City Attorney resigns; will aid replacement search

By Barbara Brundage

Neal Bowen, Sanibel's first full-time city attorney, is bowing out after six years service.

Bowen's resignation, effective Jan. 14, 1983, was announced at last Tuesday's City Council meeting by Mayor Porter Goss, who said he was saddened by the turn of events.

Bowen confirmed that his "mind is certain and the matter is not debatable."

But the council deferred accepting his surprise decision until Nov. 2 when it will be acknowledged formally by resolution.

And the council as a practical matter initiated the process to find Bowen's replacement.

Councilman Mike Klein plans to work with Bowen to set up a procedure to screen candidates.

Bowen, now 34, in his letter of resignation said that the time has come to make hard career choices.

He said this week he had no definite plans but hoped to utilize the experience in municipal law and some expertise in land use gained during his years in Sanibel most likely in private practice.

A degree in environmental law qualified him as legal counsel for the fledgling city of Sanibel.

City Attorney Neal Bowen

The city had just adopted its controversial Comprehensive Land Use Plan when he was named city attorney in August 1976.

Through the years Bowen hasn't kept count of the number of law suits in which he has defended the city.

"But it's been a lot," he said.

Bowen is concerned about the half dozen litigations still pending and is particularly

Candidates' Night: Thursday at Community Center

By Barbara Brundage

Sanibel voters will go to the polls next Tuesday to elect two councilmen from a field of five to fill Seats 4 and 5, vacated by council veterans, Duane White and Porter Goss.

Planning Commissioner Bill Hagerup is pitted against Periwinkle Trailer Park owner Jerry Muench for the seat White has held for six years.

Three candidates, Planning Commissioners Emily Barefield and Louise Johnson, and Real Estate Broker Donald Bissell are vying for Goss' seat.

All terms are for four years.

Polls will be open next Tuesday at the Community Association building on Periwinkle Way from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

There is a possibility that none of the three candidates in the Seat 5 race will receive a majority (50 per cent plus one) of the total votes cast, in which event a run-off between the two highest vote getters will take place on Tuesday, Nov. 16.

At that time, electors will be asked to approve or disapprove 18 changes to the City Charter recommended by the Charter Revision Committee and endorsed by the City Council.

Voters may meet the candidates face to face Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Community Association at the third and final Candidates Night, sponsored by the Community Committee for Candidates Night.

Former Planning Commissioner Betty Robinson will moderate the forum, when the five political hopefuls will field questions designed to help them in their decision making.

All five candidates will have received in advance a list of 14 questions covering a broad range of issues, compiled by the committee.

Following five minute opening statements by each candidate, five of the 14 questions will be drawn at random and each candidate will be allotted three minutes to express his or her views on the subject.

Written questions will be accepted from the floor, Mary Wegmuller of the CCN, said.

Safety tips for Halloween

By Catherine Battista

The arrival of pumpkins, Indian corn and earth-colored gourds in Bailey's is enough to make Island children count the days until that magical night when the roads of Sanibel will host a parade of ghosts and goblins.

Witches, pirates, hobos and of course Frankenstein and the vampire are perennial favorites, but it's really the children's night to be whatever they choose.

But more than the costumes, the ritual of marching around neighborhoods in search of treats is held in high esteem by young tricksters. They compare notes with friends along the way, periodically taking sack inventory to check out the caches of popcorn, jelly beans, lolly pops, licorice, M & M's and apples and oranges. Often half the bounty is eaten before the ghouls get home.

One Sanibel parent has some different ideas about the ritual of Halloween. Jerri Magg of Sand Dollar Road instructs her children not to eat any treats until they are inspected at home first. She opposes too many sweets and pays special attention to the way treats are packaged.

Magg is probably typical of other parents and consumers whose confidence in pre-packaged goods is shaken and has been doubly shaken by the recent Tylenol tragedies.

It seems unlikely that Sanibel would experience a razor-blade-in-the-apple incident, but, "We can't get too complacent," Magg warns, adding that any candy in wrappers that look as though they might have been tampered with should be discarded immediately.

Magg herself hands out pennies to trick or treaters who knock on her door. "It makes more sense," she explains. "At least the parents don't have to worry about contamination from any source."

Another possible treat for Halloween youngsters is nuts, nature's nutrition packaging triumph. Peanuts and walnuts, for example, provide up to 10 times the amount of protein and potassium of a candy bar. And they are more economical, too - 24 ounces of peanuts cost around $2.38; 20 ounces of Hershey Kisses cost around $2.99.

The most important advantage of nuts for Halloween, however, is that they come ready to eat in a package that protects them from the ravages of any trick or treat sack. And they were the original Halloween symbols along with black cats, witches and skeletons, according to Encyclopedia Britannica.

One final note of safety to keep in mind this Halloween is to be sure children who are walking carry flashlights to let passing cars know of their presence. Bailey's and local bike shops sell iridescent tape that can be used to decorate treat sacks and arm or leg bands that glow in the dark.

For a safer Halloween this year, use nuts and common sense!

Cemetery spruce up

Sanibel's historic cemetery received touches of loving care and the Island gained more than 15 good citizens when the local Girl Scout chapter joined forces last week to spruce up the Sanibel Cemetery as part of their Active Citizens Badge requirements.

Supervised by troop leader Debbie Friedlund, the troop of Girl Scouts met at the Sanibel Cemetery at 5:30 p.m. and, partially by the light of the moon, weeded and cleared debris for two hours with full approval of the Sanibel Historical Preservation Committee.

The Girl Scouts included in their landscaping endeavors a meeting with Preservation Committee chairman Charlotte White, who gave the girls an overall account of the cemetery's history.

The weeding of the Sanibel Cemetery was only one of several activities the Island Girl Scouts needed to complete for their Active Citizens Badges. Also included in the badge requirements are instruction in how to report a stray animal, lost or found bicycle, or crime, how to license a pet, and how to locate the owner of a vacant lot. In addition, the girls will be encouraged to become familiar with our legal system by keeping a record of everyday laws encountered by the girls during a three-day period, followed by discussion on how to institute new and appropriate laws and how to change old and ineffectual laws.

The Girl Scouts have plans to earn a few more badges this fall, including badges on well-being, horseback riding, reading, and camping.

Many state and county politicians accused of 'fence-sitting' on nuclear freeze issue

By David Meardon

Eight of 34 candidates for local and state offices have expressed support of a resolution calling for an agreement between the United States and Soviet Union to a mutual freeze on testing, production, and deployment of nuclear weapons.

All told, only 11 candidates, or less than one-third, responded to a questionnaire sent to them by the Lee County Coalition for Peace. The lack of response indicated that "most of them preferred to fence-sit until after the coming elections," Coalition Co-Chairman Barbara Heinrich said.

"Part of the rationale for doing this is to acquaint candidates with the nuclear freeze issue and the proliferation of weapons. People are concerned," Heinrich said.

Of the eight who said they support a freeze, only five are still running: Joe Campochiaro (D), vying for State Representative from District 74, Dana Stevens (D), running for Congressional Representative from District 13, and County Commission hopefuls Sam Camparetto (D), Bill Fussell (D), and Art Rhowedder (R). Also supporting a freeze but defeated in the runoff election for the County Commission were Betty Bowen Evans (R); Don McDaniel (D), and Tony Proctor (D).

The only "no" response came from Barbara Lindsey (R), of Stuart, who is running for Commissioner of Agriculture. "Undecided" were George Firestone (D), running for Secretary of State, and Frank Mann (D), running for State Senator from District 38.

Heinrich said the Coalition was pleased that the response did not fall along party lines, indicating bipartisan backing of a freeze.

Support for a freeze resolution has grown markedly in recent months. It has been endorsed by more than 100 city councils (including Sanibel's, which passed a freeze resolution in July), eight state legislatures, and over 200 members of Congress. It recently passed by a three to one margin in a state-wide referendum in Wisconsin, and is on the ballot next week in several states, including California, Rhode Island, Montana, Oregon, and New Jersey. A recent Louis Harris survey indicated the public favors a mutual freeze by a majority of 81 to 16 percent.

Sanibel City Council Seat #5

QUOTE—UNQUOTE

Louise Johnson will benefit Sanibel

To the Editor
The Islander

Our visits to Sanibel began long before the causeway, our feeling for the Island prompted our building a home there. We enjoy our Sanibel home part of each year and are deeply concerned for the future of the Island. Your city council has done a splendid job and deserves much credit, now changes are in the making, two seats will be available November 2. For the good of Sanibel you who are registered voters have the opportunity to place on council one of the most competent, dedicated individuals we have had the pleasure of knowing.....Louise Johnson.

We may spend part of the year in Cleveland but we do keep abreast of Sanibel's happenings through the papers and our friends and neighbors. We hope you will vote for Louise. Sanibel will benefit!

Sincerely,
Henry and Jane Chanan

Barefield, Hagerup and Johnson supported

To the Editor
The Islander

During the past eight years Sanibel has had able and competent leadership from experienced and dedicated people both on the Planning Commission and on the City Council. Every once in awhile the voters should take the many accomplishments of these people into account. Here are some of them:

1. Managed growth through the application of a unique and strong Comprehensive Land Use plan.

2. Preserved and protected our fragile environment through legislation such as the vegetation control ordinance.

3. Enacted and enforced a rate of growth ordinance which controls development.

4. Provided a capable and efficient city government.

5. Maintained an outstanding police department.

6. Improved traffic circulation.

7. Kept a low millage rate in effect to keep taxes down.

8. Acquired more than 60 acres of city-owned prime property for parks, for green space and for a new city hall complex.

One could go on and on but the evidence is all there. We need to retain and maintain this progress if Sanibel is to be the kind of a community we can all cherish and enjoy. To accomplish this we must have the same kind of experienced, sincere and dedicated people in public office.

Any two of the candidates endorsed by the Committee of the Islands will assure the continuation of this leadership. I urge you to make your selection from the trio of Emily Barefield, Bill Hagerup and Louise Johnson.

Intellect will dictate endorsement of Johnson

To the Editor
The Islander

The other island newspaper has made an endorsement favoring one of the three candidates for City Council Seat 5. The editor of that newspaper quickly admitted in the editorial that he could not make a judgement on the basis of the issues. Instead he naively stated: "It is at these times that one must trust instinct."

He admits that, on the basis of the facts, he can not choose between A, B, or C. Therefore, he uses his instinct to make a choice. That kind of endorsement should be ignored. He might better have flipped a coin!

The choice between the candidates for this seat is not easy. However, it would be foolish to follow the lead of an instinctive choice. Such an instinctive choice might easily involve many personal biases and prejudices which are not relevant to the issue: religion?, political party?, gender?, skin color?. Instinct should not be the basis for a decision that affects all of us in many ways. We need to bring all of our intelligence to bear on such a decision.

I have studied the candidates records, their qualifications, and their statements on the issues. Louise Johnson will get my vote.

When Sanibel voters check the facts for themselves, I believe they will use their own intellect, not their instinct, and they will vote for Louise Johnson.

COMMENTARY

Islander Endorsements

Jerry Muench and Don Bissell will bring new ideas, practical judgment and "young blood" to the Sanibel City Council. Both have proven their community concern through years of active involvement in Island social and business affairs, and both have much at stake in the future of Sanibel.

Muench, a 20-year resident, will bring to the council the viewpoint of a man whose young family is growing with the Island. His concern that Sanibel remain primarily a residential community should not be clouded by the fact that he owns and operates Periwinkle Trailer Park.

The trailer park itself in fact reinforces our belief that Muench is environmentally and conservation minded and that he can successfully combine those concerns with the practical judgment necessary to run his business.

His consistent, enthusiastic participation in Island sporting, school and civic events makes Muench a true "Islander" whose first regard is always going to be for the betterment of the community in which he and his young family live.

The Islander believes that Muench's competition for Seat Four, Bill Hagerup, can better serve the community by remaining in the Planning Commission post he has filled for two years. The high turnover within the commission makes Hagerup's experience and his familiarity with planning issues vital on that board.

Bissell, like Muench, has more at stake on Sanibel than making the almighty dollar through his Island business. Over the past 12 years he has raised his family of six children on Sanibel and Captiva and has built Island Real Estate by Bissell & Holtz, Inc.

He should not be confused as a developer; Bissell's firm deals mainly in resales and is not oriented toward new development on Sanibel. On the contrary, Bissell's involvement with residential sales helps keep him attuned to what Island residents and newcomers want on Sanibel.

His interest in community activities is evident in the crucial role Bissell played in raising funds for the city's municipal swimming pool and in his involvement in his church and the Pirate Playhouse on the Island.

Our endorsement of Bissell is based more on his qualifications and philosophy rather than on shortcomings in either of his opponents, Louise Johnson and Emily Barefield. While both women are certainly capable and qualified to serve the city on the council, we believe they can be equally effective in their present capacities as Planning Commissioners.

Going out of town?

Make sure your vote will count before you leave

Registered voters who will not be in Lee County on Nov. 2 can vote absentee anytime between now and Election Day. The process is simple but must be followed exactly, officials in the Lee County Elections Office say.

To insure the return of a completed absentee ballot to the Elections Office by 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 2, voters should request the ballots by telephone as soon as possible. Call 335-2111 to arrange for a ballot to be mailed.

Once you receive your ballot in the mail, follow all instructions, complete it promptly and return it to the courthouse.

Absentee ballots received in the Elections Office through the mail will not be counted unless they include the signature of the voter and either two witnesses over 18 years of age or the seal of a notary public. The voter's signature will be compared with his signature on file in the Elections

Office for validity.

Registered voters can also vote absentee before Nov. 2 at the Elections Office in the courthouse in downtown Fort Myers or in the courthouse branch at 2323 Del Prado Boulevard near the Coralwood Mall in Cape Coral.

The books closed Oct. 2 for voter registration for the coming election, so those who are not already registered cannot vote Nov. 2.

