Chili weather

The heat of the day plus a healthy dose of peppers and spices made Sunday's Chili Festival at the Dunes a burning success for all concerned. Sanibel resident Kay Hennings, right, garnered the help of her husband, Vincent, daughter, Patty Krepin, and grandchildren Michael and Katie to fix a batch of the Hennings' three-generation Lone Star Chili. The pot wasn't a prize winner, but the thrill of making and sharing the chili was prize enough for the Hennings clan. The festival was sponsored by the Sanibel-Captiva Kiwanis Club and promises to become an annual event on the Island. More chili hotlights page 2A. Photo by David Meardon.

Voters repeal ordinance, Bay Drive remains public

By Barbara Brundage

Sanibel residents voted 539-496 last week to repeal a city ordinance that would have turned over to private ownership a bridge and 300 feet of publicly owned road along San Carlos Bay.

"By this action the people have kept a little piece of bay front for themselves," Paulette Burton, who spearheaded the drive that forced the city to put the issue to a referendum, exulted.

"I'm really happy at the way it turned out," Burton said after 206 absentee ballots were counted and the margin of victory remained the same.

"I want to thank the people of Sanibel for their wonderful support," she added. "It's not true that you can't beat City Hall. If you believe strongly enough in something and work hard, the democratic process really works."

Last March the City Council adopted an ordinance turning over to Larry and Sheila Snell a wooden bridge and a 300-foot strip of Bay Drive that leads to the Snell's bay front home.

The council agreed with the city staff's assessment that public ownership of the road that served only one property owner was a liability to the taxpayers, not only because of the cost of maintaining the bridge but the possibility of damages in the event of an accident on the rickety wooden span.

Burton and a Petitioners Committee invoked the citizens' rights under the charter and obtained 633 signatures asking the council to repeal the ordinance or put the issue to a referendum of the voters.

Four vie for two seats

Goss, White won't run for City Council

By Barbara Brundage

With both incumbents choosing not to run for re-election, newcomers to politics will dominate this year's race for two City Council seats.

Noon today is the deadline for candidates to qualify to run Nov. 2 for Seats 4 and 5 on the council, which are being vacated by Councilman Duane White and Mayor Porter Goss.

At press time Monday four candidates, including three Planning Commissioners, were officially in the running -- two in each race.

Commission Vice Chairman Bill Hagerup will vie with 37-year-old Jerry Muench, a partner in the Periwinkle Trailer Park, for White's council seat.

Dr. Louise Johnson and Emily Barefield, both members of the Planning Commission, are in the running for Goss' seat.

Last Tuesday, a week after the candidate qualifying period opened, Goss confirmed that he would not be a candidate for the council seat he has held since April 1981.

First elected to the council when the city was incorporated in 1974, Goss served until November 1980, when he did not seek re-election.

After the death of then-Mayor Zelda Butler, Goss came out of retirement and was elected to complete Butler's unexpired term.

"I'm surprised that anyone thought I would seek re-election," he told his colleagues late in last week's marathon 12-hour council meeting.

"I said when I decided to run for Zee's seat I would only complete her term and had no intention of running for

Chili today, hot tamale

The Dunes, Texas style

The sun wasn't the only thing that drew sweat from more than 2,000 chili cookers and eaters at the first Suncoast Chili Festival at the Dunes on Sunday. The crowd sampled varieties of chili that ranged from Shark Chili from the Timbers restaurant to the spicy winning entry all the way from Alva.

The panel of judges cleared and cooled their palates between tastes before they ruled Ira Thirtle's chili the cream of the crop.

Second place went to Marla Slater of the French Connection in Fort Myers. The Timbers cook P.J. Wall's chili creation won third place. The Showmanship Prize went to chef Peter Harman of the Thistle Lodge.

Judges were Fort Myers New-Press columnist Bob Morris, WRCC talk show host Jesse Daniels, Linda Uhler, Jamie and Katie Farquarson of the Bubble Room, Charlie Dunn, Geoff Chapman, Sonny Persons, Mike Peceri and Lou Letizia.

As the first place winner, Thirtle won an all expenses paid trip to the state Chili Festival in Port of the Islands in the Everglades on Oct. 17. Slater was issued an invitation to the competition.

The festival was sponsored by the Sanibel-Captiva Kiwanis Club, whose members unanimously declared the day a hot success.

"There's no doubt we'll do it again, providing the Dunes agrees," Tom Uhler said as he checked the winners off his master list. "Even if we didn't make any money, it was worth it just for the fun."

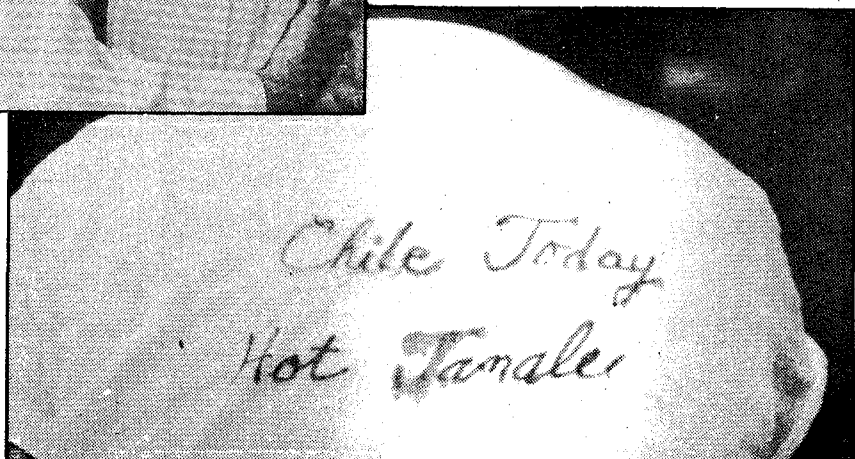

The judges' tastebuds got a blistering workout as they sampled all of the entries before ruling Ira Thirtle's chili concoction the choicest of the entries.

First place winner Ira Thirtle of Alva receives congratulations from Thistle Lodge chef Peter Harman, left. Harman's touch earned his restaurant the Showmanship award in the festivities.

another term on the council," he added.

But as late as 10 days ago the veteran councilman and Sanibel's first mayor left the door open a crack when he said the one thing that might change his mind would be if no satisfactory candidates sought the seat.

"I'm glad you made this announcement early," Councilman Fred Valtin, elected to the seat vacated by Goss two years ago, commented. "There are good, qualified people who might run but would not face you," he added.

Both Johnson and Barefield had said they would not challenge either of the two incumbents. After Goss' withdrawal both women qualified for the vacant seat.

Johnson's nominating petition was circulated on Sanibel by Carolyn Smith while Johnson vacationed at her summer home in Skaneateles, N.Y. The qualifying procedure was completed when she was administered the loyalty oath by a notary public in a Skaneateles bank.

Johnson is expected to return to the Island late today.

Barefield, who moved to Sanibel two years ago, was appointed to the Planning Commission last December. She grew up in Connecticut, where she was exposed at an early age to New England's town meeting system.

"My Daddy used to say we were taught to read on sample ballots," she said.

No stranger in the Florida political arena, Barefield worked for two years on Gov. Bob Graham's campaign staff prior to his election in 1978.

In 1966 at the time of Florida's first reapportionment Barefield ran for a new Dade County seat in the state legislature.

She was active for many years in the League of Women Voters and served at one time on the national staff. She is connections and close ties with Governor Graham."

White's announcement Friday that he was bowing out came as a surprise to many Islanders.

"The citizens of Sanibel have twice elected me to the City Council — an honor I greatly appreciate," he said in a formal statement. "Almost eight years of public service (two years as chairman of the Planning Commission and six years as a city councilman) is enough, in my opinion," he added.

Vacationing at Connestee Falls, near Brevard, N.C., White said he was "pleased that capable, dedicated people,

"I have every confidence that the electorate who have always been concerned for the well-being on our Island city will choose wisely."

Duane White

currently is a member of the Lee County chapter.

She also worked as regional program administrator for the Department of State under George Firestone.

Barefield said she feels one of her greatest contributions to the city of Sanibel can come through her "Tallahassee

"I have every confidence that the electorate who have always been concerned for the well-being of our Island city will choose wisely," White said.

First primary draws 42 percent of Sanibel voters

By Barbara Brundage

More than 42 percent of Sanibel's 2,826 registered voters went to the polls in the first state primary election Sept. 7.

Elections officials do not expect such an impressive turnout in the primary run-off Oct. 6, when Republican and Democratic candidates for two Lee County Commission seats will be decided.

In District 2, Roland Eastwood and Tony Proctor will vie for the Republican nomination, while on the Democratic side Don McDaniel will challenge leader Sam Camparetto for that party's nomination.

In District 4 Clyde Bowles will take on Betty Bowen Evans for the Republican nomination.

In Republican races statewide, Van Poole and David Bludworth will battle for nomination for Lawton Chiles' (D) U.S. Senate seat.

Connie Mack will meet Ted Ewing in a run-off for the 13th District U.S. congressional seat.

Supporters wanted to be able to walk along the quiet road and view ospreys and other species of wildlife that make their homes in the bay waters.

"It was a fair issue and fairly presented on both sides," Mayor Porter Goss commented after the referendum results were in. As did Burton, Goss viewed the "exercise as proof the system works."

"I think it's really great to live in a community where the residents care so much about beach walks and bikeways that they are willing to spend their tax dollars to maintain them," Goss said.

"The voice of the people has been heard and that's the end of it," he added.

City Attorney Neal Bowen said no further action is required from the council, explaining the passage of the referendum repeals the ordinance.

COMMENTARY

Campaign season opens on Sanibel

The race for two seats on the Sanibel City Council has produced a crop of candidates that will make for an interesting campaign season between now and the general election on Nov. 2.

