Three year teacher deal OKed

BY DEBRA WINTERS
Staff Writer

WAYNE - A three-year contract was recently adopted by the Board of Education (BOE) and teachers which calls for an increase of salaries and a shortened amount of time to reach the top of the pay scale, more co-payments for prescription drugs and added teaching time for elementary schools.

"Our objective was to strike a fair agreement with both parties, it was a proverbial win-win for everyone involved," said Mike Falso, a board member who was on the negotiating committee.

The BOE and teachers ratified the contract last month.

Teachers will receive a 4.7 percent payroll increase the first year according to the contract for the 2005-2006 through 2007-2008 school years. This marks a 4.65 percent increase for the second and a 4.6 percent for the third year.

"We felt we gave a very fair raise and in return we received various concessions," Falso said.

The percentage increase for this year will reportedly add $96.28 to the tax bill of the average home in Wayne, assessed at $226,000.

The prior contract expired last June and the BOE and teachers have been working on a new one for the past year.

Reportedly, one of the problem areas concerned the salary guide. Teachers had to work in the district for 31 years in order to get to the top of the pay scale, however according to this contract, the pinnacle salary guide could be reached within 21 years.

Teachers move up a salary step progressively each year and this contract reduces the amount of steps leading to the top of the salary scale, evening out the percentage amount in terms of a raise allowed at each level. On a whole, teachers could receive a different raise depending on what level they were at.

"Instead of having choppy salary raises, we tried to pop the bubbles so we could distribute even raises," Falso stated. "Salary guides take a while to discuss, we've been at this for a while. We also had an arbitrator brought in to help both sides to reconcile and finish up."

Once the contract is set, the union reviews it and then approves it afterwards going to the BOE for a vote and final approval.

The contract also requires teachers to instruct at Wayne's nine elementary schools to teach and additional 10 minutes each day.

"Teachers will begin classes 10 minutes earlier," said Superintendent Dr. Maria Nuccetelli.

This additional teaching time is according to state average for a district of this size.

"We were actually 10 minutes shy of the state average so we had to tack on the extra time," Nuccetelli stated.

Numerous calls to Eileen Banat, president of the Wayne Education Association, were not returned.

Plans for mosque are still on drawing board

BY DEBRA WINTERS
Staff Writer

WAYNE - The Planning Board continued to hear testimony recently for a proposed Albanian mosque and recreation center on Colfax Road.

Deliberations were expected to end soon, however inconsistency on several issues has forced the board to carry the proposal for two more months. The hearing has been ongoing for the past two years.

The main focus is that the land is environmentally sensitive, sparking much controversy. This proposal is not the first time the board has frowned upon any type of structure being built on this parcel of land, which sits at the intersection of Colfax Road and Hamburg Turnpike. Failed plans in the past include a nursing home.

Drainage has been a major problem with this proposal. There was much confusion between both sides as the developer failed to have the proper material for the board to review, which remains an ongoing problem and the crux for this elongated hearing.

"If there are the slightest changes to the plans we have to see them," said Tim Collins, planning board member.

And according to the board, taking into consideration land sensitivity, if one thing is altered it will lead to another problem.

"This application presses so many issues, one impacts another. Usually, you give a little here and it's absorbed somewhere else but not in the case of this proposal," said Eugene Ingrassia, board member.

Douglas Fantozzi, of Colfax Road, voiced his concern on runoff. The existing pipes on this parcel of land are 18-years-old

Community Auction items sought for shelter fundraiser

WAYNE — Friends of Wayne Animals (FOWA), the volunteer non-profit group that works in the Wayne Animal shelter cleaning, feeding, training and socializing animals, is announcing its annual tricky tray.

The cost to run the Wayne Animal Shelter is $150,000 annually of which approximately 17 percent of that money is provided by the township. FOWA raises the rest of the money through many activities such as a Dog Walk-A-Thon, Tree of Love, Spay Day, raffles and garage sales. This tricky tray is a major fundraiser for the shelter.

The support of local businesses and residents is requested at this time. Any new prizes, goods or services donated by businesses, crafters, and individuals will be greatly appreciated, as they will be a direct benefit to the shelter. All prizes are instrumental in raising money to support FOWA's efforts.

FOWA event chair Diane Errichello says, "Any donation of a new item or service will multiply in the funds it brings to the shelter. Nothing is too small or too large. Anyone making a donation is truly making a difference in the lives of these homeless cats and dogs, and we really appreciate each one. All monies raised will go directly to food, medication, vet bills and spay/neuter program."

The business that participates will receive free advertising, have the opportunity to promote their own business at the auction, promote good will with customers/clients, and receive a tax deduction.

The event will be on Sunday April 23 at the Wayne PAL. Doors open at 12 noon and the auction will start at 2 p.m. Tickets are $10 for adults. Coffee and cake will be included and 15 free tickets. Pizza, soda and water will be available.

Anyone wishing to donate a new item, or to purchase tickets, call (973) 694-0767. All items can be brought to the shelter during shelter Mondays, Wednesday, Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays 12 noon to 3 p.m.; and Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 9 p.m.

FOWA volunteers work on special events, adoption, follow-ups and fostering kittens and puppies. FOWA alters 100 percent of the adult animals prior to adoption, and follows up on the adoptions of the animals. In addition, FOWA runs a low cost spay/neuter program and cares for approximately over 1,000 animals per year.

Those 18 or older and would like to volunteer may visit www.fowa.petfinder.org to fill out the online application.

Paul Han moves on in spelling bee competition

Of the 175 area students who were named spelling champions to represent their respective schools in the upcoming North Jersey Spelling Bee sponsored by The Record and Herald News, 29 emerged from last week's semifinals at William Paterson University. These 29 students will compete this week for a chance to move to the next round to represent North Jersey in the annual Scripps National Spelling Bee in Washington, D.C. in June.

Of the 29 students, one local student remains: Paul Han, 8, a student at Schuyler-Colfax Middle School in Wayne.

Public, parochial and home schools based in Passaic, Bergen, Morris, Essex and Sussex counties registered to participate in the Bee in late 2005. The individual bees at pre-registered schools ranged from formal spelling bee competitions in school auditoriums to more informal, in-class bees. Visit www.njspellingbee.org.

Robyn Scheck spearheads dress drive for Katrina teenagers

Donations are being sought

BY ELIZABETH MULRANEY
Correspondent

WAYNE – Regardless of size, age or taste in clothing, the majority of women have at least one dress hanging in their closet that they have no intention of wearing again.

Thanks to the generosity of one Wayne teen, those dresses can worn by needy New Orleans teenagers to parties and proms.

Robyn Scheck, a 15-year-old sophomore at Wayne Valley High School, was scouring the racks for yet another dress to wear to what seemed like her umpteenth Sweet 16th party when a thought struck her: how would girls her age affected by Hurricane Katrina afford a dress if they were going to a similar event?

"I have tons of Sweet 16's to go to this year and there are proms. If these girls have these events, they can't afford them anymore. I'm only 15 though so what can I do?" Schenk said. Her family is familiar with the devastation of the gulf coast region, as her aunt, uncle and two cousins, all New Orleans residents, lost everything in Katrina's wake.

According to data compiled by the United States Department of Labor Bureau of Labor Statistics, as of January, 26 percent of the 1.2 million residents of Louisiana over age 16 that were evacuated from their homes had still been unable to return. Last month, Schenk began calling businesses throughout Wayne to determine whether they would be interested in offering their locations as drop-off sites. Schenk and her mother, Marcia, continue to visit each location weekly to retrieve the donations, which are stored in a room donated by Temple Beth Tikvah, the Wayne synagogue of which they are members.

Though she does not have an exact count of what's been donated, Schenk is impressed with the results.

"It's amazing how generous people are," she said. "Even though some of them aren't exactly my taste, I can't believe how people have responded."

Schenk is asking for donations of new or gently used formal or cocktail dresses in any size as well as dresses, shoes, costume jewelry and handbags in similar condition. She has identified a New Orleans high school (the name and exact location of which was unavailable at press time) to receive the donations.

Collections are being accepted through the first week of April. Until then, Schenk is working to obtain private and corporate donations for monies to cover the cost of shipping the items to New Orleans.

Drop-off locations are Curves, Hamburg Turnpike, Wayne; Jenny

Willowbrook works to help premature babies

WAYNE – Premature birth is a serious and growing problem. It's the leading cause of newborn death and may result in lifelong disabilities. It affects nearly 12 percent of births each year, and that number is increasing.

Since 1970, March of Dimes WalkAmerica has helped raise more than $1 billion to help babies born with birth defects. Each year, more than 500,000 people including 24,000 teams in 1,400 communities nationwide participate in March of Dimes WalkAmerica.

This year, Willowbrook along with the support from its merchants will help raise money to benefit March of Dimes. On Saturday, April 1, Willowbrook will welcome spring and the Easter Bunny by hosting a Mini WalkAmerica at 9 a.m. that begins inside the mall entrance between Macy's and The Cheesecake Factory.

Prior to April 1, children are asked to solicit pledges from friends and family which will be used as their admission ticket to attend this event. The minimum pledge is $5. All proceeds will directly benefit the March of Dimes. By children receiving pledges they are given the opportunity to get involved and become informed about premature birth. Children can feel good about how they played a part in helping to raise funds that could potentially benefit their little brother or sister who is still in their mommy's womb to thrive in a healthy environment once he/she is born.

Parents should call (973) 785-1655 by Friday, March 17, if they plan to have their child participate. A pledge form will then be sent to the family's household.

Parents will submit their children's pledge at the check in table located at the Willowbrook Mall's entrance and receive a goody bag for each child.

The children and their parents then walk around and stop at different participating merchant storefronts to collect additional promotional items to add to their goody bag.

Willowbrook also will donate fountain coins collected from both reflecting pool coins for the month of March and April to benefit the March of Dimes.

leading many to ponder their durability as additional water is forced through.

"I already get water in my basement, so what's going to happen if more water adds to the problem?" questioned Fantozzi.

Arthur Hanson, site engineer testifying for the developer, replied, "Existing water, that's your problem. But as I said before, the county will ask us if the pipes are OK and we'll have to check them."

The significance of blasting and rock crushing have been examined numerous times, which revealed potential disruption to residents. Vibration damage impairing the three nearby schools was also discussed. Resident Dawn Polan said, "I'm concerned about the blasting effect in regards to the Learning Center preschool."

The number of members attending the center was also conferred. Board chairman Subonnie Kochman questioned confusion between the developer's attorney, Michael Rubin and the traffic engineer.

There was also discrepancy whether the mosque and the center would be used simultaneously.

"Multiple uses would be critical," said Township Planner John Szabo. "There is no ability to accept overflow, where are we going to put these cars."

During a break, members of the mosque gathered outside dismissing issues of the land being environmentally sensitive and alleging that the board was making communist choices. The group currently has a center located on River Street in Paterson.

"Most of our members are from Wayne so we're looking for a better location for our children. Wayne is centrally located so all our members can gather here."

Voter deadline

Citizens who are not registered to vote in their communities have until Tuesday, March 28 to register if they want to take part in the 2006 Annual School Election.

On April 18, voters will decide their school district's proposed 2004-05 school budgets and select the people to represent them on their local boards of education.

"Local school boards face serious issues involving funding, educational requirements, construction and staffing," said Patti J. Pawling, NJSBA president. "It is crucial that New Jersey voters take part by making the decisions that will shape their public schools."

To register, a person must be at least 18 years old by the election date; a United States citizen; and a resident of the state and county for in which he or she seeks to vote for 30 days before the election. In order to be eligible, citizens must register at the office of their municipal clerk or county board of elections by March 28.

Voters who are unable to go to the polls on April 18 may apply for an absentee ballot, which is available at the county clerk's office.

a little bit about the world of opera and have questions answered.

The Garden State Opera (GSO) was founded in 1999 with the purpose of offering quality opera productions at low ticket prices in New Jersey. GSO offers fully staged opera productions with orchestra and projected titles and has performed in Passaic, Essex and Bergen counties with singers and musicians from the NYC metro area.

This program is free and open to the public. The building meets all ADA regulations. Doors open at 12 noon for coffee, tea, and cookies.

The Lunchbox Learning Series is sponsored by the Friends of the Wayne Public Library. This concert is funded, in part, by the Passaic County Cultural and Heritage Council at the Passaic County Community College, through a grant from the New Jersey State Council on the arts/department of the state, a partner agency with the National Endowment for the Arts. Additional funding for this program has been generously provided by the Atlantic Stewardship Bank of Wayne.

Casino night

WAYNE - The A.P. Terhune School will present "Casino Night" at The Tides in North Haledon on Friday, March 24. Tickets are $55 and includes buffet dinner, one sheet/raffle tickets and $100 in "play money."

Phone collection

WAYNE - John F. Kennedy Elementary School's Parent Teacher Organization Earth Day committee is collecting used cell phones as part of an Earth Day related activity.

