

Leroy Horn Summit's goal line sprinter

By JOYCE JONES
In the locker room at Tinsack Field, a large oak desk scarred with assorted scratches, has been a mess throughout the years for Summit High School football players.

They gather around it as Howie Anderson, Summit Hilltoppers coach for 27 years, perches on it and begins his weekly lecture that will culminate in a Saturday pep talk: "All-we-want-is-victory."

What he says, his players want to hear. Leroy Horn, Summit's sensational halfback sits and listens to his coach. He looks anxious for the kick-off.

Leroy admits he never really followed the game of football until a few years ago when his brother, Willie, suggested he go out for the sport.

Coach Anderson squints his eyes. He has a way of looking at players and detecting potential talent which under his intense training program produces a sports star.

No one on the team talks star status. Anderson continually emphasizes that it is a team effort.

On the field, however, the stars soar. Leroy Horn does.

"Lee gets his touchdowns because Freddie Smith and Eric Karichus block and open holes for him. Works the same for the other players who score often," Anderson states.

Still Anderson insists that star quality and insists on hard work to keep it afloat. The workouts are geared to increase Horn's speed. Horn's fast, has power and the ability to totally concentrate.

"On the field, I hear only the words of my coach or the players," Horn notes. "It's Sat. morning, 8:30 a.m. The locker room is quiet now. Horn is getting his ankles taped."

No one talks. No one jokes. "It's not a joking matter," says Horn. "My mind is on the game now."

A little later in the morning Anderson starts to talk to his team. He reminds them of how long they waited for this season to begin.

"You've been working your butts off. No one should beat us now, especially today."

Time for lunch. Leroy peels a banana and bites into it. Breakfast of scrambled eggs and toast was hard; lunch is light. Leroy's quiet. There is more pep talk.

The doors of the locker room open and the team tumbles out, a mass of human bodies suited up, moving as one.

Striding behind is Coach Anderson. Well wishers line the path and shout to Anderson. He gives them a brief nod.

A glimpse of the maroon jerseys entering the field and the fans in the stands stand and cheer.

Cheerleaders and pompons are all fluttering. The starting line-up is announced. At the name Leroy Horn, the applause swells.

Leroy is concentrating. The chemistry is working for the team as a unit. The momentum builds, aided by Anderson's last minute locker room exhortations as well as his calls from the side lines.

Leroy admits to being hard on himself. "I get disgusted if I miss a pass or a block. I have to tell myself not to worry. Do it right the next time."

A lot of preparation and body training took place all week before the team goes on a field on Saturday.

Monday is probably the "easiest" day. This entails working out for an hour, going over scores and viewing films of the previous game.

Leroy describes Tuesday, "We have a hard work out with full pads. Spend time running after we finish our practice. Leroy is referring to Coach Anderson's insistence on sprints for Horn. "Coach Anderson starts us thinking about the game that is coming. We are given scouting reports that help us plan what we will do on Saturday. "Wednesday is another tough day. A lot of running and goal line drill. Running after practice is even longer. "Thursday no sprints but very hard work outs. The coach starts the theme of his pep talk for this week. Again, he reminds us we have been waiting a long time to get out there to play. "Friday, we work out with half pads. We go over what we are going to do in the game tomorrow and now when Coach Anderson talks to us, he really gives us something to think about for motivation."

Leroy Horn feels that the coaches attitude is "really important to the team's success."

Anderson's attitude never falters for his team.

For Horn, his training intensified at the beginning of the summer, continuing into the start of the football season.

"I worked with weights and did a lot of training at Club 11, the weight room at Summit High."

Opponents not only want to stop Horn, he realizes that to stop him could also be so bruising as to put him out of the game.

"You can't worry what the other players are going or try to do to you. You are thinking about grabbing the pass, concentrating on the play. Anything else is incidental," he notes.

Horn is a modest person about his football excellence. He attributes much of his success to his teammates.

"I don't think I would be running as good as I am if I didn't get the blocking, if it weren't for the holes they are giving me."

Horn offers some advice, "Always try your best," and adds something that is hard for him always to do. "Never get down on yourself. Spring finds Leroy on the diamond, playing baseball.

Do his thoughts wander to pro ball?

"It depends on the shape my body is in. I really have to work to build up my body. The way a pro football player gets hit; that worries me a little.

"Sure, I miss pro ball on the weekends. Sunday is a pretty boring day. Running back Herschel Walker, you could say, he's my favorite. It's the way he runs."

Has what happens on the field on Saturday affected his school life? Leroy laughs, "I am getting more hi's in the morning at school. Kids tell me they saw me play."

Now that Summit High is a member of the Northern Hills Conference many of the former Saturday foes are no longer on the line-up.

Missed is the old rival, Madison but most of all for Leroy and the team, it is its archrival New Providence that is the team it wishes it could play.

"Thanksgiving game won't be the last. If New Providence wins, they come to Summit keeping their horns; we do the same to them. Whether we play them or not, the rivalry will always continue."

The wins are building up for the Hilltoppers. Coach Anderson says, "I think this team is different; it's a real team and it's a real team operation."

Anderson seems pleased with the concept of team operation that he has worked to create.

On the field, Leroy's hard work is paying off. All eyes are on 34 as he dodges and bulls his way toward the goal line.

A touchdown. Horn holds the ball in the air, a sign of triumph. The Summit pep club cannon is fired.

Leroy is pummeled by his cheering teammates who display almost frenzied happiness.

The sprints and long work outs lie ahead. Today for a very brief moment Leroy Horn hears the roar of approval from the crowd.

And he smiles.

It's the Edison Recreation Center as a polling place for Ward I, Districts 1, 2 and 3

SUMMIT — The Buildings and Grounds Committee of the Common Council informed City Clerk David Hughes that due to unsafe conditions and insufficient electrical service Roosevelt School could not be used as a Polling Place for the Nov. 2nd General Election.

The next day City Clerk Hughes advised the County Board of Elections that sample ballots for the affected Districts were pulled from mailing so the new location could be identified. By Friday afternoon, after the consideration and inspection of several alternate sites, both the County Election Clerk and Deputy Clerk, along with Mr. Hughes, agreed that the use of Edison Recreation Center, Room, while having some minor complications of going over the Ward lines, would be the best site since it is a well-known location.

Mr. Hughes states that voters using Roosevelt School had not previously been moved because it was anticipated that voters could possibly use a "community room" at the site once the building was converted to dwelling units.

However, the size of some units increased and eliminated the "community room" concept. Had this been the original plan, the City Clerk emphasizes, the Polling Place would have been changed long ago.

In addition to changing the voting place identification on the Sample Ballot, the County is sending postcards to all the registered voters in Ward I, Districts 1, 2 and 3.

Roosevelt Commons developers clear last hurdle to win approval

By PEG THURLER

Door bells will soon replace school bells as Roosevelt School developers received amended site plan approval from the Planning Board last Monday evening. Replacing the classrooms will be four 2-bedroom apartments on the first floor and five 2-bedroom and one 1-bedroom apartments on the second floor.

No more basketball games in the gym. It will be converted into four apartments. Out on the playground, once the scene of hotly-contested softball games on summer evenings, 21 one-family dwelling units will be built by Cleveland Plaza Associates in 3 new buildings.

One landmark on the former playground will be retained, the "specimen oak" tree that dates back to the time when Indians pitched teepees in the area. Although not in the best of condition, according to City Forester William Calnan, plans are in the works to preserve

The tree ordinance for Summit, states that "no material, machinery, or temporary soil deposits shall be placed within six feet of any existing tree trunk, and a protective barrier around each tree in the proximity of said construction shall be established to prevent damage to such tree during construction."

Adherence to the ordinance and proper maintenance should prolong the landmark's life.

Eighty-three parking spaces will be provided instead of the original 90. The board decided this would be adequate, discounting any possible overflow parking on to Park Ave. or Ashwood Ave. Off-street parking provided by businesses along both streets, are currently underutilized.