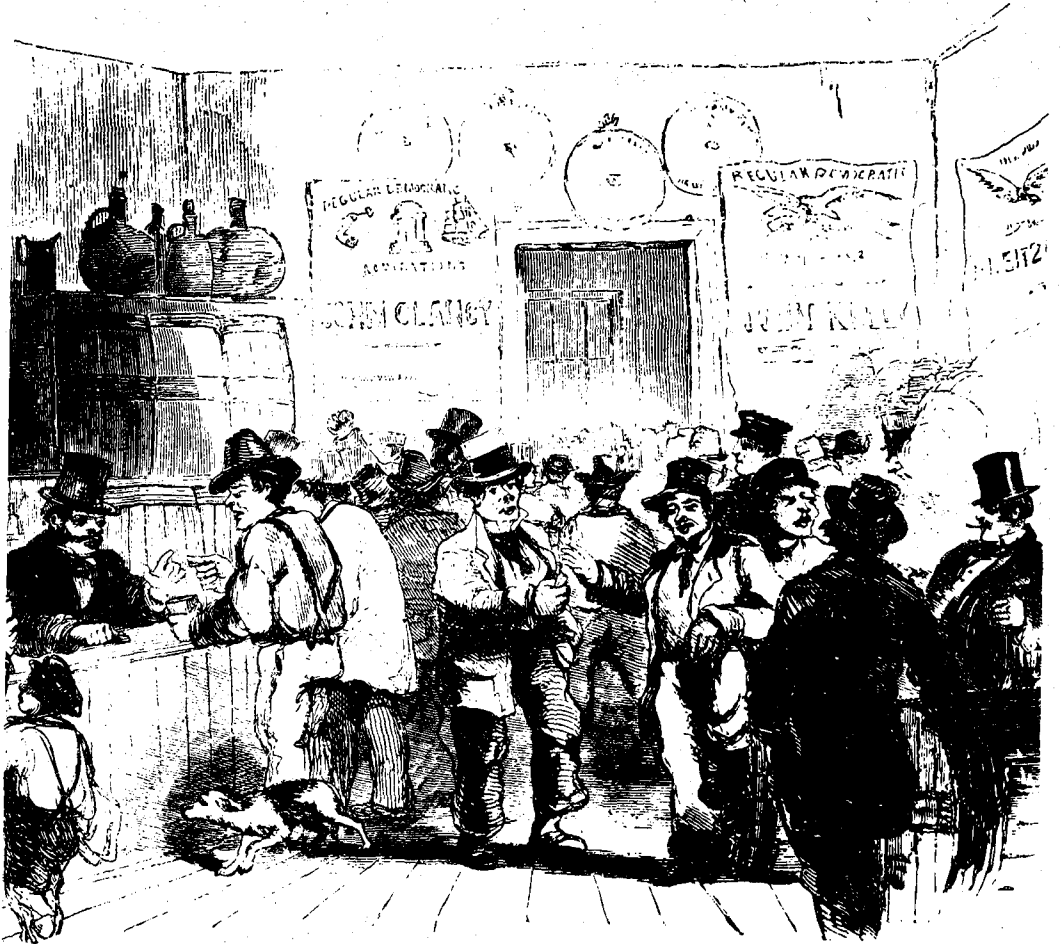

With neither Porter Goss nor Duane White choosing to run for his seat again, Sanibel voters will elect two brand new faces and new ideas to the council.

The candidates, however, are not newcomers to the public eye on the Island. They are well known as involved, informed citizens. Their platforms have not been set forth, but when they are they should be examined carefully by every Sanibel voter who will choose two from the slate to serve on the City Council.

What are their thoughts on below market rate housing? Do they advocate a decrease in density or other changes in Sanibel's rate of growth ordinance? Do they support the development and concentration of a commercial district along Palm Ridge Road?

These are but a few of the questions each of the candidates will address in the coming weeks. Pay attention. Ask your own questions.

Know the candidates before you vote; the winners will serve you for the next four years.

City attorney reports on litigation involving city

"The litagory flood gate appears to have opened," City Attorney Neal Bowen commented in a report to the City Council last Tuesday.

The city's motion to remove S. Devalle Goldsmith's lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of Sanibel's parking ordinance from the jurisdiction of Lee County Circuit Court to the Federal District Court in Tampa has been granted, Bowen said, and date for the trial has been set for sometime between Jan. 10 and Feb. 21, 1983.

In another of the city's pending litigations, Bowen reported, Circuit Judge James Thompson has set Oct. 25 for a hearing of Shell Harbor Inn's motion for the court to enforce the final judgment in the stipulated settlement between the city of Sanibel and David and Rudolphine Holtzman, former owners of the inn.

The judgment handed down in June 1980 by Circuit Judge Thomas Reese recognized the Holtzmans' right to operate a restaurant as an accessory use of the gulf side resort.

John Armenia, as trustee for the Shell Harbor Group that purchased the property from the Holtzmans last May, is challenging in circuit court the city's action in limiting the number of seats in the restaurant to 75. He calls the action "unreasonable and arbitrary."

bitrary."

In a second suit Armenia is seeking a writ of certiorari to compel the Sanibel Planning Commission to amend the development permit for the restaurant to allow 200 seats.

Bowen also requested and received council authorization to file a brief on behalf of the city opposing the appeal of the state Supreme Court decision in the Estuaries case, which drastically limited development of environmentally sensitive land on Estero Bay.

The appeal has been filed by new owners of the land that lies adjacent to the intersection of McGregor Boulevard and Summerlin Road (869).

The city was a partner in the original Estuaries lawsuit.

At a hearing last week in the Mariner Point condominium lawsuit against the city and the Shell Harbor Canal Maintenance District, Circuit Judge Robert Shafer took under advisement the plaintiff's complaint that the original engineering reports used in setting the boundaries of the special taxing district in Shell Harbor were incorrect.

This is only one of the many counts in the suit that seeks removal of the condominium complex from the district's jurisdiction, Bowen said.

F&B Oyster Co. operator clarifies restaurant not in litigation with city

The F & B Oyster Co. is not a party to any litigation with the city of Sanibel because of the city's refusal to change the zoning on the property to commercial, restaurant operator Mel Kearn said last week.

Carbro, Inc., a family corporation headed by Buck Kirkpatrick of Hopkinsville, Ky., owner of the Periwinkle Way property, initiated the request to change the zoning to commercial, Kearn said.

Carbro's attorney, Art Knudsen, informed the City Council when the zoning change was denied on Aug. 17 that the action left his client "so badly damaged that he really has to go to court."

"I didn't know anything about a zoning change or a proposed lawsuit until I read it in your paper," Kearn told The Islander last week.

He was concerned that the story in the newspaper's Aug. 24 edition gave the impression that the restaurant would be a plaintiff in the threatened litigation.

"I only lease the restaurant," Kearn explained.

Carbro is seeking relief from the stricter regulations for lawfully existing commercial use that went into effect when new commercial regulations were adopted last February.

Under these rules the restaurant, lawfully existing in a residential zone, will not be able to expand, and if it is more than 50 percent damaged after January 1, 1990, it must revert to residential use.

"The old lawfully existing use was not nearly as restrictive," Knudsen pointed out to the council. "The new regulations put them (the property owners) much more behind the eight ball."

The council based its denial of a change to commercial zoning on its objective to put an

Knudsen said the council's alternative to a zoning change -- a 25-year extension of the trigger date for reverting to residential use --

- was not acceptable to the Kirkpatrick family.

"Time alone won't solve the problem," he concluded.

Knudsen was not available to confirm whether any legal action has been taken.

Final approval granted for convenience store at Seahorse complex

Dave Arnold last Tuesday received final council approval to open a grocery convenience store in his Sea Horse Shop complex at the east end of the Island.

But several conditions were attached to approval of the specific amendments required including limiting the capacity of the Lighthouse Cafe to 60 seats.

Because of parking problems at the complex, which planners say is overdeveloped, the staff had recommended allowing only 50 seats. Currently there are 48 seats, but the occupational licence permits 70.

The current operator of the restaurant would be satisfied with 56 seats, but Arnold, looking to future resale value, asked the council to increase the number to 62.

Councilman Fred Valtin moved for approval and said he felt 60 seats is a reasonable compromise.

The motion passed by a 3-0 vote with Councilman Duane White absent and Councilman Francis Bailey, owner of Bailey's General Store, abstaining because of a conflict of interest.

City waits to institute fees at rec complex

Charging user fees at the municipal swimming pool and gymnasium before the end of the 1982-83 fiscal year would be premature, the City Council agreed last week.

Recreation Director Dick Noon recommended delaying instituting a user's fee until the complete complex -- pool and gym -- has been in operation for a full year.

"This will afford us the opportunity to see how well the gymnasium is received and give us time to implement new programs," Noon said. Construction of the gym is scheduled for completion in early November.

City Manager Bernie Murphy told the council the Recreation Department's proposed $95,000 operating budget for the 1982-83 fiscal year "does not presuppose any users fees."

Two reasons for charging fees are to raise revenue to offset costs and to control crowds, Murphy said. "The latter is more often the reason why they are imposed," he added.

In a survey of 33 south Florida cities with recreation complexes similar to Sanibel's, Noon found that none operated in the black because of revenue generated by fees.

"This does not mean fees do not help offset some of the cost of operation, but most departments need tax dollars to help perform the needed community service," he said.

"If I had my druthers," Councilman Mike Klein said, "The complex would be self supporting."

"That is not possible," Murphy said. He agreed with Noon that in order for the operation to be self-sustaining the fees would have to be so exorbitant it is doubtful either residents or guests on the Island could afford to use the complex.

Additional personnel would be required to collect fees, Noon said, and that expense might eat up some of the revenue generated.

Other problems Noon perceived involve the question of daily fees versus annual memberships, different fees for resident and non-residents and whether private donors to the building fund should be in a special category with first year fees or memberships free.

Noon said that since the swimming pool was opened last summer 16,000 persons have used the facility.

Monitoring the users of the complex will continue, he said.

Betty Robinson, as a Sanibel taxpayer, suggested that a user's fee be established as city policy.

"We can't afford to supply a free facility for everyone," she said. "But all Sanibel school children should be entitled to use it free."

American Business Women's Day proclaimed

Wednesday, Sept. 22, will be American Business Women's Day on Sanibel. The council proclaimed the day last week despite protests of the "principle of the practice" from Councilman Fred Valtin.

"I'm against the system of proclamations by small communities," Valtin explained. "I feel the same about this practice as I do about naming structures and public land after people."

The request for the special proclamation came from the Sanibel-Captiva Chapter of the American Business Women's Association to commemorate the founding of the national association on Sept. 22, 1949.

Chapter president Kathryn Gooderham reminded the council that, "Sanibel has hundreds of women working either full or part time as positive contributors to the community.

