FOWA presents its new shelter plans to council

BY DEBRA WINTERS
Staff Writer

WAYNE – Determined and steadfast, local volunteers are speaking out on behalf of the furry residents in the township.

After five years of negotiating with township government, Friends of Wayne Animals (FOWA) finally got a chance to present plans for a new animal shelter facility to the entire council at the Sept. 3 meeting.

Linda Nardone, president of FOWA, stated that the 27-year-old building on Dey Road was unsafe and was in conflict with state health regulations.

"We're talking about liability issues here. The current shelter is in adequate and is the shabbiest of any township facilities," Nardone told the council.

According to Nardone, proper ventilation and temperature standards are among a slew of problems found at the shelter. Others include frozen dog runs due to surface and drainage, cracked roof and ceiling, as well as lack of space for function, housing standards and ability to restrict the public.

The new facility will house 18 dog runs and 700-square-feet for cats.

Built in 1976 for $48,000, the facility was initially created as a pound but has since then grown into a shelter. An addition was added in 1992 for $45,000 with a heating and air conditioning system in 1994 for $9,000, with FOWA contributing around $45,000. It has been established that annually, FOWA, through fundraisers, raises $2,000 per year.

The cost of the proposed new building devised by Lan Associates will be $925,000 paid for via a $900,000 bond with a 10-year term. The cost to the average Wayne household will be between one to two cents per day, which results in an increase in taxes of eight one-hundredths of one-percent per year.

"It's not just a plea to help the animals but for better conditions for volunteers to dedicate their

Last week, municipal police, fire and EMT personnel, local mayors and county officials gathered for a candlelight tribute to those lost on Sept. 11, 2001 at the Passaic County Community College of Public Safety Academy in Wayne.

Candlelight tribute honors those lost

BY DEBRA WINTERS

WAYNE – Yesterday, on the second anniversary of the Sept. 11 attacks, many municipalities conducted memorials in remembrance of those who lost their lives on that fateful morning.

This past week, municipal police, fire and EMT personnel gathered with local mayors and officials from Passaic County for a candlelight tribute. This memorial acknowledged those involved in 9-11 as well as those Passaic County residents who passed away.

The event took place on Sept. 3 at the Passaic County Community College of Public Safety Academy.

Several Passaic County freeholders joined together to light the memorial candles, which stayed lit while the Emerald Society Police and Fire Pipes & Drums of Passaic County performed songs such as "Amazing Grace," which led Clifton Councilwoman Gloria Kolodziej into a moving refrain.

The freeholders then read off the names of those deceased, including the names of various law enforcement, fire service and emergency medical technicians.

The crowd, about 300 in total, followed by singing "God Bless America" acappella.

"First responders were first on the scene on the war on terrorism. We should always take a moment to honor and celebrate the devotion of police, fire and EMS persons," said Passaic County Sheriff

Age a consideration in commemoration

BY DEBRA WINTERS
Staff Writer

WAYNE – Kids, at any age, are impressionable, and just like adults they were affected by the tragic events of Sept. 11, 2001. With this in mind, township schools had to decide how to handle yesterday's anniversary.

The deciding factor among school officials was the age of the students, as plans were being discussed on what to do for the anniversary. Another sensitive issue taken into consideration was that students personally might have been affected.

In Wayne, some schools downplayed the anniversary, while others paid tribute to those who lost their lives and had classroom discussions about the event.

Pines Lake Elementary School, which houses K-5 students, played it very low-key said, Mary Jane Tierney, principal.

Prior to the anniversary Tierney said, "If any questions arise, we instructed our individual teachers to handle them as they see fit."

The same took place at Theunis

Dey Elementary School where discussion about the anniversary was going to be handled as questions were brought up, said Diane Mahoney, principal.

Ryerson Elementary School, another K-5 facility, also decided to cater to the younger students and not over-emphasize the events.

Students that attend middle schools in the district actually took a bigger role in the anniversary.

Duderich dedicates memorial garden

BY CINDY A. SALERNO
Correspondent

WAYNE — Christopher Michael Duderich, son of Michael and Trisha Duderich of Wayne, recently dedicated a September 11 Memorial Prayer Garden at his parish, Immaculate Heart of Mary in Wayne.

The memorial garden was built next to the Immaculate Heart of Mary School. It is intended to be used by anyone who wishes to reflect and pray.

The Eagle Scout project took Duderich over six months to complete. With the help of 20 fellow scouts and adult leaders of Troop 104 of Wayne, and materials donated by local businesses, Duderich was thrilled and satisfied with the finished garden.

"During my nine years of scouting, I learned many skills, the most important of which are teamwork and leadership," Duderich said. "This project continued to help me build these skills."

Duderich is a junior at Wayne Valley High School where he is involved in varsity cross country running and track and entering his fourth year of Latin. He also has a love of travel. This came in handy when he recently traveled to Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico.

While he was there, he backpacked 95 miles in 10 days. Duderich also traveled to the poorest section of the United States in June to Appalachia, Kentucky, with the Immaculate Heart of Mary Youth Group where he volunteered to serve the poor.

After a recent Sunday mass, Immaculate Heart of Mary's

Father Dan Kelly blessed the memorial garden in its official unveiling.

"We thank Chris for providing us with this beautiful memorial; a place built for remembrance and peaceful prayer," Kelly said.

Kelly had guided Duderich in wording of the plaque that rests aside the newly carved wooden crosses in the garden.

Duderich's parents know how much the completion of his Eagle project meant to him. After the dedication ceremony, his mother, Trish said, "It seemed like it would be an overwhelming project to us at first, but Chris accepted the responsibility without any qualms. He was very confident."

Duderich is currently a Life Scout and is looking forward to attaining the rank of Eagle Scout in the near future.

William Paterson construction taking toll on students, parking

BY PAULA ZECCA
News Editor

WAYNE — The fences have been erected and demolition work has begun around the Student Center and Wayne Hall at William Paterson University in Wayne.

The proposed construction project, which is expected to last until fall 2005, will include renovation work on the John Victor Machuga Student Center, renovation work on Wayne Hall and the construction of a new Ballroom-Meeting Room Building.

The project, which was started in June, is still in its first phase. When classes began last Wednesday, students, in addition to finding their classes, had to navigate their way around fenced off areas, up newly constructed staircases and had to carefully step over the large puddle from the drainage pipe that spilled out into Parking Lot 5.

Most students seemed oblivious to the construction as they walked around campus in a rush to get to their next class or anxious to get in their car to leave on a Friday afternoon.

"It doesn't affect me that much because I'm a business major," said Tierra Morgan, a junior and resident of Benjamin Matelson Hall. Since the hall is the closest dorm to campus and to the construction work, mornings are a bit of a problem.

"When I'm trying to sleep there is someone banging outside at 6 a.m.," said Morgan.

Others took the construction work in stride.

"It takes a little bit longer (to get around)," said Ashley Lehmann, a sound engineering major whose classes are mostly held in Shea Center.

The construction work is not helping the parking situation at WPU this semester either. According to Morgan, resident students aren't allowed to park in Lot 5, instead, they must park in Lot 6, a lot designated for residents.

"This year we are paying for parking and we can't even park where we want," said Morgan.

The university, which now has an enrollment of approximately 11,000 resident and commuter students, deemed the work necessary to accommodate the ever-growing student population.

As part of the work, three additions are planned with the largest being a 500-seat ballroom attached to Wayne Hall. The renovation and construction, which is expected to cost $40 million, will be paid for by a bond borrowed by the university, according to Stephen Bolyai, vice president of Administration and Finance for WPU.

Right now workers are busy putting in utility lines and working on a foundation that should be complete within the next 30 days. Steel beams for the construction will also be arriving shortly, according to Bolyai.

A bid for phase two of the construction has not yet been secured.

Residents express thoughts about the changed world

BY TOM BOUD
Staff Writer

Residents, too, have much to say about the post-9/11 world.

Marilyn Kievit — a Wayne senior — said there has been more altruism among individuals.

"The people are caring. You can see people helping out the orphans of the people who got killed in the World Trade Center."

For instance, Kievit cited efforts to fund higher education for 9/11 victim's children. Kievit said she feels that the compassion trend goes beyond those immediately hurt by the terrorist tragedy.

"I think the family has become more important to people. I hope that people would continue caring in that way."

Joseph Luterzo, 13, of Wayne, said a big change he has discerned since the attack is a growth of pro-American spirit.

"People are more patriotic. People have been hanging the flags out," he said, adding that the fanatic outrage-inspired nationalism will fade as time goes on. "It'll stay with some people, maybe, but not all of them. They will forget."

One local area teacher — who declined identification — said 9/11 refashioned the country's perspective.

"This is something that is not going to go away. It's changed our way of looking at people. It's changed the way we're living together. It's changed some of the freedoms that we have been taking for granted," he said, alluding to more stringent security measures.

Personally, the educator said the radical-led assault has encouraged him to be more disaster-prepared.

The instructor said citizens have an obligation to help first responders in a large-scale emergency; an area that needs improvement.

"It's up to us and the community. Not enough is being done."

Chuck Theodora Sr. of West

Paterson said 9/11 has made citizens "more and more aware of each other and their neighborhoods."

A big transformation, he said, is the government's willingness to wage sustained combat against Al-Qaeda and its allies.

"They think nothing about going after these terrorists."

Prior to 9/11, Theodora said, the Clinton administration failed to launch a serious anti-terrorism offensive, even after the embassy attacks in Africa. This lack of action, he feels, emboldened the terrorists to strike the American homeland.

Dr. Carole Sheffield — a William Paterson University political science professor — said she felt Americans have stayed the same socially since the terrorist outrage.

"I think there is as much road rage and rudeness as before. I don't think we treat people better. We are the same society as before 9/11."

Historically, the professor said, America has had a need for a foreign enemy. The external focus, she said, diverts attention from a host of divisive, but important internal issues.

"It is easier to look outward than inward at problems with racism, sexism, drug use, and poverty. Nothing rallies the culture like an external enemy."

Sheffield said that this mentality "keeps hatred and intolerance brewing."

Some examples, she said, are anti-French sentiment and excessive suspicion of U.S. residing Middle East nationals. Another indication, she said, is the Bush administration's "With us or against us" declaration to nations ambivalent about America's war effort.

"It's more visible in the culture to hate someone who is different than we are. I'm not opposed to patriotism, but I'm concerned about hyperpatriotism."

Officials are still seeing lingering effects two years later

BY TOM BOUD
Staff Writer

The effect of the Sept. 11, 2001 terrorist attacks still lingers, various local officials observe.

Sandy Galacio - Wayne's Office of Emergency Management (OEM) coordinator - said a heightened counter-terrorism awareness has developed since 9/11. The township, he said, has updated OEM plans, and enhanced critical facilities vigilance, which further intensifies in an orange alert.

Under formation, Galacio added is a Community Emergency Response Team, whose citizen members will back up emergency personnel in a catastrophe.

Galacio said that a matter-of-fact understanding has set in about America's vulnerability to terrorism.

"People have come to realize that the oceans don't protect us as they used to. This threat is not going to go away in the near future. It's no longer nations that are out to hurt us," he said, about the menace posed by small terrorist cells.

The notion of enlisting public help in the homeland security effort has also gained ground, he added.

"All of our citizens are responsible to contribute to that."

Nonetheless, Galacio said, funding has yet to catch up with municipal OEM demand for equipment, training, and personnel hours. The coordinator said a direct application process is needed for towns to get federal dollars. The current trickle-down system, he added, leaves too little assistance for towns, and takes too long.

"We still waiting for '03 money that we put in for in '02."

Dr. Viktor Joganow - Passaic

Valley Regional High School superintendent - said 9/11, even more than the Columbine, Colo. shootings, has made schools more safety-conscious.

"This evermore elevated our collective awareness on how vulnerable we really are."

The assault, he said, led to an outburst of patriotism which - more recently - has dampened somewhat.

"I really felt that was immediately true and up to the first anniversary. I think it has waned down a bit."

Joganow said he felt the level of patriotism is higher than before 9/11 and that the passage of time will distance the terrorist tragedy, which "is kind of natural." In time Joganow said, those who were too little on 9/11 - or born after that date - will view the tragedy as a point in history, as opposed to a personal recollection.

Pat Sondermeyer - executive director of CONTACT Hotline in Pequannock - said people's attitudes remain affected two years after the attack.

"I think people are more caring about each other. I think people are still scared and still have a lot of leftover anger."

Specifically, Sondermeyer said she has noticed how peaceably people behaved in New York during last month's blackout, adding that 9/11's legacy will remain with people over the long term.

"I think it will touch people." Immediately following the assault, she said, some of CONTACT's frequent callers expressed concern. Also phoning the hotline, she added, were relatives of missing World Trade Center victims. These days, she added, terrorist-attack impact calls have dropped.

Anthony Galietti - a West Paterson police lieutenant - said he has seen more emphasis on personal identification measures since the 2001 terrorist outrage.

"I think there is more awareness about fraudulent documents and that stuff." For example, Galietti said Department of Motor Vehicle officials wanted to see a birth certificate before allowing his daughter to take a driver's test.

"I had to go back and get it." Besides unifying the nation, West Paterson Mayor Pat Lepore said the terrorist rampage has brought about a change in people's behavior.

"We're a little more suspicious, but I also see us being a little more understanding with each other. You're in the store, people seem to be more courteous. People seem to be more courteous on the road, at least the roads I'm on."

Terry Ryan - mayor of Little Falls - said the attacks have had societal repercussions.

"I think the mood is a little more somber. I think we're a little more concerned than we used to be. I also see a little more confidence, a little more unity. It exemplifies the commitment to democracy and the American way of life. It's amazing that we can turn positive things out of tragedy."

In the future, Ryan said 9/11 must never fade away from the nation's consciousness.

"I don't think we can let people forget this. I think it's important not to let people forget this. I think that's our responsibility." While citizens play a role in this, he said, political leaders especially have a responsibility to "keep the memory alive."

Family aid lecture set

WAYNE - The Intensive Family Support Services in Passaic County is sponsoring a free workshop about how families can assist their relative to find and maintain employment. Faith McCalla, director of the Career Connections Employment Resource Institute, will speak about the process of obtaining employment and will discuss the concerns family members may have about supporting their relative's employment.

This workshop will be on Wednesday, Sept. 17 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Wayne Public Library, Meeting Room B, 461 Valley Road, Wayne. To register, call Lorraine at the Mental Health Association in Passaic County at (973) 478-4444, extension 10.