Repairs will be necessary, it was noted by City Engineer Carl Bressan, to the deteriorating wall along Park Avenue.

Variances from the Developmental Regulations Ordinance requirements were granted because, said the resolution, "applicant's shape indicated because of the irregular shape of the property, topographical conditions, and the existence of two school buildings, strict application of the zoning regulations would result in peculiar and exceptional practical difficulties."

The site is located at the intersection of Park Avenue, Roosevelt Way, and Orchard Street.

Not meeting the requirements will be the 25 foot front yard along Park Ave., the minimum distance between buildings, and the maximum building coverage of the land. 20% is the limit, Roosevelt Commons will be approximately 24%.

William H. Breeding of Edgewood Rd., who lives directly above the proposed units, separated by a steep hill, the railroad tracks, and a wooded buffer, sent a letter to the Planning Board, which was read at the Monday meeting. he is concerned about the "undesirable visual and sound emissions from the development."

He said, "If buildings are to be no higher than existing buildings (as is indicated to be the case) and lights will be shielded to reduce our night view, I see no visual prejudice to my residence."

"If sound emissions are limited to those normal in a quiet residential district, I see no sound emission prejudice."

Mr. Breeding did, suggest "fencing along the railway right of way to avoid trespassing would be a positive development."

Renovation and building is expected to begin soon, according to Construction Official Ed Pilot. As soon as plans are presented and reviewed by the building department, a building permit can be issued.

Pat Obst and Helen Huber battle it out for Ward I Council seat

Pat Obst

Pat Obst is the Democrat candidate for Ward I Council Seat.

Mrs. Obst is opposed to the Collins Plan. She feels something must be done about parking.

She is not happy about using part of Washington Reservation for I-78.

In her opinion about Summit, Mrs. Obst senses concern about the improvement and about the attitude of City-Geigy.

"People are worried because they don't know what is going on and wish that Ciba would be more communicative."

On the subject of education in Summit, she believes the salaries paid to school administrators are too high.

Mrs. Obst says there is a certain complicity attendant to Common Council and that it only acts when there is a crisis. She called last summer's Sevin program "a fiasco."

"The schools must be more innovative; we should have all-day kindergartens."

If elected to Council, Mrs. Obst would make the governing group more responsible to the community needs and would explore issues. "I would be a different voice and offer different alternatives."

She thinks Summit is a wonderful town. "I have rung close to 75 percent of the doorbells in Ward I. It has been a great experience. I wouldn't trade it for anything."

She deplores anything bordering on complacency among elected officials.

Mrs. Obst has lived in Summit for almost seven years. She holds an architectural degree from Columbia University, a BA from Tufts and an MS from the University of Southern California.

Her husband is a lawyer and they are the parents of four children.

Mrs. Obst has been president of the Cooperative Nursery Center, a Trustee of the Friends of the Summit Public Library, a Nominating Committee member for the League of Women Voters, and has volunteered at the YWCA and the Lincoln School PTO.

Pat Obst at age 37 with four young children feels Summit must plan carefully in order to preserve the quality and character of the community. "I believe I can make an effective contribution as a member of Common Council."

Helen Huber

A 27-year resident of Summit, Mrs. Helen M. Huber of Foxwood Road, the first candidate to oppose the Collins Plan, is the Republican nominee running for election to the Ward I Common Council seat.

In voting her opposition to the Collins proposal for renovation of the railroad station, Mrs. Huber is in favor of a more aggressive plan, while at the same time she recognizes the need for elimination of what she has termed as "eyesores."

Mrs. Huber is also in favor of utilization of the private sector to maintain a healthy business district. As an example of the value of using private enterprise she has pointed out to already existent changes in the station area, including the building housing The Office, the renovation of 88 Summit Avenue and the construction of new office quarters on Union Place.

Concerned about the parking situation, Mrs. Huber is in favor of giving serious consideration to a Chamber of Commerce proposal to take over the Park and Shop lots and to extending a similar program to other lots.

Noting that waste disposal will continue to be regionalized in the future, Mrs. Huber is in favor of Summit helping itself, as well. She praised the efforts of the Summit Recyclers and urged community support of their efforts.

In addition, as an example of litter control, she urged that city facilities be litter free and proposed a promotion campaign to make residents conscious of the need to control litter.

Police protection is adequate, Mrs. Huber said, but she is concerned about the turnover rate during the past few years and cautioned that in order for police officers to protect residents they must have the most modern equipment available.

Concerning that the presence of Overlook Hospital is an asset to Summit, Mrs. Huber indicated she is aware of litigation between the city and the hospital. She has called for a mutual agreement between the city and the hospital to "work out equitable, well-defined boundaries, which could return some of the hospital properties outside the boundaries to the tax rolls."

A former president of the Summit Board of Education and a former trustee of the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education, Mrs. Huber has called for long-range planning to meet maintenance needs, not only for the city's schools, but for other city properties as well.

Mrs. Huber, who is currently the Consumer Affairs Local Assistance Officer, majored in mathematics at Wagner College, New York, and holds a mechanical engineering certificate from Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Va.

She was a member of the Union County Charter Commission and former president of the Union County Technical Institute and Vocation Center.

Most recently she has worked as an account executive and public relations administrator for an area newspaper. In the past she has been employed as a statistician, draftsman, insurance executive, and advertising representative.

Mrs. Huber has been active in many civic organizations, both locally and at the county and state levels.

She and her husband Jack who is a principal in a Newark plumbing supply house are the parents of Helen, a research analyst for Pepsi Co.

Edison Dr. subdivision approved

By PEG THURLER

The Planning Board approved a major subdivision last Monday evening that will enable a developer to construct one family home on lots along Edison Drive and Morris Avenue. However, the seven lots involved, currently owned by Eugene and Carolyn Starn, will be subject to two conditions relating to preservation of trees and removal of earth.

City Engineer Carl Bressan alerted board members that "a potential buyer would like to clear a great deal of the land." Board chairman Richard Bottelli revealed that during the public hearing on the Starn application for a major subdivision, the applicant's engineer, land surveyor Thomas Benjamin, had testified there would not be substantial destruction to trees.

Residents along Edison Drive and others living in the condominiums behind the proposed development had appeared at the public hearing to plead for the retention of trees. They feared drainage problems, erosion, and loss of privacy if the trees were cut down. The land is heavily wooded, and slopes sharply up toward the rear.

To prevent a mass clearing of the property, the board imposed two conditions to the granting of the major subdivision.

One: that every effort be made to preserve the trees at the rear of the property.

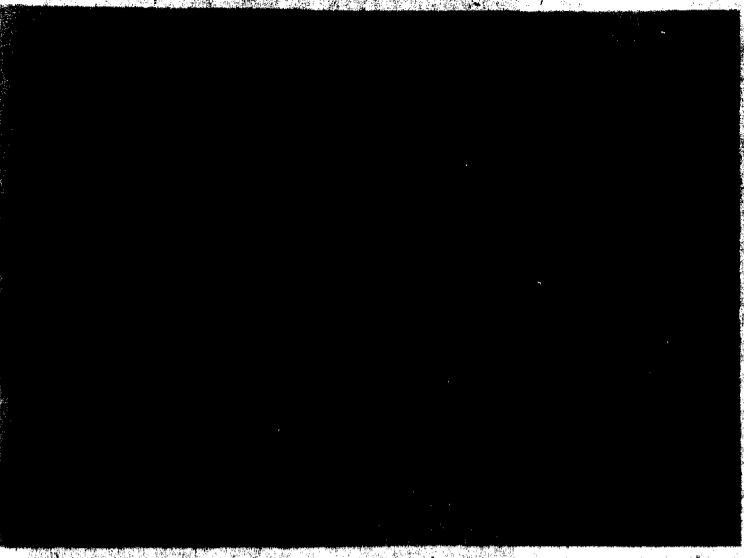

Two: regarding earthwork and excavation operations, only that earth is to be removed which is needed for construction of one family dwellings. This stipulation will prevent clearing of the property.