Playhouse future in hands of council

On Dec. 7 a new City Council will face the decision of whether to grant Ruth and Philip Hunter's dream that after they're gone their Pirate Playhouse will continue on.

To accomplish this the Hunters are requesting a change in the zoning category of the Playhouse property from lawfully existing commercial to Special Use District.

Under the city's new commercial regulations as a lawfully existing use, if, after Jan. 1, 1990, more than 50 per cent of the Playhouse was destroyed, it could not be rebuilt and the property would revert to residential use only.

But the same regulations established a new Special Use District to accommodate culture-oriented businesses.

Last Tuesday at the first reading of the specific amendment required the four councilmen current council listened sympathetically to the Hunters' plans.

On Dec. 7 two of them, Mayor Porter Goss and Councilman Duane White, will no longer be members of the council.

But at the urging of their colleagues and to help the two new councilmen make a decision, both commented on the Hunters' proposal they hope would insure continued operation of the community theater in the future.

As outlined by Architect Ray Fenton, with Special Use zoning the 2.7 acre property could accommodate, in addition to the current playhouse converted for use as a museum, a new 130-seat theatre, three studios to be used for instructions in the performing arts and three single family residences.

The current 90-seat theater, once Sanibel's school for white children, has been run by the Hunters since 1965.

"Though we almost always have a full house, the Playhouse has never been much of a money maker", Philip Hunter told the council.

"We did it because we loved it," he explained.

And the Hunters recognize the need for additional use to provide a better economic base for anyone to continue the theater after their retirement.

But the other councilmen shared Councilman Mike Klein's fear that art studios might not be a financial success and the city would be put in the position of allowing the studios to be converted to a more commercial use.

Fenton, pointing out that currently six single family dwelling units are permitted on the property, suggested that home occupational licenses would permit other cultural uses on the property.

Fenton said the art studio use is not a major hangup and Hunter added that the plans are only an indication of how the Pirate Playhouse might be developed further to make it financially secure.

"This is just the first step down the road," Hunter said, "If anyone has other ideas on how it can be done, we'll be glad to receive them."

All four councilmen expressed their appreciation to the Hunters for their contribution to the community.

Valtin reminded Goss and White, both of whom were involved in the writing of the Comprehensive Land Use Plan, that at the time when the Hunters pleas that the commercial zoning be retained were ignored and the Playhouse designated as a lawfully existing use in a residential zone, they were assured that "We love you, don't worry when the time comes we'll do what we can to take care of you."

"We need that background to make a judgment," he added.

"If a vote could be taken today," Goss said, "I would vote for special use zoning for the Playhouse and new theater with the rest remaining residential."

But the new council will have to make the decision on second reading in December, Goss said.

Gulfside picked as name for new city park

The new public park at the former site of the steamboat Algiers on Sanibel's south shore will be known henceforth as Gulfside City Park.

The name was not the unanimous choice of the City Council, who earlier declined to name the Park in memory of the converted ferry boat that dominated the site for more than 20 years.

Mayor Porter Goss and Councilman Duane White dissented in the 3-2 vote to approve Councilman Fred Valtin's alternative for three names recommended by the city's Historical Preservation Committee.

"I hate it," Goss said, "But I guess it's the best we've got."

The committee had been designated by the council to come up with a name for the city-owned park that provides public access to the gulf beach.

Committee Chairman Charlotte White said Southwinds Park was the committee's first choice but also thought Middle Gulf or South Shore Park would be appropriate.

But the council could not agree on any of the three and opted to go with Valtin's proposal.

The council was unanimous in approving the committee's recommendation to acknowledge the Algiers existence by placing a plaque near the freshwater pond designating it as the "former site of the SS Algiers, Mississippi riverboat, 1959-81."

The councilmen went a step further and authorized the plaque be placed in an enclosure together with a picture of the Algiers in its heyday and some memorabilia. Assistant City Manager Gary Price rescued from the rotting boat before it was demolished last spring.

But it was not decided whether the pond would be known as Perry Pond or Lake Louise, both used in the past to identify that body of water.

Council votes on two contiguous lot issues

The City Council last Tuesday heard two pleas for relief from Sanibel's contiguous lot restriction.

Brock Johnson, who received council approval of his specific amendment permitting him to build a single family home on Harbour Lane in the Del Sega subdivision, went away happy.

Anita Simon, whose request that the council declare "buildable" three lots she owns in Sanibel Highlands was denied, left with her attorney apparently on the way to court.

Both cases revolved on the CLUP regulation that allows only one home on two lots held in common ownership when the plan was adopted in 1976.

But the council agreed the circumstances were completely different.

Johnson's situation came most closely to meeting the requirements for relief outlined in an 1980 ordinance, Councilman Fred Valtin pointed out.

That ordinance permits an owner to build on an adjoining lot if the property had been held in uninterrupted ownership through April 23, 1980, is at least 10,000 square feet in size and is located in a platted subdivision at least 50 per cent developed.

After researching Lee County tax records Johnson provided the council proof that his property complied with these requirements.

Valtin's motion to approve his specific amendment passed by a 4-0 vote with Councilman Francis Bailey absent.

It was council consensus, however, that

Simon's problem was a "self imposed hardship."

The council told Simon that she should have known that when she sold her home and four of seven lots on Casa Ybel Road in Sanibel Highlands the remaining three would be unbuildable.

Simon said she didn't know about the regulations at the time and she should be granted the same exception as Johnson.

But her attorney Fred Ahrenholz maintained Simon, who operated a restaurant, was "not knowledgeable and unsophisticated" about real estate matters at the time she sold the property.

Simon's three lots total 15,000 square feet, more than needed for relief under the ordinance. But because Sanibel Highlands is an unplatted subdivision and her house was sold before the 1980 cut-off date, the property does not fulfill the other two requirements for relief.

After the four councilmen present voted unanimously to deny Simon's request, Ahrenholz demanded to know their reasons in "the purview of the exception previously granted (to Johnson)."

An angry Valtin told Ahrenholz that "with a court reporter present he was in effect putting the councilmen on the witness stand" after they had commented.

"We don't need to give a reason," he added.

Ahrenholz disagreed maintaining that "a citizen and taxpayer has every right to ask a public body for reasons for its action."

B-Hive out of deep freeze on ice cream concession

The B-Hive Trading Post will be permitted to exchange its occupational license to rent a storage shed at the rear of the shopping center for an occupational license to rent space inside the store for the sale of Pinocchio's Italian ice cream.

The "trade-off" was approved last week by the City Council on the basis that it would keep the number of businesses operating in the mini-shopping center to three, the same as allowed currently.

The compromise settled the months-old question of whether leasing existing space within the B-Hive for the sale of Italian ice cream constituted the addition of a "new business."

George Kohlbrenner, Jr., B-Hive owner, first applied last spring for a specific amendment to permit him to rent the former Photo Hut adjacent to the grocery as an outlet for Pinocchio's Ice Cream.

That request was denied but later the council agreed that if existing space within the store were used for the sale of the ice cream the specific amendment was not required.

But when Kohlbrenner wanted to lease the space to Marsha Wagner the city viewed the action as an addition of a new business to the "already overdeveloped complex" and said a specific amendment was the only route to go.

Councilman Fred Valtin took the position that Kohlbrenner's leasing the space for the sale of ice cream "was no different than the B-Hive's doing it."

It was his suggestion that the problem could be solved if Kohlbrenner would cancel his occupational license for the storage space he now uses himself, and substitute a license for the sale of Pinocchio's ice cream.

Last Tuesday at a second hearing of Kohlbrenner's specific amendment, tabled on July 6, Valtin moved for approval of the new business with the condition that he drop his occupational license for the storage space thereby keeping the number of businesses the same.

The motion passed by a 5-0 vote.

Dunes duplexes given single-family status in ROGO

Eighteen duplexes that may be built in the Phase III development of the Dunes subdivision by 1985 will be charged to the single family reserve in the Rate of Growth allocations.

All other duplex allocations will be handled as multi-family housing under terms of a revised Rate of Growth ordinance the City Council is expected to adopt at its Nov. 2 meeting.

In this version of ordinance multi-family housing is defined as "a structure that contains more than one dwelling unit or a parcel of land on which one or more duplex structures are to be constructed or a parcel of land on which more than one single family structure is to be constructed."

The council agreed at a two hour hearing last Thursday at which the final draft was hammered out that to treat the Dunes duplexes as multi-family development would violate the stipulated settlement negotiated in September 1979 that recognized The Dunes as a "single family subdivision."

Mayor Porter Goss, a member of the city's team that worked out the out-of-court agreement with John Kontinos and the late W.R. Frizzell, then-owners of the Dunes property, said "this problem was never contemplated during the negotiations. The stipulation was that all the remaining lots in the Dunes, whether zoned single family or duplex, would be considered single family."

"I'm equally satisfied," he said, "That the intent was to treat the development as single family and get on with a stable build out by 1985."

"All rights of the stipulation were to be passed on to the heirs and successors to the property," he added.

Mariner Properties, Inc. now own the subdivision but the 18 duplex lots will be sold to individual owners, Ray Pavelka, Mariner's director of development, told the council.

Persuaded by Goss' opinion the council voted 4-0 that "under ROGO the 36 remaining dwelling units will be allocated from single family reserves. Councilman Francis Bailey was not present.

The decision to change the definitions of multi-family housing "to tilt the allocation process to favor single family applicants" came after long debate.

To maintain the same bias for single family the council turned down the Planning Commission recommendation to allocate 33 single family units 15 multi-family units in each of the first two allocation periods because it would result in the scoring of single family applications in every four month period.

Under the current system with at least 60 single family allocations are available in the first period and single family applicants are home free without scoring.

The council had spent long hours weighing the merits of a "lottery" as more equitable than the current point system for making

Eleven named to arts committee

All 11 Island residents who volunteered have been appointed by the City Council to serve on the newly established Fine Arts Advisory Committee.

Jovan DeRocco, Sherwood Finley, Peter Smith, Willie Compton, Arthur Bouman, Adelaide Edgar, Barbara Hill, Emmy Lou Lewis, Barbara Toomey, Ilena Eskew and Betty Robinson are charged with screening gifts of art offered to the city for public display and recommending acceptance.

All of the members are working artists and craftsmen with the exception of Robinson who was chosen as a representative of "Islanders' taste."

Councilman Mike Klein, who introduced the resolution setting up the committee, was authorized by the council to call an organizational meeting in early December when all of the committee members will be back on the Island.

BMRH may fly by year's end

In response to charges by his son, Peter that the city has been "dragging its feet in finalizing an ordinance setting up a moderate cost housing program for the Island," Councilman Fred Valtin said he "pleaded guilty to not forcing the issue."

The younger Valtin, vice president of the non-profit Community Housing & Resources, Inc., which seeks to provide affordable housing for Sanibel workers, appeared before the City Council last week complaining that an ordinance to establish a Below Market Rate Housing foundation "seems utterly stalled."

Councilman Valtin, chairman of a council-appointed Below Market Rate Housing Committee, explained that the final draft of the ordinance reviewed at a joint council-planning commission workshop last April had been held in abeyance while the formula to determine the limits of profitability for a private developer were reviewed by the committee's economic consultant.

But it has been decided that the "original language can stand as is," the senior Valtin said, "And there's no reason why the ordinance can't be scheduled for public hearings by the end of the year."

Because the proposed ordinance would have an affect on land use, the council agreed it would be "safest in the event of a challenge" to handle it as a general amendment which entails submitting it to state, regional and local planning agencies for comment, a process that can take up to 60 days.

The first step is to get a recommendation from the Planning Commission, Planning Director Bruce Rogers said.

A hearing before the commission can be scheduled at the November 22 meeting, he said.

Peter Valtin said that CHR's plans to build at least three BMR houses on donated land in Sanibel Highlands subdivision are stalled until the city sets up rules and regulations for a BMRH program.

The council postponed action on CHR's request for increased density needed to develop the Highlands property until the pending ordinance is adopted.

He said the gift of the land will be withdrawn if building has not been started by January 1984.

All information in the following reports was taken directly from Sanibel Police Department records.

Dolores Derouxdauphine of Punta Gorda was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way when her 1978 Toyota was struck in the rear by an oncoming car as she pulled out into West Gulf Drive from the Caribe Beach Resort Oct. 18. James Henry Levy of Dunkins Bayou, driving a 1977 Ford was unable to avoid hitting her, police reported.

Urs Haefeli, a visitor from Switzerland, told police a Canon camera and a zoom and a wide angle lens, valued at $400, were missing from a tan canvas bag he had left at the Tarpon Bay beach parking lot about 3 p.m. on Oct. 17. When he returned at 7 p.m. the bag was gone, he told police. His passport and other personal belongings were still in the bag when he claimed it at the police station. Donald Peterson, a guest at the Casa Ybel Resort, had found the bag at the first foot bridge in the Ding Darling Wildlife Refuge earlier and turned it over to police.

Alfred Hartkorn of West Germany reported to police his rental car had been broken into while parked at the Lighthouse gulf side parking lot on Oct. 17. Personal belongings and $600 in cash were missing. Police said entry was made by prying open

A guest at the Shell Harbor Inn reported to police on Oct. 20 that a $600 Cartier watch was missing from his room.

A Sanibel woman reported to police she had become ill after drinking bottled water purchased at a local convenience store. A repairman the next day refused a drink of the same water, she said, because there was mold and black flecks floating in the bottle. Police checked the bottled water supply at the store and found no contamination and the seals intact on all bottles.

Goodwill needs your unwanted clothes and household items

If your little boy or girl comes home from school in the next week or two with a note from the teacher, please don't punish them until you read it.

The note will be from Goodwill Industries asking that you fill the accompanying bag with unwanted clothes and or household items.

The School Drive is held every year at this time by Goodwill Industries. "We usually hold the drive in October due to a serious drop in donations which we experience at this time," stated Michael Conley, Community Relations Director. "The schools have been very cooperative and we hope the parents will also help Goodwill at this time.

