association as saying that most county fire districts have experienced a lowering of their fire insurance ratings over the past four years. Sanibel's Fire Control District regrettably is not among those so favored.

Four years ago, a letter dated June 28, 1976, was the last news Sanibel City's residents had from the Insurance Services Office of Florida assuring our District that execution of its ambitious, well funded and on going Fire Protection Plan "would qualify the fire district for a protected classification - class 8 or perhaps better."

During those four years the District has diligently and substantially completed the execution of the Plan, including the addition of a model, new, additional well equipped and manned fire station at the other end of our twelve mile island city. In coordination with our consumer-owned Island Water Association the District also installed fire hydrants that greatly augment the protection afforded by the many "developers' ponds" that dot the island.

The citizens and visitors of Sanibel are vocally proud of our Sanibel Fire Control District. We admire its splendid performance record and esprit de corps. It is, indeed, recognized as top grade throughout Lee County. We are also chagrined, however, because the demeaning and costly Class 9 rating assigned some ten years ago is still applied by some insurance carriers.

We worry that no action is reflected in our insurance bills as a result of the on-site reappraisal made by ISO some seven months ago. Accordingly, on behalf of Sanibel's many neighborhoods and its business community we ask that you look into this matter and advise when we can start sharing in the prevailing lower class rates enjoyed throughout the rest of Lee County.

On being 95 years old

A copy of the following poem was given to the Islander by Abby Parker for publication:

John Wheeler Fairfax, Jr., observes his frailties on his 95th Birthday, September 1979:

 For 95 years ago,
 The midwife said "A Boy."

Now he's grown to be a man
 And what a sight to see
 Withered skin and rheumy-eyes
 He can hardly believe, it's he.

Soon he learned the facts of life
 And much to his chagrin
 He found that facts were always facts
 And sometimes a mortal sin.

When he's weak and quite confused
 Senility is to blame
 He often fails to zip his pants
 And forgets his given name.

Some frailties are mighty rough
 He'd like to have them go
 But, parts they are, of the old age game
 It's time that he should know.

Other frailties are more benign
 Viewed in low profile
 But they are like Magnesia's Milk
 They'll never cramp his style.

There is a frailty he tries to conquer
 Too intimate to relate
 In spite of heroic efforts
 It's always just too late.

His youthful hair, once brown and straight
 Has gradually turned to grey
 Give and take another year
 It'll turn to white and stay.

His sight is dim, his muscles soft
 His ears have turned to wood
 He'd like to play around a bit
 If he only could.

His pearly teeth have long since gone
 His digestive organs poor
 And when he walks with feeble steps
 He holds on to the door.

Sometimes his breath is pretty bad
 With an odor quite offensive
 So turn your head the other way
 In a manner that's defensive.

Often the days are long & deary
 Hopefully to survive
 He prays and sleeps - reads and sleep
 The Happy Hour is at 5.

Otherwise his health is good
 He has no aches or pains
 He has his booze, he has his snooze
 Arthritis when it rains.

Stanton Manor is his home
 Sometimes called his pad

Where friends and family rally round
 To make him bright and glad.

He loves the memories of long ago
 Better of days misspent
 He may not be a happy lark
 Thank God - He is content.

Code board plaudits

To the Editor:

Many of us have been interested in bringing a municipal court to Sanibel. Unfortunately the Florida State Legislature, some years ago, saw fit to change the State Constitution, so that municipal courts would be completely phased out. All such matters would be referred to the State's Attorney's office and were necessarily accompanied by huge delays, waste of officers' time, making it impractical to handle such matters as traffic offenses and code violations. Many cases were simply dropped necessarily or never pursued.

Now, through the diligent work and interest of a State Committee, including our most able city council member, Zee Butler, the State has been induced to set up regulations providing for a "Municipal Code Board." These would be established in municipalities wanting them by passing the necessary ordinance and setting up the prescribed Board. Their chief function would be to expedite all matters pertaining to city codes which make up the highest number in ordinary municipal court cases. The Board is set up to include six (6) citizens, if possible, to come from fields of endeavor related to these problems and be guided either by the city Attorney or other legal council. The Board will study and give interpretations on problems related to codes either originally or after inspection has revealed a possible error. It may assess meaningful fines where warranted and stop progress on a project found to deviate from a code - when compliance is not forthcoming in a reasonably prescribed time. If satisfaction is not obtained, there is a mechanism set up for referral to a circuit court.

Happily, this plan has been properly proposed by our City Council as Ordinance No. 80 which had its first reading on September 10, '80. The second reading will be the regular City Council meeting of October 7, '80. If it passes, and I feel we should all acquaint ourselves with its technicalities, it will go a long way to relieve the urgent need for some form of Municipal Court. It will expedite, and make possible, early adjudication of all such matters as code enforcements. We should all be grateful for this new mechanism which provides for the proper enforcement of our codes.

Budget continued

Fenton explained that the group was working on a "bare bones budget" calling for $90,000 for the 75 by 42 foot pool, $93,000 for the building and $27,000 for the all-purpose floor. A total of $275,000 would cover the necessary structures and equipment, while other items could, according to Fenton, be donated to the facility.

Noon explained to the Council that the need for a community pool was desperately needed by the Island children. The Sanibel Swim Team, usually composed of more than 100 children, will be "without a home" as of October 31. The Casa Ybel pool, used by the team for the last two years for practicing, will no longer be available to them.

Fenton told the Council that once the City had taken over operation of the facility it would cost approximately $28-32,000 a year to run. "Long range commitments to help" maintain supervision and maintenance had already been promised, he added.

Councilman Porter Goss pointed out that recreational facilities were rated a top priority in the land use plan and monies from the Causeway surplus fund could be used for the $150,000 commitment requested by Fenton.

Council candidate Mike Klein, speaking from the audience, told the Council, "I think it's a great idea. If we can spend $100,000 for restrooms for people we don't even know, we can give $150,000" to the Islands' children.

Councilman Duane White moved to establish the Sanibel recreation Complex Fund as a budgetary item and the motion passed unanimously.

The proposed budget, set for a second reading at 5:01 p.m. on October 10, calls for $196,079 for legislative expenditures (down from last year's $217,013); $378,515 for administrative (up from last year's $328,926); $77,179 for legal (up from $70,114 for last year); $204,900 for planning (down from $282,846 for last year); $408,393 for police (up from last year's $356,159); $129,763 for engineering and inspection (down from last year's $133,526); $80,773 for transportation (up from last year's $71,390); $279,552 for public works (down from last year's $435,468) and $13,650 for recreation (up from last year's $8,000). The total budget proposed for the 1980-81 fiscal year is $1,768,804, with the ad valorem tax rate set at 3.3337 mills.

their political differences, their lifestyles and, frequently, their values.

But this week three different community issues have been raised; three issues the residents of both Islands should be concerned with, issues that could bind the two Island communities together as never before.

Eleven days ago a Captiva teenager died. The details are muddled and yet to be deciphered by the Lee County Sheriff's Department - the law enforcement agency called in when trouble erupts on Captiva.

Last Thursday evening more than 60 friends of Carolyn Ritchie gathered on the Captiva shore to commemorate her passing, and very few boundary lines were drawn. Sanibelites and Captivans of all ages were drawn together in sorrow for the premature death by drugs of a 17 year old friend.