Testimony had indicated that homes would most likely be located near the front of the land because of the terrain. There are fewer trees along Edison Drive. Six lots are suitable for single family units and one for a possible two-family unit.

Becht - Sonnet nuptials

Carolyn Jean Becht, daughter of Mr. Edward Becht of Liberty Corner and Mrs. Floyd Lohsen of New Providence, became the bride of Glenn M. Sonnet on Sept. 25. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Sonnet of New Providence.

The Reverend Thomas Tewell officiated at the ceremony in the Presbyterian Church at New Providence. A reception followed at the Suburban Hotel, Summit.

Maid of honor was Cynthia Becht, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Marilyn Quinn and Amy Piotroski.

Best man was Drew Gannon. Ushers were Curt and Wayne Sonnet, brothers of the bridegroom.

The bride and bridegroom are both graduates of New Providence High School.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to the Florida Keys, the couple will reside in Elizabeth.

A reception followed the ceremony at Edgewood Manor, Bunker Hill, West Virginia where the couple now reside.

Pat Obst for Council Planning for the Future of Summit

Railroad Station	Police	Schools	Waste Management
The Collins Plan is the wrong solution for the Railroad Station area. It is too massive and it would be a detrimental change to the character and scale of the downtown area.	The police dept. should be equipped with the latest crime prevention tools and techniques so that it will continue to be a strong and effective force. Questions on personnel turnover and outdated procedures and equipment should be investigated.	The Superintendent and Board of Education must establish the quality programs needed to make the school system a leader in education once again. The neighborhood school concept should be maintained without additional school closings.	Volunteer recycling has saved money for the City of Summit. Recycling activity should be encouraged for the schools, local industry and downtown businesses. City Council can enhance these efforts by supporting the new recycling center building.
Senior Citizens	Sevin	Ciba-Galgy	Parking
Summit should explore additional senior citizen programs that have been successfully implemented in neighboring communities to serve this vital and growing group of Summit residents.	We should be planning for next year's Gypsy Moth program to avoid the spraying fiasco of the last two years. Aerial spraying should only take place with the consent of the property owners to be sprayed.	CIBA-GEIGY, as a corporate good neighbor citizen of Summit should talk with its neighbors to explain the ongoing operations within its facilities and to identify its future building plans.	A new approach to the downtown parking problem must be planned with the full cooperation of shoppers, downtown merchants and their employees. The new plan will not include any additional taxpayer supported tiered parking garages.

The time has come for a new voice on Common Council. Summit needs someone who will speak out on the issues and respond to the concerns of the citizens of Summit. With Summit facing many difficult challenges in the coming months and years, Summit must have the best person to help in the planning and decision making which must take place in order to preserve the quality and character of our community. Summit has the opportunity to elect that person on November 2. With young children, Pat Obst is very concerned about the future of Summit. With her academic training, professional experience and volunteer activities, she has the experience and skills necessary to do the job. She has the knowledge, intelligence, concern and dedication to make an important contribution to the future of Summit as a member of Common Council.

The Second Time is easier

What would you do if your home caught fire tonight? Save the wife and children? Call the fire department? Get a ladder, grab the family jewels, find a fire extinguisher? Get out? But these thoughts come easily when you're reading the newspaper.

But what if you woke up in the night - smoldered smoke - saw fire? You'd react on instinct instead of logic and that could spell panic. And panic breeds death.

It's easier to evacuate a burning home safely if you've done it before in practice, especially for the children. Determine at least two exits from each room and which to use - depending upon the location of the fire.

Smoke detectors require fire drills, but they are neglected in the home where the chance of fire are 200 times greater. Remember - the second time is easier especially if it's the real McCoy.

The Danger to Deterrence

By MICHAEL HIRSH
Former Editor, Chatham Press

During this time of heightened tensions between the superpowers, when a nuclear holocaust seems more imminent than ever, it may strike some people as tragically odd that the supposed nuclear arms experts in this country can't seem to find any common ground on which to agree about the existing state of deterrence.

The hard-liners now insist that the deterrent status of our nuclear forces will remain weak unless we show a willingness to fight a nuclear war. The only way to do this credibly, they say, is to upgrade our forces in order to forestall the Soviet threat to our "window of vulnerability." The soft-liners maintain, with equal tenacity, that deterrence is strong on either side, that "mutual assured destruction" will still be the result of a nuclear attack either way, and that not only shouldn't we upgrade our forces but we'd better see about decreasing them, in concert with the Soviets, if we wish to strengthen deterrence.

Which faction is right? Can they both be wrong? The answer, unfortunately for our sanity -- and our safety -- is that if either argument is right, then at the same time it is wrong.

Deterrence, you see, is what philosophers call a paradox of logic. The paradox runs like this:

If the President of the United States assumes that mutual assured destruction will be the result of any nuclear missile exchange, he must conclude that our current nuclear forces are sufficient, deterrence is strong, and that therefore arms escalation is unreasonable. This is all very consoling, but there is a catch. By taking this position the President also suggests to the Russians that, since mutual assured destruction -- and thus, in effect, suicide -- is the only outcome conceivable to him, he will not be so quick to retaliate in the event of an attack on his country. A sane man is not likely to choose suicide as his only option. Therefore deterrence, which requires a willingness to retaliate to be credible, is weakened. And the only way to strengthen deterrence, at this point, is to disavow mutual assured destruction and suggest to the Russians that we can in fact beat them in a nuclear war. But to do this is to contradict oneself.

Suppose, then, to avoid getting himself into this bind, the President starts out by taking the opposing, hard-line point of view. He suggests to the Russians that mutual assured destruction is not necessarily the case, and that in fact we could beat them in a nuclear war -- thus ostensibly strengthening our stature as a deterrent against attack. Unfortunately, however, the President's pugnacity also aggravates tensions and incites the Soviets to prepare for war in response. With both sides apparently willing to go to war, neither side can trust the other not to initiate it, and deterrence, which also requires an unwillingness to initiate war to be credible, is therefore weakened. And the only way to strengthen deterrence again and stop the momentum towards war is to sit down with the Soviets and agree that mutual assured destruction will certainly be the case in a nuclear war. Again, a flat contradiction is the result.

The only way out of the paradox, it seems, is to take some kind of middle road on mutual assured destruction and neither to avow it completely or disavow it completely. But this means taking virtually no position at all. Such a course is unpalatable to both the American Administration and the Soviet leadership, perhaps because to seem to take no position at all on an issue of such crucial importance is usually bad politics.

Why, then, the question arises, has deterrence worked so well, in one form or another, for 37 years? Mainly because deterrence is not logical. Deterrence is a state of mutual terror induced by mutual uncertainty. The heart of deterrence, in operation, consists of an endless round of questions asked intently, in times of impending or actual crisis, by the U.S. and Soviet leadership -- Will they attack us unprompted? Will they attack us if we attack them? How good really are their systems? The teeth of deterrence lie in the knotty uncertainty that attends each of the possible answers to these questions, and what is at stake if they are answered wrongly. Since any wrong answer that precipitates a nuclear strike means destruction on an unprecedented and, indeed, inconceivable scale, these uncertainties have been enough to deter nuclear war.

The Reagan Administration, of course, in attempting to be firm and decisive, is attempting the impossible: it is attempting to make deterrence logical. Mr. Reagan has currently tangled himself up in the second part of the paradox by seeking to brand fear of U.S. pugnacity into the hearts of the Soviets while at the same time claiming he seeks arms reduction. The paradox becomes clear to us when we realize that the essence of the President's START proposal is that he wishes to expand our nuclear forces so that he can better dismantle them.