The committee is hoping to raise awareness at the school and its surrounding community about the proper way to recycle used cell phones. All types of used cell phones and accessories will be accepted. All sensitive information should be deleted from the phone.

Drop off locations are the Chi-

Recall Web site is a valuable resource

In 1982, Johnson & Johnson recalled 31 million bottles of Tylenol, at a cost of $125 million, after seven people died from cyanide-laced pills. The cyanide was injected into the package by an unknown person.

This recall was probably the most famous. But every week, dozens of products are recalled by federal agencies and unless you're looking for it, you probably won't hear about these notices.

When your car has a recalled part, your dealer will notify you.

But information on such recalls on things such as cosmetics, children's toys and household items are not as widely spread.

And not knowing about a recall could cause injury or even death. Six departments of the federal government recently banded together to launch a Web site, www.re-call.gov, that is user friendly and extensive.

Consumers can check out recall notices in seven sectors: consumer products (appliances, clothing, children's products, etc.), motor vehicles, boats, food, medicine, cosmetics and environmental products.

Doing a search, for example, on child car seats and carriers, brings up 30 recall notices.

A search for children's stuffed animals brings up about 100 items. For example, one recent notice posted in July details Pokemon plush toys. While no injuries were reported, the stuffing of the toy may contain tips of sewing needles which could pose a puncture hazard.

The Web site also offers a subscription service where you can receive notices in categories you are interested in.

The beauty of this new Web site is that everything is in one place. It will help people to do research before making a purchase and can help them check out the safety of items they already own.

The Rice route: an exercise in conditioning

Jack LaLanne was the first fitness guru who touched my life. I tried desperately to exercise while watching him on a tiny black-and-white television set when our son was an infant. I did the jumping jacks, knee bends and torso twists. When I told my sister I was trying to follow the regimen but had problems with a couple of exercises because of my post-polio limitations, I got no sympathy from her. I said I did something else when I couldn't do a move; she said I probably made toast. It was evident that LaLanne's program was not slimming me down. LaLanne is now 92 and in far better condition than I am.

When our son was a bit older, I discovered Richard Simmons, who is now 58 years old. Such high energy should have motivated me, but I was more fascinated by his workout wear and his voice (higher pitched than his energy level), so, of course, I didn't lose weight.

Now, Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice appears on television showing viewers her daily fitness routine. It begins at 4:30 a.m.

when she rises. Rice, in Spandex, follows the direction of her ex-Marine trainer, doing twists and turns that would put me in traction.

I don't think that Madeleine Albright, the only other female secretary of state who preceded her, subjected herself to gym gyrations before she started her day by meeting with high level dignitaries.

Nancy Rubenstein

Furthermore, I agree with Samantha Sperling, a New York-based image consultant, who said that if Ms. Rice were a man, we'd not be seeing him in such daunting activity.

Actually, we have seen presidents jogging, golfing and fishing, but not wearing Spandex in a gym. The daily dose of George W. Bush on his bike is common but we've never seen Vice President Dick Cheney lift anything heavier than a shotgun.

Condi Rice has to be commended not only for her daily fitness routine but also for her entire image. We've seen her in stiletto-heeled boots, perfectly accessorized and fashionable suits and dresses accented by a more currently coiffed and flattering hairstyle. She isn't just in shape but she's also very much in style.

And, not incidentally, she's one of the brightest women in the United States.

When it comes to fashion, hair and intellect, both Jack and Richard need a lot of work ... well beyond their physiques.

High school hoops star triumphs over autism

Jason McElwain is a 17-year-old high school sports hero, popular among his classmates, and well liked in the community. Jason McElwain is also autistic.

If you saw video of Jason's recent heroics on the basketball court it undoubtedly left you in tears. Jason is the manager of the Greece Athena High School basketball team in upstate New York. During games, Jason sits on the bench in a shirt and tie, cheering his team on. During practices, he keeps stats, hands out water bottles, and cleans up other people's sweaty towels.

But on the last game of the season, the coach told Jason to suit up; he was going to sit in uniform alongside his teammates. And in the last four minutes of that game the coach did something else unexpected — he put Jason in the game.

Jason's first shot went way wide. His second shot missed, too. But his third, a long three-pointer, was nothing but net. The crowd roared. Jason was just getting started. He sunk five more three-point shots, finishing with a total of 20 points in the last four minutes of the game. His final shot, a three-pointer that sails in at the buzzer, causes pandemonium to break out in the gym. The crowd swarms the court along with the rest of the team, and they sweep Jason up and carry him off on their shoulders, a hero shining in his championship moment.

Jason's story is great for a variety of reasons. As one radio host put it, "it's the basis for every feel-good flicks are made of.

Rob Errera

Speaking as the parent of an autistic child, I can tell you Jason's story touched me on several deeper levels. When your child is born, you're filled with all kinds of hopes and dreams for them, including silly ones like someday they'll be a sports star. But when your child is diagnosed great underdog movie ever." It's true, Jason's story seems like the plot of Rocky, Hoosiers, The Karate Kid and countless others rolled into one. Awe-inspiring and heart wrenching, it is the stuff Hollywood tearjerker with autism, in most cases before age three, you lose a lot of those dreams. You stop dreaming about your kid being an NFL quarterback and start hoping he or she will just be able to take care of themselves, hold a job, master basic life skills. Jason showed that sometimes dreams, even long-forgotten ones, still come true.

But Jason's story is inspiring not just because he is a handicapped kid who came off the bench and had a superstar game. It's inspiring because he overcame autism's greatest obstacle — the ability to adapt socially. People with autism often have a hard time with interpersonal relationships. Nuances in language, subtle non-verbal cues, and sarcasm are frequently misinterpreted or missed entirely by autistic people, leaving them outside any "typically" interacting group.

Yet even before his superstar game, Jason had found friends in his teammates. And he had fans. People in the stands during that final game were waving "J-MAC" banners and sticks with cardboard cut-outs of Jason's face on them. He had won the crowd over, even before he took his first shot. That's Jason's real triumph.

Several Hollywood studios — Disney and Sony Pictures among them — are currently vying for the movie rights to Jason's story. I hope they get it right and tell a story about how people with autism are full of surprises, full of potential. Give them a chance and they just might do something amazing.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Scout sends thanks for project support

DEAR EDITOR:

I would like to thank everyone who lent their support to my recent Eagle Scout project. In particular, the store managers of the Stop & Shop, Valley Road A&P, and Eckerd's for giving permission for Boy Scouts to solicit outside their stores on Feb. 11, and to all those generous residents who made donations of goods and cash at the stores on this day. I'd also like to thank the PAL, main library, and the Packanack Lake Clubhouse for allowing me to use them as drop off points, and those who gave so generously at these locations.

Due to the overwhelming response, I was able to ship 644 pounds of cereal bars, books, toiletries and assorted treats to the soldiers of the 101st Airborne Division currently serving in Iraq.

Sheriff's ID theft talk was appreciated

DEAR EDITOR:

Sheriff Jerry Speziale recently spoke to Little Falls seniors at the township civic center. We listened to him talk about identity theft. This is not the first time I've heard him speak, but it is the first time I have thought as much about him as about what he had to say. His enthusiasm for what he has to say traps the listener into wanting to understand every bit of his message. A strong emotional link seems to connect him to his audience because he is so into what he has to say — the rub-off on the listener becomes unavoidable.

There is no hero worship here, but a strong respect for an individual who does his job with a conscience to do the most and the best that he can. Because of their vulnerability, he is clearly irritated when seniors are caught in the middle. It is that message which came through as much as the words he spoke.

His demonstration of identity theft showed how each of us can become well known by people we have never met. He dragged us from complacency to reality in one easy lesson. Because he knows his stuff, we quickly learned how someone can know us better than we know ourselves. At the same time he seemed to soften some of our reactions with assurances that there are a lot of defensive measures in the works to catch the culprits before they get their hands into our limited cookie jars.

Lakeview Patients Speak Out

For years Lakeview Subacute Care Center, at 130 Terhune Drive in Wayne, has brought attention to their healthcare facility by focusing everyone on their high score with the State of New Jersey Department of Health Report Card. Recognizing that although high grades from State and Federal regulators are important, the most important people to satisfy are the patients and families that a health care facility serves. The following represent a sampling of what Lakeview's former patients have to say about their experience as a Lakeview patient:

"I want to tell you what a wonderful stay I had at "Hotel Lakeview". Rolling down the hall on arrival, I was warmly greeted by chirping parakeets and the smiling Admissions Director. She got me a nice cup of gourmet coffee which I really appreciated... It really hit the spot. After I got settled into my room, the Nursing Director came and introduced herself. All the nurses' aides soon busied themselves making sure I had everything I needed and that I was comfortable. The nursing staff and aides were just wonderful and couldn't do enough for me.

Being an avid internet surfer, even at 77 years of age, I was really missing my computer, and my family told me that all my cyber friends were concerned about me since they hadn't seen me online. I asked the admissions director if Lakeview had wireless internet service. I was told that nobody had ever asked that, but that she would check about the possibility of getting me access to the internet. I couldn't believe it when the Owner/Director said that he would get wireless service hooked up for me, and in the meantime gave me access to a computer where I could sign on and talk to my friends all around the world. And then he went above and beyond the imaginable, spending half his weekend personally hooking up a wireless router so that I could use my laptop right from my bed. I can never thank him enough for that.

My weeks at Lakeview were filled with a busy schedule of physical therapy by a very professional and watchful staff. They were so friendly and knew just the kind of exercise I needed and how far to push me to get back on my feet. Everyday I was able to do more and more. The therapy gym is such a pleasant and cheerful place and the equipment is great. I looked forward to my sessions there and also looked forward to my naps in between sessions.

Let me not forget to mention how wonderful the food was. Everything was so fresh and delicious and I even was able to get the cooks to give me a few of their recipes. There certainly wasn't any time to be bored with all the recreation activities you offer. I even taught a few people how to crochet while I was there. Considering the warm, homey atmosphere, the excellent food, personal care and attention, my clean and bright room with personal bedside premium cable TV with HBO, activities galore and excellent nursing and physical therapy care, my family was actually getting worried that I wouldn't want to come home.

I would also like to thank Mr. Grosso Sr. for stopping in to visit with me daily. I really enjoyed our talks. And I'd like to thank all the lovely nurses' aides who were always there to help me with whatever I needed help doing. There were a lot of people who were a lot worse off than me, and I watched how the nurses and nurses' aides so patiently, carefully and lovingly took care of them. I was really impressed. Although Lakeview is not the closest facility to my home, it will always be my first choice should I ever need it in the future. Keep up the good work and thanks again ever so much."

*Sincerely,
Florence Dillon*

"All of you who cater to my room have provided for my well-being. I appreciate the cleaning. I appreciate the help with my personal hygiene, especially the bed pan!!! I appreciate the excellent meals. I appreciate the nursing care. I think that everyone involved in the operation of the Center has visited. This personal touch is not found often. You know, I even appreciate the exercise!! I am sure all of this will add up to a rapid successful recovery for me."

Thanks Rich Lees

"I have always been pleased with the excellent care I received from the Physical Therapy Department. If asked about the Department I would praise the care given by the professional staff. I have been through three major surgeries with the help of Jeff and Larry in Physical Therapy. I am now able to walk with a walker. The staff cares about the patients and recognizes the pain people are experiencing. They all do their best to help the patients.

When I went home I continued therapy at Lakeview on an Outpatient basis. Paula has always been helpful scheduling my appointments, arranging for free transportation and following up with me if therapy had to be postponed or delayed. I have always been treated with courtesy and professionalism. I appreciate all the help I received from the staff."

Anne Buscema

"So lucky to have you. Thank you so much for all you did for our Mom. Your great care and concern really meant so much! Thanks to everyone!"

Y announces new director

WAYNE - The YM-YWHA of North Jersey, 1 Pike Dr., Wayne, welcomes its new parenting center director, Arlene Liebman.

The bright colored walls of the YM-YWHA of North Jersey's new parenting center mark the beginning of what will become an exciting expansion of programming and services for newborns, infants, toddlers, and their parents, as well as for our soon-to-be parents. Liebman says that she looks forward to having young families see the center as their "home away from home."

Along with sitting areas for parents, a private nursing area, and play center for young ones, there will be a babysitting room, two rooms for infant/toddler programs, and a reading center. The Parenting Center is in the midst of planning new programs, such as a sign language class for infants, toddlers, and their parents; an infant/pediatric CPR course for parents; a storytime class for 2-year-olds and their parent; a support group for new moms; workshops on positive parenting skills; fulfilled birthday parties for toddlers, a Sunday Daddy and Me class; and much more.

The Parenting Center is a place for new parents and their children to build an enriched life together. It is the place where young families can make new friends and develop support networks that last a lifetime.