The bags will be brought home by the children accompanied by a note explaining what should be done. One week later the child will be asked to return the bag to the school where it will be picked up by a Goodwill truck.

Goodwill Industries-Southwest Florida is a non-profit organization which provides jobs and job training for the handicapped. All of their operating costs are derived from the re-sale of donated items.

ON THE WATER

By Captain Mike Fuery

Every fall, in the second or third week of October, the first cool front sweeps down Florida, dropping our daytime temperatures out of the hot sticky 90's down to comfortable low 80's.

The front was right on time, arriving last week and for those who have fished around the islands, it's the signal that migratory fish like Spanish mackerel, bluefish and bonito will be coming to us soon.

This year I wanted to suggest something new in the way you can chase these schooling fish, but before we get to that, let's look at what you might be able to expect when the fall "runs" start.

As for those colorful Spanish mackerel, they might be the most easy to spot from shore or more preferably, out in a boat. They will be ranging along the Gulf of Mexico shoreline, chasing a variety of small minnows. Some of these fish are pilchards, some are glass minnows. All are slim, shiny silver fish, and let that be a hint on what artificial spoons and bait to select.

Mackerel are slasher feeders, with huge schools chasing pods of these baitfish southward as the water temperatures drop. We should have the migratory fish around for six weeks, maybe more or less, depending upon what the fall weather does. Good, mild days allow the time period be longer.

You will notice that mackerel work on the top of the water, cutting through bait schools. They tear up the bait and sea birds, most importantly terns, come swooping in to partake of the feast. That's the easiest way to find the mackerel - watching for the birds. I've seen mackerel get so excited in a feeding frenzy, that they will be jumping right out of the water. And a mackerel will bite right into another in their race to get to a lure first.

Bluefish are a bit more unusual in that they can be present in a given area, but will not have the tell-tale birds overhead their school. This is because blues are many times feeding down deeper and if you troll over the top as you would for mackerel, you won't get a hit from a school blue.

When the blues are feeding low, I've found that jigging while the boat drifts, works well. Yellow jigs, or white with red heads, seems to get the job done better than casting or trying to jig with silver spoons. Be prepared to buy a lot of lead-head jigs. The fish have terrific sets of sharp teeth that will literally cut the tails of your jigs to pieces. One way to get some extra trolling or jigging time out of your bucktails or artificial hair jigs is to coat the thread wrappings with nail polish.

Bluefish will just as often strike silver spoons, in the same place that the mackerel are feeding. When you troll, expect to get your lines twisted from time to time. It doesn't matter if you buy the most expensive swivels, your line will twist with a spoon if grass gets on the line, as it so often does. Stop the troll and get the grass off as soon as possible, then cut off the terminal tackle and troll the line out behind the boat until the kinking stops.

Size 2-0 silver spoons work well in most situations, but carry one size larger and one smaller to match the size of the bait the fish are working over when you start your troll.

Outboard fishermen often troll at a brisk 1,200 to 1,500 rpm to get strikes from mackerel. This is a great variable because of individual boat hull conditions, but a fast troll works best.

Good luck, watch for the working birds, and I'll have more on the blues and mackerel fall fishing season in the next couple to weeks.

SHELLING TIPS

By Captain Mike Fuery

We have three members of the cockle family residing in the shallow waters surrounding Sanibel and Captiva Islands, but as with so many of our colorful locally found shells, you might know them by a different name.

Cockles are sometimes called heart clams. They are clams, but without the common large clam traits of heavy, thick shells or colorless exteriors.

The cockles we have are just the opposite, with thin, brightly marked outer coverings. However, one other thing might distinguish our heart, or cockle shells from other clams. The heart cockle isn't eaten very often, as compared to other members of the large clam family around the world.

We find that our trio of cockles are alike in their feeding habits. You will discover the largest of the cockles, usually called the Vanhyning's Cockle, on the Gulf of Mexico beaches after large, strong storms beat the sands with waves. This cockle can reach a total of four inches tall. It's got ribs running from the center top, to the outer edges and it has a smooth finish.

These cockles are often called "heart cockles," as distinguished from the smaller prickly and egg cockles found on the beaches.

The prickly egg cockle might reach two inches tall, but often they are found half that size. They actually do have a rough exterior, but are not dangerous to handle when searching for shells on the beaches.

As the large storms dislodge these cockles, they roll easily to the beaches because of one thing. They have only a short, but muscular foot to hold them in place. That foot can help them move forward over the bottom of the Gulf or Pine Island Sound, but it's not enough to anchor the shell, should sand be washed away during strong currents.

The result is that you often find many live cockles washed upon the beaches during winter storms. Some might be able to be returned, but usually after a few hours on the beach, they are in the process of dying.

Finding them like this assures you of getting a perfect set of cockles, or that is, both sides of the shell. The hinge system on the shell is not strong, and other cockles washed to the beach will break apart easily.

The third kind of cockle we have is what most collectors

call the egg cockle. It's a yellowish white color and if you should be lucky enough to find both sides of this bivalve, you will notice that it does indeed have the shape of an egg.

I have never found a live egg cockle and never met anyone who has, but certainly there are some there in the waters because it's not very difficult to find the remains of them on the Gulf beaches.

The egg cockle has a smooth finish, as compared to the colorful, ribbed exterior of the heart and the prickly cockles.

One other thing I forgot to mention. This group of cockles are often referred to as being heart cockles because they have a distinct human heart shape.

Once in awhile, I come upon a live heart cockle on the shallow sand bar flats of Pine Island Sound, but by far, the majority found are on the beach side of the islands. A storm isn't necessary, and if you have to settle for half a set of the shells, take that and wait for the opportunity to find a perfect pair later on during your walks.

Council candidate Louise Johnson answers CONA's forum questions

By Barbara Brundage

Planning Commissioner Louise Johnson, who was out of town and did not participate in the Committee of Neighborhood Associations (CONA) council candidate forum last week, has submitted her answers to questions posed to the four other candidates for the two vacant council seats.

Johnson is vying with fellow commissioner Emily Barefield and Island real estate broker Don Bissell for Seat 5.

"I think it only fair that Dr. Johnson's views on these important issues are aired," Urban Palmer, CONA president said.

The questions with Johnson's answers follow.

Do you feel Sanibel is overdeveloped?

I believe that there is real danger that it could be in the near future if the Commission and Council are not vigilant. Pressures for development and provisions for handling the ever-increasing day visitors are going to increase as Fort Myers continues to grow, advertising the Sanibel beaches.

Do you feel Sanibel should have a publicly financed Performing Arts Center?

I do not believe that Sanibel at this time should finance a performing arts center from public funds. There are other ways to encourage performing arts and cultural activities on Sanibel — one of which the city has done in designating an area where certain type of events might be held on City Hall grounds. At some point in the future I would like to see residents and organizations work together to raise funds for such a facility. Perhaps with grant money and-or matching funds from the city. It might be possible to have a theater. Private enterprise may decide to fill this need as the Hunters are proposing.

Do you believe we have adequate commercial facilities to serve the planned buildout of the Island?

With the completion of the commercial facilities already planned and permitted, I do not see much need of additional similar facilities. Businesses oriented to fill the needs of Island residents and encouraged to locate in the Palm Ridge area would be

IF EXPERIENCE COUNTS, COUNT ME IN!!!

Dear Fellow Islanders,

The time for decision is near and I wish to thank all my friends and supporters that have helped me during this campaign. If elected, you know that I am completely serious about the issues I have raised and the platform I am running on. I will devote the time and energies necessary to try to make them a reality.

It would seem as if my detractors are using my "lack of experience" as the main theme of their campaign. Nothing could be further from the truth. Everyday I face exactly the same kinds of decisions that our city faces. For almost 20 years our family has been running a very successful trailer park. I am proud of that. We've had roads that flood—we handled it. We had inadequate power—we handled it. We needed vegetation in the proper places in the proper amounts—we handled it. We had to manage our sewage—and we handled that with the first treatment plant on the Island. We have had to handle budgets and operational forecasts—and we do handle them. These problems are ongoing and need to be faced continually and re-evaluated as new facts become known. Sanibel's problems and concerns are mine, too.

This brings me to the most important part of our decision making process. All these other decisions had to be made so as to maintain the total ecology of our park consistent with the natural Sanibel environment. I really feel we've done a good job which brings me to this logical conclusion. Come down and see it! I am inviting all Sanibel Voters to be my guest at Periwinkle Park to see for yourself my experience at work. On Friday, October 29 and Saturday, October 30, the Park will be open for you from NOON until 3:00 P.M. I will look forward to seeing old friends and meeting new friends so please come on down.

Sincerely yours,

desirable; however, there are now several empty shops in the centers along Periwinkle and in Palm Ridge. The commercially zoned land outweighs commercial need at this time.

What are your views on limiting the occupancy intensity of various types of dwelling units?

I believe we should continue the action begun with the draft ordinance on limiting occupancy to two adults (over 18) to a bedroom in rental units. We need to make rental agents and owners liable to fines if units are over-occupied. This is difficult to enforce. But if action were taken in a few cases, even to the extent of having the occupational license to rent suspended for a period, compliance would be greater.

LEAD POISONING

Lead poisoning is more common than we think. Fire logs of tightly rolled newspapers contain printer's inks made from lead salts. Burning newspapers in a fireplace increases the lead in house dust. Lead accumulates in the body, especially in children, and can cause mysterious illnesses, stunting of growth, headaches, colic, pains in the limbs and anemia. Flaky lead-base housepaint, eaten by children is also dangerous. Blood tests can detect lead poisoning and medicines can eliminate it from the body.

Make It Work For Us...

The Big Issue

It certainly isn't the only issue, but it surely is a big one.

Is Sanibel going to remain a primarily residential community with a healthy resort and commercial sector? Or is it going to become an overdeveloped resort mecca — "A nice place to visit . . . but you wouldn't want to live there"?

The history of the City of Sanibel has been one long battle to maintain a proper balance between residential and resort use . . . to preserve the natural beauties and low-keyed atmosphere that brought people here to live, and to promote a prosperous resort and business community that did not exploit the Island.

The battle is far from over. Special interest groups are still pressuring for relaxation of CLUP regulations that have protected our environment, and for dilution of Rate of Growth provisions that have controlled growth. Increasing intensity of use of resort accommodations, and resort uses spilling into residential areas threaten the integrity of our neighborhoods. There are ever-increasing pressures from off-Island groups that want to turn South Fort Myers into an overcrowded resort with Sanibel as its beach playground.

We must not be complacent. We must be dedicated to safeguarding all segments of our population while ensuring the preservation of our island's natural resources. We must strengthen our Land Use Plan; we must protect our business community, and we must be able to assure our residents of safe evacuation routes as well as security in their neighborhoods.

This is the big issue as I see it . . . our community identity. I am in this Council race because I think I am the most qualified person to continue the battle to preserve our quality of life and to improve it where possible.

HOWE NOW!

By Paul Howe

It was most gratifying to note in our local press that our City Fathers promptly responded to my September 28 column urging action on our storm drainage problem.

Public Works Director Gary Price deserves a special credit for his reported statement that: "People now realize that it's more important than they once thought not to have water lying around." It indeed is not easy to sponge up the 1.5 million gallons of rainwater that annually washes each Sanibel acre.

In their enthusiasm to showcase our Main Drag for the flood of tourists from the bedroom-tax financed ads, however, our City Council should not bollix their public improvement priorities. It is proper that the storm drainage problems of our burgeoning residential neighborhoods be simultaneously solved.

Reportedly, some of the $750,000 appropriation for the three-year storm drainage project is to be used for more glamorous adjuncts. Such a diversion of funds indicates that more serious thought needs be given to establishing a clearer-cut priority order for pursuing the City's Five Year Capital Road Program.

Regarding the modernization of the Island's storm drainage systems which were designed primarily for mosquito control purposes, it seems urgent to redesign and expand them for broader health and property protection purposes. For instance: open roadside swales and ditches might well be replaced with culverts with catch-basins. Those culverts could feed into canals and ponds that in turn flow into the Sanibel River or directly into the open Gulf or Bay. Also, the two Sanibel River weirs originally designed for mosquito control might now be better adapted to storm water control purposes. Better flushing action in the River could mitigate the bad effects of septic tank leaching and sluggish-river putrefaction.

Sanibel's Comprehensive Land Use Plan (CLUP) favors the use of retention ponds for excess storm water such as those used for many years by New York's Long Island. That usage has been limited in practice by the City to isolated private projects. It seems appropriate now for our city planners to seek out and acquire public sites for such facilities. In light of our water company's continually deepening its potable water sources, the City should reassess the surface water pollution hazards of such ponds, and the multi-use potential of the Sanibel River.

In arriving at a workable priority schedule for its overall public improvement program, however, it behooves the City to seek maximum citizen input against which to judge the proposals of our in-house or contract planners.

Also, if that schedule is to be fully meaningful it should incorporate the planning and construction schedules of infrastructure facilities controlled by others. Included in that category are: Lee County Electric Cooperative; Island Water Association; Sanibel Sewer Company; Sanibel Fire Control District (fire hydrants); and Lee County Commissioners, and School District (for many facilities for which they tax Sanibel property owners but do not now supply).

It is that type of coordinated planning and construction scheduling of the Islands growth that was the goal of the City's incorporators some eight years ago. It should proceed and not be overshadowed by a preoccupation with the infinite administrative details of the City's type and rate of growth of residential and commercial structures.

Candidates Night

Islanders grill political hopefuls

By Barbara Brundage

They were all conservationists, environmentalists and nature lovers Thursday night, the candidates for Congress, the State Legislature and County Commission who came to Sanibel for Candidates Night at the Community Association.

