Council Asked to Sell Former Edison School Athletic Site

The Board of Recreation has asked the city to offer for sale the property originally slated for an athletic field and stadium at the former Edison School and turn the realization over to the Recreation Board for use in the development of a recreation park in an adjacent area.

This was disclosed at Common Council meeting Tuesday night in a letter sent to the Council and signed by Ernest P. Patten, Recreation Board chairman.

The property consists of 15 acres and is located in East Summit in front of the Celanese Corporation and is bounded by Park road, Morris avenue and Shunpike road.

The letter stated that the board agreed Monday upon the immediate sale of the property since the school was abandoned some years ago and consideration of the property for a park area proved too expensive.

Recreation Area Considered

Present plans call for the locating of an athletic field in North Summit, and consideration by the board for the development of an Edison Recreation Park and building bounded by Park road, Morris avenue, Morris Court and Celanese. The acreage of the proposed site was not disclosed.

The board requested that the funds received from the sale of the 15 acres be added to the $72,000 reserved for the development of the Edison park. They also asked for the remuneration from the rent of two houses located on the property.

Betts Praised

A resolution was passed by Council commending retiring Councilman Rome A. Betts for his "valuable service rendered." Mr. Betts, who will retire at the end of the year after completing nine years as councilman, was presented with a gavel by the Council.

The resolution pointed out that Mr. Betts has served the city as a member or chairman of all committees of Common Council, Board of School Estimate, Planning Board, and Hospital Board and Local Assistance Board. In 1944 and 1945 he was Council president. He was praised for serving "the city in many and varied capacities in a most fair, impartial and efficient manner."

Mr. Betts declared that he appreciated the Council's expression of friendliness more than he could describe. He added that he was leaving that body with mingled feelings; appreciation of "the good hours labored in a common cause and relief to lay some aside."

Organization Meeting Set

It was resolved to hold the Common Council's organization meeting January 2, 1950 at 8 p.m. and an ordinance pertaining to police rules and regulations was adopted.

Edward Demorjian and William Gaffney were appointed fourth grade patrolmen at $3,000 each per year on the recommendation of Mayor Maxwell Lester, Jr.

Bids for electrical work on the sewage pumping station will be received on January 17, 1950.

Santa Joining in Round of Parties For Rich and Poor

Although Santa Claus' official arrival in Summit and surrounding vicinity is slated for Saturday night, evidence shows that he already has made some unheralded visits.

For instance more than a week ago the patients at the Palmer Nursing home were treated to a visit by a bell-jingling St. Nick who distributed appropriated gifts to the sixty patients. This was sponsored by the Lois League of Central Church. The Methodist women and others are also on the agenda for Christmas visits.

Meanwhile, behind lighted store windows many Christmas parties were given and many more are scheduled for today, tomorrow and Saturday. Banks, industrial firms and institutions are all joining in the festivities.

Six hundred Ciba employees marked the season with a dinner dance at the Essex House, Newark on December 16. It was the largest Ciba Christmas party on record.

The patients at Overlook Hospital also were treated to entertainment on December 16 when more than forty carolers from Chatham Township Girl Scout Association roamed the hospital corridors.

Last Sunday and Monday brought more echoes of "Silent Night, Holy Night" to the hospital. Twenty girls from the Summit YWCA visited Overlook Sunday and the following day 14 from Berkeley Heights Girl Scout Troop 22.

Children's Home Party

The youngsters at the Summit Home for Children were given a party last Saturday by a group of girls from Chatham's 4-H Club. The kiddies were given favors and candy before viewing a play presented by the club members.

The Youth Fellowship of the Methodist Church journeyed to the home Sunday night to conduct a Christmas worship service. They also brought gifts to the youngsters.

The personnel of Overlook Hospital took time out Monday night to attend at party given by the Board of Trustees. Staff nurses entertained with songs and a doctor's quartet added to the hilarity. Santa Claus arrived in the form of Pat Kelly who distributed gift certificates to the student nurses; tokens from the Trustees.

Veterans Not Forgotten

While individuals rushed around on Tuesday doing last minute shopping the American Legion Auxiliary visited Summit men at both Bonnie Burns Sanitorium and the Veterans Hospital at Lyons.

Coasting Ban Will Continue, Council States

Common Council will continue its policy of barring coasting this winter on streets of Summit, it was disclosed this week by the Public Safety Committee of the Council. The reason for the continued ban on sleighriding is because of the danger of accidents and the city's responsibility in case of injury or accident.

The Council's stand was made public in a letter issued to an organization inquiring about coasting this winter. Ever since the coasting ban was imposed in 1948 the Council and the Board of Education have been more or less under fire from organizations and individuals seeking supervised coasting facilities. Last year the Board of Recreation erected wooden slides in various sections of the city but these did not prove popular with children and were little used.

Several Similar Bans

The Council's letter points out that the Board of Recreation has in the past suggested that certain streets be made available for coasting but has also qualified the suggestion by citing the legal responsibilities involved. A survey showed that Maplewood, Verona, Caldwell, Glen Ridge and East Orange have similar anti-coasting rulings and definitely will not assign streets for sleighing because of the responsibility involved. It was also reported that a few years ago a damage suit resulting from a coasting accident was instigated against Nutley which cost that city $2,000. In brief, the Council states, many towns do not block off their streets because of the danger of financial liability.

The letter contains the information that the Council files contain objections from residents of streets formerly used for coasting, stating that it is a hazard for residents of those streets in driving in and out of their homes.

The ban against street coasting started on January 20, 1948 when the chairman of the public safety committee recommended that no street be designated and patrolled for coasting. After that date all requests have been denied despite the efforts of PTA groups and the recommendations made by the Lay Committee on Education in its report last summer on recreational facilities in Summit. The report urged that proper coasting facilities, as well as skating areas, be made available to children this winter.

Former Resident, 105, Recovering from Illness

A former Summit resident, Thomas W. Mowbray, 105-years-old, is recovering from a recent illness at Riverview Rest Home, Whippany.

Mr. Mowbray, born in England, conducted a tailoring establishment in London until he was 36 years old. He then came to the United States, spent one year in New York before moving to Summit. In this city he opened a tailoring business which he ran for several years before moving to Morristown. He was succeeded for awhile by a son, Frank. Until four years ago Mr. Mowbray lived in Morristown with a daughter, Mrs. Thomas J. Fay, who became ill and unable to cook for her father. According to Mrs. Fay her father spends most of his time at the rest home watching television and talking to other guests. Longevity runs in the family and Mr. Mowbray expects to live to 120. One of his grandmothers lived to 106, the other was 99 when he left England.

PLENTY OF DOLLS—all beautifully outfitted, and lots of toys on hand for Santa when he's ready to visit the needy children of Summit and Union County this Saturday night. The toys and dolls are gifts of the members of the Bell Telephone Laboratories Club of Murray Hill Bell Telephone Laboratories. Girls and wives of the Laboratories' men dressed 250 dolls in every conceivable kind of costume—from ski and bridal outfits to exquisite evening gowns. The Club also brought stuffed animals, toys and games for 200 boys with money donated to the Club's doll and toy committee. Santa will pick up the gifts at the Municipal Building where they are being kept by Mrs. Gertrude S. Gross of the city welfare department.

New Providence Lollipop Tree Will Bloom Again

BOROUGH—A tree grows in New Providence that is considered by arborists to be very unique because of the fact that it blossoms only at Christmas time and bears a crop of lollipops. The tree, located on the property of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Harms, is reported about to burst into bud and more than 1,500 lollipops will bloom on Christmas Day.

Children of the community are urged to visit the tree and harvest the crop for the third year. There are no walls or fences to climb and last year there was even a path shoveled through the snow to facilitate easy pickin'. The Harms have issued a cordial invitation to all children—even 'teen-agers — to sample the "fruit" of the tree.

T. F. Davies Haines Elected President Of Ciba Company

The board of directors of Ciba Pharmaceutical Products, Inc., Summit, has elected T. F. Davies Haines of New York City to succeed Dr. J. S. Bates as president of the pharmaceutical firm. Announcement of Mr. Haines' appointment was made this week.

Dr. Bates, who has served as president of Ciba since January, 1947, will retire on December 31.

Mr. Haines has been associated with the worldwide Ciba organization for several years and serves as director of a number of Ciba companies in the Western Hemisphere. He played an active part, as counsel, in the organization and

St. Nick Promises to Visit One and All Christmas Day

Th...! Little girl; don't cry!
They have broken your doll,
I know;
And your tea set blue,
And your play-house, too,
Are things of long ago——
JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY

The little girls of Summit, and the boys too, won't shed any tears of longing this Christmas because Santa Claus' helpers have contributed hundreds of toys to make the city's less fortunate youngsters happy.

The old and indigent perhaps will shed a tear—but it will be a grateful tear coming from smiling eyes—because they will not be forgotten either.

In the offices of the City Welfare Department there are gifts of more than 200 dolls plus scores of footballs, roller skates, race cars, fire trucks and every conceivable toy for boys and girls. There are velvety cats, dogs, and horses in pastel colors. Colorful scarfs for women and warm mittens for both men and women; wallets and lapel pins and other novelties for those who in every day life get only the practical essentials.

And there is money so that 215 families will have a Christmas dinner. All this came from the people of Summit through the combined efforts of all social agencies, churches, schools and individuals. Also cleared through the Welfare Department are the contributions from the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Among the monetary gifts was a $200 donation made by the Summit Junior Service League, contributors to the funds for several years.

The Bell Laboratory employees contributed the dolls which represent babies, brides, soldiers, sailors and ladies of glamor. Cub Scout Troop No. 4 of Lincoln School supplied fire engines, blocks, books and other things to make Tommy and Jane happy.

The Baptist, Methodist, Episcopal and Presbyterian Churches contributed sweaters for adults, bed jackets for the ill and stockings for all. Cohen's Leather and Luggage Center of Springfield Avenue donated wallets in Morocco red leather, British tan, and Christmas green.

An 85-year-old woman, Miss Bessie Spinning of High street spent the summer knitting. Because of Miss Spinning 25 pairs of hands will be warm in soft, wooly mittens.

City Officials At Meeting on Rabies Control

Summit health and law enforcement officials attended a meeting yesterday at Plainfield City Hall called by State Health Commissioner Daniel Bergsma, M. D., to discuss the problem of controlling rabies and the part that must be played by municipalities in Union County towards enforcing dog quarantine laws. The meeting was prompted by the death last Thursday of a four-year-old Perth Amboy boy caused by the bite of a rabid dog which was not apprehended.

"This indicates an inadequate local program of control in this area," Doctor Bergsma stated in a telegram sent to Mayor Maxwell Lester, Jr., and other Union County municipal heads.

Representing Summit at the meeting were Dr. Henry P. Dengler of the Board of Health, Chief of Police Edward Egan and Dog Warden Charles Cutler.

Newly-Formed Civic Group Hears Suggested Housing Plan

A new civic association aimed at embracing and unifying all existing civic groups in the city was formed Sunday night at a meeting at the Field House. Approximately thirty residents from all sections of the city attended the meeting. The new group, known as the Summit General Civic Association, Inc., has filed articles of incorporation at Trenton and Elizabeth this week.

At the same meeting Mr. Archibald Murray of New England avenue presented her "plan" for low-cost housing. Mrs. Murray's proposal, which was discussed but not endorsed or adopted by the new civic group, calls for the creation of a Housing Body consisting of citizens which will undertake a three-way survey to obtain facts about Summit's housing needs and problems. The plan does not make any provision for financing slum clearance or low-cost housing.

Temporary officers of the newly-formed civic association were elected with J. H. Nair of 9 Dunnder drive being named president. Other officers are C. I. Maust, 45 Blackburn place, vice-president; Ralph H. Sayre, Jr., 20 Lowell avenue, secretary; Robson Clark, 127 Passaic avenue, treasurer. The objects of the association were broadly defined as the "support of all actions and conditions beneficial to the whole whole community; opposition to all action and conditions detrimental to the whole community or to any major portion thereof." A spokesman for the Association stated that formation of the Association was stimulated because of the "interest aroused by the proposal to set up a public housing authority in Summit."

A committee headed by Mr. Maust was appointed on constitution and by-laws and it is planned that these articles will be published within the next few days.

All members of existing organized groups are urged to become members of the new Association. Membership is open to "any home owner in Summit who wishes to join in the organized efforts to work for desirable and long range objectives to make Summit a better place to live in." Membership applications, together with nominal annual dues, may be sent either to Mr. Sayre or Mr. Clark.

Would Create Housing Board

Mrs. Murray's plan provides for the immediate withdrawal of the controversial "Housing Authority Ordinance" and the immediate substitution of a Housing Board consisting of five members serving without pay who will be appointed by the Mayor and confirmed by the Common Council. This Board would become a permanent city agency such as the Board of Health, Planning Board and others. Members of the Housing Board would rotate their terms of office as is the practice of other city boards.

The prime duty of the Housing Board would be to enlist volunteer citizens to make a survey of families residing in substandard housing to determine how many family units are considered substandard; how many families could and would pay increased rent if given the opportunity; how many would and could purchase their own homes if given the opportunity and how many families could and would apply—and be eligible for—public housing if it were available. The survey would also determine how many families desire homes closer to their places of employment.

Another volunteer committee would meet with owners of substandard property to determine their problems and point of view and the extent of their cooperation in correcting sub-standard conditions.

To Find Out Costs

A third committee, consisting of recognized engineers and builders, would make a survey of conditions in homes declared substandard to ascertain which dwellings would be demolished, which need repairs and what those repairs would cost, and the amount of rent it would be necessary to charge if the repairs were made.

The Housing Board would also thoroughly investigate the "Baiti-

Early Copy, Please!!

Early copy for the next two issues of the Herald is earnestly requested. All departments will be closed Monday, December 26, and Monday, January 2, in observance of Christmas and New Year's Day.

Editorial and advertising copy, therefore, must be submitted early in order to assure publication. The deadline for photographs will be Saturday noon. It would be greatly appreciated by the staff if as much copy as possible be submitted on the week-end before Tuesday.

Edward C. Holmes Elected President Of Realty Board

Edward C. Holmes of the Holmes Agency was re-elected president of the Summit Real Estate Board at the annual dinner meeting held last Thursday at Canoe Brook Country Club. Mr. Holmes will serve for his second term.

Other officers elected were Clifford E. Johnson, first vice-president; Robert S. Stafford, treasurer, and Mrs. Isabel Anderson, secretary. John H. Kohler was elected governor.

Members of the executive committee elected were John J. Burling and Mr. Stafford and Walter McNamara, H. McK. Glazebrook and Alfred Anderson were named to the arbitration committee.

Mr. Holmes spoke briefly on the accomplishments of the board during the year and stressed the fact that the real estate group was one of those in the nation actively fighting for the continuation of a free enterprise system. His father, H. Donald Holmes, who served as chairman pro-tem during the elections, told the thirty members present that they are in a position to guide the future growth of Summit and that it was the aim of the group to keep the community primarily residential.

Prior to the meeting the Summit Express Company entertained the Board at a cocktail party.

Bonnell Building, School Landmark, To Be Demolished

The Bonnell Building, a dwelling for 75 years and for the last 25 years serving as an annex to the central High School, will be demolished after the close of the present school year. This was revealed at the Board of Education meeting Thursday night by Walter S. Eddy, secretary and business manager.

Serving the school as cafeteria, homemaking classrooms and laboratories thereto and housing part of the music program, the Bonnell structure will not be needed with the addition to the shcool being ready for occupancy next September.

Mr. Eddy explained that the Bonnell Building is beyond salvaging and consequently will have to be razed.

The alumni Christmas program and carol sing will be held at the main entrance of the school today from 8 to 8:45 p.m., it was reported. In the event of inclement weather the program will be staged in the High School auditorium.

The board approved the recommendation of Superintendent Roberts v. S. Reed that Miss Robin Rankin be named a school clerk at an annual salary of $1,800.

Yule Sale Nets $75 For New Club House

Mrs. W. W. Clarke and Mrs. Mason Logan, co-chairmen of the welfare department of the Fortnightly Club report a profit of $75 on the Christmas sale held before and after the regular meeting of the Club at the high school on Wednesday of last week.

This successful venture will help the department furnish its room in the new Fortnightly club house, the women stated.

Recently the department contributed $50 to the United Campaign and $50 to the Summit Christmas dinner fund.

$185,000 Will Buy Luxury Home Built by Local Man

"Pace-Setter House for 1949" in Orange, built as an experimental laboratory to dramatize the latest developments in architecture, engineering and landscaping, has been placed on the market at $185,000, according to Previews, Inc., the National Real Estate Clearing House, marketing agents. A cooperative venture on the part of Emil A. Schmidlin, of Summit, architect, and Ellis Leigh, designer, of East Orange, the house was completed and opened to the public for inspection early in October of this year. It is completely furnished by Lord & Taylor.

Ciba Again Distributes Bonus to All Employees

Ciba Pharmaceutical Products, Inc., has again distributed a year-end bonus to all employees on the company's payrolls.

In a letter to the employees which accompanied the bonus, Dr. J. S. Bates, president of Ciba, gave credit for the firm's successful business year to "the individual and collective efforts of all of us here. The participation of our company in the general prosperity now being enjoyed by the country as a whole has made such action possible," he said.

The bonus was distributed on Thursday last, December 15.

Ridgewood Housing Sparked by Social Concern, Civic Pride

(Editor's Note:—In the various discussions being held about public housing, the "Ridgewood Plan" has been frequently mentioned as an outstanding example of how a residential community can approach by private enterprise the problem of low-cost housing through social concern and civic pride.

A few weeks ago the Herald briefly discussed the "Ridgewood Plan" and now, through the courtesy of the Montclair Times, is able to present in detail how the plan works and what is involved. Montclair is also wrestling with a housing problem, having rejected by referenda last month a proposal to create a Federal Housing project. Montclair is now forming a citizens' committee to seek a local solution and has started a move for private financing of slums through two gifts of $1,000 each, donated by a local bank and an insurance company.

The Herald does not sponsor the "Ridgewood Plan" as a recommendation or a solution to Summit's problem. It is presented only in an effort to give all sides of public housing.)

Ridgewood's action, according to information supplied by the Montclair League of Women Voters, followed publication in November, 1948, of a story concerning the plight of eighteen Negro families who were under eviction orders.

Their landlord wanted to make repairs because "the Board of Health has been breathing down my neck." These eighteen families, who had lived in Ridgewood for years, some as long as 25 years, and were respected citizens, were utterly unable to find other accommodations in Ridgewood or vicinity, partly because of rental limitations and partly because their color restricted their opportunities in finding homes.

Today a fund has been raised by citizens and organizations through the sale of $25 bonds, with accumulating value, sufficient to buy the three tenement houses and insure at least some of the major repairs, including central heating and private bathrooms for each family, without displacing the tenants during the process.

Cooperatively Owned

These tenements will become cooperatively owned. Each family has already subscribed $300 to the bond fund. Although rents have been $21 in the past, the families involved feel that in view of the co-operative feature and the high employment now enjoyed they can afford to pay $50 rentals. It is estimated that $800 will cover the annual cost of taxes (formerly $500 but now estimated at a higher figure to cover improvements), maintenance and depreciation.

Rents will yield $11,000. The difference will be used to retire the bonds, selected by lot at accrued value (two per cent a year) and reissued on a pro-rata basis to the tenants whose increased rent makes such retirement possible. Thus the buildings will in time become entirely co-operatively owned and the investors will receive their money back with increment.

The idea of the fund grew out of a committee formed when the first newspaper story appeared. A member of the YWCA board told her organization of the plight of these families, about to be put out erous to mention. And the youngsters of the elementary schools, St. Teresa's and Junior High spent their leisure hours unpacking the gifts from their cartons. Then came the job of tying up the presents in red and green tissue with silver, gold or contrasting bows.

To Mrs. Gertrude Gross, director of the Welfare Department, Mrs. Ann S. Brokaw, executive secretary of the Family Service Association, and their assistants fell the job of allotting the gifts so that when Christmas morning dawns no one will be forgotten.

The invalid will get her bed jacket, the elderly man who does odd jobs will try his mittens on. Sixteen-year-old Sally will place a shining gold pin on the lapel of her shabby suit; Jane will hug that cuddly white velvet kitten; and Tommy will let out a war hoop when he kicks that football. And Santa Claus' helpers will say "Merry Christmas" to each other.

Summit Man Will Head State Drive For Safety Funds

Appointment of Monroe J. Rathbone of 10 Glendale road as general chairman of a $450,000 fund raising drive by the New Jersey Safety Council to finance accident prevention and safety education programs during the next three years, was announced yesterday. Mr. Rathbone is a director of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and former president of Esso Standard. Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll is honorary chairman of the drive which will begin immediately after the first of the year. The amount to be raised was decided upon yesterday at a meeting of Council officials held in the offices of the Prudential Insurance Co., Newark.

The funds are expected to come from industrial and commercial concerns in all of the state's 21 counties. There will be no appeal to the general public. Industry and business have been the principal supports of organized accident prevention and safety education work since its inception in New Jersey 25 years ago. Traditionally, the campaigns are conducted triannually. In 1947 the council asked for and obtained $225,000 for its state-wide program, and the results proved out successfully in lessened human suffering and lowered economic losses due to accidents. In response to widespread demand, the council has substantially broadened the scope of its operations, and the higher goal of the forthcoming campaign was the result. Tentative quotas for the several sections of the state, as set at yesterday's meeting of council officials, are:

$100,000 from Essex-Union

Essex and Union counties, $100,000; Hudson county, $75,000; Passaic and Morris, $45,000; Mercer and Burlington, $45,000; Camden, $45,000; Middlesex, Monmouth, Ocean and Somerset, $45,000; Bergen, $30,000; Atlantic and Cape May, $30,000; Salem, Gloucester and Cumberland, $20,000 and Hunterdon, Warren and Sussex, $15,000.

The Council endeavors to integrate all existing organized safety programs, and gives active expert assistance in the formation of new plans in industries, business, public agencies and elsewhere. Offices are maintained in Newark, Trenton and Hackensack, staffed by safety engineers and technical experts, and new bases are scheduled for Atlantic City, Camden and Paterson. The Council's work deals with every type of accident and reaches into all phases of life. The Council wages war on the highways and other public places, in industry and commerce, in the home and in schools and colleges. Safety education is taught today in 150 schools in the state, and the Council is attempting to have it established as a major subject in the colleges and universities in order to create a new force of safety educators. The public relations division of the Council has distributed 750,000 pieces of literature in 1949.

