A bird's eye view

This patient osprey, above, and his partner have taken up residence in a tree at the new City Hall site to ensure themselves of a bird's eye view of the construction from start to finish, right.

Last week a less fortunate pair of ospreys were ousted from their perch atop a construction crane at the site when the crane was put to use. For photos by David Meardon of progress on Sanibel's new City Hall, see page 2A.

Mandatory trash collection approved

By Carol Kranichfeld

What to do with all those fallen palm fronds and bundles of bush trimmings should no longer be a problem on Sanibel thanks to the City Council's decision to institute mandatory refuse collection on the Island.

The move to initiate obligatory trash pickup will also result in a 5 percent reduction in current collection rates because the city has negotiated an exclusive franchise with Sanibel Disposal, Inc.

Collection rates were scheduled for a 15 percent increase based on the Island's previous arrangement with the disposal company, but the extra revenues generated by the franchise will actually allow for an overall decrease, according to Sanibel Disposal attorney Richard Roosa.

The decision to effect mandatory trash collection was made in an effort to eliminate illegal dumping that has plagued the Island since the beginning of human time. An estimated 20 percent of the Island's residents do not now contract with Sanibel Disposal.

Violators of the obligatory contract will be cited by the city's code enforcement team. All "homeless" litter will

Proposed shelling ban temporarily shelved

By Carol Kranichfeld

The television media anxiously awaited the outcome of last week's City Council hearing on the proposed live shelling ban. But in the end the camera crews were told to come back in four weeks.

Thanks to Sanibel, live shelling is now one of the hottest issues in Southwest Florida. And should the city approve be removed by the city at the cost of the resident, who will also be billed for an additional 12 percent interest.

Assuring the council that Sanibel will not have to go into the trash collection business, Roosa explained that Sanibel Disposal will be responsible for collecting bills as well as for initiating lawsuits when necessary. Sanibel will only be required to enforce the city's codes.

All homeowners will be billed when mandatory collection takes effect on April 1. Part-time residents will not be affected, City Manager Bernie Murphy explained, because they already pay the year-round rate.

the proposed ban, shellers all over the country will straighten their stoops and take notice.

The ordinance under consideration calls for an across-the-board ban on live shelling within 300 feet of Sanibel's shoreline. The ordinance excludes whelks, oysters and clams, which are considered food shells. The document was prepared by a council-appointed Live Shelling Committee headed by Islander ecologist Dr. K.C. Emerson.

The concensus at Tuesday's hearing indicated general support but in varying degrees for the ordinance.

Councilman Francis Bailey immediately moved to deny the ordinance, and Councilman Fred Valtin seconded that motion. Both men said they recognize the need for some restriction but oppose a wholesale ban on live shelling.

But Mayor Mike Klein insisted on discussing the issue and said he has seen as many as 40 and 50 live horse conchs carried off by greedy shellers.

"I hate to deny it out of hand," Klein said about the ordinance. "I have seen whole herds of animals in Africa decimated so some rich man can mount the heads of those animals on the wall. The purpose of the natural resources of this earth is not just to titillate the senses," he argued.

The day is gone when wholesale culling of live shells can be executed without severe impact on shell populations, Klein maintained. "We need to find out how to control the present number of species we have."

Valtin said he is looking for an ordinance that will affect "the real violator who takes bucketsful" of shells. The flagrant violator of peaceful shell existence would be the object of his decision, Valtin explained when he suggested denying the ordinance as it stood and sending it "back to the drawing board."

Councilman Louise Johnson disagreed, however. "In order to have dead shells you've got to have live shells," she said. Making special note that the ordinance excludes oysters, clams and whelks, Johnson remarked "On the whole I think it's a good ordinance."

At last week's hearing Emerson explained he had researched the issue thoroughly. He said officials at the National Marine Fisheries Service have told him shelling has deteriorated significantly on Florida's coast.

The deterioration, Emerson said, was blamed on alterations in shell habitats because of overdevelopment, pollution and interruptions in their natural systems, "like the Causeway."

Fishing and hunting are sports with similar impact, he said. "They all fit the same pattern. If a population declines you must put a ban on (hunting) it and see if it recovers."

Special permits could be made available to certain shellers in certain situations, Emerson said. "If someone wants a permit you could tell them, sure, there can be, but it's gonna cost you," to suggested.

Emphasizing his position was that of a scientist, Emerson noted the ordinance had become an emotional issue. "I am simply recommending to you what we (the Live Shelling Committee) think is the best solution to what you have charged us to do. It is up to you to accept it, correct it or change it," he said.

Discussion ensued regarding the enforceability and necessity of such an ordinance. One member of the audience said she has visited the Island for many years and believes there are no fewer shells today than there were on her first trip to Sanibel's shores.

Because a report is forthcoming from the Sanibel Shell Club, which holds a shell fair featuring live shells each year, the City Council ultimately decided to continue the hearing. The Shell Club expects to complete the report at the next club meeting on Wednesday, Jan. 26.

Mysterious soot ushers in New Year at Paper Fig Court home

By Carol Kranichfeld

Paper Fig Court residents Betty and David Squires awoke New Year's Day hoping to start 1983 on the right foot. Instead they found their bed, clothes, floors and walls covered with black, grimy soot.

The baffled couple placed a flurry of phone calls to local fire officials in an attempt to determine the cause of the filmy substance, which had found its way into cupboards, closets and drawers as well.

A patio party had been held the previous evening, Betty Squires said. But the couple did not notice the soot until they awoke the following morning. The air conditioning unit had been used during the course of the evening and had apparently transported the stuff throughout the house.

To make matters worse, the residents had just finished hanging the last set of peaches and cream draperies the night before as part of a complete remodeling of the house by Robb and Stucky.

"I looked up and there were even black cobwebs," Betty Squires said. The Squires had lit half a dozen glass oil lamps for the party and placed them in the living room, she added.

Initially disclaiming the possibility of lighted oil lamps as the source of the soot, Assistant Fire Chief Charlie Frederick later reevaluated the situation.

"An unattended lamp with a wick that is not properly trimmed -- yes, it could produce that kind of soot and smoke particles," Frederick said.

A costly chemical analysis of the soot that incurred damage to the Squires' furniture and rugs is the only way of pinpointing the source of the Squires' New Year's Eve problem, according to Frederick.

The couple engaged the help of Fire Service, a Fort Myers firm specializing in fire, smoke and water damage restoration. Within a week found themselves living in a relatively clean house once again.

Ed Wittman, Fire Service vice president, concurred with Frederick. "As close as we can figure it was the oil lamps," Wittman said. But the oil lamps were not faulty, he added.

A word of caution from Frederick, who urges anyone using oil lamps to follow the instructions completely, make sure the wick is trimmed and observe the candle for several minutes after lighting to make sure it is not producing smoke.

No doubt the Squires will think twice before lighting oil lamps in their homes again. In the meantime they are having smoke detectors installed in their home. "The heck of it is we just gave all our kids smoke detectors for Christmas," they said.

CEPD reinstates committee to consider renourishment alternatives

By Carol Kranichfeld

Fearing the highly controversial MSTU package will not be approved by Captiva residents, Captiva Erosion Prevention District officials have reinstated the CEPD Alternate Methods Committee.

The tax packages must be approved by at least 65 percent of the Island's residents before CEPD can dredge a new beach for south Captiva.

By late last week only 90 MSTU packages of the 221 mailed had been returned. By state law, CEPD must consider packages not returned an unfavorable vote.

The Alternate Methods Committee, which is comprised of Captivans who voluntarily research alternate beach renourishment projects, is set to meet at 10 a.m. every Tuesday at the Captiva Community Center beginning on Jan. 11.

To date the committee has proposed four alternatives to the proposed dredging program. Groin extension at Blind Pass, sandbagging, sand bypass systems and the actual purchase of a small dredge have all been suggested.

A meeting to disclose the outcome of the MSTU package is slated for next Monday, Jan. 17, at the Captiva Community Center. Work will begin on an alternate program if the MSTU package is rejected.

In the pursuit of gratification Islander speculates on pleasure preferences

I am not exactly what you would call a faithful reader of the Fort Myers News-Press editorial page. But before the holidays one small item did manage to stimulate my interest.

I was astounded to read that, according to a recent survey, watching television was the most popular pastime while that hardy perennial, sex, was relegated to a lowly 14th place in the hierarchy of pleasures.

This surely is mind boggling. The world has certainly turned topsy-turvy. When I was an Army enlisted man in World War II, my esteemed colleagues one and all swore to me that next to eating, they like sex the best. They, of course, expressed their preference in somewhat more colorful language, but the nub of their message was: Food first and lovemaking second.

Their omission of television perhaps can be excused on the ground that none had yet been exposed to this great delight of the post-war era. No doubt if they had already had the opportunity to dally with the Circean ecstasies of the boob tube they, too, might have given it pride of place.

Why sex has fallen so out of favor as a consumer commodity is, I fear, far beyond my poor capacity as a social analyst. Furthermore, such delicate analysis, even were I capable of it, probably would not belong in pages like these.

But perhaps I may address myself to an even more mystifying implication of the study, albeit left unsaid in the News-Press editorial. That is that people must also prefer watching television to the pursuit of culinary pleasure as the centerpiece of latter-day lifestyles.

Initially I was tempted to inquire of the News-Press just exactly where eating stood on the list. But then I reminded myself that I would be violating a cardinal rule of mine -- never allow my analyses to be befogged with the results of the research.

Besides, the News-Press staff probably had little time for this poor scribe, busy as they were harrying certain denizens of the Lee County Courthouse who, if current allegations are borne out, tend to rank sex higher than number 14 on their lists.

Thus, as usual, I have condemned myself to rely on my own devices. This whole question of pleasure preferences certainly opens up a vast array of speculative possibilities. Within the brief compass of this little essay I can only touch lightly on one possible line of inquiry.

To begin with, let's take a look at the "state of the art" -- to borrow a phrase from another field -- in each of these areas of activity, or inactivity, as the case may be, in this era of rapid change.

Revolution is the order of the day, and despite the fact that both activities have been practiced for some time on this planet there certainly have been "revolutions" in the pursuit of both dietary and sexual gratification. Or at least the trend callers of our day have so proclaimed.

The tastemakers, in heralding the sexual and nutritional revolutions, have, moreover, swamped us with such a plethora of books and articles that it has been extremely hard slogging for super-annuating laggards like me, who have never taken a speed-reading course, to keep up.

True, the messages differ.

With sex, it's anything goes. It's all yes-yes, while it's just the opposite with the food books, which are replete with no-no's.

But whether cast in the negative or the affirmative, the message is the same in both cases: the freedom to choose from among a multiplicity of paths to take.

Now freedom in the abstract is a very desirable thing. But when it comes down to it, making all of those tough decisions about how best to achieve "fulfillment" or health is no great thing.

Should one really, for example, try all of the methods prescribed in the Kamasutra, or if just some, which ones?

Should one eat polyunsaturated margarine, which though good for cholesterol levels contains salt and is "unnatural" to boot? Or should one risk higher cholesterol levels but be safer on the salt side by eating sweet butter?

Perhaps we have here at least a partial answer to our puzzle. It may be small wonder that the harrassed searcher for the "good life," overwhelmed with the burden of keeping pace with the sexual and nutritional revolutions, retreats happily to the security and numbing ennui offered by the tube.

No revolution there! It's the same comforting, if a bit sour or insipid, old wine in new bottles as sitcoms and police dramas succeed one another in dreary procession.

