Council gets first look at proposed $2.46 million budget

By Barbara Brundage

The City Council had its first look at Sanibel's proposed $2.46 million budget for the fiscal year 1982-83 last Thursday and set Monday, Sept. 13, as the date for the first public hearing on the fiscal plan.

The budget is $162,000 higher than this year's and includes all the special projects that have been discussed, City Manager Bernie Murphy assured the council.

Included are funds to begin construction of the new City Hall, to move the historic Rutland home to the City Hall site, to repair the Periwinkle Way bike path and improve the drainage and to provide $10,000 for the acquisition of wetlands by the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation and $20,000 for the control and removal of melaleucas and Brazilian peppers.

Murphy did not encourage nor were any of the four councilmen present ready to begin a line-by-line review of the 35-page document.

"The proper time for that, following TRIM bill guidelines, is at the first public hearing," Murphy said.

The proposed millage rate is tentatively Sanibel Lt. Ray Rhodes, top, was all smiles and Charlie Miller, below, was into some serious pitching at the Sanibel Police Recreation Club Horseshoe Pitching Tournament on Saturday.

The tournament raised $600 for the team of seven Sanibel policemen who leave today for the International Police Olympics in Austin, Texas. For final results and more photos by David Meardon, see page 4B.

Writer finds history, intrigue in grave robbing mystery

By Maggie Greenberg

Islanders do not often have the opportunity to become intimately involved in a real, live (or dead) mystery. Law and order generally prevail on Sanibel, and our "finest" do their very best to keep things that way.

One Saturday evening, July 25 to be precise, I received a most intriguing call from Gladys and Harold Anderson, who have lived on Sanibel for some 15 years.

It seems my good friends had been exploring the Wulfert area with their grandchildren that afternoon in search of air plants, cactus fruit and various prickly things that have great redeeming value for a creative artist like Gladys. They also wanted to show their grandchildren the grave of Oliver Bowen, one of Sanibel's first homesteaders.

Locating the site of this solitary, well-camouflaged grave was no problem for the Andersons, since they once lived around Wulfert Road for eight years. But they were shocked and stunned to discover someone had recently dug up Oliver Bowen's grave!

It is often said that, "Timing is everything." However, timing and coincidence are an unbeatable combination!

"You won't believe this, Gladys, but I just finished reading Elinore Dormer's chapter on the homesteaders this very afternoon!"

Since I do not always remember what I read, I promised the Andersons that I would call them back - and made a dash for Dormer's informative book, The Sea Shell Islands.

In a few paragraphs, Dormer portrays a strange, mysterious man whose death did nothing whatsoever to allay wild speculation as to the mystery of his life.

Now that my curiosity could no longer be contained, I called the Andersons and we agreed upon a joint expedition the following day. We were joined by another friend whom I cajoled into coming along (even though visiting vandalized graves was not her idea of a civilized way in which to spend a Sunday afternoon).

The Andersons drove us to the site in their van, since only they knew where to go. (Incidentally, Harold Anderson has provided this van with every comfort and equipped it for nearly every contingency. Gladys brings along a welcome jug of iced tea for summer junkets.)

After a brief stop at Bailey's to arm ourselves with two bombs of Cutter's - a modern invention that our homesteaders of the 1890's would most certainly have prized - we drove to the Wulfert area. En route, I gave a refresher course (courtesy of Dormer) on the mystery-shrouded life of one Captain Oliver F. Bowen, who died on Feb. 17, 1894.

As many Islanders know, homesteaders came to the Wulfert area in the mid-1890's. They braved the elements (including malicious mosquitoes) and raised several fruit and vegetable crops. Some merely survived and some prospered, but all had to give up farming when early 20th century hurricanes sowed salt in the land.

From the very beginning (1893) until the very parid end (1894) Oliver Bowen was a most atypical homesteader. According to Dormer, he had a rather "shadowy past." The precise nature of his profitable seafaring, for years between Africa and Jamaica, is unspecified. The precise nature of his success in "business" is also unspecified.

In any event, Bowen was clearly a man of property when he came to homestead on Sanibel together with his Jamaican wife and their children.

During his first year of homesteading,

3. He guarded this well by lying in a hammock - right over the well, apparently - and remained in his supine state of suspension for most of the time until his death.

Following his death in 1894, Bowen continued to guard the well. His widow carried out implicitly her husband's strange instructions regarding his burial:

1. The deep well was filled up to a certain point.

2. The captain's coffin was placed on top of the fill.

Was Bowen really so ornery as to impose undue hardship upon his survivors by having

Council votes on Eckerd's $10,000 contribution today

By Barbara Brundage

The City Council will determine today whether a $10,000 contribution from Eckerd Drugs to improve the intersection at Palm Ridge Road and Periwinkle Way is "equitable."

The offer was made by Eckerd's representative George Buttery during a hearing last week at which the Planning Commission approved the drug store chain's development permit to build a store on Palm Ridge Road.

Assistant City Manager Gary Price said traffic that will be generated by the 10,700-square-foot drug store has increased the need for improvements of the intersection that is a frequent bottleneck during the busy winter season.

"In a way, they are paying for an impact they're creating," Price said.

At last week's hearing Commissioner Arthur Wycoff questioned whether $10,000 is an appropriate share of the $22,000 construction cost.

"The issue of asking developers to pay for construction of streets is becoming increasingly sensitive," Wycoff said. "This improvement may turn out to be only a stopgap measure and the taxpayers may end up picking up the tab."

The council will also be asked today to approve Eckerd's dedication of 24 feet of additional right-of-way along Periwinkle

Way. The northern 10 feet will be used by Eckerd's for a vegetation buffer.

When it was announced last April that the chain planned to build a store on Sanibel, there was much speculation that the impact of the discount drug store that is in reality a department store would not only put the two existing Island pharmacies out of business but would also adversely affect other retail businesses.

But no opposition surfaced at last week's commission meeting.

The store building itself will be located directly south of the fire station on Palm Ridge Road with parking for 56 cars provided south on the property to Periwinkle Way.

The driveway that will provide the only access to the parking lot is opposite the entrance to Palm Ridge Plaza, Price pointed out in describing the realignment of the new intersection.

To ease the traffic flow Price has suggested removing the separate right turn lane and replacing it with a standard T-intersection, eliminating the center island.

Commissioner Emily Barefield's motion to approve the development permit subject to 13 conditions recommended by the planning staff passed 4-0.

The commission also requested the council to take a "hard look" at the $10,000 contribution.

Author urges weir controls

A copy of the following letter to George Campbell from water resources analyst John Clark was given to The Islander for publication.

Dear George,

I read your article "Ecological Disaster: Part III" in The Islander (June 15) with dismay. I cannot believe that city officials would act in such uninformed panic as to endanger the future livability of Sanibel.

Sanibel's major defense in case of hurricane strike is a full pool of water in the central wetlands. A positive head of water inside will reduce the hydraulic erosive force of an inward moving hurricane surge. It will offer protection to the freshwater aquifers that no other means can offer — keeping saltwater out of the freshwater table is essential to the livability of much of the Island.

Also, let me point out that lowering the water in the central wetlands would not reduce flooding from a large hurricane. The surge would pass right over the Island, temporarily flooding 90 percent of the whole Island. It would fill an empty central reservoir with saltwater, with no protection from stored freshwater.

I hope you will convey my fears to appropriate city officials so that tighter contingency controls can be enacted for the future.

Sincerely,
John Clark

Resident outlines significant contributions of Vernon MacKenzie

To the Editor
The Islander

The impact of the late Vernon MacKenzie on the political and environmental well-being of this area deserves a more fitting memorial than attaching his name to the Sanibel City Council meeting room.

It is hoped that the recognition he merits will be more suitably memorialized when the new Sanibel City Hall is constructed.

Consider the record.

For almost a decade Vernon MacKenzie used his considerable knowledge and penetrating insight to protect and enhance life on Sanibel and Captiva. First as chairman of the Sanibel-Captiva Planning Board and later as city councilman and vice mayor of Sanibel, he played a leading role in

Howe credits BOTI for protecting customers

To the Editor
The Islander

Congratulations to the Bank of the Islands (BOTI) for the alacrity with which it acted to protect us depositors and investors in its operations. They have averted a potential and undue loss to us in the pending Captran bankruptcy proceedings.

Barbara Brundage's July 27 report on Captran's threatened suit against BOTI for alleged violations of banking laws and practices seemed to set forth clearly the basic and pertinent facts of the incident.

Significantly, she quoted Captran's own attorney as stating: "Technically a bank has the right to call loans if it feels insecure about a customer's credit."

Reason for such a feeling by BOTI was amply confirmed by Captran President Keith Trowbridge's quoted remark that selling of Captran's assets at prices in today's real estate market "incredibly less than their value would wreak havoc to Captran and the resort sharing industry."

Trowbridge's feared "havoc" certainly threatens his ability to honor his oral pledge to pay off his creditors "100 cents on the dollar." Recent press reports of other suits pending against Captran's assets also indicating that BOTI's loan repayment could be further unduly delayed — if not ultimately impaired.