The Council works closely with the State Department of Labor and Industry, the State Health Department, the State Association of Chiefs of Police, the State Federation of Women's Clubs, the State Chamber of Commerce, the New Jersey Manufacturers Associficials throughout the state and a ation, county and municipal of-large array of civic and trade organizations.

In its long-range program of objectives, the Council aims to establish safety organization in evrery New Jersey community of 1,000 persons or more; place in operation effective safety programs in allp laces of employment, large and small; inaugurate an accident-prevention program in every elementary and secondary school in the state; make all homemakers safety and accident prevention conscious; familiarize all the people of New Jersey with all highway laws, regulations and dangers, and train as many men, women and children as possible in effective methods of fire prevention and fire fighting.

E. G. VonDuhn, Former Cotton Exporter, Dies

Edmund G. von Duhn of 160 Summit avenue died in Overlook Hospital on Wednesday, December 14, after a few days' illness. He was born in Summit and had lived here all his life. Mr. von Duhn headed his own export firm in New York City, from which he retired in 1926. His first business was that of an exporter of cotton under the firm name of E. G. von Duhn and he later went into partnership and the firm was known as von Duhn and Aimone.

He was a former member of the Baltusrol Golf Club and the Canoe Brook Country Club. He was an active member of Calvary Episcopal Church and participated in Red Cross work here and in New York. He was an active worker in the local United Campaigns and for five years headed the solicitation of funds in apartments and rooming houses.

Mr. von Duhn leaves his wife, Mrs. Suzanne Welling von Duhn; a sister, Miss Agnes von Duhn, and two brothers, Gustav A. and William S., all of Summi. He was the son of the late Gabriel H. and Maria Schwartze.

Funeral services were held in Calvary Church on Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, Rev. W. Ovid Kinsolving of Weston, Conn., former rector of Calvary Church and Rev. Elmer F. Francis, rector of the local church officiating. Burial was private.

Repairman Dies on Train

A Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad repairman died from a heart attack Friday morning on a train coming from Morristown. He was Earl Numan of West Orange. Summit police received a call sent from Chatham at 9:10 a.m. asking that an ambulance meet the train on arrival at Summit. The Overlook Hospital ambulance was unavailable, according to police, but one was sent up from Springfield. Meanwhile, an Overlook physician met the train. He pronounced Mr. Numan dead.

on the street. Other members of the board phoned other organizations of which they were members and from them was formed a committee on which the League of Women Voters was represented. The apartments were found to be in a deplorable state, repairs having been unmade through the passing years. Tenants had done their own repapering and painting at their own expense. A stay of the eviction notices was granted by Judge Michael Dwyer who observed that some solution must be found from a community point of view.

In June the committee appeared before the Town Commissioners, stating that the property was assessed at $40,000 and that the committee had tried to get an option to buy from the landlord without success. The commissioners agreed to meet with the landlord and committee to try to effect a settlement. An option was secured on the down payment of $2,000 with six months to pay the remaining $38,000. This $2,000 was secured from civic minded people who were willing to risk their money in the belief that the remainder would be raised. The committee estimated that $75,000 would be needed in all to buy the buildings and make all the desirable repairs. As the buildings had been bought for $17,500 by the landlord 12 years previously he did not lose anything by the sale.

Large Sum Raised

To date a total of $58,000 has been raised through the sale of bonds to 800 individuals in Ridgewood and surrounding communities and to a dozen civic and church organizations. This amount is enough to insure the purchase of the buildings and the most necessary repairs. The estimated cost per rehabilitated apartment is set at $4,167. Since the brick buildings are structurally sound and well-built this is a much more economical proceeding than new construction would be, estimated to cost more than twice as much.

An editorial in the Ridgewood Sunday News in November observing that those who had voted against the state housing bond issue might now well come forward to buy the remaining $18,000 said: "It would seem the quintessence of inconsistency to cast a vote against 'socialized' housing and then refuse to purchase one or more $25 shares in the Broad-Ridge Housing, Inc., organized to do the job by private initiative in the best conservative tradition." The flier appealing for funds carries the banner, "The eyes of the nation are upon us."

The Ridgewood financing was predicated on the ability and willingness of the families involved to make a down payment and pay an increased rent sufficient to retire the bonds and turn the whole venture into a co-operative.

Terminal Carols Rung for 4th Year By SHS Chorus

Commuters rushing through Grand Central Terminal, Monday to catch the 4:38 p.m. train and weary women homeward bound to the suburbs with armfuls of Christmas presents paused in the main hall to listen to Yuletide choral music presented for the fourth consecutive year by Summit High's mixed chorus under the direction of Daniel J. Kautzman.

For the nineteenth year, the New York Central and New Haven railroads have presented a music Christmas festival. Summit's chorus is one of various youth and adult choruses in the metropolitan area who are entertaining throngs in the station from 4 to 6 p.m. every day through Christmas eve.

Mrs. Mary Lee Read, organist of the terminal played for the Summit High selections. The Summit chorus nearly 100 strong travelled to New York in three buses.

Accompanied by the organ, the Summit boys and girls sang for half an hour a program of carols, hymns, traditional and popular songs, while several thousand listeners stood behind ropes.

"Christian Science" is the subject for Sunday, December 25.

Golden Text: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." (Luke 2:14)

Sermon: Passages from the King James version of the Bible include: "Ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, an holy nation, a peculiar people; that ye should shew forth the praises of him who hath called you of darkness into his marvellous light:" (I Pet. 2:9)

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy include:

"Beyond the frail premises of human beliefs, above the loosening grasp of creeds, the demonstration of Christian mind-healing stands a revealed and practical Science. It is imperious throughout all ages as Christ's revelation of truth, of life and of love, which remains inviolate for every man to understand and to practise." (p. 98)

Two Friends Meet While Shopping

Mrs. M.: How well you look, my dear.

Mrs. S.: Perhaps there is a reason. You see my husband has quit smoking and the children and I no longer have to breathe poisonous tobacco smoke.

Mrs. M.: I understand that it takes a lot of will power to stop smoking.

Mrs. S.: Yes, that's what I have.

There are many reasons why intelligent people in all walks of life and in all parts of this Country and abroad too are deciding for themselves that smoking is not the thing to do. Who wants a cigarette cough that awakens the neighbors? Young girls and matrons are learning that if they are to keep their natural beauty and charm and to achieve a glamorous personality and radiant health, it is not the thing to smoke tobacco, drink cocktails or to indulge in the use of coffee, tea, chocolate and colas. More and more women and men too are accepting the idea that to build character and to receive the recommendation and commendation of their superiors, it pays to be known as one who cannot be tempted to use any of the addictives. If a person cannot control the coffee and tobacco habits, how can one control other things in life that may be ten times worse than smoking?

Science has found that for the bloodstream to flow freely through unconstructed capillaries, for the nerves and glands to be properly nourished and perform their important functions naturally, these addictives must be avoided. Then when you see how much money can be saved, it is no wonder that more and more people are turning over a new leaf and say "No thanks" whenever they are tempted to have one.

You can add to your own joy, happiness and peace by helping others to spread the good news.

A Brief Biography

Here is a man who was born in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman. He grew up in another obscure village. He worked in a carpenter shop until He was thirty, and then for three years He was an itinerant preacher. He never wrote a book. He never held any office. He never went to college. He never owned a home. He never had a family. He never traveled 200 miles from the place where He was born. He never did any one of the things that usually accompany greatness. He had no credentials but Himself.

While still a young man, the tide of popular opinion turned against Him. His friends ran away. One of them betrayed Him. He was turned over to His enemies. He went through the mockery of a trial. He was nailed upon a cross between two thieves. While He was dying His executioners gambled for the only piece of property He had on earth, His coat. When He was dead, He was taken down and laid in a borrowed grave through the pity of a friend.

Nineteen and a half wide centuries have come and gone, and today He is the centerpiece of the human race and the leader of the column of progress. I am far within the mark when I say that not all the armies that ever marched, nor all the parliaments that ever sat, nor all the kings that ever reigned, put together, have ever affected the life of man upon this earth so powerfully as has this one solitary LIFE.

We celebrate His birth at Christmastime.

The Town Meeting Still Lives

Not too long ago a couple of fellows from Columbia working either for a degree or for a bit of fleeting publicity, conducted a survey of town meetings. They concluded that the town meeting as an expression of pure democracy is more or less a myth and that it should be decently interred. In town after town, they reported, they found that only a handful of citizens showed up for a town meeting. The students attributed the shrinking importance of the town meeting to the fact that more and more vital issues of the community were handled by state and federal governments.

The Columbia men, we fear, were victims of hasty conclusions. There is no doubt that there have been changes. But the researchers shouldn't be in too much of a hurry to bury the town meeting. How well we know that in Summit. For almost a year the Herald has been reporting on the number of persons attending Common Council meetings. In most cases the sparse audiences have indicated little or no interest in local government. But let a live issue hit a community like ours, such as the current Housing Authority debate, and you not only pack the City Hall but you find more than 1,400 people overtaxing the facilities of the largest public hall in the city. When the taxpayer is interested, it is obvious he will attend town meetings. When the taxpayer is interested he will exert himself to make a direct personal expression that is traditional with the old town meetings.

It is only natural that the quaint town meeting of another generation, which served as a major social function, should now be shaped to meet modern conditions. But anyone who believes that the spirit of the town meeting is dead just doesn't know what he is talking about, even if he is a Columbia fellow. He should have been at the High School on December 12. The high percentage of a community's population who turn out when public housing, schools and other matters that are close to local interests are the issues, is proof enough that the Currier and Ives version of the town meeting may be wrong.

Our outstanding town meeting of December 12 was conducted in an admirable and praiseworthy manner. It was an example of democracy at work. There were two widely divergent schools of opinion attending the meeting, yet neither side showed rancor nor poor manners. Which side is right remains to be seen but the basic fact is that opponent and proponent can be heard and that there is equal opportunity for expression.

No, the spirit of the town meeting is not dead. It shall live as long as there is controversy and as long as we remain a free nation believing in freedom of speech.

A Children's Holiday

Whatever our religion may be, whether we celebrate this Sunday as the birthday of the Holy Child, or not, it will be for those of variant faith and even for those of no faith at all, a children's holiday. For adults it is often a period of exceptional difficulties, either because they lack the means to make it joyous for their families or because the rush wearies them almost behond endurance.

But for children it is a wholly happy occasion. There are the beautiful stories of the shepherds and the Magi, with the carols which surround them. There are the hopes of Santa's goodness and of parental bounty. There is the lighted Christmas tree with presents at its root. There are relatives pouring into the house and friends stopping by. And there is the turkey—or whatever special dish climaxes the banquet-like meal.

Let us remember, especially those who do not have the religious outlook on Christmas, that its beginning, according to the stories, revel in the happiness of children. The angel song announced "tidings of great joy"; and to the little tots it is the most joyous day of all the year. And later came the resounding chorus of "peace on earth, good will to men." As we look into the innocent faces of our boys and girls and realize how badly our generation has managed world affairs, does not Christmas mean a valiant hope that these youngsters may have a different world to live in? And we visualize a world peace and goodwill, not for ourselves—for we have proved we do not deserve it—but for those who are gathered around the tree in amazement at its glory.

Such is the holiday when we dodge its religious meaning and look at it only as the supreme children's holiday.

And there were Wise Men too who came to Bethlehem. They brought gifts to a Child in a manger. We—who imagine ourselves wise—bring our gifts to the children too in a natural outpouring of the unguarded affection which rules the day. The Wise Men were returning to Herod to tell him of their experience; but they were warned not to do so. So, "they departed into their own country another way."

Perhaps in the phrase we have the meaning of Christmas to adults. In the clear, trustful faces of children who must later face disillusionment in this troubled world, in the jolly old saint in whom there was no guile, in everything that surrounds Christmas, have we not a vision of what life ought to be? Perhaps these very simplicities for the moment may lead us out of our cynicism, our worldliness and our hopelessness into something more nearly approaching what we ought to give permanently to our childrn. Perhaps we too, in the Christmas atmosphere can be transformed to a degree and return to our routine—our own country—another way.

May it be the way of Christmas—the way of the children's holiday.

We Go Bowling Along

It's possible, of course, that they have been here all the time, and we never knew about them. But the last two months (it seems in numbers never before noted) provided an astonishing demonstration of how many unsung schools and colleges the United States can boast.

Every Saturday afternoon and every Sunday morning you would run across them in the football sweepstakes and sports columns: Little Pigskin 7, Upper Goal Post 6. Or West Kickoff 21, Touchback A. & M. 13.

Before uniforms are stowed away, though, and the goal posts forsaken till next year, there's one formality remaining. That's the bowl games. And if anything has grown faster than the number of schools equipped with football teams, it's the number of bowls in which they can knock their heads together on New Year's Day.

It used to be simple. The season's climax was the carnage in the Rose Bowl, and that was that. Then someone had the idea that other teams with reasonably spectacular records ought to have a chance to show off, too. Came the Cotton Bowl, the Sugar Bowl, the Rice Bowl, the Orange Bowl. Now we have, among others, the Glass Bowl, the Potato Bowl, the Sun Bowl, Cigar Bowl, Pineapple Bowl, et al. As yet no one seems to have thought of the Salad Bowl, a grave oversight if there ever was one, if we know our groceries. Doubtless next year there will be one, however, as every year seems to add more of them. If we don't call a halt to the process soon, every team in the nation will be out there performing valiantly as the New Year is ushered in. There won't be enough of us left to watch or listen.

The Finger Bowl, the Cherry Bowl, the Gravy Bowl—it's got to stop, that's all! We can't keep up with all this bowling. Football is confusing enough nowadays with platoons swarming on and off the field and rules changing every year, even when you know who's playing whom, where, and for what title. The constant proliferation of New Year games is bowling over even the game's enthusiasts.

Come Into The Kitchen.
(Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

A wide-open field of occupation for young American men—that of hotel cooking—has been pointed out by one of the distinguished practitioners of the culinary art, 34-year-old William Harmon, who is chef at the world-famous Mark Hopkins Hotel in San Francisco. He believes that close to a half-million American youths (male) can find employment in the food department of American hotels and that the more talented can rise to positions of head chef.

Come into the hotel kitchen, fellows; it's a man's world.

Subsidies Not Un-American

Editor, Summit Herald:

In a discussion of the housing problem the citizens of Summit should be able to agree on certain fundamental propositions, namely, — low cost housing is needed for a city, Summit has substandard housing, Summit prefers decent to sub-standard low-cost housing, the disgraceful conditions which have existed for years must be remedied.

In considering a remedy it would be well to remember that a democracy places human values above property values and that in a democracy citizens can unite and accomplish cooperatively what they are unable to do alone. Individual enterprise has its limitations and we are not un-American because we have a state system of education or board of health. There is great danger in branding our opponent's views as un-American.

Many of our sub-standard houses are beyond salvage; the cost of making others habitable (though still a fire hazard) is beyond the means of the individual landlords. To remedy the conditions which we deplore ineffectually, the establishing of a housing authority has been recommended. Is not a procedure which is a cooperative undertaking, which puts human values above property values, democrative and truly American?

Very truly yours,
EVELYN HOLT, M. D.

Needed — A Summit Plan

December 13, 1949

Editor, Summit Herald:

On Monday, December 12, my wife and I attended the Council Hearing at the High School Auditorium on the subject of a proposed Federal Housing project for Summit. We were delighted to find Summit residents in large number were interested in Summit problems regardless of the diversity of opinion. We were much distressed, however, to find the housing problem to be linked with the racial problem, all to no good in attempting to solve either. We were of the belief, and continue to believe, that sub-standard housing problems in Summit know no racial boundaries (white or colored). We further believe that decent housing can and should be provided for our own residents in accordance with their ability to provide for themselves, whether white or colored. And if these people cannot provide decent housing for themselves by reason of lack of earning power or physical inability to do so, they then have the right to appeal to our social agencies for aid in maintaining a decent standard of living.

At the meeting we heard a lot about what the Negro people wanted by way of housing benefits as provided under the Federal Housing authority.

We did not hear one constructive idea about what the Negro people were willing to do to meet their own problem relating to insufficient housing. We mention this, not as a distinct race matter of interest, but because the Negro people were most vocal as to the injustices of sub-standard housing in our city.

We certainly censure squalor, dirt, filth, slum conditions, overcrowding, low living standards and such economic diseases in our community whether white or colored. But we do think there is sufficient mechanism at hand to clear up or at least modify these conditions without recourse to a Federal Housing Authority. We think the Negro people and the white people can do something about it by working together in an attempt to clean up this problem with dignity and satisfaction. To this end we do want to make certain suggestions.

To begin with, every home in Summit needs periodical attention, whether it is under self-ownership or rental basis, or in time it sinks to a sub-standard dwelling. Every home, regardless of its present condition, can be improved or kept above standard by proper attention, individually. Home repairs can be made by anyone. Paint used on interiors or exteriors can be put on by anyone interested in providing comfortable living conditions. All of us as citizens of Summit have, to a greater or lesser degree, been called upon to do these things for ourselves. If the means are not available by the occupants or the property owners, it is certain that such things can be provided for this purpose from the community at large. True it is that such an idea will not prevent over-crowding or major construction repairs, but it will help to bring about decency and pride.

There are certainly people with technical skills and artistry in our community who will volunteer their time and efforts in consulting with those who are interested in bettering their living conditions. Our doctors, our lawyers, our social agencies, and our civic groups give freely of their time, money and interest to aid the less fortunate in our community. Is it too much to ask that the people thus served also contribute their energies, spare time and ingenuity to make Summit a better place in which to live?

We think that the people who are suffering under present intolerable conditions, whether white or colored, are in the main decent, clean, high grade citizens regardless of their economic standing. We also think they have considerable power in being able and willing to help themselves. We all can want much and we all can give much to produce these benefits.

Now, as to a second suggestion, we believe that where major renovation is needed to make our substandard dwellings decently habitable, that we should face the issue frankly and courageously with mechanism given us under the law. We suggest that a committee of interested citizens be formed to investigate every sub-standard dwelling, beginning with the worst cases first and following through until every questionable dwelling has been investigated. We believe that the residents of such places should request such an investigation by the committee. A report, case by case, should be rendered to the Common Council by the Committee, and publicly given, naming names of the occupants, their economic conditions, the place of residence, the owner, the rental paid and the ability of the renters to pay, the needs of the premises to be brought to standard, the willingness or unwillingness of the owner to make the needed repairs, in fact everything having a distinct bearing on the problem as applied to the individual case. We believe that adequate publicity and insistence upon action case by case will produce direct and favorable results. The law and public opinion is all on the right side in demanding such action. No citizen need have any hesitancy in bringing such violations of law or common decency to the attention of the investigating committee.

Then and only then will we be able to know what are the true needs of the community and then and only then can we debate what must be done to make Summit decent by every standard of decency. This will take much time, thought and energy, but it is the one proved way for accomplishment.

What we need is not a Federal Housing plan or even a so-called "Baltimore Plan" but a Summit Plan, of by and for Summit people. Then we may have real dignity as a community in which to live and bring up our children as self-respecting citizens.

Cordially yours,
GERALD H. YOUNG

IF MISTER JOE CAN MAKE IT—THIS WILL BE THE MERRIEST CHRISTMAS EVER!

All through the year, Mister Joe walks into our Kings Super Markets like anybody else — through the front door. But during the week before Christmas he tries to squirm in through the chimney. "It gives our stores a real Christmas effect," he says with that Santa Claus smile of his. Mister Joe doesn't always make it down the chimney — especially if he has just eaten. But you'll always find the festive spirit in full bloom in Kings. Gay clerks, gay atmosphere, gay foods. And prices so low that you can be really, really gay.

Borough

School Budget Hearing Set For Jan. 16; Hoffman to Quit

BOROUGH—The Board of Education is hopeful that increases in the school budget for the 1950-51 school year will be limited to an estimated $7,441.33 after all transfers are completed. This was revealed at the board's meeting Monday night prior to an executive session conference with Mayor Elsworth R. Hansell and Councilman E. L. Kilpatrick, chairman of the finance committee.

District Clerk Thomas C. Musson was authorized to advertise a public hearing on the budget to be held Monday, January 16 at 8 p.m. in Lincoln School. The P.T.A. will also hold a meeting January 13 in the school at 8 p.m. to review the proposed budget details of which will be released at an early date following revisions that arose at Monday's conference.

Voters approved at last February's school election an appropriation of $115,132.17 to be raised by taxes for the present school year. The present school year budget totals $147,376. Anticipated taxes to be raised for the new school are tentatively set at $120,439.

It was explained that the tentatively proposed increase in the next school year budget is to provide two new teachers for the two story-addition now under construction and for the hiring of an additional janitor.

When asked how the budget would affect the borough's present $6.76 tax rate, Mr. Kilpatrick explained that couldn't be determined until later. "We anticipate a sizeable increase in ratables," he added. Mr. Kilpatrick was also quoted as sdying he believes the school budget is "just and reasonable" in view of the opening of the new school in September.

Allen W. Roberts, supervising principal, said that some of the proposed increase would be used to purchase supplies and to maintain the new addition to the school. The increase will also provide for salary increments for teachers and the new tuition rates for students attending Summit High School, which will cost the borough $3,120.

A question dealing with the acquisition of property for use as a school play area will be voted on at the school election. The board proposes to earmark $1,500 for the land which is to the east of Lincoln School. The owners will be offered a total of $1,300 for two plots, which together measure 300 by 67 feet. The balance will be used for title search and other fees.

Not to Seek Re-Election

Board Member A. C. Hoffman revealed that he will not be a candidate for re-election at the February 14 school election. Mr. Hoffman, chairman of the education committee, and a former vice-president of the board, has served for 12 consecutive years. He said he wanted a "vacation from some of his arduous duties."

Mrs. Esther Maher's fourth grade presented a Christmas pagaent, "Why the Chimes Rang," at a Tuesday afternoon assembly for kindergarten through the fourth grade. A similar program was presented at Wednesday morning's assembly for the fifth graders through Junior High School.