The seemingly eternal Bob Hope cracks familiar jokes or leers at the latest sex pot he has managed to snag for his show. (In the latter department he is beginning to be rivaled by another timeless leerer, George Burns.)

Other aging stars are from time to time taken out of moth balls for the same threadbare specials. And the soaps, whether nighttime or daytime, keep viewers on familiar, if slightly titillating, terrain as they watch the plots inch along at a snail's pace.

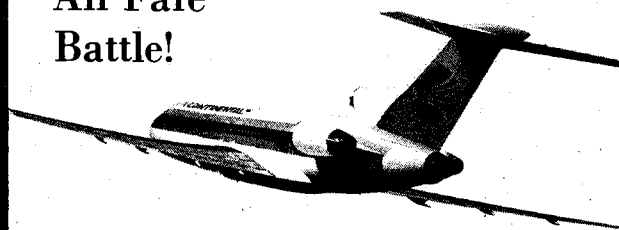

None of this is exactly heady stuff. It certainly lacks the wallop of a mushroom quiche or a sprout sandwich, not to mention sparkling bottles of Perrier. But that could be why television is way up there and those other two activities I mentioned are way down.

Come to think of it, maybe that now famous boat trip of the Lee County Commissioners was merely an innocent little television cruise. It is just possible that the commissioners were on board to watch Love Boat.

Captiva property owner proposes Island-wide assessment

A copy of the following letter to the Captiva Erosion Prevention District commissioners was given to The Islander for publication. The letter responds to the petition the CEPD initiated in January to establish an MSTU assessment on Captiva's gulf front property owners.

Commissioners
Captiva Erosion Prevention District

I feel that beach renourishment is necessary for Captiva. However, I am unwilling to support the assessment program as presented.

The beach is an amenity that has a direct relationship to the value of all property on the Island and, therefore, all property owners should participate in the funding program.

I would support an assessment formula that imposed responsibility on all properties, with the heavier burden assumed by public facilities and beach front owners. It should also be related somehow to property value.

It would seem that if $3.5 million could be raised from only beach front property owners under the original schedule, an additional $1.5 to $2 million could be achieved by this broader based assessment program, thereby eliminating the need for state and federal funds.

Such a program would enable Captiva to retain its special privacy and charm that has attracted us all to the Island in the first place.

Sincerely yours,
Elizabeth Day

CASI requests representation on IWA board of directors

A copy of the following letter to Island Water Association President Carol Davenport from Condominium Associations of Sanibel, Inc. was given to The Islander for publication.

Dear Mrs. Davenport,

Thank you for allowing me to visit with you on Dec. 28, 1982.

This letter is written in an effort to restate our objective in contacting you. Also, if I was misunderstood, this may help clarify.

The Board of Directors of Condominium Associations of Sanibel, Inc., believes condominium owners should be represented on the Island Water Association board. Why? Because a large percentage of Sanibel water users are condominium owners. Most condominiums have only one water meter and, in turn, only one vote for each condominium association at your annual meetings, although they have 10 to hundreds of units represented by each vote.

I assume that we might obtain representation on the Island Water Association board by one of the following methods:

1. By regular election after a change in your by-laws to provide that each condominium association designate an owner as its delegate to the IWA and that such delegates would be eligible for election to your board.

2. Appointment of a condominium representative to fill any vacancy that might occur.

3. Special appointment, if legal.

Your help with this request, now or in the future, will be appreciated.

Sincerely yours,
Robert Marye, President
CASI

Like other Island businesses, Eckerd's gets one sign

One sign is sufficient for other businesses on Sanibel, and the same will have to hold true for the new Eckerd's drug store on Palm Ridge Road, the City Council decided last week.

The decision was made in response to an appeal from Eckerd's representative Pat Chandler, who requested a variance to allow the drugstore chain to erect two exterior signs instead of the designated one.

Chandler appealed to the council for the two signs, saying business had fallen off at other Eckerd's locations where only one sign was permitted. He said he believed much of Periwinkle traffic will bypass the drugstore altogether because of the store's location.

But Chandler's arguments left Councilman Fred Valtin unmoved. "We are not in business to ensure the profitability of any business on the Island," he said. "I presume Eckerd's researched our ordinances before they made a move here and decided to make a stand."

Councilman Francis Bailey was equally uneasy about allowing a precedent-setting variance on sign permits.

"If we make a variance on this sign this week, next week we'll have to allow someone else two signs, and the week after someone else," Bailey said.

The council unanimously voted to deny Eckerd's request for two signs, with Valtin voicing the council's obviously shared opinion. "The other Island businesses have all learned to live by it and I'm sure Eckerd's will, too," he said.

Council approves Bach on the beach

Despite at least one objection from the audience, the City Council last week voted unanimously to permit this Saturday's BIG Arts Bach on the Beach concert at the Lighthouse.

"You're going to have an awful time screening out people after this," council watcher Paul Howe warned the city officials. "What are you going to do when they come over from Fort Lauderdale and want to put on a Woodstock binge?"

The council, however, agreed that because Bach on the Beach is sponsored by a bona fide, non-profit Sanibel organization it should be allowed.

"The event itself will be a very good experience for the people of Sanibel," Councilman Louise Johnson said. "I think it is a very fine offering."

Like her fellow council members, however, Johnson expressed concern that BIG Arts request to sell refreshments on the beach during the 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. free concert would set a precedent. "I'd like to keep it simple," she said. "Perhaps BIG Arts could subsidize some light refreshment."

BIG Arts board member Pete Smith had asked the council's permission to sell soft drinks and hot dogs, but he agreed instead to offer complimentary drinks and snacks and keep a donation jar in clear view.

"Our main purpose is to get the music on the beach," Smith said. "We aren't in this to sell food and drink. I don't really think we're going to have a bunch of people out on the beach in their bathing suits with a lot of money to spend on hot dogs anyway."

In its unanimous endorsement of the concert the council established a policy that future requests for activities on the beach would be granted only if the sponsoring agencies are bona fide, Sanibel, not-for-profit organizations.

Gym fees set

The new gymnasium at the city's recreation complex can be rented for as little as $15 an hour, the City Council decided last week.

Instructors using the gym will be obliged to pay the city $15 or 30 percent of their profit each hour, whichever is greater, to cover energy and maintenance costs. The instructor will retain the remaining 70 percent.

The fee was set to encourage Island residents to use the new complex rather than drive off-Island.

Public benefits to be accrued here, too," City Manager Bernie Murphy said.

Several stipulations go along with renting the building, including proper personal liability insurance for instructors and signed releases from their students. Instructors must also provide all necessary teaching aids.

Survey shows trolley takes 20 cars from Island streets each day

A trolley survey presented by John Shepherd to the City Council last week left little doubt in anyone's mind as to the value, or lack thereof, of running the trolley on Sanibel.

Upon learning the controversial trolley system takes only 20 cars off the road each day, Councilman Louise Johnson remarked, "I wish we had had this complete a report before refranchising the trolley this year. This report bears out my thoughts on it."

Calling Shepherd's survey "an enlightening report," Councilman Fred Valtin suggested enlarging the survey to include trolley passengers at other times of the year, such as January and February. Shepherd's survey was taken last March.

Mayor Mike Klein applauded Shepherd's efforts, saying that council had "gained a lot from the study," including information that could be used to convert the trolley to a mass transit system.

Shepherd's survey proved the trolley is utilized mainly by daytrippers who park their cars at the Chamber of Commerce and ride the trolley for sightseeing, shopping and beach trips. Island workers constituted only 5 percent of the riders sampled, the survey showed.

Johnson suggested looking into what would have to be done to convert the trolley into a mass transit system that could carry Island residents to and from work.

Electric co-op request for duplex viewed dimly

The Lee County Electric Cooperative's request for a zoning increase to accommodate a duplex in a single-family neighborhood was reviewed last week by the City Council. The Planning Commission recommended approval of the request when it was heard last month.

Electric co-op spokesman David Stubbs appealed to the council to allow his company to construct a three-bedroom, two-bath duplex in Sanibel's Leisure Acres subdivision. The duplex would house electric cooperative employees and their families who need affordable Island housing.

The Leisure Acres property was chosen because it is close to the co-op's station where equipment and supplies are kept, Stubbs told the council. The employees who would benefit from the duplex are those linemen who would need quick access to their equipment in emergencies.

The co-op could currently place two employees in the duplex and has no need to open one side to the Sanibel housing market, Stubbs said.

Federal hiring practices prevent the co-op from entering the duplex in Sanibel's Below Market Rate Housing program, a condition the council would like to make before granting the density increase.

"Our duplex could not be under the control of your program," he explained. "We have to offer it to our employees without regard to race, color or payroll."

Several property owners from Leisure Acres attended last week's council session to express their objections to the duplex in their neighborhood.

"All of us who live there believe this duplex will instantly devalue our property," Russell Amadio told the council. "We want to know who is going to compensate us for the loss."

"Why can't the co-op buy a piece of property that is already zoned for a duplex?" he added.

Although they took no vote on the request last week, the councilmen did discuss the issue. Councilman Fred Valtin said he was not against the idea altogether but did not think a 3,000-square-foot duplex belonged in that particular neighborhood.

Mayor Mike Klein agreed and said it would only "add insult to injury" to first permit the duplex and then to permit one that large.

Councilman Francis Bailey, however, thought his colleagues were missing the point. "Here is an employer who is willing to provide housing for two employees who are necessary to the Island," he said. "This is the kind of people we need out here."

The council will hear the co-op's request for the second reading and vote on the measure at 1:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 15.

Overweight fee monies designated for road repairs

The sum of $34,580 will be used to repair a series of Sanibel roads that have been damaged by overweight vehicles, the City Council decided last week.

Portions of East Gulf Drive, Shell Harbor, Casa Ybel and Dixie Beach roads are slated for improvements that will be funded by overweight fees collected by the city this year.

The improvements will not begin until after winter traffic dies down, Public Works Director Gary Price assured the council. In all likelihood the date will be set for sometime after Easter, he said, and will be coordinated with road repairs scheduled near 7-11 store on Periwinkle Way.

The approved project is in fact the second choice of the Public Works director, who had earlier hoped to reconstruct Tarpon Bay Road from Island Inn Road to West Gulf Drive to the tune of $463,300. Funds were insufficient to that end, explained City Manager Bernie Murphy, who recommended "spot" road improvements instead.

One more time Council decides to try night meeting

Her fellow councilmen were pessimistic, but Councilman Louise Johnson last week convinced them to try meeting at night -- one more time.

"There is a different make-up on the Island now," Johnson said when she suggested the council schedule an evening meeting with hopes of drawing more residents.

The trial meeting was set for 6:30 p.m. on Monday, March 14. Any business not completed that night will be taken up the following morning.

"We did have night meetings for the Charter Revision Committee," Councilman Francis Bailey reminded the council. At best we had five people show up," he added. "And they were the same five who would have come during the day anyway."

Mayor Mike Klein was less than enthusiastic about the night meeting, too. "I think I owe it to the public to do my job as councilman when I am most effective." That, Klein added, is during the day, not in the evening and into the night.

"I think it should be tried," Councilman Fred Valtin said. "But I don't think it will work on the basis of the other times we've tried it."

Council okays $5,000 for computer study

If foresight is the key to the future, Sanibel is well on its way to a happy middle age.