"These women deserve recognition," she said.

The council agreed and voted 4-0 (Councilman Duane White was absent) to name the day.

Council postpones Sanibel Bayous pool, tennis courts decision

A decision on whether to permit construction of a swimming pool and tennis courts on three lots in Sanibel Bayous subdivision was postponed last week by the City Council until the council gets a "firm answer" on whether homeowners in Phase I of the development will be excluded from using the new recreation amenity.

Don Wilson of Sanibel Bayous Development Corp., who plans to build homes on 30 of the 58 lots in the Phase II section of the subdivision, was represented at the council hearing by Sanibel building contractor Bill Moore.

Moore said he was pinch hitting for his partner Mark Comer, and could not answer the question raised by Dr. Eleanor Goldbloom, who lives in Sanibel Bayous Phase I.

At the first hearing of Wilson's request to build the pool and tennis courts, Comer said use of the facility would be included in the sales price of the 30 lots and homes.

But any other homeowners in the subdivision would be welcome to use the facility at a pro-rated yearly fee, he indicated.

Goldbloom told the council that no one had approached her about whether she would be interested in joining the project.

When she built her home several years ago, Goldbloom said, she was told that a lot had been reserved in Phase I for the property owners association to use for a recreational area as it saw fit.

"As far as I know there is only one association for the whole subdivision, and I want to know if I am excluded from this new project," she said.

As a late comer to the project, Moore said he did not have the answer.

Mayor Porter Goss said it was not the council's role to arbitrate neighborhood disputes but to make a decision on whether the recreational amenity was a "bona fide land use."

Councilman Fred Valtin moved to continue the hearing until Sept. 21, when the question of the status of Phase I could be answered.

Moore said owner Don Wilson, who was out of town, would be present for that meeting.

Water main installation approved for City Hall site, city, IWA make compromise

The City Council last week approved a compromise agreement with the Island Water Association for the installation of an eight-inch main through the City Hall site from Wooster Lane to an existing six-inch line at the end of Dunlop Road.

The main extension is necessary to provide adequate fire flow for two hydrants required by the Fire Marshall to provide fire protection for the City Hall building.

The bigger capacity loop through the 22-acre, city-owned property will also improve the water flow to properties on Wooster Lane and a portion of Periwinkle Way, Assistant City Manager Gary Price told the council.

In exchange for IWA's installation of the eight-inch main and two fire hydrants, the city will provide a 12-foot easement along the City Hall access road, obtain engineering and state Department of Environmental Regulation permits required and pay IWA an amount equivalent to the cost of 500 feet of six-inch PVC pipe.

The council also approved the city's agreement with the Bank of the Islands for a $700,000 loan, at 9½ percent interest, to help finance construction of the new City Hall.

In return for the "below market interest rate" the city has agreed to give BOTI preference for deposits, City Manager Bernie Murphy explained.

The city already has on hand $800,000 of the estimated $1.5 million construction cost.

The loan will be effective April 1, 1983, Murphy said.

Bids for construction of the 14,000-square-foot municipal facility will be opened today at 2 p.m. at the City Hall conference room in Periwinkle Place shopping center.

Target date for completion of the facility is September 1983.

Weekly Health Tip

From Len Kessler

"It is clear that drugs can promote and preserve good health when they are taken on the advice of a physician, or according to directions on the label", says Today's Health magazine. "However, drug abuse - taking drugs without professional advice or direction - can injure vital parts of the body: the liver, the kidneys, the heart, the brain. Abuse of certain drugs can also lead to drug dependence, either psychological or physical." It just makes sense that drugs should not be imposed upon the body's intricate chemical balance unless they are prescribed by professional medical personnel.

Wegryn Clinic gets okay to continue business as is

Dr. Stanley Wegryn doesn't need a specific amendment to the land use plan to continue selling medically related products to patients of the Wegryn Clinic, the City Council decided last Tuesday.

The council told Wegryn and his wife, Rosalind, at the second hearing of their request to permit retail sale of medically related items at the Island's only emergency medical center they could continue to do just what they have been doing without any further action by the city fathers.

But the sale of wheelchairs, exercycles or hospital beds is verboten, the Wegryns were warned.

The doctor said he had no intention of selling these items and only wanted to be sure he could continue to take care of patients' needs.

On the other hand Realtor Bert Jenks learned that a specific amendment is the only way he might achieve his goal to use second floor storage space at the Sanibel Realty office building as an "in-house conference room."

The Planning Commission earlier turned down Jenks' request to remove a previous condition limits the use of the upper level to storage. That stipulation was a condition of the approval of a development permit to remodel the building last year.

Last Tuesday Jenks appealed the commission's decision to the council asking for an interpretation of whether staff meetings are an office use.

"There is no mechanism for us to make interpretations of development permits," Mayor Porter Goss said. "We have no legal authority - only on specific amendments."

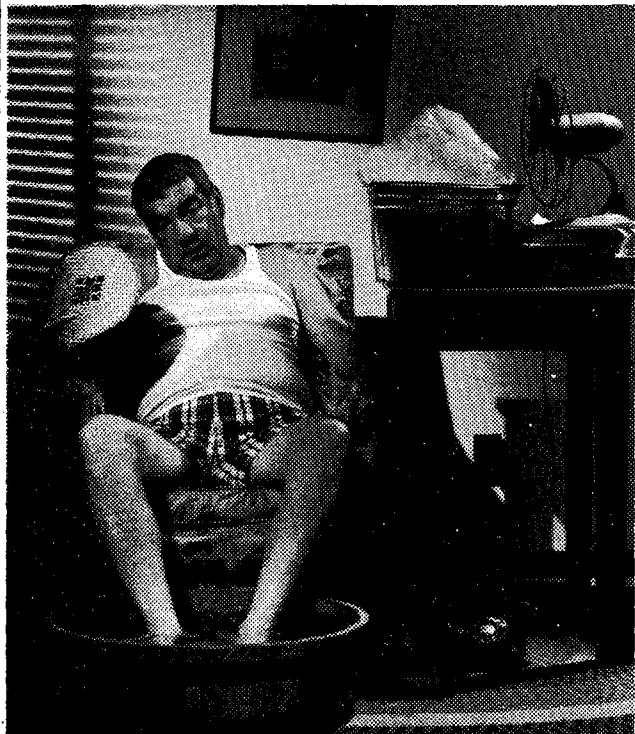

"Only the Planning Commission, which imposes them, can remove conditions from a development permit," Ann Winterbotham, chairman of the commission, reminded the council.

"Development permits are appealable only by a specific amendment," Councilman Fred Valtin said.

The possibility that Jenks could get relief from the council if and when a pending ordinance is adopted that will permit aggrieved applicants to appeal Planning Commission decisions on development permits was shot down when Valtin reminded the council that the ordinance, even if it is adopted, will not apply retroactively.

Library agreement between city, county extended

The agreement between Sanibel and Lee County that provides funding for the Sanibel Public Library was extended through Sept. 30, 1983, last week by a vote of the City Council.

The council also approved by a 4-0 vote with Councilman Duane White absent a contract with the library to continue to provide "superior library services" for the residents of Sanibel for the 1982-83 fiscal year.

Under terms of the interlocal agreement, the county will collect an ad valorem library tax from Sanibel taxpayers.

Eighty four percent of the revenue collected will be paid to the city of Sanibel, which in turn will pass the funds on to the Sanibel Public Library to finance the cost of its operation.

The county will withhold 16 percent of the revenues with 8 percent retained as the county's administrative fee and 8 percent utilized to fund the tax collector and property appraiser for collection services.

Sanibel resident Paul Howe told the council the county's retention of 8 percent for the tax collector and appraiser is illegal. The city-county agreement for collection of a library tax does not create a special taxing district, and in this case Florida statutes provide that a municipality is treated the same as the county and is not required to pay for tax collection services," Howe said.

"That's double taxation and I object to it," he said.

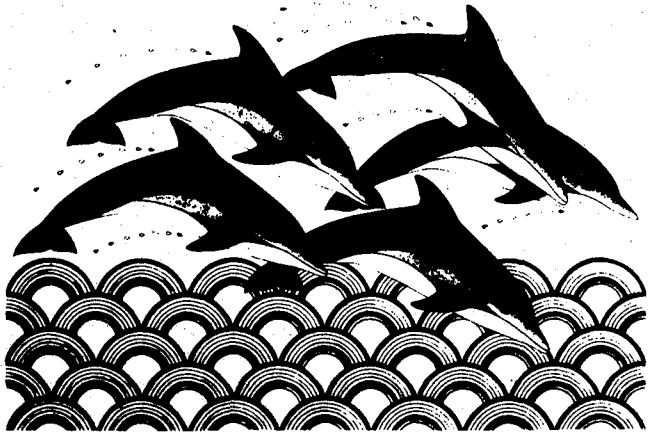

George Tenney, who represented the library on the city's committee that negotiated the agreement, said the library board was unhappy that the county would agree to only a one-year extension and would not consider a long term agreement.

"It's hard to do long range planning on a year-to-year basis," Tenney told the council.

City Manager Bernie Murphy said the county's position was a "political concern." He added in the future the council will probably seek to increase the 8 percent now retained for the administrative fee.

But Murphy pointed out that during the current year the city has received $57,000 from the county for the library's operation as compared with $15,000, the top amount before the interlocal agreements were initiated two years ago.

ON THE WATER

By Captain Mike Fuery

We were fishing in Redfish Pass recently and watched what might have turned into a horror story if dumb luck hadn't saved three inexperienced boaters from sinking.

Seems proper anchoring is the last learned boating skill, right after docking, that is. Watching a person dock a boat tells you all you need to know about that skipper's boat handling abilities in general. But docking is not life endangering; anchoring can be.

These three in a small boat with a tiny outboard decided to anchor at a corner of Redfish Pass where the outgoing tide was ripping the strongest. They tossed out the anchor, shut off the engine and started to fish, not worrying about whether the anchor caught in the bottom to hold the boat.

They traveled about 50 yards before one of the three noticed their boat was moving out toward the Gulf of Mexico. Still, there was no concern as they tried to keep from tangling fishing lines and the anchor skipped and the lines were swept under their boat.

