Vegetation Committee unanimously opposes development of Spoonbill golf club

By Scott Martell

The city's Vegetation Committee has come out strong and unanimous in its opposition to the proposed Spoonbill Golf and Tennis Club, Inc. The club is planned for a 325-acre site off West Gulf Dr.

In a motion at the monthly meeting last week the Vegetation Committee stated Spoonbill's planned use of the site, including a golf course and 160 dwelling units, is "excessive" and advised that "no construction be permitted at this time."

Four committee members spent up to five days surveying the large and diverse area and writing a vegetation survey report that the entire committee approved last week. The report has been submitted to the city Planning Director Bruce Rogers.

Report says wildlife habitat would be annihilated, native vegetation destroyed

"Two-thirds of this area is lowland, including wetlands and the Sanibel River," said committee Vice Chairman Penny Rogers, who helped survey the area and write the report.

Rogers shook her head and held up a site plan. "This is bad news. This development would wipe out a lot of vegetation."

The written report concluded that

Police raise drawbridge in search for wanted woman

By Cindy Chalmers

Mid-afternoon traffic backed up all the way across the Causeway on Sunday when Sanibel police raised the drawbridge with hopes of stopping a Collier County woman who was wanted for violation of probation.

Sgt. Mike Blackmore said Brenda Bull, 18, was wanted on original charges of grand theft auto. He said Collier law enforcement agents notified him last Thursday that Bull was rumored to be staying in a Middle Gulf Drive condominium.

Blackmore traced the owner of the condominium, who agreed to cooperate with police and notify them if and when Bull showed up. She did Sunday.

Blackmore said the condominium resident called police early Sunday afternoon and said Bull was at his home and was going to turn herself in. A few minutes

CEPD retains project manager, abolishes Alternative Methods Committee

By Scott Martell

The Captiva Erosion Prevention District reaffirmed renourishment as its major goal last week when the board voted 3-2 to retain Dick Stevens "indefinitely" on his present contract of $4,000 a month as the CEPD renourishment project manager.

The $4,000 fee includes the services of Kate Gooderham, who acts as office manager and erosion specialist at the Captiva Civic Association office 20 hours a week.

Commissioners Peg Hofschneider and Chuck Bruning opposed continuing the present contract. They were outvoted by commissioners Dewitt Jones, Lloyd Wright and John Burr.

In a related move, the board voted to abolish the Alternative Methods Committee. Three members of that committee have recently resigned. The committee has faced charges that they were "dragging their feet" regarding alternative beach protection measures.

The question about whether to terminate Stevens' contract has been raised three times since August 1983.

Last September the board agreed to continue the contract for six months and then reevaluate the situation, particularly regarding the reality of funding renourishment in the near future with an Island-wide Municipal Services Taxing Unit. That particular MSTU died in February, however, when only 64 percent of those petitioned indicated support for the tax. Lee County requires 65 percent support of an MSTU in order to implement the special tax.

The CEPD is currently looking at a gulf-front homeowners MSTU combined with money from the 4 percent Causeway surplus designated for Captiva as the best way to fund renourishment.

In the discussion concerning the renourishment project manager's contract, Stevens defended his case by figuring his total cost to the district at about $152,000, or an average of $38,000 per year for the four years he has been associated with the CEPD. He now receives $48,000 a year for his own and

Chuck and Martita Akers

Parents of poster child plan Island fundraising for the March of Dimes

Sanibel has a special reason to contribute to this year's March of Dimes fundraising efforts.

Islander Martita Akers, 4, is the Lee County March of Dimes poster child. Martita was born with cerebral palsy.

Spurred by their daughter's being chosen for this very visible honor, Chuck and Juanita Akers are hoping they can collect funds for the March of Dimes on Sanibel and Captiva.

Chuck is planning a day of fundraising activities, including ball games and a picnic, at the Sanibel Elementary School ball diamonds the first week of May. The Islander will keep readers posted on these upcoming activities.

In the meantime, a special account has been set up by the Bank of Islands for contributions to the March of Dimes. Those Islanders who would like to contribute can mail a check to: Bank of the Islands, March of Dimes Contribution Fund, 1699 Periwinkle Way, Sanibel 33957.

Thinking of running for office?

New procedure outlined for council candidates

By Barbara Brundage

City Council seats currently held by Francis Bailey, Mike Klein and Fred Valtin will be up for grabs at the city election Nov. 6.

None of the three have indicated as yet whether they will seek reelection, but a spokesman for the Committee of Islands, which traditionally endorses candidates, said the councilmen have promised to announce their intentions by June 1.

Under the new charter rules all candidates for council seats must file a Declaration of Intention to seek office 20 days prior to the deadline for filing Petitions for Nominations, which this year is noon Friday, Sept. 21.

That means potential office seekers must return their declaration petitions to Mildred Howze, deputy city clerk, no later than 5 p.m. Friday, Aug. 31.

Candidates do not need to specify the seat for which they plan to qualify on the declaration forms.

The 20-day grace period gives potential candidates a chance to change their minds and withdraw from the race before their names are printed on the ballot.

Howze said preliminary forms are available now and can be picked up from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at her office in City Hall. A fact sheet outlining the qualifying procedure is also available at Howze's office.

Candidates must qualify by written petition between noon Monday, Sept. 17, and noon Friday, Sept. 21.

The Petitions for Nomination must have at least 18 signatures of qualified electors that are certified by Lee County Supervisor of Elections.

The petitions must be accompanied by affidavits that the signature is genuine and was made in the presence of the circulator (who need not be the candidate). In addition to the signature the name of the signer must be printed on the petition along with his voter registration number, current street address and the date.

Because of changes in effect for the first time, City Manager Bernie Murphy suggested an extra effort should be made to publicize the procedure for candidates this year.

Valtin proposed the city run newspaper ads explaining the new procedure. The council agreed and directed Murphy to place the ads in May and June before the summer exodus of vacationing residents begins.

Realtor Bissell announces retirement plans

Marty Holtz, president, and Don Bissell, vice president and secretary of Island Real Estate by Bissell and Holtz, Inc., notified their sales staff Saturday of Bissell's plans to retire from the corporation later this year. Bissell's future plans were not announced.

The firm, founded in 1970 as the Island's first incorporated real estate brokerage under the name of Laughrey and Holtz Island Real Estate, Inc., changed its trade name in 1976 to Bissell and Holtz, Inc. Holtz said business will continue as usual in the firm's main office on Sanibel and branch office on Captiva.

Children's Center makes car seats available for loan

The Children's Center of the Islands, in appreciation of the community support shown through the years, is offering the center's car seats to the public.

A deposit of $25 is required and will be refunded with the car seat is returned.

For more information call Debbie Friedlund, 472-2351. The staff would appreciate that no inquiries be made at the school.

the Spoonbill development would be far in excess for the fragile property to support. The wildlife habitat would be annihilated, and the native vegetation totally destroyed, the report indicated, adding the runoff of fertilizer and pesticides that would be necessary to maintain a golf course would compound the destruction of the wetlands and the Sanibel River itself.

After hearing the draft of the report, committee Chairman K.C. Emerson added his support, saying the committee should "make a strong statement that this area ought to be preserved."

Some of the basis for preserving the parcel came after the committee members heard a rough inventory of what vegetation exists on the parcel.

The report listed vegetation on the ridge area that includes everything from gumbo limbo to cabbage palms, wax myrtle and wild coffee.

Also, Brazilian pepper was found limited to the higher land of the ridge area, and only three melaleuca seedlings were observed — emphasizing that the dominant vegetation is native in the ridge area.

The wetter areas north of the ridge do show much more Brazilian pepper, but they also show everything from cattails to buttonwood, keather ferns and spartina grass, the report said.

A related report on the effect of the Spoonbill development on wildlife habitat and population was submitted to the city by Dr. William Webb, environmental consultant and chairman of the Sanibel Captiva Conservation Foundation.

Webb's report stated the development as proposed "will have a drastic effect on wildlife habitats. The excavation of more than 35 acres of lakes and the use of that fill to cover more than that number of acres will obviously make a dramatic impact. In wildlife terms it will change a diverse faunal area to a habitat that will support a few ducks and a few egrets."

Webb added that effects of the proposal on wildlife populations are quite predictable: Species diversity will be substantially reduced, and population levels of many species will be lowered. Therefore, Webb said, the Spoonbill proposal would have a negative effect on wildlife.

later the resident called back, however, and said Bull had gone out the back door on foot, leaving her car in the condominium parking lot.

Thinking Bull probably would hitchhike off the Island, Blackmore ordered the drawbridge raised shortly after 2 p.m. He stationed himself across from the condominium parking lot while several off-duty officers patrolled the Island on the lookout for Bull and another checked cars on the Causeway span.

Bull did start hitchhiking, but her ride returned her to the condominium so she could pick up her car. Blackmore apprehended her as she approached her car. He said she gave up without resist and was taken to the Lee County Jail.

Even if Bull had taken her car, she could not have made it across the Causeway.

Blackmore said traffic leaving the Island was backed up all the way across the three-mile link between the Islands and the mainland.

Police have raised the drawbridge several times in recent years in order to prevent suspects from leaving the Island. The last time the bridge was raised was late one night in October when someone took a shot at a police officer near City Hall.

"The fact that we can raise the drawbridge is a great deterrent to anyone even thinking about committing a crime on Sanibel," Blackmore said. "We don't raise the bridge for just anything, of course, but it's been worth it every time we've done it."

AN EYE FOR THE ISLANDS

By Maggie Greenberg

At some point everyone receives a notice from the Florida Department of Motor Vehicles regarding the renewal of their driver's license, which, with gay grammatical abandon, Florida's DMV invariably calls a "driver" license.

Unfortunately, those of us whose birthdays fall during the very height of Season must endure the double anathema of crossing the Causeway and contending with the madding crowd.

Having been a "safe driver" for three years (i.e., I had not wrapped my car around a Royal Palm, been hauled into court for DWI, etc.), my renewal notice greeted me with "Congratulations!" — and strongly suggested that I make an "appointment" for a vision and hearing test. Theoretically, a scheduled appointment would serve the interests of both expediency and convenience.

Alas, the mere act of calling the DMV in Season is no simple matter. Their lines are constantly busy. When I finally made contact with the Fort Myers office I found that 7:30 a.m. was the only time available prior to the expiration of my license! Therefore, I tried my luck with the Cape Coral office.

Following fewer busy signals, albeit many ringy dingles, I succeeded in arranging an appointment for a more humane hour. When I arrived at the scheduled time, however, only two officers were on duty. All the others were in court. Thus, I was strongly advised not to hang around "for hours and hours."

The following week I returned to the Cape Coral office for yet another scheduled appointment. By that time I was in an absolute dither, an irrational state of mind induced by vivid memories of my first encounter with a DMV at the tender age of 16.

My native New England town had a real scunner against 16-year-old drivers. As a result, our "finest" did their best to confuse and intimidate teenage applicants for a driver's license.

Thus, when I completed the written test the officer in charge challenged many of my answers. "That's not what it says here in the book!" he kept insisting. Needless to say, I found it extremely difficult to question the officer's memory (and he was not the least bit receptive to the tactful notion that to err is human).

The practical driving test was equally agonizing. The accompanying officer refused to engage in any social amenities, and I was only spared the parallel parking exercise (never my forte) by virtue of the fact that my mother had squeezed her car into the skimpy space provided for that particular feat. No wonder I drove in for my second scheduled appointment in Cape Coral in a full-blown state of anxiety!

Since I was driving a brand-new car I didn't dare relieve the tension by smoking (it was too difficult and distracting to score a direct hit in the itty bitsy ashtray). Moreover, I was ever wary of Causeway chauffeurs with a propensity for passing on the right, and quite frantic with fear lest someone bump into me during the course of my 20-mile trip (thereby blowing to bits my "safe driver" record).

Fortunately, I arrived in Cape Coral without mishap. Although the parking lot was jammed (not a good omen), five officers were indeed on duty rather than in court (a more propitious omen). Once inside the building, however, it became quite clear that our local DMV lives up to the inscription on the Statue of Liberty: "Give my your tired, your poor, your huddled masses...the wretched refuse of your teeming shore..."

In the beginning, all applicants must be processed at a particular counter. It was my misfortune to stand behind a young woman bursting from the unforgiving confines of designer jeans and sporting a T-shirt from Sloppy Joe's bar in Key West (highly appropriate, I soon learned).

Indeed, the DWI in question was quite convinced that her recent conviction for driving while intoxicated had no bearing whatsoever upon the reinstatement of her license.

The supremely patient officer spoke at great length about the inadequacies of something called PIP (apparently, a minimal form of insurance), and stressed the absolute necessity for some kind of liability insurance. In short, the bulging, boozing applicant was currently "in a crack."

Although I immediately looked down to see whether or not I was standing in the same crack as the ample applicant, I found no fault in the floor. Finally, the officer directed the DWI to the waiting area, where she joined her husband (burly arms festooned with all manner of tattoos) and her wailing infant in dirty diapers.

Shortly thereafter, in anxious anticipation of the vision and hearing test, I was also directed to that same staging area. Naturally, I was quite unable to concentrate on a single paragraph in Helen MacInness's latest spy story. Eventually, my name was called, and I appeared before a malicious-looking machine.

One is instructed to bash one's forehead against a plastic bar (let there be light), and read the first line of non-sequential numbers (the vision test). Having

Dowsing enthusiast adds to Campbell's information about the age-old practice

To the Editor
The Islander

I enjoyed reading George Campbell's "Water witching — It sometimes works ... but why?" in the March 13 Islander.

Readers of the article might be interested to know that dowsing has been successfully employed to find not only underground water sources, but electric conduits, gas and telephone lines, metal ores, oil deposits, archaeological sites and artifacts and buried objects of virtually every material.

G.I.s in Vietnam who did not have previous dowsing experience were able, with some instruction in this method, to locate enemy tunnels.

Practitioners of this age-old art have dowsed for and found things above ground as well — lost objects and escaped criminals, for instance; they have even been able to identify faulty parts inside machinery. Map dowzers have located stolen property, missing persons and objects, downed aircraft and bodies of crime victims.

Police forces have used map dowzers, with the dowzers usually working miles from the things they're attempting to locate. In fact, distance has no effect. A good map dowzer could conceivably locate something halfway around the earth.

Although there is no consensus on how dowsing works, the most reliable explanations seem to hinge on the assumption that the dowser — in fact, everyone — knows the answers already, in his subconscious. How this could be so is a matter for mystics or philosophers of metaphysics to ponder.

The dowsing implement — usually the basic "L" rod, forked stick or pendulum — is merely the device that allows this information to be made manifest to the dowser. Most dowzers do not puzzle over why the technique works; like any art, it is better that it not be over-analyzed.

Beginning in the fall of 1958, dowzers from around the world have been meeting in Danville, Vt., where the American Society of Dowzers, Inc., holds its annual convention. The convention has grown steadily ever since. Lessons are given, as well as lectures, workshops and seminars and fascinating demonstrations by expert dowzers. The society has books and supplies for sale from its office or by mail. It welcomes new members and can be reached in Danville, zip 05828-0024, or by phoning 802/684-3417.