The problem for all of us today is that, in expanding our nuclear forces, Mr. Reagan is narrowing the margin of mutual uncertainty on which deterrence hangs by seeking to deploy weapons -- the MX and Cruise Missiles, the Trident submarine -- which are so swift and devastatingly effective against the Soviet strike force that they leave the Soviets all the less time in which to be uncertain about a U.S. attack. If these weapons are deployed, most independent experts say, the Soviets won't be able to afford to spend much time dithering in uncertainty when there is suspicion of an attack. They will perform a "launch on warning" policy, and the uncertainties of deterrence will be narrowed to mere minutes of frenzied decision-making.

Just as important, some of these weapons -- the ground-launched cruise missile, for example -- are virtually invisible to existing means of monitoring, and their deployment could spell an end to realistic arms control, which will always require some form of mutual verification.

This Tuesday, in nine states and many localities across the country, various referendums calling for a mutually verifiable freeze in nuclear weapons will come up for a vote. If the freeze is defeated, the Reagan Administration will likely regard the defeat publicly as an approval of its policies, and a blank check for arms escalation. Congress may well follow suit.

Our course is clear, and logical. If we are to rescue the prospects for arms control, if we are to have any chance of working our way back to the broad, mutual uncertainties of deterrence and eventually, perhaps, out of them and into a time of detente and organized trust between the superpowers, then the nuclear freeze referendums must succeed this Tuesday.

MAN OF LA MANCHA, the Stoney Hill Production opens Nov. 5. Man of La Mancha by Dale Wasserman with music by Mitch Leigh will be performed Fri., Nov. 5, through Sat., Nov. 27. without respect of persons. Such indeed was the impression of his justice, that when shops, filled with goods, happened, through the negligence of the owners, to be left open, no person dared to enter them, or to rob them of the smallest article. Travellers of all descriptions might pass through every part of the kingdom, by night as well as by day, freely and without apprehension of danger. He was religious, and charitable to the poor and needy. Children whom their wretched mothers exposed in consequence of their inability to rear them, he caused to be saved and taken care of, to the number of twenty thousand annually. When the boys attained a sufficient age, he had them instructed in some handicraft, and afterwards married them to young women who were brought up in the same manner.

Very different from the temper and habits of Façur were those of Kubli-khan, emperor of the Tartars, whose whole delight consisted in thoughts of a warlike nature, of the conquest of countries, and of extending his renown. After having annexed to his dominions a number of provinces and kingdoms, he now directed his views to the subduing that of Manji, and for this purpose assembled a numerous army of horse and foot, the command of which he gave to a general named Chin-san Bay-an, which signifies in our language, the "Hundred-eyed." This occurred in the year 1273. A number of vessels were put under his orders, with which he proceeded to the invasion of Manji. Upon landing there, he immediately summoned the inhabitants of the city of Koi-gan-zu to surrender to the authority of his sovereign. Upon their refusal to comply, instead of giving orders for an assault, he advanced to the next city, and when there received a similar answer, proceeded to a third and a fourth, with the same result. Deeming it no longer prudent to leave so many cities in his rear, whilst not only his army was strong, but he expected to be soon joined by another of equal force, which the grand khan was to send to him from the interior, he resolved upon the attack of one of these cities; and having, by great exertions and consummate skill, succeeded in carrying the place, he put every individual found in it to the sword. As soon as the intelligence of this event reached the other cities, it struck their inhabitants with such consternation and terror, that of their own accord they hastened to declare their submission. This being effected, he advanced, with the united force of his two armies, against the royal city of Kin-sai, the residence of king Façur, who felt all the agitation and dread of a person who had never seen a battle, nor been engaged in any sort of warfare. Alarmed for the safety of his person, he made his escape to a fleet of vessels that lay in readiness for the purpose, and embarking all his treasure and valuable effects, left the charge of the city to his queen, with directions for its being defended to the utmost; feeling assured that her sex would be a protection to her, in the event of her falling into the hands of the enemy. He from thence proceeded to sea, and reaching certain islands, where were some strongly fortified posts, he continued there till his death. After the queen had been left in the manner related, it is said to have come to her knowledge that the king had been told by his astrologers that he could never be deprived of his sovereignty by any other than a chief who should have a hundred eyes. On the strength of this declaration she felt confident, notwithstanding that the city became daily more and more straitened, that it could not be lost, because it seemed a thing impossible that any mortal could have that number of eyes. Inquiring, however, the name of the general who commanded the enemy's troops, and being told it was Chin-san Bay-an, which means a hundred eyes, she was seized with horror at hearing it pronounced, as she felt a conviction that this must be the person who, according to the saying of the astrologers, might drive her husband from his throne. Overcome by womanish fear, she no longer attempted to make resistance, but immediately surrendered. Being thus in possession of the capital, the Tartars soon brought the remainder of the province under their subjection.

Against nuclear war

Mrs. Helen Huber,
Candidate for Summit City Council
Summit, N.J.

Dear Mrs. Huber:
The following proposition will appear on the ballot in New Jersey in November:

"Do you support a mutual United States-Soviet Union nuclear weapons 'freeze' and urge the government of the United States:

- (1) to propose to the government of the Soviet Union that both countries immediately agree to a mutual, verifiable halt of all further testing, production, and deployment of nuclear warheads, missiles and delivery systems as a first step toward mutual, balanced reductions; and
- (2) to apply the money saved to human needs and tax reduction?"

How do you plan to vote on this proposition?
Please check the appropriate line below, sign and return this letter to me in the enclosed envelope, at your early convenience, as we plan to publicize the positions of candidates for office on this issue.

Thank you for your cooperation.
Sincerely yours,
Oct. 6, 1982

Detective Misuriello wins high praise

Frank Formichella
Chief of Police, Summit
Dear Chief Formichella:

On 18 October, my daughter Susan's automobile was broken into and her stereo was stolen. Damage to the interior of the car was extensive.

Detective Thomas McNeely took a report and details of a thin lead were to later prove meritorious. Detective Richard Misuriello proceeded to investigate the matter. And, in the process, Detective Misuriello again proved the adage: There is no substitute for good hard police work...

Within three days, Detective Misuriello apprehended the thieves.

In my view, this police officer possesses skills that are finely honed and balanced. He is ingenious, tenacious, intuitive, intelligent and he exhibits a great deal of good common sense.

Detectives Misuriello and McNeely are to be commended for their fine efforts and accomplishments.

An orderly adherence to tradition...

To the Editor:

I have read the notice in your valuable newspaper of the time and place for our annual community service of Thanksgiving. It brings me surprise and concern to learn that now the Sunday evening before Thanksgiving Day is chosen. I cannot but wonder why.

It was not so many years ago that our thankful people gathered together in the morning of Thanksgiving Day at Central Presbyterian Church. Some of our relatives from distant cities had come to give thanks with us. It seemed most honorable and orderly with plenty of time left for the traditional dinner preparations and home pleasures.

There seems to be such an over abundant number of changes going on so swiftly in our lives today. I cannot but wonder if we had adhered more strictly to more of the guides left to us by our forefathers, we might not feel the need of these constant changes of long standing constants.

Surely life is change for which we are thankful.

May many of Summit's privileged citizens attend their city's service of general thanksgiving this year.

The best, thoughtful...

To the editor:

As we approach the polls, there is really no question as to who should get our vote for Common Council. Helen Huber, the Republican candidate in Ward 1, is clearly the person with the broadest education and background, the greatest experience at the city, county, and state levels, and the best understanding of what it takes to run our city successfully and for the greatest good of all.

Her opponent, on the other hand, has none of these attributes. In fact, her press releases are affairs that do not even acknowledge that she is a Democrat. (Now what do you suppose is the reason for that?)

In short, the person who can do the best, most thoughtful job is Helen Huber. She should have your vote.

Pat is outstanding...

To the editor:

In order to serve adequately on Common Council, a person should be dedicated, intelligent, objective, sympathetic and forward looking. Pat Obst has all these qualities. If the citizens of Summit want able leadership they should vote for Pat Obst for Council. She is an outstanding candidate.

