SUMMIT, N. J., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1946

$3 A YEAR 6 CENTS

City's Ratable And Tax Picture Shown in Report

The net valuation of taxable property in Summit in line with the trend throughout Union County is higher this year than it was in 1937, according to statistics released November 20 by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association.

Also in the associations' statistics, compiled annually in booklet form, are figures on gross and net debts, per capita net debts, budget appropriations, operating costs and comparable tax rates.

In 1937, Summit's net valuation taxable was $29,635,963; last year, $31,137,468 and this year, $31,421,968, according to the booklet.

In each of the county's 21 municipalities, the net debt fell between 1937 and 1945. The report shows Summit's gross debt in 1937 at $3,293,500 and last year at $1,700,397. This city's net debt in 1937 was $1,330,008 and last year it was $750,397.

Figuring on Summit's population of 18,165 based upon the 1940 census, this city's per capita net debt in 1937 was $72 and in 1945 it was $46.

All of the county's 21 municipalities were alike in two fields—increasing budget appropriations this year over the actual amounts expended in 1945, and boosting operation costs between 1937 and 1945. Summit expended $1,403,907 last year and appropriated this year $1,550,117 according to the report.

Summit's operating costs in 1937 were $414,181; last year, $499,379. This year's budget figures for operating costs show $611,797.

Summit's tax rate in 1937 was $4.01; last year, $3.98. This year's rate is $4.06.

Summit Teachers Plan Salary Drive With 19 Groups

Representatives of 19 suburban teachers' associations, including the Summit Teachers' Association, spokesmen for about 2,800 Union, Morris, and Essex County teachers, discussed proposed salary adjustments, bonuses and increment payments Friday night at the Chatham home of Miss Dorothy Stuart, president of the Summit group.

The group adopted the name League of Suburban Teachers' Associations. The proposals considered included changes in school district salary guides and minimum-maximum pay standards. These are tentatively scheduled to be presented to boards of education for inclusion in 1946-47 budgets.

The league approved the recent action of the New Jersey Education Association, in proposing a $2,500 minimum salary and an immediate $500 increment for every teacher in the state. It is understood these proposals will be in a measure to be presented the 1947 Legislature. The league also favors a $30 a pupil minimum for state aid to schools.

Besides Summit, other associations represented at Friday's meeting were Millburn, Westfield, Union, East Orange, Nutley, Essex County Vocational and Technical School, Montclair, Glen Ridge, Livingston, Maplewood, Caldwell, Madison, Chatham, West Orange, Morristown, Orange, Irvington, and Regional High of Springfield.

Attention was called to the panel discussion November 25 on teachers' salaries at the Union County Board of Education in Union High School at which time Dr. William A. Kincaid of Summit was one of the panel speakers. A report on this panel will be given in next week's Herald. The league will meet December 13 in Montclair.

New City Directories Out, Differ Little from 1944

Summit's new 1946 city directory made its appearance Monday in stores and offices throughout the town. The new directory differs little from the 1944 edition and is again bound in the familiar yellow cover. However, it is somewhat larger and the size of type is much smaller in the alphabetical listings.

Again published by Price & Lee of Newark, the 1946 directory contains names, occupations and addresses of Summit, Millburn and Springfield residents as well as a list of streets of those towns showing households and buildings.

Board of Design Suggested for City By Architects

A proposal for a Board of Design for the city was presented to representatives of the city Planning Board by David Ludlow, chairman of the Civic Planning Committee, at a meeting with that board on November 18.

In presenting the suggestion, Mr. Ludlow said: "The purpose of such a Board of Design would be to avoid the future creation of such architectural monstrosities as dot practically every suburban community in the country. Many other cities throughout the country have boards of design which have been operating for enough years to have their findings upheld in courts of law. Such a movement for a Board of Design would not be in the nature of pioneering."

Continuing, Mr. Ludlow stated: "Any attempt to have the zoning ordinance limit the design of garden apartments to one particular style of architecture such as Mount Vernon Colonial would be unprogressive and unduly restrictive in the opinion of the civic committee. There is also serious question whether such a provision would be legal. Let us suppose this ordinance had been passed in 1929 requiring garden apartments to be built in the then popular style known as 'Tudor English,' with its fake timbering set into brick and stucco and its stage scenery battlements at the top of the building."

Road Infractions, Short Weight Coal Bring Court Fines

Appearing Saturday morning before Judge Peter C. Triolo in Summit Police Court, Joseph Mandato of Murray Hill was found guilty of short weight sale of coal and fined $25. The charge was preferred by Walter W. Wilson, assistant superintendent of the county's bureau of weights and measures.

Edward Thomas of Fern street, Newark, was fined $6 for crossing a white line in Morris turnpike on complaint of Motor Vehicle Inspector Joshua Jamison. Julius Fichetti of Berkeley Heights paid a $5 fine for speeding 45 miles an hour on Broad street on complaint of Patrolman John Sayre.

Sentence Suspended
Victor Samuels of Evergreen place, a lawyer, was given a suspended sentence at Thursday night's session of court on a charge of parking in front of a theatre entrance. The defendant challenged the right of the officer to issue the summons stating he "wasn't parking," but was just trying to find out when the picture would be over.

On complaint of Chief Motor Vehicle Inspector Otto Oswald, Martin B. Kelly of Chatham was assessed $6 for violating the "Stop Street" law. On complaint of Oswald, Fred H. Lehman of Bernardsville paid $6 for driving 45 miles an hour in the Turnpike and $3 for operating a vehicle without having his driver's license with him. On complaint of Jamison, Robert Klase of Summit paid $6 for doing 47 miles an hour in the turnpike.

James Keating of Summit was sent to the county jail for 30 days on a charge of vagrancy. L. D. Westbrook of Vaux Hall was found guilty of being drunk for which he was fined $10. Galilee Rayford of Glenwood place was placed on probation for one year on charges preferred by his wife.

Truslow Job Story Denied
A story appearing in Tuesday's suburban edition of The Newark News concerning the creation of an overall director of police and fire departments for Summit and the naming of Councilman Fred W. Truslow as a possible choice to fill the new post was denied by Mayor Maxwell Lester, Jr., members of the Council and Mr. Truslow.

The News reported "on good authority" that action on the position will take place shortly after the first of the year and that Mr. Truslow will fill the job at a salary of $6,000 per year.

Mr. Truslow is chairman of the public safety committee and serves without pay, as do other members of the Council. He is engaged in business in New York City.

Assessment Rolls Open
In another column of this issue will be found a notice to taxpayers stating that the tax duplicate for 1947 will be open for the inspection of any taxpayer desiring to check assessments. Veterans are asked to take their discharge papers with them in order that they may be allowed a 5000 exemption on their assessable property. The dates for the inspection are December 5 and 6, 7:30 to 9:30, Thursday and Friday evenings.

City's 3,800 Bicyclists to Get Safety Talks

Disturbed by numerous complaints about the hazardous practices of many of Summit's 3,800 youthful bicycle riders, the Police Department has decided to do something about educating the city's cyclists in safe habits of using their wheels. Police Court Clerk Frank Van Tronk says this undertaking will center in the public schools.

Through the cooperation of Leo Welsh, director of safety for the State Motor Vehicle Department, films will be procured for presentation at school assemblies and before safety patrols which operate in the elementary schools. At the same time the films are shown, special safety literature prepared by the Motor Vehicle Department on the use of bicycles on the highways will be distributed to all students.

Police say that the greatest concentration of bicycles is at the central high school plant. In the junior school a special safety campaign has already been undertaken aided by the use of posters prepared in art classes. At a recent assembly, Director of Secondary Education A. J. Bartholomew told students that the matter of practicing desirable safety habits was a challenge to them. He told the students that "unless you do something about it, some one will do something about it for you."

Merchants Will Decorate Streets For Yule Shoppers

Summit merchants are making extensive arrangements for the greeting of Santa Claus, according to an announcement of the Chamber of Commerce. Although some of these plans may have to be altered depending upon whether or not the government issues an official "dim-out" notice, Gardner Eastman, chairman of the Chamber's Christmas promotion committee, and his assistants have insured that the city's shopping district will be bedecked with holly and Yule decorations in anticipation for Santa's arrival.

As plans now stand, strings of colored lights will be erected across the streets. These lights will be entwined about hemlock roping and if the government orders restrictions on use of lights then the roping will remain. Hemlock garlands will also encircle lamp posts and each post will sport a jolly red ribbon bow.

The city's Christmas shopping season opens officially Friday, December 12, when stores will remain open for evening hours through Christmas Eve. There will be signs placed in stores windows calling attention to these shopping hours.

Another festive note will be daily Christmas music: The familiar and traditional carols of the season will be brought to shoppers by means of 40 loudspeakers placed throughout the shopping center. These broadcasts will originate from a centrally located control booth and will include numbers especially recorded by the Summit Choral Club and other local musical organizations. The carols will be played each day during the late afternoon and early evening hours. In order to avoid confusion, the Chamber has arranged for no other public broadcast permits to be issued to individual stores, such as radio shops.

Individual members of the Chamber have already started decorating their store windows and in a very few days the town will be ready for St. Nick's annual visit.

Boy Scout Film,
'Men of Tomorrow'
At Lyric Theatre

"Men of Tomorrow," a technical film featuring the whole Scout family will be shown at the Lyric Theatre for one week beginning today (Thanksgiving Day). The two-reel was produced by Warner Brothers, in cooperation with the Boy Scouts of America, and has been rated "excellent" by motion picture trade papers.

Opening with lively, colorful scenes portraying Cub Scouting, the picture is full of action, from the Den meeting up through the activities of Packs, Troop and senior groups.

"Men of Tomorrow" is a dramatic presentation of Scouting's important contribution to the training of America's youth. An exciting portrayal of Scout activities during peace and war, the film points out to the general public that the leadership and guidance within Scouting is one effective answer to the pressing youth problems confronting the country today. It also stresses the promise of capable leadership Scouting will provide the nation in the future, through young men now growing up within the movement.

Scout parents, new Scouters and others not too familiar with the program of Scouting, will find the two-reel technical feature entertaining, and at the same time learn more about the movement.

CHRISTMAS FUND
The Christmas Committee is again making its annual appeal for contributions for our less fortunate Summit neighbors.

Planning Board Chairman Explains Zoning Ordinance

Summit's proposed zoning ordinance is designed to care for future business and residential growth but at the same time will "create the atmosphere of individual homes" in the community, Philip N. Trowbridge, chairman of the Planning Board, told members of the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night, November 20.

Envisioning a population of 29,000 for Summit and a building boom this spring, Mr. Trowbridge said that the aim of the first planning board, established Jan. 31, 1942, to keep Summit essentially a residence community still stands today as the policy of the present planning board and of members of the Common Council.

After explaining the make-up and duties of a planning board, the speaker said that Summit's 1946 population is estimated at 19,000 and that the city serves as a shopping area for approximately 75,000. In order to keep the city a residential community, he said, 82.9 per cent of the total acreage of the city has been zoned for one-family homes. Of the remaining areas, 5.7 per cent are for two-family dwellings; 3.2 per cent for garden apartments; 3.5 per cent for business; 1.4 per cent for industrial research laboratories and 2.9 per cent for industries.

The proposed ordinance divides the city into 12 districts. These are Residence A, with a minimum lot requirement of 15,000 square feet; Residence A, lots of 10,000; Residence A, lots of 7,000 and Residence A, of 6,000. In the Residence B class there are 15,000, 5,000 and 4,000 square foot lot designations. Other districts are Residence C for multi-family apartments; business and industrial.

The new zoning law also limits height and bulk of buildings, minimum lot sizes, number of families per building, yard and court sizes and open space.

45,100 Feet For Business
The city governs a total area of 6.1 square miles or 3,246 acres. The eastern section of the city has 10,050 lineal feet allotted for business purposes exclusive of 1,200 feet for the Stephens-Miller Co. In the center of the city, the section bounded generally by Springfield, Morris, Waldron and DeForest avenues, excluding the civic center, there are approximately 19,530 lineal feet along highways. In addition to this, in North Summit, along River road, Morris and Madison avenues there are about 14,110 lineal feet and in West Summit, about 1,450 lineal feet along highways.

This making a total of 35,140 lineal feet set aside for business, or more than 8 1/2 miles of business frontage.

There are 65 miles of highway in the city and this area of 8 1/2 miles, divided by two to relate it to highways, represents 4 1/4 miles of highway frontage, or approximately 6 1/2 per cent of highway frontage.

With a yardstick indicating 30 feet of frontage for each 100 of population the requirement would be 9,500 lineal feet for the estimated population or about two miles. With the amounts previously stated ample area is provided for business frontage. At present there is zoned for business in the center of the city 19,530 feet or 3.7 miles; this should take care of the estimated 26,000 population.

Mr. Trowbridge stated it better practice to have the areas allotted

College Club Will Consider Dropping Fall Book Sale

The December meeting of the Summit College Club will take the form of two forums to discuss questions of "vital importance" to members, according to Mrs. Walter E. Gude, president. The most outstanding of these will be "Shall We Abandon the Book Sale?" and allied topics.

The College Club fall book sale has become a matter of importance to many people of Summit, to judge by the crowds who attend and the successful financial returns, with people contributing books because the proceeds would help some girl get to college, and many others buying more books than they needed or could afford, for the same reason, not to mention the many books bought by those who could not have paid the original prices.

The undertaking has grown so large, Mrs. Gude stated, that the operation and support must be discussed. Consideration of the club's policy on awarding the scholarships will follow. Other matters needing membership attention are dues and the kind of program activities desired. "Now is the time for everyone to speak up," said Mrs. Gude.

Both forums will be held at Mrs. Gude's home, 55 New-England avenue, the first on Thursday, Dec. 5, at 8 p. m., and the other, Friday, Dec. 6, at 3 p. m.

H. S. Yearbook Scores Again In Press Field

The 1946 "Top," Summit High School's yearbook, scored first place in the contest sponsored by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. This was announced Friday at the school. This is the second first by "The Top" in three years.

Year books from all over the United States are entered in these yearly contests and are classified according to size of school and type of book—letter press or lithographic. "The Top" was first place winner among all lithographed books entered by schools of 500 to 600 students. Its score out of a possible 1,000 points was 855.

"The Top," 1946, a 106-page edition released last June, is a two-color job, red, and black. It was the work of a staff with Phillips Treleaven as editor-in-chief. Faculty advisers were Gerald M. Crona, editorial, and Miss Wanda Renda, business.

Elks to Hold Service
The annual memorial services of Summit Lodge, 1246, BPOE, will be held Sunday, December 1, at 8 p. m., at the rooms on Maple street. The principal address will be given by Judge John L. Hughes. All members are urged to attend and the public is cordially invited.

No Humor in Humus Sale, Woman Tells Police Judge

Out-of-town black humus peddlers were the subject of a "crack down" Saturday morning in Police Court when Judge Peter C. Triolo heard charges that three local housewives were separated from $333 for black humus, a soil enricher. Charges were brought against William Stiles of Arlington avenue, Jersey City.

