Survey results outline Island commercial demand

By Barbara Brundage

Many Sanibel residents oppose additional retail development on the Island, particularly along Periwinkle Way where they prefer open space, an initial report from Barton-Aschman Associates, Inc., economic consultants conducting a study of the city's future commercial needs, reveals.

Preliminary findings from resident, visitor and shopper surveys conducted in mid-April and designed to estimate the demand for different types of commercial development on the Island, are summarized in a 33-page memorandum presented to city officials this week.

Scott MacDonald of Barton Aschman met with the Planning Commission Monday afternoon and will meet with the City Council Wednesday at 1 p.m. to discuss the policy implications of the survey results.

Though there may be limited opportunities for retail expansion on Sanibel between 1985 and 1990, additional development is both desirable and inevitable, the memorandum concludes.

A major issue which must be resolved is whether, and to what extent, the city should intervene in the private market for commercial development, the consultant points out.

A strong interest in an additional grocery store, particularly to serve the east end of the Island, emerged from the surveys.

This raises several practical issues related to potential sites, scale of development, and the desirability of encouraging competition, the report said.

Limiting development of commercial property poses the problem to the city of how to compensate landowners. City officials must decide what other land uses would be more acceptable to local residents while responding to genuine market opportunities

Lighthouse property

City 'next in line' after Coast Guard

By Cindy Chalmers

The city of Sanibel is the U. S. Bureau of Land Management's first choice to manage the Lighthouse property should the Coast Guard decide against retaining the property, BLM Planner Ed Roberson said last week.

Roberson and a team of BLM planners from Tuscaloosa, Ala. conducted a workshop at Edison Community College last Wednesday to bring the public up to date on the BLM Resource Management Plan for Sanibel and Pine Island Sound.

The federal government owns approximately 830 acres of public land in Lee, Charlotte and Collier counties.

The lands are scattered holdings that have never been transferred out of federal ownership since Florida joined the Union or have never been designated as national parks, refuges or military reservations.

Included in the properties are the 15 acres around the Lighthouse on Sanibel, four marsh-like islands in Charlotte Harbor, several islands between Matlacha Pass and Estero Bay and 40 acres of non-coastal land in Corkscrew Swamp.

The BLM, however, cannot effectively manage the lands from its office in Alabama and is looking for alternative local agencies to assume responsibility for the properties, Roberson explained.

The Coast Guard has expressed an interest to both the city of Sanibel and the BLM in retaining the Lighthouse property for a navigation team base.

But Roberson said last week the Coast Guard apparently has not definitely decided whether it wants the property. If the Coast Guard decides to utilize the property, he added, the agency will receive BLM endorsement.

In the meantime, however, BLM officials are examining alternative agencies for management of the property.

Roberson said the city is the most logical choice for management of the property that provides "such fine beach access."

"(City management of the property) would insure that the Lighthouse area remains a recreation area for all of the public to enjoy," Roberson said.

He added that the BLM could include stipulations about the use of the property in any agreement between the federal agency and the city.

One Fort Myers residents attending the workshop, however, said city management of the Lighthouse property could virtually "close the park to non-Sanibel residents."

"The city will just take it away from other Lee Countians," the angry resident said. "They'll make us pay $5 to get in there."

I've talked to hundreds of people in Lee County," he added. "And they all resent Sanibel's attitude."

Sanibel City Manager Bernie Murphy, who also attended the workshop, took exception to the remarks and stressed that the Lighthouse would "forever be open to everyone in this country."

Murphy expressed concern that the gentleman in the audience reflected a general misunderstanding on the part of Lee Countians about the implications of the city's new parking strategy.

"They just don't understand that we are in fact creating more public parking on the Island," Murphy said. "This whole thing has been misrepresented."

Whatever happens to the Lighthouse land, Murphy said, the public will always have access to the beach area.

Also attending the workshop from Sanibel were Planning Commission Chairman Ann Winterbotham, George Campbell and Paul Howe.

Roberson said the BLM recommendations for agencies to manage the various federal holdings will be available for public review in September.

Once the plan is available, the public will have 90 days to review the recommendations and make comments, if necessary, to BLM officials.

School's Out

Whoever heard of people taking a spoonful of black-eyed peas for a walk? Sanibel Elementary students did.

With antsy pants and fidgety fingers, Island children counted down the minutes and the seconds for the sounding of the bell on the last day of school last Friday.

To provide an outlet for their students' energy, Sanibel Elementary School teachers planned a field day last Thursday (photos this page) and talent show on Friday (photos facing page). Need we say more?

City withdraws request for appeals hearing

By Barbara Brundage

Convinced there is no longer a problem, the Sanibel City Council has withdrawn its request for an appeals hearing before the South Florida Water Management District Board of Governors.

The city's petition for relief from the SFWMD's mandatory water cutback order was scheduled to be heard at the district's Board of Governors meeting June 11 in Marathon in the Florida Keys.

The council decided to withdraw the hearing request last week after receipt of a letter from SFWMD Executive Director John Wodraska.

In the letter Wodraska commended Sanibel's efforts to conserve water, adding, "Your cooperation for water conservation is both encouraged and required."

The council felt the letter represented a change in the district's attitude toward Sanibel's participation in the water conservation effort during the recent dry spell.

The council last month took exception to the district's order that the city cutback its water consumption. City officials felt there was no water emergency on the Island because Island water does not come from Lake Okechobee.

While most council members last week appeared to interpret Wodraska's letter as an end to the issue, Councilman Porter Goss said he was not satisfied that the problem had gone away.

Goss insisted that the SFWMD staff should explain to the city why Sanibel was included in the water ban in the first place.

"The burden is on them to explain the rationale for imposing the emergency decree on Sanibel for no apparent reason," Goss said. "All evidence to date indicates there is no emergency."

Goss also objected to the city having to go

"so far afield" to the hearing. "Marathon is closer to Havana, Cuba than to Sanibel," he said.

Goss moved that the hearing be postponed until the district staff explained why the city was ever included in the mandatory cutback.

Acting Mayor Mike Klein said the SFWMD had already cited Sanibel's use of water from the Lower Hawthorne Aquifer and a reciprocal contract between the Island Water Association and Pine Island Water Co. as the reason for the city's inclusion in the water cutback order.

Councilman Fred Valtin called Goss' motion "unduly provocative."

"Their letter tells me we're in compliance. There is no problem, and the need for a hearing no longer exists," Valtin said.

Goss said he was concerned about future water emergencies and sought a clearcut answer from the SFWMD on Sanibel's water source.

"If we're wrong, they should tell us and set us right," Goss added.

Valtin's counter proposal to remove the city's appeal petition from the SFWMD's Board of Governors agenda "in light of the deputy director's May 26 letter, and to ask the water management district to send appropriate staff to meet with the city council at a date of mutual convenience to give facts and figures for a fuller understanding of how the Island Water Association's water production and consumption may or may not affect future water shortage emergencies" was approved unanimously by the council. Mayor Duane White, vacationing out of the country, was not present.

With the water cutback reduced to 10 percent, Sanibel has been in compliance. City Manager Bernie Murphy told the council.

Attorney reports good news for city in court cases

By Barbara Brundage

The city emerged the winner in the Outer Island Development Corporation's suit that sought increased density on a 3½-acre parcel of land on Camino Del Mar behind Ocean Reach's condominium, City Attorney Neal Bowen informed the council last week.

Bowen also told the council that the city is "winning some points" in the four-year-old Wulferf Point case.

Circuit Court Judge Jack Schoonover denied Outer Islands' request for 16 duplex units for which the corporation claimed it had bona fide Lee County building permits issued before the city's land use plan was adopted.

Outer Island alleged the land use plan that permitted only one dwelling unit per acre was unconstitutional and unreasonable and requested damages for a perceived decrease in value of the land.

Outer Island was granted a specific amendment by the city for a second single-family home, and two were built on the property.

When the city denied a request for additional units, Outer Island went to court.

Bowen argued successfully that Outer Island could not attack the plan under which the developers had already enjoyed relief.

Bowen said the city scored in the Wulferf

Point case when Schoonover ruled that the developers may not have exhausted their administrative remedies in seeking to build 1,800 units on land zoned for 46 dwelling units.

The plaintiffs never appealed to the city for rezoning their land, but went directly to court in 1977.

Schoonover also ruled in the city's favor when he said the project should be subject to requirements of Development of Regional Impact. The plaintiffs have 20 days to respond to Schoonover's ruling, Bowen said.

The Wulferf Point owners' request for an "ouster" from the city of Sanibel was continued.

Important to the suit is Schoonover's ruling that inverse discrimination is available in zoning and planning cases, Bowen said. If it is determined that the zoning is completely unfair, the city must pay the owner a fair market price for his property, he explained.

Bowen said the question is a land use issue and has varying interpretations throughout the state.

"It could go either way," he said.

In defense of Island chickie hut

A copy of the following letter was given to The Islander for publication:

City of Sanibel
Sanibel, FL

Gentlemen:

My office represents John Armenia, as Trustee. My client has filed Specific Amendment No. 81-279 seeking specific permission for the right to keep a chickie hut on the property. This specific amendment is needed in that the chickie hut in question exists seaward of the coastal construction set back line.

I hope you have an opportunity to make a personal visit and physical inspection of the property. When you do, you will note that the chickie hut in question is the Willie Glass chickie hut which has been a favorite Island landmark and memory for many years.

It is my knowledge that many Islanders have spent many happy moments in the chickie hut talking and sharing with Miss Willie. Many Islanders would be greatly saddened to lose this little bit of Island nostalgia and the memory of one of its finer residents, Miss Willie Glass.