Sketching class planned

POMPTON PLAINS - Join Jim Moore of the Friends of the Library for a two-part class in the art of Pencil Sketching, on Monday, Oct. 6, at 7 p.m. and Monday, Oct. 27 at 7 p.m. Space is limited. Call to pre-register at (973) 835-7460.

For those who want to express themselves visually on paper but thought "I can't even draw a straight line?" This class is for them. Participants will be provided with necessary materials when they come, but will need to bring a photograph or object they wish to draw. No current skill or prior training is necessary, though experienced artists may also gain some insights, or share their tips. Basic techniques will be learned.

Moore's latest portrait is on display at the library. Jim also has a master's degree in social work, and promises to put everyone at ease.

The Pequannock Library is located at 477 Newark Pompton Turnpike in Pompton Plains.

Cell phones sought

WAYNE - Mayor Scott Rumana's Senior Advisory Committee is implementing a program to collect used cell phones along with their chargers.

These cell phones and chargers can now be brought to the Wayne Township Police Department, and given to the officer at the desk, on 475 Valley Rd.

Subsequent to the collection of these phones, the Senior Advisory Committee will begin distributing them to Wayne Township seniors to be used for 9-1-1 emergency uses only.

The distribution schedule is not yet available. For further information, call (973) 694-1800 ext. 3281.

Vet's fair scheduled

U.S. Rep. Bill Pascrell, Jr. (D-NJ, 8th) will be hosting an annual Veterans' Fair on Saturday, Sept. 13 at the Cedar Grove VFW Hall, 525

Pompton Avenue (Route 23 south) in Cedar Grove starting at 9 a.m.

Officials from the local office of the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) will be on hand to inform veterans of their benefits and provide information about VA services. Leaders of the VFW, American Legion, DAV, VVA, the New Jersey Department of Military and Veterans Affairs, will also be available to register veterans for VA services and speak to veterans. All veterans are encouraged to attend. Pascrell will discuss the recent cuts to veterans programs and the effects they will have on New Jersey veterans. An open discussion with the veterans in attendance will follow. Veterans or organizations with questions about the event should contact Celia Anderson with Congressman Pascrell's office at (973) 523-5152.

Diamonds," Third Edition.

Inherited jewelry and impulsive flea market or garage sale purchases often prove to be rare and valuable pieces. How do you know if you have a real ruby? Is that 'diamond' a natural zircon or synthetic cubic zirconia? Bring those clean, mysterious pieces to the specialist, Mirsky, who will put them under the microscope and give a complimentary verbal gemstone identification.

The Greater Wayne Area Branch of AAUW has been offering community service programming for over 32 years. Project and activity leaders will be present to welcome inquiries about the various cultural and study groups of the branch as well as membership for women and men who have earned baccalaureate or higher degrees from accredited four-year colleges and universities. The public is invited to all meetings.

AC, winery bus trip is ARK Animal Rescue fundraiser

The NorthEast Chapter, A.R.K. Animal Rescue is sponsoring a Pennies-for-Pets Sanctuary Fundraiser Bus Trip to Renault Winery and Bally's Casino in Atlantic City, on Sunday, Oct. 26.

This event is being held to raise funds for the purchase of property for a no-kill animal sanctuary for companion animals. The sanctuary is envisioned to provide a safe living environment for abandoned, abused or otherwise homeless companion animals until their forever homes can be found, or for the duration of their lives.

A.R.K. Animal Rescue and its NorthEast Chapter are a fully-registered 501(c)(3) non-profit volunteer-run rescue organization that is dedicated to improving the lives of companion animals through education. A.R.K.'s NorthEast Chapter has no formal shelter location yet. Through its NorthEast Chapter's Pennies-for-Pets Sanctuary Campaign, A.R.K. is striving to raise $50,000 by 2008, enabling A.R.K. to purchase 50 acres of land for the animal sanctuary.

Cost is $55 per person. A.R.K. will receive $7 from each ticket sold for its Pennies-for-Pets Sanctuary Fund. The remaining $48 covers all costs for the day.

The donation is tax-deductible and provides each person with all of the following: free parking for your car at the A&P Plains Plaza Shopping Center (off Rt. 23 at the Jackson Avenue/Pompton Plains Crossroads intersection), round-trip bus transportation, morning snacks on the way to Renault Winery, a winery tour with lunch and wine-tasting during the meal, five hours at Bally's Casino in Atlantic City, Bally's offered "Comp-of-the-Day," voluntary participation in a 50/50 raffle and tax-deductible receipt.

For ticket sales or for more information, contact: Deborah A. DeLuca, fundraising chairperson, at (973) 616-0371 or e-mail PenniesforPets@hotmail.com. Payments can be mailed directly to NorthEast Chapter, A.R.K. Animal Rescue, POB 4361, Wayne, NJ 07470 and should include the name of each person attending and the $55 per person fee made payable to "Pennies-for-Pets." (No cash payments). A.R.K. can also accept Visa and MasterCard payments through Paypal. E-mail PenniesforPets@hotmail.com for details.

Group addresses relationship boundaries

The adult boundary support group is a monthly ongoing support group for adult men and women to define, set up, protect and model healthy boundaries for comfortable, healthy relationships.

Each session will address concepts, thoughts and behaviors for solutions to boundary problems. Our sessions are built around acquiring skills and boundary knowledge, sharing, discussion, active listening and support.

If you are feeling angry, depressed, violated, used or over-worked most of the time with people or in situations, your boundaries either have been violated or were never set up.

Join the group the first Tuesday of each month: Oct. 7, Nov. 4, Dec. 2, Jan. 6 and Feb. 3 from 10 a.m. to noon. The fee is $20 per session. Attendees can come to all sessions or go month-to-month.

Ethel Lee-Miller, MA, who is a life skills coach and motivational speaker, will facilitate this workshop for Pathways Counseling Center, Inc., 31 Pompton Ave., Pompton Lakes.

hours," said Mary Linn Lombardo, volunteer.

Many positive changes have taken place since the expansion of the pound. Prior to 1994, the euthanasia rate was 80 percent of all animals at the Wayne Animal Shelter and since FOWA took over control of the shelter, the rate dropped to 10 percent or less.

The main question throughout the five-year negotiation period mostly dealt with a location for the new facility until the existing location was determined to be the best. Still, with the unsafe conditions at hand, some council members continued to cross-examine Nardone.

Councilman Gerard Porter questioned why there are so many cats at the shelter and why interviews are conducted to perspective adopters. Councilman Joseph DiDonato seconded that notion.

"We must be positively sure we are matching the right cat with the proper household and conditions," Nardone explained. The shelter, during kitten season, can house up to 65 to 100 felines at one time.

The council, for the most part, seemed unresponsive to the proposed new shelter plans.

Porter spoke about the upcoming FOWA Dog Walk this Saturday, which is an example of the many fundraisers held throughout the year by FOWA adding to the thousands of dollars it raises annually. He later reassured Nardone that he had not heard anything bad about the facility.

An usual ill proponent of raised taxes, resident Art Smith, was in favor of the new shelter.

"What do you want there to be only people on earth? Should we just do away with animals?" questioned Smith to the council.

Another proponent, Councilman Chris Vergano said, "I was recently down to visit the shelter and was very impressed of the job being done under such adverse conditions. It was terribly hot outside but the volunteers were still doing an excellent job." Vergano, who initially brought up the topic of the dog walk, was in strong consideration of Nardone's plight and that of FOWA. Nardone told the council, "I realize $900,000 is a sensitive issue but we have a real need here. I really believe in this and I would applaud you to vote yes. And if you vote no, I can only take that to think that you feel the township only deserves what it has right now."

The council is expected to vote on the bond ordinance at the Sept. 17 meeting. Five votes are needed to propose it and six are necessary to carry the ordinance.

MEMORIAL

Jerry Speziale.

The event first began last year on the first anniversary of Sept. 11. Those involved followed suit and arranged another memorial for this year's anniversary. The vice president of the Passaic County Mutual Aid Association and organizer of the event, Robert J. DeVirgilio said, "We feel something should always be done to remember those who were killed as well as honor those servicemen and women who are in the Middle East fighting."

In keeping with that notion, during the ceremony, Passaic County Chief of Police Association Bernard Lombardo told the audience, "Those men and women involved in emergency efforts that day joined as one to save thousands of lives." He then had everyone repeat three times, "We must never forget."

Calling the attacks on Sept. 11 a "Pearl Harbor on the mainland," Rabbi Joshua Lefkowitz, of the Clifton Jewish Center, referred to the strike against America as a "horrifying spectacle that still haunts us today."

Wayne Councilman Chris McIntyre reflected on what it means to help one and other. McIntyre is a long-time member of the Wayne EMS.

"It's a time to remember but also it's a time to never forget. Everyday calls throughout Wayne are similar to those on 9-11 – some people you can help and some you can't," he said. "Life is about giving aid to those in need."

were going to start off the morning with a moment of silence at 8:46 a.m., the time when the first jet hit the north tower of the World Trade Center. Discussion, as expected, was to be conducted as needed throughout the day.

"We feel it was important to remember the victims," said Dorothy Lozauskas, principal.

Also joining the nation in a moment of silence was George Washington Middle School. Social studies teachers will be going over the events of Sept. 11 in a special section of their daily curriculum that day. Students are living history these days as opposed to opening a textbook and reading about something that occurred before they were even born. They are learning by experiencing. Frank Mobilio, principal at George Washington, agreed.

"It's true, as events continue to unfold, students continue to learn firsthand," Mobilio stated.

Lafayette Middle School took a different path to honor the anniversary of 9-11. Everyone, including students, were to come to school dressed in red, white and blue. The code of the day - patriotism.

Students started the morning with a moment of silence, followed by a gathering by the flag outside where they would sing a few patriotic songs. A flag bookmark that said "never forget 9-11" was also to be given out to the students by United Way of Passaic County. Teachers then would speak to students on a more personal level, depending on their age level.

Lafayette Middle School decided to focus on the pride to be an American and the gratitude given to our armed forces instead of it being a sad event for the kids, according to school officials there.

The district's two high schools also did their part in commemorating the anniversary.

Robert Reis, principal at Wayne Valley High School, said musicians from the school band would line up on the football field and play Taps near the flag, which would be lowered half-staff by local Boy Scouts. A moment of silence would also take place. Being students are older, discussion was expected to take place in history classes or any classes for that matter, however, being a sensitive issue, students would not get fully involved in the topic.

"We have to be respectful of students' personal situations," said Reis.

Wayne Hills High School decided to hold a tree planting for two former students, Daniel Afflito and Robert Deraney, who lost their lives in the Twin Towers. A moment of silence would also be held and a female student was scheduled to sing a rendition of a patriotic song over the intercom, said Don Dorfinger, vice-principal.

"Kids will be able to talk about their own reactions and their concerns and discussion will take place in social studies class," said Dorfinger.

Districtwide schools all flew their flags at half-staff, adhering to President Bush's request.

It was unclear at press time what Randall Carter or Packanack schools had scheduled for the 9-11 anniversary.

Purse thief knocks down senior citizen

BY TOM BOUD
Staff Writer

WAYNE — A quiet north side neighborhood was the scene of purse snatch early this week.

On Monday just before 12:15 a.m., Wayne Police Cpl. Barry Wieser was detailed to a Surrey Drive address on a strong-arm robbery. Backing him up was fellow officer Chris Corsiglia and Sgt. Joseph Shenekji, according to Wayne Police Detective Capt. John Reardon.

A woman in her 70s was attacked after pulling into her driveway. After a brief pause, she exited her vehicle whereupon a man came up from behind.

The perpetrator put his hand over her mouth, pushed the senior to the ground, and took her purse. He then ran off before Wieser arrived two and a half minutes later, Reardon said.

The victim — who sustained a elbow scrape — did not see any getaway vehicle. She described the man a five-foot five black male with a stocky build. He was wearing sunglasses, a dark hat, gray shirt, and dark colored pants, the captain said.

The pocket book contained about $20 in cash, keys, personal identification, and credit cards, Reardon said.

Investigators said the robbery is similar to others reported in Bergen County and Clifton.

No incidental witnesses saw the crime. Purse snatches are abnormal for the Surrey Drive area, he said.

"It's a quiet residential area. It is unusual for something like that to happen there."

Working the case is Wayne Police Detective Tom Higginson.

Anyone with information can call him at (973) 653-3530. All leads will be kept confidential, he added.

License plate check leads cops to bank caper suspect

BY TOM BOUD
Staff Writer

WAYNE — What began as a standard parking lot vehicle check ended in the apprehension of a bank robbery suspect over the weekend.

On Sept. 6 just after 1:15 a.m., Wayne Police Officer Dan Daly was spot checking license plates in the King's Inn parking lot. A Ford Explorer came back on Daly's terminal as stolen. The driver was wanted in connection with a same-day Kearny bank robbery, according to Wayne Police Detective Capt. John Reardon.

Daly went inside and spoke to the hotel clerk. He found out the driver was staying at the Kings Inn, and called for assistance. Then, Daly saw a man entering the Ford Explorer. The officer doubled back to his squad car and blocked the exit before the Explorer got there, Reardon said.

The motorist allegedly rammed the patrol car, but did not get past. The officer — who was not hurt — captured the suspect at gunpoint, with help from fellow officer Henry Ellis, the captain said.

Arrested was Jesse Castillo, 34, of Newark. He was charged with aggravated assault on a police officer, and possession of a stolen vehicle. Supervisors and detectives from Kearny police were summoned to the scene regarding the bank robbery matter, Reardon said.

Castillo was sent to the Passaic County Jail on $200,000 no 10 bail, pending a court date. Wayne Police Sgt. John Loetscher is following up with Kearny police. Lt. Durkin of that department is heading the bank robbery probe, the captain said.

Fire service conference impending

On Oct. 1, the North Jersey Volunteer Firemen's Association (NJVFA) will conduct its monthly business meeting at Hose Co. 2 in Lincoln Park, which is on Pine Brook Road, reachable via Boonton Turnpike, according to Rich Dean, NJVFA secretary.

All firefighters are invited to attend. The same is true for all those with an interest in the fire service. At the conference, participants are welcome to bring up any fire service matters, or share any other fire department news. The NJVFA session is also a good opportunity to meet fellow firefighters, commanders, and fire service figures throughout the North Jersey area.