Why a YES vote is necessary

To the editor:

Last Monday I attended a meeting of editors who are concerned about the threat of nuclear war.

One of the speakers was Randall Forsberg, the initiator of the nuclear freeze campaign. Your readers will be interested in her study, which is published in the November issue of the Scientific American.

Forsberg shows that President Reagan's START proposal would lead to a net increase in U.S. nuclear weapons, not a reduction.

The article demonstrates that the Soviets currently face a bigger "window of vulnerability" than the United States. Moreover, existing U.S. counterforce capabilities could be quickly upgraded by deploying Mark 12A warheads on all existing Minuteman 3 missiles. According to Forsberg the current overall parity between the U.S. and Soviet nuclear forces makes this "a propitious time for the freeze."

Advances in nuclear weapons planned for the rest of this century will provide unnecessary and destabilizing increases in offensive capability. Stopping production of nuclear warheads may be the key to verification of a comprehensive freeze package.

An open letter re cheating at timing

Dr. Donald R. Geddis
Principal, Summit High School
Dear Dr. Geddis:

First, let me say that this is the only time I have felt compelled to write a letter to a high school principal for any reason. It is also important that you don't regard what I have to say as the emotional outpouring of a disgruntled Montville parent and football fan. I, alone, am responsible for these comments. However, I believe that my remarks also represent, at least in a general way, the feelings of hundreds of Montville parents and fans and perhaps some Summit parents who also witnessed the flagrant violation of good sportsmanship and fair play that occurred during the Summit-Montville football game of October 23, 1982.

I have attended many high school football games in the past 30 years. But, I don't recall ever seeing, before, a similar incident of what appeared to be deliberate dishonesty on the part of the officials who were responsible for keeping time at the game last Saturday at Summit High School. Let me cite a few specific instances of what looked like outright cheating by the game officials. Although, there may have been similar incidents earlier in the game, I and several hundred other Montville rooters first noticed that at 5 minutes to go in the fourth quarter Summit ran two plays but the scoreboard clock (which was announced as the official time prior to the game) showed no change. The uproar from the Montville stands and the protests of the Montville coaches prompted the referees to stop the game and have the clock corrected. However, the amount of time remaining in the game was reduced by only 11 seconds. Does it seem reasonable to you that the time required to call the signals and complete two plays would consume only 11 seconds?

The next obvious incident of cheating on the time occurred with 1 minute and 2 seconds remaining in the game. Here again, the Summit team ran at least one (and perhaps two plays) and the clock never changed. But, no attempt was made by the officials on the field to correct the amount of time remaining, despite the protests from the Montville coaches and fans.

Finally, the last half a dozen plays by the Summit team reduced the time remaining in the game by only about 3 or 4 seconds for each play. It is inconceivable that each of these critically important plays could have been executed from start to finish in only 3 or 4 seconds, particularly when you realize that most of the plays were successfully completed passes, each involving gains of roughly 10 yards, or more. Though the Montville fans were in an uproar, our coaches who were equally shocked by this arrogant disregard for the rules could not get the referees to correct the situation.

The point of all this, Dr. Geddis, is to let you know that we are extremely disappointed by these events and our perception of your school and your football program couldn't be more unfavorable. Moreover, it is important that the Montville team does not get the impression that Summit was justified in cheating on the time because Summit won the game. We must guard against the possibility that these teen-age student/athletes (both in Montville and in Summit) interpret these incidents as proof that the end justifies the means, whether in football games or in anything else that matters in life.

In my opinion, football -- more than any other team sport -- imparts meaningful life values to the athletes. Although there are opportunities for individual excellence, football is essentially a team sport. Each player has a specific job to do. Each player contributes, in an important way, to the team effort and unless each bears his share of the responsibility effectively, the objective of the team effort is not achieved. We can not let these major life values be undermined by what appears to be a recourse to cheating rather than the dependence on team play.

Summit has a good football team and it is entirely possible that you would have won the game without the help of the extra time. As you may know, Montville is a new school (our first graduation was in 1972), and we don't yet have the tradition of excellence that has been associated with the Summit football program for many years. I would hope that our players and their parents don't assume that your impressive record was gained by misusing the clock as part of the weekly "game plan."

I also hope that the young men who play football for your school are not aware of the ways the time was adjusted to their benefit. It is much more important that they believe they won fairly and take pride in their victory than to feel their victory was a fraud, because someone else felt it was necessary to cheat and thereby enhance their chances to win. I don't think the Summit players would want to win under those circumstances any more than we would want Montville to resort to manipulating the clock in order to win a football game.

Please do not consider my remarks as a personal criticism. I don't know you, but I could not assume that you -- as the principal of this fine school -- would be a party to anything that compromises good sportsmanship and fair play. As the principal, however, you are in the position to make whatever changes you feel are necessary to assure that the unfortunate events of last Saturday are not repeated.

The Travels of Marco Polo and the Freeze

To the editor:

I believe that the enclosed chapter 55 from The Travels Of Marco Polo has some relevance in the current discussions on nuclear weapons and national defense. Was the noble Prince Façur a "thinking" person, or merely naive?

CHAPTER LV: Of the most noble province of Manji, and of the manner in which it was subdued by the grand kban. "The province of Manji is the most magnificent and the richest that is known in the eastern world. About the year 1269 it was subject to a prince who was styled Façur, and who surpassed in power and wealth any other that for a century had reigned in that country. His disposition was pacific, and his actions benevolent. So much was he beloved by his people, and such the strength of his kingdom, enclosed by rivers of the largest size, that his being molested by any power upon earth was regarded as an impossible event. The effect of this opinion was, that he neither paid any attention himself to military affairs, nor encouraged his people to become acquainted with military exercises. The cities of his dominions were remarkably well fortified, being surrounded by deep ditches, a bow-shot in width, and full of water. He did not keep up any force in cavalry, because he was not apprehensive of attack. The means of increasing his enjoyments and multiplying his pleasures were the chief employment of his thoughts. He maintained at his court, and kept near his person, about a thousand beautiful women, in whose society he took delight. He was a friend to peace and to justice, which he administered strictly. The smallest act of oppression, or injury of any kind, committed by one man against another, was punished in an exemplary manner,

Wants to know letter writer's address

To the editor:
The enclosed letter is in response to Mr. T. Stewart's letter to me in the Oct. 24 edition of the Summit Herald. I am requesting the printing of the letter since I am unable to locate Mr. Stewart's address in the Summit phone book. If you have his address you may forward my letter to him and if he desires more information about the schools my children attended I would be happy to respond to his questions either by phone or letter.

Where have you gone to school?

Dear Mr. Stewart:
Every little girl dreams of a stranger coming along and asking the question "Where have you been all my life?" Now the stranger comes, but what he is really asking is "Where have you lived and where did your kids go to school?"
I hope that by describing the communities and school systems rather than naming them and being accused of slander will suffice. Two of the communities may be described as affluent suburbs, one in the Baltimore-Washington area and the other in Atlanta. The third school system was located in a small town, of approximately 20,000 population, adjacent to a metropolitan area in eastern Pennsylvania. The fourth community in which we have lived, is Summit.
I might add that the two affluent suburban school districts did not provide kindergarten education. Our children have therefore had educational experiences in both Montessori and church schools. We also have had experience with a private preparatory school of national reputation in the Northeast.
I hope these comments and descriptions will enlighten you as to my basis for comparison of the Summit School System and my judgement of the excellence of education provided here.

Another victim of ticket blitz

Mrs. Janet Whitman
Chairman, Safety Committee
Common Council
Dear Mrs. Whitman:
I recently paid a parking ticket that I do not feel was justified. It seems to me that I am another victim of the ticket blitz in Summit.
The merchants are also victims. I know personally of one local merchant who recently lost a substantial sale because his customer was nervous that his meter had only several minutes left. After a hurried check, his meter had expired by ONLY minutes; resulting in an overtime parking ticket. He was so upset, he left to shop in another town.