Following a single session today, the Board of Education will give its annual Christmas dinner and party for all its employees. Board President Robert Peterson and Mrs. Peterson will act as host and hostess.

Santa Claus visited each homeroom yesterday afternoon leaving a present for each child from kindergarten through the fourth grade.

This morning all work will stop in school. As the youngsters listen in their homerooms, each of which has a Christmas tree and many other seasonal decorations, carollers and instrumentalists will render a program.

Permits Granted To Connect Sewers For Many Homes

BOROUGH—With approval given construction work by Clyde Potts, the borough's sanitary engineer and authority granted by the State Department of Health, Borough Council at an adjourned meeting Tuesday night authorized connection of sewers to the main sanitary sewer of 29 dwellings in the Fellsway and 33 in the Hillview Homes areas.

State officials had been withholding their approval until the borough had definitely committed itself to enlargement of its present sewer disposal system either by enlargement of its present plant or by connecting it with the Joint Meeting sewer in Summit in association with New Providence Township. Action is pending on the latter alternative, deadline for which has been set as April 15 next.

Hedge Ordinance Adopted

An ordinance was adopted requiring the owner or tenant of lands in the borough to keep all brush, hedges and other plant life growing within 10 feet of any road and within 25 feet of the intersection of two roads cut to a height of not more than two and one-half feet, where it shall be necessary and expedient for the preservation of the public safety, providing for notice with respect thereto, and providing a remedy upon refusal or neglect in connection therewith and for the imposition of penalties.

Prize Winners For Lions Yule Contest Listed

BOROUGH—Winners for the art contest of decorating 25 store windows in this municipality with Christmas designs and conducted by the New Providence-Berkeley Heights Lions Club were announced yesterday by Miss Eva Krayer, art instructor at Lincoln School under whose direction the contest was administered.

Money prizes totaling $35 will be distributed by the Lions.

First group winners for the most original design were Lyman Coddington, 3rd, and John Steele for their work at Bernardo's Garage. Second group winners in this were Allen Phillips and Dick Steele, and third group, Joseph Coviello.

First group winners for the most artistic were Carol Smith and Grace Peck, for their work in Decall's drug store; second group, Martin Urbanski and Patricia Mele, and third group winners, Kenneth Parker and Richard Sutcliffe.

First group winners for the most effective design were Carol Bryon and Shirley Binkley, for their work in the Hill City B & L; second group, Joy Roberts and Rinda Blehman, third group, Judy Howard, Edna Scheiderman and Marilyn Sheridan.

Judges were Mrs. Walton Osborn, Jack Raynor and Mrs. Carl M. Stuehler. Robert Webster was chairman of the Lions committee sponsoring the contest.

Britain first claimed the Bahamas in 1627; but was unable to make goodsher claim for almost a century because the islands were held by pirates.

Early Copy, Please!!

Early copy for the next two issues of the Herald is earnestly requested. All departments will be closed Monday, December 26, and Monday, January 2, in observance of Christmas and New Year's Day.

Editorial and advertising copy, therefore, must be submitted early in order to assure publication. The deadline for photographs will be Saturday noon. It would be greatly appreciated by the staff if as much copy as possible be submitted on the week-end before Tuesday.

Hansell Concurs With Driscoll on Water Shortage

BOROUGH—Mayor Elsworth R. Hansell has issued a proclamation on the water situation as follows:

"The water shortage in Northern New Jersey has become so acute that Governor Driscoll has issued a proclamation declaring a state of emergency in this area.

"I join with the Governor in requesting all residents of the Borough of New Providence and all commercial and industrial organizations located in our Community to use every possible care to conserve our remaining water supply.

"Use water only for purpose of health and safety and do not allow wasteful or unnecessary use of water.

"It may be necessary to put up with a slight discomfort now to avoid extreme distress later.

"Remember that the wasteful trickle you cut off today means gallons of water for your use tomorrow."

Methodists List Yule Programs

BOROUGH—The annual Christmas carol sing of the Methodist Church will be held Christmas Eve from 7 to 8 including a brief Christmas play. Everyone is cordially invited. The M.Y.F. will go caroling afterward.

Christmas Sunday will be Christmas Stocking Day in Church School. Mrs. J. Maher's class will give "Christmas in Many Lands." The sermon at 11 a.m. is "The Eternal Christ." Music by the three choirs, and solo by Miss Jean Radtke. Nursery during Church hour. No meeting of M.Y.F. on Sunday but their party will be Tuesday with George Ryerson as host.

Building Work In Boro for '49 Totals $1,453,720

BOROUGH—Councilman John Wright, chairman of the building committee, reported to Borough Council Tuesday night that permits had been issued during this year for 129 new dwellings for $825,400. Permits for all building operations this year as determined by permits issued amounted to $1,453,720, he reported.

The largest single permit was for an apartment built by Willard Clow for $350,000 near the Summit line. A further breakdown in the annual building report showed a permit for one gate house at $10,000, two storage buildings for $10,470; one packing shed, $3,500; one store, $4,000; three greenhouses, $9,000; five garages, $2,900; one chicken house, $100; one storage oil tank, $2,000; one repair job for fire damages, $5,000; three signs, $375; eight additions, $18,020, and 27 alterations $12,595.

Councilman E. L. Kilpatrick said unofficially that new building this year should add at least $374,000 to the borough's ratables.

Lions Club Holds Yule Events for Local Children

BOROUGH—New Providence-Berkeley Heights Lions Club, which has taken an active part in community and civic projects since its organization nearly two years ago, has devoted its efforts this week to spreading Christmas cheer to children in this area.

A gala program was held for the annual Christmas party for Children of members Sunday afternoon at Keller's Grove. Nearly 100 participated. The children were given the opportunity to entertain the adults with a variety program and entertainment by a magician. Gifts were presented the very young people.

Remember Young Patients

Working in close cooperation with Santa Claus through the help of Miss Hazel Rose, assistant superintendent at Bonnie Burn Sanatorium, the club obtained lists of gifts most wanted by the 15 young patients at the hospital. The presents were secured by the Lions according to the individual's desires and were presented to the young people at the hospital's annual Christmas party this week.

The local Lions' interest in the young people of the two communities is not solely confined to the Christmas season, the group having made contributions to the Borough PAL and Boys Club. An Easter party for members' children is a highlight of the Spring season.

When the Berkeley Heights American Legion Post was organized recently the local Lions organization presented the group with the National colors. Assistance in furnishing teachers' rooms in the new addition to Columbia School is another project undertaken by the organization. A contribution also was made to the Berkeley Heights Memorial Day celebration last spring.

Raises Funds for Blind

Participating in the sight conservation work, of which the International Lions organization has taken an active part for some time, the local group, under the chairmanship of E. C. Carter, recently concluded a blind aid seal campaign which netted approximatey $300.

The twin community Lions organization, which was sponsored by the Lions Club of Chatham, received its charter at a special program May 24, 1948.

District Governor George Hall of Cliffside Park presented the charter to the first president, Frederick E. Behre. In addition to Mr. Behre, who was reelected for a second term, current officers of the club are:

First vice president, Michael Nigro; second vice president, Horace M. Kent; third vice president, Victor Johannson; secretary, Mr. Carter; treasurer, Joseph A. Niano; tail twister, William Masterson; lion tamer, Robert Webster, and directors, Fred Lorentz, L. W. Baldwin, Anthony Carlone and Conrad Shad.

Charter Members

Charter members of the club include: L. W. Baldwin, Thomas F. Barry, Charles P. Behre, Fred Behre, Walter C. Behre, Leroy Brennan, Francis Bernardo, Mr. Carter, L. B. Coddington, Jr., Anthony Costillano, Ernie C. Fischer, Adolph C. Gropper, Harold M. Handwork, Asburne A. Hutchins, Anton Joss, Mr. Johannsson, Charles D. Kelly, Mr. Kent, Harry E. Rocco J. Puzzella of West View avenue was fined $2 for parking.

Garden Club Makes Wreaths for Lyons

BOROUGH — The Garden Club of New Providence met Monday at the Presbyterian Church for an all-day meeting. Over 100 wreaths and ropes of greens were made for Lyons Hospital, an annual project of the club.

Mrs. Elmer L. High, chairman of war services, spoke on the work of that service and then talked about wreath making. Mrs. Joseph Laverty, president, was in the chair.

Rotarians Close Out Year With Christmas Party

Rotarians bid good-bye to the year 1949 Monday at their luncheon in the YMCA in a spirit of joviality and good humor with each other and the world at large. Each member brought a small, inexpensive present for another member, accompanied by a humorous verse which, when read, brought forth spontaneous laughter.

The feature of the meeting, however, was the singing of the old favorite Christmas songs, both by the high school choir of young women and young men, and by the assembled Rotarians. The choir was led by Daniel F. Kautzman and the clarinetists by Harry S. Hannaford of the high school faculty and the introduction was by Albert J. Bartholomew, principal of the school:

The program as rendered was:

I

Break Forth O. Beauteous Heavenly Light ..... Bach
Song of Mary, Fischer-Christiansen
Cantique de Noel ..... Adem
(Solos by Mary Olsen, Lawrence Radtke)
Small Choir

II

Deck the Halls ..... Old Welsh
Sicilian Carol ..... arr. Kautzman
Jingle Bells ..... arr. Hannaford
Clarinet Quartet

III

Shepherd's Carol ..... Billings
Hallelujah Chorus ..... Handel
Small Choir

This was followed by the whole group, led by the choir, singing "The First Noel," "Joy to the World" and "Jingle Bells." (Tonight the choir will hold a community sing in front of the High School to which the public is invited.)

On behalf of the club, Robert O. Peterson, president, presented Mrs. Ada W. Burney and her coworkers, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Lee and Mrs. Cummings, with Christmas remembrances.

Visitor were introduced by Joseph Mulholland: Charles Dent, Dallas, Texas; Al Geisler, Millburn; Arthur S. Benbrook, Neil Elphick, Madison; George A. Smith, Williamsport, Pa.; Elmer Borbely, guest of Harold F. Hudson; Michael K. Veneza, guest of Joseph Mulholland; Dale Chronic, guest of Allan R. Devenney.

The meeting was opened with an invocation by Rev. Leonard V. Buschman.

The next session of the club will be on January 9, 1950.

Local Girl Elected Sorority Historian

Miss Alice Hanser of 1034 Springfield avenue was elected historian of the Alpha Phi Delta Sorority at Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Ind., is was announced by the sorority yesterday. The term is for the 1949 school semester.

A senior majoring in geography, she is also active in the glee club, Gown and Gavel, Schola Cantorum and the Torch, the campus publication.

NEW PROVIDENCE Township

New Budget for Regional High Has $16,713 Hike

TOWNSHIP — Regional High School Board of Education on December 12 introduced at first reading a tentative budget of $330,028 for 1950-51, an increase of $16,713. Last year's budget was $313,315. A public hearing will be held January 9 at 8 p.m. in the school.

Salary Account Increased

Board members pointed out that increases were necessary in the teachers' salaries account, to take care of increments called for in the salary guide and for possible raising of maximums from $4,400 to $4,600. The guide now provides for a $150 increase for the first six years and $100 a year thereafter. The new guide provides for an increase of $200.

Transportation costs are upped $3,000 in the proposed budget, because of the possibility that additional buses will have to be hired as the six towns served by the Regional High School continue to expand.

There is also a slight increase in the Building Maintenance, Repairs and Replacements Account. Only small minor repairs are anticipated.

Current expenses show an increase of $17,536. The current year's figures are $219,065 and they are listed as $236,603 in the new statement.

The Library Account this year is $10,000 and the new budget provides for $51,150. The increase is for salaries and an additional allowance for books.

The Maintenance account is increased from $10,650 to $11,500. The Capital Outlay Account is reduced in the proposed budget, from $5,100 this year to $1,700. No new projects are anticipated and the money provided will be for new equipment.

More for Manual Training

The Manual Training appropriation is increased from $20,750 to $21,400 because of increases in salaries as provided in the guide. The Agriculture Account shows a slight increase from $5,530 to $5,575. The Debt Service is reduced from $17,320 to $16,920. The drop is due to the retirement of $1000 worth of bonds this year.

Mrs. Helen Smith, district clerk, said that despite the increase in the proposed budget, cost to individual taxpayers will remain at 61 cents a $100 assessment, because ratables have increased from $29,000,000 to $32,000,000 in the municipality since last year.

Court Scoring Title Won With 58 Points

TOWNSHIP — Though the Trojans won top place in Columbia Junior High's first Intramural Basketball League, organized under the direction of James B. Robinson, Camille DiPasquale of the Beavers was high scorer of the 55 girls participating.

With 58 points Jeanette had a comfortable margin over the 43 points credited to Camille Speranzi of the winning team. June Sturm, also of the winning team, was in third place with 34.

Other high scorers were Beverly Wilson, 28; Gail Shaffer, 24; Carol Hinz, 21; Catherine Monaco, Mary Ann Amadeo and Jean Turner, 20.

The Trojans garnered eight points to win top league standing. The Beavers won six, the Blue Jays 4, the Blue Babies, 2; and the Witches, 0. Team members are:

Trojans — Gail Shaffer, Marylinn Lord, Camille Speranzi, Carol Wilson, Joyce Shaffer, Adele Petty, Jane Wesley, Gertrude Lucas, Marie Garcia, Ellen Dickson, June Sturm, Marie Ann.

Blue Jays — Beverly Kilhgren, Sara Rucrupe, Diane Taylor, Rita Norberg, Susan Graf, Carol Castaldo, Carol Keck, Carol Johnson, and Ruth Ann Becker.

Sunday School Yule Party on December 24

TOWNSHIP — Diamond Hill Union Sunday School will hold a Christmas party in the Lee Community Room of the church Saturday at 3 p.m. The affair was planned by members of the Sunday school board who include Mrs. Carl Blair, Mrs. M. K. Porter, Mrs. John Hickok, Mrs. William Lee, Mrs. Alan Turnbull, Theodore Plumb and Alvah Yeagerin, Sunday School superintendent.

TO END 21 YRS. SERVICE—George W. Robbins, Jr. plans to complete 21 years as a member of the New Providence Township Committee at an adjourned meeting of that body Wednesday night in the Municipal Building, Park avenue, Berkeley Heights.

In recent months Mr. Robbins has been incapacitated because of a broken ankle suffered last summer and consequently he has been unable to attend the Township Committee sessions. For the past seven years he has been chairman of the committee.

Monica Again Heads Firemen; Other Officers

TOWNSHIP — Berkeley Heights Volunteer Fire Department announces the result of a recent election at which Charles M. Monica, a township committeeman and chairman of that body's fire committee, was re-elected president of the volunteer organization.

Other officers were elected as follows:

Vice-president, William D. Russo; recording secretary, Bernard F. Fleckinschild; financial secretary, W. C. Russo, Sr.; treasurer, George W. Robbins, Jr.; chief, Anthony Amendeo; assistant chief, Carl Carpenter; foreman, Xavier Masterson; assistant foreman, Joseph Del Bero, and steward, Matthew Fornaro.

Counter Charges Hearing Held Over

TOWNSHIP — Sheldon Silverstein of 190 Millburn avenue was granted a postponement until tomorrow night by Magistrate Douglas J. Haberstrok in Municipal Court because of the illness of the defendant's attorney. The postponement was granted in Friday's session of court. The Millburn man is charged by Frank Stoneman of Honeyman place, Berkeley Heights, with disorderly conduct and careless driving. Also adjourned to tomorrow night were the trial of complaints made by Mr. Silverstein against Mr. Stoneman charging the latter with reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident. Mr. Stoneman was represented by Clyde Noll of Springfield avenue, New Providence.

At Friday's session of court, Anthony Cavulozzo of 11 Center street, Bernardsville, pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding 55 miles an hour in Springfield avenue, Berkeley Heights, and was fined $15 and costs.

Plan to Install Sewers Studied By Blue Mt. Group

TOWNSHIP — The Blue Mountain Farms Association met Thursday night at the home of Mrs. William Nickau.

Installation of sewers at Blue Mountain Farms through the proposed merger of New Providence Borough and Berkeley Heights systems, which would drain into the Summit sewage system was discussed. It was decided to canvass the community to learn whether the residents are in favor of this proposition.

Dr. Peter Gianquinto announced an okeh from Washington has been received for a house-to-house delivery of mail. The planning and zoning committee is numbering all houses and streets in the township, and as soon as that is completed the delivery will begin.

Also discussed was a date for the annual Blue Mountain spring dance.

Those present were Mrs. William Nickau, Mrs. Ralph Urich, Reginald Vincent, Mark Townsend, Dr. Peter Gianquinto, Carl Zellner and William Brown.

Home from College

TOWNSHIP — Miss Betty Lou Elch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Elch of Twin Falls road arrived Sunday to spend the Christmas vacation with her parents. Miss Elch attends Drexel Institute in Philadelphia.

Wary Christmas On Highways by Motorists Asked

TOWNSHIP—"A wary Christmas on the highways and roadways," was the Yule week greeting to motorists from Charles M. Monica, Chairman, New Providence Township Highway Safety Coordinating Committee in warning of unusual traffic hazards over the holiday. The warning was given as this community continued efforts in a state-wide program to prevent highway mishaps, concentrating during December and January on those resulting from failure to keep to the right.

"Christmas this year falls on Sunday, which means an extra-long week-end, with the usual attendant increase in travel. Accident experience of previous years indicates that the grim spectre of sudden death will ride the Nation's highways, too," said the chairman. "New Jersey has been fortunate in recent years to have escaped with relatively few fatalities, although seven deaths on Christmas Day, 1947 prove that the worst can happen here."

Chairman Monica reminded that motorists and pedestrians apparently give little thought to the possibility of being involved in an accident to mar their holiday.

"The record shows that at Christmastime there is a need for extra caution. This is particularly true if the weather is bad," he said. "Last year during December 62 per cent of all traffic accidents occured on wet and slippery pavements. Another December hazard is decreased visibility. This is particularly true this week, which contains the shortest days in the year."

The chairman declared he wished that there could be a let-up on enforcement, but unfortunately the record indicates there is actually a need for greater official vigilance.

"Enforcement officials will give the 'Season's best' by providing the restraint necessary for those exuberant or thoughtless motorists who otherwise might be a threat not only to their won but the happiness of others at this joyful season," warned Chairman Monica.

Members of the committee besides the chairman are N. J. Eich and Chief of Police D. V. Russo, Jr.

Officers Picked By 8th Grade

TOWNSHIP—With all the spirit of a hotly-contested national campaign the eighth grade of Columbia School elected its officers last week.

President is Alfred Heidinger; vice-president, Robert Gammer; secretary, Marie Bryan, and Gail Shaffer and Marylinn Lord, treasurers.

One week was set for the campaign and during this time candidates made speeches and printed and distributed literature and posters. John Wesner provided a printed ballot. Vote-counters checked the tally.

Previously a general convention was held at which slates were picked, parties designated and campaign managers appointed.

Eight grade faculty advisers are Miss Natalie Manno and James B. Robinson.

Columbia School Art Pupils Fashion Gifts

TOWNSHIP—Columbia School's art department, under the direction of Mrs. Lucille Opperman, is running in competition with Santa's Workshop. Christmas gifts are being made from cork, felt shells, beads, plastic and metal foils.

The fourth grade, under the direction of Mrs. A. J. Wolff, has just completed a social studies project on Norway.

Miss Harriet Cronin's fifth grade is raising money for a CARE package as a Christmas project. Pupils are also making tin angels and birch log candle-holders and are selling candy and Christmas wreaths in their drive for funds.

In the assembly recently Mrs. Kopelman's 5-B Nature Club presented favorite hobbies. Participating were Mary Ann Anderson, Annemarie Harden, Robert Inbimbo, Lorraine Mischler, Raymond Moser, George Nyborg, Stephen Petrone and George Pratt.

Also Anthony Rippel, James Russo, Richard Rijchlick, Steven Schaub, Walter Schroder, Nancy Shaffer, William Southgate, Marcia Tamaroff, Patricia Townsend, Carol Werner, Raymond Wesley, Ellen Williamson and Helen Yetnick.

Announcer was Marcia Tamaroff, class vice-president, presiding in place of Anthony Seaver, president, who was ill. Raymond Wesley read the Bible and the flag salute was given by Lorrain Mischler.

Diamond Hill Church Names New Pastor

TOWNSHIP — Diamond Hill Community Church has announced the appointment of Rev. Arthur A. Schuck, now of Needles, Calif., as pastor to fill the vacancy left by Rev. Roger Evans, who resigned. Mr. and Mrs. Schuck will be at the parsonage early in January, and he will assume pastoral duties Jan. 15, 1950.

Mr. Evans will return to conduct the Christmas Eve services in the church at 11:30 p.m.

Early Copy, Please!!

Early copy for the next two issues of the Herald is earnestly requested. All departments will be closed Monday, December 26, and Monday, January 2, in observance of Christmas and New Year's Day.

Editorial and advertising copy, therefore, must be submitted early in order to assure publication. The deadline for photographs will be Saturday noon. It would be greatly appreciated by the staff if as much copy as possible be submitted on the week-end before Tuesday.

Board Prepares Salary Guide

TOWNSHIP — A new teachers salary guide has been prepared by the Teachers Committee of the New Providence Township Board of Education and will be presented to the board for its approval soon, Theodore Kihlgren, chairman, reported to the board December 12 in Columbia School.

The board will meet Monday to consider the 1950-51 school budget. Frank Jeckel, finance chairman, reported basic preparations have been completed on the budget.

The Coterie Club, local woman's organization, was granted permission to use the school gymnasium for a dance for the benefit of the polio fund January 21.

The Rescue Squad thanked the board for recent use of school facilities for a district meeting of the New Jersey First Aid Council.

Brownies Have Party In Blue Mt. Farms

TOWNSHIP — Brownie Girl Scouts of Troop 70 had their annual Christmas party Tuesday afternoon at the Diamond Hill Community Church. The party was planned by the membership of the troop under the leadership of Mrs. S. Zeleznick and Miss Betty Niles. The entertainment included square dancing which the troop learned during the past fall. All the mothers were invited.

