Council hears consultants on hazard mitigation

By Barbara Brundage

A plan for the city's recovery from a "worst case" Class A, Category Four hurricane was unveiled to Sanibel officials last week by Bob Pearson and John Rogers, consultants for the city's Hazard Mitigation study.

But at least one councilman labeled "unreal" the consultants' suggestion that the City Council declare a moratorium on new development and reconstruction and call a public meeting on the first day after a hurricane strike.

Councilman Fred Valtin said it is ridiculous to "assume the possibility of an orderly process in the totally confused situation that would exist."

"I doubt that things will work that way," Valtin said. "There may not be anyone around for a public meeting and possibly not even a quorum of the council," he added.

He did not negate the need for controls on rebuilding after a storm but argued that the moratorium "can be anticipated in a pre-hurricane situation by passing stand-by ordinances that would become effective at the time of the disaster."

Councilman Porter Goss reminded Valtin that state laws regulating amendments to the land use plan would preclude such before-the-act action.

During a four-hour discussion with the City Council and members of the Planning Commission last Wednesday, Pearson summarized the Recovery and Implementation elements of the Rogers, Golden & Halpern study.

He outlined nine critical decisions the city must make for an orderly recovery from a major hurricane disaster and asked for council reaction to each:

1. Should the city build ferry or large docking facilities on Sanibel and the mainland to provide emergency access in

Police promotions made

Four members of the Sanibel Police Department have received promotions effective Nov. 1. Police Chief John Butler announced the promotions last week.

The new Captain of Police is former Sgt. William Trefny, who joined the department as an officer in March 1975. He was promoted to sergeant in October 1975 and has since been instrumental in forming and developing the department.

Trefny is a veteran of the U.S. Navy and served during WW II. He retired as a Lieutenant of Police after 22 years of service with the Greenwich, Conn. Police Department. He was a gold medal winner in swimming competition in the 1979 Florida Police Olympics.

Former Sgt. Ray Rhodes is the department's new Lieutenant of Police. He joined the Sanibel department as an officer in May 1975 and was promoted to sergeant in October 1978.

Rhodes holds a B.S. degree from the University of South Florida and has lived on Sanibel for 25 years. In 1979 he received the American Red Cross Highest Award for saving the life of a small child.

He received the Fort Myers News-Press award for Outstanding Performance as a Lawman in 1976 for causing the arrest of the person responsible for the armed robbery of the Casa del Mama Restaurant. Rhodes was also instrumental in the recovery of $250,000 in jewelry taken at gunpoint from a local resident and in the arrest of the perpetrator of the crime.

Rhodes is certified by the State of Florida to teach radar, police weaponry and first aid. He is a gold medalist in pistol shooting in the Florida Police Olympics.

Sanibel's new Sergeant of Police is former Officer Lewis Phillips Jr. who will serve as an investigative sergeant doing follow-up on all felonies and high misdemeanors.

Phillips has been on the Sanibel force since October 1975. He served in the U.S. Air

Bird Westall finds his perch on a mangrove root an appropriate spot to deliver an informal lecture about the tree that is an integral part of the marine foodchain.

Three years ago Island naturalist Mark "Bird" Westall bushwhacked his way through a tangled maze of mangroves and blazed the trail for his Buck Key canoe trip.

Because he made every effort to leave well enough alone with nature, Westall's "trail" is more a mental map than a beaten path through the lush native vegetation that covers Buck Key. He knows the way not from red flags waving but from his astute observation and memory of the natural landmarks along the way.

Westall says the Buck Kay trip is for "the cream of the crop" of Sanibel and Captiva visitors and residents who want to see more than the Islands' white sandy beaches, swimming pools and shell shops.

"This trip isn't for the Disneyworld set whose idea of fun is to watch a guide shoot plastic hippos with a toy gun," Westall says. Next he explains to the front person in his canoe the best way to dodge and at the same time protect the dewy spider webs that hang not quite overhead.

The front person catches on (usually quite quickly, Westall says) and props an extra paddle up to catch the webs and push them gently out of the way until the canoe passes. The grateful golden orb weaver barely notices the invasion and continues to spin her web.

"If you go on a canoe trip with me you're really going to see the uniqueness of the Islands," Westall promises. And he delivers.

The trip takes anywhere from three to four hours, "depending on the questions," Westall says. He explains that the longer tours are the ones during which his canoe passengers are curious and full of questions. "Those are the fun kinds for me," he adds.

The 1½-mile long, ½-mile wide, hot-dog shaped key brims with history and vegetation and is more a lesson along those lines than a lesson in wildlife. Indian mounds dot the key but have yielded to amateur archaeologists and are now essentially destroyed, Westall says.

Three stops along the Buck Key canoe trip allow Westall and his passengers a chance to stretch their legs while Westall delivers informal, information-packed lectures about the environment. Overhead a bald eagle chases an osprey for its fish.

Westall started his canoe trips three years ago after having been in a canoe "no more than three times" himself. His spot at the back of the canoe seems second nature now as he paddles quietly without even lifting his paddle from the water.

"I must have some Indian in me," he says as an explanation of how he guides the canoe through the swampy terrain without making a sound.

Two-thirds of Buck Key is owned by the federal government and is under the jurisdiction of the J.N. "Diag" Darling Wildlife Refuge. The remainder of the key is divided among five private individuals, Westall says.

He also offers canoe trips through the wildlife refuge and down the Sanibel River. The Buck Key trip, however, is the longest and the one on which Westall's customers "might get more nature than they bargained for."

Government analyst responds to assessment query

In response to a letter from Mrs. Shelton to Gov. Bob Graham dated Oct. 13, published in The Islander on Oct. 20, the following letter was given to The Islander for publication.

From The Office of the Governor
Tallahassee, FL 32304

Dear Mrs. Shelton:

Thank you for your Letter of Oct. 13, 1981 to Governor Graham concerning ad valorem taxes.

Ad valorem taxation is a rather complicated matter. It involves coordination and understanding between state and local taxing authorities. There are three major elements which combine to determine each individual's property tax bill: the assessment level, the millage rate and exemptions.

The Constitution of the State of Florida requires that all property be assessed at full just value. Until Governor Graham succeeded in enforcing full just value assessments, many local property appraisers were assessing at different levels. This resulted in statewide inequities in the distribution of state funds for education and Federal Revenue Sharing Funds.

Full just value assessments are a benchmark necessary to insure fair treatment of all of Florida's citizens regardless of location in the state.

An increase in your assessment level does not necessarily mean that your property taxes must go up. Assessment at any level can result in a tax increase, decrease or no change, depending upon the millage (tax) rate applied by local taxing authorities.

Florida Law requires that when assessed values in a county increase, the millage rate must be rolled back to the level that, when applied to the increased assessed value, will yield the same tax dollars as the prior year. That means no tax increase. In order to levy a millage above that "rolled back rate," the locally elected officials must advertise their intention to raise the tax rate and hold public hearings.

Governor Graham's Truth in Millage (TRIM) Bill, passed during the 1980 Legislative session, has greatly enhanced the public's ability to participate in the taxing process. It requires that the Notice of Proposed Property Taxes, including the information about the public budget hearings, be mailed to each taxpayer. It is the responsibility of all taxpayers to utilize this forum to inform local officials of the type and level of services they are willing to support with their tax dollars.

You may be assured that your appeal has been heard and your sentiment acknowledged by Governor Graham. Although it is not at all clear that intervention into this essentially local prerogative is a proper exercise of governmental authority at the state level, programs for reducing local dependence upon ad valorem revenues are being considered.

Clearly, there are conflicts which must be resolved. This office is researching those innovative reforms of Florida's tax structure which will responsibly provide for critical services, as well as allocate the burden of taxation in the most equitable manner.

Sincerely,
Gregory L. Miller

County should patrol 'Speed Demon Alley'

To the Editor
The Islander

Your Oct. 27 "Police Beat" column reported on the effective action taken by our alert Sanibel Police officers in enforcing the State's anti-nudity-on-the-beach laws.

Significantly, however, there were no reports of any week-end speeders being ticketed along the San-Cap Road.