Caroline's death brought to a head the rumors of drug abuse among the Islands' youngsters and the sense of futility experienced by Island parents. Something must be done and done soon before another life is sacrificed and it is not likely to be done by a County law enforcement agency that refers to Captiva as "the rock."

Residents of both Islands must join together to solve the common problems of their children.

The Sanibel Police Recreation Club, long concerned with the Islands' youth, this week scored a victory with Sanibel's City Council. The Council agreed to put up $150,000 in matching funds to be spent on a swimming pool and recreational complex for all Islanders, young and old, Sanibelites and Captivans alike.

The Police Rec Club will be putting out an official Island telephone directory - with all proceeds to go for the pool and recreation facility. Numerous residents of the Islands have banded together to support, financially and voluntarily, the concept of an Island center. It is a facility that is desperately needed by the Island youth so often confined to parking lots for meeting places.

Along the same lines, though certainly not youth-specific, is the issue of the steamboat Algiers.

The 56 year old steamboat was brought to the Islands 21 years ago from New Orleans and has been landlocked on Sanibel ever since. The residents of Sanibel voted to buy both the boat and the property it is on and now the time has come to decide what to do with it.

City sentiment is running high against doing anything with the steamboat except demolishing it. But last week, in a public hearing on the issue, such noted Island residents as Robert Rauschenberg of Captiva and Peter Smith and Emil Fray of Sanibel, pleaded with City officials to save the life of the boat. The time has come, they said, for the Islands to establish a cultural center. The expensive renovation, they claimed, could be accomplished by volunteers and donations.

Hhmmph! The City officials said.

The time, it appears, is ripe for residents of both Islands to come together for the common good; to take more than a passing glance at the destiny that awaits them. Children, drugs and the state of the arts on the Islands may, at first blush, seem to have not a whole lot in common. But, if the Islanders of both Islands can come together to deal with all three issues, they may find a commonality among them.

area to add another 10 seats to their carry-out food establishment. When added to the 14 seats existing on the porch (that will be moved inside) the total seating will be 24. The Commission approved the request with two Commissioners dissenting.

The fourth case was a request from the Pelican Place Shopping Center on Palm Ridge Road to transform the project's 10 professional offices to retail stores. It was pointed out that the CLUP makes no distinction between professional offices and retail shops in commercially zoned areas. The request was approved.

The fifth proposal was from Hurricane House Motel on West Gulf Drive. It sought to have an existing sprinkler system forward of the Coastal Construction Set-back Line permitted. That request was unanimously denied. No action was taken on similarly handling the removal of an existing sprinkler system in the West Gulf Drive public right-of-way.

The balance of the long agenda was postponed until after the Commission's lunch break and the results were not available at press time.

Community Church resumes double service schedule

The Sanibel Community Church begins its fall schedule this Sunday, October 5, with worship services at 9 a.m. and 11:15 a.m. Classes for both children and adults will meet between the two services at 10:15 a.m., and a Friendship Hour will be held following both services.

The Covenant Choir (grades four through eight) sings at the 9 a.m. service, and the Chancel Choir (adult) sings at the 11:15 a.m. service.

The special offering received at World Wide Communion this Sunday will be devoted to the ministry of 'special people' through the Lee County Association for Retarded Citizens (LARC).

LEE COUNTY NEEDS SENATOR DICK STONE

Sen. Stone Got $3.5 million Emergency Jetport Money

When Senator Stone came to Fort Myers this summer to view progress on the jetport and I-75, the outlook for continuing the airport construction was gloomy. He was told that the lack of $3.5 million of federal aid was likely to cause contract suspensions, a year or more delay and cost increases of 10 to 30 millions.

Senator Stone got on the phone and within an hour could report that FAA had only $25 million allocated for construction in the entire country this fiscal year. However, it was possible that as much as $5 million could come to Florida.

"I'll push to get most of that $5 million sent to Lee County," Senator Stone said.

FLASH! FAA is sending $3.75 million

Airport construction has not been delayed, new bids have been received which are below estimates and millions of dollars have been saved by Senator Stone's quick action.

He Got the VA Clinic Open

Senator Stone pushed hard to get a VA outpatient clinic in Fort Myers. The building was built, equipment installed but a wrangle between the general contractor and subcontractors caused a foul-up. The clinic stood for weeks, equipped and staffed but not open.

Senator Stone came to Fort Myers, went through the clinic room by room, saw the equipment and questioned the Director.

He went back to Washington and forcefully reported the foul-up to top VA officials. The equipment was promptly certified and the clinic was opened for service.

He Broke the Freeze on I-75 Funds

When Senator Stone came here this summer, the news had just come from Tallahassee that federal funds for I-75 had been restricted and that new contracts would be shifted from the West Coast to Dade County.

Senator Stone called his Washington Office. Within an hour he reported back to us that there was no shortage of federal funds and that contracts possibly could be let in October instead of sometime next year.

Bids are being received, and I-75 work north and south of here will proceed without interruption.

Senator Stone 'Stole' Radar for Airport

Last spring at a breakfast meeting in Fort Myers, Senator Stone was told the Lee County Airport was the busiest airport in the nation which did not have ground radar.

He said, "We stole radar for Tallahassee and I will do it for Lee County."

Very soon the Marine Corps radar equipment arrived and training began.

Lions News

The regular meeting of the Sanibel-Captiva Lions Club was held at the Beachview Country Club with three visitors from the Bonita Springs Lions Club assisting in the program.

President Hatcher announced the coming City and County candidates' nights to be held at the Community Building and noted the need for questions to be prepared ahead of time for the candidates to answer.

Two of the visiting Lions were responsible for collecting eye glasses and hearing aids, and also for supplying information on the international relations of the local clubs with other clubs in other countries.

Lion Len Yaeche was named Outstanding Lion in a ceremony conducted by Lion Cy Runnels. Visiting Lion Ken Shivel presented Membership Keys to Lions Dave Bloom, Hap Payne, Fritz Myers and John Wilcox. These are presented to Lions who have brought in two members in the past two years. Other keys are available when more new members are enrolled.

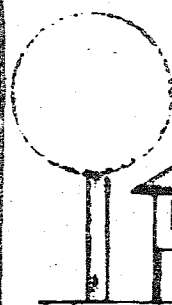

Lion Ken Shivel presented a film sponsored and made by the Florida Lions Eye Bank at Miami on "The Gift of Sight" in which a boy is injured in the eye while playing. The use of a corneal transplant saved the sight of the eye. Lion Shivel pointed out that the Miami Eye Bank was responsible for 539 corneal transplants last year. He also noted that more eye wills were needed by the Bank.

The next meeting will be held at Beachview Country Club on Wednesday, October 1, at 6:30 p.m.

The Algiers - a community project?

By Pat Harmel

Members of Sanibel's City Council and Planning Commission met last week to debate the fate of the steamboat Algiers - landlocked on Sanibel for the past two decades and purchased by the City, along with the 30 acre parcel it sits on, for $1,385,600.

Bob Duane, of the City's Planning Department, told the City officials that development of the property as a "low intensity" park had been established as a first priority in meeting FmHA loan requirements. Restrooms, bicycle and pedestrian paths and a beach walkover constituted "low intensity" use, according to the planning staff, which also recommended that long range plans be considered for parking, beach access and vegetation management.