SUMMONS
THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY
TO CONSTANCE KIDD

You are hereby summoned and required to serve upon Wilfred L. Dempsey, Attorney for the plaintiff at his address, 382 Springfield Avenue, Summit, New Jersey, an answer to the complaint filed in a civil action in which Wilfred L. Dempsey, Substituted Trustee of the last will and testament of Mary T. Martin, deceased, is plaintiff, and Raymond G. Irvine, Jane T. Irvine, his wife, Travelers Corporation of America, Inc. and Constance Kidd, are defendants, pending in this Superior Court of New Jersey, within 35 days after December 29th, 1949 exclusive of said date. If you fail to do so judgment by default will be entered against you for the relief in the complaint.

The object of the said action is to foreclose a certain mortgage made by Raymond G. Irvine and Jane T. Irvine, his wife, to the said Wilfred L. Dempsey, Trustee as aforesaid, dated January 15, 1937, to secure the sum of $12,000, which mortgage covers premises described as follows:

All that tract or parcel of land situate, lying and being in the City of Summit, County of Union and State of New Jersey, known as Lot 1, Block 175 on the Tax Map of the City of Summit, and located on the Southeast corner of Morris & Essex Turnpike and Fernwood Road.

And you, Constance Kidd, are made a defendant because you hold a judgment for wage claim docketed in the Common Pleas Court on January 21, 1947, on a wage claim in the sum of $16, with costs of $4.30, which judgment is a lien against the mortgaged premises subsequent to the lien of Plaintiff's mortgage.

Regional Gridders Make Good With College Elevens

TOWNSHIP — Some evidences of the fine football teams Bill Brown has turned out at Regional High in recent years is the number of graduates of the Springfield school now playing with college teams.

No less than 10 former Regional High stars have just completed seasons with college elevens. Prominent among these is the name of John Bunnell of Springfield. Bunnell starred at Regional in 1946 and 1947 and played end for the varsity team of Princeton University.

Dick Danneman of Springfield, who graduated from Regional the same year that Bunnell did, 1947, met Bunnell on the gridiron this fall when the Columbia team for which Danneman plays met Princeton. Danneman also plays end.

Another end, Harry Nausbaum of Garwood, played a wing post for Syracuse during the past season. Nausbaum graduated from Regional in 1944.

Three Regionalites played for New Britain College of Connecticut during the past season. Herb Pennoyer and Bill Detrick of Springfield and Wes Gill of Garwood played end, center and halfback for the Connecticut school. Detrick graduated in 1945, Gill in 1946, and Pennoyer in 1948.

Ray Vohden of Springfield played back for Rutgers during the past campaign. Vohden graduated from Regional in 1948. Jimmy Ginesi of Clark Township, class of 1949, is a tackle at the University of Washington.

Bob Malenchek of Kenilworth, a tackle, played with Kings Point during the past season while Herb Palmer of Kenilworth played guard at Maryville College in Tennessee. Malenchek graduated in 1949 while Palmer received his Regional diploma in 1947.

Decorations Studied

TOWNSHIP — Columbia School girls in home economics are promoting table decorations and Christmas wrapping this week in the hope that each home will be beautiful for the holidays. Their activity is also designed to give mothers a lift.

Santa Gets Gifts at Party Of Cub Pack 68

TOWNSHIP — Tables were turned on Santa Claus Friday night when Cub Pack 68 of Berkeley Heights held its regular meeting, which was a Christmas party at which the boys presented gifts to Santa.

The party was held at Columbia School, with about 150 in attendance, including the cubs, their parents, and brothers, sisters and friends.

The boys and their families trimmed the tree with decorations made by the boys themselves, including popcorn, paper chains, stars and gilded pine cones.

There was a violin solo by Hans Geraden, and a recitation by Todd Sheldon. The group sang Christmas carols, and during this singing Santa Claus arrived. Santa described the gifts which the cubs had made for their parents, such as shoe trees, necktie racks and bookmarks. Then Santa presented grab-bag gifts to each boy.

As the climax of the party, Cubmaster E. T. Sheldon presented Santa with a large box of presents and candy, which he will leave at the children's ward at Bonnie Burn Sanatorium, in charge of Miss Rose, superintendent, to be given to the children Christmas morning. All these gifts were made up by the boys themselves. Awards were presented by Santa.

Visiting with Daughter

TOWNSHIP—Mr. and Mrs. Welyer Clark of Middleborn, Mass., are spending the Christmas holidays with their daughter, Mrs. Roger Metzler of Diamond Hill road.

Chicken and Rice On School Lunch

TOWNSHIP Chicken and rice with a vegetable, and ice cream and milk for toppers, have been on the menu this week in Columbia School's busy cafeteria.

Ice cream and cookies are always popular, as are the hot lunches served daily.

The past week an average of 240 hot lunches, 90 milk servings, 12 soups and 10 sandwiches were sold each day.

Western Square Dancing Class Has Vacancies

The Board of Recreations square dancing instruction group, to be conducted by Frank Kaltman of Newark, still has openings for five couples.

Registration by couples is preferred, but individuals are definitely invited. The object is to have a group consisting of an equal number of ladies and gents. Individuals or couples may register at the Board of Recreation office, or by calling Summit 6-2932. Registrations will be closed January 9.

The group will meet for a series of six sessions at the Field House beginning Thursday, January 12, at 8 p.m. Each period will be three hours in length.

Girl Scouts to Sing Carols on Monday Night

TOWNSHIP — The three Girl Scout troops of Berkeley Heights will sing Christmas carols throughout the township Monday night.

The caroling will start with the Convalescent Home, Springfield avenue. Next will be Free Acres, Stoney Hill, Bonnie Burn Sanatorium, Blue Mt. Farms, Deserted Village and the upper section of Blue Mt. Farms.

Refreshments will then be served by Mrs. R. J. Brittain of Twin Fall road and Mrs. Fred Wolf of Berkeley Heights.

W. B. Loane, 89, Member of Old Guard, Dies

Summit Old Guard lost one of its older members in the death of William B. Loane of 1 Pearl street who died at his home on Sunday, December 18. Mr. Loane would have been ninty years old had he lived until January 5 of next year.

Mr. Loane was born in Canada and came to the United States when he was 20. Previous to coming here in 1901 he had lived at Jersey City. He was a steel and copper plate engraver for 50 years and was employed by Dempsey & Carroll, a New York jewelry firm until he retired at 70.

He was an active tennis player until a few years ago and at 86 he played in a Forest Hills, L. I., doubles match in which the four players' ages totaled 330 years.

After retirement Mr. Loane made a hobby of his former profession and for years he engraved the special resolutions of the Common Council and some of the mayor's proclamations, and he also engraved jewelry, watches and announcements for his many friends. At one of the meetings of the Old Guard he showed his artistry when he crayon-sketched 40 monograms for members. He also engraved for Old Guard members name plates and had just completed seven last week-end. Ten years ago he was given a citation by his fellow-members for his exemplary service to the organization.

Besides being a member of the Old Guard, Mr. Loane was a member of Overlook Lodge No. 163, F. & A.M., the Royal Arcanum and the Woodmen of America.

Mr. Loane leaves a son, Richard S. Loane of 34 Overlook road, a grandson and a granddaughter. Funeral services were held yesterday morning at 11 o'clock in Calvary Episcopal Church, Rev. Elmer F. Francis officiating. Burial was in Clinton Cemetery, Irvington. Masonic rites were held at the William A. Bradley Home, Chatham, on Tuesday night at 8:30 o'clock.

WHALE LICE

A small, jointed animal, related to the fresh-water shrimp, is a parasite that lives on the skin of whales. These little creatures are known as whale lice.

Round of Parties

Gifts of cigarettes and baskets of fruit were taken to both institutions. Meanwhile, YWCA girls carolled at the railroad station and surrounding neighborhood.

The youngsters at Bonnie Burns were not forgotten either. The Lions Club of Berkeley Heights saw to it that they received gifts and the Sanitorium arranged a party yesterday afternoon which included games, refreshments, and the movie "Wizard of Oz." Kris Kingle turned up to add to the fun.

Adult patients were given a party last night which included the movie "In the Good Old Summertime." And for a week carolers from the surrounding communities have visited Bonnie Burns every day.

Kiwanians Give Party

The Summit Kiwanis Club gave their annual party for the Summit Home children at the Beechwood Hotel Tuesday afternoon. Santa Claus (again Pat Kelly) arrived to distribute gifts amid cheers of joy.

Last night proved to be a huge success when more than 250 Air Reduction employees including the New York branch took over the Blue Hill Plantation at Dunnellen for a dinner dance. St. Nick, always a mystery, became more of one when he failed to disclose his identity yet released balloons which raised prizes when punctured.

Today promises more merry-making when the McGregor Manufacturing Company throws its annual party in a holiday bedecked plant beginning at 5 p.m. Overlook Hospital will again him to carolers as fifty girls from the Westfield Girl Scouts parade around the wards already decorated by the Overlook Hospital Women's Auxiliary. The hospital entrance and nurses home also sport the holiday spirit through the efforts of the Auxiliary.

The annual Christmas playlet will be offered at the Summit Home for Children tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. The actors are the youngsters and the audience is the parents, friends and Board members of the Home. Mrs. Freda Leske, housemother, is the director.

Elks' Annual Party

So comes the dawn of the night before Christmas. Scheduled for Saturday is the Elks Club annual party for children. It will be held in the club headquarters on Maple street with Pat Kelly taking the role of Santa.

Meanwhile, many Summit residents will be boarding planes and trains to spend their holidays with relatives and friends in other parts of the country. The majority will remain here to hang their stockings and at the Summit home the children will have their "family" celebration . . . just staff members and youngsters joining in stories, carols and prayers.

Then Christmas morning — and the 15 boys and birls will join Miss Martha Johnson, director, in discovering what their stockings hold. Meanwhile, an ornate Christmas tree, given by Calvary Episcopal Church, will throw its glow in the Home. Additional stockings filled by sixth grade girls from Calvary also will be investigated. A turkey with all the trimmings is on the menu and Santa too. Sure enough it will be Pat again, loaded with gifts, and a cheery "Merry Christmas to all."

more lan" and enforce the Rehabilitation Ordinance of 1942 as well as existing health laws. It would investigate conditions in Morristown and other communities having Federal housing projects and would assist in furthering coordination between Summit's welfare and health authorities.

In pointing out defects of the plan, Mrs. Murray stated that it completely collapsed without volunteer citizen help and, that it makes no provision for raising funds necessary to demolish or repair sub-standard homes unless private contributions can be made or property owners will permit an increase in their taxes to finance a survey and a local plan.

Reasons for the plan, she added, are that citizens should be given a chance to make good their statements that a local solution can be devised. It is pointed out that no demolition of sub-standard dwellings can take place under the Federal Housing Act until July 1, 1951 thus providing plenty of time for a local survey and a plan; and that an immediate survey is needed so that certain basic facts can be determined. Granting that forward steps must be taken in rehabilitation of dwellings, Mrs. Murray maintains that a Housing Authority is unnecessary when the same procedures can be made under a Housing Board along the lines suggested by her.

Signatures of those who would be willing to work on any of the volunteer committees were obtained at the Sunday night meeting. Others who are interested in serving are requested to call Mrs. Murray.

Nature Group Counts 6,248 Birds in Week-long Census

The first winter bird census, taken from December 1 to 7 by members of the Summit Bird Workshop, has resulted in a tabulation of sixty species for the Summit area with a total of 6,248 individual birds. English sparrows and starlings accounted for 976 and 2,118 of this total, both more numerous than last year, according to James B. Hawley, chairman of the group.

Unusual finds included a snowy owl at a nearby dump; two snow buntings identified in flight over the area; three Carolina wrens; ten red winged blackbirds; one Canadian goose; one kingfisher; and two red breasted nuthatches;

The complete count was: Bluebird, 24 (170 in 1948); blue jay, 256; brown creeper, 15; cardinal, 81; chickadee, 436; eastern crow, 141; flicker, three; goldfinch, 59; purple grackle, 18; herring gull, 272; hermit thrush, two; junco, 612; killdeer, six; kingfisher, one; golden crowned kinglet, seven; ruby crowned kinglet, one; meadow lark, five; mourning dove, nine; myrtle warbler, 25; red breasted nuthatch, two; white breasted nuthatch, 142; ring-necked pheasant, one; pine siskin, one; purple finch, ten; robin, six; yellow-bellied sapsucker, two; Wilson's snipe, one; English sparrow, 976; fox sparrow, 12; field sparrow, 14; song sparrow, 61; swamp sparrow, one; tree sparrow, 255; Savannah sparrow, eight.

White-throated sparrow, 143; starling, 2,118; titmouse, 159; Towhee, five; downy woodpecker, 114; hairy woodpecker, 18; Carolina wren, three; marsh hawk, one; red-shouldered hawk, four; red tailed hawk, two; sharp shinned hawk, two; sparrow hawk, 11; barred owl, one; horned owl, two; screech owl, four; black duck, 51; Canada goose, one; American merganser duck, 37; mallard duck, 34; green winged teal, three; snowy owl, one; rock dove, twenty; snow bunting, two.

The next count will be taken from February 1 to 7.

Local Man Given Six Months in County Jail

Michael King of 487 Springfield avenue was sentenced to six months in the county jail by Magistrate Albert H. Bierman last week on a disorderly persons charge.

Thomas Kershaw of 67 Orchard street was fined $25 for an assault and battery committed against his wife.

Marie Sullivan of New York City was fined $20 for intoxication. She was picked up in Lackawanna Railroad station by Railroad Policeman James McGowan.

APPOINTMENT of E. Robin Little of Edgewood road as public relations representative for Jersey Central Power & Light Company, northern division, was announced yesterday at Morristown by James V. Carver, the utility's division manager. Previously Mr. Little served the company's north Jersey area from Millburn to Dover and Pompton Lakes in a consultative capacity as public relations counsel. He is the author of "Summit's Story," published this year by the City of Summit, and is president of the Mount Prospect Civic Association here. Mr. Little formerly was a trustee of Overlook Hospital and of the Short Hills Country Day School and publicity director of Summit's United Campaign and a member of the Herald staff.

Before the year 1001 Swedish rulers were known as Kings of Upsala.

Summit Home for Children Thank Kiwanis Santa

"It was a great day in the lives of our children, made possible by your thoughtfulness and generosity," declared Martha I. Johnson, director of the Summit Home for Children to Summit Kiwanis about the Christmas party tendered by the boys and girls of the home by the service club at the Beechwood Hotel, Tuesday noon.

Santa Claus Kelly was there and distributed gifts to the children.

Further addressing herself to the Kiwanis Club as such "a fine group of generous, kindly men," the director of the home further reported:

"I am having such fun buying gifts. I am not buying toys, because I think the children will get toys anyway. I am buying the kind of clothes we could not otherwise afford to have for the children, things which their parents could not afford to get them, such as bathrobes, raincoats, sweaters, etc."

Werner Mann was chairman of the committee planning Tuesday's program. George Boorujy is chairman of the club's committee for the home.

Beacon Hill Hi-Y to Install Members Tonight

The Beacon Hill Hi-Y Club of the Summit YMCA will induct new members tonight following a dinner at 7 p.m. Parents of the boys are invited to attend.

The induction team is comprised of Mac Barker, president; Kenneth Giles, vice president; Hugh Duryea, secretary; John Biggs, treasurer; Morris Butler, chaplain; Donald Spitzli, sergeant-at-arms and Harold Perry, adviser.

After the induction ceremony Allan R. Devenney, YMCA general secretary, will address the group. His topic will be "Parents and Youth in Action Together." Carl Howard, a club member, will present a magician's act. The singing of Christmas songs will conclude the affair.

The use of carrier pigeons for military purposes began in the days of the Roman Empire.

Barbara Voegtlen Becomes Bride of Clayton M. Elmer in Christmas Setting

The marriage of Miss Barbara Dwight Voegtlen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry John Voegtlen of 175 Ashland road, to Clayton Morse Elmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Armstrohg Elmer of 130 Pine Grove avenue, took place Saturday at 5:30 p.m. in Central Presbyterian Church. Rev. Leonard V. Buschman, D.D., performed the ceremony by candlelight against a background of Christmas trees and greens. A reception was held at Hotel Suburban.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attended by Miss Jane E. Haugh of West Hartford, Conn., maid of honor. Mrs. Russell B. Voegtlen of Beech Spring drive, Mrs. John R. Edds, Jr., of New York City, bridesmaids, and Miss Carolyn and Miss Elaine Elmer of Summit, sisters of the bridegroom, were junior bridesmaids. Russell B. Voegtlen, brother of the bride, was best man and ushers were Russell H. Bickford of Hagerstown, Md., and William Peck of Windsor Locks, Conn., fraternity brothers of the bridegroom; and Robert Duncan of Bloomfield and James Schaefer of Canajoharie, N.Y. Nellie Gordon Blasius was at the organ.

The bride's white satin gown was embroidered with seed pearls and beading and had long pointed sleeves and a train. Her waist length veil was attached to a coronet of pearls and beads and she carried a white cascade of eucharis lilies and stephanotis. The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore gowns of white satin and net, carrying bouquets of red carnations and holly. The junior bridesmaids were gowned in white net and taffeta with miniature bouquets like those of the senior attendants. The mother of the bride was attired in sapphire blue with a corsage of gardenias and holly. The bridegroom's mother wore slate gray with American Beauty roses.

After a honeymoon in the Poconos Mr. and Mrs. Elmer will make their home at Akron, O.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer are graduates of Summit High School. She also graduated from Averett Junior College, Danville, Va. Mr. Elmer is a graduate of Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind. He is a member of Theta Chi fraternity and is with Firestone Steel Products.

Celebrate Fifty Years of Married Life

Mr. and Mrs. David K. Swain of White Oak Ridge road, Short Hills, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Saturday with a mass of thanksgiving at St. Rose of Lima's Church, Short Hills.

The couple, who were married in St. Teresa's Church, have lived at their present address 40 years. Mrs. Swain, the former Ellen Davey, was born in Ireland and Mr. Swain in Summit. They have one son, David, Jr., of Short Hills, and one grandson.

Luncheon Guests Discuss Club Work

Mrs. George H. Chace, formerly of Hobart avenue, entertained with a luncheon last Thursday at her Short Hills home for six other members of the Fortnightly Club, when special matters were brought forward. The guests were Mrs. F. B. Llewellyn, president, Mrs. Ralph D. Rogers, Mrs. Harry R. White, Mrs. Franklin L. Hunt, Mrs. Roger R. Williams and Mrs. J. R. Whitlock.

Summit Student Food Sale Chairman at Mt. Holyoke

Miss Marion Banton of 79 Blackburn road was chairman of a recent Christmas food sale in South Rockefeller dormitory at Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass. The food was baked by the students in the homes of faculty members, each one producing her own specialty. Proceed went to the Mount Holyoke College Chest.

Other dormitories on campus have given parties for underprivileged children or are sending food to needy families during the pre-Christmas season.

Miss Banton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Madison W. Banton of the Blackburn road address.

Barbara Hill Cox Is Married to Albert Helmrath

The wedding of Miss Barbara Hill Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edmund Cox of Farley road, Short Hills, to Albert Marshall Helmrath, son of Albert H. Helmrath of Woodland avenue and the late Mrs. Helmrath, took place at Christ Church, Short Hills on December 14 at 4 o'clock, the Rev. Herbert Hannan Cooper officiating.

Mrs. T. Robert Palmer of Springfield was matron of honor and best man was John G. Kellogg, of Rochester, New York. Serving as ushers were Carl E. Helmrath, brother of the groom, and Joseph E. Cox, Jr., of Morristown, brother of the bride. Immediately following the ceremony, there was a reception at the Short Hills Club.

Mr. Helmrath is a graduate of Salisbury School in Connecticut and Princeton University where he was a member of Cap and Gown.

After returning from a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple plans to reside in Summit.

Local Young Woman in Play at Norton, Mass.

Miss Barbara L. Heelas of 42 Mountain avenue is a member of the glee club of the House of Pines, Norton, Mass., and took part in the concert which was recently presented as a part of the Christmas festivities. Members of the dramatic club at the school also presented a one-act play, "The Ghost in the Green Gown," and Miss Heelas was a member of the cast.

Miss Heelas is at home for the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar W. Heelas of the above address.

Early Copy, Please!!

Early copy for the next two issues of the Herald is earnestly requested. All departments will be closed Monday, December 26, and Monday, January 2, in observance of Christmas and New Year's Day.

Editorial and advertising copy, therefore, must be submitted early in order to assure publication. The deadline for photographs will be Saturday noon. It would be greatly appreciated by the staff if as much copy as possible be submitted on the week-end before Tuesday.

Story League Has Christmas Party For Members

The annual Christmas party of the Summit Story League was held at the home of Mrs. Allison H. Hearn, president, 25 Tulip street Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Herman Hutton gave the prologue to "The Doctor of Lonesome People" and "The Night Before Christmas." Miss Kathleen Wallace, taking Mrs. W. Knapp Bailey's place, told "A Polish Lullaby."

Mrs. Hearn extemporized with "The Golden Cobweb," and Mrs. James P. Shinn told the story, "Why the Chimes Rang." Mrs. Dale Woodward recited "the anonymous poem, "Long, Long Ago."

"The Voyage of the Wee Red Cap" was the choice of Miss Lillian Speer. Mrs. Alexander Keller read "The Christ Child" as related by St. Matthew and St. Luke. Mrs. Milton Schulte of Basking Ridge, played the piano accompaniment to the story. Carol Hearn and Marjorie Ann Emerson, guests of the League for the day, listened intently.

Mrs. Read Hixson Card closed the program by whistling "Cantique de Noel."

Mrs. John L. Dell and Miss Speer poured.

Also attending the party were Mrs. William Percival, Mrs. Charles Hall and Mrs. Charles Chace.

School Takes Holiday

Elkwood Play School will close today for the holidays, resuming classes on Tuesday, January 3.

Miss Mary Patrick of Lakeland, Fla., is the house guest over New Year's of Mr. and Mrs. James W McCarty of 7 Sherman avenue.

A joyous Christmas to all our friends.

Norene Cuff and Leslie C. Cahill, Jr. Have Nuptial Mass at St. Teresa's

Miss Norene Marie Cuff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Patrick Cuff of 3 Colony drive, was married Saturday morning at 10 o'clock to Leslie Charles Cahill, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Cahill of Albany, Ga., by Rev. John Kelly at St. Teresa's Roman Catholic Church. The marriage was celebrated with a nuptial mass, the bridegroom's brother, Theodore Cahill, and the bride's cousin, Brenden Broderick, assisting.