As a licensed social worker since 1980, Liebman has worked for Jewish Family Service of Bergen County for 15 years as a clinical therapist. She was an administrator at a local day camp for the past 14 years, overseeing its younger children's program, and have facilitated a Mommy and Me program for the last seven years. # Two ploy utilizing perpetrators pull off bedroom ransack

BY TINA PAPPAS
Correspondent

LITTLE FALLS – In what police are calling a diversion-orchestrated crime, two criminals recently robbed an elderly woman in her apartment.

The victim – whose name is being withheld by police – lives in the apartment complex at the corner of Main Street and Union Avenue. Police believe the criminals targeted her due to her age, according to Detective Fred Batelli of the Little Falls Police.

According to Batelli, the first actor rang the victim's doorbell. When the senior answered the door, the first criminal claimed a neighbor needed immediate medical attention, and took her to the kitchen under that guise.

While the victim was distracted, an accomplice went into the bedroom and took jewelry and social security cards. Although the second perpetrator was not seen, police say the ransacked bedroom points to the second criminal's involvement, Batelli said.

"It's strange that they left cash behind in this robbery," said Batelli. "But they left with lots of items that had a real sentimental value. The whole incident took place very quickly, probably within a minute."

The detective said the door appearing subject is described as a late 20's to early 30's Hispanic woman. No further description is available.

Reportedly, Mayor Eugene Kulick and local police want all residents to be aware of a string of forced entries that have occurred in town lately. Some of the homes have had front and back doors kicked in, and several home alarm systems have been tampered with.

"We also need to raise awareness that even elderly residents living in apartments are not immune to being targeted," added Batelli. "We don't want to cause alarm because it hasn't been a rash, but we do need to bring awareness to this community."

Investigators are asking anyone with information – or seeing any suspicious activity – to call township police at (973) 256-0200. All leads will be kept strictly confidential.

Police find missing man

BY TOM BOUD
Staff Writer

WAYNE – A local senior was hospitalized after he disappeared for six hours in the Point View section of town, triggering an intensive search.

On March 3 at about 6 p.m., police responded to the Brittany Chase complex on Brittany Drive on a missing person case. A woman called authorities after noticing that her physically disabled husband, age 66, had disappeared, according to Wayne Police Detective Capt. Paul Ireland.

Concerned for the individual's well being, at least 10 police officers fanned out through the surrounding area in a dragnet, he said.

According to Ireland, the hunt intensified around 9 p.m. as deputies from the Passaic County Sheriff's Department (PCSD) joined the effort. A state police helicopter was also requested, which canvassed the Barbour Pond area and nearby stores with negative results, Ireland said.

At about midnight, a pair of socks was found by the Brittany Chase's rear fence. The wife identified the garments as her husband's. Ranger Bob Morgenfruh – after checking on the barrier's other side – found the missing man at

Carbone and Jones join the Wayne police force

BY TOM BOUD
Staff Writer

WAYNE – Two new faces have joined the township police department.

On March 10 at 1:30 p.m., Christopher Carbone, 27 of North Haledon and Anne Jones, 29, of Denville took the oath of office as Wayne police officers. The ceremony took place before a crowd of about 40 in the mayor's conference room. Witnessing the occasion were Wayne police brass, and family and friends of the newcomers.

Mayor Scott Rumana performed the honor of swearing in Carbone and Jones. When each finished the formality, Rumana said "Congratulations" amid a burst of applause.

The mayor said both persons make sterling law enforcement material for, what he billed "the greatest police department in the state of New Jersey."

"I can tell from the backgrounds of each of you that you are going to be exemplary in what we stand for."

Acting Chief Don Stouthamer said both Carbone and Jones both proved their excellence on the police test. He cited Carbone's outstanding results before the attentive guests.

"Chris came out fourth overall out of 307 candidates who took the examination."

Stouthamer also acknowledged Carbone's military background, including two tours with the U.S. Army infantry in Iraq. He noted Carbone was wounded in action last year.

"Chris was basically blown out of a humvee, and I know he lost some friends over there."

In a separate interview, Carbone said in late October, he incurred face-destroying injuries when an improvised explosive device detonated under his humvee in Ramadi. Following that, the ex-first lieutenant said, he underwent reconstructive facial surgery.

Carbone said he has had a long-standing desire to become a police officer.

"It's kind of a continuation from the military. It's something I always wanted to do."

In addition, Stouthamer said Jones fared pre-eminently on the police test.

"Anne came out fifth out of 307 candidates."

The chief also said Jones racked up a 94.07 on our physical dexterity exam, ranking ninth among the mostly male 307 competitors.

"That's outstanding. I don't want to arm wrestle you," he joked.

Stouthamer said the athletically inclined Jones will do well on her new team: the Wayne police. That observation prompted a "Definitely Sir!" response from her.

Jones said she has had an abiding interest in law enforcement. Her grandfather, she said, was a NYPD officer at upper Manhattan's 28th precinct.

"Every police officer I ever came across has taken pride in having a positive impact on the community."

Jones also said she feels distinguished to become a township uniform.

"My favorite saying is Wayne is my number one choice. Every police officer I spoke with has a tremendous amount of respect for this department."

After the ceremony, the attendees adjourned to police headquarters for refreshments at Stouthamer's invitation.

"We bought a cake, and we don't want to be the only one's eating it" the bottom of the ravine. The man was bloodied and had a slight breathing problem, Ireland said.

According to the spokesperson, the senior was taken to St. Joseph's Paterson Hospital in Paterson, where he was treated for injuries. He said Wayne Police are not at liberty to release the person's name, due to sensitivity concerns.

Ireland said police tracked down the missing man before hypothermia could totally overcome him.

Commanding township uniforms at the scene were Wayne Police Lt. Larry Martin and Sgt. Peter Ferschman. Heading county police was PCSD Capt. Garcia.

Kate Jones Smith returns from two year Peace Corps stint

BY DEBRA WINTERS
Staff Writer

WAYNE - Like many college grads, taking time off to find oneself before delving into the job market isn't all that unusual in fact it proved to be journey of self-awareness for one local resident.

Kate Jones Smith, 24, was a junior at Rutgers University in New Brunswick when she began feeling burned out on her studies. Having chosen pharmacy engineering as a major, Smith became unsure about her future and was searching for something more fulfilling.

Taking stock of her life, Smith knew two things were apparent, she enjoyed volunteering having been part of a fraternity that did a lot of community service, and she wanted to travel and see other cultures. So what better way to achieve both entities but to join the Peace Corps.

"As I looked into it further, I thought it sounded perfect. I figured I could always do this if a good job offer didn't come around," said Smith.

She began the entry process shortly before her senior year in college. In the end, it took Smith less than a year to prepare. The Peace Corps give you the option of choosing a desired location ranging from the Caribbean to the Pacific Islands. Smith didn't have a preference - she just knew she wanted to do it.

Leaving behind all the comforts of home, Smith would call Tanzania, located in Eastern Africa, her home for two years, the average tour of duty for the Peace Corps.

"I was so excited when I found out I was going to Africa. I had to look on the map for Tanzania. I didn't even know where it was exactly," she said.

Smith's obligation in Tanzania was teaching.

"The Peace Corps look at your background to see what you're geared towards when they place you. For me, I had a background in math and physics, but I never taught before."

Her mission began with a three-day training session in Washington, D.C. Smith flew out in September 2003 en route to Arusha, Africa, near Mount Kilimanjaro, for three months of further training. This time is not tagged onto a volunteer's two-year tour of duty. There, Smith learned Swahili, one of the main languages spoken in Tanzania, along with English.

"Basically, they teach you enough so you can buy groceries and manage from day to day," she stated.

Smith was located in an isolated village called Ihanja. Her house was a small structure made of burnt clay for the rainy season. The roof was made out of corrugated iron and the floor was cement, which is preferred by the corps over dirt floors as critters have been known to burrow in people's feet. There was a bathroom inside however Smith says from experience that its best to have an outdoor bathroom when the sewerage system backs-up. She had a water pump next to her house, however, some volunteers are forced to walk a mile to get water or pay a local to get it for them.

"I had a real bed to sleep on, which was good," Smith said.

As the only volunteer living in

PEACE

Ihanja with the nearest corps neighbor living 18 miles away, Smith said that in order to become part of the Peace Corps, you must really like yourself because you spend a lot of time alone.

Smith could buy groceries, do banking and use the Internet in Singida, a region of Tanzania about nine miles away. The Peace Corps give each volunteer a bicycle but Smith found it cumbersome with groceries. A bus costing $1.50 ran each day except Sunday for the first year and a half. Sometimes she would take Fridays off from teaching to visit other volunteers and do marketing.

The Peace Corps provide volunteers with a living allowance that enables them to live in a manner similar to that of the locals and it is deposited directly into the bank. Medical and dental care is also covered.

Food consisted mainly of rice and beans, tea, and sugar. They had potatoes but Smith said they were made mostly of flour and had no taste. She also had a "house mama," who helped her with some of the daily chores.

Smith taught in a private boarding school, located about five minutes away. She worked from 7 a.m.

to 3 p.m. teaching high school kids from age 13 to 24 with about 50 to 60 kids in a class.

Students rise at 5:30 a.m. to run, take part in a parade, clean classrooms, gather water and wood, then attend class, afterwards they study from 7 to 10 p.m. They also spend two-hours a day learning English in primary school.

"It was fun interacting with the kids especially the ones who were close to my age. And they all wanted to know about the American pop culture especially Jennifer Lopez and 50 Cent. That's all they talked about," Smith said.

As far as dating in concerned, interaction between the sexes in school was not allowed, however Smith says she sort of knew who liked who. Students, boys and girls, had to shave their heads per school rules for sanitary reasons.

The issue of human contact was observed outside of school as well as the locals look strangely at volunteers who are seen hugging each other.

Smith was sad to leave the people she had met in Tanzania.

"They were the nicest people I have ever met. They have such respect for each other.

You can't pass one person without them saying, caribou, or welcome in Swahili," she said.

As far as her experience goes, Smith said it was educational.

"Teaching in front of a room gave me confidence and I discovered what my limitations are and I learned what I was capable of. It would be a great experience for anyone looking to give. Now since I've been back, I feel the need to do even more for people," she said.

Take all your IRAs
under one roof.

The IRS has a paper reduction plan, and you should too. If you have several IRAs and 401ks, it's probably next to impossible to keep track of them all. So why not consolidate all of your retirement accounts into one Rollover Account at BSSB? You'll enjoy the same great tax breaks that help you hold onto more of your money. Less paper, more control. That's the kind of thinking you've grown to expect from Boiling Springs Savings Bank. So come home to better banking. We guarantee you'll be treated like one of the family.

TOTOWA - Christ Episcopal Church will hold its annual corned beef and cabbage supper in honor of St. Patrick on Saturday, March 18 in the parish hall located at 329 Totowa Rd., Totowa. Serving will be from 5 to 7 p.m. by reservation. Tickets are $10 for adults and $3.50 for children ages 12 and under. For more information to reservations, call (973) 595-0349.

Spring luncheon

LINCOLN PARK - The Disability Ministry of Jacksonville Chapel will host a luncheon on March 19, 1:30 to 4 p.m., in the chapel all purpose building. The public is invited to attend this event which is open to anyone with a disability, their family and caregivers. A lunch will be served free of charge. Pastor Ron Rombough will be the featured speaker. Join in for a sing-along with Walfredo and special music by Ted Van Natta. To RSVP, call Ted or Sim at (973) 697-3673 by March 10. Jacksonville Chapel is located at 264 Jacksonville Road, Lincoln Park.

Tod Ensign

WAYNE - Tod Ensign, attorney and director of Citizen Soldier, talks about the problems plaguing today's GIs during the March 19 service at the Lakeland Unitarian Universalist Fellowship, 231 Parish Drive, Wayne.

Ensign has written the books "American's Military Today" (New Press, 2004) and "Military Life: The Insider's Guide" (Prentice Hall, 2000), and co-authored "GI Guinea Pigs," which exposed the harm caused to GIs by Agent Orange and atomic bomb testing.

Citizen Soldier is a non-profit organization established in 1969 to advocate on behalf of GIs and veterans who oppose command-tolerated racism, sexism, homophobia and militarism.

Currently, the New York City-based group has 6,400 members nationwide who provide nearly all of its funding. As an attorney, Ensign has taken part in a range of legal cases involving GIs over the past 35 years. During the current U.S. war in Iraq, he has counseled GIs and reservists seeking alternatives to serving in what many regard as an illegal war.

Services take place Sunday at 11 a.m., followed by coffee and refreshments. All are welcome. Childcare is available. For more information, call (973) 696-6362.

Wine tasting

A Passover wine tasting is planned at the YM-YWHA of North Jersey, One Pike Drive, on Sunday, March 26, 5:30 to 7 p.m. Kosher wines have come a long way since your grandfather's Manischewitz. Make this year's Seder one to remember by trying a different and new wine for each of the four cups. Sample and order a variety of Kosher Israeli wines provided by Valley Wine and Spirits for Passover or for any occasion.