Island resident Conrad Lickel, a member of the Public Properties Committee established to study the possible uses of the Causeway and Algiers property, told the workshop that the Committee had identified all the possible uses for the Algiers property and decided that parking availability was a necessity. According to Lickel, 180 parking spaces had been considered.

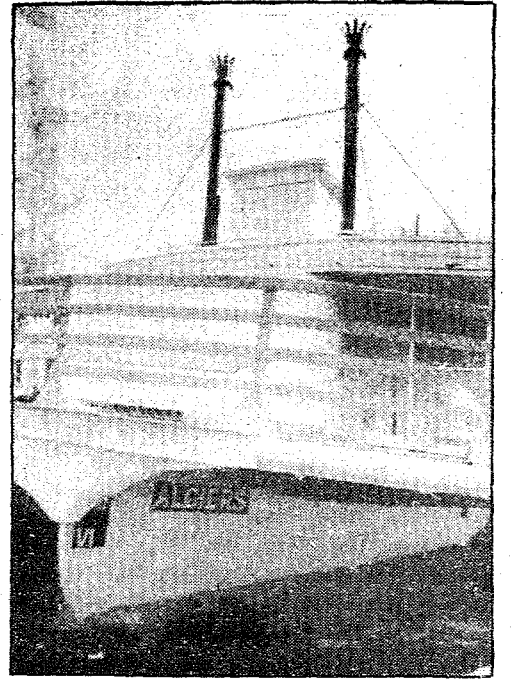

Councilman Duane White asked the group, "Are we or are we not going to seriously consider using the Algiers for some sort of facility," pointing out that extensive repairs might be necessary to the boat's structure.

Mayor Francis Bailey pointed out that the boat was located seaward of the coastal construction setback line and to use the structure would put the City in violation of its own land use plan. "It has nothing to do with the history of the Island," charged Bailey.

Several audience members disagreed with Bailey, however. Louise Johnson, also a member of the Public Properties Committee, told the group, "There are groups on the Island very interested in restoring it." She pointed out that the restoration of the ship could be a "community project" that would eventually be used as a meeting place for "Islanders not daytrippers."

Peter Smith, chairman of the Barrier Island Group for the Arts, read off a list of possible community uses for the steamboat "that don't require cars or a lot of people." Office space for various Island groups, a museum, a cultural center, a

We got our money's worth —and then some.

This is great! We're playing tennis and golf, taking it easy on the beach, doin' a little sailing, dancing at night and we're not spending a bundle.

Brad and I have our own place here on the beach at South Seas Plantation for two weeks every year. Plantation Beach Club sells interval ownership and we were able to buy just what we could use and afford. We've fixed the cost of our vacations and didn't let ourselves get tied down.

You see, there's this exchange program that lets us trade our vacation time at South Seas Plantation and go to other resorts around the world. So, not only can we travel, but we're not tied down to taking our vacation the same time every year.

Our friends Rob and JoAnn are also owners here, and we've planned to spend one week here next spring and then all go to Acapulco together. We really look forward to the vacations we can now afford to take.

We figure we'll get our money's worth in a couple of years — and then no matter what inflation does — we'll still be taking first class vacations every year.

On the water

By Mike Fuery

The last of September and the first of October are traditionally "wind down" months when it comes to fishing, but if you are a dedicated trout fisherman, this lull time is just what you have been waiting for.

I've checked around with guides and good fishermen over the past few days and it appears that snook fishing is about over for the year. This is usual for this fish; remember that snook are around the passes and along our Sanibel and Captiva Island beaches just for the spawning season. That time is about over and the big fish have started their migratory move back to the creeks on the mainland side of Pine Island Sound and into the coastal rivers along the state. Some of the fish certainly do move offshore or drop down south to the more stable waters of the Florida Keys. Either way, we can say "good-bye" to snook season until next April.

That doesn't mean, however, that wintertime snook fishermen won't grab a couple from time to time in the deeper canals and creeks of the Islands, but for the majority of the people, it's time to start looking for other fish.

As I have mentioned, sea trout or "specs," as they are called in some places, will start to return to our waters as the temperatures begin to cool.

If you are just looking for an afternoon of fishing fun and want to try for trout, one of the more productive areas is around the causeway flats. There are two small islands on the causeway and you are going to start to notice that the fishermen out wading in hip-deep waters will be picking up some nice sized trout this time of the year.

You don't really have to wade out, if you can cast, say, 70 or 90 feet from shore. These fish, which should range from the 12-inch legal size on up to perhaps 20 inches, will be cruising along the grass flats of the causeway islands.

I would suggest getting a free tide chart from any one of the several bait shops on the Islands and selecting a time which coincides with high tide. The trout will come in closer to shore with more water and perhaps make fishing easier for you at this time.

There are two methods of fishing which seem to work best here.

One is to throw artificial baits, mostly shrimp imitation jigs. There are seemingly endless varieties of these things in the shops, but I would select a leadheaded outfit with a white, yellow and pink tail. You can use a leader, but few trout have ever bit through a leader, so you can really tie the jig right to your line.

You might want to buy a dozen shrimp and pinch them into quarters and tip the hook of your jig with this bit of bait. It puts a scent in the water and often improves your fishing action. Work these lures with a short hop action.

The other way which seems to get the trout onto the hook is to use a popping cork and put it about two to three feet above a hook baited with a whole shrimp. You are surface fishing now and when a strike comes, you can see that bobber duck under the water signaling the fish. This is probably the most productive method for beginning fishermen.

As we get on into the fall fishing season, I'll pass on some more places and methods for going after trout, but if you have some time to spare and have the equipment, then give the causeway a try. I generally fish the side of the causeway that allows me to cast down wind. This gets the bait or lure out further, giving you more fishing area and time to get a strike.

The main thing is to relax and enjoy your time on the water. The fish are a bonus on top of that. Good fishing and have a safe time on the water.

Conversion table: The above tides are for the lighthouse point of Sanibel only. To convert for Redfish Pass (North tip of Captiva), add 55 minutes to the time shown for every high tide. Subtract two minutes for every low tide.

For Captiva Island Gulf side, subtract 30 minutes for each high tide, and subtract hour and 16 minutes for each low tide.

For Captiva Island, Pine Island Sound (Bay) side, add 1 hour and four minutes for each high tide and add 52 minutes for each low tide.

In between these points, gulf or bay, guesstimate and have good fishing or shelling.

Shelling Tips

By Mike Fuery

"Can any of these shells hurt me in some way when I pick them up?"

That's a question I hear quite often from those on my shelling trips and, except for one shell, the answer is "no."

That exception is the Cone Shell and this week I thought we would talk about the Cone Shells you might find along our Sanibel and Captiva Island beaches.

In reality, there is little serious danger from handling a live Florida or Alphabet Cone - the two most commonly found specimens in our area, but that's not true with all of the family.

There are a couple varieties of Cones found in the Pacific and Indian Oceans which actually have been known to be fatal to humans. Strangely enough, our local cones have the same "poison apparatus" that those rare ocean cones do.

With some shellers, finding Cones is almost a fanatical pastime. And actually, some of the most outstanding shells in the best displays are Cones. But, I've never taken to anyone who could tell me they had been stung by a Cone in local waters.

All Cones have the ability to "sting," either as a means of foiling a would-be attacker or as a way of catching and killing something to eat. They do this by way of extending a harpoon-like point called a radular tooth.

