Captran head promises suit against BOTI

By Barbara Brundage

Captran Resorts International, Inc., will file suit against the Bank of the Islands charging the Sanibel bank's action in seizing a Captran account to pay off car loans violated banking laws and damaged the resort time sharing firm's good name and the integrity of its president, Keith Trowbridge.

Trowbridge, a pioneer in developing the concept of vacation interval ownership, said Friday, "More importantly, these actions done without contacting us or even filing notice totally ignored the trust we put in their banking integrity and our long relationship with the Bank of the Islands."

Trowbridge pointed out when the bank made its move on July 16 just hours before Captran filed for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy law, there were on file at the bank full financial statements for himself and the corporation showing a net worth of more than $10 million.

Trowbridge added that he was one of the original customers of the Sanibel bank when it opened in December 1974, and since then his corporation has been one of the bank's biggest customers.

"At one time we had as many as 35 accounts and deposits in excess of $2 million," he said.

The bank's seizing without notice $38,000 from Captran's

Council makes minor changes in beach parking ordinance

By Barbara Brundage

The City Council last week approved five minor changes to Sanibel's Beach Access Parking ordinance but declined to consider a Fort Myers attorney's proposal to make "temporary resident taxpayers" eligible for residential parking permits.

The Company heads for The Fair

By Cindy Chalmers

The Company of Sanibel, the Island's widely acclaimed dramatic reading group, will represent Southwest Florida at the 1982 World's Fair in Knoxville, Tenn., this fall.

The invitation to the fair came earlier this summer from the fair's entertainment manager, Charlotte Heimann, a member of the reading group, said last week. The Company was recommended to represent the Southwest Florida area by Tom Walters, director of the Lee County Alliance of the Arts.

Heimann explained that Fort Myers Mayor Ellis Solomon first received the request for local talent from fair officials. Solomon forwarded the request to Fort Myers Chamber of Commerce Director Don Bottorf, who in turn asked Walters for his recommendation, Heimann said.

Several newspaper articles and reviews of The Company's various performances were sent to fair officials, who responded with an offer of several choices for dates for The Company to perform.

The group chose Oct. 19-21 to deliver six performances at the outdoor Elm Tree Theatre that accommodates an audience of 500.

The Company is comprised of Islanders Heimann, Fran Levy, B.G. Olson and Robert Murphy.

Levy originated the idea for The Company and put together the first script in September 1980. At that time the group consisted of Levy, Heimann and John Anspacher. Before starting The Company on Sanibel, Levy was in a reading group of four that appeared in three states, taught children's dramatics and played many demanding roles at the Clarksville Theatre in a suburb of her home city, Louisville, Ky.

Heimann, a Sanibel resident since 1974, has played leading roles and character parts with groups in Roslyn, Long Island and Utica, N.Y. and Greenwich, Conn. She was a member of Charles Coburn's stock company for three seasons, taught dramatics and pantomimic dancing and had her own publicity and advertising agency on New York's Madison Avenue.

Olson resides on Sanibel and in Fairbanks, Alaska, where he has consulting law practices. His professional background includes many years as a professor of law and communications; university dean, vice president and president; publisher, editor and author; television lecturer and moderator and musician and entertainer.

Murphy made his debut with The Company last season. He is an experienced actor and was a college teacher in Michigan at Kalamazoo College, Western Michigan and Michigan State. He was active in the Kalamazoo Civic Players, the Will-O-Way Players and the Meadow Theatre.

For the trip to Knoxville this fall, The Company is seeking public support and contributions. The Barrier Island Group for the Arts initiated the fund drive with a $500 contribution to a special Company account at the Bank of the Islands.

Sponsors will be recognized on the back cover of the program that will be distributed at The Company's World's Fair performances, Heimann said.

"We are very happy to be representing this different side of Sanibel to an international audience at the World's Fair," Heimann said. "We would hope to enlist the support of all Sanibel residents so we can say on the program, 'The Company of Sanibel sponsored by the Island people of Sanibel.'"

Contributions to The Company's World's Fair fund should be made to The Company and mailed to that account in care of the Bank of the Islands, Sanibel.

The Island Youth Theatre's production of You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown involved many of the Islands' most talented young stars.

Charlie Brown (Eric Rizzo), above, chose to remain anonymous at lunchtime as he pondered a meeting with the Little Red-haired Girl. Far right, Charlie Brown, Snoopy (Tiffany Slay) and Lucy (Julie Santamaria) contemplate the situation. Right, Snoopy and Peppermint Patty (Susan Gelberg) take center stage.

The play was directed by Allen Smith and produced by Eugenia Loughney. Other players who were in the double-cast production but are not pictured here or on page 1 included Chris Stone, Charlie Brown; Julie Worth, Snoopy; Tara Friedlund, Lucy; Welcome McNamara, Linus; Lisa Fenton, Schroeder; and Valerie Cope, Peppermint Patty. Sanibel-Captiva Contractors Association

New group proposes ROGO revisions

By Barbara Brundage

The newly organized Sanibel-Captiva Contractors Association has come up with its own version of the city's Rate of Growth ordinance that is currently under revision by the City Council.

Building contractors Mark Comer and Bill Frey, who spearheaded the establishment of the SCCA, will present their proposal to the council at a special meeting beginning at 9 a.m. today.

"We are offering two alternative procedures for implementing ROGO that differ drastically from the current methods," Comer said.

Members of the Planning Commission and the planning staff will be on hand to explain the city's newest document, which combines the original ordinance adopted in 1978 and amendments that have been added since that time.

The council last Tuesday at a 5:01 p.m. public hearing declared a first reading for the revised edition. A second reading is scheduled for Aug. 3.

None of the four councilmen present at last week's meeting were ready for a substantive discussion of the ordinance's merits, or had any of them had an opportunity to study the contractors' proposal.

Councilman Duane White said he wanted time to consider some of the contractors' ideas that he found interesting and suggested inviting them to the workshop to make their presentation.

Comer said the contractors association spent much time and energy working out a procedure that would eliminate the competition for allocations when the applications outnumber the units available.

The builders are interested in finding a way to ensure construction activity is spread out in a more orderly fashion.

Councilman Francis Bailey observed that the object of the competition is to encourage better construction.

Councilman Fred Valtin pointed out that all the changes proposed in the contractors' ordinance have been discussed by the Planning Commission and were considered not acceptable by the commission.

But Comer said one alternative proposed — the "first in, first out" concept — has never been considered.

"It will eliminate many complaints, tears of disappointed applicants, dog and pony shows staged by contractors and lots of things that shouldn't have to be endured to build a home on Sanibel," he told the council.

Ray Pavelka, director of development for Mariner Properties, Inc., urged the council to move ahead with the review of the changes to ROGO recommended by the Planning Commission.

With the councilmen's delay in formalizing amendments they proposed, the planning commissioners were forced in both the March and July allocations to make decisions that were contrary to what they felt the intent of ROGO to be, Pavelka said.

He was concerned at the council's suggestion that the second reading of the ordinance might be continued on Aug. 3 and its adoption further delayed.

"I'm not asking for a delay," White said. "It may be December before it is adopted, but in no way will I be a party to railroading an ordinance through."

Earlier in last Tuesday's meeting the council unanimously agreed that no call up of the July Rate of Growth allocations was required; after City Manager Bernie Murphy confirmed there were no requests for a review of the Planning Commission procedure of July 12.

Through a clerical error only 62 single-family units were allocated when in actuality 64 were available.

The two additional units were formally awarded at Monday's Planning Commission meeting, increasing to 88 the total number of dwelling units allocated in the July period.

Sanibel Highlands resident urges cablevision service

A copy of the following letter to Palmer CableVision Manager Fred Valtin was given to The Islander for publication.

Dear Sir,

As spokesman for the growing group of Sanibel Highlands Subdivision residents thus far denied your cablevision services, I am requesting in writing again the availability of cablevision.

Presently, there are nine homes, all less than a half mile from the nearest service point on Atlanta Plaza and Brookhaven Road. This is obvious criteria for the guidelines in the franchise agreement, and I call on you, sir, to fulfill your obligation, not only to us, but to the city of Sanibel.

AN EYE FOR THE ISLANDS

By Maggie Greenberg

Adam and Eve were the first to discover the paradox of paradise — over the long haul, it can be rather boring.

Island residents, who are, after all, direct descendants of the First Couple, may also experience a certain boredom in their earthly Eden coupled with an idle curiosity as to, "What else is new?" in realms beyond the Causeway.

A change of scene is clearly in order for any Islander who wakes up one morning and moans, "Oh God, not another day in paradise!" The change of scene, whatever the locale, will surely accomplish two things:

1. The Islander will invariably compare the nature of things elsewhere to the nature of things on Sanibel — and conclude that the former cannot hold a candle to the latter.

2. He will return to Sanibel with pounding heart, praying that paradise temporarily lost can be permanently regained.

In an attempt to shake off the quarterly doldrums, which seem to coincide with quarterly estimated tax payments, I decided upon a short trip to Key West with three other "Sanibelles." Now it may seem rather odd that someone who resides in one Florida resort should choose to holiday in yet another Florida resort. However, vengeance takes many forms, and the idea of being a tiresome tourist on someone else's turf was utterly irresistible.

Those who do not wish to waste precious vacation time by driving to Key West must be prepared to fly the dubiously friendly skies of Amelia Earhart Airlines. When you check in at the ticket counter, you may be asked to reveal how much you weigh ("Well, approximately"). My friends and I nearly balked at that point, but, fortunately, we were not asked our ages (either approximate or combined).

The necessity for nosy questions about weight became immediately apparent when we saw the flying machine. Passengers were politely requested to mount the flip-down stairs one at a time (lest the apparatus collapse). The plane seemed to be inclined at an extremely sharp angle. Finding a seat as far forward as possible (as requested) was like climbing a sheer slope on the Matterhorn — without crampons or St. Bernards bearing brandy.

As luggage was stowed away (in one wing, no less!) passengers were told to fasten their seat belts (and it was never suggested that we unfasten them until our arrival in Key West). Actually, this simple, mechanical operation took some time, for all previous passengers had obviously been midgets.

Soon, two propellers began to whirl about miraculously without the aid of strong rubber bands. For some 35 minutes, our quartet enjoyed periods of utter weightlessness (something that only dieting women and our nation's astronauts can truly appreciate), and we pored over the glossy pages of a slick magazine that is largely devoted to the ladies of Naples and those to the Robb and Stucky manor born.

No one really knows what happened to Amelia Earhart. However, our plane (with a comely aviatrix at the controls) arrived in Key West without incident, and the wing burdened with all the luggage did not disintegrate en route.

A short ride by taxi took us to the motel in the very heart of the old city (that sounded quaint) where we had reserved two efficiencies.

Lesson Number One: When travelling outside Sanibel and Captiva, never reserve any accommodations that have not received the imprimatur of Triple A.