However Stiles was granted a postponement of his case until December 5.

Testimony was introduced showing that an Elm street woman paid $280 for some humus, believing that she was buying it at the rate of $60 a ton. The product sells locally at $83 a ton. The woman actually received fifty baskets of humus with only 38 pounds in each basket. At the rate of three cents a pound which the salesman charged, the woman was short nearly four tons.

Warnings have been issued to all localities throughout the state concerning this "racket" and the Agricultural Extension Service of Rutgers University and Fred D. Canaan, Union County agricultural agent, have joined hands in this area urging all home owners to be on the look-out for black humus peddlers who hawk their wares from door to door selling the material under a number of misrepresentations. They claim that it is a fertilizer, which it is not;

they talk fast, evade the question of cost and with very little encouragement proceed to spread buckets of black humus very fast, ending with a bill out of all proportions to what the home owner expected and in many cases delivered less than claimed.

"Many victims and prospects," said Canaan, "are helping to curb the activities of these racketeers by calling local police, filing complaints on factual grounds and otherwise closing their doors to these black humus peddlers. Buying garden supplies from the reliable local dealer is always the best practice."

In explaining the tricks of the black humus racketeers, such as White, Osman said: "They buy hyper-humus in bulk at $11.50 per ton and price it at $60 per ton; when pressed by a prospect, they say three cents a pound. They show a humus circular to the victim, but don't let him read it because it specifies mixing it with the soil, not just dumping it on the ground as they do. They have the Department of Weights and Measures certify their scale, but don't use it unless the customer insists, which he seldom does. They get a license from the police on the basis of carrying a veteran in their truck, and, of course, use the veteran as a sympathy appeal."

30 Applications Received for Vets' Housing

The American Legion Veterans' Housing committee reports that thirty new applications for veterans' housing facilities were received Thursday evening. The committee states that many of the applicants are in desperate need of immediate housing.

The committee has been advised that work on the three Summit units at Mineville, N. Y., is progressing rapidly, but that at present no definite date can be given for their arrival in Summit. The units are being dismantled sectionally at their New York site and will be shipped to Summit for erection.

All Summit veterans in need of living quarters, who have not already registered, are invited to do so any Thursday evening, except Thanksgiving, at the Legion Home at the corner of Broad and Elm streets. The veteran does not have to be a member of the Legion to be eligible, the only requirement being that he had service in the armed forces.

Thiamin Study
Wins Medal
For Summit Man
Dr. Robert R. Williams of Summit avenue, director of research of the Research Corp. of New York, whose synthesis of Vitamin B-1, is expected to aid in combating beriberi, has won the 1946 Perkin Medal of the American section of the Society of Chemical Industry, of New York, it was announced Monday.

Dr. Williams, who was chemical director of the Bell Telephone Laboratories in New York for twenty-one years before he joined the Research Corporation last spring, was cited for his fundamental research on Vitamin B-1 or thiamin, the anti-neuritic vitamin essential to nerve health and life.

The medal will be presented Jan. 10 at a joint meeting of the Society of Chemical Industry, the American Chemical Society, the American Institute of Chemical Engineers and the Electrochemical Society at the Hotel Commodore.

CHORAL CLUB'S $5,000 MUSIC LIBRARY CACHED IN JAIL
The job of librarian for the music collection of the Summit Choral Club has proved at least as difficult as Miss Ruth Gray, who offered to undertake it, expected it to be—and she knew it would not be a sinecure. To begin with, the $5,000 library could not even find a home, and, like all vagrants, has landed in jail! One of the "cells" at the City Hall (formerly Hamilton School), houses this valuable accumulation of years of choral work, and the Club is warned periodically that it is at their own risk that it is left there.

The loan of the space at City Hall will be terminated when the cell is "fixed up," that is made habitable for local offenders, vice the music library will again be on the streets or in the gutter. Miss Gray's number one problem now is to find a permanent home for her charge. The requirements are a dry, clean place, and accessible for weekly use. The room should be large enough for the great amount of work that is needed to rehabilitate, sort, clean and rearrange it after the four years of disuse during the war, when dampness, dust, mice, and some carelessness took their toll.

Some of the music in the collection dates from 1880, and is irreplaceable. Other sheets have been photostated from the original manuscripts and are equally rare, while the year by year gathering of more accessible material has aided in the building up of a valuable music library whether judged by dollar or artistic standards.

Mental Hygienics Advises Confiding Troubles

"It is not a sign of weakness to admit to yourself and someone else that you sometimes have problems or are worried." Of course, some people talk too much about their troubles, but there is also the "strong man" type, who thinks he should never admit to anyone that he feels uncertain or worried. This is nothing but ego-

ism. Sharing and discussing our problems with a good friend, without overdoing it, can be as refreshing and encouraging as a beautiful day. None of us is completely self-sufficient. We need each other and there can be wonderful benefit to others and ourselves in sharing our problems and our happiness. This is one of a series of Mental Hygienics offered by the Mental Hygiene Society of Summit as a public service.

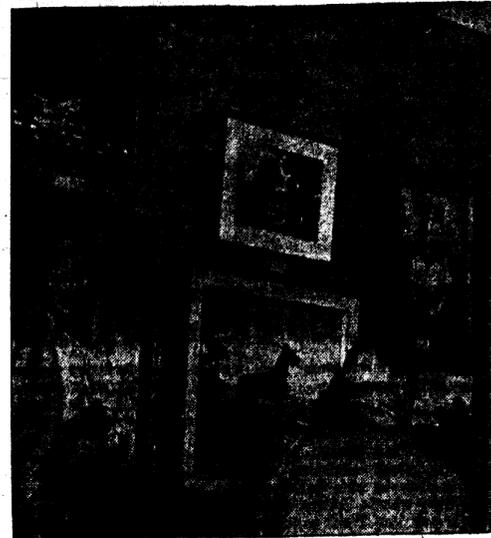

John M. Curtis To Speak Sunday At Art Center

The special program to be given Sunday at the Art Center in connection with the members' show currently on exhibit over the weekends, will be a talk on interior decorating by John Morrison Curtis, well known in that field. Mr. Curtis is the CBS expert on interior decorating on one of the sustaining programs. He has also lectured on the staff of the Metropolitan Museum and the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences. At present he is conducting a class in Millburn as part of the adult education program. His talk Sunday will begin at 3:45 and will be illustrated by materials.

About 300 people attended the opening of the members' exhibit at the Art Center last Sunday, to view the 75 canvases in watercolors and oils, all, as the name implies, done by some of the 350 members of the Art Association. The show will be open for the next three Saturdays and Sundays from 3 to 5:30 p. m.

The new lighting proved most satisfactory, according to Mrs. Curtis Prout, president. To show the improvement, the lights were turned on and off for the judgment of the visitors, and were voted a huge success. Alf Stromstad received praise for the effective hanging of the pictures, as chairman of that committee. Tea was served by Mrs. Robert A. Ward, Mrs. Rachel Wyse, and Mrs. A. J. G. Priest.

ANNUAL MEMBERS' SHOW—The Summit Art Association opened its galleries to a "members only" exhibition last Sunday. The show includes pictures by artists of Summit and nearby towns. The association has become increasingly active and has grown in numbers, as not only those who paint or draw may join, but others who are interested in art and are willing to help sustain the association by contributing funds, labor, or advice, are welcome.

Training as Marine Telephone Electrician

Marine Sergeant John H. McDermott, former resident of Summit, has been selected for training as a marine telephone electrician. It has been announced at Camp Joseph H. Pendleton, Oceanside, Calif.

The former Summit man is enrolled in a 36-week advanced signal course at the world's largest marine training center.

Sgt. McDermott, who enlisted in the Marines in April, 1943, was formerly attached to the Fifth Marine Division. He saw action at Iwo Jima and took part in the occupation of Kyushu, Japan.

Savings Bond Drive On; Lasts Five Weeks

An intensified drive, aimed at stimulating the sale of Savings Bonds, is now being conducted by the Treasury Department. It began November 11 and will continue through December 7.

Unlike the war-time bond selling drives, which lasted for several months, the current drive will last for only five weeks, according to Raymond A. Glennon, State director of the Treasury Department's savings bond division.

"The entire state will be thoroughly canvassed," Mr. Glennon said, and we will try to hammer home our message to every resident of New Jersey."

Building Inspectors Ask Controls Be Lifted

The Building Inspectors Association of New Jersey has called for the lifting of all remaining federal controls over construction.

In a resolution adopted at its regular monthly meeting, the Association declared that "federal laws are obstructing progress throughout the building industry, and increasing the cost of all building."

"The lifting of price controls on materials is the first positive constructive step the federal government has taken to increase housing production, but the time-consuming priorities system is still in force," C. Ray Swain, president of the Association, says.

Attends Laundryowners Conference in Joliet

Richard L. Corby, Jr., of Corby's Enterprise Laundry, Summit avenue, attended the one-week laundry management conference at the general headquarters of the American Institute of Laundering, national trade association of the laundry industry, last week. The institute is located in Joliet, Ill.

The conference was held in the Institute's school of laundry management and its practical operating laundry, part of a million-dollar proving and improving ground for the industry maintained by 3,500 laundry members.

Crawford Hi-Y Elects

Edwin G. Lincoln, boys' program secretary of the Summit Y. M. C. A., recently announced the election of new officers of the newly organized Crawford Junior Hi-Y Club. The membership selected Lester Groves, president; George Stark, vice president; Allan Judge, secretary; Pete Barker, treasurer, and Richard Trowbridge, program committee chairman.

Members of this Hi-Y Club are ninth grade students in Central Junior High School.

Fourteen Groups Sew and Mend for Overlook Hospital

Even with 14 different groups of women sewing and mending for Overlook Hospital, and turning in a tremendous amount of work, the increased need for this kind of help for the hospital cannot be met and more women are asked to give an hour or two each week for this cause. Mrs. W. Richmond Tracy, chairman of volunteer sewing, said Monday at an executive meeting of the Women's Auxiliary.

Mrs. Tracy praised the volume of completed work turned in by Calvary Church, Central Church, Community Church, First Baptist Church, First Lutheran Church, the Chatham Group, and the Friday Morning Group.

The Friday Morning Group offers a chance to those women of the area who are not especially affiliated with any church, to help in the work by coming to the recreation room of the nurses' home, any time on any Friday between 10 a. m. and 2 p. m., whether they can stay one hour or all day. The women usually have luncheon at the tea room and remain throughout the full time, but this is not required. Help is more needed now than ever, since materials have to last longer, and are mended until worn thin.

Miss Eloise Johnson spoke to women of the Community Church recently of the current need for more volunteers, and Miss Vera Finnerty addressed the women of St. John's Lutheran Church on the same topic, also telling them of the various uses to which the articles they make are put.

"There were giants in the earth in those days."
—Genesis 6:4

Our Pilgrim forefathers were magnificent in their accomplishments, their fearlessness and their independence. THEY bowed the knee to God alone.

WE need not hew a farm from the forest primeval, nor live hemmed in by pine and hemlock. But the heritage of independence and fearlessness is ours.

And so we pay to our forefathers, who founded this Thanksgiving celebration, our profound respect.

announces

the new Capehart is here!

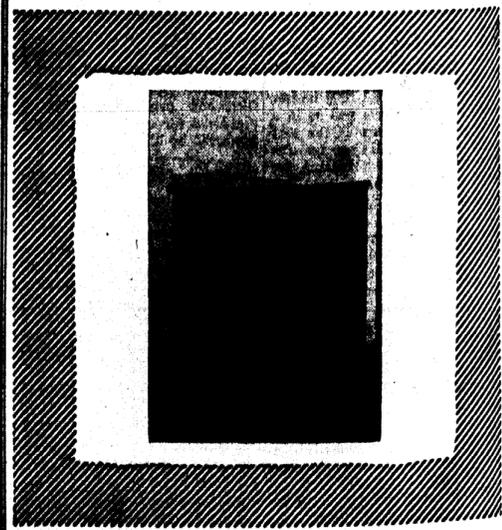

The world's finest instrument for musical reproduction

AN EVENT of great importance is now taking place in the musical life of the nation. The new Capehart, finest instrument ever created by Capehart engineers, is being presented to the American public.

Maintaining the same distinguished heritage that made The Capehart of other years the world's finest instrument for musical reproduction, the new models embody many features which had not even reached the blueprint stage before the war.

"Personal Appearance" tone and the True Timbre electronic pick-up—new military type circuit wiring, a new FM circuit, new built-in AM-FM antennae combine with the improved time-tested Capehart automatic record changer to raise the new Capehart to an even higher point of perfection.

Panamuse by Capehart

There may never be enough Capeharts to meet the demand, for this exquisite instrument is built too unobtrusively for mass production. Men, be that reason, just are unable to secure a Capehart to fill an insatiable desire, we suggest you consider the Panamuse by Capehart, a superb phonograph built in the Capehart tradition but more suitably priced. You are cordially invited to see these fine instruments—used to hear, great music played as it has never been played before.

County Youth Welfare Council Adopts Program

With A. Clifford Bernard of Summit, president, presiding, the following objectives were adopted for 1947 by the members of the Union County Youth Welfare Council at the fall meeting held in the Court House, Elizabeth, Monday afternoon:

To conduct: A seminar for parents; a training course in the handling of juveniles by police officers; an annual conference.

To encourage: An active, organized effort against bigotry and intolerance; more youth participation in all community activities; parents to teach by example, rather than by precept; the introduction in the schools of programs which will reduce vandalism; the development of more sources of volunteer recreation leaders for private and public agencies.

To urge: The establishment of better facilities for the detention of juveniles in Union County.

These were presented by F. S. Mathews, chairman of the 1946 conference committee.

A nominating committee was elected to prepare a ballot for the annual meeting in January. They were: Rev. Roland L. Luerich, Elizabeth; Officer George Ward, Cranford; Mrs. Henry G. Nulton, Hillside; Mrs. John Shuster, Plainfield; William M. Ashby.

Representatives were present from Cranford, Hillside, Linden, Plainfield, Rahway, Scotch Plains, Summit, Union, Westfield and Winfield.

The Honorable Judge Libby E. Sachar, judge of the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court of Union County, spoke on the needs of the juvenile offender.

Christmas Gifts Sought for 'The Yanks Who Gave'

The American Legion, Summit Post 138, and its Auxiliary are again sponsoring drive for Christmas gifts for "The Yanks Who Gave." This campaign is being conducted in cooperation with the Eddie Cantor radio program. It is announced by Chairman Gene McCabe of the Legion and Helen Bartlett, secretary, of the Auxiliary, secretary of the drive.

In a letter to members of both groups and to the public, it is stated, "Our organizations have been asked to supply money for the purchase of canteen tickets for the men hospitalized at Lyons, N. J. These tickets cost one to two dollars. Do your part by donating money for one or more of these tickets, and help make this Christmas a happier one for these unfortunate ex-servicemen. Donations should be sent to the committee treasurer, Mrs. Catherine McCabe, Legion Home, 14 Elm street, Summit."