As you note, there exists an equally as attractive chickie hut on the Donaldson property approximately 75 feet south of the chickie hut in question. The Snook Inn chickie hut is located approximately 100 feet to the north of the chickie hut in question.

As you see from your physical inspection, the structure is well in keeping with existing Island uses on both sides of the property and represents a fairly harmless and appropriate use seaward of the Coastal Construction Setback Line.

At the time of original permitting, the chickie hut was inadvertently left off the original site plan. Numerous discussions occurred between my client, Mr. Armenia, and the Planning Department staff concerning the desirability of the chickie hut.

I hope you will agree with all concerned that this attractive remnant of Sanibel's past should remain where it has stood for so many years. It would stand not only for the memory of quieter days on Sanibel, but it should also stand for the memory of its dear original owner, Miss Willie Glass.

Thank you for your thoughtful consideration.

Yours very truly,
Richard John Brodeur

Police warn residents of suspicious woman

By Barbara Brundage

Sanibel Police Monday warned residents to be on the lookout for a "short stocky woman with long dark hair, probably owners were not at home, and cash, jewelry Latin," who entered two homes in the Shell Harbor area uninvited Sunday afternoon. The woman, wearing a blue dress and carrying a brown shoulder bag, said she was "looking for a black duck" when she was discovered by the occupants of the homes. Police said nothing was reported missing.

But she is a suspect in two other Shell Harbor break-ins Sunday, police said. The woman and other valuables were reported stolen, police said.

Chief John Butler advises home owners to keep outside doors locked while napping or during brief absences.

"In all four cases doors were left open making entry easy," Butler said.

Construction starts for recreation complex pool

The long-awaited, community-funded recreation complex swimming pool finally broke ground last Monday. Construction began on Monday (above left), and workers had made monumental progress by Friday (above right) in an effort to meet the July 1 target date set for completion of the pool. Crews excavated the Sanibel Elementary School site on Monday and Tuesday, and had constructed some of the basic framework by Friday. At this rate, Islanders might just be taking a cool dip come July! Photos by Ellen Mulligan.

Police Beat

Starting this week The Islander will report police activity for each week ending on the Friday before publication. All information in the following reports was taken directly from Sanibel Police Department records.

Two island visitors from Nashville, Tenn. were struck by a car as they rode a bicycle along Tarpon Bay Road last Tuesday evening, June 2.

Scott Tune and Terry Amacher, both 18, were treated and released from Fort Myers Community Hospital following the accident.

According to Sanibel Police reports, the teenagers were riding one bicycle north on Tarpon Bay Road near West Gulf Drive at 8:45 p.m. when they were struck by a Cadillac driven by Jane Graham Van-Hofen of Jacksonville.

The bicycle had no lights or reflector, and Ms. Van-Hofen told police she did not see the cyclists until it was too late to avoid contact.

A witness in another car also said he did not see the cyclists until after they had been hit.

Both teenagers were thrown from the bicycle. They were treated at the scene by Lee County Emergency Medical Services officials, who then transported them to the hospital.

Police estimated damage to the Van-Hofen car at $350. No charges were filed in the incident.

T.Leeves took a color television and video tape recorder valued at $1,114 from a trailer on the grounds of the Shell Island Beach Club sometime during the night of May 31.

Nat Passananti, Shell Island Beach Club sales manager, reported the theft Monday morning, June 1. He told police the missing items were secure in the trailer at the close of the previous day.

A Cape Coral man was the victim of a hit and run accident Sunday, May 31 at the intersection of Causeway Road and Periwinkle Way.

According to Sanibel Police, Scott Simmons was stopped at the intersection when his car was struck from behind by a car with California tags.

Simmons told police the unknown driver offered to pay for the damage. But when Simmons said he intended to call the police, the driver jumped in his car and fled.

Police estimated damage to Simmons car at $50.

David Muench of the Periwinkle Trailer Park reported the theft of his mother's bicycle from the bus stop at Donax and Periwinkle Way on Monday, June 1.

Muench told police the woman's bicycle, valued at $50, was blue with a basket on the front and no rear fender.

A Fort Myers woman was charged with shoplifting Tuesday, June 2 at the Seahorse Shop on Periwinkle Way.

According to Sanibel Police, Lou Ann Sherman of Fort Myers had a $21 blouse in her purse when she was questioned by shop employee Candace Arnold.

Ms. Sherman was taken to the Lee County Jail.

Island resident Lee Frady of 915 Main St. complained to police Tuesday, June 2 about a noisy rooster that crows every morning at 5:00.

Frady told police he had looked for the rooster but had not been able to find it. He said the early morning crowing has been going on for quite some time.

Thomas Wickesberg of Milwaukee, Wis. was charged with driving while intoxicated last Tuesday, June 2. Sanibel Police stopped Wickesberg at 2 a.m. on the Causeway Road.

Two purses containing cash, travellers checks, credit cards and one airline ticket were stolen on Thursday, June 4 from a car parked at the Lighthouse park.

Betty Dunning of Longboat Key and Karen Merboth of Hackensett, NJ told police they left the car securely locked, and the purses were hidden under the front seat when the thief broke into the Chevette.

Tom Comello of the Fantasy Beauty Salon reported the theft of two fig trees from behind the store Thursday, June 4.

A 20-month-old girl disappeared from the Casa Ybel Resort where her parents were vacationing and was found sleeping in an unoccupied unit at the resort on Thursday evening, June 4.

Christopher and Margaret Ezso of North St. Petersburg reported their daughter's disappearance at 6:30 Thursday evening.

Sanibel Police and canines, Fire Department officials and volunteers responded to the call and searched for the girl until she was found in the vacant unit above her parents' unit.

The baby apparently crawled up the stairs to the open unit, and when she went inside the door closed behind her.

The Bank of the Islands reported the receipt of a counterfeit $5 bill Friday, June 5. Police alerted local merchants after the bill was traced to the Thursday night deposit from The Sweet Shop.

The $5 had no fibers, and the face on the bill was badly printed.

Garbage collection rate increase approved

The cost of garbage and trash collection on Sanibel is going up July 1.

The City Council last week granted Sanibel Disposal Inc.'s petition to raise the rates for both residential and commercial service on the island.

Richard Rossa, Sanibel Disposal's attorney, said the upward adjustment is necessary to offset escalating energy costs and inflation. He assured the council no additional rate increase will be sought until Oct. 1, 1982.

City Manager Bernie Murphy reminded the council that the rates are base rates only.

"They do not include the (county) land fill charge of $9.36 which is subject to change in October," he said.

Under the new rate structure, the cost of residential two-can, twice-a-week curb service will jump from $73 to $97.50 per year. The two-can, twice weekly, rear door or house service will increase from $99 to $123.75 per year.

The new commercial service rates, which Councilman Francis Bailey cited as "too high already," will be: yard - $4.69 per yard, up from $3.75; can curb service - $6.25 per can up from $5; can back door service - $7.69 per can up from $6.15; construction material pickup - $6.25 per yard up from $5; compacter - $9.80 per yard up from $7.90.

Rossa said Sanibel Disposal will petition the Lee County Commission for the same rate increases for its Captiva customers.

As a condition of the rate approval, Joseph Hamstra, president of Sanibel Disposal, agreed to make a concerted effort to keep dumpsters under control and in good repair.

"We are already doing it," Hamstra said. "And we are getting better cooperation from the Health Department now in controlling customer-owned containers."

Bailey suggested the city explore the feasibility of mandatory garbage collection as an aid in reducing "freeloading."

"A lot of people who don't pay for garbage collection dump their bags in the city's and other commercial dumpsters and in isolated vacant lots," he said. "Mandatory collection would make for lower rates and a cleaner island."

Rossa said the current rates would be adjusted if the city adopted mandatory garbage pick-up.

City-County workshop postponed

City Council postponed a planned workshop meeting with Lee County Commission scheduled for tomorrow (Wednesday) because only Acting Mayor Mike Klein and Councilman Fred Valtin would be able to attend.

"We're not a quorum and can't make council policy," Valtin said.

At the urging of Councilman Francis Bailey, the council agreed to endorse Lee County Transportation Director Ben Pratt's proposal to set up a county weighing program for over-weight trucks on the causeway - the main topic for discussion at the joint workshop.

"We're basically in agreement with the county's program," Bailey said. "The causeway is in trouble. Why do we need to talk about it anymore? Let's just go ahead with it."

But Valtin maintained that Pratt's new weight fee program, designed to "mitigate damage" to the causeway bridges, failed to provide a schedule for repairs.

Bailey pointed out that Pratt had agreed that the county would collect Sanibel's overweight fees and return the money to the city at no cost to the city.

City Manager Bernie Murphy acknowledged it costs the city $80,000 a year to collect the overweight tolls.

Murphy said that Pratt's latest plan is a "compromise and he needs Sanibel's backing to get County Commission approval."

Councilman Porter Goss proposed that the mayor inform Pratt the council will endorse his latest plan and request the commission to postpone discussion of replacing causeway toll books with an Automatic Vehicle Identification system and establishing a mechanism for an inter-governmental planning agency.

No specific date was set for the workshop.

Property subdivision general amendment passed

Subdivision of property for development that would place any dwelling unit seaward of the Coastal Construction Setback Line is prohibited under a general amendment to the Comprehensive Land Use Plan that was unanimously approved by the City Council last Tuesday.

Mayor Duane White is vacationing in Europe and was not present at the council meeting.

The general amendment simply sets standards for subdivisions. Planning Director Bruce Rogers told the council.

Motels wishing to convert to condominium or interval ownership will be impacted most by the restriction because, "All of them on Sanibel have dwelling units forward of the coastal setback line," Rogers explained.