People who live in paradise cannot imagine that such lodgings still exist and have not been condemned! We had two hangers per room (no closet in which to hang them), two functioning stove burners (following explosions of gas), cutlery so encrusted that it may have been retrieved from a sunken Spanish galleon, a ceiling that must have fought losing battles with several hurricanes, beds with a wide assortment of lumps and broken springs, wheezing air conditioners and a pervading, sour odor that permeated everything and indicated the motel welcomed pedigreed pets.

We all agreed that, "Sanibel would never allow this!" — and found more suitable, and more expensive, accommodations nearby. Once unpacked and happily ensconced, our quartet besieged that motel clerk with questions about historic sites, snorkeling trips, restaurants, etc. Rather than face such an onslaught, the hapless clerk referred us to scores of colorful brochures — a resort's Maginot Line against tiresome, trying tourists.

In addition to viewing all the sites (and sights) of old Key West, visitors are urged to enjoy the sunset from the old Mallory Dock. This may be the only place in the world, gush the brochure writers, where spectators applaud the sunset!

Actually, many of the spectators are quite in the mood to applaud just about anything when the sun finally performs its daily disappearing act. The assembled throng has been royally entertained for some time by musicians, jugglers, poets, dancers and a wide assortment of bums and boaters.

One enterprising old man sells conch chowder in styrofoam cups, while local bars sell all manner of carry-out, preprandial libations. Boaters vie for attention by threatening to collide with one another as they careen past the dock.

One particular boat caught our attention. It was named "BUTT," although the ship resembled neither the tail end of a cigarette nor the corresponding part of the human anatomy. We were puzzling over a possible acronym when the sun suddenly began to set in earnest.

Just as this blazing orb slipped over the horizon, three things occurred simultaneously in a truly remarkable display of human precision: everyone cheered, scores of colorful balloons became airborne and the master of "BUTT" ran up a sail emblazoned with mankind's distinctive, if not distinguished, derrière.

Lesson Number Two: Travel abroad (i.e., anywhere beyond the borders of Sanibel and Captiva) is occasionally edifying, sometimes educational and often highly entertaining.

Editor's note: The sequel to the adventures of four Sanibelles in old Key West will appear in next week's Islander.

When Councilman Mike Klein last week remained adamant in his opposition to a neighborhood shopping center at the Sanibel Bayous subdivision, attorney Mike Jackson, representing the applicant, recognized he was short the three votes needed for approval of the specific amendment.

He agreed to continue the public hearing until Oct. 5, when a full council is expected to be on hand.

Mayor Porter Goss was absent last Tuesday and Councilman Francis Bailey has filed a conflict of interest, leaving only Councilmen Duane White and Fred Valtin in support of changing the zoning on 1.5 acres of land at the intersection of Sanibel Bayou and San-Cap roads to general office and retail commercial district.

White said he would recognize an early commitment by the city that at some time a neighborhood shopping center would be an appropriate use of the property.

"The time is now," White said.

Ray Bazire, who with Admiral E.G. Konrad has sought commercial use of the property for 12 years, agreed to limit the commercial floor space in the center to 7,200 square feet, half of what would have been allowed under Lee County zoning.

Bazire said he would cooperate fully with the city and added Planning Consultant Carlton Ryffel's recommended site plan is "low key and islandy in character."

Ryffel said his study of the area showed the west end of the Island is developed enough to support a convenience store and other retail shops catering to the needs of the neighborhood.

But Klein, acting mayor in Goss' absence, expressed fear it would "become a beer stop for Bowman's Beach."

"I don't feel the neighborhood has enough residents to support it, and it would have to depend on tourists to succeed," Klein insisted.

City Attorney Neal Bowen reminded the council that because the request was an amendment to the Comprehensive Land Use Plan three votes were needed for approval.

After Klein reiterated that he could not support a motion to approve, Jackson asked for a continuance.

Council adopts 'no waiver, no exceptions' policy for fees

The City Council last Tuesday agreed that in the future no city fees will be waived for anyone.

Councilman Francis Bailey's proposal to make no exceptions and charge everyone the same fee was approved by a 4-0 vote of the council. Mayor Porter Goss was absent.

"It's the fairest way and will prevent arguments," Bailey said.

Councilman Fred Valtin pointed out that the new "no waiver" policy is still appealable to the council.

The council took the action in response to City Manager Bernie Murphy's request for a formal legislative policy that the city's administrative staff could use as a guideline.

In the past the general policy has been to waive fees for churches, non-profit and charitable organizations, but it was not always consistently applied, Murphy said.

He called the non-waiver policy "clear and fair to all and quite easy to administer."

Bid accepted for Periwinkle box culvert repairs

A low bid of $22,400 from Pittsfield Construction, Inc., to repair the box culverts on east Periwinkle Way was approved by the City Council last Tuesday.

Assistant City Manager Gary Price said the wing walls are collapsing and the bridge is in danger of going down the drain if the repairs are not made immediately.

The project will be funded from the Causeway overweight account. The city's consulting engineer earlier had estimated the project would cost $40,000.

One lane of auto traffic and all boat traffic will be closed off during some periods of the construction, but the boat traffic stoppage will be limited to a maximum of 30 days.

Boaters will have a 30-day notice of the closing. Some boats able to exit under the Anchor Drive wooden bridge.

Approximately 99 homes in the Shell Harbor area will be affected, Price said.

Pittsfield Construction has previously worked on the Bowman's Beach bridge project and "has proven itself," City Manager Bernie Murphy said in recommending awarding the contract to the low bidder.

Tie vote means defeat for Winterbotham's wooden fence

Fences continue to pose a problem for the Sanibel City Council.

Last Tuesday a tie vote defeated Ann Winterbotham's request to extend a wooden fence along the west line of her gulf front property 35 feet seaward of the Coastal Construction Setback Line.

Councilman Duane White said he was reluctant to support requests for structures forward of a CCSL that is sacrosanct.

To allow a fence, which is considered a structure under CLUP rules, forward of that line would be precedent setting, he said.

Winterbotham in earlier hearings said she needed the fence to define the entrance to a private beach access path and prevent trespassing on her property.

Councilman Francis Bailey said everyone is entitled to protect their property, and Acting Mayor Mike Klein suggested Winterbotham could accomplish the same end by planting a row of yucca or using other vegetation as a barrier.

Bailey's motion to approve the specific amendment failed by a 2-2 vote with White and Klein opposed.

Councilman Fred Valtin's motion to continue the hearing to a date uncertain passed 4-0.

ESI signs okay until June '83

Executive Services, Inc., received permission last week to keep two non-conforming signs, one each at two locations on Periwinkle Way, until June 1983, providing construction on ESI's proposed new office building begins on schedule.

ESI co-owner and controller Keith Johnson explained that a decision on whether to proceed with the construction of the new building will be made by early November.

If the project is abandoned ESI must bring the two signs into compliance with the Graphics ordinance by the end of 1982, the council ruled.

Currently the sign at the ESI offices at 455 Periwinkle Way is twice as large as permitted and contains eight items of information. Five are permitted in the city's sign ordinance.

There are two signs at the 2427 Periwinkle Way office. One that is illegally located in the right-of-way must be removed now.

"We have no authority to permit signs in rights-of-way," Councilman Duane White said.

The three-year grace period given Sanibel businesses to bring non-conforming signs into compliance expired June 21.

In a letter to Code Enforcement Officer Dick Baker, ESI owner Bob Buntrock reminded the city that had he not been delayed by an "illegal commercial moratorium," the new ESI headquarters would have been completed and the signs removed a year ago.

Council reaffirms get tough policy on melaleucas, Brazilian peppers

The City of Sanibel last week fired the first shot in its declared war on melaleuca quinquenervia and Brazilian Pepper (Schinus terebinthifolius) trees, avowed enemies of the Island's native vegetation.

The City Council reaffirmed the tough policy outlined in the Comprehensive Land Use Plan that requires the removal of all melaleuca trees and Brazilian pepper from property being developed before a certificate of occupancy is issued.

The council also accepted the Vegetation Committee's recommendation that extensions of the time period for removal of the trees be granted in unique circumstances only by the specific amendment route.

Councilman Fred Valtin argued that because the special amendment route is expensive and lengthy some exceptions should be "appealable to the council."

Dr. Bill Webb, Vegetation Committee chairman, said the point was to make it as difficult as possible to be exempted from the regulation. He told the council that the time was past for Brazilian peppers to be completely eradicated on Sanibel.

"The peppers appear to have the upper hand, but they can be reduced in volume and impact by requiring their removal when property is developed," Webb said.

However, the committee is convinced that melaleuca trees are not yet out of control. The trees that have been declared hazardous to the health and a public nuisance can be eradicated from the Island if a phased campaign is begun soon, starting with the removal by the city of the noxious tree from all unimproved land at no cost to the property owners, Webb said.

Councilman Fred Valtin objected to the city's underwriting the project and called it an "inequity" to the owners of improved property who are held responsible for the cost of removing the undesirable trees.

The council agreed and took no action last Tuesday on a proposed ordinance that outlines the procedure for organized removal by the city of melaleuca from "all lots, parcels and land not included in modern platted subdivisions, or are not maintained as lawns or gardens adjacent to homes."

Permission from the landowner is required before the city can inspect the

Ecological zone change approved for Sanibel Cottages gulf front parcel

When comment on Mariner Properties's future plans for Sanibel Cottages, the City Council approved a change in the ecological zone designation for a portion of the gulf front property from Uplands Wetlands to Gulf Beach Ridge.

Councilman Francis Bailey, who made the motion to approve, said an objection to the proposed conversion of the old style cottages to interval ownership should have "no bearing on the issue before us."

Municipal Records

property to determine if melaleuca exists. The ordinance provides that if melaleuca is found the owner will be notified that the city will remove it at the city's expense.

Webb and City Attorney Neal Bowen, who drew up the ordinance, were instructed to rewrite it and strike the provision that the work would be done at no expense to the property owner.

It was Councilman Duane White's suggestion that when the city requests permission to inspect the unimproved property the owner would be informed of the objectives and goals of the city's removal program and asked to bear the cost of the removal of all the "obnoxious trees" that might be found on his land.

"We should seek their cooperation and not a confrontation," White said.

Webb explained that removal of melaleuca from the unimproved property is only the "first step" in the program.

"We felt there would be no public outcry from the owners of undeveloped property, most of whom are absentee owners," Webb said. "On the other hand we would have a revolution if full scale removal were required on improved land," he added.

"Owners get emotional over 10-to-20-year-old trees that were planted to landscape their homes," Webb said.

There are two kinds of melaleucas, he explained. "We diagnose as 'benign' melaleucas growing in built-up subdivisions that are 500 to 1,000 feet away from wilderness lands. Those growing wild in undeveloped tracts of an acre or more are 'malignant' and (pose more of) a threat," he said.

"If we're really serious about this we have to get on with it and go all the way," Councilman Francis Bailey told his colleagues.

Webb said killing the melaleucas is a relatively simple procedure that can be carried out by one man using the inexpensive chemical Garlan III.

City Manager Bernie Murphy said the city will begin eradication of Brazilian peppers along city-owned right-of-way using chemicals.

The dead vegetation will be left at the site to rot away creating what some councilmen called an "eyesore."