In my case, it was an expired parking permit. How was I to know it had expired? If they had to give me a ticket, at least it could have been a warning.
It occurs to me that the pen and pencil pushers who stand to the ready, could better assist the shopper in our town by being more lenient for a couple of minutes; instead, they are driving customers to other towns and malls.

Reduce crime 35%

by PEG THURLER
Statistics show that the burglary rate in a neighborhood is reduced by 35% where a "Neighborhood Watch" is in action. Blocks that organize such a "watch" are given a sign designating the area as a Protected Neighborhood.
Summit Police Sergeant Dave Formichella is director of the local crime-prevention program. He needs the help of block captains to make the effort successful. Responsibilities of a captain include maintaining a cooperative system of surveillance over each other's property; be ready to receive calls from people going away to coordinate surveillance of vacant homes; be the liaison between the police and the neighbors, reporting suspicious actions accurately and immediately; and encourage home security surveys and property marking activities by neighbors.
To help the block captain, the police are ready to provide a training program in basic home security and property marking techniques; issuing crime trend alerts and other information; attend and assist, if requested, neighborhood meetings; and arrange for the installation of signs.
Sgt. Formichella would like to see "watches" all over the city, but first he needs volunteers to organize the blocks. He can be reached at police headquarters, 273-0051, for anyone ready to help his neighborhood reduce its crime rate, by serving as a block captain.

Contributions in lieu of flowers may be made to the Cooper Union or to a charity of the donor's choice.

Freedom of the Press does not mean freedom to distort the facts!

To the editor:
Misrepresentation of the actual events through selective reporting is a disservice to both a newspaper and its readers.
This is precisely what happened in the Summit Herald's account of the League of Women Voters' Common Council "candidates" debate last week. The headline stated that the candidates generally agreed on the issues. That is clearly not the case.
The article did not point out that Mr. Kelsey is in favor of the "Collins Plan" for the new railroad station, while both Mrs. Obst and Mrs. Huber are firmly against it.
The article also failed to bring out the different responses on the subject of redistricting.
Mrs. Huber said she did not see a need, since no one told her there was one.
Mrs. Obst stated that the matter should be investigated and adjustments made if necessary.
And Mr. Kelsey said that redistricting should not be undertaken, because certain parts of Summit "are not ready for representation."
No mention was made of the candidates' responses to tough questions. For exam-

Bad weather triggers car accidents

SUMMIT — Three accidents were reported on stormy October 25. One driver was taken to Overlook Hospital when two cars collided at the intersection of Broad St. and Springfield Ave.
William Marvin of Oak Ridge Ave., was taken to the hospital after a car driven by Evan Challis of Harvey's Lake, Pa. hit his car as he was going north on Springfield. Challis had stopped at the stop sign at Broad and Springfield, then pulled out in front of the Marvin car, according to the police report. Challis was issued a summons.
Harry Pfeifer of Califon, was stopped in traffic on Glenside Ave., heading west, when his car was struck in the rear by a car driven by Ralph Nacchio, of Piscataway, N.J. According to the police report, Nacchio rounded a curve, saw the traffic stopped, but could not halt in time due to wet road conditions. Mr. Nacchio was given a summons.
An accident at the jug handle at Broad and Middle Ave., involved driver Joan Biedell of Scotch Plains who was westbound on Broad, and a car driven by Edelberto Trujillo of Springfield Ave., Summit. According to the police report, Mr. Trujillo came out of the jug handle into Broad St. at Middle Ave. and struck the side of the Biedell car. Injured was a passenger, Biana Pavon.
Cars driven by Ronald Osterberg of Ramsey Drive, and Dhuanne Baab of Crescent Gables, collided at the intersection of Springfield Ave. and Passaic Ave., on Oct. 24. Also that day Morris Avenue was the scene of a two-car accident. John Floren of Broad St. was traveling westbound on Morris when a car driven by Robert Shulman of West Orange turned in front of the Floren car from the left lane to enter the Ashwood Exxon station, according to the police report.
On Oct. 23 the corner of Parmley Place and Summit Ave., was the scene of an accident. A car driven by Thomas Buchanan of Conover, N.C., traveling north on Summit Ave. started to turn left into Parmley Pl. but was struck by a car driven by Vivian Thornes of Newark. Injured in the collision were the two drivers and a passenger, Ruby Chandler of Newark.
The Summit High School parking lot was the scene of a pedestrian car accident on Oct. 27. Theophilus Richardson, of Glenwood Place, was backing up slowly in the lot, according to the police report, when he struck a pedestrian, Tom Pampalone of Troy Court, New England Avenue. The driver said that his rear window was fogged up at the time.
A bicyclist, Alan Jaffrey, of Kent Place Blvd. was injured when he was thrown from his bicycle after it collided with a car driven by Gladys Geer of New England Ave.

Police obtain metal detector to check out Halloween candy

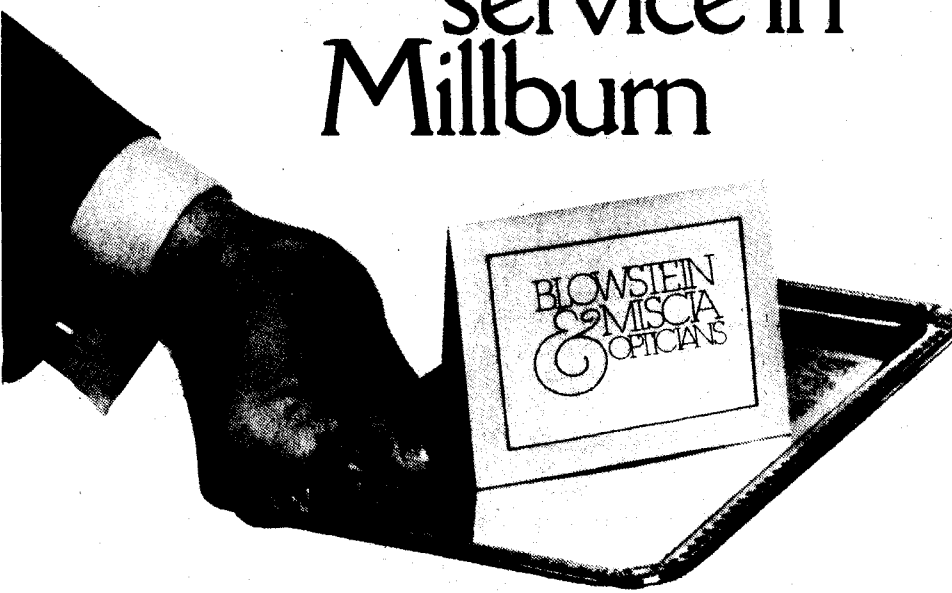

by PEG THURLER
SUMMIT — Parents who have any suspicions that Halloween candy has been tampered with are urged to bring it to police headquarters at City Hall.
The department has obtained a metal detector, and the police will check out any suspicious packages or pieces of candy or other food that children have been given while trick or treating.
"If you have any questions at all about any candy your children receive, bring it in," said deputy chief Mario Formichella. "We'll run it through the machine and tell you if it's safe to eat."
Check all treats when you get home to be sure there is nothing harmful inside the packages, cautions the N.J. Automobile Club, in listing 14 tips for a safe Halloween.
Try to trick or treat when it is still light outside.
Wear a costume that makes it easy for you to walk, see, be seen.
Carry a flashlight.
Use reflecting tape on your costume so car drivers can see you.
Take off your mask before crossing a street.
Suggestion - use makeup instead of a mask.
Have a parent, older brother or sister go with you.
Tell your family which streets you will be visiting.
Cross only at corners, never between parked cars.
Walk facing traffic if there is no walkway.
If you go out at night, wear light colored costume.
Choose streets that are well lighted.
Go with a group of children, never alone.