It is obvious from such reports that our City Fathers are not intent upon relieving us Island taxpayers of the curse of Dual Taxation inflicted upon us by Lee County.

On numerous occasions, I have publicly objected to the city treasury assuming, or ignoring, the county's financial responsibility for patrolling its Bowman-Turner Beach Regional Park, and the "Speed Demon Alley" (Sanibel-Captiva Road) that links unincorporated Captiva with the balance of the county's unincorporated area.

So long as our City Councilmen are soft on this dual taxation issue, we Sanibel property taxpayers will continue to carry this double load on our shoulders. Do you want this?

It is the duty of every Sanibel taxpayer to express his or her views on such dual taxation to our City Council at City Hall and the Lee County Commission at the Court House in Fort Myers. Why not do it today?

Paul A. Howe

Editor's note: Sanibel police records consistently include accounts of speeding citations issued on San-Cap Road. The reports are not published in The Islander Police Beat because of space limitations.

Use of accident information questioned

The Islander

To Whom it May Concern:

Responsible and professional journalism, and just plain common sense, should dictate that a newspaper that prints a statement potentially damaging someone's reputation should check on the actual fact.

Your "Police Beat" report in the Oct. 27, 1981 edition states "She (Ellen Elias) refused to sign for a blood test for sobriety." She does not remember being asked the question. Ellen is 17 years old and a minor. We were told by the Lee County Sheriff's Department that minors' names are not used in traffic accident newspaper reports. Ellen was in critical condition for 10 hours following the accident, and she certainly was not capable of making such a decision.

Upon arriving at the hospital, we were informed that a decision was made to not have the blood test. Our only concern at that time was whether Ellie would live. Hours later when the danger had passed, we questioned this decision and requested a blood test be taken.

Jack and Colleen Elias
Sanibel

Editor's note: The practice of using minor's names in traffic reports is a common one. Only when minors are involved in criminal acts are their names omitted from print. The fact that Ellen Elias refused a blood test at the scene of the accident was both written in the police account of the accident and verified by the investigating officer.

Thanks from victim's parents

The Islander

To Whom it May Concern:

At 3 a.m. on Oct. 18, 1981 the horror and tragedy many of us have lived in our minds became a reality. A Sanibel Police officer came to our house to notify us that our daughter, Ellie, was under her car, which had rolled at least four times before she was thrown and the car came down on top of her.

God spared her life. Countless people worked to save it. Our Sanibel Fire and Rescue, our EMT's and our Police Department will be forever treasured in our hearts.

The doctors, nurses and staff at Lee Memorial Hospital emergency room are the most dedicated and skilled staff we could have ever asked for. We were with Ellie for several of the 10 hours when she was in critical condition in the emergency room. The quiet reassurance of their competency and love filled the room, sustaining Ellie and us. Ellie's friends, our friends, and their positive and powerful prayers have all been a part of Ellie's recovery.

May God bless you all and in special ways because we can never repay you for what you have given us.

Cheery suggestions

Dear Editor:

I have some suggestions for those unhappy letter writers to your column which might cheer them up:

Notice how bright Venus shines these nights. Watch the egrets and long neckers in the puddles after the rain.

At twilight, see the pines sway in the wind against an orange sunset.

And a wonderful treat (sponsored by Island merchants) is to listen to the beautiful program of classical music which Radio WRCC gives us from six to nine each and every night.

Is Mariner just another word for CEPD?

To the Editor

The Islander

Will Mariner count the votes, too ?

With the obvious hard-sell being applied by the Mariner-orchestrated Captiva Erosion Prevention District to get voters to pass the beach renourishment bonding issue, it seems only fair that the Mariner Corporation should relieve the County Supervisor of Elections of the task of counting the ballots in the Nov. 3 referendum.

After all, they got the Voter Registration van to sign-up every itinerant employed at the various resorts and even invited Captiva residents who would normally not be allowed past their hallowed gates to celebrate the South Seas renourishment completion.

Mariner Corp. (I mean the Erosion District) will feature a public "meeting" at the Civic Center to help Captiva voters, "Learn the true and accurate facts about the beach renourishment project---." Perhaps Mr. TenBroek (or is it Chairman Butze?) will mesmerize us with more of Mariner's verbal sleight of hand. I wonder if they'll mention the dredging violations noted in the Fort Myers News-Press of Oct. 22 and 23???

What is good for Mariner Corporation is not necessarily good for Captiva!! It seems only prudent and logical to watch how long the South Seas beach remains before the rest of Captiva gets its taxes sucked into the same dredge hole.

Commission recommends duplex as compromise

The Planning Commission last week denied Robert Sagers' request for a specific amendment to legalize the conversion of his single-family home to a triplex.

But recognizing "mitigating circumstances" surrounding the case, the commissioners offered as a compromise to recommend that Sagers be permitted to use his home as a duplex.

The line established in the Comprehensive Land Use Plan that divides resort housing from the residential area in The Colony Resort runs through the middle of the Sagers' .33-acre lot.

If Sagers' property were considered as resort housing, a maximum density of two units would be permitted on the parcel, according to the planning staff report.

When Sagers began negotiating to purchase the lot in 1967, he planned to build a triplex with one unit reserved for his own use, he told the commission last week. But shortly after the sale was finalized in 1972 he was transferred to Australia, where he lived for four years.

In November 1975, Robert Stevens Construction Inc., on Sagers' behalf, requested permission from the City Council to build a triplex on the property.

The request was denied without prejudice because of lack of information about the development and because of the fact that the case might affect the ultimate Comprehensive Land Use Plan, which was then nearing completion.

The construction company failed to pursue the issue for a triplex but did obtain a building permit for a single-family home on the property.

The plans indicated that the house could easily be converted to a triplex, but subsequent inspections by city building officials confirmed that only one kitchen and one water meter were installed at that time.

While he was in Australia, communications were very difficult, Sagers explained. "We really didn't know what was going on in Sanibel."

In 1979 city staff discovered that two additional kitchens had been added to the home.

Sagers' request for a specific amendment to CLUP's residential densities requirements to permit the three-unit structure to remain was denied by the city in February 1980.

The density on the property, which could have been developed multi-family in 1972, was lowered when the land use plan went into effect in 1976.

Sagers' latest bid for relief will be heard by the City Council today.

Horizon Marine gets more storage

Last June Forrest Munden Jr. voluntarily agreed to park no more than three boats at any one time outside the Horizon Marine at 1213 Periwinkle Way as a condition for permitting the boat repair business at that location.

Last week Munden appealed to the Planning Commission to rescind that restriction.

Business has been so good since the shop opened in September that Munden has run out of room to park boats that are under repair, he explained.

The parking area can adequately store eight boats so they are not visible from the street, he told the commissioners.

"I have made great strides in cleaning up the building, the landscaping and surrounding property of what was once an eyesore," he added.

Commissioner Louise Johnson disagreed. "It still looks like a mess to me," she said.

Johnson was the lone dissenter in the 5-1 vote to recommend council approval of the change. Commission Chairman Ann Winterbotham was absent.

Foundation to receive wetlands

The Planning Commission has given its blessing to the transfer of city-owned wetlands along the Sanibel River to the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation.

It was commission consensus that it is a "good idea" for the foundation to have custody of environmentally sensitive lands since it is the primary function of the SCCF to preserve land in its natural state.

The City Council tentatively agreed Oct. 20 to transfer to the foundation from four to six acres in two city subdivisions. Final action was deferred pending a recommendation from the Planning Commission. City Attorney Neal Bowen has prepared a quit claim deed for the properties and an ordinance calling for a conservation easement and a reverter clause stating the land would return to the city's control should the foundation cease to exist anytime in the future.

The council will consider the proposal at its Nov. 17 meeting.

Malcolm Beattie, chairman of SCCF's Land Acquisition Committee, said the land -- 18 lots in Sanibel Highlands and a tract in Sea Oats subdivision on West Gulf Drive -- will eventually be included in the foundation's Brazilian pepper eradication program.

Developer seeks density increase

Paul Stahlin, the original developer of Belle Meade subdivision on San-Cap Road just east of the American Legion clubhouse, still owns 35 platted lots on eight acres there.