Bailey inquired how long the decomposition process will take "with no help from man?"

Acting Mayor Mike Klein said that "two years of an unsightly mess would be worth it."

Pistol range shot down in council review of City Hall plans

The Sanibel City Council last week gave the nod of approval to most of the accessory uses proposed for the new City Hall site west of Dunlop Road.

All four councilmen present at last Tuesday's meeting opposed construction of a 60-yard-long police pistol range under the 140-foot-high Police Department radio dispatcher tower near the lake at the northeast corner of the 22-acre tract.

They agreed with City Manager Bernie Murphy's view that a firing range is incompatible with the primary use of the site — a low key, community-oriented municipal complex — and with Murphy's recommendation that an off-site location for the facility is preferable.

They also objected to that location for the radio tower because its antenna would ruin the "peaceful vistas across the lake" visible from almost any spot in the City Hall building.

Murphy said consideration would be given to moving the tower further south.

Assistant Manager Gary Price said the location had been approved by the communications company that services the radio as the spot that would receive the best signal.

Councilman Fred Valtin was not happy with the location of the city's fuel station shown on the site plan near the front of the City Hall building and easily accessible from the police station.

Murphy said the two gas pumps could be moved farther from the entrance area and in any event would be adequately screened by vegetation.

For the city to pump its own gas would be a tremendous savings, Murphy said, adding the facility will pay for itself within a year.

A cleared area near the southern end of the lake is designated for the use of community organizations for cultural events under a tent.

City Hall parking nearby can be utilized for such functions and additional parking on the western side of the lake is easily available, Murphy pointed out.

Council observer Paul Howe said the city was out of line to provide a facility that duplicates a service already provided by the Community Association.

The Rutland House, which will be converted for use as an Old Settlers Museum, will be placed near the southwest corner of the lake with primary access from Wooster Lane.

Parking for 20 cars will be provided nearby.

A city nursery is already established at the southeast corner near the Dunlop Road entrance.

Murphy said conceptual approval of the accessory uses for the site was needed before the city can request a development permit from the Planning Commission Aug. 9.

CEPD holds hearing with state on establishing erosion control line

By Peggy Dalley

The Captiva Erosion Prevention District and officials from the Florida Department of Natural Resources held a public hearing last Thursday evening on the establishment of the erosion control line on Captiva. The CEPD thinks the control line should be the mean high water line.

The hearing was attended by around 20 people and chaired by Barbara Matthews, an attorney with the DNR land acquisitions department.

The CEPD made a long presentation that included slides and several witnesses. Richard Roosa, attorney for the Natural Beaches Group on Captiva, also made a presentation.

About nine or ten witnesses spoke and were almost evenly divided in favor or against establishing the line.

The issue at stake was notably not "the control line" itself but that the establishment of an erosion control line is the last big step before a preliminary MSTU can be written. An MSTU would fund the proposed controversial beach renourishment project on Captiva's gulf shore.

Matthews will write a report on the public hearing and make a recommendation to the governor. "When I write a report—it's just a report," she said after the hearing. "It's an account of what went on, not my opinion."

Postal Service solicits bids for Captiva office

The U. S. Postal Service is asking for construction bids to build and lease a new main Post Office in Captiva, Postmaster Nethel Moss announced last week.

Bids should be submitted to W.J. Broadwater, manager, Real Estate Branch, Field Real Estate and Buildings Office, U.S. Postal Service, P. O. Box 22725, Tampa, FL 33622-2725.

Bids will be opened at 3 p.m. on Friday, July 30, 1982, in Suite 133, 5511 Executive Drive, in Tampa.

The proposed new building will have 2,784 square feet of interior floor space. It will be built with private funds and leased to the Postal Service for a basic period of 20 years with renewal options for 20 additional years.

The Postal Service has acquired an assignable ground lease on a site on the south side of Captiva Drive west of South Seas Plantation Road. The 40-year ground lease will be assigned to the successful bidder who will be required to pay $40 $1 per year) in advance. The site contains 28,574 square feet of land.

ON THE WATER

By Captain Mike Fuery

A couple of the other fishing guides at Tween Waters and I compared notes the other day on baitfish. For some reason, this summer season seems to have more than we could recall seeing in many years. What will this do for your fishing? Let's make a few guesses.

For the first time in Island history, no one can fish for snook in July this year. The law passed by the state effectively switched many anglers from this gamefish to others like the redfish and sea trout.

When you fish for sea trout in the flats, such as along the edges of Pine Island Sound, you will notice large schools of small silvery fish that seem to boil at the surface in irregularly shaped circles of five to 50 feet in diameter. They have been there all along, and certainly we have seen them in lesser numbers in past summer seasons. But this year there are literally thousands of these baitfish inside the Island waters.

Then take the small pinfish. These little bait stealers that average from two to six inches long are long-time favorites of snook fishermen. These fish are sometimes called "sailor's choice" around the northern end of Florida.

These small fish live in the long blade grasses that grow in abundance all around the sound waters. They are everywhere. With the close of snook season on June 1, no one went out with a cast net or trap or whatever, including hook and line, to catch these fish. And now we have one hell of a lot of pinfish around the place.

You can tell this very quickly based upon our next bait. The ever popular grass shrimp, or bait shrimp, are in good supply this season for a change.

But again, in previous years I quit buying shrimp in April, when snook season started, and I didn't have to buy any more shrimp for bait until October. This year is different because we are using shrimp for summer trout fishing.

And that's how I know there is a bumper crop of pinfish. Because about every other popping cork rig you toss out for a trout ends up in a mass attack of pinfish. It's difficult not to give your entire supply of shrimp away to a pack of hungry pinfish.

Once again, perhaps it's because I never noticed it before. But overall it seems to many observers that there is a great deal more of all sorts of baitfish in the waters this summer.

We were a bit worried about the effects of the prolonged bout with the red tide we suffered in part of January, February and March. But the red tide might have acted more in a thinning out capacity, and as a result we have a good healthy supply of the bait.

One other theory is that with all the bait we might have an early run of our migratory fish on their way south for the cool months. These include the bluefish, various jacks and the Spanish mackerel and little tuna. Perhaps these fish will show up earlier than their usual October appearance and will stay with us, based on how much there is to eat in the south and along the gulf shore. Hope so.

Anyway, snook season will open again on Aug. 1, so get your gear tuned up. For once there will be plenty of bait. The marinas should have their tanks full of pinfish and those silvery fish some call pilchards and others call shiners. They will all work just fine, providing the snook like what they see.

Good fishing this week, and if you have a cast net you should be able to get all the free bait you need to help you chase those fish.

SHELLING TIPS

By Captain Mike Fuery

Of all the oddly shaped shells in the waters around Sanibel and Captiva Islands, perhaps none is as comical yet interesting as the one with the unlikely name, "worm shell."

Although some worm shells of eight inches have been found, most are around four inches tall. They are round, and the adults are usually the diameter of a ballpoint pen; the younger ones half that.

What makes anyone want to actually pick up a worm shell? Obviously, they are named worm shells probably because they have a spiraled, twisted look that no doubt reminds some shells of a worm.

These shells are just like other shells in make-up and have a hard exterior inside of which lives a soft-bodied mollusk.

As with many of the better collector shells, I've never found a live worm shell. I know that they live buried in a muddy bottom with just the top opening showing a bit. The long, curling body is driven down into the muddy bottom, giving it great protection from predators and from violent storms that dislodge other shells.

You will find a couple of types of worm shells on our beaches here. Fargo's worm is the most common of these. There is also a West Indian worm, but it is rarely found in our waters.

The Fargo is generally a sandy color, but some of the best I've found have been more beige. It's not all that unusual to come upon worms that the sun has completely bleached out and are white, almost like a sand dollar.

The Fargo isn't the only worm shell on our beaches worth collecting. There is a colony type of worm sometimes called the black worm. More often you will hear of clumps of these worm shells called worm coral.

These worm colonies aren't found separately, like the Fargo is. The worm colonies are a cluster of tiny worms that seem wound up in tight balls. They are brownish, massive twists of creatures that die and leave you with a fine collector's item.

Some of the best colony worms are a reddish color and make great paper weights or displays. Some clumps can weigh two to three pounds.

Most of these worm shells are shallow water dwellers. And since they have such a short distance to go to reach the beaches, they are generally found in good condition.

The Fargo worms have a tendency to break at the tip, and when the tip is gone the value of the shell is lessened. I've seen some shellers wear a piece of Fargo worm on a gold chain as a necklace.

Good shelling this week -- and keep a close watch out for the worms. I usually find them high on the shell line and particularly on the southern end of North Captiva Island, which is accessible only by boat.

Please remember the shelling law that limits shellers to two live shells per person per species. We would prefer that you wouldn't take any live ones at all.

Capt. Mike Fuery offers daily shelling trips to Cayo Costa and North Captiva Islands. Call Mike at 472-3459 for more information.

Lucky loon tries man's wings for trip to Maine

Two months behind in migration, a recovering loon secured a ticket to its homeland last week on board a giant bird of flight.

The loon flew baggage class to Bangor, Me., last Wednesday on Delta airlines thanks to an anonymous donor who footed the $90 air fare.

In Bangor the celebrated loon was met by former CROW employee Carol Newcomb-Jones, who took it to the Stanwood Wildlife Foundation in Ellsworth, where it will continue its convalescence.

"This one's a straggler," said Holly Davies, head of Sanibel and Captiva's Care and Rehabilitation of Wildlife, which cared for the bird for six weeks.

The loon was found at South Seas Plantation June 12, disoriented and emaciated, its breastbone sticking out through the skin. Nourished with Spanish sardines and vitamin B at CROW, the loon regained some of its strength. "It's healthy, and it ate right away, but it's still thin," Davies said.

Oddly, the loon still had its dark winter plumage despite the arrival of summer. Its lighter, striking summer plumage has been described as looking like the sun in a rippled pool of water. Normally, loons migrate to northern waters in late April and early May to coincide with the ice melt in lakes.

A fish eating, diving bird with a sharp bill and webbed feet, the loon has legs that are set far back. "It helps them swim and helps them dive, but they can't move very well on land," said CROW intern Emily Preston.

They live on water almost all the time, she added, and because of their heavy bones they need about a quarter of mile of open water to take off. "Once they're in the air, though, they're great flyers."

They nest in early June, near water, laying two eggs. By the time the colder fall months of October and November arrive, the young are ready for the southern migration.

The loon has a medley of beautiful and haunting cries it uses to attract a mate and determine the location of other loons.

It flies at speeds up to 62 mph, but a small plane that chased a loon once clocked it at over 80 mph. Last Wednesday, the lone loon completed its summer migration at a much quicker pace, cruising back to its homeland on a big jetliner near the speed of sound.

operating account to pay off two letters of credit on file for condominium utility bills and four automobile loans, all current and up-to-date, created a shortage, Trowbridge said.

Had he been notified of the bank's intention, Trowbridge said, a cashier's check to cover the shortage would have been deposited immediately.

Instead the bank bounced more than $30,000 in checks written to small creditors so they wouldn't be affected by the Chapter 11, Trowbridge complained.