Members of the committee from the Legion also include Frank McIntosh, Joseph Caesar, Conrad Cattano, and Joseph Twill, and from the Auxiliary: Miss Patricia Conant, Mrs. Eldert McIntosh, and Mrs. Helen Caesar.

Every time a rust-susceptible barberry plant is destroyed, an early local source of stem rust of wheat has been removed.

Mexico's Progress Dogged by Poverty, Fortnightly Hears

Mexico City, the oldest city in this hemisphere, is showing an unbelievable progress in its apartment houses, theatres, public buildings, its acceptance of the most modern inventions, the search for education, and the numbers of people setting up small businesses, Ray Josephs told his Fortnightly audience on Nov. 20 at the high school.

All this progress, though, is accompanied by the most dire poverty, 9 by 12 foot shacks housing families of eight facing the most luxurious of homes. This is one of the marks left by the unjust and tenacious possession of the land of Mexico by the few, a centuries old problem, which has not been yet eradicated since its abolition was promised in the revolution of 1910. The last three presidents have been making strides in that direction which were interrupted by the war, and the new president, Miguel Ale-man, has pledged himself to bring back the land to the people.

Interest in and understanding of Mexico and her problems is essential to the United States, for the good of both countries. Trade with Mexico is one avenue to that cooperation and will be a factor in future peace along the Rio Grande, Mr. Josephs concluded.

John R. Falkenburg Named Treasurer

John R. Falkenburg, formerly of Summit, now living in Westfield, has been advanced to treasurer of Frank H. Taylor & Son, Inc., of East Orange, realtors and mortgage bankers.

Mr. Falkenburg conducted a real estate, management and development business in Summit in 1924 to 1937. He joined the Taylor organization in 1944 as assistant to the president.

Mr. Falkenburg was at one time New Jersey sales supervisor for the Home Owners Loan Corporation, being responsible for millions of dollars worth of real estate. In 1924 he was lent to the War Production Board to investigate building projects in New York and Pennsylvania. His specialty is conventional and industrial mortgage loans.

Where Did Holland Hide Her Cattle? Asks Harriet Avery

Holland, in her phenomenal drive for recovery from the ravages of the war, is already offering on the world market millions of bulbs and seeds, fresh or salted fish, and most amazing of all, her pure bred fine strain of cattle, Miss Harriet Avery told her audience on Nov. 19 at Lincoln School. She wondered if the Dutch had hidden the animals in their feather-beds during the war, but she could not find out.

The Dutch are frank in their wish to have the United States understand their problems at home and in the East Indies, now called "The Kingdom of the Netherlands and Indonesia" to escape the dispute into which the idea of "empire" has fallen. She said that the Dutch criticize the U. S. for giving the Philippine Islands political freedom but not economic freedom. They are rationalizing their own procedure in Indonesia of doing the same thing, by claiming "freedom of the soul" is more important there than material plenty for the natives.

Holland challenges the United States to provide her with markets for her products, for which Germany was formerly her largest customer. Alternative to or co-incidental with this, is the rebuilding of the markets of Europe and the rehabilitation of its people. Hollanders claim. The United States needs a strong Europe, they add.

It is estimated that college enrollments may reach 2,000,000 by 1950.

WHAT HAVE WE GOT TO BE Thankful ABOUT?

Read the newspapers, and there doesn't seem to be much. Unrest at home and abroad. Continuing shortages. High prices. Gloom on every hand. . . . But—search your heart and your home. Count your many blessings—yes, even if there is no turkey to carve. If you will do this earnestly, you'll surprise even your pessimistic and perhaps unappreciative self. If it were possible to list all the things we Americans—individually and as a nation—have to be thankful for, even the most obvious ones would fill this page. Times have been worse—much worse. They can be much better—but only if we think and act in a way to achieve that goal; only if we are deeply grateful for what we have, and "praise God, from whom all blessings flow."

Other groups and individuals are invited to attend this Thanksgiving service, whether church members or not.

The special offering at the service will be given to the relief of the destitute of Europe through the United Council of Church Relief.

Rev. M. D. Booker Resigns Pulpit For College Post

Rev. Merrel D. Booker, for the past six and one-half years pastor of Fountain Baptist Church, has accepted a position with Talladega College, Talladega, Ala., as its first dean of men. This is one of the four accredited Negro colleges in the country. He began his duties there on October 1. His family will move from Summit at the end of the year.

Born at Hackensack, Mr. Booker attended the Jersey City schools and graduated from Howard University with A.B. and B.D. degrees, later attending Union Theological Seminary and the Social Service School at Columbia. He did graduate work at Drew University.

He was the first Negro to be admitted to the Massachusetts General Hospital where he did clinical work in pastoral care. From September, 1945, until June, 1946, he worked for his Master, degree in Sacred Theology at Boston University. Since then he has been engaged in migrant work at Hightstown.

Mr. Booker's family consists of his wife, who has been active in community life, a son, Merrel and a daughter, Sue.

Bible Verses Selected for '46 Worldwide Reading

The passages for Worldwide Bible Reading from Thanksgiving to Christmas have been announced by the American Bible Society, and will be read by millions of Christians throughout the nations.

The Society initiated its Bible reading movement in 1944, when it gave out 14,000,000 bookmarks listing the daily passage. Last year it distributed 30,000,000, and support was given by governors of thirty states.

The theme for the 1946 readings is "The Word of Power for a Power Age," and the daily selections feature some of the "spiritual pioneers" of the Bible. Bookmarks are available through the Society or through the churches.

The passages chosen are:

Thanksgiving, Nov. 28
Genesis 8:20-9:17
Friday Genesis 12:1-9; 17:1-8
Saturday Genesis 32
Sunday, Dec. 1 Genesis 37

Rev. M. D. Booker Resigns Pulpit For College Post

Rev. Merrel D. Booker, for the past six and one-half years pastor of Fountain Baptist Church, has accepted a position with Talladega College, Talladega, Ala., as its first dean of men. This is one of the four accredited Negro colleges in the country. He began his duties there on October 1. His family will move from Summit at the end of the year.

Born at Hackensack, Mr. Booker attended the Jersey City schools and graduated from Howard University with A.B. and B.D. degrees, later attending Union Theological Seminary and the Social Service School at Columbia. He did graduate work at Drew University.

He was the first Negro to be admitted to the Massachusetts General Hospital where he did clinical work in pastoral care. From September, 1945, until June, 1946, he worked for his Master, degree in Sacred Theology at Boston University. Since then he has been engaged in migrant work at Hightstown.

Mr. Booker's family consists of his wife, who has been active in community life, a son, Merrel and a daughter, Sue.

Bible Verses Selected for '46 Worldwide Reading

The passages for Worldwide Bible Reading from Thanksgiving to Christmas have been announced by the American Bible Society, and will be read by millions of Christians throughout the nations.

The Society initiated its Bible reading movement in 1944, when it gave out 14,000,000 bookmarks listing the daily passage. Last year it distributed 30,000,000, and support was given by governors of thirty states.

The theme for the 1946 readings is "The Word of Power for a Power Age," and the daily selections feature some of the "spiritual pioneers" of the Bible. Bookmarks are available through the Society or through the churches.

The passages chosen are:

Thanksgiving, Nov. 28
Genesis 8:20-9:17
Friday Genesis 12:1-9; 17:1-8
Saturday Genesis 32
Sunday, Dec. 1 Genesis 37
Monday Exodus 3
Tuesday Ruth 1
Wednesday 1 Samuel 3
Thursday 1 Samuel 16; Psalms 139
Friday 1 Kings 19:1-18
Saturday Nehemiah 6
Sunday, Dec. 8 Zechariah 4
Monday Isaiah 41:1-29; 6
Tuesday Isaiah 52:13-53:12
Wednesday Jeremiah 1:1-2:13
Thursday Daniel 6
Friday Luke 1:26-38
Saturday Matthew 3:1-17
Sunday, Dec. 15 John 3:1-17
Monday Luke 10:38-42
Tuesday Luke 15:11-24
Wednesday John 13:1-17
Thursday John 17

Paper Mill Art Exhibit Displays Local Paintings

The policy of the Paper Mill Playhouse Art Gallery of encouraging local talent and of showing what folk in New Jersey can do is exemplified by the exhibition of pictures by Mr. and Mrs. Abram Molarzky of Nutley. Mr. and Mrs. Molarzky are, however, known outside their own state and have exhibited in leading galleries of this country including the National Academy of Design, the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, the Corcoran Gallery of Washington, D. C., and the Washington Society of Artists and also in France. Both were pupils of William Merritt Chase and of Cecilia Beaux and have studied at the Ecole des Beaux Arts of Paris.

Mr. Molarzky is known in this neighborhood as an instructor in art and also for having developed several techniques of his own in different mediums. His present exhibition is entirely of oils and is characterized by a fine quality of color. Particularly interesting are the delicate fantasy "Blue and Gold," the sombre "March Morning," and the airy and haunting quality of "Moonlight Fantasy," "Foggy Morning" and "Winter Storm."

Mrs. Molarzky contributes several oils, including a striking study of "Marionettes" and also an attractive group of pastels, flowers and still life of charm and variety.

Bams to Broadcast Traditional Parade, Game

Two traditional Turkey Day events—the L. Bamberger & Co. parade heralding the arrival of Santa Claus, and the 50th anniversary football contest between East Orange and Barringer High school eleven—will be broadcast by WAAT-Newark this Thursday, under the sponsorship of Bamberger's George P. Blockbower, publicity director of Bamberger's, said that beginning at 10:45 a. m., listeners will be given an eye-witness description of the parade of floats and gigantic story-book characters. Paul Brenner of WAAT will describe the spectacle, climaxed by the arrival of St. Nick at the Bamberger store.

Immediately following the parade, at approximately 11:15 a. m., listeners will be taken to City Schools Stadium, Newark, for a play-by-play account of the 50th Turkey Day contest between Barringer and East Orange, one of the oldest scholastic gridiron rivalries in the country.

Announcers Bill Sherman and Hal Tunis will describe the contest, with Sherman doing the play-by-play account and Tunis providing the color. Barringer has captured 23 games in the series, East Orange 20, with six games resulting in ties. Last year's game was a 25-14 Barringer victory.

Colgate Alumni Dance In Montclair Monday

Members and friends of the Colgate University Alumni Association of New Jersey are holding their post-war reunion as a formal dance at the Montclair Golf Club, Montclair, on Saturday evening. The event has been arranged by the officers of the Association: Whitney Jaeger of Summit, president; Arthur Reimer of East Orange, vice-president; Robert Kreidler of South Orange, treasurer; and Edward Nittoll of Elizabeth, chairman of the dance committee.

HAVE YOU EVER BEEN TO ESKIMO-LAND? I have. I went to Eskimo-land at Bamberger's. Mother took me. I got into a big sled with lots of other children. That's our picture there. The dogs that pull the sled are real Eskimo dogs. They are called huskies. They pull sleds over the snow in Alaska. These dogs are soldier-dogs, too. They used to be in the Army just like my Daddy. They were parachute dogs. They jumped out of airplanes. Then they pulled sleds for the soldiers. It's easy for them to pull the children in the sled at Bam's. The man who drives the sled is called a "musher". That's because he yells, "Mush", when he wants the dogs to go. He took us to Eskimo-land in the sled. We saw the only real live Eskimo family in the whole United States. Dave Irwin, the famous Arctic explorer, brought them to Bam's. They live in Wales, Alaska. There's a mother and a father and a little baby Eskimo. My mother watched the Eskimo mother taking care of her baby. When we left Eskimo-land, I got a present. Every little boy and girl who rides in the sled gets one. Then I went to see Santa. I asked him for a red bicycle. And guess what! He said he'd bring me one if I'm very, very good. I had a good time. Why don't you ask your Mother to take you to Bam's, so you can ride in a real dogsled? Those huskies are keen.

Educate Bicycle Riders

As in all suburban communities, the bicycle is a prominent vehicle on Summit streets. According to our police department we have more than 1,000 of them. Frankly, we did not think there were nearly that many. But that only proves—and we say this with thankfulness—that most of our bike riders have a mental balance equal to their physical prowess. We have some, however, who appear to have no balance whatsoever and who seem to lack even adolescent good sense when it comes to riding bikes.

Hardly a day goes by without hearing someone, either motorist or pedestrian, comment on the fact that he narrowly escaped colliding with a bicycle or avoided being struck by one. Summit has quite a few bicyclists who dawdle and careen in the center of our streets; they weave in and out of traffic; dart from driveways into the face of an approaching car and ignore hand signals when making a turn. They also ignore traffic lights and are contemptuous of pedestrians. They blithely forget the fact, if they were ever told it, that the bicycle is a vehicle and should be handled as such.

According to the State Highway Department bicycle deaths and injuries in New Jersey since the year 1942 total 71 killed and 1,665 injured. During the eight months of 1946 the Department has grimly tallied 11 fatalities of children who were riding bikes and 284 injuries. The State is upset over these accidents for they are caused chiefly by the children themselves and not adult drivers. In most cases, where deaths have been involved, drivers were exonerated for it was proven that the child on the bike was at fault. The State is also attempting to reduce the number of bicycle accidents and has prepared a booklet entitled "Bike Quiz." This pamphlet contains a list of questions and answers that should be basic training for every child who rides a bike. There are definite sections of the state motor vehicle law pertaining to bicycles, one which states "no person shall ride a bicycle, tricycle or similar machine on a sidewalk." Another reads, "The rider of a bicycle shall not allow it to proceed in a street by inertia momentum, with his feet removed from the pedals, remove both hands from the handlebars while riding the bicycle, practice any trick or fancy riding in a street or carry another person upon the bicycle." Those sections of the law are flagrantly broken every day in Summit and other towns.

This paper, as a member of the New Jersey Press Association, has been cooperating with the State Highway Department in a safety program. We are more than pleased over the recent announcement of Summit police and city officials that this city will launch its own highway safety campaign program and that an important phase of it will be devoted to the proper handling of bicycles. We are of the opinion that safety begins at home and with the young; for that reason it is sound planning to have safety talks and films in our schools. Copies of the state's booklet, "Bike Quiz," should be made available to everyone riding a bike.

It is not fair to put the onus of a bicycle-car crash on the driver of the automobile when so often it is the fault of the child on the wheel. Not only are bikes a constant source of worry to motorists but they are a potential instrument of death in the hands of youthful, inexperienced and uninstructed riders.

No one will deny that bicycle riding is one of the joys of youth and is a healthful sport but it should be remembered that the bike riders of today are the automobile drivers of tomorrow. Observance of traffic regulations should begin when one is young.

For Men Only

Ever mindful of the time-honored obligation of a family newspaper to be helpful in the homely but vital crises of life that periodically confront subscribers and invade the routine of every household, we gallantly call to the attention of all men an article which is printed elsewhere in this issue on "how to carve a turkey."