Escorted by her father, the bride had as her attendants Miss Katherine Barber of Maplewood, maid of honor, and her sister, Miss Nelda Cuff, Miss Ann Dowling of Morristown, Miss Doris Deuchler of Manor Hill road, and Miss Eleanor Cardinal of Short Hills, bridesmaids. Vincent T. Hynes of West Orange served as best man. Ushers included Joseph P. Cuff, Jr., brother of the bride, Edward F. Broderick, Jr., of Morristown, cousin of the bride, John Asher of The Bronx, George Cattalo, Jr., of Millburn and Albert Gee of West Orange.

The bride's white satin gown was fashioned with a portrait neckline outlined with alencon lace. The apron skirt was edged with tulle and lace. A lace cap held her French illusion veil and she carried an old fashioned crescent bouquet of eucharis lilies and stephanotis. The honor attendant wore a white satin brocade gown trimmed with forest green velvet. Her bonnet styled hat had a matching green plume, and she carried a muff of red roses and green maline. The bridesmaids wore gowns and hats similar to those of the maid of honor's, with muffs of white fleur d'amour with green maline.

After a wedding reception at Canoe Brook Country Club the couple left for a honeymoon in Canada.

Mrs. Cahill is a graduate of Oak Knoll School of the Holy Child and attended St. Elizabeth's College at Convent. Mr. Cahill, a graduate of West Orange High School and Cheshire Academy, Conn., also graduated from Seton Hall College. Mr. Cahill is a salesman for the Royal Society Cotton and Wool Firm

The Harmaniacs to Entertain Juniors

During the long intermission of the junior holiday dance to be held at Canoe Brook Country Club on December 29, the Harmaniacs, a hillbilly band made up of five Pingry School students, will give a special performance. The boys in the band are Pete Patttison, Duane St. John, Herbert Moser, Clark Coleman and Frank Eleder.

Several large dinner parties are being arranged at the club preceding the dance. The usual snacks and soft drinks will be available throughout the evening.

Mrs. Harold St. John of Short Hills heads the entertainment committee for the affair. Phil Bennett's Orchestra will provide the dance music.

Robert Bunnell of 303 Morris avenue, a student enrolled in the music department of Ithaca College, Ithaca, N. Y., recently presented a tenor solo in a recital given by students in the college theater. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bunnell.

Holiday Assembly For Hobby Hall Alumni Arranged

A Christmas assembly for its alumni who are home from college for the holidays will take place tomorrow evening at Hobby Hall, beginning at 9 o'clock. Continuous music will be furnished by Lester Lanin and his orchestra and there will be specialty features.

Two special entertainments will be offered. The sensational dance attraction of movie fame, "Slip, Slop and Slide" by three Negro dancers will be presented. Also Lucille and Roberts of Hotel Pierre will do their famous magic comedy act.

Mrs. Frederick G. Eberhardt and Mrs. Milford D. Walker will be hostesses for the 8th gade Christmas party on Monday at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Ambrose J. Geary and Mrs. Pendennis W. Reed will receive the 10th grade Christmas party on Tuesday at 8:30 p.m.

Union Junior College Homecoming Next Week

The annual homecoming day of Union Junior College, Cranford, for holiday festivities, will be held at the college on Wednesday next, which is virtually the only activity in the year-end recess which began Tuesday.

The college office will be closed tomorrow and next week, with the exception of Tuesday and Wednesday. Classes will resume January 3.

North Summit Plans Christmas Gathering

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Booruiy of 20 Aubrey street will be hosts to residents of North Summit Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the annual Christmas gathering. All interested are invited to attend.

Jim Stahr of Broad street, who is home from Dallas Theological Seminary, Texas, for the Christmas holidays, will conduct the service. E. L. Lough of Short Hills will be speaker and vocalist, with Mrs. Lough accompanying him.

Soap Wrapper Collection Continues Through Month

Throughout the rest of December shoppers may leave the wrappers from Swan Soap in the various grocery stores and markets, as well as in the Post Office, YMCA and YWCA buildings.

So far the efforts of the Turkey Hill Hi-Y Club have netted 50 wrappers for which CARE will send 25 cakes of Swan Soap to Europe.

Miss Mary Hyde of 84 Mountain avenue was a member of the Christmas choral group which provided entertainment following the formal opening of the new Wheelock (Boston, Mass.) College dining hall on Thursday, December 15. Forty members of the Harvard College Band gave a program of Christmas and college music and the eleven member Wheelock choral group sang Christmas songs during the intermission. Miss Hyde

Newcomers Club Has Christmas Party With Display of Holiday Decorations

More than 100 members of the Newcomers Club began their holiday festivities at the Canoe Brook Country Club on Tuesday at a luncheon meeting. Mrs. W. Knapp Bailey, president, announced the chairmen for future meetings. On January 17, Mrs. H. M. Brundage will take charge of the luncheon. A tentative date of February 11 was set as the occasion for the annual winter dance. Mrs. Arthur V. Danner and Mrs. C. H. Dresbach have accepted co-chairmanship.

Mrs. Paul E. Sharts, chairman of the day, introduced Thomas W. Coleman Jr., president of the Summit Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Coleman welcomed the Newcomers to Summit, explained his organization's function in the city, and on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce extended holiday greetings.

Mrs. Charles F. Wallace of Westfield, guest lecturer, was also introduced by Mrs. Sharts. As an accredited judge of flower shows, Mrs. Wallace has served at the International Flower Show held in New York and Philadelphia, and has lectured on flower arrangements. A display of indoor holiday arrangements for children, for formal dining tables, for mantels, and for incidental tables was presented. One particularly interesting novelty was a "kissing ring" originated by Queen Victoria. Mrs. Wallace explained the various ingredients used in the making of her display.

Hunter's Candlelight Gift Shop had two tables of novelty candles, tapers, Christmas balls, and paper. Mrs. Lucy E. Hunter, from the shop, donated the candles and ornaments, and The Summit Food Market donated the greens for the tables. These decorations were arranged by Mrs. Paul E. Sharts, Mrs. James F. Hoffer, and Mrs. Hugh A. Eubank. A five dollar gift certificate was given as a door prize by Charm Lane. The centerpieces used as table decorations were also given as prizes.

Mrs. Humphrey Simson won the gift certificate. Mrs. Clifford Propst and Mrs. John Medd won the centerpieces.

Mrs. Robison Clark and Mrs. Charles D. Brannon presented the new members with boutonnieres. Mrs. Arthur V. Danner and Mrs. C. N. Wells assisted in taking dues. New newcomers to Summit were invited to the meeting by Mrs. Charles Manning and Mrs. Ralph W. Dorius. Reservations for all other members were made by Mrs Norman P. Bate. Other committee members included Mrs. D. R. Robinson, Mrs. H. C. Albaugh and Mrs. Lawrence Krieger.

Open House at Canoe Brook on New Year's Day

Window to Be Dedicated

This Sunday at 11 a.m. a memorial window will be dedicated at First Baptist Church in memory of Mrs. Ernest L. Fleming.

The window, designed and executed by Len R. Howard of Kent, Conn., has as its central figure St. Cecelia, with Saints Gregory, Caedmon, and Genesius surrounding the central one. The figures of Mimiam and David before Saul also are depicted. The inscription reads, "To the Glory of God and in Memory of Rita Pullen Fleming."

Another window was recently dedicated at the Church in honor of three War dead.

Music Students Give Recital

On Monday afternoon at The Child Garden of Music, 15 Franklin place, Alice Brundage Marsh, director, the children's chorus and the recorder group presented a program for their parents. Irene Dodson, who directs the chorus, led the children in songs appropriate to the season.

Miss Irmgard Lehrer, who teaches the recorded group, accompanied them in several carols. Jeanne Eickele and Don Schwarz played solos.

Refreshments were in charge of Mrs. Joseph Scarry, Jr., who is the mother sponsoring the chorus. She was assisted by Mrs. Eickele and Mrs. Roy Kircher.

The studio will close this afternoon to reopen Tuesday, January 3.

Medical Employee Wed Saturday at Baptist Church

Miss Genevieve Marie Melluso, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Melluso of 9 Perrin road, Chatham, and W. Stanley Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Meyer of 400 Stout avenue, Scotch Plains, were married Saturday at the First Baptist Church. Rev. David K. Barnwell performed the ceremony which was followed with a reception at the Melluso home.

Miss Phyliss Melluso was her sister's maid of honor. Donald Meyer of Milwaukee, Wis., served as best man for his brother.

The bride's gown was of satin, trimmed with chantilly lace. A headpiece of the lace held her finger-tip veil and she carried roses and carnations. The maid of honor was in emerald green satin and carried white carnations.

After a short southern trip the couple will reside at 1904 Bartel avenue, Scotch Plains.

Mrs. Meyer, a graduate of Chatham High School, is employed by the Summit Medical Group. Mr. Meyer is with the Chipman Chemical Co., Bound Brook.

Only one in every 25 veterans who have had education and training under the GI Bill or Public Law 16 no longer is eligible for further training. He either exhausted his entitlement under the GI Bill or was declared rehabilitated under Public Law 16.

Sports' Sidelights

WHAT PRICE GLORY?

The executive committee of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association has come up with its annual armful of football champions and people are talking. Two weeks ago Thursday night it was that the sectional kings were crowned but people still are talking and much of what they're saying cannot be printed in this, a family newspaper. In this connection we have been wondering in a sort of what-price-glory vein. What price championships? And why doesn't the executive committee of the NJSIAA simply drop the whole thing?

Maybe you think that if no sectional champions were to be named at the end of the season much of the fun of football would be eliminated for the boys and their coaches and maybe you're right. It's possible, though, that the neighborhood rivalries which are the core of the competition regardless of championships would furnish enough fun to satisfy everybody.

And we'd like to say this: If what was decided that Thursday night is the best the executive committee can do, then for heaven's sak let's forget about championships.

SHARE FOR WESTFIELD, NOTHING FOR ROSELLE PARK

What logic was behind the naming of Westfield as co-champion with Regional in Group 3? Bill Brown's Springfield Bulldogs were undefeated and in their climax game they walloped a very good Rahway team. Westfield lost two games and wound up with an appreciably lower Colliton point total than Regional.

Why was Glen Ridge, not Roselle Park, chosen as sectional king in Group 1? Herm Shaw's Panthers won six and lost three, Glen Ridge won five and lost two—playing, you will note, only seven games. Roselle Park had a Colliton total of 436, the State's best in Group 1. Glen Ridge collected 391 Colliton credits.

We are not convinced that Colliton points necessarily mean a great deal. (For that matter, we are not convinced that sectional championships mean a great deal.) But Colliton points are used as a guide, we have been told. Obviously, Roselle Park played a longer schedule and a tougher schedule than Glen Ridge, although Glen Ridge's 5-2 record figures stand out slightly better than the Park's 6-3 in the matter of percentage. There's supposed to be a rule that no thrice-beaten team can win a championship. In this instance it couldn't reasonably make much difference. Glen Ridge lost two of its seven, remember. It also is interesting to note that the South Jersey Group 4 crown went to Collingwood, a thrice-beaten team.

COLLITON SYSTEM OR SPOILS SYSTEM?

Somebody has pointed out a coincidence: The schools most pleasantly surprised by the recent Thursday's decision are Westfield, whose athletic director is Bob Duncan, and Glen Ridge, whose athletic director is Bill Cartmill. Duncan is president of the NJSIAA and Cartmill is vice-president.

This could be merely a strange coincidence or a small series of strange coincidences such as confounded the fellow who listened painfully to a soprano solo and said to the man seated next to him: "Boy, is she a terrible singer!" And the other party said: "Sir! That lady is my wife!" And the first fellow hastened to amend: "Well, I guess it must be the song. Pretty awful!" And was informed: "I, sir, composed that piece!"

It could be a coincidence, as already mentioned, but people may be pardoned for wondering (out loud) whether the NJSIAA is using the Colliton system or the spoils system.

In this instance it's very easy to put two and two together and come up with sixteen. And we don't mean Colliton points.

BLUE DEVILS WERE SHORT-CHANGED

Couple of years ago Westfield had a team that won ten in a row and was forced to share its championship with Regional and Hillside, neither of which was unbeaten. That was a decision understandably unpopular in Westfield because on their brilliant record the Blue Devils obviously deserved more than one-third of a title. Wonder how it feels to get a fraction of a championship, anyway.

But late last spring Westfield was awarded a baseball crown and there are hundreds of people who still can't understand it. Many of them live in Union.

These things can be pretty funny. Roselle Park, for instance, was astonished to find its baseball team picked to engage Rahway in a playoff for sectional honors. "Neither team," Shaw says, "had any right to be playing for a title. It was like the blind leading the blind."

SHARE THE WEALTH AND EVERBODY SQUAWKS

Year after year the NJSIAA names champions and gets itself nothing but abuse. The apparent attempt to make more people happy by naming co-champions wherever possible almost always boomerangs. It makes nobody happy. Share the wealth and everybody squawks.

Walter Short, NJSIAA executive secretary, annually gets most of the abuse and actually he has no vote in the naming of the champions. He must love those State basketball tournaments. In basketball, at least, titles are decided on the court, by points made in combat. In basketball Colliton points don't count.

Savage Sweeps, Gains Tie for Bowling Lead with Spring Lake

The news in the City Bowling League last week was not so much that Summit Elks lost their 33rd straight game in as many starts, but that Savage Esso Service, defending champions, took a new lease on life and swept against Zotte's Esso Service to gain a tie for the loop lead with Spring Lake who lost a pair to Root's Men Shop. The latter gained a peg on the third slot by their twin killing. Incidentally Summit Buick spanked the Elks.

Elsewhere in the league, Maben's handed the American Legion, Summit Post 138, a double loss as did Charlines against Creglation.

Pair Rimmed Top

Noel Bebout, lead-off man for Maben's, and Ed De Rondo, catcher man for Savage, vied for scoring honors. Bebout gained high three game series score of 615 for an average of 205. His high games were 216 and 208. DeRondo rolled a three game series of 601 posting high single score in the league for the week of 229.

Frank Allen with a 226 starter was a big help to Maben's in their last game win over the Legion.

SHS Cagers Edge Roselle, 28-23, For 2nd Straight

In a game featuring defensive play, Summit High School's cagers edged out a 28-3 victory over Roselle High School here Thursday afternoon.

Sonny Dennis, Summit's center with 11 points, was the only player on the floor to attain a double scoring figure. Playing before probably the smallest crowd ever to see a regularly scheduled interscholastic basketball game since the High School was opened in 1923, not even the temporary stands built for this year were full, as estimated 200 attending the contest.

It seemed that about every fourth play the ball would bound into the stands, making the game a slow moving affair. At the end of the first quarter the visitors were leading 6-4, the game was so exciting. At the half Summit was leading 13-9. At the end of the third and fourth frames the victors kept the margin at a five-point advantage.

Vampires Defeat Lincoln Y, 45-41

The Vampires of Plainfield nipped Lincoln Y of Summit recently, 45-41, at the Summit Club's court. A 12-point rally in the last period gave the Plainfield team the verdict after the Summit five had led for half the game.

Lincoln Y held a 24-19 advantage at half time. The Vampires tied the count at 33-33 in the third quarter and won the game in the last stanza.

Regional Cagers Drub SHS, 60-28

Picking up where their football team left off, Regional High School's basketball team on its own floor in Springfield Tuesday afternoon administered to Summit High School cagers, a 60-28 drubbing. It was one of the worst defeats on record suffered by a Summit team on the court.

Only one Summit player, Sonny Dennis at center, amassed a double figure score. As usual Ken Belliveau led the slaughter, swishing the nets for 16 points to lead the scoring parade.

Boys' Club Tops Legion Cagers; 49-33 in Upset

BOROUGH—The opening of the New Providence Community Basketball League saw one of the most suprising upsets when the American Legion team, who dominated league competition for the past two seasons, were upset by the Boys C, 49-33. The Legion had amassed a winning string of 15 games in league competition prior to Tuesday's encounter. Lack of practice and inability to retain possession of the ball were major factors that led to the Legion downfall while the Boys Club displayed improvement in play due to the coaching of Ed "Hap" Lieder. Mike Madonna with 15 points and Bob Gaetano with 16 points led the Boys Club. Mike Allocco, league leading scorer of 1948 led the Legion with 11 points.

In the other league game the J.V.'s were downed by the hustling Clippers to the tune of 47-29.

Coalers Gain on Delia's, Lions Drop to Cellar

BOROUGH—Mandato Coal took two out of three from the league leading Delia's Monday night on the Bernardsville Recreation alleys to move within two games of the lead in the New Providence-Berkeley Heights Bowling League.

Pine Tree Inn by sweeping against Carlones and the American Legion, New Providence Post 433, by taking a pair from J. K. Smit moved into a tie for third place. Bill's Shell Service sent the Lions tumbling into the cellar by taking two from the service club.

High single game score of 222 was rolled by Rattina of Delia's.

Jr. High Boys Cage Program Starts Jan. 7

With the Board of Education cooperating by permitting the use of the high school gym, the Board of Recreation plans a Saturday morning basketball program for Junior High Boys.

Each Saturday morning beginning January 7, from 9:30 a.m. to noon there will be a supervised basketball program. All boys, aged 12 to 18, are invited to attend. Boys are asked to submit team rosters at the Board of Recreation Office at Memorial Field as soon as possible. Play will be in two groups, 12 and 13, and 14 and 15. A boy from the younger age group may play for a team in the older age group. Boys who are not on teams but who want to play are also welcome. There will be a place for everyone.

Early Copy, Please!!

Early copy for the next two issues of the Herald is earnestly requested. All departments will be closed Monday, December 26, and Monday, January 2, in observance of Christmas and New Year's Day.

Editorial and advertising copy, therefore, must be submitted early in order to assure publication. The deadline for photographs will be Saturday noon. It would be greatly appreciated by the staff if as much copy as possible be submitted on the week-end before Tuesday.

CYO Cagers Topple Boy Club, 59-39

BOROUGH—Unable to halt a last period drive by the visitors, the Boys Club went down to defeat at the hands of the St. Francis CYO basketball team from Newark, in a game played at Lincoln School on Thursday night. Campano led the home players with ten points. Inability to hit the basket led the Boys Club to their second defeat of the season, as compared to three victories; the home team missed nine of ten free throws and missed ten of sixteen field goal attempts in the last half.

Preceding the game, the New Providence P.A.L. held its second meeting of the season with a turnout of fifteen girls, and 65 boys filling the school auditorium. Basketball games under the direction of Esco Long, Carl Ehnis, and members of the Boys Club, dominated the main floor while wrestling and boxing instruction also provided great interest to the P.A.L. members.

Summit HS Invites Community to Carol Singing

For the second consecutive year Summit High School invites the community to its annual Alumni Christmas program of caroling which will be held tonight in front of the school starting at 8 o'clock. Choral and instrumental music will highlight the program of five parts.

A brass sextet will present Bach's "Rejoice and Sing", Luther's "Away in a Manger" and "Christmas Medley", an arrangement by Hannaford.

Members of the community assembly assembled accompanied by the brass sextet ,will sing "The First Noel," "Joy to the World," and "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear.". The High School mixed Chorus will offer Bach's "Break Forth O Beauteous Heavenly Light," Junget's "While by My Sheep" and Billing's "The Shepherd's Carol," after which the community people attending, again accompanied by the brass sextet will sing "Hark, The Herald Angels Sing," "Silent Night" and "Jingle Bells."

The finale will find the High School chorus augmented by alumni chorus members singing, Reading's "O Come All Ye Faithful," Stainer's "God Rest You Merry Gentlemen," Praetorius' "Lo How a Rose," the Gregorian tune, "O Come, Come, Emanuel," and "Old Welsh, Deck the Halls."

In case of inclement weather the program will be held in the school's auditorium.

Cavaliers to Test Ciba Tonight; Tight Race Seen

With the Community Basketball League scarce a week old, observers are coming up with the prediction of the loop having the closest race in years. In recent years the result has usually been a foregone conclusion, but not so this year.

The Cavaliers, generally rated one of the most improved teams in the league as last year's schedule concluded, are set to give Ciba a test tonight in the finale of the calendar year starting at 8 on the High School court. League competition will resume January 5 with Maben's and Corby's tangling.

McElgunn's in Overtime

In Tuesday night's finale, McElgunn's had to go overtime to get back Maben's, another newcomer, to the tune of 61-56 in the first extra period game of the season.

Paced by High School Senior Dave Moroney's with 15 points, the haberdashers came through with 11 points in the added stanza to topple the realtors and insurance brokers who could only garner six points in the fifth canto. The score was 50 all in regulation time.

In the evening's opener, Geddis Service had little trouble romping to a 66-28 rout of Corby's Laundry.

Kings Market Honors 41 Old-Time Employees

Kings Super Markets last week honored 41 employees with service pins at their annual employees' Christmas Party held for their families, and friends in the trade, at the Meadowbrook.

An unexpected honor by Joseph Bildner of Summit, president, was the presentation of a set of sterling silver service for eight, to Max E. Buck, sales and advertising manager. In making the surprise presentation, Bildner reviewed the recognition Kings had received for its many newspaper ads with the impact of news, and for its unusual merchandising promotions.

Other speakers were Allen Bildner, assistant to the president; Louis Silver, personal director; Abraham Schofel, general manager of the produce division; and Jack Perlmutter, general manager of the meat division.

Holiday Lull in Sports to Prevail to After New Year's

Since sports' fans are just as full of the Yuletide and New Year's spirit as the next person, you have the reason for the lull that will begin in local sports events, in this case mostly basketball and bowling.

Summit High's cagers will wind up their '49 card home tomorrow night against Westfield High. Following last night's games the Community Basketball League concluded its 1949 schedule until the evening of January 5.

Suburban Conference

The High School quintet will start its quest of the Suburban Conference title at home January 3 against Verona High, defending champion. Judged by Verona's performance Thursday night against Chatham on the latter's court, the titlists will have to go a long ways to attain a repeat performance.

Verona is starting the season with only one letterman back, Phil White, who saw services in forward role. Verona's Coach Nelson Smith will be trying to fill the posts left vacant by the graduation of Frank Alderio, Don Marshall, Jack Davies, Fred Brooks, Dean Pringle and Don Hegan.