This free event is co-sponsored by Shomrei Torah of Wayne, Temple Beth Tikvah of Wayne, UJA Federation of Northern New Jersey and YM-YWHA of North Jersey.

Make an evening out of it and stay for the award winning Israeli film "Walk on Water" at 7 p.m. in the theater, sponsored by UJANNJ. Admission to movie is $8. For more information, call 973-595-0100, ext. 236.

Women's conference

LINCOLN PARK - A women's retreat entitled "Extraordinary Faith" will take place on Friday, March 31 and Saturday, April 1 at the First Reformed Church, 60 Chapel Hill Road in Lincoln Park. Friday evening begins at 7 p.m. with special music by Angela DePrima, a gifted worship leader and musician. Then, via videotape, the following "Women of Faith" speakers will share their message: Patsy Clarimont, Thelma Wells, Marilyn Meberg, Luci Swindoll, and Sheila Walsh.

Saturday morning begins at 9 a.m. with coffee, followed by music and more encouragement from the Women of Faith speakers. Lunch will be served at the church from noon to 1 p.m. There is no charge for this event, but a free-will offering will be received. Pre-registration is required in order to plan for Saturday's lunch. Call Barbara at (973) 839-6384.

Matzah bakery

POMPTON LAKES - "Matzah," an unleavened bread, is the "official" food of Passover. According to tradition, when the Jews were leaving Egypt, there was no time for the bread to rise, and the resulting food was Matzah.

Before Passover, Congregation Beth Shalom will create a Matzah bakery open to all children of the community. The entire process, from the milling of the grain to the baking will be done on premises. Each participant will receive a baker's hat, apron and dough to make their own Matzah. The program begins with a short video filmed in a commercial Matzah bakery. Rabbi David Senter will then discuss the process of making of Matzah and then the fun begins. The apron, baker's hat and a fresh hot Matzah are trophies of the day.

The Matzah bakery will be open on March 25, by reservation. Cost for supplies is $5. Call Bea Katz at (973) 835-9785 for more information and reservations.

Cantor honored

WAYNE – Cantor Charles Romalis of Temple Beth Tikvah, 950 Preakness Ave., Wayne, will be honored on the occasion of his 40th anniversary with the temple.

On Friday night, April 7, there will be a special Shabbat service at 8 p.m., followed by a festive Oneg Shabbat. On Sunday, April 9, a tribute will be made to Cantor Romalis with a dinner and cocktails from 4 to 8 p.m. The cost is $30 per person. Those who cannot attend may make a contribution in the Cantor's honor to the Cantor Morris Romalis Music Fund.

Anyone who has memories or thoughts to convey can contact Wendy Bowes at (973) 709-1940 for inclusion in a special scrapbook for him. For more information, call (973) 595-6565.

'Columbia Unbecoming'

WAYNE – "Columbia Unbecoming" is the film that created a major uproar over the intimidation felt by students at Columbia University from professors who were blatantly anti-Israel. Noah Liben, one of the students featured in the film who now works for The David Project, brings this highly controversial film to Shomrei Torah - The Wayne Conservative Congregation on Tuesday, March 21 at 8 p.m. (7:30 minyan). Admission is $1 for members, $3 for non-members. Teens are free. Refreshments will be served.

The documentary features interviews with Jewish students and the former Hillel Rabbi at Columbia University about professors in the school's Middle Eastern and Asian Languages and Culture (MEALAC) department who have created an atmosphere-hostile to academic freedom in and outside the classroom.

Shomrei Torah is an egalitarian conservative congregation located at 30 Hinchman Ave., Wayne. For more information, call Donna at (973) 696-2500 or e-mail DonnaWCC@optonline.net.

Karate students participate in kick-a-thon

LINCOLN PARK - Students of Makoto Martial Arts, the karate school of Lincoln Park, helped save lives by participating in a Kick-a-Thon to benefit St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. The event, which was held on February 10, 2006, will help St. Jude in its ongoing fight against childhood catastrophic diseases.

Participants in the Kick-a-Thon collected sponsor money from family and friends for each kick during the event. Sixteen students of Makoto Martial Arts participated in this, the second annual Kick-a-Thon. They completed a total of 8,630 kicks and have raised $2,175 for St. Jude.

"Our goal in holding this event was to help the children of the world who are stricken with diseases like cancer, AIDS and sickle cell disease," said Cathie Davidson, coordinator of the event. "St. Jude Children's Research Hospital is a world leader in the fight against these diseases, and they have made great progress because of the help of people like the citizens of Lincoln Park and the surrounding communities."

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital is internationally recognized for its pioneering work in finding cures and saving children with cancer and other catastrophic diseases. Founded by the late entertainer Danny Thomas and based in Memphis, Tenn. For more information, visit www.stjude.org.

Beware of pinkeye in children with colds

As if the common cold weren't annoying enough, this time of year the virus causing it works overtime, threatening to infect unsuspecting children and adults with pinkeye.

Pinkeye, or conjunctivitis, is an inflammation or infection of the conjunctiva, the thin, transparent layer that lines the inner eyelid and covers the white part of the eye.

"A contagious virus or bacteria can cause infectious conjunctivitis," said Leonard J. Press, O.D., FCOVD, FAAO, president of the 700-member New Jersey Society of Optometric Physicians (NJSOP). "This is the pinkeye we often see during cold and flu season and it's the kind that can sweep through an elementary school, sports team or an entire family."

Other types include allergic conjunctivitis, brought on by the body's sensitivity to pollen, cosmetics, pets and fabric, and chemical conjunctivitis, caused by irritants such as air pollution, noxious fumes and chemicals like chlorine in swimming pools, Press said.

Other common conjunctivitis symptoms include: crusty or inflamed eyelids; blurred vision; itchiness; pus-like or watery discharge; and extreme light sensitivity.

Treatment for pinkeye depends on the cause, which pediatricians and family physicians can't always determine. Eye care specialists have special microscopes called slit lamps that help narrow down the cause.

Press noted bacteria-based conjunctivitis often requires a prescription for antibiotic drops or ointment. Allergic conjunctivitis is treated with antihistamine drops, sometimes in conjunction with oral allergy medicine. - Viruses are more difficult to treat because they have to run their course, just like the common cold.

Eye care professionals, however, can prescribe drops to help alleviate discomfort.

"Without proper treatment, conjunctivitis can develop into more serious conditions that can harm a person's vision," Press said. "That's why it's so important to visit a licensed eye care professional promptly for diagnosis and treatment."

Because conjunctivitis is spread easily through touch, Press encourages frequent hand washing and keeping hands away from the eyes.

He also cautions against sharing towels, washcloths, cosmetics and eye drops.

Ryerson School in Wayne celebrated Black History Month

BY CYNTHIA BURNS
Correspondent

WAYNE – In 1926, Dr. Carter G. Woodson designated the third week of February as Negro History Week. Woodson chose February to honor the birthdays of two important figures in the history of black America – Frederick Douglass and Abraham Lincoln. In 1976, his efforts were further rewarded when February was designated as Black History Month.

At Ryerson School, lessons and activities planned for Black History Month were integrated across the curriculum, were age appropriate, tied in with technology, and involved the efforts of staff and specialists. The students learned what black history means, what discrimination is, and the accomplishments of African-Americans.

Children in the younger grades learned about Rosa Parks and Ruby Bridges, who in 1960, was the first black student to attend William Frantz Public School in New Orleans, a formerly all-white elementary school. Second graders performed a program with the theme of kindness and friendship. An African-American folk song was included in the presentation. Younger students also learned about the accomplishments of Dr.

Mae Jemison, the first black woman astronaut who was aboard the space shuttle Endeavor in 1992. Third graders read the "Book of Black Heroes," made a poster, and gave a presentation explaining how these people influenced others.

A video helped children in the fourth grade learn about Martin Luther King Jr.'s freedom march. "The recent death of Coretta Scott King provided another avenue to explore," said Barbara Kolakowski, the school principal.

Fifth graders read biographies and wrote book reports highlighting the accomplishments of African-Americans. The classroom and school libraries provided many choices of books, including biographies of Martin Luther King Jr., Nelson Mandela, Rosa Parks, and sports heroes. The students made presentations in class too.

Kolakowski said the students fulfilled necessary reading requirements while being exposed to information they might not have chosen on their own. Michele Fuchs, the school's media specialist, steered the children to appropriate biographies and autobiographies. She helped them understand the difference between a biography and an autobiography and how to find books on the shelf.

"She further supported what the teachers accomplished in the classroom," said Kolakowski.

The principal is pleased with the addition of technology to classroom lessons. Teachers used unit-ed streaming an educational digital video library. "They have a wonderful selection of video clips including 'History Game,'" she said. In addition, students also learned about African-Americans who contributed to technology, such as inventors and scientists.

Ana Jankowiak, a member of Lafayette School's PTO who helps to coordinate publicity for the school, shared what principal Stella Cosmas said about Black History Month activities there.

"To celebrate Black heritage month, Ms. Gerber asked all fifth grade students to do a research project. Each student was assigned a different African-American person who has made a difference in American history. Each student had to hand draw a portrait of their person. They then wrote a biography that included where that person was born and where they died, education level, jobs, where their childhood was spent, personal history, interests, family structure, motivation and, most importantly, their accomplishments. In all, fifty African-Americans were recognized. All the kids were encouraged to demonstrate how each of these people made a difference in the world."

At Pines Lake School, all grade levels observed Black History Month. Andrea Susser, the school's art teacher, worked with the students to make African masks that were displayed throughout the school. The students also learned about Kente cloth, a type of African weaving, and sponge stamps of an African tribe.

Pam Longo, the principal, notes that many of the activities for the month were integrated across the curriculum, especially language arts and social studies.

Kindergarten students made a booklet called "African-American Heroes." They used photos and put into their own words what they learned. Kindergarten and fifth grade students were paired as "reading buddies" and together they read "My Dream," about Martin Luther King Jr.

Fourth graders participated in a scavenger hunt and looked for objects that related to what they learned about prominent African-Americans including Rosa Parks, Martin Luther King Jr., and Harriet Tubman.

Second graders used the Storybook Weaver software program to explore the life of Rosa Parks. The software allowed the students to create a scene of what life was like for African-Americans before Rosa Parks.

WebQuest, an Internet resource, let third graders learn about Ruby Bridges. They role played Ruby's first day in a new school as the only African-American student. The fifth graders also used WebQuest to research the accomplishments of five prominent African-Americans. Longo said they were given a "what if" assignment. What if Wayne built a new school. Which of the five would the student choose to name the new building and why?

Technology allowed fourth graders to do an in-depth study of Harriet Tubman's accomplishments and take a virtual tour of the Underground Railroad.

Various grades made birthday cards for Martin Luther King Jr. "There were a lot of research papers, too," says Longo.

Some teachers based their Black History Month activities on slavery. This tied into the 2002 creation of the NJ Amistad Commission formed to education students about the historical events associated with the African slave trade.

At Randall Carter School, teachers devoted history lessons to Black History Month. Reports Carol Ceberio, public relations liaison for the school, "Our media specialist made sure that each class had a selection of books dealing with the subject and the teachers worked with the kids on various topics."

To celebrate Black History Month fifth grade students at Lafayette School in Wayne were asked to do a research project which each student was assigned a different African American person who has made a difference in American history. Each had to hand draw a portrait of their person, then write a biography. In all, 50 were recognized.

Hreha took part in mock job interview

Fifty-one College Misericordia senior students took another important step toward preparing themselves for the competitive job market by participating in mock job interviews with area employment professionals Feb. 2-3.

Kim Hreha of Wayne, who is graduating in May with a degree in occupational therapy, was one of the participants.

Eleven volunteer interviewers, representing health care, communications and business careers, participated in the workshop.

The Insalaco Center's counselors have conducted mock interviews with graduating seniors in various settings in the past, according to Christopher C. Sutzko, director. Graduating seniors were matched with professional representatives in their field, like health care or business, for interviews so they can receive interviewing tips in the different disciplines.

The students arrived 15 minutes before their scheduled 30-minute interview sessions. They dressed professionally and had complete resumes to present. The professional interviewers conducted 20-minute sessions, followed by 10 minutes for feedback from students.

College Misericordia's Guaranteed Student Placement Program is a professional development program designed to prepare students to meet the needs of future employers. Hreha said the workshop helped alleviate some of her fears. "All my questions were answered and my fears were diminished," she said. "I got good feedback."

Child martial arts

WAYNE – CAN DO Fitness, Health, and Martial Arts club, is offering free 45-minute "Introductory Children Martial Arts" classes. Classes begin at 4:15 p.m. for children 3 to 5 years old, and 5:45 p.m. for children 6 to 12 years old, on March 20 and 27. Classes begin at 4:15 p.m. for children 3 to 5 years old, and 5 p.m. for children 6 to 12 years old, on Wednesday, March 22 and 29.