Dianne Jensen, an attorney specializing in bankruptcy with the Fort Myers law firm of Pavese, Shields, Garner, Haverfield, Dalton and Cottrell, has been retained by Captran "to help us through this difficult period," Trowbridge said.

She admitted Friday that, "Technically a bank has the right to call in loans if it feels insecure about the customer's credit.

"But it was the way it was done without notice that we object to," she said, confirming that Captran intends to sue the Bank of the Islands.

Under Chapter 11 rules a company that files for voluntary bankruptcy is allowed to continue operation while straightening out its financial problems.

Captran has been named "debtor in possession," and Trowbridge will continue to be in charge of the day-to-day operations with business as usual.

Trowbridge insisted that Captran International's current woes will have no effect on his rental management and title companies or condominium associations.

Nor will the owners of 700 Captran units in 36 time sharing resorts in Florida, Canada, the Bahamas and the Caribbean be hurt, he said.

It was to protect these assets and the on-going operation of the company that Captran decided to file for reorganization under Chapter 11, Trowbridge explained.

The move was necessitated when Captran failed to reach a settlement of a $1.7 million judgment awarded to Bahamian developer Jack Grabowsky by Lee County Circuit Court Judge James Thompson last April.

When Captran learned that the developers of the Club Baha in Freeport intended to seize and sell at sheriff's auction Captran's assets in payment of the judgment, the company had only 10 days (until July 19) to come up with the $1.7 million that includes $500,000 for attorneys fees, Trowbridge said.

Because of problems of liquidity, Captran was unable to post the required bond.

But selling off Captran's assets at prices in today's real estate market "incredibly less than their value would have wreaked havoc to Captran and the resort sharing industry," Trowbridge said.

"Chapter 11 allows us to continue our business while protecting us from our creditors during reorganization," he explained. Trowbridge is optimistic that this can be accomplished within 30 to 60 days.

Meantime, Thompson's decision is being appealed to the Third District Court of Appeals in Tampa.

Trowbridge has pledged that his creditors will be paid off "100 cents on the dollar." But until the reorganization is complete the company is prohibited from paying any debts incurred before July 16, the date Captran filed for Chapter 11 in Tampa.

New bank accounts have been opened under court auspices, he said.

The Canadian-born Trowbridge has lived on Sanibel for nine years. He introduced his "vacation by the slice" concept on the Island six years ago when the Sanibel Beach Club opened as the first time sharing resort in the United States.

Trowbridge, 55, graduated in 1961 from Bowling Green State University in Ohio with a degree in business administration. In 1971 he earned a doctorate in management and finance of higher education at the same university.

From 1970-73 he helped organize Florida International University in Miami and served as executive assistant to its president and director of planning and budgeting for starting the state university.

In 1982 Trowbridge authored a book about the interval resort sharing concept. Resort Time Sharing -- How to Invest in Inflation-proof Vacations for Life, the first comprehensive book of its kind, covers the subject from its early European beginnings to today's mushrooming billion dollar business.

It has been called "an indispensable guide for buyers or prospective buyers-sellers of time share vacation homes" that forecasts the future of the industry.

A week after the news of Captran's filing for bankruptcy shocked Southwest Florida business circles, Trowbridge appeared cool, calm and confident.

Rather than a deluge of phone calls from worried owners, Trowbridge said Captran had heard from only three who expressed concern about the future of the operation.

"We have had many people call us offering to help," he added.

In a letter a James Hermes, Bank of the Islands president, Trowbridge questioned the bank's loan policy.

"To have your bank flagrantly strip our account to pay off current secured loans only leads me to question, (as I'm sure every businessman who deals with your bank will), how secure anyone is in their current loan portfolio," Trowbridge wrote. "It appears that when rumor hits any business at any time, you will take similar actions against other businesses of less substantial means."

Trowbridge said he intends to share the letter to Hermes with much of the Sanibel business community because he thinks, "It is important they understand the value the Bank of the Islands places on customers who have been with them from the beginning; customers who have kept substantial accounts with them; customers who have always paid all loans on time; customers who have aided in the bank's growth.

"If the price of association can be viewed so miserly, who can feel secure?" he asked.

Health Tip

From Len Kessler

Small nodular swellings in the neck or armpits are usually caused by an infection. This is nature's way of fighting the infection - the lymph nodes enlarge while producing an anti-toxin to kill the infection. The lymph nodes return to normal when the infection is overcome. If the lymph nodes remain enlarged, and perhaps tender, for some time - this is the danger signal of a serious infection and you should see your doctor immediately.

Pam Horne

Age: 33

Height: 5'7"

Roots: Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Pleasures: "That's a good hobby — pleasures."

Last Book Read: Rabbit Is Rich
by John Updike

Wish: "To be like Isadora Duncan."

Words of Wisdom: "Even out of an ugly cocoon there can come a butterfly."

By Peggy Dailey

Pam Horne is perhaps one of the most charismatic clerks the U.S. Postal Service has ever had. Brisk and efficient, she mans her window at the Sanibel Post Office with knowledge of her job and a welcome sense of humor.

Asked at the stamp window ("I've been selling them for over a year," she says, "and next year they may even let me lick them.") who would be a good Portrait subject, she replied, "Do me. I'm pretty interesting." She wasn't wrong.

Born in Philadelphia, Pam is the second youngest in a large Catholic family. "When I was very little," she says, "I can remember my father putting me on barstools and saying, 'This one is the last of the Mohicans.'"

But then another brother came along, and Pam was upset and disappointed. She overcame the sibling rivalry, however, she adds.

In 1967 she graduated from Marywood Seminary near Philadelphia. "I was going to be a nun," she says. "Many girls think they will when they grow up in that environment." However, she adds, "My father knew I couldn't."

She won a Rotary scholarship and spent a year in Brazil as a foreign exchange student. In Brazil, where she was relatively alone and away from her family, she began to eat and eat and eat.

Eventually, she went ate her way to 175 pounds. "I knew I'd have to get back down," she remembers, "when I heard the boys in the family I was living with say, 'Let's take the male, too.'"

She also remembers the chagrin and remorse of hearing herself go down an enormous notch from the description of, "She's such a cute girl," to, "She's such a nice girl."

She returned to the states, married, had her son, Jason Vaughn, now 12, and attended Murray State University in Murray, Ky. She graduated in less than three years.

"I wanted my degree fast," she explains. "I was driven."

She graduated in 1972 and began a teaching job — reading and Spanish — for Calloway County Schools in Kentucky.

She taught for two years and says about the experience, "I liked it, but it was political — you're out to change the world and all that. At first I thought I could."

But she soon learned teaching was not for her.

In 1974 she returned to Pennsylvania and got a job selling office supplies. "At that time," she says frankly, "the company had a quota, so if I was a black Eskimo who spoke Spanish, they would hire me. They did, and I was a good salesman."

She then shifted to Indianapolis, where she was the only woman who actually sold word processing equipment. "That's where the future is," she explains. "Sony has a machine so advanced now you can just talk into it and it produces a letter."

In Indianapolis she called on attorneys. "I found attorneys can make many decisions for others but not for themselves," she says. "Someday probably all attorneys' VDTs (video design terminals) will be hooked into the Supreme Court, Library of Congress or either or both. There will be giant link-ups all over. It's the future."

After selling computers, Pam sold lumber. "I said to people, 'I sell studs,'" she laughs. "You have to be daring and say things to sell and get noticed sometimes."

But then there is the opposite side of Pam, she says. "I'm very vulnerable to what people think and very insecure. But I can always get attention by saying something smart — if you call it attention."

Pam divorced her first husband and, in 1977, married Peter Horne. They came to Florida in 1978 and have a three-year old son, Patrick. However, they separated early in 1982, and their divorce will be final soon.

Pam reads "every best seller that comes out" and enjoys dating. "This is the adolescence I've never had," she explains. "Of course I keep my bridesmaids on salary."

She is involved with Island Youth Theatre and directed a fantasy about television, mice and an ordinary family for the children's group in May. "They all stayed in character the whole time!" she sighs with relief.

But much of her time — 12-hour working days — is spent at the Post Office. She began there in December 1979 and says simply, "I felt good because I got the job on my test and application without knowing any one there and without any connections to it."

She says she thinks there's been a change for the better at all Post Offices. "Before it was, 'I'm your folksy, homey, mail carrier.' Now it is a job of some prestige."

"People of high calibre and education are taking postal jobs now," she adds. "One man I work with that no one sees is just as brilliant as anyone I've ever met. I have a lot of respect for the people at the Post Office here."

The hours are long (but the money is excellent), and work is hard but good, she says.

As to the perennial complaint that mails are slow, she laughs. "Yes, males are slow — all the ones I've ever known all my life were very slow!"

Sanibel woman remains critical after motorcycle accident

A 22-year-old Sanibel woman remained in critical condition Monday in the Intensive Care Unit at Fort Myers Community Hospital following a van-motorcycle accident on Periwinkle Way on Thursday morning, July 22.

Patricia Rundell of 996 Sandcastle Road was a passenger on the motorcycle that was struck by a van that turned into the motorcycle's path in front of the 7-11 store.

Rundell's boyfriend, Walter Graebner of 996 Sandcastle Road, was driving the motorcycle east on Periwinkle when a van driven by Herald Thomas Hawkins of Fort Myers turned into the cycle's path. Hawkins was driving west on Periwinkle.

Both Rundell and Graebner were thrown from the motorcycle upon impact. Rundell landed underneath a truck that was leaving the 7-11 parking lot.

Medics attended Rundell for more than 30 minutes before she was transported to Fort Myers Community Hospital. She is an employee of The Oyster Shell restaurant on Sanibel. Graebner was treated and released from Fort Myers Community Hospital.

Hawkins was charged with violation of the right-of-way.

POLICE BEAT

All information in the following reports was taken directly from Sanibel Police Department records.

A 2.7-carat diamond engagement ring and white gold wedding band valued at $5,180 were reported missing from a unit at Sanibel Moorings on Friday afternoon, July 16.

The rings belonged to a Miami woman who told police they were last seen on Tuesday morning, July 13, in a small nylon bag on the dining room table.

There were no signs of forced entry in the unit.

A Fort Myers woman told police she lost her white gold wedding band with five diamonds on a Sanibel beach on Friday afternoon, July 16. The ring was valued at $5,000.

A resident of Skiff Place on Sanibel reported his 12-foot Lockley sailboat was missing after he and his brother abandoned it in a storm on Friday evening, July 16.

The man told police he and his brother tried to swim ashore pulling the sailboat after heavy rains, lightning and winds started that afternoon. The rope broke, however, and the boat was swept into the Gulf of Mexico from the area around the Lighthouse.

The boat has a red deck, white hull and red and white sail and is named Sea Devil. It is valued at $125.

A 23-year-old Fort Myers man was arrested on charges of burglary after his wallet was found in a unit at Blind Pass condominiums. The owners of the unit discovered $50 missing from the bedroom dresser at the same time they found the wallet on Saturday evening, July 17.

