Perfection Has Been Attained in Our Mail Order System.

There was a time, and not so very long ago, when shopping by letter was looked upon with askance, not to say scorn; but to-day with our corps of expert shoppers and splendid forwarding facilities, mail trading has taken a forward step—in fact so perfect and prompt is our system that fatiguing journeys are absolutely unnecessary and a line by post is as satisfactory as a personal visit.

We solicit this class of patronage and assure absolute satisfaction. Everyone at a distance; those at mountain, shore or at home, should acquaint themselves with the merits of New Jersey's greatest Mail Order Department. Use it freely—unhesitatingly.

Up the Hudson.
History teaches us that Hudson, in his trip up the river which bears his name, was highly pleased with the marvelous scenic surroundings. Were he to make the trip to-day words would not express his delight, for in addition to nature's handiwork the embellishments by man have made the Hudson one of the grandest spots in the country. The New Jersey Central will run in connection with the Steamer St. Johns, a popular priced excursion up the Hudson on Sunday, Aug. 16, 1903, rate to be $1.00, and train will leave Westfield at 9:03 a. m. Fare for children half of above rate. Steamer St. Johns is one of the famous Sandy Hook Fleet and is the best appointed and fastest excursion boat in the harbor.

Railroad Cost Here and Abroad.
The cost of railways has been calculated at about $3 per inch and $195,000 every mile. It is also said that British railways are three times as costly as those of America.

UNNECESSARILY RUBBING IT IN.

The Summit Record Scores the Freeholders—Objects to Method of Corner Stone Laying.

The practice of turning over to a purely fraternal organization the charge of such a function as the laying of a cornerstone on a public building was established by the Union County Board of Freeholders, and the city authorities of Newark have decided to follow this foolish example and have transferred to the same organization the work of arranging for the corner stone of the new City Hall there. In another column we publish a letter from a member of the Masonic order that expresses clearly the views of the sensible members of that society and is one of a host of such letters addressed to the press and public officer of the Newark during the past week.

We trust the citizens of Newark will continue to berate the officials there for their unwise course until they create a feeling that will deter municipal officers in other parts of the State from continuing the practice started by Union County. Because our Freeholders lacked common sense is no reason why other communities should be imposed on with the plea that their officers are only following Union County's example.

Up Goes Coal in Plainfield.

The coal dealers in Plainfield have agreed upon an increase of 25c per ton after September 1st. This increase will make the cost of coal $8.50 per ton. No rumors of an increase in Westfield have yet been heard. The local dealers can be counted upon to give their patrons a fair deal every time. During the strike they sold coal at a lower figure than any dealer in Union County.

Manhattan Beach.

To-night the Independent Order of Foresters will foregather at Palu's Fireworks Amphitheatre, Manhattan Beach, to witness the "Fall of Pompeii" and special fireworks in their honor.

To-morrow night the Twenty-Third Regiment of Brooklyn will attend in a body, followed by its crowd of admirers. Monday night will be devoted to set pieces of interest to Staten Islanders. The Shriners will be down Tuesday and "Irish Night" will be celebrated Wednesday.

TO BUILD PORCELAIN TOWER.

Thirty Thousand Pieces of China to Be Used in Unique French Structure.

There rose about St. Cloud, France, before the war of 1870 a sort of square tower of brick and porcelain called the "tower of Diogenes." The state manufactory of Sevres is about to replace this tower—destroyed in one of the campaigns—by a porcelain one.

The design of this original tower has just been handed in for the inspection of the director of fine arts. It will be composed of white, blue, turquoise, rose coral, and emerald-green china, 30,000 pieces in all being required for its composition.

The decorations will be both from the floral and animal kingdom, and will portray the legends of the forest of St. Cloud. From its great height it will overlook Paris.

Massive Columns for Cathedral.

Two of the eight granite columns that are to form an arc about the altar of the cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York are the largest, aside from the Central park obelisk, in this country. They were brought on a specially constructed lighter from Rockland, Me., where the huge pieces of granite were quarried and polished. Each column is made of two pieces. The lower is six feet in diameter, 30 feet long, and weighs 85 tons. The upper is 18 feet long, six feet in diameter, and weighs 40 tons.

Enger to Destroy Weevil.

A proclamation has been issued in Texas in pursuance of the provisions of the act of the twenty-eighth legislature, in which the sum of $50,000 is offered to the discoverer of a means for the destruction of the cotton boll weevil in Texas, the tests to be made practically by the state officers. The issuance of the proclamation does not indicate that the weevil is doing serious harm to the cotton crop. It was made necessary by law.

MOUNTAINSIDE SLASHER JAILED. MARSHALL BOYNTON REFERS CHARGES.

Officer is Badly Cut Up But is Able to Appear in Court—Tells How He Called For Assistance But Assistants Refuse to Lead a Helping Hand.

The man, who, last Wednesday, slashed several Mountainsiders while resisting arrest by Marshal George Boynton, was captured in Elizabeth Saturday morning and brought to the Westfield lockup where he was held for trial Saturday night before Recorder Toucey.

Boynton was the only man who appeared before the court to press the charges against John Per Doe, the man who used his knife with such telling effect. Boynton told how he had seen Doe coming out of Bill Long's house with a loaf of bread and stated that Long asked him to help arrest the supposed thief. With the assistance of Andy MacMurray, the three pounced upon Doe and a hand to hand conflict ensued. Doe, so states Boynton, drew a knife and slashed right and left, beating off his assailants and making his escape across the fields. Marshal Boynton stated that several brawny men witnessed the attempted arrest and that he asked them for assistance but no one volunteered to step forward. Boynton said he kept up with the escaping man until he dropped, weakened from the loss of blood.