Yours truly,
Richard Wynes

Member cites reasons for resignation from CEPD Alternate Methods Committee

A copy of the following letter to Peg Hofschneider, chairman of the Captiva Erosion Prevention District, was given to The Islander for publication.

Dear Madam Chairman:

I request that this letter be read at the next official meeting of the CEPD.

On July 11, 1983, an Alternate Methods Committee was formed and met. At the September 1983 CEPD meeting Commissioner Charles Bruning presented a report to the commissioners. Excerpts from the minutes of this meeting state, quote, "He will request a copy of the state's technical appraisal of the headlands project." (What is the status of this report?)

I further quote, "Hofschneider moved that the artificial seaweed project be placed in front of the Paschall property and extend north for 1,500 feet. Commissioner Ed Olling seconded. The vote was unanimous. Hofschneider moved that a topo survey be authorized for the seaweed project after October 1983 passage of the CEPD 1983-84 budget. Olling seconded. The vote was unanimous." End of quote.

To date, seven months later, nothing at all has been done to expedite this project. Why not? One of the present commissioners stated, "They are having trouble trying to decide where the seaweed project should go." Another commissioner agreed.

No, commissioners, the CEPD officially decided that question in September 1983. It is in the official minutes. As members of the committees, they should have been aware of the official actions of this commission taken before they joined it as commissioners. Ergo, the foot-dragging.

This commission, as presently constituted, is obsessed with nourishment by dredging and has bent extraordinary efforts to secure financing for such with sophomoric fervor. As the quest proceeds, Mother Nature takes her daily, monthly and yearly toll from our beaches, and not a solitary, definitive prevention has been placed in her way to prevent this erosion for the past six years.

Months have passed since permits for the stabilizers have been sought; months have passed while no permits for the seaweed have been applied for. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been expended while the search for money and the debate, the delays continue. But the beach continues to erode.

The reason for an Alternate Methods Committee has been lost in the Search for Gold. The committee's purpose is to recommend protection for our beach until money for dredging can be obtained, if possible. Recommendations were made, presented and approved, but the CEPD has not acted. Why have an Alternate Methods Committee? It is an exercise in futility.

For these reasons, I resign from the Alternate Methods Committee.

Leo Hofschneider

Grateful recipient of emergency services thanks paramedics, police and fire departments

A copy of the following letter was given to The Islander for publication.

To the members of the Sanibel paramedic team
The Sanibel Police Department and the Sanibel Fire Department:

On Sunday, March 25, you kind people responded immediately in transporting me to Fort Myers Community Hospital. Unfortunately, upon awakening my dear husband had discovered me in shock, and he immediately called the emergency number.

Within minutes your dedicated and professional team of paramedics successfully treated and transported me by helicopter to the emergency room of Community Hospital.

The coordinated teamwork between the paramedics, police and fire department often means the difference between life and death for the hurt and impaired on Sanibel and Captiva.

Many, many heartfelt thanks are due to you for saving my husband, who suffered a stroke on Christmas night this past year.

Thanks to you very special people, we both are here with our loving family and friends to enjoy the friendliness and lifestyle that makes Sanibel so special to us all.

My sincere thanks,
Enore Wood

done so, I was subsequently shocked by inquiries as to any previous suspensions of my "driver" license due to erratic conduct in a motor vehicle, any unseemly predilection for liquor and/or drugs, the presence of mental disorders and any propensity for dizziness and fainting spells behind the wheel (the hearing test).

Following that oral proof of competency, one waits for a photograph in full color. One elderly lady, who obviously felt that she had endured more than enough for the remainder of her lifetime, innocently inquired, "Am I finished now?" "Almost," replied the officer. "Just take a seat over there...and I'll shoot you."

When I subsequently followed the elderly lady to "the chair," I noted a small sign on the camera. In essence, please don't complain about your picture. The camera merely immortalizes what it sees.

Once I was ensconced in the chair, trepidation pouring from every pore, the officer did not threaten to shoot me. Rather, she quipped, "Well, let's see how much you've improved with age!"

Some time later, clutching my renewed license (with its infamous photo), the picture-taking officer called out, "See you in four years!" "O.K.," I replied.

Alas, the photo fanatic failed to hear my reply. "Hey, you didn't answer me!" she shouted in stentorian tones. (Omigod, shades of 16 revisited.) How could I possibly suggest to the cheerful officer that her hearing might leave something to be desired?

MUNICIPAL RECORDS

By Barbara Brundage

City manager reports land bank on Sanibel would have raised $2 million-plus in 1983

A 2 percent transfer tax on 1983 real estate sales on Sanibel would have produced $2.3 million for the city, City Manager Bernie Murphy reported to the City Council last week.

Transactions totaling $115,518,794 included $56,578,320 for the sale of condominium and interval ownership units, $26,139,074 of vacant residential land and $24,745,000 of single-family homes.

In response to a council request Murphy researched records at the Lee County Data Center to arrive at the figures in connection with determining the feasibility of the city's establishing a land bank similar to one on Nantucket Island, Mass.

The revenue from the 2 percent real estate tax would be one source of income for Sanibel to acquire environmentally sensitive wetlands.

The price tag for acquiring all lands with an elevation below three feet is estimated to exceed $4.5 million, Murphy said. That figure is based on an inventory done by city planners.

Because of the enormous amount of money that could be generated by a 2 percent real estate tax in only one year, Murphy suggested the city might consider a lower tax rate.

Because public acquisition of private property is a lengthy procedure it might be better to levy a 1 percent tax and extend the sunset date of the law over several years, he said.

But Mayor Fred Valtin reminded the council that legislation from the state would be necessary in order for Sanibel to set up a land bank patterned after Nantucket's.

State Sen. Frank Mann is now carrying the ball, Valtin said.

Mann has submitted details of the Nantucket plan to Robert Kennedy, director of the state Senate

Legal Services, to determine whether it is possible to implement under Florida's constitution.

Mann was skeptical that he could get support from other legislators for a general law authorizing all local governments in Florida to levy such a tax where there is specific need for public acquisition of lands.

It would stand a better chance if the option were limited to municipalities on "barrier islands with wetlands," Mann said.

Nantucket's real estate tax is mandated by a special act of the Massachusetts Legislature and was approved by a referendum of Nantucket Island voters.

Murphy was directed to advise Mann of the amount of revenue the 2 percent tax would produce on Sanibel.

Nearby homeowners withdraw objections

Shell road leading to Kinzie Island will be paved

Blacktopping a 180-foot stretch of public shell road leading to the Kinzie Island subdivision won City Council approval last week after the council learned the owners of the two homes fronting on the right-of-way had withdrawn their objections to paving.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Doke told the council last Tuesday that dust raised by vehicles involved in pre-construction activity at the proposed subdivision had changed their minds about the need for paving.

As a condition of approval for John Goode's development permit for the 13 single-family home subdivision, the Planning Commission ruled the 50-foot-wide right-of-way from East Gulf Drive to the Kinzie Island bridge should be improved to city standards but left unpaved.

But because Goode plans to blacktop the private interior road on the island, the council agreed it was inappropriate to leave the right-of-way strip unpaved.

Public Works Director Gary Price recommended paving the strip because of the problems in maintaining shell roads.

City policy outlined in the Comprehensive Land Use Plan encourages keeping roads in a "natural state" where possible to retain more permeable surface.

In the past year Price has recommended paving for public roads because of the problems maintaining shell surfaces and in view of evidence that shell surfaces are only 25 percent permeable.

The council will review this policy at a special meeting at 9 a.m. Wednesday, April 11, when the feasibility of three-laning portions of Periwinkle Way to provide left turn stacking lanes will be discussed.

Councilmen Louise Johnson and Mike Klein both cited their "philosophical opposition" to paving areas of the Island that are not subject to heavy traffic.

But both voted with the three other councilmen to approve the paving that would be paid for by developer Goode.

The council also unanimously approved naming this 180-foot strip and the private road on the island Kinzie Island Court.

Goode had requested the road be called Kinzie Island Lane, but Planner Jean Isley said "court" rather than "lane" would be the proper designation because the road ends in a cul-de-sac and is not a through road.

The Planning Department has not yet issued the development permit for the proposed subdivision, Planning Director Bruce Rogers said.

The Planning Commission has reaffirmed that a report on the safety of the wooden bridge to the island must be submitted to the city before the permit can be issued.

Priscilla Murphy Center development plans okayed

The City Council last week approved Stanley Johnson's request to develop the Priscilla Murphy Center on Periwinkle Way with 7,000 square feet of commercial floor area on 1.09 acres on the north side of the property and three duplexes and a swimming pool on 1.11 acres on the south side.

Both areas will be under condominium ownership. Separate documents will outline rules for operation and maintenance of both the commercial and residential developments.

The specific amendment that splits the property into commercial and residential condominiums changes what would be permitted for buildback in the event the development is destroyed. Only what is on the ground floor right now could be rebuilt, City Attorney David La Croix explained.

He said this provision was not precedent setting because it was a legislative decision by the council.

Johnson's project is the first to trade-off permitted commercial floor area in a development for residential units on the site, Planning Director Bruce Rogers pointed out.

But it will not be the last, Rogers said, since several similar requests are now under review by the planning staff.

The provision was adopted by the city to encourage residential development of commercially zoned property on Periwinkle Way.

Guidelines for satellite dishes receive first City Council review

Not one of the handful of Sanibel residents who had expressed an interest in installing television satellite dish antennas was on hand last week when the City Council considered on first reading an ordinance outlining standards for use of the dishes on the Island.

Planning Director Bruce Rogers said he had had no communication from the Sundial Condominium Association, which wanted to install an earth station to pick up television signals for the 400 units now serviced by Cablevision of the Islands.

Rogers said Chuck Chappelle, who installs satellite dishes in Lee County, called the installation requirements outlined in the ordinance "reasonable."

Standards for installing the dish antennas, which can receive signals from orbiting satellites or other extra-terrestrial bodies, apply to both residential and commercial sites.

Under the proposed ordinance earth stations must be placed so there is minimum visual impact on surrounding properties and must be screened with architectural devices or vegetation that harmonizes with the area.

Installation on roofs is prohibited, and when the earth station is the principal structure such as one for commercial cablevision use, it cannot exceed the building height limitation of 45 feet.

The council deleted a provision that required the applicant to demonstrate that the earth station would not produce electromagnetic interference on adjacent properties. The council also reduced from 27 to 20 feet the distance the antenna can be located from an overhead electrical power line.

Because of setback requirements some properties might not be large enough to permit installation of the County officials set deadline for Bowman's Beach improvements

Lee County has been pinned down to a completion date for its share of improvements at Bowman's Beach regional park, Mayor Fred Valtin reported to the City Council last week. The improvements were outlined in an interlocal agreement made with the city three years ago.

As a result of a meeting March 29 with County Commissioner Porter Goss, County Administrator Lavon Wisner and the county Parks and Recreation Department staff, Sanibel has been assured the restrooms and ticket booth at the popular beach will be in place by Dec. 1, Valtin said.

In a joint venture with the county the city of Sanibel started its part of a proposed $100,000 improvement program in December 1981.

City crews completed construction of a new bridge beach access and improvements to the parking lot in mid-1982 at a cost of almost $50,000, Price said.

Under the 1981 agreement the county was to take over maintenance and security at the park when the bridge was finished.

At last month's meeting Valtin, with the help of City Manager Bernie Murphy and Public Works Director

Gary Price, persuaded county representatives that Sanibel has completed its obligation and the time has come for the county to finish Phase I of planned development.

The county agreed to use its own crews to build restrooms large enough for the potential maximum peak usage.

The approximately $50,000 left in the joint fund will cover the cost of installing utilities and the septic tank sewage system.

An existing building would be moved to the site to be used as a ticket booth when the proposed user's fee is initiated.

Within six months four full-time personnel will be assigned seven days a week for maintenance and security at the park. Two ground maintenance personnel to pick up litter will be assigned earlier.

The sheriff's department currently patrols the beach.

The park will be maintained as a natural, low key facility with no vendors or concessions allowed. The park operation will be funded from the county's budget, Valtin said.

Plans announced for more parking at Nerita Street gulf beach access Spaces for 15 cars will be added to the restricted parking area at the Nerita Street gulf beach access.

A vacant lot south of Middle Gulf Drive at Nerita Street, dedicated to the city for public use several years ago as a condition of a development permit, will be utilized to increase available parking to 45 spaces, Assistant City Manager Gary Price told the City Council last week.

Residential or restricted parking permit stickers will be required, he said.

The area has been used for parking by residents of neighboring Coquina Beach condominiums, where parking space is inadequate, Price said.

Councilman Bill Hagerup suggested that a sign should be placed on the site indicating it is for "beach parking only."

The council will take final action April 17 on Price's request to add this area to the official parking zone map.

Improvements to gulf-front property can remain despite lack of permits

Alan Dietz and his wife changed the configuration and screened in a deck on a studio cottage in front of the main house on their gulf-front property.

They made the repairs themselves with the help of a friend and said they did not know a city permit was required for such a "minor project."

Curious neighbors reported to city officials the activity on the property by the new owners.

While investigating the complaint officials discovered the studio was located forward of the Coastal Construction Setback Line.

As a lawfully existing use under CLUP regulations the cottage could not be enlarged, and to permit the porch to remain the Dietzes needed a specific amendment.

After hearing the Dietzes' story the Planning Commission recommended City Council approval of the expansion.

Last week the Dietzes' attorney, James Dvorin, explained to the council that there was no intent on his clients' part to violate CLUP and asked that the repairs be allowed to stand.

Councilman Mike Klein proposed the council accept the fact that the repairs were made and that the Dietzes did not know they needed a permit.

After an hour-long reprise of the situation the council granted the variance for the porch and also agreed

Amendment considered for ROGO would make more points possible

If the City Council approves on April 27 an ordinance amending the point assignment system used in evaluating Rate of Growth applications, hopeful home builders will be able to score an additional three points.

A new energy conservation criterion allots one point for insulating ceilings, walls and floors of the house with material of the highest resistance to transfer of temperatures.

Another point can be accumulated by installing: a solar hot water heater (.4), ceiling fans in all rooms in the house with the exception of the kitchen and bathrooms (.3), and a wood-burning stove or fireplace (.3).

The third point can be earned by single-family home applicants by providing a private nature preserve of at least two acres on the site along with two other recreational amenities such as a swimming pool, tennis court, private beach access or frontage on a canal navigable to San Carlos Bay.

Shortly after the November ROGO allocation the council voted to delete the water conservation criterion for scoring because water-saving toilets that earned a point do not accomplish the objective of saving water.

The use of the state's EPI form 902 was discontinued and the Planning Department charged with coming up with alternative ways to save energy.

Planning Director Bruce Rogers said the suggestions proposed in the ordinance were based on tightened energy requirements of the state's new model Energy Performance Index that went into effect April 2.