City Manager Bernie Murphy gained council approval last week to spend up to $5,000 for a computer needs assessment study. "We're a young city and we have an opportunity to do now what will cost much more in four or five years. I think we ought to move while we're still young," Murphy suggested.

Computer study okayed from page 7A

The study will look into the possibility of computerizing land development permits, job costs, inventory, payroll and budget and capital improvements.

Police records storage might also be available with a direct hookup to the Lee County computer system. And word processing will be considered to reduce the city's ever-growing mountain of typing and copying.

"There is a whole plethora of opportunities and alternates in the field," Murphy said. However, he also indicated the needs assessment could indicate Sanibel is not big enough to warrant such a system.

"Another option would be no equipment," he said. "The study would then tell us how far down the line we might need it in the future."

A consultant will be hired rather than a computer salesman to complete the study, he added. The funds will be budgeted in the next fiscal year.

Picnic table must go continued

continue the issue until its next meeting. But the councilmen agreed unanimously to order removal of the picnic bench in the meantime.

The hearing for an appeal was requested by the Ziegler and Craig, who charge that the bench was installed by them on property not rented by Dr. Munchies "for the convenience of all patrons of the Punta Ybel Plaza."

In a letter to the council the pair cited similar situations on Sanibel where picnic benches were allowed.

But according to Code Enforcement Officer Dick Baker, the existence of the picnic bench changes of the carry-out deli's classification to a restaurant. Because Dr. Munchies is presently operating under a retail sales-deli license, the six-seat table constitutes a violation of the city's codes, Baker said.

The issue will be presented again at the City Council meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 18.

Artist must pay for license

Island artist Bob York lost his appeal to retain his business' non-commercial classification before the City Council last week.

York, whose works are displayed in a variety of Island galleries, was taken to task by Code Enforcement Officer Dick Baker after advertising in both Island newspapers. The placement of an ad gave York's artistic endeavors new dimensions, maintained Baker, and automatically reclassified York as a commercial artist.

Mulling over the $70 fee he would be obliged to pay as a commercial artist, York insisted his commercial work was "very sporadic" and said he was "kicking about the $70 in relation to what other storefront businesses pay."

But the council held its position and found York in violation of the city code. "Yours is more of a commercial venture than an artistic one," Councilman Bill Hagerup maintained.

Admitting that Sanibel's license fees are "exceedingly" high, Councilman Francis Bailey concluded, "It is a privilege to live on Sanibel and you have to pay for it."

ON THE WATER

By Captain Mike Fuery

Many of us who fish the waters around Sanibel and Captiva use spinning rods and reels exclusively and for several good reasons. But there are alternatives that many anglers from northern fishing areas can use and get just as good results from the fish.

Bait casting reels are probably more popular in the northern states than they are here. I've noticed older anglers seem to like these reels better, maybe because they learned to fish with them.

There's nothing wrong with using the same outfits in saltwater when it seems the spinning outfits outnumber you 100 to one.

I like bait casting reels for a couple of reasons. One is that a little thumb pressure will settle down the cast to a right spot where the fish are feeding. It's hard to stop a spinning reel that easily, although the spinner often can be cast farther.

Professional bass fishermen hardly ever use anything other than a revolving reel, or bait casting reel, for than element of accuracy. There are faults, and the most obvious is that you are going to get some backlashes no matter how much the reel maker assures you the contrary.

The point is if you have fished for years with a bait caster and can handle the outfit, get it to one of our local fishing tackle spots and have it set up for saltwater fishing. Then get out there and enjoy your equipment.

If you are still using the linen line, as someone was on a recent trip with me, switch to the more efficient, stronger mono lines.

Many of the old freshwater outfits you might have stored away in the hall closet can be useful if you upgrade them to withstand the abuse that sand, salt and saltwater give equipment down here.

I usually discourage my customers from bringing on a spin cast outfit. These are the push button reels that are half spinning, half casting reels. Several makers produce the reels, but Zebco is the best known.

These reels are fine for freshwater, but they aren't so good in saltwater. One reason for that is that they are so hard to rinse clean. Another reason is that they have a low line capacity. Not every day are you going to hook into a redfish or snook that can peel off 100 yards of line, but if you do with one of these closed face spin casting outfits you are in big trouble.

These outfits are made for lake and stream fishing and are superior for that. But they are not always the best choice for the variety of saltwater fish we have.

My father has used a Zebco Model 33 for years on many a sea trout and other fish and has had great service, however. Given the choice, take a regular, quality spinning rod and reel for a balanced outfit ready for anything.

There are many former fly fishermen around the Islands, but few every try their skills on saltwater fish. What a shame. Fly fishing for brine fish is just getting started, and with modern graphite rods it's a thrill to land even the smallest fish.

Capt. Randy White from Tarpon Bay Marina has been perfecting his fly fishing skills and is quite good at it. He tackled and landed big redfish and even tarpon last summer.

White offers a short course in the basics for $5 per hour at Tarpon Bay Marina. At that reasonable rate, new casters can learn the skill of casting a fly to sea trout, reds and other fish in short order.

Experienced fly casters who have not handled a rod in some years can get a quick refresher course from Randy, too. It's a challenging way to fish, and well worth the learning effort.

Good angling this week, and remember to get out on the water and try your luck at whatever is biting.

SHELLING TIPS

By Captain Mike Fuery

Anyone ever told you he just found some of the most beautiful "butterfly" shells while walking the beaches? New shellers and collectors sometimes call them "wings" or "butterfly wings."

They are usually referring to one of the most prolific of our local shells. You might know them as donax clams or, as they are best known, coquinas.

We know that somewhere around 50 types of coquinas are found around the world, but I believe we only have two types on our Southwest Florida barrier islands.

The shells we are talking about are clams with two sides to their hard shell bodies. They average only a half an inch tall, and you might wonder why such a tiny shell can be so popular with collectors. But despite its size the coquina has one very valuable asset that few if any other shell in the world might have.

Living shells can produce a fantastic color display on the outer and inner sides of the shell. But although literally millions of these shells live in the surf lines of our beaches, you will almost never find two with the same color and pattern.

It's no over-estimation when I say there are probably millions of coquinas. Once you know how to look for the feeding shells you will start to see first a dozen and then 10 times that and so on.

The tiny donax thrives in the rough surf line where the waves pound the beach. Their peculiar way of gathering nourishment is to dredge into the moving, wet sand and with their muscular foot as a stabilizer take tiny food particles out of the sand.

There are many dead coquinas on the beach for you to collect these days. Some people look for the same general shades of color and make displays with their shells. Once, in the lobby of Captiva's Tween Waters Inn, a man had on display a statue of a Spanish soldier dressed in matching coquina shells!

I recently read fellow Islander columnist Maggie Greenberg's book Simple Sanibel Seafood, which she wrote with Nancy Olds. Inside is a recipe for Sanibel Coquina Soup. It's a fine recipe for preparing these collectable shells that do make delicious soup. But it brought back a distant memory of my first ever taste of coquina soup.

Seven or eight years ago, when my wife Carol and I kept our sailboat at Sanibel Marina, we joined a sailing cruise club from Fort Myers Beach. One weekend a dozen or so boats sailed to Johnson Shoals for a big weekend.

As I recall, most of the boat crews did mortal damage to the cold beer supply by the middle of the afternoon, and after some thoughts about a community supper a Cuban-born fellow on one of the boats decided to collect tiny, delectable coquinas for his internationally famous soup of said mollusks.

I can't quite remember why this sounded like such a good idea at the time, but in short order we all swam to shore and were busy scooping up handfuls of coquinas. Our chef decided that no one could make such soup without the delicate flavor of rum. Not in the rum, of course!

We built a fire and strung a large kettle over it and sat back to await our first taste of coquina soup.

As the fire grew, the tiny shells opened up, releasing their flavor into the broth. But they released something else, too - sand. This first anticipated spoonful was flavorful, but gritty. The second was worse, and toward the bottom of the cup was enough sand to renourish Captiva.

So if you decide to do your own coquina soup, wash the live ones first. Some people let them sit in freshwater for a time.

Good shelling this week, and watch for those coquinas!

A group of people burning a Christmas tree on the beach near Gulf Beach condominiums extinguished the fire upon police request on Saturday night, Jan. 1. The fire was contained but was not screened on top and had to be extinguished.

A 20-year-old Port Huron, Mich., man was charged with loitering, prowling and burglary of a conveyance after an incident at the Tortuga Beach Club parking lot on Saturday night, Jan. 1.

Thomas Gallagher was arrested after a Tortuga Beach Club resident and security guard detained him after they observed him breaking into a van in the condominium parking lot.

Gallagher was described by police as severely intoxicated and completely disheveled, loud and verbally abusive. He

From Len Kessler

WHAT TYPE COUGH?

When you have a 'dry' cough, with no mucus to expel, a cough suppressant medicine is appropriate. However, if mucus is present, and it is thick and difficult to expel, then an expectorant medicine is advised to liquify and thin the mucus and to stimulate coughing. When buying a cough remedy, ask your pharmacist's advice about the best type (suppressant or expectorant) for the sort of cough you are treating.

Pleasures: "Tennis, swimming, beach walking, bird watching, volunteering at the SCCF. I do not shell."

Last Book Read: Healing by Francis MacNutt and Josh by Josh Logan

Mentor: "Of course it's my husband, Trump."

Wish: "What could I wish for? My life is wonderful."

By Cindy Chalmers

Marilyn Bradley's clear blue eyes sparkle as she talks about her life on Sanibel during the past four years.

"We teased ourselves that the house we built in 1973 was an investment," she says with a but-we-knew-better smile. "Actually it was only a matter of when, not if, we could live here permanently ourselves."

Marilyn and her general surgeon husband, Trump, discovered Sanibel after a tip from Trump's nurse and secretary of 28 years in New Canaan, Conn.

The Island, Marilyn says, "Is a wonderful place that attracts wonderfully natural people. It's not that there aren't nice people in Fort Lauderdale and Miami, she adds hastily, "But there's just something different on Sanibel."

That "something different" has earned Sanibel a place in Marilyn's heart right next to the Connecticut she left behind. "I don't think I'll ever get over that tug from Connecticut," she admits."

Sanibel wasn't always retirement paradise for Marilyn, however. She says she spent much of her first year here thinking, "Now that I'm here, I ought to be doing something," and wondering just what need on the Island she could help meet.

It seems several other people had the same thought, though, and that group became the core of what is now a thriving Friends in Service Here organization. FISH offers friendly services to Islanders and visitors in non-emergency situations.

The volunteer organization now keeps Marilyn and the other FISH workers busier than they ever dreamed possible. "We had a hunch when we started that there were a lot of people out here who would benefit from FISH," she says, adding the hunch has borne out much to everyone's delight.

Marilyn's desire to "do something" started long before she settled on Sanibel.

"I've always believed there should be more to a woman's life than being stuck in the house," she maintains. "That's not to downgrade raising children," she adds carefully. "Raising my four children means the most to me of all the things I've done in my life."

But after she raised her four children, Marilyn returned to Vassar to complete the education she started before she was married. She earned her bachelor's degree in psychology when her original classmates were celebrating their 25th reunion.

Going back to school was tough, Marilyn says, but she appreciated it more the second time around. "I knew what I was going to do with my degree," she explains. "The first time around I think most college girls are hooked on boys and dates."

After Vassar she earned a master's degree in psychology from Fairfield University in Fairfield, Conn. For the next six years Marilyn did psychological counseling and testing for kindergarten through ninth graders.

