The electoral ticket was cut only once in the entire town, and that in the Third Ward. The Second Ward, usually considered Democratic, gave a majority of nearly two to one for Roosevelt and Fairbanks and a substantial number.

The Lauter Piano appeals to the artist, for its tone is sympathetic, rich and beautiful. The action is accurately regulated, and responds to every demand that is made upon it. The key-board is exquisitely balanced, the modulation being delightful.

Mr. H. F. von der Heide is as good a judge of pianos as we know, for he is familiar through extensive playing with nearly every reputable make in this country. He warmly admires the Lauter, as his testimonial letter shown here proves:

Studio: 16 Saybrook Pl.,
Newark, N. J., Sept. 16, 1904.
Lauter Co.,
Newark,
Gentlemen:

After having played on Lauter pianos it is impossible to withhold testimonial to the qualities which have secured for them their eminent reputation. Lauter pianos have a fine quality of tone; the bass is sonorous and large, yet mellow, and the rest of the key-board is full, clear and sweet.

I do not hesitate to express my satisfaction with these instruments and to say unreservedly that they are in the first rank.

Kindly accept my best wishes

(Signed)

H. F. von der Heide,
Pianist and Orchestral Director.

Mr. von der Heide is but one of the very many musicians in New Jersey who have given their unqualified approval to the Lauter piano.

Lauter cases are beautiful, and are shown in great variety of finishes and woods. The regular styles are in exquisite taste and challenge your critical opinion.

We make a specialty of cases to match the trim of music rooms and have some fine examples of art finish and "dead" finish now on exhibition. Such woods as burl walnut, forest green oak, etc., are especially attractive under our novel treatment.

Besides Lauter pianos we have such good makes as Chickering, Hardman, Gabler, Sterling, Lenox, Llewellyn, etc.

We have the largest stock in this country—many more pianos than any concern in New York, and easily five times as many as any other in this State.

We can arrange easy terms on any instrument you may select. We accept as little as $10 at time of delivery, and your promise to pay as small an amount as $5 monthly.

There are many bargains in Lauter and other uprights in our second floor parlors. Very low prices.

WESTFIELD HELPS ALONG THE REPUBLICAN VICTORY.

Justly for every other Republican candidate. George H. Embree made a remark, and ran for Assemblyman in view of the incident predictions that he would be out badly in his own town. He ran ahead of his running mates for the assembly in the Fourth Ward and only one behind Roosevelt. He received less than twenty five votes in the whole town, and came out second in the County. The Republican County ticket was elected by a heavy majority and Congressman Fowler succeeded himself by a vote double that of his Democratic opponent, James E. Martine, whose destiny, akin to Tennyson's book, seems to be to run on forever. Edward C. Stokes received a tremendous vote for Governor, and New Jersey will send only one Democratic Congressman to Washington.

The city of Elizabeth was conceded by both parties to be Democratic. The Republicans had hard work to get a capable man to accept the nomination for Mayor against Patrick J. Ryan. One man was nominated and refused to accept. The eleventh hour candidate of the Republicans made a brilliant canvass and, assisted by the general wave of Republicanism was swept to victory by about 200 majority. Parker carried only four Counties in the entire State of New Jersey.

Figures in Westfield.

The registration in Westfield was 1300. The total vote cast was 1136. Of this Roosevelt got 722. Stokes, 703; Fowler, 696; Calvert, for County Clerk, 717; Smith, for Registrar, 703; Coyne, 709; Tillman, 713; Embree, for Assembly, 700; and Pierson, for Coroner, 713.

Vote of Surrounding Towns.

Mountainide polled 71 votes. Only 16 of them were given to Parker. Debs, the Socialist, got 6, and Watson 3. The remaining 48 went for Roosevelt. Stokes and the Republican candidates for Assembly ran even with Roosevelt and Fowler 3 ahead.

Garwood gave Roosevelt 82 to 42 for Parker, Stokes doubled on Black, Fowler 65 and Martine 40. Embree ran highest on the Assembly ticket.

Plainfield recorded 1700 majority for the Republican Presidential candidates and not far below that for the rest of the ticket. James F. Buckle for Mayor and the entire Republican City ticket were elected.

The Voting Machine in the First Ward.

The first vote in Westfield was cast at a half minute after six o'clock in the morning by the Town Clerk, who was accorded the privilege of voting the first ballot ever cast on a voting machine in Westfield. The machine was used in the First Ward and not more than half a dozen voters appeared to experience any difficulty in casting a ballot as they desired. Even those got it all right with a few general instructions spoken by the Election Board from the outside as allowed by the law. There were undoubtedly some who wanted to cut, but voted straight because they feared to risk the head of the ticket, though their fears were ungrounded. The large majority had anticipated a complex mechanical device which would confuse the uninstructed. They were agreeably disappointed, and expressed their pleasure with the actual simplicity of the machine so far as the voter needs to know to vote. The polls were closed at seven p. m. Several minutes were consumed in turning the machine toward a better light, but at exactly quarter past seven the crowd began leaving the room, having heard the entire vote of the First Ward given for every candidate. The actual time occupied in taking off and recording the 375 votes of the Ward was eleven and a half minutes.

TIP THAT WAS TOO GOOD.

Bookmaker Gives It to His Barber and Is Himself the One Who Loses.

The red-haired barber was still grinning when the regular customer slid into the chair, and he went right to work to explain, relates the New York Sun.