For more information, contact Dean at 973-492-0543 before Oct. 1. Dean can also be contacted at NJVFA@hotmail.com.

Crane accident shuts down Hamburg Tpke.

BY DONNA ROLANDO
Special to Today

WAYNE — Numerous detours faced commuters throughout the day last Wednesday as a result of a Passaic County crane striking a utility pole, snapping it in half and sending high-power wires crashing down onto Hamburg Turnpike.

The accident, which happened 300 feet shy of the Alps Road intersection, did not result in injuries or summonses, according to Wayne Police Lt. Paul Dring.

Dring explained that the crane was traveling east in the right lane of Hamburg Turnpike when apparently forced to take evasive action upon being cut off by a vehicle. It didn't take much to put the crane in contact with the pole, which stood eight inches off the road macadam in an area of narrow lanes, the officer said.

It took the efforts of three utility crews — PSE&G, Cablevision and Verizon — to restore the lines; however, Lt. Paul Dring of the Wayne Police Department Traffic Bureau reported no significant impact on utility service for area residents. Due to the fallen power lines, Dring said, "We had no choice but to shut down Hamburg Turnpike between Alps Road and Jackson Avenue."

Wayne dealt with the trouble from 8:30 a.m., when the crane accident occurred, to 11 p.m., Dring said, directing motorists to various detours involving Black Oak Ridge and Alps roads and other county or municipal routes.

The department brought in up to five officers not scheduled for the day and also received assistance from the Passaic County Sheriff's Department, all playing a role in the direction of traffic.

The problem was aggravated, Dring said, by an ongoing road reconstruction project being conducted by Passaic County at Alps and Ratzel roads. "Hopefully, it should be completed in the next couple of weeks," he said, of the road reconstruction, yet not in time to provide relief from Wednesday's traffic woes.

Wayne cops yield four drunk driving arrests

Various incidents led to apprehensions

WAYNE — Two traffic stops, an accident, and a call to police led to the arrest of four driving while intoxicated suspects.

On Aug. 24 just after 3 a.m., Wayne Police Officer Joseph Rude responded to a fight-in-progress call at the Route 23 south Burger King. After restoring order, he smelled alcohol on one of the parties allegedly involved in the disturbance. He arrested Eric Siemonsma, 20, of Montville, after finding probable cause that he allegedly drove to the scene while intoxicated, police said.

Almost 24 hours later, Wayne Police Officer Eric Caffrey spotted an erratically proceeding vehicle near Erie Avenue. Caffrey tailed the car, which suddenly stopped in the travel lane on Pine Brook Road in Lincoln Park. Upon walking up, the officer noticed a potent alcoholic odor on the motorist. Detained was Rodney Rivera, 35, of Lincoln Park, authorities said.

On Sept. 6 just before 12:25 a.m., Wayne Police Officer Victor Hayek saw an unsteadily proceeding vehicle on Route 23 south, which swayed between the lanes. He halted it, and perceived an alcoholic smell on the operator. He arrested Jesse Kurzma, 26, of Nutley, the same source said.

The next day at nearly 2:40 a.m., Wayne Police Officer Edward Wolf was detailed on a motor vehicle collision on Hamburg Turnpike and Easedale Road. One of the drivers alleged the mishap had happened in Fair Lawn, and followed the vehicle in Wayne, where police were contacted, authorities said.

Wolf talked to the other motorist and detected a keen alcoholic odor on that subject's breath. He took into custody Paul Gallo, 35, of West Paterson, police said.

All arrested parties were charged with driving while intoxicated at headquarters, following roadside sobriety evaluations and breathalyzer tests. They were released on their own recognizance, pending a court date. All DWI suspects are presumed innocent until found guilty by a court a law, after due process.

Driving school should be chosen with care

A landmark life event is obtaining a driver's license. To learn to develop the important driving skills required on our nation's roadways, AAA North Jersey suggests carefully choosing a good driving school to teach these skills.

William Visser manager of Public and Government Services at AAA North Jersey noted that "Choosing a driving school is an important decision and price should not be the only factor to be taken into account when making your choice. There are many factors to be considered."

In making a decision, do fully investigate driving schools in the area. Check what they offer in respect to instructional quality, classrooms and behind the wheel training.

Learning to drive is like building a house. Knowledge, skills and plans are need. Without this foundation, a big risk is being incurred each time one gets behind the wheel.

By knowing exactly what the driving school provides, the consumer can choose an appropriate outfit fitting all needs.

Additional tips for making a suitable choice:

Consider the instructors experience, both overall and at a particular driving school.

Is the school and vehicle clean and up to date?

Look for a school that belongs to a professional organization such as the "Driving School Association of the Americas" or the "American Driver and Traffic Safety Education Association."

For further information visit any AAA North Jersey office in Wayne, Oradell, Secaucus or Fair Lawn and obtain a complimentary copy of the AAA pamphlet "Choosing a Driving a School."

P.A.T.C.H. plans fundraising event

Pet Adoption Thru Caring Hands, the nonprofit, no-kill kitten and cat shelter better known as P.A.T.C.H., will host its annual dinner/tricky tray fundraiser on Thursday, Sept. 25, at 6:30 p.m. at The Wayne Manor, 1515 Route 23 south, Wayne.

An array of askets will be available for bidding along with a money tree. A special basket will contain a romantic carriage ride in New York's Central Park. Music will be provided by Fantasy Productions DJs.

This year everyone will leave the tricky tray with a goodie bag of beauty supplies, courtesy of Hello

Gorgeous, a beauty supply store and salon in Pompton Lakes.

Cost is $38 and can be purchased at the shelter during adoption hours, by calling the shelter at (973) 835-7202 and leaving a message, or just mail a check payable to P.A.T.C.H. at the address below. 50/50 tickets, which are $5 each, can be purchased in the same manner or at the event. Winner need not be present.

Adoptions at P.A.T.C.H. take place on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to noon, on Sundays from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., or by appointment during the week.

P.A.T.C.H. is located at 26 Lakeside Avenue in Pompton Lakes. The phone number is (973) 835-7202. Visit P.A.T.C.H.'s available animals by visiting www.patch.petfinder.com.

P.A.T.C.H. is staffed entirely by volunteers, and thus every penny donated to the organization goes directly to benefiting these homeless animals. The shelter accepts no federal or state funding, but rather relies on donations from private individuals. New volunteers are always needed to socialize, help with cage maintenance cats and to assist in fundraising. For more information, call the shelter at (973) 835-7202.

Giving is fitting way to honor 9/11 victims

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A newly formed group, One Day's Pay, a national non-profit organization, is working to establish Sept. 11 as a national day of voluntary service, charity and compassion.

The aim of the initiative is to honor the victims of the terrorist attacks. One Day's Pay asks all individuals, employers and groups to permanently spend at least one day a year paying back their community in some way as a tribute to all of the heroism and selflessness shown on that fateful day by helping others in need.

One Day's Pay is not affiliated with any charity or association. The group provides links on its Web site at www.onedayspay.org to volunteer organizations. Locally, the United Way of Passaic County (Volunteer Center, 973-279-8900) and Volunteers for Morris County (973-538-7200, www.volunteermorris.org) are posted.

There are so many ways to help those in need, both locally and nationally.

Just a few suggestions: donate to a food pantry; give blood; donate children's books to a Head Start center, inner city school or library; get names from your church, synagogue or town welfare director and send cards or letters to people who are isolated or elderly; visit or call a neighbor who is lonely or isolated; pick up litter in a park or along a sidewalk or roadway; plant bulbs in a park; donate pet food to animal shelter; arrange to read to children at a daycare center; or drop off socks, underwear and other items of clothing at a food pantry or shelter.

On Sept. 11, 2001, it was amazing to see how people of all walks of life came together to help those in need. We were a nation united in compassion.

Unfortunately, that compassionate spirit waned.

The proposal that One Day's Pay suggests is an absolutely perfect way to observe this painful anniversary each year. It's the least we can do.

Chairman urges heart walk participation

DEAR EDITOR:

Cardiovascular disease, including heart disease and stroke, is the nation's leading cause of death claiming the lives of nearly 960,000 Americans each year, including more than 28,000 people from New Jersey. Just over 37 percent of New Jersey deaths annually are due to heart disease and stroke. More than 15,000 New Jersey women die annually from cardiovascular disease and an estimated 61.8 million Americans have one or more forms of cardiovascular disease.

The theme of the American Heart Association's 2003 American Heart Walk is "Step Out, Save Lives! - Exercise Your Heart!" which promotes the importance of physical activity and how physical activity can help reduce or eliminate risk factors for heart disease and stroke.

As America faces a growing health crisis in how to deal with obesity, the Heart Walk exercise theme takes on greater prominence and provides all of us an easy way to get started - join us and walk! Obesity rates have doubled in children and tripled in adolescents over the last 20 years. One in seven young people is obese and one in three is overweight.

As chairman of the 2003 Bergen-Passaic County American Heart Walk on Oct. 12, I urge residents, business and civic leaders, company employees and survivors to "get moving" and join us for walk on Sunday, Oct. 12 at Bergen Community College in Paramus. Learn more by calling 1-800-AHA-USA1.

Sentence becomes life-changing chapter

A successful author of fiction discovered how to have enough time and solitude to write without any concern about producing an income to pay for basic necessities such as food or housing.

He was convicted of conspiracy to import marijuana and spent eight years of a 25-year sentence in prison.

This "felon" was raised in a wealthy suburb in Massachusetts and has excellent lineage, being the offspring of a socially and economically prominent family. No street gang member was he, nor was he a member of a minority group. He didn't grow up in poverty and he did attend college, although he quit soon after he wandered into the drug-dominated neighboring community close to his college site.

Nancy
Rubenstein
BELIEVE ME

The fact that his incarceration was in the Metropolitan Correctional Center in New York City gave him a fairly comfortable situation. In a New York Times story, the author referred to the center as "the prison Hilton," populated by white-collar "criminals."

Other offenders, convicted and sentenced to house arrest, unlike those in "the prison Hilton," are obliged to carry on a daily domestic routine.

There are lawns to be watered, snow to be removed, groceries taken in and garbage taken out. There are phone and utility bills to be paid, laundry to do and rooms to be cleaned. House arrest seems to require a tad more responsible action than the "three hots and a cot" life of someone behind bars in jail.

The author did complain that while life was easy, it was "empty, not fun."

Is there a convict serving time who is actually having fun? Is that the goal of the judicial system?

We think it's great that this ex-con is now living a productive life on the "outside." And we're not suggesting that prison environment always offers the luxury of time to craft a career in publishing. At the other end of the scale, we've seen convicts that became victims of abuse and even death while incarcerated.

Defrocked John Geoghan, the former priest who was sentenced to prison after he was convicted of child molestation, is one of those cases.

Housing him in a cell next to a known anti-gay man was a dreadful decision, ending with Geoghan being killed, strangled by a known anti-gay prisoner in an adjoining cell.

Both the author and the former priest who was murdered in jail were Massachusetts residents at one time (as am I).

Somewhere between having enough free time to write a book and being exposed to life-threatening situations, there must be a better way to handle convicted individuals.

Obviously not in my former home state.

Sometimes it's good to get out of town

I recently traveled to Chicago to visit the Botanical Garden and attend the wedding of a young lady I've watched grow up, summer by summer. She and her family vacation on Long Beach Island, also a favorite summer destination for my husband and me. So when Molly and Brian invited us to their wedding, we jumped at the chance to visit Chicago and its botanical attractions. The windy city turned out to be a welcome relief from the rainy, muggy weather that has plagued us east-coasters this summer.

Chicago and its suburbs (the wedding festivities were in the Geneva and Wheaton suburbs) were delightfully green. It is remarkable how Mayor Daley (the Second) has transformed downtown Chicago into a botanical showplace. Everywhere you turn there is color: massive median planters (more than 63 miles worth!), oversized hanging baskets on lamp posts, overflowing containers and flower boxes everywhere, and new and refurbished gardens in the parks.

Betsy Hays

Mayor Daley is on a mission to create the greenest city in the country. He even commissioned a rooftop garden for City Hall, closed to the public but essential for bringing nature back into the city. Aside from their beauty, Chicago's gardens serve the practical purposes of reducing air pollution and lowering temperatures. Readings taken during the hottest days of the summer showed that the City Hall rooftop garden was nearly 40 degrees cooler than comparable roofs without gardens.

Not content with the city alone (which is magnificent and only a few hours away from New Jersey by plane), we forayed to the Chicago Botanic Garden as well. This is a well-planned, visitor friendly garden, with over 385 acres and 23 distinct gardens and three native habitat areas. What Chicago Botanic lacks in history (it's only a little over 30 years old), it makes up in exuberance. Two million plants, a friendly staff, great café and gift shop? what more could you want? Our bonus prize was Chapungu, a striking exhibit of 90 massive stone sculptures from Zimbabwe. Visit online at www.chicagobotanic.org for a virtual taste of this garden.

Closer to home, the gardens on Long Beach Island are beautiful this time of year, perfect for a September day trip. The soggy weather we had up north wasn't as hard on shore gardens, and the late summer blooms are worth the two-hour drive to the island. If you go, make sure to turn left (north) when you get on the island and head up to Barnegat Light. There you'll find, tucked away but open down to dusk daily, year round, the lovely Edith Duff Gwinn Gardens of the Barnegat Light Museum at Fifth St. and Central Avenue. This little gem contains fragrant pine needle pathways, native plants, herb plantings and a glorious display of annuals and perennials.

And don't forget to visit our very own New Jersey State Botanical Garden in Ringwood. Coming up are a presentation on co-existing with and understanding bears (Saturday, Sept. 20 at 10 a.m. in the Carriage House), the annual Harvest Festival and craft show (Oct. 11-12), and of course guided tours of Skylands Manor the first Sunday of each month during the hours of 12 noon to 4 p.m. Call (973) 962-9534 or visit www.njbg.org for more information and directions.

Note: This information on Wave Hill was inadvertently left out of the last column: Wave Hill (Summer hours, Tuesday - Sunday, 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., until 9 p.m. on Thursdays, closed Mondays) is easy to access off the Henry Hudson Parkway (call 718-549-3200 or visit www.wavehill.org for directions and more information).

Time for American to return to greatness

Could it really be two years? It has been. Of course, it seems to have gone so fast, and yet - the time has crawled, too.

Every television network is running specials about how different America is than it was two years ago.