Their option will be to relocate the unit(s) landward, change them to non-dwelling use, remove them altogether or decide not to convert, Councilman Fred Valtin observed. "It's a large step in the right direction."

Acting Mayor Mike Klein said the effect of the amendment will be "to reduce density as the intensity of use goes down."

There was no public input at the 5:01 p.m. public hearing, which was continued from May 19.

Councilman Porter Goss' motion to approve the ordinance, "utilizing the new wording of Section 1 as the operative language" was approved by a 4-0 vote.

Earlier in the day the council approved on first reading a specific amendment to the land use plan permitting two motel units seaward of the coastal construction line to be converted to condominium ownership.

Jay Brett, attorney for Union Properties of Southwest Florida, developers of White Caps project, agreed to the restriction that the two units could not be rented for less than a one-month period.

He also agreed conditionally, until he could confer with his client, to holding the city harmless if federally subsidized flood insurance is not available for the converted units.

Klein said future owners should be forewarned that if the units are more than 50 percent damaged in a storm they cannot be rebuilt on the same location.

A second request for a specific amendment by Union Properties also received council approval on first reading last Tuesday.

The former ceramics shop at Duggers Cottages was exempt from flood proofing regulations of CLUP and its conversion to a single-family condominium unit approved.

The Planning Commission recommended approval of the specific amendment, Klein said, because the changed use is compatible with adjoining residences, which are motel units that have already been converted to condominiums.

The new unit at Duggers Cottages cannot be rented for a period of less than one month.

Both specific amendments are scheduled for final reading and adoption July 7.

Sanibel Realty exempt from floodproofing

The Sanibel City Council voted last Tuesday to exempt the former Weeds 'n Things building, now occupied by Sanibel Realty, from flood proofing requirements of the Comprehensive Land Use Plan.

The council, however, did not determine whether renovations to the building represented a "substantial improvement," which under CLUP provisions must meet flood proofing requirements.

Bob Buntrock, who with Bert Jenks owns the building, continued to maintain the cost of the remodeling was less than 50 percent of its replacement cost and is not a substantial improvement.

The council was concerned that granting the specific amendment would jeopardize the city's position in the federal flood insurance program.

Planning Director Bruce Rogers, however, said, "The only way the city could jeopardize its flood insurance program standing would be to permit the building to remain as is without granting the amendment (exempting the building from floodproofing)."

Buntrock told the council the only way he could floodproof the improved building at this point in time would be to install an inverted swimming pool cover around the building at a cost of $12,000.

"You've got to be kidding" Councilman Fred Valtin commented.

Buntrock, informed that the building without floodproofing would most likely be excluded from subsidized flood insurance, agreed he would hold the city harmless for the increased cost of insurance.

Rogers said that under flood insurance rules the city must notify the federal agency that a variance had been granted.

"There's a possibility the agency might investigate your exemption," Rogers warned Buntrock. "And in that case you would have to prove the improvements to the building were less than 50 percent of the replacement or market value, which ever is less."

"No problem," Buntrock said. "It was council consensus that there is no practical way to floodproof the building at this point."

A final hearing and adoption of the variance is scheduled for July 7.

In other action, council followed the Planning Commission recommendation and approved on first reading Don and Judith Hiers' request to install a swimming pool at

"Noisy"
construction hours
will remain
the same

The City Council turned a deaf ear last week to Arthur Hunter's request to reduce the hours "noisy" construction work is permitted on the island.

Hunter had complained at earlier City Council and Planning Commission meetings that the noise of buzz saws used in clear Brazilian peppers from a vacant lot near his West Gulf Drive home "disturbed the peace and tranquility" of his neighborhood.

Councilman Porter Goss last Tuesday relayed Hunter's formal request that the council amend the city's Noise Ordinance to limit building construction to the hours between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. five days a week.

Under the present ordinance, legal hours for construction are 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

"Shortening the work hours will raise the cost of construction," Councilman Fred Valtin said.

The council consensus was that Laws are

City code volume available

Interested citizens can purchase a copy of the city's new Code of Ordinances at City Hall, City Manager Bernie Murphy announced last week.

Twenty-two copies of the volume that codifies ordinances adopted since the city's inception through October 1979 are available.

Howze.

A 232-page supplement to the code book is now being printed and will be on sale for actual cost, Howze said.

Two copies of the code book, one for reference and one for circulation, will be placed in the Sanibel Public Library.

Ordinances drafted to amend ROGO

Two drafts of an ordinance to insure that a duplex project developed under the zero lot line concept will be treated as a multi-family unit in the Rate of Growth allocation are scheduled for second reading at the July 7 regular City Council meeting.

Draft No.1 of the ordinance that will amend the city's Rate of Growth ordinance is the most straightforward and easiest to administer, Planning Director Bruce Rogers told the council last Tuesday.

It provides that "an application for duplex development or an application for more than two single-family homes shall be an application to build multi-family units" without regard for the type of ownership, Rogers said.

The proposed ordinance eliminates the advantage for the "little guy" who has one lot and wants to build a duplex and live in one side and rent the other, Rogers said.

Under the present ordinance, the "little guy" does not have to compete with the multi-family developer for a ROGO allocation because one duplex is considered a single-family home, Rogers explained.

"But in practice there has not been a duplex built in that configuration," he added.

Draft No.2 will still classify one duplex as two single-family homes and will consider an application for more than one duplex or for more than two single-family units as applications to build multi-family units, Rogers said.

But an application to build a duplex in a zero lot line development will be considered an application for a multi-family unit if the unit is located on a lot less than the minimum size required by the Comprehensive Land Use Plan.

The proposed change in the ROGO ordinance is the result of concern expressed by Bob Horak, a single-family home builder, when the council approved of the zero lot line development for duplexes.

Horak feared that single-family units could be squeezed out during the first two trienniums of the ROGO year if the zero lot line duplex units are permitted to compete for the single-family allocations.

Horak preferred the first draft as did councilmen Porter Goss and Fred Valtin.

"There's a good rationale for the original language that protected duplexes designed for owner occupancy," Valtin said. "I hate to foreclose on that even though the option has not been used."

Ray Pavelka, director of development for Mariner Properties, which is building zero lot line duplexes in the Dunes, asked the council "not to change ROGO to single out zero lot line projects."

"It is in fact a form of ownership. If the property is platted it should be allowed to develop duplexes as single-family," Pavelka added.

Acting Mayor Mike Klein said he did not want to choose one (draft) or the other at this time.

"It's a gut issue -- how to treat duplexes," Goss said. "But it's a policy question, and we must provide guidance for the Planning Commission."

By council consensus both drafts were passed as first readings, and the decision on which draft to accept was postponed until the second reading in July.

The next ROGO allocations are scheduled for the July 13 Planning Commission meeting.

Price resigns from BMRH Committee

Nancy Price has resigned as a member of the Below Market Rate Housing Committee, the City Council learned last week. Full-time employment and other responsibilities prevent her from serving on the committee, Committee Chairman and Councilman Fred Valtin explained.

The City Council accepted Price's resignation with regret at last Tuesday's meeting.

The work of the BMRH committee, which is charged with exploring means for the city to provide moderate cost housing for island residents, is nearing completion, Valtin said.

"We will have one more meeting before presenting the ordinance (establishing guidelines for a housing foundation franchised by the city) to the City Council and Planning Commission for consideration," he said.

Fossil fuel heaters fine for pool back-up

Sanibel swimming pool owners can now use fossil fuel heaters as a back-up for their solar pool heating systems.

Last week the City Council deleted the section of the city's Swimming Pool Heating Ordinance that permitted pools to be heated only by solar energy.

This provision is more stringent than the Florida Model Energy Efficiency Code and conflicts with the state law, City Attorney Neal Bowen said when he advised the council to delete the section of the ordinance.

"Sanibel has had this restriction for several years and the state law only recently became effective," Bowen said.

The State Code provides that, "Active solar heating systems should be used to supply a portion of the pool heating requirements when conditions permit their cost effective installation." The code also requires that heated swimming pools be equipped with covers.

The new repealing ordinance, approved by a 4-0 vote of the council, will allow the State Code to control swimming pool heating, Bowen said.

On the water

By Captain Mike Evers

When it all comes down to getting in a fish, your only link is that thin thread of monofilament on your reel. And you can almost hear what a fisherman is thinking when a big fish breaks a line just before being netted.

Blame the fish, the weather, the barnacles or your fishing partner, but it was probably that line that let you down.

I have always felt it was amazing to find what large fish can be caught on the smallest pound test fishing line. Sometimes this is by purpose as when skilled fishermen deliberately use under test line to try and catch the largest fish. Other times it's a fella with an up-north bass outfit of four-pound test landing a 12-pound snook.

The makers of these lines each tries to get to a smaller diameter line so you can get more on the reel. This is good in some ways, but often the line's good points are reduced and perhaps it will stretch or nick easier after the "new and improved" treatment.

This all comes down to how you select and use the line on your outfit. I wish there was one line which is clearly superior than all the others, but if there is one, other fishermen are keeping it a secret. Rather, you have to make the choice of one quality of one maker over that of another.

In the past few years, several line manufacturers have started producing line with color in it. There are oranges, yellows, blue-clears, brown, greens and blacks. There are even more shades of these. You will see many fresh water fishermen choosing these color lines because they often fish around obstructions where it is important to be able to steer the line away from the snags.

With clear line, the fisherman has a difficult time picking it out once in the water. So, if sight fishing is your past-time, then line fishing is what you want.

Here around Sanibel and Captiva Islands, you will notice that the best fishermen have come to disregard the colors and stick to the clears, clear-blues and pinks.

I test line for a company and in the past years I have used their clear line in the Gulf and passes and the pink color for winter bay fishing. Incidentally color lines like oranges and yellows seem to resist winds and tides more and seem to balloon out more, making it difficult to set the hook on a fish.