"See that sporty-looking man that just went out?" he asked. "Well, he's been coming in for months always a free tipper and always with a roll of money that would make you homesick to look at it."

"I figured him some way to be mixed up in the horse game, and I had a strong idea that he must be wise to it. So one day when he was good and friendly I braced him."

"Anything that's worth a bet?" I asks.

"He kinder sized me up."

"Play 'em, do you?" he says. "Well, there's nothing in the game. But ask me that question to-morrow."

"So I tried him the next day, and he looked at me awhile and finally he says:

"There's one in the third at Saratoga that may be good, but I haven't got the last word yet."

"You see how this shop's fixed. You can stand most anywhere in this basement and see folks going on Broadway. So this horse customer gives me the name of the horse and says:

"I'll be walking by here in about 30 minutes. If I nod, the horse is worth a bet. If I shake my head, leave it alone."

"Well, he walks by in half an hour and gives me the nod. It seemed kinder too good to keep, and I let the rest of the bunch in, and altogether we raised $50 and sent Joe the Bootblack out to make the bet."

"Joe used to take bets out for some pretty good men upstairs, and he knew a swell room around in New street. To cut it short, we got eight to one, and won."

"That isn't very much when it's split up among eight or ten; but it looked mighty good to us, and I hardly hadn't got over being happy when my sporty-looking customer comes in to-day. He wasn't looking very unhappy himself, and he starts right in to kid me about how good his tip was."

"Did you make a few dollars?" says he.

"Sure," I told him, and then, feeling pretty proud, I says: "We took $100 of it right here."

"Good," says he. "Where did you get your money down?"

"Oh, round at so and so New street."

"With that he jumped so I nearly cut his ear off."

"The thunder you did," he says. "Why, hang it all, that's my room!"

The Old Bright Ways.

Blue sky bending over—
Violets at your feet;
Dew-drenched fields of clover—
Apples red and sweet!

Rivers softly singing
On the way to sea;
Cattle-bells a-ringing—
Blooms that lure the bee.

Dreams in tangles mazy,
Win you as you pass;
Dewdrop on a daisy
For Love's looking-glass.

Clouds up there, a-reeping
Over fields of blue,
Like the skies were keeping
Chariots for you!

Who earth-likes would sever—
All the dreams destroy?
Life and love forever,
And a world of joy!

PRETTY THINGS TO WEAR.

Variety of Feminine Finery That Will Be in Vogue for the Fall Season.

Kid belts, especially those in black or white, are to retain their popularity. Any buckle may be worn with them, but the harness buckle is considered the smartest, the jewel and precious metal buckles being reserved for belts of richly brocaded ribbons, reports the New York Tribune.

Veilings are more elaborate than in summer, many of them being embroidered in floral designs, printed in gaily colors like the chiffons and mousselines for evening gowns. But women of conservative and exclusive taste will cling to the white or black small face face veils, or the long lace and chiffon veils draped gracefully about the hat.

In the color combinations of the autumn displays green and blue have a prominent place; but nothing is so pretty as the golden brown and bronze shades. A lovely hat, with a long and very full ostrich boa, is shown in three shades of brown, running from tan to a deep chocolate.

Brown chrysanthemums with golden hearts trim a hat of fine soft white felt. This new felt is not the stiff or long-haired felt of past seasons, but is as soft and pliable as velvet, which it will closely rival in the winter hats modeled on forms.

Never was so much "shading" seen. In plumes, feathers, ribbons, flowers and the new silk and woolen dress fabrics. Some of them are "rainbow" in effect while others are as lovely as a flint pastel.

Even in leather goods, tan, russet and "burnt" brown shades are leading; and lovely dressing cases, handbags, purses, cardcases and belts are shown in tan and russet, mounted with silver or nickel and lined with the same shade in kid or heavy silk moire.

Velvet shirtwaist dresses are shown for early fall wear, as well as those in the new checked materials, and the mingling of browns, whites and orange is pronounced in these.

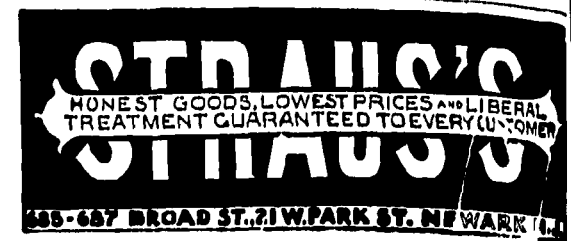

The Parisian touch of black is the leading note in many of the handomest toilets. Nothing is prettier than rosettes of narrow black velvet ribbon.

FEAST FOR A TENDERFOOT

Frairie Watermelon Treat Given to a New Yorker by a Border Judge.

"Nothing pleases an old timer in the middle west so much as to throw down a tenderfoot of the east," said a New York commercial traveler who was telling of a trip he recently made to Kansas City. "I was at the Kansas City club for luncheon when I was introduced to former Judge Bernard, a fine type of the old-time judiciary. For dessert we had watermelon. I praised the lushness of the fruit. 'You New Yorkers always like watermelon,' said the former judge. 'I remember how I fooled a young tenderfoot from your city many years ago.'"

"I was at the time government interpreter for a tribe of Indians whose reservation was not very far from where we now sit. We were then on the border. One day a New Yorker came out here on business."