James Porter Walker of 5523 First Ave., Fort Myers, was arrested the following day for the burglary.

A duplex at 1155 Seagrave Lane was broken into between noon and 4:45 p.m. on Monday, July 19. The duplex belongs to a Murfreesboro, Tenn., couple.

A jalousie window was pried open and screen pushed in to reach the doorknob for entry to the duplex. Nothing was missing from the house, but a bed had been slept in and the bathroom had been used.

An 18-year-old Almont, Mich., man and his juvenile companion were arrested on charges of burglary of a unit at Sanibel Arms condominiums on Tuesday night, July Tonight, dine in the legendary Thistle Lodge.

It's an authentic re-creation of Sanibel's first inn.

And yet, the crowning achievement of the Thistle Lodge Restaurant isn't the turn-of-the-century atmosphere. It's the marvelous food.

Our menu features such adventurous dishes as Shrimp Creole, Veal Calvados and Chicken Rochambeau.

As well as more traditional fare, like thick steaks and fresh seafood selections.

There's a famous New Orleans-style Sunday brunch, too. Including such crowd-pleasers as Eggs Hussard, Oysters Benedict and freshly blended Sazeracs.

And our lounge offers the Island's best live entertainment and dancing.

20. The unit belongs to a Michigan woman who is the aunt of one of the two men. The men were not authorized to be in the unit. Paul Schoonover of Almont, Mich., and his 17-year-old friend from Romeo, Mich., told police they had been staying in the unit for two weeks.

No charges were filed after a parking lot accident at the Bank of the Islands on Friday evening, July 16. David Anthony Pote of 922 Palm Ave., Sanibel, was traveling east in the parking lot when his car was struck in the rear by a car driven by Lillian Mary Zambuto Umland of 3917 Coquina Drive, Sanibel.

Umland told police her view was blocked by a large tree. Police estimated there was $200 to Pote's 1976 Toyota jeep and $400 damage to Umland's 1980 Cadillac.

A Sarnia, Ontario, man was charged with unlawful speed and traveling the wrong way on a one-way road after he lost control of the car he was driving on the J.N. "Ding" Darling Wildlife Drive early Sunday morning, July 18.

The car, a 1974 Volkswagen, belonged to Richard John Brodeur of 987 Sanibel-Captiva Road. Police estimated there was $2,500 damage to the car.

The driver was traveling north on the Wildlife Drive when he entered a curve, lost control and drove into the shrubs beside the road.

No charges were filed against a Sanibel woman who struck the rear of a rental car that was stopped on Periwinkle Way near Bailey Road on Sunday afternoon, July 18.

Wilma Tolp of Coquina Drive was unable to stop and struck the rear of a 1982 Ford rental car that was driven by a Wilmette, Ill., man. Police estimated there was $500 damage to Tolp's 1981 Datsun and $25 damage to the rental car.

No charges were filed in a two-car accident on Causeway Road near Harbor Cottages Drive late Sunday afternoon, July 18. North Fort Myers resident Gary Scott Hubbell struck the rear of a car driven by Randall Personett of 9702 Marion Road, Sanibel, as Personett was stopped behind another car that was turning left off Causeway Road.

Police determined the brake lights in Personett's 1981 Datsun were not working at the time of the accident. They estimated there was $180 damage to Personett's car and no damage to Hubbell's car.

A restaurant like this couldn't have happened any place else.

Chadwick's is the way a Captiva restaurant was meant to be. It captures all the charm and grace of Old Florida.

The mood is casual. The crowd, fun-loving. The service, warm and attentive in the best island tradition.

And the food? Well, it's the reason we've been acclaimed time and time again as one of Florida's best restaurants.

You can feast on fresh fish, thick & juicy steaks, and such specialties as Breast of Chicken Plantation and Beer Batter Shrimp.

There's a lavish Sunday brunch, too, with more than 70 different items to tempt you. And don't miss our bountiful Friday evening Seafood Buffet. The best catch for the money anywhere.

To top it off, Chadwick's provides some of the finest live entertainment on the islands, with dancing nightly in the lounge.

Police club needs funds for fireworks

The Sanibel Police Recreation Club still needs donations from Island residents and businesses to cover the $4,000 cost of the July 4 fireworks display the club sponsored at the Dunes Country Club.

Club member and Officer Mike Blackmore said several organizations that pledged donations before the event have not yet made their contribution.

Checks should be made to the Sanibel Police Recreation Club and mailed to the department, P.O. Box 438, Sanibel 33957, or delivered to police headquarters above MacKenzie Hall on Palm Ridge Road.

Fire Department announces classes in CPR

The Sanibel Fire Control District announces classes in CPR (Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation). Those interested in taking this life saving procedure should call the Sanibel Fire Department, 472-5525.

The class usually meets for two sessions and takes approximately eight hours to complete. A $5 donation is requested, which includes the cost of a text booklet. Group inquiries are welcome.

Police call for names for evacuation assistance

Sanibel Police Chief John Butler is asking any Islanders who would need assistance evacuating the Island in the event of a hurricane to make that need known.

If any resident would not be able to evacuate the Island on his or her own because of special medical needs or because of the lack of a car or vehicle, that resident should notify the Police Department as soon as possible.

Butler is asking that such residents fill out the accompanying coupon and either deliver it or mail it to his attention at police headquarters above MacKenzie Hall on Palm Ridge Road. The mailing address is P.O. Box 438, Sanibel. Police personnel will subsequently contact the residents for more specific information.

Yes; I will need assistance evacuating from Sanibel in the event of a hurricane.

Council makes minor changes in parking ordinance

the city, made the suggestion during the council's annual review of the ordinance last Tuesday.

Donald told the council that, "By changing the ordinance you can get rid of this litigation."

In the lawsuit filed in Lee County Circuit Court last spring Goldsmith charges that Sanibel's parking restrictions discriminate against part time residents and violate his constitutional rights.

Currently only bona fide residents (defined as persons who consider Sanibel their only domicile) can park for a $1 annual fee in 14 residential and five restricted parking areas that provide access to the gulf and bay beaches.

Donald pointed out that his client, who lives in a beach front condominium three months of the year, pays as much or more property taxes ($1,300 in 1981) as do full time Sanibel residents.

Under the current ordinance Goldsmith, as a non-resident taxpayer may purchase for $1 a year a restricted parking permit that gives him access to only the five restricted parking areas.

Donald said to remove the inequity the ordinance should be changed to allow Sanibel taxpayers whose principal residence is elsewhere to purchase a residential permit effective only during the period of time he is in residence on the Island.

"There is no reason for the distinction made between the permanent and temporary resident taxpayer," Donald said.

But City Attorney Neal Bowen, as in the past, advised the council that not to differentiate between the two raises the question of durational residency, a suspect classification difficult to defend in court.

To give residential privileges to all non-resident taxpayers would open the designated parking areas to "thousands of new parkers," Bowen said.

"If we do that we might as well throw the whole parking ordinance out the window," Councilman Duane White commented.

"It would defeat the whole purpose of the ordinance (to insure beach access for Sanibel residents who live in the interior of the Island)," Acting Mayor Mike Klein added.

Bowen said he would consider it an "educational exercise" to let the suit go to trial and have the question of the ordinance's constitutionality settled once and for all by the courts.

City Manager Bernie Murphy said in the judgment of the administration the ordinance in its first year has "performed well and fulfilled the legislative goals and objectives."

The five changes proposed represented merely "fine tuning," he said.

They include: changing the status of the Dixie Beach Boulevard parking area from residential to restricted; changing the parking areas at the new city park at the former site of the SS Algiers from restricted to general (no permit required); eliminating the differential between the early and late payment of the fine for violation and imposing only one fine of $35; prohibiting parking of campers and other vehicles more than 20 feet long at the Tarpon Bay Beach and Algiers parking areas where no permit is required; and eliminating the provision that parking permits may be obtained by mail from the Sanibel Police Department.

The revised ordinance will be brought back to the council for action at a later date.

THE ASSASSINS

By George Campbell

Illustrated by Ann Winterbotham

President Harry Truman, whose image certainly improves with passage of time and in comparison with some of his successors, signed the "Sanibel Closure Order" on Dec. 3, 1947. There was then hope for the future of Sanibel's wildlife.

In essence, the closure order made the whole of Sanibel a sanctuary for wildlife. Although the order emphasized bird protection, the language was broad and flexible enough to include wildlife in general.

The city of Sanibel further fortified the protection law with, among other things, an ordinance protecting turtles and tortoises. At the time of the passage of the ordinance some thoughtless citizens wished to restrict the legal protection to the Gopher Tortoise. I suggested that all species be included and, fortunately, that broader point of view obtained after bitter argument.

There are 16 kinds of turtle and tortoise here. There are five sea turtles: the Loggerhead, Hawksbill, Ridley, Green and Leatherback, all of whose natural ranges include the waters around Sanibel. All five of these are rigidly protected by city, state and federal law. One brackish water form is increasingly rare - the Ornate Diamondback Terrapin. It is a tasty morsel indeed - a fact that has contributed to its problems.

The biggest softshell of North America, the Florida Softshell Turtle, still lives here. The Florida or Osceola Snapping Turtle is also present. There are two kinds of Mud Turtle, three kinds of Terrapin and the Chicken Turtle of the long neck.

Also, in common with every pond, river or lake in the United States, the dime-store turtle, the "Red Ear," has been released occasionally here. These are left-overs from the millions hatched for the pet trade in the middle decades of this century, which trade was halted by the Food and Drug Administration a few years ago because it was demonstrated that 22 kinds of Salmonella were present in the gut of

"I've often thought to myself, 'Wouldn't a turtle killing (expletive deleted) get a spectacular send-off to Hell if I placed a small, but adequate, explosive charge inside a mechanical Box Turtle and directed it across Sanibel-Captiva Road early some morning?"

captive turtles. Salmonella, pet turtles, and children were deemed to be a risky mix.

I might say in passing that today in Fort Myers the federal law is being broken. "Red Ears" are again being sold. The FDA seems to be looking the other way.

The Gopher Tortoise and the Florida Box Turtle complete our list: 16 in all - 17 if you count the stray Red Ears. A very rich turtle fauna indeed for our little Island. Compare it with only two forms in all of Europe and you see how really well-endowed Sanibel is with its wildlife.

But our turtles are reduced in numbers through man's thoughtless agency. It has been years since any sea turtles other than the Loggerhead have been seen here. Shrimp nets, poachers and predators have taken their toll. The Loggerheads, too, are diminished drastically in number.

The other species listed above are still present in numbers - all except the Florida Box Turtle and the Gopher Tortoise.

Gopher Tortoises are frequently hit by cars because with the increase in exotic flora their principal grazing areas are now rights-of-way where the rough grasses they prefer grow. Also, careless trapping kills some. One pictured here drowned in a rain-filled sunken bucket!

Box Turtles are seriously impacted and are run over far too often for many to survive today. Jean LeBuff slowed her car to rescue one on the road the other day, only to see a barbarous, savage assassin intentionally steer out of his way in order to crush this gentle yellow and black shiny beauty.