As for the pound test, I usually stick with 12-pound for trout, redbird and several varieties of fish from fall to summer. Then when the snook season starts along about this time of year, I switch to 20-pound line.

There are other pound-tests which could be used, and some line makers make off sizes like 15- and 17-pound, but most of us stay with the 12 and 20 for best all around use.

One thing I like to do is take a spool on a reel and fill it half full with one of the color lines, such as yellow. On the top half, I tie on the clear line. This way you can change the front half of your line regularly without going to the expense of putting on a whole new spool when needed. It will save you some money and keep your line ready for use.

Always run your fingers over the terminal end of the line when you get tangled, snagged or even catch a fish. A tiny nick will reduce that line to half or less of its rating.

Good fishing -- and please don't buy cheap bulk line. The price differences aren't that much, but the quality certainly will be.

Conversion table: The above tides are for the lighthouse point of Sanibel only. To convert for Redfish Pass (North tip of Captiva), add 35 minutes to the time shown for every high tide. Subtract two minutes for every low tide.

For Captiva Island Gulf side, subtract 30 minutes for each high tide, and subtract hour and 16 minutes for each low tide.
For Captiva Island, Pine Island Sound (Bay) side, add 1 hour and four minutes for each high tide and add 52 minutes for each low tide.
In between these points, Gulf or Bay, guess! Most have good fishing or shelling.

Shelling Tips

By Captain Mike Fuery

Where have all the angel wings gone? I've got some ideas, and this week, let's talk about this elegant shell that collectors have just about put on the endangered list. If you are a beginning collector of shells, then let me describe the angel wing. This is a white shell (when cleaned) that can range from about an inch long in the case of the false and fallen angel wing on up to about nine inches for the standard wing.

These shells are bi-valves, or that is, they have two halves. Each valve is an intricately designed "wing" that is truly a joy to display and of course a very valued item for any display table.

Two things I don't like about them, however, is first, the best are taken alive, second; is the work, and sometimes dangerous work, to dig them out.

I know this seems like an old story, but "at one time..." there were many mud flats that these beautiful shells called home. One of the most productive was just to the north of Blind Pass Bridge. I mention this spot, which I don't usually do about any live shelling place, because thanks to those who like to desecrate a shell bed, there are none left. I mention it simply because you can see what kind of bottom the angel wing used to like to live in.

They would burrow down, some more than 18 inches, and send up a siphon for feeding. That opening at the surface of the mud was the angel wing's downfall, because that is what shellers looked for and from that, they knew where to dig.

Once I saw a man with a fence-hole digger on those flats, going from one opening to another, digging perhaps 50 or so of these shells out of the mud -- that's why the angel wings are hard to find now.

But angel wings are still to be found. I remember a day last winter, during a storm, when I went to the south end of North Captiva Island and after the first half dozen single wings, stopped taking them. There were that many. Not all were perfect of course. Some were larger than that nine-inch size I mentioned.

I think that one of the most amusing shocks that I have ever had in the shelling world was to visit my father one day up in Saint Petersburg and open the section of the newspaper on cooking to find a huge article on how to find, prepare and cook angel wings. The funny thing was that it didn't sound all that bad. I wonder if any of you have ever eaten angel wings?

However, let's say that you are watching the two live shells per person, per species, and your family has taken only two. What to do with them?

First, you need to get the critter out -- unless you are going to eat it, of course! I've collected a total of two live angel wings in my life, and what I did was to immerse them in bleach for several hours. The bleach kills the live part of the shell and whitens the shell also.

One of the most attractive ways that I have ever seen these shells displayed was mounted on a piece of driftwood. Sounds simple enough, and it always looks good.

You are probably going to find more angel wings during storms, and contrary to a lot of shellers' opinions, there are some good ones in the hot months too. Those storms bring up their share of shells -- it's a matter of being there at the right time.

Now, don't shell in a hurricane, but if there is a good strong wind for a few days, you probably will see some great shells come up -- including the prized angel wings.

Valtin will try to speed up Electric Co-op negotiations

Councilman Fred Valtin told the council last week he will try to "speed up the time schedule" for the city's Ad Hoc Electric Distribution Committee's negotiations with Lee County Electric Cooperative. The negotiations are currently at a standstill.

"The situation is very confused at this time," Valtin, chairman of the council-appointed committee, explained.

Committee members were shocked two weeks ago when O.D. Reynolds, director of operations for the co-op, failed to appear for a scheduled session and in a hand-delivered letter postponed further negotiations until July 17.

But Reynolds did reveal that the co-op was exploring a new route for the third feeder line it needs to beef up electric power on the Island.

He also informed the committee that work on upgrading overhead lines along West Gulf

Drive would begin in the near future.

The committee, representing Island residents who objected to the co-op's proposed route through four developed subdivisions, hoped to persuade the utility company to install the line underground along San-Cap Road instead.

"Frankly I don't know where this leaves us," Valtin said. "Nothing is going to happen until July 17, and no work will be done before fall."

"I will try to speed up the process and get the co-op to meet with us before the next council meeting June 16. I'm not sure I'll succeed," he added.

"Where will we go - get tough, keep the status quo, or something in between?" he asked.

The council agreed to call an emergency meeting before June 16 if Valtin needs reinforcements for his efforts.

Book report from the Sanibel Library

By Harriet Howe

EMMA by Charlotte Bronte and "Another Lady" — The story is told by Mrs. Chalfont, a widow who lives close to a school for young ladies.

An expensively dressed child is left at the school by her father, an apparently wealthy man. After the initial payment, no further money is forthcoming, and the child, miserably treated by the head mistress and ignored by her fellow students, is taken in by Mrs. Chalfont at the request of Mr. Ellis, a very pleasant gentleman who also lives close by.

The child, Matilda, appears to be terrified when questioned about her parents and her home. Obviously there is a mystery.

Mrs. Chalfont reminisces about her own life and some clues begin to appear, but it would never do to reveal the plot any further. The first two chapters were outlined by Charlotte Bronte just before her death in 1855. The "other lady" has completed the story in the best Bronte tradition.

There is suspense and a nice bit of romance. It is a yarn to put some of the modern Gothics to shame.

No snook, but fisherman lands black eye, broken knee, Junonia

"Look Ma! I caught a pinfish!" laughs Ted Wyroski in spite of his broken knee (Photo by Ellen Mulligan).

By Cindy Chalmers

Part-time Sanibel resident and admitted amateur fisherman Ted Wyroski got more than he bargained for last month when he decided to try his hand at snook fishing.

Wyroski didn't hook a snook. But he did land a mullet-induced black eye, a broken knee cap and a flawless Junonia shell. The Chicago resident hobbled into The Islander last week to place a classified ad and ended up entertaining the office with his fish tale of woe. It goes like this:

Wyroski walked along the causeway on May 20 and observed a fisherman lose a line baited with a 12-inch live mullet into the surf. Less than 10 minutes later, he says, the fisherman reeled in a 20-pound snook.

Next day Wyroski ("Not knowing how to fish very well") bought a live mullet for $2 from a net fisherman and proceeded to the causeway with his fishing rod and 100-pound test line.

He baited his line and tossed the $2 mullet high in the air and into the Gulf.

Before the mullet hit the water, however, a crafty pelican snatched the fish and, within a pull, pulling the 100-pound test line behind him.

Wyroski, concerned with saving the pelican ("And the $2 mullet, of course"), ran along the beach lead by the pelican in flight. "The line wouldn't break," he says. "So I reeled the pelican in until he was about 20 feet away and the line was stretched taut—it must have been a sight."

It was then that the pelican decided against making the $2 mullet his dinner and opened his mouth.

Much to Wyroski's surprise, the line with the $2 mullet "boomeranged." The cold fish smacked Wyroski in his right eye and knocked the stunned fisherman to the sand—on his left knee.

Between Wyroski's left knee and the sand, however, was a shell.

As the pelican flew away unharmed, Wyroski ("swelling and harmed") soothed his aching eye with one hand, clutched the cursed shell in the other hand and limped to his car.

The swelling in his knee started shortly thereafter, and Wyroski made his way to the doctor.

A series of X-rays revealed a broken kneecap, and the doctor fit Wyroski's leg with a

Twenty-seven Island teenagers donned caps and gowns and marched to strains of Pomp and Circumstance to receive their high school diplomas this year.

The Islander congratulates: Mark Gillingham, Bishop Vesey High School; Joyce Craig and Peter Slosson, Canterbury School; and Durrell Alexander, Barbara Bissell, Carolyn Blakely, Calvin Burrey Jr.,

plaster cast from his ankle to his thigh. "He (the doctor) looked at the shell and told me I was lucky," Wyroski says. "I figured he meant I was lucky I didn't break my whole leg."

"But then he told me I had found a rare Junonia, and it was in perfect condition. I guess I was lucky," he adds. "I broke my knee-cap, but I didn't break the Junonia."

"It's just too bad I can't bend over to pick up any more shells."

Wyroski can't get around to fish in the surf, either. And he can't fish from a boat ("If I fell overboard I'd sink").

So he is resigned to fishing from the public pier, where he takes a seat and props the cast-bound leg on a railing for support.

The cumbersome cast will remain on his leg for four more weeks, and until then Wyroski has rigged his crutches to accommodate a fishing pole to make his daily trips to the pier less awkward.

Until the cast comes off, there's no sense in going back to Chicago ("I couldn't run from the muggers," he explains). But when he does return to Chicago, he'll sure have some fish tale to tell!

