

Schools Using Mental Hygiene Society Services

"Our school staff is already using the services offered by the recently-established Mental Hygiene Society of Union County," said W. A. Kincaid, superintendent of schools, in an interview this week. "The Society establishes and brings to Summit a highly-specialized service, the need for which has been recognized by educators for several years but which a small community like ours cannot possibly afford for itself." The Society is a Union County project with headquarters in Plainfield and clinics in Elizabeth and Hamilton School.

Mr. Kincaid went on to say that it was the responsibility of a democracy to work for a maximum of growth in every individual—growth in all aspects of life, physical, social, emotional and moral. "The failure," he continued, "of a youth to develop equally and fully in any one of these aspects means a maladjusted child who, at best, may become a maladjusted adult unable to find his normal place in society; at worst he may become an institutional case and a burden to the state. The chief function of mental hygiene is prevention. Psychiatric service given in the formative years can prevent many needless tragedies and raise the entire standard of the community. Even very simple difficulties such as a slight stammer, excessive shyness, etc., may become in later life a stumbling block to success. Early help can correct and eliminate these and give a child new faith in himself and the world."

A group of about twenty citizens interested in the Mental Hygiene Society attended the organization's annual meeting in Plainfield last Monday night.

Dr. Margaret Mead Anthropologist, Fortnightly Guest

The Fortnightly Club members will hear Dr. Margaret Mead on "Women's Contribution to a Changing World" at their next meeting. Dr. Mead, anthropologist, is much too busy as a member of the National Research Council in Washington to have time for frequent lecturing and it is only because of the persuasive powers of the program committee that she consented to come. "No one needs to be scared off by her title of anthropologist as she is lively, discerning and provocative and has a delightful facility of illuminating a completely serious subject with flashes of wit and charm of expression," said a member of the committee.

After her university training Dr. Mead spent much time living among different tribes in the South Seas, studying their culture, education, personality and the relationship between their character structure and social forms. She is the author of many books and scientific articles. She is the wife of Gregory Bateson and the mother of a young daughter.

Local Price Panel Will Meet Retailers Thursday, April 5

Owing to the new price regulations on apparel, dry goods, household goods and many other consumer durable goods that went into effect on March 20, the Price Panel of the Summit Ration Board has called a meeting for Thursday, April 5, at 10 o'clock with local merchants.

This will take place in Lincoln School auditorium and there will be representatives of OPA to explain the changes and how they will affect the merchant. It is stated that this is the most significant regulation since the original GMPR and supercedes many of the regulations under which retailers have been operating for the past two years.

It is stated that both retailers and consumers will benefit by this new regulation. Retailers will have a simpler and more direct pricing method, while consumers will have the benefit of regulations which can be enforced more effectively by OPA.

Among the 110 categories of commodities affected are men's and boys' coats, suits, trousers, hats and gloves; women's and children's sportswear, beachwear, rainwear, and knitted underwear, and women's handbags, handkerchiefs, and foundation garments; infants' coats, snowsuits, leggings, hats, nightwear, and underwear; men's and women's athletic costumes; shoes; blankets, quilts, bath and kitchen linens, table and fancy linens, pillow cases, curtains, slip covers, and draperies; yard goods; bedding; bedroom, dining room, living room and kitchen furniture; floor coverings; and lamps and lamp shades.

Men's Garden Club To Hear H. Biekart On First Planting

Ernest G. Malhack, president of the Men's Garden Club, states that the club program committee under the direction of Chairman Frank A. Hodges will present Professor Henry M. Biekart at the next meeting to be held at the Y.M.C.A. April 2 at 8 p. m. Prof. Biekart will talk on "Beginning the Outdoor Planting of the Garden."

Prior to his coming to this country, Professor Biekart studied at the College of Horticulture in Holland and gained wide practical experience in the bulb fields of The Netherlands and in gardens of France, Switzerland, and Germany. His experimental work at Rutgers has included studies in the land culture and soilless culture of such plants as narcissus, carnations, roses, anemones, and geraniums, and the sub-irrigation methods of growing carnations and roses. He has also specialized in plant propagation methods, and in the propagation of plants particularly well adapted to New Jersey growing conditions.

Professor Biekart is the author of several bulletins and of newspaper and magazine articles on ornamentals and their cultivation, and he has lectured for garden club groups in all parts of the State. He is a member of Pi Alpha Xi, honorary horticultural fraternity.

Nursing Profession Praised For Spirit In War Emergency

The Summit Nursing Council for War Service held its regular meeting on the evening of March 20 having as guest speaker Miss Wilkie Hughes, R. N. Miss Hughes is executive secretary of the New Jersey Nursing Council for War Service and General Secretary of the New Jersey State Nurses' Association. She praised the spirit of the nursing profession in the present national crisis. The tremendous response to the call to service of the nurses in the armed forces and in essential civilian nursing is a source of pride, both to the nursing profession and to American women, she said. Miss Hughes gave tribute to those private duty nurses, who, at great sacrifice to themselves and their families, have volunteered a large proportion of their time to hospital service. She spoke of the vital part played by the student nurses, without whom the hospitals could not function at all.

Also guests of the War Nursing Council were Mrs. Martha Trainor, R. N., who is field worker for the New Jersey Nursing Council for War Service, and Miss Jessie Oates, president of the Student

PROCLAMATION

Whereas, as many war victims have died from exposure and lack of adequate clothing as have died from starvation, and Whereas, of those remaining alive, more than 30,000,000 are virtually naked, and more than four times that number, 125,000,000, are in desperate need of clothing, and Whereas, since enough new clothing for the relief of these unfortunate people does not now exist anywhere in the world, and

Whereas the only available large source of clothing for overseas relief is the serviceable, used clothing now lying forgotten in American homes, and Whereas the President's War Relief Control Board has authorized a nation-wide collection (April 1-30) of 150,000,000 pounds of serviceable used clothing, shoes and bedding, and Whereas the President's War Relief Control Board has directed more than 80 voluntary war relief agencies to suspend their national or local campaigns and public collections of used clothing during March, April, and May, and join with the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration in the United National Clothing Collection, and

Whereas the President of the United States has appointed Henry J. Kaiser as national chairman of this collection, and Whereas full campaign support has been pledged by the national leaders of every representative and responsible group in America, including industry, labor, business, government, church groups, schools, civic and service clubs, women's and fraternal organizations, farm groups, youth groups, etc., and Whereas a local committee to conduct the United National Clothing Collection in Summit has been formed, and W. H. Kay, Jr., residence phone Su. 6-1744, business phone Su. 6-1810, has been named chairman of this committee, and clothing receiving stations have been established in designated centers,

Now, Therefore, I, G. Harry Cullis, Mayor of Summit, N. J., do proclaim April 1st through April 30th, 1945, as United National Clothing Collection month in Summit, and I call upon every responsible organization and every citizen of this community to give utmost help in this urgent and humanitarian undertaking.

G. HARRY CULLIS,

Red Cross Drive Exceeds Amount; Closes Sunday

With cash and pledges totaling $78,000, the people of Summit and its environs have once again responded to the Red Cross call and have topped the quota of $75,000 set for Summit Chapter. The campaign officially ends March 31 but a number of pledges outstanding will be paid next month.

In this statement this week James W. Bancker, chairman of the War Fund campaign said that while it was an obligation to do this in support of the men and women in the armed services, nevertheless our citizens are to be congratulated on their generous response and it is of great gratification to all of us that our full support has been given to the wonderful work that the Red Cross is doing.

"I want to express my sincere appreciation for the work of all our solicitors and the many other persons who made this grand result possible." There are still a number of persons and business houses whose contributions have not yet been received and it is hoped that these will bring the total well over $80,000. Although this is an excellent record and accomplishment the needs of the Red Cross are such that no amount is too great and the work of soliciting will be continued until the Chapter officials are certain that everyone who can and wishes to contribute has had the opportunity.

The service, led by Harriet Klepper, chairman of the United Youth Council, will be a devotional program of hymns and Bible reading with an inspirational talk by James Stahl, A.S., a member of the United Youth Council for the past two years and now in the Navy. Held outdoors at this early hour, the service has drawn many participants in past years and the interest manifested this year promises a large attendance.

For those who live at some distance from Prospect Hill, cars will be at the Presbyterian parish house at 6:15 to provide transportation. The service will last a little over a half hour and in case of rain will be held at the Presbyterian parish house. Murray to issue a stern warning that any one starting a brush fire will be summarily issued a summons whether he has a permit or not. He points to the urgent need of conserving gasoline and fire equipment, not to mention the acute shortage of manpower.

100,000 Lbs. of Clothing Sought in City Drive

The United National Clothing Collection through its Summit committee seeks 100,000 pounds of clothing, the purpose of which is to secure the maximum quantity of good used clothing for free distribution to needy and destitute men, women and children in war-devastated countries. This was announced Tuesday night at a meeting of the Summit committee in the rooms of the Summit Federal Savings & Loan Association in Beechwood road.

The Summit committee has secured the following clothing receiving or collection stations: Chevrolet Sales & Service, 315 Springfield avenue (under the Ration Board); Meyer-Werner Motor Co., 517 Springfield avenue (opposite Hamilton School); E. L. Fitterer, 20 Beechwood road (opposite the Lyric Theatre); and Dodge-Plymouth Service Sales & Service, 306 Broad street. In addition, school children are being asked to aid in collections by taking clothing to the schools where they are enrolled. Wherever possible contributors are asked to take their donations of clothing to the Chevrolet Sales & Service, inasmuch as that place is being used as the shipping point.

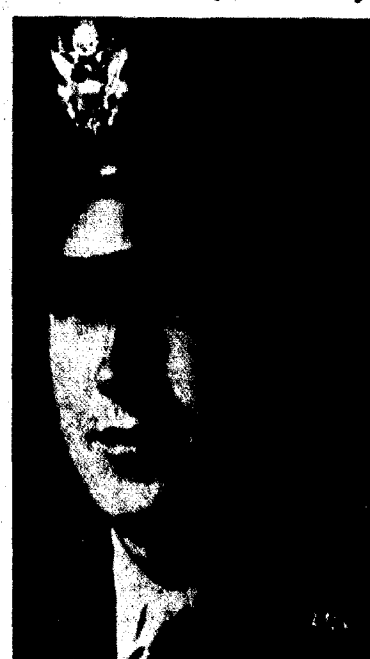

The United Nations Clothing collection is a united effort on the part of UNRRA (United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration) and various volunteer relief agencies in the United States. The collection is being conducted under the sponsorship of a National Committee to which President Roosevelt has appointed Henry J. Kaiser as National Chairman. The National Committee is composed of representatives of participating agencies as well as representative national leaders of civic organizations, industry, labor, education, religious and other groups.

The drive in Summit as elsewhere in the nation is scheduled for April 1-30, and locally is being headed by representatives of the city's three service clubs, Arthur T. Dailey of Rotary, Salem Boorjy of the Lions and William Savage of the Kiwanis acting as vice-chairmen to William H. Kay, Jr., president of the Chamber of Commerce, who is general chairman by appointment of Mayor G. Harry Cullis.

The mayor attended Tuesday's meeting and expressed confidence that Summit will meet its quota. Director Maxwell Lester, Jr., of the Defense Council who was unable to attend the above meeting was praised by Chairman Kay for "his energetic and unselfish support of the campaign."

Memorial services will be held Sunday morning at Central Presbyterian Church for First Lt. Richard Olson, 24, Army Air Forces fighter, who was killed March 15 in a crash in Oahu Island in the Hawaiian Islands. Mr. and Mrs. Egbert C. Lt. Olson, a graduate of Summit High School, was associated in business in New York with his father before entering the Army in January, 1942. He was awarded his navigator's wings at Albany, Ga. Following a year's tour of duty in Alaska, Lt. Olson returned to the States to train as a fighter pilot, completing this work at Lake Field, Ariz., last May.