Doe was asked a few questions by interpreter Albrecht and admitted on trying the men but being a foreigner and hardly understanding any English at all he thought the men were trying to kill him. He said Boynton pulled a gun on him and he fought back in self defense.

Doe was held for the grand jury and Sunday morning was taken to the county jail by Mountainside officers and assistants.

PLAINFIELD BOYS MUST NOT SMOKE.

Borough Board Will Break Up Practice Among Boys—Habit on the Increase.

Pupils Have Been in the Habit of Enjoying Smokes During Recess.

Cigarette and tobacco smoking by students will be prohibited in the borough schools at the next school term. Stringent measures will be taken by the Borough Board of Education to enforce the law. The school authorities realize the habit is steadily growing in the school, and it has been the subject of much unfavorable comment from the public during the past year. During recess it has been the habit of pupils to smoke in front of the building without any molestation or reproach from the authorities. It is generally conceded that the practice is of no benefit to the pupils. It is said that in several instances, where the students were low in studies, that it was largely with those who indulge in the habit.

Mr. Townsend, of the Board, stated a few days ago to a Courier-News reporter that the only jurisdiction the school authorities had over pupils was during school hours. Some special arrangement, he said, will probably be made to try to discourage the habit which has grown so rapidly among school pupils during the past few years. Practically the same conditions all prevail among the pupils in the city schools and no doubt similar steps will be taken by the local Board at its next meeting. Plainfield Courier-News.

Alligator's Breakfast.

Mr. Bud Spinks was awakened the other morning by a strange, grunting noise in his room, which proved to be the voice of a medium-sized alligator that was warming itself in the smoldering ashes of his fireplace, and incidentally trying to swallow his boots, which he had placed there to dry, and which he had bought on the installment plan, and on which he had made but one payment.

The saurian had succeeded in swallowing one boot, and had the other down clear to the straps, which Mr. Spinks seized and pulled out. The gator is now on exhibition at Mincho's drug store, but will soon be slain, in order that Mr. Spinks, who is going around with one boot and one slipper, may recover the other boot.—Adams (Ga.) Enterprise.

How Plants Remain Upright.

If a flower-pot is laid on its side the stalk of the plant growing in it gradually curves upward until it resumes the vertical position. This is called geotropic curvature, and the question is by what means the plant is stimulated to change its direction of growth. One theory avers that movable starch grains in the plant cells fall to the lower side as the position is changed, and by their pressure influence the mechanism of growth. Recently Mr. Francis Darwin, in England, has succeeded in accelerating the tendency of a plant to curve upward when placed horizontally by subjecting it to the vibrations of a tuning-fork. He thinks the shock of the vibrations affects the movements of the starch grains.—Nature.

RARE OLD TIMEPIECE.

Chicago Man Uncovers a Bird-Cage Clock Nearly Three Hundred Years Old in His Cellar.

In the possession of Daniel T. Boyle, of Chicago, is an ancient clock of curious workmanship, which is almost an exact duplicate of the "Great Chamber" clock of 1623, and which lacks only a few years of the age of that famous timepiece. When Mr. Boyle, excavating in his cellar, found it with several other curios, where they had been buried by their former owner, he thought he had the veritable clock which was lost track of after it left the possession of Percy Webster, of London.

A description and photograph forwarded to Alan L. Cole, of the Victoria and Albert museum, however, brought a reply that the clocks were not identical, although that in Mr. Boyle's possession was an excellent example of those of the seventeenth century, and of considerable value as a curio.

The clock which was taken from Mr. Boyle's cellar is one of the first in which the weight and pendulum were adapted to recording time. It is of the same pattern as those which first succeeded the makeshift contrivances which superseded the hourglass. The case is a metal box, and the works are cut by hand. The dial, which is of brass, elegantly engraved, carries only an hour hand, which is characteristic of all the clocks of its date. Surmounting the case and ornamental fretwork is a bell of deep tone, on which the hours are struck. On the face appears the name "Joseph Windmills" as the maker.

According to the information obtained from the Victoria and Albert museum, he was admitted to the Clockmakers' company, London, in 1671, and appointed a master of the company in 1703. The resurrected example of his handiwork is one of those known as the "lantern" or "birdcage" clocks, dating from the latter part of the seventeenth century.

QUADRUPLTS ARE BORN.

Scotch Parents, Married Five Years, Have Brought Seven Children Into the World.

Mrs. Colligan, the wife of a steel polisher, living at Bridgeton, Glasgow, has recently given birth to four girls. The mother is only 28 years of age, and has been married five years. She first had twins, then singles, and lastly these quadruplets, who, however, did not survive.

Instances of four children at a birth are exceedingly rare, and only two cases are on record where this number has been exceeded.

On September 3, 1784, a woman of Koenigsberg gave birth to quintuplets, and in October, 1800, the wife of Nelson, a tailor of Oxford market, London, had five children at a birth.

It is usual for the sovereign to pay "king's bounty" to poor women who give birth to three or more living children at one time.

About 200 years ago there was a tax on the birth of children. A tax of £30, for instance, was exacted on the birth of a duke's son, and two shillings on the birth of a common person.

KEY TAKEN FROM STOMACH.

One Made of Brass Swallowed Fifteen Years Ago by English Domestic Recently Removed.

An interesting case has occupied the attention of the staff of the St. Bartholomew's hospital, Rochester, England.