This whole matter should be viewed in the light of the meaning of Chapter 11 bankruptcy proceedings of the federal law. Authoritative Black's Law Dictionary points out the Chapter 11 provisions differ from straight bankruptcy in that the debtor looks to rehabilitation and reorganization rather than liquidation; and the creditors look to future earnings of the bankrupt rather than property held by the bankrupt to satisfy their claims.

Assuming reasonable accuracy of recent and various press reports on the tribulations of Captran, it seems clear that BOTI is actually the threatened party in this dispute.

Had BOTI's officers not acted in such a prudent and timely manner, its many loyal and trusting depositors and stockholders would have had adequate grounds for suing for breach of fiduciary trust. Such an action would, indeed, have put the kibosh on the bank's continued service to us Islanders.

Where do the equities lie in this matter?

Sincerely,
Paul Howe

fighting for the welfare of the Islands and their people.

Without his leadership, dedication and inspiration it is doubtful if the incorporation of Sanibel as an independent Lee County municipality would ever have been achieved.

Few people know the magnitude and variety of his contributions to the Islands prior to his retirement. As chairman of the old non-profit and non-legislative Planning Board he battled with the County Commission on every issue that threatened the environmental integrity of Sanibel and Captiva. He attended almost every Wednesday commission meeting and never

AN EYE FOR THE ISLANDS

By Maggie Greenberg

Editor's note: This is the second in Maggie Greenberg's two-part series on a long weekend in Key West.

I happen to believe that no American Chamber of Commerce will willfully, and without warning, expose four women to anything remotely untoward. When I am in a strange place, their brochures represent the latest word from Mount Sinai.

In any event, we enjoyed every restaurant that we visited during the course of our long weekend on Key West. The cuisine in Key West is often exquisitely continental, truly inspired -- and the bill for such fare frequently soars to equal or surpass such flights of culinary fancy.

Feeling utterly sated after our first dinner in Key West, we decided to walk about the old part of the city. Now, Duval Street is to Key West what Periwinkle Way is to Sanibel -- the main downtown thoroughfare. Apart from that similarity, however, the two streets have absolutely nothing in common.

At a time when Periwinkle is about to turn off its lights, Duval Street comes alive. A long caravan of convertibles crawls up and down this famous thoroughfare. All seem to be equipped with stereos, and all occupants seem to favor the monotonous "thump thump thump" of disco music -- at full volume, of course.

The cacophony of this endless caravan faces a certain competition from the equally powerful stereos of Duval Street stores and bars that are open until the wee hours.

While convertibles, bars and small businesses vie for ribes, pedestrians dodge descendants of Ernest Hemingway's cats (whose mothers must have mated with dogs), and scruffy dogs (whose mothers must have mated with descendants of Hemingway's cats).

Having passed a number of stores selling items that would normally come through the mail in plain brown wrapping paper, we decided that four Sanibelles really did not belong on Duval Street after dark.

In consulting the Chamber of Commerce brochure, I felt rather like a Helen Hokinson woman in search of a suitable night spot for four ladies on holiday who were not quite ready to call it quits after dinner.

"Aha! Here's a place in the chamber booklet that shows old movies until 9:00, followed by dancing and entertainment. And it's within walking distance of our motel. Let's go girls." (Have you ever noticed that groups of women -- of any age -- invariably refer to themselves as "girls," but tend to bristle if others fail to refer to them as "ladies"?)

In any event, "les girls" were quite willing to entrust their lives to the same Chamber of Commerce brochure that had steered them to such a superb dinner. We made our way to the night spot in question, ordered libations and settled down to watch the old movie that was already in progress.

Now, when someone says "old movie" to me, I tend to think of Charlie Chaplin cavorting about, Sir Laurence Olivier being devastatingly romantic in Pride and Prejudice (without actually doing anything either overt or covert), Greta Garbo being her incomparable self as a very naughty, Scandinavian queen, or some incomprehensible pre-Revolutionary Russian actor portraying a dreadfully nasty Ivan the Terrible.

I'm not quite sure what old movie we saw, but it was most certainly none of the above. Fortunately, it was soon over, and the lights went on.

One illumination often leads to another. We soon realized that we were the only women in the entire establishment! At first, we agreed that such a circumstance was rather fortuitous and not without redeeming features. But many minutes went by. No one sent over drinks as a tribute to such a flock of feminine pulchritude. In fact, no one paid the slightest attention to us!

I was beginning to think we all had to face up to the Helen Trent "thirty-five-and-more" syndrome, when the wisest member of our group interrupted such depressing reveries with the following pronouncement:

"Girls, I don't think this is our kind of place!"

We left rather hurriedly. Although haste may often make waste, the old adage did not hold true in this case. Our safety was never at stake.

We were slightly sobered (but still rather titillated) by this brief encounter with Key West's version of the modern imperative: "Let it all hang out!" (In Key West, this imperative is taken either literally or figuratively - with nearly equal frequency.) In any event, we returned to our motel, firm in the conviction that the third lesson was quite similar to the two that had preceded it:

Lesson Number Three: "They would never allow this on Sanibel!"

A long weekend tends to fly by, and we quickly filled our time with snorkeling trips, tennis, sight-seeing and magnificent meals. Since our Sunday flight left early in the evening, we decided to splurge on our last afternoon. A well-known local restaurant offered the double temptation of an exquisite Sunday brunch followed by an afternoon "tea dance."

Needless to say, the brunch was well worth the splendid splurge. Countless delicacies were quickly disposed of with the aid of quantities of soothing mimosas (champagne-orange juice-triple sec) -- a liquid refreshment that has the distinct tendency to sneak up on you.

After such a brunch, we all felt quite prepared for anything -- as long as "anything" required neither movement nor the slightest effort on our part.

Drowsily ensconced on a balcony, overlooking a swimming pool and a small stage, we were ready to watch the afternoon "tea dance."

Frankly, I did not know quite what to expect at a modern tea dance. The idea conjured up visions of ladies with parasols and rather distinguished-looking gentlemen in formal attire, dancing together in a subdued manner to the subtle strains of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart. Of course, I did not really expect anything quite so fin du siècle. However, I was not at all prepared for a spectacle that can only be termed "fin du monde!"

No one ever seemed to dance with anyone else. Rather, every aspiring danseur (or danseuse) did his (or her) "own thing." Exhausting, but graceful, gyrations in every conceivable position and direction were frequently followed by an ungainly splash into the pristine pool. Upon occasion, refreshed nymphs and satyrs would emerge from the pool clad in very little - or absolutely nothing at all!

The audience, which now filled every breathing space in the establishment, roared and applauded its approval of the tireless performers. Mildly outraged tourists, who certainly

Contractors association submits ROGO alternatives

The Sanibel-Captiva Contractors Association has charged that the point system used in the ROGO allocation of dwelling units to single-family home applicants when there are more applicants than units available in that category is "discriminatory, favoring the rich over the poor."

Sanibel contractors Bill Frey and Mark Comer, who spearheaded the organization of the new builders association, submitted to the City Council two alternatives to ease the "competition" created when home building plans are scored on 10 criteria, many of which are not applicable to single-family homes or involve only "spending more money."

"The selection on highest scores is completely judgmental," Frey told the council last Tuesday during a review of the proposed revision of the Rate of Growth Ordinance that was first adopted in 1978.

"Planning commissioners, though well meaning, are not competent to evaluate building plans and should not have to make such decisions," Frey said.

The contractors association has proposed two means of remedying the inequity of the current system — allocation by lottery or on a "first in, first out" basis.

Under both scenarios complete construction plans that comply with all the regulations of the Comprehensive Land Use Plan including minimal lot size would be required at the time of application for a development permit.

Under the "first in, first out" mode, when the complete application is certified by the Planning and Building departments the application would be assigned a sequentially numbered, dated time of receipt notice, and allocations will be made in that order.

Under the second alternative permit allocations would be determined on a chance drawing basis.

Failure to begin construction within 60 days of allocation would constitute abandonment of the allocation unless an extension is granted as provided for in the current ordinance.

Applicants not receiving allocations would be carried forward to the next period.

If an allocation is not received after three drawings the applicant would be automatically granted one in the fourth period.

The point system originally won out over such "flipus coinus" methods as a lottery following legal advice that the point system would be more defensible in court.

In answer to the question raised by Councilmen Duane White and Fred Valtin as to whether the contractors' alternatives are legal and defensible, City Attorney Neal Bowen said that though they might be fair they are "arbitrary in the legal sense."

"The whole ROGO program is legally controversial," Bowen explained. "But the end result — managed growth — is constitutionally permissible, and the legally defensible means to achieve it must also be constitutionally permissible."

The criteria used in judging the applications are "grounded on the police powers granted a municipality" and are not arbitrary, Bowen said.

Frey argued that the equity of a probabilistic method of selection such as a lottery might fare better in the courts than charges of discrimination generated by the point system.

The perceived benefit of improving the quality of construction by scoring building plans on criteria that include such energy conservation devices as oversized overhangs, big porches and ceiling fans has not materialized, Councilman Francis Bailey pointed out.