Under current CLUP density (one unit per acre), only eight dwelling units can be built on the land.

Stahlin appeared before the Planning Commission last week seeking an increase in density he says he needs to develop his property to provide "affordable housing."

The Planning Department pointed out the negative impact of increasing the development intensity for the entire Belle Meade subdivision to two units per acre could be offset by the benefits created if the developer upgrades the existing roads to city standards and improves the drainage.

The roadway rights-of-way would need to be assembled under a unified ownership such as a Belle Meade Home Owners Association to provide for future upkeep and maintenance, the Planning Department added.

Such a density hike would allow Stahlin to develop seven more units. Though applicable to the entire 20-acre subdivision, the density hike would not create any other additional "buildable" lots.

But Planner Ken Pflazer said to justify any increase in density the roads and drainage must be upgraded.

Stahlin said he would be willing to initiate a move to obtain rights-of-way necessary for unified ownership of the roads. He asked the commission to continue the hearing of his specific amendment until he can investigate the cost of improving the roads and drainage.

He discounted the possibility of developing the property as a Below Market Rate Housing project.

Nancy Burns and Harry Baughn, two of the 12 homeowners in Belle Meade, came to object to increasing the density.

"The roads are deplorable," Baughn complained. Acting Commission Chairman Don Manchester pointed out that the Planning Department's proposal would solve this problem.

Beach parking permits on sale

1982 residential and restricted beach access parking permits, which will be required for beach goers at Sanibel's residential and restricted parking areas after Dec. 1, will be on sale through November.

The stickers went on sale Monday, Nov. 2, and are available at MacKenzie Hall daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Sanibel residents can purchase residential permits for $1, which will be valid through Nov. 30, 1982. Restricted parking permits will be sold to non-resident taxpayers for $1 a year and to all other non-residents for $30 a year.

1981 parking permits expire Nov. 30.

Consultant recommends sewage treatment strategy

By Barbara Brundage

None of the three sewage collection and treatment systems now in use on Sanibel is superior to the others, Dinesh Sharma, environmental resources consultant, reported in his update of the Sewage Element of the city's Comprehensive Land Use Plan.

Central sewer systems, on-site individual systems (septic tanks) and package treatment plants have all shown mixed performance results, Sharma told the Planning Commission last week.

The success of any one type of sewage system depends on proper site evaluation, waste load estimation, selection of the system that is environmentally and cost-effectively appropriate for the site, adequate design and proper installation, Sharma pointed out.

Improper operation, maintenance and monitoring have caused the failure of many package plants and on-site systems, he said.

All treatment systems should be designed for peak loads of at least four persons per bedroom at the rate of 75 gallons per capita per day sewage generation, Sharma said.

He recommends rigorous enforcement of the minimum state standards requiring that the seasonally high water table be three feet below the bottom of the drainfield to protect public health and water quality.

In addition Sharma is recommending that where the mound system is utilized the distance be increased to four feet. Minimum distance between drainfields for both package plants and septic tank systems and surface bodies of water should be increased to 100 feet for the flat drainfield and 150 feet for the mound type, he added.

Sharma proposes that the city of Sanibel institute a one-year pilot program to implement supervision and control of a comprehensive sewage treatment strategy.

It would include public education, site evaluation, systems recommendations and guidelines, monitoring and coordination of the system with other inter-related elements of CLUP.

Other Sharma recommendations to reduce wastewater loads and increase the life of the sewage treatment system include: franchising of the Sanibel Sewer Systems by the city; requiring central systems to provide auxiliary power generators for use in post-hurricane recovery; designing all package treatment plants on the Island with percolation-evaporation ponds, landscaped by native vegetation and surrounded by esthetic fencing; reporting all failures at package plants to the city of Sanibel immediately.

In addition, Sharma recommends that all on-site individual septic systems have a minimum of two percolation test holes and one soil profile to assure proper selection of the site and be located in side or front yards for easy access for monitoring. The installation of evapo-transpiration type on-site septic systems should be prohibited on the Island, and construction of driveways on top of septic systems, installation of water lines and sprinkler systems through them, covering them over with inappropriate trees, sod and plastic should also be prohibited.

Sharma pointed out that more than 5,256 dwelling units on Sanibel generated 1,576,800, gallons of sewage per day in 1980-81.

The central sewer system served 3,181 dwelling unit equivalents and treated an average flow of 596,700 gallons per day in 1981. There are 26 package treatment plants on the Island.

The entire area west of Tarpon Bay Road is served by on-site individual systems or package treatment plants.

The area east of Tarpon Bay road utilizes all three types of systems.

During March 1981 the Sanibel Sewer

System plant treated 1,012,000 gallons of sewage per day, which exceeded the plant's one-million-gallon daily rated capacity.

"There is an urgent need," Sharma said, "to begin the planning for assessing future needs.

"The city of Sanibel needs to franchise the SSS operation so that coordination between CLUP and the extension of sewer lines can be accomplished," he added.

Aunt Frances' Corner

An Enchanting Experience

Dear Aunt Frances,

Those lazy days of summer are gone but not forgotten. They will be remembered because of your visit with us on Sanibel. It was so much fun reminiscing about grandmother's old player piano and singing, "Hearts and Flowers". The children's favorite song is "Under the Bamboo Tree". Personally, I get misty-eyed with "Mother Pin a Rose on Me".

Well it is time to put aside our memories and get ready for harvest. We are bursting with new ideas, planning for the holidays ahead. With family and friends coming to visit, everyone on Sanibel will want a new floral centerpiece or wall decoration. Did you know that we have one of the best Island selections of silk and dried flowers?

We are so excited about the new floral designer, who is working with us full time at Tuesday's Child. She has fifteen years experience in the business and together we make a great team. We have been so busy lately designing floral arrangements for weddings.

There are so many changes taking place at Tuesday's Child. You will simply have to visit again soon to see them for yourself. Now the best news for last. We have named an entire section of the shop after you. It is the very least we can do. Hope to see you soon.

Fondly,
Your devoted niece.

On the water

By Captain Mike Fuery

Dillard, Ga. -- Up here in the northeastern mountains of Georgia, I hardly thought there would be any use for one of my saltwater fishing rods. We are here for leaves, cider and cooler weather, not fish. But I did come upon something interesting in the way of angling.

Thinking over some of the folks I've had out on my fishing charters over the past several years, I got to categorizing those from the middle southern states into a difficult group to please.

Fishermen from Kentucky, Georgia, North and South Carolina and some surrounding states were good anglers, but it wasn't at all unusual for them to say as they stepped aboard that they wanted to "fill the boat with fish."

Now, I'm all for fishing hard and doing well. But it's a rare day that anyone could fill the boat with fish -- unless it was an 18-foot shark and you fished from a 17-foot boat.

Some of these folks have been known to come down to the dock and tell a guide, "I brought this cooler so we can fill it with fillets. My fishing buddy is coming in a minute, he's got his own cooler, too." Talk about putting pressure on themselves and the guide!

I had often wondered about this attitude of anglers from that area of the country, and while up here for a few days of vacation, perhaps I came upon a theory about it all.

We weren't in our motel room here in Dillard for an hour before it was time to take a drive and watch the leaves and perhaps get to know some of the rolling mountain roads.

A few minutes from our room was a road that twisted for five miles through beautiful golden, red and yellow trees to what is called a "trout farm" or fishing farm.

Way down in a valley ran a small stream, cold as can be and clear as any you might come upon up here. There was a lodge and a dam where the stream was stopped somewhat, deepening the waters and of course providing a pond for the trout.

We got out and watched two men, happy as can be, cleaning their trout, having a great time and thrilled with their good "luck." It was about that time that I had a chance to look at the trout pond rules.

Up here, you pay by the fish or the pound. You fish with a cane pole. The trout are nearly tame. A sign said the trout pond owner was trying to hold down prices, but the cost of trout food was climbing.

I almost went in and rented a rod and a can of bait, but then I went further down the list of rules. The last couple of rules were that you could not release any fish caught and all fish landed must be taken. Not much sport there, I figured, so we passed up the fishing experience that day.