When Trump retired and the Bradleys moved to Sanibel, however, Marilyn decided there were other things she wanted to do rather than continue counseling children.

Thus the seeds for FISH were sown and have since grown into a team of more than 60 volunteers who offer transportation, household help and general companionship to anyone who wants and needs the services. Most FISH clients are older residents and visitors, but the organization welcomes requests from all ages.

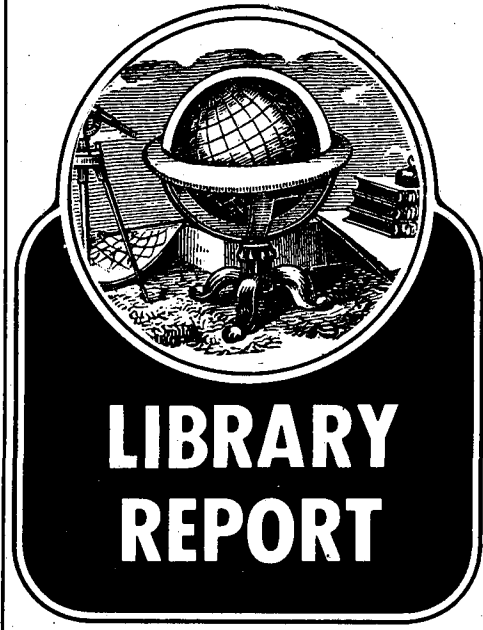

"It's been more satisfying than anything I've ever done," Marilyn says about her part in bringing FISH to life on the Island. "The people who have come forward as volunteers are fantastic," she adds. "I am amazed at the people who say, 'Why of course I would love to do that,' and who really mean it."

Aside from the obvious satisfaction gleaned from helping someone in need, Marilyn says FISH rewards her and all the volunteers with new friends.

"The volunteers make friends among themselves and develop new friendships with their clients," she says. "Everybody gains."

Resort living, Marilyn found, can be "pretty empty" after a while, and golf courses and beaches "just don't do it." But FISH has remedied that feeling for many people who are involved in the organization.

"It fills a need for a lot of people who come down here and find themselves missing the network of friends they enjoyed up north," she says. "But no man is an Island, even on Sanibel. FISH knows that."

THE WAY WE WERE

20 Years Ago This Week 1963

The four refugees who landed on Captiva a few weeks ago after escaping Castro's Cuba returned to the Island last week to reclaim the small boat in which they sailed from Cuba.

U.S. Immigration authorities were in touch with South Seas Plantation Association Chairman Paul Stahlin regarding charges for South Seas storing the boat after the refugees were taken to Miami.

When he learned that any charge would have to be paid by the Cubans, Stahlin said, "No charge. It's the plantation's contribution to Cuban-American friendship."

Andrew Melody has been selected to replace Frank Hitner as administrator of the Sanibel Planning and Zoning Authority.

15 Years Ago This Week 1968

Talent Night for Tourists will be held at the Pirate Playhouse on Jan. 20 for the benefit of the Meals for Millions Foundation, which provides multiple purpose food to feed the hungry throughout the world.

A series of lectures and discussions on current events will be conducted by Captivan Griffing Bancroft, former CBS analyst, at the Captiva Community Center beginning this week.

A team from the National Audubon Society will be on the Island for three days next week to conduct a feasibility study for the possibility of a nature center on Sanibel. The study is being financed by the Alice M. O'Brien Foundation of Saint Paul, Minn.

10 Years Ago This Week 1973

Hazel Roberts and Pintard Mills of Captiva will exhibit and sell their weaving and driftwood crafts at the Captiva Community Center later this month. Half of the proceeds from the sales will be donated to the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation.

Sanibel's own Bill Bunting of Gumbo Limbo Estates has been invited to play in the Bing Crosby Golf Tournament later this month at Pebble Beach, Calif. From there he will travel to Palm Springs, Calif., to play in the Bob Hope Classic and then will return to Florida to play for the second year in the Jackie Gleason Invitational in Fort Lauderdale.

5 Years Ago This Week 1978

On the evening of Jan. 8 a breaking wave driven by heavy squalls and westerly winds of 50-60 knots caused injuries and property damage at South Seas Plantation and dramatically changed the beach profile at a number of points along Captiva's gulf shore.

According to Lee County Sheriff Department reports, the lone wave swept a young couple under a piling home at South Seas. Sand damage to cars and homes was evident all along Captiva.

Islanders Al Bank and Charlie Miller soon cleared Captiva Road of rocks, sand and trees, and the customary peace of the Island was restored.

The Island's United Way campaign got underway this week under the chairmanship of Keith Trowbridge, who hopes to raise $14,000 from Sanibel residents and businesses this year.

The Sanibel Planning Commission last week voted unanimously to recommend denial of George Kohnbrenner's request to place a replica of an antique popcorn wagon at the B-Hive on Periwinkle Way. The wagon is similar to one on Fort Myers Beach, and the commission Shellfishing in Lee, Collier and Charlotte counties was banned over the weekend because of reports of fish kills from red tide.

Fire struck Huxter's Market and Deli early Saturday morning and caused a loss of up to $100,000 in inventory.

Damage to the actual building was minimal.

Fire officials are still investigating the cause of the blaze, but they believe an electrical short in an ice cream freezer touched off the fire.

Sanibel resident and Marquis Resorts and Hotels President Mike Perceri has been named to the Florida Tourism Advisory Council. The 37-member council makes recommendations to the Department of Commerce Division of Tourism about the state's tourism programs. Perceri was appointed for a four-year term.

Federal agency publishes gulf coast inventory

The nation's gulf coast is a cornucopia of riches for many segments of American society -- sportsman's paradise and vacationer's winter haven, fertile fishing grounds for commercial shrimpers and backyard of the country's oil and natural gas industries.

How well these competing and sometimes conflicting uses co-exist in harmony with the diverse fish and wildlife resources of this treasure trove depends upon the skill with which coastal development is planned and managed.

As the third in its series of natural resource inventory maps, the U.S. Department of the Interior's Fish and Wildlife Service has recently published the Gulf Coast Ecological Inventory as a major new planning tool for government and industry.

Now, before coastal development decisions are made, an accurate and highly detailed profile of sensitive animal and plant species and the places where they live can be studied with an eye toward avoiding future conflicts over their protection and use.

The reception the interior's Atlantic and Pacific coastal inventories received from developers, planners and conservationists convinced the agency of the need for the same inventory of the nation's gulf coast,

Fish and Wildlife Service Director Robert Jantzen said.

The Gulf Coast Ecological Inventory is the first comprehensive series of natural resource maps that depict 538 important fish and wildlife species and their habitats along the coastal fringes of the six gulf coast states. Major land use designations such as national wildlife refuges and national and state parks in the 183,400-square-mile region are also plotted.

In addition to the maps, a 191-page user's guide and information base accompanies the inventory and includes detailed explanations of the ecological data displayed on each map.

Gulf Coast Ecological Inventory maps are available in 22-map series or individually for $3.25 per map. They can be ordered from the Western Distribution Branch, U.S. Geological Survey, Box 25286, Federal Center, Denver, CO 80225.

Orders must include a check or money order payable to the U.S. Geological Survey and should specify the National Ecological Map Series -- Gulf Coast Ecological Inventory and the particular map sections desired.

The companion narrative report can be ordered for $7 from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402.

Fascinating and beautiful

Thorn Bugs are a natural treasure to some, pests to others

By George Campbell

Illustrated by Ann Winterbotham

There is a fascinating and beautiful little insect found on Sanibel. It exists in large colonies - sometimes many hundreds crowd together on twigs and small tree branches.

These charming little creatures can be easily overlooked, for they effectively mimic thorns and make smooth branches look for all the world like thorny branches.

Appropriately enough, their common name is Thorn Bug. They are members of the large group of true sucking bugs, the Homoptera, and the family Membracidae, which contains 2,400 kinds of Thorn Bugs worldwide.

We tend to use the word "bug" incorrectly for all manner of insects - bees, flies and beetles, for example - but the word is correctly used for our subject insect for it, being of the Homoptera, is a true bug.

Of the many thorn mimic tree hoppers about the world, none is more interesting or beautiful than our own Umbonia crassicornis here pictured.

The bizarre shapes of the thorn or pronatal structures (the dorsal parts of the first thoracic segment) vary with the sex of the animals.

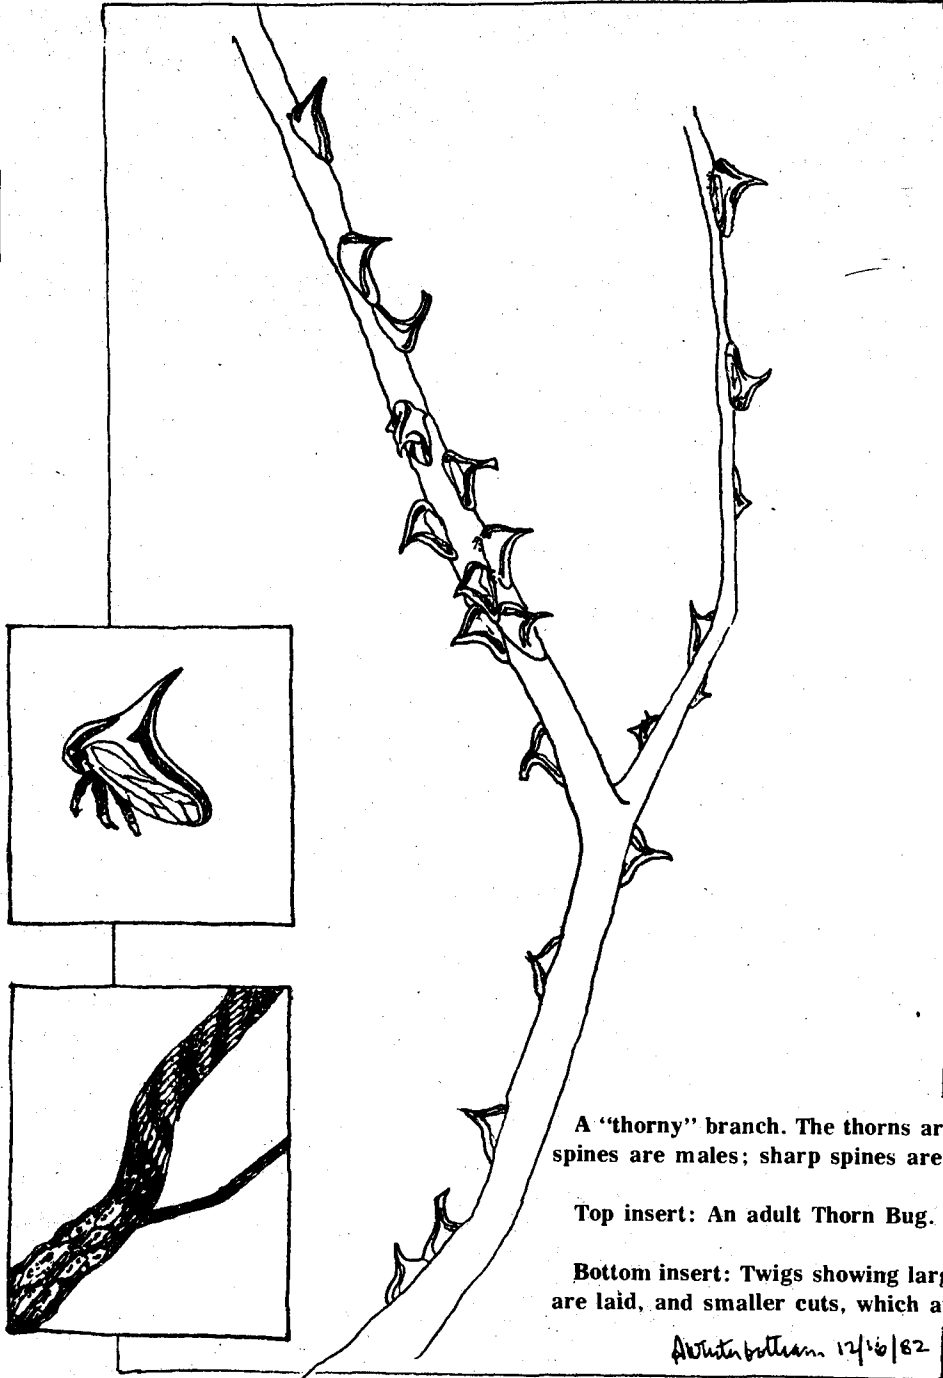

Females have the sharp dorsal spine that can be seen here; the male's spines are broader, flattened, curved posteriorly and more or less blunt-ended.