Finally, as they started to pass new territory along the beach, the anchor that hadn't been holding dug in, sending the three tumbling around about like drunken sailors. Then the anchor lost contact and the boat ran free again, only to grab momentarily and toss the trio about once again.

They got a bit concerned. The last time the anchor dug into bottom, two of three knelt down to pull out the hook. That's where they almost had real trouble.

The combination of the two men in the bow of the tiny boat and the holding anchor from the bow nearly forced water right into the vessel. Fortunately the anchor let go before the two could inadvertently sink themselves.

The boat drifted with the tide into the deeper part of the pass, and the fishermen started their engine to leave. That second they almost went under finally convinced them to fish where the waters weren't so swift. They were lucky, this time. Hope they learned the lesson.

There is a tendency for new boaters, or those inexperienced in piloting around the several passes and deeper cuts under bridges or around piers, to put themselves in potential dangerous situations.

Those of us who fish around these places on a daily basis hardly ever anchor anywhere close to a swift water situation. Inexperienced sailors see fish being caught and think that particularly in passes, they might as well anchor and catch a few, too. But local anglers drift these passes, never anchoring.

The reason is not only because of the potential danger of anchoring, but also because of the fact that some of the larger fish such as snook, redfish, trout or tarpon want to see a bait moving with the tide. Drift and you get strikes; anchor and you probably won't do much at all. So, with very few exceptions, you'll find professional guides drifting the passes.

There are tidal pools around the edges of the passes where at certain stages of the tide you can pull your boat right into the pool and not notice any movement with the boat. These are short-lived, safe times to fish eddies. But don't anchor -- the tide flow will eventually shift and could get you into trouble.

The other real danger of anchoring around or in passes is that your anchor might dig in all too well. That's worse than skipping bottom, really. If you can't get your set anchor free, sometimes you will end up cutting the line and saying good-bye to $50 or so of equipment.

Some anchors are made to break out, but a friend of mine who dove from the rocks of Captiva Pass once said he saw the remains of quite a few anchors -- donations from inexperienced boaters.

Be careful around these passes, and drift fish them for your best luck in fishing.

SHELLING TIPS

By Captain Mike Fuery

Let's talk about some of the tiniest shells you can expect to find on our beaches. One thing for sure, it takes careful looking to pick some of these shells from a pile of others, but many who call themselves collectors of miniatures say the little ones are always the best.

Shells in the turrid family are found quite easily on the shallowest of sand flats. But, as you might expect, you won't exactly stumble over any of these shell.

That's because the average length of one of our more abundant turrids is only a third of an inch! How can something so small be of any value to a collector? Well, turrids are kind of special.

These shells are usually a brownish color and are spiral shaped with pointed but not sharp ends. The widest part of the shells is the middle.

I have found only one shell that is named after one of our Islands, and that's the Sanibel Drilla, a turrid that makes it's living in the grassy bay areas. There are a couple of other turrids that can be identified, but little is known of the shells. The Sanibel Drilla and the oyster drilla, for instance, are technically different but are hardly distinguishable.

But that doesn't mean you won't be able to tell the difference between a turrid and an auger or other similarly shaped local shell.

The minute size of the common turrids makes them hard to find, and often I have to kneel down in the muddy sand to first spot a colony of these shells. It's not unusual for my shelling groups to walk right on top of hundreds of these shells, thinking they are only tidal debris.

If you know what you are looking for, you should be able to find a dozen good specimens in short order. I see these turrid shells on the beaches on occasion, but overall I think the Pine Island Sound side of the Islands yields more of these shells.

If you are out there and can't seem to find these pint-sized shells, see if you can find a dead fish, ray or horseshoe crab. The turrids will seek out and eat these decaying marine creatures, and I can recall coming upon overturned horseshoe crabs that had hundreds of turrids feasting away.

While we are talking about tiny shallow water shells, don't forget to look for the margin shells. These also take careful looking because they average a quarter of an inch long as adults.

The interesting thing about margins is they have a very shiny finish and look like small cowries.

Margins can be found dead, and so can turrids. So look around. But I don't believe there has ever been a shortage of living turrids and margins, as there presently is with whelks, conchs and tulips.

I referred to augers a bit ago. These shells inhabit the same shallow, warm water flats that the other smaller shells find to their liking.

Augers dig into the sandy bottom to feed. At times you can "track" an auger or horn shell over the sand by watching the trail it leaves. I've seen colonies of horn shells leave criss-crossing tracks so numerous that it's hard to imagine that many could live in one small section of sandbar.

Good shelling this week. And remember the limit of two live shells per person, per species.

Capt. Mike Fuery offers daily shelling trips to North Captiva and Cayo Costa Islands. Call 472-3459 for information.

Dick Stein laughs when he tells the old joke about a preacher's pay (it's pretty good considering preachers only work one hour a week). He says it isn't true (the part about working only one hour a week).

In the nine months since he moved to Sanibel to start the Island's Congregational United Church of Christ, Stein has worked many long hours and many times seven days a week.

But the hard work pays off, he says. And his smile indicates his work agrees with him.

Stein says he knew he wanted to be a minister when he was 15 years old. That was when the youth minister at Detroit's Central Methodist Church "button-holed" him and encouraged him to go into the ministry.

He graduated from Yale Divinity School in 1948 and had churches from New Haven, Conn., to Cocoa Beach, Fla., over a 12-year span. After that, however, he decided to look for something "a little different from the church - pastoral counseling or something."

When something a little different from the church failed to materialize in Stein's job hunt, he turned to a family contracting business.

Although his wife, Frances, swears he never stopped ministering, Stein didn't officially return to that profession until 20 years later, when he was assigned to the Broad-street United Methodist Church in Columbus, Ohio, as the associate minister.

"I don't think I ever got ministering out of my blood," he says. "I always made a very decent living in business, but frankly, it lacked something. It lacked the excitement of the people I found in the church."

Business, he explains, "is a deal in which you trade at arm's length to get the best for your business." Ministering, on the other hand, means you try to do the best thing for the people you work with, he adds.

Stein decided to return to pastoring after he underwent major surgery. "I was on the operating table for 8½ hours," he says. After the operation, countless people expressed their concern and reminded Stein of the things he had done for them years before as a minister.

"It was very sobering," he says. "These people remembered what I had done for them. I began to think perhaps I hadn't rated myself as highly as I ought to have."

So he started looking for a church. He took the assignment in the Methodist church in Columbus for two years and then looked for a church in his own denomination.

The timing was right for Stein and for Sanibel. Less than one year later, it is obvious that the Steins and the Island go well together.

Helping people, listening, canvassing neighborhoods for new members takes much more of Stein's time than does the weekly Sunday service. "Sunday is the focal point for the congregation," he says. "But there's something to do every other day of the week, too."

For Stein the rest of the week means introducing himself to Islanders, meeting with church finance and building committees, writing bulletins and sermons and taking care of the business of the church.

His office is the kitchen table in his own home. The Congregational Church has no building of its own on Sanibel just yet, but Stein says he hopes to select an architect by December and start plans for the church complex on four acres already secured on Periwinkle Way.

Stein says he has a much better time with pastoring now than he ever had when he "roared out of the seminary" 34 years ago. "I was 24 years old," he says. "I was a cross to bear for the congregation until I learned something."

Now, with the wisdom that comes only with years and experience, Stein celebrates his profession and his church on Sanibel.

"There's something here that has become very meaningful," he says. "Sanibel and its people are real, alive, exciting and fun. I've pretty much decided I'd rather be here than anywhere else."

POLICE BEAT

All information in the following reports was taken directly from Sanibel Police Department records.

An all-terrain vehicle valued at $1,500 was reported stolen from the construction site at the Dunes back nine on Monday morning, Sept. 6.

Police followed tracks of the vehicle to the beach and into the woods between Bailey Road and Causeway Road, but they found no other signs of the vehicle.

The red, three-wheeled vehicle had a small black carry rack behind the driver's seat and a broken clutch lever.

Renters in a Schooner Drive duplex reported their back door screen had been tampered with on Monday morning, Sept. 6. A bicycle and other items on the porch were not disturbed. There were no signs of tampering with the sliding glass doors leading into the house.

An Atlanta Plaza resident reported 30 gallons of gasoline valued at $37.50 was siphoned from a school bus parked at Casa Ybel and Piedmont roads on Tuesday morning, Sept. 7.

A Cape Coral woman was cited for passing a stopped school bus on Causeway Road on Tuesday morning, Sept. 7.

A Fort Myers resident reported a boat was overturned in the water off Lighthouse Point on Tuesday morning, Sept. 7. The boat, a 12-foot fishing craft, and its four passengers received assistance from another boater. There were no injuries.

The builder of a house on Cotten Court in Gumbo Limbo reported entry had been attempted to the house on Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 7. A $1,250 sliding glass door was damaged, but entry was not gained to the house.

A Captiva man reported on Wednesday morning, Sept. 8, that the convertible top on his sports car was ripped and tomato juice poured inside his car during the night when it was parked at Oceans Reach condominiums.

Damage to the top was estimated at $2,000. Police are continuing their investigation of the vandalism.

A Sanibel man was arrested for disorderly intoxication after he became abusive and belligerent to police early Thursday morning, Sept. 9.

Friedlund named United Way co-chairman

John Friedlund, manager of the Sanibel branch of First Federal of Fort Myers, has been named co-chairman of the Island's United Way campaign.

As a kick-off for the fall fund-raising campaign, United Way volunteers manned a booth in front of Bailey's store on Saturday to distribute information about the United Way effort and the agencies it serves.

The goal for Sanibel this year is $25,000, and Friedlund said approximately 55 percent of that amount has already been raised. "But we've still got a long way to go," he added.

Persons interested in contributing to the United Way campaign on Sanibel should contact Friedlund, 472-1537.

Alert radios available for residents, businesses

By Cindy Chalmers

Specially adapted alert radios that will keep Islanders advised of emergency situations are available now through the Sanibel Police Department.

Twenty radios are already placed around Sanibel in Neighborhood Watch leaders' and EPERT notification captains' homes. So far the system has worked without a hitch and has received an enthusiastic response from the recipients, Off. Jack Primm said this week.

"I haven't had one negative comment about the radios," Primm, who is coordinating the radio network, said.

The radios have been used to advise Islanders of heaving rains, flooding and power outages that have occurred since they were issued, Primm said.