"The quality of homes has not improved one iota," he said. "I never was an advocate of ROGO and would just as soon see the whole thing thrown out."

Councilman Duane White reminded the council that the main objective of ROGO was to control the rate of growth on Sanibel. He added ROGO has succeeded in that respect.

White, who said he was "totally for ROGO," acknowledged there are flaws in the ordinance.

The contractors are opposed to other proposed changes in the ordinance recommended by the Planning Commission.

The proposal to include one duplex in the single-family home category with two or more considered multi-family construction is unfair, Sanibel contractor Robert Horak told the council.

"A duplex will always be able to score better than a single-family home, especially in the area of energy conservation," Horak contended. "It will also make it easy for a developer to circumvent the multi-family competition," he added.

The ROGO ordinance was amended last year to treat all duplexes as multi-family in the ROGO allocation process. But some councilmen felt it put at a distinct disadvantage the "little guy who wanted to build one duplex to live in one unit and rent out the other" to have to compete with large condominium developments.

Council-watcher Paul Howe suggested that the number of ROGO reserve categories could be increased by adding a Duplex A and B.

The problem of determining beneficial use, always troublesome to planning commissioners, appears partially solved by a proposed addition to the ordinance that suggests any application that has received an allocation of one or more dwelling units should be considered to have beneficial use.

Planning Director Bruce Rogers conceded that there is no definition of beneficial use in the ordinance — a lack both Vice Mayor Mike Klein and Councilmen Valtin consider a weakness in the document.

But Bowen said that, "Any viable use of a property is a beneficial use."

Bridge near Yachtsman Drive to be closed for repairs

The bridge on east Periwinkle Way just west of Yachtsman Drive will be closed to all boat traffic from Aug. 9 through Aug. 20, Public Works Director Gary Price announced Friday.

One lane traffic for automobiles will be maintained on the bridge during the repairs, Price said.

Repairs are already underway on the box culvert that engineers say is on the verge of collapse. Water in the canal must be drained to permit installation of new pilings, Price explained.

The canal provides boaters quick access to the bay. An alternate exit for small boats is under the Anchor Drive wooden bridge, Price said.

A special notice of the closing was delivered to each of the approximately 99 homes in the Shell Harbor area that are affected, Price added.

Extension denied for lawfully existing use at F&B

The Planning Commission turned thumbs down last week on a City Council suggestion to extend for 25 years the trigger date when the F & B Oyster Company, currently a lawfully existing commercial use in a residential zone, would be required to revert to residential zoning if more than 50 percent destroyed.

The council made the suggestion as an alternate to changing the zoning on the Periwinkle Way property to commercial, as requested by Carbro, Inc., the property owners.

The Planning Commission earlier recommended council denial of the zoning change. It was council consensus that it was only fair to ask the commissioners for a recommendation on the new proposal.

If implemented it would give the seafood restaurant the right to operate until July 1, 2007, before the reversion ruling would apply.

The four commissioners agreed that the restaurant should be treated the same as other lawfully existing use properties and be required after 1990 if 50 percent destroyed to revert to residential use.

Commissioner Emily Barefield's motion to deny the extension passed by a 4-0 vote.

Commissioners Louise Johnson, Bill Hagerup and Larry Simon were absent.

Commission says no to lounge chair rentals

Casa Ybel Resort and Club's request to rent over-sized lounge chairs to its guests for use on the gulf beach forward of the Coastal Construction Setback Line was turned down last week by the Planning Commission.

"They'd be really ugly," Commissioner Emily Barefield declared. "Twenty of them lined up on the beach would be wall-to-wall cabanas."

The planning staff had recommended approval of the request on a one-year trial basis.

The commission suggested that the lounges that Casa Ybel General Manager Steve Daw described as about the size of a double bed be permitted on the beach only during daylight hours and that they be stored well behind the CCSL when not in use.

But Commissioner Arthur Wycoff said a one-year trial would only invite more unwanted commercial uses on the beach.

"The best way to stop it is before it gets started," Barefield added.

It was commission consensus that renting the chairs would be a commercial use, which is not permitted in the Gulf Beach ecological zone.

Daw argued that the arrangements to rent the lounges would not take place on the beach and, therefore, the commercial use would be within the resort itself.

Last spring Code Enforcement Officer Dick Baker cited the resort for renting the chairs without obtaining a development permit for the operation. The resort complied and the chairs were removed from the beach, Daw said.

On the basis that the rental operation is a commercial use not permitted, the commissioners approved Barefield's motion to deny the request by a 4-0 vote.

In addition they recommended that the City Council adopt a policy for resort accessory uses to be incorporated into the Comprehensive Land Use Plan.

Council sets Aug. 31 - Sept. 14 for qualifying candidates

Candidates for two City Council seats now held by Porter Goss and Duane White may file nominating petitions at City Hall beginning at noon on Tuesday, Aug. 31.

The period for qualifying to run for office in the Nov. 2 general election ends at noon on Sept. 14.

An ordinance setting Nov. 16 as the date for a run-off election that will be required if no candidate for either seat receives a majority of the votes cast will be adopted at the Aug. 17 meeting of the City Council.

Windsurfing shop to share gallery building

Windsurfing of Sanibel can share quarters with the Photographers' Gallery in a building on Periwinkle Way on a six-month trial basis, the Planning Commission agreed last week.

Currently operating behind the Landlubber Plaza Center, Windsurfing needs a more visible location, owner Peter Sanger wrote the commission.

"We feel strongly that we can do a much better job of servicing the people of Sanibel from retail space directly on Periwinkle Way," he explained.

Windsurfing rents and sells windsurfing equipment and accessories and also teaches customers how to windsurf.

"Most of the instruction and rentals will be carried on off the retail premises either on the Causeway spoil islands or at South Seas Plantation resort on Captiva," Sanger said.

A trailer to store up to 24 windsurfers will be parked in an area not visible from Periwinkle Way.

Planning Director Bruce Rogers pointed out that approval of the request will put two businesses where there is now only one.

But there is an historical basis for permitting two businesses, he said, and the building already has interior partitions and two access doors at the front.

The 1,500-square-foot commercial retail floor space in the building is far in excess of the current floor area ratio for the site.

Parking may become a problem, too, Rogers said, with only four spaces in front of the building and four or five additional spaces on the west property line, where employees are required to park.

If parking or surfboard storage have become a problem by the end of six-month period, Windsurfing's use of the space will be reviewed and may be terminated at the option of the Planning Department and-or Planning Commission.

Tentative budget accepted for canal maintenance district

The City Council, acting as the Board of Governors for the Shell Harbor Canal Maintenance District, has accepted a $315,000 tentative budget for operation of the special taxing district in the fiscal year 1982-83.

At a special meeting last Thursday City Manager Bernie Murphy, as the district's executive director, pointed out that no new taxes will be assessed precluding the need for setting a millage rate.

A public hearing on the proposed budget was scheduled for 6:55 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 13, immediately preceding the first public hearing on the 1982-83 municipal budget.

Expected revenues in the district budget include $290,000 from 1981 ad valorem taxes collected from property owners in the district, $15,000 due from delinquent taxes and $10,000 interest on the tax monies being held in escrow until litigation filed against the district is settled.

Last November the Board of Governors voted to authorize expenditures only from the interest collected on the escrow account until the lawsuit filed by the Mariner Point Condominium Association seeking the complex's removal from the district's jurisdiction is resolved.

Gordon Kiddoo, a Shell Harbor resident, said he objects to the budget's not appropriating funds specifically for legal fees to move the lawsuit that has been pending in the courts for more than a year "off dead center."

City Attorney Neal Bowen, speaking as the district's attorney, informed Kiddoo that the plaintiffs have amended their complaint three times. "That takes time," Bowen said.

However, a hearing on the plaintiff's complaint that preliminary engineering reports were incomplete is set for Aug. 30 in Lee County Circuit Court, he said.

"If you know a way to speed up the proceedings I wish you'd tell me," Bowen asked Kiddoo.

"Residents of Shell Harbor would be willing to be taxed again to get something done," Kiddoo said, adding that one alternative would be for the district to file a counter suit.

The special taxing district was established by referendum of the property owners concerned in November 1980 as a means of financing dredging and maintenance of the network of canals in the Shell Harbor area.

To levy taxes for 1982-83 would require a referendum of the property owners to approve the millage rate, Bowen reminded the governors.

Should Mariner Pointe win in court, it is possible the district might be dissolved, Bowen has pointed out. In that event taxes already collected would have to be refunded, and a shortfall would result if any of the funds are expended, he warned.

ON THE WATER

By Captain Mike Fuery

There is a trend in fishing now to use lighter test line to hook and land larger and larger fish. I'm not much interested in setting world records with the biggest fish on the tiniest line, but I would like to share some observations on the success rate of using relatively light weight line.

I guess the problem for most of us, whether we are casual anglers or once-a-month fishermen, is that in the back of our heads we are afraid that if we go too light on line diameter we will loose that "once in a life time big fish."

So the obvious reaction to counter that is to use just a little bit heavier size than you might actually need. You may have lost a big one once, but it won't happen again!