Venom from a poison duct is injected into a victim when the Cone is either harmed or is hunting. I think that I have handled just a few live Cones in my life and I've always found them to be typically shy, as most live shell creatures are, but apparently they can use that radular tooth to defend themselves if need be.

Well, semi-dangerous or not, where are we going to find Cones?

First of all, Cones are called that because they do resemble a conical object. The wide end of the Cone has some ridges and the Alphabet Cone, found with some regularity around the Islands, is usually encrusted in sea grass growths. If you don't know the shape you are looking for, it would be quite easy to overlook a live Cone. They lie half buried and often resemble a bit of oyster or broken clam shell.

A usual Alphabet Cone, when cleaned up, is yellowish or white with yellow dots. You sometimes will hear it called a "Chinese Alphabet Cone" because the arrangement of dots look somewhat like Chinese writing.

The other Cone you might come upon is the Florida Cone. This is colorful in its own way, though I don't think of it as being as valuable as the Alphabet when it comes to collecting for display. Either Cone will be less than two inches high when adult size, so don't look for a monster of a shell when you search the shallow mud flats or beaches.

The interesting Cone is a night feeder. I never have been able to find out why, but shellers who know their Cones get out the lantern and pick a low tide late in the evening to search for these shells.

They seem to feed upon other tiny shells and marine worms and perhaps at night, on very low tides, they can find food more easily. As you perhaps know, there is a shelling limit of two live ones per species, per person. Many shellers have finally reached the opinion that taking any live shells is wrong, so they head for the beaches to look for Cones.

You are apt to find them on any Gulf of Mexico shoreline but I have done best on a couple of tiny dredged islands along the Intracoastal Waterway in Pine Island Sound. There are several of these unnamed islands, usually under a foot or so of water in the Sound. I only find dead shells there. Another good beach for Cones is about half way up Cayo Costa Island.

But you can come upon them at any beach, from the lighthouse on Sanibel on up for the next 20 miles of shoreline.

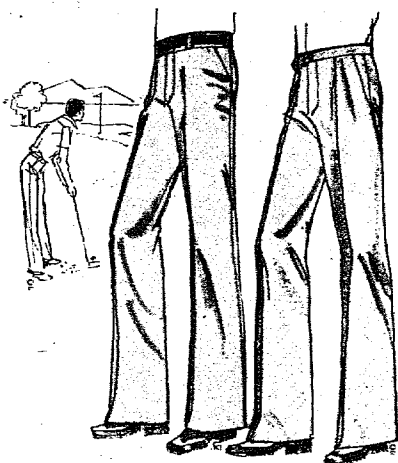

If you do find one, you will probably have to take a stiff bristle brush to it in order to get the marine growths off, then you have something to add to your collection. Good shelling this week, and keep an eye out for that small cone shaped shell.

(Capt. Mike Fuery offers daily shelling trips to North Captiva and Cayo Costa Islands. Call 472-3459 for details.)

Buttonwood cut this weekend

Construction of the new office and visitor center on the J.N. "Ding" Darling National Wildlife Refuge, Sanibel Island, is scheduled to begin within ten days. The new $550,000 complex is expected to be completed and opened in the third quarter of 1981.

Preliminary to actual construction the refuge will permit cutting and removal of buttonwood from the building site. Charles leBuff, of the refuge staff, announced this week that a buttonwood cut is scheduled for Saturday, October 4. The wood must be cut from a specified area and hauled away the same day. Refuge personnel will be on-scene coordinating the activity and will allow cutting from sunup until sundown.

The local buttonwood, considered by some local naturalists to be a mangrove, is favored by people who smoke fish and to a lesser extent by wood carvers. It is a hard slow-burning wood that gives fish, poultry, or meat an excellent flavor.

People desiring to take advantage of this opportunity may contact the refuge officer on duty at the site - at the entrance of the J.N. "Ding" Darling Memorial Wildlife Drive. This is located just east of the Sanibel Elementary School on the Sanibel-Captiva Road.

Christian Women's Club to meet

The new year is about to begin for the Sanibel-Captiva Christian Women's Club with the first luncheon of the year to be held on Thursday, October 2, 1980, at Chadwick's on Captiva Island from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The donation is $6.

We hope you can bring a friend since new friends are always welcome.

A presentation of Kochinas Dolls of the Hopi Indian Tribe will be made by Sherry Vartdahl. Our theme is an "Indian Pow-Wow."

Our speaker is to be John McClellan from St. Petersburg who is now employed with an insurance company. His life story should be a great inspiration as he is now active with youth counseling and leadership.

If you have not been contacted and would like to attend, call Charlotte White, 472-2406 or Myrtle Mayer, 472-4047.

The nursery is available by calling Sandy Good, 481-3859. Cancellations are necessary 48 hours before the luncheon.

Lions plant sale this week

If you want to beautify your grounds, the Sanibel-Captiva Lions Club will be holding its annual plant sale in front of Bailey's Store this Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 2, 3 and 4 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day.

The plants for sale are purchased from the Lee County Association for Retarded Citizens (L.A.R.C.) in Fort Myers. When you buy a plant you are helping both the Lions and L.A.R.C.

The Lions will attempt to fill requests for special plants which do not appear in stock - but only if they are carried by the L.A.R.C. nursery. It is suggested you come early for the best selection.

Rotary News

"Take Time To Serve" was the subject of Rotary Governor W.O. Gillenwaters when he addressed the Rotary Club of Sanibel-Captiva, last Friday, September 26. W.O. Gillenwaters of Seminole, Florida and Governor of Rotary International District 696, made his annual visit, arriving last Thursday. "Take Time To Serve" is the theme of Rotary International for the year 1980-81. He will relate his theme to the contributions of Rotary Clubs and Rotarians throughout the world who care, share and serve others.

"Service Above Self" is the Rotary motto and this year's theme serves to reinforce that concept. The local Club is one of 57 Clubs, embracing 3,800 members in District 696. Governor Gillenwaters will outline the programs and activities of the local Club and explain several district projects for the coming year, reviewing the recently held seminar for tomorrow's leaders at the University of South Florida in Tampa.

He will remind the members that in its first 75 years, Rotary International has grown to over 18,600 Clubs, with a total membership of over 857,000 business and professional men worldwide.

W.O. Gillenwaters, Governor District 696, Rotary International, has been a Rotarian since 1964 with perfect attendance for the 16 years since he joined the Rotary Club of Seminole, Florida, with the classification - Building Construction. He is now Senior Active.

He was President of the Seminole Rotary Club in 1967-68, and was a Group Representative for 1978-79. Gillenwaters was given the honor of being voted "Mr. Rotary 1971-72" by the St. Petersburg Civic Clubs. Both he and his Rotary Ann, Veta, are Paul Harris Fellows.

W.O. Gillenwaters is a state certified general contractor and was president of the Pinellas County Contractors and Builders Association in 1970. Since moving from Missouri in 1957, he has been involved in land development, residential construction and light commercial construction. He is a member of St. Petersburg Lodge No. 139, F. & A.M., a 32nd Degree Mason in the Tampa Consistory, a member of Egypt Temple and the Seminole Shrine Club. He was honored by the Seminole community when he was named "Mr. Seminole" for 1973.

Bird Walk

In keeping with their philosophy of utilizing the Island environment as a learning tool, students from the Resources Center walked and drove through the Ding Darling Wildlife Refuge on a nature trip conducted by Island naturalist Mark "Bird" Westall last week. Students, decked out in binoculars, listened intently as Westall explained the differences between the three types of mangroves and pointed out various types of birds. The sighting of a baby alligator and an alligator track across the road also aroused much interest!