I watched the people cleaning their fish and then it occurred to me that these folks up here are used to fishing a controlled pond where the only thing that limits their fishing haul for the day is how much money they want to spend. If they need 50 trout, they get 50.

Well, I've been trying to find a spot down in Southwest Florida where the fish cooperate like they do up here in this fish pond, but so far, the spot hasn't turned up.

On the other hand, it's kind of comforting to know that if you want a fish dinner on short notice, it's only a short drive to the pond where you use a cane pole, no reel and have trained trout on hand.

We noticed as we traveled the mountain and lake resorts that there were many such trout ponds. A different way of fishing to be sure, but think I'll stick with shrimp and a popping cork and take my chances, thank you.

Conversion table: The above tides are for the lighthouse point of Sanibel only. To convert for Redfish Pass (North tip of Captiva), add 55 minutes to the time shown for every high tide. Subtract two minutes for every low tide. For Captiva Island Gulf side, subtract 30 minutes for each high tide, and subtract hour and 16 minutes for each low tide. For Captiva Island, Pine Island Sound (Bay) side, add 1 hour and four minutes for each high tide and add 52 minutes for each low tide. In between these points, gulf or bay, guesstimate and have good fishing or shelling.

Shelling Tips

By Captain Mike Fuery

That controversial dredging project around the Redfish Pass area on the northern end of Captiva Island resulted in a very rewarding time for some shellers. And even better news might be on the way.

When the dredging project was started last summer, tons of sand were pumped from a borrow site a few hundred yards off shore and deposited on the diminishing beach.

About two miles of renourishment sand was placed on the beach, and from the day the big pipe spewed the first sand on the new beach, shellers were drawn to it.

As the pipes were extended to put the sand farther and farther down the beach, more and more shellers heard about the bonanza. And indeed, there was a growing safety problem with the workers as shell-seeking tourists flocked to where the shells came tumbling out along with the sand.

I recall one time seeing a semi-circle of people, perhaps 75, shoulder-to-shoulder, or nearly so, poised to jump on the next good shell that came gushing out of the pipe.

That project is completed, of course, and the beach is back to normal. But there is more talk about dredging sand for the remainder of Captiva Island where erosion is also becoming a problem for home owners. If that happens, even more good shelling will happen. It's still in the talk stages at the moment, however.

We haven't had a really bad winter storm since the completion of the dredging project around Redfish Pass. But with the advancing winter and resulting high winds and seas, I think you will see some excellent shelling on both Captiva and North Captiva Islands.

Many, many shells were uncovered by the dredging work but didn't get picked up and sent to shore. The first few strong storms of the winter season should once again bring some excellent shells to those beaches on either side of Redfish Pass.

When will the good shell picking happen? From memory, it seems that during the first week of November we get our initial northern front. Perhaps your timing will be right and you will happen upon some easy shelling for a change!

On another subject, people on my shelling charters often ask if there are specific seasons for certain shells. I've never felt that, for instance, sand dollars are easier to find in the fall as opposed to the spring, but you might notice certain changes in the water that could have an effect on your hobby.

The water temperatures are down into the high 70's now following our annual changes around the Islands. As the temperatures drop, I think you will notice a decrease in jellyfish. For some reason, this year there seems to have been more of these clear jellyfish floating in the waters and washing upon the beaches than I can recall in some time.

Some people do have bad reactions to jellyfish, although by far the worst anyone gets is a slight stinging reaction. Nothing to worry too much about, but the presence of the jellyfish did tend to discourage people from doing a lot of wading into the waters for shells.

Another pest you will be glad to hear is leaving is the stingray. These are sand colored, flat fish capable of inflicting a painful wound if you accidentally step on one. As the cooler weather comes in, the rays tend to leave for deeper waters. Again, the peace of mind of not having to look out for rays allows some shellers to get into waters they passed up for the safer beaches in warmer weather.

Have a good shelling week, and please observe the shelling law of not taking more than two live shells per species, per person.

Delaware visitors return home with junonia

A junonia shell, a rare find these days, was discovered on the beach along West Gulf Drive last week by Michael Groverman.

"We've been coming here for 23 years and that's the first one of those we've found," said Groverman, who has spent the last four weeks combing Sanibel's beaches with his wife, Marie.

Walking along the beach at low tide last Thursday morning, Groverman discovered the small brown spotted shell near the water. The Groverman's hail from Milford, Del., where they returned with their prized possession on Saturday.

Spanish coin found on Sanibel beach

The tides are washing up more than shells these days. On Sunday, Oct. 25, Amanda Clark had the good fortune to find a bronze and copper coin on the beach just above the high tide line.

Believed to be a 17th century Spanish maraved, the coin is identical to the two coins discovered on the beach Oct. 8 by Jean and Russell Parkins.

"It caught my eye and I grabbed it," said Mrs. Clark, who was spending the day with her sister, Patricia Bussard, leisurely scanning the beaches for shells.

A resident of Ridgewood, N.J., Mrs. Clark, an attorney, has vacationed on Sanibel with her family for the last 24 years.

Mrs. Clark said she will take the coin to a jewelry store in Wilmington, where her sister works, for an appraisal. Her mother, Sally Weber, promised that if the coin is worth millions, she will give the money to the city "to pay to blow up the Causeway." Watch this space for further developments.

Bloodmobile stops on Sanibel

Islanders will have the opportunity to donate blood to help themselves or their families in the event of a future blood need this Thursday, Nov. 5.

Sponsored by the Sanibel-Captiva Lions and Kiwanis clubs, the Edison Regional Blood Center "Wheels for Life" bloodmobile will park at Bailey's Store in the Island Shopping Center from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. Nov. 5.

The American Blood Commission recently estimated that 95 percent of all Americans reaching the age of 72 will use blood at least once in their lifetime. But, the commission estimated, less than 5 percent of eligible donors ever give blood.

In an effort to improve those statistics, the local Kiwanians and Lions are sponsoring the Islands' Community Blood Drive.

Volunteer blood donors must be 17 years or older, weigh 100 pounds or more and have no history of heart disease or hepatitis.

Participants must bring some form of identification to the bloodmobile. Persons with questions about their own eligibility or who would like more information should contact the Edison Regional Blood Center, 939-1811.

Island Kiwanians and Lions urge every eligible blood donor to give a pint and help save a life. To schedule an appointment for the bloodmobile, call Hazel Amon, 472-6565 or 472-2660, or Al Neumeister, 472-4987, or any member of either club.

The ERBC is a non-profit organization supplying seven health care institutions in Southwest Florida with blood and blood products.

Police Beat

An IBM electric typewriter valued at $250 was reported missing from the Sundial resort Monday afternoon, Oct. 26. The typewriter was stolen Sept. 6 from the upstairs office in the club house.

Paul Cibula, Gulf Side Place, reported he lost his gold wedding band late Monday afternoon, Oct. 26, between Hurricane Protection and the 7-11 Store on Periwinkle Way.

Cibula told police he took the ring off and placed it on the back of his truck when he washed his hands and then drove away. Value of the gold band with a diamond chip in the center was estimated at $250.

A Sandpiper Circle resident reported unknown persons had dumped garbage at the corner of Sandpiper Circle and Sandcastle Road Tuesday morning, Oct. 27. The garbage had been removed when police arrived.

Two Eureka palm trees valued at $150 were reported dug up and removed from a vacant lot at the corner of Periwinkle Way and Golden Olive on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 27. The reporting person told police he thought the trees were taken two weeks ago.

A North Yachtsman Drive resident called police at 3 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 28, to report a raccoon was stuck in the birdbath behind her house. Police instructed the woman to turn on an outside light, and the raccoon ran into the woods.

A San Carlos Bay Drive resident complained to police Wednesday morning, Oct. 28, about school children creating traffic problems while waiting for the bus at the entrance to Gumbo Limbo subdivision on Dixie Beach Road.

The complainant told police one boy in particular caused problems by walking back and forth across the road as the resident approached in his car. The resident also said the school bus was traveling too fast down Dixie Beach Road.

Police watched the children and the bus early Thursday morning, Oct. 29, and reported no signs of unruly behavior by the children or speeding by the bus driver. Police did tell the bus driver, however, that a complaint had been registered against the children at the stop.