I think it is undeniable to say that a black cloud hovers over our nation still. There's unresolved anger, as there always will be. There is fear and paranoia. There have been un-American activities by the public and by the government. And the economy continues to sputter. Our long, national bad mood seems still in force.

Bob Sullivan
OFF THE RECORD

Some of this had begun before Sept. 11. But that is what we live with now.

A changed world, where we all take off our shoes to board airplanes. Every plastic fork I get with my airline food reminds me of Sept. 11.

It is important to remember. And yet, I think it's time for the black cloud to go. We have instituted incredible changes in our national security systems.

But are we safer? Clearly we are more inconvenienced. There are common-sense things which we should keep doing, of course - I have no problem with lines at airports.

But the pessimism, the paranoia, the air of negativity surrounding our country must slowly drift away. It will take an economic rebound we can actually notice. That will come, though. In the meantime, those of us still gainfully employed need to employ good cheer, optimism, hope. When I hear so many government types speak these days, frankly, they depress me.

What we need now, I feel, is something, someone uplifting. However you feel about Ronald Reagan, he could do that. Perhaps in our time of 24-news coverage, Reagan's speeches wouldn't work any more. But 20 years ago, his words of hope and promise were part of what the doctor ordered. That's what we need now too; only it can come from all of us. Try it out, hope, levity, good cheer, and optimism. It's just as contagious as a black cloud. We shouldn't forget. But the time for mourning is past. It's time for America the great to return to her greatness again.

Towns need to be more attractive to ratables

DEAR EDITOR:

Probably the most important issue facing the state government is state finance. At present, financing is based on a tax system, which is inequitable, easily manipulated, and unresponsive to today's economy.

Regarding income-property taxes, the burden falls too heavily on lower and middle income property owners. Adding insult to injury is the present uniform property assessment system. Under the code, a local tax assessor can raise the valuation of property at any time in any neighborhood, based allegedly on prices from house sales in that neighborhood. Not only is the system arbitrary and unfairly selective, but it is not applied in every town in the state.

First of all, the spot assessment portion of the valuation code must be terminated. Reassessment should be town-wide, statewide and done once every two years. Secondly, more reliance must be placed on the state income and casino taxes to assist in financing municipal and school services. To further fiscal efficiency in this area, services should be regionalized. This would standardize them and prevent duplication. Thirdly, a homeowner should be entitled to monetary relief when property taxes reach a certain percentage of income. This would especially benefit retired people and others on fixed incomes and prevent them from being taxed out of town. This reminds me of what I heard about the tax assessor in my town. A retired person was told by the assessor to move, if he can't afford to live here!

The above may seem to put an undue strain on state and local bureaucrats. But I think it is high time they made the state and local municipalities more attractive to commercial ratables. The economic impact of the recession and the Sept. 11 attack cry out for a fiscally responsible state and local government.

Op/Ed

Little Falls is looking a lot like fairyland

DEAR EDITOR:

To me, Little Falls is a fairyland. This is where a promising future for the coming year is pronounced at the first organization meeting — lifting the spirits of all who attend. This is where, under solemn oath, all employees, elected officials, and appointees promise to carry the ball during the new year. However, when reality sets in, much of the pomp and ceremony quickly turns into nothing more than a political fairy tale.

To date, I have seen little change of the kind that can only come about through better enforcement of existing laws and good management. Instead, I have seen personal interpretations made which allow violations to continue (much like the Ostrich who hides his head in the sand). I have been to many meetings where officials are absent (like Bo Peep's lost sheep). I have personally been lied to (by a real official Pinocchio). And, I have heard that legal changes will be made based on recommendations by the very personnel who are presently weak on enforcement (which sounds like the story of the Fox watching the Hen house).

I support our form of government, but only when it operates as it should. It should not operate as a freewheeling vehicle, without hands-on control by our elected officials. Delegation is necessary, but never with loss of control. Loss of control seems to be what is happening as evidenced by the extreme amount of reliance placed in the hands of the Town Administrator — which is not his fault. His boundaries become wider when not clearly defined, which then result in a drifting towards power and influence which he naturally begins to assume. At the same time, elected officials become figureheads with a diminished sense of urgency for their management roles.

The idea of combining town clerk responsibilities with a newly formed town administrator title took place several years ago, resulting in the hiring of the present clerk/administrator. This, it was stated at the time, would unburden the mayor and commissioners from closely overseeing operations on a daily basis. Also, it was stated, this would free them up to give more attention to matters requiring their intensive consideration. All of this sounded good at the time, but since has resulted in a flip-flop situation where it appears the tail is sometimes wagging the dog.

As for the mayor and commissioners, do they honestly continue to endorse the decision they inherited for this dual position? Do they believe it works as originally intended? Are they, themselves, really contributing more intensive considerations than those officials who were here before them?

In all that we do, let us hope we are not a town in denial — living with the fear of what we may discover if we really search.

Educating our youth about issues is vital

DEAR EDITOR:

Youth stewardship is an invaluable resource too often left untapped. The world of environmental activists especially should utilize this resource. When you tell children the water is dirty, their reaction is to clean it up. Worries about time, cost, and politics have not yet corrupted their outlook. When something is dirty, you clean it up. It's as simple as that.

The New Jersey Community Water Watch works to educate elementary schools students by presenting environmental education lessons to students throughout the state, encouraging pollution prevention and community service. NJCWW volunteers present lessons and the response from grade school students is always excellent. Children are enthusiastic and eager to learn how they can help. Even the earliest grade levels understand the importance of keeping the earth clean for people and animals.

By alerting children at any early age to the potential dangers of pollution and means of preventing this pollution, they are more likely to carry the lessons with them into adulthood. Perhaps then, even as adults, worries about time, cost and politics will not have clouded their view.

Energy diary is great idea

BY ADAM BERG

Assess your mood when you wake up. If you are like me, you get going looking forward to the day and in a good mood.

Take note of the good mood. Then hang on to it and monitor it carefully. See how long it takes to have the first negative influence alter your good mood. If that happens, you have been robbed of your positive disposition. Make note of who or what interfered with your sunny outlook and confront the person or circumstance. I have recently begun to do this, and it works wonders.

When the negative circumstance happens, don't react to it; write it down and file it away. Observe how this alters your mood. Why put up with that? Now react. That positive outlook belongs to you and you should not allow other people, or specific circumstances to deprive you of a great start to the only day you are going to have, that day.

Doing this regularly reveals two truths: 1) Generally the same people affect you negatively and 2) Generally the same circumstances affect you negatively.

You can do certain things to counteract these forces and take back your day. Confront the person and simply state that they are a negative influence. Most people of negative energy either realize fully what they are doing or get pleasure from it, or they are totally unaware and therefore educating them will make them better off. As for the negative people in positions of authority, formulate a plan to figure how to minimize the impact, no matter how long it takes.

If the negative force is a circumstance, such as bad traffic, then change the circumstance, or avoid it. Examine why the circumstance bothers you. If it is bad traffic, the effect on mood is triggered by fear of not being on time or frustration with slow traffic. Leave earlier, change your route or learn to be a slow poke.

Over time, you will see how minor the negative influence really is if you can develop a new attitude towards it.

Write it down, every day. You will see the negative influences are usually the same ones, over and over again. It then becomes a matter to confront them and put an end to it.

DeBow attends National Catholic School seminar

WAYNE - Cassie DeBow, principal of Our Lady of Consolation Academy in Wayne, recently attended the 2003 National Catholic School Principals' Academy.

The week-long seminar, "The Art of Catholic School Leadership," was sponsored by the National Catholic Educational Association. DeBow was among 50 principals nationwide selected to attend the corporate sponsored education workshops. Federal programs, legal issues, effective organizing, using test results successfully and curriculum development were among the topics presented.

This September, DeBow begins

her third year as principal of the Academy, a pre-K through fifth grade school. In two years, the school's enrollment has increased 61 percent and grades four and five have been added. Our Lady of Consolation Academy provides a small class environment where unique abilities and learning styles can be accommodated. State-of-the-art computer technology and Internet access is integrated throughout the curriculum.

Registration information can be obtained by contacting cdebowl@olcacademy.org, visiting www.olcacademy.org or calling the school at (973) 839-2323.

'Ghetto Tango' to be performed at Shomrei Torah in Wayne

WAYNE - On Saturday, Sept. 20 beginning at 9 p.m., Shomrei Torah - The Wayne Conservative Congregation, offers an unusual program to usher in the Jewish High Holiday season.

Preceding Selichot, the service which occurs on this Saturday night prior to Rosh Hashanah, two performers will present the show, "Ghetto Tango," in a cabaret setting amidst wine, cheese, fruit and desserts. There is no admission charge and the program is open to the public.

"Ghetto Tango" is not a dance exhibition. It is a musical and dramatic journey back to ghettos of World War II where, despite unrelenting atrocities, art and music persisted. As was demonstrated in the Academy award-winning movie, "The Pianist," imprisoned artists found composing and performing to be forms of spiritual resistance. Strange as it may seem, songs, both lighthearted and passionate, were written in the theaters and cabarets of ghettos, the workrooms of slave labor factories, the yards of concentration camps, and in the barracks of the death camps.

Many of these compositions laid dormant until two exceptional modern day performers took the time to research them and give them new life in a show that combines the songs and their translations with the stories of how they came to be. Alternating between Yiddish and English, Zalman Mlotek and Adrienne Cooper present a program that is at once personal and political, satirical and funny, sad and tragic, haunting and defiant. As one critic put it, "Ghetto Tango does more than demonstrate the ability of a people to maintain humanity and pride in the direst circumstances, it soars!"

One of the world's leading contributors to the survival of Yiddish language, music and culture, Zalman Mlotek is the co-artistic director of the Folksbiene Yiddish Theater, the longest continuously operating Yiddish theater company in the world. He also was co-creator and musical director of

"Golden Land" and "Those Were The Days," musicals which received both Tony Nominations and Drama Desk awards.

Adrienne Cooper is among the most acclaimed interpreters of Yiddish music in the world today. Her superb mezzo soprano voice is heard on some twenty recordings including those of her all women's klezmer ensemble called "Mikveh" and on the Grammy nominated "Partisans of Vilna."

The program and refreshments are free and open to the public. However, pre-registration is required. Contact the synagogue at (973) 696-2500; e-mail donnawcc@optonline.net, or write to 30 Hinchman Ave., Wayne, NJ 07470.

Dr. Donna Perry awarded Fulbright Fellowship

WAYNE — Dr. Donna Perry, a William Paterson University professor of English, has been awarded a Fulbright Teaching Fellowship and will spend the spring 2004 semester teaching and conducting research in Italy. Perry is one of approximately 800 U.S. Fulbright scholars who will travel abroad during 2003-2004 academic year.

A specialist in 19th and 20th century literature, particularly women writers and British fiction, Perry will be a Fulbright lecturer at the University of Rome in Italy where she will conduct research on Italy's influence on American women writers of the 19th and early 20th centuries. She will also teach American studies courses to graduate students.

Perry, who is currently chair of the English department at William Paterson, joined the faculty in 1982. She previously taught at Rivier College in Nashua, New Hampshire, and at Marquette University in Milwaukee, Wis. A graduate of Merrimack College in North Andover, Massachusetts with a bachelor's degree in English, Perry earned a master's degree in English from Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, Pa. and her doctorate in English from Marquette University.

The author of "Backtalk: Women Writers Speak Out," Perry served as co-editor, with Nan Bauer Maglin, of "Bad Girls/Good Girls: Women, Sex and Power in the Nineties." Her works have appeared in Conversations with Maxine Hong Kingston, Contemporary American Women Writers: Gender, Class, Ethnicity, and Beyond, Portia: Women, Law and Literature in the United States. She has written articles for journals such as The Review of Education, Radical Teacher and New Directions for Women.

Little Falls Health Dept. to conduct PVD screening

Little Falls Health Department and Chilton Memorial Hospital will conduct a free screening for people at risk of Peripheral Vascular Disease (PVD), a potentially fatal disease affecting eight million Americans. An early warning sign of stroke and heart attack, PVD is caused by blocked blood flow in the arteries of the legs and often causes pain or swelling, difficulty walking, numbness, and skin discoloration.

The local Health Departments and Chilton Memorial Hospital are taking part in Legs For Life™ National Screening for PVD Leg Pain. The program is sponsored by the Society of Interventional Radiology (SIR), the national professional society of interventional radiologists. These physicians treat PVD and many other conditions using minimally invasive procedures that are often alternatives to open surgery.

People who are suffering from leg pain or other PVD symptoms are invited to make an appointment for this screening. Participants will be asked to fill out a questionnaire and information form to help determine their risk for PVD. A brief screening exam will involve taking the person's arm and ankle blood pressure to further assess the potential of disease. (Please note your feet must be bare at the time of the screening.) People who appear to be at moderate or high risk for PVD will be advised to see their physician for additional evaluation. Health education materials and counseling will also be provided. The screening program is not a complete medical exam but is intended to help identify people who have risk factors for PVD and to refer them to their own physicians.

Vascular disease such as PVD is most common among men and women over the age of 50, people suffering from diabetes, people who smoke, and people with high blood pressure or high cholesterol levels. PVD starts so quietly, however, that many people may not recognize they have a problem. Many think they are simply feeling the natural effects of aging. Early detection and treatment of vascular disease is important.

The earlier it is identified and treated, the better the chance that the condition can be controlled with exercise, diet improvement, and, if the person smokes, smoking cessation.

The Legs for Life™ Screening for Peripheral Vascular Disease will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 1, from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at Chilton Memorial Hospital Collins Pavilion. Pre-registration is required. Open to Little Falls residents, 50 years of age or older, with no medical history of PVD.

Call the Pequannock Township Health Department at (973) 835-5700, ext. 111 to make an appointment or for more information.

Little Falls to hold stroke prevention screening in Oct.

The Little Falls Health Department in conjunction with Chilton Memorial Hospital will sponsor a free Stroke Prevention Screening on Tuesday, Oct. 7, from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the Little Falls Civic Center, 17 Warren St., Little Falls.

This free screening includes a cholesterol level test, carotid bruits assessment, blood pressure, pulse palpation for atrial fibrillation and educational counseling. Appointments are required, must be a Little Falls resident, 50 years old or older. This screening is intended for those who may be at risk but have not previously diagnosed risk factors. (If you have attended a similar program within the last 12 months, or have attended more than 12 months ago but have been referred for further medical attention, you are not eligible to register). Pre-registration is required. Call the Little Falls Health Department at (973) 256-0170.