Joey's pops for tots

"I try to promote a worthy cause," says Joe Underritter, owner of one of the Islands' favorite hamburger joints. For the month of October, Joey's will be donating 10 percent of their soft drink sales to the Children's Center, a pre-school center in the process of moving into a new home. "It's a two way thing," Joe says. "I help the Children's Center and get customers too." According to Joe, the Children's Center has a wide appeal and he hopes to raise close to $200 for their cause.

Dick Stevens named 'Distinguished Citizen'

Richard W. Stevens, Project Manager for The Mariner Group, Inc., of Fort Myers, has been awarded the Florida Shore & Beach Preservation Association's (FSBPA) 1980 "Distinguished Citizen Award."

Stevens was recognized for his leadership in the privately funded beach nourishment project for Captiva Island's South Seas Plantation, a private resort owned by The Mariner Group.

The recognition, given only to Floridians, was one of five awards presented by the FSBPA, which was founded in 1957 and is composed of elected representatives and employees of Florida's cities and counties and interested private citizens.

Nominations are submitted by state and federal officials involved in coastal engineering across the country, and winners are chosen by a five-person committee of engineering specialists.

"Stevens has been recognized for the excellent technical construction of his beach nourishment plan and his successful efforts to raise funds and obtain support of the local residents," Stan Tait, executive director of the FSBPA, said.

The South Seas Beach Improvement Project is a plan to restore beach sand lost to erosion over the last 50 years on the northern tip of Captiva Island.

Stevens joined the Mariner Group in 1977 after serving with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for 20 years. He holds Bachelor of Science degrees in building construction from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and in civil engineering from Texas A&M and a Master of Science in civil engineering from the University of Virginia. He is also a member of the American Society of Civil Engineering.

Brent Scheneman of the LaBelle Gallery

The La Belle Gallery, 1473A Periwinkle Way, Sanibel Island, opens October 1, 1980. Original works of fine arts by leading artists are offered for sale. The gallery, situated on the second floor of the French Quarter building, boasts of large well-lighted exhibition areas, New Orleans style balcony storefront, evening business hours (12 p.m. to 10 p.m., closed Mondays), and a commitment to the support of artistic efforts throughout the community. A gift boutique presents rare and fascinating items from around the world for collecting, home decorating and gift-giving.

Nationally known artists, along with Southwest Florida's best, are represented.

Original paintings, unique sculptural works, artistic creations in jewelry, and exciting color photography are spaciouly exhibited. Brent Scheneman, director, is preparing a series of artist's shows to provide continuing interest and variety.

Original paintings and drawings by one of the foremost artist-illustrators of the American School, Mead Schaeffer, can be found exclusively at the La Belle Gallery. A friend and contemporary of Norman Rockwell, Mr. Schaeffer is most famous for his romantic illustrations of the Dodd Mead series and his illustrations for the "Saturday Evening Post" during its golden years.

exhibits

The Lee County Alliance of the Arts announces a very special happening at the Lee County Arts Center, 5111 McGregor Boulevard, on Friday, October 3. Robert Butler, one of the South's fastest rising outdoor artists, will present two one-and-a-half hour demonstrations; one from 9:30 a.m. until 11 a.m.; the second from 2 p.m. until 3:30 p.m. Space is limited to 40 persons per session. Reservations are required. For reservations call the Lee County Arts Center, 939-2787.

A mini-exhibition of Robert Butler's Wildlife Art featuring the tangled hammocks, wet prairies and wildlife of his Okeechobee heritage will be open for

The Cape Coral Arts Studio presents an exhibition and reception for "Gene Gray's Call of the Wild" October 7 to 30. Gene Gray, a watercolorist who is rapidly becoming recognized as one of America's finest artists for his detail and selection of composition depicts his animal subjects looking so vivid and realistic, that the viewer is tempted to touch in order to satisfy their curiosity. "I want to capture a moment of truth that few people have seen or that few people have realized at the time they were seeing, a fleeting moment in the life-death struggle which many take for granted."

The opening reception will be held on October 10 from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Both the exhibition and the reception is open and free

James Dean's memory is alive and well and living at The Photographers' Gallery

By Ellen Mulligan

The Photographer's Gallery celebrated the opening of Dennis Stock's portfolio, "James Dean Revisited," last Thursday night with a commemorative showing of Dean's first film, "East of Eden."

Stock selected 10 choice photographs for his portfolio covering the period of time in which he collaborated with Dean as subject and photographer. The exhibit, commemorating the 25th anniversary of Dean's death, also opened in galleries across the country, including New York City, East Hampton, Long Island, Chicago, Cincinnati, Los Angeles, Taos, Seattle, and in Dean's hometown, Fairmont, Indiana.

Most words cannot do justice in describing photographs. Photographs speak for themselves. It is well worth a trip to the Photographer's Gallery located on Periwinkle Way to see for yourself the photographs of a great legend, photographed by a legendary photographer.

The Gallery will be open for the viewing of "James Dean Revisited" Tuesday through Saturday, from 7 to 10 P.M. James Dean's second film, Rebel Without A Cause, will be shown to the public free of charge this Friday and Saturday at The Photographers' Gallery at 8 p.m. Seating is limited to 35 so get there early and bring a pillow to sit on. The Photographers' Gallery is located at 1554 Periwinkle Way.

Herbert Rhinesmith

Age: 72

Height: 5'4"

Roots: Westtown, New York

Wish: "I wish that all the houses will stay here and not get blown away by a hurricane."

Mentor: "Linus Pauling, no matter what people think he is usually right about 99.6 % of the time."

He is seven things all at once; genius, mathematician, physicist, physician, psychiatrist. He encompasses many disciplines."

Pleasures: "Chemistry, stamp collecting, cooking, gardening, and carpentry."

Words of Wisdom: "Trust people."

Last Book Read: "The Eighth Day."

"I'm the only man in my family that is not a Methodist minister," says Herb Rhinesmith of his chemical calling. For someone who was raised by those who lived their lives preaching from behind an altar, Herb has, instead, made his contribution to the world by spending a multitude of hours behind a chemistry bench.

Having been interested in the sciences of chemistry and medicine during their founding stages, Herb says, "Everything of importance in chemistry and medicine has happened during my lifetime."

He received the opportunity in 1955 to conduct research with one of the foremost chemists of our time, Linus Pauling, two-time Nobel prize winner.

Herb worked as a research associate with Pauling in the general area of mental deficiency. Before trying to understand the functions of abnormal health and disease, they began studies on normal structures, specifically, normal adult hemoglobin. A breakthrough sprouted from their initial works, which led directly to studies concerning abnormal hemoglobin.

Herb's curriculum vitae illustrates his insatiable thirsts in the fields of chemistry and medicine. He has always had a "particular interest" in medicine, for chemistry and medicine are fields which ride side by side. Although he has a Ph.D. in chemistry, he is not a medical doctor. "I have done work all my life with doctors," he says, "I do the chemistry."

After finishing his research period with Pauling, Herb continued to share his expertise in chemistry by joining forces with the teaching profession. He spent 40 years as a professor in the chemistry department of Allegheny College in Pennsylvania.

During his time there, he initiated several student oriented research programs funded by and researched for the American Heart Association, the National Science Foundation and the National Institute of Health, to name a few.