Girion to autograph books at Winter Market

Winter Market, a local tradition for 37 years, will have new expanded hours for shopping convenience this year. It will open its doors all day on Tues., Nov. 9th from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and on Wed., Nov. 10 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. This year Winter Market offers its yearly favorites with new areas and special events added.

One special event features Barbara Girion of Short Hills, noted author of children's books. Mrs. Girion will be in the book department of Winter Market on Tues., Nov. 9, from 2:30 - 4:30 p.m. to autograph her books.

Mrs. Girion's newest novel, "A Handful of Stars," tells of a young high school student named Julie who develops epilepsy. This and other of Mrs. Girion's books and articles are based on the true-life experiences of the Girion family.

Other books authored by Mrs. Girion are "Joshua, the Czar and the Chicken Bone Wish," "Misty and Me," "Like Everybody Else," and "A Tangle of Roots" which was named best book for young adults of 1979 and won the Kenneth Smilen Present Tense Award for best book of 1980.

The Winter Market Raffle drawing will be held at 2 p.m. on Wed. Nov. 10. First prize is an ultra suede suit from Marie Stadler of Summit and the second prize is a $100 gift certificate at Kings Market. The tickets costing $1 each will be on sale at the YWCA and other areas in town as well as at Winter Market.

To the delight of many regular Winter Market customers Gerri Harter of Summit has once again baked 15 different kinds of bread (over 225 loaves at this writing) and made apple butter to add to the many other delicious items at the baked goods table and the frozen Gourmet delicacies area.

Traditional handcrafted goods will include knitted and crocheted clothes and blankets, Christmas decorations, tree ornaments, ceramics, baskets, baby items and 14K gold jewelry. Grandpa's Attic will feature antiques and nearly new collectibles. The COUNTRY STORE will have regular consigners as well as new ones.

Tickets in the form of a button will be sold at the door or before hand at the YWCA desk. Adults entrance will cost $1 while children are free. If there are any questions, call Charlotte Nelson at the YWCA, 273-4242.

Shopping spree

SUMMIT — The Women's Day Committee of Fountain Baptist Church, 21 Chestnut Ave., is sponsoring a "Shopping Spree" on Sat., Nov. 13 to the Secaucus Shopping Outlets. This is a great opportunity to purchase your Christmas gifts early. Bus will leave from Fountain Baptist at 9 a.m. sharp and return at 3:30 p.m. A surprise awaits each one that takes this trip with us. Cost is $10. For reservations, call 277-1944 or 277-6849.

CHILDREN'S WRITER, Barbara Girion of Short Hills, will autograph her newest book, "A Handful of Stars" on Tues., Nov. 9th.

Enjoy Christmas delights at Runnells Boutique

The annual Christmas Boutique of the Runnells Hospital Volunteers Guild will be on Fri., Nov. 19th.

The sale will be at the Hospital, Bonnie Burn Road at Plainfield Ave., Berkeley Heights, in Mary Connelly Hall from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Volunteers have been working all year creating beautiful handmade items of wearing apparel, both adults and childrens, toys, gifts, Christmas ornaments and a variety of stocking stuffers.

A popular feature of the sale is the "Baked Goods Table" presenting a delectable array of home-made breads, cakes, pies, cookies, etc. Other attractions are the "nearly New Table" where all kinds of attic treasures can be found, and the jewelry booth. Delicious desserts, coffee and snacks will be available throughout the day.

Woodwind Quintet to perform

SUMMIT — The Choros Woodwind Quintet will perform Nov. 3 for the students of Kent Place School, Norwood Avenue, Summit at 1:30 p.m. in the Phraner Gymnasium.

The Choros Woodwind Quintet has actively performed in the United States and Europe.

When the group performed in the International Competition in Munich, a commission was secured from the French composer, Jean Francaix. The ensemble has been awarded prizes in the Bergen Philharmonic Artists Competition.

The group comes to Kent Place as the result of a Ford Foundation grant providing for Fine Arts performances for the student body. The public is cordially invited to attend the concert free of charge.

Choros members have played in some of the most respected and prestigious musical organizations in the United States and Europe: The New York Philharmonic, the Aspen Orchestra, the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra, the American Symphony Orchestra, the Dallas Symphony, the Belgian Radio Orchestra, the French Radio Orchestra and the Tokyo Chamber Orchestra.

Members of the group include Steve Dibner, bassoonist; Sheryl Henze, flutist; Diane Lesser, oboist; Bernard Yannotta, clarinetist; and Chris Blazakis, French Horn. Dr. Yannotta is presently on the faculty at the Kent Place School and Fairleigh Dickinson University.

Free concert of songs to be offered at First Methodist

Continuing a long tradition of bringing fine music to the community, three Wagner College student music groups will perform concerts at two metropolitan area churches on Sunday, Nov. 7. One will be the First Methodist Church in Summit.

Approximately 70 members of the groups -- the Wagner College Choir, Male Glee Club and Women's Chorus -- will begin the day with a 3:30 p.m. performance at Immanuel Union Church on Staten Island. A 7:30 p.m. presentation at the First Methodist Church in Summit will conclude the day.

Concert programs include religious music -- from "Beautiful Savior" -- as well as a medley of "Songs from Childhood."

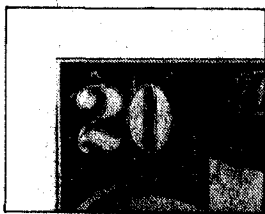

Admission is free and the public is invited to attend the concerts. For more information, contact the Wagner Music Department at 390-3313.

Share your abundance with others world community day to be observed

SUMMIT — World Community Day, a national observance sponsored by Church Women United, calls Christian women to gather on Fri., Nov. 5, at the Pilgrim Baptist Church, 75 Morris Ave., at 10:30 a.m. to focus their energies on the crisis of scarcity and abundance in our world.

This annual celebration, observed since World War II is motivated by the concern of Church Women United for justice and peace in a global society. The service this year analyzes the universal problem of "Scarcity/Abundance" from a Christian perspective. Written by participants in Church Women United's international Christian Causeways, it draws upon insights gained from these experiences of sharing concerns and building bridges of understanding with Christian women of other countries and cultures.

Initiated in 1966, International Causeways have taken church women from the United States to Africa, Latin America, Ireland, Asia, the Caribbean, Eastern Europe, the Pacific. Church Women United is the national movement bringing more than half a million Protestant, Roman Catholic and Orthodox women together into a Christian "community caring."

World Community Day offerings make possible the mission of Church Women United, including the International Grants for Mission Program that funds project, national and international, in support of the empowerment of women, human rights, justice and peace. This year's services will be led by Leader Jeannette Waters and the music will be arranged and conducted by Dale Skiles.

Floral designer colors Welcome Wagon meeting

Carl Lemanski, well known floral designer in the tri-state area, will be featured at the Welcome Wagon Club's Nov. 16 luncheon.

Mr. Leona Roll, owner of Berkeley Florist, invited Mr. Lemanski to join the florist shop just two years ago and he has been busy lecturing and demonstrating for FTD shows in the New York area, as well as conducting classes at the florist shop. He will demonstrate the use of live greens and flowers for the holiday season. The luncheon meeting will be held at the Madison Hotel, Convent Station. Social hour starts at 11 a.m. with the luncheon and program following at 12 p.m. Members may make reservations by calling Pam Thomas 464-1741 or Jackie Poppleton 464-2994.

Summit Eleven's final-minutes rally overcomes undefeated Montville, 26-21

Summit High's football team (4-1) still was in the chase for the Northern Hills conference title and the North Jersey, Section 2, Group 3 championship playoffs going into yesterday's game with Lakeland at Tatlock Field.

But Coach Howie Anderson's Hilltoppers were only yards away from being eliminated from both races Saturday, before rallying in one of the more dramatic stories in Summit's football history—a 26-21 victory over previously undefeated Montville at Tatlock Field.