Adapted with special crystals, the radios monitor only the Sanibel police frequency that broadcasts weather alerts and other local emergencies. They run on either batteries or electricity and are equipped with a siren that sounds when important information is about to be broadcast.

Primm said he hopes to issue a radio to every home and business on Sanibel. Captivans are also more than welcome to purchase the radios. He added, however, that some locations on Captiva might experience difficulty receiving the signal.

The radio program was initiated to facilitate the fast relay of up-to-date information in hurricane situations. But Primm said he hopes the radios will eventually be used to advise Island residents and businesses of all types of emergencies.

"The possibilities are wide," he said. "We're just going to have to see how people take to it."

Anyone interested in purchasing a radio for $56 should fill out the order form on this page and send it along with a check to:

The Sanibel Police Department

Alert Radios

P.O. Box 438

Sanibel, FL 33957

Primm said he plans to wait until the department receives 100 order forms before he places an order with Radio Shack for the radios. After that, the radios should be delivered within five to six weeks.

He emphasized that the city is not in the business of selling the alert radios and is taking no responsibility or the functioning of the radios. "We are just coordinating the effort," he said, adding that the radios carry the regular 90-day Radio Shack guarantee.

Loss Of Another Valuable Asset

By George Campbell

Illustrated by Ann Winterbotham

Thursday, Aug. 27, was a good day for the assassins -- and a bad one for Sanibel's overstressed wildlife.

That morning a sensitive young visitor from California rept to see a squashed opossum on the road. Later a hatchling Gopher Tortoise, hardly old enough to have seen the sun rise and set once, died on Gulf Drive.

And at midnight the mother alligator, here pictured -- the Matron of Sur Mer -- as big around as a telephone pole, was run over by some half-crazed driver wildly speeding down from Captiva. How can you be sober, not o-deed, and actually hit an eight foot long, 14 inch around big old alligator?

The perpetrator of that heinous deed didn't even stop. He took off lickity-split leaving the scene of his crime.

It was left up to a couple of cars full of caring citizens to try to save the beast. They, with the help of Sanibel Police Officer Art Leanos, brought the terribly injured animal to me.

The alligator's skull was crushed, the hind legs and pelvic girdle were broken and all of the dorsal plates were worn down -- indicating a high speed accident causing the animal's skin to be abraded mercilessly as it skidded along the pavement.

When the patient arrived at my place only eye reflexes were apparent, so, believing the creature to be terminal, she was destroyed.

High water flooded some gator nests this year, making new babies in short supply. The Matron of Sur Mer was a known high producer, and her progeny will be missed in years to come. There aren't that many adult female producers around these days.

If we aren't careful -- much more careful of our wildlife -- Sanibel will soon become "Larchmont on the Gulf." There seems to be a changing attitude toward the preservation of our creatures. Ten years ago everybody was a naturalist who cared. Today it's the cocktail circuit that counts and to hell with our natural values.

Frogs are a good indicator of environmental health on Sanibel. Have you noticed how quiet it is on rainy nights this summer? Many frog choruses are no more -- others are vastly diminished. If Rachel Carson were here today, she would have to call it Silent Summer.

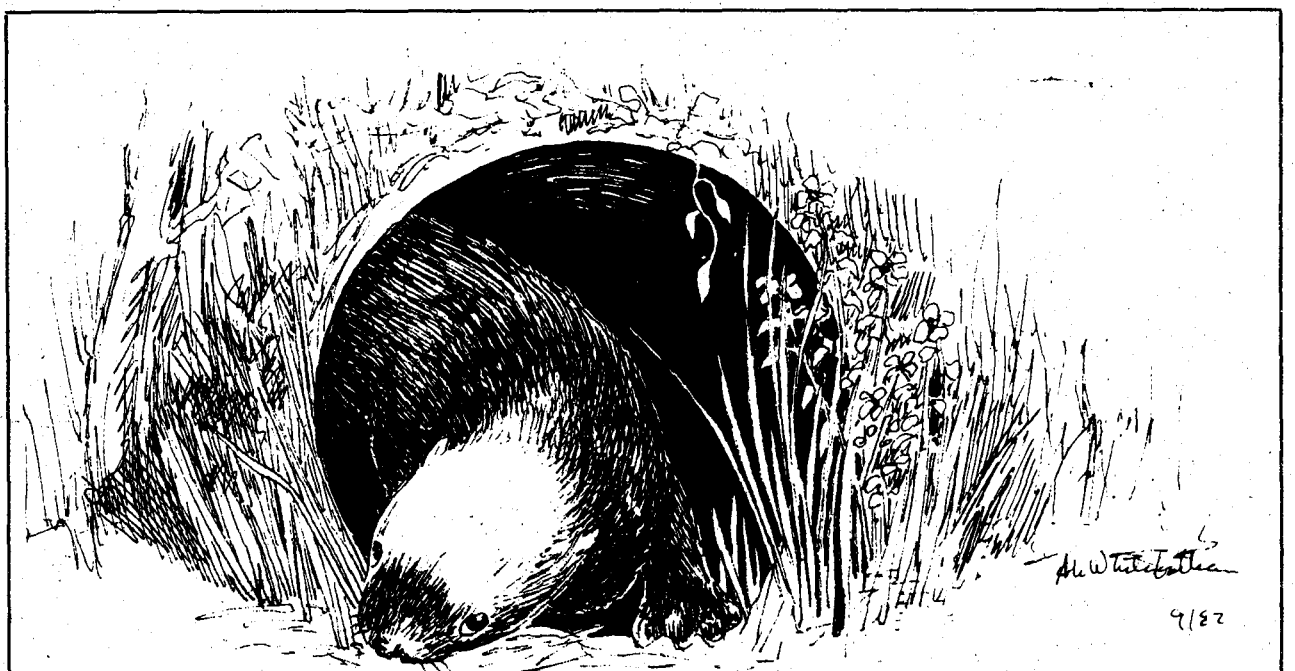

One bright light in the wildlife picture: the animal crossings placed under San-Cap Road that connect the "Ding" Darling Refuge land with the internal wetlands at five locations are working for the smaller animals.

Studies have proved to this writers' satisfaction that many fewer road kills are taking place on San-Cap Road these days. Of course these crossings cannot accommodate animals the size of the Matron of Sur Mer, but small mammals such as opossums, coons, otters, the rare round-tailed muskrat and the even rarer indigenous mink can and do use these crossings. A much better monitoring program can be easily accomplished employing known methods. Won't somebody step forward and volunteer to do this important work?

It is too late to save many species here, but caring citizens, if they will try, can save others -- and Sanibel can be of value in the lives of our grandchildren.

She was called the Matron of Sur Mer. She was mother to many dozens of baby alligators over the last few years. This valuable animal was destroyed by a half-crazed speeding driver on San-Cap Road.

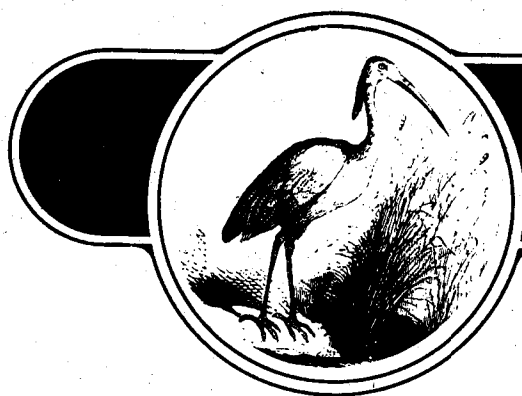

An appreciative young otter completes a safe crossing of San-Cap Road via an underground animal crossing.

Sanibel should plan dozens more such crossings in order to cut down on the wildlife slaughter. Box culverts, first suggested by Dick Workman, should also be in the plans for the entire length of the Sanibel River. The latter would aid greatly in interior flood control and would benefit tourism by opening the river to canoeists.

Such plans were drawn at great expense and are available today in the once well-known "Archie Grant Report." These plans have been forgotten by old timers, while present-day officials either don't know of them or don't understand their significance.

REFUGE REPORT

Film focuses on wildlife habitat

This week's feature of the J.N. "Ding" Darling National Wildlife Refuge Film Series is Habitat - A Special Place.

This 30-minute film takes an in-depth look at the ever changing relationship between wildlife and the essential elements needed to survive -- food, water, cover and a place to raise their young.

The film describes how natural and man-made changes to one's habitat can have a positive or a negative effect on wildlife.

Habitat-A Special Place was produced by the National Wildlife Federation and the U.S. Forest Service.

The film will be shown at 2 p.m. every afternoon through Friday, Sept. 17, in the Visitor Center auditorium. The Visitor Center is at the entrance to the Wildlife Drive just off of Sanibel-Captiva Road.

Slide presentation provides information about mangroves

A slide presentation on mangrove maintenance will be made at the J.N. "Ding" Darling Wildlife Refuge this Wednesday, Sept. 15, by Anne Marshall of the Cooperative Extension Service in Lee County.

The presentation will focus on the importance of planting, pruning and caring for mangroves and on regulations that affect them.

The purpose of the program is to provide information about mangroves and their management to homeowners, condominium owners or others living in the coastal environment on canals or the waterfront where mangroves are presently growing or where mangroves could be grown for screening or to help prevent erosion.

The 45-minute program will be shown at 10 a.m. and at noon this Wednesday in the Visitor Center auditorium. The center is at the entrance to the Wildlife Drive just off of Sanibel-Captiva Road.

Sanibel-Pine Island Sound plan complete, federal agency prepares for transfer of lands

More than two dozen tracts of federally-owned land, mostly islands and parts of islands in the Sanibel-Pine Island Sound area, could go to Lee County and the state of Florida under a new plan approved by the Department of the Interior's Bureau of Land Management.

With the Sanibel-Pine Island Sound document complete, BLM can begin processing applications from potential transfer recipients, BLM Eastern States Director Curtis Jones Jr. explained. His approval of the plan was announced in the Aug. 31 Federal Register.

"Some applications were in-hand before work on the plan was begun in October 1980," he said, adding other applications are expected in the near future. It will take varying amounts of time to process the applications, he explained, and the actual transfer of lands will not take place overnight.

BLM's completion of the Sanibel-Pine Island Sound Plan is a major step toward ensuring the preservation of these tracts in their natural state and identifying the most appropriate managers for them.