Early detection is key in diagnosing ovarian cancer

Ovarian cancer is still the deadliest of the gynecological cancers and is often thought of as a silent killer even in the medical community. However, women who are aware of this cancer's symptoms and discover the disease early can fight and defeat this covert enemy.

According to the American Cancer Society, an estimated 25,400 American women will be diagnosed with ovarian cancer in 2003, and 14,300 are expected to die from the disease. The five-year survival rate for patients whose disease is detected in late stages is only 25 percent, yet if diagnosed before the cancer has spread outside the ovaries, a woman's chance for five-year survival rises to 90 percent. Therefore, early recognition of symptoms and early diagnosis can significantly increase the patient's survival rate.

Right now, ovarian cancer does not have a reliable screening tool, so paying attention to changes in one's own body can lead to the early diagnosis that is crucial for successful treatment.

Know the symptoms: abdominal pressure, bloating or discomfort; constipation, diarrhea or frequent urination; nausea, indigestion or gas; abnormal vaginal bleeding; unusual fatigue or backaches; unexplained weight loss or gain; and shortness of breath.

If these symptoms are unusual and persist for more than two weeks, women are advised to see a doctor.

Tennis for Life to offer free lessons

RIDGEWOOD - Breast Cancer survivors are invited to join Tennis for Life for free tennis lessons at Ridgewood Racquet Club every Sunday afternoon at 1 p.m. starting Sept. 14.

The Club Pro, Justin Lynn, organizes the group on the courts and Debbie Henry, a long time member of the group, will host refreshments and group talk after play.

Presented in cooperation with Hackensack University Cancer Care Center, Tennis for Life offers free clinics and organized play to introduce people with breast cancer to the many benefits tennis can bring to their physical and mental recovery.

The goal of the program is to help breast cancer survivors regain their mobility, stamina and spirit while providing support, encouragement and motivation from fellow survivors. Call (201) 337-0031.

Baltusrol to host AHA Golf Classic

SPRINGFIELD - Baltusrol Golf Club in Springfield will host the American Heart Association Fifth Annual Cardiac Golf Classic on Monday, Oct. 20.

Founded in 1895, during its storied history Baltusrol has played host to 15 national championships in golf, including seven U.S. Opens and the 2000 U.S. Amateur Championship. Baltusrol will host its first PGA Championship in 2005. The American Heart Association Cardiac Golf Classic, which is open to corporations, businesses and the public, raises money to help fund the critically important mission of the American Heart Association to reduce disability and death from cardiovascular diseases and stroke. Heart disease and stroke are New Jersey's No. 1 and No. 3 killers, claiming more than 28,000 lives annually.

The American Heart Association Cardiac Golf Classic will be played on Baltusrol's historic par-70 Lower Course, which is ranked 22 in Golf Digest magazine's 2003 list of America's 100 Greatest Golf Courses. The 2003 Cardiac Golf Classic at Baltusrol kicks off at 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. with registration, brunch and driving range or putting green practice. There is a shotgun start at 11:30 a.m. followed by a 5 p.m. reception, and 6 p.m. dinner and awards. Foursome opportunities and various levels of sponsorship, from $10,000 to $25,000, are available for the American Heart Association Cardiac Golf Classic. The event is not open to individual golfers.

For nearly four years the American Heart Association has partnered with Golf Digest magazine and others to urge golf courses around the country to implement Links For Life, a golf course public safety program focusing on CPR training, on-course communication and the availability of automated external defibrillators (AEDs). When someone goes into cardiac arrest, every second counts. The American Heart Association says at least 250,000 Americans die from cardiac arrest annually and few victims survive after 10 minutes. Early defibrillation with an AED - in the first five minutes - gives a victim of cardiac arrest the best chance for survival. Baltusrol Golf Club, with at least four AEDs, is one of only about 50 New Jersey golf courses out of more than 275 that have implemented an AED program.

Learn more about Links For Life by calling 1-800-438-0489 or call the American Heart Association at 1-877-AHA-4CPR. For the New Jersey American Heart Association Cardiac Golf Classic, call (732) 821-2610.

K of C to sponsor Sept. blood drive in Little Falls

LITTLE FALLS - Blood donors participating in the Little Falls Community Blood Drive will help to insure that the needs of area patients will be met. The Knights of Columbus sponsored drive is being held on Sunday, Sept. 21, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Our Lady of the Holy Angels, Main Street, Little Falls, in cooperation with Community Blood Services.

Community Blood Services is a non-profit independent community blood center, not affiliated with the American Red Cross. The Center supplies 34 hospitals and over two million residents.

Nancy Gelman Walk/Run to be held September 20

WAYNE - The second annual Nancy Gelman Walk/Run will take place on Saturday, Sept. 20, at 10 a.m. at Ringwood State Park. The event, which raises funds for the support of cancer research, is a memorial to Nancy R. Gelman, a longtime resident of Wayne who lost her battle with the disease two and half years ago.

Last year the 5K Walk/Run drew close to 100 participants and volunteers and raised $25,000 to support clinical trials that give patients access to promising investigational medications, treatment protocols, and surgical techniques. Nancy's husband and Campaign Chair Jon L. Gelman said, "We are pleased that the walk/run has become a nationally recognized event drawing registrations from as far away as California. This kind of support for the Annual Nancy Gelman Walk/Run helps realize our goals to promote breast cancer research and awareness leading both to increased detection and, ultimately, to cures."

The proceeds from this year's event will benefit The Cancer Center at the Hackensack University Medical Center. The Cancer Center offers inpatient and outpatient care, with adult outpatient services centralized at Hackensack University Medical Center, and a satellite facility in Franklin Lakes.

CancerCare to hold seventh annual WalkNJ fundraiser

RIDGEWOOD - On Sunday, Sept. 21, Sharp Electronics Corporation will sponsor CancerCare's seventh annual WalkNJ fundraiser for the Bergen/Passaic Area. The one-to-five mile walk will take place at Memorial Park at Van Neste Square in Ridgewood.

Registration begins at 8 a.m. and the walk will start at 9 a.m. All proceeds from the walk support CancerCare's programs and services throughout New Jersey.

CancerCare is honored to have the support of the Sharp Electronics Corporation as the Title Sponsor for WalkNJ. Sharp, a Mahwah based company, has been a committed advocate of CancerCare, supporting CancerCare's community events for the past 15 years. In addition to sponsoring the event, Sharp Electronics Corporation will also donate great prizes for the top three WalkNJ fundraisers.

CancerCare is now recruiting corporate sponsors for this important fundraising event. Sponsorships range from $150 to $2,000 and offer valuable advertising opportunities. Corporate Sponsor benefits include logo placement on the WalkNJ T-shirt and inclusion in the event advertising journal. For further sponsorship details, call CancerCare at (201) 444-6630, ext. 120.

WalkNJ is a community event featuring music, food, entertainment, prizes, and fun for walkers of all ages. No minimum donation is required to participate in this event, but those who raise $40 will receive a WalkNJ T-shirt. Walkers who raise $250 will receive a WalkNJ sweatshirt. Pre-registration for WalkNJ walkers is available by calling 1-800-813-4673, ext. 122 or by visiting the WalkNJ website at www.walknj.org. WalkNJ is also being held in Mercer County on Sept. 18 and Essex County on Oct. 26.

CancerCare is dedicated to helping people face the many challenges of a cancer diagnosis. As the largest national non-profit organization of its kind, CancerCare provides free professional support services including counseling, education, financial assistance and practical help to people across the country.

For more information, call the national toll-free counseling line at 1-800-813-HOPE.

Ortho-K procedure eliminates the need for glasses or contacts

Imagine contact lenses that when worn overnight and removed in the morning could dramatically improve one's vision so much that they eliminated the need for glasses or contact lenses.

Orthokeratology (or Ortho-K), is a recently FDA-approved, non-surgical procedure which reshapes the cornea (the surface) of the eye, utilizing special contact lenses. This reduces nearsightedness (myopia) or astigmatism and the dependence on daily eyewear.

"The idea of this procedure is to free the user from having to wear contact lenses or glasses during the day," said Dr. Gerber, an optometrist located in Westwood, who runs an Ortho-K Center with his associate, Dr. Floyd Smith. "The process is noninvasive, affordable and highly beneficial to the patient, and can be used even with children or teenagers who would not be candidates for laser correction."

According to the results of a recent FDA study on Ortho-K, 93.3 percent of patients improved their vision to 20/40 or better, 69.3 percent to 20/20 or better, and 30.8 percent to better than 20/20. These results are comparable to LASIK.

The Ortho-K system runs about half the cost of LASIK Laser Surgery (radial keratotomy) and has none of the surgical or post-operative concerns.

Studies reveal that LASIK, which was one of America's most commonly performed surgical procedures in 2000, has lost much of its popularity. The number of LASIK procedures in the U.S. dropped 14.6 percent this year compared to 2001. Practitioners blame the drop on reports of post-operative complications. Although costs for the surgery have dropped, it has not helped generate renewed interest.

"People have concerns about the safety of LASIK, plus many patients are not good candidates for the procedure," said Gerber. "Ortho-K is painless, safe and reversible."

Kelly Mead, 12, of Ridgewood, has been using the Ortho-K system for over a year, and is happy that she can be free from using her glasses. "When I had to wear glasses all the time, they would always hurt behind my ear and they would really annoy me. Now because of these lenses I don't have to wear glasses or anything during the day and I can see really well."

The process involves an eye examination and computerized screening of the eye to map the cornea. The doctor enters the patient's eye information into the Ortho-K system software and fits the patient with diagnostic lens (retainer) in the office. Within one to two weeks the retainers are ready. The doctor instructs each patient on use and care of the lenses, with three to five short visits required to assure effectiveness and patient satisfaction.

Ortho-K is not for everyone, according to the Ortho-K Center doctors. It works best on those who have mild to moderate amounts of nearsightedness or astigmatism. Patients with certain shaped corneas may also be poor candidates for the procedure.

Relatively few doctors currently offer the lenses. Special training and software is required to treat patients.

Older pets can be great companions for seniors

Because young pets require large amounts of time, attention and energy, seniors may find caring for a puppy, kitten or other younger pet a bit of a handful.

According to Ian Brown, associate executive director for Cedar Crest Village, "Older pets are likely to offer seniors all of the physical and emotional benefits with somewhat less work, making them an excellent complement to a senior citizen's lifestyle."

The following are benefits of adopting an older pet:

Older pets are usually house trained before adoption.

Older pets have passed the teething stage.

Older pets know the meaning of the word, "No!" They are also calmer and learn more quickly.

Older pets are grown; their temperaments are developed and their medical history is known.

Older pets require less attention than younger pets. They allow for quiet time.

Older pets have had their shots. They've been neutered/spayed at a younger age. However, they still need their annual checkups.

Seniors may wish to walk through kennels, breed rescues and shelters to select the perfect older pet.

They may want to visit a prospective pet on more than one occasion before adopting to make sure of the animal's temperament and compatibility.

HONORARY TITLE

Wayne Mayor Scott Rumana presented the title of "Historical Commissioner Emeritus" to Marcia Sills for the first time. Sills, who served as commissioner for 47 years, will now be able to retire from her post and act in an advisory capacity. Her most rewarding experience to date was helping to save the Mead-Van Dyne House when the new Route 23 was constructed.

Cedar Crest celebrates second anniversary with daylong party

Cedar Crest, a campus for people aged 62 or better, located in Pompton Plains, recently celebrated its second anniversary. Most residents were in attendance for the event. Cedar Crest's executive team members, who were dressed like chefs, served a delicious barbecue buffet lunch. Pequannock's Mayor Thomas Farrelly addressed the group and proclaimed the day as 'Cedar Crest Day in Pequannock.'

"The Campus is growing at warp speed," says Gary Hibbs, executive director at Cedar Crest. Soon, the community - often referred to as a stationery 'cruise ship' will house its 500th resident, which is quite a feat for a community that is only two years old.

In October, Madison Green, Cedar Crest's first residential building in its second neighborhood, will open. And, in December, Cedar Crest's second community building, which will house the state-of-the-art TV station, auditorium, third restaurant and second convenience store, will open.

In a little more than a year from now, Renaissance Gardens at Cedar Crest, an extended care neighborhood featuring Assisted Living and Skilled Nursing Care services, will open on the campus. Over the next few years, Cedar Crest will continue to develop its independent living setting so that seniors may prosper in an environment that is physically, socially and spiritually healthy.

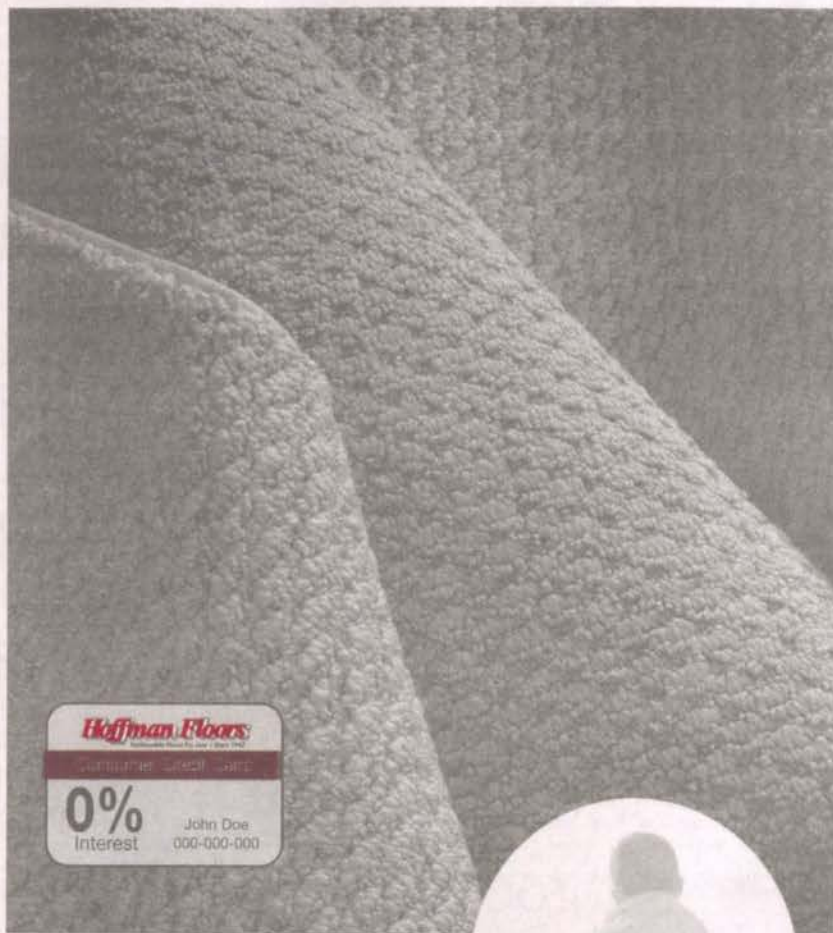

Cedar Crest is one of 12 campuses owned and operated by Erickson, which is located in Catonsville, Maryland, which are designed to provide middle-income people, age 62 or better, with a first class lifestyle. Conveniently located near the intersection of Rt. 23 and I-287, the beautifully landscaped 100-acre campus offers two restaurants, a convenience store, an on-site Medical Center with full-time physicians and part-time specialists, an all-season swimming pool and spa, a Health Club with full-time trainers, and an interfaith pastoral ministries program. It also provides residents with on-site banking and beauty shops as well as 24-hour security.