After leading the Mustangs from Morris County throughout most of the game, the Hilltoppers trailed themselves, trailing, with 2:20 minutes to go. What was worse, the Hilltoppers were 73 yards from touchdown territory.

Summit covered 54 yards in 11 plays, with the Hilltoppers making prudent use of limited time by stopping back with out of bounds whenever possible. The Hilltoppers were Montville 19-yard line running out.

The quarterback Dan Ambrose then came to the line and tried to pass but the pass was covered. Ambrose then "scrambled" 19 yards to the end zone, breaking several tackles. There were 19 yards left on the clock when Ambrose scored.

Summit was in front for the remainder of the contest. This time the lead was held by the Mustangs as they came back in the second half.

Left Summit in the Northern Hills conference with a 3-1 record. The game with Montville (2-0) for third place was a close one, but had a 19-yard pass play and a 35-yard punt that gave the Hilltoppers a victory over Montville.

Candidate for a solid spot in the State playoffs. Newark (6-0) and Randolph (5-0) are the top teams in North Jersey, Section 2, Group 3. The Hilltoppers have records that are better than the Mustangs before yesterday's game. Phillipsburg (5-0) has been ruled ineligible for the State playoffs.

The State playoffs are the Stachelers play in Pennsylvania schools during the regular season. Summit, Montville, West Orange and Parsippany Hills are 4-1, with Cranford, Parsippany and Hanover all with 3-2 records, still eligible for playoffs. The Hilltoppers completed nine of 19 passes for 54 yards.

Sippy and Hanover Park. Only four teams in each section will be invited to the playoffs.

Lakeland suffered its first NHC loss last week, bowing to West Milford, 7-0. Summit had beaten West Milford earlier in the season, 30-0.

Summit will complete its NHC schedule next Saturday when it plays Wayne Valley (1-4). Wayne Valley won its first game last week, blanking Millburn, 21-0. The game with Wayne Valley will be the first of three straight contests with Group 4 foes for the Hilltoppers, a Group 3 school.

Summit will face Passaic Valley High of Little Falls and Irvington in its final two contests. Passaic Valley surprised Clifton, 14-0, last week to raise its record to 1-3-1. Irvington (1-4) fell to Westfield, 31-14. Summit had beaten Westfield in its season opener, 20-15.

Big Early Lead
Summit appeared headed for an easy victory over Montville when the Hilltoppers roared out to a 14-0 lead in the first period. Ambrose intercepted two Montville passes to set up two touchdowns.

Ambrose's first interception gave Summit possession on the Montville 18-yard line. Three plays later Leroy Horn raced for a touchdown from 16 yards out. Jim Dunne kicked the extra point. Ambrose's next pass left the clock at 11:40. Four plays later Al Stith raced 49 yards for Summit's second score. Dunne's kick made the score 14-0.

Montville surged back with scoring drives in the second and third periods which were climaxed by short scoring passes from Mike Trifari to Bruce Dostal and Jerry Hug. Trifari ran for a two-point conversion after the second tally to tie the score, 14-14.

A 67-yard "scramble" by Ambrose helped Summit regain the lead early in the fourth period. Horn scored his second touchdown from four yards out. Montville moved in front for the first time when Trifari and Hug combined on a 50-yard pass-run play and Mitch Paster kicked the extra point.

That set the stage of Summit's late drive and Ambrose's heroics. Ambrose had entered the game in the second half in place of Dave Munzo.

Horn ran for 82 yards and two touchdowns in 14 carries. Stith picked up 83 yards and one touchdown in 11 tries. Ambrose ran for 94 yards in three attempts and one touchdown.

Summit outgained Montville, 243-59, on the ground, but the Mustangs' Trifari offset this with 20 of 30 pass completions for 214 yards and three touchdowns. The Hilltoppers completed nine of 19 passes for 54 yards.

Summit middleweights upset South Orange, 20-6.

The Summit Middleweights football team had its second win of the season, posting an impressive 20-6 victory over a previously unbeaten South Orange team.

Touchdowns were scored by a quarterback sneak by Mike Natale, a sparkling punt return by John Atherton, and a short plunge by "Bo" Matlock.

Leonard "Tiger" Freeman bounded out the scoring by booting his first extra point of the year. While he did not score a touchdown, George "Ogi" Nines was the mainstay of the Summit offense, rushing for well over 100 yards.

Credit for the win must also be given to the crunching blocking of fullback Matt Nestuk and the entire offensive line, including Jim Locavare, Chris Spinner, Steve Schneller, Chris Cherry, Paul Fuchenei and Eladio Herrera. Defensively, Summit's performance was a team effort, with all members of the squad contributing. Special mention must be given to defensive linemen Jay Williams, Herrera, Steve

Hilltopper Booters nip Clark in county tournament

Todd Rohlsson scored the game's only goal in the first period as Summit High's soccer team won its opening-round game in the Union County Tournament last Saturday, 1-0, over Clark at Memorial Field.

Rohlsson scored on a cross from John Clark after about 12 minutes of play. Goalie Mike Krupka had three saves for Coach Lou Di Parisi's Summit Booters (9-1-3). The Catholic High of Scotch Plains, 3-2, winning on penalty kicks in a tie-breaker after the teams had battled to 1-1 deadlock in overtime.

In a Northern Hills Conference game last week in Caldwell, Summit ripped the Chiefs, 6-2. Rohlsson's goal gave Summit a 1-1 tie at halftime. The Hilltoppers erupted for five second-half goals, with Rohlsson, Larry Everling, Jon Constant, Long Nguyen and Vito Catillo all putting the ball past the Caldwell goalie.

Marco Polo Stars 2; Millburn Magic 1. The Stars defeated the Millburn Magic in a well-played contest. Rand Wrighton initiated the scoring with a lead pass to striker Summit kept the offense in high gear as Mark Smith scored on a 40-yard reverse. In the final period, Chris Moyer capped off a fine drive on a seven-yard counter which gave Summit its final touchdown.

The offense gave a complete team effort: Nicholas, 7-85 yds, 1 TD; Smith, 3-67 yds, 1 TD; Fachinnie 5-50 yds, 1 TD; Moyer, 4-37 yds, 1 TD; Acitelli, 2-29 yds, 3 extra points.

Quarterback Phil Ryan completed three of five passes for 87 yards. Fachinnie was awarded offensive player of the game honor.

The defense came up with its first shutout, completely shutting down the Springfield attack.

Chris Moyer and Patrick Jackebson recovered fumbles. Mat Parcell and Erik Horn had "sacks" Fachinnie finished with the most tackles. Horn was named defensive player of the game. Summit's Paperweight record is now 3-0.

Hilltoppers had a 15-3 edge in shots on goal. Pingry (11-1-1) blanked New Providence, 2-0, in another County Tournament game in Hillsdale. The Pioneers fell to 9-3-2. Berkeley Heights (9-1-2) shut out Springfield, 1-0, in Berkeley Heights.

In other opening-round contests, Union nipped Roselle, 1-0; Westfield blanked Cranford, 3-0; Plainfield edged Rahway, 4-3; Elizabeth routed Roselle Catholic, 9-1, and Scotch Plains outscored Union Summit Soccer Club teams won three and lost three games in Mid-New Jersey Youth Soccer Association play last week.

DIVISION III
Summit Food Market Strikers 2; Millburn 1. The Strikers defeated Millburn, with Rick Stockton and Ted Furlong scoring the goals. Jeff Peterson and Ralph Catillo exhibited strong defensive play.

Rockaway 4; Root's Sabres 3. In an exciting contest between the two top teams in the division, the Sabres were narrowly beaten by a strong team from Rockaway. Justin Kole, Brennan Maigetter, Michael Becker and Dan Shipley did an excellent job in defense. Sumner Anderson at center half maintained control of the midfield. Greg Bernstein scored for Summit in the first half. Nelson Griggs and William Pappas each scored in the second half.