"There exists a curious number of witless or psychopathic characters who love to run over Box Turtles just to hear them pop, and there is probably nothing much that can be done about these people except to hope they skid."

Archie Carr
Florida turtle authority

despoiler of Sanibel wildlife flattened it - at a place where all traffic is slowed.

The obliteration of our wildlife jewels is inexcusable. Such savage, unthinking brutality is uncivilized. Thuggee is supposed to be a social phenomenon of the distant past and a distant land. But this merciless malignity is rearing its obscene head on Sanibel - a place that is supposed to be a sanctuary!

The wildlife crossings along the San-Cap Highway are working for mammals. Many fewer are being killed where once there were far too numerous cases.

Studies have proved use of the under-the-road crossings to be widespread. I believe, too, that some gators use them. On one damp night I found one resting in a culvert like those placed for wildlife crossings.

Recently a lot of Gopher Tortoises have been struck by speeding cars. CROW overseer Holly Davies and I repaired a crushed one. We resected the gut, tied off and eliminated the perforated part, tucked the whole back into the hole in the shell, closed with tape and were quite proud of our work. Unfortunately the patient died.

Another Gopher was struck, but its viscera were not disturbed much. Holly kept the animal for weeks and finally rebuilt the shell with various synthetic glues and building materials. When she turned the animal over to me to place in the Fund for Animals Gopher Tortoise Sanctuary, the first thing the poor crippled creature did was eat a good meal of rough grass - its first in several months.

Sad to say, its hind legs are not functioning well, but with any luck this beast will totally recover. We had to paint its "patch" white though, for the patching materials were very hard and absorbed too much solar heat.

Another Gopher has been in the sanctuary for years. It has a concavity in its back big enough to hide a tennis ball. But it is all healed and solid, and the animal leads a normal life, no doubt having long since forgotten his close scrape with death.

The sanctuary is used to house Gopher Tortoises and Box Turtles that are temporarily disturbed by real estate

This handsome fellow is a Gopher Tortoise, a species ever more impacted on Sanibel Island as well as elsewhere in its range.

Dozens of Florida Softshell Turtles are crushed by careless drivers on Sanibel each month.

This Gopher Tortoise was trapped head-down in a bucket of water, where it drowned.

I found this murdered corpse of a Florida Box Turtle in front of the Sanibel Post Office. There is no excuse for this outrageous assassination on a sanctuary Island.

A yellow and black living jewel - the Florida Box Turtle.

REFUGE REPORT

Refuge advisory committee plans July 28 meeting

The J.N. "Ding" Darling National Wildlife Refuge Advisory Board will meet at 9 a.m. this Wednesday, July 28, at the refuge Visitor Center.

The public is invited to attend the discussion of building a manatee necropsy facility in the refuge.

Film tells first refuge story

Where and when did the National Wildlife Refuge begin? The answer to that question is told in the film Monument in the Mangroves, which will be shown every afternoon this week at the J.N. "Ding" Darling Wildlife Refuge.

Monument in the Mangroves is the story of Pelican Island, the first National Wildlife Refuge. Produced by British Broadcasting, this half-hour film details the beauty and importance of the first refuge and all other refuges to man and wildlife.

The film is the eighth installment in the "Ding" Darling Refuge Summer Wildlife Film Series. The film will be shown at 2 p.m. every afternoon through Friday, July 30, in the refuge Visitor Center auditorium. Admission is free.

Watch for banded gulls, notify college researcher

It isn't that the laughing gulls, one of the many species of fascinating shorebirds along Florida's coast, have taken to hanging around jewelry stores. But a lot of them are flying around with bands on their legs — 52 to be exact.

Any if anyone sees these gulls, Dr. Penny Bernstein wants to know. Bernstein is a New Jersey scientist who is more than slightly interested in the laughing gulls. She is involved in a comprehensive tracking study and needs the support of all avid bird-watchers and casual observers in reporting sightings of the banded birds.

Each bird is wearing a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service aluminum band with unique color combinations of white, red, blue and light green. They are banded either on one leg or both and can be identified by the patterns of colors such as "white over blue left, red over white right" or "blue over white right."

To spot the laughing gull, look for a gull that is dark gray on the back, white underneath and distinguished from some other species by dark red bills and black caps in the summer. According to Bernstein,

"There are startling white eye crescents and possibly a small ruby glint at the inside corner of the eye. There may also be a rosy blush to the chest."

She describes the winter juveniles as the same size as the adults with a beautiful mix of brown, gray and white and a conspicuous tail band. By spring, some juveniles become gray and white with mottled heads resembling winter adults. Others may retain much brown coloring well into the summer. The young of the year remain brown and white all summer.

Both male and female gulls vocalize with the most noticeable sound being what Bernstein describes as "the long call," which sounds something like a laugh and is used in serious situations such as competition over food, territories and mates.

Anyone observing a banded gull is asked to report the date, time, location and activity as well as color pattern read from the bird's left leg (top to bottom) to his right leg (top to bottom) to Penny Bernstein, Biology — NAMS, Stockton State College, Pomona, N.J. 08240.

development. Each is marked, and when the threat is thought to be over, each is returned to its original home.

Female Softshell Turtles, big as a pizza, often fall victim to assassins. These big platters leave the safety of their freshwater habitat to find a nesting site on land. When a barbarian runs over such an animal, he not only reduces the population of the few remaining breeding females, but he also obliterates a clutch of never-to-be-laid eggs.

John Dickersen stopped to save a wandering Softshell on July 4 and was soundly abused by an obscene Cadillac-driving soure cabatcha from Dade County ("soure cabatcha" is a handy Malay term referring to one's canine ancestry on his mother's side). Such tourists could well stay home. After all, Dade is already an environmental basket case, and we sure don't need his ilk here!

Florida turtle authority and conservationist Archie Carr allowed me to quote his published comment on such barbarians: "There exists a curious number of witless or psychopathic characters who love to run over Box Turtles just to hear them pop, and there is probably nothing much that can be done about these people except to hope they skid."

If you find Gopher Tortoises or Box Turtles in trouble (or any others, for that matter) I hope you will stop to help. If you like, call me or bring them to me and I'll try our developing "body shop" repair methods.

If you will help, perhaps "Nature's Tanks" will at least survive on Sanibel.

Know what to do when lightning strikes

Lightning, one of the most destructive forces of nature, claims more than 100 lives each year and injures more than 300 other victims. And these figures don't include lightning-related casualties such as those caused by house fires, forest fires and explosions triggered by lightning.

Florida residents, both those living on the coast and in the interior, are no strangers to severe thunderstorms. In fact, some Florida cities rank very high in annual number of electrical storms.

Fortunately, buildings can be protected with a properly designed, installed and maintained lightning deterrant system that affords nearly 100 percent protection. Besides protecting the dwelling the system can also lower fire insurance rates to some extent.

It is not possible in this short space to detail the many precautions that can be taken when a thunderstorm approaches, but are few important points to remember are as follows:

Seek shelter, preferable in a building protected by a lightning rod system. When inside, stay away from open doorways and windows, telephones, televisions and metal objects such as pipes and electrical appliances. It is advisable to unplug the television and any other electronic appliances that could be damaged by a sudden surge of electricity.

If caught in the open, avoid the highest point in the surrounding area. Get away from any machinery or metal objects and lay in a ditch or depression. Don't seek shelter under a tall tree. If caught in the woods pick a small tree among several larger ones.

If you are on a boat that is not protected by lightning protection devices, get to shore and out of the water. People on small boats particularly should be aware that they are probably the highest point on the horizon and should seek shelter if at all possible.

On a large power or sailboat, if the antenna is properly grounded and designed it will offer a cone of protection. If not, it can kill. Lightning strikes on radio antennas have destroyed boats, caused fires and destroyed radio instruments.

Sailboats with portable masts or those with the mast on the cabin roof are particularly vulnerable as they are usually the least protected as far as grounding or bonding is concerned. Grounding precautions are definitely recommended for Florida boaters. Even with a properly grounded boat, boaters should recognize the lightning potential and take necessary safety precautions.

All in all, the chance of being struck by lightning is quite low. But it does happen, and the best philosophy is avoid is that, "It can't happen to me."

Remember, too, that people struck by lightning can be revived by using prompt first aid. Mouth-to-mouth and cardiopulmonary resuscitation techniques can be learned from the Sanibel Fire Department and local Red Cross and Heart Association chapters.

Take proper precautions to ensure safe boating

Florida's excellent climate and abundant waterways make it an ideal place for boating. According to Marine Patrol statistics, nearly 500,000 boats of all kinds are registered in the state, and this figure does not include boats brought in by visitors.

With so much boat traffic on Florida's coastal and inland waterways, the matter of boating safety is of prime importance. International legal rules have been designed to help boats navigate around each other without accident. Learning and obeying these "rules of the road" and exercising caution at all times makes every boater a safer one.

The same precautions apply to properly loading the boat, having personal flotation devices aboard for each person and being prepared in case of foul weather or other hazards that can develop at seas.

But while boating safety is a serious matter, there is sometimes a lighter side, especially when it comes to reporting boating accidents.

As a case in point consider the following statements that appeared on accident reports submitted to a large insurance company as published in the Fifth Coast Guard District Auxilliary Director's Bulletin and republished in the U.S. Coast Guard Safe Boating newsletter:

"I collided with a stationary boat coming the other way."

"The guy was all over the lake. I had to swerve a number of times before I ran over him."

"The other boat attempted to cut in front of me, so, with my bow, I removed his engine."

"When I saw that I couldn't avoid the collision, I gave it more gas and crashed the other boat."

"The swimmer had no idea which way to go, so I ran over him."

"The indirect cause of this accident was a little guy in a small boat with a big mouth."

"Coming home, I docked in the wrong slip and collided with a boat I don't have."

At Florida Sea Grant College, too, boating safety is a matter of great importance. The Sea Grant Advisory Program has published a bulletin, Boating Safety - Thunderstorms, and a fact sheet, Hurricane and Severe Weather Checklist for Boaters.

Single copies of these publications are available free from Sea Grant Advisory agents at county extension offices or by writing to the Sea Grant Advisory Program, GO22 McCarty Hall, University of Florida, Gainesville, FL 32611.

ISLANDER SPORTS

This Periwinkle Player wasn't so lucky in her attempt to catch a pop fly from Sanibel Accommodations on Sunday afternoon. The error wasn't enough to stop the Players, though, and they went on to defeat the competition. In men's play highlights last week, Oscar Gavin hit eight home runs in three games for West Wind, and John Naumann hit two inside-the-park home runs for Naumann. Photos by David Meardon.

I've always wanted to build this column on an epistolary foundation. Just once. Or twice, maybe. It's supposed to enhance verisimilitude, which is essential to stories. And after all, aren't most stories nothing more than someone's opinionated version of something, as are columns?

Well, I've finally accumulated enough correspondence to give it a go. Here goes nothing.

Mr. Rainwater,

How dare you! As a frequent visitor to Sanibel, I have had the opportunity to attend several of the softball games you, supposedly, cover. I know for a fact that you were not at every one of these games. Yet you write as if you were. Do you think we don't know? If so, you are sadly mistaken.