An estimated 200 Island voters turned out to listen as the political hopefuls expounded their stand on preservation of barrier islands, Interior Secretary James Watt's program to exploit national parks, and the proposed federal plan for off-shore oil leasing.

Their views were tailored to the perceived environmental concerns of Sanibel.

Seven of the 12 candidates invited appeared in the flesh. Four - Gov. Bob Graham and his Republican opponent, Skip Bafalis; Connie Mack, the Republican candidate for the U.S. House of Representatives, District 13, seat, and County Commission District 4 Democratic candidate Bill Fussell sent stand-ins; the District 4 Republican candidate, Art Rohwedder had "four other places to go" and sent word he couldn't make it.

Substitutes for candidates in the governor's race - Fort Myers attorney John Terry for Graham and Brian Pappas for Bafalis - did little to switch votes to their "man."

Sanibel resident Allen Tenbroek, represented Connie Mack, but would not speak for him. He emphasized that Mack "was firmly convinced in his views, was strongly committed to carry on the job and supported President Reagan's policies of fiscal responsibility."

Democrat Dana Stevens, a professor of economics at New College in Sarasota, and Mack's opponent, was there to speak for himself.

His opinion that "Secretary Watt is a total disaster" brought the most applause of the evening.

Candidates for the new Southwest Florida Senate District 38 seat, former state legislator Frank Mann(D) and Fort Myers attorney Charlie Edwards (R) both stressed their concern for nature and wildlife.

Mann said one of his top priorities is to stop uncontrolled development in southwest Florida.

"We're going to destroy this beautiful precious piece of Florida if we don't get a grip on it," Mann said.

Edwards, who said he is a sixth generation Floridian, pointed out that as an attorney he had represented many environmental interests and founded the first Audubon Society in Lee County.

Joe Campochiaro, Democratic candidate for District 74 state representative, was proud of his endorsement by Dinesh Sharma, an environmental consultant.

Republican opponent, Fred Dudley, paired lip service to environmental concerns and went on to discuss the high rate of crime that he called the "Number 1 and probably 2 and 3 issue in the campaign."

"We are no longer safe in our homes," he said, adding that he favored mandatory minimum sentences for convicted burglars."

All four state legislative candidates declared they would "never support or introduce a bill to abolish the city of Sanibel."

The two candidates for the Lee County Commission District 2 seat were making their second appearance before Sanibel voters.

Republican Roland Eastwood has been director of the Southwest Florida Regional Planning Council for eight years, is an attorney, and a former city manager of South Miami.

Democrat Sam Comparetto, a businessman, has served on the Cape Coral City Council.

On the question of broadening the base of the Lee County Tourist Development Tax program, approved by Lee County voters Oct. 5 Comparetto said he would favor using some of the tax revenue to pay for community services such as road maintenance, police patrol and litter pickup that would be impacted by increased tourism.

Eastwood withheld judgment saying he would have to wait until the effect of the two percent tax on tourism, our greatest asset, is evaluated.

Sanibel residents voted three to one against imposing the tax on hotel and motel lodgings.

Sanibel Mayor Porter Goss was moderator for the forum that was sponsored by the Community Committee for Candidates Night.

Dave Hoggatt

Age: 38

Height: 6'5"

Roots: Sheridan, Indiana

Pleasures: "My wife, Barbara, good plastic clay, beautiful pots and Sanibel — in that order."

Last Book Read: The Art of Bernard Leach by Carol Hogben

Mentor: "My wife Barbara."

Wish: "For my future lives to be as pleasant and as fulfilled as this one."

Words of Wisdom: "What can be conceived can be created."

By Carol Kranichfeld

Known to his friends as the island's "gentle giant," Dave Hoggatt of A Touch of Sanibel Pottery has been towering over people for years—in more ways than one.

The 6'5" potter and gallery owner is used to ducking his head as he enters low-slung doorways and Volkswagen Rabbits (he himself drives a Chevy Blazer), but he sets himself head and shoulders above the rest as one of a handful of people who place top priority on living a fulfilled life.

The importance of finding happiness in his daily schedule came as an early realization to Dave, who, shortly after marrying his best friend and love Barbara eleven years ago, was offered a chance to buy into his father's Sheridan hardware store business. "We moved into an apartment my father owned above the store so that we could give the hardware business a try," Dave recalls. "The apartment had a real nice feeling, especially since I had grown up there. We remodeled it, doing it over in our own rustic way, and it was pretty comfortable," he says.

But Dave's affiliation with the world of plumbing fixtures and carpenter's tools lasted only a couple of years, when the Hoggetts discovered their happiest moments came from more creative endeavors. "The hardware business faded out for me around 1974," says Dave, "so we found another two-story brick building in need of remodeling, bought it and opened our own pottery and greenhouse."

The business opened officially in 1975 and became, in Dave's words, "a booming, booming business."

"We were just learning about pottery," remembers Dave, "but house plants were becoming the fashion right around then, so we sold lots of plants and had the time to learn the basics of pottery as well. Those plants kept us alive for two or three years while we were learning to throw pots."

An opportunity to fulfill a lifelong dream of owning and operating a restaurant interrupted the Hoggett's bliss as pottery and horticulturists, however. In 1977 the couple opened their small, southern French-style cafe-restaurant in Arcadia, Indiana, taking immense pride in cooking everything from scratch. "Nothing frozen came out of our cupboards," says Dave with pride. "Everything was done with an extra flair."

The restaurant attracted quite a weekend crowd, but because of its location, the restaurant's clientele during the week was sparse. And the Hoggatts were not only the chief cooks, but bottle washers as well. "For two years we did everything—management, serving at the bar and all the cooking," says Dave. "We had no time for anything else, and in the meantime we had bought an old schoolhouse we wanted to convert into a non-profit arts studio, complete with classrooms, studios, and gallery. Our schedule was crazy—during those two years we averaged only four or five hours of sleep each night.

"We were remodeling the schoolhouse by day and serving food by night," he continued. "We had to give it up—restauranting has got to be your only business if you want to do it right."

And though he says he and Barbara "learned a heck of a lot about the restaurant business" during those two years, they say now they are more than happy to sit on the other side of the table. "We have total respect for the people we see doing it now," says a sympathetic Dave.

A graduate of Ball State University in Muncie, Indiana, Dave says he didn't even consider studying art at the time. "I looked down the roster of what majors the school curriculum included, and decided marketing was the only 'manly' thing to do. I was a Big Businessman," he says with a laugh.

But his marketing-business degree has paid off through the years, especially since he and Barbara purchased The Wheel from island potter Marc Heimann last year. "Things are getting better all the time," says an exuberant Dave. "We've learned a lot this past year."

His arrival on Sanibel was really a fluke, according to Dave. "We came down to Florida for a brief visit," he explained. "Some friends called and said they'd rented an apartment on Sanibel and asked if we wouldn't like to join them. I remember thinking, 'Where is Sanibel?' We'd never even heard of it."

Ironically, the Hoggatts took a moment to stop by The Wheel on Periwinkle and browse a bit during their first Island visit. "We didn't even see Marc while we were there," recalls Dave. "And it wasn't until later when we were having lunch with some friends that we learned it was on the market. As we drove home later, Barbara started musing, 'A Touch of Sanibel Pottery' (named after their other pottery gallery, A Touch of Earth Pottery, located in Indiana)—that sounds nice." And that, says Dave, is just about all it took for them to open their second gallery.

"It has been a source of a very special energy for us to be here," says Dave. "And though we have made our mistakes, we have learned a lot about the pottery business. And our pottery has improved, too—through repetition, we have learned a lot about making better clayworks in the past year alone."

And so it seems Dave has found his niche. "You could spend a whole lifetime experimenting with glazes and forms," says Dave. "And it's so much more creative and interesting than some of the work I remember doing, like filing a stack of iron plates to within one five thousandth of an inch each."

Working with clay may be difficult for some, but for Dave Hoggatt, the life of a potter seems almost preordained. A thoroughly-traced family tree shows the name "Oller" on his father's side, back some seven generations ago—"Oller" is the German word for potter.

Military strength assures survival, writer says

In recent months, we have heard many voices raised in protest against the use of, and even the planning for the use of, nuclear weapons. These voices have echoed through Western Europe as the "Peace Movement," and have been joined in strident chorus by a number of people in the United States including Fort Myers and Sanibel and Captiva. Many of these voices are those of people who are genuinely concerned about the prospect of nuclear war while others have joined simply because it is another "cause."

We who subscribe to this statement, in part, because of our military profession, expose a different point of view than that advocated by the so-called, "Peace Movement." We do not wish this minority to be the only voices heard. We realize also, that to disagree with those who claim to be part of the peace initiative, the freeze or nuclear disarmament is to invite the allegation that we must favor war rather than peace! We do not. We do, however, feel that we speak from the vantage points of knowledge, judgement and experience.

The progress of technological development today has left the individual American citizen far behind where understanding of military weapons systems are concerned. The sciences upon which they are based have grown increasingly complex and the strategies of diplomacy and of war have acquired vocabularies indecipherable except to the specialist.

Not so long ago, an American might roughly relate the instruments of war and its systems to something touching upon his civilian existence viz: the four-wheeled vehicle and the rifle with which he hunted deer, the piston-driven aircraft, and the military artillery shell, the latter's explosion not so different, except in magnitude, from what he did and saw when dynamiting tree stumps. But no more!

The petitions of citizens and resolutions of civic bodies decrying nuclear warfare are a reflection of the enigma of nuclear power. We Americans, for good or ill, have let the nuclear genie out of the bottle and the practicality of stuffing it back in is extremely remote.

There is therefore, no means of wishing away the realities of this world!

The policy of deterrence is not an innovation of the nuclear age, or even of this century. It existed long before there were nuclear forces to deter with or against. The concept of preventing war by being too strong to be attacked successfully has been consistently employed throughout recorded history.

The most important aspect of deterrence, which escapes many, is that it is not an attempt to overwhelm the opposition. It is the maintenance of a balance. There must be enough power to prevent attack but not so much that it convinces an opponent he is about to be subjected to aggression. Thus a policy of deterrence does not tie us to a

AN EYE FOR THE ISLANDS

By Maggie Greenberg

It is easy to become so addicted to our idyllic life that most Islanders dread the very thought of driving across the Causeway - lest they be swallowed up by vast, uncharted, uncivilized realms. During my "September Doldrums" period, however, I was obliged to visit terra incognita on two separate occasions.

Both forays were highly illuminating, and each experience proved to be a salutary reminder that Sanibel and Captiva do not constitute the entire country, and that there are many different worlds beyond our shores of which we should be aware. The fact that neither one of the "worlds" that I visited is represented on our Islands is, perhaps, our loss.

The first brave new world that I visited was a retirement community in Pennsylvania (not Florida!). The average age of its residents is about 75. The second community was a co-educational boarding school in Florida (not New England!), in which the average age is about 15. While I may have rivaled Helen of Troy in the former, I probably could not have held a candle to Dracula's mother in the latter. Despite such irrelevant disparities, however, I found that these two communities have two things in common:

1. Both have long waiting lists and,
2. I have close relatives in both of these worlds (according to their age).

Now, I had always thought that the State of Florida was our national haven for those on their way to heaven (or, perhaps, for those with persistent intimations of mortality). I am reminded of this assumption every night when I see the lights of Shell Point Village blazing brilliantly across San Carlos Bay. When the lights cease to blaze, I imagine that the residents are basking in the sun, going about in wheelchairs or walkers, playing Bingo, consulting the chiropractor, engaging in a vicious game of shuffleboard, talking about grandchildren, and getting a vicarious thrill out of the latest Harlequin romance. Well, I conclude, they have certainly earned a pleasant rest in their "twilight years." No wonder my great aunt (who died at 96), once remarked: "Don't grow old, Margaret. It's no fun!"

My visit to the retirement community was both a revelation and an education! Here were some 400, highly individual souls who had wisely, gallantly, and most courageously faced the impracticality of remaining in their respective homes. They had pulled up deep roots, transported various Låres and Penates of sentimental or practical value, and come to live out their lives in an utterly foreign environment.

Many residents of this community would certainly scoff at the notion of puttering about to no particular purpose in the so-called "twilight years." After all, a number of them are listed in Who's Who?, or were highly distinguished in a broad spectrum of important endeavors. I met retired college presidents and professors, educators in a variety of fields, a gentleman who perfected the root canal procedure, and a supremely modest engineer who had been much involved in designing the Golden Gate Bridge, the New Jersey Turnpike, and any number of our major airports.

Many residents have travelled or worked all over the globe. One was a long-time intimate of Nelson Rockefeller, while another was acclaimed by the National Audubon Society for her tireless efforts to save the American Bald Eagle.

When such people asked me what I do with my life, it was indeed rather embarrassing to reply that I live on Sanibel Island, play tennis regularly, and write rather sporadically. Moreover, it soon became apparent that a good offense is not necessarily the best defense.

What are they doing in this retirement community, I inquired? Oh well, nothing much. They are heavily involved in local politics, fighting the railroad tooth and nail, visiting museums, attending notable theatrical productions, travelling to the Orient, viewing the pyramids (perched atop a nasty camel), conducting edifying reading groups (fiction and non-fiction), attending a painting class, following a heady seminar on Goethe...

Mother was most concerned about my being bored during a brief visit to a community filled with what she jestingly referred to as "a bunch of old crocks." As it turned out, I had to make only three minor adjustments:

1. I had to curtail my purposeful pace when approaching slowly-sliding glass doors. Otherwise, I might stride right through them, shatter the glass, and be treated for major lacerations.
2. I had to masticate every morsel meticulously, and try not to consume all my pancakes before my father had finished buttering his own.

3. I had to watch my grammar, lest I say "this data" rather than "these data."

People who find themselves in the same incongruous boat often resort to a deliciously impish sense of humor. For example, one elderly lady's hearing aid was emitting strange noises, causing a very young visitor to stare at her incessantly. Finally, the lady turned to him and whispered, very confidentially, "I'm from outer space!"