Lion's paw:

'A Sanibel shell collector's dream'

By Ellen Mulligan

Definition: "Lion's Paw - Lyropesten nodosus (Linné) N.C. - Brazil. Similar characteristics of the Rough Scallop. Usually seven to nine strong ribs with large hollow nodes and numerous smaller distinct ribs. Color usually deep red or wine, or dark orange. Bright orange is rare, yellow very rare. Very uncommon - 'a Sanibel shell collector's dream.'"

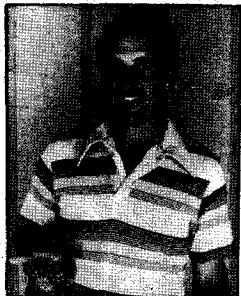

John Englehardt of Orlando found a Sanibel collector's dream last week - a perfect wine-colored lion's paw.

Englehardt says he had pledged to find a lion's paw even before he crossed the causeway.

"We stopped at the Beal-Mallie Museum at Rollins College to look at the shells since we were coming to Sanibel," he explains.

"I saw it (the lion's paw) and said to my wife, 'I'm going to find one of those on Sanibel.'" He laughs today at the fluke incident of actually stumbling across a lion's paw last Tuesday.

"I'm really pleased to find it," John smiles. Although John is a shelter, his wife is the one who saved them all.

John says he found more shells, and prettier shells, this year on Sanibel and wished he could stay another week and maybe find another lion's paw.

Police, chamber sponsor summer job program

By Cindy Chalmers

With the approach of summer comes the end of school for Island youngsters, many of whom will want part-time work during the long, hot days ahead.

In an effort to help students find summer positions, the Sanibel-Captiva Chamber of Commerce and the Sanibel Police Department are sponsoring Youth Power for the second summer this year.

The idea behind Youth Power is to provide a bank of young workers to which business people and residents in the community can refer when they have chores or odd jobs that need to be done.

Students are asked to file an application that includes parents' consent with the Police Department. The applications include general questions about the student's interests and abilities.

Police Sgt. Ray Rhodes said the completed applications will be put on file at the Chamber of Commerce.

Business people or residents seeking the help of Island youngsters can contact the chamber with a description of the work to be done.

Chamber officials will then match the job description with one of the student files.

Rhodes stressed that the jobs offered do not have to be full-time summer positions but can include jobs that would only call for a few hours a week or even a few hours on only one day.

"Kids on the Islands need a little spending money and a little responsibility," Rhodes said. "They don't necessarily need full-time jobs."

Many of the students would be happy to check inventories, dust shelves or do odd jobs around an Island business for a few hours a week, Rhodes said. Many would also be happy to do yard work for private residents, he added.

The real thrust of the Youth Power concept is to expose young Islanders to local business, he explained, but residential jobs are also welcome in the program.

"If we let these kids in on the business side of the Island now, it might deter them from vandalism in the future," he added.

Last summer 14 Island students from 10 years old and up obtained work through Youth Power, Rhodes said. "This summer we hope to increase that number."

"We had a late start last year, but hope to get it rolling by June 15 this year," he said. The Youth Power idea is adapted from a similar program in St. Louis, Mo., Rhodes said, adding that Island resident Dottie Worth suggested the program be established on the Island last summer.

Untied Way starts final campaign phase

United Way Campaign volunteers will be contacting Island businesses in the final phase of the spring campaign during the next two weeks, Sanibel United Way Chairman Jim Hermes said last week.

Hermes said he is confident that Sanibel residents and business people will meet this year's $25,000 goal, but he pointed out that the present total is $12,230 and urged those who have not yet sent their gifts to w their checks or make pledges now.

The first phase of the 1981 campaign was directed to individual citizens, and many have responded generously, Hermes said. Efforts will now be concentrated on community businesses as teams of volunteers call of businesses for gifts and pledges.

Hermes said if anyone is inadvertently missed by the volunteers and wishes to make a contribution, please mail checks to the Bank of the Islands, 1699 Periwinkle Way, Sanibel, FL 33957.

Special Sanibel tiles will line pool

By Ellen Mulligan

Dugger has his hands full lately -- he's up to his neck in pool tiles.

Island ceramic king Robert Dugger, along with Pat Kair, will paint and fire almost 300 memorial ceramic pool tiles for the new recreation complex swimming pool.

Last week Dugger started the first batch of tiles in recognition of those people who donated $200 or more to the pool fund.

"People who make a donation ($200)," Dugger explains of this latest community endeavor. "Well, they put this tile with their name on it in the pool."

"And I put a little Sanibel atmosphere on the tiles," Dugger says, smiling as he paints island shells on the special tiles.

Surrounded by ceramic pieces in his hobby shop, Dugger looks like one of Santa's elves engrossed in filling his order on time.

"There are only so many shells that you can paint fast enough to fill this order," he adds with a laugh, never raising an eye from his pink paint brush delicately coloring an angulate wendtrap.

Dugger has been up until three in the morning this past week trying to have all of the tiles completed by the time the pool is ready for tiling. Pat Kair has been firing and glazing the shells so Dugger can concentrate on painting the Sanibel scenes.

Memorial pool plaques alive with Sanibel's flora and fauna are still available to those wishing to make a contribution of $200 for the completion of the recreation complex. The last day to place an order for a plaque in your name is this Friday, June 12. Each plaque inscribed with the contributors name and hand-painted by Dugger will line the perimeter of the swimming pool as a monument to this unique community effort.

For additional information or to place an order for your plaque (individual or family names), contact Dugger at 472-1181 or Dick Noon at the Sanibel Police Department, 472-3111.

Island teenager heads to Canadian wildlife preserve

By Ellen Mulligan

Islander Adam Smith will spend four to six weeks at a wildlife preserve in Calgary, Canada this summer -- compliments of the Sanibel-Captiva Audubon Society.

Adam's trip is the "first fruit" of the society's efforts to send nature-oriented and conservation-minded youths to special camps for a few weeks during the summer. Adam will stay with Islanders Don and Nora Dietlein in their Canadian home. Don was instrumental in setting up the programs at the government sponsored preserve.

Sixteen year-old Adam says his love of nature and the outdoors has "definitely" heightened since he moved to Sanibel five years ago and he would like to pursue a career in the environmental or wildlife fields.

"Something to do with animals," Adam says is what he would ultimately like to do. Living on Sanibel he adds, "gives (one) a bit more respect for nature, or what's left of it. You can see what's needed and what needs help."

Adam is looking forward to his trip to the Canadian Rocky Mountain preserve because he says he will learn first hand by following the footsteps of expert field biologists and naturalists at the park.

"I'll go along and observe and learn whatever I can," he says emphatically. "I'll work with osprey, falcons, otters and a vast number of other animals reintroducing them and relocating them."

Adam is a board member of the local Audubon Society. He is also involved with the Caretta patrol and has assisted Steve Adam Smith won't be pumping gas all summer long. Come July he'll be on his way to Canada for a nature trip sponsored by the Sanibel-Captiva Audubon Society.

Phillips from the Conservation Foundation in tagging and relocating nuisance alligators.

He also has a large collection of snakes, the most famous of which, Romeo, gave the island a snake scare several months ago.

Adam will pump gas at the Island Exxon until he takes off for Canada in July.

"This is the first venture of this kind that the society has gone into," says Lorimer Moe, instigator of the Audubon Society summer program for youths. "We hope that it will lead to great things," he adds.

Adam shakes his head in agreement, perhaps pondering what great things will come of his own venture.

Mariner presents a promise

When Mariner Properties acquired The Dunes in early 1980 it was their intention to make The Dunes the finest residential and recreational community on the islands. Today, that promise is being fulfilled.

Every aspect of The Dunes has been painstakingly planned to take full advantage of the unsurpassed natural beauty of its Sanibel location. Homesites are plotted to afford maximum privacy and at the same time provide vistas of the lovely surroundings. Thoughtfully prepared deed restrictions assure homeowners that new residences in The Dunes will harmonize architecturally, and landscaping is carefully reviewed to ensure a pleasing character. Delightful new Village Homes have been designed for carefree island living.

No effort has been spared to furnish all the niceties that help make Florida living enjoyable.

- The challenging nine-hole golf course is being expanded to eighteen holes under the direction of a full time teaching pro.
- Six all-weather tennis courts are supervised by a resident professional.
- A fully stocked pro shop caters to golf and tennis devotees.

- An oversized pool provides the opportunity for exercise and relaxation.
- Private access to a fine white sand beach on the Gulf of Mexico is within each walking or bicycling distance.

The attractive natural wood clubhouse accommodates a large meeting room, an inviting cocktail lounge and an appealing dining room. The facilities are perfect for meeting new friends and entertaining guests. Outdoor barbecue grills adjacent to the clubhouse are available for the use of residents of The Dunes.

The Dunes has been planned as a very special kind of community at a reasonable price. We invite you to visit us today.

The Mariner Story

The men and women who have managed The Mariner Group of Affiliated Companies since 1977 are fully aware that the purchaser of residential real estate finds his best security in working with an honest, straightforward developer who lives up to his representations. With this in mind, they have dedicated themselves to carry out development that produces the proper balance between careful growth and the unique natural qualities of Sanibel. A host of award winning projects including Periwinkle Place, the Casa Ybel Resort, Thistle Lodge Restaurant and South Seas Plantation testify to this.

Portrait

Dr. Ingalls Simmons

Age: 65 on June 9 -- Happy Birthday!

Height: 6'3"

Roots: Worcester, Mass.

Pleasures: "Everything -- including photography, cooking, collecting original maps."

Mentor: "My Aunt Hannah, who died 25 years ago in her 50th year of practicing medicine."

Last Book Read: The New England Medical Journal.

Wish: "That people could learn to communicate better locally and worldwide so maybe we could have peace and understanding."