Based on extensive research by an interdisciplinary BLM team headquartered in Tuscaloosa, Ala., and an ongoing program of public involvement and consultation with federal, state and local officials, the plan evaluates management options for all BLM-administered resources in Lee, Collier and Charlotte counties.

Included are 60 surface tracts totaling 875 acres and approximately 7,300 acres of subsurface federal minerals ownership. The plan recommends that BLM transfer all the surface tracts to other government entities if and when the appropriate applications are received and processed.

According to the recommendations, one 58-acre tract comprising half of Point Blanco Island will be transferred to Lee County for use as a county park; a 30-acre upland tract near Corkscrew Swamp will be transferred to Lee County if the county requests it or else offered for public sale; and 74 other tracts will be transferred to the state of Florida for inclusion in the Rookery Bay National Estuarine Sanctuary for other aquatic or environmentally endangered lands preserves.

The remaining tracts, totaling 410 acres, will be transferred to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service for inclusion in the national wildlife refuge system.

Federal mineral ownership with development potential will be retained by the federal government; federal mineral ownership without development potential may be transferred to the surface owner or administrator following a detailed geologic investigation.

The policy of BLM in the eastern half of the United States is to dispose of its surface acreage through transfer or sale, Jones said. His responsibilities cover BLM-administered resources in the 31 states adjoining or east of the Mississippi River. Whenever feasible, he added, management responsibilities are transferred to other federal agencies, states or localities that can do a better job of on-site management.

20 Years Ago This Week

Cliff Gimmard, governor of the Sanibel-Captiva Teen Club, reports the ferry service sponsored by the club for the Fort Myers-Jefferson football game was a real success.

Tom Billheimer has been given an interim appointment as commissioner of the Sanibel Fire Control District. Billheimer fills the vacancy left by Vincent MacVettie, who recently moved from the Island.

Word has been received from Dr. R. Tucker Abbott that he will serve as a judge for the 1968 Shell Fair.

FOR SALE: Lot in Sanibel Isles. 100' on road, 100' on wide waterway. $3,750. Terms if desired.

The Lee County Commission last week deferred action on a request for a 147-unit addition to the Shalimar Motel. The commission postponed a decision until the results of a year-long study of the Island's development trends are available.

Francis Bailey Jr. will be a member of the Lee County Mosquito Control District again. He filed for the board on a non-partisan basis and, because he had no opponents for the seat, automatically assumed the post for another term.

A $25,000 grant has been made to the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation by the Frank E. Gannett Newspaper Foundation to aid in the SCCF acquisition of land needed for a freshwater wildlife sanctuary on Sanibel.

Ann Winterbotham, SCCF chairman, and Robert Haynie, treasurer, accepted the check from Gannett representatives.

New officers installed at the Sanibel-Captiva Kiwanis Club meeting this week include Dick Muench, president; Robert Shakespeare, first vice president; John Williams, treasurer; Chris Wollenberg, secretary; Al Duncan, sergeant at arms; and Keith Trowbridge, immediate past president.

Sanibel Sgt. Bill Trefny and Officer Dick Noon travel to Jacksonville this week to compete in that city's Open Swim Meet.

Ralph Woodring, Ted Cole, Clark Newcomb, Fritz Stoppelbein and Mary Barnes were named to the city's first Marine Advisory Committee.

Islander Charlotte Heimann registered a class objection to the city's efforts to extend Middle Gulf Drive north to Casa Ybel Road.

Traffic was stalled for three hours last Friday when police ordered the Causeway closed for an investigation of a possible bomb in a briefcase wedged under the bridge.

The U.S. Coast Guard pulled the briefcase into the open water and then pumped several rounds from a 12-gauge shotgun into it. There was no explosion.

In the course of developing the Sanibel-Pine Island Sound Plan, BLM held three public meetings in Fort Myers in November 1980, June 1981 and May 1982. The last meeting was held during a 45-day review and comment period that followed publication of the plan in draft form last May 12. Twenty-four individuals representing federal, state and county governments, regional and local planning agencies, public interest groups and the media attended the hearing. In addition,

BLM received 36 comments by letter or phone.

"Virtually all the public response to the draft plan was supportive of its recommendations to preserve the surface tracts in their natural state and to find the most effective managers for them," Jones said.

Summaries of the plan are available from the Bureau of Land Management's Tuscaloosa Office, 518 19th Avenue, Tuscaloosa, AL 35401, (205) 759-5441.

Panthers open with 27-15 win over Tarpons; face Clewiston Friday night

It took the Cypress Lake Panthers two full quaters to get their high-powered offense in full gear last Friday night against the visiting Charlotte Tarpons.

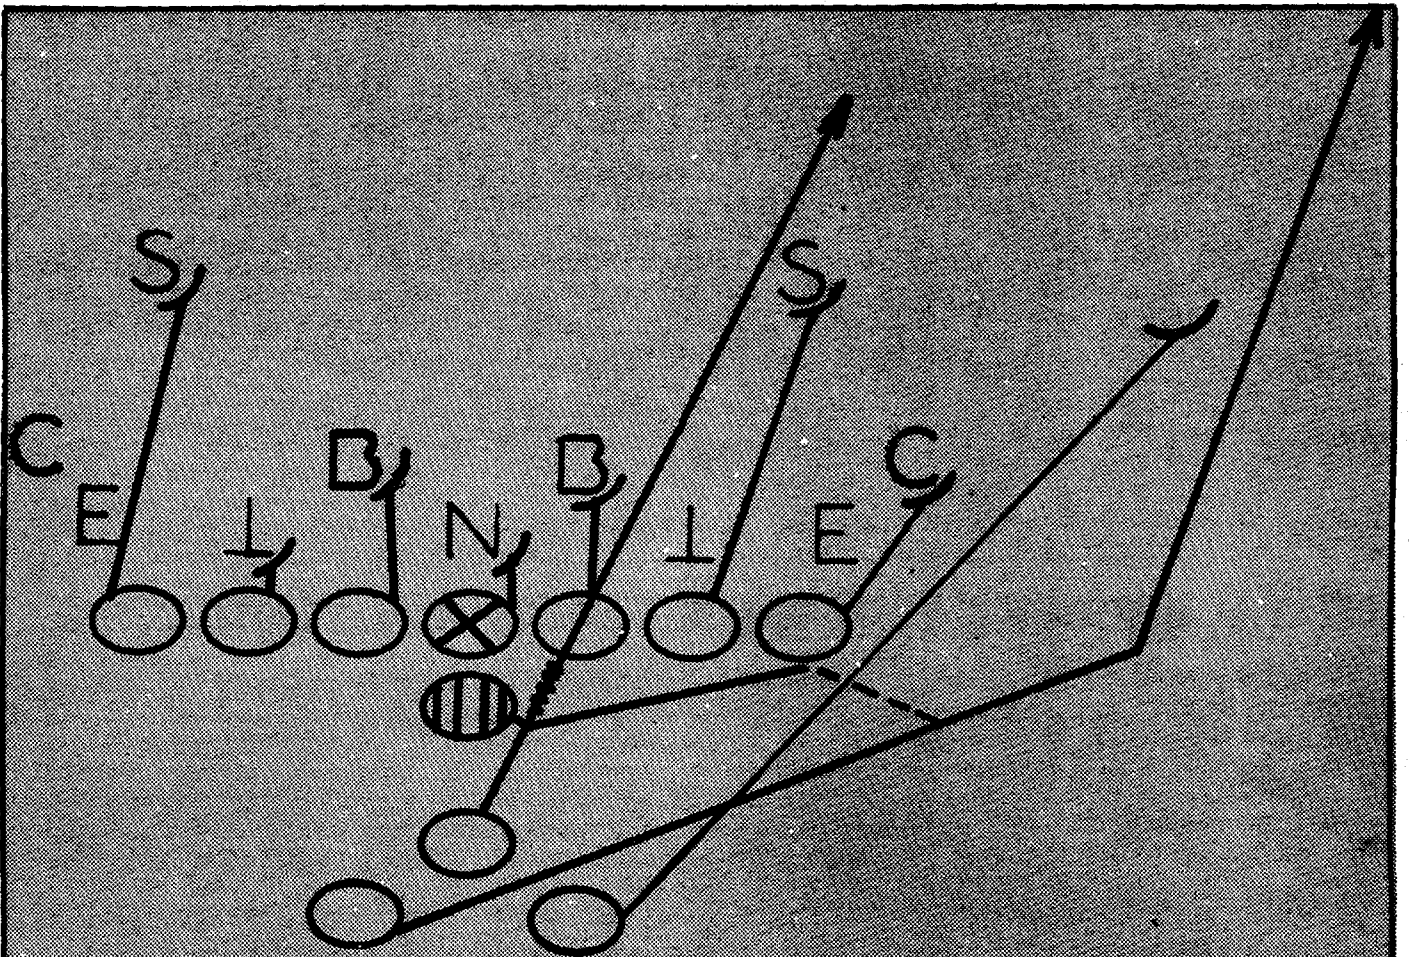

But when they did, the Panthers exploded for three second half touchdowns and finished the night with 347 yards on the ground on the way to a 27-15 season opening victory.

The Panthers' defense was awesome in the second half after allowing Charlotte's quarterback Billy Midgett to pick the Cypress Lake players' defensive secondary apart in the first.

This Friday the Panthers play host to the powerful team from Clewiston.

With Lt. Ray Rhodes of the Sanibel Police Department once again coaching the defensive line, and with local Islanders Eric Gavin and Eric Palmer on the squad, the Panthers will get much attention from The Islander this football season.

It looks like it is going to be a good one.

The triple option off the Wishbone

The predominant offensive formation in use by both college and high school football teams these days is the Wishbone.

In Southwest Florida, Cypress Lake, Naples and Bishop Verot high schools use this high powered offense to generate large, impressive rushing statistics.

And it is the option play (diagramed above) that is the key to the Wishbone attack.

The quarterback, upon receiving the snap from center, pivots right, his eyes keyed on the defensive tackle, and places the ball in the stomach of the fullback without actually releasing possession.

If the defensive tackle, bumped by the offensive tackle on his way to block the safety, reacts to his left, the quarterback lets the fullback keep the ball.