Solar heaters, fans and fireplaces reduce electric energy consumption, Rogers pointed out. None of these items will require additional inspections or calculations by staff when scoring ROGO applications, he said.

The ordinance also amends the vegetation criterion by changing the starting point for measuring the area to be vegetated from the minimum front yard setback to 25 feet from the front property line.

Dietzes' improvements can remain from page 8A

A chickee hut on the beach that had been renovated by the previous owner of the property could remain.

But they added a condition that the two houses can be rented only for periods of a month or longer and to only one lessee at a time.

During the discussion it was revealed that the Dietzes had been renting the main house and cottage to separate families for periods less than 30 days.

This violates the city's law that prohibits short term rentals in areas not in the resort housing zone and also violates deed restrictions of the Rocks subdivision.

George Brauch, president of the Rocks Civic Association, said residents had complained to the previous owner that short term rentals of both houses were not permitted in the single-family subdivision. He said the owner had promised to stop the practice.

Councilman Louise Johnson said, "The problem was more than the length of time of rentals. You have two rentals in a single-family zone."

Dvorin said renting both houses to separate renters was "historical" going on for more than 20 years and was an established use.

Though Dvorin protested that the rental situation should not be considered as part of the specific amendment, the council persisted in tacking on to the approval the provision limiting rental of all or any part of the property to one party at any one time.

City Attorney David La Croix warned that though this restriction is "presumptively valid until challenged" it might be attacked as a violation of "free alienability of property."

This tenet of English common law prohibits attaching strings that deprive an owner of full use of his property, La Croix explained.

Dietz said he had no objection to limiting rentals to 30 days, but he wanted his clients to have the right to rent both properties to different parties, which he said would happen only a very short time during the year.

But allowing that would set a precedent, Johnson said. "There are several properties that have guest cottages that were rented out before the city was incorporated but that owners now consider not rentable," she said.

Rogers pointed out that the purpose of the ordinance was to protect the interest of the general public and community at large — not to guarantee that everyone can install an antennae dish.

Councilman Francis Bailey said the ordinance focused on the "esthetics of earth stations and their potential as missiles during a storm."

"It provides standards for permitting something for which there were no rules before," Mayor Fred Valtin said. "I think it's a reasonable step in the right direction."

As a general amendment to the Comprehensive Land Use Plan, the ordinance was reviewed by state, regional and county planning agencies, none of whom had any objections.

Final council action on the ordinance is scheduled for 5:01 p.m. Tuesday, April 17.

He's got the dough

Veteran baker hopes 'mystery bread' is his recipe for fame and fortune

A bread lover smells the freshly baked loaf of brown bread, then takes a taste. "Well, there's honey in it for sure," he says.

"No. No, there's not," says Norman Farwell, a professional baker for 45 years who is this season's baker-in-residence at the Island Inn on Sanibel. "It may smell like it, but there's no honey in it at all," he says.

"What is in it then?" the bread lover asks.

"Ah, that's the mystery," Farwell laughs.

The ingredients might be secret, but Farwell's goals for his speciality are not. After receiving compliments for his baked goods since his army days, Farwell, now 62, plans to make his fortune with his "Mystery Bread." He has just signed the final papers for establishing a patent on the bread, and he soon hopes to market the bread all over the United States.

"I lived behind a bakery as a boy," laughs Farwell. "And I loved to watch my mother bake, so the baking business seemed to be a good thing to go into. After all, people have to eat."

The itinerant baker has travelled the resort route for nearly 40 years. He left the Army in 1945 and then studied with the National Baking Institute in Chicago. Then he hit the road, baking at resorts all over New England in the summer months and all over Florida in the winter.

He invented the mystery bread in 1962, and admits it has at least 15 different ingredients.

"I got out of bed one morning and the first thing I know I was smelling this bread in my house," he says in his singalong New England twang. "Now, this was just in my imagination, you see. But by combining my imagination with my knowledge I made it and it's been a hit ever since."

Farwell believes it is his imagination that spurs him to create baked goods, whether it be an exotic applesauce and raisin spice cake or a simpler pumpkin pie.

"I like to try all kinds of different things," he says. "In baking you want to create something that is truly different."

Farwell hopes his Mystery Bread is different enough to be successful in what he sees as a very competitive market.

"And then there will be no more working winters," says Farwell, who has a permanent residence in St. Petersburg.

But even if Farwell does make his fortune, he says he will continue inventing baked specialties. His next project — a pancake that flips over by itself, he jokes.

Veteran baker Norman Farwell won't give away his recipe, but he promises his "Mystery Bread" will tantalize your taste buds. Farwell plans to market his bread

Islanders who find interesting business shorts in their general reading are invited to share them with The Islander and our readers in this monthly feature by Scott Martell.

Sanibel

•Traffic over the Causeway broke all records on Friday, March 16. The 8,470 vehicles that crossed the span that day established an all time high since the Causeway was built in 1963. But by last week, the traffic over the causeway had settled down to 6,700 to 6,800 vehicles per day.

•The highest real estate sales on Sanibel came from condominium and interval ownership places in 1983. In this classification, $56,578,320 worth of real estate was sold last year. The next highest classifications were vacant residential and single-family homes with $26 million and $24.7 million in sales respectively. (From report submitted by City Manager Bernie Murphy to City Council)

Lee County

•Housing starts in Lee County numbered 7,696 during 1983, up 73 percent from 4,450 in 1982 for the third biggest year in history. Only the boom years 1973 with 9,247 units and 1978 with 8,186 units reported greater activity.

In 1983 residential permits were issued at a rate of 32 per 1,000 population, or 4.7 times the national rate of 6.88 units per 1,000 population.

•The value of permits for commercial and public buildings in Lee County did set a record in 1983. The total was $130.2 million last year, up 77 percent from $73.5 million in 1982, the previous all-time high.

•Unemployment in Lee County stood at 6,650 (5.9 percent) in December 1983, down from 9,400 (8.8 percent) one year earlier. During 1983 unemployment dropped from a high of 11,100 (10.4 percent) in February. (Lee County information from The Fort Myers Economist, published by the First National Bank in Fort Myers)

Florida

•The biggest bank in Florida is the Barnett Bank, with assets of $9.4 billion. Net earnings for this bank were $81.9 million in 1983, up from 56.8 million in 1982. (From Florida Trend magazine)

•In a survey of Florida Trend readers, South Seas Plantation was chosen as one of the "Best Bets" for business meetings. The Captiva resort was ranked higher for pleasure than business in a complementary poll for the same article. (From Florida Trend magazine)

The World

•Brazilian orange growers are reaping windfall profits following frost damage to Florida's harvest — expected to boost Brazilian juice sales to the United States by 150 percent.

•West Germany has become the fifth largest supplier of arms to the Third World, selling to more than 72 developing nations. The trend began under Helmut Schmidt's government with increasing relaxation of the 35-year-old law against weapons exports to areas of conflict.

•Japan's Olympus Optical Co. hopes to reverse a recent decline in camera sales by accelerating product development to introduce new models every two years. Olympus, whose sales declined 2.9 percent last year, hopes to reach this goal by integrating research and development on its diverse product lines.

•Egypt's ambitious and controversial nuclear energy program, which calls for eight new reactors at a cost of about $10 billion, has prompted a rash of foreign bids. The project is designed to meet 40 percent of the country's electricity demand by the turn of the century.

LAND'S END

On The Tip Of Beautiful
CAPTIVA ISLAND

the Pride of The Plantation

South Seas Plantation, created by The Mariner Group, is pleased to present Land's End Village . . . a small, private, self contained village nestled at the far tip of The Plantation on beautiful Captiva Island. Land's End Village, a unique and secluded collection of vacation villas, is truly the best that South Seas has to offer in vacation residences.

Land's End Village has been designed as a private recreational and residential community within the boundaries of the South Seas Plantation Resort. Located adjacent to Redfish Pass, Pine Island Sound and the Gulf of Mexico, the village units offer incomparable water views and real privacy. Access is via a tree shaded winding lane along the bay to a special entrance gate. The village includes its own swimming pool, heated spa, two tennis courts, poolside lanai, and, of course, the adjacent sandy beach of the Gulf of Mexico.

A great deal of care has been taken to ensure that the vacation villas at Land's End Village reflect the experience gained over the past twelve years of development at South Seas. In addition to substantial engineering design and traditional island styling, the villas are carefully sited to provide outstanding views and to take advantage of year 'round tropical breezes. All parking is located beneath the buildings, maximizing green space and minimizing roadways. Extensive tropical landscaping is used to enhance building separation and provide privacy to each residence. All floor plans feature corner locations with side windows and extensive open decks and screened porches.

Land's End Village truly represents the best that South Seas has to offer in vacation residences. Its owners will have access to a myriad of resort amenities, facilities, and recreational programs if they desire. The Village has been designed as a very special place . . . a tribute to the value and success of South Seas Plantation as one of the world's finest resort communities.

The villas at Land's End Village are spectacular in many ways!

Each residence is designed to provide a 180 degree panoramic view of the surrounding water areas, virtually unobstructed, and very private. And with two floorplans, a number of exciting options, and seventeen distinct locations to choose from, they can accommodate even the most discriminating purchaser's particular needs.

First floor villas have 2100 square feet of living area and feature a large living room with optional wet bar, separate dining area, and kitchen with pantry . . . all with a panoramic view. An extensive master suite and large guest bedroom and bath, with its own outside balcony, are provided along with a delightful screened porch area and extensive open decks. This combination of interior plan, screened porch area and open deck space is usually found only in individual homes.

The penthouse villas have over 3400 square feet of living area . . . larger than many homes. They feature a similar living, dining, and kitchen area, and provide two bedrooms on the entry

Gooderham's fees.

"And considering the project is estimated at $6.5 million, a 2.4 percent managing fee is not excessive," Stevens told the board. "We have all the permits (for renourishment), the design is complete, we're moving along to find the funding, and at some point the project has to be done," he said.

"I want to see this project go forward, obviously, or I wouldn't be hanging around here," he added.

Bruning, who opposed continuing the contract, said he understood that if the funds for renourishment from the all-Captiva MSTU did not materialize, then the services of the project manager would not be continued on the same monthly basis.

"Instead, we should look at putting Stevens on a retainer basis and see if we might do this all more efficiently," Bruning said.

Bruning, chairman of the now defunct Alternative Methods Committee, added his committee "had no project manager for anything." He indicated perhaps it was wrong to pay Stevens for being a project manager exclusively for renourishment, adding that he felt on a retainer basis Stevens could advise the board on other beach protection methods.

"I have the feeling that a gulf-front MSTU is viable," countered Dewitt Jones. "I think it's acceptable and should be done." And since the funding can occur and the project can go ahead in the near future, it would be a waste to terminate Stevens' contract at this point, he maintained.

"This is the most difficult job I've ever had in my life," Jones said. "We don't have a big staff. We can't talk to each other (about CEPD business except at public meetings, as is required under Florida's Sunshine Law). And we are not experts. Dick and Kate (Stevens and Gooderham) are experts. For us on the board to try to do everything ourselves would be ridiculous."

Commissioner Burr felt it was not the time to discuss Stevens' contract. "We really haven't come to a change of course yet," he said. "We're still trying to fund renourishment with a MSTU."

Stevens said he believed some Captivans want his contract terminated so the renourishment project will die.

Commissioner Peg Hofschneider assured him that was not the feeling of the commissioners. She said she was more interested in spending taxpayers' money in the most efficient manner.

Bruning added he was not critical of Stevens' operation, but that he, too, was simply looking for the best application of taxpayers' funds.

Stevens countered by saying should the CEPD keep Gooderham at a flat rate of $2,000 a month and put him on a retainer basis of $60 an hour, the cost to the CEPD more than likely would be much higher than the $4,000 monthly fee.

Stevens appeared to consider the $2,000 flat rate for Gooderham's services as non-negotiable. But Burr felt the fee was questionable because it amounted to $25 an hour. Hofschneider added that the prime rate for executive secretaries on Sanibel was closer to $8.71 an hour.

Stevens countered by saying Gooderham was not an executive secretary, but instead a professional in the coastal engineering field. He added that she also has taken over the duties of "agent" for the CEPD, a position previously held by Dex Bender.

After the motion to continue the project manager's contract passed, several Captivans in the audience voiced their disapproval at what they said was a myopic path for renourishment over alternative methods.

"You've been dragging your feet on alternative methods," charged Leo Hofschneider, who later announced his resignation from the Alternative Methods Committee.

The letter also expressed Hofschneider's frustration with a board "obsessed with renourishment while nature takes her daily, monthly and yearly toll from our beaches."

"I can't understand why you spent all this time going after (renourishment) permits you don't have money for," said Kay Schultz from the audience. "And then you get a lot of money for a project you haven't got permits for (the Blind Pass groin and the perpendicular stabilizers)."

Leo Hofschneider's letter also spurred a discussion that ended in the abolishment of the Alternative Methods Committee.

"I can't object to that," said Burr, who was also a committee member. "It is a very technical subject we were trying to deal with, and often we were forced to make decisions on a political and public relations basis. And I can't think of two more invalid reasons as far as engineering."

The committee was organized in 1981 to determine whether renourishment was the route the CEPD should take, Burr said. The committee studied the issue and all the members signed a report saying renourishment was the best method to protect Captiva's beaches.

The other committee goal was to come up with alternative erosion control methods, which the members did, Burr said.

One of the alternatives the committee suggested was the perpendicular stabilizers, which the CEPD is now pursuing. The committee did not consider the artificial seaweed experimental project, which seems to have stalled and provided the impetus for Leo Hofschneider's letter.

"We are very anxious to get the stabilizers under our belt," Peg Hofschneider said. "But I don't think we should stop and smell the roses on the seaweed project. For some reason I think you've decided not to pursue this fully."

"John (Burr) and I have had our butts knocked off with all the state agencies, the complaints, the permits (while) working to get the perpendicular stabilizers," Bruning said. "We just don't have time to go after another method when we're so involved with this one."

Burr added officials at the state Department of Environmental Resources have told him "no-way" would they permit a seaweed project in Southwest Florida at this time.

"So we'd be wasting our money to go after this project at this time," Burr said. He said there were three seaweed projects now being monitored in Florida than can be observed for free, including one at Longboat Key.

POLICE BEAT

All information in the following reports was taken directly from Sanibel Police Department records.

Police investigated the theft of more than $150 in coins from a soda vending machine at the West Wind Inn Friday morning, March 30. The machine had been opened with a key and the cash box removed.

Several household items valued at $1,050 were reported missing from a unit at Sanibel Cottages Saturday morning, March 31. A Eureka vacuum cleaner, an antique oil lamp, a set of Craftsmen tools and four crystal wine glasses were taken from the living room and a bedroom in the unit.

A Sanibel woman reported she had lost a white motorcycle helmet decorated with handpainted roses around Gulfside Place condominiums Saturday afternoon, March 31.

Police broke up a large party on the beach near the Ramada Inn around 11:30 p.m. Saturday, March 31. A Sanibel Siesta condominiums resident had complained that the group was setting off fireworks. Police found no fireworks in the area.