Annie Murphy, a domestic servant at Hoo village, near Rochester, swallowed accidentally a brass clock key 15 years ago. She is now 18. Efforts then made by local doctors to locate the key proved futile, and her life has practically been in jeopardy ever since. Recently illness compelled her to go to the hospital, where it was decided to operate upon her.

In the meantime, however, certain medicine was applied, and the key was dislodged. Miss Murphy's health has greatly improved.

GIVES EAR AS SOUVENIR.

Grim Memento Accompanied by Charge of Improper Treatment Sent to an English Doctor.

Dr. Dixon, of the Bristol royal infirmary recently received a newly severed human ear, which was sent to him through the post.

A covering letter, which bore no signature, alleged that the writer had been improperly treated at the infirmary, and he sent his ear as a memento of his experiences there. He explained that he had also tried to take out an eye, but had not succeeded.

The police found that the sender of the ear was a middle-aged man, who lived alone in a cottage in Blackney, Forest of Dean. A doctor pronounced him to be sane, so nothing could be done.

WIRE FENCE BUILDING.

Durability Depends Altogether Upon the Way in Which the Anchor Posts Are Set.

The amount of time annually consumed in the repair of wire fences combined with the loss in crops and in injured animals due to their being out of repair, we are confident would foot up a pretty big total. A little more time expended, however, in the first construction of the fence, so that it may be constructed substantially and according to correct principles will very materially reduce these losses. One of the first and most important requisites of a good fence is to have the anchor posts so set that they will stay right where they are placed. The failure to properly set these is perhaps the most prolific source of poor fences and the consequent losses therefrom. There is much less strain on a fence that is kept tight and in proper shape than on one that is not, because there is less effort on the part of the animals to get through than where they can see a more encouraging prospect of success in that direction. Such a condition of fence can be maintained only when the anchor posts are so set as to resist any reasonable amount of strain that may be placed upon them. The accompanying cut represents a very substantial anchor. The anchor post should be large and the heavier the better, although actual weight is of minor importance. It should be of sufficient length to extend 4 1/2 feet into the ground, where a long stretch of a four or a 4 1/2-foot fence is to be attached thereto, and have a two-inch block, the larger the better, spiked on the rear side at its foot and one on the front side just below the surface of the ground, as shown in cut. If it is a corner post with two stretches of wire attached at right angles to each other there should be two sets of blocks spiked to the post to correspond. The brace post should also have a two-inch piece spiked to its front side just below the surface of the ground. A good heavy brace, that will not spring, should be placed against the brace post and supported by a stone or block to keep it out of the ground and prevent decay. The other end of the brace should be placed against the anchor post about midway between the ground and top of fence. It is quite common to see the brace placed against the top of the anchor post, but placed in this manner it acts as a lever to lift the anchor post out of the ground. A wire is next passed round the brace panel from foot of anchor to top of brace post and twisted as shown in cut. Twelve feet is a very good length for the brace panel; a longer one requires a heavier brace to secure a given strength and too short a panel makes the brace too steep. The wires should be drawn up well, but not too tight, as this will injure the texture of the wire. This is especially true in the case of single strand wire. In cable wire the twist will yield to any overstrain. Staples should not be driven tight, as is often done, but left so the wire can have free movement from end to end. If the wire gets a little slack at any time it can then be tightened by hitching on to either end. If an animal runs into such a fence with great force the wires will yield a throughout their whole length like a spring, and as the body is thrown back they return to their former position, and may show but little change from their former condition, while the same impact against a fence with staples driven tightly would be sustained by that immediate section of the fence. The wires, if not broken, would be stretched and injured in texture and left hanging so that immediate repairs would be necessary. Even with a mild impact that will do little injury to the wire it is drawn through the staples which are too tight to allow it to return and it hangs there loose and out of condition until repaired.—Prairie Farmer.

Best Time for Caponizing.
The best time to caponize is when the cockerels are about three months old. It is not feasible to do it after a cockerel becomes mature, as the proportion of deaths, culls and slips is much greater than with the younger birds. Capons grow rapidly and mature early, as they are quiet and peaceable. Their flesh remains soft and juicy like that of a young chicken, and as a rule, they bring considerably more per pound than natural birds. They are most in demand from February to June and are not commonly marketed until from ten to fourteen months of age. Capons make more weight for the feed they eat than any other fowls, as their only ambition is to eat and rest, two things which are favorable to the production of fat and growth.—Orange Judd Farmer.

BEHIND THE FOOTLIGHTS

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Another excellent midsummer bill has been arranged for the coming week at Keith's. From start to finish it will be a hummer. Not a single dull moment will be found from the rise of the curtain until it falls at the close. Good, clean, refined and thoroughly enjoyable comedy is the predominating feature of the programme. It is such entertainment as this that has made the attendance at Keith's this summer a phenomenal one.

Heading the list of artists will be that old favorite, Isabelle Urquhart, and her best sketches. She is too well and favorably known to extend comment and her appearance is always awaited with expectancy by vaudeville lovers. Another act which will add to the character of the show is that of Bert Howard and Leona Bland. It is entitled "Strange Boy," and abounds in situations and climaxes that are screamingly funny. A musical turn sure to meet with the approval of all is the Golden Gate Quartette.

Among the eight acts may be mentioned that of Orville and Frank. Their work in balancing is said to be on the marvelous order and they have won unstinted praise wherever they are shown. Harry B. Watson, as the tramp bicyclist does many queer stunts on the wheel and his comedy is as fine as his riding. Among the single turns will be Walter Daniel, Lawrence Crane, Gilday and Fox, Russell and Buckley, Kelly and Violette, Harry B. Lester, and the moving pictures will complete a bill unequalled for merit and variety.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE.