But if the defensive tackle reacts to the fullback, the quarterback takes the hand-off and continues down the line. Now he must key on the defensive end.

If the end reacts away from the ball, the quarterback will cut inside. But if the end reacts toward the quarterback, a pitch out to the left halfback becomes his next option.

As you can see, the option off the Wishbone is a triple-threat play that causes many a defensive coach worry in trying to defense.

My, how time flies. It seems only yesterday the 1982 softball season got underway, and already we are at its end.

Fortunately, the culmination of Island softball comes to us each year in the form of tradition, something we Islanders try to maintain and preserve at all times.

So while we're on the subject of tradition, why not mark your calendar for Friday evening, all day Saturday and Sunday from noon on? Why not get your chores done early, pack a picnic basket full of cool drinks and tasty food and join in a celebration of that Island tradition known as the Nosseeum Classic? (See complete men's and women's tournament schedules on page 5B).

This is Island softball at its best, so the spectacle in itself justifies attendance by fans. But perhaps of more importance is this tradition thing we've been discussing. 1982 marks the seventh year of organized Island softball.

Think about it. Seven years of Island softball. Seven years of Island tradition.

Just think ahead to the years 1988-89, when we will look back on the birth of our Recreation Complex, and back further to the days when there was no community pool on the Island, to the time when there was no gymnasium.

Men and women will compete in Nosseeum action this weekend who can remember when there was no organized softball on the Islands. And there are men and women who will compete in Nosseeum action this weekend who are finishing their seventh straight season.

TALKIN' SPORTS

By Allen Rainwater

Maintaining tradition? You can bet these players are pulling their share of the load. But what about the rest of us? Softball, like any other community endeavor, needs support. Support that only we as a community can give.

Ask any ball player the difference between playing to empty bleachers as opposed to playing for a full house. He'll tell you flat out which condition is most conducive to good games. And he'll tell you without a moment's hesitation which one is more fun.

And Island ball players deserve good games and fun.

For the most part Island softball is made up of Island people. People like you and me. People who work here and contribute to the community's betterment. People who help make the machinery run a little smoother.

Granted, there are unavoidable exceptions to the rule, but by far the majority of league participants are your sons and daughters, your friends and neighbors, your employees and associates. They deserve your support.

All that aside, the 1982 Nosseeum Classic is sure to provide spectators with a surprise or two, like the continuation of the season-long, on-going battle between Men's Division teams West Wind and Naumann.

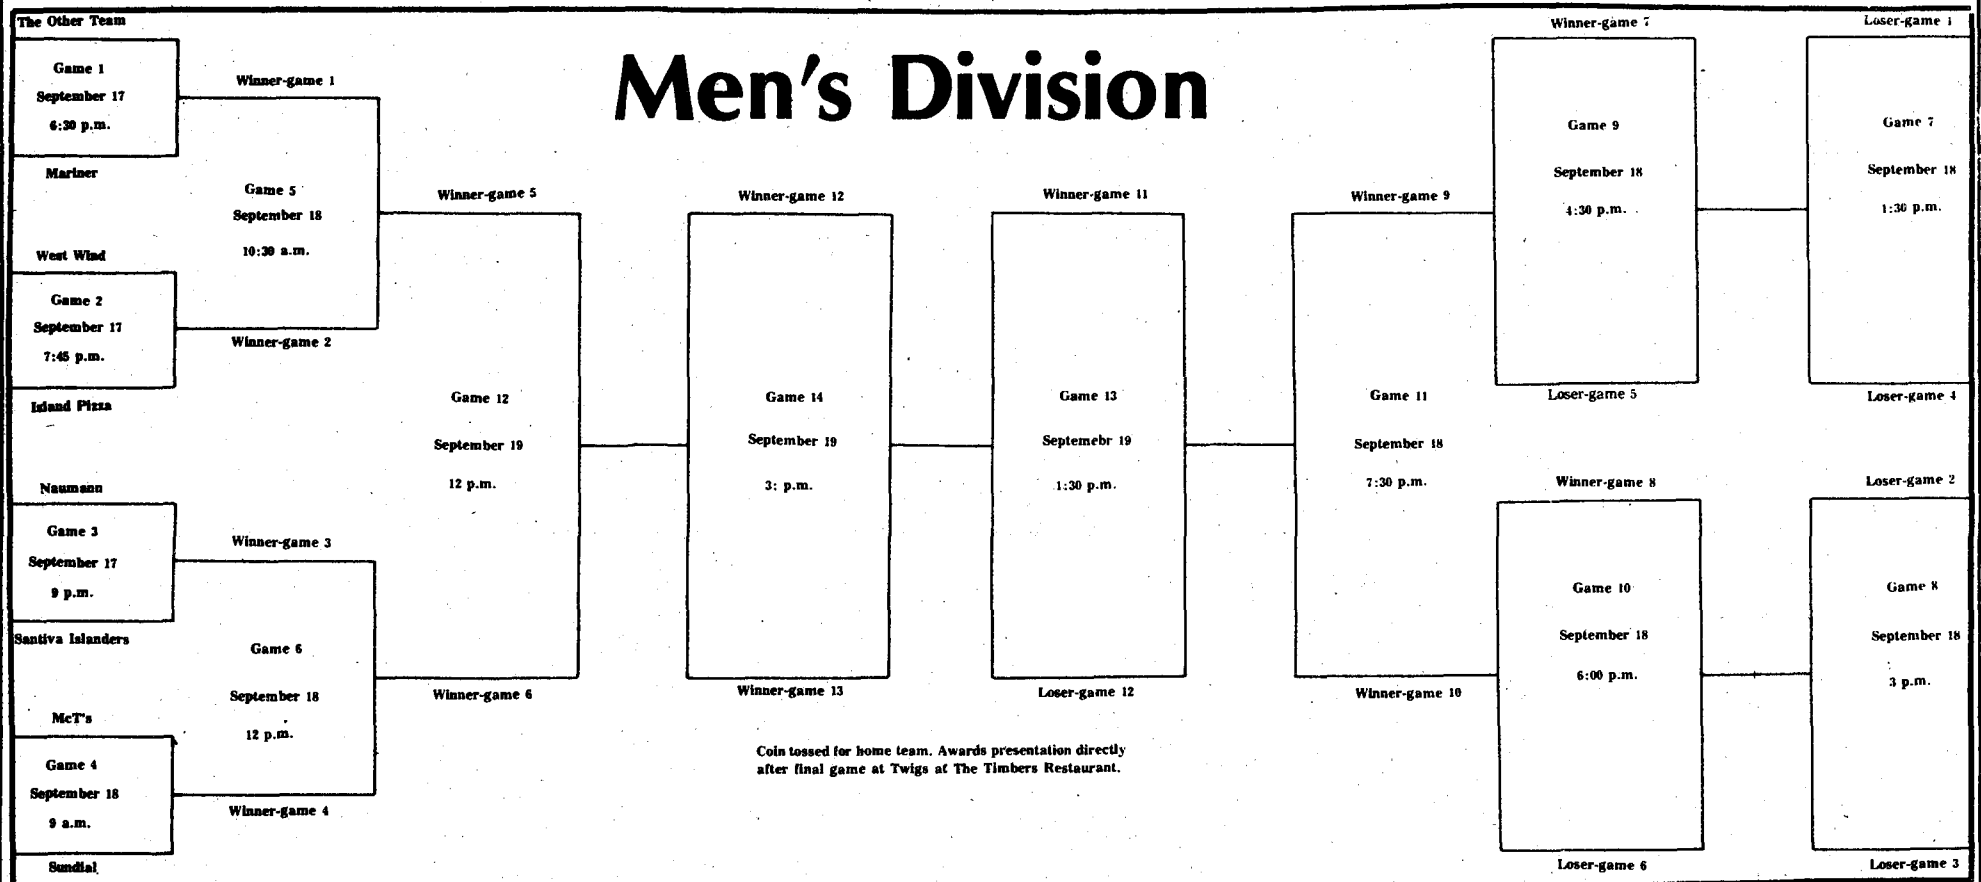

Thursday night Naumann dealt West Wind their second defeat of the season. And of the eight teams scheduled for the men's Nosseeum play, Naumann might be the only team with the firepower to stop the division champions. That is unless the surprise entry, The Other Team (Mike Courtney, Doug Quimby and company), has a few tricks up its sleeve.

As for the women's Nosseeum Classic, let's just say it will be the surprise of the year if any team can knock off the champs, The Periwinkle Place Players.