The holiday season, beginning with Thanksgiving and continuing through New Year's, is one which sorely tries the male soul. The spirit of mischief is not completely quelled by joy and goodwill during the festive days approaching with the happy holidays come the family dinner and the dreaded turkey carving.

the fact that turkey eating, and that necessarily means turkey carving, is more or less confined to one brief period of the year. There is nothing more agonizing, we think, than to act the role of mine host (none too jovially) at a groaning table completely surrounded by kinfolk who take advantage of their relationship to hurl barbed remarks about the carver's ability with a knife. Much has been written about back-seat drivers but compared to the turkey dinner guest they are the very essence of politeness, patience and understanding.

The head of the house, capably serving his immediate family throughout the year, tends to become demoralized at the sight of a turkey. Perhaps this is because he is in the limelight. Critical eyes watch every move he makes and knowing glances are exchanged as he hones the blade in preparation for the first sweeping incision which is supposed to lay bare the bird's breast and result in a wafer-thin slice of white meat. But does it happen that way? Decidedly not. The sweeping stroke turns out to be a sawing motion; the breast suddenly sprouts bones which are anatomically impossible; dressing refuses to be dislodged and the grand moment turns into a farce for the carver.

It is never thus with professionals as the article and accompanying illustrations on "how to carve a turkey" will prove. We wondered why that was so and did a bit of journalistic prying. As we suspected, this master of the carving knife, this dashing bladesman, severs his drumsticks and wings, peels off his translucent slabs of white meat and gracefully scoops out his dressing without an audience. Even the photographer who chronicled the feat on film was made to hide behind a screen. The stage was set, the master entered as cool as a surgeon and departed without so much as a glob of gibberish on the vest. It was superb!

Unfortunately, the average man does not get any such consideration. He works under all sorts of obstacles. Every dish, glass and container on the table is piled around the turkey forcing him to either attack by standing on the chair and lunging downward or else sneaking upon the bird from an angle, skillfully working his way through a maze of goblets and candlesticks. The angle attack, also called the "unbalanced line" approach is said to have considerable merit and is especially recommended for small dining rooms.

If the carving article we print this week will save at least one man from ridicule or prevent him from losing his temper then a public service will have been performed.

Better Roads Needed

People know very little about American highways beyond the street and road on which they live. As long as they can drive to the store, office or station over a fairly good surface and reach the county seat or nearest large city by well-paved trunk line, they show little or no interest in the other roads of the nation.

New Jersey is noted for its excellent roads. It pioneered in "clover leaf" intersections, overhead highways, divided and multi-laned thoroughfares. Drivers in this state are spoiled by the magnificent roads and are apt to forget that the United States still has more than one million miles of rural roads lacking all-weather surfaces. They are unaware that some 95,000 miles of state-controlled highways are without all-weather surfaces, and that more than 75,000 miles of streets and alleys are without concrete, bituminous or macadam coating.

The reaction of the average citizen to information of this sort is typical of our national spirit. All right, if our roads are in such bad shape, then let's do something about it. How long will it take? How much will it cost?

A statement was recently made by the director of the American Road Builders' Association that it will cost more than $20 billion and will require 15 years to modernize the nation's system of streets and highways. Thus this authority on roads answers both of Mr. Average Citizen's questions.

In commenting editorially on the statement made by the road contractor, the New York Times notes the public's failure to realize the size of the highway program and urges that the tremendous undertaking be started as soon as materials are available.

"The problem falls into two parts," says the Times. "The nation needs now, wider and better through roads between cities and large towns; hundreds of miles of country roads need to be surfaced. The needs in both fields will require years to satisfy; both contribute to the welfare of the nation."

It is imperative that we repair our war-ravaged roads and build new ones, but action will come quicker and things move faster when the public realizes that it has an important economic stake in a well-paved United States.

Lock Car; Keep Keys

J. Edgar Hoover, who heads the FBI and usually knows what he is talking about, says automobile thefts have risen 165 per cent over the 1941 level, therefore he issues this sound advice: Close the windows, lock the car, and take the keys with you. Just as simple as that, and the car is safe and will be there when you return.

Mr. Hoover also says the careless owner not only makes trouble for himself and law-enforcement officials, but opens the way for automobile thieves to commit greater crimes. He points out that 17-year-old offenders lead those in all other age groups caught in such thefts.

LETTERS

Wants Hearing on Houses
 Editor, The Summit Herald:
 Enclosed is a copy of a letter sent to the Common Council which I hope you will be able to publish.

Very truly yours,
 EDWARD B. TWOMBLY

November 25, 1946
 The Common Council,
 City of Summit,
 New Jersey.

Gentlemen:
 It appears that the Common Council, arbitrarily and without public hearing, has offered a portion of the "Civic Centre" to the State for Veterans' housing and that the State has accepted the location on Broad street between Elm and Summit avenues surrounding the American Legion Home.

City officials have advised me that no ordinance or resolution of the Common Council, no notice to the public and no public hearing is required by law and that the Common Council has no intention of taking such steps and that the housing is to proceed forthwith without further action.

The plan of a "Civic Centre" was developed and a program of acquiring plots in the area was undertaken many years ago with the idea of eventually developing a beautiful park and public building lay-out in the center of Summit. This program the citizens of Summit approved after numerous public hearings and their money was spent from year to year toward the acquisition of these properties.

The house the American Legion now occupies was acquired in this connection and has been loaned to the Legion by the City from that time to this pending the consummation of the plan.

It can hardly be claimed that the proposed "housing" will be anything but unsightly. It must be recognized that stately irreplaceable trees will be lost, that the area will be torn up with sewer ditches and that unsightly "improvements" will materially deteriorate the section. It will be the worst kind of advertisement for the "City of Beautiful Homes." It will not attract people to Summit. It will be a constant reflection on the intelligence of the governing body. It will tend to destroy permanently the purpose for which the property was acquired. These barracks may (?) be temporary but the disfigurement may well be permanent and the original objective for which so much public money has been spent may be defeated.

By far the most serious objection to the location and one which I feel should be controlling is the danger of the location to children. The intersection of Summit avenue and Broad street is one of the very heavy traffic intersections and Broad street is the only "speed way" through the center of the City. Every mother's heart will be in her throat with children running free in that vicinity.

There are plenty of other City properties, far more appropriate for the purpose and much more acceptable to the Veteran and his family as a place to live. Certainly he does not want to live in a place, the occupancy of which is just tolerated and will be resented by a substantial body of citizens. Let us welcome the Veterans and their families to an appropriate area which they will enjoy and where they can have reasonable privacy and bring up their families with a feeling of security and even permanency. If the "Civic Centre" is used they will have no privacy, they will be living in a fish bowl in an unsafe location and they will know that Summit wants to get rid of their "houses" as soon as possible.

It is an unfortunate and ill conceived plan all around. Irrespective of the merits of the plan, there is something more serious fundamentally. Our chosen representatives have arrogated to themselves the right to misuse public property dedicated as a "Civic Centre" by the citizens of Summit, without public hearing and without official action by ordinance. They may be within their legal rights but they have certainly violated their moral obligations.

As one who had some small part in the development of the plans for a Civic Centre and the acquisition of the property in question, I protest these methods and this attitude of mind. Surely there is no direct responsibility to the people of Summit on the part of the Common Council. I respectfully urge that public hearings be held after appropriate notice and that the housing program be deferred until the citizens of Summit have been given an opportunity to be heard.

Respectfully yours,
 EDWARD B. TWOMBLY,

Against Housing Site
 Editor, The Summit Herald:
 The Summit Garden Club wishes to go on record as opposing the proposed location of the Veterans' Housing Project.

We feel very strongly that these housing units are both essential and necessary to the veterans who have served their country so well, and we are equally and enthusiastically in favor of this project.

We object to the proposed location, because we consider it unsuitable for families with children who would be in constant danger as the proposed site is situated on the main highway through our

Your Men In Washington

WASHINGTON—Senator Albert W. Hawkes has an eye on Washington these days, and it isn't focused on Congress.

He is waiting for the Federal Trade Commission to determine whether the Congoleum-Nairn Corporation, of which he is Chairman of the Board, has misrepresented the floor-covering it manufactures.

The FTC charges that Congoleum-Nairn has "falsely represented that its product is genuine inlaid linoleum."

In fact, says FTC, "this product cannot be properly designated as linoleum or inlaid linoleum." While the appearance resembles linoleum, FTC contends, the product actually has a felt backing instead of the standard burlap backing, and is "cheaper in price and inferior in quality and durability to genuine linoleum."

FTC also protests advertising by the firm which emphasizes the product's exceptional cushioning qualities. "It does not contain rubber in such substantial quantities, or thickness to afford appreciable cushioning qualities," FTC asserts.

Meanwhile, Congoleum-Nairn has categorically denied all charges of misrepresentation, and maintains that its product is genuine inlaid linoleum with commendable "underfoot comfort," or shock-absorbing qualities.

Miss Belle Leon, Rep. Clifford P. Case's No. 1 secretary, surprisingly reports that the Congressman has not received a single letter on the coal strike. Plenty of "reaction" is anticipated, however, if the strike begins rivaling in severity the 69-day coal walk-out earlier this year.

Case is vigorously urging the decontrol of all phases of the construction industry, but believes that rent controls should be maintained for the present.

"Unless this is done, the new Congress will be forced to step in," Case warns.

Rep. J. Parnell Thomas today sketched a six-point program which, he said, the new Congress should launch without delay.

The Allendale Republican called for:

1. New labor legislation.
2. "Drastic" reduction in the cost of operating non-defense government agencies.
3. Reduction of taxes.
4. Reduction of the national debt.
5. Expansion of program for the Committee on Un-American Activities (which Thomas is slated to head).
6. Return of rent controls and other "logical" functions to the states.

Elaborating on the first point, Thomas declared, "We must have better labor relations. This calls for a law not only fair to labor but to employers and the American public. Both labor and man-city—where the traffic is congested, noisy, and unsafe. And it is our opinion that the veterans deserve a less public place in which to live.

We wish to call attention also to the irreparable loss to the city which would result from the necessary removal of the beautiful trees on the property if this location is used.

Very truly yours,
 MARION O. BELL,
 Secretary.

Asks Good Judgment
 Editor, The Summit Herald:
 Enclosed is a copy of a letter I am sending to the Common Council. I would appreciate it if you will publish it in your next issue.

Thank you,
 J. W. BANCKER
 November 25, 1946
 To the Honorable Common Council:

I have heard of the proposed plan to have the barracks for our veterans located in the Civic Center and one argument I have heard for the decision is that they will be such an eyesore that the public will force their removal when the emergency is past.

Of course, this is a ridiculous argument if it is true because they will be an eyesore wherever located and should be removed as soon as practicable.

agement must be made to live up to their contract."

He said he would re-introduce his bill requiring unions to incorporate and to register with the Securities and Exchange Commission. Under this legislation, such union data as the names and compensation of officers, companies with which the union deals, dues, and number of members would be a matter of record. Unions not complying would not be entitled to benefits under the National Labor Relations Act. Benefits would also be denied if the union broke a contract or damaged company property.

Thomas emphasized the need to economize in government. "The government," he said, "is honey-combed with bureaucratic bunnies. Every non-defense agency is top-heavy with do-nothings. Whole departments can be consolidated in the interest of economy and efficiency."

In connection with this, he would combine all government public relations offices into one central office. "Literally thousands have been employed to dispense New Deal propaganda," Thomas charged. "I hope there will be a committee to investigate the dissemination of New Deal propaganda and the resulting wastage."

He added, "Unless we can decrease the cost of running the government, we cannot hope to reduce taxes."

DEATHS

Edwin Kempton
 Funeral services for Edwin Kempton, 69, who died on November 22, were held in the Burroughs Funeral Home, Springfield avenue, on Monday at 1 p. m., Rev. H. D. Hartmann of Central Church in charge. Burial was in Freehold.

Mr. Kempton was a lawyer, connected with the law department of the Title Guaranty and Trust Co., New York City.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lenore M. Kempton, of Springfield avenue, and a step-son, Robert Woods, of Ontario, Canada.

Hobson C. Scott
 Hobson C. Scott, 24, died at the Bronx Hospital Nov. 13, after a long illness. He was a graduate of Summit High School, class of 1942, where he was active in baseball and basketball; he was in the school band and orchestra and the Solo Club and was also in the All-State Orchestra and All-State Band.

Mr. Scott was in the South Pacific for three years, receiving wounds that necessitated the amputation of one arm. As a result of this he had an eye removed a month ago at the hospital where he died.

A military funeral service was held at Fountain Baptist Church on Monday, Nov. 18, with Rev. Caldwell officiating.

Surviving are his wife and two months old son, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Scott, and a brother, Spencer, all of Weaver street.

Walter S. Cullen
 Walter S. Cullen, 50, of 33 Elm street, died on Sunday morning at his home after a short illness. He had been in the photographic supplies business in New York, from which he retired 26 years ago.

Services were held in the Burroughs Funeral Home, Springfield avenue, on Tuesday at 2 p. m., Dr. Leonard V. Buschman of Central Church in charge.

Mr. Cullen is survived by three sisters, Mrs. S. C. G. Watkins, Miss Winifred V. Cullen of the Elm street address; Mrs. Frances L. Tomkins of Bermuda; Mrs. Beatrice M. Mills of Rosemont, Pa.; and a brother, William C. Cullen of Mendham.

Burial was in Fairmount Cemetery, Chatham.

Mrs. Martha A. Morris
 Private funeral services were held on Tuesday morning at the home for Mrs. Martha A. Morris of 89 Kent place boulevard. Mrs. Morris died Saturday afternoon. Burial was in Evergreen Cemetery, Brooklyn.

George Ellery Oakes
 George Ellery Oakes of 108 Morris avenue, died Tuesday morning, Nov. 26, at home. A service was conducted by the Rev. Neville Cutlip, pastor of Oakes Memorial Methodist Church, Wednesday afternoon, at E. P. Burroughs Son Funeral Home. Interment will be in East Tawas, Mich.

Mr. Oakes celebrated his 90th birthday on October 14. He was born in Maine in 1856, going with his parents at the age of five to the new territory in Minnesota. He traveled by train to St. Paul and from there by stagecoach. He later went to Detroit and became an expert in measuring, sealing, and estimating both standing and felled timber, traveling for lumber companies for 20 years. When the timber was cut over, he turned his attention to cabinetmaking. He came to Summit in 1917 to help build Oakes Memorial Church, of which his son, the late Rev. J. Adam Oakes was the pastor.

Via, two sons, Dr. E. A. Oakes, of Manistee, Mich., and Ora P. Oakes of Summit, with whom Mr. Oakes had made his home for the past six years; 13 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

The Devil Again
 No matter how I try to dodge him, the Jersey Devil continues to haunt me. Now the friend whom I have shared with you, Mrs. E. C. "Life Begins at Eighty" Westcott, of Pleasantville, insists that I am all wrong in declaring Leeds Point the birthplace of New Jersey's most famous ghost. However, before I give her an argument, suppose I pass on her letter, exactly as it came to me the other day.