Words of Wisdom: "Ignorance, negligence and indifference, not bad luck or the will of God, cause high rates of disease, disability and death."

By Cindy Chalmers

Photos by Ellen Mulligan

Three Burmese cats raise their heads and twitch their ears in respect when Dr. Ingalls Simmons invites his visitors to invade the cats' living room nap.

"Now you have to get up," the doctor says gently but firmly to Mister, Jennifer and B.T. Simmons feels obligated to explain B.T.

"It stands for 'Tien Blue,' or 'Anything Blue,'" he says of the name for the youngest of his three blue Burmese felines. "But when we shortened it to 'T.B.," we realized that wasn't a very good name for a doctor's cat," he adds. "So we reversed it to 'B.T.'"

That out of the way, Simmons settles comfortably into an easy chair surrounded with signs of his 27 years around the world as a U.S. Army doctor.

Did he always want to be a doctor? "No," Simmons says. "I didn't make up my mind until I was 3 years old, but from then on, I knew."

Simmons followed fine examples of both his father, who was both a doctor and minister, and his Aunt Hannah Simmons, who practiced medicine for 50 years.

Simmons' world as a doctor, however, did not revolve around a hospital but around areas where sickness gets its start. The good doctor of specialty is preventive medicine.

A serious epidemic of malaria in Puerto Rico in 1946 convinced Simmons of the importance of preventive medicine versus curative medicine.

"We kept that malaria out of the post when everyone around the post was stricken," he says. "It was a challenge, but one we met. That's when I realized the importance of fighting disease and sickness with preventive measures."

Through 27 years in the Army, Simmons built a reputation around the world as a teacher and a preventer. He went from Army hospital trains to posts in Tokyo, Manila, Okinawa, France and numerous U.S. cities.

When they decided to retire 12 years ago, the Simmons had little trouble choosing Sanibel for their last home ("I never see myself leaving here," he says).

When they decided to retire 12 years ago, however, the Simmons had little trouble choosing Sanibel for their last home ("I never see myself leaving here," he says).

"We visited Florida for the first time in 1950," he says. "That was the time we almost died from the cold in Frostproof."

Simmons had trouble considering the Island for a home at that time, however. "For a person so involved in public health, it was difficult to think about living on a isolated island where the drinking water ran off the roofs into a cistern along with the bird droppings," he explains.

"The fact that the ferry stopped at 5 p.m. and the only telephone was at Bailey's bothered us, too. What would we do in case of an emergency?"

When the time came to retire 12 years ago, however, the Island was less primitive, and the Simmons bought a plot of land on the Gulf off the Sanibel-Captiva Road.

"My wife only had two requirements when we retired," Simmons says. "She wanted to be able to see the ocean, and she wanted a self-cleaning oven (after cleaning Army base ovens to meet inspection the 34 times the couple moved)."

"The oven was no problem, but we had to choose between Sanibel and Victoria, British Columbia. I think we knew it would be Sanibel," he concedes.

One of the first things Simmons did as a retiree on the Island was help organize the EPERT team for emergency evacuation in the event of a disaster on the Island. He still serves on EPERT as the chief of the Island medical disaster team.

He also served on the Sanibel Public Health Committee but says he resigned "out of frustration" when city officials failed to ban dogs from the Island's beaches.

"Why should Sanibel be the canine latrine for Lee County?" he asks, adding that his concern is with the health aspects of allowing dogs to roam freely on the beaches where people walk and children play. "I call that a serious public health problem," he says.

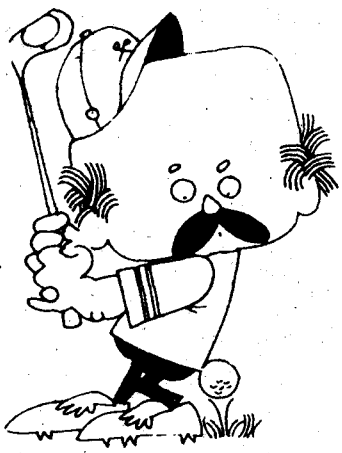

Aside from his participation in various Island committees, Simmons uses his retirement days to polish his photography, gardening and cooking skills.

His own photographs cover the den walls. His own hybrid Hibiscus grows in the yard. And he and Patsy have participated on the teaching end of several Community Cooking classes on the Island.

"I derive pleasure from everything I do -- otherwise I wouldn't do it," he says with conviction. "The same applied during the entire 41 years I was in the Army. I enjoyed every bit of it thoroughly."

"I never understand why people spend their lives or any part of their lives doing things they just don't enjoy," he says. "You should be able to find enjoyment in everything you do."

Simmons expects to find pleasure in everything, which more than likely accounts for his success in doing just that.

Zylstra's snook was hooked with pinfish on May 29 in Pine Island Sound with the help of Capt. Duke Sells of Tween Waters Marina. Alex Brown of Fort Myers traveling with Capt. Larry Gann of Tween Waters Marina plucked a 13-pound redfish from Captiva Pass on May 27 to qualify as the redfish winner for last week.

Second place in the redfish category went to Steve Rogers of Reddick, Fla. for his 16-pound catch on May 31.

On May 29, a 14½-pound cobia was hooked in Captiva Pass by A.C. Johnson from

City parking stickers available Friday

By Barbara Brundage

The Sanibel Police Department will begin Friday issuing permits required for vehicle parking at designated resident and restricted beach access parking lots after July 1.

Decals will be available at Bailey's General Store Friday, Saturday and Sunday between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Chief of Police John Butler announced Monday. The decals will be on sale again at Bailey's the following weekend, June 19, 20, 21 during the same hours.

The special parking permits that will also be used to identify residents who want to return to the island after an emergency evacuation will be available at any time at the Police Station, Chief Butler added.

Residents, defined by the Parking Strategy Ordinance as persons who "call Sanibel home to the exclusion of any other place," will pay $1 for a permit to park in both residential and restricted zones.

A current Lee County voter registration card, a valid Florida driver's license, a certified copy of a Declaration of Domicile or a current property tax bill can be used as proof of bona fide residency, Butler said.

Non-resident property owners may purchase for $1 a permit allowing them to park in the restricted beach access zones. For verification the applicant must furnish a description of property owned on Sanibel, Butler said.

For a fee of $15 any member of the general public will be issued a permit to park in the restricted zones, valid until December 1. Annual fee in this category is $30, Butler said.

All applicants must bring the vehicle for which the permit is sought to the issuing location, where the decals will be affixed by police personnel.

Parking permits are not required for bicycles or mopeds, but these vehicles must park in racks that will be provided at the beach access lots.

Vehicles more than 20 feet in length, including buses, will be banned from parking in all specially designated parking areas.

However, free parking for 425 vehicles is still available at the Sanibel Lighthouse, the Gulf end of Tarpon Bay Road and at Bowman's Beach, Butler stressed.

Parking in both residential and restricted zones will be confined to the hours between 7 a.m. and 8 p.m. Eastern Standard Time, or 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. during Daylight Savings Time.

Locations of both residential and restricted parking areas may be found on the official Parking Zone Map at the Police Station or at City Hall.

Parking is prohibited in public areas and rights-of-way not officially designated on the map, Butler said.

Building permits

Building permits for construction valued at $466,470 were issued by the city of Sanibel during the week ending June 5. Permits were issued to:

Lee County for a helipad valued at $2,000 on Bowman Beach Road. The helipad will be used by the Lee County Mosquito Control District.

Lewis Masonry of 1214 Buttonwood Lane, two permits for two duplexes valued at $80,000 each.

John Goode of 1149 Periwinkle Way for a storage building valued at $1,200.

The Surfrider Beach Club at 555 East Gulf Drive for remodeling valued at $88,000.

The Surfrider Beach Club at 555 East Gulf Drive for a wood walk valued at $1,250.

David Woods of Serenity Lane, Gumbo Limbo, for a single-family residence valued at $43,220.

The Sanibel Police Recreation Club for a swimming pool valued at $100,000 on Sanibel-Captiva Road.

Edmond Donoghue of 1016 Fishcrow Road, Tahiti Shores, for a swimming pool valued at $7,000.

John Nottelman of 737 Emeril Court for shutters valued at $1,500.

Daniel Kimpel of 1242 Anhinga for a deck and stairs valued at $1,500.

Magic makes a hit with Islanders

By Ellen Mulligan

There was magic in the air last Friday night at the Sanibel Community Center when Island children and grown-ups alike were mystified by three enchanting magicians. Magician Wayne Hart tickled the audience with flower, rope and scarf tricks bringing volunteers (or "victims" as he called them) from the audience to assist him.

Ferry von Forst kicked magic into high gear when the assistant disappeared into thin air. Von Forst next put swords through the assistant without so much as a scratch and ultimately cut her body into thirds.

The show was highlighted by Von Forst's daughter, the Baroness von Forst, whose tricks included magically conjuring Randall Anne Brooks from out of nowhere.

The magic show was sponsored by the Sanibel Police Recreation Fund much to the delight of Islanders. All proceeds will go to the Listen America Club, a national organization dedicated to curbing drug abuse among youths.

During the show, Miss Brooks and Police Chief John Butler drew names for the Listen America contest that will treat two teenagers to a five-day trip to California for the Listen America Pageant. Islander Ann Kennedy and Fort Myers resident Steve Lennon were the lucky winners.

Taped messages ready at Ding Darling wildlife drive

By Donna Stanek

The Travelers Information System that we have discussed for the last few months is finally in operation.

There are a few minor bugs still to be worked out, but we do have the system turned on. In order to hear the messages turn your radio to 1610 AM as you enter the wildlife drive.

A brief synopsis of the seven messages follows: The first welcomes the visitor to the refuge and tells of some of the refuge regulations.