A group of people extinguished the fire they had on the beach upon request from police around 11:30 p.m. Sunday, April 1.

An unidentified complainant reported several cars were drag racing on Donax Street around 1:30 a.m. Monday, April 2. Police found no one speeding in the area.

Police charged a Sanibel man with possession of stolen property Tuesday morning, April 3. Gary Joseph King, 25, is a resident of the Coconut Grove help's quarters. Police were led to King's room after three tourists said they had seen him earlier that morning in the tent that was used for the First Baptist Church of Sanibel revival on grounds across from the Coconut Grove restaurant.

The pastor of the church reported four speakers and one public address system amplifier valued at $1,700 were missing from the tent Tuesday morning.

Police found the missing items under King's bed. He was taken to the Lee County Jail.

Police arrested another Coconut Grove employee who was wanted by

IRS phone service provides free help for last-minute taxpayers

Because April 15 falls on Sunday this year, taxpayers have one more day to file their 1983 federal income tax returns.

To help taxpayers with their last minute questions the Internal Revenue Service now has 200 volunteers on the statewide toll-free telephone system. Taxpayers should call 1-800-424-1040. The telephone assistance center is open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays. On April 16 the center will be open until 5 p.m.

The IRS also offers some tips to last-minutes taxpayers:

- Make sure all W-2 forms and required schedules are attached;
- Verify all arithmetic;
- Report all taxable income;
- Double-check the figure obtained from the tax table;
- Sign your return;
- Do not send cash if taxes are due; send a check or money order and include your social security number;
- Use the peel-off address label and mail your return in the envelope that came with your tax package.

A Florida 'Bottle Bill' - an apple pie piece of legislation

If you believe Sanibel should not have the litter problem that it does have; if you believe in conserving energy and natural resources; if you believe in saving taxpayers' money and creating more jobs — then you should immediately write state Sen. Frank Mann and Rep. Fred Dudley and let them know you support the proposed "Bottle Bill."

The state Legislature convened last week, and the bottle bill is one of the most important issues the lawmakers will discuss during this session.

The bill already has failed once in Florida. It is a measure that would place a 5-cent deposit on bottles and cans.

Eight states have now followed Oregon's lead in setting up a bottle bill. When Oregon officials praised the positive effects of its bottle bill, many other states still hesitated to follow suit. But now voices from New York, Michigan, Vermont, Maine, Connecticut, Iowa, Delaware and Massachusetts have all voiced their approval.

There is no excuse for Florida to wait any longer.

There is nothing easier than putting a box in a garage or closet, saving up a load of bottles and cans, and then returning them to the store for a handful of cash.

The chore is easy, and all the while you know you are contributing to a worthwhile effort.

Not many people contest the fact that litter is ugly or that a bottle bill would contribute considerably toward solving the problem. But there are thoughts that such a bill would pose problems in other areas.

An interesting study by John Rozett, an economic development expert who tackled the bottle bill question for then-Gov. Hugh Carey of New York, shed some light on several such worries.

Rozett's research helped change Carey's mind about the bottle bill. Carey had previously adamantly opposed a bottle bill for his state.

Rozett's research showed:

- That the bottle bill actually results in a net gain in jobs — mainly in handling and recycling bottles and cans. The jobs the glass industry claimed it would lose were being lost because of a switch to plastic bottles, not because of a bottle bill, Rozett reported.

- Increased recycling would save 6.5 percent of landfill costs, which would translate to $29 million for the state of New York (and $17 million for Florida). This is something that should make any taxpayer take notice, particularly considering the memory of Proposition One.

- That a bottle bill would result in energy savings because it takes far less energy to recycle a can or bottle than it does to make one from raw materials. "It's 10 times as important as the 55-mph speed limit in terms of conserving energy," Rozette was quoted in an Associated Press story.

Then there is the effect a bottle bill can have on litter, which is what the bill really comes down to on Sanibel. Our beaches are minefields of unsightly cans. Even our treasured wild areas are frequently depositories for bottles or cans.

While a bottle bill will not solve the problem completely, it could help.

So write Mann (P.O. Box 1268, Fort Myers 33902) and urge his support of Senate Bill 216, and Dudley (1708 Cape Coral Parkway, Cape Coral 33904) and urge his support of House Bill 440.

Your support will help.

Logo contest has cleaner Island in mind

Here's a chance to design a logo that says litter and the Islands doesn't mix.

The goal, a cleaner Island, is a good one. Actually designing a logo could be fun. And the rewards aren't bad, either.

Here are some basic ground rules for the contest:

- May 1 is the deadline for submitting logos. Individuals can submit as many entries as they like.

- Entries can be submitted in person or mailed to the Sanibel Recreation Complex, Drawer Q, Sanibel 33957; or to The Islander, P.O. Box 56, Sanibel 33957.

- Entries must be on standard 8½x11-inch white paper and must be done in one color only. Make a message as clear as possible. That means few words, with an emphasis on a graphic that can be seen easily from a distance or from a moving vehicle.

- All copyrights must be turned over to the Environmental Concern Group — the group that is sponsoring the contest as part of its litter-free Islands campaign.

- The logos will be judged in three age classifications with the following awards: The first class is for youngsters through fifth grade. The person with the winning logo will receive a free dinner for his family at Peppers restaurant. The second class is for sixth through 12th grade students. The award for this group is $25. The third class is for adults over 18. The winner in this group will also receive $25.

The grand prize winner can come from any of these groups and will win $50 and will likely see his logo on signs around the Island. There is also a chance that winning logos from each of the three classes will be used on posters around the Island.

- For more information on the logo contest call The Islander, 472-5185.

Island scouting groups need help with clean-up

Scouting organizations throughout the United States will embark on Project SOAR — Save Our American Resources — Saturday, April 14, in a nationwide effort to clean American streets.

The scouting groups of Sanibel and Captiva are sponsoring SOAR on the Islands. With the help of adults and young people of Sanibel and Captiva, 75 miles of streets and roads on these sister Islands will be picked clean of any debris that is visible from the road.

Many people and vehicles are needed to make this project the "clean sweep" it should be. Local SOAR organizers are confident that Sanibel-Captiva residents — always conscious of the need to preserve the ecology and beauty of the Islands — will respond to their call for help.

The project will require the use of 60 pick-up trucks, vans or wagons, trailers; men and women to drive these vehicles; 300 people to do the clean-up work, including both youngsters and adults; and approximately 30 people to handle general operations.

The project is planned for 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, April 14. Each truck and driver (crew chief) will be assigned four workers and 20 trash bags and will cover a two-mile stretch.

Following the clean-up, all trucks will be swept clean and washed out with a hose, if necessary. The trash bags will be delivered to the receiving site, where six people will help stack the trash in dumpsters for city pick-up.

Volunteers with trucks will meet at Sanibel Elementary School on Sanibel-Captiva Road at 8:30 a.m. and will return to the same site when their two-mile stretch is completed.

Following the clean-up a barbeque, games and other activities will be provided for all workers at the school. The recreation center tennis courts, ball field, and swimming pool will be open.

Volunteers are urged to call project chairman Ron Sebald as soon as possible so that all arrangements can be made. Sebald can be reached at 472-4141 days and at 489-2398 evenings and weekends.

SEAFOOD BUFFET

Wednesdays

'Tween Waters Inn originated the Seafood Buffet many, many years ago. It is now widely copied on these islands but, most people think, never surpassed.

What a feast! Start with a fresh stone crab or oyster cocktail, and then you can stuff yourself with all you care to eat of fresh Gulf Shrimp, charbroiled Shark steak, fried Grouper fingers, baked Flounder, steamed Mussels, Linguini and Clams, and even Roast beef au jus. Conch Chowder, of course, plus fresh local vegetables, potatoes, a copious salad bar, and, if you still have room, a selection of desserts. Inclusive of beverage — Coffee, Tea, Soda or Milk — $16.95 plus tax & gratuity. Children's prices available.

Remember, 'Tween Waters Inn is situated right on the water on Captiva Island. A good deal of our fish, shrimp and stone crab claws is brought in fresh daily to our own docks. You can't get it any better.

CEPD at a glance

By Scott Martell

In addition to the action reported on page 1 of this week's paper, the Captiva Erosion Prevention District last week considered the following issues:

•Both Project Manager Dick Stevens and Commissioner Peg Hofschneider said the district stands a good chance of losing the $405,900 that is the state's contribution to the renourishment finance package.

Last year the district lost approximately $300,000 from the original $700,000 state contribution after the lack of public parking on Captiva became clear. Now Captiva could lose the remainder of the funds because of what the state sees as a lack of progress in implementing the renourishment project.

•The finance package that includes the gulf-front MSTU combined with the 4 percent Causeway surplus fund and the one mil extra in ad valorem tax has been put on hold until Lee County Commissioner Porter Goss can research two points for the CEPD.

Goss will find out from County Administrator Lavon Wisher how far the county would be willing to go on an assessment for the county's beachfront footage on Captiva. He said $500,000 would surely be too high, and perhaps the figure would be closer to $250,000.

Goss also said he would check on the technicalities of a borrow-payback agreement concerning the 4 percent Causeway surplus fund. Currently, $364,500 is in escrow from this fund. With a gulf-front MSTU, the CEPD needs an additional $461,000 to $600,000 to fully pay for renourishment. The board hopes to get this money from the fund in escrow, some borrowed from this fund on a borrow-payback agreement, and then an addition of one mil of ad valorem tax extended to 1985. •Stevens said the coastal construction permit for the Blind Pass groin has been completed and sent to state officials for review. Now begins a process that will likely lead to a public hearing. Stevens added that the CEPD could have the permits in hand by July "if you really push for it."

The board has decided to try a night meeting with hopes of drawing a larger and more varied audience. The night meeting will be held at 7 p.m. Monday, May 7, at the Captiva Civic Association.

The Devil's Trumpet

The Angel's Trumpet

The daturas

Popular species is aromatic, exquisitely beautiful...
and DEADLY

By George Campbell
Illustrated by Ann Winterbotham

On Sanibel several species of Datura are grown for the beauty of their showy, large, sometimes huge and usually heavily-scented flowers.

For hundreds, maybe thousands of years, members of the genus Datura have been grown for many other and sometimes less-savory purposes. Some have been used in crime. This widespread use has earned some members of the genus the apt epithet "Criminals' Delight."

Other species have been employed in folk medicine and still others in ritualistic hallucinogenic primitive tribal rites.

The origins of some popular Datura species are obscure. The word itself goes back to early Sanscrit dhustra, which in modern Hindi is Dhatura and simply means "tree." By the time Avicenna, the great and perhaps first real physician, came along in the 11th century, the word had evolved to Datura, an Arabic derivation.

Datura belongs to the Nightshade family along with tomatoes, potatoes and eggplants. This family, solanaceae, is the source of many very poisonous substances generically called the solanaceous alkaloids.

Some of the substances are destroyed by cooking. For example, "new potatoes" eaten raw are very poisonous; properly cooked they are delicious and nutritious.

One of the best known of these substances is Belladonna or atropine, extracted from Atropa belladonna, native to Europe. This alkaloid is widely used in modern medicine as an antispasmodic and secretion-inhibitor. It is also used in ophthalmology to dilate the pupil to enable the practitioner to examine the interior of the eye, especially the retina.

An allied solanaceous alkaloid, scopolamine, has a brand new use. When it is stuck to the inside of a small waterproof bandage that is affixed behind the ear, enough chemical passes into the system to calm the inner balancing mechanism, thus preventing mal-de-mer in susceptible ocean and air travelers. It even helps in car sickness, which is less frequently reported these days, given smoothly riding cars and good roads.

So you see, enough good things derive from solanaceous plants perhaps to counter-balance the bad things that are discussed below.

A few years ago, while in Central Africa with a group of Sanibel naturalists, we stumbled upon beautiful flowering shrubs with large, six- to eight-inch-long flowers with reddish lavender, double trumpet-shaped corollas and light white interiors with a vague lavender cast. It was a strikingly beautiful species. We wanted some for our Sanibel gardens. We brought back ripe seeds through U.S. Customs (legally, I might add, with a USDA permit) a few weeks later.

We thought we had found a harmless new beauty. But no, Datura metel, the Devil's Trumpet, has been planted in Florida for decades — and circumtropically for hundreds of years. Even our double corolla wasn't new. We have since seen triple flowers of startling beauty.

The great beauty of this vigorous annual cannot be disputed, but this plant and its ally, Datura candida, the Angel's Trumpet, both pictured here, have long been used for many nefarious purposes by criminals — even murderers — in many Asian, African and European countries.

Both Angel's and Devil's Trumpet are favorite sources of deadly chemicals employed in a variety of crimes. The knockout drops of the 1920s and 1930s (remember dapper William Powell in "The Thin Man"?) were simply concentrations of naturally occurring Datura alkaloids. Bogey, Robinson and Raft used them in popular films of yesteryear, too, as did real-life gangsters of our Prohibition era.

Dried petals and pollen of these lovely flowers have been pulverized and wafted through air conditioning systems in more modern times. This can cause deep, sometimes permanent sleep, thus preparing the target premises for a hit by a skilled modern-day cat burglar.

The seeds of Datura have been ground with black pepper, and sometimes death has resulted from this surreptitious use.

Some Sunbelt youngsters have intentionally munched Datura or smoked it for its hallucinogenic effects. Seeking new "highs" in this way has led to new "lows"; youngsters have died. Even if they recover, awful memories sometimes remain for weeks. The symptoms are like the DT's and include the typical crawling horrors and terrifying menaces of the drug-damaged imagination.

Daturas were used in medicine in ancient China for the treatment of pustules, swellings, colds and cholera. Some were employed in religion, too. It is thought that some of Buddha's laws were conceived while he was hallucinating under the influence of Datura.

Shakespeare also employed Datura. I don't mean to suggest that he ate the stuff, but he did write about it. So did Virgil and Pliny much earlier.

In more recent times two well-known novelists became intrigued with Daturas and others of the legion of Sanibel's toxic plants. They are the modern-day mystery writer, Lucille Kallen (J.B. Greenfield series including the intriguing Tanglewood Murders) and the noted British author P.D. James, the Agatha Christie of her

'Hooked' pelicans pose problems; signs inform fishermen what to do

In the spirit of cooperation the city of Sanibel and Care and Rehabilitation of Wildlife joined together recently to help save pelicans.

The effort focuses on educating the public about how to release a pelican that is caught by a fisherman's hook or line.

Two new signs have been put up at the Sanibel fishing pier, one that instructs fisherman on how to do the delicate release, and another that asks fisherman not to feed pelicans the bony remains of their catch.

Public Works Director Gary Price hopes to put another sign on the Sanibel end of the Causeway — another spot popular with area fisherman.

Price said the idea for the signs came out of two inadvertent conversations. A friend's son mentioned that he had seen three pelicans get hooked by fishermen in one afternoon. Soon after, another friend told Price he had seen a pelican caught on a tree by monofilament line.

This stimulated Price to call CROW and see if a sign would help the situation and if CROW staffers would be interested in writing an informational sign. CROW was enthusiastic about the idea.