"I trudged over some prairie with the young man until he began to limp. At the close of the day I said to him: 'You sit down here, and I'll go out and see if I can get a watermelon for dinner.' He laughed until you could have heard him a mile. He reckoned that I might find some bear meat, but the idea of talking about watermelon in such a God-forsaken country as the Missouri border he regarded as a joke. Watermelon was not as common then as it is now. It was a luxury for gentlemen in city clubs. That was his idea."

"I told him that the soil of Missouri was so rich and productive that watermelon grew upon it as naturally as pawpaws. I made him sit down in the grass and went out to hunt for the fruit."

"I returned in a half hour with a melon under each arm. They were the finest variety. They were yellow meat with black seeds—the most delicious species of watermelon, and one you rarely see now anywhere."

"Well, sir, when I bustled them and we sat down to eat that New Yorker's mouth looked like the entrance to the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky. When he had his fill he began to talk. He thought it was wonderful, and in his account of his trip he cracked up the soil of Missouri as being next to that on which the gods of Mount Olympus grew their choicest vintage."

"You see, I was always fond of watermelon, and whenever I wandered in those days I carried a pocketful of watermelon seeds and scattered them on the broken prairie. I was the original watermelon man of the border. Those seeds sprouted and brought forth abundantly. I could shut my eyes and find watermelons."

"So when this tenderfoot from New York struck the border and I told him we would have watermelon for dinner I knew what I was talking about. He never knew how I got those watermelons. For some years afterward whenever a New York tenderfoot came out here he hunted me up and asked if it was true that watermelons grew wild in Missouri. Up to the time I was elected to the bench I always said it was so. But when I got to be a judge I quit lying."

"Then we cut another one, and when I got home I sent Judge Bernard a case of the best in our stock."

LONDON'S GIDDY GRANDMAS

Society Old Women Who Are Bent Upon Cutting a Dash in Their Circles.

An American "chiel" who has been among us taking notes has apparently found nothing more amazing in London than our society old women, says the London World. There are none like them in the world, is the opinion of our transatlantic critic, and one is tempted to hope that she is right. It is, unfortunately, only too true that our septuagenarians have been bent for some time past on playing what theatrical advertisements describe as "juvenile lead." Between the grandame and the granddaughter there is no longer a line drawn, so far as dress is concerned, and when ladies who have reached their fifth and sixth decade array themselves in muslins and chiffons, flimsy laces and baby hats, transparent hose and slippers that the debutante might wear, it follows that they do their best to live up—or down—to their clothes. It is obviously useless to dress for juvenile lead unless one believes "as sich," and what the result of this is, alas! one sees every day. To preach the doctrine that it is every woman's duty to look her best is all very well so far as it goes, but it should not go so far as to lead old women into the follies which have provoked the scorn of our transatlantic visitor. The flamboyant, girlish, giddy grandmother is a sad sight. The woman who is wise grows gracefully old when once she has reached the age of 50. She may be beautiful and charming to the end if she inherescently and artistically slides down the hill, but if she attempts the descent skittishly, with a flourish of coquettish petticoats and under a mask of paint, she must inevitably cut a sorry figure. The elderly bean is ridiculous; the ancient belle is this and more.

THE PRODUCTION OF FLINT

Figures on the Output of the Various States During the Year 1903.

The production of flint or quartz in 1903 amounted to 40,046 short tons of crude flint, valued at $18,736, and 15,187 short tons of ground flint, valued at $118,211, a total of 55,233 short tons, valued at $136,947. This was an increase of 18,868 short tons in production and of $12,738 in value. The quarries of Wisconsin and Virginia were idle in 1903, as were also several in other states. The states that furnished the production of 1903 were Connecticut, Maryland, New York, North Carolina and Pennsylvania.

These figures do not represent the entire amount of flint consumed annually in the United States, for much is imported from Europe in the form of rolled flints. The value of the flints and flint stone, unground, imported in 1903, was $101,103.

The production of feldspar in 1903 amounted to 13,622 short tons of crude feldspar, valued at $51,036, and 28,469 short tons of ground feldspar, valued at $205,697, a total of 42,091 short tons, valued at $256,733. This is a decrease from the total production of 1901 of 3,396 short tons, but an increase in value of $6,311. The states that contributed to this production were Connecticut, Maine, Maryland, New York and Pennsylvania. These figures do not show the entire amount of spar consumed in this country annually, for some is imported from Canada.

The above data are taken from a report made to the United States geological survey by Dr. Heinrich Ries, on the production of flint and feldspar in 1903. The report is an extract from the forthcoming volume on "Mineral Resources of the United States, 1903," which may be obtained, free of charge, from the director of the United States geological survey, Washington, D. C.

Mutation.

"Tis true the twilight colors gay Must quit the sky,
"Tis true the boss must fade away,
But what care I?
For other summer nights will bring As rich a western coloring—
And other flowers their sweets will fling—
So wherefore sigh?

"Tis true the transient hour of bliss Must swiftly fly,
There will be other joys than this,
So what care I?
The vanished light; the faded rose—
Nay, let them in the past repose.
Old joys should not be present woes,
So wherefore sigh?

FATAL "I DON'T KNOW."

Traveler Who Knew Lays It Onto Some No-Account Railway Employees.

"Do you want to know why the majority of the people who are grumbling against the hard fate that has befallen them from getting up in the world have not got up?" asked the man in the smoking compartment of the sleeper, who, relates the St. Paul Globe, had not hitherto spoken. "Well, I'll tell you by relating a series of experiences I had during the half hour previous to the train's start."