The Blue Star Drive committee of Summit, Miss Hilda Osborn, chairman, reports that Ciba Pharmaceutical Products, Inc., has given $100 to the fund, in honor of their employees, now in the services.

This donation is expected to be one of many such to be received from business houses in Summit for the purchase of dogwood trees to be planted along Route 29 from Mountaintop to Plainfield, the section which will be called "Blue Star Drive," a living tribute to all now in service.

Checks may be made out to "Blue Star Drive" and sent to Miss Hilda Osborn, Hobart avenue.

Schedule Sheridan Embezzling Case For Grand Jury

The case of John P. Sheridan of Chatham Township, assistant postmaster of Summit, who is charged specifically with embezzling $54,229 in postal funds, will be presented to the Federal Grand Jury in Newark on April 10 by Assistant United States Attorney Stanziale.

Because of the statute of limitations, the grand jury will be given evidence covering the period from May, 1942 to February of this year. Arrested by Postal Inspector William A. Cueman on March 9 when an irregularly was found in the assistant postmaster's books, Mr. Sheridan was charged with taking $109,000 over a period of eight years.

Mr. Sheridan was released in $15,000 bail furnished by George C. Warren, Jr., of Summit avenue. Postal inspectors investigated Mr. Sheridan's books February 27 and noticed an over-amount. They discovered that checks received for use of non-metered mail had been sent to the government, but the accounts had not been credited. They said that he had credited the checks to cash accounts and kept the cash.

Thirteen Summit Nurses Volunteer For Military Duty

Summit is proud of its nurses who have volunteered in this wartime emergency, according to a report by the recruitment nurse, Mrs. W. W. Schormann, Summit Chapter, American Red Cross.

The total number of applicants for military duty since January 1, 1945, has been 13, of whom three received their commissions and reported to Fort Dix, March 6, 1945. Seven others have passed their physical examinations, of whom four are to report for duty April 2. The remaining ones expect to receive their notifications in the near future.

In February a call came from Camp Kilmer for registered nurses not eligible for military service, to do part-time nursing one or two days a week on a voluntary basis. To date, 14 nurses have volunteered for this service to our wounded men. These women who are all working part or full time at their regular jobs, are to be commended for their splendid cooperation in volunteering their help and their free time when needed, stated Mrs. Schormann.

With so many nurses leaving the hospital for military service, the problem of giving adequate nursing care to our sick in the hospital and the community becomes increasingly serious. Every woman can help in the following ways:

1. Urge every nurse and retired nurse not eligible for military service to take an essential nursing job to fill up the ranks of the civilian front.

2. Become a Red Cross nurse's (Continued on page 6)

A total of $1,843.76 is reported by the Summit Chapter, American Red Cross, as the sum collected from the Lyric and Strand theaters during the movie theater campaign from March 14 through March 21.

This unprecedented amount, for the benefit of the Red Cross War Fund Drive, is due to several factors, according to Mrs. E. G. von Duhn, Red Cross finance chairman, in charge of this collection. There was an excellent spirit and generosity on the part of the public, and an unusually fine selection of pictures by both theater managements resulting in large audiences, reported Mrs. von Duhn.

The Lyric Theatre, with the cooperation of Mr. Jack Smolen and Miss Theresa McGowan had a total of $954.61, and the Strand Theatre, aided by Mr. E. M. Gould, brought in $889.15.

Assisting Mrs. von Duhn in collecting the money at matinee and evening performances were the following corps of the Summit chapter: Canteen, Production, Surgical Dressings, Nurse's Aides, Junior Red Cross, Motor Corps, Dietitian's Aides, Gray Ladies, Staff Assistance, and Home Nursing.

Rev. W. O. Kinsolving Speaks on Easter To Rotarians

The Rev. Walter O. Kinsolving, rector of Calvary Episcopal Church, was the speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon meeting on Monday at the YMCA.

He began his talk by saying that all are thinking of spring and the spring festival: Easter eggs and bunnies; that spring comes up with Easter day—the day of resurrection. We think of Easter hats and Easter parades. What does it mean to life in plants, bugs and birds maintaining a fight for life itself against the difficulties that would destroy it, the struggle to keep alive against winter rigors and freezing, then to burst their shells and be set free, he asked. This was life working, giving a springtime victory to all.

This he likened to the resurrection of Jesus Christ—His rising from the dead—first to be seen by the women, then the disciples. It was a great day, with Christ's victory over death, with ourselves anaring in it; ourselves living again, which suggested something more than being in this world, however vague or however definite the idea of going to a world where we might live again.

Rev. Kinsolving suggested that someone had worked to get goods into shops, every product of our work was a striving to make it possible that they be there, which makes an achievement. This was the story of Christ who came into the world to give man a spiritual revelation: He fought against paganism, setting up moral standards that met human antagonisms that met the self-will of man; Christ revealed good will, service and love and stood for them straight through to His crucifixion. This is why Easter means so much to us with its social and moral values; our spiritual achievements make us worthy of some other world.

Rev. Kinsolving suggested that we stand not silent and indifferent to spiritual values; that we say something about them, that we stand for some moral idealism that Easter holds before us; that we work for a more co-operative world or a peace that will last. The speaker was introduced by W. Gilbert Baker of the Program Committee.

Birthday greetings were extended to J. Edwin Carter, Alfred W. Allsberry, and Dr. John D. Tidback.

Maxwell Lester, Jr. introduced the following visitors: Thomas O. Willis; Harold C. Reimann, Sp. 3; J. Purman Shool, Jersey City; William H. Force, Madison; Robert F. Smith and Rodney MacDougall, Millburn; and Paul R. Tilson, La. (J.).

Look Around Home, "What Can You Spare That They Can Wear?"

In the attics, closets and trunks of American homes are millions of pounds of serviceable used clothing, shoes and bedding. In the war devastated areas abroad there are millions of people who are suffering and dying because they lack such essential things.

United National Clothing Collection in Summit offers an opportunity for you to show your patriotism as well as your humanity. By providing war sufferers with those things they most desperately need you will enable them to reestablish themselves and help us in establishing the peace which is to come.

There is a United National Clothing Collection receiving depot in your Summit neighborhood. See that your share of apparel is delivered there.

announced until next week. He did announce the members of the collection committee as follows: Mr. Booruy, chairman, together with Mrs. Charles W. Brown, Miss Emily H. Quig and Daniel J. Fitzpatrick, vice-chairmen. The sorting, packing and shipping committee includes Joseph Zeigler, chairman, together with Mr. Savage, Mrs. A. H. Hearn and Mrs. H. E. Mendenhall as vice-chairmen. W. H. Woodside was appointed chairman on publicity. President John N. May, Jr., of the Summit Chapter of the American Red Cross pledged the support of that organization in the collection. In commenting on the forthcoming collection, Chairman Kay, in a prepared statement to the Herald said:

"This will be the one nationwide clothing collection to be conducted in the United States in the Spring of 1945 for foreign war relief purposes. The only exceptions will be instances where certain organizations engaged in foreign relief activities will continue accepting gifts of clothing from their own immediate constituency on a non-campaign basis.

"Throughout war-torn areas clothing is very scarce or threadbare and worn out. More than 125,000,000 people are in liberated or to be liberated nations of Europe which are in dire need of clothing. Of these more than 30,000,000 are children. Because of the demands of armed forces and civilian needs, manufacture of clothing in the United States or other countries to relieve those distressed people will not get under way for some time. This means the needy men, women, and children in war-devastated countries must depend on the help of the American people.

"In a report to Congress on participation in operations of UNRRA, President Roosevelt said on September 30, 1944:

"Millions of people do not have enough clothes to keep them warm. In occupied Europe almost as many people have died from exposure due to lack of adequate clothing as have died from starvation."

"What is needed is good substantial used clothing, for both winter and summer wear. Although clothing need not be in perfect repair, it must be useful to the people who will receive it. Underclothing and all types of cotton garments should be washed before they are donated, but need not be ironed. (Evening dresses, tuxedos, and dress suits cannot be used.)

"Most urgently needed are the following:

"Infants' garments: All types are in urgent demand, particularly knit goods.

"Men's and boys' garments. Overcoats, topcoats, suits, coats, jackets, shirts, all types of work clothes, including overalls, coveralls, etc., sweaters, underwear, robes, pajamas, knitted gloves.

"Women's and girls' garments. Overcoats, jackets, skirts, sweaters, shawls, dresses, underwear, aprons, jumpers, smocks, robes, nightwear, knitted gloves.

"Caps and knitted headwear. Serviceable heavy duty caps and knitted headwear (such as stocking caps) are needed. (Women's hats, dress hats, and derbies cannot be used.)

"Bedding. Blankets, afghans, sheets, pillow cases, quilts. These are needed urgently if in serviceable condition.

"Shoes. Either oxfords or high shoes, of durable type with low or medium heels are desired. Shoes with high heels, open toes or open backs, evening slippers, and novelty types cannot be used. All shoes collected should be mated and tied securely into pairs.

"Usable remnants, piece goods. Cut or uncut materials (cottons, rayons, woolsens, etc.) one yard or more in length—but not rags or badly damaged, dirty or worn-out fabrics.

"The donated garments will be shipped to the war-devastated countries on the basis of the greatest immediate need and available shipping space. The clothing will be distributed free to the needy without discrimination of any kind. The Far East will be included, in the event conditions are such as to permit distribution of clothing collected in this drive. This includes the Philippines.

"All contributions received in the United National Clothing Collection will go into a common pool. No donations can be earmarked for a specific country."

A Progressive Trust Company Devoted to the Development of Summit

OVER THE TOP!

The Summit Chapter has again exceeded its quota in the annual War Fund drive.

Congratulations to the hundreds of workers whose untiring efforts made it possible to reach the goal in a much shorter time than in previous years.

Congratulations to the citizens and business houses of Summit for their generous support of the Fund.

While we all have a sense of pride in exceeding our objective, our real gratification comes from the knowledge that Summit has done its part to assure continuation of the great work the Red Cross is doing for our boys and girls in the Services and in prison camps and for their families at home.

"Roads North" Lecture and Film Tells of Alaska

"Alaska has the widest range of temperature of any place on the earth; in summer it can be 100 degrees above zero, and in winter 76 below, in the same spot," said Karl Robinson, in his lecture film, "Roads North" before the Fort-nightly Club and their guests, last Friday night in the high school.

Mr. Robinson said that the weather causes more casualties in Alaska than anything else; it is tropical in summer and one can swim 150 miles from the North Pole; gardens are gorgeous with bloom, the result of hot sun and virgin soil. But the winters are different; and the transition from one season to the other brings seas of mud.

While the "road north" did not follow the trail recommended by the five-year commission which studied the question, it did seek the least mountainous terrain, under pressure of war danger. This has had its drawbacks in the tendency of the road to disappear or disintegrate in many places, due to quagmires, and also to the rivers, which wander all over, and won't stay under the bridges, but frequently run in the roads. Some of the roads in upper Canada and in Alaska has to be rebuilt every spring.

The subsoil in these regions is perpetually frozen, having been frozen in the ice age, and not thawed out since. Experiments have taught that it is safer to leave it frozen, as it becomes muskeg when thawed, and this does not make a good foundation, but it is physically possible to drive a car from the states into Alaska, even under the difficulties. The plan is to make this trip a popular one to Americans.

The price levels in Alaska are exemplified in the fact that coca-cola is 25 cents a bottle.

Mr. Robinson showed pictures of the hydraulic mining of gold. He said, "We work like mad to dig it out of the earth in Alaska, and then bring it down and bury it again in the earth at Fort Knox."