"This has been a really drastic problem," says Janie Hunter at CROW. "Fishing line and hooks are the root of the problems we have with injured pelicans."

Hunter said if a hook sinks in to a joint or bone the area soon becomes infected and hampers the pelican's flying ability.

Even worse, however, can be the effect of the monofilament line. Often fisherman quickly cut a fishing line that attaches to a pelican, thinking it the best thing to do. This causes two problems, Hunter said.

First, the line can wrap around the pelican's wings or legs and tighten, which can cut the bird horribly. "Try it on your own finger," Hunter said. "You can see how it digs in. Sometimes we get pelicans that have monofilament cut so deeply into them that it can't be seen."

The other problem with fishing line is that it dangles from the birds and can catch on all kinds of objects. The pelican then becomes trapped and often dies of starvation.

If the signs help at all, then the effort is very worthwhile, Hunter and Price agreed.

State commission wants Florida nature photography

The Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission is looking for Florida's best nature photographers.

Florida Wildlife, the commission's bimonthly conservation magazine, is sponsoring its first-ever photo contest. The contest is open to anyone but is restricted to photographs taken in Florida.

The contest is divided into three categories, each with a different deadline. Now through May 31 entries are being accepted in the non-game wildlife (vertebrate only) category. Only 35mm or larger color transparencies are eligible.

The second category is hunting and can include photographs of people and hunting activities and game animals. The closing date for entries for this category is June 29.

The third category is freshwater fishing, including people fishing and freshwater game fish. Deadline for entries in this category is Aug. 31.

Entries must be accompanied by a completed and signed official entry form and, if appropriate, a model release form for any person in the photographs. Winning entries in each category will be published in upcoming issues of Florida Wildlife.

For more information and official entry forms, write: Florida Wildlife Photo Contest, 620 S. Meridian St., Tallahassee, FL 32301.

Four-week field course examines wetlands, marshes

The Natural Resources Foundation is offering an educational and entertaining four-week field course on the wetlands and marshes — with emphasis on southwest Florida.

The course is open to all persons who want to have fun in the sun and at the same time learn to identify wetland plants and soils and their ecologic, economic and habitat values and functions, and the levels and types of wetland uses and abuses.

Major conservation and management issues will be discussed at the field sites. Each four-week session is limited to 20 participants on a first come first served basis.

Registration fee of $35 covers instructional materials. For details and dates contact the Natural Resources Foundation, 2750 Rhode Island Ave., Fort Myers, FL 33901, or call 334-0883.

day. Both separately visited Sanibel not so long ago and both went to work on Sanibel-based gory and hallucinogenic murder stories. Kallen won the race to press with her Piano Bird. The title is a far-fetched comparison of the black and white piano keyboard to the aninga.

James' work has yet to see daylight. After all the cards are dealt and the hand is played whose work will receive the critics' approbation? (I wonder why the most successful murder story writers today seem to be women, the gentler sex. Are they really gentler?)

There is another very well-known Datura, this one definitely an American native: Jimson Weed, Datura stramonium. The word Jimson is a contraction as well as a corruption of James Town, which refers to that early British colony in Virginia.

It seems the Brits had a spot of trouble back in 1676 — the redskins were acting up, or maybe it was a small insurrection. In any case the British soldiers, who should have been fighting, "tripped out" on Datura, became stupefied and failed in their military goal. It is a good thing the idea of hallucinating on Datura did not spread widely in the British Army, else there might never have been a British Empire.

There is a tragic and unusual story about Jimson Weed. It seems that about two decades ago several farm families in West Virginia got together one Sunday to "raise" the barn of one family. As was the custom throughout our history, the visiting barnraisers were treated to a bountiful meal. The hostess served apple pie, sliced tomatoes, potato salad and cold meats, not necessarily in that order. Soon most of the party began to pass out. Some died.

One young man was able to load all the dead and dying bodies onto his truck and drive to the nearest doctor. The young doctor, of course, immediately thought of food poisoning and considered spoiled meat and potato salad. But he could not pin down any cause for the tragedy that was overtaking all these people — all, that is, except one, the driver of the truck.

The imaginative doctor then concentrated on the one healthy member of the party. What had he eaten? Well, he had eaten the apple pie, the cold meat, the potato salad (not necessarily in that order) but he didn't like tomatoes, so he ate no tomatoes.

The young man was able to tell the doctor that the farmer had raised the tomatoes in a very special way. Tomato shoots had been grafted with their near-relative, the Jimson Weed, root stocks of which encouraged vigorous and faster growth of big, delicious tomatoes.

Well, the tomatoes grew big all right, but the Jimson Weed contributed quantities of dangerous solanaceous alkaloids to the ripe fruit — enough to kill most of the members of the barn-raising party!

Not since Col. Robert Gibbon Johnson demonstrated before a throng of people on the courthouse steps of Salem, N.J., on Sept. 26, 1820, has anyone since considered the tomato to be poisonous. On that long-ago day Johnson ate a tomato, then known as "Wolf Apple," before 2,000 people who expected him to drop dead.

He didn't, and thus founded a new industry. The technical name of the tomato, Lycopersicon, means "wolf apple."

But who could have guessed that a century and a half later a West Virginia farmer would create poisonous killer tomatoes by grafting them on Jimson Weed?

Young gray fox recuperates at CROW

By Catherine Battista

In the spring, when a young lad's fancy turns to the birds and the bees, CROW's attention turns to the many distress calls the organization receives from people who discover an injured orphan or mammal.

A young male gray fox was discovered recently in Cape Coral and taken to the Humane Society, whose officials then delivered the canid to Dr. Phyllis Douglas at the Coral Veterinary Clinic.

The fox is now rehabilitating and is in stable condition in CROW's Continuing Care Unit. He suffered a fractured pelvis.

CROW Director Holly Davies says treatment for a fractured pelvis consists of cage restriction, vitamins, cat or dog food, mice and fresh fruit. Foxes love sweet fruit, especially grapes.

The smallest member of the dog family, foxes are found in most parts of the world. Like their coyote or jackal cousins, most foxes have managed to survive by adjusting their ways to a world dominated by man.

The most widespread of all the foxes is the red fox, which is common throughout North America, Europe and Asia. The gray or tree fox, a subspecies of their rufous relative, has a unique tree climbing ability and can easily escape most followers.

When foxes are about a year old they seek out one mate and in January or February get their den ready, lining it with leaves and hair. The vixen often uses the same den year after year.

Kittens are born in about 50 days and weigh two to four pounds. They are blind for the first 10 days and depend on their mother's milk for food. As the youngsters grow, regurgitated meat is added to their diet.

By the 10th week the kits are completely weaned and taken on their first hunt. They have to learn quickly how to detect and elude pursuers, for in the late fall the family disbands and each member goes his separate way.

One can only guess how CROW's handsome canid was injured. He might have been out hunting for food when he was chased in the path of a car, for while the vixen nurses the kits the male assumes the burden of feeding himself and his mate.

But there is always a story behind a story.

The public will be able to see this young male gray fox that is recuperating from a fractured pelvis at the CROW open house from 1 to 3 p.m. this Saturday, April 14. The fox was found injured in Fort Myers and delivered to the wildlife rehabilitation agency on Sanibel. Photos courtesy of CROW.

Somewhere in Fort Myers there could be a hungry and anxious vixen still trying to suckle her litter, waiting for her handsome mate to return. We hope the story will have a happy ending.

Visitors can view the fox at CROW from 1 to 3 p.m. this Saturday, April 14, when the wildlife center holds an open house. This is your opportunity to see CROW in action. Parking will be available at Sanibel Elementary School across Sanibel-Captiva Road from the entrance to CROW. For more information call 472-3644.

The Florida panther: A valuable resource

By Col. Robert Brantly
Executive director
Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission

At one time the Florida panther could be found throughout much of the state. As growth has occurred, however, suitable areas for the panther have diminished.

Today, small numbers survive in remote swamplands in south Florida. Time has shown that growth and the resulting loss of habitat are the biggest long-range dangers to the continued survival of this rare animal.

Beginning in 1976, with the passage of the Endangered Species Act, funds became available for the state Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission to research the Florida panther.

The first step was to gather basic information about the animal. The Florida Panther Clearinghouse was created to coordinate and analyze sightings and other evidence of panthers in the wild.

It soon became apparent that most of the confirmed sightings were in the area south of Lake Okeechobee. The three locations are the Big Cypress National Preserve, the Fakahatchee Strand of Collier County and Hole-The-Doughnut in the Everglades National Park. All three areas are deep and inaccessible swamplands.

The next phase of research was to obtain usable information about the animal. Without knowing its habits, food needs or range, it would be impossible to identify the threats to its existence.

Beginning in 1981, seven panthers were captured and fitted with radio collars that allow biologists to monitor the movement of the panther from a distance.

Since the beginning of this program, we have documented the range of these seven animals. This information has proven valuable in several ways.

Based on tracking data, the commission opposed a rezoning request in Collier County. The rezoning would have removed 530 acres from use by the panther.

Tracking information gained through the radio collaring program has proven valuable in planning highway improvements to reduce highway-related panther deaths. Of the 10 known panther deaths since 1979, five have been a result of automobile collisions. The commission is working with the Florida Department of Transportation to minimize these deaths through highway improvements.

To date, we have used the information gained through tracking to oppose loss of habitat and to try to reduce highway fatalities, the leading cause of panther deaths. These issues and decisions must be made on the basis of facts, and the panther research program is the primary way of determining these facts.

The Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission is committed to ensuring the survival of the Florida panther. Our first priority is to protect the population that has already been identified in south Florida. To do so, we must understand the requirements of the panthers in terms of habitat, food and reproduction. Until we reach that point, we are not prepared to take such a risk with the panthers.

We believe the citizens of Florida support our efforts to save this animal and will support our research efforts if they understand the management benefits to be obtained.

We believe the Florida panther can continue to survive, and through proper management and protection, even flourish. The endangered Florida panther is a far too precious resource to leave its future to chance.

ON THE WATER

By Captain Mike Fuery

About a year ago the director of the National Marine Fisheries Laboratory in Panama City, Fla., asked me to participate in a pilot program to monitor fish populations.

I was more than happy to be selected as one of only 100 charter boats from the gulf and Atlantic coasts to work with this program. The fisheries laboratory is part of the U.S. Department of Commerce under the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Fishery biologist Harold Brusher of Panama City contacted me last spring and sent a huge packet of instructions and information on how the survey should be worked.

Basically, they wanted daily tallies of the fish caught from this particular area of Florida. As far as I know, I was the only Southwest Florida boat captain participating in the program.

The forms had to be filled out at the end of each week and sent to the laboratory in North Florida for analysis. The fisheries biologists then entered the information into computers, which figured out how many hours fishermen spent to land certain fish.

In addition, the information from boat captains all over the southern coastal states would give biologists an idea of fish populations.

The forms were quite extensive, but I found I had to write in much of the information to make the survey sheet reflect what was being done here in Southwest Florida. For instance, very few hours are spent trolling for fish here. Most of our fishing is bottom fishing in shallow waters, usually inside the barrier islands. Most of the other captains were doing heavy trolling or deep water bottom fishing in the gulf or Atlantic.

I wanted to participate in the survey because Brusher said the end result would be a computer read-out of the catches made over the approximately eight months I was in the survey. I had always wanted to keep a record of my catches, but I had never taken the time to keep close record until the survey form was offered to me last year. And the National Marine Fisheries Laboratory was going to pay me $50 per month for the information!

I won't go through the entire read-out, but the figures showed which fish is caught the most. For trolling along our shoreline, Spanish mackerel and jack crevalle are way out ahead. Ladyfish and blue runners are next on the list.

I do so little of that trolling compared to the time I spend inside bottom fishing. My figures showed that I trolled a total of 36 hours to get 123 fish. However, for bottom fishing, based on 686 hours during the eight months of the tests, we boated 1,739 fish.

It's interesting for me to note that the three most frequently caught fish were sea trout (894), jacks (298) and ladyfish (119).

The survey was cut back in the late fall of 1983. This year, because of budget cuts, only 31 boats instead of 100 will be in the survey. The researchers are interested primarily in party boats this year so they can get more survey data, so I'm out of it for the time being. Still, it was interesting to see catch data.

I only wish something like this could have been started 10 years ago so we would have data on some of the species that are declining in number.

SHELLING TIPS

By Captain Mike Fuery

A couple of years ago a fellow with me on the beach of Cayo Costa Island came upon a large hole in the sand. He stopped, look down for a moment and asked, "Is this how you find angel wings?"

What he had found was the hole burrowed by a land-based ghost crab. Let's talk about these crabs and about angel wings this week.

The ghost crab is rather special on our beaches. It is not water-oriented like the fiddler or the blue or the shame-faced crabs are.

You might have seen the ghost crab's holes in the beach sand, too. The crab is perhaps two inches long and has small claws and long legs. It makes a hole in the sand that goes from two to four feet down at precisely a 45-degree angle.

Don't ask me why, but these crabs have some rather interesting habits.

On rare occasions they come out of their holes during the day, but primarily they are night feeders. One time many years ago, my wife, Carol, and I had a fire going on the beach over on the east coast. We were about to cook some hot dogs when, to our amazement, a big ghost crab came scampering over the beach, into the fire light, and right into the fire! I had never seen anything like that, and of course the crab never did again, either.

These are shy creatures, not aggressive at all. I once caught one that was stranded between hideout holes. It took some chasing, because they really are fast. It did not display any indication to use the claws other than to hide its underside from attack.

They usually make a run for the water if caught outside their holes. However, ghost crabs are not water crabs, and it is said they will drown if forced to be in the water for more than a few minutes. Interesting, isn't it? A beach creature that can't swim.

As for the popular angel wings, you have an excellent chance of finding halves of these white shells on the beaches from time to time. There was a time when people went to the mud flats and dug out live angel wings by the dozens and had perfectly matched sets of wings. However, that overkill of these delicate clams has just about put an end to their entire population.

But you still can put together some fine sets of wings. The trick is to save each and every single wing you find as you walk the beaches. When you get a dozen or so try matching a right and a left one. It's not as difficult as it sounds, and you eventually will be able to put together several pairs for display.

I have found perfect sets of the smaller cousin, the false angel wing, but have never found a large set of the standard wings without having to kill the marine animal to get it.

Incidentally, that late March storm really put some fine shells back on the beaches. You can tell by the junonia stories circulating around the Islands!

Capt. Mike Fuery offers daily shelling trips to North Captiva and Cayo Costa Islands. Call 472-3459 for information.

Astros stay on top of boys' Little League; Dodgers remain undefeated in girls' softball play

The Astros stayed on top of the boy's little league as all four boys' teams split their games last week.

The Astros beat the Rangers 12-2 on Saturday to assure themselves first place with a 6-2 record. The loss dropped the Rangers to second place with a 5-3 record. The teams were tied entering the weekend game.