"I was at my hotel on the outskirts of the city. Two street car routes lead thence to the station, and, as time was pressing, I naturally wanted to take the shorter and quicker line. I asked a bellboy which it was."

"I don't know," he said.

"I asked the clerk."

"I really don't know," he said.

"I went out on the street and asked the first passer-by."

"I really don't know," he said.

"I was wasting time. I bolted for a car that was passing and made it."

"Is this a quicker line to the depot than the other?" I asked the conductor.

"I don't know. Maybe it is," he said.

"But it wasn't; and when I called to the conductor to let me off at the street leading to the depot, my watch pointed dangerously near to train time. Then, to add to my anxiety, the conductor ran by the street."

"What in thunderation did you do that for?" I yelled.

"I didn't know you wanted to get off here," he said.

"And I'd just finished telling him that such was my desire."

"I ran into the station. I had never bought a ticket there."

"Where is the ticket office?" I inquired hurriedly of a man in blue uniform—a depot attendant.

"I don't know," he said.

"I spied another uniform and put the same question."

"I don't know for sure," he said, "but maybe it's over there."

"I fled 'over there.' Luckily got within a hundred feet of the place and secured my ticket just in time to permit me to get on this train."

"Gentlemen, do you know why many a man never gets up. Because he doesn't know."

And all the other travelers nodded sympathetically as the speaker mopped his brow, made wet by the anxiety he had just passed through.

THE RESULT.

The people have spoken with a loud voice. They have let it be known in terms not ambiguous and in tones not uncertain that the record of Theodore Roosevelt satisfies, and the prospect of his continuance in office pleases. Both candidates were conceded to be personally clean men. But the moralist militant has been preferred to the moralist acquiescent, even as it should be. The preference was a fact the expression of which became a duty. It is creditable to the whole people that the duty was so thoroughly performed. That a man and a party who want what is right and are able to achieve it can so successfully appeal to the common sense and conscience of the voters is a fresh assurance of the wisdom of free government. Efficiency has been endorsed and honesty honored. The President of the United States is brave, able, fearless and upright. His advent and activity in politics has been for the uplifting of that important department of human effort. He has maintained a high standard of private life and advanced the standard of political conduct. That this is realized, appreciated, accepted and approved in such hearty and finished fashion as the returns now show gives cause for congratulation to every patriotic citizen, and ought to enable even the pessimist to sit up and take notice. The policies of the Republican Party and the character of its leaders have met with favor. The magnificent response to Republicanism's appeal for endorsement should put Republicanism on its mettle. The voters have signified their satisfaction with the net results of Republican control as compared with the negative accomplishments of the opposition. The Democratic disaster of Tuesday may become historic as the last defeat of a great party. Both the radicals under Bryan and the conservatives under Parker have had their turn, and each has signally failed. The platform of the conservatives was so near that of the Republicans that the radicals would have none of it. The platform of the radicals had been so far from that of the Republicans that the people would have none of it. Many of the one stamp of Democrats are exulting over Tuesday's defeat. Many of the other stamp have come to regard the Republican Party as the only responsible and dependable organization to conduct a safe and sane government, and are coming over to that party, preferring the opportunities to advocate within its ranks such economic reforms as they deem advisable rather than to submit longer to the stubborn refusal of their old associates to see a light when it shines. The outcome may be a new party with Bryan, Watson and Hearst at the head. They will be a powerful unio if they join forces. They represent elements which are struggling to be heard. There are interesting times ahead. Republicanism under Lincoln in the sixties was the people's party. Roosevelt at the head of Republicanism to day is the people's idol. The Republican party is not a party of any class in spite of periphrastic campaign clamor to the contrary. It has improved the condition of the workman and wage-earner, along with the employer and wage-payer. It will not underestimate its opportunity to help the poor man, nor its duty to curb the unlawful accumulation of wealth. The recognition of its obligations in these directions will preface wise legislative and executive action to that purpose. Thus will it continue to enjoy the confidence of the country. For that will it be continued in power. Thereby will it fulfill its own destiny.

This is what THE STANDARD said last week anent the election:
"We believe the signs spell the unflinching, but determined intention of the people to support the present administration and retain it in power. To vote against Roosevelt is to release the substance for the shadow, and means the substitution of safe experience by risky experiment. The American people are not likely to dismiss from service the men trained, able and honorable, who have maintained and advanced the unparalleled progress and prosperity the United States has enjoyed for so long a time, and replace them by a band of politicians, concededly disorganized, irresponsible, hungry for office and the spoils thereof, palpably untrained in principle or policy and without any presentable guarantee of effecting any constructive or remedial legislation."

This is what the people said at the election: "Two million popular majority for Theodore Roosevelt."

ELECTION COMMENTS.

What Prominent Men of Both Parties in Westfield Say of the Result.
Theodore McGarrath: "We bow gracefully to the will of the vast majority."

Charles N. Coddling: "That the election is a Republican victory is due to the fact that the great majority of the people believe in Republican principles—in other words the country is Republican. That the election was a landslide is due to the fact that the Democratic leaders were sincere from the start and incontinent at the close. Hill and Sheehan accomplished Judge Parker's nomination by a trick and dragged him upon the stump to indulge in personal abuse of the President of the United States. The people resented and repudiated the actions of those leaders."