Between $300 and $400 in cash, assorted credit cards and identification was reported missing from a Waukesha, Wis. resident's wallet Wednesday evening, Oct. 28. The resident was a guest at Pointe Santo de Sanibel and told police he was at the beach between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m., during which time the theft probably occurred. Police found no signs of forced entry.

A resident of Jensen's on the Gulf, Captiva, reported his apartment was broken into early Thursday morning, Oct. 29. Sanibel police referred the case to the Lee County Sheriff's Department, in whose jurisdiction Captiva falls.

Six persons reported their cars were vandalized between 2 and 6 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 29. All of the cars were parked at Blind Pass condominiums. A brief case, wallet and calculator were among the items taken. All of the cars were unlocked at the time of the vandalism.

Sanibel Police discovered numerous red bricks in the road at Periwinkle Way and Palm Street on Thursday morning, Oct. 29. The bricks had apparently fallen from a truck and were removed by police.

A Sanibel Arms resident reported a youth on a motorcycle racing back and forth on the beach between the Lighthouse and Loggerhead Cay early Thursday morning, Oct. 29. Police found no sign of the motorcycle.

Two beer kegs that had been returned to Bailey's General Store but still had small amounts of beer in them were reported stolen from a cooler behind the store early Friday morning, Oct. 30.

The complainant said the beer that was left in the kegs was probably sour. He estimated value of the kegs at $10 each.

A Browns Mills, N.J. woman was charged with violation of the right of way following a two-car accident Tuesday, Oct. 20, at the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Causeway Road.

Cynthia Mierzejewski was traveling west on Periwinkle Way when she failed to stop at the intersection and struck a car driven by William George Morton, 1125 Captains Walk, Sanibel.

Mierzejewski was charged with violation of the right of way. Police estimated damage to the Mierzejewski car at $300 and damage to the Morton car at $200. There were no injuries in the accident.

All information in the following reports was taken directly from Sanibel Police Department records.

Two Islanders reported mail was taken from their mailboxes Monday morning, Oct. 26. Police notified the postal inspector that mail was taken from the box for Interval Travel and from the box for Friday's Jewelry.

A plastic sign at the front desk and wooden outside sign for the sales office at the Sundial were reported missing Monday afternoon, Oct. 26. Sundial officials also told police a model sign was taken six weeks ago. Value of the three signs was estimated at $1,443.

Force and holds an associate degree from Edison Community College. He was a certified Emergency Medical Technician before he joined the department and has taught first aid, CPR and the Heimlich maneuver throughout Sanibel.

Phillips has personally saved two lives with his expertise in emergency medical skills while serving as a Sanibel police officer.

In 1978 he was awarded the News-Press Outstanding Public Service Award for apprehension of subjects smuggling marijuana into Sanibel. Two truckloads of marijuana were confiscated at the time of the arrest. He was also instrumental in the recovery of $250,000 worth of jewels and the arrest of the perpetrator of the crime.

Phillips is an accredited Professional Ethical Hypnotist and uses his training in investigations. He is a third degree black belt in karate and in 1976 was rated fourth in the Southwest Florida region. Phillips' artistic ability is also well known on Sanibel.

Former Officer Betty Weir was also promoted to Sergeant of Police. Ms. Weir's appointment is effective Nov. 9. Her new primary responsibilities will be supervising patrols during the afternoon and night watch. She became a Sanibel Police Officer in November 1975. Ms. Weir is a veteran of the U.S. Air Force and was formerly a detective with the Mt. Vernon, N.Y., Police Department.

She is currently the only female in Florida who is certified to work with a K-9 police dog.

While on patrol in 1977, Ms. Weir personally apprehended two persons who were burglarizing the Wegryn Clinic. For her actions in this arrest, she received a Departmental Commendation.

Rauschenberger named VP of new firm

A Fort Myers woman has been appointed vice president of one of the area's newest real estate development firms.

Becky Rauschenberger

Ms. Rebecca (Becky) Rauschenberger assumed the position in August with the VISTA Real Estate and Development Group, Inc. The new company specializes in the marketing, advertising, promotional and sales activities for various recreational and resort condominium projects.

Ms. Rauschenberger recently resigned as director of project sales for Vacation and Investment Properties, Inc. (VIP), Fort Myers.

Her most recent responsibilities with that firm included the sales management of Sunset Captiva Bayside, Captiva; the Dunes Country Club and Golf Course and Harbour Cottages of Sanibel; the McGregor Woods Subdivision, Fort Myers; and North Shore

Place, North Fort Myers.

As director of project sales, Ms. Rauschenberger's responsibilities included marketing and marketing budgets, sales reports, office budgeting and budgeting reports, sales recruitment, sales training, co-broker relations and project administration.

Ms. Rauschenberger moved to Fort Myers with her husband, Bob, in 1971.

Now, along with Bob, in VISTA Real Estate and Development Group, Inc., she will assist in directing their professional efforts. The majority of Ms. Rauschenberger's time will be with residential and resort properties with investment and recreational aspects.

Captran moves to new office

Almost 200 Captran employees moved from their Island offices to the corporation's new headquarters on College Parkway in Fort Myers last week.

Captran's offices on Sanibel at the Landlubber Plaza, Gulfside Plaza and behind the 7-11 Store were vacated last Friday as movers took the last traces of office furniture and equipment across the Causeway to the mainland.

Many Captran offices moved into the new headquarters in Fort Myers earlier this fall. The grand opening of the new corporate headquarters is scheduled for Dec. 4.

The message found in this fortune cookie is not an ancient Chinese proverb...but important information from the people at United Telephone of Florida.

On November 8, United Telephone's new digital switching office will be placed into service for a portion of our customers in Cape Coral and North Fort Myers.

With our advanced equipment in place, a new exchange will be established which means that some numbers in Cape Coral and North Fort Myers will change. The current telephone directory has both the old and new numbers listed.

Yes, even with modern communications, some important messages can still be found in fortune cookies.

Remember, to save time and money, look before you dial Cape Coral and North Fort Myers after November 8.

Get me to the altar on time

The sound of wedding bells and the old refrain of "Walter, Walter, Take Me to the Altar," may soon be common at Tuesday's Child in Sanibel Square on Periwinkle Way.

Ceil Williams, owner-manager of the florist and garden aid center, will soon be performing notary weddings right in a special corner of the shop for couples who want an alternative to a church wedding.

"The idea started when several people walked into the shop and announced that they planned to be married within the hour and wanted a bridal bouquet," Ceil explains. "Sometimes the weddings were planned to take place right on Sanibel's beaches.

"Perhaps it is the romantic notion of being married on a tropical island," she adds. "And one couldn't find a more romantic place than Sanibel."

The small wedding corner in Tuesday's Child is decorated with silk flowers and bridal bouquets. The couple will stand on a small pedestal, which gives the feeling they are in a garden gazebo, she says.

Tuesday's Child wants to offer something the couple will always remember, she says, ding that the shop will also provide edding invitations if necessary.

Another change in Tuesday's Child is the addition of a new section of the shop called Aunt Frances' Corner, which is actually named after Ceil's aunt.

"She (Aunt Frances) cried when I told her I named a section of the shop after her," Ceil says.

Miriam Baptiste, who has 15 years experience as a floral designer, has joined the staff at Tuesday's Child and will manage Aunt Frances' Corner.

Aunt Frances' Corner will handle all the centerpieces, floral centerpieces, holiday decorations and the complete wedding arrangements.

Tuesday's Child has also added a small section of antiques to its line of giftware and accessories to add to the feeling of nostalgia. The gift line includes pottery by local artists, baskets, brass, copper and much more. The shop will continue to carry exotic plants and plans to add a complete line of fresh herbs.

The mannequin brides and flower girls pictured here may soon move over for the real thing at Tuesday's Child on Periwinkle Way. Additions to the florist-garden-gift shop for the new season include a small wedding corner decorated with silk flowers and bouquets. Owner-manager and notary public Ceil Williams will perform the weddings. Photos by David Meardon.

Dr. Simmons appears on "Carousel"

Sanibel resident Dr. Ingalls Simmons recently appeared on the Tampa-based television program, "Carousel."