At 86, another resident is still most actively involved in the struggle to protect wildlife, and the fight to ban nuclear weapons. In her spare time, she fishes for trout, and urges everyone on her corridor to adorn the walls with paintings. When I commented upon her remarkable energy, this spry octogenarian laughed heartily and replied, "I just hope I don't have a short circuit!"

Perhaps my favorite example of this lively spirit occurred when my mother was desperately trying to find a suitable dinner companion:

"You probably don't remember meeting my daughter, Margaret, but..."

"Of course I do. 'The face that launched a thousand ships!'" (The lady in question has a superb sense of humor - and was kind enough not to specify the direction in which the ships were launched.)

After some 5 days in this remarkable "retirement" community, I flew back to Florida via Atlanta - where, I was most gratified to note, weeds sprout from runway cracks almost as profusely as they do in my own Island yard.

In a more serious vein, however, I wondered why our society has relegated people over 65 years of age to isolated retirement communities. In many instances, their vast knowledge, wisdom, and experience constitute an incomparable and irreplaceable national asset. We Islanders could certainly benefit from the combined experience (and humor!) of a community such as the one I visited - presumably launching a thousand ships in every conceivable direction.

ALL ISLANDERS WELCOME!

ever-spiraling arms race, as has been claimed.

What the peace movement members fail to acknowledge is that for 37 years, peace in Europe has been kept only by the existence of a balance of nuclear power. Despite peoples' idealistic yearning for a utopian world in which all can live in peace, the sad fact is that, throughout history, nations which were unable to defend themselves have not survived.

The real issues before this nation are what actions on our part are most likely to serve the cause of peace, to preserve the tenuous peace we now have and to prevent any future nuclear holocaust.

Americans have always perceived nuclear warfare with its enormous destruction of life and land as being totally abhorrent. But we must not allow the dread with which we look upon nuclear war to obscure our judgement on how to prevent it! The realization that what deters the United States from nuclear war is not necessarily what deters the Soviet Union, isn't well enough understood by the American people for the Soviets do not share our views. They have made it plain that they do not believe mutual nuclear destruction will occur. Rather, the Soviet military professionals view nuclear weapons as an integral part of their arsenal, not as an adjunct to their other forces. They have studied nuclear warfare tactics, developed plans for the use of nuclear weapons and are well prepared for the results. The Soviets, military and political, consider nuclear war as part of a continuum of conflict. Thus we should not harbor illusions about our adversary and attempt policies of disarmament upon those illusions.

The United States citizens' attitude towards the use of nuclear weapons is the accurate one -- even as we seek through the dialogue of the START TALKS and other conferences to persuade the Soviets that their view is the wrong one -- but the challenge, the reality still remains. We are forced to confront the contradiction of opposing views and to ask ourselves, what is it that will restrain the Soviets? We cannot be certain what will deter them but there is one thing that ought to stop them.

It is not, as many persons fear (and as the Soviet propagandists play to the hilt) that we are planning to fight a nuclear war. Rather the United States' strategy is to convince the Soviets that whatever kind of war they might choose to start, they cannot possibly win!

In recent years, each act of arms restraint on the part of the United States has brought no corollary response from the Soviet Union. President Carter cancelled production of the B-1 Bomber, cancelled development of the neutron bomb, and in the aftermath of the Vietnam War, our country abolished the military draft. There has never been any reciprocal response by the Soviet Union to any of these reductions of our military capability, but rather as President Carter said, "The Soviet Union has continued to build at an accelerated pace the most massive and dangerous war machine the world has ever known and one far beyond

Needlework News

By Barbara Boulton

Counted cross-stitch has become very popular in our country. This quick, easy-to-do Halloween project is one reason even "non-sewers" are stitchin' and lovin' it.

A jar of candy with a cross stitched design on the lid makes a very personalized hostess gift for any occasion. This particular design takes less than an hour to do.

A loosely woven fabric with an even number of spaces lengthwise and crosswise is needed. For this project, the cloth is called Aida 14. The number 14 means that there are 14 spaces in an inch. The chart that you follow does not have to be that size.

Using the insert of a canning jar lid, trace a circle on the Aida cloth. Don't cut it. Determine the center of the circle by counting, measuring, or folding the fabric in quarters. With 2 strands of 6 strand black embroidery floss, make a row of 5 cross stitches, catching the end of the floss in the first few stitches. The center square should correspond to the center x in the bottom row of the nose on the chart. Make a row of 3 cross stitches directly above the first row and indented by 1 square on each side. Stitch 1 x in center of next row to complete the triangle. End the floss by running the thread in the back of 4 stitches. Starting 1 square to the left of the triangle and leaving 2 spaces between the nose and the left eye, make row of 6 cross stitches with a blank space in the middle. Continue following the chart by counting. Now you know why it's called Counted Cross-Stitch!

Apply a thin circle of glue around the outside line of the circle. When it dries, cleanly cut it out. Place the circle on top of the metal lid insert. Place a cotton ball in between fabric and lid to raise your design. Glue or tie lace around the edge of the lid or jar, which you have filled with TREATS. The jar can be a regular canning or mayonnaise jar which will fit the canning lids.

Firefighter Bill White instructs local Lions on first aid for choking victims

By D. E. Cooperrider

The regular meeting of the Sanibel-Captiva Lions Club was held at the Sanibel Community Building on October 20 with an international visitor present from Zurich, Switzerland. W. Toby Habicht was a visitor at one of the resorts on the island and was very impressed with the local club.

Lion Cook reported on the up-coming visit of the Bloodmobile to the island on October 30 at Bailey's Parking Lot and noted that all the service clubs on the island are jointly cooperating in this particular event.

Lion Bob Sagers was named Out-Standing Lion and a glowing account of his service to Lions in several states and in Australia. Lion Sagers is currently Librarian for Projects and a Director of the Association.

Bill White of the Sanibel Fire Department gave a very interesting and instructive demonstration of the various actions and maneuvers that can be applied to an individual who is affected in any way with a mechanical obstruction (usually food) to breathing. Most commonly, this is a large or dry object which has been taken in normally but is too large to be swallowed. The much publicized method of forcing the fist against the upper abdomen was demonstrated as was also the four sharp blows to the back between the shoulder blades. The CPR course is one that many people have taken and this information on breathing obstruction relief is another emergency procedure that may save a life.

The next regular meeting will be held at the Sanibel Community Building on November 3 at 6:45 p.m. at which there will be an induction of new members.

what any nation could need for its national defense."

Advocates of the nuclear freeze would virtually destroy our capability to negotiate genuine arms reductions. We've got to negotiate from strength not from weakness brought about by petitioning for no nukes, no first use of nukes or a freeze and public agonizing over the moral issues in connection with nuclear war. It is unlikely that anything said about the immorality of the use of nuclear weapons will have the effect desired. And we should ask ourselves; What effect will the call for a freeze by citizens of this country have on our totalitarian adversary given his views on use of such weapons?

Several points, then, which often appear to be swept under the rug in the emotional debate, should be borne in mind:

1. The resources devoted to defense, if spent for other things, could accomplish much public good. But we must not forget that the most important obligation of a democratic government is to keep its people alive and free.

2. The United States military is as acutely aware of the potential damage from the employment of nuclear weapons as are other concerned Americans.

3. Unless we can negotiate from strength very little incentive is offered to the other side. Substantial, militarily significant, bilateral reductions should be the primary goal.

4. A freeze would bring arms control negotiations to a halt and undermine the President's proposal for zero intermediate range nuclear forces in Europe. Furthermore, a freeze would continue the serious imbalance that presently exists in Europe.

5. Any agreement must be equitable and verifiable. While this may appear to be simplistic, verification is the crux of arms control and such agreements with our European and Asian allies.

6. Arms control efforts must be undertaken in close coordination and consultation with our European and Asian allies.

We all want to prevent war but we need to be mindful of John F. Kennedy's words (and of other Presidents: Washington, Madison, Monroe, Theo. Roosevelt and Eisenhower) that negotiations, "are not a substitute for strength; they are an instrument for the translation of strength into survival and peace."

A restaurant like this couldn't have happened any place else.

Chadwick's is the way a Captiva restaurant was meant to be. It captures all the charm and grace of Old Florida.

The mood is casual. The crowd, fun-loving. The service, warm and attentive in the best island tradition.

And the food? Well, it's the reason we've been acclaimed time and time again as one of Florida's best restaurants.

You can feast on fresh fish, thick & juicy steaks, and such specialties as Breast of Chicken Plantation and Beer Batter Shrimp.

There's a lavish Sunday brunch, too, with more than 70 different items to tempt you. And don't miss our bountiful Friday evening Seafood Buffet. The best catch for the money anywhere.

To top it off, Chadwick's provides some of the finest live entertainment on the islands, with dancing nightly in the lounge.

1983 Parking Permits on sale

Announcement is made that the Sanibel Police Department will be selling 1983 beach parking permits in compliance with City of Sanibel parking ordinance 81-10 at the Sanibel Police Department beginning Monday, November 1, 1982. The 1982 beach parking permits expire November 30, 1982.

The parking permit is a decal that is attached to the inside of the windshield on the passenger side of vehicles not exceeding twenty (20) feet in length. The three types of permits are the RESIDENT, NON-RESIDENT PROPERTY OWNER and RESTRICTED. In order to qualify for a RESIDENT decal, an applicant must execute an affidavit declaring himself or herself to be a Sanibel resident and have one of the following: a valid Lee County Voter Registration card showing a Sanibel address; a valid Florida Driver's License showing a Sanibel address; a certified copy of a Declaration of Domicile, or; a current bill or other document showing a homestead exemption on property within the city limits of Sanibel. A NON-RESIDENT TAXPAYER decal may be purchased by a person, though not a permanent resident, who can show proof of ownership of property within the city of Sanibel and a RESTRICTED permit shall be available to all persons.

The RESIDENT and NON-RESIDENT TAXPAYER permits are $1.00 per year; the RESTRICTED decal is $30.00 per year and $15.00 if purchased after June 1 of the year.

Service to the public can best be rendered for the issuance of the permits during the hours of 8 am. to 5 pm. Monday through Friday.

The Sanibel Police Department is located at Palm Ridge Road at the intersection of Tarpon Bay on the second floor above MacKenzie Hall. If additional information is desired, please call 472-3111.

At the end of last Thursday's session the council was satisfied that all policy issues had been settled.

But the adoption of the ordinance was deferred for two weeks to allow time for retying the document.

"Before I vote to approve I want to make sure the language in the ordinance is exactly the way I think it is now," Councilman Duane White explained.

The council agreed there will be no further debate of issues at the 5:06 hearing Nov. 2. "Only editorial changes will be allowed," Mayor Porter Goss ruled.

ROGO allocations and opted to retain the scoring of applications on the basis of 10 criteria.

But the council recognized that the criteria used are more applicable to multi-family than single family housing and has recommended that the new council begin the process of refinement.

It was agreed, too, that at the end of the ROGO year any deficit or unused balance of reserves may be carried forward to the next ROGO year and may be allocated to any category of housing subject to approval of the council.

Muench best qualified for city council

To the Editor
The Islander

To those of us who know Jerry Muench, there is no doubt in our minds that he possesses the qualities desirable in a city councilman.

Almost 20 years of "Island experience," involving EPERT, fire protection, and water control, uniquely qualifies Jerry Muench to give the people of Sanibel the type of city government they want. He firmly believes, as the majority of us do, in ROGO and CLUP, but wants the opportunity to "fine tune" them to the needs and desires of Island residents.

If anyone questions Jerry Muench's dedication to Sanibel, aside from the countless contributions to many Island projects, all they have to do is take a close look at the Periwinkle Trailer Park. The concern for the wildlife and the environment abounds! The average person can't see this in passing by Periwinkle Way every day, again, showing concern for the type of Sanibel we all enjoy now and want to preserve.

Since the issues have been discussed and well publicized, both candidates for seat 4 agree on the need to preserve the Sanibel lifestyle. We feel Jerry Muench is the best qualified to act on the behalf of the majority of Sanibel residents.

Sincerely,
John & Deb Friedlund

Where, oh where, were Messrs. Muench and Bissell?

To the Editor
The Islander

When one reviews the experience and accomplishments of the several candidates for the vacant seats on the City Council one wonders where, oh where were Messrs. Muench and Bissell, when the problems were complex and the decisions sometimes heart-breaking for the folks serving on the City Council and the Planning Commission. From this writer's experience they were missing except when matters under consideration affected their or, in the case of candidate Bissell, his clients' personal interest.

Candidate Muench fought for every last trailer space in his City Hall appearance, when his trailer park was buying the land owned by "Uncle" Clarence Rutland. And his chain-link fence violates the sanctity of land that he gave to the city as green space. Candidate Bissell's appearances have been even less limited.

On the other hand the three other candidates -- Emily Barefield, Louise Johnson and Bill Hagerup -- have not only participated in countless Monday Planning Commission meetings, but they have sat through many council sessions. This is how they have learned about Sanibel's complex problems and Sanibel's competent government. This is the kind of experience that will pay off for Sanibel's future.

I urge voters to bear these facts in mind when they select the candidates for whom they cast their ballot. The last-named trio of candidates are pledged to keep Sanibel the way most of us want it.

Bissell sets record straight

To the Editor
The Islander

Arthur Hunter submitted a letter To The Editor section of your paper last week. Mr. Hunter certainly has every right to offer his opinions on candidates for the upcoming city council election. He also has a duty and responsibility to make accurate statements. One of his statements referred to my lack of involvement in Sanibel government. Let me set the record straight for Mr. Hunter and those who read his comments last week.

In the formulative stages of the Comprehensive Land Use Plan, I was task force chairman for subdivision and residential information, working closely to help establish the land use map for WMRT, the planning consultants. I have, on numerous occasions, attended hearings of both planning commission and city council, when policy development of public input was sought. I have participated in the elective process, serving on political campaigns for two candidates. I currently am assisting the city in their effort to provide a top-notch recreational facility for the islands.