In the summer I usually fill my reel spools with 20-pound test Ande Line (I test line for this West Palm Beach based firm whose fishing lines are made in West Germany). It's very good line.

Anyway, this time of the year we usually fish around the passes and along shore. Both areas have large numbers of underwater snags, and some places have sunken trees, all of which tend to break off your line should tide, boat movement or hooked fish get you tangled.

With 20-pound line you are reasonably sure that a hard yank on the rod will free the line or perhaps break the hook. But it's often that you can get away without loosing any line, or very little of it.

The trouble with 20-pound is that it casts poorly for any distance. Certainly, you can toss a pinfish, quarter-ounce sinker and leader a good 50 feet with some accuracy, maybe a bit more. But, especially with any tide running, you will notice that the tide gets a grip on 20-pound and moves it around, puts a belly in it and perhaps causes more snags because of it.

The easiest way to see this is to have rods with both 20-pound and 12-pound test lines of any manufacturer. If you are on a bridge or, better yet, if you are drifting a pass for redfish, trout, grouper or snapper, you can see that 12-pound will cast about 50 percent further and will lay right in behind the boat better.

With the lighter line you will feel strikes a bit sooner, but on the other hand you will loose more line to snags. And yes, you might loose that big snook on 12, where with 20 you would have had a better chance. Still, with the lighter line you will get more strikes.

There's a limit of how light you can successfully go, however. There are several world records set on monster fish using two-pound line. That's like a thread, but it takes skill and lots of patience and experience.

The other day Capt. Larry Gann and I were comparing notes about catching redfish in one of the passes. I said I was using 12 instead of 20 and doing pretty well. "Twelve?" Larry asked. "I'm only using 10!" He's one of those fishermen that love to use ultralight outfits, anyway.

So, if you seem to be getting fewer strikes, it won't cost you more than a couple of dollars to buy a spool of new fishing line. I would suggest eight- to 12-pound for most general fishing, especially for sea, trout which are in good supply this summer.

Remember to reduce your leader size, too. With trout, some anglers don't ever use a leader. They have two large teeth, but for holding bait, not chomping a leader. If you want to use a leader, 20-pound will do fine.

You are going to loose a big one on occasion, but overall you should catch more fish, and have more fun at it, with lighter line.

SHELLING TIPS

By Captain Mike Fuery

Sometimes it's not only the shells people look for as they walk the beaches. Sometimes they look for other items that lend themselves to home decoration or display.

Probably one of the most common sought after items is good driftwood. On the beaches here in Southwest Florida we don't see a large variety of wood, but what we have is good for use around the house or condo.

The wood most often found is mangrove. That's the tree that grows in the water around the Pine Island Sound side of the Islands and in low-lying interior parts of the Islands, too. I am familiar with three kinds of mangroves, black, white and red. But most mangrove pieces that wash up on the beach are without bark, so it doesn't make much difference which kind they are.

I look for the unusual curvature of the limbs and roots of this tree that virtually holds the Islands together and builds them larger.

The limbs seem to twist in odd directions, and this makes for a more interesting display. I rarely walk into a beach house that doesn't have some driftwood hanging for decoration.

In our house we used a thin curving branch to suspend a dozen or so sand dollars as a mobile. The possibilities are long if you have a good imagination.

Back on the beach you might also find some parts of the Australian pine. These are the tall trees that often grow around the beach. They have those little round seeds that make walking barefoot under this tree a delicate venture.

The Australian pines have poor tap root systems and consequently are often blown over in high winds or toppled by waves cutting under the surface roots near the beach. Either way, the pine makes its own set of oddly shaped roots that are worth collecting.

On occasion parts of broken planks or crates wash ashore. I've seen some interesting things done with them from oil painting to jewelry. Let your imagination take over.

Where to find good driftwood? Well, I would suggest driving to the free public beach at Bowman's Beach and turning west once you get to the shore. Walk for a mile or so on the high tide line to find wood.

This quiet beach great for swimming and shelling, too. You will have to walk a good way from the parking area to get any good specimens, however.

If you don't mind sloshing around in mud and sandy bottom, then get to one of the public access spots on the Pine Island Sound side of the Island and walk the mangrove tree line in the water. Look for wood washed way back into the roots of these trees.

Watch whose land you check over, however. Paying your $3 to get on the Island doesn't give you license to walk up on someone's beachfront property and help yourself to some driftwood they have collected. Don't laugh - it happens. Lots of beach homeowners have told of shellers coming right to the house and taking shells put around the outside for display.

Some of the upper islands such as North Captiva and Cayo Costa have good amounts of driftwood. Much of these islands are state owned, so you won't have to worry about having an irate homeowner to contend with.

Only trouble with driftwood is you can't very well take it back home if you come to the Islands by airplane. That's where small shells have the advantage.

Good shelling this week, and watch for that collectable driftwood.

Captain Mike Fuery offers daily shelling trips to North Captiva and Cayo Costa Islands. Call 472-3459 for information.

Whims of nature open, close link between Sanibel and Captiva

It has a dynamic history, subject to the whim of nature. The last time it was opened, the channel cut diagonally across Turner Beach, emptying into the gulf east of its present breakthrough.

Blind Pass is once again open, eight years after its most recent closing, thanks to a tropical storm on June 18 that sent waves crashing through to Roosevelt Channel breaking the sandy link that once joined Sanibel and Captiva.

Although it is not yet navigable by boat (the depth is from two to seven feet, and it is about 30 feet across, depending on the tides), and fishing is questionable at best, since the latest breakthrough Blind Pass has become a hot spot for tourists and locals alike.

Shelling is better than ever as endless waves leave millions of shells along the channel, where it is not uncommon to see avid shell seekers with shovels and even nets scooping up the latest from the deep.

Signs have been erected by the channel warning of the undertow that rips under the bridge during tide changes. Still, swimmers shoot the pass, jump from the bridge and even dive from the rocks by the parking lot.

Whether the pass will remain open for a long period is hard to speculate, as another storm could blow it in or widen it overnight. Still changing daily, Blind Pass is once again a pass, dividing the two Islands.

Heartburn or acid stomach is nature's warning that something has gone wrong in the digestive system. It could mean: 1) Some kind of food you have eaten doesn't agree with you. 2) You have eaten too much or too many varieties of food so that the digestive juices are confused (the kind that digests one type of food may interfere with the digestion of another food). 3) Emotional upset, at which time it is better not to eat at all, or simply a glass of milk or fresh vegetable juice. Pills are not the answer - determine the cause of stomach upset and correct the cause.

John Peurifoy

Age: 84

Height: 5'8" ("Not quite now.")

Roots: Lake County, Florida

Last Book Read: "Quite a few at one time."

Wish: "My only wish is to get up in the morning."

Words of Wisdom: "The only way to have a good neighbor is to be one. I've got a lot of good neighbors."

By Peggy Dailey

Sanibel's flower man, John Peurifoy, is at Bailey's almost every morning with flowers for the men, women and children -- whoever wants them.

He says he gives the beautiful blossoms away because he likes to make people feel good.

Peurifoy, who is a native of Lake County, Fla., near Orlando, is the son of a fruit grower. "My father was called the Watermelon King," he remembers.

He comes from a family of 10; five are still living, and he is the oldest survivor.

The Grand Island native picked and packed fruit when he was young. When he grew older he started in the construction business.

Then he grew cucumbers for a while before he bought a truck and drove it through Alabama and South Carolina. The Great Depression of 1929-30 found him in Texas and left him dead broke.

"Everybody should be broke in Texas," he says with a smile. "It's quite an experience."

He came to Sanibel in 1933 because there was agriculture and work here. He worked as a carpenter for many years and built his own home near the Gumbo Limbo area in 1950.

His white wooden house is decorated with both homey touches and touches of class. Cheneille bedspreads, a television, books, a mirrored dresser made of dark wood -- all very everyday. But the home could be a movie set for a house in the tropics.

Uncle John (he says people prefer to call him that) married in 1919. He and his wife, Fern, had been married 41 years -- he knows the time down to the day -- when Fern died in 1960.

"Fern is an Irish name, and my wife was just as Irish as she could be -- but not the regular way," he says with a smile. "Her grandmother came over on a ship after the potato famine (late 1840s); and she despised Catholics all her life. I don't know why. My wife's grandmother just didn't like them at all, and she had a large family.

"So, of course, every single one of her children married Roman Catholics. That's the way the world is," he adds.

Gentle and soft-spoken, Peurifoy switches topics and talks about his health. "I'm kind of proud," he says. "I'm almost 85 years old and I still don't take any kind of medication whatever."

He completely retired, except from gardening, in 1970. But the usual trials of the aged don't bother him a bit.

"Well, of course I own my house," he says. "And I intend to keep on owning it. People come around or drive by, and they come to the door and ask me if it is for sale. I guess I'll have to get a little sign, 'The house is NOT for sale.' Then maybe they'll get the idea."

He still drives, but he doesn't leave the Island when he is behind the wheel.