Many people are attracted to martial arts as an alternate means of getting fit. Improving ones level of fitness and learning self-defense are the two most obvious benefits of studying martial arts. Taekwondo is also a great way to build confidence, learn focus and concentration, improve health, lose weight, tone muscles, learn self-respect and to respect others. No

WPU's title run halted in Elite 8

VIRGINIA BEACH, VA - Sophomore guard Ton Ton Balegna scored seven points during a critical 12-2 run as Virginia Wesleyan held William Paterson to just four field goals and 12 points in the second half, earning a trip to the Final Four with a 46-35 victory Saturday night in the Elite 8 of the 2006 NCAA Division III Men's Basketball Championship.

Virginia Wesleyan (28-3) won its 25th straight game and reached the Final Four for the first time. Meanwhile, William Paterson (23-8) ended one of the finest seasons in school history, winning the program's ninth New Jersey Athletic Conference championship and reaching the Elite 8 for the fifth time, while tying for its second-most wins ever.

The Pioneers forced the Marlins to shoot just 24.4 percent (11-for-45), but shot just 29.8 percent themselves (14-for-47), including 4-for-26 (15.4 percent) in the second half. Meanwhile, Virginia Wesleyan went 23-for-32 (71.9 percent) at the charity stripe to just 6-for-6 by William Paterson.

Balegna led Virginia Wesleyan with 13 points. Sophomore guard Joey Spiegel scored a game-high 15 for the Pioneers.

"At this moment we're disappointed," William Paterson head coach Jose Rebinbas said. "To say you're one of the final eight teams is a great accomplishment. At this point in time, it feels terrible. Tomorrow it will feel a little bit better, and the day after that it will feel a little bit better."

This Elite 8 contest was essentially a tale of two halves, with Virginia Wesleyan finishing stronger thanks to its tenacious defense. William Paterson did not manage a second-half field goal until junior forward Luis Martinez, who scored 10 points on 3-for-15 shooting and was a member of the all-regional tournament team, hit a lay-up with 11:47 remaining to tie the game at 25.

Balegna helped the Marlins take the lead for good with a pair of lay-ups spaced 25 seconds apart, giving his team a 29-25 advantage with 10:24 remaining. He also hit a 3-pointer as Virginia Wesleyan surged to a 37-27 lead with 2:27 left.

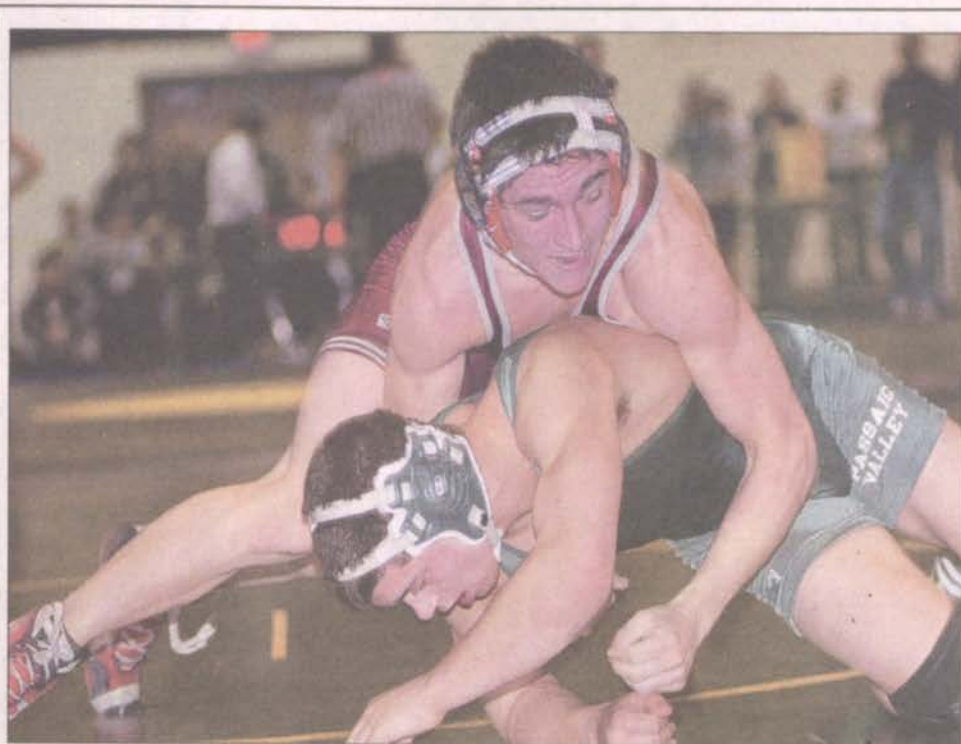

"On this night, they outshined us," Rebinbas said. "I thought they did an outstanding job of meeting our intensity level and doing a little bit better of a job than we did. They did an outstanding job of imposing their defensive will."

William Paterson pulled within 37-31 with 2:05 remaining after Spiegel hit both ends of a one-and-one and Martinez knocked down two technical free throws. However, Virginia Wesleyan went 9-for-10 at the line to end the contest.

Spiegel sparked an 11-3 first-half run that gave the Pioneers the lead for good, scoring seven of his half-best 11 points to give his team a 17-10 lead 7:41 before intermission.

The William Paterson defense kept the Marlins without a field goal for a stretch of 8:26 that was snapped when sophomore forward Tyler Fantin converted a lay-up. Fantin and junior forward Brandon Adair each finished with 10 points.

In the first half, Virginia Wesleyan shot just 22.7 percent (5-for-22) and scored just 10 of its points from the field as William Paterson seized a 23-19 halftime lead.

BOARDWALK BLUES

BY NICK GANTAIFIS
Sports Editor

ATLANTIC CITY - Mike Bastante was at a loss for words. The Passaic Valley senior sat in the far back end of Atlantic City's Boardwalk Hall and sat quietly with his head buried in his hands as head coach Nick Zarra cautiously waited a few moments to spark up a conversation.

Zarra was well aware that there was little that could erase Bastante's pain moments after dropping a heart-breaking 9-6 loss to Hunterdon Central's Pat Strizki in the quarterfinal round. The setback blew any chances the 119 pounder had of claiming an individual wrestling state title.

But after a few moments of sheer silence, Bastante quickly turned his attention to Zarra, who pointed out that there was still unfinished business to tend to before the senior called it a career.

"Coach reminded me that I still have a chance to place in this tournament," said Bastante, who finished in sixth and eighth place over the past two years in the state tournament. "This was supposed to be the year I won it all and it's just difficult to accept."

"But I still have a chance to leave my mark down here and that's what I intend to do."

Bastante took Zarra's advice and returned less than an hour later to edge Johnson's Anthony Priore, 6-3 in the second-round wrestlebacks to keep his third-place hopes alive. But later Saturday afternoon, Bastante came up short against Egg Harbor's Anthony Luma, 7-3, leaving the senior with an eventual seventh-place finish after beating Ricky Bailey of Palmyra, 9-6.

"You work hard for four years to hopefully win a state title and it doesn't work out that way your senior year," said Bastante, who finished the season with a 31-2 record. "I was supposed to only get better year-to-year, considering this is my third time down here in my career."

"I am tremendously proud of him," said Zarra. "He has made me so happy. I couldn't be more proud. He is like the backbone of the program and obviously to lose someone like him will hurt tremendously. He's irreplaceable."

Wayne Valley's Bobby Bishop, the only other lone area wrestler to advance to the championship tournament, was eliminated early Friday evening in the preliminary round when he lost a close 2-1 bout to Hightstown's Dan Indelicati.

DePaul falls to IHA in Non-Public A semifinals

PHOTOGRAPHER/PATRICE INNOCENTI

PLAYOFF RUN - DePaul junior guard Anna Veltri races against the clock late in the second half in the Spartans' loss to IHA in the North Jersey Non-Public A State Tournament in Wayne last week.

BY RICH STAMBOULIAN
Correspondent

WAYNE - The DePaul Catholic girls had won their first two games in state tournament play by wide margins, but heading into the semifinals against Immaculate Heart Academy, the top seeded Spartans knew they were in for a tough fight.

The visiting Blue Eagles were seeded fifth in the Non-Public, North A Group, but aware of the tough schedule that IHA had played, head coach Chris Iannarone knew what his team would face in last Monday night's game in Wayne.

"We knew we would have a chance if we withstood that initial barrage of defense," said Iannarone.

A defensive battle played out as expected with the Spartans holding a four-point lead late in the second quarter, despite having committed 16 turnovers against the intense IHA defense. DePaul owed the lead to their own tough defense, holding the Blue Eagles to 25 percent field goal shooting in the first half.

But a buzzer-beating lay-up by IHA's Kaitlyn O' Malley off a turnover gave the visitors a 19-17 halftime lead and a boost of energy going into the third quarter.

A pair of three-pointers by O' Malley highlighted IHA's 12-0 start to the second half. Down 31-17, senior Kara Otterbine scored DePaul's only points of the third quarter as time wound down.

"Unfortunately, in the third quarter, they disrupted everything we wanted to do," said Iannarone.

The intense Blue Eagles' defense produced another six turnovers in the quarter, and held DePaul to a mere six attempts from the field.

Otterbine had her third straight huge performance in the playoffs with 21 points and 18 rebounds, bringing her three game totals to 78 points and 18 rebounds. Junior forward Jaci Rahey and guards Jackie Rothong and Anna Veltri each had a field goal to account for the Spartans' other eight points. DePaul finished the season with a 23-4 mark. IHA (22-7) went on to win the title with a 48-35 victory over Immaculata at Kennedy High in Paterson on Thursday night.

Garden State growing in wildlife management

BY OLIVER SHAPIRO
Correspondent

Recent trends among outdoorsmen suggests that one of the biggest hurdles in pursuing our preferred pastimes is finding places to hunt and fish. True as that may be in the Garden State, the fact of the matter may simply be that one hasn't looked around enough.

New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection Acting Commissioner Lisa P. Jackson recently announced that New Jersey's network of wildlife management areas has topped 304,000 acres, making it one of the largest in the Northeast.

"As the nation's most densely populated state and the fifth smallest, New Jersey now boasts more acreage for wildlife management areas than New York and even outpaces Vermont, Massachusetts and Rhode Island combined," Jackson said. "That achievement is a testament to our commitment to preserving open space, protecting our unique wildlife and habitats and providing countless recreational opportunities for residents and visitors alike."

As of January, the state's 121 wildlife management areas totaled 304,735 acres, up 8,000 acres during the past year. Located throughout 19 counties, the total acreage represents more than 44 percent of New Jersey's state-owned open space.

Administered by the New Jersey Division of Fish and Wildlife, the state's system of wildlife management areas dates to 1932 when the Board of Fish and Game Commissioners, now known as the Fish and Game Council, acquired the 387-acre Walpack Tract in Sussex County as a "public shooting and fishing ground."

For nearly 30 years, New Jersey relied entirely on sales of fishing and hunting licenses to purchase land for wildlife management areas, and those fees funded the state's first 100,000 acres.

Today, the DEP's Green Acres program continues its critical role in open-space acquisition. In fact, Green Acres preserved a record number of acres - more than 38,000 - during 2005, the program's most successful year since its inception.

Anglers, particularly those who haunt the saltwater locations for which New Jersey is justly famous, are reminded that the rules for the recreational harvest of winter flounder changed in August, 2005. Modifications were made to keep

New Jersey in compliance with the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission's management plan for this species.

The winter flounder recreational season for the fall has been eliminated.

The season for 2006, and until any further change is announced, will run from March 23 through May 21.

In addition, the recreational minimum size limit has increased from 11 to 12 inches and the recreational possession limit has changed from no limit to 10 fish.

The new rules will help protect the winter flounder population, while still allowing the state's saltwater recreational anglers an opportunity to participate to the fullest extent possible in the fishery.

Cohen to head Israeli National Team

WAYNE - Hallie Cohen, the head softball coach at William Paterson University and one of the most successful coaches in NCAA Division III history, has been named the head coach of the Israeli National Softball Team that will play its first games this summer.

Cohen was chosen by the Israel Baseball League, which is developing the first Israeli National Softball Team, after a nationwide search of college coaches.

The goal of the Israel Baseball League, according to Larry Baras, the organization's president, is to develop a softball team that will qualify for the 2008 Summer Olympics in Beijing, China.

Cohen is currently choosing a team that will consist of 17 players. Ten players will be from the United States of Jewish descent, while the other seven will be Israeli born. The team will begin training this summer and will debut in July in the Canadian Cup (July 3-9 in Surrey, British Columbia, Canada) and the U.S.A. Cup (July 12-16 in Irvine, CA).

"We were looking for somebody who could teach the girls and make them better players, who could relate to them and coach them while making them into a team," said Baras. "Hallie has all of the qualities we were looking for."