Business at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre has been exceedingly good during the hot spell, owing probably to the fact that many brilliant comedies have been offered as attractions, interpreted by skillful comedians and comedienne. If, in his regular stock company, Mr. Proctor finds that he has not the right person or persons to fill the various characters, he scouts the market until the right one is found. The consequence is that every production at this theatre is perfect, not only from the scenic standpoint, but also in cast.

Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street, after a most successful summer season of stock, will in a short time turn to combinations for the winter season. Only the best comedy dramas and plays have been negotiated for, and a most prosperous season is the outlook.

Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, in the heart of the most fashionable shopping district, will very soon see the debut of many new European novelties that Mr. Proctor has booked through his agents abroad during the summer season.

Up in Harlem, at Mr. Proctor's One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Theatre, a splendid stock company is now being formed for the winter season. Many of the old favorites, beloved by Mr. Proctor's Harlem patrons, will return, while new comedians are being "tried out" every day before being placed at this popular house.

TONY PASTORS.

Here is the great bill offered next week at Pastor's Fourteenth Street play house. Callahan & Mack; McMahon & Chapelle; "Longfellow"; Cook & Sylvia; H. V. Fitzgerald; Joe Morris; Bros. Van; Tommy and Laura Harris; Chas. and Florence Gregson; Axtell & Sylvia; The Chamberlains, Sheppard Camp; The Morrisoptoscope and the American Vitagraph.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

The opening attraction of the season in New York will be at the Academy of Music, New York City, on the evening of Thursday, August 6th, when "The Christian" will be presented, the engagement being limited to about twenty performances. This popular attraction has been put on the vast stage at The Acad. emy for the sole purpose of illustrating the fascinating and thrilling interest attaching to the greatest of all plays of the past decade, under circumstances which it can only enjoy where the stage room is unobstructed.

Therefore this revival can be regarded as partaking of the marvelous, for it will not only include a tremendous and complete production, but a cast which has probably never before been equalled in any presentation of the play. Edward J. Morgan will be seen in his original role of John Strain—probably the last time in which he will ever appear in the character—while the Glory Quynle will be Miss Clara Blandick, whose impersonation of the role that Viola Allen made famous, has won for her marked distinction and much favorable comment. The list also includes George Woodward as Arohdencou Wealt, Guy Nichols as Parnon Quynle, Mrs. Georgia Dickson as Mrs. Callendar, and Carry and Edith Merrill, all of the above named having played the roles in which they will now appear, in the original cast, when Miss Allen first presented "The Christian" at the Knickerbocker Theatre. All the remaining members of the cast have filled conspicuous roles in subsequent productions of "The Christian," and among such capable artists as Frank C. Bangs, Clarence Handyside, Harold Hartsell, Tharlow Bergen, Stanton Elliott, Frank Bixby, Misses Beth Franklin, Jessie Blandford, Evangeline Irving, Mrs. A. Parrish, etc.

ART EYELASHES THE LATEST.

Most Recent Invention of London Hair Specialist Who Adds to Beauty of Women's Eyes.

"Art eyelashes" are the latest invention of a hair specialist in Great Cas- tie street, London.

Before noon the other day six ladies with downcast eyes emerged from the specialist's establishment. They had long silken eyelashes.

A newspaper man who entered the shop gleaned some interesting information. On the counter were cardboard boxes containing countless cards. On each card was a delicate set of lashes attached to a scarcely visible strip of fish skin.

A small bottle containing a "skin fluid," patented in America, and two cards complete the outfit. The eyelashes are two shillings six pence per pair for theatrical wear.

"On our customer's first visit," said the manager, "We fix the skin on the eyelid with the fluid, and the false lashes mix with the lashes of the lady. It is beautiful, beautiful!"

The lashes last ten days usually, but 20 with care.

The manager declared that the two shillings six pence pairs were proof against even a prolonged fit of hysterics, but he admitted, of course, that he had no direct evidence to that effect.

The theatrical lashes are black and very long, and made of coarser material. The hairs are of vegetable origin and of every shade. They can be curled with the tongs when they become aggressively downcast.

Eyebrows at ten shilling six pence per pair, lasting from three to six months, are another specialty at this shop, and into those sold to elderly ladies gray hairs are cunningly inserted.

ILL-OMEN FOR SERVIAN KING.

Table from Cherished Oak. Almost Sanctified by Milan. Broken When He Died.

Among the superstitions of the extinct Obrenovitch family, of Servia, this one is related: Outside the church of Takowa stood a magnificent oak under which on Palm Sunday, in 1813, Milosch Obrenovitch unfurled the Servian flag to summon the momkas, or warriors, of the neighboring valleys, with whom he fought against the Turks. Tradition says that an old beggar woman with snow-white hair sat on the stone steps of the church and wished Milosch luck, adding that the family would be prosperous as long as it could dine near that oak.

After the battle of Slivka the oak, which had been named the "Tree of Freedom," was struck by lightning and threatened to decay. King Milan watched it with alarm, and at last decided to have it cut down. But he had two crowns and a small table carved from the wood where it was sound. He always carried this table with him, and when he was alone loved to dine from it.

When he lay dead in Vienna it stood in his bedroom. His valet lit a pilgrim candle to place beside his bed. But the king's adjutant told him to get the Takowa oak table and put the candle on that. In doing so the valet stumbled against an iron safe and broke the table. No one in all King Milan's household had the heart to move a hand against fate and have it repaired, so they burned the pieces.

Biggest Park in the World.