"I haven't driven over the Causeway in two years," he says. "And I used to go all the time before -- I bet I've taken more people from Sanibel to the doctor in Fort Myers than anyone else on the Island."

Is it faith that keeps Peurifoy going? No, he says. "I don't go to church. I believe in heaven, but I don't let heaven worry me."

He is saddened by the fact that there are so few people left who remember the old days. "There's probably not two or three people left who remember how it was when I came here," he says.

He is a registered Democrat, but only because years ago you had to be registered Democrat or you couldn't vote in many elections, he says. "It's only the man, not the party. I couldn't care less what the party says. I never voted a straight ticket once."

He spends his time tending his flowers and then taking them to Bailey's, which makes him at least as happy as the recipients of his kindness and generosity. He also reads -- sometimes large print books and sometimes talking books.

"A couple of years ago, I started having difficulty reading print," he explains. "And when you can't read you have to do something about it."

"I like to read and watch whatever is interesting," he proclaims. "Nothing special," he says, adding that The Price is Right is one favorite.

He does have a special flower he prefers to grow and give away, however. Hibiscus flowers are his favorites.

"They bloom better if you pick them every day," he explains.

Uncle John seems somewhat invulnerable to the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune.

"I just try to be happy," he says. "There's no reason not to be."

Council gets first look at proposed budget from page 1

set at 2.565, Murphy said, well below the rolled back rate of 2.654 mills set by the tax appraiser.

The proposed millage reflects the $132,428 credit to the ad valorem taxes, the city's share of the half cent increase in state sales tax, Murphy pointed out.

Without the sales tax credit Sanibel's ad valorem rate would have to be increased to 2.789 mills, Murphy added.

The millage rate for the 1981-82 budget was 2.548.

Two ordinances, one accepting the tentative budget and the second certifying the millage rate, were introduced for first readings at last Thursday's special meeting. Both are scheduled for second readings on Sept. 7 after 5:01 p.m.

That action is necessary, City Attorney Neal Bowen explained, to fulfill the city charter requirement that the annual budget must be adopted by ordinance.

Though the budget may be adopted by resolution under the TRIM bill, it requires that the millage be certified by ordinance, he added.

After public input in September the council has the option to juggle appropriations from one account to another, Murphy said. But he warned the council if the total budget figure is either lowered or raised it will invoke a long, complicated procedure involving new public notice and additional hearings.

"In this budget there are some monies unspecified to give you sufficient margin and adequate latitude to make changes," he told the council.

Police club needs funds for fireworks

The Sanibel Police Recreation Club still needs donations from Island residents and businesses to cover the $4,000 cost of the July 4 fireworks display the club sponsored at the Dunes Country Club.

Club member and Officer Mike Blackmore said several organizations that pledged donations before the event have not yet made their contribution.

Checks should be made to the Sanibel Police Recreation Club and mailed to the department, P.O. Box 438, Sanibel 33957, or delivered to police headquarters above MacKenzie Hall on Palm Ridge Road.

Fire Department announces classes in CPR

The Sanibel Fire Control District announces classes in CPR (Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation). Those interested in taking this life saving procedure should call the Sanibel Fire Department, 472-5525.

The class usually meets for two sessions and takes approximately eight hours to complete. A $5 donation is requested, which includes the cost of a text booklet. Group inquiries are welcome.

The Case of Lucy Bending by Lawrence Sanders — Another winner by the author of the best selling Tenth Commandment and Deadly Sins.

Set on Florida's eastern coast, this new story has plenty of sex and enough intrigue to guarantee it a spot on the top 10.

Lucy, a beautiful and usually well-adjusted 8-year-old, is taken by her parents, Ronald "Turk" and Grace Bending, to psychiatrist Theodore Levin because of her occasional pattern of antisocial behavior — she turns into a nymphet when she is around older men, particularly her parents' friends.

As Levin probes deeper and deeper into Lucy's and her parents' lives to discover a cause for her actions, he learns of the strong sexual and sometimes violent undercurrent that flows through the Bending's respectable circle of friends that includes Bill and Jane Holloway and Luther and Teresa Empt.

Turk Bending is having an affair with Jane Holloway, whose son Eddie is involved with Teresa Empt, whose husband Luther is supporting a reformed prostitute; meanwhile, Turk, Bill and Luther become partners in a mob-based business venture that involves processing pornographic films.

It is no wonder that Lucy has problems, and Levin, who believes that Florida's environment and climate is to blame for this promiscuous life-style, is determined to find out what Lucy witnesses that so affected her behavior, even if the discovery causes the destruction of another.

The various sub-plots combine to form a violent climax and should keep all readers entertained. The familiar Florida setting makes the story even more interesting.

Two new collections of short stories should prove to be popular with readers who enjoy the genres of detective stories and science fiction.

James, whose A Very Commonplace Murder tells the story of a voyeur who knows the truth about a murder; H.R.F. Keating; Cella Fremlin; and Ernest Dudley, whose Chinatown Cowboy provides a tough gangster yarn.

Many of the mysteries contain stories written in a lighter vein, such as Christianna Brand's The Niece from Scotland, one of the best stories from a lesser-known author, and Dan Marlowe's The Girl Who Sold Money about a counterfitter who prints 17 dollar bills.

The main attraction is the diversity of this excellent collection, which has something to appeal to everyone.

The Best from Fantasy and Science Fiction - The 24th edition of this popular series featuring stories and articles by the leading names in science fiction. Outstanding inclusions are Isaacs Asimov's discussion of "robotics," Philip Dick's story revealing the subtle cruelty of the alien mind, and Thomas Disch's delightful fantasy about the travels of various household appliances. Both readers of science and general fiction will enjoy these stories.

Summer hours for the library are from 10 a.m. - 2 p.m. Monday-Saturday and from 7-9 p.m. Wednesdays. The library will close Sept. 19 through Oct. 3 to take inventory.

I have no idea how long we might have stayed or what we may have missed by leaving in medias res. However, our group, like all groups, had a sober sage who finally announced:

"Girls, we have a plane to catch!"

Wafted aloft by the wings of the most minuscule member of the Amelia Earhart Airlines fleet, we chatted away about our great adventures in old Key West. Everyone loved the food, the snorkeling, the tennis, the sites and, most especially, all the naughty sights.

"Isn't it fun to get away like this and have such a good time?" (We all agreed.)

But, the fourth and final lesson was expressed most unequivocally by the least alert member of the group:

The case of the captain's coffin from page 2A

tain?

At this point in my historical monologue we arrived at the site. Harold led us to the grave, bravely tramping down the poison ivy in our way. Suddenly the tombstone was there, with a Masonic symbol between the following lines:

Oliver F. Bowen
(Masonic symbol)
Died Feb. 17, 1894

Clearly, what the police call "person or persons unknown" had also been there -- and very recently. They had dug several feet into the ground, laying bare two sides of the coffin. We saw no bones and did not know what might have happened to the last remains.

Despite generous sprays with Cutter's, we chose not to linger in the silent cove of mystery and mosquitoes. Once back in the van I recalled one of Dormer's final paragraphs on the Bowen family.

While Mary Bowen and her children returned to Jamaica in 1898, sons Albert and Richard came back to the Wulfert area some years later. Neighbors saw the brothers and two other men go into the old homestead "with digging tools" and then leave the premises "with bulging suitcases." Subsequently the four men vanished (although Albert Bowen did return in the early 1960's to erect the tombstone that now marks his father's grave).

The Andersons, my friend and I all agree that Bowen must have buried some treasure -- either in the coffin or under it. We are all equally convinced that sons Albert and Richard, together with two cohorts, retrieved this treasure some years after the captain's death.

However, digging up a grave is a felony offense, and we had to report our discovery of this recent crime to the Sanibel Police. Somehow, this task fell to me.

Within one hour of my call, Officer Anne Westbrook pulled in the driveway. Having spotted a cage of sorts in the back of her patrol car, I immediately opted for the front seat -- flanked by Westbrook and nudged at the knees by an enormous shotgun. My friend sat in the cage, whose doors had no handles inside.

The police seem to chatter a great deal on the radio. I soon found that we were "1012's" (visitors) guiding Westbrook to the scene of the Wulfert crime. We stopped briefly at the Three Star Grocery to inform Officer Bill Spognardi of our destination.

Everyone gawked at us! Perhaps they thought we had committed grand larceny a la Ma Barker! Perhaps they thought we were dope smugglers! What would our friends and neighbors say if they saw us like this?

Having arrived at the area in question, a voice squeaked over the radio; we were to "1023 it," i.e., we were to stay put until Spognardi arrived (Fancy making a verb out of digits!).

Spognardi did indeed arrive with great dispatch and, with even greater gallantry, allowed us to skirt the poison ivy on the way to the grave. He also enlightened us considerably by demonstrating that one can spray Cutter's with the right hand -- but not at all effectively with the left hand.

The two officers examined and photographed the scene of the crime with great care then drove us home and assured us we had performed our civic duty.

The Sanibel police immediately launched a serious and thorough investigation into this mystery. Lt. Ray Rhodes dug deep into the matter (quite literally) and found that the captain's coffin was largely intact contained a complete complement of h bones.