Cohen has been a head coach for 27 seasons on the Division III level, including the last 12 at William Paterson where she has turned the Wayne school into one of the nation's top Division III programs. Entering her 12th season, she is the most successful coach in school history with a record of 292-150-2 (.664 winning percentage). Overall, she is 485-295-3 in her career (.621) and ranks 12th all-time in Division III in coaching victories, while rating ninth among active coaches.

She spent the first 15 seasons of her coaching career at Fairleigh Dickinson University-Florham (1980-94).

"It's a great honor," Cohen said. "It's an honor to be coaching on the international level and an honor being a Jewish female representing Israel. I am proud of my heritage and I would love to bring national recognition to Israel by inspiring young female athletes to participate in the growing sport of softball. I believe we can put together a team that can compete with the best teams from around the world."

In addition, Cohen has guided the Pioneers to three New Jersey Athletic Conference championships (1999, 2003, 2005) and NCAA Division III East Regional titles in 2003 and 2005 that resulted in trips to the NCAA Division III Softball Championship Finals those seasons. She has been named the NJAC Coach of the Year three times (1999, 2001, 2005) and has mentored six All-Americans, 16 All-Region players, three NJAC Players of the Year and three NJAC Rookies of the Year.

Electronic licensing is currently being phased in throughout New Jersey and will be fully implemented this spring. It promises to make your license and permit buying experience fast and convenient once your customer information is in the system. You provide your customer information only one time when you purchase your first license or permit at a license agent location. However, you do not have to wait until that first transaction. You can get a head start by going online at www.wildlifelicense.com/nj to enter your customer information and complete your child support certification for the 2006 calendar year.

When you complete this process you will be issued your 9-digit lifetime Conservation ID number. When you're ready to buy a license or permit through an electronic license terminal all you need to do is provide the agent your Conservation ID number and the system will automatically bring up your customer information, speeding you through the sales process, making your license purchase fast Lakeland's Colton Chalkley looked sharp in the opening round Friday evening when he pinned Fair Lawn's Joe Kover in 4:41. But the sophomore returned a short time later and fell victim to Stritzki via pin in 4:59.

"This is my second time down here and I know it takes a lot of hard work to advance in this tournament," said Chalkley. "I'm going to work harder in the off-season and hopefully it will pay off in the future."

If you're buying your license from an agent that does not yet have the new electronic license equipment, bring a printout of your child support certification so you do not have to complete the paper form at the agent.

"Anytown: Stories of America," a unique collaboration pairing the choreography of Minneapolis-based Danial Shapiro and Joanie Smith with the music of rock 'n' roll legend Bruce Springsteen, his wife Patti Scialfa, and Soozie Tyrell, will make its debut at The Community Theatre in Morristown on Saturday, March 18, at 8 p.m. Tickets are $30-45.

'Anytown' opens at Community Theatre

MORRISTOWN - "Anytown: Stories of America," a unique collaboration pairing the choreography of Minneapolis-based Danial Shapiro and Joanie Smith with the music of rock 'n' roll legend Bruce Springsteen, his wife Patti Scialfa and Soozie Tyrell, will make its debut at The Community Theatre in Morristown on Saturday, March 18, at 8 p.m. Tickets are $30-45. Support for this performance has been provided by the Mid Atlantic Arts Foundation.

A music-driven dance theater piece, "Anytown" draws its inspiration directly from the songs, using rhythms and poetic metaphors to evoke the intertwined lives of three middle class families, with their daily struggles and life challenges. Shapiro and Smith, whose work has been praised by the New York Times for its "strong, sharp edged dancing and daring theatricality," has garnered international recognition for their trademark physical toughness, biting wit and emotional depth. "Anytown" features a multi-generational cast of 11 dancers and a multimedia set with projected text.

Family ties, whether they come from a real family or a family of choice, is at the heart of "Anytown." With down-to-earth, poignant storytelling, gravity defying movements, and grace and humor, the work follows the plight of three families whose lives are entangled in a web of desire and need, while struggling with loss and survival. Set in an imaginary time - a compression of the Depression era and modern-day America - the work addresses today's concerns of middle and working classes; and through the skillful juxtaposition of movement, metaphors and lyrics, creates vivid settings suggesting both real homes and places of hope and dream.

"Anytown" was commissioned in part by Dance Celebration, a co-presentation of Dance Affiliates and Penn Presents, through a grant from the Strauss Foundation. It premiered at the Annenberg Center for the Performing Arts, Philadelphia, Pa. (October 5, 2005). For more information, visit www.shapiroandsmithdance.org.

The Community Theatre is located at 100 South St., Morristown.

For tickets, call the box office at (973) 539-8008 or visit www.communitytheatrenj.org.

'Broadway Bound'

WAYNE - The Passaic County Repertoire presents "Broadway Bound" dinner cabaret on Friday, March 24 at 7:30 p.m. at The Grand Chalet, 1377 Route 23 south, Wayne. Tickets in advance are $35, tickets at the door are $50. For more information, call Debbie at (973) 580-8554. Come out and hear your favorite Broadway songs performed live.

Milton Babbitt

WAYNE - The New Jersey Percussion Ensemble, a professional ensemble in residence at William Paterson University, and the university's New Music Ensemble will celebrate the life and career of award-winning New Jersey composer Milton Babbitt in honor of his 90th birthday during a special concert on campus on March 24. The concert will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Shea Center on campus. Admission is free.

The program will include a selection of Babbitt's music spanning nearly 50 years, including "All Set" (1957), "Phonemena" (1968-1971), "My Complements to Roger" (1978), "Homily" (1987), "Beaten Paths" (1988), "Composition for One Instrument" (1999), "Concert Piccolino" (1999) and "A Waltzer in the House" (2003). Babbitt is expected to attend.

Performers include Judith Betina, piano; Anton Vishio, piano; Jeffrey Kresky, professor of music at William Paterson, celeste; David Weisberg, assistant professor of music, piano; Thomas Kolor '95, percussion; Peter Jarvis '02, adjunct professor of music at William Paterson, percussion; and a number of William Paterson student musicians.

Babbitt is one of America's most renowned contemporary composers. An extensive catalogue of works for multiple combinations of instruments and voice along with his pioneering achievements in synthesized sound have made Babbitt one of the most celebrated of 20th-century composers. He is a founder and member of the Committee of Direction for the Electronic Music Center of Columbia-Princeton Universities and a member of the Editorial Board of Perspectives of New Music.

The recipient of numerous honors, commissions, and awards, including a MacArthur Fellowship and a Pulitzer Prize Citation for his "life's work as a distinguished and seminal American composer," Babbitt is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Letters and a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. Babbitt continues to teach at Princeton University and Juilliard as professor of composition and remains active as a composer.

For more information on the concert, call the Shea Center Box Office at (973) 720-2371.

'Beacon Hill Book Club'

BLOOMFIELD - 12 Miles West Theatre Company in Bloomfield will present its second Main Stage production of the 2005-06 Season, "The Beacon Hill Book Club" by Susanna Salk. When a brazen, young woman ventures into Boston's venerable, blue-blooded Beacon Hill Book Club, she has the chance to open their eyes, minds and hearts. A comedic romp through the classes and the classics, "The Beacon Hill Book Club" runs March 16 through April 9 at 12 Miles West Center for the Performing Arts in Bloomfield with an opening night "Meet the Artists" reception on Friday, March 17.

Directing the production for 12 Miles West is the Company's artistic director, Lenny Bart of Summit. The artistic team is rounded out by set designer Jessica Parks of Bordentown, costume designer Westie Grosh of Jersey City, and lighting designer Sean Hennessy of Jersey City. The cast features Judy Dowd of Montclair, Gloria Falzer of Montclair, Bill Joachim of Englewood, Carol Lambert of New York, and Andrea Prendamano of Garfield. "The Beacon Hill Book Club" at 12 Miles West Center for the Performing Arts will be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. and Sunday afternoons at 3 p.m., March 16 through April 9. There will be an open-caption performance on Sunday, March 26 at 3 p.m. Open-captioning is made possible by The Healthcare Foundation of New Jersey in cooperation with the New Jersey Theatre Alliance. Tickets are $26 general admission/$21 for seniors and students. All tickets $15 for a Preview performance on Thursday, March 16 only. Book club members are encouraged to bring their group of 10 or more and receive a 10 percent discount.

12 Miles West Center for the Performing Arts is located at 562 Bloomfield Ave. two blocks West of the Garden State Parkway in the heart of Bloomfield center. ## 'Bus Stop'

ORADELL - Bergen Catholic High School's Department of

Fine and Performing Arts Division, under the direction of Frank DiCocco, will present "Bus Stop" in the school's Crusader Hall cafeteria during the three-day period of March 17-19.

Written by William Inge, "Bus Stop" is a three-act romance play that takes place in the heart of the Midwest, at a roadside diner in a small town 30 miles west of Kansas City. A snowstorm leaves several bus passengers stranded until morning. Several plots and sub-plots then emerge among the cast of eight characters.

The first two shows (Friday, March 17 and Saturday, March 18) will begin at 8 p.m. Tickets are priced at $10 apiece for those performances.

The third show, scheduled for Sunday, March 19 at 2 p.m., is a benefit performance and dinner. Attendees will be treated to the show, hors d'oeuvres, a "Bus Stop"-style buffet dinner, and coffee and dessert. In addition, Bergen Catholic's renowned Jazz Ensemble will provide musical entertainment and the school's Advanced Placement Studio Art students will present their outstanding work. Reservations, which can be made by calling (201) 261-1844, are required for the Sunday performance. Tickets are priced at $20 for the Sunday show.

Bergen Catholic is a private, four-year, college-preparatory high school for young men located at 1040 Oradell Ave. in Oradell. It is owned and operated by the Congregation of Christian Brothers and is accredited by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools. The school is currently celebrating its 51st year of operation. Its student body numbers approximately 850 young men from over 90 towns in the surrounding area. Please call the school at (201) 261-1844 if you have any questions.

Chris Brown

ENGLEWOOD - Teen sensation, Chris Brown, whose self-titled album debuted at No. 2 and is certified platinum, will be back to perform at Englewood's bergen-PAC March 17 at 8 p.m. At only 16 years old, Chris Brown has already been compared to the likes of Usher and has worked with producers Scott Storch and Jermaine Dupri. Brown, hailing from Tappahannock, Va., moved to Cliffside Park to pursue his music career. Brown will perform with several special guests, including Def Jam's 17 year-old Teairra Mari and 13 year-old new comer Tiffany Evans. Hot 97's DJ Enuff will host.

Teairra Mari is the new crowned princess of Def Jam's Roc-A-Fella Records. Mari worked with Jay Z in his first collaboration project since becoming president of Def Jam to create "Make Her Feel Good," the hit single from her debut album "Roc-A-Fella Records Presents Teairra Mari." Mari has performed on numerous awards shows and has been a guest host on BET's 106th & Park.

At just 12 years old, singer Tiffany Evans has won a "Star Search" competition, performed on "The Oprah Winfrey Show" twice, appeared on a television show and won a part in a major motion picture. Most recently, Evans performed at the Artist Empowerment Coalition's Pre-Grammy Brunch, where she wowed all those in attendance. Evans, whose family settled in Atlantic City, was introduced to a Columbia Records executive who told her that her voice was "a great gift from God". Since then, Evans has been signed to Columbia with her self-titled debut album slated for a February release.

For more information on Chris Brown, visit www.chrisbrown-world.com. For tickets, call (201) 227-1030 or visit www.bergenpac.org.

David White

Kinnelon - Christ Chapel Church in Kinnelon welcomes acclaimed Christian movie star David White performing his multimedia stage show "Holyman Undercover" on March 25 at 7 p.m. This event is free and open to the public. ## Art exhibit

MONTCLAIR - Highly original, humorous, and subtly erotic, the work of Sonoko Fagan will be on view at Studio Montclair's Block Gallery now through March 31. An opening reception for the artist will be held on Friday, March 3, from 6 to 8 p.m. Fagan's avid interest in cycling led her to incorporate bicycle imagery into her paintings. The current series is based on her photographs of bicycle parts. According to the artist, her oil paintings "explore the complications inherent in emotional states and desire's dark undercurrents. Freed from their intended purpose, the parts transform into players in a private drama, resulting in emotionally charged scenes filled with sexual tension."

The artist began painting in 1999 and is largely self-taught. She currently has two pieces on exhibit in the 24th Annual Metro Show at "City Without Walls" gallery in Newark.