He gave great credit to the Negro troops of the U. S. Army, who did the original work on the road, in the face of discomfort and discouragement, and came out smiling.

Radio reception is so poor in Alaska, due to interference, that a telephone line has been built all the way from the States.

Salmon swim 1,500 miles to spawn in the rivers of Alaska, from which 50 to 60 million dollars worth of them are shipped out each year. This industry and mining are the two great reasons for developing the country. Although some small fruits are very abundant, naturally, labor is so costly that it does not pay to export them. Raspberries and cranberries are two of these.

The excavation of prehistoric animal remains is another activity which goes on in Alaska, and many of these have been found, and are shown in museums in all parts of the world.

A few towns have all the signs of a metropolis, movies, electricity, and other conveniences.

Mr. Robinson showed a long sequence of beavers building a dam. He said that they know the principles of engineering just as well as the army corps.

When to Dig

Do not trample the ground or dig or plow when it is still wet. Take a handful of the soil and squeeze it. If it forms a solid ball that will not break up readily after squeezing, it is too wet to dig. If digging is done while it is in that condition, the soil may be lumpy all summer.

Senate Bill Urges -Tax Recess For House Repair

Legislation to encourage repair and renovation of obsolete houses, with certain tax advantages, the inducement, was sought by Summit at a conference Thursday in Elizabeth with Senator Herbert J. Pascoe and Assemblymen G. Clifford Thomas and Joseph L. Brescher together with Assemblywoman Irene T. Griffin. Without committing himself, Senator Pascoe introduced the bill Monday so as to permit State-wide reaction.

Under the plan outlined by City Solicitor Frederick C. Kentz, Sr., at the conference, repairs would be encouraged by tax rebates or agreement not to assess for taxes during a specific period after the improvement is made. The local governing body, Common Council in Summit's case would be the determining group.

A house, if owner-occupied and at least 35 years old, could be replaced and the assessed valuation would remain for one year no higher than formerly.

Senator Pascoe's "clinic" with the above members of the Assembly also was asked by Summit to create legislation making it permissive for municipalities to change their health codes to enjoy greater jurisdiction over the question of whether buildings are habitable. No action will be taken on this one this year, it was agreed.

President Rome, A. Betts of council, who had planned to accompany the city solicitor for the conference, was unable to attend because of his physician's orders.

N.S.D. Clearfield, Utah To the Summit Herald.

This is a letter that should have been written quite some time ago, but as is always the case, it is put off until I felt very guilty. Just recently, two weeks ago in fact, I was home and had all good intentions of stopping into the office and thank you personally for sending the Herald to me every week. I was sorry I didn't stop in but I hope a letter will suffice.

I first received the Herald at Newport where I was going to Storekeepers school and I continued to receive it at Jacksonville, Fla., San Diego, Calif., and now here at Clearfield, Utah. You must have been kept busy changing my address.

It has been very nice to receive the news of the home town even though I myself only lived there four months before entering the Navy. We moved to 133 Mountain avenue in August, 1943, and I went into the Navy the first of December of the same year.

I think it is very nice of the Herald to send the weekly paper to all the Summit boys in the service. I'm sure they are all as pleased to receive it as much as I.

Sincerely,
ROBERT V. HARNEY,
SKV3 C. USNR.

Neighborhood House Club Meetings

The Boys' Club will not meet on Good Friday.

Mrs. Curtis Prout will conduct the Story Hour for tiny tots on Saturday morning at 10 a. m.

The serial, "Flash Gordon," which has been running the past 12 weeks at Neighborhood House, completes its series Saturday afternoon, when the Six-Shooters Club meets at 1:30. The next Saturday, a new serial, "Sky Raiders," will begin. This week's film offering, in addition to the regular cartoon, will be "Lone Star Marshal," featuring Tim McCoy.

Art Davis and Kay Leslie

There will be no Youth Canteen Saturday night, but a special evening repetition of the Six-Shooters Club will be shown for all those older folks who might like to see the program will be held at 7:30 p. m., ending approximately at 9.

In these days of rules and regulations we seem to feel instinctively that in our own homes we can do as we please. Here, at any rate, we can retain our individuality and be free to some extent of the regimentation that has become an accepted part of modern life.

Navy Doctor

who were unfortunate enough not to be enough alive to reach us.

My last letter left you when we were sitting around waiting for the first patient. Our time for waiting, which seems like years ago, was short, for they began to arrive almost the moment I stopped writing. It was not very long before I realized that my idea of trying to give you a diary-like account of our days was a futile dream. For four days I have hardly had time to breathe, and eating and sleeping were frequently not on our "must" list. My hours of going to bed ran something like 3, 4, 4:30, 5, and I wasn't the last to bed by a long shot. Before I proceed, let me emphasize that there is not a modicum of complaining involved.

My primary job was taking care of a ward of ambulatory patients, but in a situation where a fractured arm is a negligible wound, there was little I could do but make up a list of those to have suita, etc. Most of the time I was seeing the more serious cases when they came aboard and giving blood and plasma (golden life itself!) trying to help keep them alive until the surgeons could see them and attempt definite treatment. That was a sizeable job that couldn't always be done by the surgeons, who spent 10-20 hours a day in the operating room. During a large part of the time I was giving anesthesia for the various operations. With all due modesty, I think I did fairly well with the "pentothal" with which I had had no experience previously.

I'm afraid that this trip has put me in such a frame of mind that the sight of the revelry of a New York night club or of a fast, commonplace, cigar-smoking man complaining that his steak is overdone would be nauseating to me now. There's nothing—absolutely nothing—that can equalize the price of war. No shipyard workers laboring 22 hours a day at 2 cents an hour could equal the sacrifice of these men who lie silently and uncomplaining with parts of their intestines eviscerated or their face half shot away. They just lie there demanding nothing, awaiting their turn at operation or treatment as though there were nothing horribly gruesome and unfair about it all.

There was one officer with both legs shot away who had nothing but smiles and cheerful remarks for the crowd. His only complaint was, "why can't you get me some of those legs now, Doc, so I can give them a try?" To that man, fear was as foreign as Sanskrit is to me; he knew there was such a thing but knew absolutely nothing about it. Then there was the Texan with a couple of fingers shot away who couldn't understand why we wouldn't let him go back to fight. He had left a draft-exempt job at $125 a week to join the Marines. His explanation was, "I've been on my own since I was 11 years old. No one has ever done my fighting for me and I'm too young to have it start now."

One man who died had a wedding ring on, and as we were working on him desperately I couldn't help but realize that he too had a Liebe and possibly a Butch waiting for him. I confess freely that I was almost overcome with emotion. It's all so unfair. No amount of rationing or inconvenience or overwork (at time and a half!) could equal the sacrifice that that man made. And probably he was one of the lucky ones, certainly more so than the man who will go through life without one leg, blind, scarred all over and emaculated.

To add to the irony, when we were met at the dock they attempted to make a party out of the arrival of these poor suffering boys. Photographers and reporters were there. Each stretcher case would get his picture taken—fine compensation!—and the A.P. is running a feature article in statewide papers soon about the glorious work the Finckney had done in bringing complete joy and happiness to these tired boys. And their legs and arms back, I suppose. The article will be written by a woman correspondent. Watch for it; I'll be interested to see how wrongly she glamorized our filthy, heart-rending business.

Tell Mom (Mrs. S. B. Emerson of Short Hills) who has given to the Blood Bank in Summit nine times that nothing could have taken the place of the golden plasma of which she has given so freely. Out deaths would have been easily 10 times greater without it. The blood flown from San Francisco and Los Angeles saved many lives also. The Red Cross

Fought From D-Day

PFC. PHILIP LOCKWOOD

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Lockwood of Cedar road have received word from their son, Pfc. Philip Lockwood, Jr., that he has been awarded the Expert Infantry Combat Medal for fighting from D-Day to St. Lo.

Pfc. Lockwood is with the 29th Infantry Division of the Ninth Army, and has been in combat since D-Day and has participated in the campaigns of Iigny, St. Lo, Vire, Vireville, Le Conquet, and Brest. From the Brest campaign the 29th Infantry Division participated in cracking the Siegfried Line on October 2, then on to capture Jullich Sport Stadium and Swimming Pool and the strong point of Hunsfeldt, Gut.

They drove the Germans back across the Roer River and gained control of the entire west bank from Jullich to Linnich. On February 23, the 29th division spearheaded the attack on the Rhine and in five days captured 48 towns and 200 prisoners. On March 2, they captured the town of Munchen-Gladbach, one of the main railroad junctions of the Rhineland.

Pfc. Philip Lockwood graduated from Blair Academy in June, 1943, entering the Army a few weeks later. He received his basic training at Camp Wheeler, Ga. In January, 1944, he went overseas and trained in England until D-Day.

is doing a wonderful job—and you can quote me over and over again. Not the least of their services was providing these boys with survivors' clothing, cigarettes, tooth brushes and the wherewithal to shave—something most of them hadn't done in more than a week. It was wonderful to see the effect of a shave and shower and a good meal on the ambulatory boys' morale. Some of them hadn't had a chance to eat in three days.

The Federal government is still paying some of the pension cost of the War of 1812, according to the New Jersey Taxpayers Association. An 87-year-old woman in Independence, Oregon, the daughter of a private in the War of 1812, is pensioned by the government.

H. E. Mendenhall Tells Old Guard About Electronics

Dr. H. E. Mendenhall, a manufacturing engineer of the Western Electric Company, talked to the Old Guard last Tuesday on "Electronics." He was introduced by Frank Waterman who also operated the lantern.

The electron, the speaker said, is the smallest possible particle of negative electric material. It is the essence of practically all that electricity is and does.

Thus in 1895 came the X-ray. This revealed, under their coats, the forbidden photographs which certain Japanese visitors to a Holland factory had taken. In 1905 an Englishman, named Fleming, harnessed electrons by valves and "tubes" and so made them more effective, and there have been many other electronic developments from then until now. In 1915 came the transatlantic radio telephone and a large "tube," exhibited by the speaker, was then constructed. This was followed by various others, large and small, down to the "peanut tube" used in hearing devices. Some of these "tubes," as amplifiers, placed at frequent intervals, have taken many conversations at the same time from New York to San Francisco.

In this war, other electronic devices have made submarines safe for their officers and men, but very dangerous for the enemy, while radar may spell complete defeat for the Japanese fleet. The Germans in Belgium tried to remove or destroy certain very valuable radio tubes, but one such tube was found, sent to our own Bell laboratories, there reconstructed in a few days and in three weeks about 1,000 such tubes were shipped abroad on lend lease.

A more recent discovery has been television, which should help greatly in the work of reconstruction after the war; electronics also offers many other great opportunities for the future.

On motion of Harrison Webb, Dr. Mendenhall was given a hearty rising vote of thanks.

At the meeting next Tuesday, Charles H. Hall will lead a general discussion.

Receives Combat Infantryman's Badge

With the 78th Infantry Division in Germany—Private First Class Russell R. Lobdell, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lobdell of Henry street, is a soldier with the 311th Infantry Regiment, "Lightning Division," fighting in Germany.

Pfc. Lobdell, along with a number of his comrades, recently received Combat Infantryman's Badge from Major Edwin P. Parker, Jr., Division Commanding General, for "exemplary conduct in action against the enemy."

Tippecanoe, Tyler Too

John Tyler, tenth President of the United States, was born March 29, 1790, in Virginia, referred to as the mother of presidents. It still leads, having eight of its sons sit in the White House.

President Tyler succeeded William Henry Harrison, also of Virginia, who had been elected and inaugurated but only served one month of his term. President Tyler filled the office three years and 11 months. He was a Wig.

It will be recalled that President Harrison was elected on the slogan, "Tippecanoe and Tyler Too." General Harrison had won a victory over Indians in the Battle of Tippecanoe, named after a river in northwest Indiana, on November 7, 1811.