Los Angeles has the biggest park in the world. It was presented by a newspaper man named Griffith and is called Griffith park. The giver asked that no railroad leading to the park should be permitted to charge more than five cents fare. Central park, New York, cost over $15,000,000, and consists of 840 acres. Griffith park, Los Angeles, is a tract of 3,000 acres. It includes 2½ miles of frostless foothills, bordering on Cahuenga valley, five miles of Los Angeles river bottom and a beautiful little valley which originally was known as the Press Colony site. The park has over 2,000 acres of tillable land and some of the most romantic scenery on earth.

Oldest Public Building.

If we seek the oldest civic building in the United States we shall find ourselves in the quaint old adobe palace of the governors in Santa Fe, N. M. This long, low structure in the second oldest city of the United States has been the seat of government under the Spanish, Mexican and American regimes for nearly 300 years. It now contains the museum of the New Mexico Historical society, of which L. Bradford Prince, a native New Yorker, and former governor of New Mexico, is president. Gov. Prince considers that "the most historic building in the United States."—Chautauquan.

Third Floor.Now for a Sale of Samples and Discontinued Styles of Furniture.

Close upon the heels of our great July Furniture Sale comes another occasion of the biggest value giving in our history. This is an unlooked-for event made possible by certain trade conditions pertaining to the periodical Furniture Exposition of the West.

Exhibitors at the close of the Exposition prefer to sell their samples at a loss rather than ship them back to the factory—and our buyer (who has just returned) ever alive to your interests and ours, has secured at radical concessions the entire sample lines of several leading manufacturers.

THE SAMPLES are advance patterns of the newest styles for the coming season's selling. THE DISCONTINUED STYLES are most desirable and portray patterns that have been carried in regular stock, the manufacture of which has been discontinued.

HAHNE & CO.NEWARK, N. J.*HAHNE & CO.*Poultry Needed on Farms.

The more poultry on a farm the fewer insects and grubs. If it were not for the fowls worms would take the place. No one has an idea how many one hen will consume in a day. If hens were not shut out of the garden so rigidly at certain times of the year, there would be more currants and gooseberries. Ducks can soon rid a cabbage patch of worms. In tobacco fields in the south as high as 300 turkeys have been seen in one field cleaning out the tobacco worms. The Leghorns and other light-footed breeds keep trees clean of grubs as far as they can reach or jump. The poultry are well worth their keep in this capacity alone.—Midland Farmer.

Clipping the Queen's Wings.

Some beekeepers practice clipping one wing of their queens. This is done by holding the queen by the thorax between the thumb and finger and cutting a part of one of her wings. Be careful to avoid cutting the frame work of the wing. The reason for clipping queens is to prevent them from going with the bees at swarming time. When a swarm issues, the queen will be found hopping about in front of the hive. She can then be picked up and caged. A new hive is placed on the old stand and the queen is allowed to run in with the returning bees.—F. G. Herman in Orange Judd Farmer.

Intestinal Worms in Hogs.

Recently while at the Iowa Agricultural college the writer noticed the ground in the hog yard littered with excreted intestinal worms. The keeper explained that he had just given the swine their semi-annual dose of worm medicine. He said that it was his observation that hogs were frequently sick as a result of intestinal worms and that many times diseases arising from worms were named cholera. This would the more likely be the case, as a large number of hogs might be sick at the same time from the same cause. This cause of disease is too frequently overlooked, especially by the farmer that has only a few hogs and gives them but little attention. When a hog eats well and yet remains stunted it may be guessed that worms are at least a partial cause.—Farmers' Review.

Sheep Are Fond of Clover.

The clover crop seems to be of such supreme value for sheep that it might be said to be a necessary adjunct of the successful sheep farm. It is many-sided in value, being excellent for growing lambs, splendid for fattening ewes and high in rank for fattening in the feed lots. At some stage of the sheep's life clover feeding seems absolutely necessary to attain the best results. In addition to being very wholesome food, it is remarkable that sheep should be so ravenous for every part of it, stem, leaf and blossom.—Prof. J. A. Craig, in Rural World.

California Elephants.

In July, 1902, Mr. E. L. Furlong, of the University of California, rediscovered, on Potter creek, in Shasta county, a remarkable cave, which had been visited once before by Mr. J. A. Richardson in 1878. A party from the university has since thoroughly explored the cave, as a part of the investigation now going on to determine the antiquity of man in California. The bones of a large variety of animals have been found, including ancient representatives of the elephant, the taylor, the horse, the fox, the wolf, the bear, and so on, besides a large number of birds. It is remarked that the present mountainous character of that part of California is entirely out of harmony with the existence of mastodons, elephants and tapirs. No unquestionable relics of man have been found in the cave.—Youth's Companion.

Long-Standing Deposit.

Years ago a woman servant opened a small account, and after a time it reached the sum of $400. At the end of 20 years the account was transferred to the dormant fund. A few weeks ago a little thin old woman came into the bank. She said to the paying teller, "I left some money here. Can I get some of it if I need it?" She handed in her book. It was sent to the president. He came out and talked to the old woman. She had been in service in another state and had not needed the money and had let it alone. The president sent a clerk to look at the account. He came back with some figures on a slip. "Of course it has earned some interest," said the president. "Has it?" said the old lady. "It's over $3,000."—N. Y. Letter.

Widows and Orphans.

According to a Bear Journal one of the results of the war with England is the necessity of supporting 2,150 widows with 5,196 children, and 1,081 orphans.

The Point of View.

They were young and in love. Long had they walked that evening, looking for an unoccupied park bench, but every seat which had not its burden of bliss stood in an electric glare. "I hate those lamps," she said angrily. "They make too much light in a place like this."