We may never find out who re vandalized Bowen's grave. However, I one theory -- which is purely the product of vivid imagination, nurtured in adolescence by Nancy Drew and the Hardy Boys.

The modern vandals may have rather young, for many of our young people are too impatient to read through a passage to its conclusion.

The vandals may have learned that Albert Bowen subsequently became supervisor in a South African diamond mine. Ergo, there were diamonds buried in father's grave! (They must have missed part about the digging tools and bul suitcases of many years ago.)

In any event, my friends and I spent most unusual Sunday afternoon on Sanibel. Alas, poor Gladys Anderson contracted a nasty case of poison ivy for all her troubles. Certainly all of us will cherish our memories of the strange "Case of Captain's Coffin!"

Patricia Rundell

Patricia Rundell of 996 Sandcastle Road died Thursday night, July 29, 1982, at Fort Myers Community hospital from injuries sustained in a motorcycle crash one week before. She was 22.

A four-month resident of the Island, Rundell was passenger on the motorcycle that was struck by a van that turned into the motorcycle's path in front of the 7-11 Store Thursday morning, July 22. ## Environmental and Occupational Cancer A Potential Sanibel Problem

By George Campbell

Illustrated by Ann Winterbotham

Recently Sanibel's Dr. Louise Johnson called our attention to a piece in a popular national publication that cited several plant-produced chemical groups -- principally triterpene hydrocarbons -- that are commonly produced by plants that are very widely planted on Sanibel. These plants are implicated in cancer incidence.

Mentioned in the article were Professor Dr. E. Hecker, cancer researcher of Heidelberg, and Dr. Umberto Saffiotti of the National Cancer Institute at Bethesda. Both of these scientists have been very generous in sharing their knowledge with us.

And two others who shared data, discussion and encouragement are Dr. James Stoller, a keen scientist and physician of Boston, and pharmacologist Karen Lowell, M.S., of The Johns Hopkins University.

It appears that we on Sanibel are at risk, for there is an unconscionable number of exotic plant species, grown intentionally or escaped into the wild, of the principal plant family involved -- the Euphorbiaceae or the Spurge Family.

Although there are a few native, indigenous members of this family on Sanibel, by far the greatest number are native to foreign lands and have been brought here by man. Many are large plants, meaning that the biomass of Euphorbic plant tissue is considerable -- no doubt measured in not a few pounds, but in tons.

Having been privileged to discuss this subject, either in correspondence or face to face, with the scientists cited above, we feel it a matter of urgency to share our concerns with our Sanibel neighbors as well as Island visitors.

We are certainly indebted to the sharp eye of Dr. Louise Johnson for raising the subject in this important context in the first place. I almost said "new" context, but that would not be accurate, for Hecker and Saffiotti and others have been studying these phenomena for some 10 years.

Environmentally-induced cancers should be mentioned briefly before we go too far.

Throughout the world, about 20 percent of all deaths are due to cancers. The World Health Organization has stated that 75 percent or more of all human cancers are related to environmental factors -- the specific causative risk factors being unknown or unproved in most cases.

Only 5 percent or fewer can be definitely traced to known factors, which include irradiation and certain aromatic hydrocarbons, aromatic amines, vinyl chloride and several hundred other substances. These substances, their breakdown products, metabolites and related compounds can and do cause cancer.

These first order risk factor substances are called solitary carcinogens.

The subject of this article is the group of second order cancer-related risk factors known as co-carcinogens. They are not carcinogenic by themselves. They activate low inactive doses of solitary carcinogens and additively, together, produce or promote cancer: (How long did you smoke before you quit to stay healthy?)

It is of such co-carcinogenic agents -- produced in abundance on Sanibel -- that we shall deal.

Of course we have known that "Euphorbs," as we call them in the jargon, are "poisonous." We have long recognized that the usually-white sap of the Pencil Plant, Euphorbia tirucalli, and the Crown of Thorns, E. milii, causes serious and painful skin irritation, especially if rubbed on an abrasion. If the sap comes in contact with a mucous membrane, it can be excruciating. In the eye, it causes temporary blindness.

Someone at Cabbage Key got Pencil Plant latex in the eye and had to be hauled away by air ambulance. (I've noted that since the accident, wise management at Cabbage Key has destroyed the offending tree.)

Tourists from distant places can't be expected to know these plants, many of which are attractive and of interest to visitors. Almost weekly we get calls from local business people asking what should be done about this or that plant in the landscaping scheme.

Many such planting proposals are produced by a rote-activated landscape architect from some distant point who himself (or, more recently herself) is abysmally ignorant of our native and exotic flora. Many of the co-carcinogenic plants are placed by such "professionals" near pools, play areas and tennis courts where tourists of all ages frolic.

The Euphorbic plants commonly encountered on Sanibel are:

(1) Pencil Tree, Euphorbia tirucalli. (IN) (TI) -- This plant grows to be a relatively large tree. It has no leaves except for occasional tiny half-inch narrow ones. Flowers are inconspicuous. But all young branches are dark shiny green, without bark, soft and loaded with white milky sap that can be easily observed simply by pricking the branch with a sharp instrument. One easy-to-find specimen (one of perhaps a thousand growing on Sanibel) is located at the southwest corner of the MacIntosh Book Shop. The biggest one on Sanibel grows, believe it or not, on the J.N. "Ding" Darling National Wildlife Refuge, where, regrettably, so many exotics flourish. It has a 12-inch bark-covered trunk. Older stems do lose their bare green surface and a cortex or bark eventually develops.

(2) Crown of Thorns, Euphorbia milii. (IN) -- This attractive, very spiny-stemmed, somewhat vining, shrubby plant has red, or more rarely pink, flowers. It is said to be the Crown of Thorns cited in the Bible, but I doubt that it is. This Euphorb has the characteristic white milky sap already mentioned. It is widely sold in nurseries -- even supermarkets! It grows well on Sanibel where many driveways are bordered with it.

(3) Candelabra "Cactus," Euphorbia lactea. (IN) -- This is not a cactus, but it is called one because of its water-conserving, cactus-like shape. The stems are triangular in section like the common true cactus called Night-Blooming Cereus, Hylocereus undatus. But the Candelabra has the white Euphorbic sap. Prick test it; no true cactus, to my knowledge, has white sap.

(4) Coral Plant, Jatropha multifida. (TI) -- This well-known, widely-planted potted plant, shrub or small tree grows to 10 feet and has a flower stem that is quite beautiful in that it resembles the Mediterranean red-branched coral that is frequently seen crafted into attractive jewelry. Its leaf is palmate -- like the palm of the hand with "finger" lobes. A lot of cops confuse it with pot, which it isn't, though the resemblance is there. This one does not have milky sap, but the co-carcinogens are there just the same. Some people call the plant "Nutmeg." It is not. Don't taste the nutmeg-like seeds -- they are bad medicine!

(5) Bellyache Bush, Jatropha gossypifolia. (TI) and (6) The Physic or Purge Nut, Jatropha curcas. (TI) -- These are two more commonly-planted garden plants of Sanibel and have clear (not milky) sap.

(7) Sandbox Tree, Hura crepitans. (DA) -- This grows into a large tree, sometimes with a spiny trunk two to three feet

Washington students study Sanibel's subtropical environment

By Peggy Dailey

A bus load of high school marine biology enthusiasts left Sanibel last Thursday for the trip home to Washington, D.C. The 17 students from Marat High School in the capitol city had spent four weeks on the Island learning about the relationship between man and his environment.

Chemistry teacher Bob Caoila, his wife, Sally, and biology tutor John Peterson and his wife and their young daughter accompanied the students. The class offered for credit during the summer trip was in sub-tropical zone ecology, and the group found Sanibel perfect for its purposes.

"Everyone was fascinated by the glows and the beauties of nature," Caoila said. "And of course we loved the excitement and beauty and diversity of the ocean."

Caoila added that the group would love to return to Sanibel next summer but must find accommodations to rent. They stayed at Beach House, the home of Charlie and Virginia Johnson on Gulf Drive this time, but Caoila said the group could not stay in the house next year.

Islanders who could help house the students next year should call (202) 483-5710.

Vivky Hamilton, 15, decided to join the Sanibel trip when her original plans for France fell through. "I want to be some kind of scientist," she said. "I don't know what."

Pierre Rovani, 18, said the weeks on Sanibel increased his knowledge of nature and oceans "and all that."

Anne Oman, 16, said her interest in science grew as a result of the time on the Island. "I feel I have a much greater awareness about nature and the colors and the iridescence - you know, when you look down and it all flows together," she said.

Cancer continued

in diameter. The fruit is sectioned like an orange. Cut green and hollowed out, it held blotting sand for colonial scribes. Left to ripen, internal torque and tension develop, resulting in a loud explosion of the fruit that scatters the seed every which way. It might be called explosive seed dispersal.

There are one or two small Sandbox Trees here, but I mention the species for another reason which will be clarified later. If you want to see a fine example, journey to Nassau where a big one grows in the street in front of the Parliament House. Miami has a good many, and Fort Myers has some, too.