Mulford M. Scandler: "Roosevelt seems to be the man they wanted."
George H. Embree: "By 2,000,000 votes and over Roosevelt's plurality shows conclusively the people of the U. S. don't want the administration changed, and by 70,000 the voters of New Jersey are of the same opinion and have also endorsed the honest State government by electing E. C. Stokes as governor. It is clear to every one now that the quiet campaign did not represent lack of interest or absence of convictions."

W. G. Peckham: "Theodore Roosevelt has noble possibilities in him, and no fellow who loses his business by the trusts can say I did it."

James O. Clark: "The election breaks all records and the people are highly gratified."

Addison H. Clark: "It seems to be the will of the people."

T. M. K. Mills: "I think Mr. Parker was defeated the moment he said the two platforms were identical."

Councilman Witke: "It shows the people are no longer tied to party lines, but look to the man."

Councilman Alpers: "It was bound to happen."

Judge Toney: "It suits me. That is the way I voted."

Frank S. Smith: "Perfectly satisfactory. It could not be otherwise."

Wm. E. Tuttle, Jr.: "The Democratic Party has received a terrific and crushing defeat. I can see no comfort in the returns, no ray of hope for Democracy."

L. M. Whitaker: "Westfield did splendidly. There can be no dissatisfaction with the work here. There was little cutting."

PUBLIC PARK

QUESTION UP.

COUNCIL APPOINTS COMMITTEE TO LOOK INTO THE SUBJECT.

Assessments Confirmed -- Sidewalk Mills Not Opened -- Improvement Ordinance Passed.

The Town Council met in regular session Monday evening, the night before Election. Upon request of the Westfield Real Estate Company, the Council ordered that a committee be appointed to meet with the company's representatives for the purpose of investigating the matter of a public park for Westfield in the neighborhood of the Mills property, now owned by the corporation. The Chairman appointed Councilmen Witke and Ledley as the committee. They will report at a subsequent meeting.

The regular order of procedure was suspended and objections to the assessments laid for recent improvements were heard. Mrs. J. B. Harrison and Rebecca H. Clark protested against being assessed for the grading of North Broad Street, between Mountain Avenue and Chestnut Street, on the ground that no part of the improvement had been made in front of their property, and that the Mills property, where most of the work was done, had not been assessed at all. The debate which followed brought out the fact that the owners of the Mills property had dominated certain land to effect the improvement. Dr. Harrison said they ought to be willing to give four times as much in view of the benefits conferred. On the theory that the whole street had been benefited by the improvement, the assessment was confirmed. Assessments on other improvements were also confirmed. The hearings of objections to proposed sidewalks on Downer Street, Lawrence Avenue, Highland Avenue, and sever on Summit Avenue, were also had, and ordinances introduced on first reading. Mrs. Minnie H. Downes objected to the sewer on Summit Avenue. W. M. Harrison requested the return of his check and withdrawal of petition for grading upper end of Harrison Avenue. The Council referred the matter to the Road Committee.

Ordinances to construct sewer on Elm Street and on Lawrence Avenue, and stone sidewalk on Dudley Avenue, were passed on final reading. The Engineer was directed to establish sidewalk grade on the west side of Clark Street, between Charles Street and North Avenue, and to give grade in front of Abbott Building, on Broad Street. Communications from W. G. Peckham were received and filed. A petition for removal of culvert in Mountain Avenue, from Levi Cory's to Amos Clark's, was referred to Road Committee.

The Treasurer was authorized to issue improvement certificate for $1,000. Bids for laying a large number of sidewalks were submitted, but were not opened because of there being some question regarding the legality of the original proceedings. The Clerk was directed to notify Messrs. Wade and Jacques to complete all the New York Avenue, Highland Avenue and Dudley Avenue sewers, as per contract, within twelve days, or the Council would do so, and charge them with any deficit. The Property Committee was directed to furnish all Councilmen with police badges. The Councilmen have the usual police powers and may make an arrest. Edward Fogarty and Wm. H. Stitt were appointed special policemen.

Base-Ball Entertainment.

Plans have been perfected for the monster pennant presentation, under the auspices of the Base Ball Association, at the Westfield Club Hall, Friday evening, Dec. 21.

The entertainment will be under the direction of Alouzo Foster's Star Lyceum Bureau of New York—a guarantee of its artistic merit and refinement. The talent selected comprises: Miss Helen M. Gomes, reciter and impersonator; Miss Catherine Lane, soprano; Miss Ethel Palmer, whistler; Charles R. Taggart, comedian and violinist; and the Thespian Dramatic Club of Boston, comprising three ladies and Hoge Kessel in straight comedy skits.

In presenting this style of program it is the aim of the committee to leave no skepticism in the minds of the public. The performance will last from 8 until 11—three solid hours of solid enjoyment.

The admission will be $1.00 for reserved seats. Tickets are now on sale by the committee, consisting of Randolph Perkins, Andrew A. Smith, Rev. B. J. Coltrill, Geo. B. Miller, John J. Schmidt, William Littlefield, C. H. Denman and H. H. Downes.

Police Court News.

Last Saturday Henry O'Rourke and John Halligan were arrested and locked up for drunkenness. They were each fined three dollars next day and discharged. On Monday James Duffy was arrested for the same offence and later discharged with a warning.

Theresa Brummer of Mountaids has been placed under $200 bonds to appear before the next Grand Jury on a charge of assault and battery on Jacob Zolliska who complained that she attacked him and chewed his hand.