"WHY SEEK YE"

Three more days and then will come the Easter dawn, the day on which, nearly 2,000 years ago Jesus Christ, the Man who was born of woman, and who came to save the world from its sins and provide the Way by which we humans can come into the full glory of the Lord God, rose from the dead.

Springtime sees the trees, the flowering shrubs and bushes and the Easter lilies break their winter bondage and burst forth into full flower to pursue their cycle of life which is repeated over and over.

Christ died on the cross but once as an atonement for the sins of the world, but that should be sufficient. Man, by following His precepts and teachings, will be able to transcend the inhibitions of the world and through moral and spiritual uplift reach that place that the Christ went to prepare for him.

Christ taught His disciples that He was the Way and the Life; then by coming forth from the tomb that His enemies—they of worldly ambitions—had thought secure, He demonstrated that man can, by following in His footsteps, come into everlasting life.

"And the angel answered and said unto the women, fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Jesus, which hath been crucified. He is not here; for He is risen, even as He said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay."

MOSQUITO ELIMINATION

A telephone call to the Union County Mosquito Commission office brought forth the information that the commission is now at work spraying the salt marshes in the county. This, as we understand it, is where the malaria-carrying mosquito (Anopheles) breeds and the Commissioner in charge states that it will be the effort of that body to work with the idea of the elimination of this breed uppermost in mind.

Not only are we faced with malaria produced at home, but many are of the opinion that returning soldiers will bring along the disease with them when they return from service abroad. This makes for a double hazard and will have to be watched closely if it is to be kept within bounds. It does not take long for an epidemic to spread and get out of control.

At the moment the Commission is some two weeks behind schedule in spraying but it is expected that this time will be made up when high school boys are available for work. They will work part time until schools close, after which they go on a 40-hour week.

Manpower is one thing that is not easily overcome. Oil for spraying is another thing. It has been whispered to us that if cash is short for buying oil some of the oil companies might be induced to donate a limited quantity. This would be a "doing their bit" good gesture for the companies.

Another elimination item lies close at hand. Property owners and tenants should see that all receptacles capable of retaining water be either sent to the waste pile or kept covered from rain.

POTPOURRI

Summit District does it again! With three days still to go, Red Cross Headquarters reports that $78,000 have been subscribed. This will be good news to the men at the front for they rely on the Red Cross for many things; and it is likewise good news to all in the Summit District which includes New Providence Borough and New Providence Township, that these same men have not been let down by those at home. With a number of persons and business houses still to be heard from headquarters is hoping that a final total will reach $80,000. Chairman Bancker of the drive, expresses thanks to the workers and the subscribers. Full story on Page One.

Brush and grass fires were responsible for calling out the fire companies over the week-end to an unnecessary extent. This has brought a warning from Chief Murray that persons starting fires without a permit will be severely dealt with when apprehended. Not only does it cost money for the department to answer fires but there is ever present the danger that some member might be hurt in responding to an alarm. Even if one has a permit a fire should be constantly watched and the person in charge should see that all flames and live coals are extinguished before the fire is left.

And do not forget that automobile license and the driver's license you have not yet secured. Saturday, March 31, at midnight is the dead line. Sunday morning if you even drive to church you may be in the toils of the law.

"It won't be long now," trout fishermen are saying to each other. They are anxious to get their feet into waders and the waders into a brook. Likewise they are anxious to have the hook snag a big speckled beauty. One said to the writer the other day: "Tell the Fish and Game Commission to get busy and get the trout into the streams." Guess there is no need for that; George Warren will see to it.

He hurries straight home these days to get his after-school snack made with.

Writes About Birds

To The Summit Herald:
In your issue of March 8, you have a piece about birds; and as I lived once in Summit, and for several years in Chatham, and am interested in birds, I thought I would chip in with some chirping of my own.

I live on Deal Lake, in Asbury Park now, which is a haven for birds, as no shooting is allowed at any season. So we have mallard ducks all the time, with various other water birds as occasional visitors, such as wood duck and black duck and several varieties of heron.

A great blue heron makes his regular summer station across the arm of the Lake where I live, in perfect security, preening his wings on a log. He has a companion sometimes, and it is interesting to see them come up the Lake in the morning, one starting to fish at one point, the other keeping on to another, just as two humans would do.

The one is so tame he allowed a couple in a canoe to follow him along the shore, not over 50 feet from him, as he walked with his slow, careful trout fisherman's stalk, picking his feet up and putting them down in the next step gently so as not to muddy the bottom.

One day a black throated loon landed here, evidently hurt in some way, as it died the following day, but assured of safety after its adventure. Too bad I could not have gotten the skin to a taxidermist, as I never saw one before. He had a shorter neck than the common loon, and no band around it.

A flock of great white gulls use this spot as a harbor now, and make themselves at home, taking baths in perfect freedom and security.

A great white heron came once, to the log across the lake, but the blackbirds, who do not bother the blue heron, would not tolerate this newcomer, and drove him away by diving near him, which insulted him beyond what his dignified majesty could stand. Sometimes Canada geese come, and swans.

A bird making a couple of musical, brass-tube like notes, we finally identified on seeing him, as Mr. yellow breasted chat. He likes highlife in tall trees, so is not easy to see clearly always. The song sparrow is always our first spring visitor, coming in February. He sings us matin each morning.

CONVERSE CLEVELAND.

Unfair Treatment

To The Summit Herald:
Taking advantage of our right to freedom of speech, we are writing to you concerning an example of unfair treatment of a minority group.

The Summit Y.M.C.A. extended to all high school girls in the senior class the invitation to join a swimming instruction class at their pool. They mentioned no restrictions regarding race, creed, or color. Therefore we signed up in all good faith.

When the time arrived to pay the fee, we went to pay our money, and there in the presence of our white classmates we were both humiliated and embarrassed by being told that Negroes were not permitted to use the pool. This announcement also caused embarrassment to our white classmates. We are calling your attention to this because we feel that your newspaper, as an instrument of democracy and fair play, would be interested.

Yours sincerely,

A Five Mile Planting Of Dogwood Trees to Be Called Blue Star Drive

A LIVING TRIBUTE TO THE MEN AND WOMEN FROM NEW JERSEY
WHO SERVE IN THE ARMED FORCES

Mr. W. Paul Stillman, Treasurer, 810 Broad Street, Newark, N. J.

Mrs. Kenneth V. C. Wallace, Secretary, 810 Broad Street, Newark, N. J.

WHO SPONSORS BLUE STAR DRIVE?

The Garden Club of New Jersey with the cooperation of the New Jersey State Highway Department.

WHERE WILL BLUE STAR DRIVE BE LOCATED?

On State Highway Route 29, a thoroughfare of five miles between Mountainside and North Plainfield.

WHY HAS THIS SECTION BEEN CHOSEN FOR BLUE STAR DRIVE?

It is the heart of New Jersey. It has great natural beauty and a minimum of commercialization. It is a modern four-lane highway and one of the great traffic arteries between New Jersey and other states—29,000 cars per day will pass through the memorial.

WHY HAS THE FLOWERING DOGWOOD BEEN CHOSEN AS THE FEATURED TREE ON BLUE STAR DRIVE?

The flowering dogwood is New Jersey's most beautiful native tree. Its large white blossoms in Spring rival all other trees in spectacular display. Its foliage and clustered red berries give brilliant color in the Fall—two seasons of beauty.

HOW ARE FUNDS TO BE RAISED FOR PLANTING BLUE STAR DRIVE?

By donations from corporations, organizations, clubs and public-spirited individuals, in gratitude to those men and women from New Jersey who serve in the Armed Forces.

A DOLLAR PLANTS A TREE ON BLUE STAR DRIVE

A 5 ft. nursery-grown tree can be planted on BLUE STAR DRIVE for only $1.00. A blooming-size tree can be planted for $2.00. A sum undesignated for exact number of trees will plant an area using various sized trees to fit a landscape design.

WHAT PART DOES THE GARDEN CLUB OF NEW JERSEY TAKE IN BLUE STAR DRIVE?

Sponsors in charge of organization, promotion, collection of funds, purchase of trees and aid in planting design.

WHAT PART DOES THE NEW JERSEY HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT TAKE IN BLUE STAR DRIVE?

The State Highway Department will select, plant and maintain (or replace) every tree donated as a memorial.

WHEN WILL PLANTING BEGIN ON BLUE STAR DRIVE?

It began in October, 1944. The Garden Club of New Jersey donated the first 1,000 trees.

I am happy to join in the patriotic plan to honor men and women from New Jersey serving in the Armed Forces. Please accept dollars for trees to be planted on Blue Star Drive.

Organic Matter Helps Gardens Fight Drought

Last Summer's drought tried the gardener's skill; but where the soil was properly prepared and where a mulch was used, better results were obtained because more moisture was retained and the plant roots were able to penetrate deeper, is the word from the county extension service, in Elizabeth.

Soils which were well supplied with organic matter came through the drought with better crop yields. The organic matter is used in modern practice not as much for plant nutrients (although some are present) as for its effect upon the physical condition of the soil. It helps the soil hold moisture and it loosens up a heavy soil so it does not bake in hot weather. Use lots of it if it is bulky. Well-rotted stable manure is one of the best sources. Well-rotted leaves are good. Maybe you can find where your city or town has been piling its leaves in the fall. After they have been there two years, they are a fine source of organic matter. Perhaps you had a compost pile. Any of these can be used at the rate of at least 200 pounds to 100 square feet. If the manure is not well rotted, use only about 100 pounds. Poultry or dried stable sheep manure may be used at the rate of 50 pounds to 100 square feet.

Garden Manuals Free By Sending to Elizabeth; Not Many Available

Literature on victory gardens will be scarce this year and therefore not available for quantity distribution, said Mrs. Lester A. Crane, chairman. However, she did receive samples of the bulletins on hand in the extension service office at the County Court House, Elizabeth, and she advises individuals to send for the ones they need soon, before they are gone. They are free upon individual request, by writing for them.

Lime Needed, With Fertilizer For Best Results

New Jersey soils are generally too acid for the best growth of vegetable crops, and an annual application of lime is advisable. Use pulverized limestone at the rate of 5 pounds to 100 square feet of garden area or hydrated lime at the rate of 3 pounds to 100 square feet. Apply half or three-quarters of this amount at the bottom of the trench as you spade the garden, and this will help to sweeten the subsoil so that roots can penetrate. Lime not only helps to decrease acidity but it also adds calcium and magnesium which are necessary to produce healthy plants, says Fred D. Osman, county agent.

An application of commercial fertilizer each year is necessary. Use the 5-10-5 Victory Garden fertilizer at the rate of 3 pounds to 100 square feet. If you are turning under heavy sod, use 4 pounds; if you have had a garden on the same spot for several years and have added commercial fertilizer each year, 2 pounds on each 100 square feet will be about right. Again, if about half the required amount is applied at the bottom of the trench as you dig, the plants will benefit.

Lime and fertilizer can be applied together and dug under, but must not be allowed to remain on the soil to cake. Apply only over as much ground as you can dig in one period of work.

Saipan, Tinian Action Described By Serviceman of Summit avenue received the following letter recently from their son, Martin Jacobs TM 3/c, who is stationed in the Pacific area.

"In my last letter, I mentioned that the censorship regulations have been relaxed and that I'd write later and tell you what we've done and seen.

The list of operations we've been in are Pelieu, Anguar, Leyte, Saipan, Tinian, Guam, Lingayan Gulf and Ulithi. The Ulithi occupation can't really be counted as anything for the Japs had evacuated the place before we got there.