Adults are not of uniform size but generally are more or less a half-inch in length. They are light yellow-green with dark green striping. There is a red "thorn" tip and the compound eyes are also red. The wings, of which there are two pairs, are folded at the sides. They are tannish or grey-brown in appearance. Under the microscope they appear transparent and gossamer.

Adults can fly, but they typically rest on twigs, often with mouth parts penetrating into plant tissue where plant juices can be harvested.

The babies, called nymphs, hatch from whitish eggs that are laid in cuts in the bark of green twigs with the help of the strong and saw-like ovipositor.

In general, Thorn Bugs overwinter in the egg stage, but our Florida climate allows almost year-round activity,

A "thorny" branch. The thorns are really bugs. Broad spines are males; sharp spines are female.

Top insert: An adult Thorn Bug.

Bottom insert: Twigs showing larger cuts, where eggs are laid, and smaller cuts, which are feeding cuts.

Ann Winterbotham 12/16/82 there being nymphs and adults present now in the dead of winter. Thus there may be several generations annually.

Nymphs pass through five stages or instars. The fifth instar casts or molts into the adult form when the wings first appear.

Third, fourth and fifth instar nymphs are quite as colorful as the adults but lack the long pronatal spines. But they, too, look for all the world like clustered, but not so sharp, thorns on the twigs for they have dorsal, but less-developed, spinose projections.

First and second instars are tiny and colorless, but they do have fine spines.

The insects secrete honeydew, a sweet nutritious material attractive to ants. Thus one can often see ants in attendance much as is seen among the aphids. Also a black mold grows on twigs and is nurtured by this material.

Sometimes black, sticky branches are unsightly and sometimes large populations (I don't think of them as "infestations") of Thorn Bugs will make enough feeding punctures and egg cuts to kill a branch or even a small tree.

For this reason Thorn Bugs are considered by many to be pests. But by me they will always be encouraged. I can easily spare a few branches in my jungle for these charming and beautiful creatures.

If you are interested in seeing some, search for them among the branches of Cat's Claw, Bull Thorn, Mimosa, some palms and also the Tamarind.

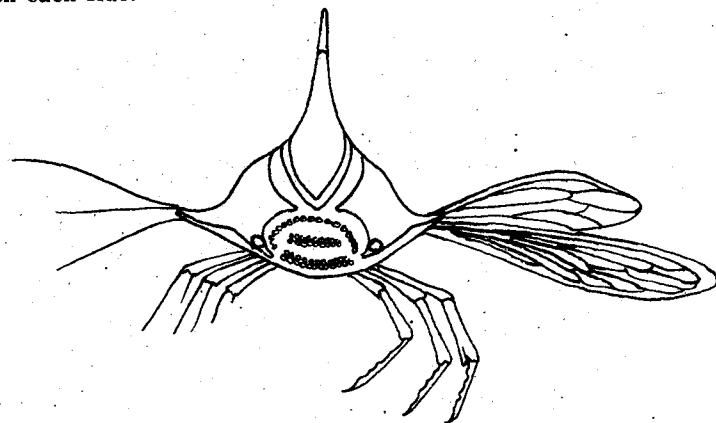

I am indebted to Dr. K. C. Emerson, Sanibel entomologist, for help in accurately sorting out some of the above details concerning this attractive species.

REFUGE REPORT

Outgoing manager considers perspectives of life on Sanibel

By Del Pierce, manager

J.N. "Ding" Darling Wildlife Refuge

My last Refuge Report will consist of some of my perspectives of life on Sanibel. These observations, opinions and advice are directed toward my successor so that he might be better prepared for living here.

Contrary to what you might hear or what you might infer from previous year's news clippings, George Campbell's and my philosophies and opinions regarding ecological matters are probably parallel 83 percent of the time. Publicly we have concentrated on the other 17 percent. I am sure the old fellow has enjoyed our exchanges of insults as much as I have.

Watch out for cars with New York or New Jersey license plates. They will drive too fast and too aggressively and rudely. Cars with Indiana or Iowa plates will tend to drive 15 mph on Periwinkle Way and 50 mph on the Wildlife Drive.

Senior citizens with Lee County plates tend to be in a hurry to pull out in front of you so they can proceed 20 mph under the speed limit. Cars with Ohio plates can be expected to do all of the above plus many other odd things.

There are two saltwater catfish and six pinfish per cubic foot of water around Sanibel. However, there are only seven snook within 20 miles of Sanibel, and they don't bite. People who tell you they know how to catch snook legally tend to lie about all manner of things.

Don't be awed by people who have written a book, have doctor's degrees or are millionaires -- almost everyone in the Sanibel-Captiva area fits in one or more of these categories.

Everytime you go on the Wildlife Drive by yourself you will see numerous alligators and roseate spoonbills. When you take relatives or friends from the north out on the Wildlife Drive, you won't see a single one of either species.

There is a group of ecological saboteurs on the Island whose main goal is the perpetuation of Brazilian pepper. They sometimes sneak in at night and plant them. How else could you explain the fact that you can drive by an area one day and not see a single pepper but the next day see 14 pepper trees, some of them 20 feet tall?

Every May several people will say this will be the year a hurricane will hit Sanibel. The same people say this every year. It is ridiculous for people to try to predict hurricanes months in advance. Actually, there is no cause for concern for awhile because the next hurricane to hit Sanibel won't be until Sept. 23, 1986.

Someone will tell you they were at Bowman's Beach and observed seven attractive ladies with no clothes on. When you go to Bowman's Beach, you will see several other guys in swimming suits checking out reports of naked women; three naked guys, one of whom will suggest something strange; one fully clothed middle-aged lady with a set of powerful binoculars and one stern looking Lee County Sheriff's Deputy on a three-wheeled motorcycle.

Nature is very unkind here. A 10-minute walk in the woods will get you bites from 147 no-see-ums, 23 mosquitoes, 11 chiggers and nine fire ants; seven scratches from cats claw bushes; five punctures from yuccas, prickly pear or century plants; and one large sore from an unidentified plant or creature. This is on a good day.

On a bad day you can expect double the above plus a scorpion bite, a bad case of poison ivy and a chewing out from a gentleman with a big beard for stepping on a gumbo limbo seed.

Beware of the people of Sanibel and Captiva. It is not normal for there to be so many friendly, helpful people in one area. They must be up to something.

I hope you enjoy your job as Refuge Manager of the J.N. "Ding" Darling National Wildlife Refuge as much as I have. When it comes time for you to leave, I hope you can say with as much sincerity as I can, "Goodbye Sanibel. Thanks for a lovely time."

Audubon Society winter series continues with nesting program

The Sanibel-Captiva Audubon Society's winter entertainment program this week will be presented by Holger Stockholm on nesting birds.

Stockholm and his wife, Anne, are winter residents of Sanibel who have specialized for many years in nest watching and photography in the area west of Saginaw, Mich., where they spend their summers.

All of the photographs in this week's program will be from Michigan.

More than 300 people watched last week's Audubon Society program on barn owls, which kicked off the winter series.

The season's lecture and slide show programs are held at 8 p.m. each Thursday evening through March 31 at the Sanibel Community Association. The final presentation will be a "slide surprise" show combining carefully selected nature photographs taken on Sanibel and Captiva by members and friends of the society.

The schedule of programs follows:

Jan. 13 -- Holger Stockholm -- "Nesting" -- Specializing in the Waxwing, Green Heron and Ring Billed Gulls.

Jan. 20 -- Al Milliken -- "Potpourri of Nature" -- Including wildflowers, insects, birds and seasonal scenes from various parts of the country and a selection of birds from Sanibel.

Jan. 27 -- Les Canfield -- "Nature Trail

Number 6" -- Birds, animals, scenes and wildflowers from coast to coast.

Feb. 10 -- Drs. Lorus and Margery Milne -- "Butterflies and Other Fascinating Insects of Florida."

Feb. 17 -- Aileen Lotz -- "Trip to Antarctica" -- Penguins, albatross and other birds found only in the land at the bottom of the world, Falkland Islands and Antarctica.

Feb. 24 -- Alvah Sanborn -- "Sea Bird Islands" -- Slides and motion picture on Bonaventure and Machias Seal in quest of the great Gannet colony and the Puffins.

March 10 -- Victor Emanuel -- "Birds of Peru" -- The world's most diverse avifauna with slides and tape recordings of bird songs.

March 17 -- Dr. Herbert Kale -- "Avian Research and Conservation in Florida" -- By the director of ornithological research of the Florida Audubon Society.

March 24 -- Steve Phillips -- "Reptiles and Amphibians on Sanibel" -- By the manager of the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation.

March 31 -- "Audubon Slide Surprise" -- Watch local papers. Brief business meeting.

'Campership' recipients receive diplomas

At last week's Sanibel-Captiva Audubon Society opening winter program, society President Bud Ryckman presented diplomas from the Florida Division of Forestry to Karie and Laura Stern, winners of two of the summer camp scholarships awarded in the society's essay contest last year. The third winner, Eric Palmer, was unable to attend and will receive his diploma later.

Ryckman said the camp scholarship project was so successful last year that the society will repeat it this year and offer at least five "camperships" for prize-winning essays on nature conservation subjects. Watch The Islander for contest rules.

Tuesday at the Center Forester offers wood burning tips

Lee County Forester David Fox will be at the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation today to explain the How and Why of Wood Burning as part of the foundation's Tuesday at the Center lecture series.

Fox will explain the technique of prescribed fire burns and will delve into its ecological, silvicultural and psychological implications as well. The forester will present a 40-minute long slide show as part of the afternoon presentation.

A native of Ohio, Fox was first employed by the U.S. Forest Service in the Francis Marion National forest near Charleston, S.C. He has since worked for the Florida Division of Forestry and was stationed initially in Bloumstown as a pine initiative forester (selling forest investment). He is stationed in Lee County as urban forester.

A geology graduate of Thiel College in Greenville, Penn., Fox also holds a master's degree in forestry from North Carolina's Duke University.

His lecture will begin at 2 p.m. General admission for non-foundation members is $1 for adults and $50 for children. For details call foundation manager Steve Phillips, 472-2329.