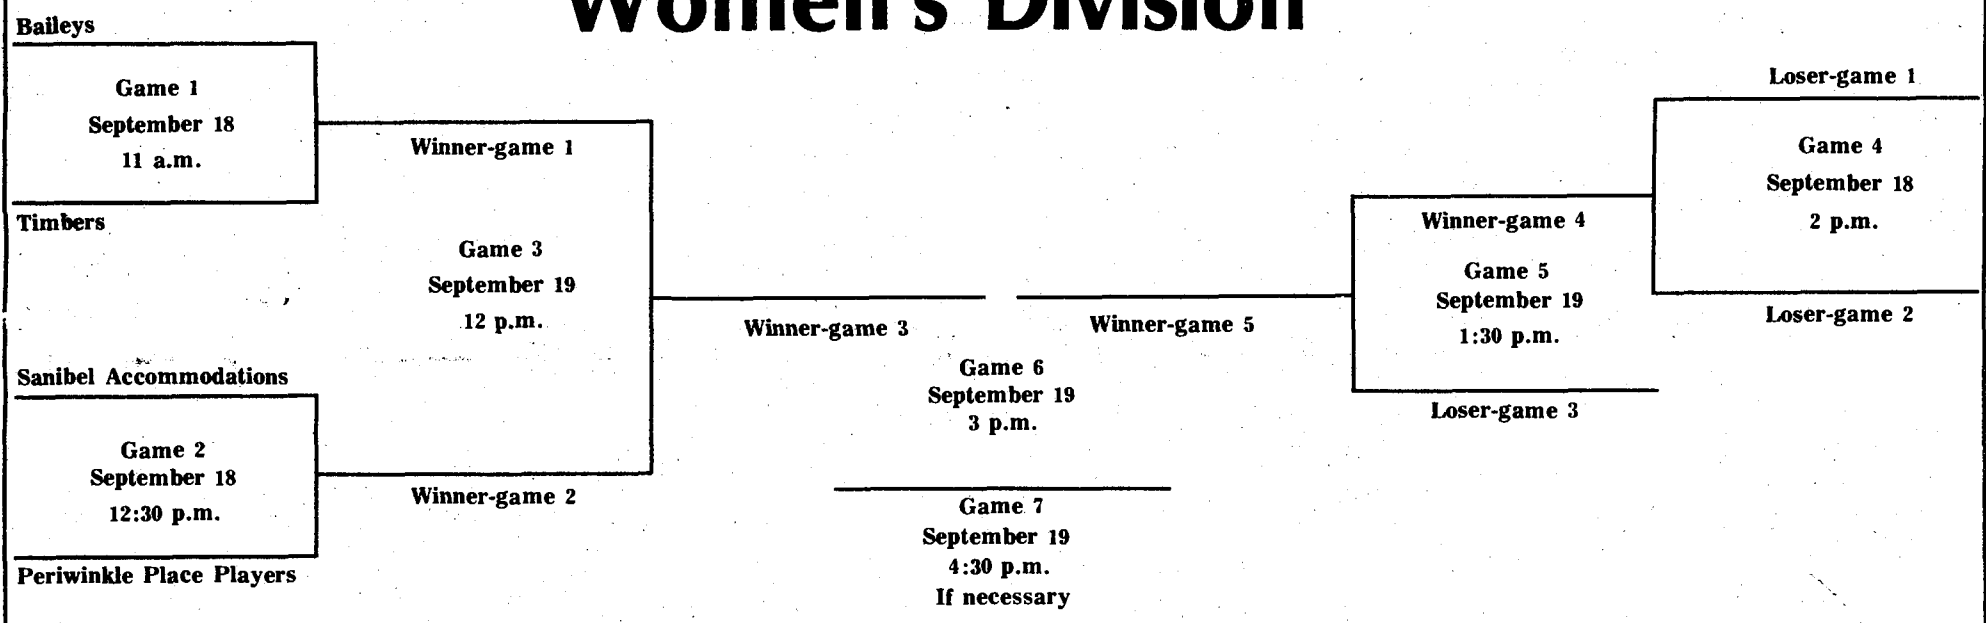

The Seventh Annual Nosseeum Classic is upon us. With it comes yet another year of preservation of a most worthwhile Island tradition. And you can help ensure the eighth, ninth, tenth ... All you have to do is attend, show your support. Believe me, it will be greatly appreciated.

Got a bad case of the seven year Nosseeum itch? Join the crowd of happy scratchers this weekend. You won't regret it.

Islander Sports quiz

Believe it or not, two expert dart throwers out there listed the correct sequence of numbers, beginning clockwise, on a British regulation dart board. The correct answer is: 20-1-18-4-13-6-10-15-2-17-3-19-7-16-8-11-14-9-12-5. Congratulations to Chris Kuhn and Kevin Myers of Fort Myers!

This week's Islander Sports Quiz is a breeze. Here goes: What famous golfer is nicknamed the Golden Bear? See. Told you it was a breeze.

Call The Islander, 472-5185, with the answer. If you're right, we'll print your name in next week's issue.

Fourth annual Florida Waterfowl Stamp design contest planned

The fourth annual Florida Waterfowl Stamp design contest will get underway this fall, the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission has announced. Interested artists should send for entry blanks soon.

The colorful stamp is required of all waterfowl hunters in Florida over 14 and under 65 years of age. They are also considered collectors' items.

The commission, which sponsors the stamp contest, uses the proceeds of the $3.25 stamp to better manage Florida's waterfowl population.

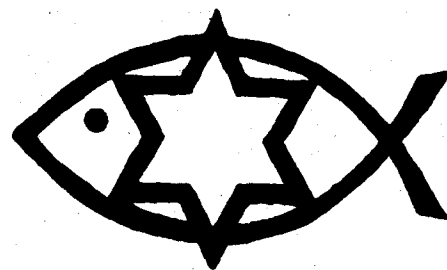

Application blanks and contest rules are now available, and coordinator Tom Goodwin said he expects more participation than ever this year.

Artists are limited to no more than two entries. The multicolored designs must be original and be 7" x 10", horizontal, on an 11" x 14" mat. Each entry must be accompanied by an official entry blank.

Entries will be accepted from Nov. 2 until 5 p.m. Dec. 15. The winning design will be selected at the first commission meeting following the deadline.

Entry blanks can be obtained by writing:

Are you getting full return from your rental property?

Do you know exactly what you're getting for your money when you let someone handle the rental of your Sanibel or Captiva vacation rental property? Or are hidden fees draining away the profit from your real estate investment?

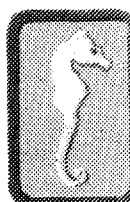

At Priscilla Murphy Island Accommodations we believe owners should know, and get, exactly what they are paying for. That's why our rental agreements explain what services we provide without charge, what ones we bill the owner for, and how much our fees are.

For example, our $20 per month service fee includes marketing. We provide free inspection of units, we make no key service charges and we do not add on to subcontract maintenance work. Our maintenance work is billed at a flat $12.50 per hour. Cleaning charges are $30 for a one bedroom unit, $35 for two bedrooms and $50 for three bedrooms.

Our owners are paid promptly every week for rentals. You won't have to wait until the end of the month for your check.

Normally we take a 20% commission on rentals. If you generate the rental yourself and we collect the rent, that figure is reduced to 10%. If you rent the unit directly and collect the rent we charge you no commission.

If you aren't satisfied with the return on your rental property, call, write, or visit Island Accommodations. Our experts can make you smile again.

Shopping

Sanibel is a veritable shopper's paradise. Tasteful boutiques and casual island shops join forces to present visitors with everything and anything a vacation shopper could hope for.

At the Lighthouse (Eastern) end of the island, Punta Ybel Plaza and the Sea Horse Shops are right across the street from one another, providing a variety of products that can cure your sweet tooth or tickle your shell finder's fancy. Need a good haircut or coiffure? You can get it in either of these shopping centers.

Most businesses open at 10 a.m. and close at 5:30 p.m. This is true for many island shops, although some are open evenings during the winter season.

Tall Australian Pines shade Periwinkle Way and the shopper travels west along this main thoroughfare. This stretch of road is truly a shopper's paradise! It's all here—the fast and not-so-fast eating spots, casual and elegant boutiques, hand-wrought jewelry, craft designs, shell shops and balm for health product fanatics.

Watch to your right and left as you drive or cycle along. Photographic supplies, bait and tackle, deli foods, fresh seafood and baked goods, knick-knacks and what-nots can all be found along the drive to the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road. Along the way, shopping centers such as the Heart of the Islands, Periwinkle Place and Tahitian Gardens offer a variety of island delights.

Palm Ridge Road, the Periwinkle Way turn-off to Captiva, offers several shopping centers featuring everything from imports to gift shops for the discriminating shopper, plants and shells, a sandwich shop, ice cream parlors, pizza parlor, boutique shop and the Island Apothecary pharmacy.

At the Tarpon Bay-Periwinkle Way intersection, the Island Shopping Center features the island's only supermarket and moviehouse.

A left on Tarpon Bay Road takes the visitor past Sanibel's original schoolhouse, which now holds original island watercolors and woodcuts.

Then on to West Gulf Drive and westward to an interesting little artisan shop and gallery.

At the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road, you may choose instead to turn right and follow the signs to the Tarpon Bay marina, where you will find a cluster of quaint shops overlooking the back bay. Some antiques, shells and shellcrafts, what-nots and clever clothes can be found here, as well as a great seafood sandwich and soft drinks.

The spectacular ride to Captiva, with its lush foliage and enchanting view of the Gulf, is well worth a day's outing. Talented artists display their works in one roadside shop, while others feature some nifty gifts for Grandma to take home to little hands as a pleasant hodge-podge of remembrances from these barrier islands.

Whether for shopping or merely browsing, island shops offer a surprising variety from one-of-a-kind collectibles for the discerning shopper to postcards for the simple souvenir hunter. And of course, for all, shells—shell jewelry, shell lamps, just plain shells—the most beautiful shells in the world from the most beautiful shelling beaches in the world.

SHELLING

The city's resolution limiting the taking of live shells to two live shells per species per person is one to be scrupulously obeyed. As a matter of fact, in order to preserve Sanibel's beautiful shelling beaches, most collectors refuse to take any live shells whatsoever.

DOGGY DO'S AND DON'TS

If you are visiting Sanibel with the family Fido in tow, all the better. All family members can enjoy Southwest Florida sun and surf.
The Chamber of Commerce can tell you what accommodations are available for families with pets.

Remember: Wherever you are, clean up after your pet! "Leave nothing on the beach but footprints" applies to dogs, too.
There's no leash law on Sanibel, but of course an excitable or unruly animal is better off when controlled with a leash.

WARNING! SAFEGUARD YOUR VALUABLES

In order to protect your valuable possessions from theft, it is recommended that you take them to a bank or hotel vault for safekeeping. Do NOT leave them in your room or car.

CAMPING, BEACH FIRES

Camping on the beach is prohibited, as are open beach fires.
An exemption to the beach fire ordinance is a fire in an approved cooking container (not to exceed 48x24x12 inches deep) with an extruded metal grill for non-commercial food preparation. This type of container will be allowed on the beach without a permit.
After you have had your beach party, please assume the responsibility for cleaning up any debris or litter in your area.

FISHING

While no license is required for saltwater fishing, fishing in freshwater ponds or the Sanibel River requires a Florida fishing license.
Licenses are available at Bailey's General Store on Periwinkle Way. The fee is $6.50 for residents and $10.50 for non-residents.
Minimum Legal Lengths
Blue Fish 10 inches

Flounder	11 inches
Grouper	11 inches
Mackerel	12 inches
Mullet	12 inches
Pompano	10 inches
Red Fish	12 inches
Snook	18 inches
Trout	12 inches

Snook fishing is outlawed from June 30-Aug. 1.

SPEED LIMITS

There is very good reason for the varying speed limits (20-30 mph) along the Causeway. The slower speeds preserve the bridge supports from strain and stress.
This speed limit is strictly enforced with radar on a 24-hour basis by both the Sanibel Police Department and the Lee County Sheriff's Department.