Saipan was the first operation we were in and therefore was most exciting one. For days we lay off the island firing salvo after salvo into the island. Fire control parties on the beach directed our fire and from what we've heard it was very good. Many times the fire control parties praised our firing and we were commended for it by the Admiral in charge. Several times since then fellows from the ship have met Marines that had been in the battle, and when they heard our code name, they were enthusiastic with their praise.

We were right in the center of the second battle of the Philippines but we just missed out making a torpedo run. We were patrolling right off the Surigao Straits, and we could see a good deal of the action in that part of the battle. I was on watch at the time, and I could see the salvo of both our and the enemy's ships. Frequently, I could see explosions just below the horizon. What made it more interesting was the fact that we could hear everything that went on over the inter-ship radio. The battle continued the next day but we were lucky enough to be on the outskirts of it all the time.

The Lingayan operation was interesting, because there again we had some "call fire" missions. The Japs had broken through in one sector and we were sent in to support the troops. In a short time we were getting complimentary remarks from the beach party on our firing. The next day, we read in the New Press about a Jap breakthrough which had been forced back by supporting Naval Units. There again we were praised by the Admiral in charge of the operation.

During the landings on Pelieu we were on picket duty, but we did get in and fire a few salvoes at the islands.

In all these operations I was on the bridge so I was able to see all that went on. At Tinian, for instance, I'd look through the scope in the torpedo director and I could see the actual fighting on the outskirts of the town of Tinian. We could see the tanks advancing and the infantry running from one cover to another.

Well that's all that I can write about so far, but as soon as the later operations are released by the censors I'll write about them. In another letter I'll tell you about some of the places we've been.

EASTER in the CHURCH

THE EASTER HOPE

The supreme interest in religion and church attendance at the Easter season is an indication of the relative importance of man's faith in immortality. On that first Easter morning some sad women found their way through the blackout to the tomb of Joseph of Arimathea where on the Friday previous Jesus had been interred. With fear and trembling they approached its gloomy precincts. But the first word to greet them was the cheerful salutation of an angel: "Fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Jesus who was crucified. He is not here: for He is risen as He said. Come see the place where the Lord lay."

Through the centuries Christians have been going everywhere saying, "He is Risen," and following close on that affirmation is the other great human hope of Jesus' own words, "Because I live, ye shall live also." No one can possibly estimate what this has done for a sad world, what sorrows have been comforted, what tears have been dried by faith in a risen Lord and the immortality of human souls. Many confess their difficulty in believing in immortality, but all are agreed that they want to believe it. This difficulty is often removed when the occasion calls for the comfort this belief brings. Saddened souls the world around today have little more to comfort them than their hope of meeting again those they have "loved and lost a while." If for no other cause than this alone it is worth while to stake our hope on the message of Easter.

The beyond is retroactive in that it is a dynamic of the present. We do what we do in the present because we believe what we do about the future. Through the centuries human beings have lived triumphantly in a faith inspired by hope. Only thus can civilization advance. We shall need, and pray God we may have, a great faith for the days ahead.

LONELY?
You'll never know...

It's the waiting that gets you down. It's the long days, and the longer nights, when you lie there thinking . . . will you ever get home again? . . . why don't they write more often . . . did Dad ever get over that heart trouble . . . is your best girl still waiting . . . will you ever get a job again . . .

Sometimes, when the mail is slow, you get to imagining things. And after a while, they begin to seem real. You're sure your Dad is dead, but they won't tell you. Your girl has found somebody else. There won't be a place for you . . .

You feel lost, and helpless, and terribly afraid. And then, something saves you.

Like the day the Red Cross field man got a rush cable report from home, telling you your Dad was getting well.

And the time some Red Cross girls came up in a jeep, handing out doughnuts and coffee and million-dollar American smiles. And you all started to laugh and kid, the way you used to at home.

There was the time you wanted to forget it was Christmas. And the Red Cross girl at the club made you trim a palm leaf Christmas tree, and you all had presents and sang the old carols, out there in the hot tropic night.

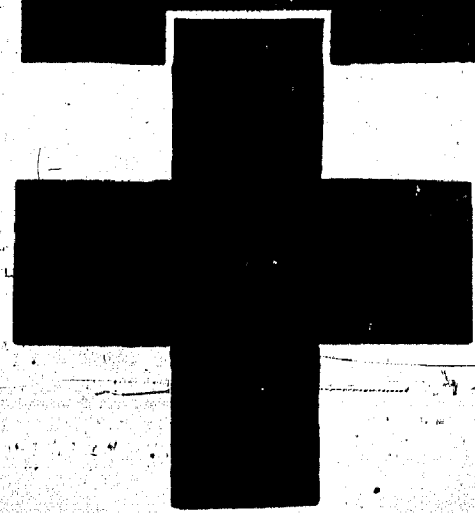

Maybe it doesn't sound like much. The Red Cross does a lot of bigger things . . . such as collecting blood plasma for the wounded . . . sending food packages to prisoners of war . . . clothes for bombed-out kids.

But to us, home seems just a little nearer, because your Red Cross is with us.

Americans: To keep at the side of your fighting men, your Red Cross must have funds. Contributions from you are the only source of income. Millions of our men are still far from home. They need your Red Cross . . . they must have it.

Keep your
at his side

Medal Awarded Major For Combat Service in Italy

Word has been received by Mrs. Lyman Booth Tucker of Beechwood road that her husband, Major Tucker, has received the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service in support of combat operations in Italy.

The citation read: Lyman B. Tucker, 0222399, Major Signal Corps, for meritorious service in support of combat operations from June 26 to November 19, 1944, as Deputy Chief Signal Officer Line of Communications, Italy, an integrated British and American Staff Section. As senior U. S. officer of the section he was responsible for coordinating and supervising the activities of the U. S. signal units operating in the Line of Communications, Italy. He was largely responsible for the prompt and efficient utilization of the Allied Military authorities of the city of Rome telephone system. Major Tucker's technical ability as a professional telephone specialist, his ability to speak Italian, and the high standard of performance which he demanded of himself and his subordinates, enabled him to execute these responsibilities in a specially meritorious manner, with resultant credit to the U. S. Army and the Allied Forces in Italy.

Major Tucker joined the services two years ago, and has served overseas 19 months. His first stepping point overseas was Algeria. After the invasion of Italy, he went to Naples and Rome, where he was working with the British.

While in Italy he witnessed an eruption of Mount Vesuvius until the rock came flying through the window of his jeep. Next, he watched his brother, Colonel Reuben Tucker, land at Anzio. Last fall he was transferred to Romania where he is working with the Allied Control Commission.

With Fifth Army

With the Fifth Army, Italy—Private John T. Gianopoulos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gianopoulos of Beechwood road, is a member of the 125th Field Artillery Battalion, which recently tossed its 250,000th combat round into the final German barriers before Italy's Po Valley.

The 125th, a 108-millimeter howitzer outfit, fought through the Tunisian campaign with 25 pounders, a British artillery piece. Re-equipped with 105's, it entered the fight with the Fifth Army in Italy on September 21, 1943, at Salerno with M-10 tank destroyers attached. The battalion crossed the Volturno River three times, fought at Cassino and on the Anzio beachhead and participated in operations at Lannio, Rome, Cecina and Leghorn and along the Arno River. It cut the Gothic Line in a mountain wilderness west of Futa Pass and moved northward cross-country until a junction was made with Highway 65 near Monghidoro. Recently, its two previous winters experience in combat proved valuable as it fought on the ice and snow bound mountains close to the edge of the Po Valley.

Pvt. Gianopoulos is a graduate of Summit High School.

Dear Mother, Dad and Nina: Hi, folks. It's me again, after a long period of not writing you. I am, as you already know, on Iwo and we have been here since D-Day. It has been quite a tough struggle but the Japs have felt the teeth of the 4th Marines again and I don't think they will forget it.

The island is just about secured now and it will not be long before we will go to some rest base for a well-earned rest. I am feeling fine and everything is going well. It is impossible to tell you a lot about the whole operation, and I just don't feel like going into detail now, and also you can get most of the detail from the newspapers.

We have been receiving swell chow.

As I write this letter I am lying in my fox hole about three feet deep and four feet wide with sandbags as a base. The fox hole is your friend during all the days and you take pains in making a good one.

When you mentioned in your letters about praying for us it made me very happy. I have done an awful lot of praying and and God has not let me down. I am just opposite the No. 1 air

Heirloom Exhibit By Beacon Fire DAR Covers Many Fields

Such a fine collection of beautiful antiques should have been for the whole town to see, and one guest at the heirloom exhibit by Beacon Fire Chapter DAR, on March 22 in the Methodist parish house.

Many of the articles shown were 100 years old. Handwoven coverlets, "made by my grand-mother" were numerous; and perfectly preserved quilts, in brilliant patterns, including "Pink." A Pennsylvania patch quilt dated 1852 was very gorgeous. Two silk "crazy quilts" with the fan design, and elaborately "stitched," were displayed; an exquisitely quilted one. Samplers to make the mouth water made their appearance; and Godey prints galore furnished colorful background; old letters, magazines, papers and books, and the right touch of extreme age; and a few old valentines gave a romantic touch.

A number of old costumes gave background, including a plaid taffeta which brought a round of applause; a rich yellow satin mask one looking as new as the day it was made; and lace gowns of fine thread and like samplers. These varied from about covers to cape length. A christening robe, yellow with age, and elaborately embroidered, has clothed three generations at this ceremony. Each table was covered by a cloth, treasured through the years.

Buttons, some of them 104 years old, were of many kinds; metal, pearl, picture, and bead. Old mirrors, lamps, picture frames, and silver; a variety of fans, one a tiny one of tiny peacock feathers; combs; an old, old trunk for keeping letters; all made up an exhibit of beauty.

The china and glass could have been a showing in themselves, there was so much of it. There were two pairs of red glass decanters, one from Ireland and one Venetian; blue glass, and an exceptionally graceful yellow pitcher; some luster ware; china plates and vases and pitchers.

The exhibit was gathered entirely from the homes of the chapter members, and many of the exhibits are in daily use, although some are carefully put away in attic trunks to await another day in the spotlight.

Merchant Seamen In Need of Books

Through the Seamen's Church Institute of New York, Episcopal Church agency known around the world, an appeal is being made for books for men in the Merchant Navy. Seaman Frank Laskier, author of Logbook and My Name Is Frank, said, "Take books that you have read and loved and share them with us; the classics you have read and reread; the textbooks that taught you more of your job; the murder mysteries that kept you enthralled. They will be put on our ships and we will be grateful to you."

The Institute, 25 South Street, New York 4, N. Y., is receiving and distributing the books to United Nations' ships.

"Dead Man" Controls Increase Mine Safety

A "dead man" control device contributes to safety in mining locomotive operations.

Should the engineer at any time release this robot control, the main power circuit to the locomotive is broken and the train comes to a full stop.

In the past decade, more than 3,500 electric locomotives have been purchased at a cost of 23 million dollars.

Some of the engines are only 26 inches in height—for underground use, where the trip rider must lie down to pass the low clearance. Others weigh up to 30 tons.

Lincoln YMCA Officers

At a recent meeting of the Board of Directors, new Officers were elected for the year 1945. Leon Cross, Sr., president; Dr. R. V. Sims, vice-president; Solomon Marrow, treasurer; and James Humes, secretary.

The following board members were re-appointed to serve the next term: John L. Chisley, James Dickerson, Paul Moore (USA), R. V. Sims, MD., and James Spencer.

Mosquito Comm. To Follow Their Regular Schedule

When questioned last week W. Smith, acting superintendent about mosquito extermination, L. of Union County Mosquito Commission, stated the regular schedule will be followed as closely as possible. High school students are available, and they will work Saturdays and holidays until schools close, then they will work 40 hours per week. They supplement the regular force of workers.

Work has not as yet caught up with the damage caused by the cyclone last year. At present men are working on all the salt marshes throughout the county and also in the upland sections of Westfield, Summit and Mountaintide.