One night later. The same couple, and still in love and in the park. Nay, they had just come in. This time they were holding down a bench in an arbor so dusky that an Ethiopian would have looked like a ghost in it. "Aren't the electric lights grand?" cooed she. "They cast such nice dark shadows."—N. Y. Times.

The Dinner Hour.

A gentle satire on the attitude of those laborers who spend more energy in talking about the rights of workmen than in earning them appears in The King.

"What's the matter with old Fred?" asks one workman.

"He's got a splinter in his 'and," says another.

"Why don't he pull it out?"

"Wot! In his dinner-hour? Not likely!"

King Who Never Smiled Again.

"One of the questions asked at a recent teachers' examination," says a college professor, "was, 'Can you name the monarch referred to in English history as the king who never smiled again?'" "The reply of one of the fair candidates for license to teach was, 'King William Rufus after he was shot in the forest.'"

"History records that the shot was fatal."—Albany Argus.

Paid Willingly.

"When Mildred returned from Europe she had to pay out all the money she had saved on her trip in order to get her new dresses through the custom house."

"That must have made her mad."

"O, no, it didn't. The custom house officer said they were the handsomest dresses he had seen that month."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Pretty Near Right.

Clitman—You hear of "journeymen carpenters," "journeymen plumbers" and all that, but you never hear of "journeymen" at all. Funny, isn't it?

Subbubs—Yes, it certainly should be proper to speak of "journeymen cooks." They merely journey from place to place.—Catholic Standard.

Antiquated Metaphor.

"This world is but a fleeting show," remarked the austere citizen. "I suppose so," answered Mr. Stormington Barnes. "And the taxpayer is the man who pays his money at the office and takes whatever the manager chooses to give him."—Washington Star.

Stocks vs. Wheat.

During the last few months thousands of small investors have lost money in the grain market. In Wall street, and many think the end has not yet come. On the other hand, wheat is more plentiful and the movement is more active. Those who have become discouraged with your Wall street experience and desire to operate in wheat, the undersigned, representing one of the largest grain firms in the country and a little larger market in the world, Chicago, will be glad to handle your orders.

—Instead of going on the "big eight" excursion to Ocean Grove Tuesday, a party of young folks journeyed to Boynton Beach. They bathed, took in the various forms of amusement and had a generally jolly time. In the party were the Misses Mabel L. Dewey, Estelle M. Dickinson, Misses McGay, Martin A. Dewey, Frank Poey, Henry Dickinson, Edward Hodges and Messrs. McGay.

—Slightly Continued.

"What nonsense that man talks," remarked Senator Sorghum as the departing visitor crossed the door.

"What did he say?"

"Something about a profit being without honor somewhere or other. I want to go on record as saying that there isn't a country in the map where a profit is not held in high esteem."—Washington Star.

—Rather Gave Him Away.

Fond Father (showing off his offspring's intelligence)—Now, Elsie dear, what is a cat?

Elsie—Dunno.

"Well, what's that funny little animal that comes creeping up the stairs when every one's in bed?"

Elsie (promptly)—Papa.—John Bull.

W. H. TRENCARD SUCCESEUL.

Induced Dr. Howard Company to Make Special Price.

After a great deal of effort and correspondence, W. H. Trencard, the popular druggist, has succeeded in getting the Dr. Howard Co. to make a special half-price introductory offer on the regular fifty cent size of their celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia.

Dr. Howard's specific has been so remarkably successful in curing constipation, dyspepsia and all liver troubles, that W. H. Trencard is willing to return the price paid in every case where it does not give relief.

Call upon him at once, or send 25 cents, and get sixty doses of the best medicine ever made, on this special half price offer, with his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure.

McCarty Boys Arrest An Error.

Saturday afternoon Jim McCarty and Tim McCarty, Westfield's respected hackmen, were arrested on a warrant sworn out by a Garwood saloon keeper and taken to Roselle for trial. When the case was heard the Justice of the Peace immediately dismissed the case deciding no cause for action.

It appears that as the McCarty brothers were passing the saloon at Garwood late Friday night on their way to their home in Westfield they saw two men trying to break in the saloon door with a rock. The men are supposed to belong in Cranford. The McCartys went to the rear of the saloon and told the proprietor what was going on in front. Just then a rock smashed through the door and the two disturbers escaped down the road. The saloon keeper got it into his head that the McCartys were also implicated in the affair and had them arrested with the result as stated above.

This Plainfielder Arrested.

Charles Everett of Plainfield, became very abusive on Saturday morning to Albert E. Decker, the North avenue liveryman, and his abuse landed him behind prison bars. Everett, while under the influence of liquor, had endeavored to hire a rig from Mr. Decker and not succeeding he used vile language and offered to "lick any man in the stable." His continued abuse made it necessary for Mr. Decker to call upon officer Toucey to arrest the man. After a day in the lock up Everett appeared before Recorder Toucey and pleaded guilty to the charge. He was fined $5 and costs.

Mr. Grogan Will Take Charge.

On September 1st, W. H. Grogan will take charge of the Westfield Club acting as steward. "Billie" will also be in a position to serve a dinner to club members, as it is expected by the first of next month the new cafe or dining room will be in readiness.

ENJOYED THE STRAW RIDE.