DEMOCRATIC COLUMN.

EDITED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE DEMOCRATIC CLUB OF WESTFIELD, N. J.

"The Principles of the Democracy Are Enduring Because They Are Right, and Inextinguishable Because They Are Just."

The following from the N. Y. Times seems to us to voice the sentiment of every thoughtful and patriotic citizen of the country:

"The statement of Mr. Roosevelt, made the instant the result of the election was known, evidently the fruit of mature deliberation, may fairly be regarded as a declaration of independence from those influences, from that kind of party allegiance, which to him in the recent past have seemed to him requisite. Certainly it is not easy to see how any politician, however powerful, can present to him, in the next four years, any inducement to depart a hair's breadth from what he believes to be the very best line of conduct. Still less can any politician, however audacious, approach him with the faintest suggestion of what might happen should the President disregard his suggestions. We have from time to time these last fifteen years called attention to the solid and valuable service done by Mr. Roosevelt in the promotion of the merit system, and that service has never been more substantial than during his incumbency of the Presidential office. The underlying principle of that system in its broadest development is that merit and not partisanship shall determine the selection of public servants from the highest to the lowest. Freed from the complications created by the customs and traditions of party rule, holding his great office by the unprecedented popular decision of Tuesday, himself an example not of partisan promotion but of the people's approval, his opportunities for applying the principles we have defined are almost unlimited. It is the one way in which he can add to the extraordinary honor that he has won."

The Democratic Column congratulates all its Republican friends and neighbors upon their unprecedented victory.

We gracefully bow to the will of the vast majority, and hope that Mr. Roosevelt will shape the policies of his party in such manner as will benefit all our people.

Being at "Salt River," we give our Democratic friends a toast:
"May the winning $9.50 shoe keep our feet warm until our return."

OBITUARY.

Edwin Francis.

Prof. Edwin Francis died from heart disease on Wednesday morning at the home of his son, E. A. Francis, in Plainfield. He had suffered some weeks with the malady. Prof. Francis was born in England in 1847 and was a graduate of Oxford University. He was made Principal of the Westfield schools in 1886 and held the position for ten years. Prof. Francis was greatly liked by all the pupils who studied under his administration of the schools. He had a fine mind and a faculty for presenting the subjects he taught in a clear and attractive manner, especially in mathematics and languages. Personally the students all regarded him highly and considered him a valued friend. Maintaining a dignified attitude in his position in school he yet stood ever ready to help one over the rough places. He was always affable, kindly and just. He frequently played ball with the boys at recess time, and his retirement from the head of the schools here was generally regretted. Prof. Francis was a member of First District Council, R. A. He leaves a wife and four children, Mrs. Louis C. Ganzel, Dorothy, Harold and Edwin A. Francis. The funeral service will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

John L. Darby.

John L. Darby, well known in Westfield, died at his home in Fairwood on Sunday night aged fifty-eight years. He had been ill some time though his death was unexpected at the time and came as a great shock to his family and friends. He had been Collector of Taxes of Fairwood for several terms, having resigned last week because of his ill health. He was widely known and highly respected. He leaves a widow and five children.

The reception Wednesday evening at the residence of E. D. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion with autumn and pink roses.

Congratulations were extended to the bride and groom who received with a shower of palms and huge chrysanthemums. Mr. and Mrs. Jobs were escorted by William Parkhurst, who was best man and Miss Beatrice Tenney, of Waverly, N. Y., who was bridesmaid at the wedding. A beautiful floral ball composed of pink chrysanthemums and autumn was suspended above the dining table, and candelabra with lighted candles adorned the sideboard and table, from which delicious refreshments were served by Caterer English of Orange.

Nearly two hundred guests were present from Elizabeth, Newark, Orange and Westfield. Miller's orchestra of Orange rendered several pleasing selections.

Crickenberger Wins Suit.

The Supreme Court has decided that the ordinance which required Charles Crickenberger to lay a sidewalk on the east side of the Boulevard in front of his property is illegal. Crickenberger, through his attorney, P. Q. Oliver, contested the ordinance and some time ago applied for a writ of certiorari to have the proceedings of the Westfield Council reviewed by the Supreme Court. The writ was granted and the Court has sustained the contestant. The point at issue was as to the vote necessary to pass such an ordinance. The law provides for a unanimous vote of the Council. The Town contended that the meaning was a unanimous vote of those present, as, if otherwise, the accident of continued illness of one Councilman could block all improvements sought to be so made in the town. Crickenberger claimed the law contemplates the vote of every Councilman. The Court decides that where the Legislature clearly expresses itself the Court can not construe the law differently no matter what the result of its literal interpretation.

Westfield Boys Defeat Whittier.

Westfield High School, represented by the S. A. C., defeated the Whittier School of Plainfield, in a hot contest on Election Day, with the score of 17-0. Buckley & Bush, R. End... Strong Jackson & Marsh, R. Tackle. Alphonse Bent... R. Guard. Bingham S. Keyes... Center... Alphonse Ayers... L. Guard. Norris Miller... L. Tackle. Parra Buddell... R. End. Martin Collins... Q. Back... Stuart E. Keyes... L. Half B. Albert Welch... L. Half B. Fancet Gilpin... F. Back... Robert

The matter of truancy was ordered placed in the hands of the Town Attorney, who will prosecute the parents neglecting to send their children to school. Miss Mary C. There will be no school the Friday following Thanksgiving day, and none from December 23 to January 3. The Easter vacation will extend from March 31 to April 10. School will close June 16. BOY KILLED BY SHOT GUN.