When the work is done there, the men will move as rapidly as possible to other sections on a regular schedule, paying particular attention to the malaria-carrying species of mosquitoes in order to prevent any outbreak of malaria in the county. Most Summit residents realize that their tin cans should be disposed of properly, and should not stand around collecting water that would eventually become stagnant, and be a likely place for malaria mosquitoes to breed.

Owing to the shortage of regular employees, it is estimated that all work of spraying will be behind schedule by about two weeks at least, until the school boys begin their regular schedule, at which time crews will be doubled and the spraying brought up to date. The 1945 annual meeting of the N. J. Mosquito Extermination Association will be held at the Hotel Claridge, Atlantic City, on March 28, 29, and 30, this year to discuss the results of new researches, and special war-cause problems.

Medal Awarded Major For Combat Service in Italy

Word has been received by Mrs. Lyman Booth Tucker of Beechwood road that her husband, Major Tucker, has received the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service in support of combat operations in Italy.

The citation read: Lyman B. Tucker, 0222399, Major, Signal Corps, for meritorious service in support of combat operations from June 26 to November 19, 1944, as Deputy Chief Signal Officer Line of Communications, Italy, an integrated British and American Staff Section. As senior U. S. officer of the section he was responsible for coordinating and supervising the activities of the U. S. signal units operating in the Line of Communications, Italy. He was largely responsible for the prompt and efficient utilization by Allied Military authorities of the city of Rome telephone system. Major Tucker's technical ability as a professional telephone specialist, his ability to speak Italian, and the high standard of performance which he demanded of himself and his subordinates, enabled him to execute these responsibilities in a specially meritorious manner, with resultant credit to the U. S. Army and the Allied Forces in Italy.

Major Tucker joined the services two years ago, and has served overseas 19 months. His first stopping point overseas was Algiers. After the invasion of Italy, he went to Naples and Rome, where he was working with the British.

While in Italy he witnessed an eruption of Mount Vesuvius until the rock came flying through the window of his jeep. Next, he watched his brother, Colonel Reuben Tucker, land at Anzio. Last fall he was transferred to Romania where he is working with the Allied Control Commission.

With Fifth Army

With the Fifth Army, Italy—Private John T. Gianopoulos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gianopoulos of Beechwood road, is a member of the 125th Field Artillery Battalion, which recently tossed its 250,000th combat round into the final German barriers before Italy's Po Valley.

The 125th, a 105-millimeter howitzer outfit, fought through the Tunisian campaign with 25 pounders, a British artillery piece. Re-equipped with 105's, it entered the fight with the Fifth Army in Italy on September 21, 1943, at Salerno with M-10 tank destroyers attached. The battalion crossed the Volturno River three times, fought at Cassino and on the Anzio beachhead and participated in operations at Lannio, Rome, Cecina and Leghorn and along the Arno River. It cut the Gothic Line in a mountain wilderness west of Futa Pass and moved northward cross-country until a junction was made with Highway 65 near Monghidoro. Recently, its two previous winters experience in combat proved valuable as it fought on the ice and snow bound mountains close to the edge of the Po Valley.

Pvt. Gianopoulos is a graduate of Summit High School.

First Lieutenant
GERALD M. H. WILLIAMS

Washington, D. C. — Credited with shooting down seven Japanese aircraft and probably two others during intense aerial battle over the Solomons from January 5 to February 15, 1944, First Lieutenant Gerald M. H. Williams, Marine fighter pilot, has been awarded the Air Medal.

A native of Nice, France, the 24-year-old airman was a second lieutenant when he received the medal. His citation said in part: "Flying as wingman on numerous, extremely hazardous missions deep into enemy territory as escort for vital bombing strikes against Japanese shipping and installations. Second Lieutenant Williams repeatedly engaged hostile fighter craft attempting to intercept the bombers.

"Pressing home his daring, accurate attacks in the face of persistent, determined enemy opposition, he provided expert cover for the strike formations and skillfully shot down seven Japanese aircraft and probably two others. Second Lieutenant Williams' superb airmanship and unflinching devotion to duty throughout this period of offensive operations in a highly strategic area contributed materially to the success of the missions."

First Lieutenant Williams enlisted on April 17, 1942, and was commissioned to that rank on March 31, 1944. His father, S. Rely Williams, lives in Norwood avenue.

He entered the United States Military Academy from Mississippi.

Heirloom Exhibit By Beacon Fire DAR Covers Many Fields

Such a fine collection of beautiful antiques should have been seen for the whole town to see. One guest at the heirloom exhibit by Beacon Fire Chapter, D. A. R., on March 22 in the Methodist parish house.

Many of the articles shown were 100 years old. Handwoven coverlets, "made by my grandmother" were numerous; and perfectly preserved quilts, in brilliant patterns, including "Spice Pink." A Pennsylvania patch quilt dated 1852 was very gorgeous. Two silk "crazy quilts" with the fan design, and elaborately "stitched," were displayed; and an exquisitely quilted one.

Samplers to make the mouth water made their appearance; and Godey prints galore furnished a colorful background; old letters, magazines, papers and books, added the right touch of extreme age; and a few old valentines gave the romantic touch.

A number of old costumes gave background, including a plaid taffeta which brought a round of applause; a rich yellow satin kimono one looking as new as the day it was made; and lace gowns of fine thread and like gossamer. These varied from shoulder covers to cape length. A christening robe, yellow with age, and elaborately embroidered, has clothed three generations at this ceremony. Each table was covered by a cloth, treasured through the years.

Buttons, some of them 104 years old, were of many kinds; metal, pearl, picture, and bead. Old mirrors, lamps, picture frames, and silver; a variety of fans, one a tiny one of tiny peacock feathers; combs; an old, old trunk for keeping letters; all made up an exhibit of beauty.

The china and glass could have been a showing in themselves, there was so much of it. There were two pairs of red glass decanters, one from Ireland and one Venetian; blue glass, and an exceptionally graceful yellow pitcher; some luster ware; china plates and vases and pitchers.

The exhibit was gathered entirely from the homes of the chapter members, and many of the exhibits are in daily use, although some are carefully put away in attic trunks to await another day in the spotlight.

Michigan University's Dean Tells of Women's Service to the Navy

Mrs. John L. Tennant of Hobart avenue and seven members of the governing board of the New York Alumnae of the University of Michigan entertained at luncheon Miss Alice Lloyd, dean of women of the university. She discussed with them the situation of women on the campus at Ann Arbor in wartime—Michigan women and the war—and alumnae policies for Michigan alumnae.

Miss Lloyd with Miss Gilderleeve is a member of the Board of Education Advisory to the Navy on Women's Service. There are five other women members, which has aided in formulating policies for the women in the Navy. She declared the general method of recruiting women for the armed forces and stated that the emphasis should be on "What Am I Doing for My Country?" and not "What Do I Get Out of This Personally?" The whole picture is presented unrealistically, the emphasis should be "Do Your Part."

Miss Lloyd also recounted her experiences when the Navy first called on the B.O.E.A.N.W. Service and Naval Officers questioned the possible angles of women's service to the Navy.

Miss Lloyd is also on the Michigan State Advisory Committee to the WACS. There are 18 WAC Officers taking the Civil Affairs Training Program at the university.

Michigan is one of the universities that has been given over to a war training program, and a technicolor movie of the program called "Michigan on the March" is to be presented on April 6 at the Barbizon-Plaza Theater in New York City.

The Family Album A Fantasy Given For Beacon Fire

As part of their Heirloom Exhibit program last Thursday, March 22, in the Methodist parish house, Beacon Fire Chapter, D.A.R., members were shown a fantasy, "The Family Album," written by Mrs. Robert Wolf and Mrs. Edwin Florence.

To the turning of the pages of the old album and the description of each character by Mrs. O. C. Nelson, and a background of the pictures came to life and, dressed in old costumes, walked across the stage.

The cast were: Janet, Lucile Richmond; Elsa, Mabel McClelland; Martha, Betty Barengor; Sally, Virginia Miller; Phoebe, Ann Florence; Margaret, Lynn Miller.

The Regent, Mrs. Florence, announced that, as the usual annual conference will be omitted this year, in line with the national ban on such gatherings, it is planned to have regional meetings, the nearest one to Summit being at Morristown. Those who will represent the chapter at the meeting there on April 11 will be Mrs. Eugene Beardslee, Mrs. Gerald Young, and Mrs. Edwin Florence.

Reports included one from Mrs. Hetherington, chairman of Americanism, who said that on the evening of March 21, several members gave a program at Neighborhood House for the Younger Women's Group. New Jersey was the topic. Mrs. Clifford Willis showed slides of historic and beauty spots; Mrs. John Brodsky, accompanied by Mrs. Fredenburgh, sang the hymn to New Jersey, written some years ago by Mrs. Lemuel Skidmore, with music by Mrs. Daniel Burke.

Mrs. Raymond Guenther, chairman of approved schools, asked for contributions of used clothing, especially shoes, to send to the various schools.

Mrs. George Koch, senior president of the C.A.R., will soon take the members of that group on a tour of old Springfield. They will visit the Presbyterian Church, the battle ground, and the cemetery.

Mrs. Verne L. Bahring, chairman of the correct use of the flag, reported having visited near-by hospitals—at Kilmer, Ft. Dix and Lyons. She takes with her an old music box, and whistles to tunes.

Mrs. Nelson read an Easter message, as chaplain.

Tea was served by Mrs. Beardslee, Mrs. Guenther, Mrs. A. E. Wotring, and Mrs. John W. Guppy.

U.S.O. Hostesses To Hear Colonel Speak About "Johnny"

Lt. Col. Royal M. Alderman will speak on the subject, "Will Johnny Find Us Normal When He Comes Marching Home?" at the Y.M.C.A. Wednesday evening, April 4, at 8:15. Not only will U.S.O. hostesses have the opportunity to hear this speech, but the general public is also invited, especially families of servicemen.

Following Colonel Alderman's address there will be a question period. Since Col. Alderman has had four years overseas experience, he will answer any questions.

Colonel Alderman resigned the presidency of a Cleveland Advertising Club to enter the Army in the fall of 1940. His military career includes more than two years with the War Department Bureau of Public Relations where he became assistant executive officer. A graduate of the Army Industrial College and of The Command and General Staff School, Col. Alderman also served overseas for nearly a year in the South Pacific at New Caledonia as executive officer of the South Pacific General Depot, an organization of several thousand men, handling all classes of Army supplies. His duties also took him to the New Hebrides, Guadalcanal, New Georgia and other northern islands of the Solomons. He also served in the first World War as a "back private." Colonel Alderman is an ardent admirer of "Johnny" — America's fighting man. He has recently returned from active duty and is now vice-president of the McCann Erickson Inc. Advertising Agency in New York.

The evening will be concluded with the regular monthly business meeting for the U.S.O. hostesses.

On Tuesday, March 27, there were forty or more "Listening Parties" given by members of the Summit League of Women Voters to hear the broadcast of Senator Tom Connally's speech, "The Road to Permanent Peace," given at the Waldorf Astoria at a celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the National League of Women Voters. The broadcast was accompanied by general discussion of the Dumbarton Oaks Proposals by all the guests at the parties. Though the conversation often digressed, it was generally agreed that the San Francisco Conference has many problems to be solved, and that many compromises are inevitable. Most of the groups, however, were in favor of working toward a permanent peace along the lines of the Dumbarton Oaks Proposals.

Recreation Board Conducts Annual Easter Egg Hunt

BOROUGH — The annual Easter Egg Hunt sponsored by the Board of Recreation Commissioners was conducted this morning in two parts through the cooperation of local school authorities. More than 250 pre-school and kindergarten children through the fourth grade participated in the festivities.