"Dear Friend," Mrs. Westcott begins. "I have refrained from writing you because I know what a busy man you must be. I felt you hardly had time to read letters, let alone answer them—you see, I was a knight of the pen in the long ago: Eight papers, to be exact, even (writing) a murder that happened where I was living."

"This was in the Shaker Colony, deep in the heart of Florida—at Narcoosie, close to Kissimmee. A beautiful retired opera singer went to live with the Shakers. She had tuberculosis and none of her former friends knew where she was. Actually, she was in the middle of a 25,000-acre colony on beautiful Lake Alligator. She was there with those dear people and toward the last she suffered such terrible agonies that she begged them to chloroform her."

"This they did. They openly bought the drug and a coffin and drove through our town, St. Cloud, where my husband was serving the Methodist Church as pastor. Word spread through the community that Sister Reole had been put to sleep forever by the Shakers—and Brother Ezra and Sister Mandy were taken to the County Jail. This is another story so I won't tell you about the Indians."

Left Hanging
 And so Mrs. Westcott leaves the story in mid-air and I am compelled to express my hope and yours that some day we will have the other details. However, it is at this point that our correspondent reverts to a scene closer home and—the Jersey Devil.

"I must first tell you," she says, "that the Jersey Devil did not live in Leeds Point. He did not like salt water so he took to the swamps. He was born in Leedsville, now called Linwood—I even saw the house, a large brick structure where he first saw the light of day. I saw him and I was scared speechless. I know lots more about the Jersey Devil—but I must hurry along."

Provingly pausing in the middle all over again, Mrs. Westcott presents undeciphered bouquets for the things I try to record in this column, and then reveals among memories of Green's August Flower and how she knew a Mr. Steiner (kin of our Frank?) who as an engineer was offered a post in California. This Steiner, however, arrived on the West Coast some time after his family of ten children—they kept on going because the train departed while their father was at a way-station getting something to eat.

So much for the "prosecution." Now for the "defense." The Jersey Devil was first Leed's Devil—there seems to be no argument over that. It was Mrs. Sam Leyer who told me, not long before she died, that she had known of the Jersey Devil only as Leed's Devil when she was a young girl. Mrs. Leyer didn't say the birthplace was Leeds Point but that is where I came in. I was shown, you may remember, the very house in Leeds Point where they said with the greatest conviction, the downshore "wrath" was born.

This was a house, when it was occupied, in which a family whose name was said to be Shourds was reported to have lived. It was bramble-grown, haunted by more than imagination, and picturesquely suited to be all that my informants said it was. Now I'll revert to the statement that the Jersey Devil has been claimed by at least three towns and it is quite possible that the Linwood legend was extended to include Pleasantville—but I'm still wondering why three (or possibly four) Jersey villages claimed the dubious honor.

She Saw the Ghost
 Mrs. Westcott says she saw the ghost but she doesn't tell us what he, she, or it looked like. I would be the last to doubt the statement of a preacher's wife, even one who has an obvious flair for writing these long years after, but I do feel we ought to have a few more details. Although Mrs. Westcott's friends are upset because she has revealed herself to be an octogenarian, and although writing clearly tires her, I do hope she will tell us what there was about the Jersey Devil that was so frightening. It's no fun to go on missing by inches the people who, their friends say afterwards, actually met the ghost in which so many of my friends declare they never believed.

Only yesterday a letter came from George Henderson who said that two years ago a man arrived at the Lakeland Hospital with a startling story—and here the ears that tried to listen failed to hear all the answers. "His name," George says, "was Lester Leeds and he claimed that his father's mother was the mother who said, when her thirteenth child was on the way, that she wished it would be a devil. We couldn't get him to make any positive statements," George confides further, "and everything he said was qualified by 'I heard' or 'I think' or 'they say.' His home, however, was in Leeds Point and he had worked as a steward in an Atlantic City hotel."

So, whether I like it or not, I am back in Leeds Point again, with one of the Leedeses telling a fantastic family tale. "I'm sure," George concludes with restraint, "that you would have enjoyed talking with Lester." I know I would and so do you. But Lester, by now, is in the land of departed spirits where, unless he prefers a swamp or some contrasting North Jersey highland, the Jersey Devil truly must be.

Arrested for Drunken Driving Saturday

Jesse Wright of Summit avenue was arrested Saturday morning in Weaver street by Officers Henry McTernan and William Behre on a charge of drunken driving. The complaint was made by Frank Marino of Weaver street.

Wright was examined by City Physician Robert S. Milligan, who pronounced him unfit to operate a motor vehicle. He will be given a hearing on December 5.

VETERAN employee of the Manufacturers' Chemical Corp. is Carmine Rillo (above) of Cottage lane. One of the original employees of the firm, Mr. Rillo began work in November 1941 when the company moved its plant to Berkeley Heights. He is at present a mill operator in the cellulose acetate molding powder.

The New Jersey Taxpayers Association reports that the Federal Government has advanced over $500,000 to New Jersey local governments for preparing plans for the construction of 78 schools which would cost an estimated $23,000,000 if constructed.

Keep Rockets and A-Bomb Apart, Rotarians Told

"I do not like to mention the atomic bomb and the war rocket in the same breath; we have to keep them apart; and we should pray to God that we never see the day when they come together," was the concluding remarks of Col. Donald Hyde in his talk to Rotarians at their Monday luncheon. Col. Hyde had much to do with war rockets and war rocket powder, which played an important part in World War II. He spent one and a half years at the Sunflower Ordnance Plant in Kansas, which was only second to the Oak Ridge atomic project. He said the Sunflower installation contained 5,000 buildings, cost a quarter million dollars, which should interest taxpayers, but the expense was repaid in the lives saved. The plant, he said, was almost self-contained. He said there were 13,500 operators, mostly women, and that 150,000 pounds of rocket powder was turned out every 24 hours for two and one-half years.

Col. Hyde said that rockets are not new; that the Chinese have been credited with the invention of gunpowder in 1232 and then made rockets; gunpowder revolutionized warfare and rockets will do the same for the future. He also stated that the British had used rockets in the War of 1812 and that it was thought they were responsible for the burning of the White House and the Capitol in that war. Col. Hyde said the Germans were always far ahead of the Allies in the use of the rocket and remarked that it was a good thing the buzz-bomb was not used earlier in the war or the outcome might have been different. He said that the cry for more and more power from the fighting forces was responsible for the high development of the rocket bomb in the United States. Col. Hyde said that rocket bombs were first used in quantity at Saipan, when 10,000 were laid down on the target in three minutes. He said it would take 1,000 guns of field artillery to equal this. He said that many peacetime uses for rockets have been suggested and he doubted not but that many would come into use.

Col. Hyde lives at Cold Springs-on-the-Hudson with his wife and two children. He was introduced by Hugo Meyer.

Visitors were welcomed by Harold W. Christensen; J. A. Kysel, Karl Mould, David Doremus, Elmer Peterson, Hillside; James Louis, Huntington, L. I.; Romley Fell, Newark; Herbert P. Pearson, New York City; Albert Best of Plainfield, guest of his brother, Leonard Best, member of the Board of Education.

The speaker next week will be Charles Steel, whose subject will be: "Education Without Regimentation."

Money in circulation in the United States totals over $28,000,000,000, representing an average of over $200 for every man, woman and child in the nation, notes the New Jersey Taxpayers Association.

story of the Old Guard's organization and will relate some of his USO experiences. (The report of last Tuesday's meeting with that of the coming week, will be reported in the issue of December 5.—Ed.)

Women Veterans

That men's colleges hold no priorities on veteran students is evidenced by the fact that the New Jersey College for Women,

Rutgers University, has enrolled this year nine women veterans, six of whom were admitted this fall. Three of the group live on Douglas Campus, one on Jameson, and the others are Bees, non-resident students.

THANKSGIVING

Once more we turn back our thoughts to those Pilgrims in New England, so many years ago, who knelt with prayers of thanksgiving for the plenty that forest and soil had given to them, and for the victories they had won over adversity and misfortune.

With the world no longer at war, let us as free men, pause at this season to render thanks to the Supreme Being for the blessings of the bountiful harvest and the return of our sons and daughters from their victories over foe and nature.

However, let us not be unmindful that our task is never done and that we must rededicate ourselves with thankful hearts to carry on in the American way.

Boro's Vote Gets Pascoe Praise at GOP Club Dinner

BOROUGH—The Borough's total vote in the last election was one-third higher than ever before, declared Senator Herbert J. Pascoe at the Victory Dinner sponsored by the Regular Republican Club at the Pine Tree Inn, Berkeley Heights, on November 20. Union County, the senator added, turned in the heaviest Republican vote in the state.

Frank A. Pizzi, president of the club, presided at the dinner, which was attended by 125 persons. Leo Smith was chairman of the committee in charge and was assisted by Mr. Pizzi and G. Russell Vanderhoof, a member of the Republican County Committee.

Mrs. Helen M. Gieser, a member of the Republican State Committee, who was present at the dinner, said that the vote in Union County showed that women accounted for 60 per cent of it. She stressed the importance of the women's vote, and urged the borough women to continue an active interest in elections and the records made by office-holders.

Honor guests at the dinner included, Deputy Surrogate Frank D. Jacques, Republican County Chairman Warren N. Gaffney, County Clerk Henry Nulton, Congressman Clifford Case, Assemblyman Joseph Brescher and Deputy County Clerk Grover Tranoor.

Members of the Borough Council present were Mayor John W. Oakwood, Mayor-elect Ellsworth Hansell, Fred Lorents, William Cunningham and Robert Badgley.

Following the dinner an orchestra played for dancing.

At one time, 5,000,000 birds were killed annually in the United States for use on women's hats.

Spend Holiday in Trenton

BOROUGH—Rev. and Mrs. Frank C. Roppelt, of the Reformed Episcopal Church, are spending Thanksgiving Day with Mr. Roppelt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Roppelt, of Trenton.

Leaders Named For Paca Club's Annual Yule Party

BOROUGH—Cosimo Cordillo, President of the Paca Club of New Providence Borough has announced the appointment of Larry Messace and Irene De Marco as Chairmen of the annual Christmas Party. The Paca Club has made this affair an annual event in the Borough, and this year are making plans to hold the same on the evening of December 20 at the Lincoln School auditorium.

It is planned as in past years to invite Santa Claus for the distribution of gifts to every child present and in addition music and entertainment will be furnished.

This party is provided annually by the Paca Club at its expense, and any resident of the Borough of New Providence is invited to attend. The committee will make a more detailed announcement in the near future.

Methodist WSCS To Study 'Africa'

BOROUGH—The Women's Society for Christian Service of the New Providence Methodist Church will meet Wednesday, Dec. 4, at the home of Mrs. Richard Marsh, Springfield avenue. Missionary sewing will begin at 10:30 a. m., followed by a box luncheon and coffee at noon. A study hour from 2 to 3 will be in charge of Mrs. L. V. Cousins, who will continue the discussion of the book "Africa."

Firemen "B" Get Three; Osborn and Totten to Fore

BOROUGH—Firemen "B" had the distinction of being the only team in the Borough Bowling League at its tenth session, November 20, on the H.Y-Way Bowl alleys in Union to sweep three matches, taking Firemen "C." All other matches were decided on a two out of three basis, the Junior Order prevailing in this manner over Firemen "A," the league leading M & M over the Men's Club and the B & L Association over the Five Aces.

High series for the night went to W. Totten of the Junior Order who had a gross 521. L. Osborn, also of the Junior Order, gained individual high game honors with a 210.

Beginning with this issue of the Herald all bowling scores are being published under a standing head in the sports section under the head "Scores of Local Bowling Leagues."

The tea was in honor of Miss Horton's forthcoming marriage to James McGrady of Berwyn, Pa., on November 30. Guests included a number of Miss Horton's high school and college classmates. Guests also included Miss Horton's mother, Mrs. Chauncey Horton; her aunt, Mrs. Elmer High, and her grandmother, Mrs. George Fleming.

Boro Ratables Vary Slightly Over 9-Yr. Span

BOROUGH—Though they conformed to an upward trend, the borough's net valuation of taxable property has varied slightly since 1937, according to statistics released November 20 by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association. In 1937 the borough's net valuation taxable was $2,358,979; last year, $2,560,860 and this year, $2,568,370.

Also reading from the same report it is noted that the borough's gross debt was $221,600 in 1937 as compared to last year's figure of $171,000. In 1937, the net debt was $191,600 while last year's figure was $171,000.

Based upon a population of 2,374 according to the 1940 census, the borough's per capita net debt in 1937 was $81 as against last year's figure of $72. As to total budget appropriations, $147,044 was the borough's total expended last year with $169,414 being appropriated this year. Actual operating costs for the borough in 1937 were $27,438 against last year's actual $42,736 and this year's budget figure of $60,804. In 1937, the borough's tax rate was $4.91, last year $4.92 and this year, $5.44.

Boro Legion to Learn of GI Rights, Dec. 5

BOROUGH—The New Providence American Legion Post, No. 431, will hold a meeting next Thursday evening at the Borough Fire House. It is expected that a membership committee will be appointed. Temporary Chairman Frank A. Pratt will discuss rights and benefits accruing to veterans and their families under the GI Bill of Rights. He will be assisted by a number of World War I veterans. A general invitation has been extended all veterans of both wars to attend this meeting and become affiliated with the post if they have not already done so.

Summon 21 Dog Owners to Be Heard Dec. 3

BOROUGH—Twenty dog owners, including two from Summit and two from Berkeley Heights, have been summoned to appear December 3, before Police Recorder A. C. Hoffman to answer charges of allowing their dogs to run at large in violation of the State quarantine and the proclamation issued by Mayor John W. Oakwood.

State Inspector Bollmuth, O'Brien, and Trully told Councilman Herbert Taylor that they did not find any conditions here to warrant charges made recently by Mrs. Raymond Howard and other residents in West End that the dog quarantine was not being enforced. The inspectors said that in four days by "fine tooth combing the borough," they were only able to find 21 dogs out of the more than 200 licensed dogs running at large. The inspector also told Councilman Taylor that the dog catcher was "doing a good job" and that conditions in "West End" were better than anywhere else in the borough judged by the fact that no summonses were issued there.

On Monday the inspectors followed the school bus through the West End and found no dogs following the children as had been charged.

Sam Jones Gets Football Numerals

BOROUGH—Samuel E. Jones, Jr., formerly of Mountain avenue, recently received numerals for his work during the football season as assistant manager for the University of Maine Black Bears. He is the son of former School Commissioner Jones and Mrs. Jones. A member of the freshman class, he is a student in the college of arts and sciences. Jones prepared for college at Summit High School after which he was on a tour of duty with the Army.

Discussion Group Studies Budget

BOROUGH—Councilman and Mayor-elect E. R. Hansell discussed municipal budget problems Monday night at a meeting of the Discussion Group, the borough branch of the Summit League of Women Voters. The meeting was held at Borough Hall with Mrs. D. B. Ryerson as chairman. Mr. Hansell is the present finance chairman of Borough Council. The meeting was open to the public.