Six members of the Hillbillie JV cast of last year are starting at varsity posts judged by the Chatham game, namely Tom Hatchett, Dick Fifoot, George Voss, Lee Horner, Bob Dietz and Jerry Foss.

Last year Verona not only won the conference crown, but also the Group 1 North Jersey title. The Hillbillies lost to Fort Lee in the NJSIAA finals.

Millburn, Team to Beat

Judged by pre-conference games, Millburn, who is going to the wire with a quintet of allsix-footers, will be the team to beat this year for the title. Two goals, both narrowly missed, will be the aim of the veteran Millburn quintet. Verona just nipped the Millers for the Suburban title last year. Then, in the State tournament Group II final, Neptune shaded the Essexites in a wild and wooly affair.

Bob Milbauer, Don Ruetlinger and Dud Tighe, three standouts last season, are back in uniform. Gone, however, are Warren Gray and Don Robertson, two better-than-average athletes. The team has real heights for Milbauer, Reutlinger and Tighe all top 6-3 or better, as does Bill Patton, who has cracked the starting team.

Reutlinger is expected to be one of the best ball players in the state, Milbauer is dangerous in close, while Tighe mainly a ball handler and defensive star, has devoloped as an offensive standout.

Summit, a Question Mark

The Summit squad as yet lacks balance, but may develop into a more smoothly operating machine. One thing certain, judged by the Roselle game here Thursday afternoon, the locals will be cramped because of the close quarters forced upon this year because of the addition and alterations going in the local High School plant. With the spectators seated on improvised stands right down to the court limits, there may be a mental hazard.

It goes without question that Coach Elwood C. Cornog has two better than average performers in Sonny Dennis at center and his son, Chet, at forward. There it stops. Jo-Jo Kenny, diminutive in comparison to the above pair of six-footers, is a good performer but his size will no doubt mitigate against his achievements. Gordon Murray and Lafayette Grisby are good average performers at guard. Cornog's problem is mainly one of replacements. As yet, Diakos hasn't developed poise at the forward slot. He seems a bit jittery when the going gets close.

Three Choirs to Sing At Lord & Taylor Tree

An evening of Christmas carols will be presented by the Boys' Choir of Christ Church, the Lord & Taylor Choral Group, and the Village Chorus of Millburn today at 8:15 p.m. around the Christmas tree at Lord & Taylor, Millburn and Wyoming avenues, Millburn. After a program of special songs by each of the choirs, all guests will be invited to participate in the caroling.

The Boys' Choir of Christ Church will offer a medley of traditional Christmas tunes including "Angels From The Realms of Glory," "Gloria in Excelsis Deo," and "The March of the Three Kings." The Lord & Taylor Choral Group will offer "The Shepherds Christmas Song," "Away in the Manger," "Stars Lead Us Ever On" — a Sioux Indian song, and Saint-Saens' Chorale from the "Christmas Oratorio."

The Village Chorus of Millburn will sing special arrangements of such Christmas favorites as "Joy to the World," "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," and "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming." They will also present a Bach Chorale "Oh, Rejoice Ye Christians Loudly."

Y Cagers Led by Fimia, Turn Back Plainfield, 63-60

The YMCA basketeers came to life Saturday night and led all the way to turn back the Plainfield Flying Eagles on the Y court here, 63-60. It was the first win for the locals in three starts. The Y cagers will next see action against the Valley A. C. here January 7 at 8 p.m. on the YMCA court.

John Fimia, ex-GI, and former Summit High luminary, for the third straight game dominated the scoring parade, not only for the locals but also for the visitors. Fimia swished the hoops for 21 points, 10 of them via the field goal route. "Captain" Fimia's efforts in the second half were personally responsible for the Summit victory. During this time he posted eight field goals to keep the locals in the running.

Fire Co. Holds To Game Lead in Township League

TOWNSHIP—Berkeley Heights Volunteer Fire Department held to a one-game lead in the Township League by sweeping against the Eight-Ball in December 12 matches. American Asbestos kept a game behind the leaders by taking three from the Mountaineers. Koppers broke out of the cellar by taking three from Romano's Roofing, while Ianello Dairy dropped back into the bottom rung by losing a pair to Berkeley Garage.

In the women's division of the league Pine Tree Inn and Della's chalked up double wins against Essex Electronics and Sulphur Spring respectively.

Anderson of Koppers won scoring honors for the week, rolling a 202 for high single game score and amassing 508 for high three game series honors.

Auxiliary Shop Has Glamorous, Practical Gifts

"The Auxiliary Shop", Overlook Hospital's gift nook, is featuring items suitable for Christmas gifts, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. W. Saxton Seward and Mrs. T. H. Henderson, chairmen of the gift buying. The articles, reasonably priced, are displayed in a new showcase at the hospital. The gifts border from "glamor ones" to those of "necessity for hospital comfort."

The shop, part of the Auxiliary's better relations program, is run more for the convenience of the patients and visitors than a money making venture, the chairmen pointed out yesterday. It is staffed by more than 50 volunteers who work on a weekly schedule.

Luncheon is served daily in the Tea Room which is run in conjunction with the shop. It also is an Auxiliary service and is under the direction of Mrs. H. M. Foster.

• Good idea! By making those Long Distance greeting calls right now, we can give you much faster, better service. On Christmas Eve and Christmas Day, circuits and Long Distance operators alike will be "snowed under" and many calls are likely to be delayed.

WHEN YOU CALL LONG DISTANCE it will save you time and aid your operator if you:
1. Give your Long Distance operator the telephone number of the party you're calling, whenever possible.
2. Tell her whether you want a person-to-person call or will talk with anyone who answers.
3. Wait until she calls you back, if she asks you to hang up because all circuits are busy.

Christmas Spirit That Operates 365 Days a Year

To Help Where There Is Need—S. A. Philosophy

By JOHN COAD

Dear Sir:
I would appreciate it very much if you would help me this Christmas. I am a widow with six children and am writing to you to see if you could send me a Christmas basket for myself and children.

Sincerely,
Mrs. A. H.

This Christmas, in answer to such requests, the Salvation Army will make the year's most joyful holiday brighter for some 16,000 families in this area who otherwise would be unable to afford a Christmas dinner or even a small toy to gladden the hearts of their children.

For many weeks now, pathetic letters have been arriving at New Jersey State Headquarters of the Salvation Army in Newark. Written on nondescript stationary, the simple pleas for aid at this festive time of year speak eloquently of the hardships and privations which some of the less fortunate among us must endure.

And in keeping with the Army's philosophy to help wherever there is a need, these pleas will not go unanswered. This year Army headquarters in Newark expects to present over 8,000 families with food orders and to distribute among the children some 8,000 toys.

The toys, incidentally, in an attempt to maintain the children's faith in the goodness of this world, will be marked with note from their parents, or Santa Claus, rather than from the Army organization.

Special Request

There have been a number of special requests, too. One elderly lady, for example, wrote that her one wish for Christmas was a rocking chair. She didn't have one, she stated in her letter. Would it be possible for the Salvation Army to find one for her? Her request has already been taken care of, according to Army officials.

Although the Salvation Army's annual Christmas appeal for funds for gifts for the needy is the intensified part of their program, it does not by any means indicate the scope of this organization's activities.

It is, perhaps, all the more in keeping with the spirit of Christmas, that their aid to those in need is not confined to the Yuletide season. Rather it is a year-long, in fact life-time, job for Salvation Army officers.

The Army was founded 70 years ago by William Booth, a Methodist minister, who, when visiting the London slums, became concerned over conditions there and the indifference of the public toward its inhabitants. Deciding to take practical action, he founded the Salvation Army.

Today there are over 5,000 Army officers in the northern district, of the United States, with the majority located in this metropolitan area. There are also also 38,000 lay workers.

Practical Religion

The Salvation Army, according to Captain Carney of the Newark headquarters, is "a practical religion—a tremendous faith in God and in His ability to change the lives of men.

"It also assumes," he says, "a deep feeling of responsibility for our fellow men. Religion has to be workable to be effective, therefore our social work is a natural outgrowth of our religious philosophy," he explained.

In doctrine the Army is closely related to Methodism, although it incorporates a somewhat stricter code of personal behavior. The Army bans its officers from the use of alcohol, cigarettes or cards.

Its officers receive a one-year course in one of the four Salvation Army colleges located throughout the nation. This is followed by a compulsory seven-year correspondence course. Courses during the formal period of education include: Bible study, Salvation Army philosophy, social work, public speaking, book keeping and a two-week period of field training —at the New York school—in the Bowery.

Correspondence courses include: social science, arts and crafts and a course in practical psychology called "The Art of Helping of Helping People Out of Trouble."

Help for Helpless

The concept of the Army in helping those in distress is to meet the need at the point of need and at the time of need.

To put this philosophy into action, the Army maintains a Men's Shelter, and an Emergency Home for Women and Children in Newark and a hospital for unwed mothers in Jersey City. These three institutions service this area.

Although it might seem that there would be little need for Army aid in this area, last year the organization provided shelter and financial assistance for three unwed mothers from Summit, one from Union and one from Vaux Hall at their Door of Hope Hospital, Jersey City, where they delivered their babies.

Although most of the assistance is given to the underprivileged.

Market Opinion

By EDMUND TABELL

The industrial average has now penetrated the 190-195 resistance area in which it had held for more than a month. What is the outlook from here now?

The answer to this question, I believe, can be found in the action of individual issues rather than in the averages. The industrial average, for example, is wedged in between the overhead resistance of the 1946 distribution top at 200-210 and a support area below the market in the broad 195-185 area.

As we have mentioned since the start of this rise in June, the higher grades stock and special situations seem to offer the best appreciation possibilities. In most cases the secondary speculative issues appears to need more work in building up accumulation areas. It is obvious that after an advance of 39 points in less than 6 months, a corrective technical action appears overdue. It could very well start from around this level. In my opinion, any such correction will be mild. From a trading viewpoint I have suggested taking profits in individual issues. I have not distributed long term holdings as in my opinion the market in 1950 will at least test the 1946 top.

Unemployment Insurance Increased in November

State unemployment insurance payments totaled $6,583,737 in November, a slight increase over the October figure of $6,575,507, the Division of Employment Security, Department of Labor and Industry, announced today.

New Jersey Public Divided on Truman Administration Health Plan, Poll Finds

By KENNETH FINK
Director New Jersey Poll

President Truman's medical insurance plan appeals to a large segment of the New Jersey adult population. But an almost equally large segment is opposed to compulsory medical insurance.

When New Jersey Poll staff reporters asked an accurate cross-section of 1,000 adults their opinion about the Truman Administration plan for medical insurance, they divided almost evenly for or against it.

Today's findings show that neither opponents of the Truman medical plan nor those who favor it can muster a majority of the New Jersey adult public on their side; and that those who favor the Truman medical plan outnumber those who are opposed to it by the very narrow margin of 3.2%. (All New Jersey Poll survey findings are subject to an average error of four percentage points because of sampling variation.)

"Do you think the U. S. Congress should or should not pass the government's compulsory health insurance program which would require wage or salary deductions from all employed persons to provide medical and hospital care for them and their families?"

Should	46.6%
Should not	43.4
No opinion	10.0

Greatest support for the Truman medical insurance program is found among residents of New Jersey's six biggest cities—Newark, Jersey City, Trenton, Paterson, Elizabeth and Camden—and among regular members of the Democratic Party.

Independent voters—the ones who vote the man, not the party, and who today hold the balance of power in the state politically—feel very much the same as Republican Party members.

The vote by size of community and political party affiliation shows the following differences of opinion:

	Should	Should not	No opinion
Rural communities	37%	51	12
2,500 - 24,999 towns	40%	47	13
25,000 - 99,999 towns	37%	51	12
Cities 100,000 & over	66%	29	5
Democrats	59%	31	10
Republicans	38%	49	13
Independent Voters	41%	51	8

People 45 years and over are much more opposed to the Truman health plan than are younger adults.

And those people with partial or complete college training are more opposed to compulsory health insurance than are those with less formal school training.

In general, the more education people have, the more they are inclined to oppose the Truman health plan.

	Should	Should not	No opinion
21 - 29 years	52%	37	11
30 - 44 years	53%	40	7
45 years & over	38%	50	12
Grade or no schooling	50%	35	15
High school training	48%	44	8
College training	38%	58	4

Labor union members and manual workers throughout the state are more in favor of the Truman health plan than are white-collar workers. But nearly two out of every five manual workers and labor union members are opposed to the Truman health plan

	Should	Should not	No opinion
White-collar workers	43%	48	9
Manual workers	50%	39	11
Labor union members	51%	37	12

President Truman's medical insurance plan calls for payment by both employee and employer, as in the case of the present social security levies.

The exact amount has not been definitely fixed but would probably range up to about $50 a year on $3,600 income for the worker, with the amount matched by the employer.

The proposed program would cover all members of the immediate family of the worker enrolled.

A PIECE OF YOUR MIND

By KARL PLATZER, Psychologist

Christmas is a season of memories. Memories of the suspense we felt as children as we opened packages so marvelously wrapped it was a shame to spoil them, of our delighted surprise as we found just the miraculous gift we had been wanting. The throngs at midnight masses, as the chimes ring out, the constant refrain of the carols. Debating endlessly each year with older and more sophisticated children, "Do you believe in Santa Claus?" Then in almost one leap becoming adults and watching the excited happiness on the faces of our own children, joy which amply rewards us for the straining of our financial and physical resources which it took to get them the gifts.

Then as adults our memories become more cynical. Sliding and slithering through the slush, chilled to the bone by the cold. Pawing endlessly over counters, blasted by the heat of the store. Waiting endlessly for a packed bus, as bundles keep slipping from our arms. Striving desperately to maintain some semblance of balance, while the bus jolts and sways and we gaze in fascination at the slowly purpling face of the man next to us, until after several miles the crowd thins out a bit, and we discover that we have been hanging on to his necktie. Fat Santa Clauses booming out their forced laughter. Skinny Santa Clauses tolling melancholy bells as they shift from foot to foot and thresh their hands, then give a quick and furtive dab at their dripping noses with their straggly cotton whiskers.

Office Parties

Recollections of the office parties, when the office boy takes a drink and lights up a cigarette in the face of the manager, when the unnoticed little typist in the corner suddenly blossoms out a sultry Salome, the telephone operator gathers with the boys to swap increasingly dirty stories, and the section head brushes his hair across his bald spot and shows full-fledged symptoms of Romeoitis a disease which frequently affects middle-aged men at this time.

The memories of each Christmas blend and merge with all the others For above all, Christmas is a happy season. In every age, in every religion, every people has had a holiday similar to it, a season of gaiety which marked the beginning of the winter, and cast robust defiance to that grim time of cold and sickness. Every ethnic and religious group has demonstrated thereby that frozen and despairing though the weather may be, the hearts of man can remain warm and open. It is good to have such a season, to have at least one time of the year when man dares reveal his natural goodness, his innate decency. The custom renews each year one's faith in God and man.

For thousands of years, through the mists of antiquity to the fringes of recorded time, we have followed this custom. Is it not time, however, to take a step farther, to advance beyond our five-thousand-year-old ancestors in spiritual as well as in material progress? They as well as we had the tradition of one holiday week of good will during the year, one week of moratorium on distrust and suspicion, ill-will and hatred. Is it too much to ask that the same spirit be extended through the rest of the year?

For one week the cold frost thaws from about our hearts. Why let it settle back again? Why not so retain the warmth of good feeling that the ice of isolation from our fellow-man can not regather?

A Merry Christmas to all, a hope that it will mark the beginning of our efforts to make Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men a lasting reality.

Warns That Many Vets Lose Their Retirement Pay

Every five minutes in the Metropolitan area of New York and New Jersey, a veteran of World War II loses the large stake in retirement pay which he has as a result of his wartime service. Because only a few are "in the know," many of the vast majority daily lose these rights.

Title 11 of Public Law 810 enacted June 29, 1949, provides retirement with pay for personnel of the reserve components of the armed forces. Their rights under that law are so important that every veteran should understand what is available to him. While non-veterans also are eligible, a veteran, if he has had as much as four years of active service, already has a stake of 10 per cent toward retirement pay.

A reservist who entered World War II as a private, at twenty-one years of age, had four years of active service, stays in the reserve to age sixty, and then retires as a master sergeant, would have nearly $90 a month retirement pay, from age sixty, for as long as he lives. The intervening years of reserve duty would have paid him, also, $15,000 to $18,000 in reserve pay for drills and camps while he was earning his retirement.

University to Teach American Way of Life

Probably the best friend the University of Wisconsin ever had was Kemper K. Knapp, the poor farm boy who got his degree in 1879 along with Robert M. La Follett, Sr., and rose to great wealth as a Chicago corporation lawyer, says Pathfinder news magazine.

Knapp, who died in 1944, left a scholarship fund which since 1945 has sent 362 students through four years of the university. Added income from the $2,000,000 endowment last week made it possible for Wisconsin to offer "American Way of Life Professorships" to bring to the campus outstanding scholars and public figures. Purpose: to teach "an understanding of the meaning of democracy and an acceptance of its obligations."

First appointments are due in February. Those selected will be professor-in-residence. They will not teach a regular course, but they will give special lectures, conduct seminars and be available for personal conferences.

He Will Help Supervise 1950 Census

Prepare Plans Now for Big Task in April

Next year will be census-taking year in these United States. Although the actual process of counting noses will not take place for several months, appointment of supervisors for this huge task has already been accomplished.

Recently appointed to the position of assistant census supervisor for the sixth Congressional District which includes all of Union County, was Henry October.

It will be Mr. October's job to attend to the 320 odd personnel who will be directly involved in the collection of data on the 328,000 persons estimated now to be living in the county.

Although census-taking originated centuries before Christ, it was then used for different and simpler purposes than it is today. Five thousand years ago in Babylonia, for instance, and later in Persia, Egypt and China the government counted the male population in the country to give them an idea of available military and labor resources.

In the days of the Roman Empire, the census began to develop into the complicated affair it is today. Roman families and their property were counted every five years to determine civil status and to fix taxes.

In the seventeenth century the periodic census was started here in the New World in Quebec and Nova Scotia and in the next 100 years Germany, Spain, Sweden, Denmark and the United States followed suit.

Beginning in January Mr. October and Charles A. Gering, census supervisor, will begin laying the groundwork for the complicated task that modern census-taking now has become. When the final tabulations are completed, sometime next May, they will have data on, among other things, population, age, income, and buying habits of Union County residents.

Although the actual job of compiling the data will take little less than a month, Mr. October and Mr. Gering will spend January, February and March preparing and planning —for "Operation Census" which will commence April 1.

Included among their tasks will be, according to Mr. October; defining the boundaries of Union County so that the Jonses won't go down twice on the record, finding office space for a staff of 16 and interviewing some 800 persons who probably will apply for the 300 enumerator positions—they are the men in the field who will be ringing the door bells.

For youthful October, this will be first census job and, he says, "I think it is going to be a very interesting experience, although a bit far afield from my past endeavors."

October graduated from Eaton High, Elizabeth in the late 30's, then followed high school with a four-year evening course at the American Institute of Banking.

During the day he worked in the Savings Investment and Trust Co. Orange. This bank was one of the pioneers in installing an International Business Machine system, which was done under October's direction with assistance

HENRY OCTOBER, Union, recently appointed assistant census supervisor for the sixth Congressional District, will begin groundwork for the decennial job of counting the population at the start of the New Year.

Marine Engineer by Trade He Makes Toys as a Hobby

Most parents this Christmas season have gone shopping in local stores to purchase ready-made toys which will be placed under the tree for their children three days hence.

André Lampert of New Providence, however, could if he wished, make all the toys for his four children this Christmas. Furthermore, they would be equally as intricate and animated as those miniatures of real life which are found in toy departments today.

A recent issue of "Popular Science' magazine, for instance, carried a five-page spread concerning one of his latest efforts—a baby bull-dozer powered by an electric motor and operated by remote control, which is capable of duplicating the actions of its giant, life sized, earthmoving brothers.

By working controls corresponding to those on the regular machine, the operator can make the baby caterpillar tractor climbhills, dodge obstacles, turn on a dime, stop, start or reverse.

Although toy-making is not Mr. Lampert's profession, at least two manufacturers are considering producing his models on an assembly-line basis.

Andre was born in Switzerland, a country noted for its skilled craftsmen and, although he arrived here before he was old enough to consciously absorb much of the culture of that country, he remarks, "the Swiss do seem to have a knack for making things."

His father is a jewelry designer with a studio in New York.

Andre gave evidence of creative talent at an early age. When he was in the 8th grade, he won the American Legion prize for his "Poppy Poster," which drawing subsequently was used in national advertising for the Legion's annual Poppy Sale. Later, as a boy scout, he entered his models in hobby shows winning a number of prizes and since then he never stopped carving objects of wood.

The father of four children, he has made models of boats and planes for them and reports that his wife declares, "he is a bigger kid than his children," in this respect.

Mr. Lampert recently has turned to wood carving and in past months has carved a number of trays in leaf pattern and a bas relief inspired, he says, by one of the legends from the "Arabian Nights." Although none of these have been placed on sale, he has been offered up to $120 by visitors who have seen his bas relief.

As for his tools, "most all of them are portable. I have to carry them around with me," Andre declares.