My community-wide participation in activities represents an even broader scope. I consider the broader basis of involvement far more important than just a political exposure, if I have the opportunity to serve the Sanibel electorate. Perhaps Mr. Hunter will want to know of these qualifications.

Barefield will guide Island affairs with dedication

To the Editor
The Islander

Since working with the many dedicated persons who sought to protect Sanibel's unique environment through incorporation, I have been a most interested observer of city proceedings. Frequent visits to the Island over the years have convinced me of the devotion of city councilpersons in striving to realize the dreams for "Sanibel Tomorrow."

Long personal acquaintance with one of the candidates in the current election leads me for the first time to express an opinion. I believe that Emily Barefield has the interest and dedication to the purposes for which the city was founded which is needed for the continued guidance of the governmental affairs of this wonderful place. Her long-time concern for the riches of this environment is matched with a concern for people and for their needs.

Emily grew up in a small town in Connecticut where she developed a life-long appreciation for the political process as a vital means of achieving community objectives. Her involvement in state-wide activities, and in Island activities since she became a year-round resident, is consistent with my personal observations of her civic commitment during the 30 years I have known her.

I believe she would be an excellent member of a distinguished City Council.

Sincerely,
Aileen R. Lotz

Sanibel at crossroads - vote Barefield and Hagerup

To the Editor
The Islander

Our Island city, so recently but an infant, has grown into a delightful, if sometimes bustling, community - its natural beauty preserved, even enhanced, to host a diversity of residents, ideas and pursuits. No mean achievement in so short a time, and a great tribute to those who worked hard and long for an ideal.

Now we stand at the crossroads. Which way do we go? We can continue in the same direction, nurturing - and amplifying - the features which make Sanibel so desirable. Or...we can take the other road toward a less careful control of development, less critical scrutiny of density and intensity, less careful protection of limited resources, less attention to the quality of life here.

I'm human...and appreciative. I'm for more - not less. And I'm for Emily Barefield and Bill Hagerup on November 2.

Louise Johnson will guard fragile Island's future

To the Editor
The Islander

This letter is not intended to criticize anyone. But, as a Sanibel property owner and long time visitor I feel compelled to express my views.

The Sanibel City Council is our most important decision making body. The years ahead will be the most important in Sanibel's history. Council members must now more than ever before be dedicated, sure, completely committed to only Sanibel, totally informed and immovable in their actions to guard this fragile island. With this in mind my observations indicate only one such candidate...Louise Johnson.

Yours truly,
Selig S. Brooks, DPM

Cast your vote wisely... vote Barefield and Hagerup

To the Editor
The Islander

Just as "No man is an island, entire of itself;" no island can maintain alone its particular character without the sympathy and cooperation of the contiguous mainland. Such is particularly the case with Sanibel.

Change is one constant in the world. To translate this into politics means the choice of a candidate who can successfully incorporate change into an already existing structure and still maintain the unique and valuable characteristics of that structure.

Sanibel voters will elect two new Council members at the November 2 elections. Two of the candidates seeking seat 5 are Emily Barefield and Louise Johnson. These candidates share a similar philosophy about the governmental goals of the city, and their sincerity is beyond question. However, with continuing growth, both on the Island and the mainland, a wide experience of statewide policy and politics is vastly important for the Island. Emily Barefield has had an extensive working knowledge of the Florida political process for over twenty years because of her professional experience in various fields of Florida government. She can reach beyond the confines of Sanibel to see that our interests are considered. At this time in Sanibel's history such a candidate is vitally needed. It is important to elect a person with these qualifications who will try to translate the elements of change into the whole picture of what Sanibel can continue to be. Emily Barefield has that expertise.

The continuity of accomplishments by our fine City Council has been re-enforced by Bill Hagerup as a Sanibel Planning Commissioner. His contributions speak for themselves. His concerns for the good of the whole community, rather than the generally self-seeking business community are obvious signposts of his dedication. He is running for Council Seat Number 4. The combination of Emily Barefield and Bill Hagerup would give double strength to the City Council.

Therefore, it is imperative that Sanibel citizens get to the polls on November 2. Cast your votes wisely!

anxious that his successor will be well briefed on the Goldsmith vs. City of Sanibel lawsuit set for trial in federal court in Tampa sometime in January.

Bowen asked and was authorized by the council last Tuesday to request postponement or a continuance of that trial.

"This case which challenges the constitutionality of the city's parking ordinance is so important that no matter who wins it will probably be challenged to the Supreme Court," Bowen said.

Bowen, who grew up in Miami, came to Sanibel after serving as acting city manager for the city of Hallandale on Florida's east coast.

He replaced Frank Watson, who had been part time legal counsel for the city since its incorporation.

Watson, Fort Myers' city attorney, also had a private law practice, and would not be able to handle the projected onslaught of legal challenges aimed at the newly drafted land use plan.

"I feel privileged to have been associated in Sanibel with such dedicated, hardworking and nice public officials and people," he said.

"It's not often that a municipal attorney has the opportunity to build up a rapport with the citizens as I have here," he added.

Successful Cockroaches And Competent Geckos

By George Campbell

Illustrated by Ann Winterbotham

There is a lot of discussion these days about Cockroaches. We do have hordes of them here, and most housewives and all real estate people can't stand them. In fact, a lot of Cockroach-haters call them, quaintly but inaccurately, by the euphemistic name "Palmetto Bugs." I guess the description serves its purpose because people keep buying real estate and, along with it, armies of Cockroaches.

In 1969 a Lichtenstein Corporation was formed: The International Cockroach Society, Inc. (TICS). One of their mottos is:

"Recognizing the great LINNAEAN TAXONOMIC exaggeration, HOMO SAPIENS, and the probable inevitable disappearance of HOMO, our goal is to prepare, through proper selection and genetic engineering, a super, super Cockroach to carry on as Earth's dominant species of the future."

With branches and subsidiaries throughout the world, their advocacy of a super, super Cockroach is already halfway achieved. Ever hear of the Super German Cockroach, Blattella germanica? No? It is not a sinister German plot, but simply the German form of this group. The species is widespread: in Germany it is called the Russian Cockroach, in Russia it is dubbed the Prussian Cockroach. Probably the best name is Cosmopolitan Cockroach.

Through U.S. pest control overkill activities the Cockroach is now "super" in that in some places it has become immune or resistant to most or all of the commonly-used household insecticides. Thus Cockroach-haters have only themselves to blame for the existence of the Super Cockroach. If Charles Darwin were here he could easily explain that enough pesticides have been used on enough

Gekko gecko

Ann Winterbotham 10/82

The Ultimate Cockroach Control:

Southeast Asia's largest Gecko is gaining popularity in Florida.

Cockroaches to kill off all of the sensitive ones and select, from among the millions, those few that possessed genetic resistance. Naturally this selection has resulted in strong, immune Cockroaches.

I was recently in Baltimore, a center of German resistance - Cockroach Resistance, that is. It was fun to Raid the little buggers with various household sprays and watch them happily consume and bathe in the stuff, then thrive and multiply. This is really a case of bug control backlash.

Same thing happened with our own Lee County Mosquito Control. Some of our mosquito species became immune to malathion. In the bureaucratic jargon, Director Wayne Miller will tell you his agency has "lost" malathion for the control of nuisance Salt Marsh Mosquitos.

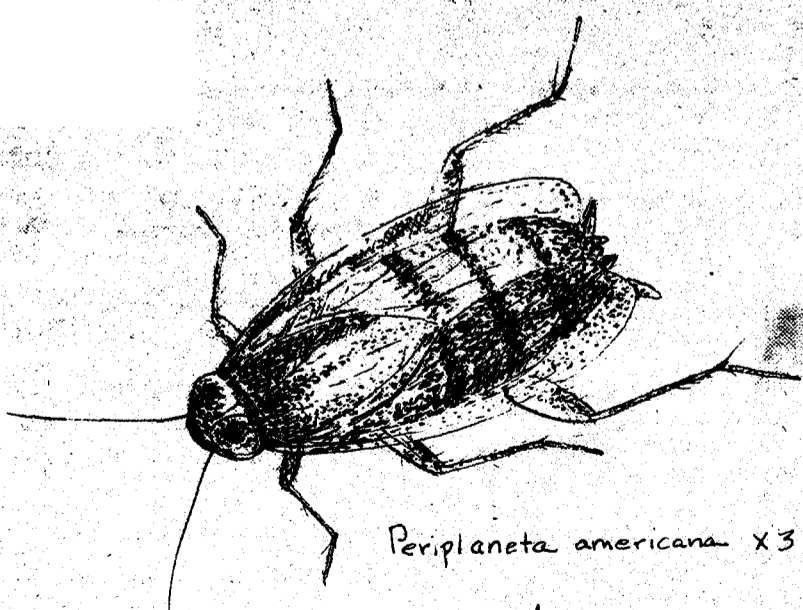

It is all right to talk about these things, but suppose a real threat from mosquitos came - a threat of serious disease. Malathion may be "lost"; the bug controllers' armamentarium could be weakened through profligate overuse... overkill that resulted in genetically STRONGER insects and consequently harder, maybe impossible, control of the hypothetical new, possibly inevitably eventual, disease vector. Fortunately the vector of the currently threatening St. Louis Encephalitis is not immune to malathion. Lady Luck, not careful planning, was over more on our side.

A lot of people around here sprinkle borax in corners, slideways of glass doors, around kitchens, garages and bathrooms to control Cockroaches. Some Roaches die, others thrive. Dr. K. C. Emerson told me about a study employing dried and pulverized bay leaves and cucumber skins. This mixture is supposed to control Cockroaches. We shall see.

I don't much mind Cockroaches myself. I admire success wherever I see it and these animals are indeed successful. They have been around for hundreds of millions more years than has that warring creature who boastfully calls himself sapiens, and they are likely to be around in their diversity (there are more than 3000 forms) millions of years after man's obliteration. But in the interests of fair play, I shall share with you the one foolproof Cockroach control method I know that really works: Geckos.

Geckos are interesting lizards. Almost pan-tropical, they are found in one form or another in most warm countries of the world. We even have one here -- an interloper from Asia, the domesticated Indian House Gecko, Hemidactylus garnoti. Two or three inches long, she is of particular interest because only females live here. They have more than ERA -- they exist and reproduce (only females, of course) by a process known as parthenogenesis. Macho contribution does not exist!

But our own little House Gecko is too small to tackle big Cockroaches, so you must go to your favorite corner pet shop and order a Tokay Gecko. Gekko gekko is its incredible scientific name and it is big -- up to twelve or more inches in length. Treasured in its native Southeast Asia, it lives in the houses of rich and poor alike. It scampers about on walls and ceilings -- even window glass -- and consumes Cockroaches, mice, baby birds, spiders, and all manner of prey.

Its toes are padded behind the claws. In between, the lamellae of the pads are microscopic hooks -- thousands of them -- that enable the animal to take advantage of irregularities on any surface -- even glass, for window glass has irregularities too. Polished plate glass is too much for the Gecko, however, there being no rough spots to be grasped by the hooks.

Tokay Geckos are nocturnal. Their lidless staring eyes are always open. The pupil is but a slit in daylight, but at night it widens and becomes a vertical, irregular opening. Scallation is granular, the skin is thin and in fact is easily torn. The tail is often lost in battle and is often regrown. About half show old scars where original tails were lost and where new tails "sprouted."

Tokay Geckos got their name from their two-syllable bark, as loud as that of a small dog. Not "Bow Wow" but "To Kay." The very word Gecko comes from a North African form that says "Gec Ko" rather loudly.

I recently acquired some of these interesting creatures, for I had a large Cockroach population in my bird room where parrots and finches play. That problem is now definitely in the past tense. I now have absolutely no Cockroaches. But I do have four starving, barking Tokays. They have laid some eggs, too, so I'll soon have even more.

This huge South American Cockroach, Blaberus sp., lives in the Amazon jungle. Our common Sanibel "Palmetto Bug," Periplaneta americana is dwarfed by this giant, but is much more prolific and a real pesky problem to residents of Florida. The German Cockroach is even smaller and is the major Cockroach pest in our northern cities.

You couldn't begin to guess where they nest, so I'll tell you: the adhesive eggs are laid on the ceiling.

I talked to my friend James Langhammer, Curator of the Detroit Zoo. Question: what to feed Tokays who no longer have Cockroaches to eat. Answer: lots of rich food containing protein, calcium and vitamins.

It seems to work. I cut a piece of chicken gizzard to the size and shape of a Cockroach, impale it on a flexible wire, dip in pulverized egg shell and vitamins and, at night by the light of a single candle, enter the Tokays' domain. After moving the simulated Cockroach around for a while, I fool the Tokay who savagely attacks and eagerly gulps down the food.

While there are no more Cockroaches around in my room, there are plenty more outside and all over Sanibel. Should anyone want to discuss the Cockroach problem with an expert, write: A. Gordon Johnson, President, The International Cockroach Society Inc., 1050 Northover Drive, Bloomfield Hills, Michigan 48013.

The irregularly-shaped vertical pupil, larger at night, becomes but a slit in bright light.

The Gecko toe pad is equipped with hundreds of microscopic hooks that lie between the lamellae. Traction is provided by these hooks and permits the Gecko to run up vertical walls, even window glass, and scamper upside down on ceilings, all the while emitting sounds as loud as the bark of a small dog.

Sanibel's vagrant Gecko from India, Hemidactylus garnoti. Prolific reproducers, they are rapidly extending their Florida range. These reptilian female ERA types manage to reproduce without any masculine participation, there being only females.

We are repeating this picture first published last week here enlarged for easier identification and to CORRECT an OMISSION in last weeks ISLANDER. The Mosquito Control Update was written by George R. Campbell. The illustration is by Ann L. Winterbotham.