Next week's lecture, Exotic Species and the Problems They Present, will be delivered by Sgt. Kat Kelley-Phillips of the U.S. Game and Fresh Water Commission.

Regional Audubon Society presents Alaska program in Cape Coral

An Inside Passage to Alaska will be discovered by all who attend the Audubon Society of Southwest Florida meeting at the Cape Coral High School on Sunday, Jan. 16.

The lecture and slide film will be delivered by world traveller Norm Wakeman, who will describe Alaska as a wildlife paradise.

Two hundred to three hundred years ago, Alaska's Glacier Bay existed under a thick sheet of ice, Wakeman says. Only recently uncovered by retreating glaciers, the bay has become a live laboratory filled in splendor with calving seals, killer whales, oyster catchers, dolphins and puffins.

The presentation will begin at 2:30 p.m. and is the first in a series as the regional Audubon Society's 25th season. Admission will be $1, although season tickets to the society's other lectures are available for $12 and may be obtained from any member or by mail. For more information call Norman or Freida Smith, 542-3687.

CROW van offered for sale

If you have the itch to get on the road again, Care and Rehabilitation of Wildlife just might be able to scratch it.

The organization is offering to sell the 1976 Dodge Van that has served its needs so well for the past year. With 54,315 miles, a bed, CB radio, professionally-installed raised roof and good tires, the van is made for travelling.

Outlets and room to install cooking and bathroom facilities are also available. The van is in good shape overall and only needs an exhaust pipe tailpipe, says CROW representative Dr. K.C. Emerson.

The van was donated anonymously by a Fort Myers Beach resident and has been invaluable to CROW staffers over the past last 12 months. It will be replaced by a 1979 GMC Van that is better adapted to wildlife transportation and was recently donated by John and Joan Burr of Captiva.

Also for sale is a gas-powered Magic Chef oven-stove with four burners that can be easily installed in either a van or home.

Both items will be sold to the highest bidder. Offers should be made to Emerson, 472-9156.

CROW needs fish to feed wildlife!

The staff at Care and Rehabilitation of Wildlife is calling upon the more successful fishermen of Sanibel and Captiva to donate pinfish and shiners to feed CROW's resident cormorants, pelicans and the like.

CROW staff uses buckets of the tiny fish daily and will warmly welcome donations of most any quantity.

For further information call CROW Director Holly Davies, 472-3644.

Goss named new chairman of conservation foundation

By Carol Kranichfeld

Former Sanibel Mayor Porter Goss was elected chairman of the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation at last week's SCCF board meeting.

Goss has been actively involved in the foundation's work through land acquisition programs and other SCCF-sponsored projects and will bring the board a broad scope in state environmental activities through his state-appointed position with the Bureau of Environmental Land Management.

Island resident and veteran conservationist Malcom Beattie was re-elected vice chairman, and Rose Rogers, who served as SCCF chairman last year, was elected secretary for 1983.

A new name, that of Nils Wessell, found its way to the SCCF board this year as treasurer. Wessell, a Pennsylvania native, holds a doctorate from the University of Rochester and honorary degrees from several colleges and universities.

Currently a trustee for the University of Miami and the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, Wessell is also a director of the Liberty Mutual Insurance Company. Among other numerous civic posts, he has served on the New York City Board of Higher Education, New York Council for the Humanities, the New York State Commission on the Future of Post-secondary Education, and as a trustee for the University of Maine. A former vice president of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, Wessell was President of Tufts University for 13 years and president of the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation for 11 years.

Wessell and his wife, Marian, have resided on Sanibel since 1979.

LeBuff's celebrate silver anniversary

By George Campbell

Sanibel's premier naturalist, Charles LeBuff, and his wife Jean celebrated their Silver Anniversary on Jan. 3. The venue was at the home of Jim and Betty Anholt, where about 30 people gathered.

Most of the guests were in one way or another associated with conservation; some were members of the sea turtle protection organization, Caretta

Research, Inc., which LeBuff founded.

The air of the celebration was laced with personal and natural history from LeBuff's roots in Massachusetts through his 24 years on Sanibel. Sandwiched in were other years in Collier County, where valuable explorations in the area of Florida reptile life were accomplished.

Webb re-elected chairman of Vegetation Committee

By George Campbell

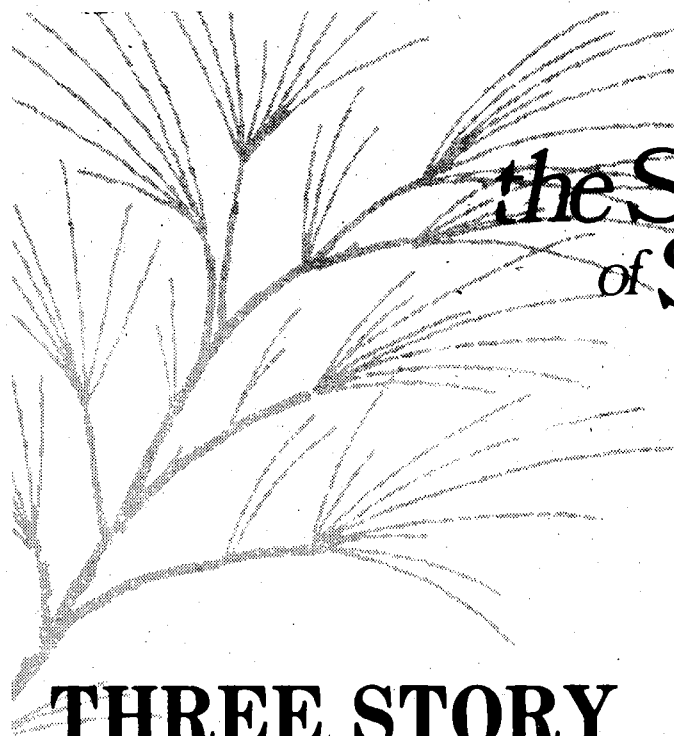

At the regular meeting of the Vegetation Committee last week Dr. William Webb was re-elected committee chairman and Dr. K.C. Emerson was re-elected vice chairman.

All 10 members present at the meeting agreed that having the committee under the leadership of two professional scientists represents good fortune for Sanibel and the preservation of its natural assets.

On the agenda was discussion of commercial vegetation buffers on the Island. Dee Slinkard, manager of the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation Native Plant Nursery, questioned the plant size

One guest led the LeBuffs through a reaffirmation of their marriage vows.

Altogether 477 years of friendship were represented at the celebration (a guest who is a CPA carefully tallied that astounding total!).

LeBuff's father, a dedicated world traveler, recalled the group with tales of his far-flung adventures from China and Africa to Europe and the islands.

LeBuff's brother and orchid authority, Laban, spoke of preservation activities in the Fakahatchee Strand, a preserve in Collier County and the last stronghold of the endangered Florida Panther.

All present wished the happy couple well and expect to attend the upcoming Golden Anniversary 25 years hence.

specifications included in the new commercial regulations developed by city planners.

Specified in the regulations are tall, medium and short plants, some of which are to be three feet and some six feet when they are planted. Some species at those heights are already over-mature; other desirable plants never even reach those heights.

Thus some members indicated smaller, less mature plants might have a better change of becoming established and also might grow faster and better and should be permitted. Moreover, in many instances plants of the sizes specified are simply not available commercially.

Planting smaller plants conceivably could allow for an increase in the number of species employed, and such added diversity would be beneficial. The possibility of adding a category of low ground cover plants was proposed.

After considerable discussion, Helen Webb suggested that a subcommittee be appointed to resolve questions relating to commercial vegetation buffers.

Slinkard was appointed chairman of the subcommittee to which Mary Wegmuller and Penny Rogers were also named. They plan to report back to the committee at its next regular meeting at 1:30 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 3, at MacKenzie Hall.

Winter world of waterfowl awaits visitors to national refuges

Wondering where the longest running holiday extravaganza will be playing this season? On the National Wildlife Refuge System, where the admission is free and all features are rated "G!"

This annual wildlife pageant starring migratory waterfowl of every species and description is but a short day trip away from millions of holiday travelers looking for entertaining family fare.

Flocks of showy snow geese, honking Canadas, flashy wood ducks and colorful wading birds are now making their stage debut throughout the central and southern United States after their long fall migrations from Alaska, Canada and even the far reaches of Siberia. From California's Central Valley to the Texas Gulf Coast, from the maritime states of the Northwest to the wetlands of Florida, the curtain has risen on a show that never fails to draw rave reviews.

Your ticket to this winter wonderland is the new Visitor's Guide to the National Wildlife Refuges just published by the Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Most of the nation's 413 national wildlife refuges are depicted on this handy, pocket-sized map of the United States. As a convenience to vacationers and day-trippers the refuges are spotted against an outline of the interstate highway system on the map. On the reverse side a complete rundown of major public use activities on each refuge is provided. Addresses for each refuge are also provided.

The Visitor's Guide to the National Wildlife Refuges is available for $2.25 from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402. Specify stock number 024-010-00529-7.

New York City artist brings serigraphs to Sanibel

An opening reception for New York City artist Judith Shahn starts the year off at the Schoolhouse Gallery this Sunday, Jan. 16.

An expert in handcrafted silk screens, Shahn has long been heralded in the Big Apple for her meticulous attention to producing a precision work, which is no small feat for hand-printed serigraphs.

Each piece is a highly personal artistic statement, says Shahn, who draws her subjects from familiar objects in nature and everyday life.