If you are going to cover sports -- cover it!

Sincerely,

Erma Boombat

P.S. On a more positive note, there seems to be some hope for you yet due to your weekly column, Talkin' Sports. Although it is not quite as funny as you sometimes think it is, it does occasionally provide a nice overview of Island sports.

Ms. Boombat,

Thanks for your honest comments. And, yes, you're absolutely correct. I'm not always there. I can't be -- really! Let me try to explain.

First off, I do the sports section of The Islander on a part time basis. Besides inventing Talkin' Sports every week (well, almost every week), I take photos, interview, make phone calls, compile data, layout and paste up pages and generally try to agitate and manage the whole process. Fortunately I have a lot of help from my editor and fellow staffers. Otherwise the process would be unbearable.

Now, why only part time?

Two reasons. I am a part timer in sports because I am a full timer at the Sanibel Fire Control District. I can't help it. It's a helluva outfit to work for. Granted, you average 56 hours a week doing 24-hour shifts, but I like that, too. Gives me time for a part time job.

TALKIN' SPORTS

By Allen Rainwater

Secondly, I like to write. And I'm learning, as each week goes by, to like photography more and more. That's why I chose part time sports for my part time job.

My part time sports job takes an average of 20 hours a week. Let's see. That's an average of 86 hours a week of gainful employment out of a possible 168. Almost half. And then there's sleep. As much as I try to limit it, I can't get by on less than 42 hours a week. Not for long, anyway.

So I'm left with a grand total of 40 hours for myself (and, yes, I do have other interests). What else can I say? Anyone out there got another job for me?

I'm sorry, Ms. Boombat. I know this whole reply comes across like one big excuse. But I really do the best I can. If you want maybe you can help. If you want to see a full timer in the sports department, you have just to do the following: increase our circulation and display advertisement, get the gymnasium built and get the okay from my editor (What's another 20 hours to me?).

Sincerely,

Allen

P.S. Make your lump sum check out to me, and I'll see that the above is taken care of.

Dear Allen,

Thanks for Islander Sports, but I would love to see more words and less pictures. You and the other guy (Photography Editor David Meardon) take some good shots, so don't get me wrong -- I ain't complainin'. Just offerin' a suggestion. Keep up the good work and sharpen those pencils.

Sincerely,

Raymond Fussbutt

Dear Ray,

While you are correct in pointing out a disparity in the amount of photos versus type, I feel that perhaps you could be persuaded to see my side of the story. I'm going to try to persuade you regardless.

Every picture tells a story. Someone said it, and I believe it! Fortunately, our photography editor, David Meardon, tells a good story with his photos. I try to do the same. And there is an old adage still running around that says pictures sell papers. You know the old theory of multiplication -- one photo of someone equals copies of the paper for mom and dad, Aunt Esther, cousin Luker and an old friend or two back home.

Thanks, Ray, for your observation and suggestion. But we like to snap photos of Islanders participating in Island sports. They like it, too. So until that basic fact changes we'll continue to tell a lot of the stories there are to be told with the camera.

See you in the frames.

Allen

Dear Allen,

We enjoy the sports section and always knew you could do it. Keep up the good work and remember we love you.

Love,

Mom and Dad

P.S. Son, save yourself some money and only send one copy a week. It must cost a fortune in postage to mail a dozen all the way to Saudi.

Islander Sports Quiz

Faithful Roger Tabor came through again last week with the only correct answer to the Sports Quiz. Tabor knew that Black Betsy was Babe Ruth's 44-ounce baseball bat made by Hillerich and Bradsby of Louisville, Ky.

Okay, sports fans, try this one on for size:
 Who gave the name "basketball" to the game that was invented in 1891 by a physical education teacher at Springfield College, Mass.?

Call The Islander, 472-5185, with your answer. If you're right we'll publish your name in next week's edition. Good luck!

Toddlers get in the swim with lessons at community pool

Island parents who want their young children to be in the swim can sign up their 3-, 4- and 5-year-olds for swimming classes starting next Monday, Aug. 2, at the community pool.

Only the first 12 registrants will be admitted to the program, which will involve 30-minute sessions from 10:30-11 a.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays for three weeks beginning next Monday. For more information call June Muench, 472-2865.

Only a few can ever drop anchor off the shores of solitude.

A magical home awaits you at our 32 acre Safety Harbor Club on Upper Captiva Island. Forget about worldly concerns, and spend time in luxury you wouldn't believe possible — amongst one of the finest natural wildlife preserves still available.

We've added a luxurious lifestyle featuring swimming pool, tennis, deep water harbor and docks, correctly blended into the natural safety of virgin beaches and abundant flora.

Offering four custom homestyles, we will work with you to build your personalized home in paradise.

While many may offer the same words of description — no one can match the feelings you get as you watch peaceful mornings pass into magnificent sunsets on your own barrier island paradise — untouched by the mechanical intrusions of man.

While Safety Harbor Club is just minutes from the mainland, it's miles away from the mainstream. Only a few owners will be fortunate enough to hold a piece of the disappearing natural lifestyle. If your values are such that you'll enjoy being adventurous, yet still in touch with a quality lifestyle, then arrange with our agents for an exclusive visit to Safety Harbor Club.

Now is the time to act — your personal shores of solitude are here for the taking — but only for a precious short time.

Shores of solitude just beyond the mainstream.

Promotions announced within Priscilla Murphy Realty

Stanley Johnson Jr., president and owner of Priscilla Murphy Realty, Inc., last week announced the following promotions within the organization.

Juanita Hermes has been promoted to senior vice president and also a director of the corporation. She will continue to be responsible for the firm's sales and marketing activities, administration and various corporate responsibilities.

Hermes moved to Sanibel in 1972 from Youngstown, Ohio, and has been with Priscilla Murphy Realty since 1976. She and her husband, Jim, and their sons, Greg and Michael, live in Sanibel's Shell Harbor.

Marsha Asp has been named vice president of the firm's Fort Myers division. She will be responsible for development of the Fort Myers market with headquarters in the Gulf Points Square office.

Asp was instrumental in the organization of the Fort Myers office three years ago and will continue to expand that operation in the Fort Myers real estate market.

She moved to this area in 1973 from Cleveland, Ohio, and has been associated with Priscilla Murphy Realty since 1977. She and her husband, John, and their son, Kirk, live in the Georgetown area of Fort Myers.

Marsha Clifford has been named vice president and general manager of Priscilla Murphy Realty's rental division. She will be responsible for the continued operation of the firm's Island Accommodations rental and property management division in the Sanibel and Captiva markets.

Clifford moved to this area in 1973 from Baltimore, Md., and joined Priscilla Murphy Realty in 1978. She and her husband, Tom, and their son, Sam, live in south Fort Myers.

Whether it's a glass door, window, screened enclosure, balcony, or practically any opening, Roll-A-Way shutters provide complete protection from nature's elements for your family and home. They're made of tough, durable PVC and tested to withstand wind pressure in excess of 120 miles per hour to shield all that's valuable on the inside from all that's unwanted on the outside. When fully closed, they lock automatically and cannot be opened, protecting the home against vandalism and break-ins. Roll-A-Way shutters even help conserve energy, too, by inhibiting energy loss through leaky windows and doors. They're available in decorator colors and custom made to fit your home.

Captiva bank receives 'Most Beautiful Business' award

By Peggy Dailey

Gulf Coast First National Bank of Captiva was a winner in the recent Metropolitan Fort Myers Chamber of Commerce "Most Beautiful Business" competition.

And quite a few people on Captiva don't even know it's there, nestled among thick native vegetation just across Andy Rosse Lane from the Island Store.

The bank, which is in the building that Karl Wightman built around 1960, was landscaped by Tanner and Associates from October 1980 to January 1981. Jerry Tanner, the head of the firm, did most of the work.

"The philosophy behind the design was to integrate the commercial element into the site instead of trying to hide it," Tanner said. "Through the process the selecting and maintaining the natural foliage, we also saved money. The cost of the decorative foliage was only $5,000 - not very high."

The firm selected the colors for the bank—seashell gray and yacht (navy) blue.

Among the indigenous plants used around the building are Boston ferns, alamanda vines, lots of sea grape, pampas and sabal palms, cocoanut palms and ficus trees.

The bank was landscaped and designed in such a way that attention would not be called to it, Tanner concluded.

"You'd be surprised," he said, "how many people have been out to Captiva and driven right by the bank and told me later 'I drove by that and didn't even know it was there.'"

Sanibel design firm commissioned for Alabama, Georgia resorts

Sanibel resident Kappy King Cole, A.S.I.D., recently announced that her island-based time share interior design firm, Kappy King Cole & Associates, has been commissioned by Winston Time Properties of Florence, Ala., to design the interiors of two Gulf Shores, Ala., resorts and a third resort in the Swiss-like village of Helen, Ga.

Shoreline Towers in Florence is a seven-floor development with 14 two-bedroom, two-bath and seven three-bedroom, three-bath vacation homes. According to Cole, the homes will be decorated in beach life motif befitting the unique Gulf Shores vacation area. The Kappy King Cole &

Associates design will utilize natural colors and harmonious furnishings to accent the resort's beach theme.

Village by the Gulf in Florence is a two- and three-story project of 16 two- and three-bedroom, two-bath vacation homes. The design for this project will be beach oriented.

The Lorelei in Helene, Ga., is comprised of 10 vacation chalets, five two-bedroom, one-bath units and five two-bedroom, two-bath units with a loft. The mountain resort that is being built in 10 chalet phases will eventually facilitate 70 vacation chalets.

Kappy King Cole & Associates is located in Suite 104 at 1619 Periwinkle Way on Sanibel.

Mariner projects honored

The Dunes, Sanibel's country club residential community, was recently named in the Metropolitan Fort Myers Chamber of Commerce "Business Can be Beautiful" Landscape Awards.

Also named in the awards was Cypress Square Shopping Center in Fort Myers, which, along with The Dunes, are projects of the Mariner Group Properties, Inc.

The Dunes and Cypress Square were among 15 winners selected from more than 60 nominees. Both Mariner developments won first place in their respective categories.

Selection was based on the nominees' use of mature and existing landscaping, according to Mike Lee, chamber of commerce director of special events.

Cypress Square on McGregor Boulevard in Fort Myers is an open-air shopping center and office park that features cobblestone walkways leading to retail gift shops, small business offices and restaurants.

The Dunes on Sanibel is a single-family development and golf club on a 5,800-yard golf course. Surrounded by protected mangroves, the Dunes offers homesites with golf course views in a sub-tropical setting.

Consideration for the natural environment of each development site was the basis of criteria in choosing winners, Lee said. Judges who were members of the Environmental Improvement Committee for the Chamber volunteered their time to review each business nominated.

Biographies, novels join Sanibel Library stacks

By Beth Manning, Librarian
Sanibel Public Library

P.G. Wodehouse by Frances Donaldson
The most recent biography of the well-loved author whose novels and stories have brought laughter and pleasure to millions of his readers.