Simmons, president of the Funeral and Memorial Society of Southwest Florida, taped the program in Tampa. The show was broadcast on Sunday, Nov. 1 and will be aired again on Thursday, Nov. 5, Channel 16, Tampa, at noon.

Simmons has also been nominated to the National Board of Directors of the Continental Association of Funeral and Memorial Societies, Inc., based in Washington D.C. The association has 176 chapters in the United States and 26 chapters in Canada.

All of this activity, according to Simmons, is the result of an article that appeared in The Islander July 21, 1981, headlined "Funeral Planning: Beat the high cost of dying."

ARTS and ARTISTS

Gallery talent search

Labelle Gallery manager Donna Wampler is receiving portfolios of original oil paintings, watercolors, metal and wood sculptures in search of new talent through November.

The gallery, which is on the second floor of the French Quarter building on Periwinkle Way, is open from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and from 5:30 to 10 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday. For more information call 472-4461.

Sanibel-Captiva Art League juried show

The Sanibel-Captiva Art League juried show sponsored by the Captiva Civic Association will be presented Sunday, Nov. 22 through Sunday, Nov. 29.

Local artists who are 1980-81 members of a league in the Art Council of Southwest Florida are eligible to submit their entries of original, dry, suitably framed, ready to hang paintings. Paintings that have won cash awards in area juried shows or were not executed within the last two years are not eligible.

Paintings will be received at the Captiva Community Center on Wednesday, Nov. 18 from 1 to 4 p.m.

Dr. Clement Pennington, associate professor of art education at Florida International University, Miami, is the juror for this show.

For further information, call Ruth North at 472-5274.

Portrait

Ron Sebald

Age: "I'll be 18 for the rest of my life."

Height: 6'1"

Roots: Frankenmuth, Michigan

Pleasures: "Dancing, archery, and anything and everything to do with Scouting."

Mentor: "My first Scoutmaster, Joe Lier."

Last Book Read: Seven Arrows, a collection of stories about Indians and their culture.

Wish: "For a Scout building on Sanibel and more help for the troop."

Words of Wisdom: Adopted from a book several years ago — "A hundred years from now it will not matter what my bank account was, the sort of house I lived in or the kind of car I drove. But the world may be different because I was important in the life of a boy."

Ron Sebald runs mail and office business between the Sanibel and Pine Island branches of the Bank of the Islands. And when the fire alarm sounds on the Island, he runs as a volunteer fireman.

He also "pow wow's" with the Florida Indian Hobbyists Association, is in the Civil Air Patrol and is an active member of the Sanibel-Captiva Kiwanis Club ("Mention the Kiwanis," he says, "or else they'll fine me.") And he does yard work on the side. He couldn't find time for the 4-H Club.

His first and main concern, however, is his Boy Scout troop — the Sanibel-Captiva Islands Boy Scout Troop 88, which is sponsored this year by the Kiwanis Club.

"Scouting is it as far as I am concerned," he says with a grin that would convert even the most unprepared non-scouter. "It turned me around and kept me out of trouble — and I was a hell raiser — when I was younger."

The lack of a scout troop on the Islands is precisely what brought Sebald here three years ago from Frankenmuth, Mich. He had vacationed on the Islands with his family since 1966.

The Islands did have a scout troop before Sebald, but the troop died from lack of interest. Even though Troop 88 is not yet as strong as he would like, Sebald vows that as long as he is around, scouting on the Islands will never suffer again from lack of an enthusiastic and devoted leader.

"Even if I'm the only adult who does it," he says, "I'm going to keep scouting going here." And Sebald often is the only adult who takes an interest in the troop.

"Maybe it's that people here have already been in scouting for 30 years and they came to Sanibel to get away from that sort of thing," he says about the trouble he has recruiting support for the troop.

He desperately needs an assistant scoutmaster to help conduct meetings and organize outings. "I've asked a lot of people for assistance," he says. "I just can't get anybody rolling here."

Not to be discouraged, however, Sebald instructs and chaperones his eight scouts every Tuesday night at the Sanibel Elementary School and organizes a monthly outing for the group on his own.

"It's a hassle for me to do it all alone," he says. "We've cut back on our activities, but the troop is still going."

"If there were 50 kids on Sanibel who wanted to get in scouting," he says almost wishfully, "I'd take 'em."

In addition to the Sanibel troop, for the past three years Sebald has helped lead a Naples troop every Monday night. "The troop (in Naples) was dying," he explains. "They asked me if I could help, and of course I could."

But the trip to Naples and accompanying work has become too much for Sebald, and the troop will be on its own again come the end of this year.

Sebald credits scouting with his never-say-no attitude and his optimism, which sustained him last year when fire destroyed his rented Island house and most of his belongings.

"I always thought a fire was the kind of thing that wouldn't happen to me," he says. "I saw the smoke and knew it was too big for a beach fire — they don't allow those on Sanibel, anyway," he adds. "But when I learned it was my house, what could I do?"

"At least I know now to keep all my important things in a safe deposit box." After the fire his scouts helped Sebald dig through the rubble. His coin collection was all they salvaged.

Since then he has lived out of his van and stayed with family and friends while he searches for affordable Island housing.

"I want to live on the Island," he says. "With my job at the bank and the troop and everything, I couldn't very well drive off the Island after work everyday and drive back at night."

But, like many young people on the Islands, Sebald is finding, "Work is plenty; pay is not."

While he searches for a new Island home, Sebald maintains his busy schedule and directs his seemingly endless energies to scouting, his bank job and his countless other interests.

"Scouting is the big one, though," he says, adding that his pet project this year is to secure a permanent "scout house" on the Islands.

The fact that he hasn't seen much support for his idea from Island adults won't deter Sebald — he'll just have to work harder and a little bit longer himself. And that's nothing new for Sebald.

Power Squadron offers free Boating Safety Course

Once again a Free Boating Safety Course will be offered as a public service by the Sanibel-Captiva Power Squadron, a unit of the United States Power Squadrons.

The first class in Monday, Nov. 16, at 7:30 p.m. with registration starting at 7. The course will be held every Monday night through Feb. 22, except Dec. 21 and 28. All classes will be held at the Sanibel Community Association Building on Periwinkle Way.

The course is designed to provide the novice boater with the information and skills needed to enjoy boating in safety and with a feeling of confidence. Topics covered include: boat handling under normal and adverse conditions, seamanship and common emergencies, rules of the road, aids to navigation, compass and chart familiarization, lights and equipment, elementary piloting and boating trailering.

Classes are taught by Power Squadron members experienced in their field, including inboards, outboards, and sailboats. Everyone is invited; men and women, young and old.

Further information on the course may be obtained from Elliott Arnold, course leader (472-2998) or Bill Martin, squadron education officer (472-1614).

Book report from the Sanibel Library

By Harriet Howe

Mrs. L.: Conversation with Alice Roosevelt Longworth by Michael Teague -- A delightful sort of biography in which Mrs. L. in informal taped conversation tells of her childhood, the years in the White House when her father was President, and her later life.

She pokes rather caustic fun at her cousin Eleanor, to say nothing of other dignitaries and herself. She traveled extensively in Europe and in China and Japan, and her anecdotes about these and other occasions have a charm that could not be duplicated in the ordinary biography. It is a book that is fun to read.

Daisy, Daisy by Christian Miller -- The author, an English grandmother, sets out in 1960 to bicycle across America. She arrives with a collapsible bicycle and only what she can carry hung on various parts of the bike once it is put together.

She is invited to share supper with a black family and camps in their yard; she washes dishes in a tavern in Kentucky and helps to clean up after a flood. She gives an intriguing account of her trip across the country and her contacts with people she meets along the way.

The First Stargazers by James Cornell -- An account of the origins of astronomy, touching on Stonehenge, Angkor Wat, Chichen Itza, ancient monuments in Egypt and Peru and the Casa Grande National Monument south of Phoenix. Through a modern discipline known as archaeoastronomy, the meaning of these ancient monuments may be discovered.