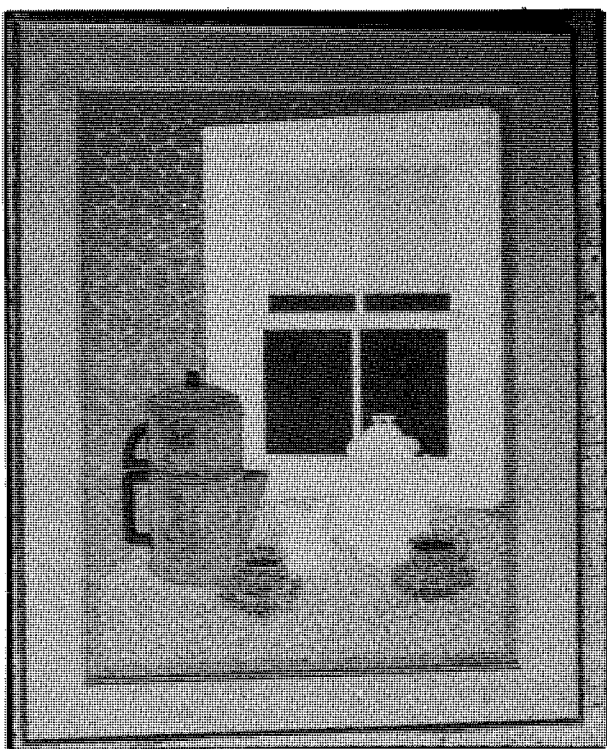

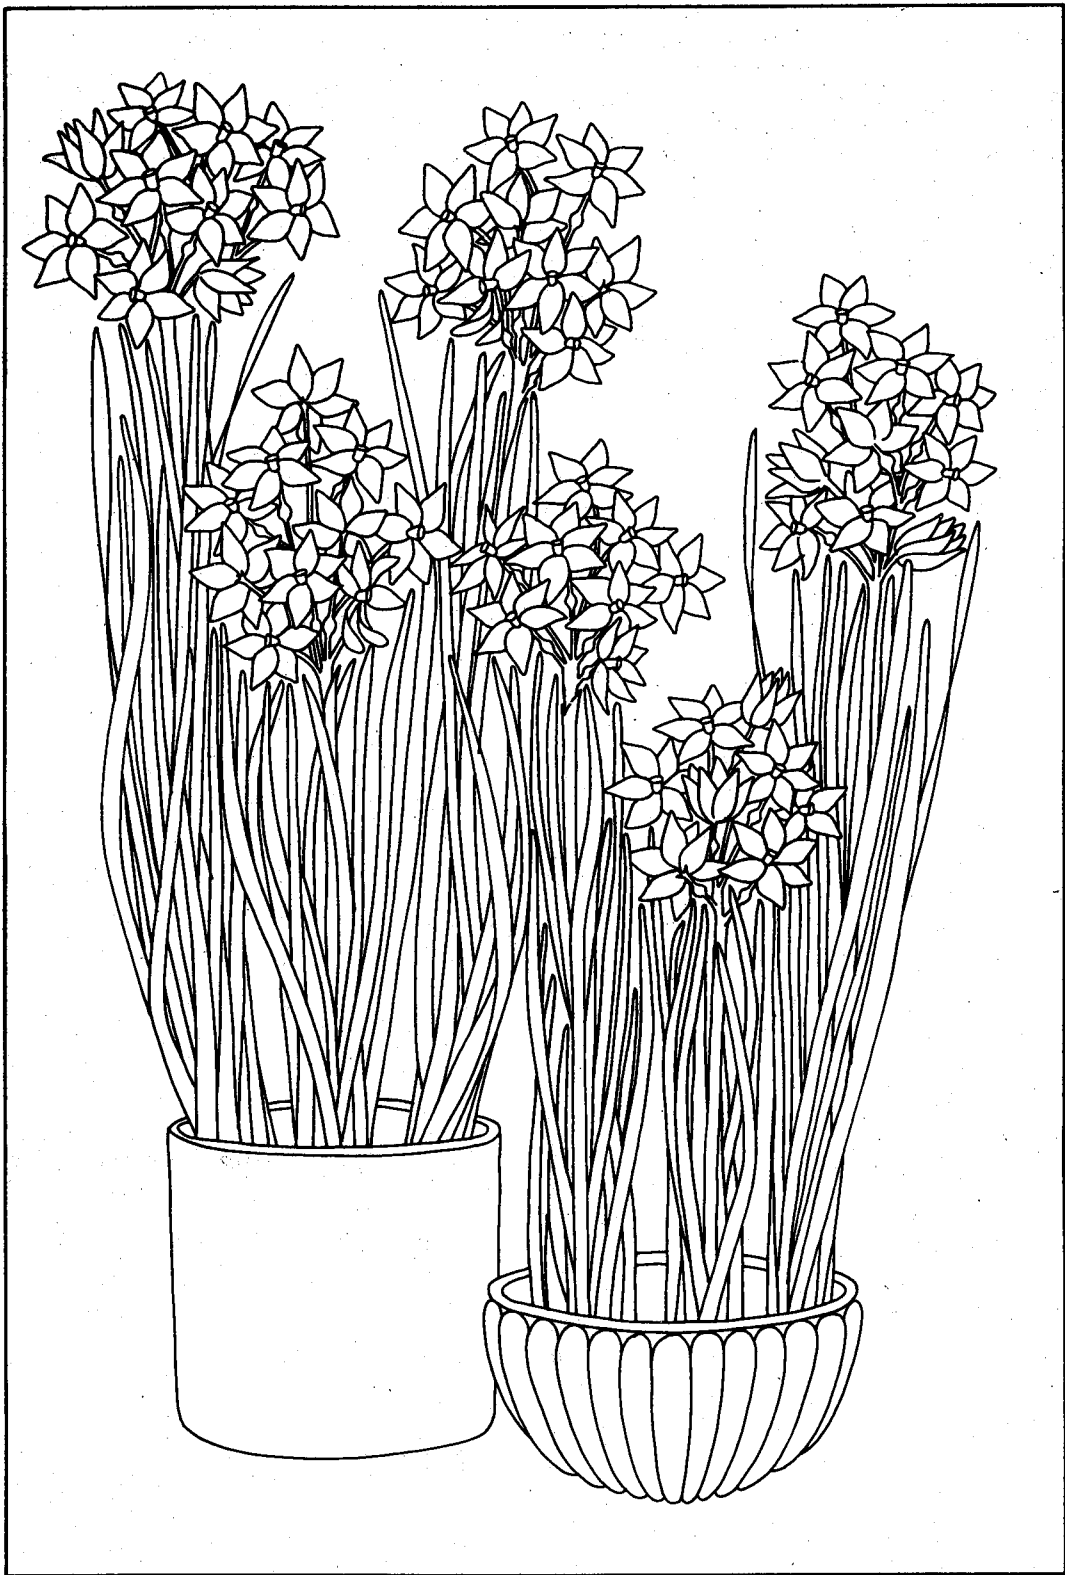

The variety of papers comprising Shahn's media adds a further dimension to her silk screens, which come to life through her exacting use of bold and dynamic color. Additionally, her eye for the third dimension is most unusual and makes each serigraph appear larger than life in the best sense of the word.

Producing her first silk screen print in 1974 as a poster for an exhibition at the Gallery of World Art in Massachusetts, Shahn has exhibited her serigraphs in more than 35 solo shows throughout the United States and in Rome, Italy.

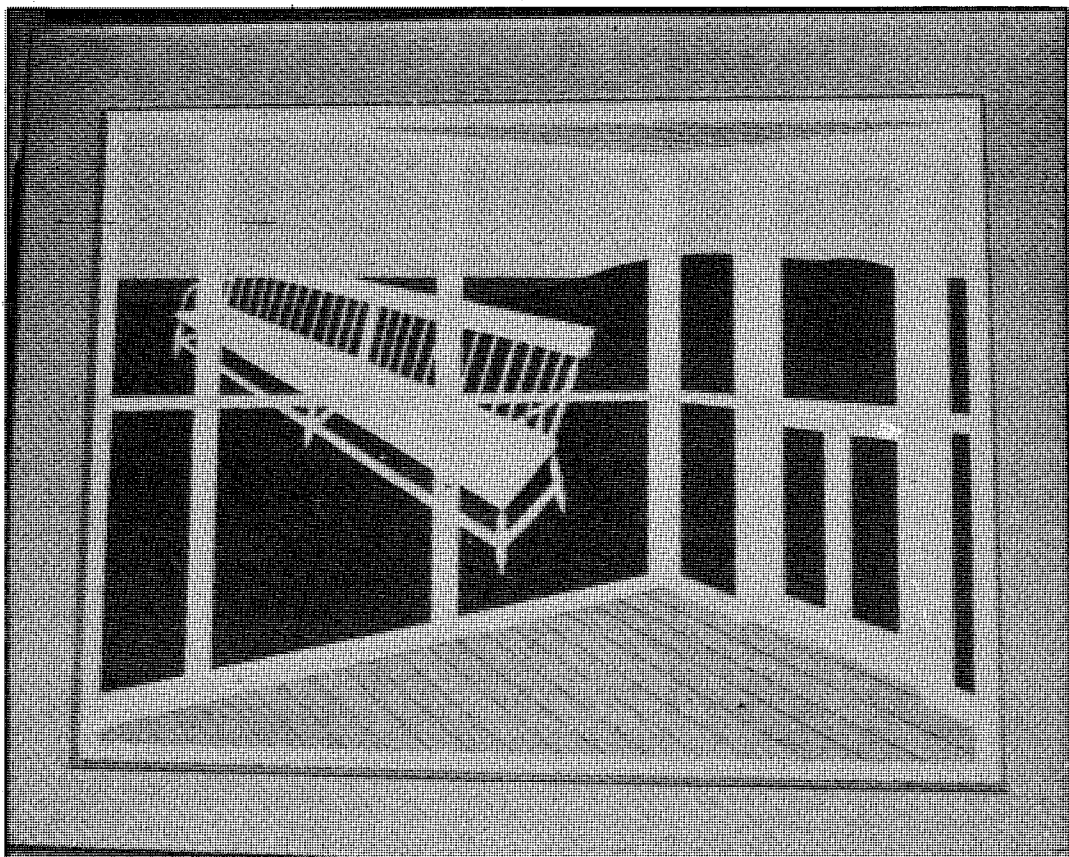

Despite this fine record, many Americans might not be aware of their own familiarity with her artwork. The Paris, France native has produced small black and white drawings that have appeared in The New Yorker magazine since 1958 and in color reproductions in Reader's Digest and Harpers.

A 1949 graduate of Mexico City College and Michigan's Olivet College, Shahn completed her graduate studies in art at the Institute of Fine Arts in New York City. The wife of poet Alan Dugan, she has illustrated several children's books and has designed countless greeting cards, fabrics and displays.

The reception for Shahn will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. this Sunday, Jan. 16. Her works will be on display at the Schoolhouse Gallery through Jan. 29. The gallery on Tarpon Bay Road is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

New York City artist Judith Shahn's works will be familiar to Islanders who read The New Yorker.

Chamber ensemble brings Bach to the beach

The award-winning Lyric Chamber Ensemble of Chicago will bring free classical music performances to the great outdoors with Bach On The Beach from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. this Saturday, Jan. 15, at the Lighthouse Beach and at 2 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 19, at Periwinkle Place.

A group of five professional musicians, the Lyric Chamber Ensemble returns to Sanibel after another successful season in Chicago. The musical troupe performed on the Island last year to packed houses at the Sanibel Community Association and at Thistle Lodge.

The ensemble's repertoire and performances have received critical acclaim worldwide from Tokyo to the capitol of Europe.

Grant Park Symphony Orchestra and Chicago Lyric Opera principal harpist Elizabeth Cifani is well remembered by all who heard her for the bit of heaven she brought to Sanibel last winter.

Cifani began her harp studies when she was 4 years old and has appeared as soloist with the New Orleans Philharmonic Symphony and the Indianapolis Symphony.

Chicago City Ballet solo pianist Allan Dameron is well known in Windy City circles for his lecture performances of music by Olivier Messiaen. This will be his Island debut.

Israeli-born Rami Solomonow has appeared with the Fine Arts and Vermeer Quartets and is principal violist for the Lyric Chamber Ensemble. A graduate of the Rubin Academy of Music in Tel Aviv, Solomonow has been with the ensemble since his arrival in the United States.

Cellist David Shamban came to the United States from Israel on a scholarship. The winner of two Young Artists Awards, Shamban has appeared as soloist with the Atlanta Symphony and the Civic Orchestra of Chicago as well as with the Lyric Chamber Ensemble as principal cellist.

Elaine Skorodin began her violin concert career when she was 10 years old as soloist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, an association that happily continues today.

Appearing with major orchestras in New York, London, Vienna, Berlin and Tokyo, Skorodin has also performed at the White House. A winner of the Paganini International Violin Competition, she plays a violin made in 1729 by Antonio Stradivari.

Clarinetist and longstanding Island visitor Marilyn Lauriente is a much-hailed musician who received her musical training in Paris, France, as well as in her native city of Chicago.

Lauriente, the clarinetist of both the Lyric Opera of Chicago and the Grant Park Symphony has performed in France, Corsica, England and Germany.