"My how it grows!" says the New Jersey Taxpayers Association, pointing out that the cost of running the National government has risen from $2.03 per person in 1800, to $6.85 in 1900, and to $417 per person today.

Prepare for Winter Driving, Magee Warns

With hazardous winter driving in the offing, Motor Vehicle Commissioner Arthur W. Magee today urged car owners and truck fleet operators to get their vehicles in shape for the wintry days ahead.

"Careful check should be made," said the Commissioner, "of brakes, tire chains, windshield wipers, defrosters, headlights and even the exhaust. "Some of these winter safety necessities should be checked even by fortunate owners of new cars if they would avoid a smash-up or being stalled. On the thousands of over-age cars still in use, it is imperative that sincere attention be given to these safety features."

Drivers themselves, Mr. Magee added, can help reduce accidents by adhering to these simple rules: Adjust speed to conditions; maintain visibility at all times; slow down well in advance of intersections and curves; follow other vehicles at safe distances; signal intentions of turning or stopping.

The Commissioner also reminded pedestrians that they, too, should practice individual caution while walking or crossing the streets during dangerous weather and road conditions.

Where to America? Conference Theme At Junior College

Second annual conference on international affairs by the Union County student forum will be held at Union Junior College here on December 12. Twelve Union County high schools are represented in the forum, with Jerry Gottesman, Hillside High, as chairman.

The program will follow last year's pattern of panel discussions in the morning, luncheon and a prominent speaker in the afternoon. U. S. Senator H. Alexander Smith has been invited. The Student Council of Union Junior College is host.

"Which Way America?" will be the theme of this year's conference. Faculty advisers will include Joseph Battaglia, Regional High School, Springfield; Louis N. Paziensa, Thomas Jefferson High, Elizabeth, and Richard Keller, Scotch Plains High.

Fidelity Union Serves 19,000 Customers a Day

The scope of the service rendered its customers by the Fidelity Union Trust Co., Newark, is indicated in a survey recently completed by the bank. This survey, it was stated at the offices of Fidelity Union on November 16, showed that more than 19,000 customers are served by the bank on an average active business day.

The concern, which is New Jersey's largest banking institution, maintains 11 offices in Newark and East Orange. Actual count on a recent average day—not a peak day—showed 19,300 customers from all parts of Newark and its suburbs entering the doors of the bank's eleven offices. In the busiest hours tellers were serving customers at the rate of one person per minute.

NEW PROVIDENCE Township

Ratables Increase In Township Over 9-Year Span

TOWNSHIP — The net valuation of taxable property in New Providence Township is higher this year than it was in 1937, according to statistics released November 20 by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association. This follows a trend throughout Union County. President Walter J. Margetta Jr. said, "The information is of special importance this year to all taxpayers as our governments complete their transition from war to peacetime conditions."

In each of the county's 21 municipalities, the net debt fell between 1937 and 1945, the report shows. In only one, New Providence Township, the gross debt climbed. This township's gross debt in 1937, according to the report, was $96,500 and in 1945 it totaled $288,181. In 1937, the township's net debt was $80,000 and in 1945 it had dropped to $76,379. This reduction in indebtedness left each municipality with a lower per capita net debt. New Providence Township coming third with $35. This municipality was low in 1937 with a per capita debt of $38. Of its 1945 budget appropriations the township expended $131,278. For this year it appropriated $192,910. Township operating costs in 1937 were $22,216, in 1945 they were $37,304 and as provided in this year's budget, $65,600.

New Providence Township is only one of three municipalities listed in the report as having a lower tax rate this year than in 1937. In 1937 the rate was $5.27 whereas this year it is $3.95 as against last year's $3.48.

In 1937, the net valuation of taxables here was $1,217,936; this year the figure is $3,428,193, and last year it was $3,352,872.

Berkeley Heights Man Felled by Car, Hurt

TOWNSHIP—Edward Hall, 41 years old, of Schneider avenue, Berkeley Heights, suffered a fracture of the right leg at 11:30 p. m. November 20, when he was struck by a car in Shunpike road, Springfield. Springfield police report that Hall stated he was fixing the carburetor of a truck and was standing in the roadway when struck by a car driven by Harris S. Fraker of Madison. Fraker took the victim to Overlook Hospital, Summit, where Hall was treated. Hall refused admission to the hospital and was driven away in a taxi, police said. Hall was driving for Donald Pyle of Valley road, Stirling, police report.

School Reopens Monday

TOWNSHIP—Township schools will reopen Monday after being closed since Wednesday for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Rutgers Coach to Speak at Boosters Club Sports Dance

TOWNSHIP—The Boosters Club of Regional High is sponsoring a sports dance to be held at the school Thanksgiving night. Head Coach Harvey Harman of Rutgers University will be the principal speaker. On the same night awards will be presented senior lettermen.

The Regional football team, which was undefeated this year, were guests Saturday of Rutgers at the Rutgers-Bucknell football game at New Brunswick.

The Boosters Club, which now has 317 members, will hold its next meeting December 2 at 8 p. m. at the school.

Most of the club are planning a trek to Rahway for the school's final game of the year.

On December 16, many members of the club have made plans to attend the Regional High sports dinner-dance to be held at the Chiam-Chateau in Route 29, Mountaineide.

Regional Boy Visits Columbia University

TOWNSHIP — Henry Markant of Berkeley Heights, who topped the Honor Roll at Regional High for senior during the first marking period, was one of two students from the school chosen to participate in the Suburban Schoolboy Day at Columbia University.

Delaware originally was known as Cape de la Warr, in honor of Lord de la Warr, governor of Virginia.

Teams Retain Positions in Bowling Loop

TOWNSHIP—The race in the Berkeley Heights Bowling League tightened after play on the evening of November 20 on the Mountaineide Inn alleys in Route 29. At the same time all teams retained their same positions.

Third place Berkeley Barbers defeated the second place Pine Tree Inn two out of three. The first place Berkeley A. C. held comfortably to their position by taking Debia two out of three.

The Berkeley Heights Fire Co. had an easy time taking three from Bryan's Garage. Ianello's Dairy bested the Berkeley Garage in two out of three.

Angus Spiller of Berkeley A. C. moved into second place for three game series with a gross of 548.

Beginning with this issue of the Herald all scores of this league will be published in the sport's section.

Wojtech-Kendrick Vows Taken on West Coast

TOWNSHIP — Miss Pauline Joyce Kendrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Kendrick of Olympia, Wash., and Wilbur Martin Wojtech, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wojtech of Berkeley Heights, were married Saturday, November 9 at St. Michael's Church, Olympia. Rev. Richard Queen performed the double ring ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents, after which the couple went on a wedding trip for two weeks to Vancouver, B. C. They are living in Olympia.

The bride is a graduate of Olympia High School. Mr. Wojtech served in the Navy for two years before his discharge last June.

County Field Army To Hold Institute On Cancer Dec. 3

The Field Army of the Union County Chapter of the American Cancer Society will hold an Institute on Tuesday, Dec. 3, at the Second Presbyterian Church, 1161 East Jersey street, Elizabeth.

The meeting will begin with registration at 9:45 a. m. and will adjourn at 2:45 p. m.

The topic of the day will be "Cancer" the Problem, the Cure, the Attack, the Need."

The program will be carried by four main speakers:

Mrs. A. Haines Lippincott, State Commander of the Field Army, New Jersey Division of the American Cancer Society, will speak on the services of the Field Army. Dr. Isabel Knowlton, Associate Director of the Strang Cancer Prevention Clinic, New York City, will speak on the significance of the diagnostic clinic; Dr. William O. Wuester, Director of the Green Memorial Tumor Clinic, Elizabeth, and chairman of the Advisory Committee on Cancer Control of the New Jersey Medical Society, will speak on "New Jersey Looks Ahead in Cancer Control;" H. F. Fish, Director of School Education of the American Cancer Society, national office, will speak on "Cancer Education in the Schools."

Luncheon will be served at 12:15 through the courtesy of the church women.

Reservations should be made with Mrs. Robert Kirkpatrick, 297 Ryan street, Hillside, captain of the Hillside Chapter and chairman of the luncheon committee, or reservations may be made by calling Miss Helen G. Colgan, Executive Secretary of the Union County Chapter, El 3-5000, Ext. 131.

The following committee is assisting Mrs. O. D. Griffin of Westfield, who is commander of the Field Army, in planning the Institute: Mrs. Elton P. Kramer, Westfield captain, chairman of the program committee; Mrs. Joseph W. Costello, Rahway captain, chairman of surgical dressings display and discussion; Mrs. Leon Watson, Linden captain, chairman of literature display and distribution; Mrs. Robert Kirkpatrick, chairman of luncheon committee, assisted by Mrs. Frank R. Warner, of the Linden Field Army; Mrs. Herman J.

Steffens, Garwood captain, chairman of registration.

The public is invited, and attendance of anyone interested is urged.

In speaking of the purpose of the Institute, Mrs. Griffin said, "The problem of cancer is a community challenge. Union County lost over five hundred of its citizens last year through the disease. Cancer has taken more children than polio. Fight cancer with knowledge, by attending the Field Army Institute."

Mrs. Bjornulf Johnson of Madison avenue is the Field Army Captain for Summit, from whom information may be obtained. Su. 6-0384.

"Ours is a Big Family ... and Growing!"

Today, some 22,000 men and women, among them friends and neighbors of yours, make up the telephone family that serves New Jersey. They are operators, linemen, installers, engineers, business office people and other specialists who do the 200 different kinds of work necessary to give you good telephone service.

That's double the number of people we had in 1939—and 7,000 more than just a year ago.

Our family is growing, keeping pace with our enlargement program—the completion of new telephone buildings, new switchboards, new cables—all the things necessary to provide telephones for those still waiting and better service for everyone.

Summit Elks Launch Army Recruit Drive

Summit Lodge 1248, BPOE, will launch an all-out effort to spur Army recruiting, according to Fred

Ribback, exalted ruler of the lodge, who this week disclosed receipt of a letter appealing for Elk help from Brig. Gen. B. M. Fitch, Army recruiting chief. A committee from the local lodge, under the direction of Joseph Zeigler, veterans' service committee, will conduct a campaign here.

The Elks embarked upon their current Army recruiting drive at their 82nd national convention held in New York City early in July following an appeal by the then chief of Military Personnel Procurement based on the outstanding record made by the Elks during wartime in securing volunteers for the Seabees, Air Cadets, Army Engineers and Veterans' Administration nurses. Under its present program the order has pledged itself to secure the enlistment of one Army volunteer per month for each 100 of its 835,000 members.

Yellow color in beef fat is due to the presence of carotene, an important source of Vitamin A.

Don't Mangle That Turkey! Here's Expert Carving Hint

If you would carve that turkey to conform with all the efforts that mother has put into it in bringing this Thanksgiving offering to the table with that bright golden brown hue, then you should listen to the advice of Petter Kristoffersen, a famous Norwegian cook.

Petter, who has served one of the biggest Norwegian lines as chief steward for more than 18 years, is a graduate of the world-renowned Oslo Cooking School. His cuisine has pleased the appetites of thousands of American boys on the battlefield during the last war, as well as John Q. Citizen who traveled on some of the Scandinavian countries' best liners.

After the turkey, goose, duck, or even chicken has been put in front of the carver, dressing should be removed into a separate container or dish. The carver should then make doubly sure that the knife he uses is just as sharp as a razor, for half-dull knives sometimes undo the mouth-watering effect in short order. After the sharpness of the blade has been ascertained, the left hand should grip firmly the gobble's right leg. The knife blade should then be drawn between the hip and the body in an easy slow movement so that it cuts clean through to the bone right breast should be cut. A long sweeping stroke produces cleanly cut, thin slices. The knife's edge should be held away from the carver. The stroke should start at the leg and wing points and continue toward the breast bone. After the first side of the bird has been cleaned to the bone, the same procedure should be followed with the remaining portion, keeping in mind, however, that during the cutting of the second half, that pressure should be exerted with a downward motion with the left hand in order to prevent the stripped side from slipping on the board or platter.

Servings from this point on can be made to suit the individual's taste or the number of servings. The hip of the first leg should then be sliced very thinly, if you would distribute both kinds of meat evenly. Individual service from this point on is comparatively easy.

While there are several schools of thought as to how any fowl should be cut after cooking, the method described by the famous chef is simple, comprehensive, and guaranteed to help either father or the carver stay in the good graces of mother for at least the balance of the Thanksgiving Day.

Franklin PTA Bridge Makes Budget Needs

Mrs. Webster VanWinkle in reporting to the Franklin School PTA Executive Board on the desert bridge held by the PTA on Friday, Nov. 15, said the bridge was so successful, that in addition to meeting the budget requirements, a surplus was realized. It was decided that additional books for the school library would be purchased with part of these funds.

Myron Whitney, president of the PTA, congratulated Mrs. VanWinkle and the members of her committee, Mrs. Bernard Biggs, Mrs. Raymond Cabrera, Mrs. Charles Mallinckrodt, Mrs. Charles Mixon, Mrs. Stephen Ransom and Mrs. Edward Wagenhals. Letters of acknowledgment have been sent to Summit merchants and friends who donated the many door prizes for the bridge.

Summit Girl Scouts Making Christmas Gifts

Samples of Christmas gifts to be made by the Girl Scouts were shown at the monthly meeting of the Leaders' Club. Mrs. F. D. Leamer, new leader of Troop 27, has taught her Brownies how to model and bake clay ash trays and bowls. Other troops will make cuddle toys, cloth animals and stocking dolls.

Troop 15, Mrs. D. S. Loudon, leader, assisted by Mrs. W. W. Hoge, is working on toys for the Children's Country Home at Westfield. Some of the other troops are making gifts for the Summit Home for Children.

Mrs. H. L. Slack and Mrs. C. H. Baker have taken over the leaderless Brownie Troop No. 24, fourth grade Brownies at Brayton School and a new Brownie Troop has been formed for the third grade girls of Brayton School. Mrs. D. E. Sulouff and Mrs. Charles P. Hutterer are the leaders. The troop will hold its meetings at the Field House.

All new leaders are taking the current Leadership Course which will be terminated Dec. 5, with a movie shown at YMCA.

The Girl Scouts of Troop 13, under the leadership of Mrs. J. N. Gelson, presented an original radio production Sunday, Nov. 24, at 7 p. m. over station WAAT, Newark. The play depicted a regular troop meeting with speaking parts given to Frances Duffy, Margaret McTernan, Patty Flynn, Patty Mullen, Mary Scherzer, Eileen Traynor and Catherine Chrysler.

Service League to Hear
May Lambertson Becker

May Lambertson Becker, editor and critic, will speak to the members of the Summit Junior Service League Wednesday, Dec. 4, on "The New Books."

Mrs. Becker has for many years conducted the "Reader's Guide" for The Weekly Book Review. She has been called "a reference librarian at-large" and one who "keeps more facts in her head than any woman alive." Her interest in books began at an early age when she amazed and delighted her high school teachers by her avid enjoyment of study, and she has amazed and delighted a large part of the literate American public ever since by her pungent comments and her intimate, personal style. An internationally-known lecturer on contemporary literature, she has also been editor of St. Nicholas, and book-editor of American Girl, Youth's Companion, and Scholastic. Among her books are Adventures in Reading, and introducing Charles Dickens. In 1940 Mrs. Becker contributed the full royalties from the latter volume to the purchase of an ambulance which was sent to London for war relief work.