A great man in his own time, Herb has been listed in American Men of Science, 'Who's Who in the East, and, 'Who's Who in America'.

In 1975, in an attempt to alleviate the hypertension and pressure which goes hand in hand with the ever changing field of chemistry, "I quit," explains Herb, "I got out of it." He retired, content with the accomplishments he had already contributed to his field.

Herb and his wife, impressed by the warm sanctuary of these barrier islands, had been vacationing on Sanibel since 1974. Having lived in America's snowbelt for 40 years and, having many of their friends already moving to the Islands, it didn't take much arm twisting before they too ended up on Sanibel for good.

"I love it very much," says Herb today, "It's just what we wanted, nice privacy, nice people all around."

Even though five years ago Herb wanted to get out of the chemistry field, he finds himself, "slowly getting back into it." One of his recent projects since moving to Sanibel has been to conduct research on what he describes as, "an educational program on the business of saving water." This is a community oriented program studying the delicate water systems of Sanibel.

Having been away from the field for five years, Herb finds himself trying to find the "gaps" between the new and the old methods. Unlike chemistry's earlier stages with days spent working on one particular equation, Herb says, "the latest method of young chemists is to push a button on an $80,000 machine and a piece of paper comes out with the answer."

Herb's love for chemistry will never die, "I've gone from the chemistry bench to the kitchen, I love to cook." A glance into his kitchen reveals the part chemist and part gourmet in him. "I run my kitchen like a laboratory."

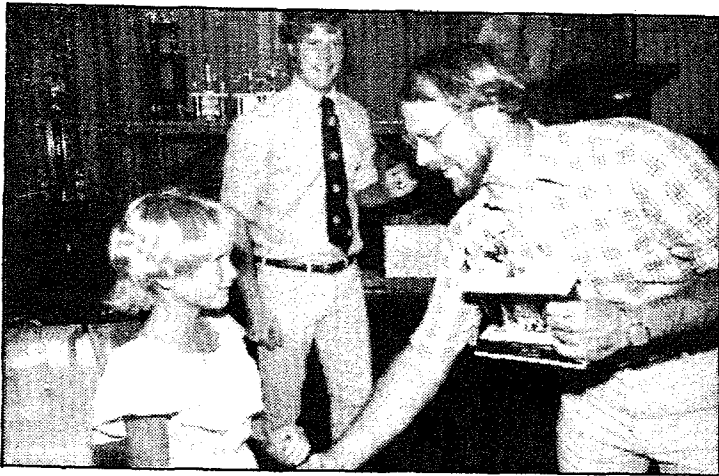

Different sized graduated cylinders replace measuring cups, a globe shaped separatory funnel is used for drop by drop mixing. He uses a mortar and pestle for grinding spices. Everything is chemistry oriented, within arm's reach, and, situated just so for perfect cuisine.

Herb, hoping for the opportunity to get back into teaching chemistry, may be sharing his wealth of knowledge right on the Islands. Still in its fetal stages, the Sanibel Conservation Center may enlist his services to teach chemistry to the Islanders.

According to Herb, "It isn't a patty cake course," however, he feels, "in 10 days, I could have them writing formulas and understanding them." This may seem impossible to those of us who long ago got lost in the throes of chemical equations. But, Herb says, "I can teach anybody."

Even though Herb will be 73 this October, his enthusiasm and lust for life is inspiring. "I think for the most part, in my dealings all the way through my life, I've trusted people." Always having great faith in human nature, Herb, himself, is the humanitarian.

Even in this unpredictable world in which we live, Herb's great faith affords comfort to this day and age when today he says, "I'm convinced that the kids of today will do well. They are going to be a lot better with better ideas. I have a great deal of confidence."

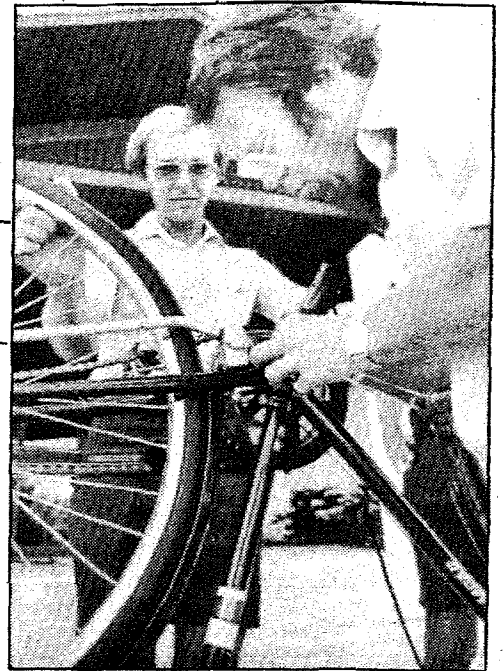

Lisa Fenton and Dick Noon received Improved Swimmer trophy from Sanibel awards from the Greater Lee County Swim Team Coach Dick Noon. Noon himself was awarded a coaching appreciation trophy for his contribution to the GLCY's win at the Gulf Coast Championships.

Lynn's Binge

By Lynn Daus

Photoby Mark Harmel

This week photographer Mark Harmel and I formed Les Amis du Calories...we indulged ourselves again, this time at Thistle Lodge, where every table is a window seat. The setting by the pool and the Gulf is a magnificent scenario for a gourmet binge.

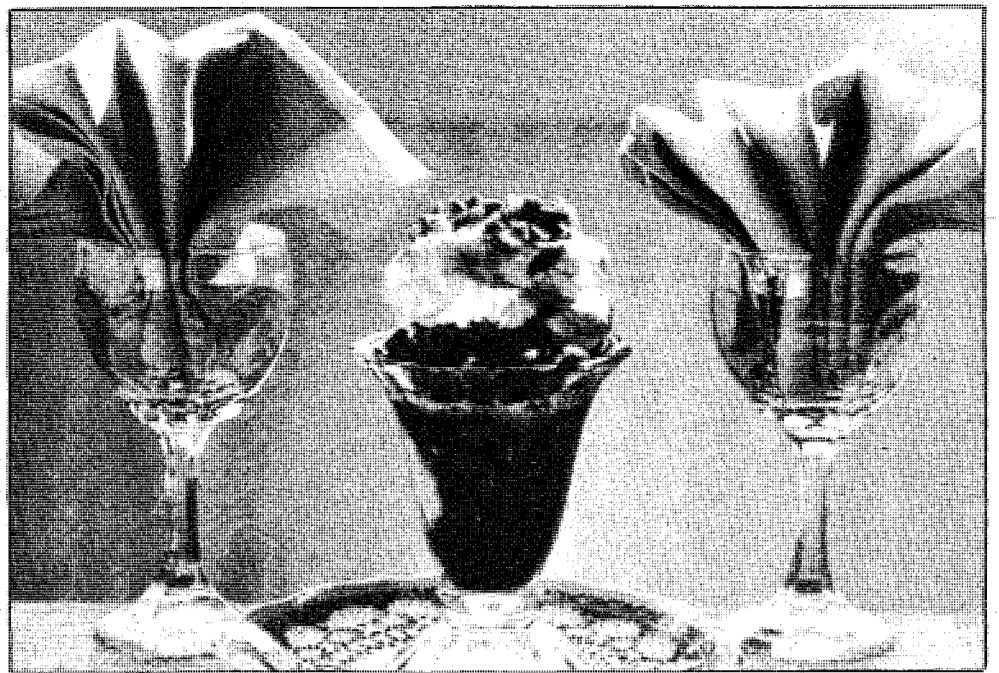

This week's dessert is a teaser. Earl Raven, Food and Beverage Manager, told us that in two weeks Thistle Lodge will have an exciting new menu featuring New Orleans Creole and Cajun style dishes. Sounds wonderful to me! Chef Michael Pepin, who has been with Thistle Lodge since it opened, prepared a Louisiana specialty for Mark and I. It will be one of several enticing desserts on the new menu.