A jolly party of twenty young people enjoyed a straw ride last Friday evening in Robert Woodruff's big stage to Elizabeth and return. A stop was made at Melinckes, Broad street, where ice cream was served. Mrs. Martin A. Dewey and her sister, Mrs. F. W. Prescott of Boeton, were chaperones. The following were present:

The Misses Mabel L. Dewey, Edith A. Cowperthwaite, Helen S. Donnell, Estelle M. Dickinson of Pittsburg, Clara Pory of Brooklyn; Ella Hale of Cranford, Jean McGay and Luquer McGay, of New York, Edna Scofield of Brooklyn. Mr. Martin A. Dewey, Jr., Charlie Voorhees, Elbert Meyer, Raymond Smith, Edward Hodges, Walter Surley, Sherman Reese, Henry Dickinson, of Pittsburg, Arthur McGay of New York, Marshall White of Fauwood, Frank Pory of Brooklyn.

Up the Hudson.

History teaches us that Hudson, in his trip up the river which bears his name, was highly pleased with the marvelous scenic surroundings. Were he to make the trip to-day words would not express his delight; for in addition to nature's handiwork the embellishments by man have made the Hudson one of the grandest spots in the country. The New Jersey Central will run in connection with the steamer St. Johns a popular priced excursion up the Hudson on Aug. 13, 1903, rate to be $1.00, and train will leave Westfield at 8:57 a. m. Fare for children half of above rate. Steamer St. Johns is one of the famous Sandy Hook Fleet and is the best appointed and fastest excursion boat in the harbor.

No Time.

The woes of the suburbanite, who does business in the crowded city and resides in the outskirts, have furnished the theme for many an anecdote. One of these suburban dwellers was rushing along the street in the direction of the railway station when a friend joined him.

"What is your hurry, Jacobs?" asked the friend.

"I am trying to catch the five-forty train," replied Jacobs, "and I don't know whether there is any five-forty train now or not. There has been a change."

"Haven't you a time-table in your pocket?"

"Yes; but if I stop to look at it, and that train is still on, I'll miss it by ten seconds!" And he glanced at his watch and hurried on.—Youth's Companion.

A Chinaman's Pocket.

A Chinaman's pocket is more difficult of access than the proverbial pocket of our grandmothers, which furnished the theme of many an old joke. On occasion Chinamen produce. They buy for ready cash. Money comes from them at remote intervals, but from what exact location no Caucasian has been able to ascertain. Each Chinaman is a sort of prestidigitator. He contracts to purchase a thing and presto! there is the money on the counter. There is no delving in the depths of coat or trousers, as with the white man. The coin materializes, as it were, before your eyes. Enterprising highwaymen have held up Chinamen and dissected them, but discovered no pockets. Where does the heathen carry his change? It is a question that vexes. It is easy to hold up a Chinaman, but until we locate his pockets it is not worth while. Young Davidson was perhaps seeking to perform a public service. He could not be a pickpocket where there was no pocket to pick.—Chicago Chronicle.

Nothing New.

"Gents," said the clerk of the summer hotel, "you're making too much noise. Mr. Longshore, the author, is in the next room, and he says he can't write."

"That so?" replied one of the roysterers. "Tell him everybody knows that."—Philadelphia Press.

Electric Arc and Microscope.

Before the Royal Microscopical society in London Mr. E. B. Stringer has described a new method of photographing objects magnified by the microscope. The light of the electric arc itself is employed, that of the incandescent carbons being shielded, the light itself is filtered, and thus a powerful violet monochromatic light, at the extreme limit of visibility, is obtained. With this light excellent photographs of minute objects, under a magnification of 2,000 diameters, were made and exhibited upon a screen. Mr. Stringer suggests that lenses specially corrected for the ultraviolet rays would enable photography to do for the microscope what it has already done for the telescope.—Science.

Albania.

Albania lies 180 miles on the Adriatic sea and is 50 to 100 miles wide. It was formed originally, says William Jackson Armstrong, in his "Heroes of Defeat," from part of Ilyria, all of Epirus and part of Macedonia in the eleventh century. From this territory sprang Pyrrhus, who defeated the Roman invader; Philip and Alexander of Macedonia, the conquerors; Perseus, whose fama as a soldier covered the world 60 years after Christ, and Skanderbeg, who for 40 years defeated armies sent against him by the Turk. Ancient Albania lay in Asia, just east of the Caucasus.

CHURCH ATTENDANCE

Ratio of One in 4.45 at Places of Worship Is Shown—Statistics Cover All Sects and All Parts of the City.

The London Daily News recently published some figures of the religious census of London, which was based on the Sunday attendance at all places of worship in the city. The census was taken by 400 poked workers supplied by the Army and Navy Pensioners' Employment society, working under inspectors. London was taken in boroughs. The first was enumerated in November and the last in June. No enumerations were made on Christmas day, Easter Sunday or Whitsunday.

The total places of worship visited were 2,600. Of these 2,538 were Christian churches, and 62 Jewish synagogues. Of the Baptist church only two bodies were found in every borough. The total population of the 29 boroughs is 4,541,000. Such as 492 dwellers in institutions, such as hospitals, workhouses, and prisons, leaves 4,468,049. The number recorded as having attended a place of worship is 1,002,940, giving a ratio of one in 4.45 of population.

The Established church has almost a monopoly of the wealthy districts. Her largest majorities are in Kensington, Hampstead, Paddington, Westminster and Marylebone.

The Nonconformists are strongest south of the Thames, the Congregationalists in the northeast, the Wesleyans in the southeast and the southwest, and the Presbyterians in the upper and middle class districts. There are minor Methodist bodies in the lower middle-class districts.

The Salvation Army is strong nowhere. The Roman Catholics are strongest in Kensington and Westminster, both wealthy; Holborn, which is of both extremes, and Stepney, which is largely slumdom.