Station two discusses mangrove ecology; primarily red mangroves.

Various common birds are discussed during the third tape, and four discusses mosquito control practices on the refuge.

Alligators, one of the more popular refuge residents, are detailed during the fifth message.

Number six tells of various reptiles, amphibians and mammals found on the refuge.

A brief overview of "Ding" Darling's life is given during the final tape.

This is the first set of tapes, and changes may be made in the future. The messages playing currently may sound a little on the bass side due to a problem in the reproduction equipment, which is being corrected.

We will be doing more fine tuning in regards to the amount of wattage being put forth from each station. Thus, at times the various stations may come in stronger or weaker. It will take time to have everything fine tuned, but the system is operational.

Some of you may recognize the voice on the tapes as that of Sanibel Police Officer Lew Phillips. Lew did a fine job, and we certainly appreciate his helping us complete this project.

This is the first such system done on a national wildlife refuge and is sure to be looked at by various other agencies.

If anyone has any comment in regards to message content, please contact the refuge headquarters. We welcome suggestions, especially in regards to what the public wants to know.

Visitors to the Ding Darling wildlife drive can now tune in to refuge radio.

GIVE DADDY A "BIG HELLO" A GREAT WAY TO LET HIM KNOW YOU REALLY CARE.

Remember who spent all day with you at the zoo? Remember who kissed your scraped elbow and made it all better? Remember who told you how delicious your first batch of cookies were, even though they were burned?

Then remember your dad with a "BIG HELLO" Gift Certificate this Father's Day. "BIG HELLO" Gift Certificates go a long, long way.

Dad can put an extension phone in his workshop, pay his phone bill, or best of all, he can call you, his little girl. Then you can let him know you remember all those good times, and how much they still mean to you.

Give "BIG HELLO" Gift Certificates to the special men in your life this Father's Day... and guys, dad would like to hear from you, too. Gift Certificates are available at your nearest Phone Shop.

CROW

Summer brings baby birds, mammals to Islands

By Carol Newcomb-Jones

Baby bird and mammal season is well upon us here at CROW (Care and Rehabilitation of Wildlife), and with that come the inevitable sights and sounds of these orphans of the wild.

Yellow-rumped bills of baby song birds opened wide anticipating a meal; downy balls of owl fluff that can consume up to five mice each a night; cheeps and chirps boisterously beckoning for just one more mouthful; young opossums lapping up solid food for the first time -- yes, baby animal season is our busiest time of year.

During one week we retrieved an eaglet that had prematurely left its nest. A young boy fortunately found the eaglet under a clump of palmettos and called the proper authorities.

Staff and friends of CROW had the honor of placing the bird back in its nest.

Ferrel Johns of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service scaled the 40-foot pine tree to place the eaglet back in its home when all of a sudden the eaglet's brother or sister decided danger was near and quickly abandoned the nest.

Luckily, the eaglet was found unharmed and returned to the nest after a few hours of searching for it through the dense palmetto thickets.

Just after the excitement of the eagle rescue subsided, an osprey nestling was found at 3 a.m. in the middle of the road at South Seas Plantation.

The finder called CROW, and the young flyer was returned to its nest by way of a 50-foot extension ladder. Sanibel's Mark "Bird" Westall performed the "high wire" act in returning the bird safely.

It might seem like bird rescues take up most of our time, but aside from the day-to-day care of our other patients, the majority of our day at CROW lately is spent filling the crops (which at times seem like bottomless pits) of song birds, preparing baby bird and mammal food and keeping a close eye on our "nursery."

Excluding the adult birds and mammals we receive, so far this spring we have cared for one blue jay, three mockingbirds, four sparrows, two ospreys, two great horned owls, nine barn owls, seven screech owls, nine starlings, one ground dove, two bald eagles, one fish crow, one killdeer, one yellow-shafted flicker, two otters, one raccoon and nine opossums.

Nobody raises baby animals better than their own parents. If you happen upon a young animal, we advise you to leave it where it is and give us a call to help determine if it really needs help.

Nine times out of 10 the parents are closely watching their young and are probably waiting for you to leave so they can feed it!

CROW operates entirely on donations and membership dues. If you would like to make a donation or become a member, please contact CROW, P. O. Box 150, Sanibel, FL 33957 or call 472-3844.

and preserving the value of the property, the consultants stress.

A fourth survey in the form of a questionnaire mailed to Island businesses is currently underway, and its results will be used to refine projections of retail demand into the '90s.

A profile of the "typical" Sanibel household emerged from responses to the resident survey.

According to the survey results, the typical Sanibel household includes two adults with an average household income of approximately $50,000.

More than half of the respondents said they planned to live on Sanibel more than 40 weeks during 1981. Three-fourths claimed Sanibel as their permanent residence.

About 50 percent reside in single-family homes, and an additional 20 percent live in condominiums.

Approximately half of the responses came from persons living in the area east of Tarpon Bay Road and south of Periwinkle Way.

An analysis of residents' spending habits revealed that grocery stores and restaurants accounted for more than half of most respondents' expenditures on the Island.

The majority of grocery shopping was done at Bailey's, with the other food stores capturing only 7 percent of the total. Forty-two percent of the respondents said they did their grocery shopping in stores off-Island.

Interval owners tended to be the most affluent residents, with an average household income of $87,000, the survey showed. They also had a higher expenditure level and tended to make a larger share of their purchases on Island than single-family residents.

Condominium owners who responded had an average household income of $62,000 with expenditure levels only slightly higher than the single-family home resident.

The survey also explored attitudes regarding adequacy of existing retail stores and perception of parking and traffic problems on the Island.

In general, most respondents said day-to-day needs are met by local stores, though nearly 27 percent expressed a need for an additional grocery store.

The surveys found that traffic is more of a concern for residents than for tourists or day visitors. Forty percent of the respondents said they considered traffic during peak seasons severe, and 50 percent called it only minor. Twenty-five percent said they considered traffic of a minor concern between May and October.

The retail sales statistics gleaned from the surveys reflect Sanibel's tourist economy, the report stated.

Restaurant sales constitute nearly 30 percent of the Island's total retail sales compared with the state and Lee County, where the figure stands at 8 percent.

Retail stores that depend on a large permanent population either do not exist or are few in number on Sanibel, the report found.

But the nature of retail demand on the Island is not likely to change while the commercial study is going on, MacDonald concluded.

Between 1977 and the present the most substantial retail growth has been in categories of apparel and accessories, eating and drinking establishments, miscellaneous stores and food stores, he said.

MacDonald pointed out that because of Sanibel's unique characteristics as a popular tourist destination and as a home for both seasonal and year-round residents, conventional analysis techniques were not applicable.

Instead the survey research route followed to gain insight into expenditure characteristics of the different population groups represented on the Island.

Deborah Almas weds Steven Phillips

Deborah Lee Almas and Steven Rand Phillips were married Saturday, May 16 at her grandparents', Carl and Myrtle Almas, Surfside 12 Condominium on the Gulf of Mexico. The Rev. James Hubbs of Saint Michael's and All Angels Episcopal Church officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee A. Almas of Sanibel, formerly of Birmingham, MI.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Phillips Sr., of Danville, KY. Bridal attendants were: Kim Snell, Birmingham, MI, maid of honor; Rosemarie Gibney, bridesmaid and soloist; and Tara Phillips, bridesmaid and niece of the groom.

Groomsmen were: Dino Phillips, best man; David Lee Almas, Jamie Phillips and Brian Lee Almas, Birmingham, MI, ushers; Louis Phillips III, ringbearer and nephew of the groom.

The bride graduated from Groves High School, Birmingham, MI and Oakland Community College, Michigan, and is employed at Mariner Properties.

The bridegroom graduated from Boyle County High School, Danville, KY and Eastern Kentucky University at Richmond.

Birdseed was thrown at the ceremony instead of rice, since Steven is employed as staff naturalist at the Sanibel Island Conservation Center.

The couple honeymooned at the South Seas Plantation and Beachcomber Resort. They will reside on Sanibel.

Happy Anniversary

City, school board sponsor summer program

This summer the City of Sanibel and the Lee County School Board will have a cooperative agency relationship in sponsoring a summer recreation program at Sanibel Elementary School.

The program will be from Monday, June 15, to Friday, July 17, 1981. Time will be from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Transportation will be the responsibility of the parent or guardian. Please do not leave students earlier than 9 a.m. due to lack of supervision, plus, it is very important that students be picked up on time for going home.

All activities will be held at the Sanibel Elementary School Complex except for a visit to the Sanibel Library on Wednesdays. Time has been established from 9 to 10 a.m. for the library visits. A bus will transport students from the library to the elementary school.

The program at the school will consist of an arts and crafts program and a general recreation program including inside and outside sports.

The program is for all school-age children currently enrolled in kindergarten through grade 12 and will be supervised by Becky Pierce, Lenora Kiesel, Jan Ciesienski and Mark Westall.

There is no charge for the program. Registration will begin on Monday, June 15, starting at 9 a.m. Students may enroll anytime during the five weeks. It is not necessary to be present every week to be part of the program.

Power Squadron offers free boat inspections

The Sanibel-Captiva Power Squadron plans to highlight National Safe Boating Week, June 6 through 15, with free safety inspections of pleasure craft by the Coast Guard Auxiliary.

Inspections will be made at the Sanibel Marina between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. on June 6. Auxiliary members will advise boat owners if their crafts are unsafe in any way but will not keep records of the inspections. Repairs and re-inspections will be made at the owners' discretion.

Squadron members hope the inspections will remind the public that "Safe Boating is No Accident."

The Power Squadron's main mission is to offer classes and hands-on, practical experience in handling pleasure craft safely.