Chef Pepin has created Praline Parfait, a really delicious ice cream dessert. In fact, I think Hagen Daz should develop an ice cream that has this flavor. The Parfait's vanilla ice cream is laden with pecans and a sauce that is truly marvelous. It has caramelized sugar, both brown and white, maple flavoring, rum, liquid to bind it and butter. It tastes even better than it sounds. And there is real fresh whipped cream to top it all off. You won't go wrong ordering this new dessert and it will be available in just two weeks.

One dessert never being enough, we had to sample the Lodge's Bread Pudding. This is a Thistle Lodge standard and will still be included in the new menu. The pudding has white raisins and custard, is served hot and smothered in apple brandy sauce. Bread Pudding fans will love it; I did, too.

I must also add that I am enjoying this job to the fullest, and I am getting full!

Town Hall meeting to feature candidates

On Tuesday, October 7, at the Community House, the six candidates for Sanibel City Council will answer questions about issues of importance to all Sanibel residents. Incumbent Mayor Francis Bailey will be joined by George Christensen, Frank Joyce, Mike Klein, Alice Kylo, and Fred Valtin in the program beginning at 8 p.m. following the monthly dinner meeting of the Community Association.

The Candidates' Night is being sponsored by The Community Association with the support of other Island community groups. It is hoped that by securing the cooperation of so many civic groups, a large audience will be present to hear the candidates discuss Sanibel concerns. Former Planning Commissioner Betty Robinson will act as moderator and George Tenney will be parliamentarian. Questions from the audience will be entertained at the end of the scheduled procedure as time allows.

On October 28, at 7:30 p.m., The Community Association, supported by the local civic organizations, again will sponsor a Candidates' Night, this time for candidates for County offices: Commissioners, Sheriff, Property Appraiser, Tax Collector, School Board, and Mosquito Board. Councilman Porter Goss will moderate the program with George Tenney again acting as parliamentarian.

By Paul A. Howe

Florida's 1968 Constitution rightfully repelled a massive assault launched by the first hard-working, but timid, Constitution Revision Commission in 1978. The two ensuing Legislatures are now casting 11 questionable amendments at the State's 1980 voters. One proposal irreverently would abolish that Commission which was established in the charter to review it each decade or two to eliminate anachronisms.

Last March 11 the voters approved a modification of the Supreme Court's jurisdiction and lightened its workload. Five proposed changes will be on the October ballot, and the remaining five will be voted upon at the November 4 general election.

All five of the October 7 proposals, which are endorsed by the Governor, would amend the Taxation and Finance Article (VII) of the Constitution. Four of them would grant additional exemptions to the ad valorem property tax that is used exclusively and competitively by municipalities, counties, and Special Districts. (These further exemptions would push Florida's exemption ratio close to 50 percent of its total property value!) The fifth proposal would create a Florida Housing Finance Agency (FHFA) to issue Revenue Bonds, with no General Obligation of the State or local government pledged as security, to augment Federal and private financing of residential housing.

Using the numerical sequence of the October 7 ballot, the five proposals' purposes are:

Proposal 1 - Would permit the Legislature to prescribe a local property tax exemption for up to 10 years for the installation in homes and business establishments of solar and other renewable energy equipment;

Proposal 2 - Creates the new FHFA discussed above;

Proposal 3 - Would allow cities and counties to grant non-school property tax exemptions for 10 years to new and expanding businesses and community redevelopment projects. Local voters would have to approve the exemptions, and each business exemption would require a separate local approving ordinance. Detailed eligibility requirements are spelled out in the implementing legislation conditioned on passage of the amendment. (Chapter 80-347);

Proposal 4 - Would increase, over three years, the current Homestead Exemptions from the non-school local property tax - so long as the tax is not assessed at less than "full just or market value"; and tax on business inventories and give the Legislature the power to totally exempt inventories from all forms of ad valorem taxation.

COMMENTS

As indicated above, the main thrust of Proposals 1, 4, and 5 is directed at furthering state-mandated erosion of the yield and incidence of our local ad valorem property tax. So long as local governments rely on this form of tax as a major revenue source, such continuing erosion should not be condoned by the voters. The Legislature MUST abolish its treatment of local governments as incompetent wards of the State. It should take the shackles off local governments' taxing capabilities to cope with the hard-core funding problems of providing everyday-living services and facilities for Florida's mounting volume of residents and transient visitors.

Regarding the objective of Proposals 2 and 3, there has been no recent noticeable or widespread public clamor throughout Florida for increasing the pace of employment opportunities and financing related new housing demands. Rather, recent Labor Department statistics report that Florida, between 1939 and 1979, left the other seven southeastern states far behind in both growth rate (765.5 percent) and non-farm jobs (3.4 million).

amendments

Additionally, Florida's money-lending institutions appear to be thriving since Miami was recently reported as closely rivalling New York as an international banking center. By the Proposal to reduce the Florida yield-rate of mortgage money by an infusion of low-interest public FHFA loans, a serious threat is made to the Governor's high expectations that more private low-interest, long-term mortgage money would remain in or be attracted to the State. Such devices need closer examination by the voters.

In view of the above, the desirability of all five October 7 proposals is suspect. When Tallahassee sincerely, promptly, and realistically severs the umbilical cord to its so-called "Home Rule local governments," it will be in a better position to frame amendments to the Constitution's Taxation and Finance article. They would then be more suitable to the modern abilities and competence of most of those entities to locally operate and fund services and facilities needed for Florida's mushrooming residents and transient visitors. The incompetent counties and cities should be dealt with through more flexible annexation or merger provisions in the local government article of the Constitution.

League of Women endorse two proposed amendments

A short, short summary of revisions to the Florida Constitution on the October 7, 1980 ballot:

1. RENEWABLE (SOLAR) ENERGY TAX CREDIT provides tax break for installation of solar, wind, geothermal devices by allowing 10-year exemption from ad valorem tax to the device.

2. BONDS FOR HOUSING authorizes issuance of revenue bonds to finance or refinance housing and related facilities in Florida - secured primarily by pledged revenues at least equal to annual bond payment. Permits establishment of a state housing finance agency to administer the funds.

3. TAX ABATEMENT (LOCAL OPTION ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT INCENTIVE) permits local voters to authorize local governing boards (except schools) to establish a mechanism for exemption of qualified new or expanding businesses and businesses located in slums and blighted areas from ad valorem taxes on property improvements for 10 years. This could result in substantial loss of ad valorem tax revenue to the local government, but increased economic activity and expanded tax base resulting from abatement may compensate.

4. INCREASED HOMESTEAD EXEMPTION FROM CITY AND COUNTY TAXES from the current $5,000 to $15,000 for 1980 taxes, $20,000 for 1981, and $25,000 thereafter for 5-year Florida residents. Requires 100 percent assessment for a county to qualify for increased exemption. It gives the legislature power to extend relief to renters from ad valorem taxes. On the other hand, any exemption to taxes for some must be made up by others.