The kindergartners and their fellow-students up to the fourth grade participated in the first part of the hunt. This group, who made their own baskets and filled them with tissue paper, placed the baskets on their desks and then proceeded in quest of the paper eggs which were used instead of the real product. After finding the object of their search, the pupils then returned to the auditorium where they claimed their prizes.

On returning to the classrooms, the egg hunters discovered that the Easter Bunny had been there for each one's basket, had been filled with crackers, candy and a real Easter egg, colored to be sure.

The eggs were colored in the domestic science classes under the direction of Miss Davina Sands, instructor. The egg hunt, itself, was under the direction of Mrs. Irene Morahan.

West Enders Drop 1st Game, Back Into Loop Title

The West Enders after sweeping five straight in the Borough Basketball League, were nosed out March 21 of the Lincoln School floor by the Aces to the tune of 30-27. Despite the setback, the West Enders garnered the title for the loop's first year inasmuch as the March 21 games closed the season's schedule.

The above game was marked with considerable tension. Kerrigan of the West Enders was ejected in the second leaving his teammates to continue with only four players because no substitutes were available. At one point in the second half the West Enders were trailing by 12 points.

In the nightcap, the Clippers showed the Aggies under with 50-28 score. Barney Cucco of the winners ran wild chalking up 24 points to gain high scoring honors for the evening's games.

Last night as the Herald was going to press, two all-star games were in progress on the Lincoln floor. The four teams were chosen from the league by the officials and captains of each team. Results of the game will be published in next week's Herald.

Absentee Firemen Asked to Resign By Committee

TOWNSHIP — In an effort to assure adequate fire protection services to citizens of this township, the Township Committee Friday night conferred with delinquent members of the Berkeley Heights Volunteer Fire Department and requested them to relinquish their active membership with the fire company if they were unable to give their time to their duties.

At the request of Fire Chief Anthony Amodeo, a hearing was held for the members who failed to attain a 60 per cent fire attendance during the past year.

Results of the conference indicated that many absences from fires were due to the men working long hours in war plants. Most of the men asked to be allowed to continue with their duties.

Township Committee Chairman George W. Robbins, Jr., pointed out that a number of new members were anxious to be placed on the active firemen's list and in his opinion those who failed repeatedly to answer calls without a valid reason should be replaced.

A petition signed by local tavern operators requesting that the Sunday opening hours of taverns be advanced from 12 noon to 9 p. m. was referred to committee. The tavern keepers claim they have been acutely affected by the recent curfew ruling since this township's closing hour was one hour later than most communities in this area. They also pointed out that none of the businesses are located in the church area.

Applications for kennel licenses were received from W. Thorpe of Springfield avenue and O. G. Fischer of Emerson lane. Julius Swerdloff sought information about securing a license to operate a taxicab from the railroad station to Free Acres for the convenience of vacationists. Since the township ordinance governing such licenses was believed by the committee to be outmoded, the matter was referred to Township Attorney John L. Hughes for investigation. Mr. Swerdloff was told that detailed information could be given him at the April 4 meeting of the committee.

Softball Loop To Open April 30, Two Games Weekly

The City Softball League organized the evening of March 21 at the Field House and made plans to open the season Monday, April 30 on diamond No. 1 at Memorial Field beginning at 6:45 p. m. Thomas J. Crowe of Beckman road was re-elected president as were the following officers of last year: Andrew C. Cattano of Midland terrace, vice-president, and Harlan S. Kennedy of Summit avenue, secretary. Robert Reynolds of Locust drive was elected treasurer to succeed Moe Shapiro who is no longer associated here in business.

To act upon any dispute or any matter that requires arbitration, a board of directors was established to include President Crowe, Coach Elwood C. Cornog of Summit High School and W. H. Woodside, sports editor of the Herald and a member of the High School English faculty.

At a special meeting of the league on April 4 at the Field House, the number of teams planning to field teams for the forthcoming season will be made definite.

While Vice-President Cattano represented the American Legion league entry, other teams certain to start the season were represented as follows: Wally Whinn of the Bell Labs, Manager Frank Terranova of Ciba who managed the pharmaceutical boys last season. He will be succeeded this year by Rocco Marcantonio. Eastern Fuel and Roots were not represented.

While Bell Labs were represented last year by two teams, one called the Blue Jays and the other named after the sponsor, it is considered rather definite that the Murray Hill firm will have only one entry this coming season, possibly a combination from last year's two entries.

Action was delayed on the informal application of the Holy Name Society to have an entry of a 'teen age team. It was the general consensus of opinion of the meeting that it is not in accordance with the best practices, especially with the best interests of the boys in mind, to have them play softball. The concurrence of thought was that softball playing spoils a boy's future for playing hardball. It was also brought out that Coach Elwood C. Cornog at Summit High School objects on the same grounds to having boys play softball. The Holy Name Society was represented at the meeting by 'teen agers Martin Ryan and James Kelley, who said their manager would be James Gerard, Lackawanna League veteran of yesteryears.

Secretary Kennedy announced that the Board of Recreation was renovating diamond No. 1 "to make it one of the finest softball diamonds in the country." He read a report from last year's treasurer showing a balance of $50.50. The entry fee for a team was again set at $15. Each team will be required to field at least eight members from its own roster, picking enough others from other league teams not playing that night. This picking will be done by the umpire by drawing the names from a hat. Ben Scheppe was named as the loop's official umpire. Each team will be limited in its roster to 15 players with no tops to the age limit. Players in the loop will not be allowed to use regular baseball spikes.

CYO J's Win Seven Out of Four for Year

The Summit CYO J's have completed their basketball season, winning seven games while losing only four. The team made a total of 358 points while their opponents tallied only 260. They played CYO teams representing Madison, Morrisstown, Plainfield, Morris Plains, Hoboken, East Orange, South Orange and Whippany.

Spencer led all the players with a total of 104 points in 11 games. Next came Kelley with 47 and Ryan with 41, both playing in 11 games. Crowe and Birdall followed them playing 9 games each, scoring 47 and 35 points respectively. Coviello tallied 29 followed by Guida with 11 both playing 4 games.

Baseball Squad Starts Practice For April Opener

About 40 baseball candidates have been reporting this week to Summit High School baseball coach, Elwood C. Cornog, at Memorial Field. The boys have been taking necessary preliminaries of physical checking and limbering up exercises.

Cornog's immediate problem will be getting set for passable batteries. He has been experimenting with Hern Wieboldt behind the plate along with Anthony Bozzo, Harry Sutton and Thomas Grobarz. Last year's receiver, Jack Bunnell, left school this year. On the mound Cornog has Lefty Bill George, who stepped out last year and became a reliable performer. Other possible moundsmen include Johnny Clark, Bob Bunnell, Stan Westenberg and Dominick Guida.

The first game scheduled to date is April 26 with Morrisstown away. April 23 has been listed as an open date as has May 31. Otherwise ten games have been carded.

Varsity Letter In Wrestling At USCG Academy

Cadet Morgan Lee Dring, USCG, son of Arthur W. Dring of Durham, N. Y. formerly of Summit, and the late Edith Dring, has been awarded a varsity letter in wrestling at the United States Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn. Cadet Dring is a first classman and his class will receive their commissions this coming June.

Cadet Dring was the manager of the 1945 wrestling team, the second in the history of the Coast Guard Academy. This year's team turned in a record which showed considerable progress had been made in this sport at the Academy in a year. The 1945 team did well in dual meet competition with Columbia, Yale, Brooklyn, Tufts and West Point and placed third in the Eastern Intercollegiate behind Annapolis and West Point.

Cadet Dring, who is a company guide in the permanent organization of the Coast Guard Academy, has also been a member of the Coast Guard Academy sailing team for two and one-half years and will probably earn a letter in this sport. He is a graduate of Summit High School and attended the University of Newark prior to entering the Coast Guard Academy during the summer of 1942.

Welter King Told By N. Y. Solons To Defend Title

Fred (Red) Cochrane, world's welterweight champion, has been notified by the New York State Athletic Commission that its rules require him to defend his title within six months of the time he was discharged from service, which was January 7. Cochrane was in the Navy. He has been in training several weeks at the Training Camp near here in Chatham Township.

The official warning was communicated by Col. Eddie Egan, N. Y. State boxing chairman, through Willie Glitzenberg, the fighter's manager. Although Sugar Ray Robinson of Harlem is accepted as the outstanding challenger, who would probably be a 1-10 favorite over Cochrane, Col. Egan made no mention of him or any other likely opponent in the letter.

fairness towards champions coming out of the service," said Eagan commenting on his action. "For his best interests, I would like to see Cochrane have one or two tune-up fights before taking a foe of comparable ability. By July 7, I expect to see signs that he is prepared to defend his title against a worthy opponent."

Asked whether it would have to be Robinson, Col. Eagan replied that he is not ready to make an official ruling on that yet. He is thinking of additional possible challengers but, he added, he doubted that Cochrane would be permitted to sidestep Robinson indefinitely. He added that if some promoter made an exceptionally generous offer to Cochrane to defend against Robinson, the offer was rejected, the commission would "be very seriously concerned."

There are rumors of unmentionable factors which have put a hitch in the welter situation. They include a stubborn insistence by Goldberg that he will not do business with Mike Jacobs. Inasmuch as Robinson, because of the rumors, is unlikely to be willing to challenge against Cochrane in any State but New York, where he is bound by contract to perform exclusively for Jacobs, the chief parties concerned are at an impasse.

Jacobs said he is prepared to make Cochrane a generous offer for a title defense. He added that it would not necessarily have to be against Robinson who may be going into the armed services. Honorably discharged from the Army, Sugar Ray has recently passed through another draft board physical examination. There have been no announcements since then.

In the meantime, the nearness of all these "cauliflower" practitioners so near the Hill City attracts a number of local fans to the regular workouts of the pugilists. On Sunday a large number of local fans went to Bey's camp especially to see heavyweight Lou Nova. One of Nova's strongest admirers is "Tony" Montuori of Orchard street who has quite a reputation in his own right in using "the dukes."

High School Golf

Although Summit High School dropped golf as a sports' activity several years ago, a number of adjoining secondary schools are continuing the game. Scotch Plains High's golf team has booked matches with Millburn, Springfield, Westfield and Metuchen. Madison High golfers will meet Millburn and have several open dates on the schedule.

Home From the War; Reenlists in Navy

Machinist's Mate Raymond D. Woodward, after a service of two and a half years in Uncle Sam's Navy, has returned to his home at 61 Woodland avenue. He has an honorable discharge, but already he has reenlisted and next month will leave for Denver, where he will take a training course in aluminum. His duties as a second class petty officer carried him to many parts of the South Pacific, right in the fighting area. So far as combat duty is concerned, he will say very little, except that it was "tough."

Mate Woodward entertained the patients at Alca Hospital, Island of Oahu. His speech characteristics of President Roosevelt, the late Al Smith, Lowell Thomas, Gabriel Heatter, the late Boake Carter, John J. Anthony and Walter Winchell "ran true to form," and his reception was such that many of the patients asked for his return.

Mate Woodward frequently entertained Summit gatherings with his impersonations. He is a warm friend of former State Senator Loiseaux. He is a veteran of two wars, having served in the first struggle back in 1917-18.

Honorably Discharged

He went overseas last June, landing in England. In July, Pvt. Dillingham was sent to France in which zone he was on active duty until November when he was shipped to England for hospitalization and the following month to this country.

Pvt. Dillingham has a brother, John Dillingham, serving in the Navy.

Notice was received from the Navy Department on Monday, March 12, by the parents of Pvt. Nicholas R. Finnallie, Jr., 18, of 287 Main street, Madison, that he died February 28 as the result of wounds suffered at Iwo Jima. He had been overseas since last May.