In addition, the almost endless array of clubs (currently totaling nearly 100) and endless amount of activities make it easy for residents to pursue a variety of interests including fitness, travel, music, crafts, games and peaceful relaxation. Cedar Crest is also one of the only retirement communities in the state to offer on-site college-level courses provided by Drew University and is the first to go wireless, allowing residents to go online from anywhere on the campus.

An informative seminar for couples
TRYING TO CONCEIVE

Many couples have difficulty admitting there may be an infertility problem. Each month they hope that "this will be the month." If these hopes have faded, come and listen to Ali Nasser, MD, Co-Medical Director, The Valley Hospital Center for In Vitro Fertilization and Reproductive Endocrinology, speak on "The ABC's of Infertility."

Topics will include:

- the common causes of infertility
- what to expect from a typical infertility evaluation
- the many innovative treatments available at Valley's Center for In Vitro Fertilization and Reproductive Endocrinology.

Dinner and refreshments will be served.

Work of six New Jersey artists is on display at Newark Museum in Sept.

NEWARK - "Art Explores Religion," an exhibition by six New Jersey-based artists, will be on view in The Newark Museum's Community Gallery until Sunday, Sept. 28. A reception with the artists will be held on Sunday, Sept. 14 from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Fifteen pieces of diversified media, including sculpture, paintings, collage and digital drawings, explore the relevance that organized religion will have in the 21st century.

The artists - Ela Shah, Betty McGeehan, Janet Taylor Pickett, Vivian McDuffie, Ilene Steglitz, and Gloria Rodriguez Calero, - have come together, each bringing her own perspective, to explore the relevance of religion and spirituality in the world today.

These six artists have been exhibited throughout the world and are included in numerous museum collections. All are recipients of numerous awards and fellowships.

The Newark Museum, located at 49 Washington Street in the Downtown/Arts District of Newark, is open Wednesdays through Sundays, from noon to 5 p.m.

Suggested admission: Adults, $5; Children, Seniors and Students, $2. Members are admitted free.

The Museum Cafe is open Wednesday through Sunday, noon to 3:30 p.m.

Parking is available for a nominal fee in the adjacent lot.

For general information, call (973) 596-6550 or visit www.newarkmuseum.org.

'Company' auditions planned

MONTVILLE - The Barn Theatre in Montville continues its 76th season by holding auditions for the Stephen Sondheim musical comedy, "Company," on Saturday, Sept. 13, from 1 to 4 p.m. and on Sunday, Sept. 14 from 7 to 10 p.m.

Performances will be Nov. 21 through Dec. 6. "Company" follows the story of Bobby, a confirmed bachelor who is turning 35, and his ten coupled friends (and three girlfriends), who each have "advice" or "a plan" to get this eligible bachelor off the market for good.

Cast requirements are: eight female and six males.

Have a song prepared - there will be a movement audition. All roles are open.

The Barn Theatre is located on Skyline Drive in Montville, just minutes off Exit 47 from Route 287.

For more information on characters or directions, call (973) 334-9320, or visit www.barntheatre.org.

Participants in the Harmony Singers have a love for song

WAYNE – For the most part, when someone refers to harmony in a choral group, you think of two or more tones blended together to make a pleasing sound. To the Harmony Singers of Wayne, however, the harmony that is achieved can also be described as an inner calmness.

"Basically, we all just love to sing. It makes us feel great," said Peter Durkin of Wayne, a long-time member. Jo Ann Byrnes, of Lincoln Park, agrees, "No matter how stressful my day at work has been, I always leave rehearsals relaxed and upbeat. Our director has a good sense of humor, which helps relieve the tension."

The Harmony Singers is a community choral group of men and women, which was founded in 1965 in Wayne. It now boasts 35 members who hail from Passaic, Morris, Essex and Bergen Counties. Members join for a variety of reasons. For parents of young children, it's a chance to get away - but not too far away - from the little ones for a few civilized hours a week. For senior citizens, it's a stimulating opportunity to keep the mind and spirit active. Many newcomers to the area have found it is a good way to get to know people.

Under the musical direction of Michael Sanfilippo, who also teaches at the Newark Boys Chorus School, the group performs at least one formal public concert each season, spring and fall. The repertoire may include masterpiece choruses from classical composers such as Bach, Mozart, or Handel, Broadway tunes, American spirituals, folk songs, or holiday music. Additionally, informal free community concerts have been performed at the Wayne Library, the Preakness shopping center, and various nursing and assisted living facilities for the elderly.

Some members have no formal musical training, and listen to practice tapes to learn the songs. Others, like Dawn Schlesinger, owner of Dawn's Music Studios in Fair Lawn, have made a career out of it. Most do double duty by singing in their own church or temple choir, as does Len Alper, a cantor at Temple Beth Tikvah in Wayne.

The group meets at the Wayne Civic Center, Hamburg Turnpike at Church Lane, Wayne every Tuesday night from 7:30 p.m. to 9:45 p.m. Call (973) 628-4535.

Dapper Dans conclude Preakness Concert Series

WAYNE – Two barber shop quartets will be featured in a concert that concludes Preakness Concert Series 2003 on Wednesday, Sept. 17. "The Gondoliers" and "The Riser Boys" are part of an all-male chorus called the Dapper Dans of Harmony, which will entertain at the concert at the Preakness Shopping Center.

The eighth concert in the 2003 series ends the fifth annual free outdoor program sponsored by the Preakness Shopping Center Merchants Association. The concert will take place in the center's main parking lot, under the clock, beginning at 7 p.m. Spectators are advised to bring their own chairs. The shopping center is at the intersection of Hamburg Turnpike and Alps Road in Wayne.

The Dapper Dans are a chapter of the national Society for the Propagation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America. In pursuit of the group's international championship, the Dapper Dans finished sixth in their first try, then fourth, then second, and finally took first place twice. Of the 20-odd members, six are Wayne residents.

Their program is expected to include standards and a medley of traditional Irish tunes.

The Dapper Dan members who are Wayne residents include Leo Breda and Robert Marchini (tenor and bass, respectively, with "The Gondoliers"), William Fox (lead with "The Riser Boys"), Federal Judge John W. Bissell, Albert Pacosa, a baritone with "The Riser Boys" who is also 2003 president of the group, and Robert Reed.

In case of rain, the concert will be Sept. 24. The rain date advisory is 800-785-5710. Call after 4 p.m. on the day of show to learn whether the weather has forced a postponement.

Scott Hart (as George) and Bobby Selig (Albin) share the Bickford Theatre stage in 4th Wall Musical Theatre, Inc. production of "La Cage Aux Folles," running through Sept. 20.

For most part, 'La Cage' cast shines

BY PAULA ZECCA
News Editor

MORRISTOWN – The best of times is now at the Bickford Theatre in Morristown as the 4th Wall Musical Theatre, Inc. presents "La Cage Aux Folles."

"La Cage Aux Folles," set in New Orleans' French Quarter, tells the story of Albin and George, an openly gay couple who live above a nightclub. Ultimately a heart-warming story about love and acceptance, the production is also filled with a great deal of chaos, hilarity, and a few rather touching numbers.

Bobby Selig gives a stellar performance as Albin, who doubles as Zsa Zsa, the nightclub's queen and star of "La Cage." Selig's gut-wrenching rendition of "I Am What I Am" all but brought the house to tears.

Problems arise when Brian Merrill (Jean Michel), George's 24-year-old son, announces his engagement to Donna Lewin (Anne) and also announces her parents will be visiting shortly.

Scott Hart (George), Albin's partner of 20-something years, finds himself in a predicament when he must tell Albin that he has to hide his identity for a day. Hart's touching and convincing performance both as nightclub owner and Albin's partner stands up to Selig's pound for pound.

Barn Theatre kicks off its season with 'Six Degrees'

MONTVILLE – The Barn Theatre kicks off its 76th season with John Guare's witty comedy/drama, "Six Degrees of Separation." Performances are Sept. 12, 13, 14, 19, 20, 21, 26 and 27 at 8 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays and 3 p.m. on Sundays. Tickets are $15; tickets for senior citizens and students are $14 on Sunday performances only.

Inspired by a true story of con artists and hustlers, "Six Degrees of Separation" is a hilarious exploration of the threads of chance that link one person to another. When an intelligent and articulate young black man shows up on their doorstep bleeding from a knife wound and claiming to be the son of Sidney Poitier, an upper-class New York couple is completely charmed - and completely taken in. Only later do they realize that he's a fraud - or is he?

The Barn Theatre is located at the end of Skyline Drive in Montville. Call (973) 334-9320 or visit <http://www.barntheatre.org>.

CASINO CONFIDENTIAL

By TONY AUGUST

A Night To Remember

A night to remember in Atlantic City used to be rather commonplace. It meant a big event was going to take place. An upcoming event of such magnitude that the promotional ballyhoo started weeks and in some cases months before the big night. I'm talking about heavyweight championship fights, Million Dollar Giveaways and headline superstar entertainment attractions. An event like that hadn't taken place in Atlantic City in the past five years, until the other night.

It happened Saturday, Aug. 30 at about 8:30 p.m. at one of the Trumpman's properties, the Trump Marina to be precise, when Donald Trump stuffed $100,000 in cash into the trembling, eager, delicate hands of Joan Benning, a demure, 80-something sweet and kindly looking grandmother from Howell.

This was not only a main event, an exciting happening for the packed mob of hopefuls all squeezed together in the casino lobby of the Marina, along with the balcony crowd hanging and looking on from the rafters of the floor above, but a very special evening on a personal level for me.

There were five people on that podium within arms length of an opened carrying case containing 10 neatly wrapped, face up stacks of $10,000, adding up to $100,000, total. That's nice, but what made that a very special evening for me, you might ask? Well I happened to be one of those five people on that podium, along with Donald Trump, Todd Moyer, VP of marketing and two mini-skirted, leggy "body guards" on either side of me. I guess they were there to make it harder for me to decide whether to grab the loot and run or just grab them. Fortunately I never had to make that decision, but wait, there's more.

Before the event took place downstairs, there was a very special private cocktail party upstairs for the Marina's upscale, high roller type players who've been steady contributors to Trump's bottom line for years. This cocktail party had it all, caviar, champagne, smoking, cocktails, six or seven different stations featuring, luscious chunks of lobster, jumbo shrimp, beef Wellington, (sliced filet mignon wrapped in a pastry crust), mini veal chops, caesar salads and cold cuts galore. In short, this was strictly for the swells.

It was so private that no members of the press were invited. In that case, how could I know what happened. I'm happy to report that since this was really a gathering of gaming royalty, I received an invitation as "King of all the Low Rollers" in the gaming industry.

Do you believe it! You better, because it's true. It is now official, we, the low rollers of the world finally received the respect and recognition we all deserve. On your behalf, I accepted their invitation to join the elite of the gaming world in Atlantic City. That in itself would have made the evening a memorable one, but there's more.

As I sat among these privileged peers of prominence in the world of gaming, munching and swilling down the food and drink of delicious assorted offerings, voices were heard. "He's here," one said, Donald Trump has arrived. "That's him," another said. "Doesn't he look great," cried another. I, of course, maintained a demeanor befitting my new regal status. I said nothing, didn't move and continued devouring every tasty morsel in sight, until I heard my name being called over the excitement of the Trumpman's entrance. It was Todd Moyer, calling to me to come to the stage.

Somebody must have turned me in. Too good to be true, I thought. I mean, what the hell was I, an ink stained wretch and worse yet, founder of the "Guys & Dolls Low Roller Club," every casino operators' nightmare, doing at this high roller event. Oh the humiliation. Then I heard Todd saying what a great guy I was and how appreciative the Trump organization was for all the kind words I'd said about them throughout the years.

My head was spinning when I reached the stage and Todd handed me the "mike." "What's this," I asked. "I thought I was going to introduce you downstairs and you'd introduce Donald, who'd announce the winner." "That's all changed," he said, "Donald wants YOU to introduce HIM! And that says it all about the present status of the "Guys & Dolls Low Rollers Club." Aug. 30, 2003, a date we gained recognition and respect. A date along with March 6th, "low rollers" will celebrate annually. Truly a night to remember.

Allegro launches season with 'Charlie'

LAKE HIAWATHA — Allegro Productions, in residence at the Parsippany Playhouse, announces that it will kick off its 2003-2004 season on Friday, Sept. 12, with the 1999 Broadway revival version of the beloved musical classic "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown."

Based on the timeless "Peanuts" comic strip by Charles M. Schulz, "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown" is a collection of skits detailing the highs and lows of one day in the life of Charlie Brown, his friends, and his irrepressible beagle, Snoopy. Showcasing such favorites as Charlie Brown's love for the "Little Red Haired Girl" and Snoopy battling the Red Baron, this timeless show is a treat for anyone of any age.

"You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown" opens Friday, Sept. 12, at the Parsippany Playhouse, 1130 Knoll Road, Lake Hiawatha. Performances run Fridays through Saturdays at 8 p.m. and Sundays at 2 p.m.

Tickets may be purchased by calling the box office at (973) 263-7020. Tickets are $20.

Students/seniors $17 with ID. Group discounts are offered. More information is available at www.allegroprod.org.