JOHN KREINHOPP HAS TOP OF HIS HEAD BLOWN OFF.

John Kreinhopp, seventeen years old, had the top of his head blown off yesterday morning while trying to shoot a shot gun at Isaac Lambert's elder mill in Willow Grove. The boy worked for W. G. Bently, of Bailey Road, and is said to have gone off with a neighbor's boy, Harold Kestyles, about eight o'clock in the morning. The boys went over to Lambert's place and got some cider. While there Hugh Lamb, one of the men in the mill gave the Kreinhopp boy a shot gun, heavily charged and a notorious "kicker." The boy stepped aside to shoot and in some way the thing exploded with terrific force knocking the lad senseless. The place which formed the rim between the barrels of the gun had buried itself in the boy's brain, bent and twisted, the explosion breaking open the skull and forcing the protrusion of part of the brain outside. Doctors Cooper, Kinch and Laird were all called as soon as possible. Dr. Kinch ordered an ambulance from a Plainfield hospital sent for at once. He extracted part of the metal from the head himself but was unable to complete the work without the necessary operating appliances, and directed his efforts toward preventing bleeding to death and keeping the young fellow alive until he could be got to the hospital, though life was then almost extinct. He succeeded in this and an ambulance conveyed the injured boy to Mableberg hospital, where all efforts failed to restore him. He died at seven o'clock last night. The circumstances surrounding the case are being thoroughly investigated by the authorities and arrests are likely to follow.

Wilcox Out on Bail.

Harold M. Wilcox, who shot and killed John A. Darling last Halloween, has been released from custody, Judge Fort having admitted him to bail yesterday upon application of his attorney, R. V. Lindbury. This means that the charge of murder will not be pressed, but that he will be prosecuted, if at all, for a lesser offense. The amount of bail was fixed at $10,000 to appear before the next Grand Jury in January.

Mr. Wilcox's family have removed to Brooklyn. The servant girl who was in the house the night of the occurrence will be placed under bonds to appear as a witness, or committed for that purpose on failure to give bonds.

PROCTOR'S

One of the best of recent plays will form the offering of the Proctor Stock Company at the Fifth Avenue Theatre next week, when "The Stubbornness of Gendreau" will be put on with all of the original scenery, including the rocking deck of the steamship--one of the most novel effects in the history of stage craft.

Another capital program is announced for Proctor's Newark Theatre next week, where Edward Harrigan heads the program with his latest creation, "D'Arcy McGilne, Author," in which he is assisted by Alice Braham, daughter of the composer, who contributed so materially to the earlier Harrigan successes, and several others.

Next week's attraction at Proctor's One Hundred and Twenty-Fifth Street Theatre will be a grand scenic production of the famous play, "McNey Mad," originally done at the Standard Theatre (now Manhattan Theatre), with Minnie Seligman and a powerful cast. The play at that time attracted attention, not only through the strength of the company, but because of the marvelous scenic effects which taxed every resource of the stage carpenter.

Varied and interesting is the bill announced for Proctor's Twenty-Third Street Theatre next week. Heading the program is Frank Bush, who anticipated the present craze for Hebrew comedy by a dozen years. No story teller is more popular, nor has any one a wider range of material reflecting in its every phase life as we all see it.

The most popular, as well as the most enduring and vital in its romantically realistic scenes of the score of Mr. David Belasco's greatest dramatic successes, is "The Heart of Maryland," which is to be the attraction next week at Proctor's Fifty-Eighth Street Theatre, beginning next Monday's matinee. The one intensely exciting scene, where, in the heroine is the one thrilling figure, that which is the closing episode of the third act, and which transpires in the belfry in the tower of the old Colonial church, would of itself insure the success of even the most ordinary of dramatic productions.

KEITH'S.

Surely those who are constantly crying out for new acts, and new faces, in vaudeville, can hardly fail to be satisfied with the program which will be offered at Keith's during the coming week, for many of the leading turns on the bill have never appeared at that house before, and all are in the star section of the show. Some of them are European importations and will not be seen at any other house in New York.

The latest recruit to vaudeville is Miss Chrysal Herne, daughter of the celebrated James A. Herne, whom all remember in "Sag Harbor," and many other successes. She has been leading woman for the last two seasons with Nat Goodwin, taking the principal parts in "My Wife's Husband," and "The Golden Fool." For her debut into vaudeville she will use a neat little comedy sketch, entitled "Between the Acts." Such finished artists are sure to provide something worth seeing, and, as the plot of this little playlet is laid behind the scenes, it has additional interest. She will be ably supported by a strong company, and bids fair to a very welcome addition to the ranks.

"HUMPTY DUMPTY" SEAT SALE.

Because of the unprecedented demand for seats for the great spectacular production of "Humpty Dumpty," which opens at the New Amsterdam Theatre next Monday evening, Klaw & Erlanger have decided to place tickets on sale for two months in advance, instead of one month, as originally planned. Seats may, therefore, be ordered by mail, accompanied by remittance, for any performance in the two months succeeding the opening, which will include the Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year holidays.

THE LIBERTY THEATRE.