Ozzie Fischer was the winning pitcher for the Astros with six strong innings. Defense was also strong for the Astros, Coach Jerry Muench said. Joel Kramer made two outstanding catches in the field, and Andy Muench on second played an error-less game for the first time, Muench said.

The previous Tuesday night the Rangers defeated the Astros, 13-7. Ranger Coach Thom Traucht said the difference in the two games was 14 hits by the Rangers on Tuesday, compared to just three on Saturday.

Last Tuesday Ranger Jeff Bell blasted four doubles in four at bats, and Jason Morris picked up three hits, including a triple.

In the Thursday night game the Angels upset the Yankees, 18-12. But on Saturday the Yankees turned the tables for a 11-8 victory.

Two weeks ago the Astros beat the Yankees twice to burst out of the pack in the boys' little league with a 5-1 record. The Rangers also won two games to stay close with a 4-2 record.

The Astros won Thursday, March 29, 7-5. Five straight hits by Ozzie Fischer, Scott Lowe, David Muench, John Galandis and Zack Fischer meant five runs in the third inning for victory for the Astros.

"We only won four games all last year," Coach Muench said. "Now we've already won six, so we are pretty happy." Muench cited the changes in this year's team as solid teamwork and improved pitching. With five 9-year-olds, the Astros are still one of the youngest teams in the league.

Saturday the Astros beat the Yankees 9-6.

In other boys games two weeks ago, the Rangers defeated the Angels twice, 8-4 on Tuesday and 12-5 on Saturday.

In girls' softball action last week the Dodgers again handled the Phillies, but the scores keep getting closer. Saturday's result was 11-8.

Two week's ago the Dodgers handled a Phillies comeback attempt to win 16-8. The Dodgers burst out in front early to lead 10-2 after two innings, but then the Phillies began to put up some runs.

Bridget Sweeney blasted a three run homerun for the Phillies to make the score 10-5.

But Dodger Shannon Cantrell hit a homerun in the next inning to make the score 12-5. The Phillies made the score 12-8 before the Dodgers pulled away again in the final inning.

Phillie Teresa Wrenn made a grandstand catch in the outfield that saved her team from a possible grand slam homerun, said Phillie Coach Andy Gelberg.

Amber Noon led the Dodgers' bats with two big homeruns and a double and a single. Alice Pepe was the winning pitcher.

Current standings

Little League standings as of April 10 are:

Boys' Little League

- Astros, 6-2
- Rangers, 5-3
- Yankees, 3-5
- Angels, 2-6

Girls softball

- Dodgers, 4-0
- Phillies, 0-4

T-ballers

- Hilton Pirates, 2-0
- Horne-Hill Cardinals, 0-2

This week's games

The schedule for this week's games is as follows:

Tuesday, April 10, 6 p.m. — Angels vs. Astros.

Thursday, April, 12, 6 p.m. — Rangers vs. Yankees.

Saturday, April 14 — 9 a.m.: Dodgers vs. Phillies; 10:30 a.m.: Astros vs. Angels; Noon: Yankees vs. Rangers.

Bike-a-thon will benefit children's center

Bike riders should mark April 29 on their calendars so they can participate in a six-mile bike-a-thon to raise money to fight childhood cancer.

To enter this event riders should stop by the Bike Route in Palm Ridge Place and pick up a sponsor form. Riders will then sign up sponsors who will pledge money on a per mile basis.

Bill Wallstedt at the Bike Route has been named chairman of the annual "Wheels for Life" bike-a-thon on Sanibel, which is a benefit for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

"The ride is all on bike paths," Wallstedt says. The riders will meet at the Bike Route then wind their way past City Hall to the Sanibel Community Association, where they will start the official ride. The route will go down Periwinkle Way to Tarpon Bay Road to Casa Ybel Road and back to Periwinkle Way.

Cyclists who secure $25 in pledges will receive a t-shirt, and those who get $75 in pledges will receive a tote bag. Bikers have already started soliciting pledges from Island residents and businesses.

To assure a safe ride, Wallstedt is offering a free safety check at his shop prior to the bike-a-thon.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital is a research-treatment-education center that was created in 1962. It is now the largest childhood cancer research center in America.

The hospital has treated children from 39 states and 29 foreign countries. When the hospital accepted its first patient, the survival rate for children diagnosed with acute lymphocytic leukemia was less than 5 percent. Today, the disease-free survival figure for children in long-term remission has grown to more than 50 percent. Procedures that originated at St. Jude are now being used to treat children throughout the United States and other parts of the world.

The hospital is largely supported by voluntary contributions which are tax deductible. Events such as the "Wheels for Life" bike-a-thon raise funds to continue the research and treatment programs that are freely shared with all physicians and research scientists, extending the benefits of its work beyond its walls to children throughout the world.

Sportsman of the Week:

Ozzie Fischer

Ozzie Fischer, 11, an all-around player for the Astros in boys' little league baseball, is this week's Sportsman of the Week.

The main thing Coach Jerry Muench credits his team's success so far this year is teamwork. The second thing is pitching. And Fischer is one of the Astros' stalwart pitchers. And when Muench needs a solid hit or a first baseman or even a catcher, he can call on Fischer. "We call on Fischer to do so many things that are new to him," Muench says.

The Sportsman of the Week recognizes local athletes from fishermen to ballplayers and swimmers to golfers.

The Islander welcomes nominations for Sportsman of the Week. Nominations should be in our office by noon Thursday and can be made by calling Scott Martell, 472-5155.

Local fishermen compete for trout, redfish catches

The horns blasted as the last of the 23 boats participating in the Sanibel Fishing Rodeo motored into the Sanibel Marina on Saturday.

Fritz Stoppelen organized the weighing in of the trout and redfish, the two species sought after in the all-day tournament.

After the weigh-in was complete, Larry Paul, whose Ship's Store sponsored the event, said through his megaphone, "I think above all we all had a bunch of fun today."

The crowd of more than 80 fishermen and their families and friends cheered. The outcome of the tournament wasn't much in doubt after the crew aboard the Sold Out weighed in its catch and had 26 pounds of fish.

The Sold Out was captained by Larry Paul III. His crew included Tracy Walters, Jesse Black and Ted Cole.

"There's no doubt that Ted Cole was our Most Valuable Person," Walter said. Cole is a long-time Island fishing guide.

"If we hadn't gone out with Ted there's no doubt we would have been in 24th place," added Paul.

For their total, Paul's team caught nine redfish and 10 trout. Besides a nice sized trophy, the team landed the $400 grand prize.

"We'd caught 10 trout by 11 a.m.," Paul said. "But then we weren't catching anything. But around 2 p.m. Ted took us to a hole and Tracy (Walters) pulled in six redfish in a row."

The second place team in the tournament was the "Finger Flooring and Interiors" team in the boat Sabalo, captained by Jim Shinn. This team pulled up 16½ pounds of fish, including nine redfish and four trout, and took home a trophy plus a $200 prize.

The third place team was "Mike Stone Maintenance Service" led by Mike Stone. The team caught 15 pounds of trout and won a trophy and $100.

And the fourth place team was "Sanibel Marina Sales" in the boat Vermillion captained by Warren Kregness. The team caught 14 pounds of trout and won $50 and a trophy.

Top, front to back, Fernando Valenzuela, Tom Niedenfuer and Monty Basgall warm up before practice at Dodgertown. Above, Tom Niedenfuer. Right, third cousins Tom and Julie Niedenfuer get acquainted.

DODGERTOWN

Reporter tracks family tree to spring training grounds of the L.A. baseball team

I am one of those people who always wonders about long lost relatives. While visiting in other cities I never fail to pick up the phone book and turn to the N's to see if there's one of us living there I don't know about.

Being a Niedenfuer is not like being a Johnson or a Smith; you just don't run into a lot of other Niedenfuers you don't know about. I thought I had a pretty good idea where most of my relatives lived and what they did, but three years ago I found a new Niedenfuer.

One fall afternoon I was busy in the kitchen while the television droned on in the living room. Although I wasn't paying much attention, I could hear the familiar sounds of a baseball game — the rise and fall of the announcers' voices and cheers from the crowd.

I'm not much of a baseball fan, but I knew the country was in the throes of the '81 World Series between the L.A. Dodgers and the New York Yankees.

I wasn't that interested. I marched to the living room to snap off the set, wiping grease on my apron as I went. But just as I reached for the off button I was stunned to see my name blazoned across the back of a Dodger jersey.

Right there in the middle of a baseball diamond in the middle of the World Series in the middle of my TV set was a Niedenfuer I didn't know about.

I must have missed the Los Angeles phone directory.

The announcers said he was a rookie relief pitcher for Los Angeles and gave some statistics, but I still didn't know this Tom Niedenfuer from a bale of hay. (I do know a Tom Niedenfuer — my brother — but I hardly think he could have made it to the big time without my knowing it. Besides, the Tom I know doesn't even like baseball.)

Before the series ended I watched the new Niedenfuer play a couple more times and read about him in the newspaper, but I could find out little else about him.

I didn't discover who he was until I talked to my dad, who told me we were third cousins by virtue of having the same great great grandfather.

Ok, so we're not closely related. But he's still family, and I hoped I'd someday have the chance to meet him.

That chance came recently when I learned the Dodgers held spring training — not out west, as I had assumed — but here in Florida.

Tom Niedenfuer was at Vero Beach. We were practically neighbors.

Credentials to see him were not easy to obtain. When Tom was told a relative wanted to interview him, instead of dropping everything to see me, his response was that he had never heard of me.

After cutting through a ream of red tape I got in to see him the day before the Dodgers broke camp and

SPORTS SHORTS

Over-50 softball

Sanibel's over-50 softball squad split its last two games in finishing up the regular season just above .500.

The team's record for the second half of the season, those games after Christmas, was 10-9-1. Rainout games and possibly a league championship remain to be played.

Two weeks ago the Island men tested their might against the top teams in the league. They lost to top-ranked Dovetail Cabinets, 12-7, then beat North First Bank, 10-7.

Against Dovetail, Sanibel burst out in front early and stayed there until the fifth inning. Then Dovetail scored two to go ahead 8-7. In the final inning Dovetail scored four more runs to break the game open.

Marshall Keyes led Sanibel by hitting 3-4, and Al Nave slammed a triple. Many Sanibel players batted consistently with two hits.

The game against North First Bank went back and forth before the Sanibel finally prevailed and won the game in the final innings.

Sanibel's big bats were led by Irv Elder, who hit 3-4, including a double. Keyes, Sonny Voignier and Dick Traucht also blasted the rawhide for doubles. Al Nave was the winning pitcher.

Sports quiz

Island folks had a hard time naming all nine of the weight classifications in weightlifting last week. Most forgot either the featherweight or the super heavyweight class.

These are the classifications: flyweight, bantamweight, featherweight, lightweight, middleweight, light heavyweight, middle heavyweight, heavyweight and super heavyweight.

This week we turn to golf: Who won the 1980 player of the year award?

If you think you know, give us a call at 472-5185. If you're right, we'll print your name in next week's Islander.

Tennis clinic

The Sundial Beach and Tennis Resort will sponsor a free tennis clinic for adults and juniors this Saturday, April 14. Prince Manufacturing, one of the country's biggest tennis racquet manufacturers, is presenting the clinic.

"This should be a real celebration of tennis," says Greg Parker, tennis director at Sundial.

The clinic will emphasize a variety of basic skills, Parker says. Teaching techniques will use everything from ball machines to a speed gun and personal contact with tennis professionals.

The adult session will begin at 10 a.m. at the Sundial courts. At 2 p.m. many local professionals will team up for a professionals doubles tournament. The junior session will begin at 4 p.m. For more information call Parker, 472-4151.

Aqua babies

The Sanibel Recreation Complex will offer swimming lessons for children nine months to 2 years old for the first time this year.

The lessons will be held from 10 a.m. to 10:45 a.m. on May 1, 2, 3 and 4. Another session will be held on May 8, 9, 10 and 11 at the same times.

Swimming lessons will also be offered to 3- and 4-year-olds on the same days starting at 10:45 a.m. until 11:30 a.m.

The classes are limited to 10 swimmers, and the fee is $12. The instructor will be Barbara Littlestone, who taught classes at the Sanibel pool last year.

Recreation Director Dick Noon promises the water will be a comfortable 85 degrees. He also says parents must accompany their children to class. For more information call the Rec Complex, 472-0345.

Placing second with eight were Frank Callahan, Ira Hartman, Bob Neth and Dave Wooster.

Three teams tied for third. George Brauch, John Forster, Hank Groh and Curt Washburn made up one team; Jim Manecke, Hertz Pryzant, Dale Ruedig and Bob Schneider were on the second team; and Jim Esson, E.Q. Johnson, Jerry Kohmescher and Bob Sagers were on the third third-place team.

7 Announcement

The subtropical charm, the quiet ambience, the pristine environment of Sanibel and Captiva Islands in the 1970's - these cherished qualities still exist today, protected and guarded in the last undeveloped area on Southwest Florida's Gulf coast.

Just north of Boca Grande, on Cape Haze and Palm Island, Garfield R. "Gar" Beckstead (creator of the renowned Useppa Island Club) has introduced a major new Gulf-front and marina resort community - Island Harbor Resort.

Gar and his professional management team have begun to develop two unique properties: Island Harbor Marina and Harbortown Village, situated on the Intracoastal Waterway; and Island Harbor Beach Club, two miles of pristine Gulf beachfront on the northern tip of Palm Island, just offshore from the marina. Together, these two properties will form a new, full-service resort and vacation community.

Island Harbor Resort will feature architecture in the "Old Florida" style by Daniel F. Burner and Associates; ambience and service in the style of the Useppa Island Club; the quiet privacy of a true island, yet with its own mainland marina; complete resort amenities and a professional management staff... all at prices reminiscent of Sanibel and Captiva in years past.

We cordially invite you to come and explore our unspoiled coastal enclave - the very last of its kind. Palm Island Village, our first Gulf-front residential property, is now nearing completion and is available for overnight accommodations. Join us, and become involved from the beginning... enjoy the continuing pleasure of watching Island Harbor Resort grow and mature.

returned to Los Angeles. And when we two former Minnesotans finally met, it seemed the distance between us wasn't so great after all. Tom said he was born in St. Louis Park, a suburb of Minneapolis, where I, too, once lived. When he was 8 his family moved to Washington state, but he returned to Minnesota each year for vacations, he said. "Every summer my family and I went back to Excelsior and stayed at Lake Minnetonka. But I haven't been back since 1977," he said. He said he doesn't miss Minnesota's weather, but added, "I hate the smog in Los Angeles, and there are too many people." He said one of those people is a woman who started calling him soon after he moved to Los Angeles, claiming to be a long lost relative. "But she spells her name a little different," Tom said, "So I don't think she is." Pro ball players often have to contend with adoring fans seeking autographs, but Tom said for him the novelty hasn't worn off. "It's still strange to me. But sure, it's great to be recognized."