The League will meet at the home of Mrs. H. O. Pattison, Jr., 120 Hobart avenue at 3 o'clock. Mrs. G. M. Stevenson and Mrs. R. J. Cabrera are in charge of tea arrangements.

PROSPECTIVE BRIDE—Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Pryce of Farmly place have announced the engagement of their daughter, Charlotte, to William F. Leonard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Leonard of Perth Amboy. Miss Pryce, a graduate of Summit High School, is employed by the Bell Telephone Co. Mr. Leonard attended the Perth Amboy high school before his enlistment in the Army. After three years in the service, 26 months of which were spent in the South West Pacific, he has been honorably discharged.

Summit Woman Has Lead
In Stevens Dramatic Play

Miss Patricia Kasakove has been chosen for the feminine lead, "Clara Wilson," in the coming production of "Petticoat Fever," of the Stevens Tech Dramatic Society in Hoboken.

This is the second play in which Miss Kasakove has participated in for Stevens Dramatic Society. She had a leading role in the spring production, "A Murder Has Been Arranged." Her acting includes a few high school plays. Miss Kasakove is attending the Julliard School of Music in New York, where she is studying music and voice. The play will run three consecutive nights for the public in December.

Miss Kasakove is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Kasakove of Canoe Brook parkway and a former member of The Summit Herald staff.

Odd Fellows Deputy

The maid of honor will be the bride-elect's sister, Miss Phyllis Martin. Bridesmaids will be the Misses Marie Stemmler and Jean Nelson, sister of the prospective groom. Best man will be James Nelson, brother of the bridegroom. Austin Carney and Roger Johnson, cousin of the bride-elect, will usher.

Sunshine Group to Hold
Sale at Manser Store

After a quarter of a century members of the Universal Sunshine Society of Summit find materials so scarce that they are holding only an apron sale this year in place of their usual miscellaneous Christmas bazaar at the Y.M.C.A. The Manser hardware store will allow the society to use one of their tables for the sale which will take place Friday, December 6, at 8:30 a. m., remaining open until the stock is sold.

Proceeds are used for charitable work in Summit which includes providing such needs as milk, coal, eyeglasses, etc., and paying rent for unfortunate families.

Mrs. Lynn C. Dundon is president of the society.

Couples Club Will See Exhibition Dance

An exhibition dance by Don Carlos and Wanda Sons will be the main feature of a social evening planned by the Couples Club of Central Presbyterian Church for Friday, Dec. 6. Mr. and Mrs. Sons have taught in South America and will demonstrate some dances which originated in that country.

The party will be held at the parish house at 8:30, and refreshments will be served by a committee consisting of Mrs. Robert Dunsmore, Mrs. Ted Clough, Mrs. Alfred Gast, Mrs. Milton Mohr, Mrs. Merle Rigterink, Mrs. Ralph Lundry, Mrs. Layton Hall, and Mrs. Robert Marshall. James Hayes and Grant Lavery will take care of the lighting.

Mt. Holyoke Alumnae Plan Pre-College Tea

The executive board of the Mount Holyoke Alumnae Club of New Jersey held a meeting on Monday evening, Nov. 18, at the home of the president, Mrs. A. M. Capen, Old Salem road, West Orange. Miss Margaret Thorp of Woodland avenue was among the members present.

The group planned the pre-college tea to be held Saturday afternoon, Jan. 4, 1947, at the Glen Ridge Women's Club when a speaker from the college will show college movies and several Mount Holyoke students will explain college activities and answer questions. Upperclassmen from all high schools and private schools in Northern New Jersey who are interested in attending Mount Holyoke College will be invited.

Playhouse Production Benefits United Campaign December 9-10

The Playhouse Association will open its 29th season on Monday evening, Dec. 2, with the production of "My Sister Eileen." The curtain will rise promptly at 8 p. m., a time honored tradition of the Playhouse. After a full week's run for members and guests, two extra performances will be given to benefit the United Campaign. These will be given Monday and Tuesday nights, Dec. 9 and 10. The public is urged to purchase tickets for the benefits at the United Campaign Headquarters, 332 Springfield avenue.

A few interesting facts about the members of the cast follow: Jack Pyle, who plays Mr. Apopulous, needs no introduction to Playhouse audiences. Among the plays in which he has had parts are "The Late Christopher Bean," "Return of Peter Grimm," "Watch on the Rhine," "Penny Wise," "Seventh Heaven," and many others.

Ruth Sherwood will be played by Polly Kitching. Miss Kitching was active in dramatics at Kent Place and studied at Margaret Webster Junior College in Washington, D.C. She has appeared in "Night of Jan. 19th," "Stage Door" and "Escape" at the Playhouse, and helped with backstage work.

"Eileen" will be played by Peggy Field who was seen in "Stage Door" last year. Miss Field majored in dramatics at Cedarcrest College in Allentown, Pa. and worked with little theater groups in Allentown and Bethlehem.

Bill Yager will take the part of Jensen, the janitor. Mr. Yager has done back-stage work and appeared in "The Night of Jan. 16."

Lonigan, the cop, will be played by James Downey, a newcomer to the Playhouse. Has "Wreck" Role Another newcomer is Tom LaRue who plays "The Wreck." Mr. LaRue studied at the University of Southern California and was recently discharged with the rank of captain from the Army. He has played in the last few years. In the current production Mr. Daniels will be seen as Chic Clark. Among his other plays were "Laburnum Grove," "Penny Wise," "The Night of Jan. 16" and "Escape."

Had Radio Experience
Dorothy Griffin will make her Playhouse debut in the role of "Violet." Mrs. Griffin studied at the University of Cincinnati and directed and acted in the University Radio Shows. She also did some little theater work in Radburn. Her husband, who will also make his bow to Playhouse audiences in the role of the Consul, served in the Navy for two and one-half years in the Pacific theater and was discharged recently as a Lt. (j.g.). Upon moving to Summit last January he became associated with Richard Moser in the practice of law.

The part of Mrs. Wade will be played by Jessie Book. Mrs. Book has appeared many times on the Playhouse stage, among the plays being "The Post Road," "Watch on the Rhine," "Defense," "As Husbands Go" and others.

Fred Braun is another newcomer who will play the role of Robert Baker.

Walter Sherwood, the girl's father, will be played by John Summerby. Mr. Summerby appeared on the Playhouse stage for the first time last year in "Seventh Heaven."

Ogden Gensemer also appeared for the first time in "Seventh Heaven" and will have the part of the Cossack.

Zita Scarry will play the role of the prospective Tenant. Miss Scarry was in the Waves for fifteen months as a Specialist (S), serving at Hunter College, training recruits. Miss Scarry has been seen at the Playhouse in "Personal Appearance," "Lilium," "Night of Jan 16th" and others.

Taking part in the Brazilian Navy will be Neill Wade, Oliver Barton, Bill Gilson, Leonard Briggs, Sam Dawson and Dick Norton. All are newcomers with the exception of Mr. Wade who done back-stage work and appeared in "Stage Door" and "Laburnum Grove."

Sally Turgeon, Darry Turgeon and Jeff Daniels, the junior actors in this production, will be, in future years, the star performers of the Playhouse.

Coach Cornog Eyeing 21st SHS Basketball Season

Drills Start Dec. 2 for 17-Game Cage Schedule

Veteran Coach Elwood C. Cornog will start his 21st season as pilot of Summit High's basketball team on December 2 when workouts will start in earnest for a stiff 17-game schedule. The team will open the campaign on December 13, meeting Westfield on the latter's court.

YMCA Swimming Awards Listed For Boys' Group

Recent announcement of 21 swimming awards to members of the Boys' Division of the Summit Y. M. C. A. was made by swimming coach, Stanley Brown. The boys receiving the awards have participated in the regular class work of the Y's program which will be continued through the fall and winter.

In the Minnow group those who have learned to swim and can meet the 21 requirements are:

John McKy, Salvatore Rosa, Edward Dowling, George Hand, Robert Tuzik, Joseph McNamara, Peter Van Iderstine, Ian Struthers, Teddy Whitney, Paul Kuchta, Richard Burke.

Those swimming in the Fish Club, which requires one-hundred-yard swim, learning to dive and tread water are:

Richard Van Cleave, Donald Davidson, Robert Aldrich, Joseph McNamara, William Graban, Thomas Raskowski, Stephen Edds, Grant Webster.

Two boys met the requirements of the Flying Fish Club in swimming 220 yards free style, swimming 15 yards under water and demonstrating a knowledge of fancy diving. They are Charles Martin and Thomas Raskowski.

Last years Summit quintet had a mark of ten wins against seven losses coming in behind Verona and Glen Ridge who were tied for the Suburban Conference championship. Summit had six wins and four losses in conference competition.

Three important members of last years varsity will be among the missing when the Maroon and White courtmen open practice. They include Johnny Clark, stocky forward; Larry Luce, lanky center, and Frank Donio, diminutive guard.

Three of this years football varsity made up last year's varsity quintet; Dave Kietzman, Cosimo Pedicini and Harold Cottrell. Other of last year's first stringers who will return include Roger Pott and Herbert Sorensen. Three other members of this year's football squad also count in Cornog's plans for basketball: Anthony Bozo, Don Guida (now on the injured list from football), Red Felckert and John Fimia. Another probable court starter is Lindquist.

As usual, the Suburban Conference stands out on the Summit court slate.

Packed Galleries See Community Loop Openers

Packed galleries watched the Community League basketball season get off their opening games Monday and Thursday nights of last week at the high school gym. In Monday's inaugurations, the American Legion trounced the Crusaders, 28-4, while the Shamrocks were inundated by Geddis Service Station, 41-15. Thursday night, Ciba took the measure of Balish Beverage, 27-18, as Eastern Fuel fell victim to Lincoln Y, 35-19.

Receives Football Numerals in Maine

William Linton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold E. Linton of Oak Ridge avenue, has been awarded numerals for participation in football on the Junior Varsity "A" squad at the University of Maine. The numerals were given at a recent ceremony, by Ted Curtis, faculty manager of athletics. There were 128 who were awarded numerals for participation in football and cross country track this Fall.

Mr. Linton is a freshman in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Samuel Heads Novices in Table Tennis

Leading the entrants in the novice division of the Table Tennis Tournament sponsored by the Summit Y. M. C. A. is Bruce Samuel while Garrett Story and Al Hamway are shaping up well in workouts in the Y. M. C. A. Bill Behre, former city champion, is displaying his old time style and more than likely will be the man who is most likely to upset Alan Weaver, pro-tourney favorite.

Carl Ennis, chairman of the tournament committee, announces that although entries for Summit's first post-war table tennis tournament are slow in being submitted, the tournament will display the most capable players in the Summit area. Entries will be accepted up to and including Tuesday, December 3, and the tournament will commence one week from that date. Entry blanks are obtainable at the Summit Y. M. C. A. At the present time attempts are being made to have tournament-regulation tables and the best lighting available for all contests. All matches will be played in accordance with the U. S. Table Tennis Association rules.

Legion Gains Another, Balish Has First Win

Balish Beverage broke into the win column Monday night in the Community Basketball League by trouncing the Crusaders, 35-17. Frank Paul, giant Balish center, put the squash on the Crusaders with eight goals to register the highest individual score of the season. A fourth period spurge by the Shamrocks in the nightcap fell short and the Legion coasted through on an early game build-up to win going away, 21-17.

Summit Booters Lose to Harrison

Summit Soccer Club dropped a 4-0 decision Sunday afternoon on Memorial Field to Harrison Pleasure Club. The score at the half was 1-0. Only brilliant defense work by goalie Bob Schlichting and Fullback Stan Frankowski kept the game from being a rout. Giordano, Nichols, Gregory and Starr scored for the victors.

Millburn Routs Summit, 34-0, Takes Loop Lead

Capitalizing on two fumbled kick-offs, Millburn High pushed over three quick touchdowns in the second period and went to wallop Summit High, 34-0, Saturday before 4,000 chilled fans on the Millburn field. The triumph, ending Summit's grid season, put the Millers into first place in the Suburban Conference. They need only tumble Madison on Thanksgiving to clinch the crown.

Operating behind a stalwart forward wall that held the Summit offensive to a minus 20 yards rushing, plus two pass completions that netted only six yards, the Millburn offense ground out five touchdowns with Ed Miller sparking the attack.

After a scoreless first period the Millers scored early in the second period with Miller going for the score after picking up the necessary 28 yards in three plays. Miller then flipped a pass to Bill Franke for the seventh point.

Pulverizers Tie Roots for Lead; S. Phillippi Tops

By sweeping three matches November 20 against Charlmes in the City Bowling League on the Woodruff Alleys in Springfield, the Pulverizing Machinery Co. went into a tie with Roots for the loop lead. At the pace they have been setting in recent weeks, Roots, who have monopolized the league in recent years, will be hard pressed during the rest of the season by the Pulverizers.

In last week's matches, three players rolled 600 series led by Sedge Phillippi of Garguiolos who won gross honors with 656 for an average of 218.68. Roy Baum of Roots, runner-up for gross honors with 645 for an average of 215, won individual high game honors with 240. Rogers of Roots ran third in the 600 series with a gross of 604 for an average of 201.3.

Sports' Sidelights

GAME INSURANCE NEEDED

The referee blows his whistle and the players disentangle themselves and walk back to their positions. But one player lies still on the ground, his leg twisted grotesquely under his body.

The doctor pronounces it an open fracture of the tibia. In layman's language that means a bad fracture of the lower leg. Also in layman's language it means an expensive surgical operation and possibly the insertion of a metal plate.

The kid will walk again, maybe with only a slight limp. But who will pay the medical bills?

In far too many cases in New Jersey, even in Summit, it will be the boy's parents. Unless the school helps to defray some of the expenses by insuring the boy against injury, or running a benefit, or digging up the money from the athletic funds, the burden falls solely on the parents. Too often it is a drain on their slender savings. Sometimes they have to borrow the money.

Summit High's gridmen have suffered, perhaps an average amount of injuries, a fractured nose, torn ligaments and shoulder and elbow dislocations, a fractured collarbone, etc. Such injuries have occurred in nearly every Jersey high school.

Why must the parents pay all the costs of these injuries? Because New Jersey has no system, except in a few scattered school systems (Summit not included), offering state-wide insurance protection for its budding citizens. Not only does it lack a system. It lacks a plan for formulating one.

While some 30-odd States in various parts of the country, including New York and Pennsylvania, have insurance benefits on a statewide basis, New Jersey is today bogged down in a hodge-podge of miscellaneous formulas, all attacking the problem from different angles.

Of more than 250 high schools in Jersey, an estimated 75 insure their students, and these make little or no attempt at coverage other than football.