Other Euphorbic plants that grow here are Croton, Acalypha, Poinsettia, (have you observed that each year in November, the poinsettia industry fields a bunch of press releases debunking the sometimes alleged toxic qualities of their livelihood plant?), Wild Poinsettia (small Sanibel natives) and Castor Beans, the plentiful left-overs from World War I agriculture on Sanibel.

There are quite a number of others, but the seven above are the most important and will suffice for our illustration.

Note that next to the scientific name of each of The Seven appears a symbol:

TI short for Tigliane
DA short for Daphnane
IN short for Ingenane

These are the names of the precursor or parent hydrocarbon substances that give rise to the co-carcinogenic agents in each of The Seven. Note that the Pencil Tree has both TI and IN. You now know why the Sandbox Tree, not really important on Sanibel, was included. It is the only example of DA.

It does not necessarily follow that a plant pertaining to the Euphorbiaceae always offers co-carcinogenic risk. While it is true that Pencil Trees grown in tropical regions contain the excessively toxic and co-carcinogenic white latex sap, the same plant grown in a greenhouse in Northern Europe, Hecker found, lacked the dangerous characters. He found this to be true, too, of greenhouse-grown Poinsettias. But what about tropically grown ones? This is not answered, but investigations are continuing.

Where does all this leave us? Of what practical use is this to Sanibel visitors and residents?

Certainly we should be suspicious of all Euphorbic plants. We should learn to recognize them - especially The Seven listed above. They should not be handled.

If you must grow them, plant them in a place where you can leave them alone. If you must prune the, resultant trash should be carefully handled and disposed of. Use gloves! Use care! Remember, you are handling dangerous substances - substances that could induce or promote growth of that (those) latent cancer cell(s) that may have started years ago, originally triggered by some solitary carcinogen to which you were exposed but which, until now, did not express itself (or themselves). When did you say you quit smoking?

But if you are a landscaper - if you devote all day every day to plants, their care, culture, pruning, planting, etc. - then you probably do come into contact with The Seven much too frequently. If that description fits you, and if you expect to collect your Social Security (if that stressed system is still extant when you want it), then you must pay heed to these remarks. You must avoid all contact with The Seven, and you must start right now!

Take precautions before taking to Florida waters

The hot days of the Florida summer turn thoughts of residents and visitors alike to cool water -- to swimming, tubing, water skiing, boating, fishing, snorkeling or just a pleasant wading through knee-high surf along the beach.

Water. It's wonderful. But that inviting look masks a great potential for danger from drowning or other water-related accidents.

A recent study funded by the Texas A & M Sea Grant College found that drowning is the second leading cause of accidental death for Americans between the ages of 1 and 44. And in Texas, at least, despite access to the beaches of the Gulf of Mexico, most of the drownings occurred in swimming pools.

In Florida there is literally no end to opportunities for water recreation. There is water for everyone, with both the Atlantic Ocean and the Gulf of Mexico within easy driving distance, a proliferation of private and public swimming pools and countless lakes, rivers, streams and canals.

But before striking out for your favorite piece of water, consider some precautions.

Water does not have to be deep to be dangerous. People have drowned in bathtubs. If a person is unconscious, drowning is entirely possible in as little as three inches of water.

The best defense against drowning is probably learning how to swim well enough to survive in the water. Even if you can't learn the best swimming techniques you can learn to tread water long enough for help to arrive.

Even good swimmers sometimes require aid because of the onset of cramps or some other kind of difficulty. That's why it is recommended that no one swim alone. Use the buddy system; have someone else around to help in an emergency arises.

Of course it helps to be familiar with the body water you are in. Knowing how to handle yourself in a swimming pool doesn't necessarily prepare you for some situations you might encounter while swimming in rough surf where rip currents might be present. Also the bottom might be uncertain with sudden and unexpected dropoffs.

Another bit of insurance is to swim whenever possible where a lifeguard is on duty. They are trained to handle emergencies. If no lifeguard is present you are responsible for your own safety.

Being aware of the extent of your own resources is also important so that you don't overexert yourself or overestimate your swimming ability.

Unless you have been swimming regularly during the winter months you won't be able to swim as far in April as you could swim in September. Distances on the water are often deceiving. Places are usually farther away than they appear to be.

Publications of interest to scuba divers or potential scuba divers and others who seek their recreation along the Florida coasts are available from the Sea Grant advisory agent at coastal county extension offices or from the Sea Grant Advisory Program, G022 McCarty hall, University of Florida, Gainesville, FL 32611.

Close only counts in horseshoes

More than 60 horseshoe pitching enthusiasts and an impressive crowd of fun lovers turned out for the Sanibel Police Recreation Club Horseshoe Pitching Tournament held Saturday at the police clubhouse on Bailey Road.

When the day was over and the pits were cleared, the Dynamic Duo of Sanibel Capt. Bill Trefny and Officer Jack Primm came out on top for the $25 first prize. After winning the gold medal in horseshoe pitching at the Florida Police Olympics earlier this summer, Trefny and Primm were naturals for the first place finish Saturday. They will compete together in the International Police Olympics this week in Austin, Texas.

Second prize ($15) for Saturday's pitching went to John Vercolin and Roger Osborne. Third prize ($10) went to Jim Willis and Chuck Anderson. All three top finishers also received a set of horseshoes and stakes.

The tournament was arranged to benefit the team of seven Sanibel policemen who are traveling to Austin this week to compete with law enforcement officers from around the world in the International Police Olympics. Sanibel's contingent will play for the Florida state team.

Entry fees from Saturday's tournament and money raised from the sale of beer, hot dogs and sausage added $600 to the Austin fund.

While you're out driving this week look for a makeshift sticker on the rear bumper of a brown Mustang that reads, "SPD - Bring Home The Gold In '82."

If you see it, honk. The sound of your horn will be recorded by an electronic monitoring device, and in next week's edition we'll let you know not only how many horns were honked but who's the best honker on the Islands.

Sounds like a lot of fun, doesn't it.

If not, perhaps a bit of background information will prompt you to toot your horn. If not for fun, for support. It began in the summer of 1976 when two Sanibel police officers -- as in William Trefny and Dick Noon -- traveled to San Diego as members of a team of fellow police officers representing the state of Florida to compete in the International Police Olympics.

Trefny and Noon did well. So they decided to compete at Nassau Community College in Long Island in the 1980 International Police Olympics. But this time they took a bigger squad. And they did even better.

And this brings us to the present -- as in tomorrow (Wednesday) -- when the 1982 International Police Olympics begin at the University of Texas campus in Austin.

Joining more than 200 police officers from throughout the state this year will be seven spartans. Seven of Sanibel's finest. Seven -- out for the gold.

Who are these spartans that would bestow upon us honors and medallions of gold, silver and bronze?

They are seven members of our very own Sanibel Police Department -- as in Capt. William Trefny, Lt. Ray Rhodes and Officers Don Case, Dick Noon, Jack Primm, Dick Church and Tom Applegate -- known as Sanibel's finest. And they can prove it, too.

It was not much more than a month ago that these seven spartans competed in the Florida Police

TALKIN' SPORTS

By Allen Rainwater

Olympics in Jacksonville. It was a competition that netted them 10 of those gold medallions I was talkin' about, a competition that saw a small department finish in the top 10 among more than 60 city and county law enforcement agencies from Florida.

No wonder we're so proud of them.

Here is a rundown of the seven spartans, what they'll do in Austin and how they should do it:

Capt. William Trefny, who brought home gold medals in the 200-yard freestyle relay and in team horseshoe pitching at the Florida Police Olympics, will compete in horseshoes, billiards and swimming.

Lt. Ray Rhodes at the Florida Olympics earned a gold medal in the 200-yard freestyle relay and silver medals in both the 200-yard medley relay and in bulls eye pistol shooting and bronze medals in the 500-yard freestyle relay and in two-man combat pistol shooting. In Austin, Rhodes will swim and shoot on the four-man pistol team and two-man combat pistol team.

Officer Don Case is a miler. He won a silver medal at the state level and will add bare bow archery to his events in Texas.

And then there's Officer Dick Noon. Our recreation director and the formidable coach of SWAT will compete in swimming. At the state olympics Noon was impressive with three gold medals and a silver. He won golds in the 50-yard butterfly, breast stroke and freestyle; his silver was in the 200-yard medley.

Officer Jack Primm teamed up with Rhodes to capture a bronze in the two-man combat pistol event and was a double gold winner in both team (Trefny's his partner) and individual horseshoe pitching.

Another golden boy is Officer Dick Church. At the state level he won a gold and a bronze in swimming and should be a solid contender in Austin.

Rounding out the seven spartans is Officer Tom Applegate, winner of a gold, silver and bronze in swimming and another bronze in pistol shooting. Applegate will concentrate on swimming events for the International Olympics.

That's it -- Sanibel's finest. Off once again to honor the city they so ably serve. These seven spartans will compete among hundreds of law enforcement officers from as far away as Mexico, Samoa, Japan and, for the first time ever, Australia.