The Studio Montclair Block Gallery is located at Clark House, 108 Orange Rd., Montclair. ## ATLANTIC CITY

By Ellen Burke Rawls

"Celebration of the Suds" comes to Convention Center

There's a huge variety of things to do in AC this weekend. Hot on the heels of Steve Lippia's Sinatra tribute at Hilton, Tropicana brings us "Rat Pack at the Trop: A Musical Tribute to Frank, Dean and Sammy." Henry Prego, Andy DiMino and David Hayes pull off the masquerade of the three legendary cutups, with their on-the-mark impersonations. Together they re-create a fun evening reprising the music, antics, and camaraderie of legendary entertainers Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin and Sammy Davis, Jr. There's a 12-piece orchestra onstage and a quartet of stunning showgirls to lend their talents. The vocal impersonations are excellent, and David Hayes — a gifted drummer, guitarist, pianist, tap dancer and impressionist — is a one-man show when it comes to performing as Sammy Davis Jr.

Rat Pack at the Trop plays at the Tropicana theater through Thursday, April 16, with showtimes Sunday at 5 p.m., Monday through Thursday at 8 p.m., and Friday at 9 p.m. Daytrippers can catch the show at one of the matinee performances on Tuesday or Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. Tickets are $20 for weekday performances, $25 weekends.

The Love Kittens, a racy quintet blending humor, dancing, and vocals, with the "Art of the Peel," return Saturday to Resorts' intimate Screening Room for another run through the summer. Recapturing the fun of long-ago burlesque, the five beauties clad in bustiers, garter belts and thongs, perform a series of brightly choreographed routines incorporating saucy striptease, pole dancing, aerial hoop ballet, and chair routines to classic and retro musical hits.

The Spring schedule has performances Saturday at 9 p.m., and Sunday through Wednesday at 8 p.m. Tickets are priced at $30. Following the show on Saturdays, the ladies — in their onstage costumes — transform Resorts' 25 Hours casino bar into the "Love Kitten Lounge" and mingle with guests.

Lewis Black brings his scathing, sarcastic and cranky social and political comedy to Borgata's Music Box for two shows Friday and Saturday nights. Acclaimed for his weekly commentaries on Comedy Central's "The Daily Show," Lewis is to be rewarded with his own show "Red State Diaries," also on CC, later this year. Showtimes at the Music Box are 9 p.m. both Friday and Saturday nights.

House of Blues at Showboat plays host to a couple of tribute groups this weekend, a U2 tribute band and "Bruce in the USA," a Springsteen celebration.

Fight fans will be gathering at Boardwalk Hall for the eagerly awaited World Heavyweight Championship challenge Saturday night. Reigning world heavyweight champ Hasim "The Rock" Rahman of Baltimore takes on challenger James "Lights Out" Toney of Grand Rapids, Michigan, for the World Heavyweight Championship presented by Caesars Atlantic City. Tickets are $500, $350, $250, $150, $50. The fight will also be available on HBO World Championship Boxing at 10 pm EST.

Beer lovers, rejoice! AC's first beer festival "The Celebration of the Suds," comes to the AC Convention Center Saturday and Sunday. Featuring samplings of over 100 beers and beer-related vendors, as well as gourmet foods, contests, music, comics and more, it will be one of the largest tributes to beer ever held on the East Coast. Hours are Saturday 12 noon to 9 p.m. and Sunday 12 noon to 7 p.m. The show is open to the public, but you must be 21 years old to attend. Tickets are $25, and designated drivers pay just $5.

Auditorium on Fairleigh Dickinson University's Metropolitan campus on Tuesday, March 21, at 7 p.m. The films in the festival, which are open to the public, are from the Columbia Pictures Archive at FDU.

Festival curator Jim Beckerman of The Record noted that the festival's selections are based on well-known books or plays.

"They all have a literary cache to them," he said, "and this is an overlooked aspect of Columbia Studios—they had a reputation for buying important literary works." Beckerman will introduce each film and will facilitate a question-and-answer session with the audience after the screening.

The finale of the film series is the 1949 film "All the King's Men," which will be shown on April 4 at 7 p.m. in the Weiner Library. "With half of Louisiana in ruins, and a remake (starring Sean Penn) due for 2006 release, there's more than one reason to revisit this acclaimed first adaptation of the Pulitzer Prize-winning Robert Penn Warren novel about a political demagogue (Broderick Crawford), based on Louisiana's Huey Long," said Beckerman.

Fairleigh Dickinson University's Weiner Library Auditorium is located on River Rd. in Teaneck. For further information on this film series, call (201) 692-2138.

'Pirates of Penzance'

TEANECK — Take a crew of bumbling pirates, a pair of starry-eyed lovers, a flock of damsels in disress and a troupe of slapstick policemen—mix well with the rollicking music of Gilbert & Sullivan, add a talented cast of local New Jersey teens, and you've got "The Pirates of Penzance," as presented by the Youth Conservatory of The Garage Theatre Group.

Your whole family will enjoy this evening of music and laughter, playing at the Becton Theatre at Fairleigh Dickinson University, 960 River Rd., Teaneck, on Friday, March 17 and Saturday, March 18 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, March 19 at 2 p.m.

"Pirates of Penzance," Gilbert & Sullivan's screwball operetta, is a classic comedy, love story and musical extravaganza with something for everyone.

The Pirates of Penzance cast features talented performers ages 11 - 19 from Bergen and Rockland counties. "These young actors have a unique enthusiasm for creating on stage, perhaps because it is still a relatively new process for them," says Jane Keitel, who is directing the musical. "Teen actors have fantastic ideas and artistically grow quite fast. Many of the performers in The Garage's Youth Conservatory over the years have graduated to attend leading performing arts universities."

Pirates of Penzance tickets are $14 for students and seniors, $17 for adults and are available by calling (201) 569-7710 or online at www.garagetheatre.org. Free parking is available on the FDU campus, and a shuttle bus is available to and from the parking lot prior to and after each performance.

The Garage Theatre Group, Bergen County's premier professional company, in residence at The Becton Theatre, will also be presenting "Summer of Love," an evening of love and peace as we revisit the songs of 1967 in this brand new musical to run from April 27 through May 14. The Garage Theatre Group, a member of the New Jersey Theatre Alliance, is pleased to have its 2005-2006 season sponsored by Magnetic Resonance of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Fairleigh Dickinson University-Metropolitan Campus.

Irish dance show

MORRISTOWN — A little bit of Ireland comes to Morristown on St. Patrick's Day as the National Dance Company of Ireland presents "Rhythm of the Dance," a celebration of Irish music, culture and step dancing, Friday, March 17, at 8 p.m. at The Community Theatre. Tickets are $35-45. This performance is a co-presentation with the Irish American Cultural Institute.

Since its debut performance in 1999 on a stage in Norway, "Rhythm of the Dance" has played to over three million fans in 33 countries worldwide and has heralded a new era in Irish entertainment. This two-hour dance and music extravaganza contains a wealth of talent derived from all areas of Irish life.

The show is an inspiring epic, reliving the journey of the Irish Celts throughout history. Using modern arts of dance and music, this richly costumed show marries the contemporary and the ancient. Combining traditional dance and music with the most up to date stage technology, the show is a thousand-year-old story executed with all the advantages of the modern day stage show.

The multi-talented musicians are a vital ingredient of "Rhythm of the Dance," generating the throbbing vibrancy of the original music score and bringing new color and life to the traditional melodies. Amongst the instruments used during the performance are accordion, two fiddles, bodhran, saxophone, whistle and African drum. The wonderful voices of the two singers move easily through the emotions of the shows songs with passion, pathos and joy.

Rhythm of the Dance is produced by Kieran Cavanagh. Music director is Carl Hession. The performance is choreographed by Aisling Holly.

For tickets, visit The Community Theatre box office, 100 South St., Morristown, call (973) 539-8008 or visit www.communitytheatre.nj.org.

BRIEFS

Toni Braxton

MORRISTOWN — Grammy-winning pop superstar Toni Braxton performs hits including "Another Sad Love Song," "Breathe Again," "Un-Break My Heart," "You're Makin' Me High" and "You Mean the World to Me" at The Community Theatre on Wednesday, March 29 at 8 p.m. Tickets range from $55-65.

With an impressive catalog of five albums, Toni Braxton has built a worldwide base of music lovers since she first burst onto the contemporary music scene in 1991 with "Love Shoulda Brought You Home." As the "First Lady of LaFace Records," Toni's creative partnership with Antonio "LA" Reid and Kenneth "Babyface" Edmonds yielded a non-stop run of multi-platinum albums beginning with 1993's "Toni Braxton," 1996's "Secrets" and the 2000 set "The Heat."

Her most recent release is "Libra," which strikes the perfect balance between today's radio-friendly grooves (exemplified by the album's hot first single, "Please") and "old school" flavored slow jams (such as "Stupid" and "Midnite"), giving the multi-talented entertainer a new opportunity to bring her instantly-recognizable vocal style back to the forefront. The Community Theatre is located at 100 South St., Morristown. For tickets, call the box office at (973) 539-8008 or visit www.communitytheatre.nj.org.

'Cinderella'

MAHWAH — The American Repertory Ballet will present Graham Lustig's modern-day version of "Cinderella" on Sunday, March 19 at 4 p.m. in the Sharp Theater. Lustig's imaginative re-envisioning of the classic rags-to-riches tale is set in the urban present. But love still overcomes all with the help of inventive dancing, elaborate stage magic and a romantic score by Sergei Prokofiev. Lustig is an award-winning, internationally recognized choreographer and teacher whose ballets have been performed on four continents. He was named artistic director of the American Repertory Ballet and Princeton Ballet School in June 1999. He has choreographed works for the Ririe-Woodbury Dance Company in Salt Lake City, the Fort Worth/Dallas Ballet Company, the Washington Ballet, Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre, Ballet West and Singapore Dance Theatre among others. His repertoire ranges from the tongue-in-cheek sophistication of "Paramour," inspired by the writings of Anais Nin, to the dramatically costumed "Pomp," created for North Carolina Dance Theatre.

The American Repertory Ballet, whose mission is to convey the joy of dance and present the best in contemporary ballet, is New Jersey's leading dance company. The company and its official educational arm, the Princeton Ballet School, are part of the Princeton Ballet Society.

Tickets are $24 for adults, $21 for senior citizens and $15 for youth. The Sharp Theater is located at the Angelica and Russ Berrie Center for Performing and Visual Arts.

Second home ownership has gained popularity in today's market

Hollywood stars are not the only ones with homes in both California and New York. Farmers escape the Heartland for the sandy Floridian shores, too. Second home ownership has become an extremely popular trend in today's real estate market. Why?

Because demographics and technology are converging to create a historic opportunity for buyers and sellers. As Baby Boomers rush toward retirement, second homes suitable for play now and retirement later have enormous appeal. In fact, experts predict that nearly 13 million Americans alone will buy full or partial interest in second homes within the next few years.

Today, thanks to technology, second homes are becoming a place to work as well as play. Second homes may be located in resort areas. Others may be located near a second work environment for those who commute frequently between different business destinations. And the second home phenomenon stretches from Alaska to Florida, from Hawaii to Nova Scotia, and all points in-between.

How you use a second home is up to you. But if it's something you've been considering, now is the time to get the information you need to make an informed decision. A qualified real estate professional can help guide you through financial considerations, assist you in finding the right community and even refer you to a resort property specialist for the destination of your dreams. Your real estate professional may be able to get you the information and advice you need to use the equity in your current home to finance the down payment on a second home, for example.

For many, a second home in a vacation or resort area can be an income property when not in use. Once again, a real estate professional will help you consider property management options that can be a crucial financial factor as well as important to peace-of-mind.

Married couples, generally over age 35, with or without children are almost twice as likely to own second homes as single persons. And the fastest growing segment of second home buyers are age 35 to 54, without children at home.

Some of the best locations are not more than two to three hours

Warren Damiano

away from major metropolitan areas by car or plane. For example, Bostonians gravitate to Cape Cod. San Franciscans retreat to Lake Tahoe and Angelenos head for Palm Springs. Many people who live in the West also have second homes there. Yet, the biggest feeder market for second homes in the South are buyers from the Northeast.

What makes a second home location ideal? Natural beauty is great, but don't forget about cultural and social resources, as well as first-rate golf, tennis and other popular sports facilities.

Second homes are a discretionary purchase, and everyone wants to feel secure in their environment. That's why gated and guarded residential communities will continue to increase. And locations such as Sante Fe, N.M., and Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, which are removed from most urban problems, continue to be attractive.

Nevertheless, you will likely get more enjoyment out of a property you can get to quickly and can use frequently. Since you know this area, chances are you'll make a better real estate investment closer to home. And be sure to look at each property with an eye toward tomorrow, because the vacation homes likely to appreciate the most are the ones that Boomers can play in today and retire in tomorrow.

NJAREF seeks applicants for scholarships to be used for higher education

The New Jersey Association of REALTORS Educational Foundation (NJAREF) is seeking applicants for 31 scholarships, each ranging from $1,000 to $2,500. The scholarships are open to members of the New Jersey Association of REALTORS (NJAR) and relatives of NJAR members and will be based upon academic achievement, financial need, and community involvement, among other criteria. High school seniors and students enrolled in undergraduate and graduate college programs may apply for the awards. Applicants may attend college out-of-state, but New Jersey residency is required for eligibility.