Great, maybe, but apparently inconvenient. "In L.A. I can't eat dinner in public without somebody asking for my autograph," he said. Niedenfuer is tall, 6'5", and weighs in at 217. He's a right-hander who fires his pitches at 94 mph. He signed with the Dodgers in August 1980, after being passed over in the June that year, as a free agent draft. His career since then is a Cinderella story. In 1981 he was 3-1 with two saves in 17 appearances with the Dodgers. In four post-season appearances, including two in the World Series (where I first saw him), he did not permit a run in 5.2 innings. He was 13-3 with a 1.80 ERA before being called up to the majors. After an up-and-down year in 1982, he emerged as the club's top right-handed reliever in 1983 and in the absence of Steve Howe became the Dodgers' stopper. The nice thing about his impressive statistics is that he hasn't let them go to his head. When we first met he was shy and nervous. But as we talked he laughed easily and relaxed. He seemed genuinely interested in finding out about family we have in common and said his father, who still lives in Washington, would be thrilled to hear I'd contacted him. "We don't get back to Minnesota much anymore," Tom said. "My wife and I were going to go back next winter for a vacation. But it came down to a choice between going there and going to Tahiti..." As I walked off the field that day I felt glad that Tom is part of my family. And I thought how being related gave me two distinct advantages over any other reporter who might interview him. I won't have to waste time getting credentials to see him from now on, and I'll always get the name right.

Did Someone add wrong?

No, it's just that the island of Bokeelia has not yet achieved the recognition of Sanibel or Captiva. However, talk to us. Find out how you can take advantage of this 'ground-floor' opportunity to own a part of this beautiful tropical island. When others discover the Bocilla Island Club, the figures might add up to the right price.

P.S. For buyers who would love to live here year-around but cannot, Bocilla Island Club offers a guaranteed lease-back program.

ENTERTAINMENT THIS WEEK

The fun doesn't stop when the sun sets on Sanibel Captiva. The following list will help you decide where to spend your after-shelling and sunning hours should you feel like dancing and relaxing with your friends or meeting new friends.

Chadwick's — At the entrance to South Seas Plantation on Captiva. Hear Trio in the lounge weekdays (except Tuesday) and Sunday from 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.; Friday and Saturday from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Tuesdays hear the Southwest Florida Steel Drum Band from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m.

Crow's Nest — Through April 29 hear the Simonds and Martin Band play jazz, top 40 and rock 'n' roll from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Tuesday through Sunday. Cover charge $1. Dancing. Happy hour from 2 to 6 p.m. daily.

Gibby's — Next to Huxters Market on Periwinkle Way. Tuesday through Thursday and Saturday and Sunday evenings hear Ty Heston; Friday from 8 p.m. to midnight hear Dooley's Dixie Five.

Morgan's Lounge — At the Sundial, Middle Gulf Drive, Sanibel. This week hear Inkenbrandt play a variety of original, top 40 and rock 'n' roll from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

Peppers — In the Tahitian Garden shopping center on Periwinkle Way, Sanibel. Through April hear Spinnaker, a five-piece band playing jazz and soft rock from 9:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. Tuesday through Sunday. No cover. Dancing. Every Monday from 9:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. is "Open Mike Night" — bring your instrument.

Shirley's Spirit of Foolishness — Just past the Captiva Post Office on the gulf. Every night is string-along, sing-along. Bring your guitar from 5 p.m. to 2 a.m.

Thistle Lodge — At Casa Ybel Resort, Casa Ybel Road, Sanibel. Through May 6 hear the Danny Morgan Band play an eclectic mix of top 40, rock 'n' roll, jazz acoustic country and original music from 8:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Every Monday is all night happy hour with music by Alexander's Jazz Band beginning at 7 p.m. Dancing. No cover.

Twigs — At The Timbers restaurant, corner of Rabbit Road and Sanibel-Captiva Road. Hear Skip Perry at the piano bar nightly from 7:30 p.m. to midnight. No cover.

Island Cinema — Through Thursday this week see Lonely Hearts, the story of a bank clerk in her 30s who moves away from her intimidating parents, takes an apartment and with great self-consciousness signs up with a dating service. That is how she meets Peter, a 49-year-old piano tuner whose character traits just don't seem to add up. Rated PG. One show at 8 p.m. daily.

Starting Friday see Never Cry Wolf, the movie based on Farley Mowat's autobiographical book. Rated PG. One show at 8 p.m. daily.

Call ahead on "crummy" days to see about cloudy day matinees, 472-1701.

Knowing Island Real Estate Comes From Developing, Building, Marketing

While some Sanibel real estate agents have garnered valuable experience through years of selling and renting island real estate, Michigan Homes has a unique advantage. This Realtor/Builder has not only marketed millions of dollars of Sanibel real estate since 1964, but has been also involved in both development and marketing to give more insight into the entire spectrum of this island's real estate market.

Although the word "development" may be a dirty word to some people, a close look at the island developments Michigan Homes has been involved with quickly dispels any unfavorable connotation.

First was the marketing of Shell Harbor, the attractive single-family home subdivision encountered as one comes on to the island. The large canal and non-waterfront homesites accommodate a variety of quality homes appealing to residents and visitors alike. Considerably smaller, but equally well done, is the Tahiti Shores residential area between Gulf Pines and Chateau Sur Mer.

Then there's the Beachview Country Club with the nine-hole golf course and fairway homesites. Prior to the course and surrounding land being acquired by Michigan Homes from the original owner, Hugo Lindgren, Michigan Homes was instrumental in the design and completion of this unusual country club of Sanibel.

It should be noted that the involvement of Michigan Homes in these developments covered every aspect (except the financial). This unique builder-realtor was involved in design, working with planners, zoners, government officials and contractors, and marketing of the finished products . . . all in conformance with the prevailing regulations, and has enabled Michigan Homes to grow with the City of Sanibel.

As a result of these many attractive homesites being under their control, Michigan Homes secured contracts and built many quality homes to satisfy the desires of the owners for a tropical island residence. Quite naturally, these circumstances resulted in the establishment of a full-service real estate brokerage operation housed in an eye-catching building, owned by Michigan, at the corner of Periwinkle Way and Lindgren Blvd.

With such a background, it's only logical that the folks from Michigan Homes can give you an all-encompassing perspective of Sanibel's real estate market. Whether you're interested in selling, buying, or renting, the background of Michigan Homes on Sanibel can provide advantages for you. In addition to new home construction and resale listings, you may want to consider one of Michigan's inventory homes at Beachview where Michigan's own below market rate finance plans prevail. The availability of "Instant Homes" and their own attractive financing sets Michigan Homes apart from other brokers.

Check into Michigan Homes at 950 Periwinkle Way to satisfy your real estate desires, or call 472-1506.

Cablevision brings free Home Box office to Island customers this weekend

Cable television subscribers on Sanibel and Captiva will be treated to a weekend of free Home Box Office this Saturday and Sunday, April 14 and 15. The weekend of free entertainment will include recent Hollywood movies and HBO specials showcasing some of America's favorite performers. The preview weekend line-up includes:

 •Tender Mercies,

starring Robert Duvall as a down-and-out country singer who recovers from tough times with the love of a tenderhearted widow;

•High Road to China, a romantic film starring Tom Selleck and Bess Armstrong;
 •The Outsiders, Francis Ford Coppola's saga of troubled teenagers starring Matt Dillon, Tom Cruise and Diane Lane;

•To Catch a King, an HBO premiere film featuring Robert Wagner and Teri Garr in a romantic thriller about a Nazi plot to kidnap the Duke and Duchess of Windsor;

•Sophie's Choice, starring Meryl Streep as a young woman attempting to rebuild her life after surviving the horrors of a concentration camp;

•The Verdict, starring Paul Newman as an alcoholic attorney who has one last chance to win in court and in life;

•Annie, starring Aileen Quinn with Albert Finney as the gruff billionaire whose love she wins.

HBO also raises the curtain on the Oscar-winning octogenarian George Burns, who performs his stand-up nightclub comedy act on television for the first time in his long career. And Donna Summers proves "She Works Hard For The Money" in an exclusive HBO rock presentation.

All movies on the HBO service are presented uncut and without commercials. R-rated films are shown only after 8 p.m. No X-rated films are ever shown.

Retired colonel will speak at Shell Point

Retired Col. Sedgley Thornbury, volunteer president of Patriotic Education, Inc. of Daytona Beach, Fla., will speak on "America, Past, Present and Future" in the social center at Shell Point Village at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday, April 17.

Patriotic Education, Inc., is a country-wide, volunteer organization devoted to the publication and promotion of material used in schools and organizations to teach patriotism through a better understanding of the Constitution, the Declaration of Independence and symbols of America.

Patriots Day is being celebrated April 16 this year.

Thornbury's visit to Shell Point Village is sponsored by the Cultural Commission. The public is cordially invited to attend. Communication should first be made with the activities office, 481-2141, ext. 181, so the security gate can be notified to ensure rapid entrance.

Thornbury was in the Pacific during World War II, where he participated in the landings and invasion of Siapan, Tinian, Iwo Jima, Guam and the Philippines. He was awarded the Bronze Star.

Horseshoe tournament combines competition, fun

Pitching, drinking beer and having fun topped the priority list last Sunday at the Sixth Annual Captiva-Sanibel International Invitational Horseshoe Tournament at Timmy's Nook on Captiva.

Capt. Bill Trefny and Sgt. Jack Primm of the Sanibel Police Department held off the charge of 15 other teams to take first place. Jim Willis and Cloud Burch finished a close second.

Trefny and Primm competed in seven matches before making it to the finals, where Willis and Burch defeated them in the first game of the final match. But the two officers took charge of the second and final game of the match to take the double-elimination tournament championship.

There was lots of good competition as a number of strong teams competed, Primm said.

Trefny and Primm are not new to winning at horseshoes. They have won numerous tourneys, including both singles and doubles competition at the Florida Police Olympics, a silver medal at the International Police Olympics in singles competition and first place at the 1983 Sanibel Police Recreation Club tournament.

To win at horseshoes the "shooter" must be the first to reach 21 points. He gains points by landing the horseshoe around or as close as possible to a stake in the ground.

The Captiva-Sanibel tournament is one of three horseshoe tourneys held on the Islands, including the police rec club tournament and the American Legion tournament.

The next scheduled competition is the Sanibel Police Recreation Club tournament, which will take place next month at the old Children's Center on Sanibel.

Election of four new members of the board of directors will take place at the meeting. Nominees presented by the Nominating Committee and approved by the board are as follows: William Constandse, Alice Kylo, Bernard Murphy and William Hicks. Additional nominations can be made from the floor at the meeting.

Retiring board members are: Bud Bernhard, Mike Klein and Urban Palmer. Those remaining on the board are: Harland Bill, Betty Bray, Irene David, Art Ford, Gene Kerner, Bill Murray, Bucky Prosser, Dot Putnam and Myra ZuHone.

Those attending the meeting this Wednesday are asked to bring a covered dish. Come and voice your opinion on the annual election of new board members.

Women voters will discuss Florida legislation

The Sanibel unit of the Lee County League of Women Voters will discuss Florida legislation at its next regular meeting at 9:30 a.m. Monday, April 16, at the Sanibel Public Library.

Coastal issues, protection of wetlands and groundwater recharge areas and land use policies are three priorities of women voters leagues in Florida.

The new co-chairs of the Lee County league's Natural Resources Committee are Sanibel residents Dr. Enid Bever and Dr. Frances Falvey. All league meetings are open to the public. Visitors are welcomed.

Christian women plan Easter bonnet show

The Sanibel-Captiva Christian Women's Club will hold its "Easter Bonnet Fashion Show and Luncheon" at 11:30 a.m. Thursday, April 12, at the Sundial. Tickets will be $6.75 at the door.

A fashion show of hats from Maas Brothers will be the special feature. Guest speaker will be Valerie Dixon of Sarasota. Arlette Scharfenberg, soloist, and Laurena Powell, club pianist, will provide the musical entertainment.

All visitors and residents are welcome. Reservations are required and can be made by calling 481-1864 or 472-4275. Free babysitting service is available by calling 472-3007.

Fort Myers museum director will address retired persons

The Sanibel-Captiva Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons will hold its regular meeting at 1 p.m. Friday, April 13, at the Sanibel Community Association.

The guest speaker will be Pat Bartlett, director of the Fort Myers Historical Museum. She will discuss the history of Lee County and Sanibel and Captiva.

Visitors and residents are welcome.

The fledgling Island chapter of the AARP has been alerted by the Washington headquarters of the possibility that Congress will fail this year to agree upon a multi-billion dollar deficit reduction package or that the Administration will be unwilling to accept it.

The national AARP insists that the deficit reduction be both fair and effective. It contends that fairness should recognize the sacrifices made in previous budget reductions by various groups, including the elderly.

All concerned Islanders, especially AARP members, are urged to contact the president and Congress and ask them to:

/Support a balanced budget that will reduce the deficit by $200 billion over the next three years primarily by raising revenue and slowing spending;
/Enact the necessary deficit reduction legislation in 1984.

Shell Club hosts fossil expert

The Sanibel-Captiva Shell Club will host Dr. Richard Yarger of the staff and development program at Edison Community College at the regular meeting at 8 p.m. Monday, April 16, at the Sanibel Community Association hall.

Yarger's topic will be "Exploring the Beaches of the Past." He taught geology for 18 years and has amassed a large fossil collection. He will bring specimens and slides of hard-shelled creatures that once roamed the beaches and seas of the area.

A Dutch treat, meet-the-speaker dinner will be held at the Coconut Grove restaurant at 6 p.m. before the meeting. Installation of officers and a shell raffle will take place at the meeting.

Tennis pro will address Kiwanians

Greg Parker, Director of Tennis for Mariner, will address the Sanibel-Captiva Kiwanis Club at the regular breakfast meeting that starts at 7:30 a.m. this Wednesday, April 11, at the Sundial.

All visiting and local Kiwanians are encouraged to attend.

CLUB NEWS

Lions elect officers for 1984-85

The regular meeting of the Sanibel-Captiva Lions Club took place Wednesday, April 4. Officers elected for the coming year are Joe Feeney, president; Francis Bailey, first vice president; Ken Meeker, second vice president; Phil Moyers, third vice president; Bill Burnham, secretary; Dan Dees, treasurer, Marc Nagot, Lion tamer; and George Licht, tail twister.

New directors are Joe Slobodo, Bob Sagers and Art Johnson. Installation of the new officers will take place June 16.

Also at the meeting last week past president Duane White inducted new members Jack Harrington, Wally Kobe and Bob Manns.

Lion Bob Sagers reported that several volunteers have signed up for the Island-wide clean-up project that will take place this Saturday, April 14. Anyone who can help should be at the Sanibel Elementary School at 8:30 a.m.

Lion John Cook reported that 55 people donated blood when the Bloodmobile was on the Island last Wednesday. 47 of the donors gave blood in the name of the Lions, Kiwanis or Rotary clubs. The blood is available at no charge to Island residents and workers and their families.

The next meeting of the Sanibel-Captiva Lions Club will take place at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 18, at the Sanibel Community Association hall. WBBH-Channel 20 sportscaster Ukee Washington will be the guest speaker.