Lutvak headlines Manor's Cabaret Soiree

WEST ORANGE - Profiled in Time Magazine's "People To Watch" column, critically acclaimed singer/songwriter Steven Lutvak has performed to sold-out audiences across the country, including such prestigious New York venues as the Russian Tea Room and the Algonquin Hotel's Oak Room, as well as Los Angeles's renowned Rose Garden and Gardenia rooms. He will appear at The Manor, 111 Prospect Ave., West Orange, on Thursday, Sept. 18.

He has headlined with Broadway's Dee Hoty at New York's Rainbow and Stars and has performed in four of the Annual Cabaret Conventions at Town Hall. He opened ASCAP's new Songwriter Series at the FireBird Cafe, again to sold-out houses. Most recently, he completed an extended run at New York's Arci's Place.

Lutvak is 1998's only two-time MAC (Manhattan Association of Cabarets) Award Winner as "Outstanding Singer/Instrumentalist" and for "Outstanding Special Material." He previously won the MAC Award for "Song of the Year" (1994, "Inside My Body Is A Dancer") and also received two Bistro Awards (1993 and 1998).

The Cabaret Soiree consists of a four-course, four-star dinner and show package, with dinner seatings at 6, 6:15, and 6:30 p.m. Show time is 9 p.m.

Cost for dinner and show is $69 plus tax and tip. Wait-list "show only" seats available at $35 per person. Call (973) 731-2360.

When Jean Michel asks George to tell Albin that he cannot be at the meeting with the Dindons, Albin feels he's losing his place in the "family." So Albin takes matters into his own hands. Enter Zsa Zsa.

Selig brings to his character a mix of humor, insanity and sheer terror at the thought of losing George and the world he has created for the two of them. Hart's performance of one of the more touching numbers, "Song on the Sand" illustrates beautifully the feelings George has for Albin.

Bill Purdy gives an acceptable performance as Anne's father, Edouard Dindon, a well-known politician who is looking to close down the city's nightclubs. However, it is Maryann Post as Marie Dindon, who steals the scenes when the two of them are on stage.

Along with the Dindons' arrival, comes a whirlwind of chaos, confusion and curiosity. Add to that a dose of blackmail and you are left with a rather funny finale to a show that is comprised of quick wit, humor, love, self-doubt, betrayal, and acceptance.

With music and lyrics by Jerry Herman, the show features some outstanding musical numbers including, "I Am What I Am" and "The Best of Times." The dancers at "La Cage," the Cagelles, also bring a certain energy to their performance and will leave the audience guessing who's male, who's female, what is real and what is merely an illusion.

The show runs through Sept. 20 at the Bickford Theatre in Morris-town. Call (866) 484-8587 or visit www.4thwalltheatre.com.

Crafts fest planned

KINNELON - Kinnelon's annual Arts and Crafts Festival will be held on Sept. 13, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. (Rain date is Sept. 14) at Kinnelon High School. Artisans and crafters will exhibit paintings, hand-thrown pottery, gemstones, jewelry, sculptures, crafts for the holidays, handmade soaps and candles, dried and silk flower arrangements. The Butler VFW will run the food concession. Proceeds help support the Kinnelon library. Call (973) 838-1321 for further information.

Orchestral concert set

KINNELON - Kinnelon Library's Center for Lifelong Learning performing arts program is turning to members of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra to present a concert of classical music on Sept. 21. NJSO players Brett Deubner, viola, and Andrew Lamy, clarinet, will play selections from the classical repertoire and will also briefly discuss their choices. This concert will take place on Sunday, Sept. 21, starting at 4 p.m. at the United Methodist Church, 129 Boonton Ave., Kinnelon. Admission is $5 at the door. Refreshments will be served. For information call (973) 838-1321.

Patinkin opens season

MORRISTOWN - The Community Theatre celebrates the opening of its 2003-2004 season with a special performance by TV, film and Broadway legend Mandy Patinkin. Broadway's master songman will be accompanied by Paul Ford on piano in this gala event on Saturday, Sept. 20 at 8 p.m. The concert will feature electrical interpretations of Broadway's standards. Tickets are $62-75.

Patinkin won a Tony Award for his 1980 Broadway debut as Che in Andrew Lloyd Webber's "Evita." In 1995, Patinkin won an Emmy Award for his role as Dr. Jeffrey Geiger on the critically acclaimed TV series "Chicago Hope." He currently stars in the new Showtime series "Dead Like Me." Other TV credits include the starring role of Quasimodo in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," a version of Arthur Miller's "Broken Glass," Showtime's "Strange Justice" and episodes of "Touched by an Angel" and "Boston Public." Patinkin has also appeared in nearly two dozen films.

For tickets, visit www.communitytheatrejnj.com, or call (973) 539-8008.

Youth group formed

TEANECK - The Puffin Cultural Forum announces the formation of the Youth Movement Jazz Ensemble - a new young people's jazz group for aspiring jazz musicians ages 12 to 18.

The new ensemble seeks to attract the growing number of young musicians in the area, many of whom have already been honing their skills at the Puffin's popular Jam Sessions at the Puffin series. Auditions will be held for all instruments on Saturday, Sept. 13 beginning at 1 p.m. To schedule an audition or for more information, call (201) 836-8923. There is no audition fee. The Puffin Cultural Forum is located on 20 East Oakdene Avenue (off of Teaneck Road) in Teaneck.

The Youth Movement Jazz Ensemble will hold a debut performance in January at the Cultural Forum. The size of the group will likely be a sex- or septet to begin, although it may expand in the future, depending on interest.

For a complete calendar of Puffin Cultural Forum events, workshops, exhibitions, and programs, or for directions by car or public transportation, visit www.puffinfoundation.org.

'Streetcar' set to roll

NEWARK - Since its 1947 Pulitzer Prize-winning debut, Tennessee Williams' "A Streetcar Named Desire" has captivated audiences. Now African Globe TheatreWorks, an African American theatre company, is bringing to Newark a fresh spin on the shocking tale.

"A Streetcar Named Desire" will open at the Newark Symphony Hall 2nd Floor Theatre, 1020 Broad St., Newark, on Sept. 12 and runs through Oct. 5 with performances on Fridays and Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sundays at 3 p.m. Tickets are $20 for Friday performances and $25 for Saturday and Sunday performances. For more information call (973) 624-1584.

Legendary is a status few restaurants achieve, but, in North Jersey, Mario's measures up. The family-run restaurant has been a fixture in the same Clifton neighborhood since its origin 56 years ago.

Owned and operated by the Barilari, the restaurant is staffed by four to six family members at any given time.

"Everyone of us can take any position in the restaurant. We do whatever is needed and that includes bartending. We began learning the business when we were kids," said Aulo Barilari, the family spokesman. "My father and mother started the restaurant featuring pizza. We joke constantly that we 'were born in a pizza oven.'"

Helping the family man the kitchen, bar and tables are many long-time employees who are "like family" to the Barilari.

"Bea has been with us for more than 50 years and our chefs have been with us for 30-plus years," said Aulo Barilari.

Longevity in the restaurant business is as much about consistency of food and service as it is about anything else and at Mario's it has resulted in a burgeoning business. On a typical Friday night, the restaurant can expect to sell several hundred pizzas, as well as many other selections from its full menu.

But pizza is first and foremost at Mario's. Recently, the restaurant earned the title of "Best Pizza in North Jersey - People's Choice Award" in a statewide magazine poll.

Exhibit on view at Ramapo

MAHWAH - "Ashes to Ashes," a phrase taken from the Christian burial ritual (Book of Common Prayer), is the title of a group exhibition by regional artists exploring the theme of mortality and environmental concerns.

The exhibit, which runs through Oct. 17 in the George T. Potter Library galleries at Ramapo College of New Jersey, features the work of Fern Bass, Pam Cooper (Saddle River), Lori Field (Montclair), Linda Brooks Hirschman (Woodcliff Lake), Karen Nelson-Fried and Elizabeth Seaton (Montclair).

Media represented in the exhibit range from fiber to encaustic painting. The works were inspired by personal loss and by reactions to world events such as the anguish caused by Sept. 11.

The George T. Potter Library is open from 8 a.m. to midnight Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and 2 p.m. to midnight on Sunday. Call (201) 684-7147.

Patrick Real Wyckoff outlasts Eagles in OT

BY CHRIS WOOLIS
Special to TODAY

WAYNE - The penalty kick. No play in the course of a soccer game elicits more cheers from a fan and nervousness from a player. Rarely does a match come down to this, but in the final weekends of the Sportfriends Cup, the scenario has played out twice. First it was the Turkish Eagles defeating Sportfriends 5-4 in the semifinal round two weeks ago.

Then came this past weekend. In what turned out to be one of the most exciting and action filled final in recent years, Patrick Real Wyckoff defeated the Turkish Eagles 2-2 and 5-4 in penalty kicks to bring home the championship.

"All year we (Wyckoff) have come in second place in every tournament we played in," said Goran Matijoski, Wyckoff's forward. "Hopefully this win will stay with us for a long time and we will continue to win."

This was the second time the two teams met in the tournament, the first also ended in a tie. But playoff rules concerning overtime differ from the qualifying rounds. If the game is tied at the end of regulation, two, five minute golden goal periods would be played followed by penalty kicks.

The Turkish Eagles were the first to get a shot on goal when in the fifth minute Osman Beyazkan dribbled down the left sideline, broke in towards the goal and sent a shot Wyckoff goalkeeper Alex Luna's way. But Luna was ready and waiting and made a diving save.

In the 10th minute, Marco Chung of Wyckoff took a shot from the center of the field, but saw it blocked by Eagle goalie Nezh

FIRST THINGS FIRST - Passaic Valley head football coach Bill Johnson and the Hornets travel to Wayne this evening where they will face conference rivals Wayne Valley in the season opener.

OPENING NIGHT

Wayne Valley-PV matchup kicks off season

BY NICK GANTAIFIS
TODAY Sports Editor

WAYNE - Shortly following Passaic Valley's stunning heart-breaking loss to Wayne Hills in the opening round of the Group III, Section I State Playoffs last year, Bill Johnson was able to immediately put together a plan for the subsequent season. With a host of returning starters making their way back onto the Hornet roster in 2003, the Passaic Valley head coach knew his team would be back in the hunt within a year's time.

But before the Hornets qualify for a sectional title this time around, it must take care of nine-regular season opponents, starting with Northern Hills Conference rivals Wayne Valley tonight in a 7 p.m. start in Wayne. The annual rivalry, which at one point was played on Thanksgiving Day mornings, has been shifted to Week One over the past two years, due to the majority of New Jersey teams opting not to play on the traditional holiday because of a hectic playoff schedule.

In recent years, however, the Wayne Valley-Passaic Valley rivalry has lost some of its luster. At one point, the highly anticipated matchup was considered by many as one of the state's finest. Both teams were usually fighting for a conference title come the third Thursday in November with bragging rights hanging on the line.

"When I was playing for Passaic Valley, we looked forward to the Wayne Valley game all year," said Johnson after last year's game. "When the game was moved to opening day, it lost some of its flavor."

In last season's opener, the Hornets rolled to a 31-0 victory over Valley on its home turf, marking Johnson's first victory over his counterparts in his four seasons on the Passaic Valley sideline. In that game, PV's then junior tight end Nick Varcadipane, scored two touchdowns, including a 17-yard scoring strike from quarterback Peter Longo.

"Losing that game to Wayne Hills at the end inspired us to work hard," said Varcadipane, who caught 22 passes for 429 yards last season to earn All-County honors as a junior.

"Everyone is working hard and we want to go further this year."

Although Passaic Valley appears to have the upper hand entering tonight's contest, the Hornets must travel to Wayne where the Indians play a home schedule under the lights. Passaic Valley, which plays its home games on Saturday afternoons, will play four of its regular season matchups under the lights, something Johnson and his Hornets will have to adjust to. In the meantime, Johnson's strategy tonight will be to use Varcadipane's services as much as possible, getting him the ball the majority of the time in hopes of wearing down the Wayne Valley defense.

"We're going to find a way to get Nick the ball as much as possible," said Johnson.

Wayne Valley's defense, however, isn't about to let its rivals get the best of them a second straight season. After finishing the 2002 campaign with a dismal 2-7 record, the Indians return a handful of starters with a year's experience under its belts. Starting with a veteran line, Passaic Valley may encounter problems at the line of scrimmage, something they didn't run into in last year's meeting.

"We're ahead of where we were last year," said Wayne Valley head coach Brian O'Connor. "Everybody here thinks we're going to take a big step forward."

Vibrating lure crankbait much more startling than effective

BY OLIVER SHAPIRO
Correspondent

One of the realities of writing about outdoor sports is that a lot of companies are often anxious to send samples for field-testing, in an effort to get some extra publicity for their wares.

As attractive as this may sound to an outdoorsman (which it surely used to sound to me), it's worth remembering that most companies that fit this description are the smaller ones or start-up ones that are hungry to grow and get a bigger market share. Don't expect Rapala, Mepps, Shimano, Berkley and those other big guys to break your doors down getting their stuff to you. But a few interesting things invariably show up.

A couple of months ago I received a curious item in the mail. Some of you have undoubtedly seen it on a television commercial: the Vibra-Strike electric vibrating lure. It's essentially a conventional-looking shallow-diving crankbait, but it has internal gadgetry and circuitry that causes it to buzz and vibrate periodically, at two-second intervals, when wet.

The idea is probably not a bad one. Most gamefish, which are by nature predatory, use as two of their primary food-finding senses hearing and lateral-line perception. Underwater vibrations will appeal to both of these, and any lure that can emit signals may attract notice from a nearby fish, even if the former is stationary.

So, in an honest spirit of testing and curiosity, I have included the object in my tackle box and have tied it on under those conditions when standard arsenal has bought few if any bites.

It's worth mentioning here that I have been using the device only when the bite seems slow. Otherwise it simply isn't much of a test - if all the largemouth in a pond are tripping over each other to grab your non-electronic lure, why spend the extra bucks to get this special one?

The results so far - nothing. I have yet to see a bass, or anything else, express any interest in the bait.

It has made for a few almost-memorable moments, however. For example, on my recent trip to Squam Lake, I tried the lure during

Totowa's Polifonte leads local pack of runners in Pfizer 5K

MORRIS PLAINS - Totowa's Michael Polifonte led a pack of 42 local residents when he was the 75th runner in a field of 2132 participants to finish the 15th Annual Pfizer/United Way 5K Run on Thursday evening, September 4.