George M. Cohan, formerly of the famous "Four Cohans," made his first appearance as an independent star at the Liberty Theatre last Monday evening in his new musical play, "Little Johnny Jones." Mr. Cohan not only acts the title role, that of a young jockey, but also wrote the book, lyrics and music, and staged the production personally. This many-sided youth of twenty-six years, for he is a clever comedian as well as an author and musician, made a personal hit and his play scored a success.

"Asiatics" Excluded.

"Asiatics" are excluded by law from white privileges in South Africa and Australia. Some interest is being taken in the question whether the Japanese after the war will submit to these restrictions.

TO KEEP OFF MOSQUITOES

Pyrethrum Powder Burned on Live Coals Will Be Found Effective.

Anyone who is ill with malaria or yellow fever should be carefully protected from mosquitoes, for, should a person be bitten by an anopheles, the malarial mosquito, or stegomyia fasciata, the yellow fever mosquito, at this time, there would be great danger that the insects might fly away and bite some one else and thus spread the disease, says Popular Science Monthly. Screens for both doors and windows form the best protection against mosquitoes at all times; but it often happens that the insects get into our houses, even though they are thoroughly screened, generally through some door or window that has been left open by mistake, or they may gain an entrance by coming down an unused chimney if the flue is allowed to remain open during the summer time.

A house or a room may be cleared of mosquitoes by burning pyrethrum powder and allowing the smoke, which is not at all offensive to most people, thoroughly fill the room that is under treatment. This smoke kills or stupefies the insects that they will not bite.

Pyrethrum powder is a preparation of the plant pyrethrum roseum, and is sometimes sold as Persian insect powder or Dalmatian powder; it can be bought at any drug store for about 35 cents a pound. It is a very fine, light powder, and an ounce of it will go a long way, making a large volume of smoke.

A pyrethrum smudge or smoke may be started by covering a live coal taken from the kitchen stove, with the powder, first placing the coal upon a small shovel, so that it may be moved about conveniently without danger of setting anything on fire. The pyrethrum will quickly begin to smolder and give off a dense smoke. All that is now necessary is to add from time to time a pinch of the powder as occasion requires, merely keeping the smoldering ashes covered so that the smoke will continue.

Letter From Mr. Denman.

November 9, 1904
To the Members of the Base-Ball Association and the Public:

The financial loss of the season of 1904 is represented by the amount paid for improvements. The length of the season's unfavorable weather at the early games, and extra team expense demanded by the Plainfield series, is responsible for the failure to earn more than the actual maintenance of the sport. While there are many who have offered subscriptions to help make up this deficiency, it has been deemed more practical and in better form to the well-wishers of the Association, to give an entertainment—thus soliciting support by giving something suitable in return. The entertainment will be given Dec. 24, at the Westfield Club, particulars of which are given in the STANDARD'S news columns.

The Committee wishes to impress upon its friends that, in artistic merit and character of the talent, there need be no skepticism. The Association has always given good ball, the pennant presentation program will be equally good, and money's worth guaranteed.

Yours truly,

C. H. DENMAN,

President Westfield Base-Ball Ass'n.

Sewing-Machine Logic.

The Bee Hive sells under its own brand the same make of sewing-machine you pay a half, and even more, for under the make's name. L. S. Pla & Co. guarantee their sewing machines, as they guarantee all you buy of them. The "Bee Hive" Sewing-Machine has no peer. It is made by a manufacturer who has a world-wide reputation, whose machines sell under his own name for much more. "Bee Hive" machines at $15, $18 and $25 are worth, according to exclusive dealers' estimate, $25, $35 and $55, respectively. Are not the differences worth saving? Come to the "Bee Hive" and see "Bee Hive" sewing-machines. Point for point, they equal the best machines made, and have enough additional good features to place them at the head.

Thirty to the Mile.

Telegraph posts along a railway are arranged 30 to the mile.

Skilled Botanists.

The Chinese, Japanese and Siamese are peculiarly skilled at botanical feats. One of their wonderful achievements is known as the "changeable rose." The bloom is white in the shade and red in the sunlight.

WILLOW GROVE.

C. E. Conception Services on Sunday evening, led by Mrs. A. D. Kottlyes.

Mr. Edward P. Simon, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Edith Marion Darby were quietly married on Saturday afternoon, November 5. They left on a wedding journey, only to be recalled by the sudden death of Mrs. Simon's father, Mr. J. L. Darby. Mr. Darby had been ill for some time, but his illness was not considered at all dangerous, until taken suddenly worse on Sunday evening when he passed away in a short time. The funeral services were private on Wednesday, at 2:30 p. m., from his late home.

Mrs. Edith Terry left on Thursday for a visit in Dayton, N. J., and Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. Steel is having her house repaired and painted.

A party of equestrians from Plainfield followed the hounds over this section on Tuesday morning.

"The Reaper."

It is a simple, yet strange story, of a mind at once simple and strange; and throughout it the author would seem to have been guided by a delicate and unerring instinct for the central thought or word or impression. You search for the simile that has produced so much effect with so little display, and find there is none. Instinct and a feeling for the subject... have told her where to stop and what to choose... Many a practised novelist would be glad to have this strangeness with simplicity at command.—London (Eng.) Times.

"The Reaper" has been placed in the Westfield Public Library. The book has met with great favor among the best critics of this country and England. The author is a personal friend of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Platt.

Paint That Lasts

It is false economy to use any other kind. When you can have your home decorated inside or out with a bright, cheerful, lasting—tasty colored paint, why not have it? It is cheaper—far cheaper, in the end.