Born in Madison, Finnallie attended the high school there and had worked at King's Supermarket, Summit, before volunteering in the Marines early last Spring. He trained at Parris Island.

Finnallie leaves also a brother, Dominick, and two adopted brothers, Pfc. Carmen in France and Pvt. Joseph, who was wounded in France last July, and two sisters, Mrs. Estelle Eposito of Summit and Miss Eileen at home.

Summit Man Delivered Mail To Men on Iwo Jima

IWO JIMA (Delayed) — The fierce fighting for this stepping stone to Tokyo hasn't prevented the embattled Marines from writing 20,000 letters daily, according to First Lieutenant J. V. O'Mahoney, 31, of Overlook road.

"Many of them are written in front line foxholes under enemy fire," Lieutenant O'Mahoney, who is mail officer for the Fifth Amphibious Corps, said. "They come in to us dirty, crumpled, and spotted. We're sending them on their way by plane the same day."

The New Jersey officer and the five enlisted members of his postal unit came ashore three days after the invasion. They brought with them mail which had been picked up at bases en route from Hawaii.

Two days after disembarking, their postoffice had been set up in a partially wrecked enemy gun emplacement and was doing a rushing business, including the sale of money orders.

Mail, fresh from the states, was delivered on the seventh day of the campaign. It was rushed here by fast destroyer escort. While the southern airstrip was being readied, more mail was dropped by parachute. Now mail arrives and departs several times daily by TAG transport planes of the Fourth Marine Air Wing.

Lieutenant O'Mahoney is the son of Mrs. Julia O'Mahoney of the Summit address. He enlisted two days after the Japs bombed Pearl Harbor and served with a machine gun company for two years before being commissioned. He formerly worked in the Summit postoffice. — By M. T. Sgt. John W. Black marine combat correspondent.

Has Bronze Star Medal

PFC. WILLIAM MCCUE, JR., son of Mr. and Mrs. William McCue of Maple street, has received the following citation in the award of a Bronze Star Medal.

"For meritorious service in connection with military operations against the enemy on Leyte, P. I., on Dec. 21, 1944. . . In the advance the Battalion sustained many casualties and it was necessary to remove them under fire in the darkness. Private McCue, after performing his duty as ammunition bearer for the 60mm mortar, left his foxhole and with no regard for his own safety went to the aid of the wounded. He administered first aid and made three daring and successful trips with wounded men, carrying them from the front lines to the Battalion Aid Station. His coolness and concern for the wounded men was an inspiration to the men of his unit, and reflected credit upon himself and his organization."

"A. D. BRUCE,
"Major General, U. S. Army."
Pfc. McCue graduated from Summit High School and attended Seton Hall before entering the infantry three years ago. He received his training at Fort Jackson, Columbia, S. C.

It has taken plenty of physical courage to win the fight for freedom. It will take plenty of moral courage to make the best use of what we win.

Cadet Private First Class David G. Cummings, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Cummings, Hobart avenue, is the fourth honor man in the senior class of '45 at Bordentown Military Institute. Dean Harold Morrison Smith made the announcement recently of the four top honor students in the class of 55 graduates.

Cadet Cummings is also the president of the senior class and is captain of the basketball squad. Sgt. Daniel H. Gordon of 117 N. Main street, Chambersburg, Pa., a veteran of one year's combat flying over the flak and fighter infested skies of Europe, says that Army Ordnance bombs "are good to the last drop."

Eisenberg to Play At Millburn High

Maurice Eisenberg will give a violin cello concert on Saturday, April 28, at 8:15 p. m., in the auditorium of the Millburn high school. It was late in November, 1942, when Millburn-South Hills Art Center launched its first concert by this international famous artist.

By arranging for the coming concert to be held at Millburn high school, about 50 per cent more people can be accommodated than at the last concert. Tickets range from 50¢ to $1. A federal tax of 20 per cent must be added to these prices.

Since his last concert in Millburn, Mr. Eisenberg has appeared in several tours throughout the United States. The reception given him by his audience and the press, following his most recent concert in the Metropolitan area at Town Hall, New York, should suggest the wisdom of an early purchase of tickets for his Millburn appearance.

Tickets can be secured by phoning or writing Millburn-South Hills Arts Center at Recreation House, Taylor Park, Millburn, telephone Millburn 6-1218.

of Summit, marketing expert and vice-president of American Management Association, spoke Monday at the Sales Executive Club of Northern New Jersey at the Hotel Sheraton, Newark. War Reduces Time For Home Baking

Home-baked cakes, pies and pastries have shrunk in volume under the impact of better commercial bakery production and less time available to the average homemaker. Most of the increase has occurred since the war began.

Duplicating or surpassing home-made taste and quality by commercial bakeries is cited by H. W. Gilb, director of the A. & P. Food Stores national bakery division, as reason to make the wartime trend permanent.

"In World War I, home-baked bread and biscuits lost out to commercial baking. Before that war period only half the bread in the United States came out of commercial ovens," Gilb reports. "But surveys indicate only 10 per cent of the nation's bread now is home-baked."

Commercial baking has assumed a volume of two billion dollars annually in the United States, a one-third increase over 1939 figures.

Bamberger's Names First Woman Advertising Manager; Effective Now

Announcement has been made by George P. Blockbower, executive vice-president and publicity director of L. Bamberger & Company, Newark, that effective immediately Nan Findlow becomes acting advertising manager of the store. Miss Findlow replaces William G. Stophlet who has joined the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve. She is the first woman to hold this post at Bamberger's.

Miss Findlow went with Bamberger's in 1939 as feature advertising manager. She has been with the store since that time except for a short period when she left to be advertising manager for George Jensen, Inc. During her five years at the store Miss Findlow has been responsible for all publicity and special promotions. In 1943 she inaugurated and executed the Bamberger Womanpower Program which was used by OWI as a model for retail stores all over the country.

Prior to coming to Bamberger's Miss Findlow was for eight years with the J. Walter Thompson Company where she wrote copy and radio material for several national accounts. During 1937 and 1938 she was in the Advertising Department of The Texas Company as head of their Creative Group. Miss Findlow is a resident of New Jersey.

Plans for Easter Egg Hunt and Egg Rolling Contest

TOWNSHIP—Plans have been completed for the first annual Easter egg hunt and egg rolling contest to be held Monday, April 2, beginning at 2:30 p. m. on the playground at Columbia School under the sponsorship of the newly formed Township Recreation Board. This was announced yesterday by Chairman George S. May, Jr. of the board.

Members of the kindergarten together with first, second and third graders at Columbia School will participate in the egg hunt. Fourth and fifth grade boys will have an egg on a spoon race while the girls in these grades will have an egg rolling contest. If the weather is bad Monday, the events will be staged the first clear day that follows.

Members of the committee staging Monday's events include Chairman May and his associates on the board, W. Floyd Taylor, supervising principal of schools, and Charles M. Monticci representing the Township Committee together with Mrs. H. G. Schaub, Mrs. K. P. Ansen, Mrs. Wall Psychlik, Mrs. Sadie Thompson, Mrs. Edward Baasche and Mrs. Henry Schroeder.

Tractor Built At Regional Ready to Plow

TOWNSHIP—When the boys of Regional High School's vocational agricultural department see an old jalopy that looks as though it had given its last wheeze, their eyes light up. Unlike boys of a decade ago, youths of the Springfield school see it not as a conveyance to football games, dances, etc., but as the power plant of a sturdy farm tractor.

Their present pride and joy, steinchild of their "ag" teacher, Wilhelm N. Pegelbeck, is a short-ling "New" tractor, fashioned from the engine and chassis of a '29 Pontiac, the rear-end of an old Chevy truck and the transmission of some unknown relic picked up in a nearby junkyard. The most amazing thing about the contraption is that it looks like a tractor and it really works.

Pegelbeck recommends the homemade jobs especially to those farmers who are unable to crack through the wall of quadruple "A" priorities surrounding the few new tractors now being manufactured.

"Any farmer," he says, "can build himself a usable tractor for about $50 worth of junked parts. That's what ours cost. The only tools needed are those found on most farms—hacksaws, drills and a set of wrenches. We built ours by stripping an old car down to the chassis, shortening the wheel-base by about five feet and connecting the truck differential.

"The rear wheels are mounted with discarded school bus tires which had outlived their original purpose but are satisfactory at low pressure for the slow speed tractor. Farmers, however, are eligible for new truck tires."

Pegelbeck says he has nothing against horses personally, but feeding and watering them is a "seven-days-a-week job in itself."

CLAIRE BOOKER

TOWNSHIP—Miss Claire Booker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stacy T. Booker of Forest avenue, Verona, has completed plans for her wedding, Saturday, April 7, at Our Lady of the Lake Church, Verona, to 1st Lieutenant William D. Russo, son of Chief of Police D. V. Russo and Mrs. Russo of Springfield avenue, Berkeley Heights. The Rev. Edward Kane, rector of the church, will perform the ceremony.

Miss Virginia Booker, sister of the prospective bride, will be maid of honor. Bridesmaids will include another sister, Miss Doris Booker, Miss Dorothy Russo, sister of the prospective bridegroom, and Miss Rita Mulrenan of Hargis-son. Joseph Kelleher of Montclair will be the usher. The name of the best man hasn't been announced.

Miss Booker and Lt. Russo are graduates of Newark State Teachers College. For the past two years Miss Booker has been on the faculty of the Caldwell schools as a kindergarten teacher. She is a member of the Verona Junior Woman's Club. Lt. Russo recently completed a tour of 35 missions as a navigator with the 8th Air Force stationed in England and is a holder of the Air Medal with five Oak Leaf Clusters.

"If every farmer who needed a tractor took the trouble to build his own," the teacher continued, "he would not only have a useful machine, cheaper to maintain than a horse, but he would be able to trade it in after the war on a new tractor and double the money he invested."

The vocational agricultural class includes 48 boys, most of whom had a part in the ancient chariot's rebirth. Working intermittently, it took the boys four months to build their tractor. Pegelbeck explained it took longer than anticipated because the boys sometimes made costly mistakes which took time to rectify. A farmer, working steadily, could build one in about two weeks, he predicted.

While few of the "ag" students are farmers' sons, most of them hope to gain their livelihood from the soil. One lad, Harry Perrine, 15, of Mountainside, got so interested he bought an old "junk" for $10, a differential for $15 and is well on his way to building a tractor of his own.

The vocational agricultural work is done in two shops, one erected behind the school by the students and another converted by them from an unused part of the field house adjacent to the school's athletic field.

Besides learning how to build and main tractors, the students repair and paint puows, harrows and other similar equipment and build brooder units, cold frames and hot houses. They learn to raise chicks in the brooders and propagate seeds in the frames.

Four Ultra-Violet Bands

There are four bands of ultra-violet wavelengths. The erythral range—3,350 to 2,800 Angstrom units—produces sunburn and tan and develops Vitamin D. Sun lamps deliver most of their ultra-violet radiation in this range, as it is the one used largely for therapeutic treatments.

Old Grecian Custom

The Greeks played with electricity as early as 600 B.C. They had discovered that when amber was rubbed with wool, the amber accumulated a "charge." This they called "elektron" which meant amber. Making the charge jump to the ground—or to other Greeks—became a pastime.

Carteret to Give

"Treasure Island"

The annual play to be presented by the students of Carteret School has been chosen through the help of the English Department, and the operetta, "Treasure Island," is now being rehearsed for presentation some time early in May. To further interest the students in dramatics, members of the fifth and sixth forms attended "The Tempest" in New York, and prior to their seeing the play the boys had the benefit of an address by Sam Pearce representing the producer, Miss Cheryl Crawford, who gave an illustrated talk on the play. The appreciation of the student body was so great that many other classes are making arrangements to see "The Tempest" and use it as a class theme.