Culex nigripalpus

10/22

This portrait of Culex nigripalpus will show the careful observer how to distinguish it from the more or less two dozen other mosquito forms that inhabit Sanibel Island. This very localized freshwater species does vector or carry St. Louis Encephalites. No other forms on Sanibel carry disease here, yet the major thrust of mosquito control is against harmless salt marsh-mosquitoes which travel up to 25 miles.

Although Mosquito Control Director Wayne Miller wanted to discontinue the St. Louis Encephalitis search, he is now pleased that it was continued for it has turned up evidence of St. Louis Encephalitis virus on Sanibel and elsewhere in Lee County.

The adulticiding operation of October 13 was aimed at Culex nigripalpus, and to my mind, is good mosquito control and represents intelligent application of funds.

Local craft gallery opens on Sanibel

Islanders who have always wanted to display their hand-crafted creations, but who have never found the right location for their works, will find a friend in Lois "Lou" Lewis of the Islanders' Gallery.

"This gallery is not for the professional who is making his or her living by their craft," says Lou. "The Islanders' Gallery is for people who like to create something in their spare time, and who have a particular craft they consider a hobby."

Quilts, crocheted and knitted baby blankets and booties, sweaters, afghans and pillows may be found at the Islanders' Gallery, but Lou has taken care to stock some pretty unusual crafts as well. Intricate pine needle baskets, ceramic wood chimes, and river rock planters, stained glass terrariums, and delicately crocheted doilies are only a few of the more singular pieces browsers will be bound to find.

The price range of works at the Islanders' Gallery will also entice first-time visitors. Crocheted and needlepointed Christmas ornaments may be found for as low as $1.50, and a multi-figure ceramic nativity scene, hand-sculpted and hand-painted, looks for a home for $250.

The greatest characteristic of the Islanders' Gallery is the variety of crafts that can be found there. "Something for everyone" could easily be the gallery's motto, with soft-sculpture dolls for children, Christmas ornaments and placemats for the family holidays, quilted potholders for the great chefs of the Islands, and natural paperweights or bookends in the form of exquisitely finished Cypress "knees" for any man's desk or library.

A Sanibel resident for five years, Lou got the idea for the Islanders' Gallery when her friends continually discussed the lack of a suitable outlet for island crafts. A dabbler herself in virtually every type of craft, Lou could sympathize with the plight of local craftsmen and decided to do something about it herself.

Formerly a resident of Mansfield, Ohio, Lou says, "The blizzards chased me away, and the warm weather enticed me." Totally at home, now, on Sanibel, Lou is pleased to keep the door of the Islanders' Gallery open seven days a week.

If you are curious to see what other local talent is up to these days, or if you've just got a bit of free time to spare, and especially if you've got crafts you'd like to sell, Lou will be happy to show you around the Islanders' Gallery (located across from the Lighthouse Restaurant on Periwinkle Way). The Gallery will be open from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and from noon until 5 p.m. on Sundays.

Duck Stamp Contest, Juried Island Art Show return

It's Florida Waterfowl Stamp Design Contest time again, and local artists are working hard to prepare their entries by the Dec. 14 (5 p.m.) deadline. The Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, which sponsors the annual competition, says they will be accepting entries beginning Nov. 2.

The contest is not restricted to Florida residents, according to contest coordinator Tom Goodwin, though a Tampa artist won last year's competition. It is not uncommon that entries are received from all over the country, he added.

Artists are permitted two entries each of original multicolored designs. Each work submitted must be 7 X 11 inches, horizontal, and mounted with an 11 X 14 inch mat. A protective covering of acetate or cellophane is advised.

Each entry must be accompanied by an official entry blank, which may be obtained by writing Tom Goodwin at the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, 620 So. Meridian St., Tallahassee, Fla. 32301. Selection of the winning design will be made at the first Commission meeting after the deadline. For further information, call (904) 488-3831.

The first week's visitors to the 7th Annual Sanibel-Captiva Art League Juried Show will have an opportunity to select the recipient of the "Popular Prize and Ribbon", a first-time award offered by the art league this year.

Free gift wrapping will be offered to any show-goer who purchases a painting as a gift, with packing and shipping of any painting also available throughout the exhibition, which begins on Sunday, Nov. 21 and runs through Sunday, Dec. 5. Viewing hours are set for 1-4 p.m. daily. Artists in good standing with any member club of the Art Council of Southwest Florida may enter up to three paintings.

For more information, write Ken Turney at 202 E. Palm Dr., Rte. 10, Ft. Myers, Fla. 33908, or call 482-3491.

Two Lee County Alliance of the Arts-sponsored events will come to Fort Myers this week, with the Creative Craft Co-op All-Day Show and Sale exhibiting hand-crafted items from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 30, and the Gulfcoast Opera performing live from 5-8 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 31. For more information, call 939-2787.

Boots Freeman is busy taking applications for this November's Captiva Fitness Caper hoping to entice ladies 18-80 to join a week of all-women classes in exercise, yoga, water fitness, tennis and guitar instruction, massage and beauty treatments at the Tween Waters Inn. The fifth running of the Caper, which will meet Nov. 1-8, will include a special series of seminars on dreams and dream interpretations, led by an associate of the renowned Dr. Elizabeth Kubler-Ross. For further information, call Boots at 472-2426 or register at Tween Waters Inn by dialing 472-5161.

$3 tickets for the play Harvey by Mary Chase are still on sale at the Edison Community College box office. A hilarious comedy about a wealthy eccentric who befriends an imaginary six-foot white rabbit, Harvey will be presented by ECC's Fine and Performing Arts Department on Nov. 5, 6, 11, 13, 18, 19 and 20. The curtain will rise on each performance at 8 p.m. For further information, call ECC at 489-9298.

'A Bit of Ambrosia' offers fabrics from yesteryear

"A Bit of Ambrosia" may mean many things to many people, but to shopowners Marilyn and Christa Bowman, "A Bit of Ambrosia" is a new Island business out to dress local residents and visitors in the fabrics of yesteryear--cottons, silks and wools.

Long considered the most comfortable fabrics possible, all-natural fibers "breathe." For Islanders enduring the tropical heat of our summers and the cool Chinook winds that blow through each winter, clothes that "breathe" can make all the difference between comfort and a lack thereof.

And though the clothing Marilyn and Christa will concentrate on stocking will be made of fibers from the days of olde, their designs will be strictly modern. Bill Blass and Catalina are only two of the better known designer clothing the Bowmans have ordered for this winter's collection at "A Bit of Ambrosia," and the wise shopowners have also permitted themselves a bit of self-indulgence in purchasing hand-crafted items for the customer who is looking for something especially out of the ordinary. Take the all-cotton, peasant-like matching vest, skirt and blazer, hand-made in Oregon--the skirt alone contains 96 pieces of material.

The Bowmans presently have on hand a few items of clothing purchased by the previous owners--these synthetics, says Marilyn, will be phased out entirely in the next month or two to make room for the boxes of cottons suits, silk dresses and wool sweaters she and Christa have ordered for the Island's winter wear.

The Bowmans have seemingly thought of everything--including straw hats, bathing suits, terry cloth outfits--even a few match-and-wears for the holidays (which are versatile enough to be worn year 'round, says Christa).

Visitors of Sanibel for more than a decade from their home in Fremont, Nebraska, Marilyn and Christa (who, by the way, are also mother and daughter) are no strangers to being self-employed. The Bowman family owned and operated a steel business in Nebraska until they "grew tired of the cold" and made their move to Sanibel. Within one week of their arrival, the two Bowman women had purchased the clothing store. "We didn't want to work for anyone else," explains Marilyn.

Open from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, "A Bit of Ambrosia" is located near the Island Apothecary on Palm Ridge Road. The two Bowmans are obviously determined to make a go of their new business endeavor--plans are already in the making to remodel the shop entirely and give it a real "Florida look" before the winter season is in full-swing..

Islander named officer in real estate council

John Asp of Priscilla Murphy Realty, Inc., has been named secretary-treasurer of the Southwest Florida Council of the Florida Chapter of the Real Estate Securities and Syndication Institute. The chapter is the first such council organized in the country.

The purpose of the council is to work with syndicators at the local level in such areas as federal and state securities laws and relations, structuring, tax implications, legal considerations, partnership formation and related syndication activities.

The council covers Lee, Collier and Charlotte counties. Luncheon meetings are open to the public on the fourth Thursday of each month. Asp will serve as the council's secretary-treasurer until June 30, 1983.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

A ghoulish delight for Island residents begins Saturday at 4 p.m. at the Dunes

Saturday night (Oct. 30) will be a ghoulish delight for island residents. It'll be the second annual Island Halloween Party sponsored by the Barrier Island Group for the Arts and the Island Reporter.

The festivities at the Dunes Golf and Country Club begin at 4 p.m. There'll be plenty of music and dancing, and food and beverages will be available.

Island civic clubs are getting into the act with a host of carnival games including ring toss, pop-the-balloon darts and a wheel of fortune. There'll be plenty of valuable prizes donated by generous island merchants.

Later in the evening, there'll be a costume contest with prizes for the best costumes, the funniest and the most original one, and other categories. Those who trip the light fantastic can strut their stuff in a dance contest to be held during the evening. Valuable prizes will be awarded to the winners.

Pint-sized goblins get in free, but there will be a $1 admission charge for grownups, yes, even if they are in costume. The admission charge goes to help defray the costs of the event.

BIG ARTS and the Island Reporter wish to thank the generous island merchants who have donated a selection of prizes for children and adults. Anyone wishing to offer prizes can call the Island Reporter at 472-1587 or drop by their offices at Periwinkle Place.

The festivities will continue with music and dance, games, and plenty of food and drink until 8 p.m., so that there'll still be time to get to other halloween events that evening.

So adults and children alike should plan to let their imaginations run wild and come dressed as their favorite characters for the annual island event.

"Cause the goblins' ll get ya if ya don't watch out!

For more information contact Aaron Ritvo 472-4575.

Aerobic dance classes held at Baptist Church

Aerobic Dance begins again at the Sanibel Baptist Church November 1 through December 2.

Classes will be held on Monday and Wednesday mornings 9 a.m. to 10 a.m., and on Tuesday and Thursday evenings 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. The six week course will cost a total of $35.

This could be the right time to "Get in shape for the Holidays." For further information call Pat Shank 489-0188 evenings or 472-4151 ext. 3813 days.

Local artists offer papermaking classes

Local fiberartists Polly Matsumoto and Anita Amodeo are offering a basic Paper-making class, Thursday, October 28 from 10 to 12.

You will learn to make stationery and note papers from junk mail. All materials provided.

The same afternoon from 1-4 they will teach the Garlic Basket. You may register for one or both.

Future classes include Potato Basket, Saturday, October 30 and the Triangular Shawl Thursday, November 4. To register call Anita 481-1964.

Chadwick's plans Halloween bash as part of birthday celebration

Chadwick's Restaurant, as part of its fifth birthday celebration, will host a Halloween Birthday Bash from 8 p.m. to midnight Sunday, Oct. 31.

The party will be free of charge to the public and will feature dancing, a live disc jockey, movies, games, prizes and a costume contest with trends and tastes reminiscent of 1977 as the theme.

Dinner for two at the King's Crown restaurant will be the prize for each individual winner of the costume contest for originality, style, humor and authenticity in relation to the year 1977.

And don't forget Chadwick's Great Birthday Cake Contest. The top three guesses at this event will be carried over to the final night of birthday celebrations, where a weekend for two at Eagle's Nest Resort on Marco Island will be the grand prize.

Chadwick's Restaurant is at the front gate to South Seas Plantation on Captiva.

Mobile Tag Unit comes to Bailey's

The Lee County License Tag Mobile Unit will be at Bailey's Center on Sanibel, October 26th, from 8:45 to 3:30.

All renewals and new applications must be accompanied by proof of insurance.

Please bring your pre-written registration.

Lions, Kiwanis, Rotary Clubs seek Halloween blood donors

Scaring up volunteer blood donors is what the Sanibel-Captiva Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs plan to do this Halloween. They are co-sponsoring a community blood drive on Saturday, October 30, 1982 with the Edison Regional Blood Center, Inc. The "Wheels for Life" Bloodmobile will be at Bailey's General Store from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Residents of Sanibel and Captiva, and employees of Island Businesses are eligible for blood credits if a need arises due to the generosity of the Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs who are sponsoring the blood drive. Everyone is invited to be a part of this vital community service.

To become a volunteer blood donor, a person must be 17 years of age or older, weigh more than 100 pounds and have no history of hepatitis or heart disease. Participants are asked to bring some kind of identification, such as a driver's license or Social Security card.

The Sanibel-Captiva Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary would like to encourage the Island population to join them on Saturday, October 30th to give a pint and help save a life. To schedule an appointment please call Lion John Cook at 472-2110, Kiwanian Dick Muench at 472-2812 or Rotarian Pat Welsh at 472-0482.

The Edison Regional Blood Center, Inc. is a non-profit organization supplying seven health-care institutions in Southwest Florida with safe, pure, potent and effective blood and blood products.

Community Center bridge games begin Nov. 4

The duplicate bridge game at the Community Center will begin its fall season with the Thursday afternoon game on November 4 at 1:30 p.m. and the Friday night game at 7:30 p.m.

Games will continue weekly through the winter. If you need a partner call Joe Winterrowd 472-1829.

Valtin to speak at Nov. 2 Community Association meeting

The Sanibel Community Association will hold its monthly dinner meeting at the Community Association building on Periwinkle Way on Tuesday, November 2, 1982.

The evening's program will be a frank discussion by Councilman Fred Valtin on "Teens and Drugs." He will relate the personal experience of his family with this serious problem facing families with youngsters today. Fred will describe the symptoms of drug use by children and will explain possible ways of dealing with it.