With funds from the Sanibel-Captiva

Audubon Society's memorial to Richard Beebe, we have been able to add John Muir and His Legacy by Stephen Fox, and The Audubon Society Handbook for Birders by Stephen Kress to our natural history and conservation collection.

On Monday, Nov. 2, the Sanibel Public Library went on the winter schedule and is now open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily except Sunday.

Captiva Library buys cassettes, records, films

By Bunty Robb

For several years the Captiva Memorial Library has received through the Lee County Library System money from the Library Services and Construction Act passed by Congress in 1963.

Money received is always designated for a specific purpose such as library books and materials for youth or the aged.

The $886 that the Captiva Memorial Library received this year has gone toward buying new cassettes, records and filmstrips.

Because the money was to be used for the aged this year, and this Island is largely made up of older patrons, some of whom have requested more audio material, the library has acquired a good deal of classical music, symphonies, popular musicals, opera and so on.

We also have cassettes of mystery stories, prose, plays and poetry for those who don't want to overburden their eyes. Some patrons also enjoy these tapes while traveling in their cars on their way to Fort Myers, Naples or Sarasota.

Whether Brahms, Beethoven, Puccini or Arsenic and Old Lace, you name it and the Captiva Memorial Library has it.

Although the winter inhabitants are just beginning to return to the Islands, the library is already delighted by the response these new materials are receiving. We appreciate the gift from the Library Services Act to augment our collection. Sanibelians are also welcome to use these materials.

In addition the library now has for Island business tycoons and others Standard and Poor's Corporation Record, Daily News, Daily Dividend Records, Stock and Bond Guides, Statistical Service, Fixed Income Investor and Outlook.

The library also takes the Wall Street Journal so a tedious journey to town is no longer necessary to keep up with the latest market information.

Another service the library has is the use of a copy machine. We welcome all to use these facilities on the premises a block north of the Captiva Post Office.

The Sanibel Library is now open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mon. - Sat.

Just Out in Paperback

The Second Lady by Irving Wallace -- a suspense filled, sexy page turner. We find the First Lady kidnapped by a Soviet agent who is the First Lady's physical double. The unbelievable is made quite believable.

Come Pour the Wine by Cynthia Freeman -- a new modern saga after Freeman's great success with Portraits. From Kansas to the tarnished steeples of New York City, we find new love, old loves and a family searching for its roots. Freeman has a new novel out in hardcover which we'll be waiting for.

The Sky's the Limit by Dr. Wayne Dyer -- how to become a "no limit person" winning all of the time, making The Sky the Limit. By the author of Your Erroneous Zones and Pulling Your Own Strings.

Congo by Michael Crichton -- a real thriller by the author of The Andromeda Strain. We struggle with a high degree of technology mixed with mystery and adventure. Dark Africa is the setting. Pygmies, native killers, hippos on the rampage, diamonds, gorillas and a new animal species -- you guessed it, a strange cross between man and ape unknown in the 20th Century.

American Dream: Lost and Found by Studs Terkel -- a book filled with heart-warming stories of the hopes, dreams, achievements and disappointments of the American populace.

Fletch and the Widow Bradley by Gregory MacDonald -- Fletch is back and into his biggest hassle yet. For a delightful mix of mystery and humor, join the Fletch fans for this one.

Shadowland by Peter Straub -- a modern horror story taking place in an old house deep in the Vermont woods. If you like horror stories, help yourself to a good one by the author of Ghost Story, which sold over 2 million copies and is still a popular second-hand.

The Unforgiven by Patricia MacDonald -- a scary, psychological thriller laden with suspense. Its setting is an island off the coast of New England (described to look like Sanibel). Another page-turner for horror story fans.

Several books have been reprinted since they have been made into movies. Two of them are back on the bestseller list: The French Lieutenant's Woman (10 on the bestseller list) by John Fowles, a romance taking place in Victorian England; Mommie Dearest by Christina Crawford (15 on the list) about an adopted daughter's life with his famous mother, often hard to believe. Another book reprinted because of a television movie is Valley of the Dolls by Jacqueline Susanne.

Three books on the bestseller list are simple (?) instructions on how to do Rubik's Cube. Three more are about cats, both alive and dead. And to combat the still popular Official Preppy Handbook, is The I-Hate-Preppies Handbook.

Just Out in Paperback is compiled by Nancy Olds of the Island Book Nook.

the event the Causeway is destroyed?

2. Does the city wish to control access to the Island with or without public access after a hurricane strike?

3. Does the city wish to create an independent capability for emergency response functions and not rely on the county or state resources which may be stretched thin?

4. Does the city want to establish a highly organized Hurricane Recovery Center, distinct and separate from the Hurricane Warning and Evacuation command post, and provide community focus for the post-hurricane activities?

5. Does the city wish to remove the Australian pines from Periwinkle Way and other roads before the next hurricane?

6. Does the city wish to establish damage survey teams to provide rapid diagnostic damage assessment as quickly as possible after the storm?

7. Does the city wish to prepare and enact a Hurricane Recovery Element as part of the Comprehensive Land Use Plan?

8. Does the city wish to treat recovery from a hurricane disaster as an opportunity to reduce further vulnerability of the Island?

9. Does the city want to reduce the time required to obtain development permits to reconstruct after damage of more than 50 percent?

The council consensus was a "qualified yes" to Pearson's questions, but all agreed with Councilman Mike Klein's assessment that no final decisions could be made last week.

Pearson asked the council to submit in writing before Nov. 10 any further questions about the Recovery, Implementation and Coordination elements of the study.

The 500-page final version of the consultants' findings will be mailed to the city by the end of this month, Pearson said.

Some members of council were concerned that the consultants had only pointed out alternatives and did not make firm recommendations in all nine critical areas.

Goss said he was "slightly disappointed" that the report had not zeroed in more on the Dauphin Island experience.

"In this armful of material there is not much useful information about how they handled their recovery from disaster," Goss added.

Planning Director Bruce Rogers said his department would be hard put to deal with all the changes implicit in the study before the start of the hurricane season next June.

The Damage Reduction element report "just waltzed around the buildback issue without identifying the problem," he said.

"And there's also the question of implementing a new building code and how much it will cost," Rogers added.

A decision must be made on whether to accept Dr. Robert Simpson's Probabilistic Hurricane Warning System at a meeting with Simpson and Dr. Neil Frank, director of the National Hurricane Center, scheduled for Nov. 19 at 1:30 p.m., Rogers reminded the council.

Associate City Planner Robert Duane in a memorandum to the council pinpointed the issues that need to be resolved.

The most basic is buildback after a disaster, Duane said.

Some of the questions that must be answered include: should the city allow damaged structures to be reconstructed in the same manner as before the disaster except for flood elevation; what amount of damage (50 or 80 percent) will be the basis for instituting buildback requirements; should there be a moratorium on reconstruction of substantially damaged dwellings; should dwellings be rebuilt commensurate with the city's capacity to evacuate without benefit of the Causeway; and should priorities be established to allow some types of structures to be rebuilt before others - for example, owner-occupied homes before homes that are rented out by the owners?

Duane said the planning staff's position is that elevating structures to appropriate flood elevations, locating units landward of the Coastal Construction Setback Line and bringing permitted uses into conformance with CLUP are the only essential performance standards pertinent to hazard mitigation.

The consultants have recommended that structures in the 'V' zone be elevated above the wave crest of 15-16 feet. The city currently requires 12 feet.

Changes in minimum flood elevations would have certain implications for build-back, Duane pointed out, precluding the redevelopment of three-story structures that would then exceed the 45-foot building height limit.

It's not clear to what extent the capacity of Sanibel to evacuate its residents in an emergency can be used as a growth management tool.

Duane cautioned Sanibel officials that the 26 hours the study determined would be required to evacuate the Islands is not acceptable.

Sanibel should explore practical opportunities to speed up evacuation by implementing the revised warning system, converting the Causeway to two lanes one way to speed up evacuation and continuing to deny density increases above those currently existing, Duane said.

"There should be further study to determine if the capacity of the Island's human support systems can accommodate additional development," he concluded.