Although most of the information here has been presented elsewhere, Donaldson does include many previously unpublished letters and a selection of "camp book notes" that were written in diary form by Wodehouse during his internment in Germany during World War II.

Much of the biography deals with Wodehouse's criticized broadcasts, which inferred that the Germans maintained humane treatment of war prisoners. Donaldson concludes, as do other biographers, that while Wodehouse may have acted foolishly, he was no traitor.

Wodehouse's personality is quite different than one would expect it to be, judging from his novels. He was extremely shy and introverted, a result of his somewhat sad childhood. Separated from his parents at an early age, he was raised by overbearing aunts, who no doubt provided a basis for Bertie Wooster's strange assortment of problems caused by his aunts in the Jeeves novels.

Wodehouse retreated into his own imagined world and lived the life of a near recluse; however, he was fortunate to have shared a long, happy relationship with his wife, Ethel, who helped to keep him in touch with the real world. His many fans will enjoy this intimate glimpse into the personal life he hid from the world during his lifetime.

Medea, by Miranda Seymour, author of The Goddess, a story of Helen of Troy - Presents the life of the sorceress Medea by

Carter, travels new topics at Captiva Library

By Fran McKinney, Librarian
Captiva Memorial Library

Taking Care of the Law by Griffin Bell, attorney general in the Carter administration - A frank and revealing book about that administration and the Washington political scene at that time.

A fellow Georgian, Bell tries to explain why Carter was not a more successful president; he emphasizes Carter's dedication to the country.

It is Bell's not very original opinion that politicians, especially Congressmen, do everything to improve their own positions and get publicity and only peripherally work for the good of the nation.

Bell outlines his conflicts with Congress and his run-ins with columnist Jack Anderson and suggests remedies for some of the country's major problems. An eye opener.

A Traveller's Life by Eric Newby, English

veteran world traveller who enjoys the off-beat places which, with the advent of the jet age, are slowly disappearing - While a planned itinerary may take the headaches out of travel, there is much to be said for a more carefree approach.

Newby has investigated all forms of travel from bicycling through Italy, riding the Orient Express and walking around New York City to flying overseas. His jobs have included a stint in the Royal Navy, buying for a department store and serving as travel editor for the London Observer.

His collection of essays on travel is far more interesting than the ordinary travel book.

A Woman of Her Times by G.J. Scrimgeour - One of the three new novels in the Captiva Library. For Elizabeth Wingate, wife of a British officer in Ceylon, pre-Wor means of her own confessions and also through the eyes of her two husbands, Jason and King Aegeus.

Medea starts off life innocently enough, using her powers to heal and to charm snakes. But as her own ambitions and her father's lust for power increase, her innocence vanishes and she uses her sorcery to take what she wants.

After learning magic from Circe, who turns out to be her real mother, Medea becomes a priestess to Hecate, goddess of the underworld. She meets and falls in love with Jason, helps him steal the golden fleece from her father, flees her homeland with him and becomes a murderess to keep her lover and to attain power for him.

Although a bit grim in places, this action-packed novel will entertain most readers.

The Eye That Never Sleeps by Frank

Morn - A history of the Pinkerton National Detective Agency. The agency was founded in Chicago in 1855 by Scots immigrant Allan Pinkerton in response to a lack of regional police protection following the growth of the railroad.

The agency retained its ties to the railroad until the turn of the century, when the second generation of Pinkertons, Robert and William, shifted its emphasis to union infiltration and "strike service," earning for it the reputation of an anti-union agency.

Morn presents an excellent study of the private detective agency, and his social commentary provides interesting reading to both the academic and general audience.

Summer hours for the library are from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday.

War I living is pampered but monotonous. In the '20's the Wingates move to London and take on a social life common to the rich of that era. Their daughter grows up, but she and her mother have a rift.

At the death of her husband, Elizabeth wants a change. She goes to Hollywood and, even though unprepared for work, becomes a real estate agent. She becomes involved in films and she and her daughter become friends once more. Elizabeth Wingate adapts to many life situations and survives, but it is a lonely life.

Under the Apple Tree by Dan Wakefield - A nostalgic novel of the times just before and during World War II as seen through the eyes of a young man.

Ten-year-old Artie Graber idolizes his older brother, Roy, who is in high school. Their close, down-to-earth family lives in a small midwest town when war breaks out. Older brother Roy, who is a top notch high school athlete, learns he is flunking out and enlists in the Marines.

The story follows Artie's adolescence as he goes through all the stages - always writing letters to his brother, missing him and trying to emulate him. A love story adds to the plot of this charming tale.

'Til Morning Comes by Han Suyin - Similar in many ways to her earlier novel, Love is a Many Splendored Thing. 'Til Morning Comes is a tender love story with a Chinese background.

Stephanie Ryder, a wealthy American girl, falls in love with a handsome Chinese doctor, Jen Yong, though such a connection is frowned on by the state and by Stephanie's father, a Texas millionaire.

The lovers flee to the mountains in northern China and have a difficult time as the political situation changes. But their passion survives the revolution, World War II, the Cultural Revolution and, finally, separation. This is a touching love story with a Chinese setting.

Other new books in the Captiva Library this week include The Terrible Twos by Ishmael Reed; Touch the Devil by Jack Higgins; The Red Smith Reader by Red Smith; Who Killed Sal Mineo by Susan Braudy; and Suicide in America by Herbert Hendin.

The Captiva Library announces its new hours:

Tuesday, Thursday, Friday 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m.
Wednesday 9 a.m.-9 p.m.
Saturday 9 a.m.-12:30 p.m.

Shopping

Sanibel is a veritable shopper's paradise. Tasteful boutiques and casual island shops join forces to present visitors with everything and anything a vacation shopper could hope for.

At the Lighthouse (Eastern end of the island, Punta Ybel Plaza and the Sea Horse Shops are right across the street from one another, providing a variety of products that can cure your sweet tooth or tickle your shell finder's fancy. Need a good haircut or coiffure? You can get it in either of these shopping centers.

Most businesses open at 10 a.m. and close at 5:30 p.m. This is true for many island stores, although some are open evenings during the winter season.

Tall Australian Pines shade Periwinkle Way and the shopper travels west along this main thoroughfare. This stretch of road is truly a shopper's paradise! It's all here -- the fast and not-so-fast eating spots, casual and elegant boutiques, hand-wrought jewelry, craft designs, shell shops and balms for health product fanatics.

Watch to your right and left as you drive or cycle along. Photographic supplies, bait and tackle, deli foods, fresh seafood and baked goods, knick-knacks and what-nots can all be found along the drive to the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road. Along the way, shopping centers such as the Heart of the Islands, Periwinkle Place and Tahitian Gardens offer a variety of island delights.

Palm Ridge Road, the Periwinkle Way turn-off to Captiva, offers several shopping centers featuring everything from imports to gift shops for the discriminating shopper, plants and shells, a sandwich shop, ice cream parlors, pizza parlor, boutique shop and the Island Apothecary pharmacy.

At the Tarpon Bay-Periwinkle Way intersection, the Island Shopping Center features the island's only supermarket and movie house.

A left on Tarpon Bay Road takes the visitor past Sanibel's original schoolhouse, which now holds original island watercolors and woodcuts.

Then on to West Gulf Drive and westward to an interesting little artisan shop and gallery.

At the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road, you may choose instead to turn right and follow the signs to the Tarpon Bay marina, where you will find a cluster of quaint shops overlooking the back bay. Some antiques, shells and shellcrafts, what-nots and clever clothes can be found here, as well as a great seafood sandwich and soft drinks.

The spectacular ride to Captiva, with its lush foliage and enchanting view of the Gulf, is well worth a day's outing. Talented artists display their works in one roadside shop, while others feature some nifty gifts for Grandma to take home to little hands as a pleasant hodge-podge of remembrances from these barrier islands.

Whether for shopping or merely browsing, island shops offer a surprising variety from one-of-a-kind collectibles for the discerning shopper to postcards for the simple souvenir hunter. And of course, for all shells -- shell jewelry, shell lamps, just plain shells -- the most beautiful shells in the world from the most beautiful shelling beaches in the world.

 Just off the Causeway on Causeway Road
 472-1080
 Open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Sundays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

SHELLING

The city's resolution limiting the taking of live shells to two live shells per species per person is one to be scrupulously obeyed. As a matter of fact, in order to preserve Sanibel's beautiful shelling beaches, most collectors refuse to take any live shells whatsoever.

DOGGY DO'S AND DON'TS

If you are visiting Sanibel with the family Fido in tow, all the better. All family members can enjoy Southwest Florida sun and surf. The Chamber of Commerce can tell you what accommodations are available for families with pets.

Remember: Wherever you are, clean up after your pet! "Leave nothing on the beach but footprints" applies to dogs, too. There's no leash law on Sanibel, but of course an excitable or unruly animal is better off when controlled with a leash.

FISH Friends in Service Here

Neighborly help for Islanders in need of transportation, regular phone checks and assorted non-emergency neighborly services. Call 472-0404, 24 hours a day.

WARNING! SAFEGUARD YOUR VALUABLES

In order to protect your valuable possessions from theft, it is recommended that you take them to a bank or hotel vault for safekeeping. Do NOT leave them in your room or car.

CAMPING, BEACH FIRES

Camping on the beach is prohibited, as are open beach fires. An exemption to the beach fire ordinance is a fire in an approved cooking container (not to exceed 48x24x12 inches deep) with an extruded metal grill for non-commercial food preparation. This type of container will be allowed on the beach without a permit. After you have had your beach party, please assume the responsibility for cleaning up any debris or litter in your area.

FISHING

While no license is required for saltwater fishing, fishing in freshwater ponds or the Sanibel River requires a Florida fishing license. Licenses are available at Bailey's General Store on Periwinkle Way. The fee is $6.50 for residents and $10.50 for non-residents. Minimum Legal Lengths Blue Fish 10 inches

Flounder	11 inches
Grouper	12 inches
Mackerel	12 inches
Mullet	12 inches
Pompano	10 inches
Red Fish	12 inches
Snook	18 inches
Trout	12 inches

Snook fishing is outlawed from June 30-Aug. 1.

GATORS

Feeding alligators anywhere within the Sanibel city limits is not only illegal, but can be extremely dangerous. Alligators can run up to 45 mph, so if you are close enough to feed an alligator, he is close enough to bite you. An alligator fed for fun loses his natural fear of humans and becomes a potential threat to children and pets. Dogs should never be permitted to run free on Sanibel.

Fence them, walk them on a leash or, if you must free your dog for a walk, keep him under voice control. Never tie your dog in an unfenced back yard. For help with a nuisance alligator, call the following representatives of the Southwest Florida Alligator Association. They are licensed and have permits to legally handle gators: George Campbell, 472-2825; Steve Phillips, 472-2329; Mark Westall, 472-5128.

SPEED LIMITS

There is very good reason for the varying speed limits (20-30 mph) along the Causeway. The slower speeds preserve the bridge supports from strain and stress. This speed limit is strictly enforced with radar on a 24-hour basis by both the Sanibel Police Department and the Lee County Sheriff's Department.