The 15-year old was clocked in 19 minutes, 20 seconds as he completed the mostly flat, USATF certified 3.1-mile course through Morris Plains.

Lincoln Park's 14-year old Correna Blewett was the first local distaff runner to finish, placing 338th among the 853 women in the event. The 14-year old was clocked in 29 minutes, 1 seconds.

Lincoln Park's 63-year old Louis Urban picked up the third place award among the 60 to 64-year old men, posting a clocking of 30 minutes, 11 seconds.

Sadin. Nine minutes later, Cem Altug took a shot for the Eagles from 20 yards out that looked as if it would head in, but landed just inches above the net.

With the score still 0-0, Wyckoff had another scoring chance in the 29th minute when Federico Lucas crossed a pass to Tamas Kovacs who took a straight on shot which sailed wide left. With less than a minute to play in the first half, Matljiski broke free from the pack and dribbled upfield before taking a shot from 22 yards which was blocked by Sadin.

The second half started much like the first as Beyazkan took a cross shot in the seventh minute that landed wide right. Matljiski had another chance to score in the 15th minute when he took a Kovacs cross pass and sent a shot Sadin's way, but the ball sailed too high.

After a few minutes of back and forth play, Wyckoff finally put the game's first points on the board in the 27th minute. Matljiski took a shot from the left side, which was blocked by Sadin, but Kovacs was waiting in front of the net and rocketed the rebound into the corner for the 1-0 lead.

Seven minutes later, Matljiski would have a goal of his own as he grabbed a Joseph Amoooh rebound and knocked in a shot from 20 yards out. But in the 38th minute, the Eagles made it a 2-1 game when Mohamed Elszly crossed a pass to Beyazkan who headed the ball into the right corner of the net for the goal. With less than three minutes remaining in the game, the Eagles tied it up when Yasin Ozturk knocked in a shot from just outside the box.

Altug went first for the Eagles and scored to the left. John Babula of Wyckoff tied it with his goal as Oz put the Eagles up 2-1 with a score. Chung went on to tie it, but Ozturk's shot went wide left as Wyckoff took the 3-2 advantage on Carlos Rojas' goal.

Umut Angis nailed a shot to tie it at 3-3, but Franco Paonessa kept Wyckoff ahead with a goal. Beyazkan was the fifth shooter for the Eagles as he put a shot into the left corner. Paolo Nobile then stepped up to the ball and sealed the victory for Wyckoff with a goal to the right side. Luna was named 'Man of the Match' for his efforts in front of the goal.

a dull period in the fishing, in about six feet of water. After about 20 minutes of fruitless effort, I went back to the patterns that had been working so far and they immediately resumed their effect. When I cut off the lure, it buzzed and rattled in my hand a few times, causing me to jump each time.

Just this morning as I was getting my gear together from the back of my vehicle, preparatory to fishing at a NJ lake, I heard a strange sound every 60 seconds or so. At first I thought a cicada or some such critter was caught in my truck, but I finally realized the Vibra-Strike was activating occasionally even though it was quite dry. I shrugged and ignored it, and went about my business. It continued to do so, even on the ride home some hours later. It may be doing so right now for all I know.

Don't get me wrong - just because it hasn't worked yet doesn't mean that it won't. In all honesty, I still believe in the concept and will give it at least a few more trials. If I find any reason to improve my opinion of its performance, you'll certainly hear about it from me. Anybody who wants to give it a go for themselves is welcome to look into the situation; visit www.vibrastrikelures.com where you may peruse information on the lure and order one or two for yourself.

If you experience anything worth reporting, let me know (olshapiro@yahoo.com).

Grand Prix attention to detail shows

BY MARK MAYNARD
Copley News Service

The 2004 Pontiac Grand Prix is a mile-marker of progress for General Motors.

Cooler heads appear to be prevailing and have invested a little more in quality and function in this ninth-generation redesign.

There is more grand than groan to it, including freshened engines, a better-sounding interior and sport-utility versatility in a split-folding seat back, rear doors that open to near right angles and a front passenger seat back that folds forward to accommodate 8-foot-plus items.

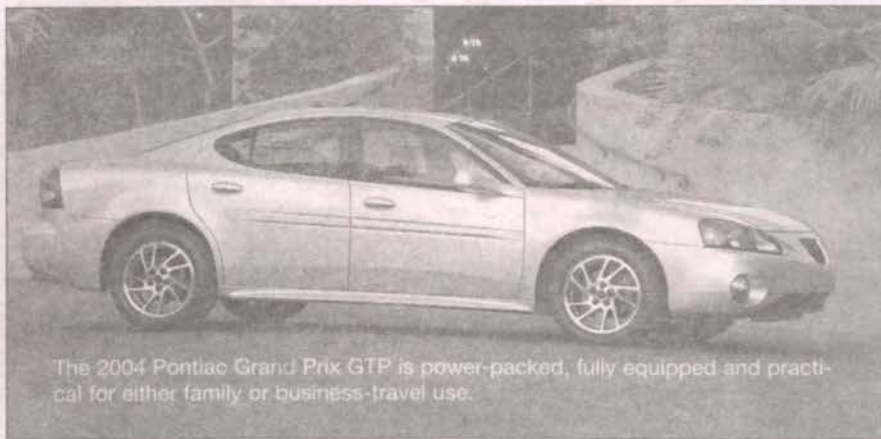

Outside, the swoopy shape remains familiar but with cues from the G-Force concept car, recognized in the grille, creased and angular hood lines and larger headlights.

All Grand Prixes now come with a rear deck spoiler that integrates the high-mounted brake light. The twin exhaust tips have an industrial-machined double-barrel appeal and are mounted square and solid, revealing more of Pontiac's new attention to detail.

The model lineup has been simplified by eliminating the base SE and keeping the GT1, GT2 and supercharged GTP, which now can be ordered with a paddle-shift transmission with the Comp G package, a first for GM.

Pricing starts at $22,395, including the $635 destination charge.

Entry-level models come with a 200-horsepower version of the 3.8 liter V-6, now the Se-

The 2004 Pontiac Grand Prix GTP is power-packed, fully equipped and practical for either family or business-travel use.

2004 PONTIAC GRAND PRIX

Body style: Midsize, front-wheel drive five-passenger sedan with unitized body

Engines:

GT: OHV 3.8-liter Series III V-6, 200 horsepower at 5200 rpm, 225 foot-pounds torque at 4000; 0 to 60 mph, 8.5 seconds; top speed, 108 mph

GTP: Supercharged 3.8 liter Series III V-6; 260 hp at 5200 rpm and 280 foot-pounds torque at 3600 rpm; 0 to 60 mph, 6.6 seconds; top speed, 126 mph; Comp G, 6.5 seconds/142 mph

Transmission: Hydra-Matic 4-speed automatic

EPA estimated fuel economy: GT, 20 mpg city, 30 highway; GTP, 18/28

Fuel tank: 17 gallons; regular unleaded recommended

PRICING

GT1: $22,395, including $635 destination charge

GT2: $24,295

GTP: $26,495; price as tested, $30,910

Options on GTP test car: 7-speaker, 6-CD in-dash audio, $695

- Driver's Package, $795, includes leather-trimmed seats with heated front seats, floor mats and alloy wheels

- Competition Group, $1,395, includes P225/65 VR 17-inch performance tires and multispoke wheels; Stabilitrak Sport, TAPshift, 3.29-ratio axle and Info Tech (HUD and trip computer); XM radio; sunroof; side air bags ries III, and 4-speed automatic transmission.

The engine has been refined with such improvements as a new intake manifold for quieter air flow and a "dampolator" on the crank pulley to tune out higher rpm resonance.

The base car will do 0 to 60 mph in 8.5 seconds; the Comp G in 6.5 with a top speed of 142 - and all this on regular unleaded. Expect combined city/highway fuel economy of 24 mpg.

The list of standard equipment is also desirable, including remote keyless entry, air conditioning, fog lamps, power mirrors/locks/windows, cruise control and 6-speaker CD-radio.

The top-line supercharged GTP starts at $26,495 and comes with the 260-horsepower Series III 3.8 liter V-6, using the fifth generation Eaton blower updated for durability and quieter operation (though it never sounded too bad to the ears of the owners).

The 3,583-pound GTP will do 0-60 mph in 6.6 seconds, or 6.5 seconds with the Comp G package. Fuel economy is 18 mpg city and 28 highway, or 22 combined.

The $1,395 Comp G package adds P225/65VR 17-inch performance tires and multispoke wheels, Stabilitrak Sport, Info Tech (driver-information center and Head Up Display), TAPshift and a 3.29 axle ratio.

While the base model still has a rental-car feel, moving up-level brings the road-ripping pleasure of a Grand Prix. Run it hard and put it away wet - it just doesn't feel like you can hurt it.

The manual shift ability of TAPshift (Touch Activated Power) is as handy for daily driving as for fun on the back roads.

The fingertip shift response is as quick as I've experienced on Porsches, but the access to the buttons is awkward. Pontiac pioneered the redundant radio controls on the 3-spoke steering wheel and apparently doesn't want to yield that feature for the Comp G.

Thus, the TAPshift "paddles" stick up on the center crosspiece, somewhat out of the way for spontaneous use. And the gearshift lever can't be used for shifts, unlike most other auto-stick systems.

But there's praise for the engineers who calibrated the Stabilitrak Sport system to allow some wheelslip in cornering before it steps in to break up the party with ABS and throttle intervention.

On the road, the GT models ride smoothly with good sound isolation. The GTP is eager to run, but its more-sensitive tires pick up more harshness, especially at highway speeds.

The Grand Prix's improvements show positive progress at the company. The foundation is good and should only get better.

Religious Messages 1265

PRAYER OF APPLICATION TO THE HOLY SPIRIT You who solve all problems, Who light all roads so that I can attain my goal... You Who give me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget all evil against me, and that in all instances of my life you are with me, I want this short prayer to thank You for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from You even and in spite of material illusions. I wish to be with You in Eternal Glory. Thank You for your mercy towards me and mine. The person must say this prayer three consecutive days. After three days, the favor requested will be granted even if it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after the favor is granted, without mentioning the favor. Only your initials should appear at the bottom. M. L.

Pompton Plains Sales Associates Awarded Trip to Coldwell Banker Breakers Retreat

Sandi Browning

Annmarie DeGeorge

Joyce Wild

Barbara Goll

In recognition of their outstanding performance in 2002, Sandi Browning, Annmarie DeGeorge, Joyce Wild & Barbara Goll, Sales Associates with the Coldwell Banker Pompton Plains office, earned the coveted privilege of attending the company-sponsored trip to The Breakers, a historic five-star resort in Palm Beach, Florida this past May.

This prestigious event was awarded to Sales Associates who achieved membership in the Coldwell Banker President's Circle, President's Elite or President's Premier Sales Clubs. During the event, attendees had the opportunity to network with other Sales Associates, learn about company initiatives, relax at a luxurious Mediterranean-style beach club, and enjoy the resort's 36-hole golf course and numerous tennis courts.

A full-time, 17-year veteran, Ms. Browning is well-known and respected throughout the area's real estate community. In 2002, she reached the prestigious Silver Level in the NJAR Circle of Excellence, where she is also a member of the Distinguished Sales Club for her 10 consecutive years of real estate excellence. Ms. Browning is also a member of the Coldwell Banker International President's Circle, an honor placing her among the top 10 percent of the company's sales force internationally. Frequently recognized as a top producer in her office, Ms. DeGeorge is regarded by clients and co-workers alike as a hard working, dedicated Sales Associate who always goes the extra mile to help clients buy or sell their home. She frequently handles expired properties as well as For Sale By Owner listings, often getting sellers a better price for their home than they ever thought possible. Among her sales achievements this past year, Ms. DeGeorge earned Silver Level membership to the 2002 NJAR Circle of Excellence.

A veteran professional with over 25 years experience, Ms. Wild continues to add to her long list of career achievements. Having recently earned Bronze Level status in the 2002 NJAR Circle of Excellence, she is a member of the NJAR Distinguished Sales Club for the sales success she has enjoyed for more than 10 consecutive years. Ms. Wild is also a member of the Coldwell Banker International President's Circle, placing her among the top 10 percent of the company's Sales Associates worldwide. For more information about buying or selling a home in the Pompton Plains area, contact Sandi Browning, Annmarie DeGeorge or Joyce Wild at the Coldwell Banker Pompton Plains office by calling (973) 839-8900. The office is located at 580 Route 23. You can also view our listings on the Internet at www.ColdwellBanker.Moves.com. For a no obligation mortgage pre-approval, please call (888) 536-2719.

Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage in New Jersey/Rockland County, N.Y., is a member of the Coldwell Banker® system, which has more than 3,500 offices and nearly 106,000 Sales Associates worldwide. Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage is part of the NRT family of companies, which owns and operates companies in more than 30 of the nation's largest metropolitan markets. NRT Incorporated, a subsidiary of Candiant Corporation (NYSE: CD), is the nation's largest real estate broker company, with more than 900 offices and 52,000 sales associates. In 2002, NRT posted a real estate industry record of $149 billion in closed sales volume.

RE/MAX Executive Group Announces Office Manager

James Farese, Broker/Owner of RE/MAX Executive Group in Totowa is pleased to announce that Janice Rannou has been named Office Manager. Real Estate Tip #49

Choosing a Realtor based on your friend's recommendation may be a risky proposition.

A friend's Realtor won't necessarily be the "right fit" for you. You're putting a major financial asset — maybe your biggest — in that agent's hands. Interviewing agents gives you the opportunity to find the one you feel comfortable with and who makes you feel confident that you'll get the results you want.

Call your local Weichert Associate, your neighborhood specialist.

For purchase prices up to $403,375 monthly mortgage payments (principal + interest) quoted in our ads are to qualified buyers, based upon a 20% downpayment and a conventional 30-year fixed rate loan at 5.25% with 3 points, APR 5.575%. As an example, a $100,000 loan would mean 360 monthly payments of $602.26. For purchase prices from $403,375 to $640,000 and to qualified buyers based upon a 20% downpayment and calculated at 5.5% with 3 points on a "fixed" 30-year fixed rate mortgage with an APR of 5.785%. An example of a $200,000 loan would mean 360 monthly payments of $702.85. Figures herein are approximate and do not include property taxes, hazard insurance, or homeowners association dues for a condominium. Rates quoted are as of May 1, 2003, and subject to change.