In regard to the actual figures of attendance, the Church of England is first, with a combined morning and evening attendance of 430,153; Nonconformists second, with 416,225; Roman Catholics, 33,572; and other services, 62,990. Of the last named, the Jews are first, with 26,360, and the Church of Humanity and the New and Latter House of Israel the smallest, with 16 each.

The Christian Scientists have 553. The Church of England attendance was composed of 98,477 men, 188,364 women, and 143,322 children, and the Nonconformists 120,782 men, 105,978 women and 129,465 children.

In regard to the totals the News estimated that 35 per cent. went to service twice on Sunday, reducing the grand total attendance to 850,205 and the ratio of one in 4.45 to one in 5.25.

How the Orient Gets Its Meal.
"Two women shall be grinding at the mill." In the east the day's supply of meal is ground each morning by two women, who sit opposite each other on a large, clean cloth with the small millstones between them. They push the upper stone around and around by means of a stick standing upright in a hole in one side, both women holding it. They usually sing as they grind.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Saw His Finish.
Pat—Faith, an' Oi know that, sor.
"Then why don't you make it an unvarying rule to keep your mouth closed?"
"Ef Oi did that same it's meself as would be afther starvin' ter death, Oi'm thinkin'."—Chicago Daily News.

A Distinction.
"I dislike so much to be called a 'poetess,'" said a young woman who sometimes wrote verses for publication.
"Perhaps," suggested her matter-of-fact brother, "if you will write a little better quality of poetry people will call you a poet."—Youth's Companion.

Pickled Cherries.
Cherries are pickled without stoning and should have their stems left on them as well. Allow one cupful of wine vinegar to a quart of fruit, also two tablespoonfuls of sugar, a dozen whole cloves, and half a dozen blades of mace. Boil five minutes. After it is cold strain out the spices and fill jars nearly full of fruit, filling to the top with cold vinegar.—N. Y. Post.

Habit of the Salmon.

Salmon fishers have often noticed when plying the rod that while the fish will take well on certain days, on other days, when the conditions do not seem to differ, the fish will hardly rise at all. An interesting and ingenious theory to explain this is put forward by Mr. George Muirhead, commissioner of the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, who has had the Gordon castle water in the river Spey under observation for the last four years. During this period he carefully noted the temperature of the river along with the takes of fish. He found that when the weekly variation in temperature was only three degrees the average of salmon taken by each rod in the day was 2.14, and that when the weekly temperature varied as much as 12 degrees, the average of salmon taken by each rod in the day fell to 0.40. His conclusion is that salmon are influenced by variations in the temperature in taking the artificial fly, and will not bring joy to the angler while the temperature of the water varies much daily. Anglers will note, therefore, that their luck depends not so much on certain temperatures, but on a continuation of an even temperature for several days.—London Chronicle.

Old Girl Graduates.

If the likenesses of girl graduates which now make an attractive feature of many newspapers are true to the life, and undoubtedly they are in most cases, doesn't it seem that those leaving the high schools have a remarkably mature look? In some instances they look to be quite 25 years of age and as knowing and wise as girls who really have seen that number of years are usually found to be in this sophisticated age. It seems rather curious, too, that such young girls should look so "finished," but it is probably just an evening up of things in their respective families, as their mothers and grandmothers are undoubtedly engaged in taking beauty-and-youth-renewing cures with years from five to twenty-five taken from their ages. We will record it as the result of an effort of nature to square accounts.—Boston Transcript.

Exercising a Right.

The famous Searles mansion at Great Barrington Mass., is the show place of the town and is open to visitors. Mayor Low went to Great Barrington for a rest after his election in 1901. With a party of friends he visited the Searles mansion. In one of the rooms there lay on the floor an immense tiger skin. As soon as the mayor caught sight of it he walked over it from head to tail three or four times.

"Why do you do that, Mr. Mayor?" one of his friends asked.
"Because I have earned the right to trample on the skin of the tiger," Mayor Low replied.—N. Y. Sun.

"I see some big professor says de workin' day ought to be reduced to four hours."

"Gee, if dey keep on cuttin' down de workin' day we'll soon be in de laborin' class."

"Well, I wouldn't much mind workin' about 15 minutes a day when de wedder's pleasant, if de wages was temptin'."—Kansas City Journal.

Terrible Position.

"What caused young Sapp to topple over in that confectionery store?"

"A brick."

"You don't say! Did the brick fall on him?"

"No, it was a brick of ice cream his girl ordered, and he discovered that he only had four cents."—Chicago Daily News.

HOW HEALTH IS GAINED

The story of a great deal of the unhappiness of women is a story of lost health. Women wonder how it is that little by little the form loses plumpness, the cheeks grow hollow and fallow, and they feel tired and worn-out all the time. In a large proportion of cases when women are weak, run-down and falling off in flesh and looks, the root of the trouble can be traced to womanly diseases which undermine the general health. The proof of this is that women who have been cured of painful womanly diseases by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription have recovered their general health, gained in flesh and in appearance.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the womanly diseases which sap the general health. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I suffered for three years with ovarian trouble," writes Mrs. Anna Quinn (Treasurer Woman's Athletic Club), of 22 Sycamore St., Milwaukee, Wis. "The treatment I took did not do me a particle of good, until a good neighbor who had been using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription advised me to give it a trial. The next day took my first dose, and it was my first step toward recovery. In nine weeks I was a different woman; my flesh which had been abnormally thin, complexion clear and my eyes bright. It was simply an indication of the great change within from pain and suffering to health and happiness."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.