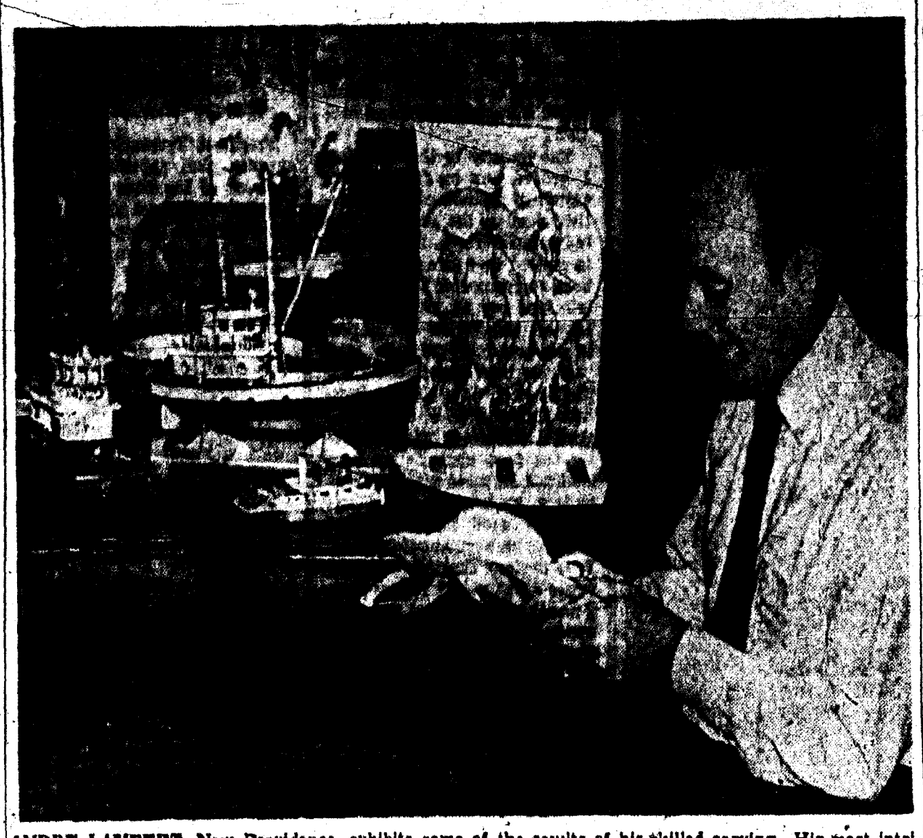
Andre is a marine engineer, presently assigned to the off-shore tug Chris Sheridan. He gets home only for a short time every three months and most of his articles are made during off-duty hours on the vessel.

His tools, therefore, consist principally of a penknife, file and sandpaper. The wood for his carvings comes from discarded timber found in shipyards, his models are made from balsa wood.

Andre entered the Merchant Marine in 1942, was graduated as an honor man in the engineering class at Fort Trumble Maritime School in 1944. During the war he served on a Liberty ship during the Normandy invasion and later on a tanker at Okinawa.

"You make objects according to the time and materials at hand," he says pointing out that during the Normandy invasion he made salt and pepper shakers out of metal taken from a captured German 88m.m. gun, and a plastic locket from part of a crippled German bomber that fell on the deck of his ship during the invasion.

Skilled Whittler



ANDRE LAMPERT, New Providence, exhibits some of the results of his skilled carving. His most intricate toy, not shown, is a model caterpillar tractor, electrically powered and operated by remote control.

Christmas Boxes Children Can Make

By MARION McCARROLL

Whether the children make or select their own Christmas gifts for family and relatives, or whether Mother buys the gifts herself that the youngsters will give, the small folk should have a hand in getting them ready to put under the Christmas tree.

With a little grown-up help, they can make simple boxes and other containers to hold the gifts, which will give them a proud feeling of personal achievement when they distribute their presents.

Described here are the easy steps involved in making shining Christmas lanterns to hold small articles. Materials needed are round cardboard cereal or salt cartons; sheets of clear cellophane; ¾-inch red scotch tape printed in a Christmas design; clear scotch tape; spool wire; a knitting needle; scissors; ruler; bits of holly or pine; red glassine drinking straws and Christmas stickers.

Here are the directions:

1. Using ruler, mark straight lines from top to bottom of carton; then cut out "windows." These "windows" should be one inch from top and bottom and separated from each other by ¾-inch posts.
2. From clear cellophane sheets, cut pieces wide enough to fold over to center at top and bottom, and just long enough to wrap around carton.
3. Roll cellophane around carton, with edges meeting in center of a post. Secure edges with strip of the printed scotch tape. Fold over surplus at bottom, fastening down with Christmas seal.
4. Paste printed scotch tape over cardboard posts which show though cellophane.
5. Cover top of carton with cellophane.
6. To make handle for the lantern, insert a loop of spool wire through small hole in top of carton and anchor underneath with clear scotch tape. Next, slip a glassine drinking straw on knitting needle and push straw together with fingers to crinkle it. Slip out the knitting needle and insert pipe cleaner in straw. It may take more than one straw to completely cover pipe cleaner. Bend into horseshoe shape and wrap spool wire sticking out from top of carton around open end of horseshoe. Conceal spool wire by wrapping with printed scotch tape.
7. Put gift in carton, of fill carton with candy or small toys.
8. Replace top and fasten down all aronud with printed scotch tape. Apply strip of printed scotch tape around bottom of carton to match strip around top.
9. Attach piece of holly or pine to bottom of lantern handle.

Playing the Cards

Playing the Cards sted hd D2

BY ALEXANDER SPENCER

Most any bridge book on the play of the hand will tell you that the lead of an ace against a slam is not a delreable lead, unless you have hopes of getting a natural trump trick. In that case the ace lead gets the nod of approval from the experts. But that's one trouble with the books—they get too tangled up in mathematics and often lose sight of the fact that by your lead you may light up declarer's path to the fulfillment of his contract. Look at the North-South hands only and see what West's opening lead would tell you, South, about making the slam.

	♠ 9 3 ♥ A Q 7 2 ♦ A 9 5 ♣ K Q 5 4
♠ J 7 4 ♥ J 10 8 4 ♦ Q 4 3 ♣ A 9 3	N W E S	♠ 8 6 2 ♥ K 9 5 3 ♦ 8 2 ♣ 10 7 6 2
	♠ A K Q 10 5 ♥ 6 ♦ K J 10 7 6 ♣ J 8

With both sides vulnerable the bidding goes:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	pass	2 N. T.	pass
3 ♦	pass	3 N. T.	pass
4 ♦	pass	6 ♦	all pass

West leads the club ace and continues with another club which you win with the jack. How do you play to take the rest of the tricks?

Well, you know that good players don't lead aces against slams without some good reason for it—usually because they think they may be able to take a trump trick. So if West is a good player you should figure him for the diamond queen. Your play, then, is to cash the king of diamonds and lead a small diamond toward dummy's ace-nine and finesse the nine spot if the queen doesn't appear. As the cards lie the finesse wins, the ace drops the queen and the slam is ready for the score sheet.

Now actually West's lead wasn't bad, expect that he should have known that you would have to guess the location of the queen of trumps to bring the slam in, and he should not have made a lead that would give you vital information on its location. There was a chance, of course, that by not leading the ace West might have lost it; but the greater risk was in exposing the fact (to a clever South like you) that he held the queen of diamonds.

Bridge books also tell you to lead fourth best, whether against a slam or no, when you have nothing better to lead. That's okay some of the time, but when you are leading against a slam it gives declarer (if he's worthy of your competition) too good a count on the hand. Remember, he's no dope and can count as well as your partner can, and maybe better. If you like to see what happens to the machinery when monkey wrenches get mixed up in it, lead third best the next time you are defending against a slam. This is common practice among the pros but for some reason the writers of books seem to think such stratagems are too difficult for the average player. In planolas, of course, little gadgets like that won't bother declarer at all—he will merely smile from ear to ear and rattle off 12 or 13 tricks; but in the tough hands where he is trying to figure the distribution to effect an end play or squeeze, such tactics give your side an edge you otherwise wouldn't have. Occasionally you might fool partner with a third-best lead (as, of course, you must have no private conventions), but your partner can usually stand being fooled and declarer cannot. Don't overdo it, either. If you do it will soon fail to fool anybody.

In an eight-table duplicate game last month North-South pair bid a small slam which was made by every pair except one. That unlucky twosome was opposed by a sly West who opened the queen of a suit in which he held king-queen-jack. The normal opening from such holding, of course, is the king. Leading the queen denies holding the king, and that little work of art was enough to get declarer off on the wrong track and capsize him. West well deserved the top score he received on that board for his courage in flouting convention and for his judgement in knowing when to do so.

Suggests Ham To Ease Yuletide Meal Planning

During the Christmas season, "feast-fixings" are on the minds of many homemakers. Children are home from school, there are big family get-togthers, there are times when friends drop in. And to ease meal planning, choose a good-size ham for serving either hot or cold, suggests Reba Staggs, well known home economist.

Tangy flavored baked ham may easily be given a festive holiday dress. During the last 30 minutes of cooking time, it may be basted with strained honey, then when removed from the oven, gaily decorated with red and green maraschino cherries. Almond halves may be arranged in diagonal rows over the ham. Orange slices simmered in ginger flavored sirup may be placed on the ham by piercing them with cloves. Or the ham may be spread with orange marmalade, grape or current jelly and return to the oven for a glistening glaze.

Baked ham is the attractive center of any meal, whether it is served whole or stored in the refrigerator for the basis of many dishes. Slices cut from the ham may be wrapped around bundles of asparagus tips, reheated and topped with a snappy cheese sauce for an interesting dish.

Creamed ham made with bite-size cubes of ham and green pepper makes an appealing luncheon dish served over hot biscuits or in a noodle ring. Ham slices may be reheated on scalloped potatoes for a hearty one-dish dinner. For another treat especially designed to follow a heavy holiday meal, cooked ham is cut into cubes and tossed lightly with diced cooked sweet potatoes, diced celery, apples and moistened with mayonnaise.

Croquettes are another wise use of ham. The meat is chopped and combined with a thick white sauce, then fried in deep hot lard. They are tempingly served with a mushroom or colorful tomato sauce. For breakfast, chopped ham adds deliciousness to omelets. Holidays will bring refrigerator raiders — baked ham will be the perfect find.

With These Instructions You Can Lay Your Own Linoleum

Maybe you've had a yen for a long time to put new linoleum on those kitchen counters whose tops have become cracked and warped with time.

Or maybe you're building brand new kitchen counters, work space or shelves and are thinking about covering them with linoleum.

Well, you can do it, and make a good job of it, too.

First and foremost, you must have the proper tools. Here's what you need:

A carpenter's dividers for outside scribing of contours, an underscriber for marking inside contours, a linoleum knife, a paste spreader and paste. In addition, you should have on hand a hammer, screwdriver, nail set, pocket knife, pliers, combination square, hacksaw, marking pencil, file, steel measuring tape, tin snips, carpenter's square and putty knife.

Sound formidable? You probably have most of those tools in the basement right now, with the exception of the specialized ones used in linoleum work.

First thing you do is to fit and install the stripping, which is also available at any good retail hardware store. Here, you will need the combination square and tin snips to bend the trim strips to right angles to go around outside corners. Basically, the procedure is to cut out a perfect 90-degree triangle from the nailing portion and the top trim in order to allow a right-angle bend without overlapping. On an inside corner, only a single snip is needed. Make it in the nailing portion only, leaving the rounded trim uncut for bending.

When the trim is in place, scribe the linoleum with the dividers or underscribe, whichever is needed for a particular contour, and cut it for an exact fit with the linoleum knife. This knife is a specialized tool, designed with a curved blade, sharpened only at the point, with a thick handle. Using it, you combine a maximum of pressure with a maximum of accuracy.

With trim strips installed and the linoleum cut, lay the linoleum aside and spread paste over the surface to be covered. Although professionals use waterproof cement on a two-inch strip around the sink and ordinary paste elsewhere, you will find it only little more expensive to use waterproof paste exclusively.

When you finally lay the linoleum on the surface to paste it down, make absolutely sure that you get all the air bubbles out. Many experts say that sandbagging is essential in order to hold the linoleum until the adhesive has set, usually overnight. But to be good and certain, you'd better use sandbags.

Now Is Time to Inspect Trees; Plan Remedy

Shade trees are a valuable asset to any community and their preservation helps to maintain the property values of nearly all types of real estate explains Commissioner Charles R. Erdman, Jr., of the N. J. Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

Well kept shade trees are considered one of the most valuable essentials in preserving the appearance and enhancing the value of real property in New Jersey. As there are specialists in the fields of medicine, architecture and engineering so also are there specialists in the care and maintenance of shade trees.

In New Jersey, Commissioner Erdman said, tree surgeons with the necessary education and experience are eligible to practice as Certified Tree Experts only after passing a qualifying examination held by the Tree Expert Bureau of the Department. This certification assures the property owner who may employ tree surgeons that the worker has the proper qualifications to diagnose tree ills; to prescribe and apply corrective treatment for mal-nutrition; control of insects and disease; and to perform surgery as may be necessary to improve the appearance and vigor of the shade trees.

Now that the leaves are off, Commissioner Erdman said, it is well to inspect shade trees for weakened and broken branches and to plan for remedial measures necessary to increase the vigor and prolong the life of the shade trees which contribute so much to the appearance of homes and communities throughout the State.

A list of Certified Tree Experts may be obtained free of charge from the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development, 411 State House Annex, Trenton 7, N. J.

YOUR GARDEN THIS WEEK

By FRED D. OSMUN
Union County Agricultural Agent

Chrysanthemum bloom is now past. While we call them hardy chrysanthemums, they vary in this respect. Most of those we grow in the garden are able to survive under the temperature we have in the winter, but now and then a variety or sometimes the whole planting will kill out.

As a general practice, we recommend digging as many plants as are needed for replanting next spring and setting them close together in a coldframe. Watered in and protected by sash and other covering when needed, the plants will survive.

They will start up early and new cuttings can be taken at planting time. Many of these will be rooted and can be set directly into the garden. The cuttings will root readily in sand.

Another method that is used for protection in winter is to cut back the tops to about 6 inches, dig the plants and set them close together in a shallow trench so that the crowns are 2 inches or so higher than they stood in the garden. Pack them in well and water. After they settle, cover them with tarpaper or oilcloth to shed water.

The least care that should be given is to cut the tops back so that swaying by the wind will not break them off at the ground or loosen the soil about the plants. Then make sure that the soil about the crown is level with the garden area or slightly mounded. You can use soil or coal ashes to fill up the hollow.

Freezing of water that may stand in a hollow about the crown of the plant is responsible in most cases for the death of chrysanthemum plants.

Answers Queries On Lawn Care

In answer to queries concerning mulching or topdressing on lawns, Fred. D. Osman, Union County agricultural agent, gives the following advice:

Some persons prepared the soil for a lawn late in the season. They were too late to sow grass and did not sow a cover crop. In such a case, a mulch or top-dressing of well decomposed manure or other compost may be spread and worked into the soil before planting in Spring.

As for applying a mulch of manure to an established lawn, this is not now considered a good practice. While it is true that Spring growth of lawn grass will be rapid following such an application, this is chiefly a nitrogen effect and shows that enough fertilizer has not been added. It's a good idea to have a regular routine of fertilizer applications, Spring and late Summer, using a complete fertilizer.

Injury is likely to follow the use of manure mulch on lawns in Winter. The material is not well broken up and lumps may smother the grass under them, especially in a mild Winter. This is particularly true where Black Humus peddlers try to sell their product to unwary home owners.

Another hazard is the danger of inoculating the soil with seeds of weeds. The animal eats hay from and unknown source and the bedding also may contain weed seeds. So we frequently find orchard grass and timothy neither of a good lawn grass, or such perennial weeds as yellow dock, burdock, Canada thistle and quackgrass growing in lawns following the application of a winter coating of manuer.

It is better to incorporate the well-rotted manuer in the soil before sowing the grass or to let it decompose more, mix it with twice as much soil and use this mixture as a top-dressing in Summer.

Whoops! It's No Joke To Fall on Icy Walks

There's many a slip 'twixt the front door and the front gate when there is ice on the steps and walk.

The National Safety Council reports that many serious home accidents are caused by falls on ice. One insurance company found that a fourth of its public accident claims last year were due to falls on ice.

The Council recommends that snow be removed promptly before it packs down. Use salt and elbow grease to get rid of ice.

THE CLOTHESLINE

By Muriel W. Sheppard

Two recent news items bring on that "now-we've heard everything" feeling. A fabric shop in the West staged a demonstration last week of cutting and making a dress in one hour—and there is a report of an ATOMIC DYEING PROCESS! Oh yes, we also recently heard of an Atomic laundry and an Atomic shoe repair shop in Washington, D. C. How they do kick that word around!

Possibly, by a very remote relationship, the new dying process has some justification for the use of the word "atomic". A uranium compound, UA-1, is indeed utilized as a catalytic agent, all duly licensed by the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission. It is claimed the method vat-dyes all fabrics more evenly and faster, with resultant better finishing at lower cost to the consumer. It is also claimed that it is capable of vat-dying nylon, orlan, and acetates; fabrics which have hitherto resisted all efforts in this direction. It means deeper, richer and more permanent colors for these materials.

According to early reports (the first public demonstration of the machine was held on December 7), the new process holds much promise in the line of better goods for the consumer, but we suspect said consumer is going to get awfully tire and a bit suspicious of things atomic if the term is to be applied without discrimination.

As to the one-hour dress—that we'd like to see. What it looks like, we mean. Maybe the demonstrator could turn out a presentable garment in an hour—no doubt she'd done some practicing. She knew her pattern and material thoroughly and had eliminated unnecessary motions, but that isn't the way the home seamstress works.

To be sure, many of the incoming spring fashions are all in the favor of the gal who likes to whip up a little number now and then. Between the simple necklined, no-sleeve bodices and straight skirts, some time consuming details have been eliminated, along with a good deal of yardage.

The day of the two-and-a-half-yard dress has returned (for under size 14's anyway,) as well as speedy construction. It should be perfectly possible to cut out a dress in the morning and wear it for dinner the same evening—but one hour? Nice work if you can do it.

Topcoats for Men

THE TEEN-AGER LOOKS AROUND

By BRYNA LEVENBERG

Have you read any short stories lately? The short story, which seems to be the core of currently popular magazines, is in a rather pathetic state. Certainly it is nothing to be proud of. It follows no semblance of reality.

The short story presents one of three pictures in various forms, "Teen-Age Troubles," "The Woman's Worry," or the "Manners of Man."

The "Teen-Age Troubles" run something like this: girl is unpopular, doesn't know why until one day her best friend tells her that her hair is standing up straight and that it ought to be cut. After one trip to the beauty parlor, girl emerges a raving beauty. Football player (who invariably is president of the senior class, honor roll student and editor of the school paper) takes her to the prom and thus girl is on her way to becoming the most popular miss in town. All this in 2,000 words or less.

The "Woman's Worry" is always a psychological problem. Midge is happily married (upper middle class) until one evening when she and hubby are discussing politics a sinister character knocks at the door. He is admitted by the maid, but when Midge takes one look at him she turns pale and trembles with fear. She hands character a five spot and he leaves her with this parting phrase, "I shall return."

This is the problem: should Midge tell hubby her past and thus risk losing her true love, or should the secret be kept by paying sinister character the blackmail?

Just when Midge reaches her breaking point, the sinister character dies of a heart attack and thus dies Midge's secret.

The manner of the male species generally follows this pattern: man is a bachelor, has had many women in the past, but at last finds the girl he loves. Girl is fond of man, but will not marry him because of his lurid past. Man is heart-broken and drowns his sorrows in drink, finally winds up in a sanatorium. As he leaves the institution, pronounced cured, he finds girl waiting for him.

These three plots sound a bit ridiculous but I assure you that after reading four or five short stories in almost any of the slick magazines you, too, will agree that an avid reader of the "modern short story" gets as poor a literary diet as does Johnny, age eight, who reads nothing but Superman.

Dr. Gilbreth to Speak At Scientific Meeting

Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth, consulting engineer of Montclair and mother of the 12 children whose adventures are the subject of the current best seller, "Cheaper By the Dozen," will be a guest speaker at a luncheon meeting for members of Sigma Delta Epsilon, Wednesday, December 28 at 12:30 p.m. in the Georgian Room of the Statler Hotel, New York.

Sigma Delta Epsilon is the national fraternity for graduate women in scientific research. Its members will take part in the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, to be held in New York City December 26 through 31.

Members of Sigma Delta Epsilon in this area are invited to attend.

"Mr. Toad"—Best of Late Disney Films

By PAUL PARKER

Walt Disney has again turned to children's books to find material for his latest feature-length film, "Ichabod and Mr. Toad," which is currently doing the rounds of suburban theaters.

His latest production is a Disneyfication of two fantasies, "Mr. Toad," based on Kenneth Grahame's delightful whimsy, "Wind in the Willows" and "Ichabod" from Washington Irving's famous "Legend of Sleepy Hollow."

Although "Mr. Toad" is the better of this two-in-one combination, even in this Disney falls short of the standards set in his first full length films. Technically "Ichabod and Mr. Toad" is superior to Disney's first efforts, but it lacks the delicate touch so evident in the handling of story and characters in "Snow White" and "Pinnochio."

The story of "Mr. Toad" is related in delightfully serious tones by Basil Rathbone as the camera follows the adventures of J. Thaddeus Toad, the bacchical playboy of the animal kingdom who drives himself and the once proud estate of Toad Hall into bankruptcy. Toad's failing is his mania for, as he himself expresses it, "travel, change excitement."

Toad's three friends, Rat, Mole and Badger, attempt to stave off the impending financial crisis as well as mend their errant friend's character-but all to little avail.

Rat a tweedy English water rat, is, in our opinion, the best of the Disney characters in this film. A stuffy sort of person, but really with Toad's best interest at heart, he delivers long lectures to Toad on the latter's unbecoming conduct. Mole is a lovable, loyal, sympathetic but simple animal, while Badger, whose name for the sake of a few snickers has been changed to Angus McBadger, is the accountant who attempts to straighten out Toad's tangled finances.

Toad manages to complicate matters when his mania for "travel, change, excitement" gets hold of him and he gives the deed of Toad Hall to a group of weasles, in return for a shiny, red limousine. Unknown to Toad, though, the weasles have stolen the limousine and Toad is duly cast into prison as a thief.

The remainder of the film concerns Toad's escape from the prison and the battle of Toad, Rat Mole and Badger to wrest Toad Hall from the weasles who have occupied it.

Although his friends briefly are of the opinion that this experience will make a new person of Toad, the narrative ends as Toad zooms over their heads, this time in an ancient airplane, lustily singing his favorite chant, "travel, change, excitement."

Having disposed of "Mr. Toad" in a matter of some 45 minutes, Disney next turns his attention to Ichabod and the "Legend of Sleepy Hollow." Although the film version remains reasonably true to Irving's story, perhaps even the author did not conceive of Ichabod as the grotesque character which Disney portrays. Ichabod, who incidentally, sings with Bing Crosby's voice, is truly a scarecrow-like character with a pasty face and a nose that would do justice to Pinnochio.