The games continue until the Aug. 8, when the Sanibel spartans return home to the Islands -- we hope with lots of gold.

And remember out there -- honk your horn when you see the bumper sticker. Show your support for the Sanibel Police Department and its seven spartans.

Now what's the key phrase of the week?

You got it. "SPD - Bring Home The Gold In '82." Honk if you love 'em.

Clockwise from top, Jim Horne takes aim and hopes for a ringer; Ray Walters keeps his eye on the shoe after his toss; Mary Hayden waits for her toss to hit the pit; and gold medal horseshoe pitcher Capt. Bill Trefny, left, waits his turn for the toss. Opposite page top, Charlie Miller lines up the stake and, bottom, Chuck Anderson makes his pitch.

Islander Sports Quiz

You all thought it was an easy one, but last week's quiz proved too tough for even the most consistent of Sports Quiz winners.

Several callers including faithful Roger Tabor guessed James Naismith gave the name "basketball" to the game he invented in 1891 when he was a physical education teacher at Springfield College, Mass.

Here's the catch -- Naismith invented the game; his student, Frank Mahon, named the game.

We'll try and be a little less tricky this week:

Name the government Indian college in Pennsylvania for which Jim Thrope played football on teams coached by Glenn "Pop" Warner.

Call The Islander, 472-5185, with your answer. If you're right we'll publish your name in next week's edition. Good luck!

Lee Countians form 'no nukes' group

Concerned about the escalation of the arms race and the threat of nuclear war, a group of Lee County citizens has formed the Lee County Coalition for Peace with the immediate aim of promoting the national campaign for a bilateral nuclear weapons freeze.

The first action at the coalition's organizational meeting this spring was to unanimously support the nuclear freeze petitions and resolutions that are currently circulating throughout the nation. The petitions read:

"To improve national and international security, the United States and the Soviet Union should stop the nuclear arms race. Specifically, they should adopt a mutual freeze on the testing, production and deployment of nuclear weapons and of missiles and nuclear aircraft designed primarily to deliver nuclear weapons. This is an essential, verifiable first step toward lessening the risk of nuclear war and reducing the nuclear arsenals."

The local coalition will encourage area individuals, groups and churches to sign the petitions and send them to President Ronald Reagan and to the Congress.

The group also plans to support present local programs of peace education already in effect and to initiate new activities in cooperation with other civic groups.

Sanibel residents who are founding members of the group include: Brigid Bock, Helene Edmonds, Mary Emerson, Minnie Fleischl, Fran Levy, Vera Moretti, Helen Moe and Hilda Rush.

The coalition invites all persons who are concerned about nuclear war to join future meetings. For more information call 549-1039.

Petitions available for signing at Island stores

Petitions for a bilateral, verifiable nuclear freeze are available for signing on Sanibel at Lads and Lassies children's store, MacIntosh Book Store and the Unpressured Cooker.

Shopping

Sanibel is a veritable shopper's paradise. Tasteful boutiques and casual island shops join forces to present visitors with everything and anything a vacation shopper could hope for.

At the Lighthouse (Eastern) end of the island, Punta Ybel Plaza and the Sea Horse Shops are right across the street from one another, providing a variety of products that can cure your sweet tooth or tickle your shell finder's fancy. Need a good haircut or coiffure? You can get it in either of these shopping centers.

Most businesses open at 10 a.m. and close at 5:30 p.m. This holds true for many island stores, although some are open evenings during the winter season.

Tall Australian Pines shade Periwinkle Way and the shopper travels west along this main thoroughfare. This stretch of road is truly a shopper's paradise! It's all here -- the fast and not-so-fast eating spots, casual and elegant boutiques, hand-wrought jewelry, craft designs, shell shops and balms for health product fanatics.

Watch to your right and left as you drive or cycle along. Photographic supplies, bait and tackle, deli foods, fresh seafood and baked goods, knick-knacks and what-nots can all be found along the drive to the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road. Along the way, shopping centers such as the Heart of the Islands, Periwinkle Place and Tahitian Gardens offer a variety of island delights.

Palm Ridge Road, the Periwinkle Way turn-off to Captiva, offers several shopping centers featuring everything from imports to gift shops for the discriminating shopper, plants and shells, a sandwich shop, ice cream parlors, pizza parlor, boutique shop and the island Apothecary pharmacy.

At the Tarpon Bay-Periwinkle Way intersection, the Island Shopping Center features the island's only supermarket and movie house.

A left on Tarpon Bay Road takes the visitor past Sanibel's original schoolhouse, which now holds original island watercolors and woodcuts.

Then on to West Gulf Drive and westward to an interesting little art shop and gallery.

At the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road, you may choose instead to turn right and follow the signs to the Tarpon Bay marina, where you will find a cluster of quaint shops overlooking the back bay. Some antiques, shells and shellcrafts, what-nots and clever clothes can be found here, as well as a great seafood sandwich and soft drinks.

The spectacular ride to Captiva, with its lush foliage and enchanting view of the Gulf, is well worth a day's outing. Talented artists display their works in one roadside shop, while others feature some nifty gifts for Grandma to take home to little hands as a pleasant hodge-podge of remembrances from these barrier islands.

Whether for shopping or merely browsing, island shops offer a surprising variety from one-of-a-kind collectibles for the discerning shopper to postcards for the simple souvenir hunter. And of course, for all, shells -- shell jewelry, shell lamps, just plain shells -- the most beautiful shells in the world from the most beautiful shelling beaches in the world.

DISASTER ALERT

Radio Station WRCC, 103.9 FM, broadcasts details of any emergency such as hurricane alert or any other disastrous occurrence that might affect Sanibel or Captiva.

LIBRARIES

Sanibel Public Library
 At the intersection of Palm
 Ridge Road and Florence Streets.
 472-2483

Open 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., daily except Sunday, Wednesday from 7-9 p.m. for the summer.

Captiva Memorial Library
 Chapin and Wiles, Captiva
 472-2133

Open Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

GATORS

Feeding alligators anywhere within the Sanibel city limits is not only illegal, but can be extremely dangerous.

Alligators can run up to 45 mph, so if you are close enough to feed an alligator, he is close enough to bite you. An alligator fed for fun loses his natural fear of humans and becomes a potential threat to children and pets.

Dogs should never be permitted to run free on Sanibel.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE VISITOR'S INFORMATION SERVICE

Sanibel-Captiva Chamber of Commerce
 Just off the Causeway on Causeway Road
 472-1080
 Open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.,
 Sundays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

SHELLING

The city's resolution limiting the taking of live shells to two live shells per species per person is one to be scrupulously obeyed. As a matter of fact, in order to preserve Sanibel's beautiful shelling beaches, most collectors refuse to take any live shells whatsoever.

DOGGY DO'S AND DON'TS

If you are visiting Sanibel with the family Fido in tow, all the better. All family members can enjoy Southwest Florida sun and surf.
 The Chamber of Commerce can tell you what ac-commodatons are available for families with pets.

Remember: Wherever you are, clean up after your pet!
 "Leave nothing on the beach but footprints" applies to dogs, too.
 There's no leash law on Sanibel, but of course an excitable or unruly animal is better off when controlled with a leash.

PUBLIC REST ROOMS

Sanibel Fishing Pier
 At the Lighthouse end of the Island.
Turner Beach
 At Blind Pass between Sanibel and Captiva.
Causeway
 Between the drawbridge and Sanibel.
Chamber of Commerce office
 Just off the Causeway on the Sanibel side.

FISH Friends in Service Here

Neighborly help for Islanders in need of transportation, regular phone checks and assorted non-emergency neigh-borly services. Call 472-0404, 24 hours a day.

WARNING! SAFEGUARD YOUR VALUABLES

In order to protect your valuable possessions from theft, it is recommended that you take them to a bank or hotel vault for safekeeping. Do NOT leave them in your room or car.

CAMPING, BEACH FIRES

Camping on the beach is prohibited, as are open beach fires.

An exemption to the beach fire ordinance is a fire in an approved cooking container (not to exceed 48x24x12 inches deep) with an extruded metal grill for non-commercial food preparation. This type of container will be allowed on the beach without a permit.

After you have had your beach party, please assume the responsibility for cleaning up any debris or litter in your area.

FISHING

While no license is required for saltwater fishing, fishing in freshwater ponds or the Sanibel River requires a Florida fishing license.

Licenses are available at Bailey's General Store on Periwinkle Way. The fee is $6.50 for residents and $10.50 for non-residents.

Minimum Legal Lengths
 Blue Fish 10 inches

Flounder	11 inches
Grouper	12 inches
Mackerel	12 inches
Mullet	12 inches
Pompano	10 inc'
Red Fish	12 inc'
Snook	18 inches
Trout	12 inches

Snook fishing is outlawed f
 June 30-Aug. 1.

SPEEDLIMITS

There is very good reason for the varying speed limits (20-30 mph) along the Causeway. The slower speeds preserve the bridge supports from strain and stress.

This speed limit is strictly enforced with radar on a 24-hour basis by both the Sanibel Police Department and the Lee County
 Sheriff's Department.