In addition to Bach on the Beach and the Periwinkle Place engagements, the ensemble will perform at the Sanibel Elementary School on Thursday, Jan. 20. Another public performance will be held at 8 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 22, at the Sanibel Community Center. Admission will be $5 per person.

The ensemble's finale will benefit the group's Island sponsor, Barrier Island Group for the Arts, at Tween

Lions gear up for car ticket sales

By D.E. Cooperrider

The regular meeting of the Sanibel-Captiva Lions club was held on Jan. 5 at the Sanibel Community Association hall. Lion Jim Benton from Ireland was welcomed as an international visitor.

Lion Lynn Rogers announced the upcoming joint project of the three Island service clubs, the Lee Memorial Bloodmobile, which will be at Bailey's Center on Jan. 18 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. for blood donations. This collection will replenish reserves that are maintained by the Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary clubs for use as needed by Islanders or Island workers.

The car raffle ticket sales have started for this annual project with the selection of team chairmen and assignment of members to man the sales table at various shopping centers and resorts for maximum coverage of the area.

The drawing for the car will be held on May 30. The car will be on display at the ticket sales table at Bailey's during the sale period.

Lion Dan Baker announced a delivery trip to the Lions Camp near Lake Wales on Jan. 23 to deliver items donated by members. All are welcome to go. The group will depart from the Chamber of Commerce around 7:30 a.m.

The next meeting of the Sanibel-Captiva Lions Club will be at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 19, at the Sanibel Community Association hall.

City endorses alert radios for all Sanibel residents

The Sanibel City Council has endorsed the Sanibel Police alert radios and recommended that all citizens of the Island purchase a radio to receive pertinent information in times of emergency.

The radios are designed to automatically switch to battery power in the event of an AC power failure. They can be purchased for $56, which is the cost the Sanibel Police Recreation Club pays for each unit.

Persons desiring the specially adapted radios should make checks payable to the Sanibel Police Recreation Club, Inc. Deliver checks to the police headquarters on Palm Ridge Road.

Seventy-five Sanibel residents and businesses have already purchased the radios, which will be used in conjunction with the Emergency Preparedness and Evacuation Relief Team under unusual weather conditions and in instances of power failures, telephone outages, water outages, road blockages, Causeway bridge malfunctions and other unusual situations of which Islanders should be advised.

Driftwood worker 'sheds blood' for Sanibel Shell Show

Helen Burik of Periwinkle Park literally shed blood last week for the Sanibel Shell Show.

While converting Sanibel's precious shells into colorful flowers to be used in Driftwood Shop shell creations sold at the Sanibel Shell Show, Burik cut two fingers on her right hand (luckily, she is left-handed.) This required a fast trip to an Island doctor and several stitches.

Undaunted, Burik arrived at the first workshop session early Monday morning and spent the day making spring violets, too beautiful for words, while receiving plaudits for her pluck.

The Driftwood Workshops will continue each Monday through Feb. 28 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Sanibel Community Association hall.

The workshops provide the many beautiful shell flower arrangements, shellcraft items and whimsical shell creatures that go on sale at The Driftwood Shop every year during the Sanibel Shell Show.

Materials will be furnished and coffee will be kept hot. Bring your lunch so everyone will have a chance to compare notes, exchange experiences and admire what is accomplished at the sessions.

ISLANDER SPORTS

Islander quiz

Only Islander Dick Traucht guessed the answer to last week's Sports Quiz was false. Wilt Chamberlain does not hold the NBA record for most field goals attempted in a career; John Havlicek holds that distinction.

This week we've got a teaser about winter sports, which are in full swing up north right now. All you ski buffs should call in the answer to this one:

How long should ski poles be? Should they reach the skier's waist, elbows or armpits?

If you think you know the answer call The Islander, 472-5185. If you're right we'll print your name in next week's paper. Good luck!

Island golf

Beachview men

Sixty-nine players turned out for the Beachview Mens Golf Association tournament play on Saturday, Jan. 8. Two teams tied for first place with plus-nine. The winning teams were comprised of McFarlane, Konrad, Hartshorne, Reed and Shepherd, Marye, Millsone, Fletcher. The high individual with plus-six was McClintock. McFarlane had highest score in with 17.

Marye shot a hole-in-one on the fourth hole. All drinks were on him.

Gulfshore Life magazine sponsors Five-Mile Classic

Island runners have less than 90 days to get in shape for the Second Annual Five-Mile Classic sponsored by Gulfshore Life magazine, Gulf Coast Runners and the Fort Myers Track Club.

The run will start and finish at Naples Cambier Park on Saturday, March 12. Registration opens at 7 a.m. on race day.

This year all finishers will receive free t-shirts. Trophies will be awarded to the winners in each age group.

The Five-Mile Classic is one of the legs in the Fort Myers Track Club Grand Prix runners circuit. The runners who have participated in events all year and have accumulated points for each race finished will have the chance to earn five points during the Five-Mile Classic. Trophies will be awarded for the best performances of the year.

Race sponsors expect more than 400 runners to take part this year. Children and teens are encouraged to enter. Look for entry forms in the February and March issues of Gulfshore Life. For more information call 262-6425.

Shopping

Sanibel is a veritable shopper's paradise. Tasteful boutiques and casual island shops join forces to present visitors with everything and anything a vacation shopper could hope for.

At the Lighthouse (Eastern) end of the Island, Punta Ybel Plaza and the Sea Horse Shops are right across the street from one another, providing a variety of products that can cure your sweet tooth or tickle your shell fisher's fancy. Need a good hat or coiffure? You can get it in either of these shopping centers.

Most businesses open at 10 a.m. and close at 5:30 p.m. This holds true for many island stores, although some are open evenings during the winter season.

Tall Australian Pines shade Periwinkle Way and the shopper travels west along this main thoroughfare. This stretch of road is truly a shopper's paradise! It's all here -- the fast and not-so-fast eating spots, casual and elegant boutiques, hand-wrought jewelry, craft designs, shell shops and balms for health product fanatics.

Watch to your right and left as you drive or cycle along. Photographic supplies, bait and tackle, deli foods, fresh seafood and baked goods, knick-knacks and what-nots can all be found along the drive to the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road. Along the way, shopping centers such as the Heart of the Islands, Periwinkle Place and Tahitian Gardens offer a variety of island delights.

Palm Ridge Road, the Periwinkle Way turn-off to Captiva, offers several shopping centers featuring everything from imports to gift shops for the discriminating shopper, plants and shells, a sandwich shop, ice cream parlors, pizza parlor, boutique shop and the Island Apothecary pharmacy.

At the Tarpon Bay-Periwinkle Way intersection, the Island Shopping Center features the island's only supermarket and movie house.

A left on Tarpon Bay Road takes the visitor past Sanibel's original schoolhouse, which now holds original island watercolors and woodcuts.

Then on to West Gulf Drive and westward to an interesting little artisan shop and gallery.

At the intersection of Periwinkle Way and Tarpon Bay Road, you may choose instead to turn right and follow the signs to the Tarpon Bay marina, where you will find a cluster of quaint shops overlooking the back bay. Some antiques, shells and shellcrafts, what-nots and clever clothes can be found here, as well as a great seafood sandwich and soft drinks.

The spectacular ride to Captiva, with its lush foliage and enchanting view of the Gulf, is well worth a day's outing. Talented artists display their works in one roadside shop, while others feature some nifty gifts for Grandma to take home to little hands as a pleasant hodge-podge of remembrances from these barrier islands.

Whether for shopping or merely browsing, island shops offer a surprising variety from one-of-a-kind collectibles for the discerning shopper to postcards for the simple souvenir hunter. And of course, for all, shells -- shell jewelry, shell lamps, just plain shells -- the most beautiful shells in the world from the most beautiful shelling beaches in the world.

SHELLING

The city's resolution limiting the taking of live shells to two live shells per species per person is one to be scrupulously obeyed. As a matter of fact, in order to preserve Sanibel's beautiful shelling beaches, most collectors refuse to take any live shells whatsoever.

DOGGY DO'S AND DON'TS

If you are visiting Sanibel with the family Fido in tow, all the better. All family members can enjoy Southwest Florida sun and surf. The Chamber of Commerce can tell you what accommodations are available for families with pets.

Remember: Wherever you are, clean up after your pet! "Leave nothing on the beach but footprints" applies to dogs, too. There's no leash law on Sanibel, but of course an excitable or unruly animal is better off when controlled with a leash.

FISH Friends in Service Here

Neighborly help for Islanders in need of transportation, regular phone checks and assorted non-emergency neighborly services. Call 472-0404, 24 hours a day.

WARNING! SAFEGUARD YOUR VALUABLES

In order to protect your valuable possessions from theft, it is recommended that you take them to a bank or hotel vault for safekeeping. Do NOT leave them in your room or car.

CAMPING, BEACH FIRES

Camping on the beach is prohibited, as are open beach fires. An exemption to the beach fire ordinance is a fire in an approved cooking container (not to exceed 48x24x12 inches deep) with an extruded metal grill for non-commercial food preparation. This type of container will be allowed on the beach without a permit. After you have had your beach party, please assume the responsibility for cleaning up any debris or litter in your area.

FISHING

While no license is required for saltwater fishing, fishing in freshwater ponds or the Sanibel River requires a Florida fishing license. Licenses are available at Bailey's General Store on Periwinkle Way. The fee is $6.50 for residents and $10.50 for non-residents. Minimum Legal Lengths Blue Fish 10 inches

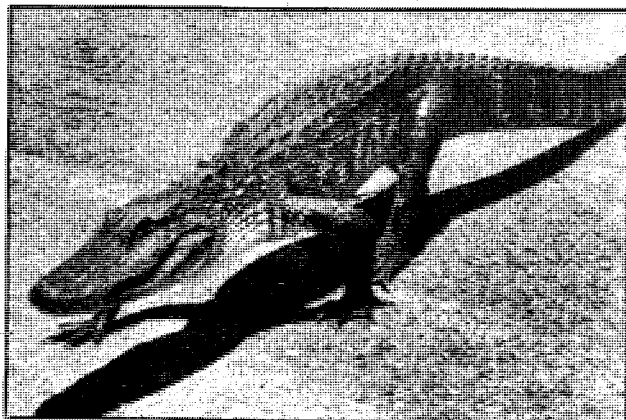

Flounder	11 inches
Grouper	12 inches
Mackerel	12 inches
Mullet	12 inches
Pompano	10 inches
Red Fish	12 inches
Snook	18 inches
Trout	12 inches

Snook fishing is outlawed from June 30-Aug. 1.

SPEED LIMITS

There is very good reason for the varying speed limits (20-30 mph) along the Causeway. The slower speeds preserve the bridge supports from strain and stress. This speed limit is strictly enforced with radar on a 24-hour basis by both the Sanibel Police Department and the Lee County Sheriff's Department.

GATORS

Feeding alligators anywhere within the Sanibel city limits is not only illegal, but can be extremely dangerous. Alligators can run up to 45 mph, so if you are close enough to feed an alligator, he is close enough to bite you. An alligator fed for fun loses his natural fear of humans and becomes a potential threat to children and pets. Dogs should never be permitted to run free on Sanibel.

Fence them, walk them on a leash or, if you must free your dog for a walk, keep him under voice control. Never tie your dog in an unfenced back yard. For help with a nuisance alligator, call the following representatives of the Southwest Florida Alligator Association. They are licensed and have permits to legally handle gators: George Campbell, 472-2825; Steve Phillips, 472-2329; Mark Westall, 472-5128.