5. INVENTORY TAX EXEMPTION AUTHORIZATION permits the legislature to abolish the tax levied on business inventories and livestock. Will not result in a great loss of revenue as inventories now are assessed at minimal percentage; however the local government would lose some revenue in any case.

The League of Women Voters of Florida support Proposal No. 1: Encourage energy conservation; and Proposal No. 2: Help low, moderate and middle income Floridians obtain decent, affordable housing.

Refuge Report

By Donna M. Stanek, Outdoor Recreation Planner, J.N. "Ding" Darling National Wildlife Refuge.

The refuge recently received a supply of the 1980-81 Migratory Bird Hunting and Conservation Stamp, or what is commonly known as a "Duck Stamp."

Anyone 16 years of age or older must possess a signed stamp in order to hunt waterfowl. It is not necessary to be a hunter to purchase one of these stamps and they do make excellent collector's items. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service uses the proceeds from the stamp sales toward the purchasing of marshlands and wetlands habitat for use by migratory waterfowl. These lands, as they are purchased, become part of the National Wildlife Refuge system.

This year's Duck Stamp pictures a pair of mallards on a blue background. The stamps are currently on sale for $7.50 apiece at the refuge headquarters, located at the Lighthouse, from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, through June 30, 1981.

The two manatees rescued earlier this summer are still at Sea World. The refuge staff along with a crew from Sea World captured the mother and calf in late June at Deep Lagoon Estates after a six week chase. The latest report from Sea World is that the gashes caused by the crab trap line on the adult are healing nicely; however, no date has been set for their release.

Shopping

Sanibel is a veritable shopper's paradise. Tasteful boutiques and casual island shops join forces to present visitors with everything - and anything - a vacation shopper could hope for.

At the Lighthouse (Eastern) end of the island, Punta Ybel Plaza and The Sea Horse Shops are right across the street from each other, providing a variety of products that can cure your sweet tooth or tickle your shell finder's fancy. Need a good haircut or coiffure? You can get it in either of these shopping centers. Most businesses open at 10 a.m. and close at 5:30 p.m. This holds true for many island stores, although during the winter season, some are open evenings.

Tall Australian pines shade Periwinkle Way as the shopper travels west along this main thoroughfare. This stretch of road is truly a shopper's paradise! It's all here...the fast and not-so-fast eating spots, casual and elegant boutiques, hand-wrought jewelry, craft designs, shell shops and balms for health produce fanatics.

Watch to your right and left as you drive or cycle along. Photographic supplies, bait and tackle, deli foods, fresh seafood and baked goods, knick-knacks and what-nots can all be found along the drive to the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road. Along the way, shopping centers such as the Heart of the Islands, Periwinkle Place and Tahitian Gardens offer a variety of island delights.

Palm Ridge Road, the Periwinkle Way turn-off to Captiva, offers several new shopping centers featuring everything from a gift shop for the discriminating shopper, plants and shells, to a sandwich shop, ice cream parlour, boutique shop and the Island Apothecary pharmacy.

At the Tarpon Bay-Periwinkle Way intersection, the Island Shopping Center features the island's only supermarket, dry cleaners and movie house.

A left on Tarpon Bay Road takes the visitor past Sanibel's original schoolhouse, which now holds original island watercolors and woodcuts. Then on to West Gulf Drive and westward to an interesting little artisan's shop and gallery.

At the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road, you may choose instead to turn right and follow the signs to the Tarpon Bay Marina, where you will find a cluster of quaint shops overlooking the back bay...Some antiques, shells and shellcrafts, what-nots and clever clothes can be found here, as well as a great seafood sandwich and soft drinks.

The spectacular ride to Captiva, with its lush foliage and enchanting view of the Gulf, is well worth a day's outing. Talented artists display their works in one roadside shop, while others feature some nifty gifts for Grandma to take home to little hands as a pleasant hodge-podge of remembrances from these barrier islands.

Whether for shopping, or merely browsing, island shops offer a surprising variety - from one-of-a-kind collectibles for the discerning shopper to postcards for the simple souvenir hunter and of course, for all, shells, shell jewelry, shell lamps, just plain shells...the most beautiful shells in the world from the most beautiful shelling beaches in the world.

Algiers continued

study facility and a meeting place for Island groups were included on the list.

Agreeing with Dr. Johnson, Smith reiterated "the community project" potential of the Algiers. "The community could use a project that everyone could get involved in," he said, adding, "It happens all over the United States; the Algiers would make a good cultural center because it IS a steamboat, in the same way that barns make good playhouses because they're barns."

Smith continued, "Sooner or later the community is going to have this type of cultural center," adding, "there are plenty of people interested in doing this."

Workshop participants repeatedly raised the cost issue of renovation, to which Smith responded, "This community has cultural needs that are as important as electricity or water...we haven't done anything to solve the cultural needs...Every responsible community government is looking at the cultural needs of its community."

Councilman White then proposed that yet another study be conducted to measure the environmental impact of community use of the Algiers and the community's attitude towards such a project.

Emil Fray, manager of The Photographers' Gallery, played a taped statement from Captiva artist Robert Rauschenberg for the workshop participants. Rauschenberg lauded the City for their growth controls but warned that "the destruction of the ferryboat would be irrevocable" and that a cultural center would soon be necessary "for the soul of the environment."

"I'll help all I can," ended Rauschenberg's plea, which met with stony silence from the City officials.

Fray asked the City not to spend "$25-30,000 to tear down the Algiers before spending $5,000 to get a study to see what repairs are necessary."

The City Manager was authorized, on a motion from Councilman White, to draw up a proposal to be sent to various architects for bid on a study to address the proposed concerns, including an analysis of the existing structure and estimated cost of renovation.

Adolescence continued

I take the power
to make my life happy and I am!

After the poetry reading Talbot asked the mourners to toss a petal into the surf from the roses they had been given. Roses were Carolyn's favorite flowers.

"Now, join hands, everyone join hands in a meditation circle. Close your eyes; take a deep breath and let it out. Make believe that your eyes are open and you're looking at the sunset. Feel love and hope and the power of life. Death is only the other side of life. Feel joy for Caroline because that's what she was - life and joy."

In his soothing voice, Talbot continued, "Now, in the way that each of you knew Caroline, say good-bye to her. Remember that she is a part of you and you are a part of her."

Then, standing in the sand and the shells as the sun slipped below the horizon, the crowd dressed in blue-jeans, in cut-offs, in suits and in dresses began to hug each other.

A flock of puzzled ibis' stood nearby as the last of the rose petals were swept out to sea.

If you're still in a money fund, our advice is "get out!"

and get into BOTI's six-month certificates of deposit.

Bank of the Islands is currently paying 11.074% interest on Six-Month Certificates of Deposit of $10,000 to $99,000. That's a rate 20% to 30% more than money funds are now paying. And whereas Money Fund rates fluctuate from day to day, our rate is guaranteed at 11.074% no matter what.

*These rates are effective Sept. 25 through Oct. 1, 1980. The yield is based upon reinvestment at maturity of principal and interest earned for an additional term at the same rate. However, a different rate may be in effect when the certificate is renewed at the end of 26 weeks. Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal.