Rotarians install new members

New members of the Sanibel-Captiva Rotary Club were installed during the club's fourth anniversary celebration Saturday, March 31.

A surprise announcement was made of the nominations of three new Paul Harris fellows. This honor was bestowed on Charlie Gold, Bill Donald and Stanley Ritter.

At the regular Friday morning meeting last week a total of 72 members and guests attended in comparison with 94 the week before and 120 two weeks ago.

The guest speaker Friday was Bruce Rogers, director of planning for Sanibel. He explained that the original saturation point of 7,800 dwelling units on the Island has been revised and now stands at 9,000. There are already 6,000 dwelling units on Sanibel, he said.

In response to a question from the audience Rogers said he thought traffic on Periwinkle Way should be "managed" instead of "accommodated" because accommodating traffic would only lead to more traffic and bigger traffic jams.

Business women will hear gallery director

The Sanibel-Captiva Chapter of the American Business Women's Association will hold a special membership meeting at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, April 12, at the Hilton on Sanibel.

The guest speaker will be Joseph Pulitano, director of the Schoolhouse Gallery. As director of the gallery he chooses the art that shows at the gallery. He says more than 300 artists a year vie for this honor.

Pulitano and his wife have lived on Sanibel for almost two years.

Any woman who is employed in the area is invited to attend the ABWA meeting. For reservations call Florene Higgins by April 9, 472-0900 days, or 482-3786 evenings. Membership information can be obtained from Eleanore Bouwman, 472-1222 days, or 463-0956 evenings.

ARTS ON THE ISLANDS

By Julie Niedenfuer

Island playwright awaits premiere

If Mike Fuery were superstitious he probably wouldn't go through with it. All the blood, sweat and tears of the past several weeks will culminate in one evening — this Friday, the 13th of April, when Fuery's original play, "We Blew Up the Bridge, Didn't We," makes its long-awaited debut.

I looked in on a rehearsal last week to check the play's progress and to find out how its author is faring as opening night approaches.

I found Fuery sitting in the murky light of his dimly lit office above the studio/garage where rehearsals were going on. The narrow beam cast by the desk lamp struck a direct hit on his chest and cast odd shadows across the pained expression on the writer's face. Through the open window drifted snatches of dialogue and laughter — a refreshing contrast to the somber atmosphere of the room.

"I don't know what's going to happen," moaned the playwright, tugging at an invisible whisker just below and to the left of his bottom lip. In the faint light the bags under Fuery's bloodshot eyes looked slightly less pronounced; the furrows in his brow less deep.

"My wife, Carol, and I, we've never done anything like this before," he wailed, dropping his head to his hands.

I asked how it was he decided to produce the play

"Well, we got all these people together and said to them, 'Anybody here ever have a play? No? Good — then let's have a play!'"

"How does Carol feel the play is going so far?" I asked.

"Well, why don't you ask her?"

I found Carol in the garage, an intense look of concentration on her face as she watched the rehearsal, occasionally jotting notes and whispering back and forth with the play's director, Allan Smith.

"How's it going, Carol? Are you happy with the play so far?" I asked in hushed tones.

"It's going beautifully!" she bubbled jubilantly. "We're so exci—"

"SSHHHHHHH!!" Smith hissed, glancing daggers at us.

"Really, everything is just going so smoothly," Carol continued in a voice slightly less audible than the sound of a pin dropping on carpet.

I leaned closer. "What about Mike," I asked. "He doesn't look so good."

"Oh, he's fine — just a minor case of opening night jitters," she replied.

I returned to the office upstairs to say good bye.

"Well, good luck," I offered, shaking hands.

"Thanks, uh, how's it going down there?" he said nodding toward the window.

"Great. Fine. Everybody seems to have their parts memorized," I reassured.

"Oh God!" he moaned. "What if this is a success and everybody wants to do it again in the fall!?"

Fictitious saga strikes close to home

"We Blew Up the Bridge, Didn't We?" takes place on a fictitious shell island off the coast of Florida that is connected to the mainland by a bridge.

Developers are attempting to wrest yet another piece of land from the grip of citizens concerned for the preservation of the Island's environment.

The citizens, with the help of a feisty female city attorney, are doing their best to fight back.

The play stars Betty Williamson as Mrs. Tibbs, a wealthy land owner; Marilyn and Lenn Lorenson as Councilwoman Taylor and the mayor, respectively; Mike Gaylord as the old and crusty Firecracker, an explosives "expert"; Tara McPherson as Connie, the headstrong city attorney; Rick Sebastian as Matt Aton, attorney for the developers; Norwood Melcher as Martin, Connie's father; and Jean Fletcher as Councilwoman Wheaton.

Performance dates are Friday and Saturday, April 13 and 14, and 20 and 21, at the Captiva Civic Association; and April 27 and 28 at the Sundial on Sanibel. Curtain time for all performances is 8 p.m.

Tickets are $6 for adults and $4.50 for children 12 and under and are available at The Islander, the Island Reporter and the Captiva Memorial Library.

Island art league elects new officers

At the last general meeting of the Sanibel-Captiva Art League, the following officers were elected for the 1984-85 season: Billie Elder, president; Harriet Ringel, vice president; Barbara Taylor, secretary; and Dorothy Ristow, treasurer.

Other board members who will serve for the upcoming year are Jean Gibson, Harriet Sagers, Ruth Searing, Marguerite McDonald and Tom Waterman. Program chairman is Shiela Tardosky. Harriet Ringel is in charge of publicity.

Throughout the year members will paint outdoors from 9 a.m. to noon every Thursday, with sessions followed by a critique of the morning's efforts. Monday afternoons the league sponsors life drawing workshops. Any artist, beginning or professional, is invited to participate. Bring your lunch and a portable chair for the critique. To find out where the sessions will be held each week call Ruth Searing, 472-4594.

Each month members of the league are invited to display their work at the Sanibel Library. In addition to indoor workshops, general programs are

CONTROL APPETITE

To control your weight, eat a slice or two of whole grain and high fiber bread with a glass of water before you start a meal, to give yourself a feeling of bulk and fullness so that you will eat less. The natural cellulose-roughage content of high-fiber bread will absorb water to increase the feeling of fullness in your stomach and ease the hunger urge. Also eat very slowly and you'll find yourself satisfied with less — the pounds will start melting away.

BIG Arts elects officers, changes bylaws at annual meeting

Officers were elected and plans for the upcoming season were discussed when Barrier Island Group for the Arts held its annual meeting March 29 at the Sanibel Library.

Voted in for her second term as president was Donna Kreager; Aaron Ritvo will serve as vice president; Betsy Payton, recording secretary; Nancy Gordon, corresponding secretary; and Helen Moe and Molly Orloff, co-treasurers.

Committee chairmen are Betts Johnson, membership; Jaye Halcrow, program; Jill Goodman, publicity; and Kitty Rose and Syril I. Rubin, bylaws and grants.

According to Kreager some revamping has been done with the bylaws "to better facilitate membership and to get the board of directors more directly involved."

"We've grown," she said. "We took a look at the bylaws and found they're unwieldy."

Kreager said the fiscal year has been changed to begin in April instead of November so that committees can have the summer to put together a program, instead of having to start plans in the middle of season.

And what's on the agenda so far for the 1984-85 season? Program chairman Jaye Halcrow is devising a schedule from a basis already structured by BIG Arts members. "We're planning a diverse program that will cover all aspects of the arts," she said, adding that the line-up already includes a writers' forum series, professional theater and dance events, and a series of film portraits of American artists, which will include a personal appearance by the artist or an expert on the subject.

And the annual events Islanders have come to look forward to are prominent on the list. Halcrow said The Company will perform during the season, the arts and crafts fair will be held this November, Jazz on the Green is scheduled for next March, and a return visit by the Chicago Lyric Ensemble is planned.

A special event for Islanders is also planned, which Halcrow says will be "a fun thing for people on Sanibel after season is over."

Halcrow and other BIG Arts members will be working hard so that by summer the program will be finalized, she said.

Current exhibits on the Islands

Galleries listed are holding special, limited time exhibits

Charlie McCullough exhibits at Splinter Group Gallery and Sanibel Library

Charlie McCullough's photographs have captured the past and transported it to the present.

He has been photographing Sanibel and Captiva for nearly 40 years, and his pictures present a history of the Islands no words could ever convey.

In 1908 McCullough's grandfather and several of his Ohioan friends built the "fishing" house on Woodring Point, where Charlie and his wife, Ann, now live. Through the years each partner sold his interest until, Charlie says, "in the 30s my father found himself owning all of it."

Yearly excursions to the Islands by McCullough's family provided the opportunity for the amateur photographer to practice with his camera. His subjects were the old-time residents of Woodring Point, local fishermen and ramshackle fishhouses.

McCullough advanced his technical photography skills by studying with Bernard Silverstein at the University of Cincinnati, Fred Picker in Vermont, and with Cal Kowal, head of photography department at the Cincinnati Art Academy.

For the first time McCullough's photographs are being offered for public viewing, and in not one, but two exhibits.

The Splinter Group Gallery will host "Sanibel-Captiva 1950s-1984" through April 19. And beginning today, as part of its ongoing Sanibel-Captiva Art League series, the Sanibel Library will host a one-man show of his work for a month.

Captiva Memorial Library

Through April 21 the library is hosting an exhibit by Islander photographer Mark Johnson.

The show will run for two weeks and will feature a collection of Johnson's most recent black and white photographs taken in Southwest Florida.

Visitors can view the exhibit during regular library hours from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, Thursday and Friday; from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday; and from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Saturday. The library is at Wiles Drive and Chapin Lane on Captiva.

Schoolhouse Gallery

The gallery features the works of 90 living American artists. Original paintings and limited edition fine prints are on perpetual display.

Through April 21 the gallery is hosting an exhibit by three area artists — wildlife painter Diane Pierce and metal sculptors Larry Hoff and Linda Ritchie.

The gallery at Tarpon Bay Road near Periwinkle Way is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Sanibel Gallery

There are still a couple of days to catch the fiber exhibit of Anita A modeo, whose basketry, weavings and handmade paper are on display through Thursday, April 12.

Beginning Friday, April 13, the gallery will hold a one-woman show for Ohio potter Sally King. The show will continue through May 4.

Islanders are familiar with King's work as she is a regular exhibiting artist at the gallery. For the past two years she has participated in the Barrier Islands Group for the Arts annual arts and crafts fairs, winning a purchase award in 1983.

She began as a self-taught functional potter

14 years ago and eventually developed the one-of-a-kind style seen in the stoneware pieces that will be featured at the gallery. She throws on the wheel and then alters the pieces as they dry. Her glazes are unique, accenting the sense of motion seen in her work.

King has a master's degree in philosophy from Boston University and was an expert in student administration for many years. She is an award-winning member of the Ohio Designers Craftsmen and is currently exhibiting in Boston, Ohio, California and Iowa.

Gallery owners Jane and Fred Valtin invite the public to an opening reception to meet the artist from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. this Friday, April 13, at the gallery at 1628 Periwinkle Way.

The gallery is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Because you love the island life...

Because you appreciate the unhurried pace and unhurried life...the serenity of living surrounded by nature, with easy access to all the sports and recreational pursuits you came here to enjoy.

Because you seek the carefree condominium lifestyle, with freedom to do as you please unfettered by upkeep and maintenance chores...a chance to stretch out and enjoy life in a spacious, private two-bedroom townhouse...with the features you desire and the amenities you demand, at a price you can afford.

Because you want the waterfront lifestyle without high waterfront prices...a well-planned, well-built residence at a cost you never thought you'd see again...on one of the few remaining refuges of island living as it once was.

Blue Crab Key...the beauty and serenity of the waterfront...and luxury at a price you can afford.

Come and take a look. From I-75 or U.S. 41, take Pine Island Road (State Road 78) to Pine Island. Turn right at Pine Island Center, head north 1 1/2 miles and turn right onto Marina Road. Or give us a call at 283-FISH, and a friendly native guide will talk you in.

Something DIFFERENT

is happening

at SANIBEL BAYOUS!

The idea of The Ridge is simply stated. You can have it both ways!

A different way of life is in the making at Sanibel Bayous, in a private and secluded new community.

At The Ridge, where you'll enjoy the quiet, the privacy and the individuality of your own home on its own spacious piece of the Island, with all the comforts and conveniences of the condominium way of life.

The Ridge, where you'll share with only a very few a swimming pool and tennis court. Where you can forget about the usual cares and concerns of home ownership because The Ridge will be a totally managed community. Whatever needs to be done will be done for you.

The Ridge, between the Gulf of Mexico and the Wild Life Refuge on the quiet western end of Sanibel Island. Only a comfortable stroll to one of the most exciting shelling beaches in the world. Easy access to nature trails in the refuge. Miles of bike paths. High and dry, naturally vegetated, overlooking a beautiful fresh water lake. One of the last perfect sites that remain on Sanibel.

The Ridge, where you can relax and enjoy everything Sanibel offers.

Restaurant

NEW RESTAURANT OPENING!

Exciting opportunities for reliable, hard working and "people-oriented" individuals to work in a new restaurant concept opening soon in this area. Our casual "wine cellar" atmosphere requires key individuals in the following areas:

Walters/Waitresses • Hosts/Hostesses
Cooks • Bartenders
Dining Room Supervisor • Dish/Utility
Working Kitchen Supervisor
Bookkeeper
Full or Part-Time

Experience in the hospitality industry would be helpful, but if you can deal effectively with the public, we will train. Your hours will vary with some late evening and weekend work involved. Applicants must be at least 18 years of age. Good starting pay, excellent training and a challenging opportunity provide a growth-oriented work environment. For immediate consideration, please apply in person: daily except Sunday, 9:00am - 5:00pm and Tuesday & Thursday until 8:00pm best terms, best time...

NOW is the time to take advantage of the excellent opportunities available through an Owner Financing Plan.

Considering the purchase of an island home or condominium? Please consider this. Forecasting real estate investments is a tricky business. However, it is apparent that the real estate market is lucrative for timely buys at affordable terms.

Consider the sensible alternative of an Owner Financing Plan before you make your decision. Allow one of our experienced real estate associates to present the facts and figures. Compare earnest money deposits, interest rates, and principal and interest payments with those of various banks and savings and loans.

It could mean a considerable savings...no loan orientation fees...no points or 'out-of-pocket' closing costs...all conveniently coordinated by your realtor-associate or broker-salesperson.

VIP professionals are trained to ensure a smooth transition during the sale for all parties involved. As the largest full service real estate firm in Southwest Florida, with ten offices located conveniently throughout Lee County, VIP offers the finest research and marketing services and a closing department complete with in-house title service.

For your future home, rental, investment, or tax shelter property on Sanibel/Captiva Islands...call VIP REALTY GROUP, INC. for the highly specialized service that you expect when making a buying decision. One of our VIP professionals will be happy to schedule an appointment at your convenience.

Waterfront lots in Clam Bayou - approximately 1 acre each. Ideal for that private estate home. Owner will finance. Terms are negotiable. Call Betty Clark, Broker-Salesman.