But even where the schools are individually insured by commercial companies, there is no uniformity. Rates, and the payments for injuries vary. Sometimes the school athletic associations pay the policy, sometimes the students or their parents.

In some cases the coverage extends only to games between schools. In others it applies also to physical education classes and intra-mural games.

So, when Summit High and other Jersey heroes trot out on the gridiron, court, diamond or gym, to play for their alma mater, they take their chances of getting hurt—chances they wouldn't have to take if they lived in a State which offers a systematic program for protection of its players.

New Jersey ranks first in the nation in the production of applejack, ninth in population and high in industrial strength. It has the oldest highway, the oldest railroad, the oldest lighthouse and some of the finest educational institutions in the country.

Yet, in the important matter of providing protection and medical care for its high school athletes, New Jersey ranks among the lower half of the States in the union.

Granddaddy of the state programs is the Wisconsin plan. Adopted in 1930, it has served as a model for all the other states. It is operated by the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association which is comparable to the N. J. State Interscholastic Athletic Association.

The Wisconsin plan covers public school students from the seventh grade through high school in all athletics, including physical education classes. The cost ranges from 50 cents to $2, with the 50 cents covering all sports except football. Payments are based on the specific nature of the injury. The plan offers a benefit of $300 for fatal injuries and $200 compensation for the loss of an eye. Other features of the Wisconsin plan: $4 a day hospitalization up to $100; summer sports coverage; coverage for injuries on school playgrounds, class rooms, hallways or stairways during school hours; transportation of athletes to and from interscholastic games, and students tripping in a conveyance approved by the principal and under school supervision.

Daily Prayers For Peace Asked

A campaign originating in New York, sponsored by the Laymen's Movement for a Christian World, is under way to mobilize 10,000,000 Americans to pray daily for peace and for Divine guidance of the delegates to the United Nations meetings in New York.

Dr. Frank C. Laubach, authority on literacy, is carrying the appeal to the people at mass meetings in 25 large cities throughout the country. He is reporting on his recent two-weeks' visit to the Paris Peace Conference, where he prayed for the delegates and organized prayer groups on the spot.

"The fate of the world rests in the hands of a few men who represent the nations," Dr. Laubach said, and their attitudes and decisions "may be determined by the prayers of millions of people behind them."

"Prayer is the greatest resource of the world—and largely used. . . . If America and the world are ever destroyed, it will be the fault of the people who have it in their power to pray the world out of danger. . . . Prayer is the most democratic force there is. . . . Pray with love and understanding for all men who are deciding the

Colgate Alumni Plan Thanksgiving Dance

The New Jersey Colgate Alumni Association will give a Thanksgiving dance Saturday night, November 30, at the Montclair Golf Club. Tickets may be obtained through F. W. Jaeger, of Blackburn road, Su 6-6110-J, president of the New Jersey Association.

In Cast of College Play

Miss Marjorie Pritchard of Woodland avenue is taking part in the Wheelock College Dramatic Club's presentation of "Alice in Wonderland," held at the Olivia James House in South Boston. There will be six performances on a thousand small boys and girls from five Greater Boston settlement houses and the Children's Museum may be taken down the rabbit hole to see the immortal "Alice in Wonderland."

New Jersey Potato Goal Is 56,200 Acres in '47

New Jersey potato growers have been allotted a production goal of 56,200 acres for 1947, according to word received from Washington, D. C., by Jacob A. Blakelee, state director of the Production and Marketing Administration. This is a 12,000-acre reduction under the acreage planted this year, but is about the same as the average acreage in pre-war years. The nation's potato goal for 1947 is 2,669,800 acres, or about 116,000 acres below this year's figure. Blakelee pointed out that the 1947 national goal should produce about 375 million bushels of potatoes, enough for all normal needs. Based on average yields, the New Jersey goal should produce around 11 million bushels.

Public Service Corp. Declares Dividend

The board of directors of Public Service Corporation of New Jersey at its meeting November 19, declared a quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share on the common stock payable on or before December 31, to stockholders of record November 30. This is five cents per share more than was declared in the previous quarter.

Explains Zoning

ted to business and industry too small than too large, as it is easier to expand than to contract, and over-extensive business and industrial areas have the effect of denying residential protection to areas without real business or industrial prospects.

He said the clause in the ordinance requiring the leaving of space around a building that had been destroyed more than 50 per cent, for off-street parking by employees, visitors or tenants of the premises would be deleted. He said the board is still considering the question of rear-yard loading and unloading.

At the conclusion of his talk Mr. Trowbridge answered several general questions, the one uppermost in the minds of the listeners being that of parking. To this his answer was that at present the Planning Board is not giving much thought to the question as the Common Council has a committee continuously studying the matter. At the moment, he said, the board was concerned with getting the proposed zoning ordinance adopted so as to be prepared for the building activity bound to come as soon as materials are available.

States Open Nights
The meeting opened with William H. Kay, Jr., president, in the chair. After the reading and approval of minutes of the last meeting and a special meeting, a motion was made and passed to the effect that stores will be kept open nights beginning December 13 and continuing on that schedule until Christmas.

Secretary W. Rea Crane read the list of nominees for members of the board of directors as submitted by the nominating committee. They are: Salem Bournly, Harry Doyle, Joseph Formichella, Thomas Miller, William C. Nording, William G. Savage, Charles Scheek, Richard Sleser, Harold Spitzer. From these nine, five are to be elected for three years by ballot to be mailed out and returned by the membership at large.

When called upon by the president Gardner P. Eastman, chairman of the committee on Christmas decorations for business houses, said that the response so far had not been as good as expected that solicitors were being compelled to make return calls; that as this will be the first time the city will be decorated since 1941, merchants should get behind the program and really put Summit on the map again. Mr. Eastman remarked that some municipalities in this vicinity had already put decorations up and that from his observation, if the plans laid out are put into effect, Summit should top them all.

Mr. Eastman then asked Harry Doyle, who had made solicitations, to tell some of his experiences. Mr. Doyle corroborated Mr. Eastman in the slowness with which merchants are making up their minds as to whether or not they will support the program; the necessity of extra calls and arguments as to amounts allocated. He concluded with a strong plea for merchants to get behind the movement with their subscription and really put the program over in style.

Mr. Eastman said that while in sufficient funds had been subscribed there were enough to indicate that the program could be carried out. Nevertheless, he again urged that merchants get behind the committee to make assurance doubly sure and to free the committee of any undue amount of worry.

Board of Design

of the business zone and the garden apartment zone. The Planning Board reported that the clauses requiring the provision of off-street parking space for customers, tenants and employees of a new building had been deleted from the new ordinance. It was agreed that the provision for truck deliveries at the rear of buildings is both desirable and economically feasible.

The Planning Board was represented by Phillip N. Trowbridge, chairman, and Francis A. Kean; the Civic Planning Committee by David Ludlow, chairman; Bryant W. Griffin, secretary; Ernest F. Patten, Paul Drake, John D. Hood, John J. Buring, Edward C. Holmes II, and Winston K. Ogden. Francis A. Murray, city engineer was also present. Mrs. Archibald Murray attended as an observer from the League of Women Voters.

The Civic Planning Committee represents the Rotary Club, Kiwanis Club, Lions Club, Chamber of Commerce, Summit Board of Realtors, Summit Builders, Summit Architects, Young Men's Civic Association, Summit Banks and Savings and Loan Associations.

Men of Calvary Plan Corporate Communion

On Sunday, Dec. 1, the First Sunday in Advent and the beginning of the church year, the men and older boys of Calvary Church will hold their annual corporate communion at the 8 o'clock service, renewing again their allegiance to the Christian faith. This is part of a nationwide observance on the part of men of the Episcopal Church.

After the service breakfast will be served in the parish house at a nominal cost. An outline of parish activities will be presented and the group will listen to a broadcast by Bishop Theodore R. Ludlow over Station WOR at 9:15 a. m. The theme of the Bishop's address is: "Adventuring with God." All men of the parish are asked to send their responses to Karl M. Joseph, 64 Blackburn road, president of the Men's Association which is sponsoring this event.

Dr. F. C. Stifler Will Begin New Radio Series

Rev. Francis Carr Stifler, D.D., of Parkview Terrace, secretary for public relations of the American Bible Society, will be heard each Tuesday morning for two months beginning December 3, in a new series of nine addresses on the program, "Faith in Our Time," over the facilities of the Mutual Broadcasting System.

His theme will be "The Bible is Always News" and his nine talks will be as follows: December 3—The Bible and Other Books; December 10—One World—One Book; December 17—Rebuilding the World with the Bible; December 24—The Bible Gave Us Christmas; December 31—The Bible in 1947; January 7—How to Read the Bible; January 14—Blessed Book Ages; January 21—Ten Ways to Use the Bible; January 28—The Miracle of Literature.

Episcopal Youth To Meet Sunday At Calvary

A rally of the Young People's Fellowships of the Morristown district of the Episcopal Church will be held this Sunday, at Calvary parish house, beginning at 5 p. m. Delegations are expected from the churches in Millington, Chatham, Madison, Morristown, Dover, Morris Plains, Hooton and Mendham.

There will be an informal talk by Chaplain John F. Hamblin, Jr., USNR, following which there will be a box supper. Fred Montley, diocesan president of the Y.P.F. will speak briefly, and there will be a showing of the sound movie, "The Blind Beggar of Jerusalem." A social hour will conclude the program. All Calvary young people are asked to be present to act as hosts.

Church is Beacon, Rev. J. L. Lee Says

Reading the 48th Psalm, Rev. J. L. Lee preached on its meaning at the burning of the mortgage of Pilgrim Baptist Church last Sunday afternoon. "The church was set on a hill as a beacon," he said. "Nowadays, we don't walk around the temple, we run around it, leaving ourselves in ignorance of what is inside." The little daughter of Rev. W. M. McGriff, pastor, held the match to the mortgage which then fell to ashes on a silver tray. J. J. Kaplan, who had held the mortgage without charging interest, was present. One of the gifts received for freeing the church was $500 from F. W. Ruzicka of Chatham.

Be Wary Spraying Pets With DDT, Agency Warns
 Owners of farm animals and domestic pets were admonished today to exercise at least "ordinary caution" when they use DDT to protect their animals against insects and parasites. Although federal regulations do not require that DDT be labeled "poison," but only with the word "caution," the American Foundation for Animal Health recommended a conservative policy in use of the new insecticide, especially around milk cows. "Because cattle and cats engage in the practice of licking their coats, they are probably more likely than other animals to suffer toxic effects from DDT sprayed or powdered on their bodies," the American Foundation warned.

Conservation Of Sight Program Begun in State

An industrial sight conservation program for New Jersey is being sponsored by the State Department of Health. Dr. J. Lynn Mahaffey, State Director of Health, has assigned the development of the plan to the Division of Adult and Industrial Health, with Dr. Herbert Weitchek of Elizabeth in charge.

According to Dr. Weitchek, the plan contemplates:

Visual testing of employees, to be followed by vision correction where needed, and job analysis with an eye to properly placing employees in work where their visual capabilities can best be used.

Color and lighting analyses of working areas, to be followed by recommendations for proper painting and illumination; analysis of hazards, such as chemical fumes or solutions, and ophthalmologic consultation.

A demonstration of eye screening for executives of five typical New Jersey industries is the next step in the plan.

Kentucky has a milder, more even temperature than any of its neighbors.

VLADIMIR HOROWITZ, Russian pianist, will play compositions by Haydn, Chopin, Prokofieff and Moussorgsky when he appears at the Mosque Theatre, Newark, on Sunday afternoon, under Griffith Music Foundation auspices. The Moussorgsky opus, "Pictures from an Exhibition," will be heard in a new revision based on the original piano manuscript by Horowitz.

Morristown Trust Opens Name-on-Check Service

The Morristown Trust Co. of Morristown will henceforth provide specially imprinted and numbered checks to all of its checking account customers, it has been announced by George Munick, the bank's president.

These new, specially imprinted checks will be available in three styles; namely, the pocket style, the Newport style for the home and the large size business check book. The bank has checked all records carefully and has sent to each customer the style he or she is using at the present time.

Celanese Profits Double

Net profits of Celanese Corporation of America for the first nine months of 1946 were more than double those of a year ago, according to the company's interim report sent to stockholders November 14 by Harold Blancke, president. The profit for the period amounted to $11,873,513 after all charges and taxes, against $5,830,340 in the first nine months of 1945.

Anti-Mosquito Petitions Given Commissioners

At a meeting held recently in Morris Plains at the Four County Mosquito Committee's office, the Citizens' Anti-Mosquito League met with the mosquito Commissioners of the four counties of Essex, Passaic, Union and Morris.

The League's Executive Board members present were: James Emery Brookes, of Glen Ridge president; Miss Mildred R. Larson, recording-secretary; Mrs. Frank Raquet; Mr. and Mrs. George H. Poldersart of Caldwell Township; Robert McCormack of Chatham; Harold R. Weber of North Caldwell; Leslie E. Schroeder of Short Hills; Louis Bohn of East Hanover; Mrs. C. Bertram Flory of Mendham; and a League representative of Lincoln Park, Mr. Robert Thompson. Frank H. Brookes, C. Bertram Flory and Mrs. Leslie E. Schroeder, all interested in the League's work, were present, as well as James Hawley of Summit, and J. d'Arcy Northwood of the New Jersey Audubon Society.

Discuss Problems
 M. Stallman, president of the Four County Mosquito Committee, Boro Basketball Loop To Organize Tonight

The Boro Basketball League will meet to organize tonight at 9 in the office of Supervising Principal of Schools in Lincoln School. Representatives of teams wishing to enter the league are requested to attend as well as boys wishing to play. The league has been in operation for over two decades and is primarily organized to provide a winter program of sports for junior and senior high school boys.

Everett T. Spinning Insurance

65 Union Place, Summit, N. J. Tel. Su. 6-0177

presided as chairman. Mr. Brookes, as president of the League, introduced Mrs. Brookes, as founder, who gave a brief history of the League's background. Mr. Poldersart was then introduced, who talked of the League's future plans. A general discussion followed with a question period. The question of whether the work of the Mosquito Committee would injure artesian wells was answered by the Mosquito Committee in the negative. It is surface water with which their work is concerned, and it would not affect the wells. It was brought out that the Mosquito Commission work on the State law of 1912, and that, in view of the present development in the Upper Passaic Valley, it is, perhaps, inadequate to supply the present needs of the Valley.

Robert Vannote, executive secretary of the Four County Mosquito Committee, told the engineering problems connected with their work; and of the work they have done between Twin Bridges and Chatham in the last eight years.

The available petitions were given in Mr. Vannote's keeping, in an effort to further the work of permanent elimination of mosquitoes. Mrs. Brookes reported several of the petitions were not yet in, and are known to contain signatures. These will be forwarded to the Four County Mosquito Committee when they are delivered to Mrs. Brookes. Everyone is urged not to destroy signed petitions, thinking it is too late to send them, but to send them to Mrs. Brookes, RFD 1, Lincoln Park, N. J., as soon as possible.