"The NJAR Educational Foundation supports higher education. The trustees are proud to award $44,750 in scholarships this year for students to expand their knowledge and pursue their dreams," said NJAREF President Tina Caggiano. "Past recipients of NJAREF scholarships have attended prestigious colleges and universities in and out of New Jersey and have had successful careers in real estate and other related industries."

NJAREF scholarship applications are available through the local boards/associations of REALTORS or online at www.njar.com/EdFoundApplication2006.doc. The deadline is 5 p.m. on April 7.

A non-profit organization, the Educational Foundation was established in 1969 to foster education, promote knowledge of, conduct research in, and assist in the education of students.

For more information on the NJAR Educational Foundation, visit the NJAR Web site at <http://www.njar.com/edfound-public.shtml>.

Top agent Lisa Masterson exclusively serves Kinnelon area

KINNELON - Lisa Masterson, sales associate with Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage in New Jersey and Rockland County, N.Y. in Mountain Lakes, has been recognized throughout her real estate career as a Kinnelon residential specialist, and continues to focus her efforts on supporting buyers and sellers of homes and properties throughout the borough of Kinnelon.

"While I've relocated to the Mountain Lakes office, my concentration remains on the Kinnelon market, a town in which I live and truly love. Since I entered real estate in 1998, I've been committed to Kinnelon and to surpassing my clients' expectations," said Masterson.

Masterson has long been an advocate for the Borough. She devotes her career to Kinnelon real estate and conveys to clients what she views as elements that set it apart from all other towns. "I see

Kinnelon as a diamond in the rough. While we've evolved and grown over the past ten years, we've retained our natural beauty and scenic wonders, all amid a wonderfully secluded location in Morris County. On the flip side, with the completion of Route 287, we also have convenience. We're about 30 miles from Manhattan and have quick and simple access to anywhere throughout the metropolitan area. Not only that, but almost every homesite here is situated on an acre or more of property, something practically unheard

Impressive sales production earns Century 21 Gold Medalion award

WEST PATERSON - Recognizing the extraordinary sales effort of Century 21 Barone, Slezak & Associates in 2005, Century 21 Real Estate LLC, recently awarded the office with the Century 21 Gold Medalion award for production. The national award recognizes Century 21® System offices that achieve or surpass $1,060,000 in sales production or 275 closed transaction sides within a calendar year.

In honor of this accomplishment, the Century 21 System will present Century 21 Barone, Slezak & Associates with a customized trophy during a regional awards ceremony.

"Century 21 Barone, Slezak & Associates has displayed a tremendous commitment to providing an exemplary level of service to their clients and on behalf of the entire Century 21 System, I congratulate them for their success," said

Thomas R. Kunz, president and CEO, Century 21 Real Estate LLC.

"Receiving the Gold Medalion award is a great honor for our office and while we celebrate successes of 2005, Century 21 Barone, Slezak & Associates remains focused on servicing the real estate needs of the Passaic, Bergen, Essex, Morris, Sussex and Warren county communities," said Philip T. Barone, broker/owner of Century 21 Barone, Slezak & Associates.

Century 21 Barone, Slezak & Associates is a full-service brokerage with two locations: 1011 McBride Ave., West Paterson, and 5716 Berkshire Valley Road, Oak Ridge. Both specialize in residential, luxury, commercial and industrial properties.

Century 21 Real Estate LLC (www.century21.com) is the franchisor of the world's largest residential real estate sales organization, providing comprehensive training, management, administrative and marketing support for the Century 21 System. The System is comprised of more than 7,680 independently owned and operated franchised real estate offices in 42 countries and territories worldwide.

National Association of Realtors pledge to serve and protect the public

For nearly 100 years, REALTORS® have subscribed to one of the oldest codes of ethics for trade groups in the country. As members of the National Association of REALTORS®, all 55,000 members of the New Jersey Association of REALTORS® (NJAR) have pledged to uphold that Code. This week, with the premiere of advertising spots entitled, "Someone You Can Trust," the National Association of REALTORS® explains how its REALTOR® members' adherence to that Code serves and protects the public. Today's home buyers and sellers confront real estate realities never envisioned 100 years ago, with disclosure requirements, environmental regulations, and an expanding universe of mortgage and financing options. More than ever, home buyers and sellers need to know that their real estate professional is someone they can trust.

"Consumers deserve and demand honesty, integrity, and commitment from the REALTORS® they have selected to represent their interests," says NJAR President Bonnie Fitzgerald. "The REALTOR® Code of Ethics is a comprehensive code of conduct that goes beyond state licensing requirements. Real estate professionals who are not REALTORS® do not subscribe to this Code. Home buyers and home sellers who choose a REALTOR® to protect their interests know he or she will act in a fair, professional and ethical manner not only with them, but with other members of the public and other REALTORS®."

Consumers can learn more about the REALTOR® Code of Ethics by visiting www.realtor.org/codeofethics or by asking a REALTOR® for a copy of the Code.

Entrepreneur Magazine ranks RE/MAX International in top ten

RE/MAX International has ranked in the No. 8 position in Entrepreneur Magazine's 27th Annual Franchise 500®, a research tool to compare franchise organizations. The 2006 ranking pushed RE/MAX up two places, from being No. 10 last year.

In other categories, RE/MAX ranked as No. 9 in the "Top Global" Franchises list, as No. 11 of "Fastest Growing Franchises", and as No. 4 among "Top Low Cost Franchises". The organization also earned the title of "Best of the Best" for real estate services for the sixth time in seven years.

"These results are thrilling for our entire membership each year," said Margaret Kelly, RE/MAX International Chief Executive Officer. "Certainly no franchise organization can continue to experience growth, expanded services, and a valued reputation without those actually working in the individual franchises putting forth great effort and service every day of the year. We are always pleased to be named in this annual study by Entrepreneur magazine, and are honored each time RE/MAX is recognized by the report."

Entrepreneur judges all companies, regardless of their size, by the same objective, quantifiable measures of a franchise operation. The most important factors considered are financial strength and stability, growth rate, and size of the system. The length of time franchising, number of years in business, start-up costs, litigation, percentage of terminations, and whether the company provides financing are also taken into account. These factors are plugged into the exclusive Franchise 500® formula, with each eligible company receiving a cumulative score. The 500 franchises with the highest cumulative scores become the Franchise 500®.

"RE/MAX of New Jersey takes great pride in the results from the Franchise 500® every year," said Jeff Snyder, Co-Regional Owner of RE/MAX of New Jersey. "We are committed to providing our Associates with top notch programs and technological resources, which in turn allows them to offer thorough and comprehensive service to their customers. With RE/MAX ranking so highly in the Franchise 500®, we know that our hard work and dedication is paying off."

With over 3,500 real estate professionals in 205 franchise offices, RE/MAX of New Jersey continues to be one of the leading real estate organizations in the state.

Indianapolis named most affordable housing market at end of 2005

Indianapolis, Ind. was the nation's most affordable major housing market for a second consecutive quarter at year-end 2005, according to the National Association of Home Builders' Wells Fargo Housing Opportunity Index (HOI), released recently.

Meanwhile, higher interest rates and rising home prices caused nationwide housing affordability to slip for a fourth consecutive quarter to its lowest level on HOI record.

"The latest HOI shows that only 41 percent of new and existing homes that were sold during the final quarter of 2005 were affordable to families earning the national median income," said David Pressly, a home builder from Statesville, N.C. "This is down from 43.2 percent of homes sold in the third quarter and 52 percent of homes sold in the final quarter of 2004."

Pressly noted that the housing affordability situation should improve as mortgage rates peak later this year and home price appreciation decelerates to the record rates of the last several years to a more normal pace. "This will give incomes a chance to catch up."

"Between the third and fourth quarters of last year, the national weighted interest rate on fixed and adjustable-rate mortgages that we use in calculating the HOI rose from 5.84 percent to 6.21 percent, and this certainly increased the threshold for families seeking homeownership," said NAHB Chief Economist David Seiders. "Meanwhile, nationwide home prices were on a strong upward trajectory through 2005."

NAHB forecasts predict that the average rate on a 30-year, fixed-rate mortgage will inch up gradually to about 6.6 percent late in 2006 and average about 6.5 percent for the year as a whole.

In the nation's most affordable major housing market of Indianapolis, Ind., 88.7 percent of new and existing homes that were sold in the fourth quarter were affordable to households earning the area's median income of $64,000. The median sales price of all Indianapolis homes sold in that time frame was $120,000. Also near the top of the list for affordable major metros were Youngstown-Warren-Boardman, Ohio-Pa., followed by Detroit-Litonia-Dearborn, Mich.; Grand Rapids-Wyoming, Mich.;

and Dayton, Ohio, in that order.

Midwestern metros also dominated the list of the most affordable small housing markets with under 500,000 people. Davenport-Moline-Rock Island, Iowa-Ill. was tops, followed by the metro areas of Cumberland, Md.-W.Va.; Lima, Ohio; Mansfield, Ohio; and Lansing-East Lansing, Mich.

At the bottom of the affordability scale was Los Angeles-Long Beach-Glendale, Calif., where just 2.3 percent of homes sold in the fourth quarter were affordable to families earning the area's median household income of $54,500. The median price of all homes sold in that area was an even $500,000. And as usual, the bottom of the affordability scale was dominated by large California cities, including Santa Ana-Anaheim-Irvine, San Diego-Carlsbad-San Marcos, and Stockton. New York-White Plains-Wayne, N.Y.-N.J. rounded out the list of the five least-affordable major housing markets.

Among cities smaller than 500,000 people, Merced, Calif., was lowest on the list and the second least affordable market overall. Please visit www.nahb.org/hoi for tables, historic data and details.

Big-time redesign: DTS assumes Caddy's flagship role from DeVille

MARK MAYNARD
Copley News Service

Critics might say the Cadillac DTS is the same old hay being pitched with a new pitchfork. Others will see it as an ideal makeover for a flagship Caddy.

The DTS is the big sedan with a new skin and new interior, top-line safety features and a hunk of an engine, the Northstar V-8.

But before I continue, a moment, please, to honor the loss of a great nameplate: DeVille.

Cruella no more, the name once known round the world as an icon of cunning excess has been mothballed for the alphanumeric DTS, or D-Series Touring Sedan.

Alas, two steps forward, one step back, but there is much to appreciate in this major redesign.

First, it is a bean-counter's pride. Not because it's cheap, but because it is efficient.

Plans for all-new rear-wheel drive car were put on hold, but the redesign makes the '06 look all new. Only the DeVille's roof and doors are shared with DTS, and many carryover parts are unseen to the user.

And DTS is a shared platform with the new Buick Lucerne.

Much went into refining this old model, but the brush stroke of inspiration is the taillight treatment. The designer reapplied the vertical slash of red lights that recall some of the still-attractive Caddys from the '80s, '90s and earlier.

The body also sits closer to the tires, which sharpens the stance and gives better aerodynamics.

The styling is contemporary and powerful, sure to get the attention of a younger clientele without alienating older buyers.

And among the four trim levels is a Performance model, which comes with the magnetic ride control adjustable suspension, 18-inch tires, audio upgrade, the full complement of power extras and a more potent version of the Northstar V-8.

About the only options for the Performance model are a navigation system, sunroof, power rear sunshade and adaptive cruise control. All models can be upgraded with full leather seats, not leather-trimmed. Oddly, satellite radio is not available on the base car.

Pricing starts at $41,990 and goes to $50,490 for the power treatment.

The redesign also applied assembly refinements to tighten body gaps and fit. Laminated glass helps quiet the cabin. The trunk is the same size but better tailored, with shelves. However, there is no power close feature or exterior lock.

Lowering the instrument panel and moving it forward a bit enhanced the driver area, which opened the cabin for a more full-bodied appeal. Burled walnut trim and chrome are not overdone. The locking glove box is damped and fuzzy felt lined. And buyers can still order a front bench seat with the shifter on the column.

The seats have been redone for comfort, benchmarking the Lexus LS 430, Audi A8 and BMW 7-Series. The dual-firmness front seats provide an additional inch of rearward adjustment and no longer have the integrated belt-in seat design, which resulted in a thicker seat back. The new seats are thinner and lighter, which opens up the back seat.

The doors can open so wide that it's a stretch to reach the handle, but always helpful when loading passengers. Grab-handles in the door panel could be better placed for more leverage when the driver gets carried away. But the doors close with a secure and sound-deadened reassurance.

In back, there is good foot room and a relaxed seat back angle, but no theater seating for better forward views. The fold-down armrest has storage, flip-out cup holders and trunk pass-through.

It is this car's attention to many details that will help restore faith in the brand.

But the energized styling, much-improved quality and V-8 power are all satisfying elements that could bring back buyers who wandered off in search of what had made Cadillac a world-class icon.