Courses cover a range of subjects from beginners basic facts to Seamanship, Piloting, Weather Observation and Prediction, Advanced Piloting under Adverse Conditions and Celestial Navigation.

Most courses are offered free to squadron members, with nominal fees for instructional materials.

"Access by Permission Only" signs posted on foundation

The Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation will post 50 "Access by Permission Only" signs on 20 parcels of property it owns fronting traveled Island roads and the Sanibel River.

"The purpose is to protect the undeveloped land from unauthorized use," Malcolm Beattie, chairman of SCCF's Land Acquisition Committee, explained to the City Council last week.

But city Code Enforcement Officer Richard Baker told the council he was concerned about "proliferation of signs when only one sign on each parcel is allowed under the city's Graphic Ordinance."

Baker also expressed concern that the signs could be construed as advertisements.

Acting Mayor Mike Klein pointed out that the signs would be in the public interest. "To preserve nature is one of our goals," he said.

Councilman Fred Valtin said posting signs against trespassing is a property right and added that the Ding Darling Refuge has numerous signs posted on its property.

Beattie said the six-to-eight inch metal signs are similar to those used on the wild life refuge property.

Councilman Francis Bailey acknowledged the need but pointed out that the Island is becoming overloaded with prohibitive signs.

The council unanimously approved a variance to the Graphic Ordinance allowing the foundation to place the signs at 200-foot intervals on the road and river frontage.

In areas where the right-of-way is not cleared, the signs can be placed along the edge of the road.

"There's no point in putting a sign 20 feet away in the midst of bushes, where it can't be seen," Valtin said.

Lions Club news

By D. E. Cooperrider

The regular meeting of the Sanibel-Captiva Lions Club was held at the Sanibel Community Building on June 3.

Lion John Cook reported that 16 Lions had donated blood so far during 1981. He also donated to the club an uncanceled, mounted plate of stamps which he had obtained at the 1940 International Lions Convention in Havana, Cuba.

President Hatcher conducted the induction of new members: Sam Henry, Robert Morris and Joel Martin. He also distributed awards to Lions for their efforts in getting new members during the current year.

President-elect Fred Combs spoke on the coming installation ceremony that will be held at Chadwick's on July 11 and will include dining and dancing.

The installation of the new officers will be conducted by Past District Governor Ken Williams of North Fort Myers.

The next meeting will be June 17 at the Sanibel Community Building at 6:30 p.m.

SHOPPING

Sanibel is a veritable shopper's paradise. Tasterful boutiques and casual island shops join forces to present visitors with everything - and anything - a vacation shopper could hope for.

At the Lighthouse (Eastern) end of the Island, Punta Yel Plaza and The Sea Horse Shops are right across the street from each other, providing a variety of products that can cure your sweet tooth or tickle your shell finder's fancy. Need a good haircut or coiffure? You can get it in either of these shopping centers. Most businesses open at 10 a.m. and close at 5:30 p.m. This holds true for many island stores, although during the winter season, some are open evenings.

Tall Australian plines shade Periwinkle Way as the shopper travels west along this main thoroughfare. This stretch of road is truly a shopper's paradise. It's all here...the fast and not-so-fast eating spots, casual and elegant boutiques, hand-wrought jewelry, craft designs, shell shops and balm for health products and more. Watch to your right and left as you drive or cycle along. Photographic supplies, bait and tackle, deli foods, fresh seafood and baked goods, knick-knacks and what-nots can all be found along the drive to the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road. Along the way, shopping centers such as the Heart of the Islands, Periwinkle Place and Tahitian Gardens offer a variety of island delights.

Palm Ridge Road, the Periwinkle Way turn-off to Captiva, offers several new shopping centers featuring everything from imports to gift shops for the discriminating shopper, plants and shells, a sandwich shop, ice cream parlour, pizza parlour, boutique shop and the Island Apothecary.

At the Tarpon Bay-Periwinkle Way intersection, the Island Shopping Center features the island's only supermarket, dry cleaners and movie house.

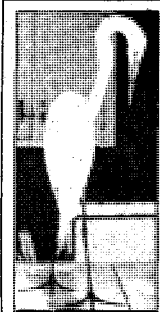

A left on Tarpon Bay Road takes the visitor past Sanibel's original schoolhouse, which now holds the original island watercolors and woodcuts. Then on to West Gulf Drive and westward to an interesting little artist's shop and gallery.

At the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road, you may choose instead to turn right and follow the signs to the Tarpon Bay Marina, where you will find a cluster of quaint shops overlooking the bay. Some antiques, shells and shellcrafts, what-nots and clever clothes can be found here, as well as a great seafood sandwich and soft drinks.

The spectacular ride to Captiva, with its lush foliage and -much to the view of the Gulf, is well worth a day's outing. Talented artists display their works in one roadside shop, while others feature some nifty gifts for Grandma to take home to little hands as a pleasant hedge-podge of remembrances from these barrier islands.

Whether for shopping, or merely browsing, island shops offer a surprising variety - from one-of-a-kind collectibles for the discerning shopper to postcards for the simple souvenir hunter and of course, for all, shells, shell jewelry, shell lamps, just plain shells...the most beautiful shells in the world from the most beautiful shelling beaches in the world.

CAMPING

Camping on the beach is prohibited and while everyone enjoys a beach fire, the Sanibel Fire Board has signed into law an ordinance prohibiting open beach fires. Prior to the ordinance, a permit was necessary for a beach bonfire, but as of July 18, 1980, it is now illegal. An exemption to the ordinance is a fire in an approved cooking container (not to exceed 48"X24"X12" deep with an extruded metal grill) for non-commercial food preparation. This type of container will be allowed on the beach without a permit. After you have had your beach party, it is recommended that you assume the responsibility for the cleanup of any debris or litter in your area.

GATORS

Feeding alligators anywhere within the Sanibel City limits is not only illegal (violators of the law are subject to a fine of up to $500, or up to 60 days in jail, or both), but can be extremely dangerous. Alligators can run 45 m.p.h., so if you're close enough to feed an alligator, he's close enough to feed on you. An alligator fed for fun loses his natural fear of humans and becomes a potential threat to children and pets.

WARNING! SAFEGUARD YOUR VALUABLES.

In order to protect your valuable possessions from theft, it is recommended that you TAKE THEM TO A BANK OR HOTEL VAULT FOR SAFEKEEPING. Do NOT leave them in your room or car.

SPEED LIMITS

There are varying speed limits (20-30 m.p.h.) as one comes across the causeway, and there is a very good reason for them...to preserve the bridge supports from strain and stress. This speed limit is strictly enforced with the use of radar on a 24-hour basis by both the Sanibel Police Department and the Lee

County Sheriff's Department.

Driving or parking a motor vehicle or moped on the bike path is strictly prohibited. Violators will be ticketed.

The City of Sanibel Resolution limiting the taking of live shells to 2 live shells per person per species is one to be scrupulously obeyed. As a matter of fact, in order to preserve Sanibel's beautiful shelling beaches, most collectors refuse to take any live shells whatsoever.

DOGGY DO'S & DON'TS

If you're visiting Sanibel with the family Fido in tow, all the better. All family members can enjoy Southwest Florida sun and surf. The Chamber of Commerce can tell you what accommodations are available for families with pets. Remember: wherever you are, clean up after your pet! The friendly reminder... "Leave nothing on the beach but footprints"...applies to dogs, too. There's no leash law on Sanibel, but of course an excitable or unruly animal is better off when controlled with a leash.

FISHING

While no license is required for saltwater fishing, fishing in freshwater ponds or the Sanibel River requires a Florida fishing license - available at Bailey's General Store on Periwinkle Way. The fee is $6.50 for resident and $10.50 for non-resident.

MINIMUM LEGAL LENGTHS:

Blue Fish	10 inches
Flounder	11 inches
Grouper	12 inches
Mackerel	12 inches
Mullet	12 inches
Pompano	10 inches
Red Fish	12 inches
Snook	18 inches
Trout	12 inches

BICYCLERULES

If you're not used to a lot of bicycle traffic, watch out for it on Sanibel. The extensive network of bike paths on the island is clearly marked along the edge of the road. Observe caution when driving near the bike path. A State law and City Ordinance combine to PROHIBIT PARKING OR DRIVING ON THE BIKE PATH. MOPEDS ARE NOT PERMITTED ON THE BIKE PATHS.

Planning on spending some time on a bike to enjoy the Island sun and sights? Make sure your vehicle is equipped with a bike flag, horn, good brakes and a light for night riding. Under Florida law, bicycle riders have the same rights and responsibilities as motor vehicle drivers.

THE RED PELICAN
SANIBEL ISLAND,
FLOR

You have to see how Mariner does it!

The Mariner Group didn't invent interval ownership but they have perfected it to a degree undreamed of a few years ago. Their latest is called Tortuga Beach Club and it exemplifies the Mariner approach to interval vacationing.

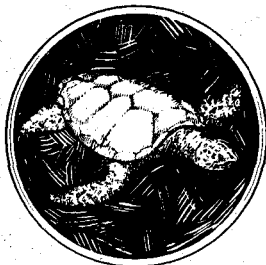

The site of Tortuga is magnificent — over 11 acres of Sanibel's most beautiful beachfront. The architecture is imaginative — a split-level, townhouse concept that gets away from that apartment look. The decor is pure elegance and the amenities offer every kind of fun and relaxation one could wish for.

In short, Tortuga Beach Club is the kind of vacation home you were sure you'd never be able to afford. Now, thanks to interval owning you can buy your vacations at Tortuga Beach Club forever at a surprisingly low price.

Stop by our display center today and let us show you Mariner's approach to interval ownership . . .

A great idea made better for as little as $6600 today