Island golf

Beachview men

Tournament play Saturday at the Beachview Golf Club drew 48 players. The winners at plus six were John Forster, Joe Steinert, Bob Robertson and Bob Neth. At plus four, the second place winners were Ira Hartman, Bob Sagers, Charlie Uhr and Clem Donnell. Ray Howland was the high individual at plus six.

Last Tuesday, the winners at plus 11 were Buhl Burgoyne, Bill Alquist and Carl Wagner. Clem Donnell, Charlie Uhr, Hertz Pryzant and Ray Martorelli took second place honors with a round of plus nine. Carl Wagner was the high individual at plus eight.

Beachview women

The Beachview Women's Golf Association has changed its play date to Wednesdays at 8:30 a.m. The winter season starts this Wednesday, Nov. 4. A luncheon and meeting will follow play. For more information, call 472-2357.

Dot Seabrooke and Margaret Hoorneman took first place last Friday at the Ladies Day Bingo Bango Bongo golf tournament at the Dunes Country Club. Tied for second place were Dorie Vander Beck, Syril Rubin, Betty Huff and Pat Maloney.

Softball tourney scheduled to benefit Easter Seals

More than 50 softball teams from Lee, Collier, Hendry and Charlotte counties are expected to participate in the Miller High Life Softball Marathon for Easter Seals.

The event, which will be held Nov. 20-22 at the Rutenberg Park on Cypress Lake Drive in South Fort Myers, is expected to draw more than 650 softball enthusiasts to play ball and raise funds for Easter Seals.

The marathon is open to the public and will include men's, women's and coed teams, both experienced and inexperienced. The Lee County Parks and Recreation Department will help match teams so that every game will be as fair as possible.

Easter Seals officials hope the tournament, which is sponsored by the Miller Brewing Company and locally by Sunset Distributors, Inc. of Fort Myers, will become an annual event.

To participate, each team recruits sponsors to donate the $100 entry fee. A trophy will be awarded to the winning team of every game. Miller High Life T-shirts will be given to the players and coach of each team turning in $200 or more on or before game time. There will be other prizes for teams and individuals raising the most money.

Many teams are already scheduled for play. Other interested softball teams should contact the Southwest Florida Easter Seal Society as soon as possible. Call 334-3297 for more details.

Shopping

Sanibel is a veritable shopper's paradise. Tasteful boutiques and casual island shops join forces to present visitors with everything and anything and vacation shopper could hope for.

At the Lighthouse (Eastern end of the Island, Punta Ybel Plaza and the Sea Horse Shops are right across the street from one another, providing a variety of products that can cure your sweet tooth or tickle your shell funder's fancy. Need a good haircut or coiffure? You can get it in either of these shopping centers.

Most businesses open at 10 a.m. and close at 5:30 p.m. This holds true for many island stores, although some are open evenings during the winter season.

Tall Australian Pines shade Periwinkle Way and the shopper travels west along this main thoroughfare. This stretch of road is truly a shopper's paradise! It's all here - the fast and not-so-fast eating spots, casual and elegant boutiques, hand-wrought jewelry, craft designs, shell shops and balms for health produce fanatics.

Watch to your right and left as you drive or cycle along. Photographic supplies, bait and tackle, deli foods, fresh seafood and baked goods, knick knacks and what-nots can all be found along the drive to the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road. Along the way, shopping centers such as the Heart of the Islands, Periwinkle Place and Tahitian Gardens offer a variety of island delights.

Palm Ridge Road, the Periwinkle Way turn-off to Captiva, offers several shopping centers featuring everything from imports to gift shops for the discriminating shopper, plants and shells, a sandwich shop, ice cream parlour, pizza parlour, boutique shop and the Island Apothecary pharmacy.

At the Tarpon Bay-Periwinkle Way intersection, the Island Shopping Center features the island's only supermarket, dry cleaners and movie house.

A left on Tarpon Bay Road takes the visitor past Sanibel's original schoolhouse, which now holds original island watercolors and woodcuts.

Then on West Gulf Drive and westward to an interesting little artisan's shop and gallery.

At the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road, you may choose instead to turn right and follow the signs to the Tarpon Bay marina, where you will find a cluster of quaint shops overlooking the back bay. Some antiques, shells and shellcrafts, what-nots and clever clothes can be found here, as well as a great seafood sandwich and soft drinks.

The spectacular ride to Captiva, with its lush foliage and enchanting view of the Gulf, is well worth a day's outing. Talented artists display their works in one roadside shop, while others feature some nifty gifts for Grandma to take home to little hands as a pleasant hodge-podge of remembrances from these barrier islands.

Whether for shopping or merely browsing, island shops offer a surprising variety from one-of-a-kind collectibles for the discerning shopper to postcards for the simple souvenir hunter. And of course, for all, shells - shell jewelry, shell lamps, just plain shells - the most beautiful shells in the world from the most beautiful shelling beaches in the world.

DISASTER ALERT

Radio Station WRCC, 103.9 FM, broadcasts details of any emergency such as hurricane alert or any other disastrous occurrence that might affect Sanibel or Captiva.

FISHING

While no license is required for saltwater fishing, fishing in freshwater ponds or the Sanibel River requires a Florida fishing license.

Licenses are available at Bailey's General Store on Periwinkle Way. The fee is $6.50 for residents and $10.50 for non-residents.

Minimum Legal Lengths

Blue Fish	10 inches
Flounder	11 inches
Grouper	12 inches
Mackerel	12 inches
Muller	12 inches
Pompano	10 inches
Red Fish	12 inches
Snook	18 inches
Trout	12 inches

SHELLING

The city's resolution limiting the taking of live shells to two live shells per species per person is one to be scrupulously obeyed. As a matter of fact, in order to preserve Sanibel's beautiful shelling beaches, most collectors refuse to take any live shell whatsoever.

CAMPING, BEACH FIRES

Camping on the beach is prohibited, as are open beach fires.

An exemption to the beach fire ordinance is a fire in an approved cooking container (not to exceed 48"X24"X12" deep with an extruded metal grill for non-commercial food preparation. This type of container will be allowed on the beach without a permit.

After you have had your beach party, it is recommended that you assume the responsibility for cleaning up any debris or litter in your area.

BICYCLING

If you aren't used to a lot of bicycle traffic, watch out on Sanibel. The extensive network of bike paths on the Island is clearly marked along the edge of the road.

Observe caution when driving near the bike path. A state law and city ordinance combine to prohibit parking or driving on the bike path. Mopeds are not permitted on the bike paths.

Planning on spending some time on a bike to enjoy the island sun and sights? Make sure your vehicle is equipped with a bike flag, horn, good brakes and a light for night riding.

Under Florida law, bicycle riders have the same rights and responsibilities as motor vehicle drivers.

Drive Safely!

WARNING! SAFEGUARD YOUR VALUABLES

In order to protect your valuable possessions from theft, it is recommended that you take them to a bank or hotel vault for safekeeping. Do NOT leave them in your room or car.

DOGGY DO'S AND DON'TS

If you are visiting Sanibel with the family Fido in tow, all the better. All family members can enjoy Southwest Florida sun and surf.

The Chamber of Commerce can tell you what accommodations are available for families with pets.

Remember: Wherever you are, clean up after your pet! "Leave nothing on the beach but footprints" applies to dogs, too.

There's no leash law on Sanibel, but of course an excitable or unruly animal is better off when controlled with a leash.

SPEED LIMITS

There is very good reason for the varying speed limits (20-30 mph) along the Causeway. The slower speeds preserve the bridge supports from strain and stress.

This speed limit is strictly enforced with radar on a 24-hour basis by both the Sanibel Police Department and the Lee County Sheriff's Department.

GATORS

Feeding alligators anywhere within the Sanibel city limits is not only illegal, but can be extremely dangerous.

Alligators can run up to 45 mph, so if you are close enough to feed an alligator, he is close enough to feed on you. An alligator fed for fun loses his natural fear of humans and becomes a potential threat to children and pets.

For removal of a nuisance alligator, call the following representatives of the Southwest Florida Alligator Association. They are licensed and have permits to legally handle gators: George Campbell, 472-2825; Steve Phillips, 472-2329; Mark Westall, 472-5128; or George Weymouth, 472-5128.