The public is invited to the after dinner program, and all teenagers and parents of school age children are not only invited, but urged to attend.

The covered dish dinner, for members, their guests and prospective members, will begin at 6:30 p.m. Those wishing to attend only the after dinner program should plan on arriving at 7:30 p.m.

Persons coming for dinner should bring a dish to serve eight along with a serving utensil and their own silverware.

Fund-raising Bingo games scheduled by SCA board

Weekly Bingo games open to the public will be held each Tuesday evening starting Nov. 9 at 7:30 p.m. at the Sanibel Community Association, the SCA Board of Directors announced last week.

The Bingo games will be sponsored by the Association to raise funds to help pay off the mortgage on the building. SCA Vice President Bud Bernhard heads the committee in charge of the Bingo games. Other members are Myra ZuHone and Art Ford.

"We hope the Bingo games will be well attended by Sanibel and Captiva residents and that we will attract players from all over the surrounding area," Bernhard said.

SCA President Jerry Wierman pointed out that the association building fills a vital community need by providing facilities for regular meetings of groups such as the Shell Club and Audobon Society and for such special events as the Shell Show and entertainment and cultural events.

"The association must obtain more funds in order to continue to make the facility available to the public," Wierman said. "Revenues from membership dues and rentals of the building are not large enough to make any substantial reduction in the mortgage."

ISLANDER SPORTS

right, is pictured here with the team of 12 and under youths, who lost their first outing against the Shell Factory on a soggy Saturday in Shady Oaks at Terry Park. Competing in the Fort Myers Recreation League, the team is slated to play games through February.

Islander Sports Quiz

A tip of a baseball cap to Mary Amatore, who correctly named the Los Angeles Dodgers as the team with the last three Rookie of the Year winners, and Rick Sutcliffe, Steve Howe, and Fernando Valenzuela as the recipients of the coveted award in 1979, 1980, and 1981 respectively.

This week's question: Who is the youngest baseball player to be inducted into the Hall of Fame? If you know the answer, call the Islander at 472-5185.

Island golf

The foursomes of Jim Esson, Lee Gibson, Stan Bailey, and Ed Konrad, and Bob Neth, Les Snell, Bob Schneider, and Sandy McHull tied for top honors last Tuesday, October 19 in the Beachview Golf Club Men's Association tournament play. Jim Esson was the high individual at plus five.

Last Saturday, October 23 marked the start of the Association's Annual Fall Classic, for which 40 players turned up.

Finishing first at plus four were Clem Donnell, Bob Neth, Dave Wooster, and Thrump Bradly. Placing second at plus three was the quartet of Ed Barone, Stan Condit, Dick Light, and Ed Reed. Thrump Bradley and Ed Reed were tied for high individual at plus four.

CONDOS

IF YOU'RE LOOKING FOR GOOD NUMBERS READ ON! Financing available at 13.125% and an excellent rental history. This 2 bedroom/2 bath condo is ground floor, providing easy walk out access to lovely landscaped courtyard and beach. Popular Loggerhead Cay amenities include pool, tennis, and clubhouse. Priced at only $174,500. Call Associate Connie Dingerson, after hours 472-4215.

SUPERB GULF FRONT AT SNUG HARBOR - Spacious 2 bedrooms 2 bath plus den apartment attractively furnished in blues and beiges. Screened balcony off living room and master bedroom, covered parking and elevator. Poolside tiki bar with BBQ, tennis and boardwalk to the beach. Privacy without isolation for $299,500.

FIRST RATE CONDOMINIUM OFFERED AT A LOW PRICE OF $169,000. Gulf view overlooking well manicured grounds from an upgraded 2 bedroom/2 bath floorplan. Call Associate Cathy Tremblay for an appointment as this unit is currently under lease. After hours 939-1506.

SANDPOINTE CONDOMINIUM DIRECT GULF VIEW. Two bedroom/2 bath second floor living level corner unit overlooking pool and Gulf of Mexico. Unfurnished awaiting your own personal decorating touches. Owner is anxious to sell and is willing to help with financing. Priced at $185,000. For further details and information, phone Associate Larry C. Thompson, after hours 472-5529.

CANAL FRONT IN A GULF FRONT CONDOMINIUM COMPLEX. Why not have it all? Peaceful, completely furnished 2 bedroom/2 bath unit in a beautiful complex. Dock your boat just outside your door. Two tennis courts, two pools, BBQ, recreation building and much more. Owner will finance with very attractive terms. Offered at only $160,000. Associate Bruce Drobnyk, after hours 472-5289.

LOTS

CONSIDER THE ADVANTAGES of deeded beach access yet without the high cost of Gulf front property. Entry from West Gulf Drive and easy availability to shopping yet private and secluded. Large enough for a lovely home yet not so large that you pay more taxes than necessary. And, best of all, owner will talk terms so you won't have to pay points at the bank. At $32,000, this lot represents an excellent buy. Call Associate R. Paul Larkin, after hours 472-3776.

ONLY $2,000 DOWN can buy you a beautiful lot with mature vegetation. This is a buildable lot that backs up to the Wildlife Sanctuary. Near Sanibel schools. Owner financing at 10% over 10 years. Contact Associate Dori L. Drake, after hours 472-5042.

Mail your entry to The Islander, P.O. Box 56, Sanibel 33957, or bring it to our office behind the Burger Emporium no later than noon on Friday to be eligible for the next week's Islander Picks. Please include your phone number.

We've changed the rules a bit to give sports fans a chance to beat each week's winner for the next week's games rather than the Islander staff picks.

We'll call the winner each week for his or her predictions for the coming week's games, and we'll put those predictions in the middle column, left. This week, beat Michael Brundage.

Griffing Bancroft
472-1447

Offering bird tours of the islands commencing at dawn. The tours start at the Island Cinema in the island Shopping Center and last approximately three hours. $10 per person, with a minimum of three people.

For further information, reservations and exact times, call the MacIntosh Book Store at the above number.

Capt. R. Batholomew
472-5277

Offering aquatic nature tours through the waterways of Sanibel, Captiva, upper Captiva and Cayo Costa with lunch at Cabbage Key.

Participants may also go for nature walks on barrier islands if they choose. Participants have a choice aboard either a 34-foot cruiser or a 24-foot open fisherman with high freeboard. Call for reservations and further details.

Mark "Bird" Westall
472-5218

Offering a choice of canoe trips on the Sanibel River, through the Wildlife Refuge or to Buck Key. Trips last approximately 2 1/2 to 3 hours. $20 per person. Inquire about discounts when calling the above number for reservations and information.

Beach accesses

Off-islanders with restricted parking stickers can find beach access at Bailey Road, Beach Road, Nerita Street, Donax Street, Fulger Street, Turner Beach, the Algiers property and the Causeway.

Unrestricted parking with no sticker is permitted for everyone at Bowman's Beach off Sanibel-Captiva Road, at the Sanibel Lighthouse and Fishing Pier at the eastern tip of the island, at the Gulf end of Tarpon Bay Road and at the Trost property on Tarpon Bay Road.

Island residents with residential parking stickers can park on West Gulf Drive west of Rabbit Road, the bay and Gulf sides of Buttonwood Lane, the bay and Gulf sides of Seagrape Lane, Colony Walkway, Bay Drive, Dixie Beach Boulevard and Henderson at Castaways Lane.

On Captiva, public beach access can be found at Turner Beach or further north just past the entrance to South Seas Plantation.

STATE LAW PROHIBITS NUDE SUNBATHING ON ALL FLORIDA BEACHES. VIOLATORS WILL BE PROSECUTED.

Shopping

Sanibel is a veritable shopper's paradise. Tasteful boutiques and casual island shops join forces to present visitors with everything and anything a vacation shopper could hope for.
At the Lighthouse (Eastern) end of the island, Punta Ybel Plaza and the Sea Horse Shops are right across the street from one another, providing a variety of products that can cure your sweet tooth or tickle your shell finder's fancy. Need a good haircut or coliffure? You can get it in either of these shopping centers.
Most businesses open at 10 a.m. and close at 5:30 p.m. This holds true for many island stores, although some are open evenings during the winter season.

Tall Australian Pines shade Periwinkle Way and the shopper travels west along this main thoroughfare. This stretch of road is truly a shopper's paradise! It's all here -- the fast and not-so-fast eating spots, casual and elegant boutiques, hand-wrought jewelry, craft designs, shell shops and balms for health product fanatics.
Watch to your right and left as you drive or cycle along. Photographic supplies, bait and tackle, deli foods, fresh seafood and baked goods, knick-knacks and what-nots can all be found along the drive to the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road. Along the way, shopping centers such as the Heart of the Islands, Periwinkle Place and Tahitian Gardens offer a variety of island delights.

Palm Ridge Road, the Periwinkle Way turn-off to Captiva, offers several shopping centers featuring everything from imports to gift shops for the discriminating shopper, plants and shells, a sandwich shop, ice cream parlors, pizza parlor, boutique shop and the Island Apothecary pharmacy.
At the Tarpon Bay-Periwinkle Way intersection, the Island Shopping Center features the island's only supermarket and movie house.
A left on Tarpon Bay Road takes the visitor past Sanibel's original schoolhouse, which now holds original island watercolors and woodcuts.
Then on to West Gulf Drive and westward to an interesting little artisan shop and gallery.
At the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road, you may choose instead to turn right and follow the signs to the Tarpon Bay marina, where you will find a cluster of quaint shops overlooking the back bay. Some antiques, shells and shellcrafts, what-nots and clever clothes can be found here, as well as a great seafood sandwich and soft drinks.
The spectacular ride to Captiva, with its lush foliage and enchanting view of the Gulf, is well worth a day's outing. Talented artists display their works in one roadside shop, while others feature some nifty gifts for Grandma to take home to little hands as a pleasant hodge-podge of remembrances from these barrier islands.
Whether for shopping or merely browsing, island shops offer a surprising variety from one-of-a-kind collectibles for the discerning shopper to postcards for the simple souvenir hunter. And of course, for all, shells -- shell jewelry, shell lamps, just plain shells -- the most beautiful shells in the world from the most beautiful shelling beaches in the world.

DISASTER ALERT

Radio Station WRCC, 103.9 FM, broadcasts details of any emergency such as hurricane alert or any other disastrous occurrence that might affect Sanibel or Captiva.

LIBRARIES

Sanibel Public Library
 At the intersection of Palm
 Ridge Road and Florence Street
 -- 472-2483.
 Open 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. daily except Sunday, Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. for the summer.
 The library will be closed for inventory and vacation from Sept. 19 to Oct. 3.
Chapin and Wiles, Captiva
 472-2133
 Open Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

GATORS

Feeding alligators anywhere within the Sanibel city limits is not only illegal, but can be extremely dangerous.
 Alligators can run up to 45 mph, so if you are close enough to feed an alligator, he is close enough to bite you. An alligator fed for fun loses his natural fear of humans and becomes a potential threat to children and pets.
 Dogs should never be permitted to run free on Sanibel.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
 VISITOR'S INFORMATION SERVICE

Sanibel-Captiva Chamber of Commerce
 Just off the Causeway on Causeway Road
 472-1080
 Open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.,
 Sundays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

SHELLING

The city's resolution limiting the taking of live shells to two live shells per species per person is one to be scrupulously obeyed. As a matter of fact, in order to preserve Sanibel's beautiful shelling beaches, most collectors refuse to take any live shells whatsoever.

DOGGY DO'S AND DON'TS

If you are visiting Sanibel with the family Fido in tow, all the better. All family members can enjoy Southwest Florida sun and surf.
 The Chamber of Commerce can tell you what accommodations are available for families with pets.

PUBLIC REST ROOMS

Sanibel Fishing Pier
 At the Lighthouse end of the Island.
Turner Beach
 At Blind Pass between Sanibel and Captiva.
Causeway
 Between the drawbridge and Sanibel.

 borly services. Call 472-0404, 24 hours a day.

WARNING! SAFEGUARD YOUR VALUABLES

In order to protect your valuable possessions from theft, it is recommended that you take them to a bank or hotel vault for safekeeping. Do NOT leave them in your room or car.

CAMPING, BEACH FIRES

Camping on the beach is prohibited, as are open beach fires.
 An exemption to the beach fire ordinance is a fire in an approved cooking container (not to exceed 48x24x12 inches deep) with an extruded metal grill for non-commercial food preparation. This type of container will be allowed on the beach without a permit.

 After you have had your beach party, please assume the responsibility for cleaning up any debris or litter in your area.

FISHING

While no license is required for saltwater fishing, fishing in freshwater ponds or the Sanibel River requires a Florida fishing license.
 Licenses are available at Bailey's General Store on Periwinkle Way. The fee is $6.50 for residents and $10.50 for non-residents.
Minimum Legal Lengths
 Blue Fish 10 inches

Flounder	11 inches
Grouper	12 inches
Mackerel	12 inches
Mullet	12 inches
Pompano	10 inches
Red Fish	12 inches
Snook	18 inches
Trout	12 inches

Snook fishing is outlawed from June 30-Aug. 1.

BICYCLING

If you aren't used to a lot of bicycle traffic, watch out on Sanibel. The extensive network of bike paths on the Island is clearly marked along the edge of the road.
 Observe caution when driving near the bike path. A state law and city ordinance combine to prohibit parking or driving on the bike path. Mopeds are not permitted on the bike paths.
 If you plan to spend some time on a bike to enjoy the Island sun and sights, make sure your vehicle is equipped with a bike flag, horn, good brakes and a light for night riding.
 Under Florida law, bicycle riders have the same rights and responsibilities as motor vehicle drivers.
Drive safely!

SPEED LIMITS

There is very good reason for the varying speed limits (20-30 mph) along the Causeway. The slower speeds preserve the bridge supports from strain and stress.
 This speed limit is strictly enforced with radar on a 24-hour basis by both the Sanibel Police Department and the Lee County Sheriff's Department.