"Ichabod" is, perhaps, representative of Disney's better technical efforts and there are a number of laughs, too, but we are afraid that Ichabod at times is drawn in action all too much like a character out of the customary Silly Symphony to be genuinely amusing. And the scene in which he meets the Headless Horseman might frighten some of the more sensitive youngsters who see the film.

In both "Ichabod" and "Toad" Disney apparently has forgotten the delicate touch he so superbly exhibited in his earlier films. And it would have been our particular wish that "Mr. Toad" had been made into a full-length film in its own right. As it is, this portion of the bill hits only the high spots of Grahame's delightful book and in the process loses much of the author's gentle satire of the human race. All things considered, however, we feel "Mr. Toad" is the best of Disney's latest endeavours.

Teen-Age Televues

By BOB LAMBERT

With Christmas just a few days hence, we'd like to give presents to some of our favorite television stars.

To Bob Howard: The book "How to Reduce in 10 Easy Lessons." (He's getting so fat we'll soon have to buy a 16" screen to see all of him.)

To Kyle MacDonnell: A long run of the musical revue "Touch and Go," in which she appears, but we'd like to see her on our television screen again.

To Milton Berle: A wonderful time during his vacation in Miami.

To Imogene Coca: A speedy return to television.

To Dunninger: An opportunity to read my mind.

To Ed Sullivan: The continued success of "Toast of the Town."

To Arthur Godfrey: An alarm clock so he won't fall asleep during his own shows.

To Ed Wynn: A chance to see MY inventions.

"THE BLACK ROBE"

"The Black Robe" (Saturday, WNBT, 10-10:30) is one of the most original shows we've ever seen on television. The action takes place in a police night court.

The cases, which may range from robbery to minor offences, are brought before the judge and given a hearing.

The "actors" of the show are not real actors, but persons picked from all walks of life. By using these people the show manages to take on an air of reality seldom seen on video.

The magistrate is kind or harsh, depending on the character of the case before the bar.

"The Black Robe" manages to present a true picture of, as the judge says, "life in a great city after dark". It is truly one of the best shows on television at this time.

Several rooms of Boxwood Hall, the Elizabeth, N. J. home of Revolutionary patriot, Elias Boudinot, have been redecorated with authentic reproductions of wall coverings of the 1790 period donated by Richard E. Thibaut Inc. of New York.

"The Student Prince" to Open At Paper Mill December 27

Operetta's immortal romance, "The Student Prince" will be the bill of the extended holiday season at the Paper Mill Playhouse in Millburn opening Tuesday, Dec. 27 for a limited engagement.

The Romberg musical production will follow a dark period at the theater which will be closed from the end of the engagement of "The Merry Widow" on Saturday, Dec. 17 through Monday, Dec. 26.

Robert Shafer making his first Millburn appearance in seven seasons, will portray the title role of Karl Franz, the prince of Karlsburg who is allowed a year of study at the famed University of Heidelberg. Shafer portrayed the role last summer with the Louisville Civic Operetta. He most recently appeared on Broadway in "Song of Norway."

Another Paper Mill favorite who will return in a role which she made her very own in two prior performances will be Andziz Kuzak, last seen at the Paper Mill in "Bloomer Girl." She has been appearing as the featured soloist of the "Chicago Theater of the Air" over the Mutual Broadcasting System.

The third starring role will be sung by George Britton, whose prior portrayals of Dr. Engel, the teacher of "The Student Prince" have won him accolades from Paper Mill audiences. Britton has just returned from a starring engagement with the Cleveland Civic Opera Company.

New sets are being constructed from designs by Herman Rosse whose original sets have been a highlight of this season's productions. His latest work can also be seen in the new show at Billy Rose's Horseshoe in New York City.

Although the theater is closed, the box office is remaining open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily through Saturday. Reservations are being made for all dates through the remainder of the year and the early portion of January. The length of the run will depend upon the response of theater-goers for what has been one of the Paper Mill's most popular productions in the past.

Comedy and drama have important places in the story of "The Student Prince" and some of the Paper Mill's top hands will be seen in the important roles. Clarence Nordstrom and Barry Macollum as Lutz, the prince's valet, and Hubert, the valet's valet, respectively, will have the principal comedy roles with Frances Darrell as their feminine vis-a-vis.

Albert Carroll will be seen in the highly dramatic part of Tony, the waiter, while Ruder, the landlord, wil be impersonated by the portly presence of Robert Eckles. Mary Dyer will be the Grand Duchess Anastasia. Another important dramatic role, that of Prime Minister Von Mark will be played by Joseph Hill, who is also the Paper Mill stage manager.

For lunch box joy try this sandwich filling. Cut dried beef with your kitchen scissors and blend it with Philadelphia cream cheese. Add a bit of Worcestershire sauce to complete the combination.

"Yellow Ribbon" on Screen at Proctor's

Adventure on the Western frontier during a period of Indian uprisings is the theme of "She Wore a Yellow Ribbon," the current attraction at RKO Proctor's, Newark.

Directed by John Ford, the film of frontier fighting stars John Wayne, Joanne Dru, John Agar, Ben Johnson and Harry Carey Jr. It was photographed in the region of Monument Valley.

A romance between Miss Dru and Mr. Agar is keyed to the ballad which provides the picture's title.

"Savage Splendor" is the co-feature at Proctor's.

Triple-Threat Founder of Paper Mill

"Jack of All Trades Is Fun," Says Miss Scudder

By JANE BARTELS

Antoinette Scudder, a tiny, determinedly energetic woman whose activities center about Millburn's Paper Mill Playhouse, and range outward in a wide circle, is currently receiving recognition in three fields of achievement. Exposition Press of New York has just published a fat volume of her one act plays, The World In A Matchbox. At the Academy of Arts in Newark her one man show of painting which ran from December 5 to December 15, has just reached a successful conclusion. And at the Paper Mill Playhouse, of which she is co-founder and president, a profitable April-through January light opera season is drawing to a close with plans being made for an even more ambitious program for next year.

The background for this assault on the fields of writing, art, and drama is rather unlikely. Antoinette Scudder is the daughter of a prominent and well-to-do Newark family. Her father, Wallace Scudder was publisher of the NEWARK EVENING NEWS until his death, and her older brother, Edward W. Scudder, now holds that position. While the family interest in publishing might account for some of her writing talent, it does not explain the urge which has been driving her since childhood to express herself through painting and acting.

"Mother used to paint china quite beautifully," recalls Miss Scudder, "and my brother, Henry did some really dreadful cartoon sketches of the family when he was a young man." This was strictly home talent however, and apparently any serious interest in acting was just as lacking except for young. Antoinette who staged dramas starring first her dolls, and then her playmates, from the time she was able to talk.

Antoinette Scudder attended Miss Townsend's School in Newark, a select establishment, no longer in existence, which prepared genteel young women to take their place in society. To her family's surprise and concern however, Antoinette refused to follow the debutante pattern of the day. Instead she began to take part in the activity of the famous Wharf Theatre in Provincetown, Massachusetts. In New York she worked with a group called the Playwomen, which specialized in writing and producing one act plays. Prince Pentaur, one of the plays which she wrote at this time was produced at the Mack Studio, and it was there that she met Frank Carrington, who had been assigned the leading role. The meeting was the beginning of a long association which resulted in their founding the Paper Mill Playhouse together.

ANTOINETTE SCUDDER

In the same year, 1928, Prince Pentaur was also performed in Newark under the sponsorship of the Newark Art Club. Out of this performance developed a full fledged drama section of the Newark Art Club which staged many of its early productions in the West Side High School auditorium. The performances were often given under difficult circumstances, such as the noisy competition of basketball practice in the adjourning gymnasium. "We cut our baby teeth in Newark with a lot of kicking and squalling," says Miss Scudder.

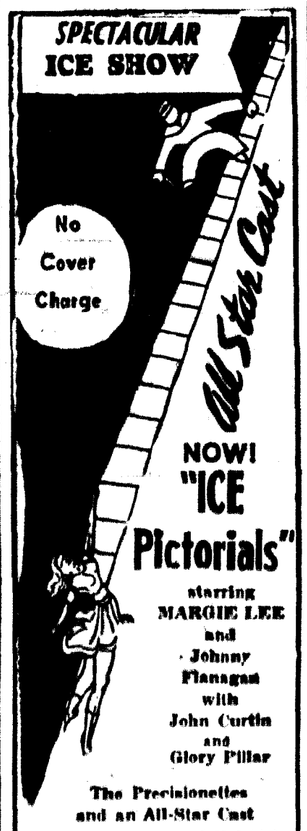
Although it provided valuable experience for Antoinette Scudder and Carrington, and the group which worked with them, Newark on the whole gave the new theatre group little encouragement. A firm belief in the existance of a place for New Jersey theatre kept them going however, and in 1934 in an ambitious experiment, they opened the Paper Mill Playhouse in Millburn in a group of remodeled buildings dating from Revolutionary Days.

After a shaky start, the Paper Mill Playhouse took hold. Miss Scudder and Mr. Carrington soon abandoned the little theatre idea and replaced the enthusiastic but temperamental amateur actors of their earlier productions with professional companies. Instead of sticking to serious drama, they gave their audiences slick performances of familiar light operas which have grown increasingly lavish as to costuming and staging as the Paper Mill has prospered.

Despite all her activity in theatre writing and producing, Antoinette Scudder found time to take a vigorous interest in painting which has almost amounted to a career in itself. After studying at the Art Students' League in New York, she set up a studio in one of the Paper Mill buildings where she could paint conveniently close to the center of her theatre work. No mere hobbyist in this line, her paintings have been exhibited in New York and Montclair as well as in the recent one-man show at the Academy of Arts in Newark, and bring a respectable price in the art market.

While the Paper Mill Playhouse has swung over to the production of well established operetta favorites, Antoinette Scudder has continued to write one act plays. The World In A Matchbox which Exposition Press published this month is a collection of these dramas. Some of them, written early in her career, are outrageously romantic and sentimental in theme, but they do possess a rather delightful period piece flavor. Others, by contrast, are shrewdly realistic in plot and surprisingly direct in language.

Antoinette Scudder does not know into what field her restless energies will take her next. Not one to overestimate herself, she says of her career so far, "Jack of all trades, and master of none, but a Jack of all trades has a whole lot of fun."



Children's Shows at Maplewood Theater

The annual children's Christmas show will be held on Saturday afternoon, December 24, starting at 1:30 p.m. Screen features will be "Under the Western Stars," starring Roy Rogers, together with "Swiss Miss," with Laurel and Hardy at their zaniest. Also on the bill will be four color cartoons and a free Hershey bar for each of the first 400 children.

The second special children's show will fall on Wednesday afternoon, December 28. Walt Disney's all-cartoon feature in technicolor, "The Adventures of Ichabod and Mr. Toad," will be the main offering, supplemented by a sport reel, a Pete Smith comedy, and cartoons of the usual length. Parents are asked to note that "Easy Living" will not be shown on Wednesday afternoon.

The kiddies will have their own New Year's celebration on Saturday afternoon, December 31, starting at 1:30. In addition to two specially selected feature pictures, a 3-Stooge comedy and several color cartoons will help the kiddies to make merry.

VA Gets Set For Flood of New Veterans

Assistance to "new" veterans of the State, seeking re-employment and other rights, is available at local offices of the Division of Veterans' Services, Colonel Warren S. Hood, Director of the Division announced last week. "The central office has alerted all local offices to be prepared for an influx of requests for assistance from ex-servicemen just discharged from the armed forces," Hood said. He pointed out that the National Defense Department recently announced the release of 12,000 reserve officers, 30,000 Army inductees and 56,200 Navy personnel.

The Division of Veterans' Services, which is an agency in the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development, is equipped to handle all types of problems and services for veterans. In addition to aiding the veteran with his re-employment rights, Hood said that field representatives of the Division help veterans and their dependents in all types of claims including pensions, government insurance, education, employment and medical and hospital care.

Marian Anderson To Appear at Mosque Jan. 8

With no less than five important musical events scheduled for the month of January at the Mosque Theater, Newark, the Griffith Music Foundation will enter upon one of the most active periods in its history with the coming New Year.

More than ordinary interest attaches to its first 1950 presentation which will bring Marian Anderson, the famous contralto, as soloist with the Little Orchestra Society on Sunday evening, January 8, to inaugurate the Foundation's new and noteworthy Candlelight series of concerts, each of which will feature a popular personality of the concert stage as soloist.

A departure from tradition in connection with these Candlelight concerts is that they will start at 5 p.m. and end at 7 p.m. They will also permit Thomas K. Scherman, conductor of the Little Orchestra Society, to display his flair for brilliant but unorthodox program making and come up with the charming and rarely performed orchestral compositions which have already won his orchestra an enviable place in the musical sphere.

On Sunday afternoon, January 15, the Foundation will present the French pianist, Samson Francois, in its piano series, as its second January concert attraction. Francois has been termed "a pianistic genius rare in the annals of musical history" and he lived up to it on the occasion of his American debut. His appearance under Foundation auspices last season left a deep impression and his return is by popular request.

Other January events on the Foundation calendar will be a second concert in the Candlelight series on January 29, with Italo Tajo, the new and personable basso sensation of the Metropolitan Opera Association, as featured soloist, and a visit of the New York Philarmonic - Symphony Orchestra in the symphony series, with the internationally-famous conductor, Dimitri Mitropoulos, on the podium. The coming month will also see a resumption of the Orchestral Concerts for Young People. The third in that series will take place January 21.

Art Museum Plans Special Program Dec. 27

The Christmas Season will be observed at the Montclair Art Museum with a special program scheduled for Tuesday afternoon, December 27, at four o'clock and to which the public is invited. In keeping with the rare prints of Schongauer, Durer, Rembrandt and other great artists currently on view in the Library Print Room of the Museum, will be the illustrated lecture, "The Christmas Story in the Old Masters," which will be given by Dorothy Wight, Staff Lecturer. This program, delivered by Miss Wight before numerous audiences, is particularly in demand at this time of the year, expressing as it does the traditional and the artistic interpretation of the immortal theme.

Preceding the lecture, Vivian Fine, composer and concert pianist, will play a short program of music. Miss Fine, an instructor in the Department of Music at New York University, has played at Town Hall, has composed ballets for Doris Humphrey, Charles Neidman, and Henya Holm. Her compositions have been played by the WOR Symphony Orchestra and the International Society for Contemporary Music and a work for piano and oboe won the prize of the Music Guild of Philadelphia.

The Museum will be closed from noon on December 24, until Tuesday, December 27. Its regular Elective Classes and the Museum Art School will be dismissed for the Christmas period. During the holidays, however, the institution's activities will be represented over Television Station WATV, Channel 13. On Friday, December 23, at 3:15 p.m., on the Home Makers Program, Alice A. Stuart, weaving instructor of the Evening Elective Classes, will exhibit samples of her work and demonstrate the actual weaving process. On Thursday, December 29, over the same program, John Koch, important American artist who will be among those having his works exhibited in the Museum's January show "Paintings and their Preparatory Sketches," will explain the various steps taken in the development of his oil, "Museum Visitors."

The exhibition in which Mr. Koch will participate will open at the Montclair Art Museum on January 3 as will also an exhibit, "Colored Prints of Famous Naval Battles" from the Fred Hicks' Collection. These exhibitions will continue through January 29.

The Morris Canal completed in 1831 extended 102 miles across New Jersey from Phillipsburg to Jersey City.

The Diamond State Or Distaff State?

Delaware, first of the 13 colonies to ratify the Constitution and described by Thomas Jefferson as "a jewel among the States," won a new decoration last month. For doing the most for its women in 1949, it received the Medallion of Honor of the Women's National Institute.

President Once Banned Christmas Trees

Cutting of Trees Not Considered Harmful to Forests

Fifty years ago a President of the United States banned the use of Christmas trees in the White House because he thought the practice of cutting young evergreens was wasteful.

That order, issued by Theodore Roosevelt, went unchallenged until two of his young sons were caught in the act of smuggling a Christmas tree into the Executive Mansion. To escape their father's presidential wrath they appealed to America's first professional forester and Theodore Roosevelt's good friend, Gifford Pinchot, to intercede for them.

Pinchot did, pointing out that proper cutting of small evergreens for Christmas use is not harmful and frequently actually helps a forest.

Nearly half of the 21 million evergreens that make up America's 1949 Christmas tree harvest were farm produced. Nearly nine-tenths of the entire crop was cut on privately owned timberland. To augment this domestic Christmas tree harvest, about five million evergreens are imported annually, most of them from Canada.

Besides bringing a fragrant freshness of the forest into two out of every three American homes this December, the three-month Christmas tree harvest pours an estimated 50 million dollars into the nation's economic bloodstream.

Most American Christmas trees are thinned from natural growth forests. An original stand of from five to ten thousand trees per acre will actually mature only a few hundreds sawlog-size trees. Most of the small evergreens, selectively cut for Christmas sale, would sooner or later have been eliminated by Nature in the life and death struggle for forest space.

When it comes to selecting a Christmas tree, most Americans have as many individual likes and dislikes as they have in motor cars or hats. Color, limb strength, shape, compactness, fragrance, an ability to retain needles and, of course, price are factors.

Best seller on the Christmas tree market today is the balsam fir, a product of New England and Northeastern United States. About six and one-half million of these are sold in an average year. Douglas firs, products of the Pacific Coast, are the second most popular. Black spruce, red cedar and white spruce follow in that order. Together these make up 83 per cent of all Christmas trees sold in the United States. Scotch pine, Southern pine, red spruce, Virginia pine, white fir, Norway spruce, hemlock, cypress, juniper and Engleman spruce also are marketed in commercial quantities.

Historians disagree over how and when this Christmas tree business started in America. Homesick Hessian soldiers, brought over from Germany by the British to fight George Washington's Continental Army, probably introduced the custom.

Another German, the sixteenth century religious leader Martin Luther, generally is credited with originating the custom of decorating Christmas trees with lights. Noting how snowflakes on the boughs of evergreen trees reflected moonlight, Martin Luther determined to capture the same effect in his home by placing lighted candles on the tree. The idea spread through the centuries.

Forestry-wise the United States now has traveled a full circle since Theodore Roosevelt's day. Christmas trees, like sawlogs and pulpwood, have become a crop in America. This country's forests, if protected and wisely managed, can produce both wood and Christmas trees in quantities sufficient to meet present as well as future needs.

1950 Census

from a representative of the company.

In 1942 Henry graduated from banking school and promptly found himself in the army. A somewhat unusual ex-GI, he claims to have "no complaints as far as the army is concerned."

He served with the First Army in the 894th Ordinance which saw duty in the E.T.O.

"A fine outfit, with fine officers and men," he says with considerable pride.

Discharged in 1945, he went back to work with the Savings Investment and Trust Co., then for a short time with the Lincoln National Bank, Newark. He relinquished this position shortly before receiving confirmation of his appointment as assistant census supervisor from the Department of Commerce, Washington.

An affiable young man of philosophical bent, he enjoys reading non-fiction, he doesn't like novels, but enjoys classical music discussing politics and a weekly game of chess usually on Saturday or Sunday nights.

At one time he considered entering the ministry, and shortly after graduating from high school entered the Holy Cross Episcopal Monastery where for a month he trained as a novice. Although he feels that the experience perhaps deepened his religious convictions, it did not convince him that the ministry was a career for him.

One of his favorite pastimes is discussing politics. On the practical side he has served as Democratic committeeman for his district in Union.

His zest for things political, perhaps, stems from an early indoctrination into the political arena. His mother for a number of years served as Democratic committeewoman for Elizabeth's 9th Ward and some of his earliest recollections, he says, are of aiding her as she visited her constituents.

For the time, at least, he has had to give up active participation in political affairs with his appointment as assistant census supervisor, a job which will keep him busy until sometime early in the summer.

As for his future, he hopes that with the experience as assistant census supervisor behind him, he may be able to break into governmental and accounting work.

Christmas Spirit

persons from all walks of life, too, come to the Army in time of need.

The Army, for instance, recently, aided a young college girl in this state who was to give birth to an illegitimate child. They saw her through the pre-natal and post-natal periods, made arrangements for adoption, then arranged that the girl should finish college and finally after graduation gave her entree to a fine position. And at the Men's Shelter in Newark, a man with three college degrees behind his name, recently turned to the Army for aid.

Although the Salvation Army is basically a religious movement, its officers make little attempt to convert those they aid to a formal religion.

"In fact," according to Major Sparks, director of the Men's Shelter in Newark, "although we use a religious approach, we find that most of those who come here have had an overdose of religion."

Alcohol Big Problem

The big problem, according to the Major, is alcohol. About 85 per cent of those who turn to the Shelter for help are chronic alcoholics.

The rehabilitation program is three-pronged. The problem of chronic alcoholism is meet directly by weekly meetings with Alcoholics Anonymous. The Shelter provides food and lodging in return for work the residents do at the Shelter, as well as meeting the spiritual needs of the men by a practical religious atmosphere.

The results are sometimes gratifying to Army officers. Major Sparks, at the conclusion of our interview, showed us a Christmas card he had just received from an ex-G.I. the Army had helped.

Three years ago the veteran had turned to him for help. An alcoholic, his business on the verge of bankruptcy, came to the Shelter for aid. He was put in contact with the A.A. and given work to do around the Shelter. After a number of interviews, the veteran stated that before the war he had enjoyed upholstering furniture. The Shelter was approved by the Veteran's Administration for G.I. training and after 18 months in the Shelter workshops, the ex-G.I. left to set up his own furniture business.

On the Christmas card was the message that he was doing well and that he recently had opened an antique shop in conjunction with a famous restaurant.

"What better Christmas present could there be," Major Sparks asked rhetorically.

Christmas greetings and best wishes for the New Year were simply expressed, too, in this note which accompanied a contribution to the Army's Christmas appeal:

"Enclose please find $[illegible]. I wish that I could send you a check for $100, but I am a very old lady, 76, living alone.

"You do so much good in this wicked world and especially for the outcasts for which I admire you. I will pray for you that God will bless you this coming year in all you do."

Texas Baptists Want No Federal Handout

Independence is more than Lone Star joke material or folklore in Texas. It is almost an article of religious faith. In El Paso last fortnight, delegates from the more than 3,000 churches of the state's Baptist General Convention re-affirmed the faith by resolving that no member church will ask for or accept any state or Federal financial aid, reports Pathfinder news magazine.
